Kennedy Resigns— As Senator That Is

PALM BEACH, Fla. (HTNS) — President-elect Kennedy resigned from the U.S. Senate Thursday — and by a twist of fate and politics, the man he had to notify officially was Vice-President Nixon.

Meanwhile it was learned that the President-elect plans tomorrow to name Prof. Walter Heller, chairman of the University of Minnesota Economic Dept., as Chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, the top economic advisory group to the President. Heller is an advocate of tax cuts to combat a recession and higher taxes to fight inflation.

Kenneth P. O'Donnell, who will be special White House counsel after Jan. 20, said in announcing the resignation that the President-elect sent a letter Thursday morning notifying Nixon.

Nixon, who lost the Nov. 8 presidential election to Kennedy, will receive the letter in his capacity as President of the Senate. Kennedy also dispatched a letter to Gov. Foster Furcolo, (D-Mass.), informing him he had resigned his seat. Furcolo announced Tuesday that at Kennedy's request he would name Benjamin A. Smith, former Harvard roommate of Kennedy, to fill the seat until 1962.

Soviets Pass New Budget

MOSCOW, (HTNS) — With characteristic unanimity, the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) Thursday adopted the USSR's 1961 budget and economic development plan.

The two bodies of the Supreme Soviet, the House of the Union and the House of Nationalities, who make up this country's version of parliament, will meet in joint session Friday and possibly will be addressed by Premier Khrushchev and Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

Adopted unanimously after some 13 hours of talk the past two days by the Supreme Soviet's 1,370 deputies, the 1961 Budget calls for revenues of 78.9 billion new rubles and expenditures of 77.5 billion rubles.

Allocations for military spending and science were 9.2 billion and about 4 billion rubles respectively. The military spending total ostensibly is nearly 12 per cent of the 1961 budget, as compared with about 13 per cent marked for arms in this year's money program.

Daring Rescue Saves 28 Men from Tanker

8 Feared Drowned When Bow Splits

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Twenty-eight survivors of the broken American tanker Pine Ridge were scooped to safety off the tossing stern section Thursday by helicopters from the carrier Valley Forge.

A 29th man, Chief Engineer John Richard of Wilmington, Del., asked to be left aboard the still floating afterpart of the ship which was torn apart by raging seas in Wednesday's gales 100 miles off Cape Hatteras, N.C.

Fire Razes West Liberty Sales Barn

Fire completely destroyed the West Liberty Auction sale barn — across the street from the West Liberty business district — Thursday night.

A lumber yard next to the sale barn was saved by firemen as they fought the blaze that sent flames shooting up to 150 feet in the air at times.

Fire trucks from Muscatine and Wilton Junction were called in to help battle the blaze.

The fire started at approximately 9 p.m., the West Liberty police said. Cause of the blaze was not immediately determined and no estimate of the damage had been made.

He was carrying out a request of the ship owners by remaining aboard to protect the firm's salvage rights.

Eight men were missing and apparently lost. This group including the master, Capt. Clark Snyder of Philadelphia and the first, second and third mates, were in the bow section and were thrown into the water when the bow broke away and capsized.

The number of men aboard the 10,000-ton tanker when it steamed out of New York for Corpus Christi, Tex., was reported variously at 35 to 39. Shipping articles mailed on departure to the owners showed definitely there were 37 aboard, the Coast Guard reported.

The Valley Forge sailed from Florida waters, Wednesday in response to word of the Pine Ridge's distress and arrived in position to launch her first helicopter at 6:45 a.m.

One by one a relay of helicopters went through the touchy and hazardous routine — hovering in a fixed position above a weather deck of the tanker's stern and lifting the survivors singly by a dangled sling. The treacherous part, said Lt. J.G. John D. Hausman of Monroe, Mich., one of the pilots, was keeping the rising and falling hulk from hitting the copter.

The waves still were running at 10 feet or more for the first of the helicopter pickoffs and the wind was diminishing. The wind was blowing at about 22 knots in midday in contrast to the 50-to-60-mile gusts that raised 30-foot waves Wednesday and barred any immediate rescue attempts.

Criss-cross air and surface searches of the area failed to show any signs of the missing members of the ship's company. The destroyer Conway picked up two 20-man life rafts dropped early in the search by a Coast Guard plane — but they were empty. A Coast Guard plane spotted another raft, empty and half deflated, along the 30-mile stretch of water between the drifting bow and the main stern section of the tanker. Pilots of the Valley Forge's helicopters made good the forecast of the carrier's skipper, Capt. Clarence A. Melvin, that he would take care of all survivors before sunset. The task was accomplished by 4 p.m.

Two-Car Collision In Coralville

A two-car collision on Highway 6 in Coralville Thursday night completely demolished one of the cars. An Iowa City woman, Mrs. Keith Noel of 1020 S. Gilbert St., was thrown from one of the autos. Coralville police said. She was taken to an Iowa City hospital for examination, but was not admitted. Drivers of the cars were Mrs. Noel's husband and Robert H. Stecker of Route 3, Iowa City, police said.

Labor Secretary Mitchell Named To New Rail Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Outgoing Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell was chosen Thursday to head a precedent-setting commission in industrial relations. It will try to solve a long-standing dispute over what the railroads call make-work practices by its unions.

President Eisenhower named Mitchell to head the 15-man commission on recommendation of both sides — the railroads and five operating brotherhoods, who contend the practices at issue are important to safety.

Eisenhower also appointed four members, beside Mitchell, to represent the public while endorsing five representatives put forward by each of the disputing interests.

All but one of the commission were on hand for a brief meeting after Eisenhower acted. They arranged a formal organizing session for Jan. 6. Their study will take a year.

In announcing creation of the commission, Eisenhower hailed it as a "major and constructive innovation that will prove to be a significant achievement in the progress of labor-management relations toward greater maturity and stability."

No Changes Planned For N.Y. Air Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Agency intends to continue the air traffic guidance system around New York as it is.

It will, that is, unless the investigation by the Civil Aeronautics Board into the disastrous collision of two airliners there last Friday turns up new evidence of need for change.

And What Do You Want for Christmas?

Pope Gives Christmas Plea for Peace, Truth

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII gave his annual Christmas message to the world Thursday and coupled with it an impassioned plea for truth in modern life.

The 79-year-old supreme ruler of the Roman Catholic Church urged world leaders to "act honorably in these days of general danger."

And he urged all in the mass media of communication — press, radio, TV and movies — to dedicate themselves to truth. The Pope said that it seemed at times as though there were today a "counter-decalogue" to the Ten Commandments.

The pontiff took as the theme of his message — the third at Christmas since his election to St. Peter's throne — from a Biblical quotation by John on Jesus Christ: "We saw his glory, the glory as it were of the only begotten on the Father, full of grace and truth. John 1 14."

Radio and TV carried the Pope's words and image to many parts of the world. In the next three days, the Vatican radio will broadcast translations in 30 languages.

The message continued the general theme of peace on earth that has marked papal Christmas messages since 1939, when Pope Pius XII began the unbroken series on the eve of World War II with an impassioned plea for peace.

"Dear children," the Pope said, "we are once again drawn to the vision of Bethlehem; to the light of the world incarnate, to His grace and truth, who desires to win all to himself.

The silence of that holy night and the contemplation of that scene of peace are most eloquent. Let us direct our steps to Bethlehem with innocent eyes and welcoming hearts."

The Pope was shown speaking near a window through which could be seen St. Peter's Square at night — the obelisk and the famed Bernini colonnade lighted. From time to time an automobile — tiny in the distance — could be seen driving through the big square.

During part of the Pope's message, TV cameras took the viewer on a quick tour of the square and St. Peter's Church, pausing on its famous statues while the Pope's voice, firm and powerful, could be heard.

The message was recorded in advance so that it could be distributed and shown simultaneously in many parts of the world. Networks of most European nations carried it simultaneously with the Vatican broadcast, or were tied with it.

Pope John concluded his message by giving his blessing. He will give his blessing again to the City of Rome and the world — urbi et orbi — at noon Christmas Day from the loggia of St. Peter's Basilica.

First English Lutheran will have a candlelight worship service without Communion at 11 p.m. Saturday. Sunday services at 9 and 11 a.m. will include Communion.

The congregation of the Lutheran Church of Christ the King will meet at 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the home of the Rev. Eugene K. Hanson, 116 Marietta Ave for Christmas vespers.

Zion Lutheran Church will have a Christmas festival Communion at 10 a.m. Sunday will include a sermon on "The Sign of Christmas."

Sharon Evangelical United Brethren Church plans a Christmas Eve worship service at 7 p.m. Saturday.

First Presbyterian Church near Ely will conduct a Communion worship service at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Our Redeemer Lutheran Church will hold its children's Christmas program at 7 p.m. Saturday.

Members of the Free Methodist Chapel will be asked to hold family services around Christmas trees in individual homes at 7:30 p.m. Sunday. No regular service is planned.

Reds After Youth, Declares Hoover

WASHINGTON (AP) — FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover reported Thursday that the Communist Party in this country is concentrating on America's youth.

Red leaders already have begun issuing a special publication aimed directly at young people, Hoover reported, and are planning to set up a new national youth organization at a meeting in Chicago starting New Year's Eve.

Hoover, in a year-end report to Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers, said the Communist Party remains the largest subversive organization in the United States.

"During this period of grave international tension, America cannot afford to relax her internal defenses even momentarily. This is true particularly in our dealings with Communists — both the 'home-grown' party members and those sent here to represent Iron Curtain countries," Hoover said.

Hoover, who has agreed to continue as FBI director in the new Kennedy Administration, reported that FBI investigations this year "disclosed that an alarming number of Soviet and satellite diplomatic personnel have intelligence assignments in this country."

He denied espionage charges against two Soviet Embassy secretaries which resulted in their being declared unwelcome last summer, and the arrest of three persons who lacked diplomatic immunity on spy charges. One of these was a Soviet national employed by the United Nations Secretariat.

Under the leadership of the Moscow-trained Gus Hall, Hoover said, the Red party in this country has strengthened its ties with the Soviet Union as well as with Communists in Cuba and elsewhere during the past year.

"Particularly significant is the party's new emphasis upon youth activities. Under the editorship of their national youth director, the Communists have begun issuing a special publication, 'New Horizons for Youth,' aimed directly at America's young people," Hoover reported.

Belgium Hit By Strike

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Armed riot police took up positions around Parliament and government buildings Thursday night as a strike against the government's planned austerity program threatened to paralyze Belgium.

The strike rolls rose to about 100,000 as teachers joined the walkout of miners, dockers, railwaymen and other workers.

In Parliament, President Baron Paul Kronacker suspended a session discussing the new program when opposition Socialist deputies continually made noisy interruptions.

The planned legislation calls for a $200-million cut in state expenditure and a rise in nearly $100 million taxes.

The tax boosts will hit everyone and are the main target of the strikers. But the Government says austerity is necessary to help offset losses of revenue from the Congo, which was given its independence this summer.

In Charleroi, largest southern industrial center, the strike was total in the railways, streetcars, buses, big industries, schools, municipal administration and coal mines. Few post office, cable or telephone employees were working.

In Liege, a big eastern industrial center, gas and electricity companies, coal mines, schools and municipal administrations were strikebound.

Antwerp harbor was at a complete standstill. Police clashed with Communist agitators there. Six policemen were taken to a hospital.

The president of the Socialist party, Leo Collard, declared that the strike proved the failure of Premier Gaston Eyskens' policy, and demanded his resignation.

German Christmas Described—

A Tree in Every Home

By BRIGITTE NAUDASCHER
Written for The Daily Iowan

Christmas time in Germany begins with the first Sunday of Advent. Every family — the Lutherans of Holstein in the North as well as the Catholics of Bavaria in the South — has a wreath at this time made of fir-branches strewn with four candles. It may either be suspended on the ceiling of the living room or can lie on the table.

On the first Sunday of advent, when the first candle is being lighted all members of the family congregate together. This is mostly done in the dusk and is a very festive event. Every other Sunday one more candle is lighted as a forerunner of the Christmas tree which will soon brighten the home.

The Christmas tree, which is now known in most parts of the world, had its origin in Germany. No German family, even the poorest, is without a tree on Christmas Eve. Its history is not very old. The people of the Black Forest in southwestern Germany are known to have originated it, though tiny evergreens had already been used by the heathen Teutonic tribes for celebrating the solstice. We don't know the exact date that the fir tree became popular in all of Germany as a symbol of Christmas. It was approximately the early eighteenth century. Later on German immigrants brought this custom over to the New World. In 1840 Prince Albert of Sachsen-Coburg-Gotha, the husband of Queen Victoria, introduced it in England.

The sixth of December is dedicated to St. Nikolaus, the protector of the children. The saint, who is called 'Knecht Rupprecht' in the Northern parts of Germany and 'Niklas' or 'Niklaus' in other areas, travels on his birthday to every house punishing bad children and bringing apples and walnuts to the good ones. On the preceding night he fills the shoes or stockings, which the children place before a window or door, with candy.

Another custom of pre-Christmas which the adults enjoy as much as the children are the famous Christmas bazaars. They are found in the villages around houses of the middle-ages as well as in fancy displays in the big cities. The Christmas bazaar of Berlin has been famous for almost 200 years. In Bremen you will find this around the old and decorative Courthouse. On the 'Christkind Dult' in Munich you will also find painters, sculptors and wood-carvers displaying their art-works.

But the most well-known of all is the Christmas bazaar of Nurnberg, the home of Albert Durer and Hans Sachs. One may not only enjoy the loveliest dolls, Christmas angels and decorations but also the world-famous toys of Nurnberg. These bazaars are often lighted by petroleum lamps because the electric light would disturb the mood of this fairy-tale landscape.

Of course this joy would be complete without the delicious Christmas-cookies and fruit-cakes. In Nurnberg one may find the 'Lebkuchen,' in Aachen the 'Printen,' in Lubek the 'Marzipan,' and in every place the famous 'Stollen' the best of which come from Dresden.

In addition there are other numerous customs. For instance, in the Black Forest people reserve a place at their dinner table for the Holy Mary, indicating that she is remembered this night — a far cry from what actually occurred in Bethlehem. As a symbol of Christ's birth, the people in the villages between Mosel and Rhine keep one candle burning all night through Christmas day. They also display a loaf of bread on a window facing the church. According to the myth, eating this bread on Christmas day prevents sickness for them and their cattle.

Because the donkey and ox were present at the birth of Christ, the farmers tell their children that one can understand the animals on Christmas Eve. In fact, the people of the country never forget to visit their four-footed friends before lighting the Christmas tree. Also, the dead are not forgotten. For example at Berchtsgarten people have a candle burning on every grave of the cemetery at Christmas Eve. In Oberammergau the graves are even decorated with little Christmas trees.

For the past few years the people of West Germany have placed lighted Christmas trees on the border between West and East Germany. This is to show their countrymen in the East that they are not forgotten and that all Germans will never give up hope for becoming unified in peace.

Christmas in Germany is a family feast. And the spirit is always the same although the celebration may differ locally. The light has come again through Jesus Christ — all men shall be loved and all shall have peace on earth. The expression of these feelings are heard once again and the joyful and blessed time of Christmas is over for another year.

In Germany, contrary to many other countries, it is Christmas Eve which is the focal point of the season. Then the families gather to exchange presents and to sing carols, most of which are derived from church hymns. At midnight, they attend church, and on Christmas day they have their traditional dinner with their neighbors.

Christmas time ends with the Twelfth Night (the sixth of January) the Epiphany. In some parts of Germany young people go from house to house, dressed as the

Germans Postpone Berlin Transport Talks to Dec. 28

BERLIN (AP) — East and West Germany failed Thursday to complete a new trade agreement needed to head off a crisis over Berlin traffic. They postponed further talks until Dec. 28.

The Communists threaten that all agreements on transport to Berlin for both Allies and Germans will cease to be valid if a trade pact is not signed by Jan. 1. This claim has been denied by the Allies, who insist the West's rights in Berlin cannot be disputed by the East German regime. The Communists have since softened their ultimatum by saying they were not threatening a blockade, but considerable confusion would result from lack of an agreement.

The trade agreement was canceled by the West German Government as from Dec. 31 in reprisal for Communist interference with free travel to Berlin and between the two parts of the divided city. Trade between the two German sections amounts to $500 million a year.

The Communists have been campaigning to isolate Berlin economically — as it is already geographically — from the West. This is a buildup toward the declared Red goal of turning out the Allied garrisons.

Christmas Card Dilemma

By ART BUCHWALD
Herald Tribune News Service

Every Christmas the free world seems to be divided between two peoples — those who send Christmas cards and those who don't. The greeting card companies claim more people are sending Christmas cards than ever before, but they can't prove it by us.

We belong to the school of hard core anti-Christmas card greeters, who believe that if you have anything to say to anybody, including wishes for the holiday season, you can have your wife send a letter, rather than have her waste her time addressing envelopes.

This does not mean, as some people have interpreted it, that we are against Christmas or that we wish anybody anything bad in the new year. We also are not trying to save money, though our last Christmas card bill, with stamps, came to something like $150, including several special delivery envelopes to people whom we had completely forgotten.

The real reason we didn't send Christmas cards is that through the years we've discovered that the people we'd sent them to did not send us any, and the ones who sent them to us were usually people we forgot to send them to.

This led to a great deal of friction at home and our wife was constantly filled with guilt over "people she forgot."

Every year she would make out the list of people she had ignored from the previous year and cut out people who had ignored us last Christmas. But this system never worked because the people she listed whom we had ignored decided not to send us any of the following year, and the people she cut off because they hadn't sent us cards from the previous year, sent them that year, because they had received one from us the previous year.

She never seemed to get the right list for the right year and it was getting her down.

We also had to take some of the responsibility because many of the Christmas cards were sent to the office since our friends did not have our home address. But we never brought these cards home. Therefore our wife never knew for sure who sent Christmas cards and who didn't.

There was also an argument every year over subject matter, for a Christmas card. Our wife thought we should send a picture of the children, but we could never agree on which picture to send until it was too late to have the cards printed.

We're not much on snow scenes, and she's not much on Santa Claus cards. She refused to send out any "sick" Christmas cards and we refused to send out any with a painting by Grandma Moses.

Well, a few years ago we made a pact — no more cards, and since then we can't tell you how merry our Christmases have been. Most of our friends have cut us off by now, but we still get Christmas cards from the public relations departments of TWA, Air France, Pan American Airways, Scandinavian Airways, the Drake Hotel, the United States Lines, and the New Haven and Hartford railroad.

It isn't much, but it does fill up the fireplace mantel, and what else do you want Christmas cards for?

Italians Are Stronger Now, Coach Believes

SYDNEY (AP) — Vanni Canepete, Italian Davis Cup captain said Thursday he believed Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola were sharper than before the interzone final against the United States.

"The layoff because of the rain may have been just what they needed," Canepete said after a double workout on the White City courts. "They were in danger of playing too much tennis. Now they are keen again."

The Australians, who flew in from Brisbane, worked out on the center court enclosure during the early part of the afternoon and were followed by the Italians.

Because of heavy rains the past week, the Italians drilled at Melbourne and the home team at Brisbane.

Patterson, Johansson Meet 3rd Time Title Bout Set in March

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP) — Promoter Jack Fugazy said Thursday heavy-weight champion Floyd Patterson would defend his title Monday, March 20, at the Miami Beach, Fla., Convention Hall against ex-champ Ingemar Johansson.

Fugazy, managing director of Feature Sports, Inc., made the announcement at a news conference in a midtown hotel after a meeting of the board of directors of the corporation that promoted the second Patterson-Johansson bout last June 20.

William MacDonald, prominent

Miami Beach sportsman, posted a substantial guarantee to bring the fight of Miami Beach. Fugazy refused to confirm reports that it was between $450,000 and $500,000.

William Fugazy, president of Feature Sports, returned Thursday morning from a trip to Göteborg, Sweden, where he conferred with Johansson. He brought with him a statement by the ex-champ which gave the promoters permission to name the site and date.

Jack Fugazy, 74-year-old promoter, said Roy Cohn, legal counsel for the promoters, had talked with the "Patterson people" who were "very much impressed with the site and date and expressed their satisfaction."

Neither Gus D'Amato, Patterson's manager who is unlicensed in New York, the champ, nor any of Johansson's representatives was present at the conference.

The Miami Beach hall holds 18,000. Fugazy said it would be scaled from $1,000,000 capacity with tickets ranging from $100 to $20. However, Fugazy said he would settle for a $750,000 gate.

Dan Driscoll, a lawyer who is secretary of the corporation, said there would be an announcement within two weeks about the division of ancillary rights from closed circuit TV, movies, radio and foreign rights. Each fighter will receive 25 per cent of the live gate at the hall.

The last heavyweight title fight held in Miami was March 1, 1934, when Primo Carnera, 270, out-pointed Tommy Loughran, 184, in 15 rounds.

This will be the third bout between Johansson and Patterson. The Swede floored Patterson seven times and stopped him in 2:03 of the third round in a tremendous upset, June 26, 1959 at the Yankee Stadium in New York. Patterson, who was the youngest ever to win the title when he beat Archie Moore in 1956 at the age of 21, became the first man to win it back when he knocked out Johansson in 1:51 of the fifth last June 20 at New York's Polo Grounds.

Johansson, 28, has a 22-1 record with 14 knockouts. The defeat by Patterson in June was his first since leaving the amateurs. Patterson, 25, will be 26 on Jan. 4. He has a 36-2 record. After winning the title in 1956 he defended it four times before he lost the crown to the Swede's hammering right hand.

By reading declarer's mental processes in the auction, East in today's hand was able to build up a picture of his holding which enabled him to bring about the defeat of a slam contract. The deal was played in a recent tournament and was subject to considerable variations of treatment.

The bidding is given as it transpired at a couple of tables. South's slam bid was completely unjustified in light of North's warning penalty double of five spades.

At one table, West opened the ace of spades upon which East discarded a heart. West continued with the queen of spades with the idea of having partner ruff out dummy's king. Declarer of course did not share his idea and played low from dummy, ruffing in his own hand.

He then drew the trumps, winning the third round in dummy. Upon the king of spades a diamond was shed. Declarer now faced the problem of disposing of the ten of hearts.

If he chose to play East for both the queen and jack he must take two finesses. He could lead from dummy at this point and, assuming an honor came up, he could reenter dummy with the king of diamonds to come through again.

But declarer instead decided he could bring in the hand on a squeeze. He returned to his hand with a diamond and ran the last two clubs, discarding two hearts from dummy.

He then led a diamond to the king in dummy, forcing West to reduce to three cards. In order to beat dummy's seven of spades. West was forced to hold on to the ten, so that he let go a heart. Declarer, thereupon, led hearts and picked up the suit.

At another table, East brought about defeat of the contract in a spectacular manner. When the ace of spades was led, East read his partner for an eight card suit, reasoning that South could hardly contract for slam with two losing spades in his hand. In the hope that West was void of diamonds, he ruffed the ace of spades and returned a diamond.

Former Pilot At Waterloo, Onslow, Dies

WEST ACTON, Mass. (AP) — Jack Onslow, one of baseball's good humor men, died Thursday, a few hours after he had plowed snow with his tractor. He was 72.

Onslow caught for the Detroit Tigers and New York Giants and managed Waterloo, Memphis and the Chicago White Sox as well as coaching and scouting for the Red Sox.

He was on his second tour of duty with the Sox, having been signed as a scout in 1951 after virtually a year out of baseball.

He managed the White Sox in 1949 and was fired in 1950, by Frank Lane.

Russians Enter National Chase

LONDON (AP) — The Russians have entered three horses for the 1961 running of the Grand National steeplechase — the first time in the 115-year-old race.

The National is generally regarded as the toughest race in the world. Horses have to jump 30 obstacles over a four and a half mile course.

29 GAME SLATE

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees will play 29 spring training exhibition games, starting March 11 at St. Petersburg, Fla., and ending April 8-9 with a weekend series against the St. Louis Cardinals at St. Louis.

Iowa City Supplies ISTC With 3 Two-Sport Athletes

CEDAR FALLS — Multiple-sport athletes are getting harder to find in college, but Iowa City has three at Iowa State Teachers College.

They are Ed Watt and Ted Minnick, former City High preps, and John Raffensperger, who starred at University High.

Each of the trio competes in two sports, but they have different combinations.

Raffensperger, a junior, devotes his time to football and track. He blossomed into an outstanding end for Teachers' North-Central Conference football all champs this fall, and was named to the second all-league team.

He was the No. 2 pass receiver in the conference, and more than one opposing coach call Raff the toughest end to defense in the loop.

This is largely because of his speed, which he used to compete in a half-dozen track events last spring. Raff wound up as the cinder team's top point-getter by a wide margin.

Minnick was an alternate guard on the football team, playing behind all-conference Wendell Williams of Mt. Pleasant. He saw more action than any reserve, and was often used to bring plays in from the bench under the "wild card" rule.

The 200-pounder has now turned his attention to wrestling, and won his only dual-meet assignment as a heavyweight.

Watt came to Iowa Teachers as a highly touted baseball pitcher, and a solid basketball prospect. A hefty 5-10 guard, he has already broken into the cage lineup with his alert floor play and timely shooting.

Watt is a right-hander with a sizzling fast ball and is expected to be a front-line pitcher for the Panthers this spring.

Gophers Go Mickey Mouse
