Space Station May Shed Light On Venus Secrets

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet space station bound for Venus in a pierce that planet's perpetual cloud cover and reveal some of her secrets, scientists said Monday.

One aim of the spectacular space probe is to shed light on whether there is life on that neighbor of Earth.

A rendezvous with Venus — which circles in space from 26 to 100 million miles from the earth — sometime between May 15 and 31 was predicted by Prof. Ari Sternfeld, a Soviet space scientist.

The U.S. Naval Observatory, however, said Venus would be 42.9 million miles away on May 20.

The big question, Sternfeld said, is whether the space station's radio can send back data over the vast reaches of space.

"It is this that the experiment is designed to show," he said in an interview with the Soviet news agency.

The 1,118-pound "automatic interplanetary station" was launched by rocket from a heavy Sputnik put into orbit Sunday, the Russians said. They called it "a great triumph of Soviet engineering."

Oleg Melnikov, physicist at Leningrad Observatory, said it is likely the station will pass through the thick clouds that blanket Venus and obtain first-hand evidence of the planet's atmosphere.

This might show whether Venus, often called Earth's twin, could sustain life. Most scientists believe Venus is too hot to sustain life because it is about a third closer to the sun than is the Earth.

In various interviews, Soviet scientists said the space vehicle should provide more exact measurements of the solar system, and furnish answers for problems of man's flight into space.

The probe should show, for example, whether greater hazards from meteorites await the traveler farther out in space, said President Yevgeny Khrushchev of the International Meteorite Commission. He noted that Soviet and U.S. space probes have shown the meteorite hazard to be insignificant closer to Earth.

There was speculation whether

Kennedy Insurance Bill Introduced in Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to provide Social Security health insurance for the aged, one of President Kennedy's most controversial proposals, was introduced Monday.

In the House, the measure was referred to the Ways and Means Committee, where a similar bill died last year.

Some Kennedy advisers, however, are predicting that committee opposition will soften if the Administration takes its time, letting other elements of Kennedy's bulky economic package come to votes first.

The bill came to Congress with a letter in which Kennedy said, "I believe the need for such insurance is urgent."

It was introduced in the house by Rep. Cecil R. King of California, the second-ranking Democrat on the Ways and Means Committee. Chairman Wilbur D. Mills, (D-Ark.), who under House procedures would have first opportunity to sponsor the bill, has made no public comment on the Kennedy proposal. Mills opposed last year's counterpart.

In the Senate, the Administration bill was introduced by Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-N.M.), who with Kennedy co-sponsored a similar proposal last year when the president was a Senator from Massachusetts. That proposal was beaten in the Senate, 51-44.

A group of Republican Senators led by Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) promptly introduced a rival voluntary health care bill. The GOP measure would call for Federal participation in paying for the insurance premiums, the money to come from appropriated funds. Javits said his plan "is more liberal" than Kennedy's, both

Tax Incentive Bill To Congress Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy said Monday he will send Congress in the next few weeks a new tax incentive plan to stimulate business and industrial modernization.

Kennedy did not spell out details of the plan in a speech at a Government-industry meeting of the National Industrial Conference Board. But he said plant obsolescence is slowing down the nation's growth, handicapping its productivity, and worsening its competitive position abroad.

Lumumba Slain in Katanga

Hammarskjold Urges Congo Investigation

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Dag Hammarskjold Monday urged a full and impartial investigation into the killing of former Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba. He got quick support from the United States, but an angry no-confidence blast from the Soviet Union.

The Secretary-General made the proposal before a grim meeting of the U.N. Security Council, whose delegates heard the news of Lumumba's death only a short time before they went into session.

After listening to several speakers, the council decided to adjourn until Wednesday in order to permit private consultations and to assess further the gravity of the new developments.

Hammarskjold referred to the slaying of Lumumba and two of the Congolese leader's associates as news of a "most serious and tragic nature." He said it was of such significance as to "render necessary a full and impartial investigation."

Adlai E. Stevenson, chief U.S. delegate, welcomed a suggestion from Hammarskjold that the U.N. investigation already ordered into Lumumba's reported escape be continued.

Stevenson called the killings "distressing and deplorable news" but expressed hope that "men of good will everywhere join together with sober resolve not to seek revenge, but to seek reconciliation."

"Now, more than ever, is the time when we must proceed in the council to find a consensus on constructive measures which will help restore peace and stability to the Congo," he said.

But Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin angrily denounced Hammarskjold's proposal for an investigation as having a hypocritical ring.

"We have not the slightest confidence in the Secretary General or his staff after all that has been committed in the Congo and Katanga," he declared.

Speaking after Stevenson, the Soviet delegate called the death of Lumumba a shameful crime for which the colonialists and their allies must take full responsibility.

He charged that Lumumba had been murdered "under the blue flag of the United Nations."

Hammarskjold told the council that Brig. Gen. Mengasha Hyassu, U.N. Chief of Staff in the Congo, had been instructed to remain in Katanga until he was received by authorities, or gets new instructions based on action in the council.

Inside the Congo the prospect as seen from here is:

1. That the situation in Katanga, which was always passionately opposed to Lumumba's ultra-nationalist policies, will remain unchanged. Fighting is going on in the north of the province where the Katanga Government is warring against invading Baluba tribesmen who are not pro-Lumumba, but rather anti-Moise Tshombe, the head of the Katanga regime.

2. In the Congo's Oriental and Kivu provinces, which were Lumumba strongholds mainly in the sense that the army there was loyal to him, the regiments are threatened by attacks from the central Government forces dispatched by President Joseph Kasavubu. It is in these areas that reprisals against whites are feared.

3. In the Leopoldville area, little effect is expected from Lumumba's death except that it might in fact make it easier for Kasavubu's Government to persuade Congolese leaders to join his Government, since they are deprived of any other political possibility to cling to.

Despite rumors of the Katanga Government's complicity in the death of Lumumba and two aides, the mood in Washington was to wait for more information before issuing any condemnations.

Said Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, "It is a terrible thing, this use of violence to settle political differences. But let's wait for proof of how Lumumba died."

Ernest Boehm, janitor at the lodge, also testified that he saw a scratch about three inches long on Weger's face, but did not say when he noticed it.

A resolution to this effect was adopted for presentation to the College Board of Trustees.

INTEGRATION FAVORED WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (HTNS) — The Faculty of Wake Forest College voted in favor of integrating the college at a meeting here Monday night.

A resolution to this effect was adopted for presentation to the College Board of Trustees.

Frank J. Welch of Kentucky, assistant secretary of agriculture.

Robert E. Giles of North Carolina, general counsel of the Commerce Department.

Other witnesses, however, denied the students were armed with clubs, and said the number of students was less than 50.

Officers said when they arrived at the scene, they found that the students had used all the snow, and several had driven to outlying areas to get snow in bushel baskets.

Police notified Huit again, and Bruce Parker, head of University police. They and three other SUI policemen arrived just as most of the students were dispersing.

SPU Plans Conference, ROTC Action

A two-day "Conference on Peace" will be sponsored by the Iowa City chapter of the Student Peace Union (SPU) on March 18 and 19.

SPU declared itself against compulsory ROTC in other action Monday night at its first meeting since receiving recognition as an SU Student organization by the Student Council.

David McReynolds, national field secretary of the World Resistors League (a pacifist group) will be a speaker at the conference.

Also being contacted to participate in the Conference are: Walter Gormly, Mt. Vernon, a radical pacifist who would rather go to jail than pay taxes, contending that too much tax money goes toward armaments; Cecil Hinshaw, head of the Des Moines Office of the American Friends Service Committee; and Dr. William Davidson, a nuclear physicist at the Argonne National Laboratory in Chicago and a member of the Socialist Party.

Suggestions made to move the abolition ROTC campaign included: picketing the Military Ball and Governor's Day Review, and buttoning down faculty members "to see where they stand on the issue."

"Here the provost and the President would be treated as seniors

AAUP Debates Faculty Decision Participation

While the Board of Regents is responsible for broad policies concerning the University, most of the questions in the educational realms come back to the faculty in one way or another, according to Dewey Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts.

Dean Stuit was one of three panel members who addressed approximately 40 members of the Iowa Chapter of the American Association of University Professors on Tuesday evening on faculty participation in University government. Other panel members were Charles Davidson, professor of law, and J. Roger Porter, head of the Department of Bacteriology.

Faculty opinion could be expressed first on the departmental level through give and take among teachers, Dean Stuit said. Prof. Porter later qualified this by stating it depended on whether the department was autocratic or encouraged participation.

Committees and faculty meetings facilitate opinion on the college level.

At the University level, faculty views should be aired in a University-wide organization like a senate, Dean Stuit said.

Dean Stuit agreed it was good to be partisan, but the secret was to have the proper distribution of those interested in individual departments and the University as a whole.

In the discussion period following, William Porter, professor of journalism, decried "vague University-oriented" faculty members.

Department-prone persons help to build stronger departments as they fight for their own requests, Prof. Porter held.

Dean Stuit agreed it was good to be partisan, but the secret was to have the proper distribution of those interested in individual departments and the University as a whole.

A full-time committee for coordinating was suggested by Frank Seiberling, head of the Art Department.

"I know that people will say this has been a plot and that the Katanga Government assassinated Lumumba," he told reporters.

"Such an accusation is inevitable — even if Lumumba had died of illness, old age or natural causes."

"I will speak frankly: If people accuse us of killing Lumumba, I will reply: 'Prove it.'"

Lumumba's mercurial reign as the first premier of the independent Congo lasted little more than two months, during which he shifted views from East to West and back again. But he is remembered mainly for welcoming Soviet technicians, later banished.

Deposed Sept. 5 by President Joseph Kasavubu, he was subsequently arrested by the Congo's strong man, Col. Joseph Mobutu, on a charge of inciting the Congolese army to mutiny.

Government Defies U.N. To Retaliate

New Civil War Threat Stirs in Congo; Adds To U.N.'s Problems

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga (AP) — The Katanga Government Monday announced the death of Patrice Lumumba — and defied the United Nations or anyone else to do anything about it.

The office of President Moise Tshombe, archfoe of Lumumba, said the deposed ex-premier lies in an unmarked grave and the village tribesmen who slew him are getting $8,000 as a reward for capture of criminals.

"These people have rid the Congo and the whole world of a problem," Tshombe's Interior Ministry said.

The announcement stirred a new threat of civil war in the Congo, where illiterate millions may regard Lumumba as a martyr. It added another problem to the seemingly desperate role of the United Nations in efforts to bring peace to this eight-month-old country.

"This will mean blood," an ardent follower of Lumumba declared in Leopoldville, the Congo's capital.

But little surprise was evident in Katanga, and some residents of this rich secessionist province, which Lumumba once sought to conquer, said, "Thank goodness he's dead."

President Tshombe's right-hand man, Interior Minister Godofroid Munongo, disclosed Lumumba's death. He told newsmen that Lumumba and two aides — said to have fled with him from a farmhouse prison last Thursday night — where "massacred yesterday morning" by tribesmen of a village some distance from the point where their getaway car was found in southwest Katanga Saturday. He refused to name the village or say where the bodies were interred.

The official story conformed closely with weekend rumors here that the lanky, left-leaning nationalist agitator, 35, was doomed or already dead under circumstances that would never be fully explained. Munongo apparently took note of that.

"I know that people will say this has been a plot and that the Katanga Government assassinated Lumumba," he told reporters.

"I will speak frankly: If people accuse us of killing Lumumba, I will reply: 'Prove it.'"

100 Windows Broken In SUI 'Snowball War'

A "snowball war" among seven SUI fraternities on "fraternity row" Sunday resulted in more than 100 broken windows and other minor damage.

Police said the fracas started about 3 p.m. when members of several fraternities exchanged volleys of snowballs. Police said M. L. Huit, dean of students, was called to break up the battle.

However, a new front was formed shortly before midnight. A caller told police that about 200 students armed with clubs and snowballs were marching toward the Sigma Phi Epsilon house, 702 N. Dubuque St.

Other witnesses, however, denied the students were armed with clubs, and said the number of students was less than 50.

Officers said when they arrived at the scene, they found that the students had used all the snow, and several had driven to outlying areas to get snow in bushel baskets.

Police notified Huit again, and Bruce Parker, head of University police. They and three other SUI policemen arrived just as most of the students were dispersing.

Must SUI Help Supply Military Men?

To the Editor:

The Iowan Friday contained an interesting statement by Dewey B. Stuit, Dean of the College of Liberal Arts. In discussing the abolition of compulsory ROTC he said: "The faculty has corresponded with the Defense Department." This was necessary, he maintained, because: "We must assist the military in personnel procurement."

The film, scheduled to begin at 7:45 p.m., was started early when it became evident that Macbride Hall just wouldn't hold any more. Every nook and cranny was filled, and for a long time after the film started, disappointed students were turned away by the score. The "rejects" must have numbered in the hundreds.

The incident points out SUI's need for a large auditorium for events of this type. Another incident still fresh in many people's mind was the Carl Sandburg lecture some months ago, when tickets disappeared in a matter of minutes, and, again, many were disappointed.

Certainly, a large auditorium is not among the University's more essential needs, but the lack does point out one undeniable fact — there's a lot more students here than there used to be.

And there's going to be a heck of a lot more in the few years that lie ahead. Unless SUI is given the means to expand its facilities, the crowds are going to get worse, and the disappointment to some is going to be more than just missing a movie or a lecture.

'Can't Be Done'

More than just a big basketball victory was won by the Hawkeyes Saturday night. They also scored moral victory that should cast more doubt upon the idea that something "can't be done."

With the cards totally stacked against them, the Hawkeyes accomplished the next-to-impossible. They were undermanned — having lost four of five regulars — and they were playing on a foreign court. Experience and height were to their disadvantage. Everything favored the Hoosiers, and Iowa was given less than a glimmer of a chance to even keep it a close contest.

But, the Hawks did not go into the game empty-handed. They still had the courage and determination that more than balanced the scales.

To whom should the credit be given for the surprising seven-point win? To coach Sharm Scheuerman who molded the team into a smooth unit? To Don Nelson, the team captain, who held his own against giant Walt Bellamy and came up with high scoring honors? To Matt Szatkowsky who made 14 of his 19 points in the last 10 minutes?

To Joel Novak who calmly controlled the ball several times in those final hectic minutes? To Joe Reddington who, although he played little before, pumped in 10 points? To Dick Shaw, Dennis Runge or Gary Lorenz who all contributed rebounding and ball-handling?

All of these individuals deserve the credit, but we're inclined to believe that it was a team and a coach who had the desire to overwhelm the overwhelming odds.

And, every one of us might find an inspiration from this team when the odds are against us and something "can't be done."

Murder of Lumumba Makes More Problems for Congo

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst
The immediate future of a large part of Africa depends heavily today on the reaction to the death of Patrice Lumumba.

It appears that efforts of the United States and the United Nations to develop a workable program for the former Belgian Congo have not matured in time.

Katanga Province does not admit that it arranged the killing, but its Government accepts the event as an execution for which a reward will be paid.

In the eyes of Africa, this will tend to confirm the feeling that Katanga remains Belgian.

The most radical forces in the Lumumba group, already pulling strings to get the power of the Soviet Union behind their effort to rule all the country, will now benefit from newly dug wells of sympathy in many places.

Even before the killing the rough treatment of Lumumba had stirred remonstrance among numerous African groups, and in India.

On Visiting
The U.S.A.
Notice

Let's imagine you're an American and you decide you want to visit Paris. So you look up the nearest French Consulate in the United States, which may be several hundred miles from your home, and call to ask what they will need to obtain a visa.

They tell you all you need is a full-face photograph (but not one taken in a dime-store machine), your passport and a letter from a French friend guaranteeing that he has invited you as his guest and will be responsible for you while you stay in France.

If you don't have such a letter you can bring in your bank statement to prove you have enough money to get back home.

And let's imagine you go down to the consul and tell the girl your name and birth date and she writes it down. If you're lucky and hit a good French Consulate office, you won't have to wait long before you're called to a desk where a girl will type out the answers to 12 questions on a small sheet of paper. Then you will be asked to wait.

Once again it depends on the consul, and if the consulate is well run you won't have to wait too long. In the meantime someone in a back office is checking if you've got a police record, if there are any moral-turpitude charges against you, or if you've ever been a member of the Communist Party or any Communist Front organizations.

Mountaineers Show Desert Film

A colored film of a "Desert Adventure" in California will be presented by Harry R. Reed, explorer-photographer, Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in Macbride Auditorium.

The annual Anza Caravan, in which 300 jeeps follow a desert trail from Hemet, Calif., to the Mexican border, will be featured in the film. Jeep drivers from all parts of the United States meet once a year to drive the roadless desert trail which was blazed by explorer Capt. Juan Bautista de Anza as he explored for a route leading from the interior of America to the Pacific Coast in 1774.

Reed has explored and photographed the shoreline of the prehistoric "Black Sea," the center of a desert volcano, Amboy; the land of the Elephant trees; Black Canyon with its Indian petroglyphs; and the ghost town of Calico. He will present geological, geographical and archaeological aspects of the desert in his lecture.

Now imagine you've got a visa. You're all right until the day you leave France. If you stay for any length of time, then you have to go down to the tax office, where you have to wait in line all morning to get a certificate that you don't owe any French taxes.

Now that you've imagined all this you don't have to do it because you're an American and you don't need a visa to visit France.

But this is the procedure a French tourist has to go through if he wants to visit the United States.

It is one of the problems that the United States has to face if it hopes to attract more foreign visitors to American shores. The French can travel anywhere in Western Europe without a visa. So can the British and the Swiss and the Germans.

President Kennedy is planning to set up a United States Travel Bureau and get funds from Congress to promote United States tourism abroad. He also, according to reports, is going to encourage the cutting of red tape for foreign visitors and instruct consuls and immigration officers to be more courteous to foreigners. The reason for the sudden interest in tourists is that the President hopes to get back some of the gold that American tourists are spending abroad.

It's sad the United States has been forced into making life easier for foreigners not because it necessarily wanted them to visit the country, but because it's good business.

But whatever the reason, and certainly President Kennedy can't be blamed for the previous indignities to foreigners, it would be nice if the day arrives when all tourist visas to the United States could be abolished.

It's too much to ask for now, but we're moving in the right direction. The President is at least aware that you have to be a courteous host if you want paying guests to visit your home, and if he can get the message over to the consuls, the immigration officials, and even, if you'll excuse the expression, the customs officers, we may have foreigners coming to the New Frontier in droves.

Publications By Faculty On Display

Forty-four books and more than 100 reprints of articles written by SUI faculty members during 1960 are on display in the University Library lobby this month.

According to Mrs. Lillian Bezanson, assistant in the archives, the publications displayed represent only a portion of articles published this year by faculty members, as copies of many are not in the archives.

Reprints are acquired from the authors themselves; books are purchased by the Library Acquisitions Department when work of faculty members is brought to its attention.

Faculty publications are displayed annually, usually in January or February, according to Mrs. Bezanson. The current display will remain in the lobby until March 1.

Every college in the University is represented in the works on display, Mrs. Bezanson said.

Included in the collection are "Prairie Christmas" and the libretto to "The Golden Child," by Paul Engle, professor of English; "Confessions of a Spent Youth," by Vance Bourjaily, lecturer in English; and "The Summer Anniversaries," the 1959 Lamont Poetry Selection, by Donald Justice, assistant professor of English.

Leslie W. Dunlap, director of University libraries, is the author of an article on display, "The First Freedom — the Freedom to Read."

Another author represented in the display is James A. Van Allen, department head of physics. "First Public Lecture on the Discovery of the Geomagnetically-Trapped Radiation" is the title of his publication.

Kennedy Pokes Fun At Himself at Dinner

By ROBERT J. DONOVAN
Herald Tribune News Service

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy poked a bit of fun at himself Monday, which puts him in rather good company, considering the fact that in recent weeks he has also poked some fun at Harvard, his brother Robert, Congress, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and New York Democrats.

Monday, for example, the President spoke of the "awkward age" he would be in when he finally leaves the White House. He will, he told a luncheon of the National Industrial Conference Board, be too old to begin a new career and too young to write my memoirs.

Kennedy, who is now 43, did not say whether he expected that his White House career would end after one term, at the age of 47, or at the end of two terms, at the age of 51.

However, his audience responded with laughter when he went on to observe that it would be "premature to ask your support in the next election and it would be inaccurate to thank you for it in the last one."

It was something like President Franklin D. Roosevelt addressing the Daughters of the American Revolution as "fellow immigrants," which he once did. There was about as much support for Kennedy last fall among his industrialist hosts as there was for Roosevelt among members of the D.A.R.

But Kennedy's self-directed quips did not end there. With a wry glance back at last week's mix-up between the Pentagon and the White House, he spoke of "what the Democrats in this Administration used to call missile gap."

At another point he observed that "It's too early to be claiming credit for the new Administration and too late to be blaming the old one."

Although it has been less than a frolic taking over the responsibilities of the Presidency in these last few weeks, Kennedy has a wit that does not remain trapped below the surface of serious things for very long.

There is, for example, the matter of the mass migration from Harvard to the New Frontier. The night after the inauguration the President told a dinner of the Al-Jalifa Club in Washington that it would be okay with him to let Harvard be the first to drive the roadless desert trail which was blazed by explorer Capt. Juan Bautista de Anza as he explored for a route leading from the interior of America to the Pacific Coast in 1774.

Reed has explored and photographed the shoreline of the prehistoric "Black Sea," the center of a desert volcano, Amboy; the land of the Elephant trees; Black Canyon with its Indian petroglyphs; and the ghost town of Calico. He will present geological, geographical and archaeological aspects of the desert in his lecture.

Read spent three years filming "Desert Adventure" and traveled approximately 28,000 miles. A native of Arizona, Reed has spent 22 years as a photographer, journalist and lecturer.

Iowa Triumphs in Last-Second Thriller 63-61

Szykowny's Jump Shot Halts Badgers' Surge

By PHIL CURRIE
Sports Editor

A 16-foot jump shot in the last 27 seconds by Matt Szykowny gave the tired, but fired, Iowa Hawkeyes a 63-61 victory over Wisconsin and a tighter hold on second place in the Big Ten race.

It was the second game-ending crusade carried on by Szykowny in the past three days. Saturday against Indiana the 6-1 sophomore from Pittsburgh, Pa., scored the last eight points in Iowa's 74-67 upset win over Indiana.

The Hawkeye squad, mostly players who two weeks ago were considered reserves, played their hearts out to get their second straight win, and in the final minute showed 10,500 fans that they weren't about to be knocked off by the badgering Badgers.

With 24 points by Szykowny, Iowa's new-found hero, and 22 by automatic Don Nelson, the Hawks outdistanced Wisconsin's late surge to notch their sixth conference win against one defeat. Iowa's season mark is 14-3.

After the game, Wisconsin Coach John Erickson praised Nelson and Szykowny. "We tried every defense we had on Nelson," he said. "He was too tough for us. And that Szykowny—he's really cool-headed ballplayer."

Iowa out-rebounded and out-shot the Badgers, hitting 43 per cent of its shots to 35 for Wisconsin, and grabbing 42 rebounds to Wisconsin's 38. Don Nelson, who picked off 15, was the top rebounder for the Hawks.

Leading scorer for Wisconsin was Hughbanks with 13, followed by Siebel and Ron Jackson, with 11 each. Nelson was fouled twice, once by VanderMolen and once by Siebel, and he dropped in both free throws to move Iowa to the lead 61-59.

But Dick Shaw returned the favor with 37 seconds remaining when he fouled Biggs, who was attempting a drive-in shot. Biggs calmly sank two shots and the score stood at 61-apiece.

The stage was set for Szykowny's dramatic shot. The Iowa team took 10 seconds to move the ball down the court and to Szykowny. He paused momentarily beyond the free throw line and fired a jump shot to move Iowa to the lead 61-59.

The stage was set for Szykowny's dramatic shot. The Iowa team took 10 seconds to move the ball down the court and to Szykowny. He paused momentarily beyond the free throw line and fired a jump shot to move Iowa out in front 63-61.

The pressure was hardly off, however, with that shot. Wisconsin had the ball and 27 seconds to or win the game. With nine seconds remaining, Joe Novak, who played an outstanding floor game at guard for the Hawks, committed his third personal when he fouled Hughbanks.

The Wisconsin junior forward, who had sunk a free throw under pressure earlier, failed to connect and after a scramble the Hawks got the ball out of bounds at the Wisconsin end of the court with five seconds remaining.

Joe Novak, attempting to stall out the time, ran along the baseline from the place where he had received the ball. The official, against Novak's protest, whistled down the guard and awarded the ball to Wisconsin.

However, as Biggs attempted to throw the ball in, Nelson intercepted and dribbled out the remaining time for the win.

Joe Reddington, playing at a guard spot, turned in a strong defensive game for the Hawks. He picked up seven rebounds and tallied four points.

Dennis Runge, 6-9 forward, picked up four foul early in the second half and had to sit out most of that period. However, Dick Shaw, his replacement, turned in a strong reserve performance by tallying four important points in the close second half. He picked up three in the first period.

Iowa moved out in front 4-1 in the early minutes of the game but the Badgers quickly rallied and pulled ahead, 5-4. A jump shot by Reddington gave Iowa a lead that it never relinquished although the game was tied six times.

Final Grade Poll Takes Toll; 14 More Declared Ineligible

A final list of ineligibilities at Iowa shows that 14 more athletes will be unable to compete in winter and spring sports second semester. Four basketball starters were declared ineligible last week.

A release from the Iowa Sports Information Office indicated that six track men, three fencers, two wrestlers, two baseball players and a swimmer will be out of action.

Lost from the track squad are Felton Rogers, a high jumper who leaped 6-9 1/4 in an exhibition performance as a freshman last season; Sam Harris and Mike McDonald, speedy halfbacks on the football squad this fall expected to compete in the spring events; Jim Winston, a hurdler; Al Hinton, who throws the shot; and Gene Owen, half-miler and junior letterman. All had been counted on to bolster the Hawk track team.

Sherwyn Thorson, heavyweight wrestler who was declared ineligible, had been expected to bring a possible national title to the Iowa wrestling team. Last season Thorson placed second in the National Collegiate wrestling championships.

Francis Frye, another wrestler in the 115-pound class, also failed to make his grades. He had a 1-2 record this season.

Iowa Still 9th; Ohio Continues No. 1 Reign

By The Associated Press

The Iowa Hawkeyes, with their startling 74-67 upset victory over Indiana, maintained their ninth place ranking in the Associated Press basketball poll.

Two more victories last week, stretching its unbeaten streak to 23 games over two seasons, kept Ohio State solidly entrenched Tuesday as the No. 1 team.

Led by Jerry Lucas, the Buckeyes won over Indiana 100-65 and Michigan State 83-68. This was enough to convince every member of the Associated Press special panel of sports writers and broadcasters that the Big Ten powerhouse deserved top rating.

This marked the ninth straight week that the Buckeyes had been a unanimous choice for the No. 1 spot.

St. Bonaventure, which trounced Tennessee State 104-87 for its 18th triumph in 19 starts, was almost—but not quite—as popular a pick for the runner-up position. The Bonnies collected all but one of the 36 second place votes, the exception going to Mississippi State.

The weekly standings underwent only mild reshuffling and saw only one newcomer to the top ten.

West Virginia, which beat NYU 75-60 at New York's Madison Square Garden and then toppled Richmond 93-88, moved into the No. 10 spot replacing Louisville.

The latter lost to Eastern Kentucky 80-74.

Duke 17-2 held third place, followed by Cincinnati, Bradley, Kansas State, North Carolina, Southern California, Iowa and West Virginia in that order.

Ohio State's next big test is at Iowa Saturday.

The standings, with points based on 10 for first place vote, nine for second, etc. first place votes and team records through Saturday in parentheses:

Big Ten Standings

	W	L
Ohio State	9	0
Iowa	8	1
Purdue	6	2
Illinois	4	3
Minnesota	5	3
Northwestern	5	3
Indiana	4	4
Wisconsin	6	2
Michigan	6	2
Michigan State	1	8

MONDAY'S RESULTS

Oho State 89, Northwestern 65; Michigan 78, Michigan State 67; Purdue 64, Indiana 55.

Others receiving votes: Mississippi State, St. John's, Kansas, Memphis, UCLA, Utah, Purdue, St. Joseph's (Pa.), Wichita, Drury, South Carolina, Vanderbilt, Kentucky, Providence.

Hawk Win Over Indiana Called 'One of Greatest'

By JIM TUCKER
Assistant Sports Editor

They did not lose their poise, even after Indiana took a 64-62 lead with three minutes and 21 seconds left in the game.

Despite great individual contributions, the game was one decided by balanced team play and hustle along with such intangible aspects as desire and spirit.

Don Nelson, who led all scoring with 21 points, held Bellamy without a field goal in the first half. Szykowny scored 19 points, eight of them on clutch baskets near the end of the game.

Runge helped contain Bellamy and chipped in four free throws without a miss.

Joe Reddington, sophomore guard, played like a veteran as he scored 12 points.

Gary Lorenz added four points, and 6-2 Tom Purcell, another sophomore, helped stop Bellamy in the game's closing moments.

Dick Shaw scored eight points, two on consecutive free throws to tie the score with three minutes left in the game.

With four sophomores, three juniors, and one senior in the Iowa boxscore, the spirited Hawks kept fighting all the way.

Phoenix Playoff Goes to Palmer

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Golf's golden boy, Arnold Palmer, blazed deadly irons and putting with booming drives Monday to conquer both par and Doug Sanders by three strokes in an 18-hole playoff for first money in the $30,000 Phoenix Open.

Palmer, the leading money winner of 1960, went ahead with a for the 90 holes it took him to grab the championship. He carded an even par 70 Sunday.

Both slipped a stroke over par 4 on the murderous 467-yard dogleg first hole, but Palmer fired only pars and birdies from there on.

Following his three-footer on No. 2, Palmer ran down birdie putts of 14 feet on No. 4, 6 inches on No. 8, and 10 feet on No. 12. Not once during the playoff round did he miss the cup by more than a foot on an approach putt.

Palmer had to pull off some great shots to recover from trouble on some of the holes he parred.

On the 43-yard sixth hole, he drove into the rough on the right while trying to cut the corner of a dogleg. Stymied behind a scrubby tree, he hit a high hook which arched beautifully to the green.

This was Palmer's second tournament victory in six tries this year. He previously won the San Diego Open. He has finished among the top five money winners four times in 1961.

Palmer picked up $4,300 in official prize money to Sanders' $3,000. Each pocketed one-fourth of the day's gate receipts.

Tournament sponsors estimated this would give each golfer an additional $1,000.

The two had tied at the end of the tournament's regulation 72 holes Sunday with 270s as Sanders fired a course record 62 in the final round.

The playoff cards:

Par out	443 434 433—94
Sanders out	452 354 443—92
Palmer in	543 443 444—94
Par in	534 443 444—95
Palmer in	533 443 445—96
Sanders in	534 443 355—97

It was a case of Palmer getting closer to the green and to the cup all day. He outdrove Sanders by 30 to 50 yards on all but two holes where woods were used for tee shots. Sanders was inside his opponent on the green only on No. 16, where he stopped a wedge shot one foot from the pin and carded a birdie 3. That was the only hole Sanders won Monday.

Monday's was the fourth sub-par round of the tournament for Palmer, who was 13 under par

Bobsledders Beat Record

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — The four-man bobsled crews, tuning up for the world championships to be held Saturday and Sunday, bettered the existing record twice Monday.

Germany's Franz Schelle turned in a time of 1 minute, 8.24 seconds in a trial run down the mile-long Olympic chute. That was a shade under the official mark of 1:08.88 held by Stan Benham of Lake Placid.

Sergio Zardini of Italy joined Schelle as a record breaker with his time of 1:08.21.

— Over the Weekend — Cindermen Lose to NU; Stop Badgers in Opener

The Iowa track team fell to Northwestern by two points Saturday in a triangular meet at the Iowa Field House. Northwestern scored 70½ points to Iowa's 68½. Wisconsin trailed with 33.

The Hawkeyes' lead going into the mile relay, the final event, but Northwestern's speedy foursome took first in that event with a time of 3:23.5 to win the meet.

Despite the team loss, several individual Hawkeye thinclads turned in good personal performances.

Wes Sidney, sophomore high jumper, surprised everyone when he set an Iowa Field House record in the high jump with a leap of 6-feet, 7-inches. His feat broke the record set by Anton Burg of the Chicago Athletic Association in 1928. It was also an SUI varsity record, breaking the previous mark of 6 feet, 6¾ inches set by Les Stevens in 1956.

Another highlight for the Hawkeyes was the running of distance runner Jim Tucker. Tucker won the mile in 4:21 and came back an hour later to beat Wisconsin's Don Hyre in the two-mile with a time of 9:40.

Iowa's Gary Fischer won the 880-yard run in 1:57.6 and finished second in the 1000-yard event.

Don Gardner, sophomore hurdler, won the 70-yard low hurdles in eight seconds and placed fourth in the high hurdles. He also ran in Iowa's mile relay.

Jerry Golem, another hurdler, picked up a second place in the highs and finished third in the lows. He too was a member of the mile relay team which finished second to the Wildcats.

Tom Hyde, Iowa captain, lost a close race to Charles Carpenter of Northwestern in the 300-yard dash. Hyde also anchored the mile relay, staging a strong finish but not strong enough to catch Northwestern's Jerry Golem.

Golem, along with Charles Carpenter and Ed West, built up the pace of the Northwest's points.

Carpenter won the 60-yard dash and the 300-yard dash, and West

Savitt Is 3-Time Winner In National Indoor Tennis

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Savitt crushed Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., 6-2, 11-9, 6-3 Monday and joined the select few who have won the National Indoor Tennis Championships three times or more.

This was No. 3 for the rangy, power-hitting New York businessman. He also captured the hard-court title in 1952 and 1958 after he had abandoned the big time court circuit.

Reed's service and ground strokers were like BB shot compared to the devastating cannon blasts which exploded off Savitt's racket.

But lightning reflexes, tricky shot variety and scrambling recoveries enabled the 28-year-old Reed to make a scrap of it in the middle stages of the match at the Seventh Regiment Armory.

Savitt is the first three-time winner of the main event since Gregory Mangin took four titles in the space of five years between 1932 and 1936.

One of the best investments you'll ever make...

You know what you invest in advanced ROTC . . . two years of classroom time and outside study.

But just see how handsomely your investment pays off.

First and foremost, there's the proud moment in Graduation Week when the gold bars of a Second Lieutenant are pinned on your Army uniform . . . and deep inside the warm sense of accomplishment at having made it.

There's immediate help in meeting expenses

. . . a subsistence allowance of $535 for the two-year advanced ROTC course. Uniforms and military textbooks paid for. $117 for your six-week summer camp training, plus travel allowance. And when you're commissioned, a $330 uniform allowance.

You discharge your military obligation with the traditional rank, pay, privileges and responsibilities of an officer in the United States Army.

SUlowans' Shoes Come in Many Styles, Shapes, Sizes

'Stepping Out at SUI'

Daily Iowan Photofeature

By Judith Gantz

It has long been said that you could "tell a person by looking at his shoes." In Iowa City, as in any college town, a variety of people gather bringing with them a variety of dress.

Many people notice what another is wearing, but how many actually notice their shoes?

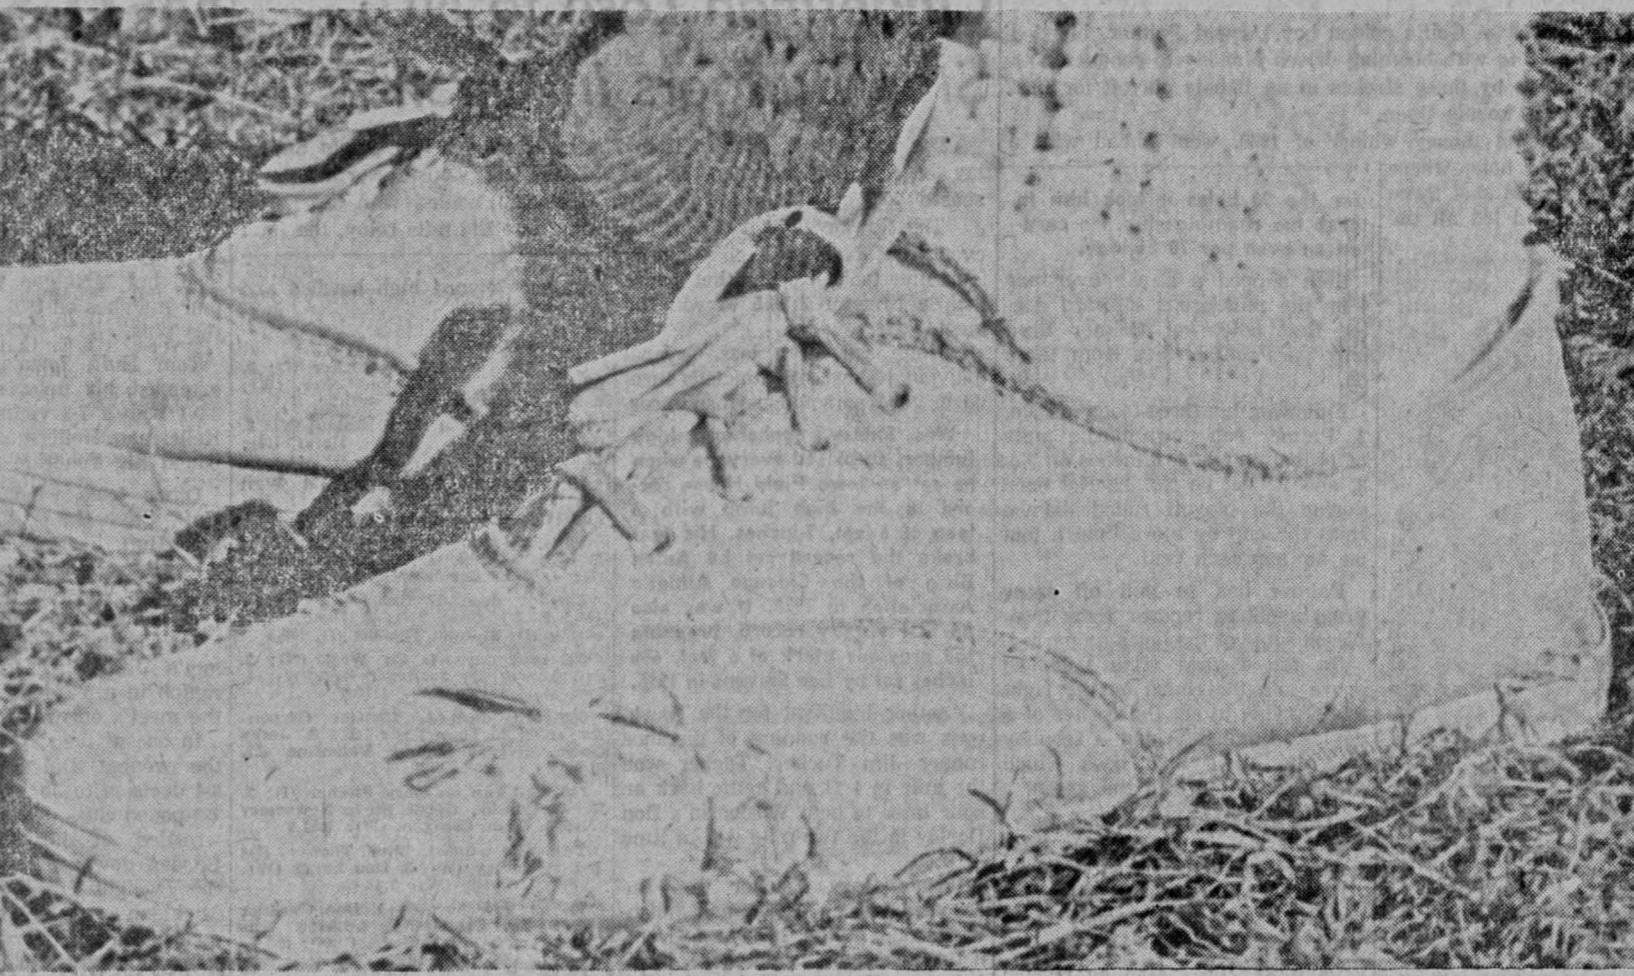

With this in mind, the photographer went out in Iowa City and about campus in quest of pictures of different types of shoes.

Iowa City shoe salesmen said that while canvas shoes (at right) are by far the biggest seller, loafers are a close second in sales.

The camera has captured pictures of many other kinds too. Some are in good condition; some are in great disrepair.

It was interesting to note that quite often the people's clothes tended to match the condition of their shoes. It is true, then, that you may tell a person by his shoes.

Have you noticed this lately while stepping out at SUI?

Those Dirty, Holey Tennies

The best seller in most campus shoe stores is the white canvas shoe. Dirty, holey ones seem to be the most popular. This spring, more and more canvas shoes will be coming in colors. They are expected to be a big seller along with the white ones.

Prim and Pointed

The closed-toe, extremely slender and elongated, is deeply rooted for the incoming season. While this is a high "spike" heel, the French or mid-heel is a bigger seller in Iowa City shoe stores.

Pointier the Better

Closed-toe, pointed shoes will be the fashion trend this spring for women. Heels will be shown in polished leather, suede, grained leather and patent.

Beige, bone and white will be the big colors this year, and polished leather will be the biggest seller. One-inch stacked heels will be seen more this year along with the mid-heel, which is so popular now.

In flats, women will be buying canvas shoes, loafers, oxfords and skimmer flats. Flats this spring will be coming with slimmer toes, and in a wider range of colors.

Small and Big

The feet here belong to one of SUI's 2,778 married students, with child in hand, downtown on a shopping expedition.

Friendly Meeting

Two friends meet on the street between classes, and pause for a short conversation before rushing off.

Waiting for the Light

A variety of shoes is seen here as the owners wait to cross the street. Have you ever stopped to wonder just how many steps are taken across Iowa City's intersections each day?

Coffee Break

Weary, tired feet pause for a rest at the local dime store. Stools at the snack counter here and at other local snack bars are kept busy most of the day. After a hard day at work or in classes, that coke or cup of coffee, along with the chance to sit and relax for a few minutes, is quite a pleasure.

Warm and Comfy

Strictly winter wear, snow boots are very popular on the campus this winter. They are usually purchased with appearance in mind as much as comfort and warmth.

Shay Boys Are Good Team

Dan, 9, Mike, 12, and Kevin, 10, are the three Shay Brothers who form an efficient team delivering The Daily Iowan each morning. Mike got the first job with the Iowan on a tip from a friend, and did so well that his brothers were also hired. The three boys deliver a total of 292 papers on more than 62 city blocks five days a week.

3 Shay Brothers Deliver Daily Iowan; Family Project

By PHIL CURRIE
Sports Editor

Delivering newspapers in the William Shay household has become a family project.

Three Shay brothers, Mike, Kevin and Dan, who live at 830 E. Fairchild, all deliver papers for The Daily Iowan and when the situation calls for a helping hand, Mom and Pop pitch in too.

"They do all their own work," said Mrs. Shay, "but my husband and I feel we should cooperate with them, so if any problem comes up, we help them out."

With that family philosophy guiding them, the Shay boys together deliver 292 papers on more than 62 city blocks.

Mike, 12, launched the Shays into the newspaper business two years ago. "One of my friends told me The Daily Iowan needed a paper boy," Mike said. "He didn't know whether he was going to apply so I called and got the job."

The next day my friend did call and found out that the job

Another example of family spirit — late in January, when the temperature dropped to 10 below zero, Mom and Pop came to the rescue. When their parents saw the weather, they decided to drive the boys around their routes.

"I got up around five one morning and with the three boys, started delivering," Mrs. Shay related. "We got about halfway around the route and the car stalled for a half hour."

Mike, Kevin and Dan appreciate their parents' aid in emergencies and try to help in return. "We save up part of our delivery money each week, then we buy some of our clothes and other things," Mike said.

Report 'Battle' Of Anti-Castro, Army Forces

HAVANA — Unofficial reports circulated in Havana Monday that a "substantial" landing of anti-Castro forces and some fighting took place over the weekend in Oriente Province. They followed similar reports that there were heavy casualties in a "fierce" weekend battle between insurgents in the Escambray Mountains and encircling militia.

The government was mum on all these reports.

Various informants in Havana insisted reports of the substantial landings near Baracoa on the northeastern tip of Cuba were "definitely more than a rumor." Some even went so far as to say the invaders numbered up to 3,000 well-equipped men.

Baracoa is not far from a small contingent of anti-Castro forces was captured or liquidated by Castro troops last October. Anthony Zappa of Boston, Mass., and seven Cubans captured in this encounter subsequently were executed near Santiago after military trials.

One of the goals of opposition forces has been to mount a diversion in Oriente to relieve the tremendous pressure on the rebels in the Escambrays. Oriente, where Prime Minister Fidel Castro's own revolution began, has its drive to power, is much more suitable to guerrilla warfare than Escambray.

In that area, farther to the West, travelers said there were heavy casualties on both sides in combat which raged between the south coast town of Trinidad and Topes de Collantes Tuberculosis Sanitarium 10 miles inland, both held by Government forces.

Heart Drive Set To Help Prevent Prevalent Disease

More Iowans die from heart and blood vessel diseases than from all other causes of death combined, according to L. E. Hunn, president of the Johnson County Heart Committee.

The statement was made in connection with the 1961 Heart Fund canvas scheduled to begin Sunday.

Lloyd Berger, 416 Elm Ridge, will head the Iowa City business district canvas.

Either a personal gift or a business gift will be accepted, Berger said. Business employees will be solicited at their homes as part of the traditional Heart Sunday campaign.

Berger said many businessmen are aware of the huge economic loss caused each year by heart disease. It is estimated that 70 million man-days, valued at $1 billion in income, are lost each year as the result of cardio-vascular diseases.

Research projects in six areas—medicine, education, mathematics, chemistry, engineering and business administration—are being financed by gifts and grants accepted during January for SUI.

The grants also make scholarships possible for some 40 SUI students.

The grants, which were accepted by the finance committee of the State Board of Regents, total $117,053.

The largest part of the January grants—$43,589—is to be used for five research projects in the College of Engineering. Other departments and colleges receiving grants are the Chemistry Department, $23,000; Bureau of Business and Economic Research, $15,000; Mathematics Department, $10,710; College of Education, $9,003; College of Medicine, $3,020; College of Pharmacy, $900; and the Art Department, $500.

Of the total, $100,311 will be used for research, $11,334 for scholarships and fellowships, and the remainder for miscellaneou

The largest grant—$38,586—is accepted from the Department of the Army for research. Other large grants were accepted from the National Science Foundation, $22,000; Commission for Economic Development, $15,000; U.S. Air Force, $10,710; Collins Radio Company, Cedar Rapids, $10,000; U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, $10,000; U.S. Public Health Service, $9,000; Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, $2,240; Danforth Foundation, $1,520; Firestone Tire and Rubber Company, $1,200; American Heart and Cancer Fund, $1,243; Eagles Memorial Foundation, $1,200; and Winnesheik County Tuberculosis Assn., $1,000.

SUI Shares Grant Of Science Writing

SUI is one of 20 midwestern universities to share in benefits from a grant of $18,147 for continued partial support of the Scientific Journals Center, Chicago.

The grant was awarded by the National Science Foundation to the Midwest Inter-Library Center, operated jointly by the 20 universities and NSF.

The Scientific Journals Center project is intended to assure that the midwest area universities receive one copy of every significant journal published anywhere in the world in the fields of chemistry and biology. Thus the latest scientific discoveries in these fields are made available readily to American scientists.

Dr. Cahn To Speak On ESP Research

Dr. Harold A. Cahn, resident assistant in the Psychopathic Hospital, will speak Thursday on "New Directions in Extra-Sensory Perception Research."

The lecture will begin at 8 p.m. in room 218 of the Medical Laboratories.

50 at 'Year of Ox' Party

Chinese Note New Year

By Y. K. CHUNG
Written for the DI

The homesickness of some 50 Chinese SUIowans was temporarily healed at a reunion dinner to celebrate the turning of the "year of rats" to the "year of ox" last Saturday.

Although Jan. 1 is officially New Year's Day, the Chinese people observe the lunar new year more heartily. It is the biggest holiday of the year, when families reunite, shops close for at least three days, and a two-week vacation is celebrated by all schools.

The Chinese lunar years are named after 12 animals, rotated in a fixed sequence. According to the lunar calendar, the first day of this "year of ox" will fall on Wednesday, February 15.

SUI foreign students adviser W. Wallace Maner, Mrs. Maner, and scores of student friends were invited to the party at First Baptist Church. Wives of SUI Chinese professors and students prepared delicacies including braised chicken and beef, fried prawn and fish, but served with American salad, orange drink, and root beer instead of Chinese tea.

the showing of two color films from Taiwan. A picture titled "Formosa Today" brought back the memories of most of the students present. Another film, "The City of Cathay", which represented Free China's movies at the international film festival at Venice last year, was a detail close-up record of a silk scroll painting of 1736.

Included in the painting are some 4,000 one-inch lively characters, depicting life at the capital in spring in the old days. This painting is one of the rare treasures now in the nation museum in Formosa.
