Sheldon Embezzler Gets 15-Year Sentence

Gov't Reveals Where Stolen Money Went

Speculations Ran To $1 Million; Firm Received $900,000

SIoux CITY (AP) — Burnice Iverson Geiger, 58, a banker's daughter who admitted a $2-million embezzlement from her father's bank, was sentenced to 15 years in Prison Friday.

At the same time the Government disclosed that her speculations and financial help for a struggling home town industry were principal outlets for the funds embezzled from the Sheldon National Bank.

The disclosure was one of several new developments in the case. A government attorney said her speculations during a period of almost three decades amounted to nearly $1-million. She lost $1,000 a month on the "board of trade" during that period. In addition, he said, the Northern Biochemical Corp. of Sheldon drained the bank of about $900,000.

Mrs. Geiger, a faint smile on her lips as she entered the courtroom, sobbed softly and dabbed frequently at her eyes with a handkerchief as U. S. Dist. Judge Henry N. Graven pronounced sentence. She was ashen-faced when taken back to the county jail before transfer to a federal prison.

She previously had pleaded guilty to 35 counts of a U. S. attorney's information. Judge Graven assessed no fine.

Her attorney, Warren Dunkle, pleaded with the court to return her to society under severe parole.

"Imprisonment would punish only her family," he said. "Mrs. Geiger is resigned to her fate and a prison sentence would actually be a relief to her."

Since her arrest last Jan. 16, the day the bank shortages were discovered by federal examiners during a routine examination, Mrs. Geiger has preferred a jail cell to going home.

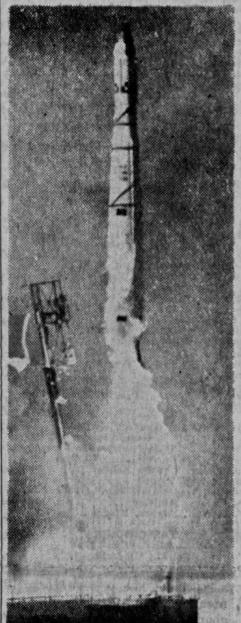

Her husband, Wallace, a Sheldon merchant, was the only member of her family in court. Her father, W. P. Iverson, 83, president of the now closed bank, and her mother remained away.

Mrs. Geiger was specifically accused of embezzling $122,393 in the last four years. But U. S. Dist. Atty. F. E. Van Alstine said the total amount of the shortage was $2,155,000 — one of the largest in banking history in this country.

Biggest Discoverer Yet Launched into Orbit

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE Base, Calif. (AP) — Discoverer XX — the biggest, heaviest, most powerful yet — shot into orbit Friday with a new stunt on its mechanical mind: Keeping its recoverable capsule aloft for a record four days.

Next month a similar capsule is expected to carry a monkey aloft to sample hazards man will encounter during an extended period in orbit.

The 81-foot projectile roared into a clear, blue sky at 12:26 p.m. Two hours later the U. S. Air Force said its satellite second stage was whizzing around the earth's poles every 95 minutes at altitudes ranging from 201 to 400 miles.

Some time Tuesday, if all goes well, the satellite will kick out a 300-pound bell-shaped capsule over Alaska. Cargo planes will try to snag its parachute as it drifts down over the target area north of Hawaii.

The ejection could be shoved up a day or two if bad weather is forecast for Tuesday, or if some malfunction shows up in the satellite.

The longest a Discoverer has kept its capsule in orbit heretofore was three days. In Discoverer XVIII launched Dec. 7, this was the third capsule to be caught in the air. A fourth was recovered from the ocean.

Discoverer XX is six feet longer and 750 pounds heavier than the 19-foot, 1,700-pound satellite lofted earlier in the series. It was boosted by an improved Thor medium-range missile burning a more powerful fuel.

The capsule itself contains devices to measure the effect of radiation on instruments planned for Samos eye-in-the-sky camera satellites and Midas missiles detection satellite.

Also aboard is a radar beacon of the type to be used in future transit navigation satellites.

Congo Peace Plan Offered By Neutrals

Plan Would Allow Use of U.N. Forces; Stevenson Uncertain

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Three Asian-African nations put before the U.N. Security Council Friday their plan for peace in the Congo — including use of force as a last resort if necessary by U.N. forces to stop civil war.

U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson told reporters the United States was doubtful about some of the provisions in the resolution but that "it offers a basis for negotiations."

Valerian A. Zorin, the Soviet delegate, declined to say whether he would veto the resolution — an action that might bring an emergency session of the General Assembly on the Congo before the regular session resumes in less than three weeks.

Ceylon, Liberia and the United Arab Republic submitted the resolution, described by one African delegate as having the support of all Asian-Africans "from leftist Guinea to pro-Western Tunisia."

In addition to authorizing use of force if needed to halt civil war, the resolution urges:

1. Taking of measures for immediate withdrawal and evacuation from the Congo of all Belgian and foreign mercenaries.
2. Halting by all states of departure of such personnel to the Congo.
3. Immediate and impartial investigation into the death of former Congo Premier Patrice Lumumba.

It urges also the immediate convening of the Congo Parliament and the reorganization of all Congo armed units.

Nowhere in the resolution does the name of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold or Congo President Joseph Kasavubu appear.

Any mention of them was regarded as certain to cause a Soviet veto in view of Moscow's demand that Hammarskjold be fired, and its declaration that leftist Premier Antoine Gizenga is the legitimate head of the Congo government.

The United Arab Republic is among nations which have already extended recognition to the Gizenga regime in Stanleyville, and as a sponsor could not accept such language in the resolution.

A spokesman for the Guinea delegation said that if any one of the big powers vetoes the resolution, his country would seek an emergency session of the General Assembly.

Diplomats said most Asian-African nations would support the move even though the assembly is scheduled to resume its regular 15th session March 7.

A Soviet resolution demanding Hammarskjold's resignation and end to the U.N. Congo operation within 30 days already was doomed to defeat.

But U.N. diplomats said there was a possibility that the council might drag on through next week, and delegates might then decide to wait for the resumed session to take up the Congo issue.

The 11-nation U.N. Conciliation Commission was reported Thursday to have recommended not only convening of Parliament and reorganization of the Congo Army, but also a summit meeting of Congo political leaders to chart the Congo's political future. The commission recommended a federal system of loosely associated states, instead of the strong central government demanded by pro-Lumumba followers.

Lyn Jones Wins UGOC Trophy

By TERRY TRAVIS Staff Writer

The cinderella transition proved to be no fairy tale Friday evening as shapely SUI coed Lyn Jones, A4, Davenport, stepped to the stage and accepted her trophy as Kappa Gamma sorority, was presented with the award by chairman of the dance, Boyd Tracy, A4, Shenandoah, during the intermission at 10:30 p.m.

Voting for the UGOC contest winner was open to all persons who attended the Greek Week Variety Show Wednesday. Each fraternity and sorority was invited to submit entries for the contest. Pictures of the nominees were taken, and the field was narrowed to 10 finalists. Each finalist's picture was posted in the Union and Macbride Hall on the voting day.

Also highlighted at the dance was the introduction of the IFC Queen, Beth Kesterson, A2, Des Moines, and her attendants. Following the introduction, an honorary tea was held for them in a private dining room.

The voices and orchestra of Peter Palmer provided music for SUI greeks. Picturesque decorations and small tables surrounded the dance floor. They featured the theme of the party, "Birds in Paradise."

Federal Job Aid Fund Gets Governors' Nod

By The Associated Press

Governors of many states voiced strong approval Friday of President Kennedy's call for stepped-up spending of federal aid funds to put jobless men back to work.

Some states already were pressing action to get the program going in their areas, or were studying plans to do so.

All down the line the response in the states was favorable. Several governors said they began steps even prior to the President's announcement of accelerated government spending.

"We started speeding up before Kennedy asked us," said Tennessee Gov. Buford Ellington.

"I put out a directive to the highway department three weeks ago ordering such a program. We have already finished the scheduling of early contract-letting on highway projects."

Kennedy on Wednesday urged the nation's governors to act promptly to use more than a billion dollars in federal aid funds to bolster the economy.

Included was $734 million in funds for federal highway construction and $350 million he released for construction of schools and other facilities in state areas crowded by influxes of federal workers.

"I heartily endorse your program to invigorate the national economy," Virginia Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Jr. wired the President.

The Virginia State Highway Commission said that under the stepped-up program it could hasten the spending of about $7 million in federal road aid.

Ohio Gov. Michael V. DiSalle said that $100 million worth of construction could be let for contracts immediately.

In Wisconsin, Gov. Gaylord A. Nelson early this month directed the State Highway Commission to review its program with an eye to the prospect that federal funds would be available ahead of schedule.

California Gov. Edmund G. Brown said his state is stepping up highway projects from $28 million monthly to $35-40 million monthly, and quickening spending of $30 million in state school building funds, with priority given projects in hard-hit areas.

In North Carolina, Gov. Terry Sanford said the state already was ahead on its interstate highway program — and has spent about all funds available.

Washington Gov. Albert D. Rosellini said $5.25 million will be used to speed purchase of rights-of-way for the Seattle-Tacoma Freeway, and that he was asking the legislature for a $2-million appropriation to distribute some $25 million worth of federal surplus funds.

Crowd of 13,000 Expected at Game

A sellout crowd of 13,000 and a television audience of thousands more are expected to see Iowa's basketball team take on a notorious squad from Ohio State tonight at 7:30 in the Iowa Field House. W. Germany Offers Billion In Annual Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — West Germany, in a sudden about face, promised Friday to assist underdeveloped nations on a permanent basis and hinted it is ready to give $1 billion a year for this purpose.

Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano informed President Kennedy of the change in the German position at a White House conference. The President, a joint communique said, "heard with satisfaction that the Federal West German Government will be prepared to provide the necessary means to carry on its program for the underdeveloped countries in future years."

White House press secretary Pierrre Salinger said Brentano made no commitments on how large the German foreign aid will be. But Brentano's spokesman, Gunther von Hasse made it clear at a White House news conference following the Kennedy — Brentano talks that Bonn intends to spend $1 billion yearly for this purpose — provided the present rosy German budgetary situation does not change drastically.

Haase said Kennedy was satisfied. Salinger added that the President felt the new German offer "had the effect of clearing the atmosphere."

The State Department would not go beyond the official communique, but officials said privately the change in Bonn's position will disperse the clouds on the horizon of U.S.-German relations.

Redistricting Bout Date Voted Down

DES MOINES (AP) — The Senate failed by one vote Friday to set a definite date for the next bout on legislative reapportionment. The Senate voted 29-16 to debate reapportionment next Tuesday, but Lt. Gov. W. L. Mooty ruled that was one vote short of the two-thirds majority required by the rules.

Sen. Jack Schroeder (R-Davenport) sponsor of the measure which would have come up Tuesday, and some other senators who might favor setting reapportionment for debate at a specific time, were absent when the vote was taken Friday.

Except for voting the measure as a special order of business, it will have to take its turn on a calendar of 65 bills awaiting debate.

Car-Truck Wreck Hospitalizes Girl

Marilyn Mitchell, 18, Riverside, was reported in fair condition at Mercy Hospital late Friday night, after the car she was driving struck the rear of a semi-trailer truck six miles south of Iowa City on Highway 218.

Officials at the hospital said she is believed to be a student at Iowa State Teachers College in Cedar Falls.

Highway Patrolmen said she hit the rear of the semi-trailer truck which had parked on the highway while another semi-trailer truck was being pulled free after becoming stuck on the shoulder of the highway.

She suffered facial lacerations, and undetermined head injuries. She was scheduled to go into surgery late Friday night.

The car, registered by her father, Jesse, a custodian in the University Hospitals, was damaged approximately $700 to $1,000.

Comparing the teams' records, no one can give the Hawks any real chance of upsetting the Famous Five from Ohio State. The Buckeye squad, nation's No. 1 team, is bigger, more powerful, and hotter shooting. It is a more experienced unit and boasts an All-American, four other top players and a host of strong reserves.

The records show the Ohio State squad, which must be considered one of the greatest U.S. teams of all time, is apparently unstoppable while managing to stop everyone else. The Bucks have scored an average of 87.7 points a game while allowing their opponents only 61.3. They lead the conference in rebounds and field goal and free throw accuracy.

Jerry Lucas, their renowned center, was named to the All-American team last year as a sophomore. He currently stands second in the Big Ten scoring race with a 26.7 average, one-tenth of a point behind Purdue's Terry Dischinger.

Completing a very well-balanced attack are Larry Siegfried, Mel Nowell, John Havlicek and Richie Hoyt, all top defensive and offensive stars.

Looking still further at the record, OSU has 19 straight wins to its credit this season and a 9-0 conference mark. The Bucks have won 44 of 47 games in the last two years.

The statistics show a pretty fair record for Iowa, too. The Hawks are ranked ninth nationally, own a 14-3 record and are second in the Big Ten with a 6-1 mark.

They have a top shooter in Don Nelson, currently averaging 18.3 points in Big Ten play and 22.1 in over-all competition. They have a strong-shooting, fired-up forward in Matt Szykowski, who has scored 19 and 24 points in his last two games.

Nevertheless, the game — at least when you compare records — favors Ohio State. Also in the Buckeyes' favor is the fact that four of the starters who helped gain national recognition for Iowa were declared ineligible for second semester competition. And the crop of green-horns who took over (only Nelson remains from the starting team) lacks experience.

But as Iowa fans well realize, statistics gave no indication that Iowa would upset Indiana or get by Wisconsin. The records didn't indicate that players like Joel Novak, Gary Lorenz, Tom Reddington, Dennis Runge and Joe Purcell would turn out such fine performers.

The records didn't show that Iowa Coach Sharm Schuerman would instill in his boys the spirit, drive and determination that has lifted them higher than they were ever figured to climb.

The Hawks have what Schuerman has called "as much spirit and hustle as any team I've seen." Take the factors of a sellout crowd, a home court advantage, a young Iowa coach who undoubtedly has a few tricks up his sleeve; add to that a desire topped by no team in the country and a squad that doesn't seem to know when to quit.

If all things jell, that bunch of guys from Iowa may surprise a TV audience, the 13,000 fans in the Field House — and the Famous Five.

News Suppression?

Pierre Salinger, news secretary for President Kennedy, and the President himself have made some decisions on the release of news that have alarmed some newspaper men and certain men in the opposition party.

A close look at these decisions might reveal that it would be better to wait and see what the general trend of the new Administration is in its releasing of news than to jump to hasty conclusions.

In the case of the checking of Admiral Arleigh Burke's speech before its delivery, the Administration was following what is normal procedure for the White House.

Some critics of the Administration have been suggesting that some deal must have been made with Khrushchev since the RB-47 airmen have not been allowed to talk about their experience.

The decision not to televise some of the weekly news conferences has caused some quarters to think that another attempt was being made to slow the flow of news.

Ambassador Adlai Stevenson's remark about Kennedy's willingness to meet Khrushchev was seized upon by some as if it were the official view of the administration.

Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara's leaking information to newsmen at an "off the record" conference about the nonexistence of a "missile gap" was also embarrassing to Kennedy during the campaign.

In arriving at any judgment about the Administration's policy on releasing information, one must wait for the air to clear as the new officials settle down to their jobs and responsibilities.

The main thing to consider is, whether there is a conscious effort on the part of the Administration to suppress information. As yet, there is no indication of such suppression.

Policy in Congo— 'Rule or Ruin'

WASHINGTON — Premier Khrushchev has almost literally flung his other shoe at the United Nations.

Or, he finds the prospect of further anarchy in the Congo so tempting that he would immobilize the U.N. even at the risk of wrecking negotiations with Kennedy.

There is more. They demand that the U.N. Mission in the Congo be folded up immediately.

But when a pro-Soviet Premier was removed from office by the Congo President, Moscow wants the U.N. out of the Congo.

During all this period, when Moscow was authorizing the U.N. to protect the Congo from outside interference, a pro-Soviet Premier was in office.

Book Review— Resistance or Surrender— Which Path Shall We Follow?

(Editor's Note: Mr. Ross, a member of the Iowa Conservatives, today discusses the book, "The Fearful Choice," from that viewpoint.

The "Fearful Choice: A Debate on Nuclear Policy," conducted by Philip Toynebee, first published in England in 1958, appeared in this country in 1959.

Toward the end of 1957, Toynebee wrote a statement, "Thoughts on Nuclear Warfare and a Policy to Avoid It," and sent copies to some 75 people for their comments.

Toynebee's argument is fairly simply stated. The main points are these: (1) Thermionic nuclear warfare between the Soviet Union and the West would result in horrible destruction of Western civilization as well as of the Soviet Union.

Study Shows Some 3,000 Use Overpass

From 2,500 to 3,000 pedestrians daily are using the new overpass at the Riverside Drive-Newton Road intersection in Iowa City, a recent two-day survey showed.

They represented somewhat more than half of the 5,000-plus pedestrians who crossed the intersection each day, either on the overpass or by walking across traffic lanes. Employees of the SUI Physical Plant made the survey last Thursday and Friday between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. SUI and State Highway Commission officials have long been concerned for the safety of students who need to cross Highways 6 and 218 — widened last summer to four lanes at the intersection — to get to their classes and dormitories. The overpass was constructed to provide safe passage across the busy highways.

President Virgil M. Hancher, who reported the results of the survey to the Highway Commission, predicted Thursday that the new overpass will be used by increasing numbers of pedestrians as time goes on and new "traffic patterns" are established by current and future students.

"We are grateful to the Highway Commission for providing this safety measure for students, staff members and other Iowa Citizens, and the fact that it is already being used by several thousand persons each day would seem to indicate its very real value," Hancher said.

3 SUIowans Given Free Trip to D.C.

Three SUIowans are among ten Iowa college students who have been awarded free one-week trips to Washington, D.C., to observe politics and government firsthand, it was announced this week.

The SUIowans are Mike Fignshaw, A3, Jefferson, Democrat; Elaine Mulherin, A4, Mt. Vernon, Democrat; and Lee Theisen, A2, Sioux City, Republican. The announcement was made by Robert F. Ray, director of the Iowa Citizenship Clearing House and dean of the Division of Special Services at SUI.

The ten students, five Republicans and five Democrats, represent seven Iowa colleges and universities and were selected from 72 applicants. The awards are made by the clearing house advisory board, a group of leaders from both political parties, and college teachers and administrators. The awards are given on the basis of scholarship, leadership, and interest and activity in politics.

While spending the "Week in Washington," the students will be house guests of Congressman and Mrs. Fred Schwengel (D-Davenport), who have served as hosts for similar groups since the program was started seven years ago. Congressmen Schwengel and Neal Smith (D-Illinois) will arrange for the students to meet Congressional and Governmental leaders and to attend hearings and other sessions of Congress.

For travel expenses each student will receive $65 from the clearing house and $35 from the student's political party.

"We hope the students who participate in this program gain a clearer understanding of politics and Government on the national level," Dean Ray said. "We also hope that this close contact with Congressional leaders and their work will increase the students' appreciation for the role of politics in our national life."

The other seven students and the schools they represent are: Francis I. Dow, Democrat, Iowa State Teachers College; Colleen Leach, Republican, Clarke College; F. E. (Skip) Andrew, Democrat, Drake University; George C. Puhmann III, Republican, Drake; Norman Wolf, Republican, Iowa Wesleyan; George West, Republican, Coe College; and Harold R. Sullivan, Democrat, Iowa State University.

The helicopter pilots who accomplished the tricky rescue were lieutenants Jack C. Thorpe of Platte, Mo.; William L. Fluke of Redwood City, Calif.; Donald J. Calder of Baltimore, and Donald E. Price of Morgantown, W. Va.

The Iowa City Playground and Recreation Commission will sponsor the sessions, which began today. The classes will be held at the old fire station in City Hall from 1:30-2:30 p.m. every Saturday until April 29.

Miss Miriam Taylor, a former assistant professor at SUI, will show the children how to construct the puppets, make costumes, and present puppet plays.

Advance registration is required and may be made by calling the Recreation Office at 8-5493. There is no charge for the class, and materials will be furnished.

Antarctic Storm Subsides; Scientists Finally Rescued

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four scientists trapped for 60 hours in a howling Antarctic blizzard with winds of over 100 miles an hour have been rescued by Navy helicopters.

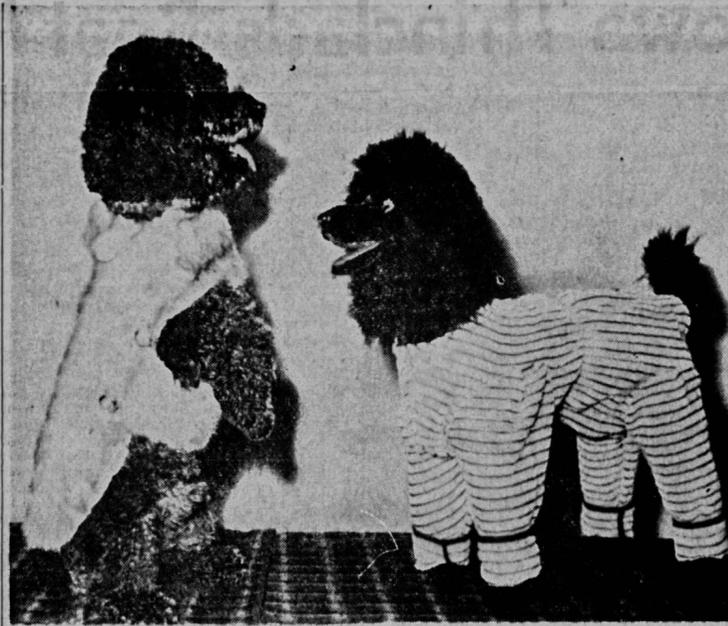

The winds were so fierce the men couldn't put up a shelter tent. They credited a Briton, Dr. Brian Roberts, with saving their lives by directing the building of a crude stone windbreak.

The men huddled in sleeping bags behind the windbreak for two days and three nights without food and water before helicopters from the Navy ice breakers Staten Island and Glacier were able to pick them up Wednesday.

The Navy said Thursday the ordeal cracked the hands and lips of the men and even blackened their eyes, but caused no serious injury.

The helicopters, from the Navy's Bellinghousen Sea expedition, were able to make the rescue when the storm subsided.

Dr. Roberts is a veteran of polar exploration. Americans marooned with him were Lt. Cmdr. James C. Peeler of Salisbury, N. C.; Avery A. Drake of Rolla, Mo.; and Larry K. Lepley of Hillcrest Heights, Md.

Putting on the Dog

If these doggy duds catch on, pet owners will find it mighty expensive to keep the family pooch on the 10 best-dressed dog list. The poodle at left sports a $110 sapphire mink jacket. His pal, also a poodle, models a peppermint-striped pajama ensemble. The outfits, all custom made, were designed by Louis Levine, high style canine couturier who presides over the classy dog togs department of a Fifth Avenue department store in New York. —AP Wirephoto

Red Youth Gangs Roaming Vladivostok, Journal Reports

MOSCOW (HTNS) — A gang of vicious young Russian hoodlums supplementing the regular police, is unable to cope with the knife and steel rod-wielding Vladivostok gangs which have beaten or stabbed other youngsters and brawled with demobilized soldiers, the journal said.

This is the second report here in 10 days about depredations of the young Russian gangs, and the second demand something be done at once about them. Another journal reported on Feb. 7 that a knife-wielding gang of Russian youngsters had staged three attacks on residents of the city of Oryol, south of here.

Literature and Life identified the Vladivostok gang's knife victim as Zhenya Nikiforov, 23. He had been warned that the gang was "angry with him and he must take care of himself," the journal reported, apparently because he had thrown a gang member out of a girl's dormitory room a few nights earlier.

That night the gang broke into the room of his best friend, apparently to maul him. But Nikiforov's friend, "who did not go to his funeral because he was afraid he would be killed" as the journal put it, was out.

According to the journal, the gangs are composed of Moscow, Kalinin and Odessa youngsters "sent by the Young Communist League" to Vladivostok to help in that city's expansion building program. Each was approved for Vladivostok work by the Young Communist League in his or her home city.

Coeds Get the Eye

NEW YORK (HTNS) — Instructors at City College here have been asked to be on the lookout for pregnant coeds in their classes.

In a letter sent to all faculty members by Dr. James S. Peace, acting dean of students, the Dean requested that teachers report to him any of their students who are pregnant. Peace said the letter was distributed in accordance with a Board of Higher Education (BHE) by-law requiring pregnant women to take an examination to determine whether they are "physically fit" to remain in school.

Last year an announcement asking the students themselves to notify him was placed in the college bulletin, Peace said, but this semester the information was not included. The letters were meant to inform both students and instructors of the requirement, he said.

Peace is the "responsible college official" — "I'm not responsible for the pregnancies," he emphasized — who decides how long a pregnant student can remain in attendance, on the basis of reports by the college physician and the student's private doctor.

The dean said he had handled approximately 20 cases in the past year. Most of them were permitted to remain in school, he said. The BHE ruling applies to both married and unmarried students, but there has been "no problem" at City College with unmarried mothers-to-be, according to Peace.

The requirement of a physical examination was made to prevent "births occurring on campus," and to provide "protection" for pregnant students. "After all, if a girl is four or five months pregnant, and she's taking a physical education course, that's not very desirable," Peace said.

Polka Dot Satellite Found

WASHINGTON (AP) — The space agency found its missing polka dot satellite to be firmly in orbit Friday and proudly named it Explorer IX.

The 12-foot inflatable sphere was launched from Wallops Station, Va., at 7:05 a.m. local time Thursday, but could not be tracked adequately on its orbit.

However, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said late Friday it had confirmed that the sphere had achieved orbit. The confirmation was on the basis of visual and photographic sightings plus radar observation.

NASA said the radio beacon on the sphere is not operating. However, the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory, Millstone Hill, Mass., has determined that the sphere is in about the same orbit as the burnt out casing of the fourth stage of the launching rocket.

NASA officials confirmed Thursday that the rocket casing had gone into an orbit ranging between altitudes of 404 and 1,604 miles.

Department Announces Observatory Schedule

SUI's Astronomy Department has announced its new weekly schedule for "open house" at the department observatory.

The observatory, located in Room 400 of the Physics Building, will be open to the public from 7 to 9 p.m. Monday. Friday nights may be reserved for observation by writing to the Astronomy Department and enclosing a self-addressed post card so a reply can be made.

Plans for an astronomical museum are now underway.

TWIRP Is Here Girls—

Coeds: 'Good Idea

By SANDY FAUS

TWIRP Week (The Woman Is Required To Pay) was unanimously dubbed a good idea by SUI woman students telephoned at random Friday.

Starting Monday, the week will end with the AWS-sponsored Spinners' Spree on Friday, Feb. 24, from 8 p.m. to midnight in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

The girls approved the week because girls could repay their studious, ask boys they wanted to date but hadn't, and have an opportunity to go out instead of staying home.

"Good for a novelty" was the comment of Marcia Heasley, A4, Dannelson.

While Peggy Martens, A4, Bennett, always has felt the boys should ask the girls, "the other way is all right for a week."

The turn-about treating lets a girl pay back a fellow she has been dating quite often. Marilyn Betts, A3, Sioux City, points out this is especially nice when the fellow doesn't have much dating money, and the girl wants to help, but not embarrass, him.

Some boys take advantage of the situation, though. Pat Stallard, A4, Freeport, Ill., knows of one girl whose boyfriend expects to be treated once or twice a day during the week.

Cheryl Carlson, A3, Vinton, voices another reason for okaying the week — "It gives a girl a chance to ask a boy she would like to date, but hasn't asked her out." The event also is a good opportunity for girls to go out that stay home quite a bit, according to Mary Ellen Gordon, A1, Galesburg, Ill.

Pat Teal, A1, Dubuque, endorses the week as "it gives the girl an idea of what the fellow goes through."

While the gals favor the week, none of those telephoned had asked anyone to the Spinners' Spree yet. Some will be out of town that weekend, some are engaged, and others have been too busy this week to think about it.

The first girl-ask-boy week at SUI was in 1959 when AWS sponsored MERC Week (Men's Economic Recovery). In 1960 a Leap year dance was held.

The TWIRP Week title, which was popularized years ago by the Freckles and His Friends comic strip, was adopted this year by AWS.

The newness of the name to SUI was indicated by several of the girls called. After a long, long pause, they timidly would ask, "What is it?"

Iowa Matmen To Challenge MSU Today

By GEORGE KAMPLING
Staff Writer

The Iowa Hawkeye wrestling team travels to East Lansing today when it will meet Michigan State, one of its toughest opponents of the season.

The Spartans, who must be tabbed as one of the strongest teams in the conference along with Illinois and Michigan, have only dropped one dual meet this season, won one quadrangular meet and finished third in another.

The only team to beat Michigan State was Pittsburgh, a team which always finishes high in the National Collegiate meet. The Pittsburgh squad won 19-8.

The Spartans have won their other six meets. One of their opponents, Purdue, has faced them three times. They beat Purdue 22-13 in a dual meet and finished ahead of them twice in quadrangular meets.

Coach Dave McCuskey's Iowa team has won five meets in nine starts. The Hawkeyes have a 4-2 conference mark, losing to Illinois and Michigan.

Iowa's top performers going into today's meet are 130-pounder Tom Huff, 8-0-1; Syd Walston, 4-0-1 and co-captain Joe Mullins, 6-2-1, and Steve Combs, 5-2-1.

The next meet for the Hawkeyes will be an afternoon affair next week here against Purdue. It will be the final dual meet before the Big Ten conference championships.

4 Hawklets Advance to Semifinals

CEDAR FALLS (AP) — Defending champion East Waterloo and Davenport Central each placed six qualifiers in the semifinals of the Class A Iowa high school wrestling tournament in Friday's first round preliminaries.

The Waterloo grapplers, however, with eight points, had a one point edge over the Davenport team to enter the Saturday morning semifinals.

Iowa City advanced four wrestlers into the state semifinals and picked up four points in the process.

Three teams, Cresco Crestwood, Mason City and Fort Dodge, had five points and three qualifiers each. Next in line with the points listed first and the number of qualifiers next were:

Bettendorf 4 and 3, Cedar Rapids Jefferson 4 and 3, Davenport West 3 and 2, Charles City, 3 and 2, Council Bluffs Thomas Jefferson 2 and 2, Waterloo West 2 and 2, Cedar Falls 2 and 1, Des Moines East 2 and 1, Clinton 1 and 1, Council Bluffs Abraham Lincoln 1 and 1, Ottumwa 1 and 1 and Dubuque 1 and 1.

In the Class B division of the tournament Brit and Corning each scored five points and advanced five wrestlers to the semifinals.

Iowa Thinclads Beat Northwestern 69-45

Sidney, Fischer Break 2 Iowa, Meet Marks

By JERRY ELSEA
Staff Writer

Iowa's track team trounced Northwestern 69-45 at the Iowa Field House Friday night.

Coach Francis Cretzmeier's thinclads broke two Iowa records and equaled two meet records in winning six of twelve events.

The Hawkeye victory was a reversal of last week's encounter with Northwestern. In a triangular meet here Saturday the Wildcats nudged the Hawks 70½ to 68½. Wisconsin trailed with 33.

Iowa's Gary Fischer shattered the 880-yard record with a stellar 1:54.9 mark. The previous record was 1:55.1 set by Ted Wheeler in 1956.

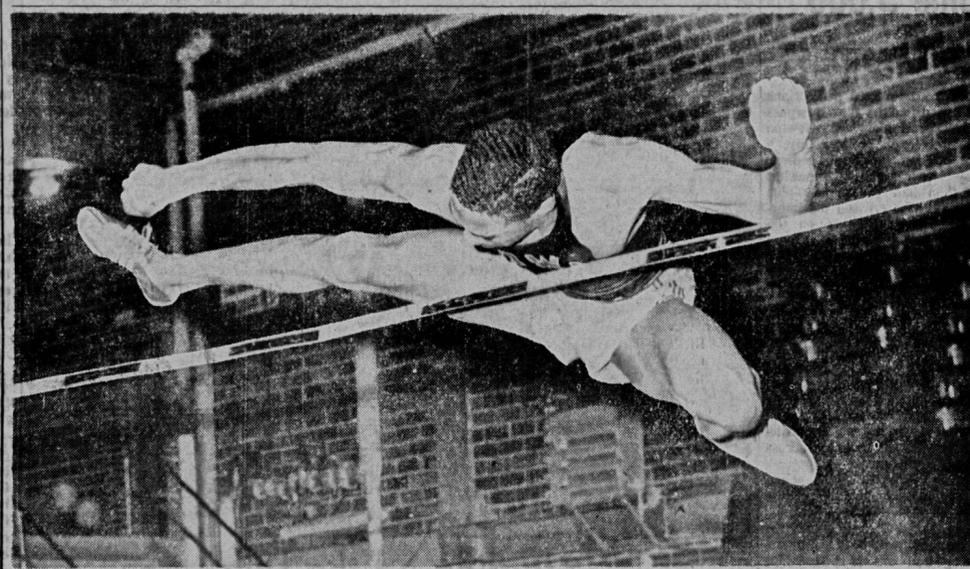

Ralph Trimble placed second in that same race with a 1:55.5 time.

Sophomore high jumper Wes Sidney turned in another record breaking performance. Sidney cleared the bar at 6-8¼, surpassing the previous 6-7 Iowa mark which he set against Northwestern here last week.

Iowa's hurdler Don Gardner equaled the 70-yard low hurdle meet record with a :08 mark. His effort tied the record set by Iowa's Russ Merkel in 1960.

Top scorers for the Hawks were Jim Tucker, distance runner, and Jerry Williams, hurdler. Tucker won easily in both races, posting a 4:22.1 time in the mile and going the two mile distance in 9:39.6.

Williams equaled the Iowa record in the 70-yard high hurdles.

Record No. 1

Sophomore Wes Sidney is shown here as he makes the winning jump to set a new meet, Field House and Iowa record in the high jump event against Northwestern Friday night. Sidney went 6-8¼ to better the former mark of 6-7 which he set last weekend.

Fencers in Tough Duels

By GARY HICKOK
Fencing Editor

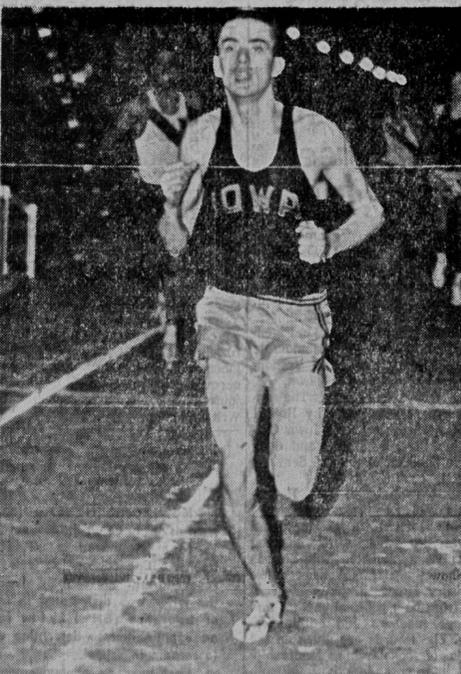

Formidable fencing teams from Wayne State and Illinois threatened the possibility of Iowa raising its 1-6 record to respectability in two dual meets at Champaign today.

The Hawkeyes again will be without the services of Big Ten defending sabre champion Ralph Sauer. Sauer will be absent because of an important law class.

Carrying the load for Iowa will be Bob Peterson, whose 15-6 record in epee competition leads the Hawkeyes. He will be backed up by John Youngerman and Jim Drahovzal in epee and Emil Luft in sabre. Youngerman has a 12-9 record, Drahovzal an 11-10 mark and Luft a 14-7 record.

Defending Big Ten champion Illinois has won four meets and lost two this season. Top fencers for the Illini are Alex Jankowsky in foil and Nicholas Szulha in sabre. Szulha was runnerup to Sauer in last year's conference meet.

Another record-breaker, Gary Fischer, took the 880-yard run in 1:54.9 for an Iowa record and meet mark. Fischer, a sophomore, topped the old record of 1:55.1 set by Ted Wheeler in 1956. Iowa won the meet 69-45.

Writer Reminisces About Life, Legend Of Baseball's Illustrious Dazzy Vance

By STANLEY WOODWARD
Herald Tribune News Service

NEW YORK — Dazzy Vance, Brooklyn's great right-hander who died Thursday after a heart attack at Homosassa, Fla., was unknown personally to this writer until he made his Brooklyn comeback at Orlando in the spring of 1935.

To be technical, i.e., to count three early tryouts, one with the Pirates and two with the Yankees, this was the Dazzler's 18th major-league year. He had been released by St. Louis the previous season.

At this stage of his form Dazzy was undoubtedly bulbous and, as before, his large and purplish nose spread largely over his face. He had clipped his pitching motion to some extent. No longer did he stretch to his toes with both arms and rear back to his heel with his throwing hand, but he gave a very fair imitation of his old style.

He and Ven Lingle Mungo, the Dodger's fire-ball-throwing, fire-water-ingesting right-hander, became friends and frequently warmed up together, pitching alternately to Al Lopez, then the Dodgers' catcher. When he concentrated on one pitch the Dazzler still could put quite a lot on the fast ball.

The thing that seemed to be gone was his curve. In the days when Vance was winning 28 and 22 games for Brooklyn (28 in 1924, 22 in 1925 and '28) his fast curve was one of the most terrifyng pitches in baseball.

It was nearly as fast as his hard one and some right-hand hitters wouldn't stand and wait for it to break. He fanned Hack Wilson seven times in a row, over one stretch and the stocky Chicago clouter never did do him much damage.

Vance went through the season with the Dodgers and it was his last in baseball. He pitched pieces of 20 games and finished a winner, getting credit for three victories and two losses.

Since then almost nothing has been heard from the Dazzler. We have never seen him around any of the Florida baseball camps. He has lived at Homosassa since he was an effective Dodger and used to own a fishing camp there. It may be part of his estate though we heard he had sold it.

Vance made the Hall of Fame about as soon as he was eligible. Among pitchers his name ranks with Johnson, Alexander, Mathewson; among Dodgers with Whet, Rucker and Campanella. He was with the Brooklyn club 11 straight years, most of them prosperous and full of victories.

I wouldn't be surprised, though, if Dazzy remembered most vividly the spring of his come-back year (1935) when the following events occurred:

He and his partner, Al Lopez, were given a series of singularly expensive bridge lessons by Royal Roscoe McGowan and partner, (modestly unidentified).

A rattlesnake was killed in centerfield between the fourth and fifth innings of an exhibition game.

A lady shot her husband in the area behind the press box during another exhibition game. The husband recovered, refused to make a complaint and they lived happily ever after.

The wife of a left-handed rookie pitcher fed the family savings into a slot machine and then swallowed a bottle of sleeping pills. She was pumped out and recovered to sin no more.

Please note — That all these little stories have happy endings except for Lopez, Vance and the rattlesnake.

Mason City J.C. Defeats Muscatine; Moves to Finals

WEBSTER CITY (AP) — Mason City won a 101-95 overtime victory over Muscatine Friday night to move into the title round of the tournament.

Mason City led 48-43 at halftime but Muscatine put on a drive that resulted in a 89-all tie at the end of the regulation period.

Barr Connelly and Joe Cahalan, each with 25 points, topped the Mason City scoring.

Webster City beat Burlington 84-68 in the second semifinal game.

Kennedy Considering Tour Of Hard-Hit Jobless Area

WASHINGTON (HTSS) — President Kennedy is considering a personal inspection trip to a high-unemployment area. While the President was learned Friday.

The President is weighing such a tour as a dramatic move that would give him a first-hand look at a jobless area and also serve to focus attention on his anti-recession program. On Wednesday, Kennedy prodded Congress to act on the measures.

Goldberg, it was learned, has privately urged the President to take an inspection trip to a high-unemployment area. While the President has not reached a decision yet, one likely possibility would be a trip to his native Massachusetts the week of Feb. 26.

Meanwhile, the President asked Congress Friday for an additional appropriation of $33 million to provide unemployment benefits to former federal employes and ex-servicemen during the fiscal year ending June 30. It was among the items in his first budget requests submitted since he took office Jan. 20.

It was understood that Goldberg had urged the President initially to inspect high unemployment areas in the Midwest last week end. The President was unable to go but sent Andrew T. Hatcher, associate White House Press Secretary, as his personal observer to accompany Goldberg on the trip.

These are Massachusetts, West Virginia and Minnesota, where there is much unemployment in the Mesabi Iron Range.

On Monday, when he reported to the President — and also presented a gloomy picture to Democratic Congressional leaders Goldberg reportedly urged Kennedy again to make a personal inspection trip. Goldberg will be in Florida part of next week but may go to Massachusetts the following week. If his suggestion is followed, the President would go, too.

The $33 million requested by the President for federal workers not covered by state unemployment programs would be in addition to the $37 million President Eisenhower asked as a supplemental request Jan. 18. Kennedy also asked Congress to boost by $10 million funds for processing of disability claims, which are running at the rate of 4,000 a week.

The unemployment benefits figures released Friday night showed that the largest increases in those drawing checks were in Illinois, 8,600; California, 7,900; Ohio, 6,400 Michigan, 5,200 and Kentucky, 4,700. The increase pushed the rate of insured unemployment up to 8.3 per cent compared to 8.1 per cent the week before.

The increases, the department said, were due to rising unemployment among construction workers in Illinois; aircraft, construction and cannery workers in California; steel and auto workers in Ohio and auto workers in Michigan. About 45 million workers are eligible for jobless pay under the present federal-state system.

Vows To Be 'Color Blind'

WASHINGTON (HTNS) — Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg promised Friday at a convention of Negro labor leaders that under his management the department of Labor will be "color blind" in hiring and promotions.

Mr. Goldberg told the Negro American Labor Council the Kennedy Administration is pledged to "do everything in its power" to eliminate prejudice, but that it "inherited an inventory of undone tasks." The "national housekeeping," he said, "is not in good order."

Thursday, A. Philip Randolph, head of the Negro American Labor Council, charged the Administration was perpetuating discriminatory employment practices in Government agencies and departments. Among them, he said, were the White House and the Labor Department.

Mr. Goldberg, who rushed to address the NALC conference after testifying before Congress, said he would not "pass judgment" on previous practices in his department without a full investigation. But he promised that the "guiding consideration" under his management "is going to be that we will be color blind in our hiring and upgrading policy from the basement to the secretary's floor."

Lumumba's Aides Battling; Anarchy Rules in Provinces

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (P) — Patrice Lumumba's lieutenants are locked in a desperate struggle for power among themselves and anarchy reigns in the one-third of the Congo they control, intelligence reports said Friday.

Anicet Kashamura, a close adviser of the dead ex-premier, has been dethroned as head of Kivu Province and taken by army escort to Stanleyville, the rebel capital, diplomatic advisers said. He was considered No. 2 behind Communist-backed rebel Premier Antoine Gizenga. But Gizenga himself is reported to be in peril.

Refugees reaching neighboring Ruanda-Urundi from Kivu said Kashamura was beaten before his arrest. They told of terror rising in Bukavu, Kivu capital, with one priest beheaded and other whites molested by unruly rebel soldiers and young nationalists.

Reports reaching Leopoldville said Kashamura was taken to Stanleyville after a falling out with his provincial deputy, Bernardin Diaka.

There was speculation, however, that Kashamura, who considers himself a Socialist, was too soft to play the hard, Communist-style role expected of him in Kivu. Gizenga, whose army put Kashamura in power in Kivu earlier this month, was believed to be in a shaky position because of his lack of a personal political following in Oriental Province.

In the Congo, the allegiance of tribes is strong, and Gizenga, a native of Leopoldville Province, is regarded as a foreigner in Stanleyville.

One claimant mentioned in intelligence reports for Lumumba's chair of authority is Bernard Sautolu, anti-Western commissioner of Stanleyville. Some ministers in President Jean Foster Manzikala's Oriental Government also have been mentioned.

One Western diplomat said the whole picture of rebel chaos and confusion would be changed overnight if the leftists succeed in gaining the support of Sudan. This would open a road for arms and supply shipments to the rebels from their friends in the United Arab Republic.

Up to now the Sudan has been unwavering in refusing to allow supply planes to fly over its territory, or truck convoys to use its roads to the Congolese frontier. The Western diplomat said he has seen no evidence of an imminent change in the Sudan's position.

Economically, the outlook for Kivu and Oriental is not happy. The area is far from self-supporting in food and with Congolese Gen. Joseph Mobutu's effective blockade of the Western borders no regular food imports are getting in.

Lumumba's Widow Seeks Protection

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (P) — The widow of Patrice Lumumba fled to the United Nations for protection Friday as the Congo Government in Leopoldville started a crackdown on supporters of her late husband.

U.N. authorities agreed to fly the 24-year-old widow to Stanleyville, the Lumumbist capital, Saturday along with about 30 of her friends and relatives.

GOP, Demos Oppose Minimum Wage Bill

Kennedy's proposal to increase the minimum wage and extend its coverage met opposition from both sides in Congress Friday.

Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, (D-N.Y.), chairman of the House Labor Committee, voiced open disappointment with the bill and promised to fight to broaden its provisions.

Republicans on the Labor Committee renewed the attack they made on a similar measure in the last Congress, charging it would cause inflation and increase unemployment.

William F. Schnitzler, secretary-treasurer of the AFL-CIO, also joined in the criticism, labeling the administration bill "somewhat disappointing."

Kennedy has recommended boosting the $1-an-hour minimum wage to $1.15 at once, $1.20 next year and $1.25 the following year. He also has asked that 4.3 million additional workers, most of them in retail and service trades, be brought under the law's coverage.

The President has called the bill a key part of his anti-recession program and urged its quick enactment.

But Powell, whose committee opened hearings on the bill, flashed a warning sign at the administration.

"This bill does not measure to what I expected," he said. "I'm afraid there are so many differences between my colleagues that it is going to be difficult to move the bill as rapidly as we had hoped."

The administration's recommendations were presented by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, who described them as moderate and practical.

"This bill strives for the possible, the attainable, rather than the ideal," he said in response to the criticism voiced by Powell and Schnitzler.

"It has been geared to the necessities of the times and necessities of the legislative process."

Cinema 16 To Offer Expressionistic Films

Iowa City Cinema 16, a new organization in experimental and expressionistic films, will offer its first screening March 5 in a series of five programs.

Avoiding the slick, easy-to-follow stories of Hollywood productions, Cinema 16 programs will feature film as it is used to express human relations in new and unusual ways. Story plots will be secondary to the sometimes startling and bizarre compositions, explained Richard Byrne, G. Iowa City, who is heading the organization.

Cinema 16 originates in New York City and will be distributing films for the Iowa City programs. Films by such artists as Maya Derien, Madeline Tourtelet and Norman McLaren may be included in the screenings which are not completely planned yet. A student selection committee will be formed after the first program to choose films for later screenings, according to Byrne.

Playboy magazine describes films shown by Cinema 16 as "far out." As an example of the unusual techniques used in these productions, McLaren is a film experimenter who paints the sound track which he names "synthetic sound" and he also paints directly on the film.

Admission to the Sunday screenings will be permitted by membership tickets only, said Byrne. Seven admissions to the five screenings will be $5 and ten admissions will be $6.

Students interested in joining Iowa City Cinema 16 should notify Byrne or call the Television Center for more detailed information. The place for the film showings is not determined yet.

Purple Hand Thief Sought

A thief with purple hands is the game Iowa City police are hunting, they said Friday.

A money bag containing $12, plus the additional purple dye, had been planted in Cliff Hoag's sporting good store, 943 South Riverside Drive, in an attempt to solve several burglaries in the neighborhood in the last few months.

It was taken last week in a burglary at Hoag's. Police say that when the burglar removed the money from the bag, and later wash his hands, the dye would color his hands purple.

If you see anyone with purple hands, notify police.
