Kennedy Asks Latin-Americans To Join in Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy summoned all of Latin America Monday night to join this nation in a vast 10-year plan to spread hope, freedom and a better life through the Western Hemisphere.

The United States, Kennedy pledged, will do its part "to complete the revolution of the Americas — to build a hemisphere where all men can hope for the same high standard of living, and all can live out their lives in dignity and in freedom."

But, the President cautioned, great dangers as well as great challenges lie ahead, because of "alien forces which once again seek to impose the despotisms of the old world on the people of the new."

At the same time, he repeated words of special friendship for the people of Cuba and the Dominican Republic — with which the United States has broken diplomatic relations. He added his hope they "will soon rejoin the society of free men, uniting with us in our common effort." This common effort, he said, must be in the direction of eliminating "tyranny from a hemisphere in which it has no rightful place."

The new Administration's major pronouncement on policy toward Latin America was delivered by Kennedy at a reception in the East Room of the White House. Some 250 persons were invited — the Latin-American diplomatic corps and wives, representatives to the Organization of American States, members of the Administration and of Congress particularly concerned with relations with the nations of the south.

No representatives of Cuba or the Dominican Republic were invited.

Kennedy said he had just signed a request that Congress appropriate $500 million for a vast cooperative effort with other American nations in a program of economic and social advances. He said this first large scale inter-American effort to attack social barriers that block economic progress was "instituted by my predecessor, President Eisenhower."

Beyond saying he'd start spending an already-projected $500-million Latin-American aid fund as soon as Congress votes it, Kennedy made no mention of costs for the long-term undertaking.

To get the program rolling, Kennedy said he will ask an early meeting of the Inter-American Economic and Social Council to begin detailed planning. This council is an instrument of the OAS.

For Council President— Meet the Candidates

JOHN NIEMEYER
Independent Candidate

JACK GLESENE
IFC Candidate

Jack Glesne, A3, Elkader and John Niemeyer, A4, Elkader, Student Council presidential candidates, Monday released campaign platforms. Candidates for Town Men and Town Women's representatives to the Student Council Legislature also stated platforms.

Glesne, member of the Interfraternity Council, advocates placing a time limit within which the Committee on Student Life would have to act; adopting a "Day of Mercy," whereby students would be given a free day before the first day of final week; extending women's hours; and lowering the minimum age requirement for non-approved student housing from 23 to 21.

Glesne's other planks include: better student seating at athletic events; a physical education program where students would have an option of taking the course for credit or no credit; and action for a low cost student health insurance program.

Glesne, a member of Omicron Delta Kappa honorary fraternity, an orientation leader, and a Union Board member, lists his qualifications as "four years' experience in student activities at SU." He states he is "familiar with committee work and student problems."

Niemeyer, president of the Iowa Forensics Association, advocates establishment of Old Gold Week, an annual event to present programs and lectures to SU/Iowans; reorganization of the Student Organization Commission to help student groups bring entertainment to the campus; establishment of a special committee to investigate high costs; and extension of women's hours.

Niemeyer also recommends equal student representation on the Committee on Student Life; Lower age requirements for unapproved living; and continuation of efforts toward voluntary ROTC.

He lists former campus activities as "helped to organize SUI Young Republicans, SUI representative to Big Ten Student Body President's Conference, and finalist in the Hancher Public Speaking Contest."

Niemeyer now belongs to Young Democrats, is a member of the SUI Newman Club, and a member of the Quadrangle Council.

Espionage Trial Begins in Britain

LONDON (AP) — A jury of 12 men was chosen Monday to hear the case against three men and two women — including a couple the FBI says are Americans — accused of ferreting out British naval secrets for the Soviet Union — including nuclear submarine designs furnished by the United States.

Their trial opened Monday in the Old Bailey courtroom where atom spy Klaus Fuchs was convicted a decade ago. The latest trial is expected to continue about two weeks.

Where's the Blarney Stone? Contradicts Ruling On Polling Booth

Mecca Week Search Begins Sunday Noon

Trail of Clues Lead Engineers to Library, Bridge, Smoke Stack

By JIM CAREY
Staff Writer

Late Monday afternoon, after receiving four clues, SUI engineering students were still hunting for a 30 pound piece of granite called the "Blarney Stone".

The hunt, a traditional part of Mecca Week at SUI began Sunday at noon when engineering students were given their first clue by graduate engineers — a problem in statistics and probability.

Multiplying and dividing, the stone-seeking engineers got a number that graduate said could "be found on Sunday".

"Knowing this narrowed the area down quite a lot by eliminating places that are closed on Sunday, like city offices," Dave Becker, E4, Mecca Week chairman, said.

Sunday at 9 p.m. the second clue was found in the University Library.

"Playing a hunch, we tried the Main Library and discovered a chair with a University inventory number that matched the one we got when we solved the first clue," Becker said.

Found in an envelope taped under a chair, the second clue said: "The ribbons are wide, but a little short. Don't let anything stop you from getting to the end of this."

"We thought maybe this meant the airport runway, but we checked it out and didn't find anything," Becker said.

Thinking of "ribbons" in a concrete form, searchers headed for the Interstate Highway 80 project north of Iowa City.

"About four o'clock Monday morning we found the third clue on the Cedar River bridge, near the end of the Interstate pavement," Becker said.

Taped to the bridge railing, the clue read: "The cards are stacked. Don't let the smoke get in your eyes."

"This clue was supposed to lead to a fourth clue in a smoke stack at Gay's Locker Plant south of Iowa City, but nothing was found there so we were given another clue which we're still working on," Becker said.

The fourth clue is: "Number one night spot."

The elusive stone must be found before the Mecca Smoker Wednesday at 7 p.m.

While looking for the "Blarney Stone", engineering students observed a small, green wooden out-house bearing the inscription "Law Annex" placed near the Law Building.

Engineers' Choices

Room Telephones May Be Banned

The State Board of Regents is considering the possibility of banning room telephone service in student dormitories at all state institutions.

The board on Friday halted the installation of telephones in dormitories at Iowa State University, to permit a committee a month's study of the condition.

The board had approved telephone service for all ISU dormitories in a split vote last November.

Board Member Lester Gillette, Postoria, said "it is desirable to keep dormitory rates as reasonable as possible and the presence of a telephone in each dormitory room is neither necessary nor desirable."

"I don't believe the presence of a telephone in a dormitory room enhances a student's ability to assimilate a college education," he said.

President Virgil M. Hancher said Monday night that he was sure that people could get a college education without a phone in the room, but he wasn't sure that one's presence hindered a student.

"If they want to prevent putting phones in new dormitories, that's a different issue," he said, "but it's odd that they should consider taking the phones out of dormitories where they have already been installed."

All SUI dormitories have had room telephones for the last 30 years, while ISU dormitories have had telephones only in the corridors.

At Iowa State Teachers College, Cedar Falls, a dormitory for junior and senior women, Campbell Hall, is the only one having room telephones.

Two of the ISU dormitories have been completely wired for room phones and the telephone company is working on a third.

"We couldn't get any sillier than to reverse ourselves with the work two-thirds done," said Maurice Crabbe, board member from Eagle Grove, of the ISU stalemate.

President James H. Hilton of ISU said the room telephones weren't his idea. He said the students voted in favor of them knowing it would add $24 a year to their dormitory rates.

Gillette said that counting all students, including those that failed to vote, less than 60 per cent of the girls and less than 45 per cent of the boys voted for room telephones.

Mrs. Joseph Rosenfield, board member from Des Moines, said of the voting, "I never did see putting this to a vote of the students. If we asked them if they wanted a TV set in every room, wouldn't they vote for that too?"

"Is this a necessary expense of education?" she asked "I can't see how it is. If we deny it to those who can afford it, have we really denied them anything important?"

Mrs. Rosenfield said that if students can afford to pay more for their college education, the money should go for higher tuition, instead of telephones, so the money could be used for an educational purpose.

Other suggestions made by board members were to authorize students to install private telephones at their individual expense, or that students have a choice of dormitories with or without room phones.

ISU officials said the institution would avoid many problems by having either all rooms with phones or none.

Victor Feguer Is Sentenced To Gallows

WATERLOO (AP) — Victor Feguer, described by relatives as plotting the perfect crime even as a youth, was sentenced Monday to die on the gallows.

Feguer, 25, itinerant from St. Johns, Mich., was convicted Sunday of kidnaping Dr. Edward R. Barrels, 34, Dubuque physician, last July 11. The doctor was slain.

The sentencing by U.S. District Judge Henry H. Graven was a formality since the jury of 10 men and 2 women had recommended the death penalty — by hanging in Iowa.

The defendant's court-appointed attorneys said they would appeal to the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis. If the verdict is upheld, Judge Graven will then set a date for execution, to be carried out at the Iowa Penitentiary.

Feguer, a former Michigan convict, remained unemotional to the end. His first words in court came Monday when the judge asked him if he had anything to say. "No, I do not," he replied.

The trial was transferred here because of strong feelings in Dubuque over the doctor's death.

Up-to-Date Campaign

OXFORD, England (AP) — Oxford University was urged Monday to get up to date and stop barring undergraduates from driving, flying — even in a chariot — and going into a shop that sells tobacco.

All these practices are specifically forbidden in old university regulations which nobody has ever bothered to repeal. Nobody bothers to obey them, either.

The campaign for wholesale repeal of archaic rules was launched by Keith Thomas, an undergraduate who edits a publication called the Oxford magazine.

"University regulations," he said in a hard-hitting editorial, "should be reasonable measures to meet contemporary circumstances, not a picturesque hang-over from the 17th century."

Oxford University was founded long before that, in the 12th century, and its regulations are issued annually in a memorandum written in Latin.

Thomas ridiculed such rules as the one that prohibits students from entering a tobacconist's shop — unless for an urgent reason approved by the university chancellor.

The statute on vehicles, literally translated from the Latin, says "that all scholars shall abstain from the use of vehicles in which they themselves are carried as drivers, by whatsoever name they may be called, unless license is granted by anyone because of ill health or any reasonable cause."

In 1930 the university proctors decreed no scholar "shall ascend into the air in a chariot during term time without leave of the proctors."

University authorities placidly ignored the challenge.

The Student Council Court Monday ruled that it has no power to interpret the Council's constitution. The decision contradicted one made Saturday that a Council amendment to a report presented by Mike Gilles, chairman of the elections committee, was invalid.

Gilles' report was amended at last Wednesday night's Council meeting to include a voting booth in the Field House for the March 22 All-Campus Elections. At Saturday morning's Court session, Gilles asked for a clarification of his committee's powers.

The Court held that Section 3, Article A of the Code of Student Life which states: "The Student Council Elections Committee shall promulgate rules and regulations to govern the All-Campus Elections which shall constitute the statutory law of this Court," should be interpreted that the Committee has the power to make and enforce election rules.

The Court said Saturday that these rules may be presented to Student Council in the form of a report which may be either accepted or rejected but not amended.

The Court also cited its right to make the decision in Section 3, Article B of the Code, which provides that the Court shall hear all cases of election irregularities, discrepancies and election procedural errors.

In making the decision Monday, the Court said the amendment was a procedural dispute within the Council body, over which the Court has no jurisdiction.

The Saturday decision was appealed to the Court Monday by Jerry Lutz, Council vice president, and Bill King, Quadrangle president. Lutz said that the proper Council officers had not been notified of Saturday's proceedings and were not present when the case was discussed.

Gilles said that he had notified the campaign managers of Jack Glesne and John Niemeyer, candidates for Council president. Neither candidate was present or represented at Saturday's Court.

Ron Anderson, Niemeyer's campaign manager, said Monday night that he was told only that Gilles was going to ask for a clarification of the word "promulgate." Gilles replied that he made the possible ramifications of the action clear to Anderson and that Anderson said at the time he would have Bill King attend the Court.

King said he knew nothing of the meeting. Bob Downer, Council president, agreed with Gilles that Anderson knew what was to be discussed by the Court.

King and Lutz both said that Anderson was the wrong person to notify about the meeting. Lutz said that he as vice-president, or Jack Elkin, parliamentarian, should have been notified.

King said that Anderson's only role in the passage of the amendment was to introduce it for King. Andersen introduced the amendment, moved the question, led discussion, and lobbied with other Council members for the amendment before the Council meeting.

The amendment was sponsored by a group of dormitory leaders. It was supported by the dormitory representatives to Council, and opposed by Interfraternity Council and Pan-hellenic representatives, while town and married student representatives split their support.

King said that Gilles had promised a polling booth in the Field House at a meeting of the election committee, but later withdrew the promise. Gilles replied that further study showed the addition of a booth to be unfeasible. He cited a letter from Dirck Brown, counselor to men, which recommended fewer polling places, and more and better-trained personnel.

After the Court's decision Monday, Gilles said that there will be a booth in the Field House. "They have made this into a political issue, which it should never have become," he said.

U.S.-Soviet Talks Fail To Limit Session

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko conferred for more than an hour Monday but apparently failed to reach an agreement on shortening the U.N. General Assembly agenda.

Diplomatic sources took the view that the assembly now faces at least six weeks of debate on a number of issues, including the Congo crisis, disarmament, race segregation policies of the Union of South Africa and the Palestine refugee problem.

Stevenson called on Gromyko at the Soviet U.N. mission on Park Avenue, then went directly to a meeting with David Ormsby-Gore, British minister of state, to give him a fill-in.

Britain had associated itself with the United States in efforts to defer cold war issues until the 16th session of the General Assembly opens next September.

There was no announcement of progress in the week-long negotiations.

Faced by that situation, assembly President Frederick H. Boland of Ireland was expected to begin consultations on getting the stalled assembly back into business.

The Security Council meets again Tuesday on Liberia's complaint that Portugal is violating human rights in its West African territory of Angola.

Thus there was little prospect that the assembly would get down to business before Wednesday or Thursday.

Stevenson suggested last Tuesday, the opening day of the resumed session, that the assembly avoid cold war issues and limit itself to discussion of the Congo crisis and other essential house-keeping items.

Tickets Almost Gone
All tickets have been distributed for Friday and Saturday performances of Studio Theatre's "Camino Real," a play by Tennessee Williams.

A small number of tickets remains for the opening night performance Thursday.

Tickets are available at the Theatre ticket reservation desk in the East Lobby of the Iowa Memorial Union. Students may obtain tickets with I.D. cards, and admission for others is 75 cents.

The Daily Iowan is written and edited by students and is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four trustees appointed by the president of the University.

Cutting Down Costs

The State Board of Regents has temporarily halted the installation of telephones in dormitory rooms at Iowa State University and have mentioned the possibility of removing telephones in the dorms at SUU. This would be done in the interest of holding down student costs.

The board's action is heartening, not because we have anything against the dorm residents enjoying the convenience of phone service in their rooms, but it shows a recognition of one of the biggest problems facing our state universities.

The cost of a higher education is becoming greater every day. A large part of this cost is due to "educational frills" such as telephones and maid service in the dorms. The Regents are trying to do something about it.

Board member Lester Gillette, of Fosteria, got to the crux of the matter when he asked recently, "Is this (telephones) a necessary expense of education?"

Is the added luxury to those who can afford it important enough if the smallest possibility exists that the added cost of such a luxury will put a higher education beyond the reach of someone?

The strongest argument for the installation of telephones at ISU is the fact the dorm residents there voted for them. Another board member, Mrs. Joseph Rosenfield, of Des Moines, reflected our opinion of this: "If we asked them if they wanted a TV set in every room, wouldn't they vote for that, too?"

They probably would. The students now living in the dorms can undoubtedly afford the increased cost. Why not put the question to a vote of the pre-college generation or their parents who are looking with apprehension on the rising costs of a higher education?

Elimination of telephones would represent only a minor cut in the dorm rates, but the Regents' action is a sincere attempt to keep expenses down when, in Iowa and all over the country the trend is going the other way.

Without Purpose

Three of the four house governments in Burge Hall faced a big problem last week. None of their screening committees had enough coeds apply for executive positions in dorm government for the 1961-62 school year. In Daley House, where many upperclassmen live, ten girls indicated they wanted to run for offices on the house council. A minimum of 18 applicants are needed if there are to be two candidates for each elected office.

What is the cause of this apathy? In answer, we ask this question: What would happen if there was no dorm government? Nothing, for nothing is happening with dorm government functioning.

Several years ago the 150 girls living temporarily in Commons decided to disband their councils and committees until they were moved and settled in the new dorm, Burge Hall. During the interim between the dismissal of their organization and the beginning of the moving process, the coeds formed only the government they needed: a judiciary board to interpret rules and a social committee to plan activities.

We realize that there is bound to be less organizational red tape in smaller living units. In SUU's large women's dorms, a major reason for the coeds lack of interest in their government is that they see little purpose for many of the boards, committees, and councils.

When there is purpose, sometimes there is little challenge. Some of the boards, which list from five to twelve members in their ranks, do jobs such as keeping a bulletin board up-to-date and planning parties twice a year to honor girls who have made a 3.0 or above GPA. Although these are worthwhile activities, the time, energy and thought of five or ten coeds are not needed to accomplish them successfully.

We suggest that the women's dorm officers sit down tonight to evaluate the needs and purposes of dorm government, and then eliminate frills, combine duties, and form more compact, significant governing groups.

When residents recognize the usefulness of the governmental organizations, the screening boards will receive many more applications from women leaders interested in trying to meet the needs of their constituents in the dormitories.

Republican Magazine - At Harvard

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Harvard College does not have to be satisfied with naming the Kennedy Administration with Democratic professors.

It is also naming a new magazine with Republican students and giving the party the stimulus of vigorous, youthful intellectual leadership which it has been needing for a long time.

When three young men from Cambridge, Mass., came to Washington a few days ago, they did not go to the White House to see Prof. Schlesinger or Dr. Galbraith. They did not seek out President Kennedy's very own Massachusetts Senator, Benjamin A. Smith II. They went directly to the office of an authentic New England Republican, Sen. Leverett Saltonstall whom Massachusetts voters seem to prefer, 4 to 1, over any other brand.

These three Harvard students, who were in search of nothing except a chance to be heard, conferred with Republican hill leaders, including Sen. Thurston Morton, chairman of the Republican National Committee, and held a press conference without even tripping over a missile gap.

The purpose of the new Harvard-student magazine, "Advance," is to espouse the politics of "progressive Republicanism." The three most active in its creation are publisher Bruce Chapman of Illinois, editor George Gilder and business manager Robert Beal, both of Massachusetts.

They made it clear that they are just as Republican as they are progressive. The practical initiative they are taking to provide a new forum for their ideas suggests no state of shock over the election and no preoccupation with "might have beens."

The editors of "Advance" are not connected with any formal Republican organization. The initial money came from some 200 Republican leaders in different parts of the country. The editors retain total control of the magazine's policy and their hope is to stimulate the Republican party in the 'sixties to find positive answers to political and social problems.

"It is imperative," they contend, "that the Republican party help direct the future of America with programs that are both progressive and consistent with the best Republican traditions, that the party be a leader in its own right, instead of reluctantly being dragged down the path of history in the trial of some new deal or new frontier."

"While we eschew the doctrines of the New Frontier, we emphatically deny the tired nineteenth century formulas of arch-conservatism. We are if anything, 'flaming moderates' avoiding both the welfare state and primitive state."

When the editors of "Advance," as shown by the first issue, apply their broad principles to practical affairs, they support the progressive wing of the Republican party in Congress - Case, Saltonstall, Cooper, etc. They look with favor upon the nomination of either Richard Nixon or Nelson Rockefeller in 1964. They are critical of what they consider the overly "dogmatic" views of Goldwater, but argue that one of the virtues of the Republican party is that it is not "committed to rigid ideologies," while the Democratic party "is closely wed to the narrow point of view of unadulterated liberalism."

These young Republicans think - and hope - that the Nixon and Rockefeller forces will not split apart. They figure it would be a great mistake for either to do anything which would enable the extreme right to acquire control of the party.

It has recently become fashionable to argue that there is a great rise of rightist opinion among students. Maybe there is a move from the extreme left. But the new Harvard Republican magazine hews strongly to the center. It bespeaks the cause of the positive moderate.

Make-good service on missed papers is not possible, but every effort will be made to correct errors with the next issue.

Student Democratic Slate Announced for Elections

To the Editor:

The purpose of this letter is to announce the formation of the Student Democratic SLATE. The Student Democratic SLATE is an association of students who are supporting a slate of candidates, under a single platform, for the student elections to be held March 22. The original initiative for such an association came from the Socialist Discussion Club, and it was soon joined by members of the Young Democrats and other interested individuals. The slate of candidates is composed of students from these three categories. It should be made absolutely clear that the Student Democratic SLATE is not obligated to any particular campus group, but rather it is an association of individuals with the interests of the entire student population in mind, who are concerned with the nature and the role of student government here at SUU.

It might be explained to those to whom the name "SLATE" rings a bell that the Student Democratic SLATE has no official relation to the student movement, known as SLATE, organized by the students at the University of California in Berkeley. However, in so far as we understand it, the California SLATE movement was a liberal movement to increase the voice and effectiveness of student government. With this goal we are in full accord. With that and the fact of our slate of candidates in mind we adopted the name Student Democratic SLATE.

Our primary purpose is to increase the strength, effectiveness, and democracy of student government. There are over 10,000 students at SUU constituting almost one-third of the total Iowa City population. However, due to the transient nature of the student population, with the great majority of students here four years at the most, there is a lack of student organization to effectively voice and take action toward attaining student goals.

The major channel for the expression of the student voice at present is the Student Council, which, along with most of the other student governmental positions and boards, has fallen, by default, to a group who, though organized, constitute only 12 per cent of the student population. Too often, unfortunately, student government positions have been looked upon as honorary posts rather than positions from which to express student opinions and correction of English. But most persons who wish to come to the United States for study or work can benefit greatly from speech correction. We will master the native language of a particular country just as do other members of the corps. U.S. literature on speech defects and corrective procedures can be translated. Clinics and teaching programs can be set up.

In conclusion I state that as a speech correctionist I would consider very seriously membership in Kennedy's Peace Corps.

Psychologists say normal persons have fewer food dislikes than the emotionally disturbed.

Meet the Candidates—

Student Council Hopefuls' Platforms

Town Men candidates for election to the Student Council Legislature Jim Rogers, A2, Urbana, Ill.; Dick Hall, B3, Cedar Rapids; and K. Don Schultz, L1, Burlington, endorse the same platform.

Rogers, Hall and Schulz favor the enlarging of the Student Council for better representation from the student body; encourage appropriation of funds for airing student views in the Iowa General Assembly; urge increased student representation on the Committee on Student Life; and undertake to re-establish an active Town Men organization.

They also advocate revision of CPC by popular election of officers and removal of its monopoly, allowing other student groups to import entertainment; urge lower age requirements for apartment housing; favor creation of a "day of mercy"; and want better seating for students at athletic events.

In order to ease the passing of Student Council resolutions through the Committee on Student Life and President Hancher, Rogers, Hall, should take one stand on a particular issue during the course of one semester; and a deadline should be placed for action on a resolution by the Committee on Student Life and President Hancher.

Town Men candidates supporting the Student Democratic Slate, platform proposed by the Socialist-Discussion Club and the Young Democrats, are: Al Lee, G, Louisville, Ky.; Peter Donhowe, A3, Story City; Brian Peterson, A1, Des Moines; and Frank Verges, G, Chicago.

The candidates advocate abolition of compulsory ROTC; student majority on the Committee on Student Life, and open meetings of that committee; abolition of the

Bartley Fined For Contempt

Attorney William Bartley was fined $50 Monday by District Judge James P. Gaffney on a contempt of court charge growing out of Bartley's conduct during a manslaughter trial last week.

Bartley was the defense attorney for James P. Musack, convicted by a District Court jury Friday in the auto accident death of a 2½ month old child last October.

The contempt of court charge was based on Bartley's questioning of Mrs. Beulah Gerot of Riverside, grandmother of the child who was killed in the accident.

Judge Gaffney said it was the first time in 23 years on the bench that he has imposed a contempt sentence on an attorney under such circumstances.

"If such conduct continues in my court, I will impose not only a fine but a jail sentence," the judge told Bartley. "A lawyer's conduct should always be exemplary, courteous and respectful to the court."

Bartley apologized but said the testimony he sought from Mrs. Gerot was important to the defense case.

'Beginning Another Age,' Hancher Tells Convention

"We may be living at the end of one age and the beginning of another," SUI President Virgil M. Hancher said Sunday, "but there is no clear conviction as to what that new age will be."

Hancher addressed the regional convention of the American Association of School Administrators in St. Louis.

No longer in these United States do we rest secure behind the Atlantic and Pacific oceans as we did in World War I and in much of World War II, the SUI president said. They are our frontiers no longer.

Now we can read airline schedules and become aware that the shortest route to the Orient is by way of Alaska and the shortest route from Europe to California is by way of the polar regions.

The impact of the new age becomes bitterly clear when air defense stations are established in Iowa, Minnesota and Wisconsin, and missile launching pads are constructed in Iowa, Hancher said.

We who once lived in security far from the sea know of a certainty that we are now upon our country's northern border and that dangers as grave as ever threaten us from the east or the west now threaten us from the north beyond the Pole, he said.

Top Kennedy Officials Moving to Georgetown

WASHINGTON (AP) - Top Kennedy administration officials appear to be avoiding buying or renting housing in racially or religiously restricted areas of Washington.

As a result, many of them are winding up in the historic Georgetown section where President Kennedy last week sold the home where he had lived as a senator before he moved into the White House.

Houses are selling or renting there at what local real estate operators regard as top prices while homes in swank northwest Washington areas, which have coveted restrictions, have not moved so fast.

Dean Huit To Tell Rewards of Study

M. L. Huit, dean of students, will discuss rewards of scholarship at the Junior Panhellenic meeting today at 4:30 in Shambaugh Auditorium.

Following the discussion, Joan Baldwin, A4, Homewood, Ill., adviser to Junior Panhellenic, will present the scholarship cup to the sorority pledge class with the highest grade point average for the first semester.

Anne Parham, A3, Kirkwood, Mo., president of Junior Panhellenic, will conduct the meeting. All sorority pledges are invited to attend.

One of the games theatre-goers play is to guess what product the commercial will eventually advertise.

A girl and boy might be out in the Bois de Boulogne kissing each other and then the girl sits up and says: "Wait, we haven't had our yogurt yet." Or Louis XVI might be shown very agitated in the Palace of Versailles and we only discover later that it's because someone stole his instant coffee. A mechanic may be working on a new sports car and then wash his hair with his favorite shampoo, or a policeman may stop a pretty girl for a traffic violation, but after he sees her legs, lets her go because she's wearing the right kind of nylons. All this makes waiting for the feature a pleasure.

After the commercials are over the house lights still are not dimmed because the usherettes now go up and down the aisles selling ice cream, candy and bonbons. This takes 15 minutes. Finally, when the last sale is made, the house lights go out and the news goes on.

The news is usually a minute of Gen. de Gaulle arriving or leaving a monument, a few seconds of a news story such as the Congo or Algeria, five minutes of bicycle races, and ten minutes devoted to a new power station that has just been opened in the Pyrenees by the French Government.

Then there is a short, maybe two shorts and finally, the main feature. Until the main feature starts, the theatre has been very quiet, but the appearance of the titles on the main feature is the signal for the usherettes to start talking to each other and the customers.

Now, as we said, there is usually just one scene in a French picture that everyone goes to the theatre to see. The rest of the picture is dull and uninteresting. The couple have already gone swimming at midnight and finally the guy is in the bedroom with the girl and he knows and she knows and we know that in just a matter of seconds, just a matter of — when, suddenly, four people come down the aisle with the usherette leading them. She seats them in front of you, shining the flashlight in your eyes, and while they take off their coats and one of them digs in his pockets for the tip — it's too late. For as your eyes get adjusted to the screen again, all that's left of the scene is the girl crying on the bed and the guy stomping out and slamming the door.

Patterson Knocks Out Ingo in 6th Round

Floyd, Floored Twice In First, Retains Title

By JACK HAND

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Floyd Patterson fought back from two first-round knockdowns to knock out Sweden's Ingemar Johansson in 2:45 of the sixth round Monday night and retain his heavyweight title. The fight was filled with explosive punches.

The handsome Swede, who also was felled once in the first round, went down from a chopping right hand punch to the jaw late in the sixth. He started to get up but fell back as Referee Billy Regan counted 10. He almost made the grade.

Patterson, fighting to retain the crown he won back in unprecedented fashion last June, had his legs buckled in the third round and was shaken up again early in the sixth before he put over the crusher.

Knockdown time keeper Hy (Scotty) Lang said Johansson came up on one knee at nine but then fell back at the count of 10. "He started twisting as he got up," said Lang. "He tripped over himself and fell back at the final count."

This third meeting of the two slugging heavyweights was an eyeopener while it lasted. Patterson, a 4 to 1 favorite who was expected to flatten the Swede quicker than he did last summer, was in real trouble in the first round.

Patterson ran into Johansson's famed "toonder" right midway in the first round and went down. Although he was up at three, he had to take an automatic eight count under the rules of the Miami Beach Boxing Commission.

Sensing a chance to regain the gold and glory that goes with the ring's most highly regarded title, Johansson swarmed over Patterson and dropped him again with a right uppercut to the chin. Once again Patterson popped up quickly at a count of three. Again he had to take the automatic eight.

However, Patterson slammed back with both hands and dumped the Swede with the same type of left hook that destroyed him last June. Johansson was up quickly this time at two. He also took the automatic eight.

After the near-disaster of that shocking first round that drew oohs and aahs from the crowd, Patterson corrected himself and began to come on.

At the end of five rounds, all three officials had Patterson out in front on points in the National Boxing Association's 10-point must system of scoring.

Referee Regan had Patterson on top 40-47. Judge Carl Gardner saw it 48-47 for the champ and Judge Gus Jacobson saw it 49-47 for Patterson. The AP card had Johansson on top 48-44.

Patterson fell down as he missed a fight in the second and slipped down again in the third after scoring with some solid left hooks.

The champ's hooks piled up points and began to wear down Ingemar in the fourth and fifth as he went to the attack with both hands.

Patterson Says, 'I'm Not Satisfied'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — World heavyweight champ Floyd Patterson shook his battered and bloody head Monday night as if trying to release the hammering in his ears, and whispered:

"I'm not satisfied. I could have fought better. But he nailed me in the first round and I was groggy for a long time after that. It happened so fast... so fast..."

The reporters crowding around the victorious champion could barely hear him, he spoke so low. His left eye was closed tight, an ugly two-inch gash still gushing blood over the eyebrow with the lower lid puffed three times its normal size.

When he opened his mouth to speak, blood formed on his lips. It was difficult to believe that Patterson had only a few moments before knocked out challenger Ingemar Johansson in the sixth round of one of the most bruising championship fights in many years.

"He surprised me," Patterson said softly. "I expected him to fight just like he did in the second fight. He was cautious then. This time he came out swinging. Before I knew what was happening, he hit me with that right."

"It took the zip right out of me. It sort of knocked out all my plans. I knew I had to get him before he got me. He fought like a champion. I was confused. I didn't know whether to press him, to box him or to let him box me."

Johansson—'Too Anxious'

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A smiling, cordial Ingemar Johansson, benefiting from more than an hour in which to compose himself in his dressing room, said, "I thought I was up in time, and I'm sorry I wasn't."

Describing his sixth round knock-out by Floyd Patterson Monday night, he said:

"It was a series, a combination of hooks — and then that right to the back of the head."

"When he (Referee Bill Regan) say eight, I get a little too anxious," said the Swede as he set in front of a microphone in a side arena at Convention Hall. "I get a little too anxious and I fell."

Speaking of the first round, in which he startled everyone in the hall by dropping Patterson twice, Johansson said he started as he had planned in training.

"It was my plan to get him fast," Ingo explained. "I was figuring he would try to come on at me, as he did before. And I wanted to meet him with his own weapon."

New Post For Weiss

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — George Weiss, retired general manager of the New York Yankees, Tuesday will be appointed president of the new New York club of the National League, the Associated Press learned Monday night.

Weiss refused to confirm or deny the appointment.

"We have been negotiating and will have an announcement Tuesday," he said when contacted here. A news conference has been called for Tuesday and the official appointment will be revealed then.

The Associated Press also learned that Casey Stengel, who was retired by the Yanks as manager after last year's World Series, is not involved in the move. There had been rumors that Stengel would be appointed manager of the new team.

Weiss still has a 5-year contract with the Yanks at half salary that prevents him from taking a general manager's job with another team while it is in force. He is receiving an estimated $35,000 a year.

Don Nelson Sets 3 Marks

Breaks Scoring Total Held By Chuck Darling

Iowa center Don Nelson made his mark among the all-time greats of Iowa basketball as he finished the current season by breaking three scoring records.

Nelson scored 23 points against Northwestern Saturday night to raise his scoring total for the season to 570 points, nine more than the previous record of 561 set in 1951-52 by Chuck Darling.

Nelson also ended the season with a total of 176 free throws, breaking the old mark of 153, another Darling-held record.

The 6-6 junior from Rock Island, Ill., notched a third record by hitting 197 field goals out of 377 attempts, good for an accuracy mark of .521. The old record was .470, set by Bill Seaberg in the 1953-54 season.

Nelson, with 570 points this year and 380 last season, has placed himself in line for the career scoring mark of 1188 points, a record held jointly by Bill Logan and Dave Gunther.

The scoring ace needs an average of 10 points a game next season, low when compared to his past performances, to break the Logan-Gunther mark.

Nelson finished the season as the third-highest scorer in the Big Ten, trailing only Jerry Lucas of Ohio State and Terry Dischinger of Purdue. He was named to the All-Big Ten team and received honorable mention for All-America rating.

Marshalltown, Calumet Win

Little Calumet sailed into ships Monday night along with defending champion Marshalltown the boys state basketball champion and six other big schools who won sub-state finals.

Calumet, runnerup in last year's Class B tournament when the championships were a two-class affair, shocked Sioux City East 59-49 to gain the finals of this year's one-class affair.

However, Churdan, the other Class B team bidding for a berth in the Des Moines meet, was sidelined when it suffered its first defeat in 27 starts this season at the hands of Ames, 76-58.

Marshalltown held off a late rally by Des Moines Roosevelt for a 57-56 victory at Des Moines in the Bobcats' toughest test of the qualifying games for the state meet.

Joining Marshalltown, Ames and Calumet in the championships will be Manning, Davenport Assumption, Fairfield, East Waterloo and Mason City.

Manning ran its record to 22-1 with a surprisingly easy 69-58 victory over Creston, which also had carried a 21-1 record into the game. Ron Jessen, Creston's great scorer, hit 22 points in the losing game.

Assumption ousted Cedar Rapids Washington 51-48 in a close battle between the two eastern Iowa powers at Iowa City.

Fairfield upped its record to 18-3 with a 69-54 victory over Ottumwa after the losers had led until the final quarter.

East Waterloo, which slumped in late season play but hit its stride when the tournament drive started ripped Waverly 88-48. East carried an 18-4 record into the state meet.

Mason City stopped Britt 73-58 and ran its record to 16-6.

Iowa Trackmen Place In 2 Weekend Meets

By JERRY ELSEA Staff Writer

Iowa's track team scored second places in the mile run, the mile and 2 mile relays and third in the high jump at the Milwaukee Journal Invitational Saturday night.

Twenty-four hours earlier in Chicago, Coach Francis Cretzmeier's 10 man crew scored in relays at the Chicago Daily News Invitational.

"Everybody did a good job," said Cretzmeier Monday. "The 2 mile relay team can still run a lot better. They ought to break 7:40," he added.

The mile relay foursome of Bernie Wyatt, Roger Kerr, Tom Hyde, and Don Gardner finished second Saturday in an almost dead heat with Wisconsin. Officials timed both teams at 3:24.5 but the Badger runner's chest hit the tape an instant before Iowa's Kerr.

Kerr, far behind at the start of his anchor lap, nearly caught the leader while posting a 49.7 time. The relay team finished third at Chicago Friday in 3:23.7.

The two-mile relay team placed second at Milwaukee with 7:43.8. The Hawks' time was third best for the evening as two separate races were run. Iowa's Gary Fischer, Big Ten 1000-yard run champion, lost a close race to Michigan's Ergas Leps in the anchor leg.

Individual times in each 880-yard distance were Don Greenlee, 1:56.7; Bill Mawe, 1:55.3; Ralph Trimble, 1:55.7; and Fischer, 1:55.1.

Friday night at Chicago the two milers took third with a 7:43.7 time. Jim Tucker, anchoring for the Hawks, edged out the Notre Dame anchor man, Ron Gregory, at the finish line. Tucker's time was 1:53.4. Mawe posted a 1:58.5, Trimble, 1:56.3, and Fischer, 1:55.5. Tucker, a cross-country All-American, took second in the mile record at 6 ft., 8 1/4-in. Indiana's Reggie Sheppard claimed first clearing the bar at 6-ft. 9 1/2-in.

WYATT KERR

Sophomore Wes Sidney placed third at Milwaukee with a 6 ft. 6 in. leap. Sidney holds the Iowa record at 6 ft., 8 1/4-in. Indiana's Reggie Sheppard claimed first clearing the bar at 6-ft. 9 1/2-in.

Bernie Wyatt and Kerr were the most consistent performers on the mile relay team. Wyatt turned in times of :50.5 and :38.1. Kerr's sizzling 49.7 Saturday and 49.4 Friday led all Hawks' quarter-milers.

Former Illinois runner George Kerr Saturday bettered the 1000-yard American indoor mark with 2:08.1. Kerr's mark was one-tenth of a second better than previous co-holders Don Gehrmann, 1952, and Arnie Sowell three years later.

Bright idea with a glowing future

At Gen Tel, research is put to work to advance communications through sight as well as sound. The dial of our compact STARLITE® phone, for example, utilizes an entirely new source of light that marks a milestone in visual communications. Called PANELESCENT® (electroluminescent) lighting, it produces light without heat, has no bulb to turn on and off, and costs less than 1¢ a year for electricity.

Pioneered and developed by the Lighting Products Division of our subsidiary, Sylvania, this dramatic new light opens up almost infinite product possibilities in sight communication. Already it is being used for clock faces, radio dials, auto instrument panels and road signs.

And, through the development of an ingenious "cross-grid" design, electroluminescent panels are now capable of reproducing alpha-numeric "read-outs" for electronic computers. This achievement, in fact, may one day lead to "flat wall" TV.

It is another example of the way General Telephone & Electronics coordinates the scientific and engineering leadership of many divisions in order to make communications progress on all fronts.

Hawks Dump Northwestern In Last Game

Joe Reddington's jump shot with 17 seconds left and 23 points by Don Nelson highlighted Iowa's 63-62 win over Northwestern Saturday at Evanston in the final game of the season for both teams.

The victory preserved Iowa's tie for second place with Purdue in the final Big Ten standings. The Boilermakers beat Wisconsin 88-81.

Iowa led a 31-30 lead at half-time and led by a 50-41 score midway through the second half, but the scoring of Northwestern guards Ralph Wells and Bill Caciatore boosted the Wildcats to a 60-57 lead with three minutes left in the game.

A minute later, after Northwestern had taken a 62-59 lead, two free throws by Nelson set the stage for Reddington's game winning bucket.

Northwestern had another chance to score, but Reddington tied up Caciatore and the Hawks controlled the jump to end the game.

The Hawkeyes had a well-balanced scoring attack. Backing up Nelson's 23 points were Matt Szykowny with 11, Joe Novak and Gary Lorenz with 8, Dennis Runge with 7, and Reddington with 6.

The win boosted Iowa's record to 13-6 for the season, best since the Fabulous Five of 1955-56 won 22 and lost 6.

Different Teams, Same Slogan

Sharm Scheuerman, shown looking at a picture of Iowa's 1955-56 Big Ten Championship team, of which he was a member, used the slogan in the picture, and one similar to it, in directing the Hawkeyes to an 18-6 season record this year. Members of the team in the

Coach Looks Back at Season—

Sharm: 'Never Prouder'

By JIM TUCKER
Assistant Sports Editor

"A coach could never be more proud of a group of boys than I am of this group right now," said Hawkeye coach Sharm Scheuerman as he thought back over Iowa's just-ended basketball season.

"That win over Northwestern certainly typified our whole season, and I feel it was the icing that the cake should have," he continued.

He was referring to Iowa's comeback behind 63-62 victory over the Wildcats Saturday night.

"We viewed this season as a '50-50 year,'" said Scheuerman. "We came a long quite well in the first six weeks and learned a lot in the non-conference season."

The Hawks lost only one game in that period, a 61-55 decision to St. Louis. The highlight was a smashing 105-64 win over Arizona. Iowa's 105 points set a new Hawkeye record.

"We grew up a lot on the West Coast by winning a real tough tournament over Christmas vacation," said Scheuerman.

The Hawks won the Los Angeles Classic Tournament by defeating California, USC, and UCLA. The win over California in the first round took Iowa four overtimes to pull out an 83-84 decision.

The Hawks then won conference games from Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan State, and Illinois before dropping decisions to Purdue and Cincinnati as the first semester ended.

"Viewing our prospects for the season as about a 50-50 year, we were quite pleased with our 12-3 record at that time," said Scheuerman.

After four of the starters who helped compile that record were declared ineligible, however, few observers, even good Hawkeye fans, gave Iowa much chance to win many more games.

Scheuerman was left with just nine ball players, most of them green and inexperienced. But the boys who were left made the word "hustle" their lockerroom password as they drilled for their next contest with powerful Indiana and Walt Bellamy.

With sophomores Matt Szykowny and Joe Reddington, junior Joe Novak, and senior Dennis Runge joining Nelson in the starting lineup, the Hawks upset the Hoosiers 74-67.

Scheuerman said, "that upset win over Indiana was the finest moment I have had in my three years of coaching." He added, "Being carried off the floor at Evanston Saturday ranked right along with it."

After the Indiana game, Iowa raised the eyebrows of the sporting world again by stopping Wisconsin 63-61.

Even then, however, the Hawks were heavy underdogs in their next game with Ohio State's unbeaten Buckeyes.

But by then, Scheuerman, had firmly installed the same aspects of desire, hustle, and spirit he had become famous for as a Hawkeye player and member of the Fabulous Five just five years prior.

The "Hustlin' Hawks" led Ohio

State throughout the game and lost a heart-breaker in the final seconds 62-61.

The "new unit" as Iowa's second semester team was often called, proceeded to win four of its remaining six games, climaxed by the Northwestern victory Saturday.

That win pushed Iowa's record to 18-6 for the season and 10-4 in Big Ten play, good for a second place tie with Purdue in the final conference standings.

It has been a long, hard season for the Hawkeyes — a season marked by ineligibility and heart-breaking defeat on one hand, but by thrilling victories, and living examples of what teamwork, spirit, hustle, and desire can accomplish on the other.

Yanks Lose, Pirates Win

The New York Yankees, American League champions, remained winless in the exhibition campaign when they dropped a 10-5 game to the Minnesota Twins Monday as catcher Earl Battey wrapped up the game for Washington with a ninth-inning grand slam homer.

The Twins, in fact, did all their heavy work via homers. Zorro Versalles hit one with two on in the second off Billy Short, and Harmon Killebrew blasted one with one on to tie the score at 6-6 in the seventh.

Seven homers sailed out of the lot at Phoenix where the San Francisco Giants downed the Los Angeles Angels 16-13. Felipe Alou and rookie outfielder Manuel Mota hitting a homer and triple during the inning. Bob Cerv and Earl Averill hit Los Angeles homers.

Unbeaten Pittsburgh made it four straight by defeating the Kansas

City A's 4-2. Dick Schofield's two-run homer in the third inning off Ken Johnson was the big blow.

In another slugfest at Pompano Beach, Fla., the Washington Senators beat the Baltimore Orioles 14-13. Bud Zepfel, rookie first sacker, hit a two-run homer in the eighth to decide the game. Gene Woodling also homered for Washington and Brooks Robinson for Baltimore, now loser of three in a row. It was the third consecutive Senator victory.

The Chicago Cubs beat the Cleveland Indians 4-2 on only four hits. Johnny Antonelli made his first start for Cleveland and pitched three scoreless innings, as the Indians dropped their first game after winning three straight.

Rain canceled the Los Angeles Dodgers and Philadelphia game in Clearwater.

Iowa Schools Badly Unsupported—

Keeping Faculty is Problem

EDITOR'S NOTE: With budgets already totaling in the millions of dollars, the higher educational institutions governed by the State Board of Regents — SUI, Iowa State University and State College of Iowa — have told Governor Erbe and the 59th General Assembly that they need sizeable increases to maintain educational quality while serving more students each year. This is the first of a series of four articles illustrating why the Regents and the institutional executives contend that the schools are badly under-supported.

It will be a blow, but no great surprise, if SUI loses the director of one of its major health research units this spring or summer.

For three years the doctor concerned has periodically been asked by a major southern institution if he would consider resigning his SUI position to assume direction of a similar research facility on the southern university's campus. During the last three years he has said "no" on at least nine or ten occasions.

Some of the doctor's colleagues have been frank to tell him that they cannot understand his turning down the prospects of earning $5,000 more than he has ever been paid by SUI. They point to the new laboratories, the costly and high-precision research apparatus, the sizeable staff which the southern institution would put at his disposal, the almost unlimited opportunity for development in a university which is obviously "going places," with an ambitious building program, sizeable research grants coming in, and a "master plan" for orderly expansion.

This winter the would-be "raider" institution indicated that it was ready to make its best offer yet. The doctor went south to take a long, hard look at what was offered, and came back to do some serious thinking.

"I don't want to leave Iowa," he says. "I was born here, I got most of my education here, my family and my wife's family all live here. The University has given me freedom to work out my own ideas, and has done the very best it could to provide space and facilities.

"But how can I help but think," he asks, "about the fact that we are already crowded for space, with no possibility for more in sight? That we could be making half again as much — or twice as much progress in our research if we didn't have to share laboratory space so much of the time with other busy research departments? And, aside from the research, I've got the personal problem of providing higher education for my own kids, which would be rough to do on what I'm earning now."

One day soon the doctor will make up his mind about the new job, or one of several others which would be open if he showed interest. If he takes any one of them, he will join a sizeable number of capable teachers and researchers who have left the campuses of the University, Iowa State and Iowa State Teachers College in recent years.

Another SUI faculty member points up the competition which the Iowa institutions face in trying to pay keep their teachers.

"I've had two job offers in this past year alone," he says. "Both of them offered several thousand dollars more in salary and fewer classes to teach, giving me time for writing and research. I'm not interested at present, because I wouldn't consider moving until I get my Ph.D. next year. But it makes you think — if they come at an instructor like me with offers like that, what are they dangling in front of the professors who've had years of experience?"

What they're dangling are offers like $12,500, accepted by a chemistry professor whom SUI was paying $8,500; $14,000, to a sociologist earning $11,000 at SUI; $11,000, to an SUI mathematician earning $9,000; five other jobs, with salary increases up to $2,350, to an ISTC business education teacher. These offers, and many others like them, were all accepted — for a total, in the 1959-60 academic year alone at SUI, of 11 professors, eight associate professors, and 27 assistant professors. Most of these men left for salary increases, ranging up to as much as 80 per cent.

In addition to higher salaries, other institutions frequently offer higher professorial ranks, department headships and deanships.

This is by no means a new problem, nor is it unique to Iowa. The need to retain qualified faculty members, and to recruit new ones, has been evident for several years as colleges and universities have sought to brace themselves for greater numbers of students resulting from the high birthrates of the 1940's and the tendency for a greater percentage of young people to seek higher education.

The Regents' plea for salary funds has not fallen on deaf ears. The two most recent sessions (57th and 58th) of the General Assembly, in particular, have appropriated funds which have helped stem what was feared would become a tide of faculty losses to other major Big Ten and Big Eight, and especially to Ivy League and West Coast institutions, with which Iowa's universities and teachers college compete for top-quality teachers.

Grateful though they are for the salary increases in 1957 and 1959 which helped hold most of their best teachers and researchers, the Regents say in their "Financial Requirements" report to the 59th General Assembly that "we have been aiming at a constantly moving target" — just about the time Iowa institutions finally get salaries to a competitive point, other institutions are raising theirs again. The Regents have asked the 59th General Assembly to recognize this problem by appropriating funds which would permit the schools to raise salaries during each year of the next biennium.

In a report prepared at the behest of the 58th General Assembly by the Legislative Research Bureau, under the direction of Raymond C. Gibson of Indiana University, the situation is summed up thus: "Academic salaries in the state institutions are completely inadequate for the recruitment and retention of qualified faculties. They are below the national average for all state institutions . . . Salaries for professors . . . require a major adjustment before considering long-range increases necessary to keep pace with comparable institutions. Salaries at the lower ranks will have to be adjusted or the universities and the teachers college will not be able to compete with public school salaries."

Iowa State Teachers College administrators who have sought to hire new faculty members can completely verify this last prediction. ISTC salary schedules are already surpassed at the M.A. degree — ten year's teaching experience level by at least six public school systems right here in Iowa.

Top Scientist To Lecture

Prof. Norman F. Ramsey, Harvard University physicist who developed a method now used in building the world's most precise clocks, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Shambaugh Auditorium.

A new method of studying beams of atoms and molecules, developed by Ramsey, has been applied to the manufacture of clocks which have an accuracy of one part in 10,000 million. Currently, Ramsey is developing a still newer technique which he hoped will lead to even greater accuracy.

Ramsey's talk on "Nuclear Interactions in Molecules" at SUI will be sponsored by the SUI chapter of the Society of the Sigma Xi, national organization for the encouragement of scientific research. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Ramsey is an experimental physicist whose research has centered on the properties of molecules, atomic nuclei, and nucleons. When Harvard built its present cyclotron in 1949, he became chairman of the University's Nuclear Physics Committee. He joined the Harvard faculty in 1947. Ramsey had previously been on the faculty of Columbia University.

He serves now on the executive committee of the 6,000 million-volt Cambridge electron accelerator being built by Harvard and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Huge Crowd Sees Festival Show

Approximately 200 people were turned away from Sunday's children's performance of the Seventh International Festival in Macbride Auditorium.

"There were even people sitting in the aisles," said Sandra Nelson, A4, Davenport, chairman of the AWS Foreign Student Committee. "We just couldn't get anyone else in."

The performance on March 12 had been sold out. Students from India, Japan, Okinawa, Lebanon, Turkey, United Arab Republic, Jordan, Iraq, Philippines, Norway, Sweden, Korea, China, Hong Kong, Laos, France, Pakistan, Greece, Thailand, Argentina, Germany, Paraguay, Bolivia, Puerto Rico, Columbia, Brazil, Canada, Yugoslavia, Mexico, and the United States participated in the program, "Far Away Places," a fantasy.

Laos Rebels Threaten Pro-Western Forces

VIENTIANE, Laos — Communist rebel soldiers were reported advancing toward the road junction of Vang Vieng Monday as efforts intensified to bring their leaders into peace talks. So far the rebels have shown no interest.

Although the military situation was obscure, the pro-Western government's front on the main road between Vientiane and the royal city of Luang Prabang was not holding firm.

The rebels, liberally supplied with Soviet arms, seized the Sala Phou Koun road junction last week and drove southward toward Vientiane, capturing Muong Kassy about 80 miles from the capital.

Now they are heading for Vang Vieng, about 60 miles north of Vientiane. Leftist soldiers and Pathet Lao rebels were pushed out of Vang Vieng in January after using the town as a receiving point for the Soviet arms airlift.

The town is also the spot where the late Thomas Dooley, the American jungle doctor, started his first hospital in Laos four years ago. It was later turned over to the Government.

Every able-bodied man in Vang Vieng, a town of 3,000 people, has been pressed into military service.

The Government's fledgling air force, consisting of old trainers donated by the United States and armed with rockets and machine guns, was reduced to six.

Reports from the front said two of the single-engine planes collided Sunday over the Muong Kassy sector, killing the two pilots. Another plane crashed on landing in Vientiane and was damaged beyond immediate repair.

The series of Government setbacks has spurred the search for a political truce. But this appeared to elicit little interest from the rebels.

In Phnom Penh, the capital of neighboring Cambodia, former Laotian Premier Souvanna Phouma said he had received no reaction from the Pathet Lao high command to the proposals for peace negotiations and neutrality he worked out last week with Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, deputy premier and military strong man of the Vientiane Government.

They called for peace talks in Phnom Penh next week with the rebel high command.

Souvanna, whose goal since Laos became independent in 1954 has been to make his country neutral in the cold war, went into exile in December when Phoumi's troops ran leftist rebels out of the capital with U. S. support.

Sales and Sales Management Training Program

This Program is designed to develop young, inexperienced men for careers in life insurance sales and sales management. It provides an initial training period of 3 months (including 3 weeks at a Home Office School) before the men move into full sales work.

Those trainees who are interested in and who are found qualified for management responsibility are assured of ample opportunity to move on to such work in either our field offices or in the Home Office after an initial period in sales.

The Connecticut Mutual is a 114-year-old company with 520,000 policyholder-members and over four billion dollars of life insurance in force. Aggressive expansion plans provide unusual opportunities for the limited number of men accepted each year.

Thinking of "old age" as merely a descriptive phrase applied along the path of the whole adult process is probably the key to helping people anticipate and prepare for retirement.

Key Nations—

Reds Wage War With U.S. in Mexico

EDITOR'S NOTE: In a tour of Latin America, William L. Ryan has run into many evidences of the work of Communist and Castro followers who seek to discredit U.S. efforts in that area. This report from our next-door neighbor discloses some of the problems the United States faces in trying to maintain good relations with the people of Latin America.

Apparently the Kremlin regards the United States' next-door neighbor as a key nation in plans for Latin America, which involve a quickening drive to isolate the North Americans.

Despite cautious but determined resistance from the government of President Adolfo Lopez Mateos, the Soviet Union probably is pleased with its progress.

The Russians proceed carefully, lest what they have built up — an important center for espionage, political agitation and cultural propaganda in Latin America — be endangered by extremist adventuring. But they overlook few bets.

Soviet and Castroite money pours into Mexico for purposes of subversion. Qualified sources estimate the rate at about $8 million a year.

This money also that the Soviet Embassy supervises the subversive activities of its neighbor, Cuban Embassy, less than two blocks away. There is a heavy flow of traffic between the two embassies, and between the Soviet Embassy and Havana.

Cuba's Fidel Castro has lost some of his influence in Mexico, but the impact of the Cuban revolution is useful to extremists when tied to traditional anti-Yankeeism. The Soviet-Fidelista alliance tries to use this combination of U.S. investors in the Mexican government.

President Lopez Mateos is fighting hard to prevent that. He has boxed in Communist activities. This has contributed to a strengthening of foreign confidence, which began to sag about a half year ago.

Mexico's economy is sound, and is in able hands. Mexico has the most stable currency of all Latin America. Although more than half its 35 million population can be classified as poor, the standard of living has been edging upward steadily. Strong Mexican nationalism and belief in the idea that the 1917 revolution still is going on have tended to brake the most extreme leftism.

"A new Cuba in Mexico just isn't in the cards," said one U.S. businessman.

The Soviet Union would jump at the chance of assisting a united leftist front.

The Soviet Embassy is known to be contributing liberally to the PPS — Popular Socialist Party — led by the veteran Communist labor agitator, Vicente Lombardo Toledano. For all practical purposes the PPS leadership is Communist and the party has all the appurtenances of a Communist party. Lombardo Toledano claims 150,000 members, but it is probably about half that. The PPS is an offshoot of the original Mexican Communist Party — PCM — one of the oldest organized Communist parties in the world.

The PCM claims 25,000 membership, probably has about 10,000. Another offshoot, the POCM — Mexican Workers and Farmers Party — probably has about 5,000 fanatic members and is considered the best organized and disciplined.

If any of these parties represents deviation from the Moscow line, the Kremlin attitude fails to reflect it. The Soviet Embassy gives more yote all three. All were represented at the world Communist leaders meeting in Moscow.

But the function of the POCM and PCM seems to involve open challenges to the government apparently on Soviet advice, while the PPS trends carefully and builds strength.

As the result of such challenges, Lopez Mateos' government has jailed many a Communist leader on a charge of "social dissolution," which can cover a multitude of sins.

Still, Lopez Mateos has been keeping the extremists at arms' length and has been carefully avoiding measures which might frighten U.S. and other foreign capital whose investment in Mexico is nearly $1.5 billion.

The government has the loyalty and support of the army and police. In addition, despite concern among some Mexican businessmen, Lopez Mateos seems to have support from the upper and the growing middle class. Many seem to view his measures as insurance against more violent change in a time of widespread ferment throughout Latin America.

Woodrow Wilson Fellowships Given

Eleven students at SUI have been awarded Woodrow Wilson Fellowships in a year-long nationwide hunt for future college teachers.

The new SUI Woodrow Wilson Fellowship holders include William A. Abbott, Goldsboro, N. C.; Richard N. Bagenstos, A4, Holstein, Steven A. Chambers, A4, Shenandoah; Paul R. Hager, A4, Waukon; Leonard A. Hitchcock, A3, Iowa City; William C. Horne, A4, Burlington; Jerry W. Lutz, A4, Conesville; Morton J. Marcus, A4, New York City; George J. McCall, A4, Iowa City; Sandra J. Nelson, A4, Davenport; Giesela Sie-laff, A4, Cedar Rapids.

The awards, made by the Woodrow Wilson National Fellowship Foundation, carry a living allowance of $1,500, plus family allowance and full costs of a year's graduate study at any university of the recipient's choice in the United States or Canada.

This year's 1,333 Wilson Fellows were chosen from a record 10,453 candidates. More than 23 fields of study, nearly all in the humanities and social sciences, are represented by this year's winners. Those in mathematics and natural sciences represent 15.9 per cent of the total.

SUI Professor Russell G. Whitesel is one of two national coordinators of the program and is regional chairman of the midwest area.

Two other SUI students were among 1,614 candidates given "honorable mention" rating. It is anticipated by the foundation that most of them will receive alternative awards, either directly from universities or from other organizations.

SUI students given "honorable mention" include Donald C. Haus-rath, A4, Silver Springs, Md., and Timothy A. Ross, A4, Des Moines.

House Passes Electoral Voting Bill

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Senate Monday passed a bill to require Iowa presidential electors to vote for the presidential ticket of the party by which they were chosen.

The bill, which now goes to the House, would remove a power electors have had to "bolt the ticket." Only in the case of the death of the party candidate for president or vice president could an Iowa elector vote for a different candidate.

No Iowa electors ever have taken advantage of the opportunity given under present law to bolt the ticket, but the subject arises at each presidential election.

Voting Record

WASHINGTON (AP) — How Iowa members of Congress were recorded on recent roll call votes:

On Javits (R-N. Y.) motion, rejected 66-18, to send back to committee nomination of Charles Meriwether of Alabama to be a director of Export-Import Bank: For motion — Miller R. Against motion — Hickenlooper R.

On Fogarty (D-R. I.) amendment adopted 336-62, to include in a supplemental appropriation bill an additional $29,990,000 for aid to schools affected by federal activities: For — Coad D, Hoeven R, Schwengel R, Gross R, Kyl R. Not voting — Jensen R.

On passage, 209-202, of bill to provide a special program for feed grains for 1961: For — Coad, Smith, Against — Bronwell, Gross, Hoeven, Kyl, Schwengel. Not voting — Jensen.

Gilmour Asks Why

DES MOINES (AP) — Sen. C. Ed-winn Gilmour (D-Grinnell) Monday asked Majority Floor Leader J. Kendall Lynes (R-Plainfield) why a Steering Committee has not been created to bring important legislation to the top of the Senate's long calendar.

Lynes said the Republican majority has decided to operate by Sifting Committee instead of Steering Committee and that it will take over the calendar and other Senate bills when the Senate decides it is ready.

Homemade Bomb Kills Chemistry Student

MICKLETON, N. J. (AP) — Lee D. Rawles, 19, a college student majoring in chemistry, was killed Sunday by an explosion while conducting an experiment in the basement of his home in this South New Jersey community.

Police said Rawles, home for a visit from Wingate College in North Carolina, was killed by what amounted to a homemade bomb.

Gross Delivers Lemons

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here's the latest report on one man's long-time crusade to substitute lemonade for booze in U.S. embassies overseas.

Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) a frequent critic of what he calls the State Department's booze fund, announced he has sent a case of lemons to George V. Allen, former ambassador to several nations.

Gross noted at the time that this was in addition to $850,000 previously voted for the same purpose in this fiscal year. He quoted Allen as saying lemonade could be served in London and other embassies.

Rep. Charles Teague, (R-Calif.) who comes from a lemon producing district, offered to give Gross a case of lemons.

Gross accepted on condition he could turn them over to Allen.

"I received the lemons from my California colleague," Gross said Monday, "and promptly and personally delivered them to Mr. Allen in recognition of his public statement that lemonade can be served by our foreign diplomats without injury to foreign policy or social prestige."

The thing is that Allen's views are not very influential around any U.S. embassy these days. He's retired from his diplomatic career.

Rape, Insult Nuns In Congo Pillage

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo — A nightmare of rape, pillage and degradation of nuns by Congolese soldiers in rebel Kivu Province was detailed Monday in reports reaching the United Nations.

The reports have been kept secret for more than two weeks, but were disclosed by qualified informants. A U.N. spokesman said an official summary still is being prepared.

The victims were white missionaries, businessmen and nuns, stripped, beaten and terrorized by rampaging Congolese soldiers in the Maniema region of the chaotic province.

"Can no one help us from outside?" pleaded one Belgian nun in a typewritten statement to the United Nations. She wrote of being stripped and locked in a room all night with three Congolese soldiers.

An American missionary girl was raped by four Congolese soldiers before being released and told she would not leave the province alive. Last week Malayan U.N. troops went out to rescue her but no report has been received since.

The U.N. spokesman said about 300 Europeans are in difficulties in Kivu and have requested rescue. The Malayan contingent is working to pick them up from their isolated outposts deep in the bush.

Twenty badly beaten Europeans were brought to Leopoldville. They include three Belgian priests and three Belgian nuns.

A nun from the Kasongo mission reported to the U.N.: "We were then brought into a large room where we remained for 24 hours. We were all made to stretch out on the ground and they made us take off all our clothes. They did not rape us, but they did things so disgusting to our poor bodies that we dare not speak of them, much less write them. Two ladies who were with us had to pay. They were brought away and violated throughout the whole night."

The account reached the United Nations with one nun who was able to flee to Kindu, where about 30 white men, women and children — including 10 American missionaries — are under U.N. protection.

Buoyancy Test

Intoxication Test Bill Passed in Iowa House

DES MOINES (AP) — A controversial bill requiring intoxication tests for persons suspected of drunken driving was passed 90-10 by the Iowa House Monday.

The bill provides that any person who operates a motor vehicle has given his consent to a blood test or other test of intoxication when he obtains a driver's license. A driver who refused to take a test would face loss of driving privileges for 60 days.

The accepted bill, which now goes to the Senate, was a substitute offered by Rep. Riley (R-Cedar Rapids). The original bill was introduced by Rep. Charles Grassley (R-New Hartford).

Riley said the substitution was necessary to protect individual rights. Some representatives contended the changes weaken the bill.

Only a licensed physician or registered nurse acting at the written request of a law officer could take a blood, breath or other test.

The law enforcement officer would have to arrest the person before requiring that a test be taken.

Results of the test would be admissible as evidence in court. If the test showed .05 of 1 per cent or less of alcohol by weight in the blood, it would be prima facie evidence that he was not intoxicated.

If the test showed between .05 and .15 of 1 per cent of alcohol, it would be regarded as relevant evidence, and if the blood contained more than .15 of 1 per cent alcohol it would be regarded as prima facie evidence of intoxication.

Confusion arose over an attempt by Rep. Richard Stageman (R-Council Bluffs) to prevent an amendment proposed by Riley and Rep. David Stanley (R-Muscatine).

Stageman's amendment would permit an accused drunken driver to take a choice of one of two other tests in lieu of the blood test.

The Riley-Stanley amendment permitted a person whose license was to be suspended for refusal to take the test to appeal directly to District Court instead of first to the state safety commissioner and then to the court.

By a vote of 47-36, the House kept Stageman's amendment in the bill, and then adopted the Riley-Stanley amendment on a voice vote.

Pacifists To Speak: 'Peace and Campus'

By BARB HAARDT
Staff Writer

Two long-time pacifists — one described as "militant" and one who remarks, "I'm very good at leaflets but I don't like demonstrations" — will speak at the "Peace and the Campus" workshop Saturday.

The workshop, sponsored by the Student Peace Union, will be held in the River Room of the Iowa Memorial Union from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Walter Gormly, who has been called an "internationally famous pacifist," will talk on "Non-Violent Resistance" at 10 a.m.

David McReynolds, associate editor of Liberation magazine and field secretary of the War Resisters League, will talk at 2 p.m.

Gormly, who has not voluntarily paid Federal income taxes since 1943 because much tax money is used for war purposes, spent a week in jail in December for this reason.

Last fall at the Moline (Illinois) airport, he paraded before a crowd waiting for the then Sen. John F. Kennedy with a sign which read: "Don't vote! Can you trust Kennedy or Nixon with The Bomb?" For this he was put in jail by Rock Island County sheriff's officers.

Gormly explains that his demonstration was aimed at showing a lack of confidence in both candidates. "If enough people would express this feeling by not voting," he says, "we'll get some sort of result — and a change of candidates."

A native of Mount Vernon, Gormly became a pacifist in 1941. "With the draft board breathing down my neck," he says, "I was happy to learn that there was a method of resistance other than war."

For refusing to go to a camp for war objectives, he spent the next three years in a Federal correctional institution. He went on a hunger strike for the last four months and 10 days. Gormly "was still in no mood to start eating" on the 15th day but was force-fed from then on.

Gormly is midwest representative of the War Resisters League, an international organization for non-religious objectors to war.

David McReynolds, whose basis for pacifism is religious, has challenged the right of the Government to grant service exemption only on the basis of belief in a Supreme Being.

He claims that this type of exemption is a violation of the principle of separation of church and state.

McReynolds, who helped organize the mass demonstration against civil defense in New York last year, maintains that civil defense is "a provocative and aggressive policy which is a direct part of the missile program."

He believes that most people who oppose civil defense do so "because they know that nuclear war is insanity."

A native Californian, McReynolds was graduated from U.C.L.A. in 1954 with a B.A. in political science. He has been active in the pacifist movement since 1949 and is a member of the national committee of the Socialist Party.

He has also written widely on the implications of the Beat Generation. McReynolds believes that the movement, now largely dead, was both important and misunderstood.

"The beats were a substitute for social action in a period which lacked areas for channeling normal idealism," he says. The movement is dead, according to McReynolds, "because nihilism doesn't fit the American soil."

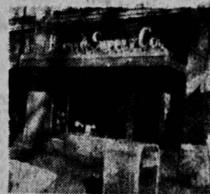

It has been channeled back to politics since the beats "have forgotten that they can't trust systems." Nevertheless today's students respond primarily to issues, such as the sit-ins in the South, or to those who are suffering for their beliefs — rather than to systems.

BOOM!

Today, foregoing levity, let us turn our keen young minds to the No. 1 problem facing American colleges today: the population explosion. Only last week four people exploded in Cleveland, Ohio — one of them while carrying a plate of soup. In case you're thinking such a thing couldn't happen anywhere but in Cleveland, let me tell you there were also two other cases last week — a 45 year old man in Provo, Utah, and a 19 year old girl in Bangor, Maine — and in addition there was a near-miss in Klamath Falls, Oregon — an eight year old boy who was saved only by the quick thinking of his cat Walter who pushed the phone off the hook with his muzzle and dialed the department of weights and measures. (It would perhaps have made more sense for Walter to dial the fire department, but one can hardly expect a cat to summon a fire engine which is followed by a Dalmatian, can one?)

Science will ultimately solve the problem

I bring up the population explosion not to alarm you, for I feel certain that science will ultimately solve the problem. After all, has not science in recent years brought us such marvels as the transistor, the computer, the bevatron, and the Marlboro filter? Oh, what a saga of science was the discovery of the Marlboro filter! Oh, what a heart-rending epic of endless trial and error, of dedication and perseverance! And, in the end, what a triumph it was when the Marlboro scientists after years of testing and discarding one filter material after another — iron, nickel, lead, tin, antimony, sponge cake — finally emerged, tired but happy, from their laboratory, carrying in their hands the perfect filter cigarette! What rejoicing there was that day! Indeed, what rejoicing there still is whenever we light a Marlboro and settle back and enjoy that full-flavored smoke which comes to us in soft pack or flip-top box at tobacco counters in all fifty states and Cleveland!

Yes, science will ultimately solve the problems rising out of the population explosion, but in the meantime the problems hang heavy over America's colleges. This year will bring history's greatest rush of high school graduates. Where will we find classrooms and teachers for this gigantic new influx?

Well sir, some say the answer is to adopt the trimester system. This system, now in use at many colleges, eliminates summer vacations, has three semesters per annum instead of two, and compresses a four year course into three years.

This is good, but is it good enough? Even under the trimester system the student has occasional days off. Moreover his nights are utterly wasted in sleeping. Is this the kind of all-out attack that is indicated?

I say no. I say desperate problems call for desperate remedies. I say that partial measures will not solve this crisis. I say we must do no less than go to school every single day of the year. But that is not all. I say we must go to school 24 hours of every day!

The benefits of such a program are, of course, obvious. First of all, the classroom shortage will immediately disappear because all the dormitories can be converted into classrooms. Second, the teacher shortage will immediately disappear because all the night watchmen can be put to work teaching calculus and Middle English poetry. And finally, overcrowding will immediately disappear because everyone will quit school.

Any further questions?

© 1961 Max Shulman

Yes, one further question: Have you tried Marlboro's newest partner in pleasure — the unfiltered, king-size Philip Morris Commander? If not, by all means come aboard. You'll be glad you did.
