Nationally-Known Baking Company Will Locate Here

A nationally-known baking company Friday announced that it will open a frozen pastry plant in Iowa City next fall.

Pepperidge Farm, Inc., has taken a long-term lease on the refrigeration plant of Maplecrest Cold Storage, Inc., located on Highway 218 at the south edge of Iowa City.

The company will begin production about Sept. 1, officials announced. The firm will employ about 100 workers at the beginning.

The manager of the new plant, Charlie M. Good, said the plant will serve the Midwest area. Pepperidge also has a frozen pastry plant at Downingtown, Pa., which employs about 500 workers.

Announcement of the new industry was made Friday morning by Good and Edward T. Peach, who is manager of the Downingtown plant. Good is now plant engineer of the Downingtown plant, and has been with the company two years.

The Iowa City plant will be the fifth plant of the Pepperidge firm. The company makes bread, rolls, herb-seasoned stuffing, and cookies. The plant here will make frozen puff pastry products such as raspberry and blueberry turnovers, cherry rolls and apple strudle.

The Pepperidge officials expressed appreciation for the assistance and interest of the Iowa Development Commission and Iowa City Chamber of Commerce in the selection of the site.

One factor in the selection of Iowa City, the two said, was the existence of the Maplecrest plant. They said that extensive alterations to the interior of the plant will be necessary before production begins.

The Pepperidge firm's brief history is an American success story which began in the kitchen of Margaret Rudkin of Fairfield, Conn., in 1937.

At that time, Mrs. Rudkin began baking bread for her son, who suffered from asthma. Her bread contained whole wheat flour, butter, honey, salt, and pure molasses.

At the suggestion of friends, she began making more bread and soon her husband was taking it to New York for sale. The business expanded rapidly and Pepperidge

Farm bread was soon being shipped throughout the country. Mrs. Rudkin still is president of the company. Her husband, Henry, is chairman of the board, and the couple's two older sons are vice presidents.

Last January, Pepperidge Farm became affiliated with the Campbell Soup Co., which now owns all the stock. The Rudkins still manage the firm, however.

Delta Chi Frat Pledges First Negro at SUI

Delta Chi social fraternity has pledged Andy Hankins, A1, Waukegan, Ill. Hankins is the first Negro to be pledged by a SUI fraternity and the first to be pledged by Delta Chi.

Delta Chi is a national fraternity with 45 chapters. The fraternity has no discriminatory clause. Hankins is a guard on the freshman basketball team. He was graduated from Waukegan Township High School, where he was a member of the student council and vice president of the National Honor Society.

Diek Boe, Delta Chi president, said, "Our fraternity is very happy to have been able to pledge Andy. We feel he will be an asset to the chapter."

U.S. To Give Up Rights to Airfield

WASHINGTON — A State Department spokesman indicated Friday under questioning, that the United States has no hope of saving any military rights at the strategic Dhahran airfield on the Persian Gulf through continued negotiations with Saudi Arabia.

Press officer Joseph Reap told reporters that there are no talks under way, and none are contemplated, on continuing rights for U. S. government aircraft.

The base was built by the United States 15 years ago and is now being converted to U. S. expense into a major international air center for Saudi Arabia.

Personal Income Dips; Recession Not at End

WASHINGTON — A February drop in personal income dampened hopes Friday that a six-month slide in business ended last month.

The Commerce Department reported February's over-all personal income rate dropped $700 million from January's to an annual rate of $405.9 billion.

This didn't wholly offset Friday good news from the Federal Reserve Board. But it gave pause to those who feel the recession hit bottom in February and recovery has begun. And it supported those who insist it's still too

U.N. Troops Free Congo Missionaries

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo — Thirty missionaries, badly beaten by rebel soldiers, have been rescued by United Nations troops from the anarchy of Kivu Province, a U.N. spokesman said Friday.

They brought out with them stories of being held in their homes without food, and of a fanatical sect of 100 pagans on the rampage in Kivu vowing to kill all whites. The missionaries were rescued by a U.N. Malayan patrol at Kasongo and taken 100 miles to a U.N. refugee station at Kindu.

The nationalities of the missionaries were not established in reports reaching Leopoldville. The United Nations first reported 23 of them were Americans but later retracted this statement. Some American missionaries are known to be in the remote reaches of Kivu, which nominally at least is under the control of Antoine Gizenga, the Moscow-backed rebel chief in Stanleyville.

At least another 30 missionaries of various nationalities are in the trouble zone of Kivu and church authorities have expressed fears for their safety.

U.N. sources said one group of American missionaries previously rescued and taken to Kindu now are reported ready to go back to their station at Kama. They include a girl raped by four rebel soldiers.

early to say whether the hoped-for spring upturn will occur.

The Federal Reserve Board Thursday reported February industrial production leveled off at the January rate, halting six straight months of declines. This combined with other favorable items to encourage hope that the low point had been reached and an upturn was starting.

The Commerce Department said February's wages, salaries and dividends were only partly offset by a slight increase in former income and a $200-million rise in unemployment compensation benefits and similar government payments.

About half of a billion-dollar drop in payrolls came in manufacturing with automobile plants and metal-fabricating factories hardest hit. Construction payrolls also shrank substantially but word Thursday of a 7 per cent pick-up in housing starts in February held forth some hope that this trend might be reversed in March.

Optimists could take some comfort in the fact that February's income was at an annual rate 2 1/2 per cent higher than the $395-billion rate of February 1960. But it was $4 billion under the peak of nearly $410 billion reached last October.

A discouraging aspect of the February report was that the income decline was sharper from January to February than it was from December to January. The later month showed a decline in rate of only $300 million from December, about half of the decrease that had been forecast.

Commerce economists did not write off the possibility that the February payroll situation reflected poor midwinter sales and that the favorable signs for February may indicate new hiring will arrive along with better weather.

Iowa Senate Passes Prankster Bomb Bill

DES MOINES — The Iowa Senate Friday passed a bill to crack down on pranksters who make calls to schools or other institutions to report a bomb in the building.

The bill calls for a penalty of a $1,000 fine and up to one year in jail or both for making such a false report.

SLATE Sets Parade, Rally For Monday

By GARY GERLACH Ass't Managing Editor

The Student Democratic Slate, in an attempt to arouse general student interest in Wednesday's All-Campus Elections, has completed arrangements for a torchlight parade and rally Monday evening.

The parade will begin at the corner of Iowa Avenue and Gilbert Street at 7:30 p.m. and end on the east steps of Old Capital where James (Abolish Winter) Colby will emcee a rally.

Student Council president candidates John Niemeyer, A2, Elkader and Jack Glesne, E3, Elkader were invited Friday by SLATE to speak at the rally. Niemeyer accepted, but Glesne had to decline because of previous commitments.

Also scheduled to deliver short campaign speeches at the rally are many of the candidates who support the SLATE platform.

The parade — tentatively arranged to include a fire engine, band, banners, 50 torches and a police escort — will assemble in the city lot immediately east of the police and fire station between 7 and 7:30 p.m.

The Mayor Thelma Lewis has approved the following parade route: starting at the intersection of Iowa Avenue and Gilbert Street, then two blocks west on Dubuque Street, south two blocks on Dubuque to College Street one block to Clinton Street up Clinton one block north to Washington Street, down Washington one block to Dubuque, north on Dubuque one block and finally west two blocks on Iowa Avenue ending on the east steps of Old Capital.

Among the SLATE candidates speaking, in addition to Niemeyer, will be Town Men Student Council candidates: Al Lee, G, Louisville, Ky.; Pete Donhowe, A3, Story City; and Frank Verges, G, Chicago; and Town Women Student Council candidate Florie Ann Wild, A3, Rockford, Ill.

The Student Democratic Slate is a coalition of SUI Young Democrats and Socialist Discussion Club members supporting a common platform. SLATE has candidates for SPI Board and Hillcrest Student Council Representatives in addition to Town Men and Town Women candidates.

Erbe Will Speak To Young GOPs

Gov. Norman A. Erbe will fly to Iowa City next Thursday to appear at a public meeting of the Young Republican League.

He will discuss "Higher Education and the Legislative Program" at 7:30 p.m. in the Senate Chamber of the Old Capitol. Written questions from the audience will be answered by Erbe.

Dr. Russell Ross, executive assistant to the governor and former SUI professor of political science, is expected to accompany Erbe to Iowa City.

After the Governor's talk, the Young Republicans will hold a business meeting to elect 1961-62 officers and discuss two GOP conventions.

Nominations for president are Lee Theisen, A2, Sioux City, and Lloyd Humphreys, L1, Iowa City. Theisen is a member of the Young Republicans Executive Council, Hillcrest Council and a Union Board subcommittee. Humphreys, a member of the football team, has served as president of Omicron Delta Kappa, Letterman's Club, senior class, and Sigma Chi.

Co-chairman is Maralyn Torode, A2, Clinton, who has been the Republican workshop chairman, editor of the Panhellenic Handbook, secretary of the Pep Council and a member on the Youth for Nixon Committee.

Helen Holmes, N2, Galesburg.

Mortar Board List Announced

A list of SUI women eligible for Mortar Board is now posted in the Office of Student Affairs.

To be eligible for Mortar Board, women must have junior standing and a minimum cumulative grade point average, which varies from year to year. This year's grade point minimum is 2.85.

Women meeting these qualifications are requested to check the list before Thursday to make sure their names are included. Present Mortar Board members will select new members from the names on this list.

Ill., is running for secretary. She has worked on the campus Nixon rally and in the Republican voting information booth.

Vying for the treasurer's post are Tom Hansen, A2, Clinton, and Dave Goetz, A1, Davenport. Hansen has been the SUI Young Republican administrative assistant to the chairman, alternate to the "Week in Washington" delegate and Delta Chi treasurer. Goetz, who organized the Young Republican group at St. Ambrose College in Davenport, was chairman of the Young Republican football program distribution.

Other nominations may come from the floor. Only YR members with membership cards or on the official club list may vote.

3. Reports that Llewellyn Thompson, U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union, has told Premier Khrushchev the United States does not want a major East-West arms race to develop in Laos but will ship in three guns for every two the Soviets give the rebels.

4. Indian Prime Minister Nehru's announcement in London that Laotian King Savang Vathang has appealed for his help in preventing foreign interference in Laos, saying "the country is going to pieces chiefly because other people are interfering."

5. Soviet shipment of supplies by air transport and truck to the rebels was said to be continuing at a rate slightly faster than in recent weeks.

The informant said the United States has increased shipments of shoes, uniforms, rice and petroleum as well as guns and ammunition.

He said the exact number of U.S. military men now assigned to the programs evaluation office is not available. These men, dressed in civilian clothes and officially not connected with U.S. military services, instruct government troops in use of their new weapons.

Souvanna, who recently traveled to rebel territory from his exile headquarters in Cambodia, said the Soviet Union had supplied the Pathet Lao with 20 times more arms than the United States gave the Vientiane Government.

Government officers blamed the Soviet aid for initial rebel successes during the attack on Sala Phou Koun that opened March 7. But the Government claims it now has checked the rebel drive.

Though Western military experts agreed the military situation appeared stabilized for the moment, hopes of a negotiated end to the fighting grew dimmer. The Government announced in a communique its three-man delegation which visited ex-Premier Souvanna in Phnom Penh, Cambodia told him it was ready to proceed unconditionally at once with a conference of government, rebel and Souvanna neutralist representatives.

But, the communique said, Souvanna's answer was to announce he was leaving on a round-the-world trip.

Arms Stepped Up To Meet New Threat

Rebels Change Minds On Conciliation Talks, Launch Major Attack

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — An informed source said Friday the United States has doubled its military mission in Laos and increased shipments of guns and ammunition to meet a new threat by Soviet-armed rebels.

The informant, whose identity cannot be disclosed, said the exact rate of increase in military aid to the pro-Western Government is not available.

But he said shipments of many types of supplies have been stepped up, though no new or unusual weapons have been sent in.

U.S. military men teaching the government army how to use its U.S. aid now number about 200, he said, compared to 100 previously.

In Washington, the State Department affirmed that the number of Americans administering aid in Laos had been increased but said there had been no new, sudden stepup in arms supplied.

The arms report came amid these developments: 1. A royal government charge that peace talks have broken down because the pro-Communist Pathet Lao rebels and the man they recognize as Laos' rightful head of Government, ex-Premier Souvanna Phouma, refused to honor a pledge to hold an immediate conciliation conference.

2. A major rebel offensive that captured the vital Sala Phou Koun road junction, just 40 miles south of the royal capital of Luang Prabang, and apparently dashed government plans for an offensive eastward into the rebel-held Plaine des Jarres.

3. Reports that Llewellyn Thompson, U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union, has told Premier Khrushchev the United States does not want a major East-West arms race to develop in Laos but will ship in three guns for every two the Soviets give the rebels.

Easter Concert Tickets Available

By ANNE STEARNS
Staff Writer

Ticket distribution will begin today for the Easter Concert of the University Chorus and University Symphony Orchestra at 8 p.m. in the Iowa Memorial Union.

Free tickets will be available at the Iowa Memorial Union ticket desk.

The two groups will present "Apparebit Repentina Dies," by Hindemith, and Mozart's "Requiem" Mass.

Four soloists will participate in the Mozart performance: Martha Peterson, 1030 Friendly Ave., soprano; Virginia Linn, G. Martinsdale, Ill., contralto; John W. Ferrell, G. Iowa City, tenor; and Ralph Whitworth, G. Tahlequah, Okla., bass.

Hindemith took as his text for the "Apparebit Repentina Dies" an anonymous Latin poem from the seventh century or earlier, which tells of the coming of the Day of Judgment.

"Without warning the great day of the Lord shall come, like a thief by dark of night seizing the unwary," the poem begins.

"Vain will appear all the delights of an earlier day when, at the same time, it illumines the world to come.

"Clangor of trumpets sounding throughout the four corners of the earth will call living and dead alike to meet Christ," the poem continues in part.

The composer's outlook has been called at the same time iconoclastic and traditionalist, modernist and medievalist. But in this poem setting he appears primarily as a medievalist.

Through his eyes the audience may see the medieval dread and the hope of the Last Judgment, as he expresses the spirit of that age in a language of the 20th century.

Mozart's "Requiem" has been connected with a legend of the composer's death, since he left the piece unfinished.

According to the story, Mozart was commissioned to write the Mass by a mysterious stranger, who ordered it for an unknown patron.

Brooding on the mystery of the incident, Mozart, who had been ill, finally decided that it was a portent of disaster. He put his greatest work into the composition since he was convinced that he was writing it for his death.

He died before its completion, and his terrified widow had another composer finish it in an imitation of Mozart's hand writing.

The mysterious messenger? He was found to be merely an emissary from a Count Walsegg, who wished to palm off the "Requiem" illegally as his own composition.

Prof. Herald Stark and Daniel Moe, graduate assistant, will direct the Orchestra and Chorus in the performance.

SUI Greeks 'On the Air'

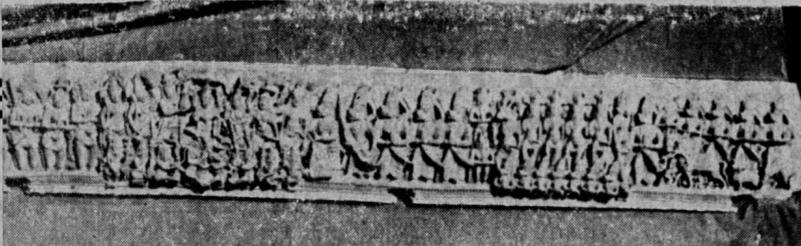

SUI's sororities and fraternities will be "on the air" beginning Sunday in a new radio program on station KXIC.

The program, called "Spotlight on Greeks," will be aired weekly at 5 p.m. on Sundays for the rest of the academic year, according to John D. Price, public relations director for the SUI Interfraternity Council. The program is being sponsored by a local clothing store.

"Spotlight on Greeks" will feature interviews with sorority and fraternity members, as well as with University officials and faculty members.

The first of the radio series will feature interviews with members of the fraternity and sorority which attained the highest academic record for the first semester.

Ralph Prusok, SUI fraternity advisor, will also be interviewed.

West Africa--

Peasants Must Be Partners'

A new tuberculin test, was sponsored by the Harvard School of Public Health and the U.S. Public Health Service.

Walker, who's interested in the study of political parties and their leadership, also went to Africa to observe the beginning of newly independent states, the "underdeveloped countries open to international dispute."

With his medical friend, Walker drove a jeep through the savanna and steppe country of Nigeria. They slept in a dormitory at Ibadan University, "the only university with a medical school in West Africa, as well as in houses and huts as guests of Nigerian natives.

They ate what their hosts ate. Their meals were heavy in starches typically rice, beans and yams — and light in protein, in the form of meat and milk. Once they ate snails.

They spoke the same language as many of the citizens of the country. Although Nigeria's 38 million people speak hundreds of languages and dialects, English is the official language, Walker said. Newspapers and signs are printed in English as well as in some of the native languages, and the government radio broadcast in English. By means of shortwave radio the African hears London, Moscow, and Peiping much stronger than the Voice of America, Walker added.

Through these and other channels of communication, the African keeps in touch with the news of the world, Walker explained. American economic and technical aid has "created a lot of good will for the United States in Africa. But news of race riots and segregation troubles makes the African suspicious of U. S. aims," he said.

Africa, too, has many problems, not the least of which is developing from a subsistence to an industrial economy, Walker said. Developing forms of democratic self-government and educating the masses to govern themselves are other major problems, he said.

In connection with the Peace Corps, Walker observed, "living with the people, eating their food, and learning their language is not enough." Perhaps recalling the snails, he emphasized that "it's not completely necessary to adopt the African diet."

What matters, he said, is the attitude of the Corps representatives towards the African way of life. He must not judge their way of life by his standards. Peace Corps members will have to be willing to work under African leaders, Walker concluded.

Latin American Policy To Be Expert's Topic

Edward Tomlinson, dean of correspondents and commentators on hemisphere relations, will speak on "The New Frontier in Latin America" at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Macbride Auditorium.

A pioneer in the interpretation of inter-American affairs, Tomlinson is universally acknowledged as the foremost authority in this country on the other Americas.

In more than 30 years of study and travel, he has accumulated a vast amount of personal, first-hand information and facts about every one of the countries of Latin America. Today he knows the background of every event or development that takes place anywhere in that part of the world.

Tomlinson visited South America for the first time in 1922, traveling through Brazil, Argentine and Uruguay. Since then he has traveled and spent time in every one of the Latin American countries and most of the islands and colonies of the Caribbean Sea.

He continues to visit some part of the Continent, or Central America, Mexico and the Island Republics every year. Often he makes two or three trips a year and has reported for newspapers and radio every important Inter-American Conference gathering since 1928.

Although for thirty years he has specialized in inter-American affairs, he is not unfamiliar with the background of events in Europe. He studied at the University of Edinburgh before and immediately following the First World War, during which he served two years in the British and American armies in France and Great Britain.

Tomlinson has a number of authoritative books to his credit, notably "Battle for the Hemisphere," "The Other Americas" and "New Road to Riches."

His most recent work, "Look Southward, Uncle," was published in 1959. Written for the layman, the book answers clearly and convincingly all the questions that the average North American could ask about his neighbors to the south.

In his book, Tomlinson explains to his readers the whole vast world that extends from the Rio Grande

Red Mail Be Censored

President General Robert H. Jackson in 1940. In a complicated interweaving of the Espionage Act of 1917 and the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938, Jackson ruled that the Post Office Department could seize large shipments of Nazi propaganda.

In 1948, the Post Office Department and the Customs Bureau revived Jackson's ruling to justify their interception and destruction of Communist propaganda. Sealed first-class mail was not censored. Jackson's ruling never was tested by the courts. At the time of Kennedy's order, however, the American Civil Liberties Union had several suits pending in federal courts, challenging the program's constitutionality.

It's Calumet vs. Marshalltown in Boys Finals

Indians Halt Tall Assumption 77-65

Mason City Loses by 14 To Defending Champions

DES MOINES (AP) — Brash little Calumet blasted tall Davenport Assumption out of the Boys State High School Basketball Tournament Friday night and meets defending champion Marshalltown for the 1961 title.

The Bobcats who have a 25-1 record, whipped Mason City 67-53 in the semi-finals after Calumet (28-1) coasted past Assumption 77-65 before a crowd of 11,000.

The championship game matches the favored Bobcats against a tiny team that has captured the fancy of the tournament fans. Calumet represents a school of 38 students which includes 26 boys. Marshalltown has 1,030 students and 557 boys. The two finalists will battle at 7:30 p.m. tonight. Assumption and Mason City clash at 6 p.m. for the consolation prize.

Sharp-shooting Calumet disregarded Davenport Assumption's height advantage to battle its way into the finals of the boys state basketball tournament with a 77-65 victory in Friday night's semi-finals.

The little Indians casually built up a lead over the Knights and used the reserves liberally in the final quarter against the baffled Assumption team.

Assumption attempted to stop the Calumet shooters with a zone defense in the first half but the Indians pulled to a 39-30 margin. Assumption then changed to a man-to-man defense but fared no better against the confidence of the Calumet club, which boosted its record to 28-1.

The Indians have only one player over the 6-foot mark while all but one of Assumption's starters towered above that level. But Calumet's balance, speed, passing and shooting more than made up for the difference.

Doug Swanson was the Calumet leader with 21 points, including 11 of 13 free throws. Bob Reider hit 17, Ron Waggoner scored 16 and Dan Dau added 10.

Assumption, suffering its sixth loss in 27 games, was paced by Bob Schebler, with 20 points. Karl Noonan scored 14.

Calumet hit 45 per cent of its shots from the field, connecting on 26 of 58 attempts. The Indians were even more deadly from the free throw line, scoring on 25 of 31 give shots.

Marshalltown used steady shooting from the free-throw line to whip Mason City, which held big Don Nelson to 10 of 11 gift shots for a total of 24 points.

The Bobcats connected on all 12 free-throw opportunities in the second quarter to break up the second quarter to break up what had been a tight ball game. They hit 27 of 34 free throws for the game, although connecting on only 20 of 67 field goals for 30 per cent.

Mason City outshot the Bobcats, hitting 20 of 60 field goals for 33 per cent. But the Mohawks got only 18 free throws and although they scored on 13 of them that was the difference.

Marshalltown led by as much as 12 points in the third quarter but Dick Woodhouse shot the Mohawks to within 3 points, 45-48 before the Bobcats pulled away.

Ron Miller pitched in 17 points for Marshalltown, including 15 in the first half. Top shooter for Mason City was Woodhouse with 18. Little Dick Wilfong added 12.

OSU Wins But Bonnies Upset

From Leased Wires

Wake Forest's 78-73 upset of St. Bonaventure and Louisville's 56-55 near-upset of Ohio State highlighted the semifinal rounds of the NCAA Regional Tournaments.

Cincinnati and Kansas State advanced in the Midwest regional at Lawrence, Kan. The Bearcats easily handled Texas Tech 78-55 and K-State downed Houston 75-64.

In other semifinal games around the country, St. Joseph's of Philadelphia defeated Princeton 72-67, Utah stopped Loyola of California 91-75 and Kentucky, whose next opponent is Ohio State, whipped Morehead 71-64.

John Havlicek rescued Ohio State in the closing seconds to edge underdog Louisville 56-55. The Buckeyes were in trouble most of the way and with the score tied with a minute left, it looked like Havlicek might be the goat.

Trying to fake his guard, he was called for steps, giving Louisville possession. But 13 seconds later, he intercepted a pass and hit the clinching basket with 18 seconds left.

Wake Forest fashioned another basketball miracle by upsetting St. Bonaventure, the nation's third ranked team, 78-73. The Deacons upset St. John's Tuesday to move to the semifinals.

St. Bonaventure held a five point lead early in the second half but Wake Forest shot ahead 49-48 with 15 minutes left and protected its margin in the face of the Bonnies' strong challenge.

The bout will be carried on ABC-TV.

Wright, who flattened Sugar Hart in an upset last month, has kayoed 16 opponents in 43 starts. Thompson's kayo record is 34 in 116 outings.

Nelson Named Most Valuable Hawk Player

Don Nelson, new owner of the all-time Iowa scoring mark for a single season, Friday was named the Hawks' most valuable player by his teammates for the second straight year.

The honor makes Nelson eligible for the Chicago Tribune's Silver Basketball award given annually to the player deemed the most valuable in the Big Ten. By being named for the second year, Nelson is in line to become the second player in Iowa history to receive the honor three consecutive years. The only Hawkeye to do that was Dave Gunther who was named in 1957-58-59 seasons.

Nelson, a 6-6 junior center from Rock Island, Ill., broke the all-time individual scoring record this season when he made 570 points, breaking the old mark of 561 set by Chuck Darling.

Nelson turned in his top performances second semester, after four teammates were declared ineligible at the end of the first semester. Iowa Coach Sharm Scheuerman, who has called Nelson "one of the finest players in the country," praised Nelson earlier in the season: "Don took on a lot of responsibility after the ineligibleities came up. He's done a real fine job."

Nelson set two other Iowa records this year: a new free throw total of 176 and a field goal accuracy mark of 522.

Other players already selected to compete for the Tribune award are Michigan's John Tidwell, Purdue's Terry Dischinger, Illinois' Dave Downey, Michigan State's Art Schwarm and Wisconsin's Ken Siebel.

Scheuerman To Coach in Shrine Tilt at Kansas City

Iowa Coach Sharm Scheuerman Friday was selected as one of two coaches for the 10th annual East-West Shrine basketball game in Kansas City March 28.

Scheuerman, whose Hawks compiled an 18-6 season record and finished in a second place tie in the Big Ten race, will coach the West squad. Eddie Donovan of St. Bonaventure will pilot the East team.

The game matches teams of outstanding seniors from universities throughout the country.

SUI Riflemen Host 18 Schools Today

Ninety sharpshooters representing 19 colleges will step to the firing line at 7 this morning in the SUI Army to take part in the National Rifle Association sectional meets, the sixth straight year it has been held here.

Four SUI teams, as well as the SUI women's team, will be competing with rifle teams from Minnesota, Wisconsin, Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, and Illinois.

The University of Kansas, winners the past two years, will not compete today.

The four-man teams will shoot in the kneeling, standing, and prone positions. There will be both team and individual competition, with trophies and medals awarded winners and high finishers in each division.

Referee for the meet will be Col. Charles G. Kirk, professor of Air Science.

Authorities Reveal N.Y. Basketball Fix

By MILTON LEWIS Herald Tribune News Service

NEW YORK — Another series of huge college basketball fix scandals — reminiscent of 10 years ago — began blossoming Friday.

District Atty. Frank S. Hogan's office, in announcing the arrest of two veteran gamblers on bribery charges, said that the two best players on the Seton Hall University quintet had each pocketed $1,000 to "lay down" points and that a sharpshooter on the University of Connecticut five had accepted $1,500 to do the same.

Aids to the Manhattan prosecutor, who also exposed the 1951 wholesale "behind the net" bribe talking of numerous college rebound artists, indicated it was too early to predict where the current inquiry, under way five months, will lead.

However, there were persistent reports it will involve from 15 to 25 institutions of higher learning, including three in New York City.

There have been strong rumors for some time that "things were back to normal," meaning that gamblers had many "roundball giants" in their bulging hip pockets. The two gamblers held were described as members of a nationwide syndicate. There were no charges filed against the three basketball players.

The alleged fixes involved the Seton Hall-Dayton University match Feb. 9 at Madison Square Garden, which Dayton ran away with 112-77, and the University of Connecticut-Colgate game at Hamilton, N. Y., on March 1, which Colgate took 83-71. In the know gamblers reportedly reaped harvests as a result, though the victories were expected. The import was the point-spread, meaning that the winners would win by at least so many points, the spread in the Garden game was 11 points and in the other, 5 points.

The Connecticut player allegedly involved was not identified, but the two from Seton Hall were named as Henry (Hank) Gunter and Art Hicks, both 21 and juniors. They, with the Connecticut student, were said to be co-operating with assistant District Atty. Peter D. Andreoli, in charge of the inquiry.

The two gamblers arrested on conspiracy to bribe charges were Aaron Wagman, 28, of New York, and Joseph Hacken, 41, of New York. Wagman was also accused of attempting to bribe one of District Atty. Hogan's detectives, David Campbell, with $100 and an offer to cut him in on the profits of the Colgate-Connecticut game.

In general sessions Friday, Judge Irwin D. Davidson held Wagman in $50,000 bail and Hacken in $25,000. This was after the bench was told that Wagman had obtained a passport only last Wednesday and may have planned to leave this country.

It was Wagman, according to Prosecutor Andreoli, who gave the $1,500 to the Connecticut player and that Hacken paid off the two Seton Hall students. The idea, it was explained, was to keep the points under control.

In the Seton Hall-Dayton match, Seton Hall trailed by only six points at half time, with Tunger, the 6-7 center, scoring 14 points, and Hicks, a 6-4 forward, dumping in 22 points in that first half. But in the second half, Dayton completely controlled the back board and piled up 64 points, going on to win by the runaway score of 112-77.

Gamblers had made Dayton a 5-point favorite and for a while before the game there evidently was suspicions of hanky-panky, because the betting commissioners had taken the game off the boards.

In the other game, at Hamilton, which Colgate won by 12 points, the gamblers did all right, because they had given odds that Colgate would win by at least 11 points.

The news came as a shock to officials of Connecticut and Seton Hall. The two Seton Hall players were considered outstanding professional material.

The Rev. Edward Fleming, vice president of Seton Hall, said, "The University will take no action until we receive further information from the District Atty's office."

The Connecticut basketball coach, Hugh Greer, said he was "completely crushed" by the news, adding, "I had no idea of anything like this. Nothing like this ever happened to me before in all my years of coaching." He has been at Connecticut for 14 years.

District Atty. Hogan emphasized that there were no charges against the three basketball players allegedly involved. His office explained that the only reason it confirmed the names of the two Seton Hall students was because the University had first identified them. And Mr. Hogan's office refused to identify the Connecticut player because that institution has not done so.

Powerful Marshall Takes Easy Win In Illinois Tourney

From Leased Wires

Defending champion Chicago Marshall easily defeated Danville Schlarman to join Peoria Manual and Collinsville in the semifinals of the Illinois High School Basketball Tournament.

In the other quarterfinal game, Thornton defeated Springfield 54-52.

Marshall displayed little of its prowess but had more than enough rebounding strength to score the one-sided 61-36 victory over Danville Schlarman.

Top-ranked Collinsville, led by all-starer Bogie Redmon, smashed Rockford East, 71-48. The talented Kahoks, seeking to become the fifth undefeated team to cop the big trophy, scored their 30th consecutive victory with unexpected ease.

Bob Caress canned a pair of free throws with 16 seconds to play to give Thornton of Harvey its 54-52 victory over a fighting Springfield team.

'Town and Atom' Exhibit Coming Here April 14-16

The "Town and Atom," mobile exhibit of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) will begin a tour of 31 Iowa cities March 22. The exhibit, a part of the AEC's "Atoms for Peace" program, is sponsored by the Iowa Junior Chamber of Commerce, the Engineering Extension Division of Iowa State University and the Extension Division of SUI. The exhibit will be in Iowa City on April 14-16.

The free exhibit will tell the role of the peaceful atom in our everyday life. Research and developments in the field of atomic energy are explained, covering areas ranging from mining and refining of radioactive ores to the construction of nuclear reactors designed to provide electric power. Applications of this new science are illustrated in the peacetime fields of medicine, power production, industry, agriculture and research.

Because radioactive substances can be readily detected with instruments like the Geiger counter and yet react normally in the body, they serve as valuable tools in medical diagnosis, also illustrated in the mobile exhibit. One of the growing uses in the medical field is the treatment of cancerous tissue by therapy machines emitting beams of intense radiation that destroy diseased cells too deeply imbedded or too risky to remove by surgery.

Another display in the exhibit is a panel, operated by the spectator, which shows how a nuclear reactor using atomic fuel can produce heat to convert water into steam just as a standard furnace does. The steam, in turn, activates a turbine and generator to produce electricity. The submarines Nautilus and Seawolf use this method of nuclear propulsion.

Other exhibits will show the uses of atomic energy in agriculture. Radioactive elements and compounds in fertilizers, for example, have provided much information on the value of these fertilizers, in many types of crops. Rays given off by radioactive substances have been used in genetic tests to produce new different types of plants — disease-resistant wheat and corn, and thin-shelled peanuts. Work is now in progress using this same radiation to kill bacteria which cause spoilage in foodstuffs, eliminating the need for freezing and canning for preservation of food.

The University began teaching nuclear engineering on the graduate level in 1953, and has conducted a number of engineering extension courses dealing with nuclear problems.

Besides the teaching of atomic structure and atomic energy, SUI also carries on a variety of basic research involving "the atom," ranging from the studies of atomic principles conducted by the SUI Physics Department, through the use of radioactive materials as "tracers" to learn more about plant life in botany and zoology, to the employment of other radioactive material for both treatment of disease and fundamental research in the SUI Medical Center.

U.S. Confirms Independent African Policy

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United Nations confirmed Friday that it would pursue an independent policy on African problems while maintaining a deep and common interest with its Western allies.

The U.S. position was outlined in a statement to the press explaining the vote of Chief Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson in the U.N. Security Council Wednesday night on a proposal for reforms in Portuguese Angola.

On this issue, the United States voted along with the Soviet Union and three Asian-African countries. Britain, France and four other countries abstained.

Friday's statement by Francis W. Carpenter, U.S. delegation spokesman, said the U.S. decision to vote for the Angola resolution was made only after Stevenson had consulted with State Department officials and after approval by Secretary of State Dean Rusk and President Kennedy.

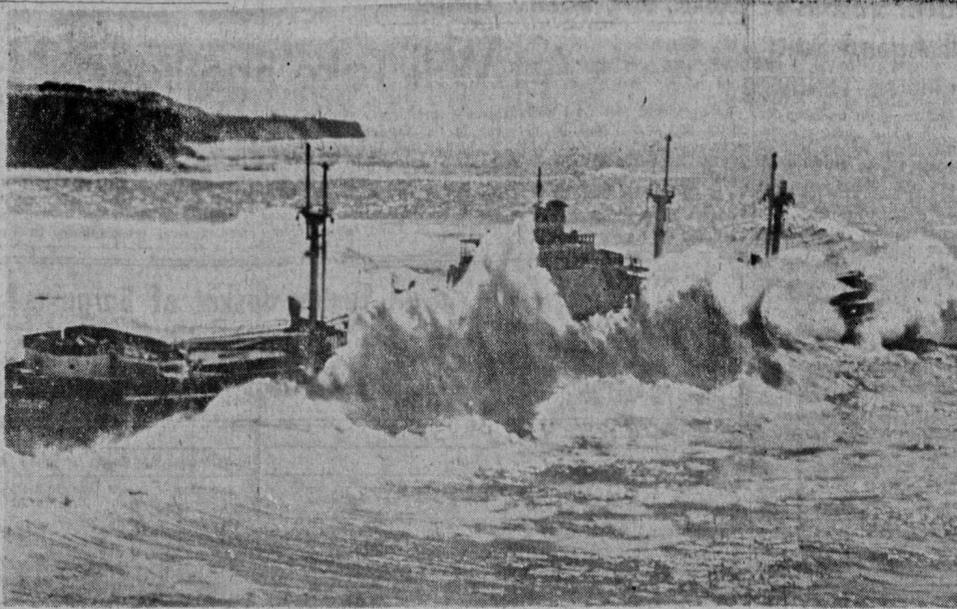

"The policy decisions behind the vote, which were all reflected in Gov. Stevenson's speech before the Security Council," Carpenter said "had been carefully considered."

The U.S. vote created a sensation at the United Nations and was followed Thursday morning by another U.S. vote which was at odds with the votes of Britain and France. The latter was on a resolution censuring the Union of South Africa for its actions in the territory of South-West Africa.

Asian and African nations were jubilant over the apparent change in U.S. policy, but some questioned whether this was a one- or two-shot affair rather than a real change. There also were doubts among some as to whether Stevenson had acted hastily without approval in Washington.

Western reaction was mostly in the nature of private comment.

The sharpest criticism came from Portugal, where the Lisbon newspaper Diario da Manha attacked the U.S. vote as "stupidity." The paper said the United States had lined up "with the Reds against a partner that is on the same side in the battlefield. It was an act of stupidity."

Surf Batters Grounded Greek Freighter

Frats Will Hold Non-Rush Open Houses Sunday

A look at SUI fraternity life is offered to interested SUIowans at non-rush open houses this Sunday at the 20 social fraternities from 1-5 p.m.

Denny Porter, A4, Ames, and Bill Ellis, A2, Fort Dodge, co-chairmen of the Interfraternity Council Rush Committee, have announced the event is not a rush in the usual sense, but rather a chance for anyone to find out from the fraternity members how a chapter is set up and operates.

Invitations have been mailed to dormitory residents, but Ellis emphasized that any interested student could take part.

Rides to the chapter houses may be obtained by calling the Fraternity Affairs Office, x2191.

British Suggest New Disarm Plan

LONDON (AP) — Leaders of Britain's Commonwealth ended their 10-day talks Friday with a dramatic plan to halt the world arms race — and to seat Red China at the negotiating table.

The leaders suggested an international army be set up to enforce the laws of any agreed new disarmament pact after all nations' military forces are reduced to the minimum needed to maintain internal security.

To set the plan in motion, they urged the major powers open a disarmament meeting as soon as possible.

Demanding abolition of nuclear arms, they declared: "In view of the slaughter and destruction experienced in so-called 'conventional' wars and of the difficulty of preventing a conventional war, once started, from developing into a nuclear war, our aim must be nothing less than the complete abolition of the means of waging war in any kind."

The multiracial alliance of nations omitted any mention of the bitter dispute over racial segregation that led South Africa to decide to quit the Commonwealth.

By tradition, Commonwealth communiques deal only with issues on which all leaders agree. And Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd of South Africa was one of the signers. South Africa does not quit the Commonwealth until it becomes a republic May 31.

But there were plenty of post-script comments by individual Commonwealth leaders on Verwoerd's decision.

Prime Minister Nehru of India told reporters he felt "no elation but pure relief" at the development. He said he doubted if this precedent of assailing the internal policies of a member country will break up the Commonwealth, something Verwoerd predicted.

Hurrying back to Ottawa, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker told an applauding Parliament that to permit South Africa to remain in the Commonwealth would be to condone a racial policy abhorred by Canadians. Diefenbaker said Verwoerd himself brought up apartheid, thus making it possible for the Commonwealth leaders to sidestep tradition and discuss the internal affairs of a member.

In their plan — offered as a bridge between the positions of the U.S. and Soviet giants — the leaders did not directly refer to Red

China's presence in the new negotiations. But a British minister who participated in the meetings was authorized to explain that Red China was in mind when the leader said: "The principal military powers should resume direct negotiations without delay in close contact with the United Nations."

The phrase "in close contact with the United Nations" would let in Red China, which is not a member of the world body.

Opposes Aid To Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for Lutheran Church leaders Friday opposed any form of federal aid for church-controlled schools.

In testimony before a House Education subcommittee, Robert E. Van Deusen, representing the National Lutheran Council, said the responsibility for religious training rests solely with the church, not the Government.

The Lutherans, who operate an extensive school system, thus lined up in opposition to the Roman Catholic hierarchy in the United States, which is urging federal loans for church-controlled schools.

Van Deusen was one of several witnesses who testified on the Administration's proposal to grant $2.3 billion over a three-year period to the states for either public school construction or teachers' salaries. The hearings are expected to last at least one more week.

Msr. Frederick Hochwalt, speaking for the Catholic hierarchy, said Thursday that despite his church's strong stand for federal loans to church schools, individual Catholics in Congress are free to vote according to their conscience on the issue.

Joanne Kershaw Chosen Currier Hall President

Currier Hall officers were elected Friday. New officers are: president, Joanne Kershaw, A3, Dallas, Tex.; vice president, Helen Buikema, P2, Audubon; secretary, Nancy Phillips, A2, Bettendorf; treasurer, Susan Miller, A2, Des Moines; and Student Council representatives Suzanne Bales, A3, Sioux Rapids, Clary Illian, A2, Cedar Rapids, and Jean Fuller, A2, Cherokee.

Department Joins Integration Suits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department Friday joined four federal court suits aimed at integrating various public schools scattered throughout Louisiana.

The department also asked the New Orleans federal court for a permanent injunction against enforcement of two recent anti-integration acts of the state legislature.

These acts authorized state courts to impose fines and imprisonment on persons encouraging or assisting others to attend or work at schools operated on a racially segregated basis.

The department said the effect of these laws would be to harass and intimidate groups such as some now active in New Orleans and Baton Rouge which are seeking to promote peaceful solutions to desegregation orders now outstanding in Louisiana.

Happy St. Pat's Car

"I can lick the Mick who did this trick," said G. D. (Dick) Hartman Friday in Davenport as he looked over the Kelly green paint job done to his yellow and white car as a St. Patrick's Day gesture. Hartman suspects Irish friends. He commented, "Maybe they don't know it, but there's going to be a Von Hindenberg day."

Cold Chills Irish Spirit In St. Patrick Parade

NEW YORK (AP) — For the second year in a row, bitter weather chilled the ardor of New York's Irish as they marched up Fifth Avenue in the annual St. Patrick's Day parade. They were buffeted by a wind as cold as the devil's very heart.

But the parade was most colorful, in a way — with the white breath of spectators, the red cheeks of marchers, the green line up the avenue, the bright golden sun, the scarlet kilts of a visiting Irish regiment from Canada, and the chilled blue legs of high-stepping drum majorettes.

The great day dawned with a temperature of 18 degrees above zero. When Patrolman Thomas P. Mullahy, only 11 years removed from the old sod, blew a blast on his whistle to set the marchers off at 12:04 p.m., it was 26 degrees.

Some 115,000 marchers were scheduled to take part. But the cold thinned their ranks, as it did that of spectators. Only in midtown were the four-and five-deep crowds up to the standard of other years.

Not since 1957, has the so-called luck of the Irish held out on Paddy's Day. Last year, snow, sleet, fog and drizzle cut the line of march to 75,000, on the foulest holiday since March 17, 1933, when deep snow forced a cancellation of the parade.

COSTS DOWN
MASS PRODUCTION
VOLUME UP
The better it runs — the better you live!
Volume goes up — prices come down. Cheaper by the dozen, cheaper still by the million. That's because advertising is on the job, building mass markets. Then increased demand makes more jobs — puts more money into circulation for bigger buying power. It's the American cycle of productivity and plenty, and there's no limit to what it can do for all of us.
