

University Tuition Raised $50 Yearly

One-Year ROTC Plan Goes to Regents

New Rates Here Effective This Fall

May Vote On Program Next Month

Officials Ask Change To Go into Effect At Semester's End

A recommendation that men students at SU be required to enroll for only one year of ROTC activities, rather than for two years as at present, was made Friday to the State Board of Regents by SU officials.

The Regents took the recommendation under advisement and will vote on it at a future meeting, perhaps in June.

As recommended by the University, the change would take effect at the end of the present semester, and would relieve present freshmen from taking the sophomore year of ROTC as is presently required. The reduced requirement, if accepted by the regents, would be in effect for two years, at the end of which time it is hoped that a new ROTC program will be inaugurated.

During their regular meeting, held this month on the campus of Iowa State University, Ames, the regents were told by SU President Virgil M. Hancher that the basic ROTC requirement has been under study for 18 months by a special faculty committee from the SU College of Liberal Arts, in consultation with ROTC officials and the U.S. Department of Defense.

The final recommendation to have the basic ROTC requirement that a reduction will not seriously jeopardize enrollment in advanced ROTC, and that one year of training will provide an adequate introduction to military and air science, Hancher told the regents.

Experiences at other institutions which have already reduced or eliminated their basic ROTC requirements do not yet conclusively indicate whether two years of basic ROTC are necessary to provide sufficient introduction for advanced ROTC, as some believe, or whether a compulsory two-year program serves in fact to discourage some students from applying for advanced training, as others believe, Hancher reported.

It is, however, generally agreed that the University should provide programs which enable SU men who desire to do so to earn reserve commissions, Hancher said. Defense and academic officials alike also agree that the modern civilian-soldier needs a variety of academic training, he said, noting that basic ROTC students have recently been permitted to substitute certain academic courses for required military coursework.

One of the proposals now being considered by the Department of Defense, where the entire ROTC program has been under study for some time, is a two-year, scholarship-supported ROTC plan, Hancher told the regents. Under this proposal, students would take two years and two summers of ROTC training, for which the cadets would receive $125 monthly — a total scholarship of $2,875 for 23 months of ROTC enrollment.

Cost of the proposed scholarship program would be largely offset by savings which would result from other suggested changes also currently under study, Hancher said. It would also release approximately 1,000 officers and perhaps 1,400 non-commissioned officers for other assignments, he indicated.

Dean Dewey B. Stuit of the SU College of Liberal Arts, and Colonel Herbert W. Mansfield, head of the Army ROTC program at SU, are the principal authors of the proposed two-year, scholarship supported program now under study by the Department of Defense, Hancher said.

John Weaver Chosen SUI Graduate Dean

JOHN WEAVER New Graduate Dean

John C. Weaver, dean of the University of Nebraska graduate college since 1957, Friday was appointed Vice President for Research, Dean of the Graduate College and Professor of Geography at SU. Weaver will assume his new duties July 15.

Weaver's appointment was approved by the State Board of Regents, which held its May meeting at Ames Thursday and Friday.

The SU graduate deanship has been filled on an "acting" basis by Stow Persons, professor of history, since the death last August of Dean Walter Loehwing. Weaver will be SU's first Vice President for Research, a position made necessary by the volume of research grants now being provided by various off-campus agencies to many SU departments and the need for increased emphasis in this area, SU President Virgil M. Hancher told the Regents.

ISU, ISTC Share SUI's Court Costs For Union Case

Iowa State University and Iowa State Teachers College will share the cost of SUI's recent successful defense of a suit brought to enjoin the University from building three additions to the Iowa Memorial Union.

Because the suit, if lost by SUI as defendant, could have had implications for self-liquidating operations on the other two campuses, especially dormitories, the regents agreed that the institutions should share in legal, travel and research costs involved in the suit's defense.

Total costs of $12,536 were apportioned on the basis of $6,536 to SUI, $4,000 to ISU, and $2,000 to ISTC. SUI's portion will be paid from Iowa's portion of non-tax funds. The suit was brought by three Iowa trade associations.

Hancher Appoints 2 Profs To Athletic Control Board

JONES HUBBARD

Two appointments to the Board in Control of Athletics were announced today by SU President Virgil M. Hancher.

Appointed are Philip Hubbard, professor of mechanics and hydraulics, and James Jones, professor of pharmacy.

Jones was re-appointed for a six-year term beginning July 1, 1961, and ending June 30, 1967. Six-year terms for board members are provided by the revised system recently proposed by Hancher and approved by the State Board of Regents. Board members previously served indefinite terms. Hubbard was appointed to fill earned bachelor's, master's and doctoral degrees in geography at the University of Wisconsin. He taught geography at the University of Minnesota for nine years and was subsequently dean of arts and sciences at Kansas State College for two years prior to his appointment to the Nebraska faculty.

Weaver, 45, has served as a research consultant and as a member of advisory committees for such bodies as the federal Research and Development Board, the Office of Naval Research and the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. He recently held a Carnegie Foundation Administrative Fellowship as a research administrator.

To Start Sale Of Card Seats On Tuesday

Card section seats for next fall's home football games will go on sale Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. at the Old Information Desk at the Union.

The 900 seats will be assigned for the entire football season on a first-come, first-serve basis at $1 for two seats. Purchasers will be given a receipt to pick up badges at a time to be announced in the fall.

A permanent seating chart will be made out at the time of purchase. For that reason, if two or more people wish to have seats together, it will be necessary to sign up at the same time.

Card section practices will be held on Wednesday preceding home games at 4 p.m. in the Stadium. Tickets will be given out at that time. Any person absent from a Wednesday practice will be expelled from the card section for the remainder of the year. For that reason the Pep Club Committee requests that anyone with a Wednesday afternoon conflict not sign up for seats.

The vacancy rule also applies during games. If any seat or pair of seats is left vacant after 12:50 p.m. the day of a game, the person assigned the seats will be expelled from the section for the remainder of the games. Names and numbers of card section members will be checked on a master list at the special card section entrance, one aisle on the outer gate of the Stadium.

This fall the card section will perform in conjunction with the band in both pre-game and half-time shows.

Kelly Trial Postponed For 2 Weeks

Toomey Overrules Acquittal Motions By SUI Law Prof

The trial of Daniel L. Kelly, former SUI freshman charged with disorderly conduct, was continued for two weeks in Police Court Friday morning.

The courtroom was filled to capacity and onlookers overflowed into the halls — some even stood outside and viewed the proceedings through open windows.

Acting Judge J. Newman Toomey gave attorneys two weeks to file briefs. Frank R. Kennedy, professor of law at SUI, is Kelly's defense counsel, and City Atty. William F. Saeppel is acting for the city.

Patrolmen Ronald Dreyer and Wayne Winter, who filed the charge, accused Kelly of sleeping on a table in the Downtown Laundrette, 226 S. Clinton St., about 2 a.m. April 23.

The policemen testified that Kelly was clad only in a pair of khaki trousers when they found him, and that his shirt and socks were in a washer.

Kennedy moved twice for acquittal on the grounds that the section of the city code does not specify that sleeping in a public or semi-public place does not constitute disorderly conduct. He also charged that the police action was unconstitutional.

Kennedy made the motions near the beginning of the trial, after the prosecution had completed its case, but Toomey overruled both motions.

Kelly and a friend, Carl Jablonski, were called as defense witnesses. They testified that there was no disturbance, as did the patrolmen.

Dreyer said this was the first time in his memory that police had filed a disorderly conduct charge for sleeping in a public or semi-public place.

Winter testified that he and Dreyer would not have arrested Kelly if he had been wearing a shirt and shoes — even though he was sleeping on the table.

Both policemen said they were "shocked" to see Kelly asleep on the table clad only in trousers, and said they filed the charge because they thought women who use the laundry would be shocked too.

After completion of the testimony, Toomey reduced Kelly's bond from $100 to $35 pending a ruling on the case.

Kelly had originally pleaded guilty to Police Judge Jay Honohan on the charge April 23 and was fined $25.

Two days later, Kelly said he was seated in an Iowa City cafe drinking a soft drink when Dreyer entered. Kelly said Dreyer told him that Iowa City has a curfew law which forbids anyone to be on the street without a reasonable excuse after 11 p.m., and told him to go home. This incident, however, did not come out in the hearing Friday morning.

Several groups on campus — as well as individuals — have expressed concern with what they feel is police harassment of a private citizen.

One of the individuals, James L. Kelley, L.S. Algona, went to Kennedy and asked him to defend Kelly. Kennedy agreed, and withdrew the guilty plea to one of innocent. This is the first local case Kennedy has ever handled.

Kennedy is an internationally known expert on bankruptcy and trade regulation. He has instructed courses at SUI in those fields, as well as in constitutional law.

Toomey is hearing the case because Judge Honohan withdrew. Said Honohan: "Because of the furor created by a certain group as to alleged police excesses and alleged coercion, I withdrew in order to afford all parties concerned an impartial trial."

Rusk, Gromyko Meet Today on Laos Issue

GENEVA (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk decided early today to meet Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko face to face to see if they could solve the issue of who should speak for the Laotian people at the East-West conference in Laos.

Wrangling over the Soviet Union's insistence that the pro-Communist Pathet Lao be given full status as a government at the conference table prevented the 14-nation meeting from getting under way Friday as planned.

The Rusk-Gromyko meeting is expected to take place this morning.

The outcome may determine whether the conference, called according to both sides, to seek means of making Laos a peaceful and neutral nation, eventually gets started or not.

Rusk has firmly rejected the seating of the Pathet Lao faction with full governmental status. Not even the Soviet Union has recognized it as a government but wants it seated with equality with the pro-Western government of Premier Prince Boun Oum.

Rusk advanced two firm demands that prevented the conference from opening Friday as scheduled.

First, Rusk insisted there could be no conference unless there was certification from the three-nation International Control Commission in Laos that an actual cease-fire existed. He was satisfied on that point by a report from the Indian-Canadian-Polish commission.

Second, Rusk refused to agree that the pro-Communist Pathet Lao could be seated at the conference as though it were a government of Laos, as the Soviets demanded.

It was on this point that efforts to open the conference broke down.

AMES (AP) — Choosing what it called the lesser of two evils, the State Board of Regents Friday approved tuition boosts at SUI, Iowa State Teachers College and Iowa State University.

Tuition was hiked $50 a year for state residents attending SUI, $26 a year at ISTC and $45 a year at ISU.

The increase will go into effect next fall, the regents said. The boost in student fees is expected to bring in an additional $1.2 million annually to bolster faculty salaries and other operations at the three regents' institutions.

The regents approved the tuition increases after presidents of the three schools warned that if more money were not made available it probably would result in a curtailment of enrollment.

The regents had asked the 1961 legislature for about $50 million annually for operation of the institutions but was allocated only about $42 million.

The increases will raise the yearly tuition costs at SUI from $240 to $290. Non-resident fees were boosted from $520 to $620 yearly.

At ISU, the increase raises tuition costs from $207 a year to $252. Non-resident fees were boosted from $522 to $600.

The present yearly tuition of $220 at ISTC was raised to $246.

An operating budget of $17,006,949 was approved for SUI next year. The budget approved for ISU was $13,467,400 and a budget of $4,569,200 was approved for Iowa Teachers.

The regents also approved an operating budget of $856,200 for the School for the Deaf at Council Bluffs next year and a budget of $485,700 for the Iowa Braille and Sight Saving School at Vinton.

Lester Gillette of Fostoria, a member of the Board of Regents, said the board "finds itself in a critical position" because of the appropriation made by the Legislature.

He said the Legislature and the present Iowa administration "did not take into account the needs of the institutions." He said the appropriations were based on what money was available.

He said this left the board with "two choices and none of them good — curtailed enrollment or increased tuition."

Gillette said increasing fees would be the least objectionable but added "this certainly will not hold true a year from now when we again will be faced with having to raise tuition and possibly curtail enrollment."

Virgil M. Hancher, president of SUI, said that with a tuition increase it would be possible to reverse a trend toward a loss of quality which the institutions now are experiencing because of a loss of faculty and a cutback in programs.

"We'll probably come back to the board for a further increase to meet salary adjustments and other needs in the second year of the biennium," Hancher said.

He also indicated his school will start a campaign for scholarships and loans for deserving students. ISU President James Hilton told the board "we'll be forced to close the door" on students if a tuition increase is not granted.

J. W. Maucker, president of ISTC, said an increase was needed at the Cedar Falls school because about 175 more students are expected next fall than were figured on in the school's legislative askings.

SUI Hospitals Increase Rates For Patients

University Hospitals and Psychopathic Hospital must increase their charges to private and "clinical pay" patients in order to make up at least part of the difference between what the hospitals need and what they will get under last week's state appropriation bill, SU President Hancher said. Like the University, he pointed out, the health units face stiff competition for skilled staff members and cost increases in virtually every item needed for patient care.

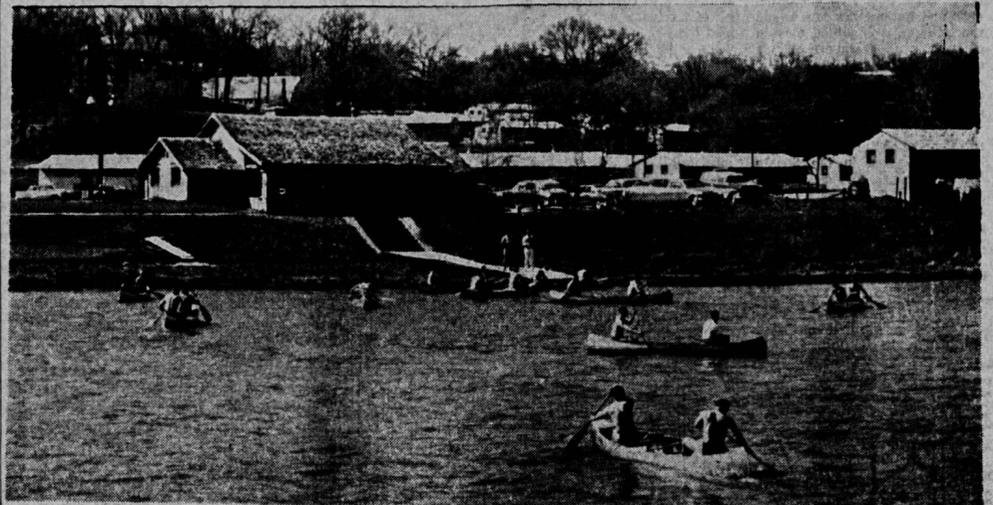

As approved by the Regents, tuitions will increase in all of SUI's ten colleges, except that in the graduate college the increase will be the same ($50 yearly) for both resident and non-resident students.

Present tuition rates per academic year (two semesters) in SUI's ten colleges are as follows: Liberal Arts, Business Administration, Education, Engineering, Nursing and Pharmacy, $240 for Iowa residents, $560 for non-residents; Dentistry, $420 and $820; Graduate, $280 and $280; Law, $280 and $560; and Medicine, $420 and $820.

While last week's legislative appropriation provided some additional salary funds, these were sufficient only to bring SUI academic salaries to third place in the 11-state area as the 1959-60 salary schedules — three years behind the regent's goal of "catching up and keeping up" to salary levels anticipated in the 11 states for this next fall.

University Hospital charges will be increased by 12 and a half per cent to patients other than those cared for through the state's indigent patient program, for which the funds are appropriated by the General Assembly. Similarly, patient rates will be increased by 17 per cent at Psychiatric Hospital.

Including the additional income from the tuition increases, the University's general educational fund for 1961-62 will be $17,006,949, in addition to which SUI will have $350,000 for repairs, replacements and alterations.

Greeks Are Individuals

To the Editor:

I am tired of sitting back and listening to, "The Greeks are this and that," and "The Greeks do such and such," and "The Greeks believe so and so."

This is not a defense of the Greek system per se, but a defense of one individual within the system.

I resent having values attributed to me that I do not hold, just because I am a member of a sorority.

I attempt to affect rather than reflect my environment. I don't deny that my ideas have been modified and expanded by my affiliation, but I refuse to be stereotyped as brainwashed and biased.

These organizations which employ self-criticism in an attempt to improve the structure and concept of their groups are far ahead of those individuals who only criticize others.

Chi Omega Clause Sort of Eliminated

To the Editor:

There seems to be some confusion on the "white Christian" initiation question of Chi Omega.

Last week when I asked a Chi Omega member of the SUI chapter if the discriminatory clause asking if the pledge is a "Christian of the White Race" was still in the initiation ceremony, she responded, "Well, sort of, but they are trying to eliminate it."

Without this last week's information I would not have written my first letter. My Chi Omega initiation had been some years ago and it was not entirely conceivable to me that a social Greek organization might be susceptible to progress in social justice.

What was meant by "sort of" and who is "trying"? How shall we explain the difference in the answer you received, Mr. Editor, and the one I received as a "sister" from another chapter?

Profligate Personalities— PORK Head Owes Success To Mom, Many Contacts

By ED HUGHES

"I just as well be hung a sheep as a goat," says Cary Grunt, A2, Iowa City, staunch young president of Party of Reactionary Knights — (PORK).

Grunt, in fact, has not yet been hung for either a sheep or a goat. But his wit makes light of the fact that he was hung in effigy as a hog March 24 when the John Birch Society protested certain remarks in his speech before PORK that night.

Grunt, conspicuously active in campus affairs since his arrival here seven years ago, shot into the real limelight suddenly last month when he claimed proof (waving affidavits) that the Birch-ites were entirely too soft on Communists.

Grunt, conspicuously active in campus affairs since his arrival here seven years ago, shot into the real limelight suddenly last month when he claimed proof (waving affidavits) that the Birch-ites were entirely too soft on Communists.

"I've found out they're stupid. So, last year, I decided to do something about it. I formed PORK."

In doing this, Grunt formed a vital force in local campus affairs. The effigy event, Grunt maintains, merely served to highlight what he's been doing since he came to college.

"I hate people," says Grunt, "who talk like liberals, who act like liberals, but who underneath it all are really Communists at heart. I hate people like that."

Grunt's willingness to voice his strong convictions have been slow to win his new listeners, but his influence is growing. Until the night of the famous speech, Grunt had only three listeners. PORK now has seven members, says Grunt, and four of them are "very, very good listeners."

"This never discouraged me, though," says Grunt, "things are beginning to pick up. I always knew what I was doing was right. It just had to be. I have faith about things like this. I started life in a very low station — a pippen, in fact — and I know what life is about."

"My mother is responsible for all my success. Mom gave me all my ideas. She never had me schooling, and she always said that at least one of her kids was going to get some schooling. I happened to be the schooling of the litter, so she groomed me for school by giving me all her ideas."

"My father didn't help much. In fact, he didn't help at all. He went off shortly after I was born and played one of the leads in "Animal Farm." We haven't heard from him since.

"But Mom worked hard to get me in school; I'm proud of Mom. "Don't get me wrong, though. I'm proud of all my supporters. I'm proud of PORK. I'm proud of my sisters and brothers for sacrificing everything to make PORK possible. I'm even proud of Dad in a way; he gave me a taste for the public life. I hate people who say 'I'm not proud.'"

"I'll tell you why. I used to play football, but when I found out they called it a 'pigskin,' I was sick for a week. "I never went back, after that," he said musily.

Grunt, whose cumulative grade-point is 1.34, shrugs off overemphasis on scholarship.

"Grades aren't everything. Education is important, of course. Mom said so. But making contacts is more important. I'm too busy making contacts to study. I've had pretty good luck making contacts, so I guess you might say that compensates for the slightly under-par grades. Last week alone, I made 83 new contacts. They'll come in handy."

Grunt, his tiny eyes peering restlessly around him, outlined his future plans for PORK. "I'm just now beginning to know what's around here. PORK has recently started an investigation of the faculty and administration. You'd be surprised at all the leftist ideas given out in class. The whole place is full of Communies and white slavers. But primarily, we're after the Communies."

"But don't get me wrong," Grunt added, "I think a certain amount of playing around with new ideas is all right, but not too much. Take me, for example, I read that Communist sheet, 'The National Review,' every-time I get the chance. It gives me an idea what I got to cope with. I believe in keeping up. I hate people who don't keep up."

"We're looking into that guy Goldwater, too. Anybody that popular, there's something fishy about him. He's a dissenter. We got to keep our country free from dissenters. Anything I hate, it's dissenters."

Grunt, currently running for president of the All-Dorm Ties-for-Supper Club, says he is banking on his recent publicity to win him the election.

"After all, you got to be practical about things like this. Most slob, they just get up a petition and go around making speeches. They got no name. Me, I'm ambitious, so I get a name. That's why I'll win that election."

What's Cary Grunt's key to success? "Clean living, pure thinking, and a glass of milk a day," he says. Then he adds, sucking on an empty tooth socket.

"And contacts; you got to have contacts. No contacts, and you're dead."

Peace Corps Must Battle State Department's Shadow

By DAROLD POWERS

Written for the D

America's Peace Corps volunteers will meet suspicious overseas as to their motives because of America's great richness and its association with European colonial powers.

This was stressed at a panel discussion of international students here recently by Subramanian Shastri, India.

"There will be the shadow of the State Department at all times," he declared. Though he thought suspicions could be overcome, he also reported that Russian technicians — coming from a poorer country with no West European alignments — do not arouse the same initial suspicion.

Shastri emphasized that the world knows what American leaders say and that what they say about the Peace Corps will be an element in its acceptance overseas. In this connection, one might wonder how Asians, Africans and Latin Americans would react to some simplified version of the Senate hearing exchange quoted earlier which would depict Sen. Fulbright as chuckling that the Peace Corps must be a good thing because the Russians were afraid of it — or what they might make of Barry Goldwater's Feb. 24 remark in the Senate that the Peace Corps idea appealed to him because "... such a program can maintain and promote the respect of our Republic in foreign countries."

There is no indication that underdeveloped nations desire to be a party to attempts via the Peace Corps to put Russia on the defensive or to promote respect for America.

In a letter to this reporter Gamal Abdel Nasser, President of the United Arab Republic and a spokesman for African neutralism, said, "... the Youth Corps, proposed by the American President, would serve a good purpose, should it aim, solely and in good faith, at the promotion of economic and social development in emergent countries, without any attempt or intention to exert or cultivate special political influence..."

Nasser indicated uneasiness about possible "re-infiltration and revival of extraneous dominance in newly independent countries."

A panelist with a related reservation about the Peace Corps mentioned fear that it might be used for political bargaining. Peace Corps volunteers want to "fight problems, not people." They see the Peace Corps as non-political. In a real sense, so do its planners. But the Communist bloc has to think otherwise. Not do underdeveloped nations unanimously discount the possibility of foreign policy motives behind the Peace Corps. Volunteers will not be trained as spies, secret agents, provocateurs, political missionaries or agitators. As far as they are concerned, their work will be humanitarian. But for better or worse, the Peace Corps cannot escape the bloc realities of this era. If it is to serve peace and not to produce unnecessary new friction, then we must search out and give due recognition to all its domestic and international implications — intended or not — for the cold war.

SUlowan's Wife, Mother of 6, Prepares for 'Her' Day

She Is Hostess Sunday; Triplets, Others 'Help'

By SANDY FAUS
Staff Writer

Mrs. Donovan McDonough, a pixie-faced woman looking much too young to have six children, anxiously looked out the door at 605 Finkbine.

"Have you had measles?" Bev asked worriedly as her spotted two-year-old son, Sean, ambled into the living room.

The triplets — who will be five months old on Mother's Day — were quiet in the other room. There are two boys, Seamus and Padriac, and a girl Siobhan. Daughter Kelly, 3, played outside, while first grader Terry, 6, Bev's daughter by a previous marriage, was in school.

Quiet seemed to be the usual rather than the unusual in the crowded two-bedroom barracks apartment. While peace might be fitting in the home of an English Ph.D. candidate, it is extraordinary with six children.

The reason for the calm was Bev. Yes, there were storms — Sean wanted to ride his trike outside which he couldn't do because of his measles.

— Coming in from outside, Kelly announced, "I don't like the triplets!"

— And Siobhan got hungry.

Bev's quiet manner quelled the upsets in a few minutes. Her skill with children is understandable, however, because during the five years between high school and her marriage to Don in 1956 she worked with mentally retarded children at Sonoma State Hospital, Eldridge, Calif.

While the house may seem serene, for Bev it's busy from 7 a.m. until midnight.

First there is housework in the cramped apartment. The living room is crowded with books and used furniture. A large chronological map of writers "to help Don with his comprehensives" hangs over the couch.

One bedroom is filled with the triplets and their paraphernalia, while the other bedroom is occupied by the three eldest children. Bev and Don sleep on the living room couch.

And there is washing. Five loads of clothes go into her own machine and dryer each day. The triplets use two to three dozen diapers every day.

With a blender Bev makes all the baby food as "it's too expensive to buy." Still, the family uses three quarts of milk a day, and will double as soon as the triplets are off their bottles.

Two lunches must be prepared as Terry comes home at noon, while Don arrives about 12:30.

There's no rest for Bev while Sean and Kelly take their naps. Then Bev has to do tasks that she can't do when they're awake as their "help" slows her down. Also, nap-time is the only time she can play with the triplets.

After dinner, Don goes back to his office to study until midnight, and Bev does the ironing or extra housework. Don studied at home when they first came to SUI in fall, 1959, but he finds it impossible now.

"I'll be glad when we can have a house," Bev sighs. Don will graduate a year from now, and then plans to teach in college.

At present preparations are being made for Mother's Day company. Don's mother, Mrs. Miller McDonough, Mason City, and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pfander, Marshalltown, will arrive in Iowa City today for the weekend.

In her spare time — when there is any — Bev reads. But every day as she works, she listens to WSUI because "They have good music in the afternoons."

Bev and Don find it almost impossible to go out together in the evenings because of the children. They take turns going to Ingmar Bergman films and other events they want to see.

"It seems as though it's always Don's turn," she smiled.

On May 27, however, they're planning to attend Shakespeare's "Troilus and Cressida" — the third time they've gone out together since the triplets were born Dec. 15.

But the occasion is a little special — Bev will be 28 the next day.

Special Treatment

Hungry, and a wee bit off schedule is Siobhan, the last of the triplets to come from the hospital. The treatment is a little special because when all three are fed at once, they are placed in their separate cribs with their bottles. After all, have you ever tried to hold three babies at once and feed them?

Toys over Triplets

And what's so unusual about triplets? Kelly, 3, and Sean, 2, are more interested in the babies' toys than in Seamus, a boy; Siobhan, a girl; and Padriac, a boy. Their mother, Mrs. Donovan McDonough explains, "There are days when they like the triplets, and there are days that they don't."

ough explains, "There are days when they like the triplets, and there are days that they don't."

Contentment

Another feeding, another burp. While Siobhan looks contented and sleepy, Bev McDonough is busy thinking about the work she has left to do during her day, which doesn't end until midnight. The only job Bev has held outside her home since being married to Don was an SUI nurses' aide last summer.

Disappointment

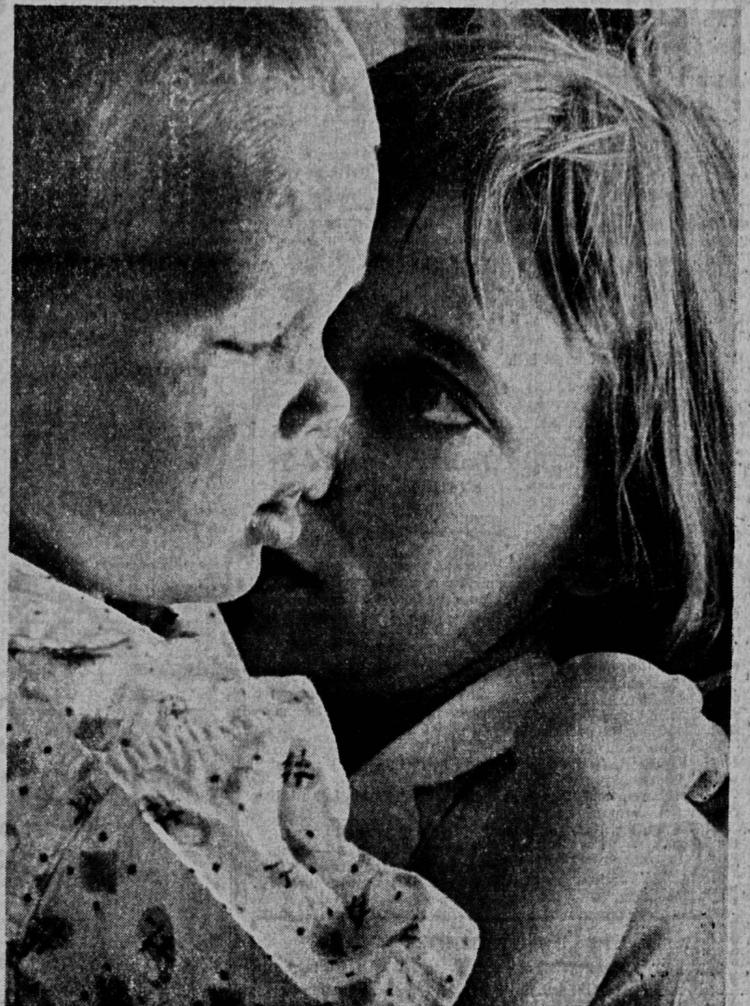

"I wanna ride my trike!" cried Sean, who can't go out because he's got the measles. His mother's warning that he'll give the measles to Jody (a neighbor girl) doesn't faze him a bit. It's just too nice a day for a boy to be inside. And, matters are worse because his sister Kelly is happily playing in the yard.

Moment of Consolation

Sean's mother consoles him and tries to get him to come inside. "Would you like to, color?" she asks, but gets a negative reply. "What about riding your trike inside?" but still the reply is no. As a last resort, she tries to coax him with a favorite past-time, "How about washing the dishes?" But Sean is still stubborn.

Mother Knows Best

Peace, wonderful peace. All is well again as Sean looks at the flowers and budding trees through the open window. It will just be a couple of days more until he can go out, but time passes so slowly for a small boy — and for a mother who has to try to keep him happy. Just as long as the triplets don't get the measles, she thinks, and they've had shots. But then, Sean had a shot too...

Illini Shut Out Hawks 4-0

Hawkeyes Handcuffed By Fastballer's 2-Hitter

Right-handed Doug Mills pitched a two-hit shutout as Illinois took a 4-0 baseball win from Iowa Friday at the Iowa diamond.

Mills had complete control of and held them hitless until the fourth inning when first baseman Paul Bonstead slapped a single to center field.

Iowa's only other safety was an infield single by second baseman Denny Henning in the eighth.

Iowa pitcher Ron Reifert was tapped for single runs in the third, fourth, seventh and eighth innings. The Hawkeye right hander allowed just three earned runs as he struck out four and walked two.

Illinois' first run in the third was unearned. Center Fielder Tony Provenzano singled, stole second and scored on an error by Iowa shortstop Bob Hawk.

Red's Streak Stopped at 9

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Home runs by Rocky Nelson and Dick Stuart powered the Pittsburgh Pirates to an 8-5 victory over Cincinnati Friday night and ended the Redlegs winning streak at nine games.

Nelson's three-run homer in the third put Pittsburgh in front 4-1. Pinchhitter Stuart's homer in the fifth scored three runs, snapped a 5-5 tie and gave the Pirates their winning margin.

Boston Wins 2-1 As Monbouquette Fans 17 Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bill Monbouquette struck out 17 batters, one shy of the modern major league record, Friday night as he pitched the Boston Red Sox to a 2-1 victory over the Washington Senators.

The modern major league strike-out record is 18, set by Bob Feller of the Cleveland Indians in 1938 and tied by Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1950.

Ironically, the Senators outthrew the Red Sox 5-2. The Sox got both hits off Pete Burnside, who went seven innings and lost his second game. He has no victories. Burnside walked six and struck out three.

The 41-year-old right-hander recorded his third victory of the season against one loss and the 287th of his illustrious career.

Wynn gave up a game-starting double to shortstop Dick Howser which blossomed into Kansas City's only run and then was reached for harmless singles by Norm Siebern and Andy Carey in the second.

Bonstead Connects

Paul Bonstead, Iowa's leading hitter at .375, lashes out a line single in the fourth inning of the Hawks' 4-0 loss to Illinois Friday. Bonstead's poke was the first hit of the game off Illini ace Doug Mills, who wound up with a two-hitter.

3 Top Preps - One Hawkeye Trackmen 7-0 - Sign Big 10 Tenders with Iowa Host Buckeyes Today

Three outstanding prep basketball players — one a seven-foot center — have signed tenders with the Iowa Hawkeyes.

The three have returned the tenders to Iowa Head Coach Sharm Schueerman. When a player signs a tender, it means that if the three decide to play Big Ten basketball, it will have to be with Iowa. However, they still may play for a school in some other conference if they choose.

The possible new recruits include Mike Denoma, 6-6 leading scorer in the Mississippi Valley conference last year; 6-3 Jim Rogers, a Chicago Daily News all-star selection and three-year varsity regular on the Leyden East team in Franklin Park, Ill.; and Don Faes, 7-0 Herman, Mo., center.

Since losing its first outdoor meet to Indiana, the Hawks have beaten Minnesota and last Saturday defeated Wisconsin 78½-62½. Fresh from last week's win, the Hawks appear ready for another victory, but Ohio State may prove a stubborn foe.

"It might be real close," said Cretzmeier, "Ohio State is good in the weights, especially the discus and shot put. They also have a good quarter-miler, Dan Maloney."

Maloney has recorded :48.8 and Iowa's Roger Kerr has gone the distance in :48.7, so it should be a good race.

In the discus the Buckeyes have Captain Larry Schmalenberger, twice the Big Ten champion. Schmalenberger has a mark of 167-3½.

Powerful Cloyd Webb will have the discus for Iowa after missing several meets because of spring football drills. Webb, a sophomore, has tossed the saucer 165 feet and should improve.

Iowa's outstanding middle distance men Jim Tucker, Ralph Trimble, Don Greenlee, Bill Mave, Gary Fischer and Kerr should score heavily today.

The mile relay could be the most exciting race of the day. The Hawks' Don Gardner, Mave, Tom Hyde, and Kerr ran 3:18.15 Saturday to set an Iowa at Wisconsin meet record. But the Buckeye foursome has been under 3:20 this season.

In the sprints the Hawks have Captain Tom Hyde who has scored 28 points in the 100 and 220-yard events in the last three meets.

Iowa's Dick Leazer will compete in the pole vault against Walt Williams and Jim Roe, both over 22 feet.

Orioles Win On Gentile's 10th Homer

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jim Gentile drove in two runs with his 10th homer and Brooks Robinson got three singles in four trips to lead the Baltimore Orioles to a 4-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Friday night.

Gentile's fourth-inning clout gave him the American League home run lead and boosted his league-leading RBI total to 35.

The victory went to Jack Fisher, who finished strong to win his first game in three decisions. The 22-year-old right-hander gave up six hits in the first four innings, then retired 14 batters in a row before Jim Piersall reached first base on a throwing error by shortstop Jerry Adair in the ninth.

Racing Veteran Bettenhausen Dies in Flaming Auto Wreck

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS — Tony Bettenhausen, 44, racing veteran and idol of auto speed fans on the American professional circuit, died Friday in the violent, fiery crash of a car he was testing for a friend. The crash ended Bettenhausen's 23-year racing career.

Something broke and threw the hurtling racing car into the wall along the main straightaway at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, where trials began last Saturday for the Indianapolis 500 on Memorial Day.

It was the 29th racing wreck — and the last — for Bettenhausen, two-time champion of the AAA, now USAC, big car circuit.

The father of two boys and two girls was dead when guards fought their way through screaming horrified fans to where the shattered car hung wrapped in wire atop the wall.

The impact ripped away 250 feet of fence.

Bettenhausen had turned several laps at 145 miles an hour in the car in which Roger Ward won the 1950 Indianapolis 500. He was checking it for Paul Russo, an old friend with whom he took turns driving the car that finished second in the 1955 Memorial Day classic.

In his own car, the Autelite Special, Bettenhausen had been a strong favorite to take top honors today in the opening session of qualifications for this year's race. He had turned a practice lap Wednesday at 149.254 miles an hour — fastest ever run at the speedway with other cars on the track.

Bettenhausen was coming smoothly down the middle of the main stretch when the car suddenly jerked to the right and into the low concrete wall and steel fence in front of the grandstands.

The car came to a stop upside down on the wall, just short of the box seats in front of grandstand A, one of the mammoth two-deckers near the starting line.

The affable driver, who said he would retire if he ever won the rich Indianapolis race, had started in every 500 but one since World War II but his second with Russo was his best finish. He took fourth money in both 1958 and 1959. Last year he was stopped by a broken connecting rod.

Just what caused Friday's wreck was uncertain pending an inspection of the demolished race, which was owned by Douglas Stearly of Collegeville, Pa., and called the Stearly Special.

2 Will Attend Symposium In Wisconsin

Sherwood Tuttle, associate professor of geology, and Richard Bovbjerg, associate professor of zoology, will represent SUI at a symposium on "Oceanography in the Midwest" Monday and Tuesday at the University of Wisconsin.

The symposium is sponsored by the National Science Foundation, the Office of Naval Research, the Committee on Institutional Cooperation and the University of Wisconsin.

Professor Tuttle is assistant director of the SUI Honors Program. Last spring he took part in a three-week study of the sea floor and currents in the Caribbean with other scientists. He has also worked at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution, Woods Hole, Mass.

Marine ecology, Prof. Bovbjerg's special area of study, concerns living things and their relationships to the physical environment. He has worked with the Monterey Marine Biological Laboratory, Monterey, Calif., and at Iowa's Lakeside Laboratory.

6 Grad Students Perform At Composers' Symposium

Numbers by six SUI graduate students were performed Friday at the Midwest Student Composers' Symposium at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

SUI student composers whose works were played at the symposium are Sharlene Armitage, G. Bremerton, Wash.; James Irwin, G. Eldora; Robert Lombardo, G. Hartford, Conn.; Leonard Klein, G. Scottsdale, Ariz.; James Yannatos, G. the Bronx, N.Y.; and Daniel Moe, G. Moorhead, Minn.

The Northwestern performance for the compositions marked the second presentation of the numbers in two days. Thursday, the same works were included among a group of student compositions presented during Creative Arts Week at SUI.

The students are studying composition under Philip Benzanson and Eldon Obrecht, both associate professors of music at SUI.

Miss Armitage played her composition, "Suite of Colors for Piano," Irwin's song "The River Merchant's Wife" was sung by mezzo-soprano Virginia Linn, G. Martinsville, Ill.

Klein had two numbers performed during the symposium. He was soloist during the second and third movements of "Concerto for Piano and Winds," and he played the piano for the presentation of his "Four Pastoral Pavana," with Leo Goeke, G. Kirksville, Mo., as vocal soloist.

Lombardo's "Fantasy for Piano" was played by Elizabeth Cobb, G. St. Paul, Minn. Yannatos performed his own number, "Fantasy for Violin and Piano," with Klein at the piano.

"Concerto for Brass and Piano," by Moe was played by Alexander Piekard, G. Santa Ana, Calif., trumpet; Jack Colson, G. Marengo, trumpet; Gordon Halberstam, G. Moline, Ill., trombone; William Burch, G. Keokuk, trombone, and Klein, piano.

Physicians To Be Guest Lecturers

Two physicians from the SUI College of Medicine will be visiting lecturers at other medical schools during the coming week.

Dr. William K. Hamilton, professor and head of anesthesiology, will be a visiting professor at Columbia University College of Physicians and Surgeons in New York, N.Y., Sunday through Saturday.

Dr. Robert T. Tidrick, professor and head of surgery, will lecture at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine and participate in the school's sixth annual Trauma Day in Omaha.

BREZHNEV IN PRAGUE
MOSCOW (AP) — President Leonid I. Brezhnev headed a Soviet delegation that went to Prague, Czechoslovakia, Friday for the Communist party's 40th birthday celebration, the official Soviet news agency Tass reported.

Police Say 2, 3 Bikes 'Borrowed' Each Day

The theft of a bicycle is generally considered by police as petty larceny, but there is nothing petty about the rate at which bicycles are being reported as stolen in Iowa City.

Each day police receive an average of two or three complaints on stolen bikes. Usually they are found within a day or two, often in a ditch or behind a bush.

Officials speculate that most of the bikes are stolen by youngsters in a hurry to get somewhere. After "borrowing" a bike, they abandon it, creating a nuisance for the police department as well as for the owner.

Legally, such bike-borrowing practice is more than a mere nuisance. It's larceny, and that is against the law.

Air Force Successfully Fires Atlas Missile

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP) — The Air Force successfully fired an Atlas missile 5,000 miles Friday night and demonstrated it apparently has solved problems which have plagued a new more powerful version of the intercontinental-range weapon.

The 85-foot rocket blazed smoothly away from this spaceport and barreled at peak speed of more than 17,000 miles an hour.

Delta Chi Founder's Sons Protest Hankins Depledging

By DOROTHY COLLIN
City Editor

Two sons of a founder of the SUI Delta Chi chapter have protested the recent depledging of Andy Hankins, Al, Waukegan, Ill., by the fraternity. Both men are past officers of the SUI chapter.

Sewell E. Allen, 48, a lawyer from Onawa who is a former Iowa legislator and twice Democratic nominee for lieutenant governor, and his brother, Phil Allen, Omaha, Neb., wrote a letter to Dennis Herrmann, A2, Des Moines, former acting president of the fraternity, objecting to the depledging of Hankins.

Hankins was pledged by Delta Chi in March; then dropped by the fraternity May 1. He was the first Negro pledged by any Delta Chi fraternity or any white social fraternity at SUI.

The Allens' letter said:

"We have just seen the newspaper account of the action taken by the Iowa Chapter of Delta Chi depledging Andrew J. Hankins after unanimously accepting him as a pledge a few weeks earlier. If the news accounts are correct, namely, that a majority of you voting for the depledge action were persuaded by expressions of race prejudice on the part of other chapters, alumni, or the national headquarters of Delta Chi, or if you were persuaded by hints of action to lift your charter because of race prejudice by national officials of the fraternity — then, it seems to us you knuckled under to the worst influences of social fraternity life.

"These attitudes, which your own generation has made such great strides to overcome, apparently are not understood by a majority of the chapter. This is tragic.

"We feel that your president, Richard N. Boe, who moved out of the house when the majority of you decided to depledge Hankins, did precisely the right thing.

"The majority of you made a worse mistake than you will realize for a long time, because the magnitude of it will haunt you for a lifetime. You have not only failed in your understanding of the main principle of fraternity, because you did not fight for your brother when the voices of darkness were heard, you have also failed in your understanding of one of the values of a liberal education, namely the capacity to judge a human being for what he is rather than by the color of his complexion.

"We, being brothers both in kinship and in Delta Chi, write this letter with heavy hearts, but we feel it is our duty to speak out. We are both past officials of the Iowa Chapter of Delta Chi, one of the undersigned, Phil Allen, was Chapter 'A' (president) during the school year 1935 and '36, and the other, Sewell E. Allen, was Chapter 'C' (secretary), during the same school year.

"Our father, the late George E. Allen, was one of the founders of the Iowa Chapter at about 1913. He had pledged Delta Chi at the University of Chicago; and I believe, remembering the ideals he fought for and taught us, that he joined and helped organize Delta Chi because of the great and noble principles it has stood for: that men of education should fight for human rights and for brotherhood.

"We feel that unless Andrew J. Hankins is repledged and with full and appropriate apology to him, we will resign from Delta Chi. A prompt reply is requested."

Herrmann said Friday that he would probably answer the Allens' letter.

Commenting on the letter Herrmann said, "I sincerely regret the unfortunate feelings that Mr. Allen has concerning our chapter's depledging, but I can see no reason to comment on any unfavorable letter we receive just as I don't comment on those letters citing our rights to local autonomy."

He said the local chapter had received several letters from alumni expressing their support of the depledging and of the fraternity's right to depledge.

Gov. Erbe To Review SUI Cadets

An estimated 1600 Air Force and Army ROTC cadets will pass in review for Gov. Norman F. Erbe Tuesday during the 77th annual Governor's Day celebration.

Erbe will also present awards to 14 outstanding cadets and attend a luncheon at the Iowa Memorial Union where he will speak to ROTC faculty members and cadets.

The schedule of events for Governor's Day is as follows: assembly and formation of the cadets on the parade ground west of the Field House at 10:30 a.m.; 11:05, presentation of the Cadet Corps to the Cadet Commander George Heninger, A4, Davenport.

At 11:10, presentation of the governor; 11:15, sound off by the Scottish Highlanders; 11:25, a riding review of the cadets by the governor; and 11:30, presentation of awards to cadets by Erbe.

The awards presented to Army ROTC cadets will be: Superior Cadet Ribbon, Carl Fackler, A1, Indianola; William Carson, E1, Ely; and William Reif, B3, Kalona. Chicago Tribune Gold Medal: Paul Carlson, A2, Davenport, and John Aita, A1, Omaha, Neb. Chicago Tribune Silver Medal: Bruce Ackerson, E1, Fort Dodge, and John Thor, P2, Aledo, Ill.

The Air Force ROTC awards are: SUI Ring Award, Jon Crisman, A4, Coon Rapids; Frank Howard, B4, Elburn, Ill.; Richard Potts, B4, Bettendorf; Ralph Tidrick, A4, Iowa City; John Price, A4, Cedar Falls; James Krambeck, A4, Clinton; and Robert Borts, A4, Iowa City. The Air Force Association Award will also be presented to Krambeck.

The cadets will pass in review at 11:40, and at 12:20 there will be a governor's reception of the senior ROTC cadets in the Union. The reception will be followed by a luncheon for the Governor at 12:30.

Bill To Stop Iowa Quick Marriages Signed by Erbe

DES MOINES (AP) — The Legislature's bill to require a three-day waiting period in Iowa before a marriage license would be issued was signed Friday by Gov. Norman Erbe.

It will go into effect July 4. No waiting period is required under present law. The bill closes the borders to persons who have been coming into Iowa for quick marriages.

The measure was one of 22 signed by the governor, including the following:

- Appropriate $20,789,000 for buildings and improvements at institutions operated by the State Board of Regents.
- Provide Iowa motorists with reflectorized license plates beginning in 1963.
- Grant elective county officials a salary increase of $400 a year.
- Increase the appropriation for agricultural land tax credits from $10,500,000 to $11,250,000 a year.
- Appropriate $500,000 to help the school district at Ames with its building finance problems.

Defends Soviet Freedom— 'Victory Without War'—Khrushchev

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev Friday insisted that communism will gain control of the world one day — and without using bayonets or rockets. The Soviet people, he declared, are "the most free" people in the world.

His voice hoarse from shouting, Khrushchev told a rally of 10,000 persons in the Georgian capital of Tiflis:

"I repeat that we do not need a war to achieve domination of our ideas, the most progressive Marxist-Leninist ideas. War brings only harm. We will create this victory because other peoples will follow in the path of our example."

Khrushchev ignored cold war hot spots such as Laos, Cuba and the Geneva conference on Laos in his speech commemorating the 40th anniversary of the Georgian Republic.

"We are ready to talk, to build up our relations with any country in order to secure peace in the world," he said.

Khrushchev shouted frequently throughout his speech but saved his loudest roars to deny Western allegations that the Soviet people are not free.

"They say we do not have freedom," he shouted. "We Communists, we revolutionaries, we are the most free of the free people in the world. We have freedom for those who create value, who work in mines, factories, laboratories."

Khrushchev twice referred to President Kennedy.

He quoted the U.S. President as saying there are grounds to fear the attraction communism has for underdeveloped nations. Khrushchev said this statement "pleased me very much" and he then declared that during the past 40 years the Soviet Union has become the greatest industrial country of the world.

Khrushchev's second reference to Kennedy was a reminder that all nations live on the same planet and therefore must coexist.

Kennedy's Visits Will Leave U.S. Without Leader

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's trip to Canada Tuesday with Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson away on a goodwill tour, will put this country's two top leaders outside its borders.

The answer is that Kennedy is still the President, wherever he is. The authority of the Presidency follows the man, and there is no such thing as an "acting President" in the United States.

Kennedy, of course, will remain in close contact with Washington while he's in Canada May 16-18.

Art Collectors' Exhibit To Stay Until August

The current exhibit of art work owned by Iowa collectors — featured in the new art galleries at SUI during Creative Arts Week — will be shown through Aug. 6.

Some 100 paintings, water colors, drawings, prints and sculptures are in the exhibit, which is the first show to be held in the newly remodeled art galleries. The SUI galleries will be open Tuesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Sunday hours will be from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. The galleries are closed on Monday.

McCarrel Named SUI Service Dean

Ted McCarrel, dean of admissions and registrar at SUI was named Executive Dean for Student Services at SUI in action taken by the State Board of Regents Friday.

In his new capacity McCarrel will be responsible for such SUI services as the Office of Student Affairs, Examinations Service, Counseling Service, Business and Industrial Placement Office, Conventions, and Public Events, Lectures and Vespers, Concert Course, and Publications.

He will be jointly responsible with the SUI Vice-President for Business and Finance for the dormitory room assignment and personnel programs, and jointly responsible with the Associate Director of Student Health for student health services.

Most such service activities have in the past reported to SUI Provost Harvey H. Davis, who is also the administrative officer responsible for SUI's ten colleges and various educational and public service units. In recommending the shift of the various student services to McCarrel's jurisdiction, SUI President Virgil M. Hancher explained that the latter have placed "an undue burden" on Provost Davis as they have grown in scope during recent years.

Registrar at SUI since 1946, McCarrel is current president of the American Association of Collegiate Registrars and Admissions Officers. Earlier this week he was cited for his efforts as one of the founders of the American College Testing Program, which is headquartered at SUI.

Extremists Threaten To Riot in Algiers

ALGIERS (AP) — European extremists threatened Algiers with riots and possible bloodshed Saturday in a new stand against Algerian independence. Orders for strikes and demonstrations came from the underground secret army organization.

French headquarters in Algeria, warned that soldiers would fire on agitators. At least 20,000 troops, riot police and gendarmes were alerted.

Points of Marksmanship

Shakespeare Play Gets New Twist

"Troilus and Cressida" is a play about the Trojan War which took place about 1200 B.C.; it is costumed in "Cavalier" style, a period about 1630 A. D. England; its music varies from Tchaikovsky's "Swan Lake" fanfare and medieval melodies to Aaron Copland's "Fanfare for Modern Man;" and its production is as modern as its opening date, Thursday at 8 p.m.

On that night, audiences will see sword fights by Greeks and Trojans over the beautiful Cressida, in a stage set with battle flags and traditional English heraldry.

In developing costumes, Iris Brooke, visiting lecturer in dramatic arts, is using neither Greek and Trojan nor the traditional Elizabethan costumes customary for a Shakespeare play.

Instead, costumes are modeled after a production about 1630, to use the "Cavalier" style, which features "very masculine costumes, not tights" for the actors. James Goussuff, director, commented.

The stage setting, designed by A. S. Gillette, director of University Theatre, is based on 17th century English court masques. Goussuff said that his research had led him to depart from traditional Shakespeare settings.

"Usually the set will have a number of doors, perhaps a window and some curtained areas," he explained. "My research suggested the use of 'houses,' which in our setting are two tents, two houses and another setting in the rear.

"Each of the houses belongs to someone, and his action takes place around this point. In the center is a neutral spot, 'owned' only by those who happen to be there at the time," he said.

Tickets for "Troilus and Cressida" are being distributed now at the Theatre ticket reservation desk in the East Lobby of the Iowa Memorial Union. Student tickets are free with I. D. cards, and general admission is $1.25.

Regents Approve 7 University Projects

The State Board of Regents Friday approved seven capital improvement projects for SUI. An estimated $1,115,500 of the $10,180,000 appropriated for the SUI campus by the Legislature last weekend will be spent during the next biennium under preliminary plans, procedures, and budgets.

Approval of the projects and initial allocations of funds will next be sought from the Legislature's Budget and Financial Control (Interim) Committee, to enable work to begin as soon as possible.

In recognition of the pressing campus space needs to be met at the earliest possible moment, the biennial appropriations bill as passed last week stipulated that the funds shall be available upon publication of the act. Normally such money is not available until the July 4 following the legislative session.

Budgets totaling $604,000 were approved to provide for equipment and moving expenses involved in occupying four buildings or additions constructed with funds appropriated in 1959 by the Legislature: the Chemistry Building addition, the Library addition, the Student Infirmary and the Volatile Solvent Storage unit.

A budget of $408,000 was approved to cover costs of equipping and occupying the Chemistry addition. Equipment to be purchased and installed includes laboratory benches, hoods and fittings; water stills and tanks; lockers; lecture demonstration equipment; a liquid air-liquid nitrogen machine, and four "ice flaker" machines.

To purchase book stacks, shelving and other equipment, and to cover costs of moving books and stacks from the lower floor of Macbride Hall to the University Library, a budget of $170,000 was approved by the regents.

A $6,000 budget was authorized for the purchase of hospital equipment and furniture for use in the new Student Infirmary, and a $20,000 budget was approved to provide fire extinguishing equipment, storage and shelving for the Volatile Storage Building and to move
