

Eichmann Trial Starts New Phase

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector (HTNS)—An important though by no means decisive phase of the Adolf Eichmann trial will open in West Germany today and will continue in various cities into June.

It involves the questioning of former Nazi witnesses who either dare not come to Israel, where they would be instantly arrested for war crimes themselves, or whose proposed evidence is on points so limited that it would not be worth while bringing them to this country.

Two lawyers left Jerusalem Wednesday morning to handle this phase of the Eichmann trial—Erwin Shimron, a former state attorney now in private practice who has been retained to represent the Israeli attorney general, and Dieter Westenbruck, the young assistant counsel for the Eichmann defense.

They will go straight to the West German city of Neuss, near Dusseldorf, where they are scheduled to appear before a West German judge to examine Eberhard von Thadden, the "Jewish expert" for the German foreign ministry during the Nazi regime.

Wednesday the prosecution introduced numerous documents bearing on Eichmann's part in the confiscation of Jewish property.

The documents showed that Eichmann's role in the major program of plundering the Jews was largely motivated because of the need to have the Jews finance their own railroad expenses in deportations to the concentration camps and the gas chambers.

The importance of the examinations of the former Nazis under the supervision of West German courts is that it fulfills to some extent the requirement for a fair trial for a defendant by giving him a right to cross-examine witnesses and to do what it can to demolish the prosecution's case against him.

Most of the witnesses are to be examined primarily at the request of Defense Attorney Robert Seravati, because he wants a chance to cross-examine them on affidavits which they made, mostly during the Neurnberg trials after the war. These were mainly Nazis rounded up by the American forces who either told their stories in military interrogations or actually testified in the Neurnberg trials.

Most of the witnesses had contact in one way or another with Eichmann, and some of them implicate him deeply in the war crimes charged against him. But other of these witnesses are reported willing to say that Eichmann had neither responsibility nor desire in the program of Jewish exterminations. The proceedings will be held in all cases before judges of the West German courts having jurisdiction in the particular localities where the witnesses have their residences. As it happens, several of them are residing in jails or prisons.

A transcript will be made of the proceedings and then the record of the entire examination will be made a part of the record.

Vienna Sets For Summit Conference

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Preparations were well under way Wednesday night for an informal summit meeting early next month—possibly June 2—between U.S. President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev in Vienna.

Preparatory work began after the Austrian Chancellor announced it gave a "positive reply" to an American inquiry whether Vienna could play host to the meeting.

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, said in Ottawa the President discussed with Canadian Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker of Canada the possibility of a meeting with Khrushchev.

Salinger declined to comment on reports the meeting was being arranged for this Austrian capital, but U.S. officials here said Salinger is expected to arrive in Vienna next week, to select a conference site.

Though there is no official confirmation from Washington or Moscow, everyone in Vienna, including U.S. Embassy officials, is convinced the meeting will come about. All leaves for U.S. Embassy personnel have been canceled until further notice.

It was reported that the President is expected in Vienna on June 2, the same day he is due to conclude a three-day State visit in France.

Plans for the summit conference are believed to call for a general discussion of world affairs touching especially on major East-West problems. The meeting is not expected to last more than two or three days.

There is speculation the conference will be held in the local U.S. and Soviet embassies, alternating; or in one of two or three spacious former imperial palaces conveniently located in Vienna.

Vienna can offer a historic conference site, the so-called Hofburg, the former imperial city residence of the Hapsburgs.

The huge main hall of the Hofburg would be ideally suited for the mass press conferences usual during such meetings. Khrushchev held his press conference there last summer at the conclusion of an eight-day official visit to Austria.

Another suitable conference site would be the Belvedere Palace, built between 1700 and 1723 by Lukas von Hildebrandt and one of Europe's most beautiful baroque buildings.

Russian Bus Fare Trouble—Riders Chisel Kopeks

By WALTER LISTER JR.
Herald Tribune News Service

MOSCOW—Kopek-chiseling Muscovites were scolded Wednesday for sneaking free rides on public trolleys and buses that are operated without conductors.

"Moscow Pravda" calculated that out of 1,650,000 passengers a day on conductor-less transit, 77,000 are "rabbits"—meaning they fail to pay. Fares are three kopeks on streetcars, four kopeks on trolley buses and five kopeks on buses. A kopek is valued by the Soviet Union at slightly more than one American penny.

Some 600 riders a day are caught and fined 50 kopeks each for taking tickets from the automatic dispensers without putting any money in the fare boxes, the journal reported, and names with identifications are posted in transit vehicles to expose them to public shame.

Stiffer fines, perhaps two or three rubles (a ruble is valued at $1.11) might help to curb these "rabbits," the journal said, but its primary solution was for all comrades to be more vigilant and to inquire politely whenever a bus rider failed to put kopeks in the fare box. Such inquiries should be polite, it noted, because some passengers carry tickets valid for unlimited rides during the month.

A scarcity of small coins sometimes causes problems. "Moscow Pravda" conceded, and it asked transit riders to be on the lookout for "jackrabbits" who pocket scores of fares on the pretext of getting change for a one-ruble bill.

Two obvious solutions were not mentioned by "Moscow Pravda," and not by oversight. Hiring more conductors would be too extravagant. And to eliminate fares, that is, offer transportation free of charge, would be downright communistic.

N.Y. Writer Finds Raw, Frontier Quality at SUI

New York writer David Boroff left Iowa City Tuesday apparently in agreement with the Life magazine article which labeled SUI "unsophisticated."

Boroff spent Friday through Monday in Iowa City gathering information for an article which will appear in "Mademoiselle." The article, scheduled for September or October, will deal with the Writers' Workshop against a background of the creative arts program at SUI, he said.

In the past four years, Boroff has written numerous magazine articles analyzing colleges and universities and phases of their work. Commenting on the SUI campus and Iowa City, Boroff said he discovered a raw, frontier quality. He added, "I kept looking for the hitching post."

Boroff said he found a definite Midwest flavor about the SUI campus. The guileless crewcut boys and the girls who look like they are home economics majors added to his conclusion, he said. He called art students more sophisticated than SUI students in general.

The number of undergraduates who had never heard of the writers in the Writers' Workshop especially surprised Boroff. He said, "We in New York are amazed that SUI commands the skills of writers such as Bourjaily and Elliott."

Boroff attended the Friday night production of "Hecuba" and "Cyclops," but refused to comment on the plays, the art department or other areas to be included in his story. An experience with the college newspaper at Sarah Lawrence College, Bronxville, N.Y., led to this refusal. "After an interview

Police Petition For Pay Hike, 6 More Men

The Iowa City Policemen's Association presented proposals described as "for the betterment of the police department" to the city council Tuesday night.

In the petition, the association asked:

1. A system of pay increments for longevity, similar to that of the highway patrol of $20 a month for each five years of service.
2. A uniform allowance with detectives to receive a cash stipend.
3. Increments for duty on the 3 to 11 p.m. (2 and a half per cent) and 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. (four per cent) shifts which now go to patrolmen to be extended to officers on those shifts.
4. Bringing the department to full strength by addition of six men "previously authorized."

City Manager Peter F. Roan challenged several points raised in the petition and said the council should consider elimination of the increments.

Atty. Philip A. Leff, who presented the petition on behalf of the association, asked the council to consider appointing a committee to meet with the police.

Councilmen, however, indicated this was the concern of the city manager. Roan said he is willing to meet with association representatives anytime.

Iowa City To Develop Park Near Reservoir

City Manager Peter Roan has been authorized by Iowa City councilmen to sign on behalf of the city a license agreement providing for a city-developed park on the Coralville reservoir.

The 220-acre area is to be developed for park and recreational purposes. It is part of the land acquired by the Federal Government in connection with the dam and reservoir project.

The proposed park, known as Linder Point, is located a short distance west of the dam. It is roughly divided into three sections: a general park area, a section for special interests such as riding, gun club and the like, and a winter sports area.

Child Growth Director To Discuss Anthropology

Dr. Wilton Krogman, director of the Philadelphia Center for Research in Child Growth, will discuss current trends in physical anthropology tonight at 7:30 in the East Lobby Conference Room of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Krogman is at SUI this week under the auspices of the Iowa Child Welfare Research Station. The Anthropology Club will sponsor tonight's talk. The public is invited.

TO ELECT OFFICERS

Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman women's honorary society, will elect and install new officers today at 4 p.m. in the home of the assistant director of student affairs, Miss Helen Reich, 324 Woolf Ave. President Becky Barels, A2, Carroll, will be in charge.

SUI Opera Workshop To Perform

The second act of Puccini's "Tosca" will be featured in a program of opera scenes to be presented by the Opera Workshop Saturday at SUI.

The program, which will include scenes from four other operas, will be given at 8 p.m. in North Music Hall and is open to the public free of charge.

Playing lead roles in "Tosca" will be Michael Kurkjian, G. East St. Louis, Ill., as Baron Scarpia; Edward Richmond, G. Iowa City, as Mario Cavaradisi; and Mary Sue Grove, A4, South English, as Floria Tosca.

Also appearing in the opera will be Simon Estes, A3, Centerville; Loren Hartley, A3, New Albin; David McCauley, A2, Sac City; David Asher, A3, Steamboat Rock, and John Morris, A2, Emmetsburg.

SUI students to perform in Mozart's "The Marriage of Figaro" will be Darlene Walther, A3, West Liberty, and Marcia Heasley, A3, Donnellson. Julia Kennedy, A3, Clarence; Miss Grove, and Carol Collins, G, Watertown, S. D., will appear in scenes from Mozart's "Così Fan Tutte."

A scene from Bizet's "Carmen" will be performed by Miss Walther, Lavonne Valdivinos, G, Lansing, and Teenian Ling, G, Taipei, China. Appearing in a scene from Debussy's "Pelleas et Melisande" will be Kurkjian and Nya Yannatos, Iowa City.

Musical preparations and stage direction are being done by Siegfried Schoenbohm, G, Rock Island, Ill., who will study direction of both acting and music this summer under Boris Goldovsky at the Berkshire Music Center.

Costumes were designed and executed by Martha Chapman Kurkjian, A4, Columbia, Mo. McCauley, assisted by Asher, painted the sets, and properties were collected by Miss Kennedy.

Saturday's program will mark debuts for many SUI undergraduates in music. A training ground for SUI's annual summer opera production, the workshop program is in its second year of operation. David Lloyd, associated professor of music, teaches the workshop.

Author To Give Civil War Lecture

A Northwestern University professor may kindly the hopes for lingering Confederates when he shows "How the South Could Have Won the War" Monday at 8 p.m. in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol.

Grady H. McWhiney, professor of history, will deliver the last in a series of Humanities Society Lectures. He is the author of a volume of Civil War history, "The Ordeal of Command: Bragg before Chickamauga."

McWhiney received his Ph.D. degree from Columbia University. He has taught at Millsaps College, Jackson, Miss., and was a visiting professor at the University of California, Berkeley.

2 Music Students To Give Recitals

Two SUI students will present recitals this week in North Music Hall as partial fulfillment of requirements for degrees.

Sue Nicolson, A4, Rolfe, a soprano, will give a recital today at 4:30 p.m. Her program will partially fulfill requirements for a B.A. She will be accompanied by Leonard Klein, G, Scottsdale, Ariz.

Richard Grace, a baritone from Slingerlands, N. Y., will give a recital Sunday at 7:30 p.m. He is working toward a Ph.D. in music literature and performance. Willa Holmes, Portland, Ore. will be the accompanist.

Wives of senior engineers will be honored at the Engineering Wives' meeting Thursday at 7:45 p.m. in the River Room of the Iowa Memorial Union.

To Lower Water Level in Reservoir

Water in the Coralville Reservoir is being lowered to 667 feet above sea level this week to permit the installation of boat launching ramps at two concession sites to serve the public using the reservoir.

New concrete ramps are being installed at the Coral Marina, operated by Kenneth and Mary Kallaus on Turkey Creek near the Reservoir administration building; and at Coralville Docks, operated by Clem Carney and Mike Loebig, near the site of the former Moseman bridge midway in the reservoir.

The lower ends of the ramps are being built down to elevation 667, requiring the water to be lowered to that level temporarily.

Construction of the ramps was to begin Wednesday and they are to be completed in several days, allowing the water to be raised back to the normal level beginning next weekend.

Bean, SUI Physician, To Get Groedel Medal

The Groedel Medal, awarded annually to a physician for his contributions to medicine and the humanities, will be presented Friday to Dr. William B. Bean of the SUI College of Medicine.

Presentation ceremonies will be held in New York City at the 10th annual meeting of the American College of Cardiology. Dr. Bean, professor and head of the Department of Internal Medicine at SUI, will be the sixth recipient of the award. The Groedel Medal is named in honor of the late Dr. Franz M. Groedel, founder and first president of the American College of Cardiology.

Dr. Bean will deliver the Groedel Lecture at the meeting. The title of his talk will be "The Medical and Scientific Significance of the Seemingly Small, Trivial and Insignificant."

Dr. Bean came to SUI in 1948 as physician-in-chief of University Hospitals. He received a B.A. degree in 1932 and a medical degree in 1935 from the University of Virginia.

The SUI physician is editor-in-chief of "Monographs in Medicine."

and holds editorial positions on several other professional publications. He was a contributing editor of the Encyclopedia Britannica in 1959 and from 1958-60 he served as the medical editor of Stedman's Medical Dictionary.

Dr. Bean is a fellow of the American Medical Association, the American College of Physicians, the American College of Chest Physicians, the American Medical Writers Association, the New York Academy of Science and the Royal Society of Medicine, London, England.

Dr. Bean has served in many capacities on various scientific and professional committees and boards. From 1951-54, he served on the Executive Committee on Scientific Council of the American Heart Association. He was appointed to the Study Section on General Medicine of the National Institutes of Health in 1957 and served as chairman of the section in 1958. Also in 1957, he became a member of the Board of Regents of the National Library of Medicine.

'Smokey' Will Visit SUI

Smokey the Bear will visit the SUI Family Camp Show Saturday and Sunday.

Smokey, a popular conservation reminder, will be on hand to welcome the public to the show on fairway no. 2 at Old Finkbine Golf Course from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday and from noon to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Another recent addition to the show is the Iowa State Conservation Commission exhibit of Iowa fish and mammals.

Smokey and the animal exhibit will join exhibits of some 25 camping equipment companies and displays from all 50 states and Canada. The show, open to the public free of charge, is designed to display the latest in camping equipment and techniques, as well as to tell about camping sites across the country.

E. A. Scholer, assistant professor of recreation at SUI, is general director of the show.

CORE Protests Bus Bias

The Iowa City chapter of Congress on Racial Equality (CORE) is shown above picketing the local Union Bus Depot Wednesday morning carrying signs denouncing racial discrimination on bus lines and in bus stations in the South. The picketers ranged in number from 20 to 35 during the one-hour demonstration and were protesting the treatment dealt the "freedom riders" on a bus trip through the South testing desegregation. The "riders" met with violence in Alabama Monday night when the bus they were riding was burned and several persons were stoned and beaten. Local bus line officials refused to comment on the picketing. The entire demonstration was peacefully carried out in a steady fall of rain and the group dispersed after about 1:30 p.m. CORE groups all over the nation are picketing this week in protest to the "freedom riders" incident.

Crying Over Budget Is Waste, Says Hickerson

Weeping over the cut in state funds for SUI and the resulting increase in tuition is a "waste of effort," Loren L. Hickerson, executive director of the SUI Alumni Association, said at the annual senior banquet of the College of Business Administration Tuesday night.

Speaking to approximately 110 students and faculty members, Hickerson admonished SUIowans for spending too much time downgrading the University instead of cooperating to keep the freedom to be different.

SUIowans should not overlook the fact that the philosophy that prevails at the University is the business of all, nor should they forget "the fundamental strengths and values of SUI are not linked exclusively with the budget," he said. Budget can help strengthen SUI, but it isn't the only factor.

Hickerson also reminded the audience that SUI long ago ceased to be state supported and is now state assisted. This is true in many other states.

Only 52 cents of every dollar is provided by the state while the remaining 48 cents comes from tuition, gifts, and grants of corporations and individuals.

SUI alumni have given a quarter of a million dollars in the past five years. This figure is even more surprising, said Hickerson, when "you learn not all alumni, not even most, but fewer than four of each 100 graduates contributed this sum — and chiefly in $5 and $10 amounts."

The broad middle band of alumni that neither hate nor love SUI will determine its policy for the most part.

"The balance of SUI's future greatness will rest on all," he concluded.

Five awards were announced at the banquet. Business administration seniors receiving scholarship keys of the professional fraternities were Thomas B. Reid, Tama, Alpha Kappa Psi key; John D. Bryant, Morning Sun, Beta Alpha Psi key; Duane D. Beenken, Brit, Delta Sigma Pi key; and Nancy Nelson Weeden, Clinton, Phi Gamma Nu key. Recipient of the United Business Education Association Award was Joan Shaveland, Rolfe.

Winners of seven other awards and scholarships presented earlier in the year were recognized during the program. They were James T. Bruer, Mt. Pleasant, Maytag Foundation scholarship; Larry J. Robertson, Oskaloosa, John F. Murray scholarship; Elmer C. Deatsch, Indianola, and Ray Sommerfeld, Iowa City, Haskins & Sells awards; Robert C. Ackerman, South Amara, Western Electric scholarship; J. D. Rogers, Omaha, Neb., and Junella C. Thimmesch, Burlington, American Marketing Association awards; Philip Montgomery, Cedar Rapids, Chester A. Phillips scholarship, and Deatsch, Executive Wives' Club award.

Master of ceremonies for the event, sponsored by the Collegiate Chamber of Commerce, was David Melsa, Amara.

I.C. To Use Radar Device

The latest step in a campaign to slow down Iowa City motorists will go into effect soon when a new radar speed detection device begins operation.

Police Chief Emmett Evans said the city has received a machine to use for a 30-day trial period and will eventually purchase one of its own at a cost ranging from $800 to $1300.

The radar detector will be in operation 24 hours a day from a marked police car. Tickets will be issued during the trial period for speeding charges verified by the detector.

Evans said the machine can determine the speed of a car two blocks away. A radio wave is sent out which bounces back and is registered on a speedometer-like gauge. The gauge is read by the patrolman operating the device. Only one patrolman is needed.

The detector can be used inside or outside a patrol car but the machine the city will purchase will be used outside the car, said Evans.

Actually a low-powered radio transmitter and receiver, the radar device operates on an assigned frequency allocated by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC). The city has applied for an FCC permit for the machine.

Chief Evans said, "Drivers respect the authenticity of radar. Other police departments have found that radar speed devices act as a deterrent to speeding.

The police department has received several speeding complaints from residents on certain streets recently. The radar timer will be a valuable aid in slowing traffic down in those areas, Evans said.

Bob Kennedy Asks Congress To Help Nab Big Gamblers

WASHINGTON — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy asked Congress Wednesday to help the Justice Department go after hoodlums and racketeers who "have become so rich and so powerful that they have outgrown local authorities."

Urging passage of a series of bills aimed at breaking up "vicious and dangerous criminal combinations," Kennedy said "only the Federal Government can curtail the flow of funds which permit the kingpins to live far from the scene," beyond the reach of local officials.

He estimated organized gambling does a gross volume of $7 billion a year, and helps support numerous other criminal activities, "including the bribery of local officials."

Kennedy testified before a House Judiciary subcommittee at a hearing on legislation dealing generally with organized crime.

He submitted a statement by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, seconding his proposals, but Chairman Emanuel Celler (D-N. Y.) said he would like to hear from Hoover personally.

Celler said Hoover had declined an invitation to testify.

In his statement, Hoover said the annual cost of crime now totals $22 billion, the equivalent of $128 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

The principal law asked by Kennedy would make it a federal offense to travel across state lines for the purpose of aiding racketeering.
