Develop Immunization

Millions of people in certain areas of the world have been offered new hope of protection against a dread disease through an immunization technique now being refined by a husband and wife research team at the SUI College of Medicine. Dr. Hsi Fan Hsu, a research associate professor, and Mrs. Hsu, an assistant professor, have developed a technique which shows promise of countering schistosomiasis, a disease which has been a menace for centuries in the Far East, South America and Africa. It is caused by a parasite carried by tiny amphibious snails.

Profs Fight Disease As Research Team

An immunization technique which shows promise of countering schistosomiasis — a disease believed to afflict more than 100 million persons in certain areas of the world — is now being refined by a husband and wife research team at the SUI College of Medicine.

The World Health Organization has alerted scientists studying the disease in other countries to the fact that an immunization technique is approaching success in the SUI laboratory of Dr. Hsi Fan Hsu and his wife, Shu-yin Li Hsu.

The two scientists are members of the Department of Hygiene and Preventive Medicine at SUI. Dr. Hsu is a research associate professor and Mrs. Hsu is an assistant professor. She received a Ph.D. degree from SUI in 1957. An eminent parasitologist in the Orient, Dr. Hsu began studying the disease on Formosa in 1948 and has continued his quest at SUI since 1954.

Progress on the immunizing technique offers new hope for millions of people in the Far East, South America and Africa, where the disease has been a menace for centuries.

Major financial support for the study of the disease at SUI has come from the United States Public Health Service.

Although schistosomiasis is a world health problem, few persons with the disease lived in the United States until recently. However, with an increase in immigration from areas where the disease is prevalent, more and more cases have been reported. The disease is not known to be contagious within the U.S.

The technique of immunization developed by the SUI scientists is being perfected in the rhesus monkey.

Early symptoms include abdominal cramps, fever, vomiting. While some strains of the parasite cause the disease in animals, both the rhesus and man are susceptible only to the human strains.

Segregated Schools Would Receive Aid

Ribicoff Assures Schools of Funds; Senate Fight Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Kennedy Administration offered renewed assurances Thursday that federal school grant funds would not be withheld from any state because its schools were racially segregated.

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.), floor manager for the $2.55 billion school aid bill, read to the Senate a letter from Secretary of Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff on the point.

"In my opinion, neither the secretary nor the commissioner of education would have such authority," Ribicoff wrote.

The letter appeared designed to head off a floor fight over an amendment by Sen. Herman E. Talmadge, (D-Ga.), to bar the withholding of grant funds from any state.

Ribicoff offered similar assurances when he testified at Senate hearings on the legislation. But these appeared to have been forgotten.

Talmadge has said his amendment should be written into the bill to make it possible for him and some other southerners to vote for it.

But some Northern civil rights advocates declared that if such a provision were offered, they would propose counter amendments to ban any grants to segregated school districts.

Meanwhile, efforts of Senate leaders to limit debate and speed a final decision on the bill were balked. Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) then scheduled the session for today at 7 a.m. CDT, three hours earlier than usual. He said he would call night sessions next week.

Ruler Predicts 'Amicable' Korean-U.S. Relationship

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — South Korea's new military ruler — firmly in power despite American opposition to his overthrow of the elected government — announced a sweeping crackdown on leftists today and predicted amicable relations with the United States.

Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young announced at his first news conference the arrest of 930 leftists, and said former Premier John Chang, 61, and other members of his Cabinet were under house arrest.

The Premier and most members of his Cabinet resigned Thursday after the chiefs of all branches of the armed forces rallied to the ruling junta, quickly cementing the victory of the military junta that staged Tuesday's revolt.

The development demonstrated that U.S. authorities here, who took a decided stand against the revolt within hours after it broke out, had backed the losing side.

But despite this, Gen. Chang, 33, said he did not think U.S.-Korean relations will be hurt, and that American support would be stronger than ever.

"There should be no trouble at all as far as U.S.-Korean relations are concerned," he told newsmen.

"Our armed forces in the past have had closer relations with U.S. authorities than any other Korean agency. Therefore, I believe the U.S. government will cooperate with us and support us more positively than ever before."

The junta has declared a staunchly anti-Communist and pro-American policy.

State Department officials in Washington left no doubt the United States will have to swallow its distaste for the military coup in Korea and renew diplomatic relations as soon as possible. The first step may be today with President Kennedy calling for respect for democratic processes and indicating a willingness to cooperate with the new government.

That may not be too difficult since the United States contributes some $250 million annually to support South Korea.

Both American spokesmen who unsuccessfully sought to stall the coup are due to be superseded, but Washington insisted the changes were routine.

Authorities said the United Nations commander, Lt. Gen. Carter B. Magruder, will be replaced June 30, as scheduled, by Lt. Gen. Guy S. Meloy. Magruder is retiring.

The U.S. charge d'affaires, Marshall Green, is acting head of the embassy but will soon get a new chief, Ambassador Samuel D. Berger. President Kennedy had appointed Berger before the revolt.

Officials feared the coup's success might tempt others in the future. A successful pro-Communist coup could destroy this country's years of efforts to keep South Korea free. But the United States, said Acting Secretary of State Chester Bowles, must face the fact "we can't run the world."

Reno, Hughes Charged After Arts Week Fight

Van Ivor Reno, A2, Hampton, and Gerald Hughes, A1, Fox Lake, Ill., each posted $100 bond in Iowa City police court Thursday afternoon, pending arrangements on an assault and battery charge.

Judge Jay Honohan continued the case indefinitely to allow Hughes and Reno to obtain legal counsel.

The complaint was filed by Alfred M. Lee, G, Louisville, Ky., and former SUI instructors Robert Mezey, Mexico City, and Philip Levine, Fresno, Calif.

The charges resulted from a fight early Saturday morning at Lee's apartment, 105½ S. Clinton St. Levine suffered a fractured jaw and Hughes received cuts on the head and had two stitches taken. Lee was kicked in the nose, and Mezey was kicked in the stomach, according to Lawson Inada, G, Fresno, Calif., who went to Lee's apartment a few minutes after the fracas.

Attorneys Leff and Leff are handling the case for Lee, Levine and Mezey.

Hughes and Reno are enrolled in the College of Liberal Arts. Hughes is a member of the freshman wrestling team.

Levine and Mezey, both poets, were in Iowa City at the invitation of Prof. Paul Engle, director of SUI's Writers' Workshop. Levine is an instructor at Fresno State College and Mezey will join him on the faculty there this summer.

India, Canada Ask Aid to Commission For Laos Truce

GENEVA (HTNS) — India and Canada Thursday called upon the Geneva Conference to take immediate steps to strengthen the International Control Commission in Laos for effective supervision of the cease-fire in the country.

With reports of major violations of the cease-fire continuing to reach the United States and other delegations in Geneva, Canadian External Affairs Minister Howard Green asked the 14-nation Laotian Conference Thursday to give immediate approval to the expenditure of another $200,000 for transport and equipment for the Control Commission.

The Commission is composed of representatives of Canada, India and Poland. The $200,000 budget to which Green referred has already been allocated by the Indian Government for Commission expenses, but for obscure and unexplained reasons the Commission has not been able to spend the money.

M.S.U. Trustees Vote to Abolish Required R.O.T.C.

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Board of Trustees Thursday voted to abolish compulsory Reserve Officer Training (ROTC) at Michigan State University.

Required basic ROTC will remain in effect through 1962. A completely optional program will start in the fall of 1963.

A recommendation from a faculty study committee noted that the Defense Department has taken the stand that compulsory ROTC is no longer necessary to meet armed forces manpower requirements.

The new Central Party Committee elected Spencer Page, A2, Spencer, as its president in a meeting Thursday night. Lynn Lyon, A2, Clinton, was elected vice president. Page will appoint a secretary and treasurer next week.

Woman Hurt; Fell from Car

Mrs. Shirley Schumacker, 25, of 802 3rd St., Coralville, was taken to University Hospitals with bruises and lacerations after she fell from her car in the 900 block of West Park Road Thursday night.

Police said her car door flew open as she was driving. Attempting to close it, Mrs. Schumacker fell on the pavement. Her car then collided with another driven by Gerald MacDonald, RR No. 1, Scranton.

Hospital officials said her condition was not known Thursday night.

Police said no charges are being filed. Damage to the two vehicles was not heavy. Mrs. Schumacker was alone at the time.

$250,000 Suit Goes Before Jury Today

An appeal case asking $250,000 from the Iowa Highway Commission is expected to go to the jury today. The suit was brought by Mr. and Mrs. William T. Goodwin, 1121 S. Riverside Dr., last August.

In their suit and court arguments, the Goodwins contend that their property located at the southwest corner of the junction of Highways 6, 218 and 1 was devalued when the Commission condemned 12 acres in the widening of Riverside Drive.

CORRECTION
An error appeared in the Associated Press news story which The Daily Iowan printed last Saturday concerning the recent tuition increases at the State Board of Regents institutions.

Tuition costs at Iowa State University of Science and Technology were increased from the present $252 yearly to $297 for residents, and from $552 to $600 for non-residents. Saturday's story erroneously indicated an increase from $207 to $252 for residents.

Eliminate Old 'Flunk Rule,' Now Need 2.0 Grade Point

By BRUNO TORRES Staff Writer

Big Ten athletes received a break in eligibility requirements for financial aid under a new rule adopted Thursday by the Big Ten University faculty representatives meeting here.

The big changes were the dropping of the flunk rule and the lowering of the grade-point requirement for full financial aid from 2.5 to a 2.0 grade point. Under the flunk rule, an athlete becomes ineligible by flunking a single course.

The Big Ten athletic directors, in a separate meeting, discussed gambling in intercollegiate athletics.

Bill Reed, assistant Big Ten commissioner, said, "We recognize gambling does exist on a widespread basis. Where there is a big exchange of gambling money, there will be chiselers and attempts to fix games."

Reed said the conference subscribes to a special information service from a gambler outside the Midwest who reports to them on the fluctuations in bet point spreads on Big Ten football and basketball games that might indicate something unusual is happening.

"There is no question gamblers have men on every campus and they have good information on all athletic events. We want at this time to re-emphasize to coaches and athletes to be alert and report any approaches by gamblers and fixers," Reed said.

Dropping of the flunk rule and lowering of the grade-point requirements for full financial aid resulted from a new grade-point probability formula adopted to compute eligibility for aid.

The grade-point probability for entering athletes will be computed by combining high school senior class ranking and scores achieved on College Board or American College Testing Service examinations.

The new requirements for athletes receiving partial aid based on need will be determined by the athlete's probability of attaining a 1.7 grade-point average during the first year of college as predicted by class rank and the college entrance exams.

To receive full financial aid, an athlete is now required to be in the upper quarter of his high school class and to maintain a 2.5 grade-point. Under the new rules, his eligibility will be determined by the probability of his maintaining a 2.0 grade-point.

Marcus Plant of the University of Michigan, secretary for the Big Ten faculty representatives, said the grade-point requirement was lowered from 2.5 to 2.0 because of the high drop-out rate among athletes receiving full aid.

Plant also said the aid requirement based on the new probable grade-point formula will avoid inequities due to variations in high school standards. The old system, partially based on class ranking, has been criticized.

Requirements for athletes to remain eligible to play were also changed. Sophomores who previously had no grade-point requirement to meet, must now maintain a 1.7. Junior and senior grade-point eligibility requirements were not changed; they remain 1.8 for juniors and 1.9 for seniors.

But along with the new sophomore grade-point requirement, the flunk rule was dropped. It is now possible for an athlete to flunk a course and still remain eligible as long as he maintains a sufficient grade-point average.

The new aid and eligibility requirements must still be approved by all of the Big Ten Universities.

In other action, the conference directors approved games between freshman football teams. Two such events are already scheduled between the University of Michigan and Michigan State University. Reed said Iowa, Purdue, Wisconsin and some other schools have said they would like to start freshman football contests.

Under a new plan adopted for conference televised games, the home team will receive $6,000, and the visiting team, $4,000. The remainder of the earnings will go into an all-conference fund.

Today the faculty representatives will consider a petition from Indiana University for removal from probation, which suspended them from the conference football standings last season and from participation in football television receipts.

Sees Informal 'Summit' Meet

By ROWLAND EVANS JR.

WASHINGTON (HTNS) — President Kennedy is deeply concerned that exuberant and unjustified hopes may distort the real purpose of his projected meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev and lead to expectations that cannot be fulfilled, and hence to disillusion.

An announcement of the meeting, tentatively set for right after Kennedy's trip to Paris in early June, is expected to be made jointly here and in Moscow, probably this morning.

The President, intends to go out of his way to tell the nation — and congressional leaders of both parties — that if, as now assumed, the confrontation takes place in early June:

1. There will be no agenda and no negotiating, in the formal sense of that word, on any issues at all, with the single possible exception of the test ban.

2. The conversation of the two world leaders will not result in any concrete agreements, again with a possible exception in the general area of the atomic test-ban negotiations.

3. The point of the meeting is not to hold a "summit conference" but to permit him and Khrushchev to size each other up in their first personal talk.

DI Challenges Poly Sci

Seeking revenge for an uncalled for 7-2 softball defeat last year, The Daily Iowan staff has issued a return match challenge to the Political Science Department. The Poly Scis have accepted and the game is scheduled for May 26 at 3 p.m. on the Women's Athletic Field.

Last year's game originated when The Daily Iowan thought it would slap the hands of those naughty political scientists who had bombarded the editorial page with letters to the editor. Some of the letters allegedly smacked of "unwarranted" criticism toward the "unerring and righteous" DI.

Informed sources testified that a wave of antagonism seemed to spread between the two groups and a grudge softball game was set up. The plan backfired for the journalists, however. They moved to a 2-0 lead in the early stages of the contest, only to fall miserably behind after losing their star pitcher, Mick Holmes.

The Daily Iowan-Political Science game promises to become an annual affair, according to reports from both factions. A traveling trophy will be added this year in an attempt to spur interest in the game.

So, beware Politsters! A bearded Daily Iowan staff spokesman said Thursday night that he had seen blood in the eyes of several journalists and that he knew it wasn't from loss of sleep. He added, "DI, si — PSD, no."

Personality Profile —

Athlete Stereotype Wrong, Says 'Tuck'

"I think there's a very strong tendency on this campus to stereotype an athlete as being an oversized animal with no brains," says Jim Tucker, A3, Hampton, new president of the Varsity Lettermen's Club.

It doesn't bother me at all. "I don't think athletes enjoy privileges that are unavailable to other students, and anybody who thinks this has a definite misconception," he said. "I don't think any athlete expects special treatment, and most of them want to be treated like ordinary students."

Jim cited the cross-country team as an example of the make-up of many SUI athletic teams. "On it are three engineers, a journalist, a psychology major and a math major," he said, "and their combined grade-points average out to more than a 3.0."

When asked if there was any truth to the rumor that athletes get exams early, Jim said: "If it's true, I wish I knew about it."

Activities and athletics have proved to be a successful combination for Jim. Besides his I-Club post, he is the new president of the Associated Students of Journalism, sports editor of the 1961 Hawkeye and assistant sports editor of The Daily Iowan.

He won the cross-country scholarship cup as a freshman, and was an Orientation leader his sophomore year. His grade point average is 2.7.

A natural leader, Jim was president of the North Central District of the Iowa Association of Student Councils while a senior at Hampton High School.

He was also president of the Hampton High Student Council, editor of the school newspaper, captain of the basketball team (he's 6'4") and a letterman in football and track. He received approximately 25 collegiate scholarship offers.

Jim is majoring in educational journalism, and plans to work for an M.A. degree in either education or journalism. Eventually, he would like to do educational public relations work, such as sports information.

A distance runner, Jim will compete in the mile and two-mile runs at the Big Ten track meet here Saturday. His best time for the mile is 4:12, and for the two-mile, 9:14. The Big Ten records for these two events are 4:09 and 9:05 respectively.

"The sports writers have conceded me a chance in both events, but I'm skeptical," Jim said. He predicted Michigan will win the meet, with Iowa placing second.

Jim said he gets "extremely jittery" before a meet. "I don't try to calm myself down, because as Dr. Miller (head of Student Health) says, the spirited horse always wins."

As a freshman and sophomore, Jim roomed at Hillcrest with Don Nelson, Hawkeye basketball center. "This year I'm living alone, because Nels found a better roommate," he quipped. (Nelson was married last summer.)

"Tuck" will also have a new roommate next fall. He and Donna Whiting, N3, Iowa City, will be married this summer.

"I feel this is very unfortunate," he continued, "because it's so far from the truth. I feel the athletes represent very typical cross-section of the SUI student body, just as any group does. Among us are very poor students, average students and top-notch honors students."

Jim, or "Tuck" as he is known to his friends, has won four major letters in track and cross-country competition, and has twice been named to the NCAA All-American Cross Country Team.

"My first reaction to the term 'jock' was that it was rather obscene," Jim said. "When I became a sophomore, I considered it an insult, and now, as a junior, I regard it as an almost affectionate term. It's come to a point where it's just common lingo, and and athletics."

Activities and athletics have proved to be a successful combination for Jim. Besides his I-Club post, he is the new president of the Associated Students of Journalism, sports editor of the 1961 Hawkeye and assistant sports editor of The Daily Iowan.

He won the cross-country scholarship cup as a freshman, and was

Castroism Expands Even into Boy Scouts

The Associated-Press reports that Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro has nationalized Cuba's Boy Scouts. The action was taken, the report said, because the Boy Scout executives there had abandoned the organization.

We wonder what the ramifications of this move might be.

Speculation about the future of the organization envisions a board of Cuban Boy Scouts solemnly pledging: "On my honor, I will do my best to do my duty to Fidel and Cuba . . ." Lord Baden-Powell would turn over in his grave!

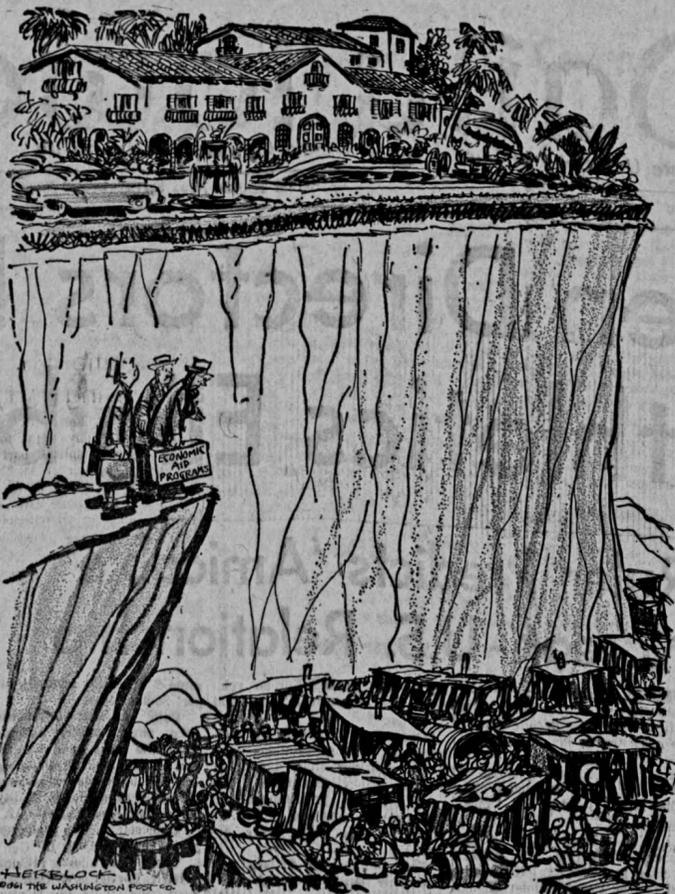

No doubt the traditional Scout uniform will be altered to imitate those of Castro's revolutionaries. And in place of the highest scouting award, the rank of Eagle, a theatrical beard would be the much-sought prize.

We further envision the Cuban Scouts attending international jamborees, spreading Communist propaganda — if, indeed, they are invited.

The takeover of the Cuban Boy Scouts is reminiscent of the Hitler Youth of Nazi Germany. While the AP report did not say whether the executives had abandoned the Scouts voluntarily there is a possibility they did not.

While this action may not seem very important, it clearly shows that Castro's brand of Communism is not very different from that of the Soviet Union: The long tentacles of the State are reaching into every corner of Cuban life to establish firm control.

HERELOCK FROM THE WASHINGTON POST '60

2 Guiding Principles

Fundamental to the American system is the principle that every citizen should have an opportunity to obtain a good education. This is one of the guiding principles for the State Board of Regents, which governs state-supported institutions including Iowa State.

Last week, somewhat contrary to this policy, the board unwillingly raised tuition at the three Iowa schools of higher education. This fall, in-state students at Iowa State will be paying $99 per quarter instead of the current $84.

The action came following the Legislature's agreement on $41.3 million as the annual allocation for the Board of Regents — about $9 million less than requested. For a time it looked as if the House's proposed allocation of over $43 million might be accepted. The Regents reluctantly agreed to this figure, but a House-Senate conference committee agreed on $42 million. A tuition hike appeared to be the only solution without restricting enrollment. The boost in tuition will bring in an estimated $1.2 million annually.

Back of the Regents' need for more funds is the need for more and higher teacher's salaries.

As enrollment increases at the institutions, more teachers are necessary at better salaries in order to maintain the quality of education at the present level.

Fifteen dollars more each quarter is not great compared to total expenses incurred in four years of college, but the latest tuition increase marks the second inside of a year, and Lester Gillette, acting chairman of the Regents, has said that further increases are likely within the next few years together with the restricting of enrollment that most recent increase was designed to prevent.

"Equally fundamental to the American system is the idea of public support for the schools of the land." This is the second cardinal principle guiding the Board of Regents. But the principle was not violated by the Regents. The Legislature, in its attempt to stabilize taxes, is to blame.

In its next session let us hope that the Legislature will recognize Iowa's principles of education and see fit to find a little more tax money for educating the next generation.

Quiet, Efficient Spies

We note with a distinctly queasy feeling that a private investigating agency claims to have planted agents in classrooms of a number of colleges to help investigate what are called "controversial" professors.

We do not approve. Nor do we approve of the claim that this same agency is sending letters of solicitation to presidents of many universities, advising them that several other schools are using the service.

Just picture it — these "operatives," enrolled as students, calmly taking notes in class. Notes which will be analyzed by the agency and rendered as reports to the "client-school."

The University is fortunate to have on its faculty men who could undoubtedly be classified as "trouble-makers."

Stifle them, and you lose the purposes of a university. The blockheaded thinking behind the idea of such a service should be evident to all.

The classroom situation should not turn into a forum of mistrust and stereotyped "safe" thinking. According to the report, University officials are guaranteed that the system is quiet and efficient and are told they merely need ask and a salesman will call.

If a university education has degenerated to the point that a quiet, efficient system of spying is for sale, then why is there such a demand for that education?

We somehow hold to the belief that the individual student has the brains and guts to tell for himself when a professor is off target in his thinking and teaching.

We also have the question of who is to decide what is acceptable in the classroom, what is "too much" for the students to take.

There has been no mention of what universities are employing this investigative service.

We wonder: Has a letter of solicitation reached the desk of David D. Henry?

SPECULATORS CAUGHT

MOSCOW (AP) — Security police have arrested nine persons accused of participating in the biggest currency speculation ring in the Soviet Union's postwar criminal history, the Government announced Thursday.

The Soviet State Security Committee said the nine speculated to the tune of two million rubles — a little over $2 million at the official rate — buying foreign currency and gold from tourists and other Soviet citizens and then reselling at higher prices.

All nine were indicted and held for trial. No other details were given.

Letters to the Editor—

Applauds Sincere Attempt

To the Editor:

For nearly three weeks the Greeks on this campus have daily read the barrage of letters and editorials printed in the Daily Iowan. Each day the "comic strip" is opened, read and discussed. Each day more atrocities and irresponsible accusations are leveled against us. This we have all taken in stride.

However, the Daily Iowan article by Larry Barrett posed far too great a temptation to resist. This article is not an exequy for fraternities but a carefully composed bit of Let us examine sections of this masterly lucubration.

No. 1 — "A real Greek has trouble getting in." At the present time a real Greek, is an active member of this fraternity, and many other real Greeks, Spaniards, etc., are spread throughout the fraternity system.

No. 2 — "They Greeks are anti-academic . . ." As a point of information to Barrett, the All-Men's average grade point is consistently and substantially lower than the All-Fraternity average. As is stated in Pledge Manuals, and as is stressed in SUI chapters, scholarship is the first responsibility of a member of any fraternity.

No. 3 — "They Greeks are anti-intellectual . . ." Each week our fraternity invites a University notable to dinner to discuss with the various facets of intellectual ideas which the classroom does not offer. The list includes Dean Huit, Dean Stuit, Dr. John Harlow, Dr. D. W. Brown, Dr. Charles Morreal, to name but a few.

No. 4 — "Their greatest collective labor are in behalf of the Queen candidate of an affiliated sorority house or their own BMOC nominee." In January of this year, over 200 Greeks marched in drizzling rain for the March of Dimes. How many independents volunteered? In April, over 100 Greeks again solicited in rain, this time house to house, for the American Cancer Society. I don't remember any independents lending their assistance.

The Inter-Fraternity Pledge Council this year granted $600 to the Old Gold Development Funds and is currently sponsoring a European displaced orphan through the Foster Parent foundation.

It is indeed unfortunate that those rabble-rousing and hypocritical members of the University "family," who have themselves done nothing to aid the cause of racial and religious equality should criticize a segment of our college population which HAS made a positive step toward a just and fair solution.

Ten years ago, nearly every fraternity on this campus had a "color clause" in their national Constitutions. At the present time, only one fraternity has a "color clause" and EVERY fraternity at SUI has voted to abolish these clauses at their national conventions. No SUI fraternity has ever voted differently.

One fraternity on this campus has gone one step further. They broke all racial prejudice and pledged a Negro, and their intentions were certainly honorable.

The fact that he was deplored is far from being as significant as his initial pledging. They had taken the final step in the right direction. Why was he deplored? Do you know, Mr. Barrett? Does anyone know except the members of Delta Chi? Each month many men are deplored from various fraternities on this campus and all for numerous reasons.

We should applaud Delta Chi for their sincere attempt, realizing that it will now be easier for any fraternity to pledge a Negro.

If this same sincere attempt were to be made by those who reside in our dormitories, perhaps the situation would not continue where Negro almost always rooms with Negro.

A great man once said, "Let he that is perfect cast the first stone." Let's clean our own house before we criticize others who ARE making an earnest attempt to do the same.

The "mind of Barrett" must be nebulous beyond the point of reality to create such a whimsical and ideological composition as the one observed Wednesday.

And, Mr. Barrett, if you are looking for an academic anachronism, you need look no further than the newspaper for which you write.

Defying Federal Law?

To the Editor:

The Supreme Court decision of 1954 concerning segregation in the United States has made it clear that the fundamental law of our land will not countenance discrimination in public institutions. Whatever our private feelings as citizens of this country we are legally and morally obligated to carry out the law of the land. SUI is a public institution chartered by a state whose laws must take a subordinate position to and be compatible with those of the Federal Constitution.

Segregation cannot be the policy of SUI. All organizations which exist under the imprimatur of SUI must reflect and operate under the same laws which bind the University.

If they do not, both the University and those organizations are derelict in their duty. With regard to this, there is nothing for the President, as the supreme officer of the University, to investigate. He should make it clear that the University's position is consonant with that of the state and Federal Constitutions, and that no subordinate organization will long be tolerated which flaunts that position.

The image of a state university defying federal law, explicitly or implicitly, is hardly one to inspire the administration, the faculty, the students or the people.

Ever heard a campus conversation similar to this? If so, the speakers involved were probably Bill Graham, A3, Leon; Ron Miller, A2, Emmetsburg; Larry Bartleson, E4, Forest City, or Dale Miner, A1, Luzerne. These four SUIowans are employed as checkers at the Hillcrest dining room, and know every dorm resident by sight and student number. SUI PASTTIME

Nothing's better than a brew, Unless — two Or more In multiples of four.

The "brew" poem brings to mind a story told at an SUI banquet recently by Master of Ceremonies Johnny Philpot, G, Mena, Ark. It seems an Arkansas farmer, having nothing else to do, decided to go fishing. He was about halfway to the river when he remembered he had no bait, but his problem was solved when he stumbled upon a snake with a frog in its mouth. He removed the frog, but felt so sorry for the hungry snake that he poured some of his own special home brew down the snake's throat, then let it go. When the farmer arrived at the river, he put the frog on the end of his line, threw the line in, and settled down on the river bank. Almost immediately he felt a tug at his pants leg. It was the snake, with another frog in its mouth.

CNOBSB No. 20: This week's non-offered course might be given by the SUI faculty for all students interested in becoming college professors:

EASY 1 GOLDBRICKING MADE 500-5 10:30 M-F Macbride Auditorium PREREQUISITES: Student must sign agreement to give essay tests graded by graduate assistants when he acquires professional rank. REQUIRED TEXTS: "Maybe Graduate Assistants DON'T Attend Every Lecture, But Grades Are No Real Indication, Anyway;" "How To Find a Convention To Attend When Exams Are Waiting To Be Graded;" "So — Nelson Rockefeller Wasn't Phi Beta Kappa Either;" "If We Spend Our Own Valuable Time Grading Exams, Who Would Go To Triangle Club Dances?" "Graduate Assistants Can Use The Stairway Grading Method As Well Or Better Than We Can, Anyway;" and "Thank Godness Promotions Aren't Based On the Number of Exams Corrected, Or We'd All Be Instructors."

Safety Factor

A Denver physician offers some safety suggestions which he believes would save many lives in traffic accidents. One is the widely used seat belts, and he also recommends shoulder straps and bumpers extending out two feet from cars.

With these devices, drivers would suffer only discomfort should they drive into a bridge abutment at 40 m.p.h. at 50 m.p.h. the jolt would cause no serious injury, and at 60, the injuries would not be fatal. Extended bumpers would double the safety factor, and shoulder straps would double the effectiveness of seat belts.

French-English Cable

CALAIS, France (AP) — Two trawlers are laying a cable of 200,000-volt capacity on the English Channel bottom between here and Folkestone so France and England can draw on each other's electric supply during their different peak hours of power consumption.

The Daily Iowan

The Daily Iowan is written and edited by students and is governed by a board of five student trustees elected by the student body and four trustees appointed by the president of the University. The Daily Iowan's editorial policy is not an expression of SUI administration policy or opinion, in any particular.

'Troilus and Cressida'— Slow Moving, Big Gaps

—Ambitious Costumes

By WALTER KELLER
Written for the DI
This is the one where Shakespeare gets in his most pointed digs at the supposed honor, heroism, and overall magnanimity of the figures of Greek mythology. The Bard doesn't take the myths with nearly the seriousness or naivete which so many people take them.

He painted a pretty tawdry, petty lot of jealous, scheming, opportunistic and often lazy soldiers. We see, instead of two strong, united fronts, a feuding gang of politicians whose aims are individually selfish, and a clumsy pile of Trojans who, in modern terms, might be described as being "jealous of their own notices" rather than primarily interested in defending Troy.

A strong secondary target for Shakespeare's barbs is the pack of conniving, coy, feline females which exists by its looks and wits and which is collectively an empty-headed, often hysterical, lot.

One comes almost automatically to expect large gaps in a drama enterprise of this size at SUI. One's reluctant expectations are not disproved by much of what happens in this particular production.

For many long moments, liberally spaced, there is a virtual absence of recognizable beats. A virtual miasma of slow movement permeates the production. There are bald totally unproductive pauses (better known in a related field as "dead air") where we wait and wait and w-a-i-t for that next line, and when it is finally labored out, often bears little or no relation to the lines preceding it.

Many of the minor players move with awkward self-consciousness. You can almost hear them counting steps to themselves, so set and mechanical are their movements.

But it isn't all that bad really. There were three or four fine performances in key roles, and two or three well-paced absorbing major scenes.

Especially noteworthy is Bill Carr, as Pandarus, uncle to Cressida. Carr's humorous touches are bound up in an amply conceived characterization. He moves well and we hear everything he says clearly. (The latter trait is slightly novel in the midst of too large a number of barely distinguishable mutterings.)

Nick Scott (Thersites) is constantly funny with his sardonic commentary and mock-desperate attempts at self-preservation.

Jim Maloon displays an intelligent grasp of the would-be heroism of Ajax. His blustery antics provide a few sorely-needed peaks.

Tom Carson presents a solid Ulysses — a Ulysses with almost too much sculptured dimension for his compatriots. Thad Thorp's Nester is consistent and believable.

Beyond these — there is just a long procession of quiet, one-level

Good Listening— Today On WSUI

"WOMEN ARE LIKE THAT", the English title of Mozart's opera "Così fan Tutte", is provocative enough to bring about an early starting time (7 p.m.) for tonight's Evening-at-the-Opera. Most listeners should be pleased to learn that the entire work has been adapted to the English language. A few die-hards may be dismayed by the same news.

In any case, the principals involved (Eleanor Steber, Richard Tucker, Roberta Peters and that crowd) stand ready, in any language, to devote two acts of opera to explaining what it is that women are like. Even with the early starting time (7 p.m.), they probably won't any more than scratch the surface.

IT'S UPSET TIME AGAIN — that is if the news of the day has that effect upon you (and if it doesn't, you obviously don't understand the situation). Right after lunch, at 12:45, it will be time for Editorial Page It's a Friday, May 19, 1961 combination practically guaranteed to produce indigestion (if not ulcers).

The only sensible way to approach the program is not to eat at all. Then, afterward, you will have lost whatever appetite you may have had. The savings involved, over a period of a year, should be enough to purchase a portable bomb shelter — just the thing for Father's Day.

EVERYBODY LOVES BASEBALL. People who don't even understand the game love it — especially around world's series time when they can go off on the job to listen to the game that every boss regards with an almost patriotic fervor.

In the interest of better relations between management and employees, we are continuing to broadcast baseball games as a conditioning experience for June graduates. Today at 3:25 p.m. it's Minnesota and Iowa in a single game; tomorrow at 1:25 p.m. they double the action. WSUI plans to air both experiments.

SPEAKING OF BASEBALL, there is a special effort made every night at 9:55 to bring sports fans up-to-the-minute on scores and such. The service is especially helpful during the summer with so many of the teams engaged in evening encounters on the diamond. For those who simply must know how the Dodgers did, it's extremely useful.

5 Fraternities Select Sweethearts at Spring Formals

JUDY HUGHES
Delta Chi Sweetheart

Spring is that romantic time — the time when the usual movie dates give way to picnics and riverbanking; the time when "Pinned, Chained, Engaged" gets longer every week; the time when fraternities choose their favorite girls to reign at their spring formals.

Sandy Lyon, A2, Tiffin, (above) was the chosen one at the Pi Kappa Alpha spring formal last weekend at the Elks Club. She received the traditional "Dream Girl" bouquet from Anthony Bougoukas, A3, Youngstown, Ohio, master of ceremonies for the evening. Attending Sandy were (front left) Sue Wallis, A1, Dubuque; and Suzanne Martelle, A2, Crookston, Minn. Faye Jordan, A2, Laurel, Miss., last year's PIKA Dream Girl, prepares to present the crown to her successor.

Judy Hughes, A2, Des Moines, (upper left) was crowned Delta Chi Sweetheart at the fraternity's formal, "Spring Nocturne," last Friday night. She was attended by Sue Flink, A2, Rockford, Ill.; Nancy Paulson, Methodist School, of Nursing, Des Moines; and Karen Hein, DeKalb University, DeKalb, Ill.

Reigning as Lambda Chi Alpha Crescent Girl at the fraternity's spring formal last weekend was Mimi Schaechter, A2, Viola, Ill., (lower left). She was attended by Carol Lea Eckels, A1, Lenox; Con-

Iowa Golf Team To Big Ten Meet

By GARY HICKOK
Staff Writer

Iowa's six-man golf team will display its wares in the Big Ten conference meet at Indiana today and Saturday in what should be a wide-open scramble for individual and team honors.

Competing for the Hawkeyes will be Jack Rule, Frank James, Bob Davis, J. D. Turner, Chuck Mullen and Bill Hird. These six have been the mainstays in an Iowa attack which netted a 5-3-1 season's record and a 2-3 mark in the Big Ten.

Rule, present Iowa master's champion, has consistently led the Hawkeye scorers this season. He has notched medalist honors in at least six of Iowa's meets and, along with Davis, is considered a contender for the conference individual title.

Davis was the runnerup in the Big Ten meet in 1959. The same year James finished 12th and this season has been Iowa's No. 2 golfer. Hird, Mullen and Turner have had their ups and downs this season but will be back next year along with Rule.

The Hawkeyes finished seventh in the conference meet last season. In Big Ten competition this year, Iowa has been defeated once by Indiana and twice by title contender Minnesota, while downing Wisconsin twice, Michigan State, on the basis of its record, should be a slight favorite over Minnesota and Michigan for the team crown. Also well-regarded are Purdue, Ohio State and Northwestern.

Purdue, the defending champion, has dominated conference golf in recent years. The Boilermakers have won seven of the last 11 championships and have produced the individual winner in 11 of the last 13 meets.

The only certainty in this weekend's competition is that there will be a new individual champion. John Konsek of Purdue, the only Big Ten golfer in history to capture three consecutive titles, has graduated.

Stepping in as the favorite will be Ohio State's Jack Nicklaus, runnerup last year. Nicklaus is probably the nation's finest amateur golfer. In 1959 he won the National Amateur crown and finished second to Arnold Palmer in the National Open last year.

Challenging Nicklaus will be 13 other top collegiate golfers. They include: teammate Mike Podolski, Al Badger, Tad Schmidt and Gene Hunt, Michigan State; Joe Brisson, Michigan; Gene Hansen, Minnesota; Rule and Davis; Jon Windness, Northwestern; Larry Walden, Wisconsin; Steve Wilkinson and Mark Darnell, Purdue; and Jim Vitou, Indiana.

Par or near-par scores may be the exception rather than the rule on Indiana's par 71, 6,717-yard course. Of 120 rounds played by seven Big Ten schools this year, only two equalled par and not one bettered it. The average score for an intercollegiate round over the rolling, wooded layout this season is 78.6.

Liston, Johansson Title Bout in Fall Is Very Probable

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Ingemar Johansson, former world heavyweight boxing champion said Thursday the prospects are very good for him to fight Sonny Liston, the No. 1 contender, in America this fall.

Johansson told the newspaper Dagens Nyheter he will give a definite answer to the proposed match by June 15.

"The matchmakers count on a fight in September or October this year," Johansson was quoted. "It depends on my tax position whether it will be in the United States or in Canada."

The former champ said the bout probably would be held in San Francisco if it is held in the U.S. although Philadelphia also had shown interest.

Los Angeles Tops White Sox 6-4

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jim Landis' tie-breaking triple in the seventh inning sent the Chicago White Sox on a 6-4 victory and the sixth straight loss for the Los Angeles Angels Thursday night before 3,740.

Roy Sievers got on base with one out in the seventh when a fast ball by Ryne Duren got by catcher Del Rice on the third strike. Landis followed with his triple and scored the final run of the game on Serm Lollar's single to center.

The White Sox scored two runs in the first inning on hits by Al Smith and Sievers, plus a walk.

The Angels tied it up in the second on a homer by Rice.

Golf Ace Conley Beats Tigers with 4-Hitter, 1-0

BOSTON (AP) — Giant Gene Conley pitched lowly Boston past Detroit's American League leaders 1-0 Thursday night, taming the Tigers on four singles.

Conley, the ex-National Leaguer righting himself after a three-game losing streak, had the visitors dancing to the tune of his deceptive slider.

Don Buddin, the Red Sox "second chance" shortstop, doubled home the game's only run in the fifth inning. The blow carried to the right field corner and Pete Runnels, who had singled, just beat the throw to the plate.

Buddin was to have been Boston's regular shortstop, but moments before the opening game the switch was made to Pumpsie Green, and the latter's appendectomy put Don back in the lineup.

Two of the Tigers' safeties off Conley were by lefthanded hitters Billy Brubaker in the first and Norm Cash in the fourth.

Cotley apparently thrived on the chill night air and beat an old Sox nemesis, Jim Bunning whose accomplishments against the home forces include a "no-hitter" here three years ago.

Possessing superb control he walked two while striking out six.

Hawks Host Minnesota In Last Big 10 Series

Iowa's baseball team will face a tough Minnesota nine on the home diamond today at 3:30 p.m. Both squads will finish out their season here Saturday in a double-header starting at 1:30.

For the Hawkeyes, the three game series means a chance to improve an overall 8-13 mark and 4-6 in the Big Ten. For the Gophers it's an all out effort for their fourth straight conference title.

Minnesota, 9-3 in the Big Ten, lost its opener to Michigan in April and then won nine in a row to vault into first place. But Illinois beat the Gophers twice last Saturday tumbling them into third place behind Michigan, 9-1.

Even if Minnesota could win all three from Iowa, it would take two Michigan losses and at least one defeat for second place Indiana to give the Gophers the crown.

Attempting to thwart the Gophers' title bid today will be right-hander Ron Reifert, 6-4 for the year and 9-2 in conference play. Reifert who has allowed only seven earned runs in the Big Ten, pitched a four-hitter against Wisconsin two weeks ago.

In the hitting department, the Hawkeye standout is still first baseman Paul Bonstead, .303 in the Big Ten. Leftfielder Jack

Mays' Latest Catch Was The Greatest

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Manager Alvin Dark believes the latest great catch by San Francisco Giants' centerfielder Willie Mays was more difficult than his historic World Series grab of 1954.

In the series finale here Wednesday against the Chicago Cubs, Mays robbed catcher Dick Bertell of an extra base hit and the visitors of a run in the seventh inning.

With Ed Bruce on first base, Bertell hit a drive to deep center that Mays sprinted back to take near the 410-foot sign.

It was on Sept. 29, 1954, in the first game of the World Series that Mays made a back-to-the-plate catch of a 440-foot smash to center by Cleveland's Vic Wertz. Dark was shortstop on that 1954 team.

"The circumstances were different," he said after Wednesday's game. "But I think Willie's catch this afternoon was more difficult than the one made off Wertz."

Against Wertz, he had a look over his shoulder before he caught the ball with one hand. This afternoon, it came over his head from behind him.

Told of Dark's comparison, Willie commented simply, "I don't know. I just try to get that ball and throw it back to the infield."

"The wind made a difference. If it was blowing the other way the ball is out of here. That wind changes all the time, makes it tough."

Mays catch was the second great outfield defensive play by a Giant in their 4-3 victory over the Cubs. On the first pitch of the game, Bob Will crashed a drive to right that Felipe Alou grabbed by leaping high above the fence to rob the batter of a home run.

"Willie is right there telling me 'Jump,' Felipe said. "So I jumped."

Rain Cancels Iowa Tennis Team Action

Iowa's entrees in the Big Ten tennis championship at East Lansing, Michigan met with rough weather instead of rough opponents Thursday as Wilkinson and Schrier were rained out.

The Hawk's third player, Herb Hoffman was defeated by Stuart Cohen of Indiana, 6-0, 6-1, before the showers set began.

Today Steve Wilkinson will play Indiana's Don Thorne in a first round match. Wilkinson beat Thorne last Saturday at Minneapolis 6-3, 6-4.

Iowa's other player, Mike Schrier, will play Tom Boatman of Illinois.

Michigan is favored in the meet which ends Saturday, but Michigan State, Indiana and Northwestern all have outside chances.

Iowa's other three players, R. G. Walker, Les Pearl and Bernie Cahn remained in Iowa City to study for exams Coach Don Klotz reported.

Wall, Cupit Take Lead in 1st Round At Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP) — Art Wall and Buster Cupit put together perfect putting and steady fairway games to shoot 7-under-par 65s and lie for the first round lead in the $20,000 Hot Springs open golf tournament Thursday.

Wall, of Pocono Manor, Fla., seemed to have overcome a back injury that has plagued him through the first 12 tournaments of the year. The 37-year-old veteran, the PGA's leading money winner in 1959, missed a 65-foot chip shot by inches on the 18th hole.

Cupit, of Fort Smith, Ark., shot a 31-34-65 and holed eight birdies. Wall dunked seven birdies and was 33-32-65. Both had 26 putts.

Jerry Steelsmith of Glendale, Calif., and Mike Souchak of Grossinger, N.Y., shot 67s to tie for third place.

Tied for fifth with 68s were Julius Boros, Al Geiberger, Dave Ragan, Mason Rudolph and Doug Sanders, winner of last week's Colonial at Fort Worth.

Defending Champion Bill Collins of Crystal River, Fla., was down in the pack with a par 72.

Little Leaguer, 9, Killed by Baseball

TEMPLE CITY, Cal. (AP)—The littlest boy in the local Little League turned in toward a slow curve — and it hit him in the chest.

Barry J. Babcock, 9, dropped his bat, slumped back and died in the umpire's arms Wednesday night.

The boy's father dashed from the stands and tried mouth-to-mouth resuscitation — in vain.

The pitcher, Michael Hanes, 10, collapsed in uncontrolled hysterics. And it was toward Mike that Barry's father turned Thursday with words of consolation — and an offer to help him continue his baseball career.

"It could have happened any way," said grief-stricken Jack Babcock, Barry's dad. "It could have been a bike accident just as well."

He said he'll watch over Mike, who he learned is fatherless, and do all he can to comfort him and guide his baseball career.

"I hope this doesn't curtail Little League ball," the father said. "Barry wouldn't want that. He loved baseball more than anything in life."

Barry's mother, just home from a hospital after a serious heart operation, was placed under sedation after she was told the news.

The couple has a younger son, Philip, 4.

Hospital attendants said the pitched hard ball apparently crushed the boy's heart. An autopsy will determine the exact cause of death.

Little League headquarters in Philadelphia said Barry's death was the first in a Little League game.

Barry, who weighed only 53 pounds, was the smallest boy in the Temple City league. He had been a bat boy for two seasons before being allowed to play this season.

"Barry staggered back after the ball hit him," said Al Millham, umpire and league president. "I caught him before he fell. He died in my arms. He was gone before I could put him down."

Millham called the game. Barry's team was leading, 6-4. Millham gave it the victory.

Aged Golfer Hosts Own Tournament

CHATTANOOGA (AP) — Chattanooga's grandma golfer, Regina Hahn, has something in common with two other venerable golfers, Bing Crosby and Sam Snead. All have their own golf tournaments.

Regina's 12th annual birthday tournament may be less spectacular than the other two. But around here, it's a golfing institution almost as firmly established as grandma herself.

The occasion for Friday's affair will be her 74th birthday, and Mrs. Hahn — "everybody calls me grandma and I love it" — apologized a little for her game.

"Last year I had one 89, and shot between 90 and 95," she said, "but the weather's been so bad that I haven't played but three 18-hole rounds this year."

It all started when "a bunch of the girls and I went to Lafayette, Ga., on my 60th birthday, and one of them said that next year, they were going to throw a regular tournament in my honor. It was going to be in Lafayette," about 30 miles south of here.

"But City Commissioner George McInturf said, 'It will not be in Lafayette, because you were born and raised here and if you're going to have a tournament, it's going to be here.' So, it's always been here at the Brainerd public Golf Course."

Regina says she doesn't expect more "than about 30 girls this year. Last year we had 48." Then, she added earnestly:

"I don't really care anything about having a big tournament. I'd rather just have the girls that I played with all the time. I get excited enough as it is, and a big tournament would be just almost too much."

Big Ten Track and Field Championships Here Today

By JERRY ELSEA
Sports Editor

Iowa's track and field team will compete against some of the country's best athletes here today and Saturday in the 61st annual Big Ten championship meet.

A total of 209 performers are entered in the competition which will start today at 3 p.m. Saturday's program will begin at 1:30 p.m.

In today's discus contest, Hawkeye challenger Cloyd Webb will meet the two time Big Ten champ Larry Schmalenberger of Ohio State. The powerful Webb last Saturday defeated Schmalenberger here in setting an SUI record with 162-3. But Schmalenberger has thrown the saucer 167-3/4 and will be seeking revenge.

The pole vault will be the only other event settled this afternoon, but preliminaries will be held in all running events except the one and two-mile runs and the mile relay.

The ticket price for university students and staff is $1 per session and presentation of ID cards. The general public will be admitted for $2 per session. High school age and below will be admitted for 50 cents. Tickets will be on sale at the gate one hour before the beginning of each day's program.

The meet, being held in Iowa City for the first time in 35 years, will have a more improved track and better viewing stand than the ones used across the river in 1926. Grandstands along the south side of the field provide seating for about 2,200 and provide a good view of the finish line.

A fine group of athletes from Michigan looms as the favorite to run away with the 15 event meet. The Wolverines also pose a threat to the all-time point total of 74 amassed by Illinois in 1924.

Michigan is especially tough in the mile with Ergas Leps, defending title-holder, in the sprints with Tom Robinson, 100 and 220-yard dash champ. Dave Martin, another miler, last week ran 4:06.9, a good three seconds faster than teammate Leps.

Iowa will be one of several strong teams trying to stem the Michigan tide. Miler Jim Tucker, Ralph Trimble and Don Greenlee will face not only Leps and Martin but Purdue's George Harvey, 4:13.6, and Michigan State's Gerald Young, 4:14.1. Tucker ran 4:12 last year and Greenlee has run 4:13, but neither have approached that mark this year.

Last March Tucker, Greenlee and Trimble finished third, fourth and fifth respectively in the indoor championships behind Leps and Martin.

Purdue's squad also rates strong, but the Boiler-makers' defending 440-yard dash champ Dave Mills has been sidelined with a thigh muscle injury and didn't make the trip.

With Mills absent, the 440 will be wide open. The Hawks' leading entry in the quarter is Roger Kerr who ran the distance in :48.7. Kerr also anchors the mile relay team.

But, like Purdue, Iowa may lose points because of an injury. Wes Sidney, who took second in the indoor at 6-6, and once jumped 6-8 1/2 indoors has a bruised heel. Iowa Coach Francis Cretzmeyer said Thursday that Sidney might not compete.

Even in the best of shape, Sidney would be hard pressed to match Indiana's Reggie Sheppard, who cleared 6-9 1/2 in the indoor championships.

Sheppard is only one of many top Hoosiers, who will be bidding for a team second place finish. Mercuric Eddie Miles is :09.6 in the 100-yard dash and Reg Laconi is a top threat in the 440.

In the 880, Iowa's Gary Fischer will face Michigan's Leps and Martin, Indiana's Gene Graham and Minnesota's Art Patterson. Fischer, who won the Big Ten indoor 1,000-yard run, owns the Iowa indoor 880 mark of 1:54.9.

The Hawkeyes may also score in the sprints with Captain Tom Hyde running against Indiana's Miles, and Michigan State's Zack Ford, :09.8 in the 100 and :21.2 in the 220. Hyde scored a total of 38 points in Iowa's last four dual meets.

In the hurdles, Hawkeyes Jerry Williams and Don Gardner will compete against Minnesota's Dave Odegard, defending champion in the high's. Williams, recovering from a pulled muscle, will try his legs in both the lows and the high's. Last year he took second in the Big Ten outdoor 220-yard lows.

Iowa's Kerr Poses Threat In Quarter

An injury to Purdue's Dave Mills, American record holder in the 440-yard dash, has caused that event to turn into a wide open race, with any one of several outstanding quarter-milers conceded a chance to win, including Iowa's Roger Kerr.

Mills, who has been forced out of competition by a pulled leg muscle, ran the one lap race in :47.2 at the Big Ten indoor meet in March to set the coveted American mark.

With Mills absent and the possibility of acquiring a first place more of a reality, speculation is that the event will be more inviting to several outstanding quarter-milers who did not plan to otherwise run it.

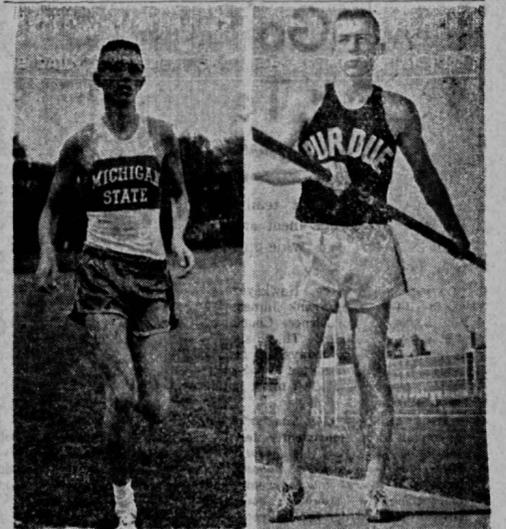

Kerr has run the race several times in less than 49 seconds as anchorman on Iowa's mile relay. His best open time is :48.7. The big sophomore from Wapello has scored several impressive victories with strong finishes in Iowa's dual meets and could run in the :47 category.

In addition to Kerr, such stars as Michigan's Dick Cephas, :47.5, Minnesota's Jim Fisher, Northwestern's Doug Gilbert, and Michigan's Brian Gibson are all top threats.

Several probable entries in the 660-yard event could also try for the quarter too with Mills on the sidelines. They are Ed West of Northwestern, Jim Hammond of Illinois, Walt Schaffer of Michigan, and Reggie Laconi and Larry Clinton of Indiana.

Weather Outlook Fine For Big Ten Track Meet

Latest weather reports predict a warm, sunny day for the running of the Big Ten Championship track meet here today.

Defending Champs

Two defending Big Ten champions from the Big Ten indoor meet are entered in the outdoor finals today and tomorrow. Left is Jerry Young, 2-miler from Michigan who won the indoor race at Champaign, Ill., and has a best time of 9:04.6 to his credit. Defending Big Ten pole vault champ is Mike Johnson of Northwestern, who has cleared 14-8 this year, tops among all conference vaulters.

Paul Pender To Fight Terry Downes

BOSTON (AP)—Paul Pender signed a contract Thursday to fight Terry Downes in London, July 11, for Pender's version of the world's middleweight boxing championship. The contract calls for Pender, who is recognized as champion in Massachusetts, New York and Europe, to receive $84,000, which will be deposited in a London bank before the fight. He will be allowed an additional $16,000 for expenses.

Hawkeye Hurdlers

Iowa's hopes for points in the Big Ten hurdle events will fall on Jerry Williams (above) and Don Gardner. Williams, who placed second in the Big Ten low hurdles last season, pulled a muscle this winter and has missed several meets. He is expected to be ready for Friday's competition. Gardner, a sophomore, has been Iowa's top hurdler in Williams' absence.

4 Iowa Seniors To Run In Last Track Meet Here

By JIM TUCKER
Assistant Sports Editor

Four senior members of Iowa's track team will compete in their final collegiate track meet this weekend with their appearances in the Big Ten Track and Field Championships.

They are Capt. Tom Hyde, sprinter, hurdler Fred Luthans, distance runner Don Greenlee, and sprinter Denny Valentine.

Hyde, from Menasha, Wis., has been one of Iowa's leading scorers this year, running the 100, 220, and 440-yard dashes. A stalwart of the Hawkeye mile relay, Hyde, recorded his best quarter-mile against Minnesota with a :48.3 time. Luthans, from Clinton, has been a consistent scorer in both the high and low hurdle events the past three seasons. He was on Iowa's shuttle hurdle relay team

Maner To Lecture in India, Pakistan on Fulbright Grant

A Fulbright grant established as "a contribution toward the improvement of foreign student counseling in American colleges and universities" will enable W. Wallace Maner, foreign student advisor at SUI to lecture in India and Pakistan during the next school year.

A friend and counselor to hundreds of students from other countries who have attended SUI during the 10 years, Maner will be the only U.S. grantee participating in the project during 1961-62. He will be on leave from his post at SUI until May, 1962.

"Depending on their need, I will be assigned to lecture in major universities in India and Pakistan," says Maner, who will leave from San Francisco with his wife and two children on June 17.

En route to Pakistan and India, the Maners will travel via Tokyo, Manila, Bangkok, Hong Kong and Rangoon, visiting SUI alumni in the various Far East cities.

Besides the goal of improvement of counseling for students from other countries in the U.S., the awards have been established as a means of furthering understanding of American higher education by university faculty members and students in India and Pakistan, and similarly, to further understanding of higher education in India and Pakistan on the part of the American participants.

During his stay, Maner will observe educational objectives, standards and methods of universities in the two countries, and will lecture on American higher education and the values of international education exchange. He will also advise students and faculty members on opportunities for study in the U.S.

The award is for a period of nine months beginning in July. He will spend several months first in Pakistan and then go to India.

Maner received a B.A. degree from Michigan State University in 1940 and an M.A. degree from MSU in 1950. He has been in his present position at SUI since 1952.

Iowa City Growth Necessitates More Services—Mayor

Mrs. Thelma B. Lewis, Iowa City mayor, said Wednesday that a complex, growing Iowa City has created new community problems and multiplied the need for more municipal services.

Speaking to the Optimist Club, she pointed out that during the last 10 years Iowa City's population has increased 6,000 persons, 2,000 acres have been added to the city, and nearly 2,000 new homes have been built.

One of the big problems facing the city, she said, is the rate increase dispute with the Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Company. "I hope the court will give us a fair judgment," she said.

Other problems, she said, are whether to buy or lease the privately-owned city water system, and whether to combine water systems with the University.

Mayor Lewis also advocated the establishment of a city zoning ordinance to provide a planned system of city growth.

Recent projects to the credit of the city, she said, were the new police and fire station, and adjacent to it the new city administration building presently under construction. She also cited the 3/4 mill levied over the last year to finance an addition to the city library.

College Newspaper Wins Hearst Contest Award

The winning student and college in the first William Randolph Hearst Foundation Journalism awards were announced Thursday in Washington, D.C. by Pierre Salinger, White House Press Secretary, at a National Press Club luncheon.

Gerald B. Rankin of Stanford University was the winning student and the William Allen White School of Journalism at the University of Kansas was named the winning school.

Following the luncheon, Rankin and Prof. Calder M. Pickett, acting dean of the winning journalism school, were greeted by President Kennedy.

Leslie G. Moeller, director of the SUI School of Journalism, was a member of the steering committee for the Hearst Foundation's Journalism Awards.

'Weaker Sex' Will Vie In Derby Day Events

By TERRY TRAVIS
Staff Writer

SUI women will attempt to prove that the weaker sex is not so weak as they compete for trophies and prizes at the 16th annual Derby Day Saturday afternoon in City Park.

The Derby Day, sponsored by Sigma Chi, social fraternity, features a round of athletic contests especially designed for the coeds. Every women's housing unit is eligible to send a team of contestants, a profile preview entree, and a queen candidate to the events. According to the chairman of Derby Day, Jerry Jones, 42, Westchester, Ill., "this year's derby is slated to begin with a parade to City Park at 1:30 p.m. Sigma Chi fraternity members will use cars and borrowed lumber trucks to pick up contest participants and others who do not have rides."

Activities at the park will begin at 2 p.m. when the Derby Day Queen is named. She will be chosen by a committee of Sigma Chi alumni, and will be presented with a number of gifts donated by Iowa City stores. The more strenuous events on the afternoon's program for the coeds will include an egg toss, a tug of war, a limbo contest, a hugging contest, a flower dive, a pudding feed and 50-yard sprint races.

In the profile preview contest, the woman best fitting what the Sigma Chis consider to be the "perfect woman," will be named the Sigma Chi's Perfect Profile. In past years the contestants have been compared with freehand drawings by the fraternity members of their ideal woman to determine the winner.

In each contest, points will be given to the housing units who place first, second and third. The unit which accumulates the most points will receive the Sigma Chi Traveling Trophy and a smaller permanent trophy. A trophy will also be given to the housing unit finishing second. Delta Gamma social sorority won the first place trophies last year. After the trophy presentations, the coeds will attend an open house at the Sigma Chi fraternity house, 703 N. Dubuque St.

Tickets may be obtained at the Theatre Ticket Reservation Desk in the East Lobby of the Union. Desk hours are from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday. Reserved seat tickets are available to students who present their identification cards. The price of admission to others is $1.25.

GETS BRIDGE CONTRACT

The contract for dismantling and removing the old Park Bridge was awarded to Max Yocum on his low bid of $4,200 Tuesday night by Iowa City councilmen. Yocum's bid was $10,000 under the next lowest bid.

Work on removing the bridge is to be completed by Sept. 1. The bridge's superstructure is to be removed and the two piers taken out to the level of the river bed.

SDC Retains Speaker Policy

The SUI Socialist Discussion Club (SDC) decided Wednesday night to continue its present policy in regard to speaker identification.

Phil Cummins, G. Cedar Rapids, president of SDC, stated the club's policy in connection with its presentation last month of Daniel Rubin.

Rubin, who spoke at a meeting of the SDC April 17, was publicly presented as editor of "New Horizons," socialist youth magazine, and a member of the executive committee of the Progressive Youth Organizing Committee. He spoke on "Marxism vs. Liberalism on Discrimination."

Cummins said the SDC considers prospective speakers as representatives of organizations, not as individuals. Speakers are presented on the basis of background information they submit to the club, he said.

In a letter appearing in the April 26 Daily Iowan, Paul R. Carlsen of Wisconsin State College, Eau Claire, charged the SDC with neglecting to mention that "New Horizons" is Communist-sponsored and that Rubin's identity was not made clear.

Carlsen said, "This is the second time within a year that a member of the national committee of the Communist Party has appeared at SUI without mention of the fact that the speaker was a C.P. functionary. In both cases, the SDC was responsible for their appearance on the Iowa campus."

Lane Davis, associate professor of political science, declared himself in agreement with Carlsen's views.

In Rubin's case, there were no grounds for Carlsen's charge because the SDC had received no information of Rubin's Communist background, Cummins said.

7-House Tour Will Include Harshbarger, Porter Homes

newest in the tour, shows how well antique furnishings fit into an ultra-modern house.

The spruce blue frame structure, built in 1959, is highlighted by the extensive use of wood — mostly mahogany — in walls, ceilings, and wall cupboards.

The living room has a vaulted ceiling of mahogany clapboard, which extends into the dining room. The long, outside wall of the living room, in which is set a raised fireplace with cantilevered hearth, is also mahogany.

The living room runs the depth of the house and has floor-to-ceiling paneled windows at front and back. The rear windows extend on through the dining room, and look out on a terraced garden.

Prof. Porter is head of science education at University High School.

Tickets for the tour are available at Whetstone Drug, Aldens, Iowa Book and Supply, First National Bank, Pearson Drug, and from members of the Iowa City branch of the American Association for the United Nations.

Mrs. Richard Lloyd-Jones and Mrs. John Way are in charge of ticket sales, and Mrs. John C. O'Byrne is general chairman of the tour. Proceeds will be used to support an African graduate student at SUU.

Three other homes in the tour are those of Dr. and Mrs. Marcus Bach, 921 Bowery St., Pres. and Mrs. Virgil M. Hancher, 102 E. Church St.; and Mrs. Alex C. Kern, 409 E. Market St.

Among seven homes to be displayed Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. as part of the American Association for the United Nations house tour will be two owned by SUU faculty members — Prof. and Mrs. H. Clay Harshbarger, 6 Longview Knoll, River Heights; and Prof. and Mrs. T. R. Porter, 2006 Glendale Rd.

Two other homes on display will be those of Mrs. Viggo E. Jensen, 110 Oak Ridge Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Whipple, Route 1. The Harshbarger home sits on a natural knoll between the Iowa River and a man-made lake.

The five-sided living room, the focal point of the house, offers picturesque views through its two walls of glass.

The high, center-beamed living room ceiling of knotty cypress slopes upward, reaching its peak where the window walls meet. Mrs. Harshbarger describes it as "the roof with the lifted eyebrow." Guests have said the room is like the prow of a boat.

Reds, rusts, and golden yellow predominate in the furnishings and are echoed in a Navajo wall hanging. Multi-colored wall-to-wall carpeting and a huge sectional sofa in golden yellow carry much of the color, along with massive plants.

The Harshbargers frequently change the arrangement of the room, sometimes to seat a theater audience for a special reading by members of the Department of Speech and Dramatic Arts, of which Dr. Harshbarger is chairman.

In Mrs. Harshbarger's office, where she does her work as mid-west garden editor of American Home Magazine, stands the brass and black "Asta," the professional writers' award for horticulture. She received the award in 1958.

The exterior of the house is rust wood siding and Roman brick. Small shrubs and seasonal flowers grow in the L-shaped doorway garden, but, by design, the lawn between the living room windows and the river is left natural. "You don't see things to do this way," Mrs. Harshbarger explained. "You just look out on lawn and trees and river — all peaceful."

The barn-red and white farm-style Whipple house spreads over three levels and has room for everybody's hobbies. Corner fireplaces, handsome antiques, a large enclosed porch at the back and a circular staircase to a lower porch are interesting features of the home.

"When the house was built 10 years ago, it was in the country," Mrs. Whipple said. Recently the development of homes westward in University Heights, the Athletic Club, and St. Andrews Presbyterian Church have risen on the Whipple's horizon.

Among the interesting furnishings in the living room are a captain's desk in burl walnut, a secretary, two velvet-covered chairs, a spinning wheel, a drop-leaf doll's table used as a coffee table in front of a sofa, and a large, round braided rug.

A corner cupboard in the dining room displays an old Spode sugar bowl, primitive pottery and Wedgwood plates. A copper dough bin, acquired from a Russian family, hangs on one of the chimney walls, and a copper bucket sits near by.

Mrs. Jensen's two-level redwood house is built on a hillside, and surrounds a Crab Orchard stone patio.

Walls of the formal living room are white oak, finished in butternut. The floor is covered with wall-to-wall champagne carpeting, overlaid with large pastel Oriental rugs. The furniture is French provincial, and shades of green, gold and white predominate. Moss green velvet drapes and cornice swags hang at the curving window wall.

A handsome living room feature is a fireplace of pink Mankato stone, which runs to the ceiling. High windows of leaded stained glass form the outside walls of the hall and living room.

The dining room has walls of white knotty pine stained in pale green, and in one wall a built-in buffet holds an 18th-Century English tea service and candelabra.

Downstairs, a more informal living room has Danish modern furniture in teak, walnut, and fruitwood, and is carpeted in beige. A small bar, with Swedish red walls, opens off the room.

Other features are a six-sided bathroom with white nylon carpeting, a guest house with bedroom, bathroom, and private entrance, an outdoor cookery-kitchen, and a three-tiered fountain of Crab Orchard stone.
