

On this day 16 years ago, the Soviet Union ratified the U.N. Charter thereby putting into effect the worldwide organization. Some of the trials and tribulations of those stormy years are reviewed in a story on Page 8.

Generally fair and warmer today with highs in the 60s. Generally fair in the east tonight with increasing cloudiness and a chance of scattered thunderstorms in the west. Wednesday's outlook — Partly cloudy and little temperature change.

Soviets Set Off Largest A-Blast

City To Select 6 in Primary

Polls Open From 7 a.m. Until 8 p.m.

Voters To Choose 2 Candidates for 2-Year Term, 4 for 4-Year

Iowa City voters turning out today for the first municipal primary election in at least 10 years will advance six council candidates to the Nov. 7 regular city election.

Under Iowa law, a primary is required if the number of candidates is more than twice the number of positions to be filled. Eleven candidates are in the running for the three council vacancies — two regular four-year terms and a short-term two-year seat.

Voters will narrow to four the seven candidate field for the four year posts. Two will be dropped from the four candidates running for the short term. The short term was created by the death of councilman Norwood C. Lewis, in May, 1960. Candidate James H. Nesmith was appointed to fill the vacancy.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. at the 15 precinct polling places throughout the city.

Ballots instruct voters to vote for two candidates for the regular four-year terms and for one in balloting for candidates for the two-year short term.

Iowa law directs voters in both primary and general elections to mark ballots for the same number of candidates as there are positions to be filled.

The four finalists with the top number of votes for the four year terms and the two ranking highest among the contenders for the two year term will advance to the Nov. 7 election.

Candidates for the two-year term are:

Harold E. Carroll, 25 W. Burlington St., owner of a local ambulance company.

Howard J. Gilroy, 1017, Diana St., bottling company salesman.

Mrs. Thelma B. Lewis, 300 Lucan Drive, present Iowa City mayor, housewife and the wife of an SUI psychology professor.

George W. Paul, 626 Bowersy St., insurance and real estate broker.

Four-year term candidates are:

Phil C. Englert, 913 E. Jefferson St., civil engineer in the offices of the SUI architect.

Willard M. Irwin, 1733 H. St., retired city streets commissioner.

William K. Maas, 837 Kirkwood Ave., real estate broker.

Ward C. McCutcheon, 2220 H. St., janitor and mechanic in a local office building.

Kenneth A. Mulford, 813 Rundell St., plumbing and heating contractor.

James H. Nesmith, 256 Magowan Ave., incumbent, owner of a local plumbing company.

Max Vocum, 520 Second Ave., housemover.

Mrs. Lewis, Englert and Nesmith are backed by the City-Manager Association.

Polling places are the same as those used in the August water service company balloting and the November, 1960 presidential election. They are:

WARD 1
1st precinct — County Court House
2nd precinct — Roosevelt School

WARD 2
1st precinct — City Hall
2nd precinct — SUI Fine Arts Building
3rd precinct — Lincoln School

DAG HAMMARSKJOLD Posthumous Nobel Prize

Hammarskjold, Luthuli Win Peace Prizes

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Nobel prizes were awarded Monday to Dag Hammarskjold and Albert John Luthuli, a Negro leader in South Africa — two advocates of non-violence in a violent world.

The 1961 peace award went to the late U.N. secretary-general. The 1960 peace prize was belatedly awarded to Luthuli for working to ease the effects of racial discrimination in South Africa.

Luthuli is a Zulu Christian leader who will be unable to receive the prize personally. The Norwegian committee which makes the peace awards noted that he is forbidden by South Africa's supreme government to leave his village.

The U.N. secretary-general, who perished Sept. 18 on a peace mission to the Congo, was the first to receive the award posthumously. The prize, worth 250,232 kroner — $48,640 — will go to Hammarskjold's estate.

No specific effort of Hammarskjold was mentioned by the committee, but it may well have been the work for peace in the Congo that finally cost him his life. Observers noted the committee broke with a past tendency to avoid controversial candidates. Hammarskjold had been under Communist-bloc attack for his Congo policies.

Luthuli, 61, a former chief of the Abasemakolweni tribe of the Zulu nation, was educated in Christian missions. In 1944 he ran afoul of the South African Government by joining the African National Congress.

Luthuli has been detained intermittently since by South African authorities and the congress has been outlawed.

Girl Who Jilted Stump Names Him as Killer

DES MOINES (AP) — Leanna Jean Skultety of Des Moines testified in District Court Monday that she saw Ronald M. Stump fatally shoot her fiancé.

Pointing to Stump she said: "I saw Ron shoot Mike."

Stump, SUI honor graduate from Keokuk, is accused of first degree murder in the shooting of Michael Daly, 22, of Des Moines.

Miss Skultety was with Daly when he was shot three times in front of the Daly home the night of last June 9.

Miss Skultety also testified that she agreed last February to marry Daly about a month after she had met him.

In relating the shooting in front of the Daly home, Miss Skultety broke down, but continued to answer questions fired at her by Assistant County Attorney Lee Gaudineer.

She testified that Daly had picked her up at her home and that they drove to the Daly residence and parked. She said:

"Mike started to get out and I started to get out, too. I heard a noise and I turned around. I saw Ron shoot Mike."

"Mike was crawling toward the back of the car. Then he fell."

"He (Stump) walked closer to him (Daly) and stood over him. He fired."

"I was right on the opposite side of the car. He (Stump) pointed the gun at my head and I don't know why, but I just fell. I was screaming and I heard footsteps and I heard a car go."

She said she turned around and saw Stump's car head down the street, and saw Daly lying on the pavement.

Under questioning by Gaudineer Miss Skultety said she and Daly were expecting a child.

She said she lost it after Daly's funeral.

Earlier, Miss Skultety testified that Stump told her last April he was going to kill Daly and have the "great pleasure" of facing her in a courtroom. Miss Skultety formerly was engaged to Stump.

Miss Skultety also quoted Stump as saying "his parents might as well visit him at Fort Madison as any other place because it was close to home."

The state penitentiary is at Fort Madison. Stump's parents live at Keokuk, about 35 miles away.

The face-to-face meeting of Stump, 22, and Miss Skultety, 21, who once promised to marry him before she met Daly, took place dramatically Monday morning in the District Court at Stump's trial for the first-degree murder of Daly in Des Moines last June 9.

Miss Skultety, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James Skultety of Des Moines, did not look at Stump when she entered the courtroom nor when she stood within two feet of him to be sworn as a witness.

Except for a few fleeting glances at Stump, who smiled at her frequently, Miss Skultety avoided looking at him as she told of her romance in 1960 with the defendant and of his threats after they broke up "because of a religious problem."

Also testifying for the state Monday morning was Darrell C. Ball of Ames, an ISU student, who said he and Miss Skultety's sister, Elaine, double-dated with Stump and Leanna Skultety in the summer of 1960.

Prof Says Quad Cities, Not Omaha Is Red Target

An SUI professor who has had first-hand experience in atomic bomb tests and fallout, says the Quad Cities and Des Moines are more likely targets than the SAC headquarters at Omaha.

Prof. Carl Menzer of the electrical engineering department expressed this view in addressing the Iowa Board of Regents in its weekend meeting in Iowa City.

Menzer, who was a radiation safety engineer at the U.S. nuclear tests at Eniwetok in the Pacific, said he believes there is not as much danger from fallout from an enemy bomb hitting the Strategic Air Command Headquarters at Offutt Field, Omaha, as most people think.

He noted that SAC command offices are mostly underground, and said Russia knows this.

Bombs more likely would fall on places like Des Moines and the Quad Cities, Menzer said. In the latter case, Iowa City likely would not receive any fallout.

He told the regents that the University is making plans to accommodate 14,000 persons in present campus buildings if protection from radiation fallout ever becomes necessary.

Professor Menzer said one problem which University officials still haven't solved is how to keep non-university people out of the University's shelter areas if there is a fallout emergency.

"We obviously can't shoot them," he said.

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court acted Monday to speed up a five-year-old ban on operation of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in Alabama.

The court said that unless the state courts go ahead with a trial on the issues within a reasonable time — no later than next Jan. 2 — the U. S. District Court in Montgomery, Ala., shall hear the case.

Involved is a state court order which the NAACP says bars it not only from organizational activities in Alabama but prevents it from taking any steps to qualify to do business in the state.

DETROIT, Mich. — A million-dollar libel and slander suit was brought by James R. Hoffa and his Teamsters' Union Monday against President George Meany and most of the AFL-CIO top leadership.

Hoffa, president of the Teamsters, and his international accused Meany and 24 AFL-CIO Executive Council members of making "wicked and malicious" statements about the Teamsters in a conspiracy to raid the Teamsters' ranks of members.

WASHINGTON — Cheddi Jagan, British Guiana's controversial prime minister, met for almost an hour with Secretary of State Dean Rusk Monday. Afterward he called the meeting "very useful and fruitful."

DETROIT, Mich. — The United Auto Workers Union said Monday it has reached agreement with Chrysler Corp. at 42 local bargaining units and expects to have fewer than a dozen unsettled units left by tonight.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — A group of black African nations Monday readied a demand for a sweeping political and economic boycott of South Africa in reprisal for its white supremacist policies.

South African Foreign Minister Eric Louw warned he would fight any attempt to isolate his country. He threatened to expose his main accusers as the real violators of the human rights clause in the U.N. Charter.

WASHINGTON — The Swedish Foreign Minister Osten Unden told the committee "perhaps it is not too late" to act since reports of the Soviet big bomb test have not been officially confirmed.

Eight nations — six of them on the fringe of the Soviet test area — have sponsored the resolution asking for a cancellation of the test.

Thor Thors of Iceland, another of the sponsoring nations, also expressed hope "it is not too late" for such an appeal to Moscow.

The resolution was introduced Friday. The United States in a policy speech Monday afternoon made no reference to it.

The News In Brief

By The Associated Press

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — The Soviet Union and the United States neared agreement Monday on installing a temporary U.N. secretary-general to replace the late Dag Hammarskjold.

Their progress came in an hour's conference of Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin and U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson, who long ago agreed that U Thant of Burma should get the job.

Reds Block U.N. Super-Bomb Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The Soviet bloc opposition Monday killed a move by Norway for an immediate vote on a U.N. resolution urging the Soviet Union to cancel a 50-megaton hydrogen bomb test.

Hans Engen, Norwegian deputy foreign minister, requested the vote in the U.N. Political Committee even though there were reports the Soviet Union had already held the big bomb test.

The Norwegian diplomat withdrew his request after Soviet bloc delegates, one after another, raised procedural points which threatened to embroil the 101-nation committee in hours of wrangling.

Engen said the committee was being put into a position that damaged its dignity and prestige.

The committee adjourned until Tuesday.

Engen had sought the vote on the grounds the committee was confronted by "a clearcut issue of extreme urgency." He ran into immediate opposition from Soviet Delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin.

Tsarapkin retorted that the move was a stratagem by the NATO bloc countries — of which Norway is a member — aimed at the Soviet Union.

"To talk about only one explosion would be dangerous," he added.

Swedish Foreign Minister Osten Unden told the committee "perhaps it is not too late" to act since reports of the Soviet big bomb test have not been officially confirmed.

Eight nations — six of them on the fringe of the Soviet test area — have sponsored the resolution asking for a cancellation of the test.

Asks for Laws Against Unlicensed Nurses

DES MOINES (AP) — An official of the American Nurses Association Monday called for a tightening of the laws governing the licensing of nurses in Iowa.

Mrs. Margaret Dolan of Chapel Hill, N.C., second vice president of the national association, said Iowa is one of 25 states which merely protect the title of registered or professional nurse from use by unlicensed persons.

This means, she said, that a person without professional training can practice nursing under the title "private" nurse or some similar label without breaking the law.

Probably Not 50-Megaton Bomb—AEC

Another Low-Yield Underwater Nuclear Detonation Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Soviet Union set off Monday the biggest explosion in history, the Atomic Energy Commission reported, but it probably was less powerful than the 50-megaton blast which Premier Khrushchev had announced was forthcoming.

A statement from the AEC said preliminary analysis indicated the nuclear detonation possibly was as high as 50 megatons but probably was "on the order of 30 megatons."

The agency also revealed that the Russians had set off a low-yield blast underwater about two hours after the mammoth explosion.

The largest previous Soviet test was estimated about 10 megatons. The biggest U.S. nuclear test has been reported at 15 to 20 megatons.

A 50-megaton bomb unleashes energy equivalent to 50 million tons of TNT and would be 2,500 times as powerful as the American bomb which destroyed Hiroshima in World War II.

Hours before the AEC issued its announcement in late afternoon, scientists in Sweden, Japan and France had detected the explosion and reported that it probably was the 50-megaton detonation which Khrushchev had said would climax the present series of Soviet nuclear tests.

The reports brought immediate reaction from countries bordering the Soviet Union.

The Norwegian Parliament was debating a resolution protesting Soviet atmospheric tests when the news came, and the resolution was passed. The only argument was over whether the resolution should be redrafted in stronger language.

Japan was reported ready to file another strong protest with the Soviet Union.

Both of Monday's Soviet tests were in the Novaya Zemlya area in the arctic region. The explosions were the 22nd and 23rd which have been reported by AEC during the Soviet series that began Sept. 1.

There was no comment from Kennedy, although the White House was reported skeptical that the Soviet bomb was in the 50-megaton range.

One well informed source outside the AEC said it may be 24 hours or longer before U.S. scientists are able to say definitely whether the larger explosion was as great as 50 megatons.

This source said the seismograph method often used to estimate nuclear blasts might not be effective if the device was set off high above the surface of the earth.

In such a case, he said, a better estimate could be made through analysis of samples taken in the upper atmosphere by U2 or other high-flying planes — "and we are not flying U2s over Soviet territory."

Some versions of Khrushchev's speech before the Communist party congress in Moscow last week pegged the 50-megaton blast for Oct. 30 or 31.

Khrushchev also told the party congress the Soviet Union has a 100-megaton bomb but would not explode it. United States scientists have said bombs in the 50 to 100-megaton range are designed only as "terror weapons" and are not practical from a military standpoint.

Some U.S. officials have said that a 50-megaton explosion would cause a large increase in radioactive fallout but would not boost radioactivity to the danger point in this country.

Several Japanese observation stations reported the biggest abnormal atmospheric pressures on record.

Takeo Mita, Japan's state minister in charge of the Science and Technology Agency and the Japanese Atomic Energy Commission, urgently summoned a special meeting of officials to determine measures needed to cope with possible increases in radioactive fallout.

The Swedish National Weather Bureau said air currents over Novaya Zemlya has come from the north and that this would cause the fallout to drift south over the Soviet Union.

In the True Nature Of the Soviet Pledge

It was 16 years ago today that the United States Secretary of State James F. Byrnes at 4:50 p.m. signed the protocol formally attesting that the Charter of the United Nations World Security Organization was in force, following deposit a short time earlier of the Russian instrument of ratification, the 29th necessary to bring ratification about.

Byrnes announced that the Charter is now "part of the law of nations," but warned that "peace depends on the will of the peoples for peace and not upon documents."

The U.N. Charter listed as its main purpose to "maintain international peace and security, and to that end: to take effective collective measures for prevention and removal of threats to the peace and for the suppression of acts of aggression . . . and to bring about by peaceful means, and in conformity with the principles of justice and international law, adjustment or settlement of international problems of an economic, social, cultural or humanitarian character and . . . encourage respect for human rights irrespective of race, sex, language or religion."

The organization is "based on the principle of sovereign equality of all its members. They shall fulfill in good faith their obligations . . . settle their disputes by peaceful means . . . refrain from threat or use of force and . . . give the United Nations every assistance in any action." Finally, the Organization "shall ensure that states not members are in accordance with these principles."

Included among the members who pledged to follow these principles was the Soviet Union. At the time of the signing of the original Charter in June of 1945, Soviet representative A. A. Gromyko stressed that members obligated themselves "to achieve peaceful settlements of the disputes and the necessity for the same cooperation as in war to carry out these obligations."

Sixteen years later, on the eve of United Nations Day, Norway called on the U.N. Political Committee for an immediate vote Monday night on an appeal to the Soviet Union to cancel a 50-megaton hydrogen bomb test — a test that could well be the beginning of free-for-all testing throughout the world.

The Norwegian move came after other speakers in the 101-nation committee had acknowledged that the superbomb may already have been exploded.

In the true spirit that the United Nations Charter calls for:

"To take effective measures for prevention and removal of threats to peace,

"To settle disputes by peaceful means,

"To refrain from threat or use of force,

"And to give the United Nations every assistance in any action,"

A Soviet bloc swiftly KILLED Norway's proposal.

A Record Turnout?

Between 7 this morning and 8 this evening, Iowa City voters will be narrowing down the number of candidates for City Council positions. From a field of 11, they will select six whose names will be placed on the Nov. 7 ballot.

Many of the aspects of the campaign thus far have made it an unusual one for Iowa City: It is the first in the past 10 years to include such a long list of candidates. It includes the first primary election in that same period of time.

Charges of personal grievances and "personalities only" have made it one of the most spirited of recent campaigns. Whether or not council-manager government in the city is at stake remains to be seen, but this has also popped up as one of the issues.

Only one concluding factor remains to make this a unique election. If the build-up of voter interest does not suddenly founder, this election could also see a record turn-out of voters.

We urge all eligible Iowa City voters to carefully consider the candidates and then take time to cast their ballots.

Christmas Computer

Evidently there's no end to the things computers can do.

At a Dallas store, a shopper without the faintest idea what to give Uncle Jud for his birthday can feed basic data about him — his age, likes, dislikes, and so on — into a computer and in seconds receives 10 suitable gift suggestions sculled from more than 2,000 items.

This sounds wonderful. We doubt, though, that even computers will succeed in steering shoppers away from those Christmas gift ties.

Administration Starts Shift To 'Hard Line' Policy

By ERIC SEVAREID

President Kennedy has reminded this quarreling country that American foreign policies cannot be encompassed "in one slogan or one adjective, hard or soft or otherwise," and that belief in "total victory" or "total defeat" is a dangerous illusion.

Yet there is ample testimony that the beginnings of a sea-change in the spirit of the Administration's approach to the world are now detectable in the private wings of the White House and State Department. The drift is in the general direction of the "hard line." The Kennedy group took over last winter persuaded that the United States was in trouble because it had not tried hard enough to find a basis of accommodation with Khrushchev, had not treated our major allies with sufficient respect, had disregarded the yearnings of the neutrals and had blunted the effect of foreign aid by formalistic and bungling application.

What is now slowly and privately developing is a thread of official thought running in precisely the opposite direction. Bitter disappointments, beginning with the Vienna confrontation and including Laos, the Belgrade conference, the listless response of our allies to the Berlin crisis, and the apparent collapse of the first serious effort at social reform in our hemisphere white hope, Brazil, have started a basic reappraisal, not in a mood of resentment, fortunately, but in cold sobriety.

THE STARK ALONENESS of the United States in terms of generous, "other-directed" Government policies has become almost frighteningly apparent to all who think rather than wish. It is now clear that waiting upon our allies to agree on a policy of forcefully prosecuting this cold war would be an endless wait because their historical suspicions are too deep, their self-confidence too far gutted; that the big neutrals are and will remain neutral as an article of faith, not of strategy; that even the emergency of the liberal political revolutions we should like to see in so many backward countries would not guarantee solution of the harsh, physical realities of population versus arable land shortages; that no over-all settlement with Khrushchev is possible because he desires none.

It is going to require the exertion of all our skill and diplomatic daring to produce acceptance of a strong and vigorous American leadership amongst our American allies, neutrals and clients alike; to "get tough about it" without losing our American image. We have made a first beginning in principle with the President's warning that we shall henceforth distribute aid with one eye on the policy position of recipient Governments in this desperate cold war. It is entirely possible that we shall have to take a plunge and deliberately make examples of one or two countries which have grossly misused our aid, though we shall have to pick the spots most carefully.

The latest illustration of the fact that our present posture is no longer tolerable in respect both as to effectiveness and the national mood is the attitude of Cheddi Jagan, extreme leftist Premier of British Guiana, who arrives to demand our aid as a matter of right while "warning" us not to apply any political strings to it.

THIS SUMMER an eminent American statesman reproved this writer, saying, "You must realize that we are in the position of a father of many self-centered, immature children. Without endless patience we can keep no order in the household." My answer was that, in any family, prolonged parental permissiveness inevitably destroys order, because the children take their privileges for granted and respect for the parent erodes. Any father unwilling to spank upon occasion is lost.

Those who feel that the general attitude herein stated represents repudiation of the liberal foreign policy make a profound misjudgment. Those who think it amounts to embrace of Senator Goldwater's apparent notion that we can dash about the world with a cocked gun, wrap up a total cold war victory and do all this on the cheap, are thinking in the crudest alternative terms.

When Senator Fulbright told Goldwater that he was "oversimplifying," he was right. But what so many high-minded citizens do not realize is that when Goldwater retorted that Fulbright was "over-complicating," he, too, was right. The Goldwater approach could, if extended, land us in war; the Fulbright approach could, if extended, paralyze this country, the only western country where a massive, moral will remains alive and without which the free world is lost.

The President seems determined that we shall neither yield to frenzy nor allow our native hue of resolution to be sickled over the pale cast of duty. A little re-reading of the official life and times of an essentially simple man named Harry Truman, who dealt with a crisis or two, would not be amiss.

Reader Asks Pro-Fraternity Defense

To the Editor:

Recent articles in the paper regarding fraternities have influenced some people to believe the worst that they had suspected. Anyone who has chosen to take a negative view of fraternal organizations will grab at any generalization, whether completely true or not, to be able to say: "Aha! I told you so."

Much publicity this past year was afforded an SU1-fraternity because of an unfortunate mistake. Comments and deprecations were heard from all areas — including fraternities and sororities. No one is unaware of the seriousness of this injustice. Again those anti-fraternity laughed: "Aha! I told you so."

A well-written story ("The Death of College Fraternities") by Brock Brower in the Oct. 16, 1961 issue of the Esquire magazine certainly contained some truths, but it also was given to exaggerations. Brower dragged his reader through all the muck from discrimination to Hell Night. In spite of the fact that most fraternities are working toward the abolition of both problems, the die-hards cry: "Aha! I told you so."

Brower's cartoon of the 14 fraternity men (minus one) has a point: "Everybody discriminates." "We have the right to choose our own friends." Not just racial discrimination; everyone discriminates as they choose their friends — beauty, riches, intelligence, personality. The fraternity's right for selection is basic to all. With selection comes competition. From competition develops improvement. What is more important than improvement?

It is true that there should be no place for forced racial discrimination among fraternities. This, however, is not easy to change. National tradition and charters are strong. My fraternity has been making a serious effort for several years to resolve the problem; at least give us credit for effort. Would those who are throwing stones at the campus organizations keep in mind that usually the problem is not just local; it is national. Don't hastily criticize unless you KNOW these people have taken a passive attitude toward the problem.

Why doesn't someone who is pro-fraternity take a positive stand? List the benefits, advantages, the good points for a change. There are some aren't there, Brother and Sister? Speak for I fear Brower's article may be the handwriting on the wall. I am an ATO (and proud of it) thought I am not activated here on campus. Therefore, I feel unqualified to defend the SU1 fraternities and sororities — I plead for defense from those who know. After all, the innocent are suffering with those considered guilty.

Binoculars Handicap Grid Cheers

To the Editor:

It is beyond me why an institution, as great as SU1 is supposed to be, cannot reserve about 7,000 good seats in their huge stadium for the students who are interested in their school spirit and their (it is theirs, isn't it) football team.

I find my binoculars and portable radio a terrific handicap when I am trying to cheer. I sincerely hope that by the time I am old enough to afford a seat from which I can really see the game, I will not be too old to go.

Missile Misfits

And still those strikes plague our missile projects. Unauthorized work stoppages — in open violation of no-strike pledges — lost 1,137 man-days at our missile and space bases. A presidential commission created four months ago seems to have made some progress but we're still being plagued by behavior bordering on treason in our efforts to match the Russians. Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg, with a background of intimate association with organized labor, has more than average patience with workers but his anxiety is beginning to manifest itself.

Soviets Not Ready For Serious Talks

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — If you cut to the heart of Khrushchev's speech when he dealt with the Berlin crisis, here is what you find:

He beamingly beckons the Allies to come to the conference table and assures us that all the Soviets want is a "mutually acceptable solution."

But — He then defines what to him would be "mutually acceptable." It is to "end Western occupation of West Berlin" and "demilitarize" the city.

In other words, what is "mutually acceptable" to Mr. K is our acceptance of his demands: namely, removal of the Western presence from West Berlin and the liquidation of the Allied Garrison, which is the only guarantee of West Berlin's freedom.

This is Khrushchev's newest invitation to negotiate. His invitation reads in effect: "Let's be mutually agreeable to each other by giving it all to us."

AND ALONGSIDE this invitation Khrushchev places his own special persuader — the "terror persuader," the announcement that on Halloween he will explode in the atmosphere a 50-megaton bomb to see how nicely it works. (Though he made this announcement in his formal address before the 22nd Soviet Communist Party Congress in Moscow, he did not allow the Soviet people to know about his massive nuclear-weapon tests.)

I see no reason to view this unyielding, bomb-waving Khrushchev speech with surprise or dismay.

It is standard Communist strategy to keep the heat on until absolutely everything has been done to create a compliant state of mind for the conference.

This is the purpose of the 50-megaton threat scheduled for Oct. 31.

THIS IS THE purpose of Khrushchev's unsolicited suggestion that the United States, Britain, France, and Germany and others can "escape the horrible consequences of these weapons if they will give him everything and call it 'mutually acceptable.'" (Since Mr. K, as a Communist does not believe in God, he could safely say in mock reverence: "May God grant that we never have to explode such a bomb.")

There is one aspect of the Khrushchev speech which some are interpreting as an important concession calculated to "calm the atmosphere." This has to do with his statement that he will not insist on signing his East German peace treaty by the end of this year — if this will make it easier for the West to negotiate in the proper frame of mind. This is not a significant concession. It is only being made to look like a significant concession.

ON THE SURFACE it can look significant because Khrushchev has contended that a Soviet-East German treaty would liquidate Western occupation rights in West Berlin.

That's what Mr. K. says, but saying doesn't make it so.

It doesn't matter how many treaties the Kremlin makes with its puppet Government in East Germany. What counts is not what the Soviets SAY about Western rights in West Berlin. What counts is what the Soviets DO about Western rights in West Berlin.

The Soviets can sign a treaty with themselves in East Germany and if they don't interfere with Western rights of access to Berlin, the treaty won't matter to us at all.

THE SOVIETS can interfere with Western rights of access to Berlin without signing a treaty with East Germany and the absence of such interference will not take place.

It makes little difference to us whether the Kremlin signs a treaty with East Germany. What will make a difference is whether the Soviets act, by force or subterfuge, to deny access to West Berlin.

Mr. K's purpose is to drive the West from West Berlin. When he is sure it can't be done, then — and then only — will he be prepared to negotiate a "mutually acceptable" solution.

Plainly the Soviets are not yet ready for serious negotiation.

FAITH IN CUBA

Following a six-day trip to Cuba, a Southern Baptist mission leader, the Rev. Dental Senior Rates 2nd

David Turpin, Manson dentistry senior at SUU, won second place in a national clinic competition last week.

First place was taken by three students from Columbia University in New York City.

Dr. Percy W. Herrick, associate professor of crown and bridge dentistry at SUU, is Turpin's faculty sponsor and accompanied him to Philadelphia.

The Manson senior's clinic, which presents a demonstration of a new technique for constructing fixed dental bridges, won first place in competition for student table clinics at the annual convention of the Iowa State Dental Society in Des Moines.

Art Show Successful

The exhibition of works by SUU art faculty members is currently attracting a steady stream of visitors since the opening of the show early this month.

The show includes works by Mauricio Lasansky, Humbert Albriozio, Byron Burford, Robert Knipschild, Stuart Edie, James Lechay, Carl Fracassini and Eugene Ludins. The faculty showing is on the main floor of the gallery.

Medal for Dentist

An Army Commendation Medal for Meritorious Service will be awarded to Arthur N. Kracht, a teacher-trainee in dentistry at SUU tonight.

Homecoming Events Receive Good Turnout

"All Homecoming activities held at the Union were very well attended," Mrs. Mildred LeVois, executive hostess, said Monday.

Following the Homecoming Parade, the Union held its annual open house. In the Main and Terrace Lounges there were exhibits from various colleges and departments. There was dancing in the Cafeteria and the River Room.

Free coffee, hot chocolate and donuts were available in the Main Lounge. Visitors consumed 50 gallons of coffee, 40 gallons of hot chocolate and 2,500 donuts, the hostess added.

Saturday morning the Highlanders held their annual reception for former Highlanders in the Union.

Several members of the Board of Regents and some legislators attended the open house, viewed the displays and talked with students. Over 2,000 people attended the

Malinovsky: Have Defense From Rockets

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW — Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky declared Monday Russia has developed a deadly accurate defense against rockets — supposedly an antimissile missile.

He also boasted the establishment of a new armed service branch of rocket and nuclear-armed troops "capable of inflicting a crushing defeat upon the aggressor."

"The problem of destroying rockets in flight has been successfully solved," Tass quoted Malinovsky as telling the 22nd Soviet Communist party congress in a report on anti-aircraft and anti-rocket defenses.

Informants attending the closed congress session said Malinovsky also announced that Soviet scientists had "controlled" a 50-megaton nuclear test bomb. There was no explanation of precisely what this meant.

Malinovsky's announcement of the discovery of an antimissile weapon was not accompanied by enough facts to indicate what sort of weapon had been devised. Khrushchev said several weeks ago that progress was being made in meeting any threat of nuclear armed missiles.

Tass said the defense minister told the congress: "We are ready to carry out any task set before the armed forces."

Informants said Malinovsky also claimed that:

Russia has 1,800 military formations of various types that can fire missiles upon any part of the globe.

The Soviets have developed long-range missiles that are accurate "to the millimeter."

The Soviet submarine fleet is capable of patrolling under the Arctic ice packs.

Dmitri Polyansky, a member of the party presidium, earlier accused ex-President Klementi Y. Voroshilov of conducting a Stalinist suppression campaign in the army. He also assailed ex-Premier and former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov as hopelessly sunk in Stalinism.

Polyansky also assailed Albania, accused by Khrushchev at the opening sessions of disrupting Communist unity.

For the most part, foreign speakers toed the Khrushchev line in denouncing Stalinism and Albania. These included Communist delegations from the United States, Britain, Chile, West Germany, Spain and Finland.

Munro, Renown Diplomat, To Lecture Here Nov. 1

Sir Leslie Munro, one of the world's leading jurists and diplomats, will open the SUU lecture series by discussing "The World We Face" Nov. 1, at 8 p.m. in the Iowa Memorial Union.

A native of New Zealand, Sir Leslie came to the United States to represent his country both as ambassador to the U.S. and permanent representative to the U.N.

MUNRO

He held these positions for six years, from 1952-58. He served as president of the 12th U.N. General Assembly in 1957-58 and currently is a special representative of the Assembly for the Hungarian Question. He was also president of the Trusteeship Council in 1953-54 and New Zealand delegate to the Security Council in 1954-55.

Sir Leslie has received honorary doctoral degrees from Harvard, Bradley, Colgate, and Syracuse Universities and Brooklyn and Hobart Colleges. He earned his LL.M. degree from Auckland University College, New Zealand.

In 1955 Sir Leslie was made a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, and in 1957 Queen Elizabeth II conferred on him the additional honor of Knight Commander of the Royal Victorian Order.

He is the author of "United Nations: Hope for a Divided World," which was published in 1960, and has contributed articles to Foreign Affairs magazine and the New Zealand Law Journal.

Tickets for the lecture will be available at the East Lobby Desk of Iowa Memorial Union beginning Friday from noon until 5:30. They will be distributed free to students and staff members upon presentation of identification or staff cards.

Tickets will be available Saturday from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. and Oct. 30-Nov. 1 from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Szykowny Ups Passing Percentage to .682

Matthew Szykowny started the 1961 SUI football season as a third string quarterback. He had been No. 2 in 1960 but had missed all of spring drill because of baseball.

But now he has risen to No. 1 quarterback, the last step of his ascension being due to an injury to the usual first team player, Wilburn Hollis. Matt will be hard to oust from his present position.

Szykowny was a big factor in the whipping of Wisconsin last Saturday with his passes. He hit on 14 of 17 for 169 yards and three touchdowns. Matt was impressive in the Indiana game a week earlier in his first starting assignment.

Currently hitting his passes at a .682 clip, Szykowny got his chance to run the Hawks when Hollis was lost with a wrist injury during the Southern California game. What Matt has done since that time actually is a continuation of the fine sports achievements he has performed since beginning competition here in the fall of 1960. The Pittsburgh, Pa. product radiates confidence on the field, in the classroom or on the street. He is one of the few three-sport men in the Big Ten in this age of specialization, and he does everything with the competent flair of the champion.

Monday morning quarterbacks have criticized his running abilities. It's true that the record does not mark him as a great runner. Since he began play for Iowa, he has carried only 14 times and has a net loss of 35 yards.

But the records do not tell the whole story. Many of the carries charged to Matt have come at a time when his potential receivers have failed to break into the clear, or his line has not held up. Rather than chance a poor pass, Matt will "eat" the ball and take the loss, a sign of a quick-thinking quarterback.

"I haven't run the ball because I have not really had the chance," Matt said. "In high school, our offense was built around the quarterback and I did a lot of running. I am not afraid to run. I look forward to proving that I can run when the time and place is right," he declared.

"I think we should have an open attack — that's why I throw. We have some very good running backs. The quarterback doesn't have to run, but I will if the situation comes up," the intense passing expert said.

"If we can make our opponents respect our passing game, they will have to open up their defense. If our passing games goes, so will the running attack. We have to balance the two phases," he added.

An attack more balanced than the one shown by Iowa last Saturday would be hard to find. The Hawkeyes made 441 yards and of that total 219 were gobbled up on the ground, the remaining 222 coming through use of the pass.

If the Badgers, cracked down 47-15, showed signs of stopping the running game, Szykowny would go to the air — with devastating results. In the first half alone he completed nine passes in nine attempts.

The Hawkeyes, now 4-0, have five games left. When the football season ends, Szykowny will figure strongly in the basketball plans of Coach Sharm Scheuerman. He helped the spark the rebuilt second semester cage team to a tie for second in the conference last season. In the spring, he will play baseball again, probably as an infielder. He was outfielder, pitcher, and leading hitter last season.

Iowa's recent drop in the wire service polls does not bother Szykowny in the least.

"The pressure is off now and the men are playing more honestly with themselves," he said. "But we will be back up there."

That's Matt Szykowny — confident, poised, realistic — and good.

Hawk Runners Win Over Badgers, 26-32

By BOB HANSEN
Staff Writer

The Hawkeye cross-country team showed promising strength when it moved past the Wisconsin Badgers in a dual meet here Saturday, 26-32.

It was an important win for the Hawks who stand a good chance to succeed Michigan State as Big Ten champions this year. Wisconsin, also a strong contender for conference honors, had defeated Michigan State earlier in the season.

Iowa displayed good depth in defeating the Badgers by placing four men in the top six. Capt. Jim Tucker took first honors, with sophomore Larry Kramer coming in a close second. Ralph Tremble and Gary Fischer contributed to the Hawkeye cause by finishing in the fifth and sixth slots.

Wisconsin's Rolf Nielsen, an exchange student from Norway, and Badger team captain Don Dooley came in for third and fourth positions. Nielsen had previously defeated the Big Ten individual champ, Gerald Young, in a dual meet earlier in the season.

Coach Cretzmeier was pleased with the Hawkeye showing. He was especially happy that most of the squad showed marked improvements over last week's time.

Tucker's winning time of 20:12.5 was 34 seconds faster than his performance last week against Northwestern. Kramer who took second with 20:14, showed an improvement of 33 seconds better than last week, and Fischer's 20:28 time was a 34 second improvement.

Bill Frazier, Larry Baker, and

Ken Fearing, who finished out of the top seven, also showed strong improvement.

Cretzmeier, in evaluating the team performance said, "We've got four good men, but we need to make a strong fifth man out of Frazier, Baker, or Fearing to do well in the conference. You have to have that fifth man finish high in the runnings to win."

The times turned in by the Hawks for Saturday's meet turned out to be the second best for an Iowa meet when the record books were checked. The best mark is a 20:07.5 by Gar Williams of the Chicago Track club in a 1959 meet with Iowa.

The next meet for the Hawks will be Saturday when they travel to Colorado Springs to meet the Air Force Academy. Cretzmeier will take either six or seven men to the meet, but hasn't decided on a definite traveling roster.

Iowa will meet Minnesota for the next home meet Nov. 4. The meet will be held on the new Finkbine golf course.

Oh, Wisconsin!

Wisconsin's cheerleaders didn't have much to cheer about Saturday. The girl above was overheard saying "We can't beat 'em, we'd just as well join 'em." This shot was taken in the fourth quarter with Iowa leading 40-7. Final score was Iowa 47, Wisconsin 15.

Hawks Prepare for Purdue; Hollis May Play at Halfback

By Staff Writer

Coach Jerry Burns, whose Hawkeyes stomped Wisconsin 47-15 here Saturday, wasn't gloating about the game Monday. There was too much work to do in preparation for the upcoming Purdue game at Lafayette, Ind., this Saturday.

"Purdue is a very fine team, typically big and strong as it has been in past years. And the passing game has improved in the past few weeks," said Burns.

"It's their homecoming and we expect nothing but the toughest type of game."

"Another thing," Burns added, "we could use as many students Saturday as can make the trip. We appreciate greatly the moral support they give us."

Continuing his discussion of Purdue, Burns pointed to its 14-7 win over Iowa in 1959 as an example of Boilermaker toughness on the home field.

In that game the Hawks were nearly shutout for the first time since 1953. This year's Purdue club is the same type of club that throttled Iowa's title hopes two years ago.

Burns added that Purdue this week should be "stung" by Saturday's two point loss to Michigan and a similar defeat by Notre Dame.

Iowa scout "Whitey" Piro reported on the Boilermakers, "This is a typical Purdue team — big, strong and eager and ready to spoil hopes of any team which underestimates it. The line is composed mainly of big seniors, strong tackles, ends weighing 205 and 210, and guards of 210 and 215."

"Purdue is bringing along its sophomore quarterbacks, and most of the time they looked good. However, mechanical errors by Purdue hurt the team at Michigan, because they lost the ball three times on six fumbles and one of the losses was inside the Michigan 10-yard line."

"This team is in a position to do a lot of damage. Purdue has a history of upsetting highly rated teams. A balanced attack is used."

Report came from the Hawkeye camp that Wilburn Hollis, No. 1 quarterback, sidelined the last two games with a wrist fracture, has been shifted to the No. 2 left halfback spot and can play with the use of a protective device.

Hollis' running skill and possible defensive ability can help the squad, although he won't return to quarterback where he would have to be able to pass.

During Hollis' absence his teammates have been compiling some impressive rushing, passing, and pass catching averages.

Joe Williams, the converted left halfback, has moved into the rushing leadership with 199 yards, an average of 5.3 per carry. Second is right halfback Sammie Harris, 190 and 4.4 and idled Wilburn Hollis is third with 187 and 5.3.

The great passing of Matt Szykowny (14 of 17 for 169 yards) vs. Wisconsin, has given him the Iowa leadership. He has 30 completions in 44 shots for 344 yards, 5 touchdowns and .682.

Cloyd Webb, the sophomore right end who caught 7 for 104 yards in the Wisconsin game, added to his lead in this department. He now has 12 catches for 176 yards and 3 TDs, and his total is greater than the combined figures of the next two men, Joe Williams and Paul Krause (10 for 144).

Williams has retained his scoring lead with 36 points and Szykowny has replaced Hollis in second with 20. Szykowny has connected on 14 of 18 extra point kicks. Webb now has 18 points to share third with Hollis. Szykowny is the total offense leader, 329 yards in 48 plays, for an average of 6.8.

As a team, Iowa has gained 1,535 yards to opponents' 899. The running attack has averaged 4.9 per trial to foes' 3.1 and in passing, Iowa has completed 42 of 69 for 834 yards, 7 touchdowns and 600. Opponents have thrown the same number of passes but connected only 26 for 377 yards, 4 TDs and .377.

Other figures include 72-47 in first downs, 292 to 517 on kick returns, 243 to 158 on penalties, 9-13 on fumbles and 137 to 64 on points.

Offer Big Money, Tour To Nicklaus To Turn Pro

MONTERREY, Mexico (AP) — A world tour with Arnold Palmer and a yearly income reaching into six figures are the bait being dangled before Jack Nicklaus, the U.S. amateur champion, to turn professional.

The 200-pound Ohio State senior acknowledged Monday that the offers are tempting but repeated that he's not buying — not immediately, at any rate.

"I may turn professional tomorrow and I may not turn professional for 50 years," Nicklaus said as he prepared to return to his studies at Columbus, Ohio, and forget about golf until next spring.

"I can only say that Mark McCormack of Cleveland, who handles the business affairs for Palmer and Gary Player, has been talking with me, but he hasn't put on too much pressure."

"He has only explained what I could expect, if I turned pro — and I've got to admit it's very impressive — but he hasn't gone into too many details. I am told that if I turn pro I could expect more than $100,000 a year through exhibitions, endorsements, and so forth."

A big tug-of-war can be expected over the winter between the professional interests and lovers of the amateur game who hope Nicklaus remains pure and goes after some of the records set by the great Bob Jones.

"Certainly it is a great boon to golf to have an amateur who can hold his own with professionals," said Joe Dey, executive director of the U.S. Golf Association. "In Nicklaus, we have a player who has proved he can."

"On his record, it is reasonable to expect that he can win such tournaments as the Masters and the U.S. Open."

Nicklaus has said one of his reasons for wanting to remain amateur is to win the Masters, a feat never achieved by an amateur, and to try for the grand slam U.S. Open and amateur, which only Jones has accomplished in a single year.

A close friend of Nicklaus disclosed that one of the plans for him in case he turned pro was an exhibition tour with Palmer.

"Jackie and Arnold could play to huge galleries all over the world," the friend said. "It would be one of the great shows of golf — a Bob Jones-Walter Hagen battle in the sixties."

NCAA Plan Would Curb AAU Power

NEW YORK (AP) — The council of the NCAA Monday endorsed a proposed organization that would, in effect, strip the AAU of its power over basketball in the United States.

The proposal was in the form of a memorandum from a special AAU-Olympic Relations Committee and the NCAA Executive Committee.

The memorandum recommended that a United States basketball federation of five interested organizations representing inter-scholastic competition, intercollegiate competition, armed forces competition, open competition, plus an at-large member be formed.

The AAU now controls all international basketball in the United States and has the power to veto any competition by teams it does not approve. Under the new federation, the AAU would merely have a partial vote.

The AAU also holds the United States membership in the International Amateur Basketball Federation (FIBA).

"We are going to hold one more meeting with the AAU in hopes of reaching an agreement," said NCAA Executive Director Walter Byers after the opening session of the council's regular three-day fall meeting. We already have had four meetings and have made no appreciable progress.

Donovan, Spahn Take ERA Titles

NEW YORK (AP) — Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves captured his third National League earned run championship, and Dick Donovan of Washington paced the American League in 1961, the final averages disclosed Monday.

Spahn, a 21-game winner, yielded 83 earned runs in 263 innings for a 3.01 mark. It was the highest mark ever for a National League leader. The veteran southpaw fashioned four shutouts, including the only big league no-hitter. He also won the title in 1947 and 1953.

Donovan, recently traded to Cleveland, was the first Washington pitcher since Garland Braxton in 1928 to win the American League crown. The big righthander gave up 45 earned runs in 169 innings for a 2.40 mark, according to the statistics compiled by the Associated Press.

Donovan had two shutouts among 10 victories. He lost 10, six by one run.

Jim O'Toole, left-handed ace of the pennant-winning Cincinnati Reds, was second in the National League with a 3.09 average. He yielded 87 earned runs in 253 frames while compiling a 19-9 record with two shutouts.

Bill Stafford of the New York Yankees was the American League runner-up. He permitted 58 untaimed runs in 195 frames for a 2.68 average. Stafford won 14 games, lost nine and pitched three shutouts.

U.S., Russ Officials Wrangle After Reds Stall Diplomat

BERLIN (AP)—The U.S. command in Berlin protested to the Soviet Union Monday the halting of a top State Department official by East German police.

Blaming the Americans for the incident, Communist East Germany announced that henceforth all Allied personnel in civilian clothes must show identification papers to East German police upon entering East Berlin.

U.S. military police began looking into Soviet military vehicles for the first time in apparent retaliation for the harassment of Allied personnel.

And West Berlin police announced their border guards are being armed with tear gas and sub-machine guns. This required permission of the Western Allied occupying powers.

The halting Sunday night of the car of E. Allan Lightner Jr., deputy chief of the U.S. Mission, brought tension to a high pitch.

Eight U.S. military police with fixed bayonets finally entered East Berlin to insure passage to his car. East Berlin police did not interfere. Following Allied procedure, Lightner had refused to show his identification card to East Berlin police.

The protest to the Russians was made by Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II, the U.S. commandant, to Col. Andrei I. Solovjev, the Soviet commander in East Berlin, a U.S. spokesman said. A protest also had been made on the spot to a Soviet officer when the East Germans halted Lightner's car.

The Russians are expected to reply with a protest of the U.S. military incursion into East Berlin, the first under the occupation.

Watson's letter followed closely by a statement by Gen. Lucius D. Clay, President Kennedy's special representative in Berlin, assailing the "irresponsible and illegal behavior" of East German police.

Clay said the East German police action had forced "the United States to send a military escort into the Soviet sector to assist the U.S. minister in exercising his right of free entry and free movement in the Soviet Sector." Lightner has the rank of minister.

Simultaneous with the U.S. spokesman's announcement, the East Germans insisted that Allies in civilian clothing must show their identity cards when crossing into the Soviet Sector.

The Allies have always refused to do this, contending that the army registration plates of privately owned vehicles are sufficient.

In a reference to the Lightner incident, the Interior Ministry statement said East Germany would not tolerate any violation of the rule by "persons coming from West Berlin in civilian clothes and stating they are members of the occupation forces or of the U.S. Mission."

Three hours after the announcement, however, a private U.S. Army-registered vehicle with three occupants in civilian clothes was waved through the border crossing point without a check by East German police.

Dormitory Men's Adviser Is Self-Educated Scot

Alexander Davidson, new men's residence halls adviser at SUI is responsible indirectly for advising more than 1,500 students. Much of his work is carried on through the 39 advisors for men in Hillcrest, Quardangle and South Quardangle dormitories.

The new adviser is a native of Elgin, Scotland. He received his B.S. degree in English literature in 1959 from Lewis and Clark College in Portland, Ore. In his senior year there he was named assistant dean of men. He is presently working on his M.A. degree in student personnel work at SUI.

Davidson first came to the United States during World War II, when he was with the British navy. "During that five-months visit, I never dreamed that some day America would be my home," said Davidson.

In 1948 he came back to stay. His first U.S. home was in Portland, Ore., where he lived with an aunt and uncle. After working with a Portland telephone company for a short time, he decided to go back to school. "My education had come to a stop when I was 13 years old," said Davidson, "and I then started to work full time. Only in America is it possible to attend school and hold a job at the same time," he added.

Davidson worked seven of his eight semesters in college. "That one semester 'off' was just great," he noted. He explained that college undergraduate studies in Scotland are concentrated into three years. Also only four per cent of those in the eligible age group are accepted by the universities of Scotland.

Davidson succeeds Daryl Sander in the post of men's residence halls adviser. Sander, who received a Ph. D. degree from SUI in August, is now teaching and counseling students at the University of Colorado.

Alpha Chi, DUs Win Badge Sales

Alpha Chi Omega-Delta Upsilon representatives earned top salesmen ratings and a $25 first place prize in the 1961 Homecoming Badge sale contest completed Saturday.

The winning combination finishing with $2,163, outsold their nearest competitors by nearly 1300 badges.

Second place ended in a near tie with only a $3 or six-badge difference between the second and third place finishers. The Alpha Delta Phi-Pi Kappa Alpha combination took second place and a $10 prize with 866 in sales. Finishing in close third was the Pi Beta Phi-Phi Gamma Delta team with an 860 final sales total.

To date approximately $5000 has been turned in on the badge sales with $1500 worth of the badges still unreported.

Directors of the YWCA-sponsored sales requests that anyone holding badges or money turn it in as soon as possible to Bob Froeschle in Union Recreation Area.

Money from the sales is used to pay for all Homecoming activities.

The possibility of an outbreak of influenza in the United States has been predicted for the fall of 1961-62 by the Surgeon General's Advisory Committee on Influenza and practicing physicians and health officers have been alerted to the threat.

Surgeon General Luther L. Terry has recommended vaccination immediately for persons in the groups which accounted for 86,000 deaths associated with flu during the period September, 1957, and March, 1958. These "high risk" groups include persons with pulmonary disease, diabetes, heart disease and chronic ailments; persons over 65 years old; and pregnant women.

It was pointed out that flu outbreaks come in two- to three-year cycles and it has been dormant here since March of 1957. Also Type B flu comes in four- to six-year cycles and it has more than six years since it has been much Type B here. Types of flu were prevalent in other countries last year, particularly in England where it was to have been the direct cause of more than 1000 deaths and responsible for several thousand deaths. Dr. Terry noted that England had a similar epidemic in 1951 and following year it reached the United States.

While vaccination represents the first line of defense against flu, diligent and regular disinfection of the home by household can play a significant role in checking its spread, according to Dr. Emil G. Klarmann, an authority on germicides and disinfectants.

Influenza is spread both directly through close contact with infected persons or with the virus in air, and indirectly, by inhaling virus particles which have first on household surfaces then been redispersed into the atmosphere.

Outline Flu Prevention Steps

The possibility of an outbreak of influenza in the United States has been predicted for the fall and winter of 1961-62 by the Surgeon General's Advisory Committee on Influenza and practicing physicians and health officers have been alerted to the threat.

Surgeon General Luther L. Terry has recommended vaccination immediately for persons in the three groups which accounted for most of the 86,000 deaths associated with flu during the period from September, 1957, and March, 1960. These "high risk" groups include: persons with pulmonary disease, diabetes, heart disease and other chronic ailments; persons over 65 years old; and pregnant women.

It was pointed out that Asian flu outbreaks come in two-to-three-year cycles and it has been dominant here since March of 1960. Also Type B flu comes in four-to-six-year cycles and it has been more than six years since there has been much Type B here. Both types of flu were prevalent in other countries last year, particularly in England where it was said to have been the direct cause of more than 1000 deaths and responsible for several thousand more. Dr. Terry noted that England had a similar epidemic in 1951 and the following year it reached the United States.

While vaccination represents the first line of defense against flu, diligent and regular disinfection of the home by housewives can play a significant role in checking its spread, according to Dr. Emil G. Klarmann, an authority on germicides and disinfectants.

Influenza is spread both directly, through close contact with infected persons or with the virus in free air, and indirectly, by inhaling virus particles which have settled first on household surfaces and then been redispersed into the atmosphere.

Disinfecting these surfaces regularly with a cleaning solution containing a flu-tested disinfectant will check the spread of the flu virus and kill bacteria of secondary infections at the same time.

Surface areas of the home that should command special attention in household disinfection are: nursery, bathroom, kitchen, door-knobs, stair rails, food disposal, children's toys, closets and blankets.

The disinfectant solution should be applied to all porcelain surfaces, on linoleum or tile floors, and on walls and furniture.

Should a member of the family contract the disease, the following disinfectant procedures are suggested:

1. Mop floor of sickroom with clean mop thoroughly dampened with disinfectant solution.
2. Wipe down bedside table, bedstead, and other furniture of patient's room daily with cloth dampened in disinfectant solution.

3. Rinse patient's dishes and silverware in disinfectant solution before washing.
4. Soak linen and laundry in disinfectant solution before washing.

Conservatives To Meet

The Iowa Conservatives will hold their first meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Pentacrest Room of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Eldon Colton will speak on the "Western World's Reaction to Communism." Russell Kirk's visit to SUI will be discussed and general business proposals will be aired for the coming year. The public is invited.

Teacher Placement Meetings Slated For This Week

Educational Placement Office will hold a teacher placement meeting today at 4:30 p.m. in 221A Schaeffer Hall.

Seniors and graduate students who expect to teach in public schools in February or September should attend the meeting Oct. 25. Registration procedure will be explained. There also will be a brief discussion on opportunities and salary trends in the educational field.

Students planning to enter military service upon graduation should pick up registration materials and attend the meeting on Wednesday.

February graduates are urged to pick up registration materials immediately and sign up for interviews. This will give schools ample time in which to make surveys of personnel in various specialized areas before graduation. Educational Placement Office also needs to know who is available so it can inform recruiting high schools and colleges.

Over 500 high schools and colleges, seeking personnel, come to SUI during the placement year.

Last year Educational Placement Office had over 1,450 names on file seeking positions in high school or colleges. This figure includes SUI seniors and graduates plus people already in the field who were seeking change or advancement.

Big 10 Residence Hall Presidents To Meet

The Big Ten Residence Hall Presidents' Conference will be held at SUI Nov. 4, 5, and 6. SUI's representatives, Al Togood, Hillcrest and Marilyn Torode, Westlawn, will meet with some forty delegates in a series of get-acquainted and organizational meetings.

During the three day conference an exhibit will be on display in the new lounge of the Union.

Girl Watcher's Guide

Presented by Pall Mall Famous Cigarettes

Bare-Backed Beachbomb

LESSON 2 - What about standards?

Advanced students of girl watching never waste eyeball effort watching girls who are not beautiful. Standards must be kept high.

But how do we judge whether a girl is worth watching? Although many strict academicians will shudder at our aesthetics, we must insist that a girl is beautiful if she is beautiful to you. (That's the beauty of girl watching. Every girl is beautiful to someone!) For example, many observers have pointed out that the Bare-Backed Beachbomb (see above) has a weak chin.

Yet none of these keen-eyed experts would deny that she is indeed an attractive specimen. And, speaking of standards, don't forget to keep your smoking standards high. Smoke Pall Mall!

Pall Mall's natural mildness is so good to your taste!

So smooth, so satisfying, so downright smokeable!

Love's Letter-Carrier

In this scene from "The Barber of Seville," Sherill Milnes (left) is entrusted by Edith Gordon, the Rosina, with a tender secret letter for her beloved Lindoro, whom her jealous guardian refuses to let her see. The opera by Rossini will be presented by the Goldovsky Grand Opera Theatre in the Iowa Memorial Union at 8 p.m. Wednesday. A few reserved seats and some general admission tickets are still available at the East Lobby Desk of the Union.

16 and Gray-Headed—

U.N. Observes Birthday

By JUDY MAACK
Staff Writer

Amid tense situations throughout today's world, the United Nations is looked to as a beacon of hope for tomorrow's peace and security by a majority of the world's populations.

The recent death of U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold (Sweden) added another crisis to the already jammed U.N. schedule of situations to consider.

The question of whether or not to seat Mao-Tse-tung's Communist China with over 600 million people has been raised session-after-session.

Great Britain's Prime Minister Harold Macmillan summarized many Western people's feelings on the matter when he said, "a country that smothered Tibet and infringes on India's frontiers has few peaceful traits. But, he added, Communist China should be seated because of its huge population.

Recent African turbulence as new nations try to govern themselves causes other U.N. headaches. The problem of a world ban on the testing of nuclear weapons also faces session of the U.N. General Assembly.

Tense situations are not new for this international organization which was formed for the purpose of maintaining international peace and security.

The first situation brought before the U.N. in January 1946, was a complaint by Iran that the Soviet Union was interfering with Iran's internal affairs by not withdrawing its troops from northern Iran. Four months later after many reports, the soldiers were removed from Iran's provinces.

Due to the Soviet Union's permanent seat on the U.N. Security Council and thus permanent veto powers, it has blocked much action and the effectiveness of this branch of the organization.

In June 1950 the U.N. Security Council was able to take action against North Korean aggression in South Korea because the U.S.S.R. was absent from the meeting. Russians had left the Council in protest against allegedly illegal representation of China by the National Government.

Since Russia had become a stumbling block for effective Security Council action, a "Uniting for Peace" resolution was introduced into the General Assembly by the United States. It was adopted and gave additional responsibility for the maintenance of peace and security to this body.

The Soviet Union again hindered U.N. action on the Hungarian crisis in October-November 1956. After a Russian veto of a U.S. Security Council proposal calling on the U.S.S.R. to end its intrusion in Hungarian affairs, an emergency General Assembly session was called.

The same resolution was passed by this group, but the Soviet and Hungarian governments disregarded it on the grounds the situation was a domestic matter.

The idea to form another international peace organization was born Jan. 1, 1942 when 26 nations opposing the Axis powers signed a declaration as the United Nations, affirming their united stand against the Axis aggressors. During the fall of 1944 representatives from the United Kingdom, the U.S.S.R., the United States and the Republic of China drew up a series of proposals for the new group. They were circulated among the states at war with the Axis.

The charter was officially written after a 46-nation conference at San Francisco in April 1945. It officially entered force 16 years ago today when China, France, the United States, the U.S.S.R., the United Kingdom and a majority of other founders ratified it.

Contrasts Conditions In Cuba, Venezuela

By BILL GRAHAM
Staff Writer

In the opinion of at least one American, the United States' claims of Communist and Cuban subversion in South America are superfluous and ridiculous, and are reported by an incompetent press.

This American, Bert Wainer, is the editor of "Student Council" magazine, a Fair Play for Cuba Committee publication. Wainer spoke before 50 SIUowans Monday evening on the topic, "Latin America Looks at Cuba." He was sponsored by the Socialist Discussion Club.

Wainer said that "if one were to believe the press, he would think that Cuba is going through a dirty, left-wing revolution, led by atheistic Fidel Castro, and that the country of Venezuela is going through a clean, democratic revolution, led by righteous capitalists — our type of revolution."

Wainer, who has visited both countries, said that in fact, Venezuela is worse off than it has been, and Cuba is better off by far under Fidel Castro than is Venezuela under its capitalist regime. He said that South America is "on the move, and is on the move damn quick — and when the Venezuelans move they are going to take over the wealth held by some of the United States' biggest corporations, such as Standard Oil.

"Standard Oil owns 45 per cent of the oil industry in Venezuela," said Wainer, "and 90 per cent of the entire economy is oil. Because of this, Standard and its principle owner, the Rockefeller family, has become the epitome of all that the poverty stricken Venezuelans hate and want to destroy." When the people of this country move, America is going to be right in the middle, Wainer continued, and the fact that most of our aid to South America has been to this country is not going to help.

Wainer said that in the slums of Caracas, the capital city of Venezuela, signs declaring "Cuba si, Hunger, no," were to be seen everywhere, and at the universities, bulletin boards were filled with the same thing. Only in the wealthy sections of Caracas were the signs changed to say "Cuba no, Yankee yes."

Wainer said that Venezuela will follow Cuba's example, and a coup d'etat is bound to come. They know since Cuba that it can be done, and done successfully, he concluded.

New President To Head Alumni

John H. Greer, Spencer, was elected president of the SUI Alumni Association at the annual meeting of the board of directors Saturday.

Greer, who succeeds S. David Peshkin, Des Moines, in the top post of the alumni organization, has been a director of the association since 1955.

Four SUI graduates were named to three-year terms on the board of directors. They are R. P. Jurgensen, Clinton; Dr. John S. Greenleaf, Iowa City; Richard W. Peterson, Council Bluffs; and W. C. Stuart, Chariton.

Directors who completed terms on the alumni organization's board this weekend were Anthes Smith, Ft. Madison; Clark Houghton, Iowa City; and Glenn L. Seydel, Davenport.

1961 Enrollment Up at All Iowa Colleges, Universities

Iowa's colleges, universities and junior colleges opened their doors this fall to nearly 4,700 more students than were on their campuses a year ago.

The 1961 combined enrollment report published today by the Association of Iowa College Presidents shows a total of 58,696 students enrolled for classes this year — 4,689, or 8.7 per cent, more than the 54,007 registered last year and 7,389 more than the 51,307 enrolled just two years ago this fall.

Percentage-wise, the largest increases this year were in Iowa's five private junior colleges (up 387 students for a total of 1,973 or an increase of 24.4 per cent) and 16 public junior colleges, up 678 for a total of 3,828 students or an increase of 21.5 per cent.

Twenty-six privately-supported colleges and universities gained 1,908 additional students among them for a total enrollment of 26,441, an increase of 7.8 per cent over their 1960 enrollments.

The three state institutions — SUI, ISU and SCI — gained a total of 1,720 students for a total enrollment of 26,175, an increase of 7 per cent over last year. New freshman enrollment increased 9.3 per cent among the state institutions, whose 5,705 new freshmen represent 33.5 per cent of all those in the state, and 1.5 per cent among the private schools, whose 7,967 new freshmen are 46.8 per cent of all those in Iowa institutions.

Men continue to outnumber women students in Iowa's colleges, with 36,596 men being enrolled this fall compared to 22,100 women, according to the report, which was prepared for the Association by State University of Iowa Registrar Donald E. Rhoades.

Commenting on the greatly increased enrollments revealed by the report, AICP President Eugene Garbee, president of Upper Iowa University, asked today, "When will the citizens of Iowa become concerned about higher education in Iowa? What will it take to awaken our fellow Iowans to the tremendous tasks facing higher education in the state?"

"Once again, enrollment in the colleges of Iowa has increased materially. Once again, the tax-supported institutions are educating about half of the students and the private colleges about half. Will this desirable ratio continue?"

"The answer depends upon an aroused Iowa citizenship that will provide the necessary leadership to make it possible for qualified high school graduates and other adults to go to college in Iowa," Garbee concluded.

5 Meidner Prints On Exhibit Here

Five prints by Ludwig Meidner, German expressionist artist, are on display at SUI as the current Art Object of the Month in a series sponsored by the SUI Student Art Guild.

Visitors may see the works in the east foyer of the Art Building, which is open every weekday until midnight and on Sundays from 1 p.m. to midnight. The Meidner prints will be shown through Nov. 10.

Broken insulators can be Dangerous!

Many hunters don't realize the damage and expense broken insulators can cause. Here are just a few of the dangerous situations that may result from broken insulators on utility poles:

- Power may be interrupted in a large area
- A hot wire may break and cause fatality to other persons or livestock
- A fire may result

Good sportsmen are always first in observing safety measures during the hunting season. Here is one to add to the list: NEVER, no never, shoot at insulators on utility poles.

Voters Back City Council Manager Plan

By BARB BUTLER
Assistant City Editor

Iowa City voters gave a re-endorsement to the city manager plan of government a near-record number of votes Tuesday's primary election. Total unofficial vote of came near to breaking the turnout of 4,678, the highest number of voters since the city manager form of government went into effect in 1951.

In parring the field down seven to four candidates to advance to the November ballot the two four-year terms gave Council-Manager Action candidates top rank. Phil Englert and incumbent James Nesmith received active totals of 1,838 and Third with only an 18-vote preference was Max Yocum, polled 1,701.

Fourth candidate advanced the Nov. 7 primary is William Maas, with a 1,161 total.

In the two-year term battle sent Iowa City Mayor Thelma Lewis outpolled all dates in the primary and with a larger final vote the total of all three of her opponents. Mrs. Lewis' final total 2,115, despite the fact that voters failed to continue to cast votes for the term.

The ballots instructed to vote for two candidates the regular four-year term for one candidate for the year term.

Iowa law directs voters in primary and general election mark ballots for the same number of candidates as the positions to be filled. Second candidate for the November election for the two-year term is W. Paul, insurance and estate broker.

A wide berth separated the four in the four-year race from seven-man field of candidates. Plumbing and heating contractor Kenneth A. Mulford polled votes; Willard Irvin, retired streets commissioner, 450; Ward R. McCutcheon, janitor, mechanic in a local office building, 268.

Other candidates running the two-year terms and
