U.S. Condemns Russian Blast

Real Purpose Seen by West As Intimidation

No Military Purpose Seen in Giant Bomb; World Fears Fallout

By JERRY BAULCH

WASHINGTON (AP) - Russia exploded its vaunted superbomb Monday and the White House denounced the action as a device to incite "fright and panic."

The blast, set off in the face of worldwide pleas against it, brought expressions of anger and alarm throughout the non-Communist world.

In a statement obviously approved by President Kennedy, the White House called it an effort at blackmail that will be repelled "not only by the steadfastness of free men but by the power of the arms which men will use to defend their freedom."

This mightiest of all man-made explosions was estimated in "the order of 50 megatons" equal to the power of 50 million tons of TNT - as Soviet Premier Khrushchev had proclaimed two weeks ago it would be.

The Atomic Energy Commission said the blast took place early Monday on the Soviet's arctic testing island, Novaya Zemlya, "in the atmosphere and at about the same estimated altitude of last week's big bomb test - an estimated 25 megaton monster dwarfed by Monday's detonation."

The U.S. announcement also differed from the European report which indicated that the test was conducted at a lower altitude than that of a week ago and had raised fears that the fallout danger might be intensified.

However, the White House said the 50-megaton giant "will produce more radioactive fallout than any previous explosion." And as a great radioactive cloud swept over Siberia on westerly winds various European Governments prepared precautions against fallout expected in two to four weeks.

Fallout watchers in 80 places in the United States also increased their vigilance, anticipating that the initial radioactive cloud from Monday's explosion may sweep across this country - as happened after last week's blast.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said wind patterns indicate that fallout from the newest Soviet superbomb is moving southeastward from its point of detonation. The bureau said this could place the new radiation track somewhat east of the fallout cloud of a week ago, which preceded due south initially and then turned east.

A noted nongovernment U.S. nuclear scientist, Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, commented that he is inclined to believe the new superbomb was a very dirty one which would greatly increase radioactive fallout in the United States next spring.

Liberal Arts Committees Are Named

Seven new members of the three standing committees in the College of Liberal Arts were announced Monday by Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the college.

The new members, selected by vote of the College faculty are:

Executive Committee - Donald C. Bryant, professor of speech; Stow Persons, professor of history; James Van Allen, professor of physics and head of the Physics and Astronomy Department.

Educational Policy Committee - Thomas Turner, professor of music; Harold H. McCarty, professor and chairman of the Geography Department and Lloyd A. Knowler, professor of mathematics.

Adjustment Committee - Karl Dallinger, associate professor of speech.

Dr. Alexander C. Kern, professor of English, was named secretary of the Liberal Arts faculty.

The executive and educational policy committees consist of nine members, three elected each year on a rotating basis. The three new members each year are elected from the humanities, social science and natural science departments.

The adjustment committee is composed of three members, one elected each year.

DAD APPLICATIONS DUE

Application for the SUI Dad of the Year are due Wednesday at 5 p.m. at the Information Desk at the Iowa Memorial Union. The father will be introduced at the half-time of the Iowa-Minnesota game Nov. 11 and will be honored at other traditional gatherings.

Reds Ban Stalin's Body from Tomb

MOSCOW (AP) - The Communist party has banished Joseph Stalin's remains from his hallowed place beside V. I. Lenin in the tomb on Red Square.

It was a final degradation of the man who had exercised iron and despotic control over the party and the whole Soviet Union for 25 years; who was hailed up until his death eight years ago by current Premier Khrushchev as "our great leader and organizer of all our victories."

But times have changed.

At the current 22nd congress of the Communist party, Khrushchev has brought out for the whole Soviet public to hear, the disclosures of Stalin's crimes that Khrushchev made in his secret speech to the 20th congress in 1956. Murderer, torturer and bungler are only a few of the epithets Khrushchev and his followers have hurled at the late dictator.

As they spoke, it became obvious it would be impossible for Stalin's body to remain in the tomb Nov. 7, when his successors revived the parade in Red Square celebrating the 44th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

This became perfectly clear Saturday when the delegates, including Khrushchev, endorsed a proposal to build a monument in Moscow to Stalin's victims. It would seem impossible, even in the Soviet Union, to memorialize both persecutor and persecuted.

So 5,000 cheering delegates and officials at the congress endorsed a resolution ordering the removal of Stalin's body from the red granite and black marble mausoleum.

The resolution said the further presence of Stalin's body in the tomb with Lenin was "impossible" because of "Stalin's serious violation of Lenin's behests, abuse of power, mass persecution of honest Soviet people and other action stemming from the personality cult."

No mention was made of what disposition will be made of Stalin's body.

The stage for the latest disgrace to Stalin was set over the weekend with Khrushchev's speech to the party congress Friday declaring "thousands of absolutely innocent people" perished in Stalin purges before World War II. For the first time, the Soviet press, in publishing Khrushchev's speech, branded Stalin a tyrant and murderer.

In this setting, Ivan Spiridonov, first secretary of the party in the Leningrad region, rose before the congress to propose removal of the body from the tomb. The presence of Stalin's body beside Lenin, declared Spiridonov, "is incompatible with the acts of lawlessness committed by Stalin in the period of the cult of personality."

The resolution was promptly endorsed by the Moscow delegation, in whose territorial jurisdiction the tomb is situated, and by a representative of the delegation from Georgia, Stalin's birthplace.

Stalin's body was put in the tomb March 9, 1953, four days after his death. Since then millions of Soviet citizens and others have walked through this portal between armed guards to look at the bodies bated in a yellowish pink light, both enclosed in glass, Stalin to the left of Lenin.

Armed, But No Soviet Interference -

Convoy Uses E. German Corridor

BERLIN (AP) - U.S. trucks and jeeps carrying armed soldiers in battle dress moved across Soviet-occupied territory from Berlin Monday without Soviet interference.

The convoys may have been a U.S. probe of Soviet intentions in the inflamed Berlin crisis. But the U.S. command in Berlin said the troops were headed back to West Germany in a routine replacement operation.

West Berlin border police said it was highly unusual for U.S. troops to travel the 110-mile autobahn from Berlin to West Germany in battle-ready array, with camouflage nets over their steel helmets.

The movement of the troops followed incidents Sunday and early Monday in which Soviet officers turned back U.S. Army military assistance vehicles entering the express highway from Berlin. Three were halted, the last shortly after midnight.

The vehicles are unarmed. They provide help for U.S. travelers who have car or other trouble on the autobahn. The Russians insist the vehicles are not necessary.

At 9 a.m., four jeeps and eight trucks started down the highway. They arrived safely at Helmstedt in West Germany. Three other convoys left before dark. At least one truck had a machine gun mounted on it.

The U.S. Army in Berlin said the troops moving out were part of Co. D, 12th Engineer Battalion, rushed here Aug. 20 on President Kennedy's order to reinforce the Berlin garrison. A spokesman said the movement actually began Sunday and the company was being returned to its base at Mannheim.

They will be replaced by Co. A of the 20th Engineer Battalion, arriving from the United States, the spokesman said. He added that there would be no change in the strength of the 6,500-man American garrison.

Attention shifted to the highway linking West Berlin with the outside world as efforts to solve the tense border-crossing dispute within Berlin itself were taken over by Washington.

The United States, it was reported there, may agree to U.S. civilian officials showing identification to East German police, if Soviet citizens show theirs in West Berlin.

It was American insistence that U.S. Government civilians not show their identification to the East Germans that brought U.S. and Soviet tanks muzzle to muzzle in Berlin last weekend.

One reason advanced in Berlin for American readiness to make such a deal is that bringing in Soviet tanks over the weekend proved the U.S. contention that the Soviets actually run East Berlin, not the East Germans.

Adenauer Aide Out; Coalition Now Probable

BONN, Germany (AP) - Heinrich von Brentano resigned Monday as foreign minister. Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said the action does not mean a change in West German foreign policy.

Brentano, 57, announced he was quitting so a new Government could be formed to deal with the pressing international situation. His resignation had been demanded by the right-wing Free Democratic party as its price for entering a coalition government with Adenauer remaining as chancellor.

In elections six weeks ago Adenauer's Christian Democratic party lost the absolute majority that had enabled it to rule alone. Since that time the Allies have been stymied in trying to work out a common policy in the face of the Berlin crisis.

Brentano had held the job six years. He said the serious international situation decided him to give in.

The Free Democratic party under Erich Mende decided to try to bring down Brentano after failing in attempts to replace Adenauer.

Mende said there is no intent to force essential changes in West Germany's foreign policy. It has been based on complete commitment to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, refusal to deal alone with the Soviet Union, and cooperation with the United States and other Western powers.

It is widely believed that the demand for Brentano's ouster was made mainly so that the Free Democrats could save face on their turnabout toward Adenauer. Mende and his party have criticized Brentano only in generalities.

But the Free Democrats could simply be holding off until the new Government is formed, after which they might reveal other tendencies. Highly nationalistic, the party is determined to bring about German reunification.

Stump Testifies; Swears Innocence

DES MOINES (AP) - Ronald M. Stump took the witness stand Monday and said under oath that he did not shoot Michael Daly to death the night of June 9.

Stump, 22, SUI honor graduate from Keokuk is on trial for first degree murder in the fatal shooting of Daly, 22, in front of the Daly home in Des Moines.

Daly was mortally wounded as he alighted from a car with his fiancée, Leanna Jean Skultety, 21, of Des Moines. She formerly had been Stump's fiancée.

Stump, replying calmly and clearly to questions put to him, took the witness stand for the first time Monday in his behalf. Stump was on the stand most of the time in direct examination by his own attorney, J. Riley McManus, of Des Moines.

Highlight of the day's session was the final question asked by McManus:

"Did you shoot Michael Daly?"

"No, sir, I did not," Stump calmly replied.

Stump further denied that he had told a Des Moines police officer, following his arrest last June, that "a person like Daly should be dead."

The only thing he said to the police officer, Stump said, was that, "I hardly knew Daly."

Assistant County Attorney Lee Gaudineer was expected to submit Stump to cross-examination today.

Stump, dressed in dark olive green suit and wearing a crew-cut, testified that never in his life had he engaged in any angry argument with Daly.

The only time he saw Daly, he said, was once last spring when Daly called Stump at his office and invited him to have lunch.

That was several days after Stump said he had shown Miss Skultety the results of a credit investigation that showed Daly had once served a term at the State Training School for Boys at Elrod and that Daly had been married and divorced at one time. "I was shocked at the report," said Stump. He said he showed it to Miss Skultety because "she couldn't be expected to know those things."

He said he told Daly he (Stump)

Peace Corps Man Meets SUI Students

Frank C. Kiehne, field representative of the U.S. Peace Corps, will hold a special meeting with student leaders of campus organizations today at 4 p.m. in the Old Capitol.

Kiehne described the purpose of the meeting as a chance to give the students a correct image of the Peace Corps and a time for them to give their impressions of that image.

Kiehne said that Peace Corps representatives try, whenever possible, to meet with student leaders to get their impressions of the Peace Corps.

Student organization leaders were being contacted by the Office of Student Affairs Monday. However, because of the late notice of the meeting, Kiehne urged that any head of a student organization or its representative not contacted, who wished to attend, should do so.

Children Collect Funds for UNICEF

Most children collecting for the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF) visited Iowa City residents Monday night, but additional students from local churches and parochial schools may be around tonight.

The local youngsters have orange and black markers identifying them as collectors for UNICEF.

In 1960, the state sent 598 groups out and they collected $45,073. This was an increase of 23 per cent over the previous year.

Iowa City collected $760 last year with a group of about 2,000. Mrs. Cleo P. Casady, local UNICEF collection leader, said, "We have no way of knowing how many of these children actually went out. This year we have given out about 2,500 containers."

Mrs. Casady added, "I am not making any predictions for this year but in 1962, with a broader organization, we should collect over $1000."

Iowa City figures show that although there was no collection in 1959, the percentage of money brought in almost doubled from 1958 when $390 was collected to the 1960 total of $760.

The schools and churches will forward the money to a U.N. agency. The dollars will go to help hungry and destitute children throughout the world.

UNICEF pays doctors and technical workers and also helps to build plants where locally produced foods such as soybeans and fish can be processed into dried milk and flour to supplement the diets of children and mothers in underdeveloped countries.

UNICEF started after World War II in Europe and later spread to Africa and Asia. About 100 Governments now participate in the program supplying food and medicine to an estimated 750 million children.

Last year 2 1/2 million children collected $1.7 million for UNICEF at Halloween. Tricks or treats? Reds Claim Berlin Threat Forced Test

Delegates Debate; Question Whether Bomb Was Controlled

By MILTON BESSER

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) - The United States and other Western countries Monday accused the Soviet Union of showing cynical disregard of the United Nations and mankind in general by testing its massive superbomb.

They were told in reply that the Soviet Union conducted its test series in order to prevent by sheer strength a nuclear war over Berlin that could come at any moment.

"The world has taken a great leap backward toward anarchy and disaster," declared U.S. ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson in touching off a wave of denunciations of the Russians in the assembly's main political committee.

F. H. Corner, delegate from New Zealand, raised the possibility that the size of the Soviet blast may have even surprised its testers. Referring to some estimates that it may have been as high as 75 megatons, Corner asked: "Was this increase an accident?"

At a news conference British Minister of State J.B. Godber described the Soviet test as barbarous. He said Britain would support any U.N. move to censure the Russians but would not initiate such action.

Semyon K. Tsarapkin, the Soviet delegate, did not mention the size of the blast in replying to Stevenson.

He accused the United States of increasing pressure in Berlin to the point where a nuclear war could come at any moment. To prevent such a war, he added, the Soviet Union needed all its strength - and that is why Moscow resumed its current test series.

Stevenson referred to the latest Soviet explosion as "apparently even larger than 50 megatons." He said the day of the test would be long remembered "for a display of violence on a scale unheard of in human history to this time."

By holding the test, he said, the Soviet Union acted in cynical disregard of last Friday's U.N. General Assembly resolution approved by a vote of 87-11 appealing to Moscow not to test a 50-megaton bomb.

"By this act," he added, "the Soviet Union has added injury to insult. They broke the moratorium on nuclear weapons testing. They have raised atmospheric pollution to new heights. They have started a race for more deadly weapons."

Tsarapkin asserted that the United States in dropping A-bombs on Hiroshima and Nagasaki in World War II was guilty of an act against humanity.

Stevenson retorted that the Soviet Union, a U.S. ally in that war, failed to protest the Japanese bombing.

Halloween Parade In I.C. Tonight

Iowa City's young ghosts and gremlins will join in a parade tonight at 6 followed by a free cartoon movie - all sponsored by the City Recreation Commission and the local Moose lodge.

The parade route will follow Washington Street from between Dubuque and Linn Streets west to Clinton Streets then south and east on College Street to the Strand Theater.

Admission to the cartoon show will be by Halloween pledge card, Robert A. Lee, city recreation director said.

The cards, distributed at Iowa City elementary schools this week, require children to promise to respect the rights of others and to help protect public and private property against vandalism and intentional damage Halloween night.

A pledge card drawing for prizes is scheduled for the theater. Prizes will also be awarded for parade costumes. The awards will be donated by Iowa City merchants and grocers.

Registration for the costume contest may be made by calling the recreation office, 8-5493. The number, assigned to paraders when they call, must be pinned on the back of the costume before the parade.

A Halloween Treat For All Children

A second wave of tricks-or-treaters will be trekking its way to Iowa City homes tonight in the annual Halloween tradition. The usual assortment of ghoulish monsters — witches, hobgoblins, and maybe even a pumpkinhead or two — can again be expected on your doorstep.

With a menacing, groanlike greeting or an eerie shriek of "Tricks or treats," they will anticipate your dumping of any of a variety of goodies into a huge bag thrust out at you.

This is the "old" tradition of Halloween. The "new" tradition, steadily growing within the past few years, is quite different. In this case, the tricks-or-treaters seek not for themselves, but for over two million of their less fortunate counterparts in countries around the world.

Instead of the traditional "goodie bag," they will first thrust at you a box decorated in black and orange. In so doing, these little goblins of goodwill will be asking your donation to the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF). The boxes will also be so identified.

The little collectors are all members of local Catholic, Protestant, and Jewish groups and non-religious groups such as the Boy and Girl Scouts. The money which they collect will be turned into their churches and parochial schools. Later it will be forwarded to the U.N. agency.

The funds will then be used to purchase food and medicine for needy children in underdeveloped nations. Some of it will contribute to the pay of doctors and technical workers in those areas. The rest will be used for constructing food-producing plants.

Each participating nation — there are about 100 — must match the grants they are to receive.

When these little witches' helpers knock on your door, be prepared. Drop a coin or two into the UNICEF collection boxes to give the destitute children of the world a treat too.

(By the way, it might be a good idea to have some candy, gum and fruit around too. Chances are the tricks-or-treaters will probably have not completely abandoned the old-fashioned "goodies bags.")

Bureau of Semantics?

It's good to see folks hitching up their belts and talking back to planners bent on improving things.

The other day some Greenwich Villagers noisily protested a New York City Planning Commission's designation of their neighborhood as a "blighted area" suitable for "urban renewal." One irate Villager had to be carried bodily from the hearing.

In Texas, some citizens who object to seeing their county branded a "depressed area" want to be "de-designated" and, in effect, have asked the Commerce Department's Area Redevelopment Administration to let them alone.

If this sort of thing keeps up we expect to see Governments set up Bureaus of Semantics. If, for example, that Texas county has been labeled a "Merit Area," perhaps its residents wouldn't have been so stirred up. The New Dealers in Franklin D. Roosevelt's Administrations knew the uses of semantics only too well. Remember the "National Recovery Administration"?

Sevareid Comments—

Biggest Big Business In America Is Anxiety

By ERIC SEVAREID

There is not the slightest danger that America is going to become a nation of Fascists or Communists, but a returned native has the impression we are becoming a nation of common scolds.

True to our tradition of innovation, we are originally even in this. While the nationals of most countries scold other people, we scold ourselves.

It has become impossible to pass a newspaper and magazine stand without feeling the hot blasts of flagellation. "Are You A Good Mother?" — "Take This Ten Point Test!" — "How to Make Your Husband Smile Again." — "Is Your City Dying?" — "What You Can Do About Cancer" — or Juvenile Delinquency, Desegregation, River Pollution, the Melting Polar Cap, Atomic Fallout, Cholesterol, Bad Breath, Crab Grass, the Population Explosion, the Narcotics Racket, Itching Scalp, Middle Age Spread, Psoriasis, Greek Orphans, Neighborhood Blight, Illiterate Polynesians, Smog, Apartheid, Body Odor, Protein Deficiency in Africa, the Creeping Girdle and Scrotula Among the Eskimos.

THE BIGGEST BIG BUSINESS in America is not steel, automobiles or television. It is the manufacture, refinement and distribution of Anxiety. It is the only business based on the maxims, "the customer is always wrong," "we aim to displease" and "send 'em away unhappy." Anyone from the age of 10 is a potential buyer and, once hooked, may be a customer for life.

It is entirely possible that Khrushchev need not spend his money and energy on alternating threats and promises in his Pavlovian attempt to induce the ultimate state of nevolva — will-lessness — in the American people. We can do it to ourselves at our own expense. Our large, economy size do-it-yourself Anxiety kit contains a book of instructions which begins with the reminder that Americans are personally and collectively responsible for each and every ill of mankind and can rectify all of them if the tools in the kit are properly used.

LOGICALLY EXTENDED, this process can only terminate in a mass nervous breakdown or in a collective condition of resentment that will cause street corner Santa Clauses to be thrown down manholes, the suffering to be left to pain, and aid delegations from Russia-Urundi to be arrested on the White House steps. Either result would be marked on the credit side of the ledger for the next Congress of Communist Parties.

Anyone, for any cause, may now deal in the open market of the American Conscience and make his profit.

We stand in the world's dock, convicted of the double crime of success and stability and, having testified against ourselves, discover that we are sentenced to the Guilt Complex for the rest of our natural lives.

THE AMERICAN CONVICTS suffering the most are, of course, many of our finest citizens — the sensitive, the imaginative, the liberal minded, the men and women of conscience who wear not only heart but liver and lights on their sleeves. It happens, or so certain psychological studies inform me, that the liberal has a deeper personal sense of insecurity than the conservative, the lunatic fringe aside. He suffers more for others partly because he suffers more with himself. He has an inborn, unjustified sense of guilt and vainly seeks to work it off. I do not believe this; without this trait in our society, life both here and in many places abroad, would be considerably worse than it is. The American Hairshirt has kept a lot of bodies warm from the Arctic to Bengal.

Yet a mass breakout from this suffocating prison into the clear air of common sense is long overdue. The great Guilt Complex, exploited for gain both commercial and psychic, is unnerving and distracting us, breaking our stride, wounding our natural pride and confidence. Our strength ought to be, but is not as the strength of 10, because — we think — our heart is impure.

IN NATURE THE WEAK are not permitted to weaken the strong, for then the weak are lost. But it seems to be news to many among us that sensitivity, generosity and compassion are possible without neurotic self-flagellation.

The latest noxious weed to grow from the compost of American neuroticism is the reaction in other, less privileged countries. This is one respect in which we are most definitely winning "the battle for men's minds." We are convincing their more alert citizens that America is guilty, responsible for their troubles.

This comes in very handy for their politicians, intellectuals and local Communists. It removes their own guilt. As things now stand, our self-guilt and their self-pity fit perfectly, hand in glove. The fist is theirs, ours the chin.

'Whipping Boys' And The Reds

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Two of the interesting questions raised by the Communist party congress in Moscow involve internal affairs of both the Soviet Union and the international movement.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev has been bragging about Communist advances and what the Communists expect to do in the next 20 years. Why does the ruling clique work so hard to establish a whipping boy?

At this point, why does Red China, in such desperate need of Soviet economic aid, refuse so pointedly to approve the inclusion of Albania among the boys being whipped?

Traditionally the czars, and then Stalin shortly before his death, set up whipping boys (the Jews) to distract attention from administrative failures.

The Khrushchev Administration, on the other hand, has depended primarily upon antiforeign agitation. He never really carried his anti-Stalinist campaign to the people. Yet now he goes back to beating the "Stalinist" bushes which he seemed to have cleared out pretty thoroughly through the execution of Lavrentia Beria, the demotions of some like Gori Malenkov, and the virtual exile of V. M. Molotov.

Many observers think that if Khrushchev still faces any internal danger now it lies with the army. Yet the army gets less public criticism than others with whom he has had trouble. And the whole world of Communism is asked to join in the beating of the "old crowd."

There may be a more fundamental reason for pressing the Albanian issue. In both the Mediterranean and Latin America the Chinese Reds have been seeking to export their revolution almost as actively as in Asia, which might be considered their more natural field.

There have been signs the Soviet Union does not always appreciate these efforts. Especially in Laos the Soviet intervention appeared in some ways to have been designed to forestall any unilateral victory for Peiping there.

Preservation of the hard core qualities of Communist organization, and its pretensions to be a religion in which all dissenters are heretics, are also important to the Kremlin.

But what foreign observers would like to know particularly is what is happening in the Soviet Union itself, and to the confidence of the Soviet leaders of international Communism, which now requires them to use whipping boys.

Letters to the Editor—

Defends Athletics

To the Editor:

It was gratifying to read your excellent editorial comment in defense of the Iowa athletic program in Thursday morning's DI. Such objective reporting is quite refreshing in light of the hodgepodge of groundless half-truths and insinuations leveled at the athletic department in Monday's edition of the "Newspaper of Ideas and Opinions."

Few new students who may have been shocked and confused by this latest attempt to sew the seeds of discontent over Iowa athletics, it is illuminating to point out that it is nothing new. Rather, it happens every fall. Just as the coming of snow reawakens opposition to ROTC, so does the first pep rally disturb those who are anti-athletics.

It should be apparent to anyone endowed with more than a modicum of intelligence that this annual attempt to smear the Hawk-eyes emanates from a small group of frustrated, misguided and otherwise inconsequential individuals who are in essence intolerant of anything associated with success and tradition. Indeed, their ultimate quarrel seems to be with life itself.

In response to your plea for someone to rise in defense of the Iowa athletic program, I put myself on record as giving the Hawks my unmitigated support. In addition, I declare myself as totally opposed to those who would tear down an Administration which in the final analysis, has proved to be of tremendous over-all benefit to the University.

The time has come for interested individuals who have seen about enough of this leftist campaigning on campus to combat it actively. This is a significant challenge for the student body of an otherwise fine University.

Prefers Better Balance

To the Editor:

Let me congratulate you. For perhaps the first time since I have been attending the University, the Editor of the Daily Iowan has been sufficiently stimulated by an occurrence on campus to completely fill the editorial columns. I hope this undertaking will set a precedent for future issues.

It seems to me, however, that in his enthusiasm to defend Iowa Athletics in toto, the Editor has entirely missed the point which recent critics have been making regarding the Connie Hawkins affair. How is it, they ask, that an individual barely able to graduate from high school, who was rejected by some of the largest "recruiting" universities in the East because of his incredibly poor academic record and lack of promise of academic achievement, could even be admitted to SUI? If the Editor wishes to deny this allegation as well (Note: no representative of the Athletic Department spoke to this point in denying the rest of the details of the Connie Hawkins' story), it behooves him to do a little investigating of his own.

The writer, like the Editor, enjoys watching football games. But I would prefer that the reputation of the University rest on its achievements in the academic departments. It may be true that participation in the Ross Bowl, NCAA Basketball Tournaments and the like, have helped put Iowa on the map. But it seems to me that the test of whether or not it ought to remain on the map should be its status as a university. I see no rationale in the comment that having already committed academic heresy, we should "go all the way."

I would also like to speak to the Editor's attempt to defend the Athletic Department because it is run by "good guys." This is entirely irrelevant to any judgment which is to be made on the proper place of athletics in the college program. History is replete with instances of good people faithfully — but mistakenly — serving bad causes.

But, unknowingly perhaps, the Editor himself has summed up perfectly the case of those who seek to restore the balance between athletics and academics when he says: "We believe that the athletic program here has done much to attract individuals that might not have otherwise come to the university."

Identified, Not Persecuted

To the Editor:

This letter is in reply to the letter (Daily Iowan, Oct. 25) by Fred Wilson.

I cannot help but believe that Wilson and I were taught by the same teachers. Yet in my estimation he has lost the bright thread of truth of America. Communism originally was a form of Internationalism and as such was composed of the stuff dreams are made of. Christianity is still composed of the stuff dreams are made of.

In more recent times Communism has become a group of various nationalistic tendencies — Soviet, Chinese and Yugoslavian to name a few. The American Communists are identified with Soviet Communism and as such Soviet nationalism.

Christians are identified with Christianity and not with a form of state Christianity but rather with international Christianity. Comparison of East German Christians and American Communists has no firm base or associated ideals upon which the comparison can be made.

Difference of opinion brings about reform, violent difference of opinion brings chaos. Reform must be brought about by intelligent action not by violent revolution and subterfuge. The voice of Communism is being identified rather than being suppressed. The voice of Christianity is easily identifiable.

A man does not invite his enemies, mortal enemies that is, into his house to live. For the United States to do otherwise in some misguided sense of freedom is inviting slaughter in its bed as it sleeps.

The Communist Party in the United States is not being persecut, rather it is being identified. It is being identified as the agent of a foreign power whose political ideology makes it our professed enemy. Any person who does not attempt to identify and recognize the enemies in his own house is inviting disaster. It would be foolish for the United States to do the same.

As for the statement, "What's the use of fighting a war if what is being fought for is lost in the meantime," there is no relevance to this statement. The American Communists are not being deprived of their right to vote, due process of law, or any of the other freedoms enjoyed by citizens of the United States. They are merely being required to show their true colors, and present themselves as what they are. If identification of our enemies is wrong then the war is lost before it begins.

College Evolution Discussed

We need to develop better techniques and additional methods for determining how good a job our colleges and universities are doing. Dewey B. Stuit dean of the SUI College of Liberal Arts said Saturday at the Invitational Conference on Testing Problems being sponsored in New York City by the Educational Testing Service.

Some of the problems in evaluating our colleges and universities in this country stem from one of the chief characteristics of American higher education — its diversity — in purposes, curriculum offerings, physical facilities and types of students enrolled, Stuit pointed out.

"Although most colleges and universities would prefer to enroll students of high scholastic aptitude, it is generally agreed that higher education should not be limited exclusively to the intellectually elite," Stuit said. As a result, the quality of students as measured by scholastic aptitude tests varies considerably from college to college.

"The quality of an institution should be determined by measuring its products, or more specifically, what the institution does by way of developing the talents and attributes of its students, or encouragement of productivity in its faculty," he said.

"This primary business of colleges is the education of students," he continued. "In the case of universities, equal emphasis is usually placed upon scholarly productivity and perhaps to a somewhat lesser degree, special services rendered to the state and nation . . ."

"It isn't the beauty of the ivy on the walls, the splendor of the buildings or even the size of the budget that counts. Rather, it's what happens to students, and in the case of universities, what they produce by way of research, and the extra services they render to society."

The first step in measuring the job a university is doing is to know the objectives of the institution, Stuit explained. These questions must be answered: What changes in student behavior does the university aim to produce? What level of competence are the students expected to reach? What emphasis does the institution place upon scholarly productivity? What services does it aim to provide for the city, state, region or nation?

The next step is to decide what measuring instruments to use — tests, evaluation of students' "success" after graduation, number and quality of books and articles written by the faculty, or the judgment of those considered competent judges.

Allowances must also be made for the quality of the student "input," Stuit noted. "A college or university with a highly selective admissions policy will show up with better results in achievement tests and will graduate more illustrious alumni, not necessarily because of the high quality of education at that institution, but at least in part because of the high level of talent enrolled."

"Very successful coaches of intercollegiate athletics not infrequently admit that the 'secret' of their success is recruiting. Likewise, one of the major reasons explaining the success of a college's alumni is careful selection of the freshman class."

In addition to the objectives of the institution, factors which should be evaluated include the curriculum, the experience and training of the faculty, the quality of teaching, the aptitude and achievement of students, the number and quality of personal services, and the adequacy of the library, the SUI dean said. Probably the quality of institutional research and institutional research and institutional tone or atmosphere are also related to academic quality, he added.

To evaluate an institution's faculty effectively, a "pool" of data on faculties in institutions of varying types and sizes needs to be made available, Stuit suggested. Then a university could use this information as a yardstick in evaluating the training, experience, scholarly productivity, community and professional and other attributes of its faculty.

Evaluation of a university's students would be easier if the average scores in aptitude and number of institutions could be assembled on an anonymous basis, with information grouped by types of colleges and univer-

College Evaluation Discussed by Stuit

We need to develop better techniques and additional methods for determining how good a job our colleges and universities are doing, Dewey B. Stuit dean of the SUI College of Liberal Arts said Saturday at the Invitational Conference on Testing Problems being sponsored in New York City by the Educational Testing Service.

Some of the problems in evaluating our colleges and universities in this country stem from one of the chief characteristics of American higher education — its diversity — in purposes, curriculum offerings, physical facilities and types of students enrolled, Stuit pointed out.

"Although most colleges and universities would prefer to enroll students of high scholastic aptitude, it is generally agreed that higher education should not be limited exclusively to the intellectually elite," Stuit said. As a result, the quality of students as measured by scholastic aptitude tests varies considerably from college to college.

"The quality of an institution should be determined by measuring its products, or more specifically, what the institution does by way of developing the talents and attributes of its students, or encouragement of productivity in its faculty," he said.

"This primary business of colleges is the education of students," he continued. "In the case of universities, equal emphasis is usually placed upon scholarly productivity and perhaps to a somewhat lesser degree, special services rendered to the state and nation . . .

"It isn't the beauty of the ivy on the walls, the splendor of the buildings or even the size of the budget that counts. Rather, it's what happens to students, and in the case of universities, what they produce by way of research, and the extra services they render to society."

The first step in measuring the job a university is doing is to know the objectives of the institution, Stuit explained. These questions must be answered: What changes in student behavior does the university aim to produce? What level of competence are the students expected to reach? What emphasis does the institution place upon scholarly productivity? What services does it aim to provide for the city, state, region or nation?

The next step is to decide what measuring instruments to use — tests, evaluation of students' "success" after graduation, number and quality of books and articles written by the faculty, or the judgment of those considered competent judges.

Allowances must also be made for the quality of the student "input," Stuit noted. "A college or university with a highly selective admissions policy will show up with better results in achievement tests and will graduate more illustrious alumni, not necessarily because of the high quality of education at that institution, but at least in part because of the high level of talent enrolled.

"Very successful coaches of intercollegiate athletics not infrequently admit that the 'secret' of their success is recruiting. Likewise, one of the major reasons explaining the success of a college's alumni is careful selection of the freshman class."

In addition to the objectives of the institution, factors which should be evaluated include the curriculum, the experience and training of the faculty, the quality of teaching, the aptitude and achievement of students, the number and quality of personal services, and the adequacy of the library, the SUI dean said. Probably the quality of institutional research and institutional research and institutional tone or atmosphere are also related to academic quality, he added.

To evaluate an institution's faculty effectively, a "pool" of data on faculties in institutions of varying types and sizes needs to be made available, Stuit suggested. Then a university could use this information as a yardstick in evaluating the training, experience, scholarly productivity, community and professional and other attributes of its faculty.

Evaluation of a university's students would be easier if the average scores in aptitude and number of institutions could be assembled on an anonymous basis, with information grouped by types of colleges and universities, he said. The same would be true regarding drop-outs, honors won by students and success of graduates, he added.

Information also needs to be collected concerning the intellectual climate or atmosphere in a variety of institutions, Stuit suggested. This would include samplings of faculty and student opinions, reports on the sorts of administrative controls exercised, and factors considered in appointment and promotion of faculty members.

Stuit pointed out that statistics concerning faculty, students and other factors to be considered in evaluating an institution take on meaning only when they can be compared with statistics for similar institutions. "When studies in the light of 'norm of performance,' these statistics become meaningful and useful not only to the institution itself, but also to prospective students," he explained.

D.M. Council Awaits Movie Self-Censorship

DES MOINES (AP) — The City Council informally agreed Monday, at the request of an attorney for the film industry here, to await a plan of self-regulation to be drafted by motion picture exhibitors and distributors.

The council last week ordered a proposed ordinance drawn for regulation of pictures shown in Des Moines and advertisements of them on the basis of standards of decency.

State Council Approves SUI Land Purchase

DES MOINES (AP) — The Executive Council Monday approved the purchase by SUI of 3.49 acres of land west of the University. The land is to be purchased from Joseph and Ethel Sentinella of Iowa City for $7,700.

In other action, the attorney general was authorized to place dummy license plates on a state car to be used for investigative purposes. Without the authorization, the car would have had to bear state license plates marked "official."

Another Space Launch

ROME (AP) — L'Unita, the Italian Communist party organ, reported from Moscow today that rumors are circulating there that the launching of a space ship with two or more men aboard is imminent.

The Moscow correspondent of the Red daily connected the launching rumors with his report of preparations for the Nov. 7 celebration of the Bolshevik Revolution.

Math Teachers To Hold Conference Here Friday

"Experimentation and Recommendations in Mathematics" will be the theme of the 31st annual Conference of Teachers of Mathematics to be held Friday at SUI.

An estimated 200 Iowa grade and high school mathematics teachers are expected to attend the one-day session beginning at 9:30 a.m. in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol. Robert V. Hogg, associate professor, and Roscoe Woods, professor emeritus of mathematics, will preside at conference sessions.

Prof. Donovan Johnson of the University of Minnesota will open and close the conference with talks on "Creative Teaching in Mathematics" and "Evaluating New Curriculum Programs."

Prof. David Page of the University of Illinois will speak on the subject "A Missing Ingredient" and also teach a demonstration class in arithmetic using the sixth grade pupils from the University Elementary School.

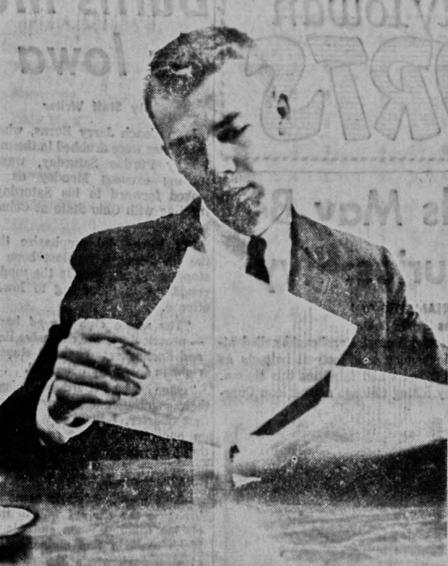

Prof. Johnson is professor of education and chairman of the mathematics department at the University of Minnesota high school. He is a member of the board of directors of the Central Association of Science and Mathematics Teachers, chairman of the Minnesota State Mathematics Curriculum Committee and president of the mathematics section, Minnesota Education Association.

He is also co-author of "The World of Numbers," "Grades 4-7 Workbook" and co-editor of "Aids to Teaching," a department of "The Mathematics Teacher."

Page is associate professor of education and director of the University of Illinois arithmetic project. He was awarded a $307,400 grant by the Carnegie Corporation to organize and direct the arithmetic project for five years.

The 31st annual Conference of Teachers of Mathematics — one of the oldest annual teachers' meetings held at SUI — is sponsored by the SUI extension division, college of education and department of mathematics, in cooperation with the Iowa section of the Mathematical Association of America.

Stump Examines Photos

Ronald Stump, 22, examines photographs before taking the witness stand in his own defense in his first degree murder trial Monday. Stump is accused of fatal shooting of Michael Daly, 22, of Des Moines last June 9. Daly was the fiance of Leanna Jean Skultety, 21, who formerly was engaged to Stump.

Defendant Testifies

8:30 p.m. Stump contends he was in Knoxville about the time of the shooting.

He said he first learned of the shooting the next morning, when his sister, Sandra, called him from Keokuk.

Stump denied he was in the immediate vicinity of the murder scene the night of June 9. He also denied following Miss Skultety's car that night.

McManus asked Stump whether he had told a Des Moines police officer when jailed later whether he felt any remorse about Daly's death.

"I told him I didn't," Stump said, "because I had no reason to be remorseful."

Stump admitted shooting blackbirds in the backyard of his place in Des Moines with a .22 caliber revolver he owned.

He said he lost the weapon at a company picnic June 3.

When asked his reaction to Miss Skultety's accusation made at the police station shortly after the slaying that she saw him kill Daly, Stump replied:

"I told her she was mistaken."

Earlier in the day, Stump testified he was "shook up" when Miss Skultety broke off their engagement last Jan. 20. He said he and Miss Skultety had become engaged in April of 1960 and had sexual relations with her on several occasions.

Miss Skultety, however, has denied she ever was intimate with Stump.

Miss Skultety admitted earlier that she and Daly were expecting a baby but said she lost the child after Daly's funeral.

U.N. Envoy, Munro, To Speak Wednesday

Sir Leslie Munro, former president of the United Nations General Assembly, will discuss "The World We Face" Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Main Lounge of Iowa Memorial Union.

Tickets for his talk, the first lecture in the 1961-62 University Lecture Series, are now available to the public at the East Lobby Desk in the Union. Free tickets to the lecture may be picked up from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. today and Wednesday with staff or student identification cards.

Sir Leslie, who has served on almost every important sub-body in the United Nations, was president of the 12th General Assembly in 1957. Before that he had served for a year as president of the Trusteeship Council and three times as president of the Security Council. His most recent book, published in 1960, is "United Nations: Hope for a Divided World."

A native of New Zealand, Sir Leslie was a lecturer in constitutional and Roman law at Auckland University, New Zealand, from 1925-1938, and dean of the university's law school during part of that period. He joined the staff of the New Zealand Herald in 1941 and served as its editor from 1942 to 1951.

In 1952 Sir Leslie was appointed by the New Zealand government as its permanent representative to the U.N., and also as ambassador to the U.S. He held both posts until 1958, when he became a special representative of the Assembly for the Hungarian Question.

In this position, he "represented the United Nations for the purpose of reporting to member states or to the General Assembly on significant developments relating to the implementation of the resolution of the General Assembly on Hungary."

Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., former ambassador of the U.S. to the U.N., said of Sir Leslie's appointment: "We, the sponsors of this draft resolution, intend that Sir Leslie will be the watchdog of the U.N. We cannot now foresee exactly what his tasks will be. We hope his activity and his reporting role will be a sign to the authorities in Hungary that the U.N. is watching to see whether the current repressions are ended. He may be able to bring about some improvement in the situation or at least prevent it from growing worse."

In 1955 Sir Leslie was made a Knight Commander of the Order of St. Michael and St. George, and in 1957, Queen Elizabeth II conferred on him the additional honor of Knight Commander of the Royal Victorian Order.

Last April, Sir Leslie was named secretary-general of the International Commission of Jurists, with headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland.

Iowa Ninth in Poll; Spartans Still No. 1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the third straight week Michigan State has been voted the No. 1 college football power by the Associated Press' 47-man committee of sports writers and sportscasters.

Iowa, who suffered its first loss of the season, 9-0 to Purdue, fell from fifth place to ninth.

The Spartans again piled up a wide margin over second-place Mississippi in first-place votes, 31-8. The final total in points on a 10, 9, 8 etc. basis showed Michigan State leading Ole Miss 437-407.

Texas and Alabama followed in third and fourth positions as last week, but Ohio State moved into fifth place when Iowa dropped to ninth. Texas had six first-place votes and Alabama two.

There was a shuffling among the last five teams, but the only change saw Notre Dame, beaten by Northwestern 12-10, drop out of the top ten and be replaced by Missouri, a 10-0 winner over Nebraska.

Michigan State strengthened its position by thumping Indiana 35-0 for its fifth straight. The Spartans face a major test at Minnesota Saturday.

Mississippi, which enjoyed a 47-0 romp over Vanderbilt for its sixth straight, gets down to serious business Saturday night at Louisiana State.

LSU moved up to the No. 6 position by beating Florida 23-0. The only team to beat LSU was Rice in the season opener 16-3.

Texas smashed Rice 34-7 for its sixth straight and headed toward a Saturday date with Southern Methodist at Dallas. Alabama also ran its winning string to six by beating Houston 17-0 and made ready to entertain Mississippi State.

Ohio State, unbeaten but tied once by Texas Christian, advanced to fifth by downing Wisconsin 30-21. The Buckeyes have an important date Saturday with Iowa at Columbus.

Georgia Tech also moved up, taking seventh place after drubbing Tulane 35-0 with Florida next in line. Tech's only defeat was to LSU 10-0.

Colorado continued unbeaten and untied by knocking off Oklahoma 22-14, and advanced to the No. 3 spot.

Pairings of top ten teams this week include Mississippi (No. 2) vs. LSU (No. 6), Ohio State (No. 5) vs. Iowa (No. 9) and Colorado (No. 8) vs. Missouri (No. 10).

The top teams, with season records and first-place votes in parentheses, are:

1. Michigan State (31), 5-0 437
2. Mississippi (8), 6-0 407
3. Texas (6), 6-0 383
4. Alabama (2), 6-0 325
5. Ohio State, 4-0-1 267
6. Louisiana State, 5-1 199
7. Georgia Tech, 5-1 163
8. Colorado, 6-0 142
9. Iowa, 4-1 83
10. Missouri, 5-0-1 65

Others receiving votes: Minnesota, Notre Dame, Purdue, Utah State, Northwestern, Kansas, Penn State, Auburn, Syracuse, Rutgers, Wyoming and Arkansas.

Face Guards May Be Causing Injuries: Evy

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — SUI Athletic Director Forest Evashevski called attention Monday to the protruding face guards of football helmets, as possible cause for mounting football injuries and fatalities this season.

Evashevski prefaced his views by telling Chicago's American Quarterback Club that football injuries had sidelined two of his sons for the season.

Frosty, a sophomore Michigan quarterback, was lost early in the campaign with a knee injury that required surgery. Jim suffered a head injury while playing for the Iowa City High School team.

Also, a Tipton, Iowa, high school senior, Gale Chapman, died at University Hospitals here Sunday of injuries suffered Oct. 18 in football practice. It was the state's third football death of the year and raised the nationwide count above 25.

"I think nose guards on helmets today might contribute to the cause of injuries and that possibly too much attention is being given to protection of the nose and teeth," Evashevski said.

"With that protruding bar, it's like putting seat belts in an auto and saying now go ahead and drive as fast as you want.

"The head is not meant to be placed in a meatgrinder. I think players feel that with that bumper in front of their face they stick their heads into heavy traffic.

"I've heard that boys even have been told 'go ahead and stick your face into your opponents chest and we'll polish off the rest.'

"I wonder if equipment now used is making players more reckless. In the old days, players were taught how to position their heads in blocking and tackling to ease the jarring effect and prevent injuries. It might be well today to turn a critical eye on how kids are positioning their heads."

Burns Makes No Excuses As Iowa Prepares for Ohio

By Staff Writer

Iowa Coach Jerry Burns, whose Hawkeyes were drubbed in the mid 9-0 by Purdue Saturday, wasn't making excuses Monday as he looked forward to his Saturday's meeting with Ohio State at Columbus.

But Burns did emphasize that the Hawkeyes never lost hope or stopped fighting despite the muddy conditions so damaging to Iowa's offense.

"The whole club played hard — particularly the defensive line and linebackers. They all stayed right in there until the end.

"When they (Purdue) missed their point-after-touchdown in the first quarter, I thought we'd have an opportunity to score and win the game, but I wasn't much of a prophet — we never did score," Burns reflected.

The closest the Hawks came to breaking the shutout was in the closing minutes when end Cloyd Webb made a fine diving catch of Matt Szykowny's 30-yard desperation pass.

Webb's effort put the Hawkeyes on the Purdue 30-yard line with nearly four minutes remaining, but Szykowny's next aerial was intercepted by Boilermaker quarterback Ron Meyer, and the Hawkeye threat was dead.

Three plays later Purdue fumbled and Bernie Wyatt recovered, but only 1-46 remained and Iowa's last ditch bid failed when Szykowny, unable to find a receiver, was forced to "eat" the ball.

When it became apparent Iowa wasn't going to score, midwest sports announcers covering the game were reaching for record books to see when Iowa was last shut out.

Iowa was last blanked in the final game of 1952 when powerful Notre Dame won 27-0 at South Bend. That was in Forest Evashevski's first year as head coach.

From 1952 through the Evashevski era and the first four games under Burns' direction, the Hawks scored in every game.

"Sorry I messed up your scoring record," Burns said to Evashevski following the game Saturday.

"Forget it," replied Evashevski. "That should have been broken long ago. You just didn't get the breaks."

Burns agreed. Iowa didn't get the breaks and Purdue got five — three Iowa fumbles and two key pass interceptions. But Burns didn't bemoan the point concerning breaks.

"Purdue has a good team," said Burns. "I wouldn't attempt to detract from its victory. On any day on any kind of field we could play Purdue on at least even terms.

Commenting on the muddy field conditions, Burns said that he couldn't remember when an Iowa team played on a worse field.

He compared Saturday's game with the Hawks' 6-0 victory over Northwestern at Evanston, Ill. in 1957. That game, played in a snow storm, was decided when the game-breaking play went in Iowa's favor.

A Randy Duncan pass to Kevin Furlong was intercepted momentarily by a Wildcat defender but the slippery ball squirted from his hands and Furlong grabbed it romping into the end zone.

The field at Northwestern that Saturday three years ago was in about the same condition as Purdue's slippery field at Lafayette Saturday, Burns said.

The lone Iowa defeat will make the first place teams tough to catch, but Burns is determined that the Hawk's first loss hasn't ended Iowa's chances for the championship.

"Listen, we're still very much in this thing," he said Sunday.

"Nobody is going to make it unscathed. We're still in the conference race and we're still in the national picture.

"I've been around too long in this conference to think that one defeat is the end of the season. A lot can still happen. The thing we've got to do now is forget Purdue and get ready for Ohio State."

While the Hawkeyes will be trying for a comeback Saturday, The Buckeyes have a great deal in their favor. It's homecoming at Columbus — that's an incentive for any ball club.

Coach Woody Hayes, admittedly the Big Ten's meanest coach, said earlier this year, "I want Iowa." But Hayes always wants Iowa, and this year he especially craves a victory. Last year Iowa stomped his team 35-12 at Iowa City. That game was also a comeback for the Hawks, because national champion Minnesota had beaten them badly 27-10 the previous week.

Iowa defenders will have the unenviable job Saturday of stopping powerful All-America fullback Bob Ferguson and his hard-running replacement David Katterhenrich.

Ferguson and Katterhenrich did most of the ball toting in racking up 364 yards rushing Saturday for the Buckeyes.

Iowa's cross-country team extends streak to nine Saturday as the Hawkeyes completely overpowered the Air Force Spartans.

Iowa's "Big Four," Capt. Jim Tucker, Gary Fischer, Ralph Trimble, and Larry Kramer, all crossed the finish line at the same time to give the Hawks the first four places.

The Iowa runners stayed together throughout the race and lined up at the finish for the tie with the first Air Force runner several yards behind them.

The Hawks, who usually run a four-mile distance, covered the 3.2 mile course in 16 minutes, 51 seconds. The time was considered good — especially at the altitude of the Academy, 7,200 feet.

Iowa's four top men picked up such a big lead on the Falcon runners that the meet was actually not much of a contest.

Once again, however, it was lack of depth that hurt Iowa. Although strong for the first four places, Paul Krause took over at left halfback for junior letterman Joe Williams. However, there were reports that Williams had a bruised knee and would have to take it easy during the week.

The Hawkeyes went through a light drill in sweatclothes.

Other than Williams, Iowa's only other injury victim from the Purdue scrap was center Dayton Perry. Perry has a bruised thigh, but he and Williams are both expected to play Saturday.

California's Newell Criticizes Long-Range Grid Scheduling

NEW YORK (AP) — Pete Newell, athletic director of the University of California, criticized long-range schedule-making Monday and said colleges soon will be scheduling games for kids who are not yet born.

"We're already scheduled up for three or four years. We're all scheduled anyhow. Then we could take a new look at the situation. The way we're going now we'll be scheduling games for kids who aren't even born yet."

Newell pointed to the 1961 California football schedule that includes Texas, Kansas and Nebraska among others.

But it's a matter of slight concern to the management of this highly respected engineering college, whose graduates have been hired to the last man in years when a high proportion of other new engineers were begging for work.

In short, it's death in the afternoon for Coach Max Kidd, who took the head football job three years ago after coaching four undefeated high school teams in a long career at Brazil and Bicknell, Ind.

"Every Saturday is like the end of the world," he says.

"I have a squad of 20 men, only one weighing 200 pounds. The last two games, 15 of them have been able bodied. We lost our last quarterback a couple of games back and had to shift from the wing T to the single wing.

"There are seven or eight fine football players on the campus who were regulars one or two years and then had to give up football because their grades began to slip. There are good ones who never even have come out for football.

"I could pick a team off the campus, give it three days practice, and lick our varsity as bad as other colleges have been doing," Kidd asserts.

The licks have been 70-0, 58-0, 61-0, 52-6, 48-0 and last Saturday, by Earlham, 80-0. The one touchdown, against Concordia of River Forest, Ill., was a pass from Don McNally to Ed Zaeglein.

The 48-0 defeat was by Elmhurst of Illinois, which had lost 34 straight games and was the only team Rose beat last year.

"It's rough," Kidd says, "but you have to admire these kids. They must like to play football!"

Times Are Tough at Rose Poly

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. — Rose Poly's football team is well along toward its eighth winless season now, happily, in succession.

But it's a matter of slight concern to the management of this highly respected engineering college, whose graduates have been hired to the last man in years when a high proportion of other new engineers were begging for work.

Rose Polytechnic Institute, its full name, provides excellent athletic facilities for anybody who wants to use them. It does no recruiting, has no athletic scholarships and makes no allowance in its scholastic program for sports practice time.

Kodros' Scouting Report Warns of Ohio's Ferguson

One of the most listened to men on Iowa's coaching staff this week will be Archie Kodros who scouted Ohio State and has some sobering reports on Woody Hayes' rampaging Buckeyes.

"Well, it's that big old (Bob) Ferguson again. They still give him the ball most of the time, and he just runs over you. They've got a big, aggressive offensive line, and as long as they can keep you busy and give that full-back the ball and have him meet you running hard while you're standing still, they've got five yards.

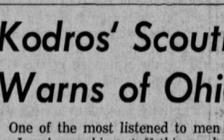

"It's the same old grinding offense. When Ohio State gets possession of the ball, they'll grind it out and you won't see the ball again for five or ten minutes.

"However, there are some differences in this year's Ohio State offense than we've seen in the recent past. Last year, they were almost entirely a fullback smash or a quarterback-keep team on offense.

"This year, it's a bit more wide open. Their quarterbacks won't run as much as (Tom) Matte did, but they have two excellent sophomore halfbacks in Warfield and Snell, and they'll run often, a lot of the time on sweeps with pulling guards.

"In addition, they've got a passing game that you've got to respect, despite the fact that they don't usually throw much. It's there when they need it. They use an offensive team and a defensive team, as they did last year and Woody uses 'em most effectively.

"I'd say this is just the same rugged kind of Ohio State team we've been seeing ever since I've been here. They'll be tough to beat, as always.

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Louisiana State Racing Commission Monday suspended jockeys Owen Headley and Ruben Lambeth "for collusion."

The commission ordered a hearing for Friday. The two jockeys are currently riding at Jefferson Downs, operating at night in suburban Jefferson Parish.

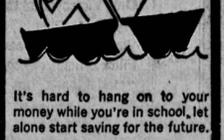

Lambeth, who lives in Pensacola, Fla., was the second-ranking rider in latest standings released by the track.

William Glennon, secretary of the commission, said later: "The actual suspensions stem from alleged violations of the corrupt practices regulation of the racing commission."

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Peter Allis of England won the Brazilian Open Golf Championship Sunday with a score of 272.

Runnerup was Brazilian Mario Gonzalez with 75-84-68-69—276.

Iowa's cross-country team extended its three-year winning streak to nine Saturday as the Hawkeye distance runners completely overpowered the Air Force Academy 22-35 at Colorado Springs.

Finance Snag In Building Of Stadium

HOUSTON (AP) — Construction of an $18-million domed sports stadium in Houston ran into another snag Monday when only one company made a bid on the excavation work.

The bid was for almost twice as much as Harris County commissioners expected and one commissioner said there is not a chance that the bid will be accepted.

A group of contractors — members of the Associated General Contractors of America, Inc. — filed a court suit against the county last week claiming the specifications called for a wage scale $1 an hour higher than necessary.

Thirteen contractors picked up specifications for the dirt work on the all-weather $18-million stadium that will be the home of Houston's National League baseball team.

The only bid — for $87,769 — came from the W. S. Bellows Construction Co. of Houston. Architects for the county said the excavating job could be done for $500,000.

The commissioners had hoped to award a contract Monday so the work could start Tuesday. Instead, the single bid was referred to architects for study.

Construction was supposed to start in April but it has been held up by lawsuits and other difficulties.

Iowa's fifth man was over two minutes behind the leaders and finished 12th in the meet.

The top Air Force runner was Bill Wedemeyer, fifth place. He was followed by John Fer, sixth.

Iowa coach Francis Cretzmeyer was pleased with Iowa's showing, but is still looking for needed depth in a fifth man. With the Big Ten and NCAA meets coming up, Iowa's hopes for high finishes depend almost entirely on the development of a fifth runner who can hold ground within reasonable distance of the leaders.

Most likely prospects at this point are Larry Baker, who was Iowa's fifth runner Saturday, and Bill Frazier, who finished sixth for Iowa. Both are sophomores.

The Air Force victory was Iowa's third straight this season. The Hawks previously smothered Northwestern 15-45 and edged Wisconsin 26-32.

The Hawkeyes have not lost since 1959 when the Chicago Track Club defeated them. The Hawks finished the 1959 season with two wins following the track club meet, then won four straight in 1960.

Looking stronger every week, the Hawkeyes rate as a definite threat to the Big Ten Championship. The Big Ten race will be held Nov. 17 at Washington Park in Chicago.

Iowa has an open date Saturday, but will meet traditional rival Minnesota on Nov. 11 at South Finkbine Golf Course.

Wilkinson Grid Success At Extremes

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — While Coach Bud Wilkinson is suffering through an 0-5 football season with former national power Oklahoma, his son Jay is breaking records for Duke.

The versatile Blue Devil sophomore has smashed two Atlantic Coast Conference punt return records and tied a third, with four games to play.

Young Wilkinson has returned 12 punts 232 yards. The previous record of 239 yards was set eight years ago by Eddie West of North Carolina State on 23 returns.

Against N.C. State last Saturday Jay tied the single game record with six returns for a total of 160 yards, 65 more than the old mark. Included in his day's work was an 82-yarder for a touchdown.

The first time he handled the ball, against Virginia in the team's second game, he caught a punt and dashed 63 yards to a touchdown.

The 180-pounder was a quarterback in high school at Norman, Okla., and for Duke's freshman team last year. But Coach Bill Murray is well-stocked at that position and switched Wilkinson to swing end, Duke's version of the lonesome end, and safety man duties on defense.

Improved Duckhunting, Good Fishing Expected

With a big flight of ducks moving into Iowa from the North, duckhunters should be able to expect better hunting than they had on opening day, the State Conservation Commission announced Monday.

Early last week, commission personnel noted some large flocks of ducks and geese moving into Iowa. The mild weather should hold these flocks in the state for awhile before they continue south.

In general, the hunting success opening day was below normal years. There was some fine hunting in northeast Iowa along the Mississippi. At Sweet Marsh in Bremer County and Big Marsh in Butler County hunting was fair.

Along the Missouri it was spotty, ranging from fair in some areas to good in others. Lake Odessa in Louisiana County on the Mississippi had a poor opening due to bad weather. In general, central and southeast Iowa reported poor hunter success.

Over half the take in northeast Iowa consisted of mallards, but their numbers were small in the central part of the state.

FISHING IS GOOD in many Iowa lakes and streams. State Conservation personnel, while reporting hunter success, have noted that fish are being caught in most sections of the state.

At the dams on both the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, and on the Okobojis, Spirit Lake and other lakes in northern Iowa, walleye catches are numerous and large. Perch fishing is off to a good start at West Okoboji and Spirit Lake. Trout and smallmouth bass are filling limits in the northeast and both small and largemouth bass in north central Iowa.

Bass and crappies are reported in most of the artificial lakes to the south. Red Haw State Park Lake near Chariton is producing crappies up to a pound and a half in size and some good bass. They seem to be hitting best just before sundown and small poppers are the best lures. The old standby, nightcrawlers, is the most used live bait in the south. Red worms and minnows for perch and spinners and minnows for walleyes are best in the north.

Bowling Scores Strike in Britain; Prize for 1st 300

LONDON (AP) — American-style bowling has become a craze in Britain since its introduction a year and a half ago — but it still hasn't produced a perfect 300 score.

Perfect games are very difficult even in America, but they happen now and then. Some great bowlers have scored a dozen or more.

Four big companies operate 14 bowling centers in London. An example of the enthusiasm for the sport can be seen from the fact that in the first half of the year at one bowling center half a million games were rolled.

There have been a few 200 games, but no one yet has succeeded in getting 12 straight strikes, all 10 pins down with one throw.

So difficult does this achievement seem that the bowling centers offer a handsome cash prize, a two-week holiday in United States and publicity of film-star proportions to the person scoring a perfect game on a British alley.

BUCKS WORK LIGHT COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State's football squad had a light practice session Monday, but a rougher one is anticipated Tuesday.

The Buckeyes took to the field for an hour, going over passing and running offense and defense without scrimmaging or contact work.

Kuharich For Renewal Of Irish-Army Series

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Kuharich, Notre Dame football coach, said Monday he favors an annual Army-Irish game at Yankee Stadium.

Speaking to newsmen after a meeting of the Touchdown Club, Kuharich said he is looking forward to a renewal of the series with Army. The two schools are scheduled to meet in 1965 and 1966 and in 1969 and 1970 on a home and home basis, the '65 game is a Notre Dame home game and the '66 game is to be played in Philadelphia.

JOE KUCHARICH Wants Army Game

Col. Emory S. Adams Jr., Army's director of athletics, who was present, said as far as he knows, Army would not object if Notre Dame wanted to shift one of its home games with the cadets to Yankee Stadium.

"I would like to see us play every year in New York," said Kuharich. "The Army-Notre Dame game surpassed all bowl games. I am speaking only for myself, but I think Moose Krause (Notre Dame athletic director) feels the same way."

Col. Adams said he does not know of any plans for reviving the Army-Notre Dame game on an annual basis but indicated the two schools appeared to be moving closer together again.

Grid Cards File TV Suit Against NBC

CHICAGO (AP) — A suit to enjoin the National Broadcasting Co. from televising football games between two pro teams in the St. Louis area while the St. Louis Cardinals football team is playing at home was filed Monday in U.S. District Court.

The suit was filed by the Chicago Cardinals Football Club, which has been doing business as the St. Louis Cardinal Football Club since shifting its National Football League franchise there in 1960.

The suit charges that NBC's televising of two games into the St. Louis area by either the Baltimore Colts or Pittsburgh Steelers had an adverse effect on attendance at St. Louis' home games on the same day.

The suit, which asks for damages to be decided by the court, contends that NBC violated the NFL constitution which provides that games cannot be televised into home territory of another team on the same day the home team is playing, without consent of the home team.

Home territory is defined as any point within 75 miles of the city. The St. Louis Cardinals said they gave no such permission for NBC to televise two games. An injunction is sought to prevent NBC from televising such games beginning Nov. 12, when the Cards play their next home game against the Detroit Lions.

No date was set for hearing.

Peace Corps Exams Here Nov. 28, 29

By BILL GRAHAM
Staff Writer

Another round of Peace Corps entrance examinations will be available for interested persons to take on Nov. 28 and 29, at the Iowa City Post Office, according to Peace Corps Field Representative Frank C. Kiehne, of Redding, Pa.

Kiehne spoke to a group of interested Iowa Citizens Monday afternoon in the Old Senate Chamber.

He will be available today in Dean M. L. Hui's office in University Hall between the hours of 10 and 11 a.m., and again between 2 and 3 p.m., to answer questions that any interested person might have about the Corps.

Two different tests will be given on each of the two days scheduled for the exam, Kiehne said, but the exact time has not been decided upon one test will be for those who are interested in teaching under the Peace Corps program, and the other is for all other fields. Any citizen 18 or over is eligible to take either exam.

Kiehne said that the Peace Corps has now been made a public law by Congress, and is listed as public law number 87293.

The purpose of the Peace Corps, as the law states it, said Kiehne, is "To promote world peace and friendship through the Peace Corps which shall make available to interested countries and areas men and women of the United States qualified for service abroad and willing to serve under conditions of hardship if necessary to help the people of those countries, and to promote better understanding of the American people on the part of people served.

Kiehne said that emphasis was put on volunteer motivation, of youthful citizens, but people of all ages are being accepted if they are qualified.

Most of the Peace Corps members are being sent to emerging or underdeveloped countries of the world, Kiehne said, and the Americans will live at the level of their native counterparts.

Kiehne emphasized that the Corps has a need for people in all fields, and indicated a special need for nurses, doctors, dentists and health specialists as well as teachers.

IMMUNIZATION CAMPAIGN
HONG KONG — This British colony, crowded with refugees from Red China, soon will launch an immunization campaign against smallpox.

Starting a Fund

Nkrumah's Democracy Gets More 'Guidance'

ACCRA, Ghana — President Kwame Nkrumah tightened his grip on Ghana with passage through Parliament Monday of a bill setting up special courts which can mete out the death penalty for political offenses.

Only five votes were cast against the bill — all by members of the opposition United party. Thirty-six votes were in favor.

The new courts are to be made up of three judges appointed personally by the president. There will be no jury and no right of appeal.

Majority decision by the special courts of three judges is sufficient to find a prisoner guilty and the existence of any minority opinion will not be disclosed.

The bill was drawn up at Nkrumah's direction by leftist Interior Minister Kwaku Boateng after a recent wave of discontent and a strike by Takoradi railway men protesting the harsh new budget which cut wages and hiked the cost of living an estimated 40 per cent.

In a preface to the bill, Boateng specified the courts will deal with "offenses against the state such as treason and sedition and offenses against the peace such as rioting, unlawful assembly and other serious breaches of the peace."

Nkrumah is also given power to send anyone before the special courts for unspecified offenses he himself might in future prescribe.

Linked with the existing preventive detention law, which can send a man to jail for five years without trial, the new measure is seen by political observers here as a powerful weapon with which Nkrumah could intimidate opponents.

But one of Nkrumah's most powerful foes, Komla Gbedemah, former finance minister dismissed in a recent Cabinet reshuffle, has already slipped out of the country, according to diplomatic informants. The threat of arrest hung over Gbedemah's head and it is likely he might have been one of the special court's first defendants.

TRUTH

LONDON — William Cormack, chairman of the British Society of Members of the Advertising Association, has suggested that advertising executives take an oath that "I will always tell the truth in advertising, though lies may be asked of me."

'Pot Luck' Is Art Lecture On Pottery

"Pot Luck" is the title of a public lecture on pottery to be given in room 18 of the SUI Art Building at 8 p.m. Friday by Prof. Daniel Rhodes.

Now an associate professor of design at Alfred University, Alfred, N.Y., Rhodes is a native of Iowa. He studied at the University of Chicago, the Chicago Art Institute, the Art Students League in New York City, and Alfred University.

Rhodes has taught at the University of Southern California, the California School of Fine Arts and Black Mountain College. He has made many lectures and seminar appearances in Canada and the U.S.

The speaker is the author of two books, "Stoneware and Porcelain" and "Clay and Glazes for the Potter," as well as numerous articles. He is also the advisory editor of Craft Horizons.

Rhodes has held one-man shows at Syracuse Museum, the California Palace of the Legion of Honor, and the University of Southern California. His pottery and sculpture have been shown in exhibitions in the Museum of Modern Art, Whitney Museum, the World's Fair in Brussels, the Syracuse International Exhibit, and international ceramic exhibits at Cannes, France, and Ostend, Belgium.

November Bills Mailed To All Students Today

Bills will be mailed today to SUI students for the second installment payment on their student accounts for the fall semester.

The November statement cover the second installment on student fees and dormitory room and board for the first semester plus any other charges incurred during October, such as telephone bills, library fines and dental-clinic charges.

Due Wednesday, the bills must be paid no later than Nov. 13. A late-payment penalty of $5 will be assessed for payments made between Nov. 13 and Nov. 20, with student registration being cancelled on the latter date if payment has not yet been received.

Students whose registration has been cancelled for failure to pay the installment due will be required to pay a fee of $10 for reinstatement.

Mailed payments must be post-marked no later than Nov. 13 in order to avoid the late-payment penalty. Don Ross, head cashier, pointed out that a "Student Account Deposit Box" is provided in the Cashier's Office for students who do not want to mail in their payments but still wish to avoid waiting in long lines. The box, located on the wall opposite the cashier's windows, will remain open until Nov. 13 at 5 p.m.

Subsequent installments will be due on the first days of December and January. The regulations on late payment and reinstatement fees will also apply for these later billings.

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAY

DES MOINES — A two-day Thanksgiving holiday for state employees was voted Monday by the Iowa Executive Council.

Offices will be closed Friday, Nov. 24 as well as Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 23. They also will be closed Saturday, Nov. 25, as usual.

State Officials Plan Use of Capitol Tunnel

DES MOINES — State officials reportedly are making plans for using a 3,000-foot-long tunnel underneath Iowa Capitol grounds as a civil defense shelter.

Signs to designate entrances to the tunnel are to be prepared soon. The tunnel is 10 feet high and 8 feet wide.

HUSBANDS, ANYONE?

It has been alleged that coeds go to college for the sole purpose of finding husbands. This is, of course, an infamous canard, and I give fair warning that, small and spongy as I am, anybody who says such a dastardly thing when I am around had better be prepared for a sound thrashing!

Girls go to college for precisely the same reasons as men do: to broaden their horizons, to lengthen their vistas, to drink at the fount of wisdom. But, if, by pure chance, while a girl is engaged in these meritorious pursuits, a likely looking husband should pop into view, why, what's wrong with that? Eh? What's wrong with that?

The question now arises, what should a girl look for in a husband. A great deal has been written on this subject. Some say character is most important, some say background, some say appearance, some say education. All are wrong.

The most important thing—bar none—in a husband is health. Though he be handsome as Apollo and rich as Midas, what good is he if he just lays around all day accumulating bedsores?

The very first thing to do upon meeting a man is to make sure he is sound of wind and limb. Before he has a chance to sweet-talk you, slap a thermometer in his mouth, roll back his eyelids, yank out his tongue, rap his patella, palpate his thorax, ask him to straighten out a horseshoe with his teeth. If he fails these simple tests, phone for an ambulance and go on to the next prospect.

If, however, he turns out to be physically fit, proceed to the second most important requirement in a husband. I refer to a sense of humor.

A man who can't take a joke is a man to be avoided. There are several simple tests to find out whether your prospect can take a joke or not. You can, for example, slash his tires. Or burn his "Mad" comics. Or steal his switchblade. Or turn loose his pet raccoon. Or shave his head.

After each of these good-natured pranks, laugh gaily and shout "April Fool!" If he replies, "But this is February nineteenth," or something equally churlish, cross him off your list and give thanks you found out in time.

But if he laughs silverly and calls you "Little Mixx!" put him to the next test. Find out whether he is kindly.

What should a girl look for in a husband?

The quickest way to ascertain his kindness is, of course, to look at the cigarette he smokes. Is it mild? Is it clement? Is it humane? Does it minister tenderly to the psyche? Does it coddle the synapses? Is it a good companion? Is it genial? Is it bright and friendly and filtered and full of dulcet pleasure from cockerow till the heart of darkness?

Is it, in short, Marlboro?

If Marlboro it be, then clasp the man to your bosom with hoops of steel, for you may be sure that he is kindly as a summer breeze, kindly as a mother's kiss, kindly to his very marrow.

And now, having found a man who is kindly and healthy and blessed with a sense of humor, the only thing that remains is to make sure he will always earn a handsome living. That, fortunately, is easy. Just enroll him in engineering.

Individual citizens must work vigorously to strengthen the United Nations, Leslie G. Moeller, director of the SUI School of Journalism, declared Sunday in an address at Muscatine in observance of United Nations Week.

This personal commitment is essential because the United Nations is the great hope for the world government which is the eventual route to peace, he said.

We are gradually realizing the fact that the world is now a universal human society, but making only slow progress toward the kinds of organizations which will keep such a society alive in a world in which almost unlimited

Moeller Lauds Role of U.N.

Individual citizens must work vigorously to strengthen the United Nations, Leslie G. Moeller, director of the SUI School of Journalism, declared Sunday in an address at Muscatine in observance of United Nations Week.

force is a minute-by-minute threat, Moeller declared. The abilities of the United Nations have been tested in the Congo, in Korea, in Israel, and in Indonesia, and the procedures for reducing conflict have been found workable under very difficult conditions.

At the same time, "we must not overload the United Nations," he said. It can be crushed under the burden of problems which ought really to be worked out by member states.

White House

hurled high into the stratosphere and does not reach the earth until some month later.

As did an earlier protest by the Netherlands, the White House statement said Monday's Soviet blast "was a political rather than a military act."

"It does not affect the basic balance of nuclear power. There is no mystery about producing a 50-megaton bomb," no technical need to test such a weapon and it "does not add in effectiveness against military targets to nuclear weapons now available, both to the Soviet Union and the United States."

This was only the second time in the current Soviet series of tests — 25 in the atmosphere and 1 underwater by U.S. announcement — that the White House has given out the first official U.S. word. The first time was when the Soviets began the tests Sept. 1. The AEC has announced the others. Khrushchev has said the 50-megaton shot would be the last in the series.

The White House statement noted this country's continuing willingness to sign a test-ban treaty as proposed at Geneva and to negotiate a treaty for general and complete disarmament.

But apparently holding the door open for the United States to resort to nuclear tests in the atmosphere if it feels these are essential, the statement said:

"In the meantime, we will continue to take whatever measures are necessary to preserve the security of our country and of others who count on us."

Khrushchev had said the 50-megaton shot would be a test of the trigger for a 100-megaton bomb, which he said was in the Soviet arsenal but would not be exploded lest it "break our windows."

The United States said it had considered testing a bomb in the 50-megaton class years ago and rejected the idea, concluding "that such weapons would not provide an essential military capability."

"The existing United States nuclear arsenal is superior in quantity and quality to that of any nation," the White House said.

The United States today has ample military power to destroy any nation which would unleash thermonuclear war."

However, the White House added: "We have no wish ever to use this military power."

A brief AEC statement following up the White House announcement of Monday's Soviet test cut down on the size of last week's big Russian explosion saying "the probable yield is now estimated to have been about 25 megatons."

The original announcement placed it in the 30-50 megaton class.

The White House statement, in expanding on the theme that Monday's test was political rather than military, said:

"In undertaking this test, the Soviet Union has deliberately overriden the expressed hope of the world as stated in the resolution adopted by the General Assembly of the United Nations on Oct. 28.

"It has done so because it intends through this display to spread fear across the world that peace-loving men will accept any Soviet demand."

HELPS ESCAPE

BERLIN (AP) — Waldemar Verner, top political officer of the East German armed forces, helped an East German escape to West Berlin Monday — unintentionally.

An East German movie cameraman was assigned to cover Verner's visit to the Friedrichstrasse checkpoint, where U.S. and Soviet tanks faced each other last week.

The cameraman set up his camera 30 feet from the border. When Verner arrived, distracting the attention of East German police, the cameraman sprinted into West Berlin. His name was withheld.

Blast Brings Down Fallout Of World's Anger on Russia

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Anger and alarm over possible health hazards swept the non-Communist world Monday night in the wake of the nuclear superbomb blast set off by Russia in the arctic.

Many Western and neutralist leaders expressed shock over what they called Soviet Premier Khrushchev's cynical answer to a worldwide appeal not to set off the mammoth bomb.

In Washington the White House described the greatest man-made blast — which was in the 50-megaton range — as "primarily an incitement to fright and panic in the cold war." The White House statement added that the test does not affect the balance of nuclear power between Russia and the West.

India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru expressed grave concern in New Delhi and said, "Obviously some kind of formal agreement or treaty is necessary to stop nuclear tests."

Premier Tage Erlander of Sweden bitterly observed in Stockholm: "This looks like Premier Khrushchev's reply to my appeal to him to stop the tests."

West Germany's outgoing Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano called the blast "a conscienceless play with the health of millions of people."

The Netherlands Government declared: "The Soviet Union carries full responsibility for poisoning the atmosphere which results from these useless explosions." The Dutch announced the immediate launching of a program to measure radioactive fallout in green vegetables and milk.

Khrushchev, who announced two weeks ago that the big bomb probably would end current Soviet series, came out with a new defense for the tests that was made public in London. Replying to protests from Labor party members of Parliament, he wrote: "We cannot ignore the attempts at intimidation by the NATO powers."

A crowd of ban-the-bomb demonstrators gathered near the Soviet Embassy in London but were blocked by police from parading outside the embassy itself.

News of the latest explosion touched off an angry U.S.-Soviet exchange in the United Nations in New York, where 87 members had urged the Soviet Union in a resolution last week to call off the test.

Among those voicing grave concern was Premier Viggo Kampmann of Denmark, one of the sponsors of the U.N. resolution.

The British atomic energy authority said the extent and timing of fallout would depend on the altitude at which the big bomb was exploded.

If exploded in the stratosphere the fallout might not reach the earth until spring, a spokesman said. "The fallout would be greater if the fireball actually touched the earth because then dirt would be sucked up, giving the fallout heavier material to cling to," he said.

Moscow was silent on the superbomb report. There was no reaction reported from anywhere behind the Iron Curtain.

The first reaction among African nations came from President Hubert Maga of Dahomey. He said in Paris: "The arms race is a race to disaster."

Vatican radio declared the superbomb test "once again and more dramatically confirms the true face of communism — a face without love and with only the tension of hate."

Khrushchev

By PRESTON

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev's most powerful Communist party in the delegates Tuesday in asserting Communist political force of our time.

The assertion of the Communist strategy adopted by the 22nd congress of the Khrushchev had been re-elected first.

The conference endorsed a tight Khrushchev and a 20-year plan designed world's leading economic power. Khrushchev had marked an important step in establishing Soviet Union.

"The present generation of Soviet Communism," declared the resolution, "is an economic plan. Communism has become a force of our time. It is not imperialism that determines today's development."

Wild applause marked the end of a long unchallenged leader of world communism as a murderer, his followers further dented leadership assailed, and the Red Army's final resolution also called for former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, A. Malenkov and former First Deputy Premier three members of the antiparty group almost daily since the congress opened.

Defense Rests Case

Witness: Near Daly

DES MOINES (AP) — A placed Ronald M. Stump near the death of Daly was shot to death.

But under cross-examination McManus, Mrs. Edwin Mitchell behind the wheel of a parked car she could not positively identify him.

Stump, 22, SUI graduate from Keokuk, is on trial in District Court for first-degree murder in the death of Daly. Stump declared his innocence Monday. The defense rested its case Tuesday.

Daly, 22, was shot three times as he alighted from his car with his fiancée, Leanna Jean Skultety, 21, of Des Moines. Miss Skultety, formerly engaged to Stump, has testified that she saw Stump shoot Daly.

Mrs. Mitchell, who formerly resided in Des Moines while her husband attended the Drake University law school, was one of seven prosecution rebuttal witnesses who testified Tuesday.

Several more witnesses were slated to testify today, and the case was expected to go to the jury either late today or Thursday.

Mrs. Mitchell said she had returned from a public library between 6:30 and 7 p.m. and parked her car behind a black Chevrolet sedan resembling one owned by Stump. She said the car was parked near the Daly home. The person behind the wheel resembled Stump, she said.

"But I'm not positive it was Stump," she said under questioning by McManus. "The driver was blond and was crew cut."

Stump contends he drank beer in a Des Moines tavern, then left for Ottumwa via Knoxville about 7:30 p.m. He said he arrived in Ottumwa shortly after 10 p.m. to visit his cousin, Donald Murphy. Daly was shot about 8:30 p.m.

Under questioning by Asst. County Attorney Lee Gaudineer, Stump denied he ever told Miss Skultety that if she did not marry him, she would marry no one. He also denied ever making threats concerning the people she went out with.
