Nice Day—For Hawks
 Today will be a nice one for the Hawkeys — probably not for the Gophers. Partly cloudy, with highs of 55 to 65. Sunday's outlook: Mostly fair and mild.

SUI Dad of Year

SUI Dad Presented at Rally As Dad's Weekend Begins

The SUI Dad of the Year, Dr. Raymond R. Rembolt, director of the SUI Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children, was introduced to an estimated crowd of 1,000 at the pep rally Friday night. He was nominated by two of his children — David, a senior in business, and Diana, a sophomore in liberal arts.

Dr. Rembolt, who is also executive director of State Services for Crippled Children and a professor of pediatrics, was selected by Omicron Delta Kappa (ODK), men's national leadership fraternity.

In their letter of nomination, David and Diana wrote: "We feel that he is just the man to represent SUI because of his interest in the students as well as in the school.

Pilot of Death Plane Says 'Impact Nothing'

RICHMOND, Va. — The impact of Wednesday night's Imperial Airlines Constellation crash which killed 77 persons "didn't seem like hardly anything," the surviving pilot said Friday.

Ronald H. Conway, 29, skipper of the plane, told newsmen his crippled craft was limping in for an emergency landing at Richmond's Byrd Field with two of its four engines out, another losing power fast, and a balky nosewheel.

Greenlee had been flying the ship and Conway grabbed his controls also. The two of them fought to keep the sinking airliner in flight to make the runway at Byrd Field, but it pancaked into a marshy woodland two miles short of the airfield.

In the fiery crash — survived only by Conway and his flight engineer — most of the victims survived the impact to die in the smoke and flames, a state medical examiner said.

Blood tests run on 40 of 45 of the victims' bodies indicate they died of suffocation, said Dr. H. Karnitschnig, acting Virginia chief medical examiner. About 65 autopsies have been completed, he said.

Conway said the jolt of the crash threw his head forward, striking the control wheel.

After drawing back, Conway said, "the first thing I thought of was the impact didn't seem like hardly anything. But then immediately I realized the airplane was on fire. The airplane caught fire immediately, because it looked bright as daylight outside. Everyone in the cockpit was on their feet right away."

Conway said he squeezed out of a small side window by his pilot's seat. "I figured if anybody could get through that small window, it would be me because I was slender," he said.

Disgraced Molotov Returns To Face Kremlin Decision

VIENNA, Austria — The disgraced Soviet former premier and foreign minister, V. M. Molotov, left Vienna Friday night by train for Moscow to face whatever fate the Kremlin may have in store for him.

He was denounced at the recent Communist party congress in Moscow in a preliminary to loss of party membership.

The old Bolshevik had served here as Moscow's chief delegate to the International Atomic Energy Agency, an atom-for-peace project. He served his first exile term in the Khrushchev era as ambassador to Mongolia at Ulan Bator.

Premier Khrushchev told reporters in Moscow Tuesday that Molotov's fate "is of no practical importance. We haven't decided yet," the premier added.

Hatfield To Head Iowan Magazine

Larry Hatfield, A3, Bedford, was named first semester editor of The Daily Iowan magazine supplement at a meeting of the Board of Student Publications, Inc., Friday afternoon.

Hatfield, a radio and TV major, is Assistant Managing Editor of The Daily Iowan and writes the Friday "File 13" column.

Staff appointments will be made in the near future, the new editor said. The first issue of the magazine will be published before Christmas.

4 Killed in Crash In Clinton County

GOOSELAKE — Four persons were killed and another critically injured Friday night when the car in which they were riding slammed broadside into a semi-trailer truck on Highway 136 about two miles northwest of this Clinton County town.

The dead were identified as: John Kay, 40, of Clinton; Kay's wife, Mary Lou, also 40; Alex Mankowski Sr., 75, of Clinton; and a young boy tentatively identified as Donald Kay, 14, the Kays' son.

Taken to a Clinton hospital in critical condition was Ronald Kay 14, believed to be the twin brother of Donald.

A young girl, believed to be a daughter of the Kays, stumbled from the wreckage to a nearby farmhouse. She apparently was not injured seriously.

Dad's Day Schedule

11 a. m. — Dads Association Luncheon, Field House.
 1:30 p. m. — Football, Iowa vs. Minnesota.
 7 p. m. — Fred Waring Concert, Field House.
 8 p. m. — Dad's Day Dance, Main Lounge, Union.

were guests at a dinner in Iowa Memorial Union Friday evening. Dr. Rembolt, along with the fathers of SUI football players will be honored at the SUI Dad's Day Association luncheon at 11 a. m. today in the North Gym of the Fieldhouse.

The luncheon will feature a speech by SUI president Virgil M. Hancher and a program by the Old Gold Singers.

Dr. Rembolt and the dads of the football players will be presented to the fans and regional television cameras during activities before the Iowa-Minnesota game today.

A concert, "Let Freedom Ring," by Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians sponsored by the Central Party Committee and ODK will be presented in the Field house at 7 p. m.

During intermission at the concert ODK will present a plaque to Dr. Rembolt.

The Waring production will include familiar American songs as well as words written by spokesmen of their times — Whittier, Emerson, Longfellow, Whitman and others.

A small pep band played at the pep rally Friday night. Chuck Dick, A2, Hampton, emceed the rally. Representing the team, Fullback Dick Turic, A3, Pittsburgh, Pa., amused the crowd with his impromptu comments.

The fans began and ended the rally with the chant "We want Floyd," referring to Floyd of Rosedale, the bronze pig awarded to the winner of the Iowa-Minnesota game.

Hawks Seek Revenge Against Gophers Today

Kennedy Wary of Proposal —

New Soviet Berlin Plans Puzzle West

WASHINGTON — The Kennedy Administration warily scrutinized Friday what Moscow dispatches described as new Soviet proposals on Berlin and Germany.

The news dispatches were the only basis for examination by State Department specialists. It was understood that U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson in Moscow had not been approached on any Soviet proposals — new or otherwise.

News reports listed four points as the heart of the Kremlin's thinking on how to end the present stalemate on Berlin. They were:

1. A four-power agreement on a "new status" for West Berlin, guaranteeing the freedom of its inhabitants and free communication between West Berlin and West Germany.
2. An East German pledge to the Soviet Union to respect West Berlin's new status.
3. Western — including West German — recognition of East German sovereignty.
4. A peace treaty either with both Germanies, or one between the Soviet Union and East Germany, to be concluded only after an East-West agreement on the previous three points.

These proposals were dramatically leaked to correspondents Friday morning.

U.S. officials are anxious to find out what prompted Moscow reporters to describe the proposals as representing a retreat, a significant departure from previous Soviet thinking, or a concession.

All these points, perhaps in a less organized way, were brought up in the talks Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko had with Secretary of State Dean Rusk in New York earlier this fall and at a White House meeting with President Kennedy.

Some authoritative sources in Washington suspected the development was a trial balloon, a planted story. Others spoke about possible efforts to obscure the real problem: what to negotiate about.

The "new" Soviet proposals, these sources said, left unanswered the question of how "free" Moscow thinks West Berlin should be, and especially what the guarantees

Expect 60,000 Here For Dad's Day Game

By JERRY ELSEA
 Sports Editor

Iowa's football team meets red-hot Minnesota today in a clash which could provide all the thrills of a "Hair-Breadth Harry" melodrama.

The Hawks, rudely dumped from the Big Ten title picture by Purdue and Ohio State, are out with a vengeance unmatched by any Minnesota opponent so far this year.

Last year the national champion Gophers walloped the previously unbeaten Hawks 27-10 at Minneapolis before a partisan fever-pitched crowd.

Today the tables are turned with the 13th ranked Hawks cast in the underdog role and the fifth-rated Gophers riding the crest of a five-game winning streak.

A Dad's Day sellout crowd of 60,000 is expected to jam Iowa Stadium for the 1:30 p. m. kickoff. The game will be regionally televised. An estimated 7,000 Minnesotans will be there giving thrifty support to their beloved Gophers.

Intangible factors weighing on the outcome of today's game are numerous. The home field, revenge motive and crowd enthusiasm are several advantages supposedly supporting the Hawkeys.

Another factor is custody of the bronze pig "Floyd of Rosedale." The prized porker spent the past year at Minnesota after a five-year tenure at Iowa.

Hawkeye Coach Jerry Burns has taken his team behind closed doors in a victory scheme to defend against the slants of All-America candidate, quarterback Sandy Stephens.

Stephens is a triple threat man, particularly dangerous on rollout option plays. The 6-foot, 210-pound senior is a precision passer when the chips are down and booms a long punt when the Gophers need one.

Rounding out the big Gopher backfield are fullback bruiser Judge Dickson and halfbacks Dave Mulholland and Bill Munsely.

Minnesota's ground begrudging line lost All-America guard Tom Brown and gigantic tackle Frank Brixius, but Coach Murry Warmath still boasts one of the Big Ten's best forward walls.

Ends Tom Hall and Bob Deegan are standouts of offense and defense, posing the same kind of threat which throttled Iowa's end sweeps at Ohio State last week.

Guards Robin Teller and John Mulvena, tackles Jim Wheeler and Bob Bell, and center Dick Enga round out the starting line.

Iowa's nationally ranked offense will be headed by the Big Ten's leading passer, quarterback Matt Szykowsky, and his favorite target, rugged end Cloyd Webb.

Szykowsky has completed 46 of 78 tosses in conference play and sophomore Webb has caught 18 passes good for 278 yards and two touchdowns.

Senior Bill Whisler will alternate with Webb at right end while Felton Rogers handles the left end chores. Sophomore Gus Kasapis and standout senior Al Hinton will be at tackle, and Earl McQuiston and All-America prospect Sherwyn Thorson are slated for duty at guard.

Bill Van Buren, candidate for conference and national honors, will start at center with able replacement by burly junior Dayton Parry.

Burns hasn't revealed his starting backfield but indicated that Szykowsky and fullback Bill Perkins will likely get the call.

Sophomore left halfback Paul Krause is another likely starter. Against Ohio State, Krause made several fine runs and did a stand-out job on pass defense.

Either veteran speed merchant Sammie Harris or sophomore Lonnie Rogers will start at right halfback. Rogers, injured in pre-season drills, has been used sparingly.

The Gophers haven't won in Iowa since 1948 and were blanked 33-0 in their last appearance here in 1959.

Nehru Asks One Year Set Aside for Progress

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Prime Minister Nehru of India proposed Friday that the United Nations declare a moratorium on the cold war and set aside a year for cooperation in all fields—"political, cultural or whatever."

Nehru made the suggestion in a wide-ranging speech to the U.N. General Assembly. He came to New York after talks with President Kennedy in Washington on critical international issues. He called upon world statesmen to devote their full strength to trying to avoid the terror of nuclear disaster instead of thinking about "burrowing under the earth and living like rats in a hole."

On the specific issue of banning nuclear weapons tests, he said a treaty providing effective controls is necessary — an issue upon which he and Kennedy had previously announced agreement.

He noted that the assembly had approved a voluntary moratorium, but added "no one imagines that a voluntary moratorium is going to solve this question."

He said his reaction to nuclear tests was strong — "I think that they are basically evil."

General reaction to the 37-minute speech was favorable, but some delegates said they had hoped for more concrete proposals. Adlai E. Stevenson, the chief U.S. delegate who listened closely as Nehru spoke, commented that the idea for a cooperative year was a good one, but not new. He said the United States has been cooperating with other nations for years.

Nehru asserted that little was being said in the world about cooperation "but much is said about conflict."

Nehru declared the future of the United Nations is closely associated with the outcome of its operation in the Congo. "The Congo has become a symbol, a touchstone of success," he said.

He expressed confidence that the crisis over Berlin and Germany can be settled "without bringing discredit or dishonor to any nation."

Hancher One Of Best Paid State Officials

SUI's President Virgil M. Hancher and President James Hilton, Iowa State University, Ames, are Iowa's highest paid officials. Both receive $26,000 per year.

For several years State Mental Health Director J. O. Cromwell, was the state's top earner with a salary of $25,000. His salary is still this figure.

More than 600 of the state's 21,000 employees are drawing salaries of $10,000 or more annually. The figures are taken from the new state salary book.

Twenty-six state employees receive more than Gov. Norman Erbe. Erbe is paid $16,000 annually and $4,000 extra for expenses connected with the office.

Most of the employees drawing $10,000 or more are from SUI and ISU. A large percentage of those receiving $18,000 and up are with the state mental health institutions.

Many employees, considered to be state employees, draw their salaries from other sources. SUI Director of Athletics Forest Evashevski's $20,000 salary comes from athletic funds.

SUI personnel receiving some of the top salaries include Hancher, Paul Huston, director of the Psychopathic Hospital, $22,000; Harvey Davis, Provost, $21,583; Charles Shagass, professor at Psychopathic Hospital, $20,900; and Evashevski.

'Beat Minnesota!'

A "Beat Minnesota Week" campaign spurred on by local merchants, the Iowa City Quarterback Club and the SUI Pep Club brought out one of the largest Pep Rally crowds of the 1961 football season Friday night. "What do we eat?" asked the cheerleaders. "Gopher meat!" cried the crowd.

Card Section Suspended Indefinitely

Card-Tossing Meant
At Minnesota Game
Prompts Disbandment

By JOAN ANDERSON
Staff Writer

The SUI card section was suspended indefinitely in action by the Pep Club Council at a special meeting Monday night.

In a statement issued by Club president Larry Prybil, Iowa City, the group's executive committee said:

"In view of the actions of members of the Card Section during the half time of the Minnesota-Iowa game, the Hawk Pep Club Council suspends activities of the Card section indefinitely. This suspension is effective immediately.

"Until such time that the Club Council can insure the maximum degree of control, this suspension will be in effect."

The most immediate consequence of this action will be that holders of card section badges will no longer be given priority for the card seats at the Notre Dame game.

At the game Saturday afternoon of the half-time many card section members threw their cards into the air. There are members in the card section who each member has about 10 cards. Card section leaders were unable to retrieve a large number of the cards.

Mike Gilles, A4, Mason City, section announcer, said a number of circumstances led to the throwing incident. He said the section did two tricks before the performance and was planning to do two more after the band finished.

The band received a longer time than was expected and cut the time allotted to the card section. Consequently, Gilles said, the group was beginning a trick when the team came on the field. Members rose to salute the team, waving their cards and this, Gilles believes, was when the throwing began.

Prybil said the incident was "understandable and unfortunate" but he felt "the card section can make a worthwhile contribution to the spirit of school."

Saturday's performance was the last one for the year, Prybil said. However, he said, action on the structure of the card section will be taken soon.

The card section was placed on probation two years ago by the student Council because of drinking, apple, snow ball and card throwing. After last year the group was stated in good standing due to respectable conduct.

Student body president John Meyer, L1, Elkader, said he hopes some action by the Senate might be necessary.

"For the past several years," he said, "the Pep Club card section has repeatedly proclaimed its intentions to follow the directions of the Pep Club council. It has repeatedly abandoned its good intentions to indulge in drinking and card-throwing frolics."

"The colorful fiasco of last Saturday, coming on the heels of the year's probation, is a breach of Pep Club rules that is not going to be dismissed by a mere declaration of repentance and further good intentions."

Niemeyer added that he expects the matter to come up at the Senate meeting.

Card section rules specifically prohibit the throwing of cards. Gilles and Prybil both said they feel the Card section did a good job this year until the last game when they believe the group can re-establish itself.

MILITARY STRENGTH UP
PARIS (AP) — Western forces will be 25 per cent stronger than in 1960 in Central Europe by the end of this year, Gen. L. Norstad, supreme Allied commander, declared Monday.

Police Arrest 3

Two Minnesotans and an Iowa City youth were charged by police early Sunday morning in two town incidents.

Two charges of disorderly conduct and a charge of consumption of beer on a public street were against Sheldon Litman, 21, of Louis Park, Minn. Dale Swartz, 24, of Minneapolis was charged with disobeying a police officer.

CITY STORES OPEN

Iowa City's stores will be open on Wednesdays and Fridays in December for Christmas. Stores will be open as usual on Monday nights.

The business district Christmas decorations will be lighted Nov. 12.
