American Education Challenged

New College Programs Necessary To Meet Foreign Student Needs

By MOHAMMAD IDREES
Written for The Daily Iowan

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mohammad Idrees, from Pakistan, is attending SU on a Fulbright Scholarship, and is working on his M.A. degree in Mass Communications. The following article is written as his impression and answer to a report concerning the premise that the mode of selecting foreign students from other countries for education in the United States is faulty.

The Associated Press story concerning foreign students (Tuesday, Nov. 14, Daily Iowan) seemingly brings into sharp focus the greatest challenge to be met by American educators in stemming a possible feeling of anti-Americanism among thousands of foreign students now getting education in the United States.

The report drawn up by the 11-man study group headed by Dean John McConnell of Cornell University after five months of preparation is based on the premise that the mode of selecting students from other countries for education in the United States is inherently faulty.

The report clamps the principle portion of the blame on the foreign student for his relative inability to come to grips with the American system of education which every so often is a novel experience for him.

The study group findings include a pointed reference to a quotation from William Lederer's best seller, "A Nation of Sheep," which underlines the American failure to pick the "right" students from other countries. Who this so-called right student is, seems largely a matter of conjecture.

Enrolled in American colleges and universities at present are some 50,000 foreign students. Of these, at least three-fourths hail from the developing nations of Latin America, Asia and Africa. The foreign student community constitutes about 1.5 per cent of America's 3,300,000 students in higher education.

This otherwise negligible percentage of 1.5 poses a vast potential problem for America's best educational minds, for it is being increasingly realized that the attitudes and ideas these foreign students will take home with them will in the long run be vital to the interests of the United States and the world at large.

The danger being sensed by U.S. educationists today lies in the possibility of a great many foreign students turning anti-American rather than pro-American after their exposure to the United States. It is, therefore, quite natural for the U.S. educational machinery to think seriously in terms of checking this growing anti-American feeling among students from other lands, if only not to lose its lead over Russia in the so-called race for the minds of men.

More than ever before, it has to be realized that the establishment of an effective educational relationship with the emerging nations is a two-way process. In this context, the Peace Corps march toward developing countries seems to be a step in the right direction.

Instead of needlessly worrying about the "right" foreign student who may never really be found, it would be much more worthwhile for sponsoring agencies to concentrate on evolving new academic programs suited to the special needs of foreign students. Efforts should be made to provide on-the-job training to these students to bring about a proper assimilation of theoretical knowledge.

Talk about not picking the right students from foreign countries is unlikely to be fruitful. Any change in the methods of selection may not lead to materially different results. With the present stock of students in hand, U.S. educationists should have the assurance that they can make the best of a bad job!

The Iowa-Michigan football game gets underway today at 12:30 p.m., Iowa time, and the big question is: "Will Herky and Hawkeye fans be smiling again afterwards?" For game details, see Page 4.

150 Attend Prof Engle's Poem Recital

By FRAN SMITH
Staff Writer

Dr. Paul Engle, nationally distinguished poet and novelist and head of the Writer's Workshop here, gave a recital of his poetry Friday afternoon in the Union. Dr. Engle delighted the 150 people who packed the Sun Porch of the IMU to hear his readings.

He started his recital with a series of humorous poems entitled "Poems About Art." These were about reactions to paintings by such artists as Van Gogh, Picasso, and Toulouse-Lautrec.

His second series of poems were recollections of time spent at Oxford with an English poet, Edmund Blunden.

"Gulls and the Metropolitan Museum of Art" was a dialogue between the live gulls outside the museum and the painted gulls inside.

Dr. Engle then read a group of the poems from his book, "Poems in Praise." They included "Cuban Voyage," reminiscences about a trip to Cuba with the poet Robert Frost, and "Sonnets on Collette," the French novelist whom he knew in Paris.

Dr. Engle concluded his recital by reading for the first time a series of new unpublished poems entitled "The Things of Christmas Speak". In this group of poems, a herdsman, a Roman soldier, the innkeeper, Augustus Caesar and Joseph tell their versions of the birth of Christ.

This was the second in a series of poetry reading sessions that take place every other Friday between 4:15 and 5 p.m. on the Sun Porch of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Last Rites for Speaker Sam

Rayburn's Funeral Today; Kennedy, Johnson To Attend

BONHAM, Texas (AP) — The body of Sam Rayburn lay in state Friday in a magnificent marble library, and the friends and neighbors who idolized him most filed past solemnly in a parting, mournful tribute.

There were tight-lipped men, women dabbing at their eyes, youngsters out of school — all honoring the man who served as speaker of the House for the longest span in history.

These were the people from Rayburn's home town and the rich black countryside in the congressional district he served for 48 years.

Today President Kennedy will lead a pilgrimage of many of the nation's notables to the funeral at 1:30 p.m. for the speaker who died of cancer Thursday. He was 79 years old.

Friday was the day for the humble folk and the people of Bonham and their neighbors. Rayburn's body was taken from the funeral home in the morning to lie in state for 24 hours in the simple, Georgian-style Sam Rayburn Library which now will be a Rayburn memorial. Friends and associates, who will be the pallbearers, served as an escort.

In the first hour nearly 700 persons walked past, turned down a hall and left by a side door. Most of them paused a moment to sign a register.

President Kennedy is breaking into the schedule of a trip to the West to be present for the funeral in the First Baptist church, a few blocks from the center of the town.

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, long a friend and protégé of Rayburn, will fly in from Phoenix, Ariz., where he went to attend a testimonial dinner with the President for Sen. Carl Hayden (D-Ariz.).

Former President Harry S. Truman is flying down from Missouri. Nearly a fourth of the members of the House over which Rayburn presided for nearly 17 years will be flying to Bonham. Among them will be Rep. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, whom Rayburn tapped for temporary speaker when he handed over his gavel and came home to Bonham a month before Congress adjourned.

Minuteman Missile Springs To Gleeeful Cape Success

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A Minuteman missile sprang from a pit Friday and streaked 3,000 miles in a major success which gave the United States a big boost toward pushbutton war capability.

This was the first successful firing of the missile from the steel and concrete hole — similar to those which will enable operational Minutemen to survive a nuclear attack and strike a retaliatory blow.

Brig. Gen. Sam Phillips, Air Force Minuteman program director, described the shot as "totally successful. It completely verifies our confidence in the Minuteman design."

Rockefeller, Wife Separate, Plan Divorce

Divorce Won't Stop New York Governor From Running Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Republican Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, a potential presidential candidate in 1964, has parted from his wife of 31 years and they plan a divorce. Their decision to break up the marriage, announced Friday, was described as amicable.

Associates said the impending divorce will in no way dissuade the governor from running for reelection next year. The effect it might have on his presidential prospects was problematical.

Mrs. Rockefeller, a tall, slender woman of 54, is an heiress in her own right to a railroad fortune. Her husband's multimillion-dollar fortune was based originally on oil, but the family holdings are now highly diversified.

The announcement that the marriage was at an end came with no forewarning. Mrs. Rockefeller has not been seen with the governor recently, but this was attributed to a minor illness she suffered some months ago.

Rockefeller and his wife already have parted, and he has moved from their Fifth Avenue apartment after an agreement was reached for a legal separation.

"It is anticipated that the terms of the agreement will be incorporated into a subsequent decree of divorce," said a statement from the family offices in Rockefeller Plaza.

The spokesman would not say when the Rockefellers reached their decision to separate. He did say they already are living apart.

Rockefeller, 53, flashed onto the national political scene with tremendous impact when he was elected governor of New York in 1958 on his first try for political office.

He was given consideration as a GOP presidential candidate in 1960 and is considered one of the stronger possibilities for 1964. Meanwhile, he has announced that he will seek re-election as governor next year. He is regarded as a leader of the more liberal wing of his party.

Mrs. Rockefeller will retain the 20-room triplex apartment the couple has in New York at 810 Fifth Ave. The Rockefellers also maintain homes in North Tarrytown, N.Y.; Seal Harbor, Maine, and Washington, D.C.

Rockefeller, son of the late multimillionaire John D. Rockefeller Jr., married Mary Todhunter Clark June 23, 1930. Their children are Rodman, Mrs. Robert L. Pierson, Steven, and twins, Michael and Mary Rockefeller.

The family spokesman said the five children are grown up so that there will be no question involving their custody.

Hawkeye Plane Forced To Land

CHICAGO (AP) — A chartered United Airlines DC-7 carrying the SU football team made a precautionary landing at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport Friday following a loss of power in one engine.

The team boarded a second DC-7 after a delay of about 2 hours for the remainder of their flight to Detroit for Saturday's Big Ten football game with the University of Michigan at Ann Arbor.

The flight originated at Cedar Rapids leaving there at 1 p.m. and was due in Detroit an hour and a half later.

"We weren't five minutes out of Cedar Rapids when the darn thing (engine) stopped," said Coach Jerry Burns. "They said we'd stop at O'Hare, switch planes and be on the ground 20 minutes. It ended up over two hours."

The plane didn't reach Detroit until 5 p.m. (Iowa time).

Asks More U.N. Troops for Congo

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. commander in the Congo asked for more troops Friday to deal with mounting violence, but Indian Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon promptly questioned the need for reinforcements.

Maj. Gen. Sean McKeown, Irish commander of the 15,400-man force, made his bid at a private session of the 18-nation Congo advisory committee summoned by Acting Secretary-General Thant.

Krishna Menon first took issue with McKeown in the private meeting. Later he told the Security Council: "If 15,000 troops are not enough to police the Congo, then there is something wrong with the troops."

The remarks of the Indian leader were given considerable attention because India's 5,700 troops there make up more than one-third of the entire U.N. force in the Congo.

Krishna Menon told the council "India might or might not be able to supply more troops."

The advisory committee meeting was called to hear the views of McKeown and Conor Cruise O'Brien, chief U.N. representative in Katanga Province, who were called to New York for urgent consultations after the massacre of 13 Italian airmen in Kivu Province.

The Security Council listened to a plea from Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak that his country be accepted as a collaborator in the task of ending the Congo crisis. Spaak said Belgium opposed the secession of Katanga, and that he personally had urged President Moise Tshombe to return to the fold of the central government.

It was the first time the acting secretary-general had met with his advisory committee, made up of nations which have troops in the U.N. Congo force, or have contributed to it.

The meeting was behind closed doors, but reliable sources gave this account: McKeown said he needed more troops in the Congo. He stressed that he should be able to dispatch a battalion, or approximately 1,000 troops, instead of 250 when trouble flares in a Congo spot.

Resumption Is Defensive Necessity

Grinnell Peace Group Interviews Diplomat In Soviet Embassy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A group of college students from Iowa, more than half way through a 3-day fast for peace, asked a Russian diplomat Friday why his nation resumed nuclear test explosions in the atmosphere.

Michael Horwatt, 20-year-old spokesman for the Grinnell College students, quoted the Soviet official as saying the resumption was a defensive necessity because at the beginning of this year Russia had reduced its military budget only to have the United States increase its outlay.

He told newsmen this, in substance, was the reply given by Gennadi Piatokov during a 90-minute audience granted the group in the Soviet Embassy.

"He was very friendly, listened to us and presented the Soviet side of the argument," Horwatt said. "We were not satisfied with the answers."

"We have not lost any confidence in the United States government in any sense of the word but we feel the situation is all the more difficult after hearing two sides of the story."

He said the students could see that it would not be easy for the two governments to reach agreement on a test ban. The Iowa youths met for an hour with a White House staff member Thursday.

The students, whose 72-hour fast is scheduled to end at midnight Saturday, did not see Russian Ambassador Mikhail A. Menshikov, who was described at the embassy as having been "unwell for several days."

In their question-and-answer session with Piatokov, the students presented a formal statement for the ambassador which condemned Russia for the explosion of nuclear warheads in the atmosphere. This statement concluded:

"We urge the Soviet Union to accept President Kennedy's challenge to a peace race. Specifically we urge the Soviet Union to enter an agreement with the United States not to resume nuclear atmospheric testing."

Piatokov told newsmen after his meeting with the students that some problems were discussed in connection with a test ban and general disarmament.

"I think they really want to take some steps which would help for a peace agreement," Piatokov said. Horwatt said the collegians also reminded Piatokov that U.S. scientists have said there was little scientific value in the Russian test series, especially in explosion of the big 50-megaton bomb.

"He said 50 megatons is better than 10 megatons," Horwatt added. Peter Cohen, 21, Englewood, N.J., described the session as "a very nice interview" which included a tour through the second floor of the ornate four-story building.

He said the group was told that Russia wants peace with general and complete disarmament. The students also said they broached the subject of an increased student exchange between the two countries. Piatokov said he told the young people "our students want to visit your country, too."

The students demonstrated in front of the White House for about four hours Friday, with time out for the Russian Embassy visit.

Asked how the group was enduring the water-only fast, Larry Smucker, 20, Bluffton, Ohio, said: "It isn't so bad the second day."

The 14 Grinnell students were joined Friday by Miss Naida Tushnet, 19, Maywood, N.J., a graduate of the Iowa school who is now attending Columbia University in New York.

The News In Brief

By The Associated Press

DES MOINES — Ronald M. Stump, convicted recidivist of second degree murder in the fatal shooting of Michael Daly, filed a motion Friday in District Court to have his bond reduced from $50,000.

Judge C. Edwin Moore set Stump's bond at that amount Thursday.

In his request for a reduction, Stump claimed that $50,000 is an excessive amount, and that therefore it is in violation of the Iowa and U.S. constitutions which prohibit excessive bond.

MIDDLEBURG, Va. — First Lady Mrs. John F. Kennedy had a spill Friday when her horse balked at a jump while she was riding with the Piedmont Hunt near Upperville, Va.

She gamely got back up within minutes and continued hunting throughout the day, witnesses to the incident related.

A close friend said it was nothing serious and the White House reported later that Mrs. Kennedy "is fine."

MIAMI, Fla. — Capt. Julian Harvey of the ketch Bluebell killed himself Friday in a Miami motel room and the death toll rose to six among those who rode the ill-fated vessel on her last journey.

Five are missing and presumed to have died when the mast of the 60-foot charter craft snapped last Sunday in a 15-knot breeze, tore a hole through the hull and sent her plunging to the ocean's bottom.

More Speed Reading Labs Needed Here

The average college student's eyes move across a page of black and white type at a speed of approximately 260 to 280 words a minute.

This editorial would, then, be read in approximately two minutes by the average and slow reader, but in less than a minute by a good reader.

Realizing the importance of increasing reading speed, reading improvement laboratories have been set up at SUI to aid students with their reading problems and help them not only improve their reading speeds but their comprehension.

The session, which involves 22 lessons, is designed to break up old reading habits. One-third of the words on a page, the reading improvement instructors explain, are not necessary or critical to the overall meaning.

The SUI Reading Improvement Program develops a person's span of recognition. Since eye movements on a page of print are jerky, the individual is made to see more and more as the eyes stop upon a phrase. To prevent readers from the habit of regressing, that is rereading something for an idea, the importance of reading for the idea the first time is stressed.

Reading films, from speeds of 260 to 520 words a minute are used to increase reading speed and comprehension. Reading accelerator machines and special films are used to eliminate poor reading habits.

The need for more reading improvement laboratories is now apparent. Only three afternoon sessions are available for students, numbering 28 each. All three sessions were immediately filled the past week for the next sessions beginning Nov. 20 and ending Jan. 18. Excess signatures were crossed off the lists because of the shortage of space.

After completing this "course," which is taken without credit and is a University service, most students improve their reading rates at least 60 per cent. In most cases the student usually doubles his present reading rate. Improvement is usually from 80 to 120 per cent.

Classes are made up of individuals of varying backgrounds including faculty members, graduate students, entering freshmen, and high school honor students.

Performances of past classes point out the need for more reading laboratories. In the last class, for example, the average reading rate was 305 words a minute (slightly higher than average), with 72 per cent comprehension. After 22 intensive reading improvement lab sessions, the same group of individuals raised their average scores to 614 words a minute and 78 per cent comprehension. This is a rise of 101 per cent reading rate and 8 per cent comprehension.

At least one or more additional sections should be added to meet the deluge of interested individuals bent on improving their reading habits.

There is only room now for 84 to obtain better reading improvement skills. With an expanded laboratory schedule, the need can be met.

As one reading improvement instructor has remarked while describing the success of the session, "... we encourage better readers to become best, poor readers to become better. ..."

Nikitagrad?

Now that Joe Stalin has been kicked out of his place of honor in the mausoleum on Red Square, what are the Russians going to call Stalingrad? Certainly this heroic city, where the Nazi army was turned back in a bloody seige in 1942, cannot continue to be named for the man who has been officially branded a monster. Obviously, also, it cannot resume its former name of Tsaritsyn, for tsars, or czars, are regarded in Russia with considerable distaste.

And how about Stalinabad, and Stalin, and Stalino, and Stalingorsk, and Stalin Peak and Stalinok? Also Stalinallee, the show street of Communist East Berlin, and Stalinstadt, East German steel center, would appear to require renaming. All over the Communist Empire are towns and streets bearing the name of the once idolized, now despised dictator.

The simple solution would be to substitute "Khrushchev" for "Stalin" in all these place names, but that might smack of the "cult of the individual" which the present head man professes to despise, though once he was a top cultist. What problems arise when history is rewritten overnight.

Letters to the Editor—

Keep Girls In the Dark

To the Editor:

In the Nov. 14, issue of this paper, a Miss Nancy Butts showed her disapproval of the methods employed by the authorities in the repulsion of the party raiders. Apparently her main point of complaint was the absence of light to study for her midterm tests. She must have heard rumors of the escapade, so why didn't she go down to the library to study? With the lights out the "men" of the party raid would be discouraged, and with the appearance of our men in blue it was discouraged to the extent of the disbandment of the rebels.

Maybe Miss Butts isn't aware of the fracas that might have been spawned by this harmless party raid. I can't see how a fourth year party raid veteran like Miss Butts can be against the prevention of these raids. Anything that will preserve the reputation of Burge from being smeared all over small and big town papers is worthwhile. If some girls were kept in the dark more often, then they wouldn't be rudely aware of the light some passionate night.

Drunkard Laws Should Stand

To the Editor:

In the Daily Iowan of Nov. 14, I noticed an article in which Judge John M. Murtah, the chief justice of the Court of Special Sessions in New York, declared that "American and British justice follow a cruel and futile policy in jailing drunks." He further said endorsement of public intoxication laws "not only has been ineffective, but involves a degree of cruelty to the derelict that cries for correction."

I wonder if the arresting of a person who is drunk and possibly a serious threat to everyone about him at the time is such a "ineffective" way of handling the situation. Judge Murtah went on to say, "Night after night, we find police picking up men and women in the streets — filthy, battered, sick and utterly pathetic — and locking them up in the drunk tank." In regard to this statement, I would like to ask Judge Murtah just where he thinks a better place might be to lodge these derelicts every night. Would he rather leave them where they are, running or lying along the streets for the simple reason they have no other place to go?

It will grant that if some type of shelter were erected for such people by cities in which the problem lies, this problem might be solved. But until such a place is provided, the laws concerning drunkards had better be left the way they stand.

Pep Club Suspension Suggests Other Action

To the Editor:

Perhaps as the years go by, the Pep Club of SUI will realize that they made a grave mistake one Monday evening in November, 1961. However, as a time-saver, I'd like to suggest that I noticed this mistake immediately, and would like to expound on it.

The card section was suspended. Not for a week, or a month, or a season, but indefinitely. Not for missing the practice sessions every week, not for drinking in the stands, but for throwing up their cards when the team came out on the field. Hardly, in my opinion, a case for premeditated infraction of the rules, when the score was 3 to 2 in favor of Minnesota.

If, when John Niemeyer and his Student Senate meet, the card section members are put in jeopardy or the section itself is censured, then I feel it only right that the following wrongs be righted.

1. Why doesn't someone do something about the drinking by fans in the stands. It's not entirely pleasant to have a portable barroom in back of you at a game. And neither is it pleasing to have an inebriated person annoying you through the whole game.

2. Why aren't the identification cards checked more carefully? I was surrounded by Minnesota students last week, in the middle of our student section.

3. Why isn't something done about the lack of spirit, teaching the students songs and cheers, getting the cheerleaders to do cheers instead of doing gymnastics with the gymnasts?

4. Why do upperclassmen who are transfers have to sit in the not-so-glorious descendant of the glorious southern aristocracy touching and sympathetic. Also turning in good performance were Nancy Duncan, James E. Kerr, and Richard Ayers.

But the fact remains that the play itself, though it certainly has something to say, does not say it very well, even if a bit jerky and stilted in the more passionate moments, joined the competent direction of Roland Reed to hold attention almost throughout the evening despite the most banal of scripts.

PROOF OF THIS came in the final moments Thursday evening when a few flickers in the lighting were not enough to distract much attention.

Particularly commendable was the performance of Mrs. A. S. Gillette, who made her role of a not-so-glorious descendant of the glorious southern aristocracy touching and sympathetic. Also turning in good performance were Nancy Duncan, James E. Kerr, and Richard Ayers.

But the fact remains that the play itself, though it certainly has something to say, does not say it very well, even if a bit jerky and stilted in the more passionate moments, joined the competent direction of Roland Reed to hold attention almost throughout the evening despite the most banal of scripts.

PROOF OF THIS came in the final moments Thursday evening when a few flickers in the lighting were not enough to distract much attention.

Particularly commendable was the performance of Mrs. A. S. Gillette, who made her role of a not-so-glorious descendant of the glorious southern aristocracy touching and sympathetic. Also turning in good performance were Nancy Duncan, James E. Kerr, and Richard Ayers.

Hawks Close Conference Season at Michigan

Iowa Hopes To Snap 3-Game Loss Streak

By JERRY ELSEA
Sports Editor

Iowa's football team faces a big, tough Michigan squad today at Ann Arbor in a game that will either even the Hawks' Big Ten record at 3-3 or dump them deep into the conference second division.

Game time is 12:30 p.m. (Iowa time).

It's the fourth straight "comeback Saturday" for the luckless Hawks who've lost three straight — a 9-0 dosing on the Purdue marshes, a 29-13 drubbing at Ohio State and a 16-9 blackeye from Minnesota's Gophers here last week.

But if the Hawks have built up a large group of "Doubting Thomases" among their fans, they aren't being doubted or underrated in Michigan.

Wolverine Coach Chalmers (Bump) Elliott recently warned his team: "There isn't any doubt about it. We've got to be set for our best game of the year, with everybody ready, and even then it's going to be very tough."

The favored Wolverines (5-2) have dropped conference games to interstate rival Michigan State (28-9) and first place Minnesota (23-20). Michigan's most impressive wins have been over Purdue (16-14) and Army (38-8).

Elliott boasts the biggest line in the conference with tackles John Schopf and John Houtman, guard John Minko and center Todd Grant all weighing 230 or more.

The versatile Wolverine backfield is headed by halfbacks Dave Rainey and Bennie McRae, who share the team scoring lead with six touchdowns apiece.

Junior fullback, Bill Tunniff, 6-0 and 230, is back after being sidelined with a lame ankle.

Quarterback Dave Glinka, 5-11 and 190, and ends George Mans and Scot Maentz will lead the improving passing attack.

Glinka has passed for four touchdowns so far this year, but has found the going tougher on the ground with an average of minus 0.1 yards.

Iowa Coach Jerry Burns will probably go with his usual starting lineup, leaving signal calling chores to quarterback Matt Szykowny.

The Hawkeye passing attack remains one of the Big Ten's best, but the runners will have to improve over last week's performance if Iowa is to win.

In their 16-9 loss to Minnesota, the Hawks gained only 39 yards rushing while fumbling on four occasions and failing to recover three times.

If Iowa wins today, the victory will run the final conference record to a respectable 3-3, and the Hawks will have a chance for the first division.

A loss would mean a 2-4 Big Ten finish, the poorest since 1952 when Forest Evashevski's first Iowa team finished 2-5.

In addition to the scramble for the Big Ten first division, the game will mark Bump Elliott's first coaching assignment against Iowa.

Elliott, an all-America halfback at Michigan in 1947, was for two years an assistant to Evashevski.

In 1957 he moved back to his alma mater for an assistant coaching job. He became head coach in 1959.

Iowa last played Michigan in 1958 when they romped past the Wolverines 37-14 at Ann Arbor. The Hawkeyes went on to win the Big Ten championship and Rose Bowl game.

Big 10 Cross Country Win to Tucker, Iowa

First Hawk Meet Victory In History

CHICAGO, Ill. — Iowa's All-American runner, Jim Tucker, captured first place in the Big Ten Cross Country Meet here and led the Hawkeye team to its first conference championship in history.

The Iowa win ended a victors' monopoly by Michigan State. The race was run on a muddy course.

Captain Jim Tucker, Hampton senior, who finished second behind Spartan Gerald Young in 1960, turned the tables this year as he won the four-mile run in Washington Park with a time of 19:50.4.

Young finished second, running the route in 19:52. Both times were considerably slower than those of a year ago when Young set a conference record for the four-mile course with a time of 19:35.3, and Tucker finished 20 yards behind in 19:40.2.

Iowa had a team score of 45 (low score wins), followed by Michigan State 59, Indiana 62, Wisconsin 77, Ohio State 95, and Northwestern 179. The first four teams were the same as a year ago, except for the Hawkeyes and Spartans exchange of places.

Sophomore Larry Kramer, Belmond, finished fourth for the Hawkeyes, and teammate Ralph Trimble, Cedar Rapids junior, took fifth place. Gary Fischer, of Dubuque, also a junior and holder of the SUI record in the 880-yard indoor run and the Big Ten record in the 1,000-yard indoor run, finished seventh in Friday's meet. Iowa's fifth man was Ken Fearing who finished 28th.

Iowa's Larry Baker took 37th place and the Hawkeye's Bill Frazier finished 40th. Only the top five men figure in the standings.

Iowa had never before won the 53-year-old conference championship meet. Five other Iowa runners had captured the individual championships prior to Tucker's win. The winning of the conference

Top Teams Bid for Pro Hawks Bowl Spots Today

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bowl bids and conference titles are at stake in wholesale lots today as the 1961 college football season hits its next-to-last big Saturday.

With not one major bowl slot officially filled there are many rich plums to be plucked.

Six of the nation's top 10 teams are prime targets of the bowl selectors, with Ohio State and Minnesota of the Big Ten still undecided.

Top-ranked Texas, heading for the host spot in the Cotton Bowl, can clinch a tie for the Southwest Conference title if it beats Texas Christian. The Longhorns are 5-0 in the conference and 8-0 over-all.

A loss, coupled with a victory by nonranked Arkansas over Southern Methodist, would cause a first place tie.

Texas, bowl opponent most likely will be sixth-ranked Mississippi (7-1), which meets Tennessee, The Vols last week dealt Georgia

Tech's Bowl aspirations a blow with an upset.

Tech hopes to do the same to second-ranked Alabama today.

'Bama and the Rose Bowl have been making eyes at each other, while the Sugar Bowl is itching to get the Crimson Tide as a participant.

'Bama is 8-0 so far, and leads the Southeastern Conference with a 5-0 mark.

Louisiana State (No. 4), having ruled itself out of the Sugar Bowl and pre-empted by Ole Miss in the Cotton Bowl, meets Mississippi State. The Bengals are 4-0 in the SEC, 7-1 over-all.

The Rose Bowl is wide open until Alabama makes its decision, though both third-ranked Ohio State (6-0-1) and resurgent Minnesota (No. 5) have to be considered as they push for the Big Ten title.

The Gophers (6-1) play seventh-ranked Purdue in their last big stumbling block toward at least a share of the title.

Ohio State is outside against Oregon. Another Big Ten team, ninth-ranked Michigan State, has no bowl hopes in its game against Northwestern.

Eighth-ranked Colorado (6-1), still leading the Big Eight and hoping for the nod from the Orange Bowl, meets conference foe Nebraska, and must win to stay on top. Syracuse, ranked 10th with a 6-2 mark, takes on Notre Dame, and will announce its intentions after the game. A victory is expected to mean either the Gator, Liberty or Gotham Bowls.

Pro Hawks Fire Seymour

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The troubled St. Louis Hawks fired Coach Paul Seymour Friday. The former National Basketball Association backliner blamed the dismissal on resentment by veteran players "because of my wanting rookie Cleo Hill to be a starter."

The former Syracuse player and coach, now 33, was owner Ben Kerner's sixth coach in the Hawks' seven seasons in St. Louis.

Kerner said a successor would be named "maybe next week or at a later date" to take over the five-time Western Division champions who have lost 9 of their first 14 games.

There was speculation that ex-Hawk Slater Martin would be offered the job. Martin was the second of the Hawks coaches under Kerner.

Seymour, whose second year of a three-year contract was only 14 games old when he got the ax, said his high-powered frontline of Bob Pettit, Clyde Lovellette and Cliff Hagan didn't like the idea of starting Hill.

Heelan Gets 2 on All-State Prep Team

DES MOINES (AP) — Sioux City Heelan, Associated Press high school football champion, landed two players on the Iowa Daily Press Association's All-State football team Friday.

The Crusaders chosen were tackle Leo Miller and halfback Denny Conway.

Other backs selected on the first unit were Jim Wagner of Cedar Rapids Regis, Frank Reinhardt of Webster City, and Bill Knaack of Marshalltown.

Other linemen included ends Karl Noonan of Davenport Assumption and Cliff Wilder of Sioux City Central, tackle Gary Langan of Bettendorf, guards Terry Zerngast of Ottumwa and Gary Schirm of Cedar Rapids Jefferson, and center Steve Lilly of Des Moines Roosevelt.

ACLU Signs 30 Members At Meeting

Allen Approved As Temporary Chairman of Group

By FRANK SMITH
Staff Writer

A temporary slate of officers approved, and about 30 members signed up at an organizational meeting of the local chapter of American Civil Liberties (ACLU) Monday night.

The temporary officers are Allen, G. Asheville, chairman; Gary Culver, L2, City, vice chairman; John S. L2, Silver Spring, Md., secretary; and Alfred Lee, G, Louisville, treasurer. About 90 attended the meeting.

These will be the officers of the chapter if well enough organized to elect permanent officers.

The purposes of the ACLU according to a chapter manual "to maintain throughout the United States and its possessions rights of free speech, free press, free assembly and other rights, and to take all legal action in furtherance of such purposes."

"The ACLU," said Rabbi Ed Edwards, "is committed to protect the liberties of any person in these United States, whether or not we agree with him."

Thirty people paid $5 dues to join the organization. These are used to hire legal counsel and advice, Rabbi Ed said. Most ACLU action is in the courts.

"The ACLU has no cause of its own," said Salyer. "We defend rights of others to have a cause."

The platform of the organization is the Bill of Rights, Allen. Implicit in this is the belief that this is a governmental law, not men, he said.

The main function of the chapter on this campus was to keep an eye out for possible violations of anyone's civil liberties and bring them into the public view, Allen said. In this manner, the chapter can act as a deterrent to violations.

An attempt was made to organize a chapter of the ACLU last spring as a result of the Kelley case.

"This attempt failed because too many people were interested in a personality, not a cause," said Culver.

The chapter intends to sponsor their charter to the State Council for approval and campus recognition. They will sponsor speakers and deal on topics of civil liberties.

Advisers for the group are: Arthur Carpenter, instructor in physical science; Rabbi Sheldons, Hillel director; and Russell Weintraub, association professor of law.

The next meeting will be Dec. 4. One of the first things done will be the formation of an investigation committee to take into cases of possible violation of civil liberties, said Rabbi Ed.

Attempt To Buy Beer Costs Freshman $90

An SUI freshman was fined Monday on a charge of attempting to buy beer. He was Robert Gebhard, 18, A1, Lambertson.

Police arrested Gebhard three other youths on Nov. 10 on the same charge at the Villa in the 200 block of Dubuque St., Iowa City. Two youths, James S. Soll, and D. Belling, both 18 and students of Parsons College, Fairfield, found innocent Monday.

The fourth youth was fined $96.
