U.S. Welcomes Ban Bid Test

Adenauer Meeting Termed 'Fruitful'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer conducted "exhaustive and productive" talks on Communist-threatened West Berlin Tuesday. Diplomatic sources reported they narrowed the gap on what to tell the Soviets if and when the Big Four meet to solve that crisis.

The two Western leaders met for more than four hours during the day, both with and without their aides.

A joint statement issued after the 2-hour and 23-minute afternoon session called the discussions "fruitful." White House press secretary Pierre Salinger described them as "workable and cordial."

Franz Josef Strauss, West German defense minister, said both political and military issues were discussed in permanent session at the State Department for the last five months.

At the luncheon Kennedy asked his 62 guests to join him in a toast in which he hailed Adenauer as "one of the transcendent figures of our time." The chancellor, in his reply, spoke about the "indissoluble friendship" between their nations.

Little was learned of what Kennedy and Adenauer discussed privately. Some press reports said the German side made these proposals Monday: (1) To offer through NATO a non-aggression pact to the Communist nations of the Warsaw Pact; (2) a declaration pledging the Federal Republic will not use force to change the present Polish-German border; (3) more contacts between Bonn and the East German regime in the lowest level.

News in Brief

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Cuba has accused the United States of intervening in the Dominican Republic crisis and demanded an immediate Security Council meeting to put a halt to it.

The demand was contained in a letter from Mario Garcia Inchausti, Cuban delegation head, to the Security Council president, Valerian A. Zorin of the Soviet Union.

Security Council sources said Tuesday Zorin will fix a date for the meeting after consulting other members.

The letter asked Zorin to have the council act "before the Government of the United States will be able to implement its aim to force the Dominican people to face unequal resistance to a powerful invader and to take the necessary measures to prevent this from happening."

U.S. Plans 1961 Astronaut Shot

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE Va. (AP) — The United States still plans to put an astronaut in orbit during 1961, a spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Tuesday.

The spokesman at the manned-spacecraft center formerly space task group here said "as the schedule now stands, NASA still plans to have a manned orbital shot in 1961."

"There's no denying that achieving this will be difficult," the spokesman added, "and there's a strong possibility that the attempt may come in early 1962."

The spokesman, who declined to be identified, said timing of the orbital shot depends on many favorable factors, including the successful orbiting of a chimpanzee. The chimp shot at the moment is scheduled for the last week of November.

Most predictions have been that a manned orbital shot would not be possible before February because of the failure earlier this month to put a chimpanzee into orbit on schedule.

1 Dead, 3 Hurt In Davenport Floor Cave-in

Workers Are Buried By Falling Rubble While Razing Bank

DAVENPORT (AP) — The third floor of a brick building that was being razed collapsed Tuesday, killing one man and burying three others under tons of debris.

The body of Uler Pugh, of Rock Island, Ill., was found several hours later in the rubble. Fellow workmen dug three other men from the debris. Walter Hofer, 41, of East Moline, Ill., was listed in critical condition at a hospital. Also hospitalized were Lester Morris, 34, of Davenport, and Bennie Morey, 29, of East Moline. Their condition was reported as satisfactory.

It was first reported that Pugh also had been rescued and had wandered away before he could be taken to a hospital. Authorities said the confusion arose because fellow workmen had erred in the identity of the men they pulled from the rubble.

The building, formerly a bank, was being razed to make room for an off-street parking lot. The four men were employees of the Roemer Material and Wrecking Co., Inc., of Davenport, which is tearing down the building.

A fifth man, Herman Kray, 59, of Davenport, a foreman, narrowly escaped being plunged 40 feet into the basement.

Morris and Morey were buried for about half an hour, and Hofer about an hour.

There were about 12 men in or near the building at the time of the collapse.

Kray said he had just stepped from the center of the third floor to a wall when the floor crashed through the second and first floors into the basement. The other four men were working in the middle of the third floor.

Walter Roemer, owner of the wrecking company, said only one brace was supporting the entire center of the building.

Summerwill: Role of C-MA Misunderstood

By KATHY SWIFT Staff Writer

Weakness in "knowledge of what the Council-Manager Association plan was designed to do" by Iowa City voters was cited by Ben E. Summerwill as perhaps the main reason why two C-MA candidates were defeated in the recent election.

Summerwill, chairman of the C-MA, made his statement at a meeting of that group Tuesday night in the Jefferson Hotel.

Some voters did not realize, he said, that the charter of the C-MA may limit the group from doing some things people think it should.

He said accusations that City Manager Peter Roan's salary was too high were part of a plan to confuse and mislead voters about their government.

The C-MA is non-partisan, Summerwill said. Its candidates were not chosen because of their political affiliations, religion or race.

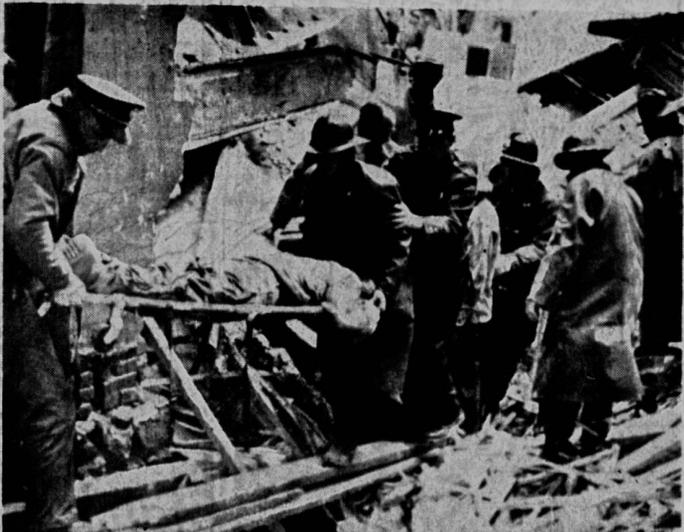

A motion was passed at the meeting to instruct the Board of Representatives of the C-MA to formulate a plan for increasing voter participation. Such a plan would include education, setting up open forums for discussion of city problems, and paying more attention to day-to-day government.

Newton Man Killed As Pick-up, Bus Crash

NEWTON (AP) — The driver of a pickup truck was killed Tuesday night when it collided with a Greyhound bus on Highway 6 just inside the city limits here.

Dead on arrival at a hospital was Joseph H. Johnson, 59, of Laurel. Newton police said the truck pulled out on the highway and was hit broadside by the east-bound bus which was going to Cedar Rapids.

None of the seven bus passengers or the driver was injured. A second bus was sent from Des Moines to pick up the passengers, most of whom were destined for Kellogg.

Senate Puts Card Section On 2-Game 1962 Probation

By HAROLD HATFIELD City Editor

SUI's Student Senate voted Tuesday night to put the Pep Club's card section on probation for the first two football games of the 1962 season.

The final fate of the group will be decided by the Senate on the basis of the card section's performances at these two games.

The action was taken as a result of the card section's performance at the Minnesota-SUI Dad's Day football game. The group ended its series of tricks by throwing the multi-colored cards into the air.

The Pep Club subsequently suspended the card section.

The resolution was presented to the Senate by President John Niemeyer, El, Elkader. Niemeyer said he felt the action was "very moderate." Earlier he had said that strict action would be taken.

In addition to the two-game probation, the resolution provides that:

1. During future pre-game football ticket distribution, students in the Graduate College, and the Colleges of Medicine, Dentistry, and Law may pick up their tickets in the second distributing section regardless of ID number. (This means that this group would have picked up tickets on Monday afternoon this year.)
2. All card section members will deposit a $3 fee at the beginning of the football season, to be returned in whole or in part at the end of the season, depending on expenses incurred as the result of violations of card section rules.
3. The Constitution Revisions Committee, Student Organizations Commissioner, and the Pep Club executive committee are instructed to draft a new constitution for Pep Club, which, upon approval of Senate and the Office of Student Affairs.

The conference, sponsored by the SUI Student Senate, will mark the first organized meeting of delegates from the three state schools. Student Body President John Niemeyer, who originated the idea, said he feels greater cooperation is needed between the three schools to work toward the solution of their mutual problems.

The student body presidents of ISU and SUI have responded to invitations to the conference saying they will be sending from 10 to 15 representatives each.

The conference will open at 8:30 a.m. in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union. Loren Hickerson, Alumni Director, will address the entire assembly during the morning session.

James F. Murray, associate professor of political science, will speak at the noon luncheon.

During the afternoon group discussions on current problems will be conducted.

Members of the Senate legislative body, and the Senate Executive cabinet will be expected to attend the conference. Niemeyer, said, however, anyone interested in student government is encouraged to participate.

Rejects Implied Red Demands For Halt Now

Negotiators To Return To Geneva Tuesday; Britain Still Cautious

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Tuesday warmly welcomed Russia's turnabout decision to resume negotiations with the United States and Britain on a permanent, inspected nuclear weapons test ban.

But the United States rejected an implied Soviet demand that this country should now halt its own testing of nuclear weapons and enter into another new, unpoliced test moratorium. Russia broke the first moratorium on Sept. 9.

A Soviet note delivered to the American and British embassies accepted the Nov. 13 U.S.-British call to take up the test ban talks again Nov. 28 in Geneva. But the note warned that if some other power tests nuclear weapons while the new talks are going on, the Soviet Union will be forced "to draw the corresponding conclusions concerning nuclear tests."

U.S. policy on this point, previously announced by Kennedy, was restated emphatically by the State Department which said: "The United States will continue to take such actions as it deems necessary to safeguard its national security interest until a controlled test ban agreement is achieved."

In Washington, the United States ordered its nuclear test ban negotiators to return to Geneva in preparation for new talks. But it ruled out resumption of an uncontrolled moratorium.

The Soviet note expressed readiness "to make one more attempt at a nuclear test ban agreement bearing in mind that the three powers, participants in these negotiations, have proclaimed that their general aim is general and complete disarmament."

Britain welcomed the Soviet decision cautiously and declined to be drawn into any promise to participate in a moratorium while test ban talks are in progress. A Foreign Office spokesman referred questioners to Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's recent statement, "We have been fooled once, and I am not sure we ought to allow ourselves to be fooled again."

In Paris, a Foreign Ministry official denied that the implied Soviet call for a moratorium was directed at France, the only known other atomic power. He noted that the French are not parties to the negotiations and called the Soviet note vague.

France recently indicated it had no immediate plans to conduct further nuclear tests in the atmosphere over the Sahara, but it left the door open for possible underground tests.

Any optimistic implication that the world might have some reason to take fresh hope for East-West agreement on an important step toward arms reduction and control was not borne out in the private views of well informed officials in Moscow. They say they know of no evidence that the Soviet Government seriously intends to try to work out a test ban treaty.

As Moscow authorities saw the situation, the Soviets have learned from the test series they began three months ago the information they needed for further development of their nuclear weapons arsenal.

They said Khrushchev has also achieved his purpose, to whatever extent it could be achieved, of trying to intimidate the rest of the world with a display of Russia's nuclear might. One of the devices he exploded was a super-bomb with a force of 55-60 million tons of TNT.

Soviet agreement to go back to the negotiating table indicated the current Soviet test series has been completed. Previous test ban talks in Geneva were broken off Sept. 9, eight days after the Soviet Union broke the three-year-old voluntary moratorium on nuclear testing and went on to explode a nuclear device of greater than 50 megatons — equal to more than 50 million tons of TNT.

The Soviet Union rejected earlier overtures for resuming the test ban talks, contending they were inseparable from negotiations aimed at complete and general disarmament.

Heavy Snow To Welcome Thanksgiving

Outlook for Thursday — cloudy and quite cold with snow, ending west portion during the day.

the hills and through the woods to grandmother's house in northwest Iowa, you may have to buck some heavy snow.

The Weather Bureau said an accumulation of four inches or more of snow can be expected in extreme northwest Iowa by tonight.

The pattern of cloudy, chilly weather of the past few days changed to drizzling rain and rising temperatures in Iowa Tuesday as a forerunner to the expected snow. Temperatures climbed into the upper 30s and lower 40s in mid-afternoon.

The forecast calls for the rain to change to snow in the west and north today. The snow is expected to spread eastward over the entire state tonight, gradually ending from west to east on Thanksgiving Day.

Colder weather is predicted for north and west sections as winds switch from the south to the north today.

Highs should be around 40 in the northwest to the upper 40s in the southeast. The outlook for Thanksgiving Day is for snow and quite cold with readings mostly in the 30s.

Soviets Reject More Training Of Congolese

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union turned down Tuesday an appeal from Congolese Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko and insisted it would veto a U.S. proposal that the United Nations reinstate the Congolese army.

The proposal was one of several offered by U.S. Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson as amendments to a Security Council resolution by Ceylon, Liberia and the United Arab Republic calling for an end to secessionism by Katanga Province.

Bomboko told the 11-nation council that retraining of the army would enable the Central Congo Government to deal with secessionist moves, such as the one in Katanga.

The intent of the U.S. amendments is to broaden the mandate to Acting Secretary-General U. Thant to give him power to deal with secessionist moves no matter where they occur.

The council voted to adjourn its Congo debate until 2 p.m. Friday in order to permit time for private consultations that might produce agreement.

Stevenson accused Soviet delegate Valerian A. Zorin of raising the threat of veto at the last moment. He charged Zorin with attempting to dictate to the council after most members approved the U.S. amendments.

Zorin retorted that the U.S. proposals blocked the council from taking effective action. He said the Soviet Union was ready to vote for the three-nation resolution.

He charged that Western colonialists had dictated U.N. operations thus far and asked "What have you achieved? The collapse of the whole operation."

He blamed Western colonialism for "the murder" of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and said that unless the council throws out the colonialists "there never will be peace in the Congo."

Zorin declared the U.S. aim was "to blunt the cutting edge of the blade" aimed at Katanga.

Some African delegates feared the council would be prevented from taking any concrete action.

Zorin hit hard at the retraining of the Congolese army.

He said it would be an enormous task that would mean the United Nations would have to remain in the Congo for decades.

In introducing the U.S. amendments Stevenson acknowledged that secession of Katanga was the Congo's major problem. But he urged the council to go on record as deploring all secessionist movements.

AUSSIE GIRLS WED YOUNG SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Australian women are marrying younger than ever before, reports Prof. W. D. Borrie of the National University. He said 60 per cent of the women between 20 and 24 are married, compared with 32 per cent in the 1920s.

Editorial Page— Without the Initiative, They Don't Belong

The Iowa State Board of Regents Friday voted to reaffirm their ruling that students in state institutions must maintain at least a C-minus average (1.5) in their freshman year to remain in college.

The retaining of the requirement was approved by a 7-2 vote. Board members Maurice Crabbe of Eagle Grove and Alfred W. Noehren of Spencer voted against the requirement. They had hoped that the minimum be dropped to 1.0 — or a D average.

The Regents, however, accepted the recommendation of the presidents of the three state schools that the freshman grade requirements continue as they are now. A 2.0 grade average is required for graduation but the presidents said it would be too harsh to require first-year students to meet the standards.

We believe the Regents' decision was a good one. The lessening of the requirements to 1.0 would have been a mistake.

This is a time when there is an ever-increasing rush of students to college. A good share of the demand for a college education comes from those who want to study. There is also an ever-growing burden on the university instructors who face the problem of teaching larger and larger classes. With the crowded conditions as they are at SUI (and Iowa State (ISU) and State College of Iowa (SCI), the other two institutions governed by the Board of Regents), it is necessary to be certain those who are in school are students of relatively high quality.

There seem to be many freshmen (as well as upper-classmen), however, who are content to do only the minimum amount of work to get by. This type of person would welcome a 1.0 minimum for his average could fall that low, and he would still be eligible to continue his college "education."

College is a four-year proposition, however, and too many students who settled for this minimum their freshman year would find the 2.0 average necessary for graduation extremely difficult to ever reach.

Dropping the college freshman requirement to 1.0 average would, we believe, allow the students to remain who were more interested in monkey business than in the business of study.

Regent member Maurice Crabbe stated Friday that he felt the 1.5 freshman standard ruled out too large a share of students. He would not object to a 1.5 for sophomores, but preferred a 1.0 for freshman, he said.

Crabbe contended that both the state and the student would benefit by keeping poorer students in college as long as possible, even if they didn't have a chance of being graduated.

SCI President J. W. Maucker provided a rebuttal to this argument. We think it is sound. He stated that poor students pull down the quality of instruction in the classroom and dilute the intellectual atmosphere on the campus. Public policy of "getting everyone through" is now limited to elementary and high school levels, he continued. In order to get everyone through the first two years, the college work would have to be made easy enough for all, Maucker contends. This "watering down" of instruction to fit the student has occurred in high school but should be avoided in colleges, Maucker believes.

So do we. It is true that the freshman faces a completely different environment as he moves from high school into college. Not only are his assignments more difficult, but there is much less "police work" done by the instructor to see that they are done. In addition, some students may have attended high schools where the instruction was not nearly as good as others for preparing a freshman for the college academic challenge. The freshman in this situation faces an additional burden not suffered by all his classmates. And finally, nearly every individual freshman has some special problem of his own he faces in college adjustment.

While it can't be denied that these problems exist, neither can it be overlooked that all freshmen face the same difficulties. The better students are able to survive them. We believe that the freshman has time to adjust in a one-year period and establish at least a 1.5 grade point average. Therefore, that length of time is adequate for determining whether he should continue his college career or whether it will be terminated for him.

College life teaches not only academic learning. It has its own unique method of teaching responsibility.

If the student takes the initiative, he can do well — at least 1.5 grade points worth — even with the adjustment difficulties. But if he does not take some initiative and establish at least that grade point level, then he had better move out and make room for someone who will work to do so.

—Phil Currie.

Matter of Fact —

Mr. K's Strike at Stalin Meant for Someone Else?

By JOSEPH ALSOP

BELGRADE — The mystery of the new turn of events in the Soviet Union lies in the black, unshamed horror of the posthumous trial of Stalin. This is what needs to be explained.

The 22nd Party Congress in Moscow could have continued de-Stalinization. It could also have completed the squashing of the wretched Molotov and the other members of the so-called anti-party group. And it could have done both these things without officially telling the Russian masses and the world that under Stalin the Communist political system had been no better than hell-on-earth.

IN THE PHRASE of one shrewd Yugoslav leader, Nikita S. Khrushchev "seems to have used a sledgehammer to kill a mouse." This appearance is quite certainly deceptive, however, as the same man hastened to point out. In the Communist half of the world, it must be remembered, the method of indirect attack is highly perfected. When Mao Tse-tung bellowed bitterly denunciations "the Yugoslav Tito and the revisionist clique," he is mainly attacking Khrushchev. Khrushchev is mainly attacking Mao, by the same token, when he furiously berates the Albanians and other "dogmatists."

In the same fashion, beyond any doubt, the sledgehammer of the 22nd Party Congress was aimed at a target as yet unidentified and a target, moreover, of a size and strength to justify the employment of a sledgehammer. There is little doubt here in Belgrade that the Chinese Communist Government was the true target. And indeed no other conclusion fits the facts.

IT WAS EASY enough to attack the Chinese Communists by staging a posthumous trial of Joseph Stalin. With the inauguration of the agricultural communes in 1958, Mao Tse-tung began the forced industrialization of China by the same gruesome and terrible methods which Stalin employed in Russia in the thirties. But if this identification of Khrushchev's real target is correct, another enormous question demands an answer. Why did the attack take this particular form? It is common knowledge that Sino-Soviet relations have been worsening for a long time. But ostensibly, at least, foreign policy has been the main subject in dispute. Why should the hellish character of Stalin's internal administration have any bearing at all on this Sino-Soviet argument about whether another World War is avoidable or unavoidable? The period of Stalin's most hideous crimes revealed at the Party Congress was also a period of extreme Soviet caution, even timidity, in foreign policy.

From the vantage point of Belgrade, it appears that the answer to the questions asked above is fairly sensational. It appears in fact that Khrushchev has now gone a very long stage beyond mere criticism of the Chinese for wrong foreign policy ideas and general "dogmatism."

BY NAKEDLY displaying to the world all the blood-stained crimes of Stalin, he has apparently mounted a brutal though indirect attack on the domestic policies of the modern Stalinists in Peking. In the foreign policy dispute, where Khrushchev says "Albania," you can always read "China." And now it seems that in Khrushchev's posthumous trial of Stalin, where he said "Stalin," you could read "Mao Tse-tung."

Beyond doubt, Stalin's posthumous trial also had other aims. Khrushchev must have wished to rewrite the sacred tradition of the Communist party in conformity with his own ideas and plans for the future. He must also have wished to administer a sharp corrective shock to the surviving conservatives of the Russian and Eastern European satellite parties. These things he has done too. But the more you study the evidence and consider the problem, the more an attack on the Chinese appears to be the primary aim.

It is anyone's guess why Khrushchev chose to mount such an attack at this time. The problem is made more interesting by the fact that Khrushchev added the posthumous trial of Stalin to the planned program of the Communist party congress at the very last moment. And this fact appears to be well-established.

THERE IS ONE clue that perhaps simplifies the guessing game. Nothing much has been said about it in the outside world, but the Albanians have in recent months conducted a general massacre of every party official, bureaucrat, and military officer in Albania who has ever had reasonably close relations with the Russians. Massacres in Albania being common form, no great significance has been attached to this development.

But what if the Albanians' big brothers in Peking have quietly begun a comparable massacre in the Chinese party? What if a purge is now in progress of all the numerous Chinese party members and bureaucrats and military officers who had intimate dealings with the Russians in the period of close Sino-Soviet cooperation? What if any suspicion of leanings towards sympathy with Khrushchev has now become an automatic sentence of death or banishment in Communist China?

LIKE STALIN before 1934, the Chinese Communists have dealt brutally with the masses, but have thus far refrained from any blood purge of the sacred party. There is no evidence, as yet, that any such purge has begun or has been ordered in China. There is nothing more than a series of vague reports of the disappearance of Chinese unlucky enough to have been assigned to work with the Russian technicians who formerly aided China's industrial build-up.

But Khrushchev would hear of such a purge before the West caught the first faint echo. If he had heard that such a purge had begun, or even if he heard that it had been ordered, the posthumous trial of Stalin would be a most natural riposte. The guess — for that is all it is — is deeply interesting. For if the blood purges have begun, or are soon to begin, in China, this will be a vast, potentially convulsive event.

On Other Campuses

By ERIC ZOECKLER
Staff Writer

A group of Cornell College students — our neighbors to the north — plan to leave for Washington, D.C. soon to stage a three-day fast and demonstration in opposition to the proposed United States resumption of atmospheric nuclear tests.

The idea, coined last week when a delegation of Grinnell College students held a similar demonstration in front of the White House, has also been accepted by the students at Carleton (Minn.) College and Bluffton (Ohio) College. Carleton students picketed last weekend and the Bluffton group was to take over yesterday. According to a story in the Cornellian, the school's paper, the Cornell group hopes to leave today or tomorrow.

The group is to include both students and faculty the size of which will be determined by monetary donations. Students who favored the idea met last Sunday and donations were taken and plans made.

Those in favor of the idea, but unable to make the trip were asked to show sympathy on campus and engage in a three-day fast as their fellow students will in Washington.

The movement is entirely student-initiated and does not have official recognition from the administration.

JUST ONCE in our lives, we would like to make a hit with someone important.

Well, a Navy ROTC cadet at the University of Texas made a big impression on the Secretary of Navy, John B. Connally, when the cadet accidentally struck the secretary below the left eyebrow with the butt of a bayoneted rifle while the official was inspecting a NROTC honor guard at the Austin Municipal Airport.

Secretary Connally had almost finished reviewing the crack drill squad when he leaned over to look at a student's ribbon and was struck as the rifle was being brought up to the order "present arms."

Connally was rushed to a hospital by police escort where he was treated and released with no apparent damage done to the eye.

AND SOMETIMES you think you have just the answer to create good feeling between you and say, for instance, your parents and professors but everything backfires.

Like the 12 students at Central Michigan University who are in hot water for a seemingly great idea — they studied too much.

The dozen staged a sitdown strike in the school library to protest the changing of closing hours from 11 to 10 p.m.

The 12 were placed on probation for the remainder of the semester. Their plight was accompanied by a deluge of letters to the student newspaper.

PURDUE'S FOOTBALL team may be wondering this week, "Somebody down there doesn't like us," as the tension increases before the Indiana-Purdue battle Saturday.

Apparently such a rivalry exists between the two that the sports staff of the Indiana Daily Student has taken it upon itself to institute a major style change — that of referring to their "north-ern neighbors as Purdue — not Purdue."

Each day the staff runs a picture of one of the "FIGHTIN' Hoosiers" in a series entitled "How the FIGHTIN' Hoosiers are going to wallop Purdue."

TWO WEEKS ago we presented the story of students of North Carolina's 12 state-supported institutions who staged a 700-mile marathon run across the state to impress voters to accept a $61.5 million bond issue.

Their purpose was to prevent the inevitable if the issue was not passed — a rise in their monthly bills.

Well, after running the 700 miles, getting complete coverage and support of the state's newspapers and police forces, the students set back and awaited the verdict.

White the votes were being counted, the runners soothed blistered feet, but the news finally came that their efforts had been to no avail — the voters defeated the measure.

In protest, students at North Carolina State Teachers forgot their aching footsies and stormed the park in the center of the campus and had to be quelled by local police.

Letters to the Editor—

Blames U.S. Press

To the Editor:

As a foreign student I would like to offer my comments on the recent report on the 50,000 foreign students who are now in the U.S. It was feared in this report that unless some effective steps are taken, these students are likely to return home with anti-American sentiments.

I have been in the U.S. for three years now and I don't think any of us, with a fair and open mind, could question the inherent friendliness of American people — from my own personal experiences I am even tempted to say that the Americans are more than friendly to foreigners. By virtue of my being a foreigner once I missed getting a speeding ticket and another time a parking ticket. It appears to me that the blame for the growing anti-American sentiments in foreign students lies with the American press and not the American people.

With the exception of a few really outstanding newspapers, most American papers seem to give "views, and not the news". Each and every newspaper is entitled to its own point of view, but in our countries these are kept restricted only to the editorial page. Whereas here it is quite customary to find on every page of the issue some kind of derogatory remarks on the nations that do not see eye to eye with the United States on certain issues. Expressions like, "so-called neutral nations", "self-styled neutrals" are just a few in current use these days. How are we, the foreign students, supposed to react to these constant lashings to our national sentiments?

American newspapers still seem to live in the 'Dulles Era' when the cry of the day was "if you are not with us, you are against us". Russians have indeed capitalized on this by their more open policy of "if you are not with us, at least don't be against us". The unfortunate consequences of this short-sighted policy are to be seen today in southeast Asia. The U.S. Government has since revised its former policy, but the American newspapers do not seem to be in any mood to learn from the experience. The various newspapers here might be owned by different groups but they all seem unanimous at least on one policy: the downgrading of nations which do not see eye to eye with U.S. policies. We accuse the Russians for the political brain-washing of their prisoners, but what is allowed to happen in this country is indeed much worse. Here there is a mass brain-washing of people through the medium of newspapers, radio and television.

Unless effective steps are taken to curb these tendencies and a sense of fair-play encouraged in the minds of American people towards understanding the points of view of other nations, the danger of foreign students returning home with anti-American sentiments would always remain great.

Suggests Change of Ways

To the Editor:

Regarding last Wednesday night's broadcast concerning the SUI Symphony Orchestra, it seems almost necessary to say that the performance of the Mozart piano concerto left a great deal to be desired. One is willing to grant that occasionally the orchestra was in tune with itself, and as if it were bestowing a great favor, in tune with the piano; occasionally William Dopperman and Paul Olefsky began and ended a measure at the same time; and it must be admitted that Dopperman's cadenzas were brilliantly executed, indicating that he is surely a good solo pianist.

However, the tempo in all three movements was unacceptably rapid with the result that the exquisite interaction of Mozart's harmonic and melodic textures was all but suppressed in what appeared to be a hysterical race to see whether soloist or orchestra would be first to reach the end.

It is regrettable that I think that most of the values of Mozart were not realized in that performance.

Nevertheless, the SUI Symphony Orchestra has great potential, and Olefsky and Dopperman are undoubtedly fine musicians — so much so, that it would be preferable to keep one's occasional objections to oneself. And, indeed, this writer would have been more than willing to do so had it not been for the insupportable performance of one last, but inevitably present, link in these broadcasts — Larry Barrett.

There is no need here to analyze in detail his largely garbled ad-libbing, the irrelevant content of his remarks, the heavy-handed mispronunciations which are regularly swept under the carpet of a patronizing attitude and an occasional burst of really magnificent pomposity. What is essential, however, is the necessity to call Barrett's attention that his function as a music announcer must preclude the possibility of slobbering over music and musicians as though he were Iowa City's grand matron of the arts warming up for a post-concert tea. Let him swing his pearls in some other direction — preferably sports — where he can do no harm.

His raving over Mozart last Wednesday night as an "incomparable performance" could perhaps be put down to a heightened sense of loyalty and school spirit that "grows by what it feeds on" (however anachronistic this may be in a person of his years), or perhaps simply another wearisome demonstration of his lack of taste. However, the obvious danger in such pubescent enthusiasm is underscored the moment as much as one person in WSUI's listening audience disagrees.

Why cannot Barrett allow the listeners to make up their own minds, to exercise their own values regarding the merits of a musical performance? He cannot seriously believe that those who choose to listen to classical music over WSUI are nevertheless so untutored that they can barely wait for the music to be over in order to hear from him how well they were supposed to have liked it.

In any case, Barrett would do well to ponder the responsibilities of broadcasting in a free society — preferably while on a long vacation from WSUI. Indeed the dignity of our radio station as an educational service would be suddenly and greatly enhanced by his removal. Yet, since the mill of civil service grinds slowly, it would be enough if Barrett would simply change his ways.

Not Nonsense

To the Editor:

In answer to the letter asking why it is necessary that the residents of Burge sit in the dark for an evening of nonsense, as it was called. This policy is not nonsense.

If there was a chance of a panty raid occurring by having the girl's dorms completely quiet and dark this plan would probably be quitted. If there are no signs of encouragement from the girls the boys will not have the incentive to continue the panty raid.

Also this enforced curfew, as it could be called, did not last all night. At the longest, it probably lasted for an hour.

It was seen just a few years ago that college students sometimes do act as two-year-olds will and that they therefore do need such supervision.

The structure of Burge is strong enough to keep out the boys but accidents do happen and if they got in it is easy to see they could damage a lot of property as well as create havoc.

Because there is a chance of their getting in, I think it is easy to see why these rules must be enforced even if they inconvenience us for a short while.

Dominican Opposition

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — The leaders of the two biggest opposition political parties returned from Washington Tuesday to a wild demonstration which old time residents call the biggest in their memory.

The entire population of this city of 300,000 seemed to have turned out for the return of Dr. Viriato Fiallo, president of the National Civic Union, and Manuel Tavares Justo, president of the 14th of July Movement.

Fiallo clearly was the center of mass adulation. The chanting, prancing, crying Dominicans hailed him as "liberator." Fiallo fought the late Generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo for the length of his 31-year dictatorship without taking exile. He was jailed several times.

Earlier in the day the National Civic Union and the 14th of July Movement joined a third opposition faction, the Revolutionary Front in announcing support for President Balaguer following the forced exodus of leading members of the Trujillo dynasty.

The demonstration became wild that police were forced to begin throwing rocks after a

The unfortunate consequences of this short-sighted policy are to be seen today in Asia. # Dominicans Cheer Opposition Heads

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — The leaders of the two biggest opposition political parties returned from Washington Tuesday to a wild demonstration which old time residents called the biggest in their memory.

The entire population of this city of 300,000 seemed to have turned out for the return of Dr. Viriato A. Fiallo, president of the National Civic Union, and Manuel Tavarez Justo, president of the 14th of June Movement.

Fiallo clearly was the center of mass adulation. The chanting, prancing, crying Dominicans hailed him as "liberator." Fiallo fought the late Generalissimo Rafael Leonidas Trujillo the full length of his 31-year dictatorship without taking exile. He was jailed several times.

Earlier in the day the National Civic Union and the 14th of June Movement joined a third opposition faction, the Revolutionary Party, in announcing support for President Balaguer following the forced exodus of leading members of the Trujillo dynasty.

The demonstration became so wild that police were forced to use noise bombs to scatter crowds that began throwing rocks after an incident apparently sparked by accident. There was no evidence of injuries.

Earlier a Dominican Airlines plane carrying more members and friends of the Trujillo family took off for Miami. They included Gen. Pedro Trujillo and Virgilio Garcia Trujillo, respectively brother and nephew of Rafael Trujillo, who was assassinated last May 30.

Witnesses said the rock throwing began after a policeman accidentally touched off a noise bomb. The crowd then began throwing rocks at the only police car in the procession bringing the opposition leaders to the capital.

A few members of the opposition party formed a protective ring around the policemen and urged the crowd to stop throwing rocks. The disorder quickly subsided.

Since then, Balaguer, backed by a show of U.S. strength and young Dominican Air Force generals, forced the top Trujillo leaders into exile and won pledges of support from the bulk of the military. U.S. warships and Marines, however, remained close offshore.

Paper To Publish Despite Strikers

MILWAUKEE — The Milwaukee Journal, with most of its craft union members refusing to cross a picket line carrying AFL-CIO Council sanction, dropped to an eight-page edition without advertising Tuesday.

But Journal company President Irwin Maier said in a front page statement that the newspaper "will continue to publish to the best of its ability."

Meanwhile, Robert Ameln, international representative of the International Typographical Union, said the ITU had made a formal complaint to the Wisconsin Industrial Commission that the Journal was employing minors during the strike.

He also said he had complained to officials of Marquette University and the University of Wisconsin at Milwaukee that their students "are being used in strike-breaking activity."

The Journal had no immediate comment.

Harvey Career Probed Court Blocks Friend's Effort To Take Papers

MIAMI, Fla. — The Coast Guard, pursuing its investigation of the apparent mass murder aboard the ketch Bluebelle, dug deeper Tuesday into the strange career of its skipper.

An attempt by a friend to take the papers left by Capt. Julian A. Harvey was blocked by a court order. Police said the papers contained naming letters and bills which might explain why Harvey may have destroyed the ship and all but one of the six other persons aboard.

Harvey committed suicide in a Miami motel last Friday, less than 24 hours after Terry Jo Deperault, lone survivor of the tragedy, was picked up after 3½ days in a life raft. Terry Jo has fully recovered, but may be hospitalized for another week.

Lt. Ernest L. Murdock, Coast Guard investigating officer, said the crew of the Gulfion would be questioned. The Gulfion picked up Harvey and the body of Terry Jo's sister, Renee, 7, from a lifeboat about 12 hours after the Bluebelle went down.

Murdock said men in a British lighthouse at Great Stirrup Cay also would be asked if they saw a burning ship the night the Bluebelle sank. Murdock said Harvey testified the ship went down within 14 miles of the lighthouse.

Meanwhile, it was learned that Terry Jo was protected from the ketch's captain even before she branded Harvey as a mass murderer.

At the Coast Guard's request, Miami police posted armed guards inside Terry Jo's hospital room while she recovered from her ordeal. The request came after the Coast Guard noted discrepancies in Harvey's story.

After he committed suicide, police were withdrawn and only a hospital guard remained.

Terry Jo gave testimony indicating Harvey killed his passengers, including the last of his several wives, and scuttled the vessel 50 miles northwest of Nassau, Bahamas, on Nov. 12.

Harvey told the Coast Guard the mainmast broke, tore a hole in the hull, fire broke out and the ship sank within 15 minutes. He said he was unable to reach the other persons aboard.

At Toms River, N.J., the former owner of the Bluebelle said he doubted Harvey's story.

"I was amazed when I read that the mast snapped off," said Harry Duckworth, an attorney. "I had the mast rebuilt myself and it would take a hurricane to knock it down."

Fuel Switch Shut In Airliner Crash

RICHMOND, Va. — An airliner that crashed and burned Nov. 8 had rust in critical fuel elements and went down with an emergency fuel switch shut, a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing was told Tuesday.

Seventy-four Army recruits and three of the five-member crew perished in the flaming wreckage two miles short of Richmond's Byrd Field.

Frank T. Taylor, head of the CAB group that investigated the plane's four engines, said iron oxide was found in the filters of two engines, which quit while the Imperial Airlines Constellation was ferrying the recruits from northern cities to Ft. Jackson, S.C.

In addition, Taylor told the hearing, the rust was discovered in the fuel injection nozzles of all four engines and in a pump on the No. 2 engine — the only one fully operative as the faltering craft plunged into a swampy woodland while making an emergency landing.

Taylor said the substance was reddish-brown in color and had been submitted to the FBI for analysis.

The closed emergency cross-over fuel valve in the cabin was brought out in testimony from the plane's surviving pilot, Ronald H. Conway of West Hollywood, Fla.

Conway and Flight Engineer William F. Poythress of Miami were the only survivors.

Conway said he did not learn until after the crash — when told by Poythress — that the emergency valve was closed.

He said student flight engineer Peter Clark had been sent back to turn on the switch manually. Clark came back and asked for a screw driver, Conway said he was told by Poythress.

But the plane's co-pilot, Capt. James Greenlee, had told Clark to leave the valve closed, Conway said.

Disarmament Effort Asked By Church

NEW DELHI — The Russian Orthodox Church Tuesday called on the World Council of Churches to press for universal disarmament.

The appeal came in a message to the council's third general assembly from Patriarch Alexis of Moscow, head of the Russian church, within 24 hours after it had been admitted to the global church body.

"The world is full of tension," the message said. "In performance of their duty of peacemaking... all Christians must resolutely call upon and induce leaders of states to start negotiations."

The objective, the patriarch said, should be "achieving agreement on universal and complete disarmament with effective international control and also on other problems that are a source of concern to mankind."

No mention was made of nuclear tests.

The patriarch, represented here by a 16-man delegation seated Monday by overwhelming vote, voiced "profound satisfaction" at being part of this "brotherhood of Christian churches."

The council now includes 198 Protestant, Orthodox, Anglican, non-Roman Catholic and other bodies with more than 300 million members, the largest array of different believers ever amassed in the modern age.

Western churchmen, meanwhile, gave a generally hopeful and warm reception to the long isolated and ancient Russian church although conceding there are potential conflicts.

Scouts To Entertain Handicapped Children

Girls from three Iowa City Girl Scout troops and students from the Iowa Mennonite school, Kalona, will entertain pupils at the SUI Hospital School for Severely Handicapped Children on Thanksgiving Day.

Nancy Wallen of Iowa City is in charge of the program arranged by the Girl Scouts for Thursday morning at the school.

A turkey dinner with all the traditional "trimmings" is planned for the children at the Hospital School at noon Thanksgiving Day.

To Revise Driver Test

DES MOINES — A new driver's license examination probably will be revised before it is placed in general use, the State Safety Department said Tuesday.

In a recent test of the examination, some of the questions were found to be confusing to some applicants.

Of 600 persons who took the new written examination, 31 per cent fail it.

"I would much rather have seen that valve open," Conway replied. The valve permits fuel to pass from tanks in one wing to engines in the opposite wing.

Students from the Iowa Mennonite school will give a program Thursday afternoon.

what's pure research?

Distinguished from that which has practical application, pure research is concerned with the discovery of fundamental knowledge to widen man's understanding of himself and the universe.

Ford Motor Company's Scientific Laboratory in Dearborn, Michigan is dedicated to the pursuit of knowledge in the physical sciences. On its staff are scientists of national and international reputation who conduct independent basic research programs of an extremely broad nature.

Why does Ford Motor Company support research which seemingly is unrelated to the manufacture of its products?

It is our view, and a pioneering concept in our industry, that entirely new approaches to automotive development can come only from unhampered scientific investigation. Deeper understanding of matter itself, and of the conversion and storage of energy—aside from widening man's primary knowledge—may have practical application in tomorrow's vehicle design.

Thus knowledge gleaned from nature by scientists will be taken by technologists and applied to serve practical needs and desires. Another example of Ford's leadership through scientific research and engineering.

Irish Not Ready To Return Disputed Game to Syracuse

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO (AP) — Notre Dame's Fighting Irish shunted as "ambiguous and illogical" a statement made jointly Tuesday by commissioners of the Big Ten and Eastern College Athletic Conferences that the Irish beat Syracuse 17-15 last Saturday on an erroneous ruling by game officials. Tuesday night, Syracuse said it believed the commissioners ruled correctly and Athletic Director Lew Andreas said flatly: "We believe absolutely Syracuse won the game 15-14."

The controversial ruling, on a roughing of placekicker Joe Perkowski and ball-holding George Sefcik with three seconds left, allowed Perkowski a second field goal try which he hit, with no time left, from the 31-yard line for the bizarre Irish triumph.

Shortly after commissioners Bill Reed of the Big Ten and Asa Bushnell of the ECAC issued a joint statement asserting the game officials erred in their call, the Rev. Edmund C. Joyce, C.S.C., Notre Dame's vice president and chairman of the faculty board, commented:

"We are quite surprised at the developments following our last minute victory over Syracuse. We felt and still feel that the officials made the proper decision on the field. The infraction occurred before the ball was dead."

"Therefore, it seems mandatory that a penalty be invoked. It is strange that officials now feel otherwise. At any rate, the interpretation given to the basic NCAA football rules as it applies to the point in question seems to us to be both ambiguous and illogical."

"We endorse Mr. Reed's request that the rule and interpretation be clarified and urge that a special committee of rules experts be convened by the NCAA for this purpose."

The nub of the whole dispute appeared to be whether the game was over when Perkowski's first field goal try from 56 yards out failed and was slammed into by a Syracuse rusher.

At Syracuse, Andreas noted that the Orange also endorsed Reed's request and said Walter Byers, executive director of the NCAA, had agreed to ask the NCAA rules committee for a final ruling.

"We believe Commissioners Reed and Bushnell have interpreted correctly and we know the game officials in their reports admitted their mistake in allowing the extra play," Andreas said. "Syracuse is confident the committee NCAA rules committee will agree with the commissioner's report."

According to a film clip shown here Tuesday by Notre Dame sports publicist Charles Callahan, Perkowski was bowled over after his kick, and in turn knocked over ball-holder Sefcik.

Gus Skibbie of Bowling Green, Ohio, head linesman supplied by the Big Ten, called a 15-yard penalty even though time had expired and Perkowski then booted his dramatic 43-yard field goal for the Irish win.

The Big Ten had three officials, the ECAC had two assigned to the game.

The Reed-Bushnell statement said the replay should not have been allowed under "established interpretations" of the rules. The two commissioners, backed by Gen. Bob Neyland, Tennessee athletic director and chairman of the NCAA rules committee, said Notre Dame lost "possession" of the ball on Perkowski's first fumble try.

They quoted "official interpretations" of the NCAA rules as stating "a foul during the kick, including roughing the kicker, will not extend the period as the ball is not in the kicking team's possession."

The Reed-Bushnell statement tossed the ball to Notre Dame with the comment that "all concerned express deep regrets at the confusion surrounding this issue. It is necessary to point out there is no redress in the rules for any faulty application or administration of the rules."

The implication was that the matter might be remedied if Notre Dame agreed with their verdict and surrendered victory to Syracuse.

But Notre Dame apparently was in no mood to give the game back to the boys from Syracuse.

Don't Forget!

Iowa's varsity basketball team will meet the freshmen on the Iowa Field House court Monday, Nov. 27, 7:30 p.m. Admission will be free. The Hawks open regular season play at Evansville College of Indiana Dec. 2.

'Bama' Rated No. 1; Hawks Not Mentioned

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — No. 1 Alabama Coach Paul Bryant, he doesn't think his Crimson Tide football team's No. 1 rating in The Associated Press poll will work as a jinx.

"I don't believe in a jinx," he says.

Nevertheless, there's such a thing as occasional caution.

"I sometimes wear the same hat and tie to games," he says. "But that's because I'm a coward."

Bryant's unbeaten and untied team — the only major football power with such a record at this late stage in the season — climbed to the top Tuesday with 39 first place votes from the 49 members of the AP panel of sports writers and sportscasters. Alabama drew a total of 469 points in the voting.

A 10-0 victory over Georgia Tech, plus the 6-0 downfall of Texas at the hands of TCU, catapulted Alabama from second to the top. Ohio State moved into second place with six first-place votes and 408 points. Minnesota was third with 354, and Texas slipped to fifth with 321.

Iowa's Hawkeyes, rated No. 1 in preseason voting and ranked 23 in last week's poll, failed to receive any votes and vanished from the rankings for the first time this year.

Points are figured on the basis of 10 for a first-place vote, 9 for a second-place vote, and so on, through 1 for a 10th-place vote.

Alabama, now 9-0 in the standings, and unscored-on in the last four games, needs only to whip Auburn on Dec. 2 to complete its first unbeaten season in 16 years. The Tide has an open date this Saturday.

Hawks Practice Indoors

The Iowa Hawkeyes worked out in pads for an hour and a half Tuesday, drilling for their football finale against Notre Dame here Saturday.

The practice started outside but a cold, driving rain forced the team into the fieldhouse. The Hawks stressed offense in the drills and finished off with an offensive scrimmage.

Coach Jerry Burns said the 13 seniors on the squad have launched a sort of campaign of their own to beat the Irish.

NEW YORK — With games being decided after time has run out (a la Notre Dame-Syracuse) and players running for touchdowns while the other team is still in a huddle (a la Army-Oklahoma), anything can happen in a football game — and usually does.

But there wasn't much fishy about last week's score: 39-12 for 765, including the longshot TCU victory over Texas.

School's out for those who attend our radio classrooms as well as for those who are in physical attendance (if not mental) at SUI. American Intellectual History will be treated from the air today, Friday and Monday. Shakespeare, however, will miss only on Friday.

Plane Threat Halts Galvao Deportation

By CAROLYN GOTTSCHALK
Staff Writer

An unusual collection of jewelry and hollowware designed by Barry W. Bradley, A3, Iowa City, is now on display in the Terrace Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

The display, valued at $7,115, includes necklaces, bracelets, rings, and other pieces of jewelry made from gold, silver, platinum and precious and semi-precious stones.

The collection will remain on display until the end of the month. Bradley does all his work on a commission basis. After getting a general idea of the desired piece of work, he prepares a drawing which he submits to his client.

Most of his work is done for students, faculty members or townspeople. All but three pieces in the collection have been loaned for the display. The other three pieces have not been sold.

"In making jewelry," Bradley said, "I like to design as if I were making a small piece of sculpture. I prefer to design jewelry which relies mainly upon enameling and semi-precious stones."

Before coming to SUI as an art major, Bradley studied silversmithing in a Wichita, Kan., art association for six years.

One piece in the display is a diamond and black opal pendant which he values at $1,100. His favorite piece is a platinum, gold and emerald ring which he designed for himself.

Bradley says that people are beginning to appreciate works of art for their design alone instead of the monetary value of the materials employed in their construction. "Too many people overlook the fact that there are many silversmiths who don't work in precious stones," he said.

He said he makes about 70 pieces of jewelry each year. Spring is his busy season because of the demand for wedding bands then.

Bradley plans to continue in silversmithing work after his graduation.

4 Get Nominations

Four SUI students have been nominated for Rhodes Scholarships at Oxford University for 1962-63, according to Rhodes Dunlap, professor of English and director of the SUI Honors Program.

The students nominated are Alan Pistorius A4, Burlington, Robert Peterson, A4, Olds; John Rutherford, A4, Lincoln, Neb.; and Jared Tinklenberg, M1, Iowa City. They will appear before selection committees in December.

Albrizio Art Exhibition Shown in Des Moines

A retrospective exhibition of works by Humbert Albrizio, professor of art, will be shown through Dec. 3 at the Des Moines Art Center.

The exhibition includes works by the SUI sculptor in stone, wood, bronze, welded metal and terra cotta. Earliest pieces in the show are two figures in stone completed by Albrizio in 1935 — "Sonia" and "Young Figure." Of the 46 works of sculpture in the exhibition, 11 were completed in 1961.

A number of drawings by Albrizio are also included in the show. The artist came to SUI in 1942, where he taught sculpture for the next 10 years. He taught at the University of Wisconsin from 1952-54 and returned to SUI in 1954.

Born in New York City, Albrizio studied at the Beaux Arts Institute of Design, the New School for Social Research and the Industrial Art School, all in New York. His teachers included Gutson Gorglum, U.S. Ricci and Jose De Greeff.

Albrizio has won many art awards and honors and his works are now in many museums and private collections.

Topics of individual lectures in the series are: "New Plateau of Judicial Power," Dec. 4; "A Question of Democracy," Dec. 5; "Choice of Forums," Dec. 6; and "Making Democracy Safe for the Nation," Dec. 7.

Hyneman presented a group of lectures on judicial power last spring at SUI. The December series will supplement the earlier talks.

The Indiana professor was elected president of the American Political Science Association for 1960-61. He is the author of three books: "The Study of Politics," "Bureaucracy in a Democracy" and "The First American Neutrality."

The Benjamin Shambaugh Lectures, initiated at SUI in 1960, deal with subjects related to government and citizenship and are financed by income from a bequest of Mrs. Benjamin Shambaugh in memory of her husband, the first head of the SUI Department of Political Science.

Water Level Cut In Coralville Dam

The United States Army Corps of Engineers opened the gates of the Coralville dam yesterday to lower the level of the reservoir before more rain or snow arrives.

The engineers raised the rate of discharge from 1,000 cubic feet per second to 5,000 in expectation of rain or snow, predicted to fall today and Thursday.

The reservoir level before the increased discharge rate was 690 feet above sea level — just 22 feet below the top of the dam. The normal level at this time of year is 680 feet above sea level.

Water Level Cut In Coralville Dam

The United States Army Corps of Engineers opened the gates of the Coralville dam yesterday to lower the level of the reservoir before more rain or snow arrives.

The engineers raised the rate of discharge from 1,000 cubic feet per second to 5,000 in expectation of rain or snow, predicted to fall today and Thursday.

The reservoir level before the increased discharge rate was 690 feet above sea level — just 22 feet below the top of the dam. The normal level at this time of year is 680 feet above sea level.

Rockefeller Party Reaches New Guinea

Ships, Planes Still Search for Michael Rockefeller in Marsh

BIAW ISLAND, New Guinea (AP)—New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller arrived here Wednesday by chartered jet airliner, grimly indicating that the chances are dim that his youngest son, Michael, would be found alive.

But his daughter, Mary Rockefeller Strawbridge, Mike's twin, clung to the belief that the 23-year-old science student can take care of himself.

Lines of sadness on the Governor's pale face bespoke his realization that lack of word about his son since Sunday increased the odds against Michael's survival in this wild and remote part of Dutch New Guinea.

A companion who was rescued by a Dutch warship reported that he had last seen Michael floating on two jerry cans — all-purpose military fuel cans — in rough water some 14 miles off shore.

"I must go on," the Governor told newsmen who accompanied him on the anxious dash across the Pacific. "I would never forgive myself if I did less than the very most I can do."

He seemed bolstered by Mary's quiet confidence that her brother would be found.

Dutch officials meeting him after the flight from Wake Island said intensive searching of a wide area of the south coast uncovered no trace of Michael, who had been on an artifacts collecting expedition. His companion was R. S. Wassing, 34, of Rotterdam. Young Rockefeller had previously been with a scientific party from Harvard.

The Governor's party left the chartered jet here to transfer to a smaller plane for a flight to Hollandia, Dutch New Guinea capital. American missionaries on the south coast have joined in the hunt. They include Catholic brothers using canoes propelled by outboard motors and a doctor from the Protestant mission at Pirimapun.

While Dutch authorities steadfastly held out hope the search will be successful, a top expert on New Guinea said it will be a miracle if Michael is found alive. He said the coast "is virtually unreachable. The sea is infested with crocodiles and there are impenetrable marshes and dense thickets of mangrove bushes and roots."

A Boendermaker, deputy governor of Dutch New Guinea who said he knows the area "like my pocket," was interviewed in Holland where he is on vacation. He said it would be very difficult to spot Rockefeller if he has reached the coast and, meanwhile "he has little to live on. There is a little bit of raw fish and shrimps."

On land, the search was being conducted by four Dutch rescue parties. A score of ships and canoes crisscrossed the waters along the coast. Overhead, the search was aided by Dutch navy planes and aircraft of the Dutch New Guinea Airlines.

New England, West Get Heavy Snowfall

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy snow hobbled much of New England Tuesday.

The fall, providing a traditional Christmas setting in advance of Thanksgiving Day, ranged up to 18 to 20 inches in North Conway, N. H., in the White Mountain ski area.

The blanket measured 15 inches in Rumford, Maine, 13 in Berlin, N. H., and 8 inches in Worcester, Mass.

The snow covered all of New England except the southeastern coastal sections.

Another major storm built up far to the west.

A foot of snow burdened some mountain passes in southwestern Colorado. Three inches accumulated at Dove Creek in the southeastern district of the state.

Heavy snow warnings were issued for northeastern Colorado, southeastern Wyoming, western and north central Nebraska, southern and eastern South Dakota, northwestern Iowa and the southern and central portions of Minnesota.

The Weather Bureau in Denver figured 4 inches or more of blowing and drifting snow would spread over the snow sectors.

The New England storm closed some schools in Maine and New Hampshire.

Two traffic deaths, one in Massachusetts and another in Rhode Island, were blamed on the rough weather.

A 230-foot barge, unmanned and loaded with sulphuric acid, went adrift and sank off the Rhode Island coast.

Some New England resorts considered Thanksgiving skiing.

Snow fell in the western and northern sections of Minnesota.

A blend of drizzle and snow hit parts of the Dakotas. Thunderstorms broke out in Oklahoma.

Strong southerly winds that reached gale force in gusts whipped rain along the coasts of Washington and Oregon.

The University dropped them from its payroll when they failed to return on time.

Tuesday Dr. Richard Van Cleave, dean of the college of fisheries, said he got this note from Junge:

"For the past several years we have been making plans to come to live and work in one of the socialist countries. We are happy to say that our plans have succeeded and we now are living in Prague."

"I am very sorry that I was unable to discuss this with you several months ago and clear up details of my work at the University. In any case, if there are residual problems please write me about them."

Van Cleave said Junge never had given any indication of his plans or political ideas while at the University.

U.S. Scientist Defects; Move Long Planned

SEATTLE (AP)—A University of Washington scientist who went behind the Iron Curtain with his family disclosed in a letter received Tuesday that he had planned the action for several years.

Charles O. Junge, 46, member of the university's fisheries research staff, his scientist wife, Josephine, 54, and their 10-year-old adopted son turned up in Prague, Czechoslovakia, after a European vacation.

The University dropped them from its payroll when they failed to return on time.

Tuesday Dr. Richard Van Cleave, dean of the college of fisheries, said he got this note from Junge:

"For the past several years we have been making plans to come to live and work in one of the socialist countries. We are happy to say that our plans have succeeded and we now are living in Prague."

Pickets Hear Russ Official

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of Carleton College (Minn.) students was told at the Soviet Embassy Tuesday that recent Russian nuclear tests were set off in response to the buildup in U.S. military strength.

This is the same reply students from Grinnell College said they got from the Soviets during their three-day fast here last week in protest against nuclear testing.

The Iowa collegians have departed and other students have taken up where they left off. The Grinnell students were in Cleveland, Ohio, Tuesday and had breakfast at the estate of industrialist Cyrus Eaton, who invited them.

Before going to the Soviet Embassy the Carleton students had been ordered to keep their distance from the White House where they had been picketing.

Tom Rockmore, spokesman for the 16 Carleton students who have been picketing and fasting for the past two days, said the visit of West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer was given as the reason for the request that they not picket in front of the White House.

A White House official said pickets are not allowed within 500 feet of the executive mansion when the head of a foreign state is there. The students resumed their picketing a block away.

Ken Byalin, another Carleton student, said a Russian official by the name of Borisov talked to the group at their hour-long visit at the Soviet Embassy. Presumably this was first secretary Rostislav V. Borisov.

In reply to a statement from the group protesting military nuclear testing, Byalin said, Borisov replied that the recent Russian tests were conducted as the result of the mobilizing of U.S. reserves and because of the tension which has built up over the Berlin issues.

Rockmore quoted Borisov as saying that Russia would not test in the future unless the United States resumes its explosions.

Rockmore said a meeting has been arranged at the White House Wednesday afternoon for the group with an aide to McGeorge Bundy, presidential assistant.

The students, he said, were refused permission to visit the French Embassy.

"The French Embassy," Rockmore said, "just said no dice. They said their entire schedule was all filled up and there was no one to speak to us."

Kennedys Go To Cape Cod

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will spend a four-day Thanksgiving weekend on Cape Cod — devoting part of it to a conference on the military budget and part to an interview with the son-in-law of Russia's Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Kennedy will leave here today for his home at Hyannis Port, Mass., to spend the holiday with members of the Kennedy clan. There will be a big Thanksgiving dinner Thursday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy.

Then, on Friday, White House press secretary Pierre Salinger said, Kennedy will confer at Hyannis Port with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. There is a dual purpose, Salinger said:

1. To review the upcoming Defense Department budget. The President already has said that defense spending will be going up for the fiscal year starting next July 1.

2. To review the role of the Defense Department in the civil defense program. The department has been given primary responsibility in this field.

On Saturday, Salinger said, Kennedy will give an exclusive interview to Alexei I. Adzhubei, editor of the Soviet newspaper Isvestia, and son-in-law of Premier Khrushchev.

Ill. Redistricting Deadlock Broken

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—A seven-week-old deadlock over how to redraw Illinois congressional districts so there would be 24 instead of 25 was broken Tuesday at the conference committee level.

Leaders of both parties were represented on the 10 man House-Senate committee. It announced they reached an agreement to submit to both houses.

If the houses agree, they will avert sending congressional candidates into a costly, chaotic statewide election race.

Rep. William Pollack of Chicago, Republican House minority leader, said the details of the agreed new map will not be disclosed until after party caucuses today.

AEC Head Says Air Tests Needed For New Wapons

CHICAGO (AP)—Dr. Glenn Seaborg, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, says the United States has several nuclear weapons that are ready but have never been tested.

They cannot be checked out, he says, except by testing them in the air.

His comments, taped in advance for a television program, were made public Tuesday by the sponsor, Northwestern University.

The university's Digest related that Seaborg said President Kennedy must weigh the chances of a future war — which may be greater if this country does not resume atmospheric tests — against future genetic effects, which will be greater if the United States does renew air tests.

The Soviet Union broke a ban with a series of atmospheric tests. The United States recently resumed underground tests.

While the United States may be ahead in over-all nuclear capability, Seaborg said, Russia probably has made great strides as evidenced by its current tests.
