

Ron Stump's Attorney Asks District Court for New Trial

Cites Reasons Verdict Must Be Dropped

Juror Regrets Choice; 15 Non-Jurors Back Motion with Affidavits

DES MOINES (AP) — The defense attorney for Ronald M. Stump, 22, convicted of second degree murder, asked District Court Friday to set aside the conviction and grant the youth a new trial.

Stump was convicted by a jury of six men and six women last Nov. 4 in the fatal shooting of Michael Daly, 22, of Des Moines, in front of the Daly home the night of June 9.

In a 20-page document, Attorney J. Riley McManus cited 43 reasons why he said Stump should be given a new trial.

Breaking up the motions were 18 affidavits from 16 persons, including one of the jurors, who said, "I regret exceedingly that I voted in favor of the conviction of the defendant Stump."

The juror, Mrs. Nora Christensen of Des Moines, said she was of the opinion that the verdict of the jury was a "compromise verdict."

"I feel that I made a mistake," she said in her affidavit.

"It is my belief that the instructions dealing with second degree murder, either given out of sympathy for defendant or because of a desire to assure his conviction of some degree of murder, prejudiced defendant's rights in that it permitted the jury to resolve certain doubts they may have had as to the defendant's guilt in favor of the state."

"If the jury had a reasonable doubt on this point," Mrs. Christensen added, "and had the jury had no alternative but to find him guilty of second degree murder or not guilty, the jury would have resolved the doubt in favor of the defendant."

District Judge C. Edwin Moore, who tried the case, set Monday for arguments on the motions. Stump's sentencing is set for 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Stump, an SUI honor graduate from Keokuk, was accused of gunning down Daly as Daly fled from a car with his fiancée, Leana Jean Skultety.

Miss Skultety, 21-year-old attractive daughter of a Des Moines physician, testified during Stump's three-week-long trial that "I saw Ron shoot Mike."

Miss Skultety formerly was engaged to Stump, but said she broke off her relationship with him over religious differences.

She admitted during cross-examination by McManus that she and Daly were expecting a baby, but that she lost the child shortly after Daly's funeral.

Stump maintained he was driving to Ottumwa, via Knoxville, at the time Daly was slain.

The state's case, led by Assistant County Attorney Lee Gaudinier, was built around Miss Skultety's testimony and circumstantial evidence that sought to prove Stump was at the scene of the slaying.

Gaudinier contended that Stump "coolly calculated and carried out" Daly's killing because Stump was spurned by Miss Skultety.

The prosecution had asked the jury to convict him of first-degree murder, which carries either the death penalty or life imprisonment.

As an aftermath of the trial, campaigns were started in both Keokuk, Stump's home town, and Des Moines in an effort to raise funds for Stump's appeal.

District Judge C. Edwin Moore refused to lower the $50,000 bail he set for Stump. The youth is being held at the Polk County jail, where he has resided since his arrest in Ottumwa the day after the shooting.

Ceramics Building Remodel Planned

A remodeling is in the plan now for the ceramics building north of the Iowa Memorial Union following the second fire in 10 days, according to University officials.

Both blazes, the last one 12:30 a.m. Friday, started in the wooden framework of the building above some ceramic furnaces. The furnaces, called kilns, resemble brick ovens and, for a project, were kept burning over an extended period of time. The length of time was an important factor in the fire, art instructor James McKineel said.

The cost of the damage is not yet known.

Stevenson Denounces Red China

Calls Peiping Threatening, Brutal Power

Claims Admission to U.N. Would Shake World Confidence

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson denounced Communist China Friday as a reckless, brutal power threatening the very survival of mankind. He declared that to seat Peiping in the United Nations would shake world confidence in the organization.

The chief U.S. delegate spoke in the U.N. General Assembly after Valerian A. Zorin, Soviet deputy foreign minister, called for immediate seating of Communist China and expulsion of the Chinese Nationalist.

He upheld Peiping's right to crush the Nationalist regime on Taiwan by military might.

Stevenson accused the Chinese Communists of operating training camps for young guerrillas from Asia, Africa and Latin America.

He said that expulsion of the Chinese Nationalists would be taken by Peiping as signifying U.N. approval to launch an attack on Formosa.

Warning that the "whole future of the United States is at stake," he gave four principal reasons for barring the door to the Peiping regime:

1. The step, once taken, is irreversible, and once admitted Peiping would stay "for better or worse."

2. There is suspicion that once admitted the Chinese Communists would be encouraged to exert "by threats and maneuvers, a most disruptive and demoralizing influence on the organization at this critical moment in history."

3. Its admission, under condition "in which it continues to violate and defy the principles of the charter, could seriously shake public confidence in the United Nations."

4. In light of Peiping's demands, the expulsion of the Nationalists and admission of the Communists could have only one meaning: that the United Nations acquiesced to Peiping's design to conquer Taiwan and thereby "overthrow and abolish the independent government of the Republic of China."

Debate Meet Finals Today

Debaters from four midwest schools will compete in the semifinals of the Intercollegiate Forensic Conference today in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol. Finals will be at 10:30 a.m. followed by awards presentations at 11:45.

On the two affirmative teams are Phillip Raup and Clara Kurz of the University of Minnesota and Benny Dillow and Gary Erb of Parsons College of Fairfield. Taking the negative side are Don Johnson and Tom Benson of Augustana College, Illinois, and Luther Luettke and Donna Sederburg of Gustavus Adolphus, St. Peter, Minn.

The proposition being discussed is "Resolved: Labor Organizations Should Be Under the Jurisdiction of Anti-Trust Legislation."

Two hundred students from 24 midwestern colleges and universities have been taking part in the conference which began Nov. 30. A banquet was held Friday night at the Jefferson Hotel.

Winners in other divisions were: Extemporaneous speaking: Dean Salter, University of Kansas, first; John Swenson, University of Minnesota, second; Phillip Raup, University of Minnesota, third.

Oratory: E. Hade, State College of Iowa, first; Larry Myers, University of Nebraska, second; and Richard Weill, University of Nebraska, third.

Oral Interpretation: Gary Erb, Parsons, first; Jim Nichols, University of Missouri, second; Joan Lindstrom, Augustana of Illinois, third.

Hancher Designates SUI 'Mercy Day'

Jan. 25 Approved on Trial Basis

By JOAN ANDERSON Staff Writer

A special study day for a "mercy day" has been declared for Jan. 25, the day before the start of first semester finals.

President Virgil M. Hancher designated the special day upon the recommendations of five undergraduate colleges: Business Administration, Engineering, Liberal Arts, Nursing and Pharmacy.

The deans of these colleges drew up the recommendation at a meeting Friday morning. The faculty members of the five colleges are asked to dismiss classes on Jan. 25 unless prevented by previous commitments.

Classes will end on Wednesday, the study day will be on Thursday, and finals will begin Friday at 8 a.m. Previously classes have ended at 4:30 p.m. on Thursday and final exams have begun the following morning.

The idea of a study day grew out of a recommendation made to the Educational Policy Committee and the Executive Committee of the College of Liberal Arts by a Student Senate committee and the senior class officers.

The students presented the idea to the Liberal Arts Faculty Council first last spring and then again this fall.

Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, cautioned that the faculty will be interested in how the students use this day. He said deans were generally quite favorable to the idea but they questioned whether the students would make good use of the day.

He said continuation of the day in future semesters will be influenced by the activities of the students on Jan. 25.

SUI Housing Units Add More Items For Project AID

A recent meeting of representatives from all SUI housing units has produced more items for auctioning in the Project AID auction Dec. 8 in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Among the items pledged were: A piano in "good condition" donated by the Pi Kappa Alpha social fraternity; the services of the Sigma Alpha Epsilon social fraternity pledge class for one full day; 50 shirt ironings for a housing unit by Ruth Wardall House of Burge; an Inter-Fraternity Council flag; from Phi Kappa Psi social fraternity a crutch once used by all-American Iowa football quarterback Nile Kinnick; a rayon-skin coat in good condition donated by Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity; an Irish flag that was flown from the top of the WSUI radio tower last St. Patrick's Day, donated by Clara Daley House of Burge.

AID, short for Assist Iowa Development, is a program designed to provide scholarships to needy and worthy students.

1600 Project AID membership cards have been distributed to the various housing units. These cards are necessary for admission to the auction and may be obtained for $1 in the housing units or at the door the night of the auction. The cards will also serve as admission tickets at the Winter Carnival which is tentatively set for the second semester.

Items that will be auctioned will be on display in the trophy cases of the Iowa Memorial Union and will be listed daily on the front page of the Daily Iowan.

FOG, DRIZZLE

Fog with occasional light drizzle will feature this morning and skies will become partly cloudy through tonight. Temperatures will be warmer today with highs near 50 degrees.

The Long Wait ... and there was always the question if it was worth it. Here several members of the waiting line pass the hours in various positions of relaxation.

The winners with their prizes are Dick Wayner (left), 16, 303 Lexington Ave. and Joe Roe, Route 1, Iowa City. Wayner stood in line from 3:30 p.m. Thursday until the Treasurer's Office opened at 8 Friday morning.

Early Bird Dick Wayner Got No. 1

NORM ROLLINS Staff Writer

The early bird didn't get the worm! Amos Miller, Route 1, Iowa City, waited over 13 hours Thursday night and Friday morning at the Johnson County Courthouse to buy new low-numbered license plates, only to find he couldn't purchase them Friday morning.

License plates cannot be purchased in Johnson County without the car registration and license number. Miller had bought his last set of plates in Jones County and the records had not been sent on.

"I had in mind that they (the Jones County Treasurer's Office) had transferred the registration from Jones County, but they hadn't," Miller said.

Dick Wayner, 16, 303 Lexington Ave. took the grand prize — license number 1 — after he had waited since 4 p.m. Thursday afternoon. Young Wayner, a University High junior, who was well equipped with sleeping bag and food, waited out the night to buy the plates for his father, Joseph Wayner.

"It was a lot of fun," the youth said. "I did the same thing last year, but got license number 20. I had heard of some difficulty in other counties, but everything was fine here."

Eugene Roe, Route 1, Iowa City, purchased license plates number 2, although he didn't come until 7 p.m. Thursday evening.

Over 488 plates were sold Friday, more than last year. First day sales for '61 plates totaled 472.

The Treasurer's Office said that many people did not come without their license numbers. It is impossible to buy new plates without the '61 license number, for the car registration is filed under this number.

Johnson County residents have until the end of January to buy new plates without a penalty. Feb. 1 marks the start of an extra fee, 5 per cent of the registration fee.

CURACAO, Netherlands Antilles (AP) — John Cathalina, 25, who skipped out of his trial for burglary Wednesday but halted his flight long enough to rescue a drowning mother and her three children from the harbor, won a pardon Friday.

The mother and her three children, ages 4, 8, and 9, appealed personally to the governor to pardon Cathalina.

Soviet Troops Delay Yankee Combat Outfit

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet troops delayed an American combat outfit on Berlin's lifeline highway Friday and Moscow sounded warnings against a forthcoming shift of 3,000 U.S. troops over that road.

The developments shifted attention in the simmering Berlin crisis to the four-lane express highway, or autobahn, linking West Berlin with West Germany across 110 miles of Red-ruled East Germany.

Soviet guards delayed for 74 minutes a convoy of nine jeeps, trucks and trailers carrying about 50 U.S. troops out of Berlin for training in West Germany. They were held up in a driving rain until the U.S. Army corrected an error in papers shown to the Soviet checkpoint guards.

Although apparently caused by a technicality, the delay served to demonstrate the control the Communists have over autobahn traffic. Earlier this week, President Kennedy said international controls for the highway should be a major issue in any East-West talks.

The incident occurred just as a newly announced major shift of U.S. troops over the autobahn drew a sharp Soviet blast.

Tass, the official Soviet news agency, Thursday night denounced the current shuttle of U.S. troops over the autobahn as military provocation "fraught with dangerous consequences."

Charge, the Army at 7 a.m. announced plans to move entire battalions across the autobahn, the starting in the near future. The announcement brought a new Tass

Shoe-Store Clerk Is Charged with Embezzlement

A shoe-store clerk is being held in Johnson County jail today awaiting arraignment in District Court.

The Clerk, Leslie Chelf, 52, of 215 Iowa Ave., pleaded innocent to a charge of embezzlement in a preliminary hearing Friday.

Charges were filed against Chelf Friday by the Reddick Shoe Store, 126 E. Washington, after a routine audit revealed undisclosed shortages.

Detective Paul Hoffer said Chelf admitted pocketing about $250 cash from sales instead of putting it in the cash register. Hoffer said the actual amount missing may be higher.

Chelf has worked at the shoe store for about two years. He was previously employed at Racine's Cigar Store.

Says Libby Retracted Main Thesis

By DOUG CARLSON Staff Writer

Prof. Willard F. Libby "essentially retracted the main thesis of his series of articles" in his reply to eight SUI physicists who disagreed with his ideas, Stanley Bashkin, SUI associate professor of physics and astronomy, said Friday.

Bashkin was one of the eight physicists who signed a letter addressed to the Iowa City Press-Citizen that criticized Libby's civil defense series in the paper. Bashkin said Friday that Libby's reply stated he did not want to make war seem tolerable.

Bashkin said, however, that the tolerability of nuclear war seemed to be what Libby stressed in his original series.

Bashkin said that Libby's series of articles was "misleading and dangerous" and that it might be of "negative value."

"The articles neglected too many aspects of war," he added.

Bashkin said that Libby, by giving the American people a false sense of security in fall-out shelters, might be trying to get them to agree to a large-scale nuclear testing program.

"Fall-out shelters are a definite evil," Bashkin said. "They are as serious a mistake as the United States could make in the defense of the country." He believes that the effort and money going into the shelter program should be used for the solving of problems of peace.

Bashkin said that in an atomic attack, other kinds of warfare, probably including biological warfare, would also take place. He said that if there is biological warfare, "people should not be crowded into large shelters because of the probability of contagious diseases."

Bashkin pointed out that the SUI physicists' letter was not an attack on Libby — a Nobel Prize winner. He said there was an actual difference of opinion and that the country would benefit from more discussion of this sort.

PRESS PROFILE TODAY

"How do some stories get reported . . . when they never happened?"

This is a question which will come up this afternoon at 5 p.m., on a new radio program making its debut on WSUI Radio.

The program, "Press Profile," is part of a planned thirteen week series which will analyze and comment on the performance of the American press.

The News In Brief

By the Associated Press

WASHINGTON—A federal grand jury indicted the Communist party of the United States Friday for refusal to register as an agent of the Soviet Union.

The 12-count indictment returned under the internal security law of 1950, makes the party, on conviction, subject to a fine of $10,000 for each day it continues to refuse to register, identify its officers and provide information on its financial operations.

BAL HARBOUR, Fla. — Building trades unions Friday extended a carefully conditioned bid to the ousted Teamsters Union to return to the AFL-CIO.

The buildings trades convention unanimously adopted a resolution calling for readmission of the Teamsters but only if the exiled truck drivers, headed by James R. Hoffa, ask to come back and agree to live up to AFL-CIO rules.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic — Troops fired machine guns and hurled noise bombs at antigovernment demonstrators Friday, wounding 10 women and a youth, as a crisis intensified in this island nation. Hospitals said fragments from the noise bombs caused the injuries.

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. — The pilot of a flaming jet fighter plane rode the F-100 Super Sabre until the last possible instant Friday to guide it away from residential areas and workmen on a new bridge.

McCOMB, Miss. — Despite increased police vigilance and the mayor's promise to suppress violence, disorders erupted on the streets of McComb Friday with groups of white men attacking visiting newsmen.

Editorial Page— Day of Mercy Success Now Up to Students

SUI administrative officials announced Friday that Jan. 25, the day before final exams begin, there will be a special study day for students in five colleges. No classes will be held that day.

The "day of mercy" was called for by President Hancher on the recommendation of deans of the Colleges of Business Administration, Engineering, Liberal Arts, Nursing and Pharmacy — all of which are affected by the new proposal.

Representatives of the Student Senate and senior class officers had asked University officials to grant such a day.

The basic purpose of the mercy day is to give students additional time to study for final examinations — particularly those who have one or more exams on the first day of the test week.

Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, explained that the deans were generally quite favorable to the idea, but they questioned whether students would make good use of the day. He indicated that continuation of the mercy day policy will be influenced by the activities of the students on Jan. 25.

Stuit's statement serves as a good indication of the faculty feeling. It should also serve as a fair warning.

Students throughout the campus have generally favored the day of mercy proposal and have urged its acceptance. Now that it has been approved, it remains up to them to see that it stays.

Temptation to "live it up" on the free day no doubt will mount with the realization of a break between classes and the week-long test grind. But that temptation should be stifled. Only if students make Jan. 25 a study day can they expect to be granted future study breaks before exams.

We urge all students to take good advantage of the extra day of study. Failure to do so will take away a privilege that is of real value — and that was so long in coming.

Short Step, Long Road

Jules Verne and Barnum alike would have been amazed. None of their much-heralded wonders ever gained a fraction of the attention given the journey of little Enos. Half America hung on signals the talented chimpanzee sent back to earth as he rode that Mercury spacecraft into orbit.

Of course this attention was evoked less by the character of Enos, attractive as that may be, than by the Cold War's space rivalry and the audience radio and TV make possible. These permitted a degree of sharing in the adventure of Enos which truly gives human experience new dimensions. And they pose the question whether communication will outpace the misunderstandings of rivalry.

Americans rejoice that Enos had a safe and partly successful trip. They are eager to see his journey excelled soon by Colonel Glenn. But we trust officials will not feel it necessary to beat some artificial calendar deadline with a crash effort that might cramp thorough preparation. One of the best features of Enos' flight was the care taken so that he could be brought down safely.

Something can be learned by a manned orbital flight. But Project Apollo and others in the American program more urgently require other kinds of progress. Speeding up the development of larger rockets and improvements in manned spacecraft would do much to overcome the most evident lags in American space programs.

The double circuit by little Enos is surely a welcome step, but only a step on a long road.

Academic Scrutiny Needed

There should be a facing up to the fact that with more institutions granting advanced degrees, these instruments of academic distinction are losing some of their former significance. A dilution of academic standards is taking place.

This goes for the master's degree, which has become something of a "union card" in the teaching profession but it applies with special force to doctoral degrees, the ultimate in academic distinction.

Some accrediting agency of proper qualifications and prestige should be scrutinizing the faculty, laboratory and library facilities of the institutions newly elevated to advanced degree-granting rights.

Meeting the Rising Costs of Higher Education

Rights in Declaration Not Limited Only to Americans

(The following is a partial text of a speech presented to the Iowa City Rotary Club Thursday by SUI's Robert Michaelsen, director of the School of Religion.)

I had originally intended to speak to you on some aspects of my trip to India this past summer. You may wish that I had abided by this intention, but I have grown cautious about appearing as anything of an expert on that fabulous and enigmatic sub-continent with its 450 million people. Furthermore, I must confess that the summer experience has probably taught me as much about myself and my status as an American as about India. I could list a long line of statistics or tell you about my travel adventures; I have chosen rather to share with you some of my reflections on my return home.

From Aug. 1 to Aug. 19 I traveled extensively in India. On Aug. 15 (Indian Independence Day) I listened to Prime Minister Nehru address a great throng in Delhi and there had something of a sense of the surging will to succeed as a political democracy. I did a lot of thinking in that time about relations between this relatively young democracy with its all but insuperable problems and our own nation, one of the world's oldest democracies.

On Aug. 19 I left Bombay for home. I've seldom been as thrilled as I was to step off a United flight later that night in Cedar Rapids, to touch again Iowa soil, to greet my family. I had a feeling then that I would just like to stay here forever, taking my ease under my own vine and fig tree. Life had never seemed better in this wonderful land.

BUT I HAVE A Puritan conscience; I never could rest entirely when so many people suffer from poverty, disease, and a lack of those items necessary to human dignity. I remembered those poor farmers in the upper Damodar Valley struggling along on less than one acre of battered and worn-out land. Above all I remembered the people sleeping on the streets of Bombay and Calcutta and that memory was to return again and again. Flying across the Atlantic I recalled the words of Emma Lazarus displayed so proudly on the Statue of Liberty:

Give me your tired, your poor,
Your huddled masses yearning to breathe free,
The wretched refuse of your teeming shore,
Send these, the homeless, tempest-toss to me,
I lift my lamp beside the golden door!

Ah, but that was the sentiment of an earlier time, hardly appropriate today — or is it? If we could not accept the huddled masses of India to our shores today what could we do?

I was to think of those homeless people again shortly after arriving in the States. One of the first items to strike me on my return was the snowballing discussion of the family fall-out shelter, a common topic at the dinner table. The President had suggested that every family should have one. And clergymen debated the morality of shooting one's neighbor at the door. I was puzzled about such a great concern with the family fall-out shelter while thousands and perhaps millions have no shelter at all. And I was shocked at the debate on how and when to keep the neighbor out.

LIKE MANY OTHER people, I've had lots of thoughts about fall-out shelters and the neighbors, and I've not arrived at many settled conclusions. There are so many intangibles, but I can't help but wonder how realistic and how responsible it is to think primarily in terms of survival as individuals or as families. Is it possible? And is it the best way to preserve and advance the democratic way of life at this critical juncture?

All of this has brought me to some reflection about the American character, about myself and you and the dream that has stood out so big in our history. There's the spirit of '76 expressed in one Jeremiah Wyndok's rejoinder to the charge that the American was a provincial character: "Provincial we might be in a geographical sense . . . but spiritually we are at the center of the world, in the direct line of those heroes and martyrs who, since the beginning of time have done battle for the dignity and happiness of mankind against the leagued assailants of both."

Of the Declaration: "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

LIBERTY AND THE pursuit of happiness. The story of the lives of unnumbered Americans.

The American claims freedom for himself and asserts the same right for others. Really, this has created a tension within us, hasn't it? The individual pursuit of happiness has at times involved us in ignoring others. Still there stands that affirmation about ALL men. And the conscience is uneasy; we are caught in an American dilemma.

We glory in the Daniel Boone story, a mixture of fact and legend; the frontier hero who pushes ever westward in his pursuit of happiness, whose liberty is the freedom of the open spaces not encumbered by other human beings. The new man who builds his own new society — independent, self-sufficient, a hardy individualist.

BUT WE ALSO glory in the Abraham Lincoln story — raised as a boy in those open spaces, but turned away from them not only to help himself but to help others. A man who was eloquent about a new birth of freedom, who saw democracy as man's last best hope on earth, and who wrote and made effective an Emancipation Proclamation that proclaimed the freedom of those who had known only slavery on American soil.

This inner tension became evident on a national scale when we ventured forth under the leadership of a great idealist to make the world safe for democracy only to become disillusioned and unconcerned and to turn back to be at ease in our own land. Later, great areas of the world seethed and then exploded into a second world war. And we emerged from that war in a position which we had never had before and which possibly we didn't even want — the leading power of the world.

There are times now when it seems so much easier to withdraw, to stick to our own backyard. I think some of the fall-out shelter psychology may be of this sort. It's Daniel Boone all over again seeking to live free of the rest of humanity.

But, this does an injustice to Daniel and to this side of the American character. For while Daniel was a rugged individualist, he was capable of pulling together with his neighbors to meet disaster. He didn't always face the redskins alone. And "Americans caught in a flood do not customarily push clinging hands off precariously over loaded logs. They are more likely to jeopardize their own lives to rescue those in danger." (Margaret Mead in The New York Times Magazine)

FREEDOM AND human dignity are precious commodities which are difficult to preserve by burying them underground. They will survive better as they are aired in the community, as they are practiced in relation with others. If disaster faces us then perhaps we need to recognize that only by helping one another can there be much hope of survival. And, the world being what it is, this help should hardly stop short at the city limits or the Mississippi River or even the boundaries of the United States. It's too late to quiet the human race.

WE CAN acknowledge the existence of a people like the Indians, applaud and support them in their efforts to achieve dignity and freedom. We can assure them by word and deed that the unalienable rights asserted in the Declaration of Independence are not limited to American or white people or Christians. And in a way that's as much up to you and me as it is to the next guy.

Letters to the Editor — Preconceptions Probably Are Too Strong

To the Editor:

I normally do not write in defense of a fellow faculty member, since I feel that a first-rate musical performance no more needs defense against the callow, half-informed and pathologically hostile Letter to the Editor than does the work of professor Van Allen against the detractors of one whose sole knowledge of physics comes from the science news in Time magazine. However, I finally feel compelled to write, expressing my approval of Doppmann's recent performance of the Mozart Piano Concerto in C Major.

I have rarely heard such clarity, elegance and control coupled with so completely satisfactory an interpretive conception, unless it was in a performance of another Mozart concerto by Robert Casadesu some 25 years ago. I am literally unable to think of one fault, although I must hasten to add that when listening to music I am not looking for flaws — seemingly the main pre-occupation of those listeners whose mortal fear of being caught one-down by liking something they shouldn't outweighs all other considerations.

I further find that in all of my talking with a large number of musical people — both cultivated amateurs and trained professionals — I have yet to find one who does not essentially share my opinion.

Although I am aware that in the assessment of any musical performance there is room for legitimate disagreement, I am at a loss for any explanation of the fiercely derogatory opinions that have been appearing in The Daily Iowan letters column, except that their writers either harbor so strong a preconception of how the piece should go — probably derived from a favorite recording — that they are unable to entertain any other valid realization of it, or they are totally devoid of musical sensibilities. I shall charitably incline toward the former of these two explanations.

Finally, let me give my full support to the propriety of an announcer's expression of the enthusiasm that a performance has aroused in him. Furthermore, I am always pleased to see Larry Barrett's trenchant, informed and witty statements and writings. I have absolutely no doubt that the tremendous improvement in the quality of the programming and musical commentary during his tenure at WSUI are almost entirely owing to his efforts.

Prof Morgan Writes Labor Economics Text

"Labor Economics," a new basic text for courses in labor economics or labor problems, has been written by Professor Chester A. Morgan, head of the Department of Labor and Management at SUI.

The 658-page book is the first by Morgan, and is the first in a series of economics to be published by Dorsey Press, Inc., of Homewood, Ill. The book is scheduled for release Monday.

Written primarily for use in a one-semester course in labor economics or labor problems, the book may also be adopted as a supplementary text in courses in collective bargaining or industrial relations, labor legislation, and labor movements. A feature of the book is its logical, continuous, and concise presentation of major topics.

Journalism Instructor Has Articles Published

Dale Kramer, instructor in the magazine sequence in the SUI School of Journalism has written a series of articles which is currently appearing in the Chicago American.

The articles concern Orville Hodge, former state auditor of Illinois, who is serving a prison sentence for a $1 million embezzlement. Hodge is expected to seek parole next year if Gov. Kerner of Illinois reduces his sentence as recommended by the State Parole Board.

Kramer based his articles on nearly a year of research in preparation for a book he is writing entitled, "Orville the Magnificent."

Kramer has authored numerous magazine articles and several books.

Official Says N. Dubuque Interchange Most Needed

L. M. Clausen, chief engineer of the Highway Commission, said Thursday that the Highway 30 interchange at North Dubuque Street is the most necessary of the five interchanges planned for Iowa City.

"If only one interchange were built in Iowa City," he said, "it would have to be the interchange at North Dubuque."

Clausen said the interchanges were planned on an "actual, factual basis" using traffic counts and road users benefit analysis as the criteria. The same criteria were used in planning this interchange as was used in planning all the other interchanges in the state, he said.

Fred Lewis, Iowa City's Traffic Sergeant, also believes the North Dubuque Street interchange is necessary. He said that trucks will have difficulty negotiating the corners if they came into the city from the other interchanges.

Especially hard to manage, he said, are the corners at Market and Dodge Streets and Iowa and Dubuque Streets.

Four other interchanges are planned for Iowa City. They are designed for Highway 1, three miles east; Highway 281, northeast of the city; First Avenue, Coralville; and at the junction of Highway 6 and 218 west of Coralville.

Iowa City residents opposed to the interchange at North Dubuque Street are petitioning Fred

Iowa Opens Basketball Season at Evansville

4 Vets, Sophomore Head '61 Hawkeyes

By JIM TUCKER
Assistant Sports Editor

The Iowa basketball team opens its 24-game schedule tonight against Evansville College at Evansville, Ind. Game time is 8 p.m.

The opening game for both teams will be broadcast over station WMT, Cedar Rapids, beginning at 7:55. WHO, Des Moines, will also broadcast the game.

After six weeks of practice, Iowa Coach Sharm Scheuerman said he felt the Hawks were better prepared for their first game than they have been in past years.

"But you can only do so much in practice," said Scheuerman. "Some boys perform differently in games. We need a ball game now to see how well we have actually been doing in practice sessions."

Scheuerman announced Friday he would start four veterans — Don Nelson, Joe Novak, Joe Reddington, and Dick Shaw — and one sophomore, Dave Roach.

In Iowa's offense, a complicated version combining a double post with a 1-3-1 pattern, Novak will play the lone guard spot with Reddington and Roach at the side positions. Shaw plays the "inside forward" spot with Nelson under the basket.

Nelson, a 6-6 senior and co-captain, represents the basic scoring threat of the Iowa offense. He averaged 21.9 points a game last season and scored a total of 570 to set an Iowa record.

An All-Big Ten selection, he also set a field goal accuracy mark of .521.

Novak, senior and co-captain from Rock Island, Ill., established himself as a defensive standout and playmaker last season.

Shaw, 6-7, was impressive in several games last season as a reserve.

Showing a marked improvement in early practices this year, he was named to a starting role two weeks ago after battling with Iowa's tall sophomores.

Reddington advanced to the first team last year when Iowa's original lineup was sliced up by ineligibilities at the end of the first semester. He responded by averaging 10 points a game. The 6-0 junior has proved to be an outstanding defensive player too.

Roach, 6-6 from Pinckneyville, Ill., gets his first test as a major college player tonight. Scheuerman has described him as having "the poise of a veteran."

Scheuerman named three other players, Doug Mehlfous, 6-8; Jerry Messick, 6-8; and Andy Hankins, 6-0, as men who are sure to see a lot of action.

The Iowa coach indicated that two Iowa starters, Novak and Shaw, would not be at full physical strength for tonight's game.

Novak received a thigh bruise in the freshman-varsity game Monday, and Shaw is just recovering from influenza which caused him to miss a full week of practice.

Evansville, a perennial powerhouse from the small-college ranks, won the NCAA small college tournament two years ago.

Although this is the first game for the Aces, pre-season reports indicate their team is promising but very inexperienced. There is not a single senior on the roster.

The only returning Evansville regular is 6-2 guard Marvin Pruett. He averaged 15.5 points a game last year. The other starting guard is 6-3 sophomore Jim Smith.

A sure starter and leading scoring threat for the Aces is sophomore Buster Briley. The 6-4 forward was regarded as one of the top three high school basketball players of Indiana in his senior year.

Marty Herthal is the other starting forward. The 6-4 junior averaged nine points a game as a part-time starter last season.

Starting at center is 6-4 sophomore Paul Bullard.

Iowa defeated Evansville 83-84 in 1959 and stopped them 83-71 last year.

Name Hinton Third Team All-American

Iowa's versatile football tackle, Al Hinton, was named to the third All-American football team selected by the American Football Coaches Association, the United Press International has announced.

Hinton was the only Iowa man selected to the three All-American teams selected.

Earlier this week, Hinton's teammates selected him as the most valuable player on the squad. The 6-1, 231-pound senior from Saginaw, Mich., has lettered three straight years for the Hawkeyes.

He was a starter the last two years. This season before the Iowa-Michigan game, Hinton was selected as co-captain to replace Wilburn Hollis who was out for the season with an injury.

Final-Game Rivalries Hold Key To Bowl Assignments

College football stages its final big afternoon today, with the traditional rivalries involved sharing the spotlight with glamorous post-season bowl games.

Four major bowl assignments have still to be filled. The chances are all four will be at the conclusion of today's play. Actually, two of the vacancies are expected to be filled automatically.

Top-ranked Alabama, which guns for a perfect 10-0 record against Auburn, likely will announce it will take on Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans.

And Mississippi is expected to declare itself in the Cotton Bowl against Texas after its finale against Mississippi State. The two schools are not permitted to accept bids officially until their seasons are over.

Rice also is in line for a post-season trip, provided it beats Baylor, already set for the Gotham Bowl against Utah State. A victory for the Owls would put them in the Bluebonnet Bowl against Kansas and leave Baylor with a 5-5 record, a strange mark for a bowl-bound team.

This leaves the most historic of them all, the Rose Bowl, which has UCLA of the Big Five as host team but still has not announced an opponent. Two Big Ten teams which already have completed their schedules, Minnesota and Michigan State, are most prominently mentioned as candidates. But the man who will make the selection announcement, Big Five Commissioner Tom Hamilton, will be sitting in on the Army-Navy game.

Several squads with bowl spots already safely tucked away, in addition to Baylor, also will close out their regular schedules, with Colorado against Air Force, Georgia Tech against Georgia and Miami of Florida against Florida.

Colorado's Big Eight champions play Louisiana State in the Orange Bowl. Georgia Tech faces Penn State in the Gator Bowl and Miami meets Syracuse in the Liberty Bowl.

Other games on the slate—Notre Dame at Duke, Boston College at Holy Cross, Southern Methodist at Texas Christian, Virginia at North Carolina, Oklahoma State at Oklahoma, Vanderbilt at Tennessee and Oregon State at Houston.

Favor Army in Annual TV Tilt Against Navy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Army rules an uncomfortable one-point favorite over Navy in their spangled climax to the college football season today with the thin possibility that a Rose Bowl bid may go to the winner.

President Kennedy, a touch football enthusiast, will be in the sell-out crowd of 98,616 jamming Philadelphia Stadium for the 62nd annual service spectacle. It will be carried on a national television network (ABC), kickoff 12:30 p.m.

The President will sit on the Army side during the first half and on the Navy side during the second. But he may find it hard to maintain strict impartiality. He was a PT boat commander during World War II and was decorated for heroism by the Navy.

Ideal weather was forecast. The two rivets enter the game about as closely matched as possible. Each has won six games and lost three. They played three mutual opponents — William and Mary, Detroit and Penn State. Army whipped all three. Navy beat two but lost to Penn State 20-10.

Pressure is always intense when these two old antagonists clash, but this year there is extra heavy pressure on Army Coach Dale Hall and his Black Knights. Army has been able to win only one of the last five meetings and dropped the last two games — 43-12 in 1959 and 17-12 last year.

"This is a must game for us, and our boys realize it," says Hall, a onetime Army halfback. "I think we will win it."

Wayne Hardin, the Navy coach, says Army has a distinct advantage in physical equipment and adds: "If they play their best game they should beat us by a touchdown. But I'm counting on my boys to see that they don't."

Speculation that the Pacific Coast may be considering Army for the Rose Bowl was heightened by the decision to put off selection of UCLA's opponent until tonight.

Tigers Acquire Sad Sam Jones

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Detroit Tigers of the American League Friday night acquired veteran right-handed pitcher Sam Jones from the new National League Houston club in exchange for two young pitchers, Bob Bruce and Manuel Montejo.

Montejo was with Denver of the American Association most of the season, compiling a 10-8 record, strictly in relief. He didn't have a decision in 13 appearances with the Tigers late in the season.

Minnesota Faculty Clears Way for Bid

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The University of Minnesota Friday cleared the way for a likely bid for its second-place Big Ten football team to play in the Rose Bowl.

By a 108 to 33 vote in a closed meeting, the Minnesota Faculty Senate, which has final authority in such matters, voted to accept a formal bid to play in the Pasadena New Year's Day game should one be extended.

It would be Minnesota's second straight Rose Bowl appearance. The Gophers lost to Washington 17-7 last year.

No formal bid has been made to any team, but as a result of the vote, an invitation from the Athletic Association of Western Universities (Big Five) the host group, is expected within 24 hours. Minnesota would meet UCLA, the Big Five champion, in the classic.

Name Schwall Top AL Rookie

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Boston's star pitcher Don Schwall Friday was named the American League baseball Rookie of the Year.

"It's a great honor," Schwall said. "This is the biggest honor of my lifetime as far as athletics go. I want to thank the writers . . . I hope I can do as well next year."

Schwall added: "I hope I can stay in baseball a long time. Maybe someday I can make teaching a full-time job."

The 6-foot-6 blond right-hander edged Kansas City shortstop Dick Howser by one vote in the closest competition since the award was officially instituted by the Association in 1949.

Schwall came up to Boston almost six weeks after the season started, and finished with a 15-7 record, a 3.27 earned run average and won himself a starting job in the second All-Star game.

Schwall received seven and Howser six of the 20 votes cast.

Burlington Baseball Club Votes To Quit Three-I

BURLINGTON (AP) — Burlington baseball directors voted unanimously Friday to join the Class D Midwest League, pending a better financial arrangement with the Class B Three-I League.

However, Three-I League rules state that the Bees cannot leave the league without the unanimous consent of the other five clubs.

The director said they were not satisfied with the amount of money they were to receive under terms of a new Three-I League working agreement.

GENEVA (AP) — The Laos peace conference major step Monday Britain and the Soviet permanent guardians of east Asian kingdom's neutrality.
In its first formal session, the conference an East-West agreement covered the functions of the three-nation commission, which will neutrality treaty.
Despite the difficulties that remain, U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Monday he would set a pattern for settlement of East-West issues throughout the world.
The new agreement operative only after the signed and ratified. A major obstacle remains problem of demobilizing rebel forces or bring under the proposed terms.
Red China's Chang Hsueh-shan said the Communist not accept any international revision over the demarcation and integration of the forces.
Such U. S. proposals, Chang were a time bomb that could tag the entire work of conference later.
Sullivan said Chang's was "irrelevant to the purpose of our meeting, mischievous and meaningless in itself."
Western sources said the agreement was largely due to less personal efforts of U. S. Ambassador Arthur W. Hummel Jr. and U. S. Assistant Secretary of State for Far East Affairs.

Hynemom Segregation
By DAN CLARK Staff Writer
The Supreme Court's gation ruling was with dent and without the Court backing, University of Prof. Charles Hyneman Monday night. His were made in a lecture hall Auditorium.
Hyneman forswore some tions in the Supreme Court segregation decision.
He said there is a possibility the strict interpretation of the Supreme Court ruling which applies to schools be modified to include other forms of racial inaction.
The professor stated the Supreme Court ruling precedent because the executive review (the idea court can declare a law unconstitutional) up to the time of ruling had been to improve progress.
To validate his statement the constitution does not non-segregated law. Hyneman quoted former Yale professor and Bickel.
Hyneman said there is towards activism. The according to Hyneman, an of individuals that favor Supreme Court judicial powers.
