Army Cuts Draft More Than Half

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army slashed the draft rate by more than half Friday and said the step would not prevent the formation of two new combat divisions ordered by President Kennedy earlier this week.

The new rate calls for the induction of 8,000 draftees in February and 6,000 in March, compared to 15,000 this month and 25,000 during the start of the Berlin crisis buildup last September.

"The strength objective of the Army including provisions for manning the two new Army divisions has now been reached," an announcement said. It added that there has been a 20 per cent increase in enlistments since the start of the buildup.

As of last Nov. 30, the Army had 1,062,582 men including nearly 119,000 reservists and National Guardsmen called to active duty last fall. Its strength objective was then 1,081,000 men.

The new authorized strength of the Army designed to maintain 16 combat divisions during the year beginning July 1 is scheduled to be substantially lower, probably 960,000 men, or approximately what the Army will have after the reservists and guardsmen are returned to civilian life this year.

But the reduced Army at 960,000 would still have 85,000 more soldiers than were scheduled at the start of last year to maintain a ground force of 14 combat divisions.

The draft calls after last September fell to 20,000 each for October and November, and to 16,000 for December. The new calls will bring to 2,725,950 men the total inductions since the draft was resumed in 1950.

The new combat division — the 1st Armored at Ft. Hood, Tex., and the 5th Infantry at Ft. Carson, Colo. — will contain a total of 31,700 men, of whom more than 10,000 already are in units.

The Army pointed out that even after the reduction, the draft calls will be higher than the average for the year ended last July 1. The fiscal 1961 average was approximately 5,000 a month.

New Red Policy Designed To Split U.S., W. Germany

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Soviet Union, embarking on what may be a new tack in the Berlin crisis, has opened a subtle diplomatic campaign to split West Germany from its NATO Allies, diplomatic officials said Friday.

The officials said they had received information that the new policy was inaugurated sometime last fall, apparently following a decision made in the Kremlin.

They said that since then Soviet diplomats, working through private channels, have been trying to convince West Germany that it would gain in both status and security if it gave up its Western-oriented policies.

American officials here said they were not worried about the Soviet efforts, and had no doubt they would fail.

It was noted that the Soviet propaganda barrage against the West German government has continued without let-up despite the secret diplomatic campaign. But officials said this was consistent with similar Soviet "split level" policies.

Diplomats said behind-the-scenes Soviet approaches were undertaken at several places where Soviet officials come in contact with West Germans, but mainly in Moscow and Bonn.

Most of Blizzard Passes South of Iowa City

High Winds Expected Here Today

Iowa City Friday night was on the edge of a blizzard-size snowstorm which blanketed much of the Midwest and had threatened the city with 6 to 10 inches of snow.

The main impact of the storm fell on an area southwest of Iowa City for about 100 miles.

Weather Bureau officials said Iowa City would probably get intermittent snows early today, but not more than 2½ inches was expected.

Winds of 20 to 30 miles an hour are expected to sweep Iowa City today, with skies expected to clear by late morning or early afternoon.

High temperatures today will range from 15 to 20 degrees.

The snow activity is expected to leave the state entirely by tonight.

In other sections of the country, the ballooning winter storm blocked highways and ripped down power lines in the Texas Panhandle, stalled more than 400 cars in Oklahoma and shut down scores of schools in Kansas and Missouri.

The storm dumped a half foot of snow across sections of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas, with gusts up to 73 miles an hour in the Texas Panhandle.

Another storm turned Michigan highways into a motorist's nightmare, piled a new 6-inch snowfall on northern Wisconsin and dragged temperatures down to 19 below zero at Bemidji, Minn., and 17 below at Grand Forks, N. Dak.

In Crestview, Fla., a tornado roaring in ahead of a cold front, left a baby crushed to death and at least 30 other persons injured.

More than 300 homes were damaged and 50 house trailers destroyed by the twister which gouged out a path three miles long through the northwest Florida city. An estimated 1,500 persons were left homeless, to seek refuge in emergency shelters.

The dead infant was identified as 6-month-old Donna Joyce Johnson. She was killed when the brick wall of her home fell on her.

Gov. Farris Bryant at Tallahassee ordered a 95-man National Guard unit to rescue duty and the Florida Highway Patrol rushed medical supplies to the city.

South of the snow and sleet, rainstorms drenched parts of Louisiana and Mississippi. McComb, Miss., measured three inches of rainfall.

Icy conditions prevailed in the Northeast, where intense cold went to 11 below zero at Greenville, Maine, early Friday.

Snow fell over much of Maine and there was freezing precipitation over parts of Pennsylvania and New York state. Glazing conditions were in prospect along the eastern coastal strip from New England to New Jersey during the night.

Sunny skies predominated in the West, except the western Washington area, but temperatures were on the cool side.

Crowd Engulfs Nehru During Party Session

PATNA, India (UPI) — Many thousands of Indians stormed into a session of India's ruling Congress party Friday and engaged in an uproarious melee that engulfed Prime Minister Nehru. Nehru himself struck a few blows before leaving in a huff.

The disorder broke out during the convention's afternoon session.

Nehru had asserted in the morning that one reason India seized Portuguese Goa was to maintain Indian neutrality. For the first time he claimed India's forcible occupation of Goa was partly to prevent its becoming a base for NATO, of which Portugal is a member.

Nehru brushed aside British and American criticism of India's Goa action and asserted India's "policy of peace will continue." But peace was short-lived in the open-sided convention pavilion at this city on the Ganges River 250 miles northwest of Calcutta.

Thousands of uninvited stormed into the afternoon session, many to get a look at the prime minister. One Indian official called the resultant stampede a tribute to Nehru's popularity.

Nehru pleaded for order, to no avail. Then he tried to jump down from the safety of the dais into the unruly crowd, but was restrained by his security men who worry as much about protecting Nehru from his admirers as from his enemies.

Nehru struck out at those holding him, but was finally pacified by his daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, and his sister, Mrs. Vijayalakshmi Pandit. Nehru then left the pavilion in a huff. It was the first time in the 67-year history of the Congress Party that a convention session was abandoned.

Several hours after the stampede began the area looked like a battlefield and dust hung in the air. Twenty-four persons were hospitalized, officials said, and 12 arrested, including a man with a dagger.

In a one-hour speech at the morning session, Nehru noted that American and British newspapers have criticized his action in Goa. One reason India acted in Goa was that it might become a foreign military base, especially since Portugal was a member of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, Nehru said.

Indonesia Tells Holland To Surrender New Guinea

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI) — The Indonesian air force Friday banned all flights over easternmost Indonesia and a government spokesman warned The Netherlands to negotiate the surrender of West Irian (Dutch New Guinea) or face "total capitulation."

Air Force spokesman Maj. Agus Suroto said the ban on flights over Indonesian territory closest to New Guinea was in line with President Sukarno's mobilization order for the "liberation" campaign.

He said the action invalidated all permits previously issued for flights in the area and warned that violation of the ban would bring "serious and firm" action by the Indonesian air force. The air force recently was reinforced with Soviet-made MIG jet fighters.

Sukarno appealed to the nation last Dec. 19 to mobilize for the fight to "liberate" the Dutch-controlled New Guinea territory he claimed is part of Indonesia. The armed forces already have been alerted for possible action.

Foreign diplomats in The Hague said Indonesian Communists wanted Sukarno to start a war against the Dutch because they feel he would be defeated and the resultant chaos would pave the way for a Communist takeover of Indonesia.

Sukarno also has declared formation of a theater command which would coordinate all military operations if — and when — the order to "liberate" West Irian is given.

Dr. J. G. De Beus, the Dutch ambassador to Australia, said in Melbourne that the Dutch forces will fight any Indonesian invasion of New Guinea. He said the Dutch Government would be pleased if the United Nations sent a "police force" to New Guinea if this could help maintain the peace.

Congressional Parleys Set For Kennedy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy returned to Washington Friday night for conferences which will bear heavily on the fate of his program in the congressional session opening next week.

The chief executive's big jet landed at Andrews Air Force Base in nearby Maryland at 5:56 p.m. (EST) after a flight of an hour and 38 minutes from West Palm Beach, Fla.

Kennedy left at once for the White House by car.

Mrs. Kennedy and the couple's two children will remain a few days longer at the Palm Beach oceanfront estate where the First Family spent the holidays.

The President plunges Saturday into meetings with congressional leaders he will call on to put through the legislative proposals he will offer the session which begins Wednesday.

With a few hours out for a political sortie to Ohio Saturday, Kennedy plans to work right through the weekend. Between discussions of legislative strategy, he will meet with his top Berlin lieutenant and his intelligence chief to review foreign problems.

Before leaving Florida Friday, Kennedy visited his ailing-but-improving father, took a boat ride and got an encouraging report on U.S. space progress.

After spending about 20 minutes with Joseph P. Kennedy at St. Mary's Hospital in West Palm Beach, Kennedy took Mrs. Kennedy and a few guests for the final cruise of his Florida stay.

From Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson Kennedy heard that the United States achieved a greater rate of progress than any other country in the 1961 space race.

On his final day here, the President continued to get cheering reports on his father's progress in recovering from paralysis.

12 More Dead in Algeria— War Call by Algerian Radio

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — The outlawed Secret Army Organization (OAS) Friday called for total civil war if necessary to prevent President Charles de Gaulle from turning over Algeria to the Moslems.

The call, in a pirate radio broadcast, came while European-Moslem terrorists continued to take a heavy toll. At least 12 more persons were killed in Algeria's major cities during the day, bringing the death toll since New Year's to 91. About 200 more persons have been wounded in the past five days.

On the military front, the French reported 18 soldiers killed and 7 wounded in an ambush by National Liberation Front (FLN) rebels at Setif in east Algeria. It was the third ambush this week by the Moslem rebel force which, the French announced, lost 543 men killed or captured between Dec. 16 and 29.

The OAS had plastered Algiers, Oran and other cities with posters calling for "general mobilization" against De Gaulle's plans for an independent Moslem Algeria.

It followed up Friday with a broadcast on a frequency close to that of the French-operated state broadcasting station, declaring:

"Since the Paris government wants civil war, it can have it. Every European in Algeria should consider himself as mobilized."

In Paris, Premier Michel Debre conferred with Interior Minister Roger Frey on methods for stamping out OAS terrorism, which has spread from Algeria to France.

The Government was reported considering strengthening the 20,000-man Paris police force against the growing threat from the OAS, which is spearheading the extremist "keep Algeria French" campaign. It also was reported planning to replace 3,000 riot police in Algeria with new units of the Compagnies Republicaines de Securite (CRS) from France within the next three months.

Informed sources said about half of the 19 CRS units in Algeria are made up of Algerian-born Europeans making their continued loyalty suspect.

There was talk of "mobilization" in Paris also — in a manifesto by the socialist party, labor unions and a large number of leftist and liberal organizations which support De Gaulle's Algerian program. The manifesto called on all Frenchmen to "consider themselves mobilized for the defense of justice, the rights of man and democracy."

French civilians rallied to De Gaulle last year at the height of the abortive "generals' revolt" when reports circulated of a paratroop-led invasion from Algeria.

Kennedy Victory Behind the Scenes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy won a significant behind-the-scenes congressional victory Friday in a pre-session skirmish over his legislative program.

The victory came when Rep. Clark Thompson (D-Tex.) yielded to pressure from Administration forces and agreed to exercise his seniority by claiming for himself a vacant seat on the powerful House Ways & Means Committee.

Thompson's decision torpedoed the ambitions of a fellow Texas Democrat, Rep. Walter Rogers, to move onto the committee. The panel will have vast powers in shaping the outcome of the fight over Kennedy's controversial tariff-cutting proposals.

With Thompson on the committee, the President's liberal trade program will get a friendlier reception than it would have if Rogers had been given the seat.

Conceivably, the committee assignment also could improve the chance for other segments of Kennedy's program over the longrun.

SEC Report Cites 'Lax Management'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Stock Exchange was accused by federal investigators Friday of permitting "manifold and prolonged abuses" of laws and rules designed to protect the investing public.

The Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) capping a seven-month investigation of the nation's second largest stock exchange, issued a 127-page report which contended the exchange has been dominated by a four-man oligarchy.

It said the dominant group has included Joseph F. Reilly, who currently heads the exchange as president pro tem.

Reilly was named to that post following the forced resignation as president of Edward T. McCormick. McCormick quit Dec. 11 after the exchange directors learned he had accepted a $5,000 favor from a man subsequently convicted on swindling charges.

Named along with Reilly as the dominating figures in the exchange were Charles J. Bocklet, a specialist and vice chairman of the Board of Governors; James R. Dyer, chairman of the Committee on Finance; and John J. Mann, chairman of the Committee on Floor Transactions.

The SEC report said that over the past 10 years these four men "have held the key positions in the government of the exchange in rotation and have thus been able to maintain continuous and effective control."

A broad sampling of exchange members — and even the SEC itself — came in for sharp criticism in what was perhaps the most explosive report ever issued by the 27-year-old commission.

At a news conference, Milton H. Cohen, director of the probe, indicated the SEC will take action against some of those cited as responsible for alleged abuses.

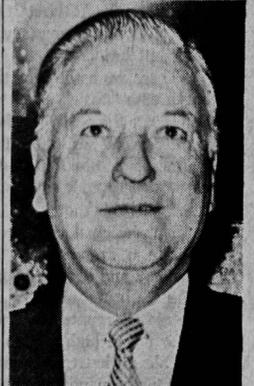

There is "certainly some possibility of action," Cohen said, against Gilligan, Will & Co., whose activities occupied many pages of the report.

The report noted that some or all the questioned activities were "not unique" to Gilligan, Will & Co., but Cohen declined to speculate whether the probe to date would result in a whole series of SEC actions.

There have been many criminal violations in the activities studied, Cohen said, but he added he had no responsibility for such follow-ups under the terms of his investigation.

In a letter transmitting copies of the report to officials of the American Stock Exchange, known to Wall Streeters as the Amex, the SEC said: "It will be evident from a reading of the report that it raises serious questions for the commission and for the exchange community, and calls for prompt and vigorous action."

Reilly, who has agreed not to seek re-election as chairman of the Amex board of governors and as president pro tem, said he had not seen the report and added in New

JOSEPH F. REILLY Heads American Exchange

York: "There will be no comment from the American Stock Exchange at this time. We must first receive the report. We must then devote considerable time to a thorough study of its contents."

The SEC report accused the exchange of tolerating lax management and said that if it does not act quickly to adopt broad reforms "the commission must be prepared to exercise its supervisory powers."

Backing up the report were massive files — still secret — which were compiled by the SEC in its hush-hush inquiry.

These files are being studied, the commission told the exchange, "to determine what action by the commission is required."

Implicit in many of the report's disclosures was a hint of official proceedings later against a number of exchange members.

The investigation was prompted by an SEC finding last May that two prominent Amex "insiders," Jerry and Gerard Re, had engaged in multiple manipulations and illegal stock sales totaling more than $10 million.

Distribution Problems In College Enrollments

Private colleges which stress quality in education face tough decisions in the future when it comes to limiting enrollment.

The decisions involve what preference, if any, should be given students from the area in which the college is located and whether there is the opportunity for higher education by children from low income families.

One indication of this problem is the decision of Coe College at Cedar Rapids to drop out of a program for recruiting college freshmen from high schools in the eastern part of the United States.

The college is getting plenty of eastern students without sending a recruiter to schools in New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. Students and their parents on the East coast have come to recognize that there are good liberal arts colleges in Iowa and other Midwestern states. And they are finding it increasingly difficult to get into colleges in their home areas.

It would be a mistake for private colleges in Iowa to drastically limit the enrollment of out-state students. This would be damaging to both the colleges and the students who attend them. Youngsters benefit from contact during their college years with students from all areas of the country—and the world, if possible.

Coe College, however, isn't proposing to retreat to a narrow "Iowa only" enrollment. Dr. Joseph E. McCabe, president of Coe, believes it is part of the role of college to break down provincialism. He also says that quality colleges still want larger numbers of applicants from which to choose their students, even though some of them don't want larger student bodies.

When colleges have more qualified applicants than they can admit, they can be expected to give some consideration to geographical distribution. We believe there is good reason to give preference to students from the area the college serves, as long as this isn't carried to the extreme and a good geographical distribution is maintained.

The problem of keeping the student body balanced between students from low income, middle income and high income families is more difficult. The youngsters from families with higher incomes are likely to have educational and cultural advantages which make it easier for them to meet academic standards. A little bending of the line in favor of the youngsters from low income families seems desirable, although they must be able to handle college work.

The students from low income families who are admitted to high quality colleges frequently will need financial aid. This can be granted from scholarship programs—if alumni and friends of liberal arts colleges will make contributions to funds for this purpose. We believe this is one of the best causes to which those interested in high quality education and equality of educational opportunity can contribute.

Economical Reading

According to figures of the book trade, Americans are buying paperbacks at a rate of almost a million a day. In just 18 months, the number of paperback titles has zoomed from 6,500 to 13,900.

So many of the new titles are "serious" that they are sweeping the college campuses and showing up in more dominant manner wherever paperbacks are sold. Not only are they cheaper than the hard-book covers, for some reason many people consider them easier to read.

The paperback is not new. Half a century or more ago it was possible to buy paper-bound reprints, many of which sold as low as 10 cents a copy. Many of the paperbacks then were "thrillers" which weren't considered of sufficiently lasting value to justify a more permanent binding.

But the paperback arrived in a big way only a decade or two ago, originally prospering because it picked up titles already known. At the start of their revival they went in extensively for lurid covers even when the contents were anything but lurid.

There were those of that era who associated paperbacks with "trash," which was only partially justified. In due course the publishers found they had a broader market than they had suspected. People who never got around to reading the hard-cover product experimented with the soft-cover variety and, enjoying both the contents and price, came back for more.

Now original titles, not previously published in any other form, are appearing in the paperbacks. Thus Frank Merriwell and his successors in the tripe school of paperbacks are being joined by serious novels and many a volume of high repute on the lists for classroom and extracurricular use in high schools and colleges. In our time, culture, bless it heart, marches on reliably and more economically in the paperbacks. —Muskegon (Mich.) Chronicle

Kennedy in Strengthened Position for Second Year

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

President Kennedy enters upon his second 12 months in a strengthened political position. This second session of the 87th Congress will be encountering a more popular, a more confident and a more decisive President.

Gone is Kennedy's haunting preoccupation with the closeness of the election; gone is that special element of uncertainty which came from the fact that a near-majority wanted Nixon in the White House.

Congress will not be a rubber stamp this year any more than it was last. Congress remains the same, more conservative than the Democratic platform and on some issues more conservative than the Chief Executive. But the President is not the same. There is this difference: after winning the election so closely that he barely made it, Kennedy has in less than a year remarkably consolidated his standing with the American people.

AS A CANDIDATE for President Kennedy was able to win no more than a paper-thin majority. As President, Kennedy has succeeded in winning a higher approval-rating than any of his recent predecessors—a high of 83 per cent, and in the latest Gallup poll, 77 per cent. (Eisenhower's peak was 79 per cent.)

Last January Kennedy took office as a Chief Executive who almost lost. This January he is a President who has gained new political credentials and new public standing.

This does three things. It gives the President greater confidence. It encourages him to take a bolder course, as he has in his proposed trade policy to take advantage of the European Common Market. It gives added leverage to his leadership.

Opinions will vary as to what has produced the nearly steady rise in Kennedy's graph of public approval. But the fact is not in dispute. Senate leaders of both parties, recently returning after several months at home, almost uniformly agree on the President's general popularity. Barry Goldwater noticed it, but he does not believe it will help the White House much with Congress on controversial legislation. Mike Mansfield noticed it, and believes it will help the White House. It was confirmed in the elections last fall. Where Kennedy personally campaigned, as in New Jersey and Texas, the Democrats won.

WHEN YOU LOOK back over his first year in office, it is evident that in the early months of the new Administration the President was neither very popular—nor very unpopular—until he made the great mistake over Cuba. Oddly enough, the first substantial rise in Kennedy's public approval status came in the immediate wake of the Cuban fiasco. Since that time it has risen further and held. These seem to be the reasons:

1—Obviously the horrendous failure of the Cuban operation—all the blame on the United States for having a hand in it but never putting a sufficiently strong hand in it to make it successful—did not give the President any credit or any credentials. But the fact that Kennedy publicly took the full responsibility for all the final decisions, quickly calling off the overeager apologists who were looking for scapegoats, did more than anything else to win him an upsurge of goodwill and approval. I know of no one in the Administration and few outside who do not think that Kennedy learned immeasurably from the Cuban experience and that his action in taking complete blame was not only wise but accurate. He was to blame and in saying so he won more public support than the failure lost him.

2—The second factor in the President's present popularity is his wise and firm handling of the Berlin crisis. He has succeeded in strengthening his ties with Macmillan De Gaulle, and Adenauer. He has helped to keep the allies united on the substance of policy, including the undeviating determination to defend our rights in West Berlin. He has kept the door open for serious negotiation whenever the Soviets want to negotiate seriously.

Most people, I think, feel that the danger of war over Berlin is less than it was six months ago largely because Kennedy has got his message through to the Kremlin.

Says Peiping-Moscow Split Is Exaggerated

By J. M. ROBERTS

Dr. T. F. Tsiang, who assumed new duties Thursday as Chinese Nationalist ambassador to Washington, says he believes Americans are inclined to exaggerate the importance of the Peiping-Moscow ideological dispute as it affects the face presented to the world by the Communist bloc.

The veteran diplomat, who is also a former ambassador to Moscow and for the last 15 years to the United Nations, a post he will retain, says the noises being made in Peiping really represent political pressure to attain economic ends.

THE REDS, he said, are not getting the Soviet economic aid they were led to expect. The economies of the two countries are not supplementary. China cannot offer to pay in goods which the Russians really need, while herself needing the very things of which the Soviet Union is short in her campaign for better living conditions at home.

Peiping, the theory is, therefore amplifies a political campaign in the hope of being bought off for the sake of Communist unity, and also in the hope of getting aid from non-Communist sources by creating the idea that there is a Moscow-Peiping split which can be exploited. But in the East-West fight, her position remains the same.

THE PROBLEM of Western diplomats, the ambassador said, is to avoid giving the Communist enemy any relief from the troubles he has created for himself through false approaches to Chinese development, even to the ex-

Letters to the Editor—

Welcomes 'Liberation' Of Goa

To the Editor:

What has been titled in the newspapers as "invasion" comes to us Goans as a most welcome liberation. The newspapers in this country have neglected to reveal the whole situation in the eyes of Goans. As a Goan, I feel that at least 85 per cent of the Goan population is happy to have once and for all freed themselves from the colonial power of Portugal. Thousands of Goans have been suffering grievously in the prisons, many serving life imprisonments, and have been subjected to merciless treatment because of our fight for freedom.

The history of Goa dates back to 1510 to a conquest and massacre by the Duke of Albuquerque. Goans have always felt that culturally, historically, geographically, and in every other respect but political, we comprise an integral part of India. When India gained its independence in 1947, the Goans strongly appealed to India to render assistance in overthrowing the dictatorial regime of Portugal.

"Peaceful settlement through negotiations" was the slogan fed by Nehru to Goans and to add to our frustrations, this was reiterated repeatedly for 14 years. Wide discontent and uprising within Goa since 1947 not only failed to stir Portugal to understand our feelings but made them more ruthless and brutal.

Restrictions like denial of a passport to enter India, Portuguese officials often times denied at their own will caused difficulties in family contacts. Many families are split between Goa and India. Sealing of the Goan border from India made a trip of 400 miles between Bombay and Goa a matter of three days. Freedom of speech and press were always banned.

The entry of Portugal into NATO in 1949 and Portugal's establishment of a military base in Goa shortly after, was of grave concern to us because Portugal had now become a military ally of western bloc and we feared being dragged into a war between major blocs.

We were distressed and disgusted with Nehru singing the song of peace as Portugal increased its exploitation. Our only hope, now, was for the bigger democracies, especially the United States, to influence Portugal to withdraw. But, alas, this was shattered completely when along with the United States we discovered that dictator Salazar was too adamant to listen to anyone. We are at last gratified that India gave us this joyful liberation, and brought an ending of political oppression. At last we will be able to speak with our Government officials, instead of having to remain silent in fear. The ideal of self-government has won another resounding victory.

How Bad Can It Get?

To the Editor:

In the public interest I should like to call to the attention of all faculty members the sixth law formulated in the last century by an historian named Chayney. Its importance in this crucial period cannot be overemphasized.

As a result of his profound studies, Chayney concluded that history shows that there has been a steady decrease in gratuitous cruelty and a gradual increase in kindness. Bear this in mind while devising test questions and again when grading papers. Do not let this momentous opportunity pass by unheeded. For once it will be within your power to demonstrate in practice the validity of a historian's hypothesis.

Magnificent as this opportunity is, I suppose students would be well advised to be guided by Murphy's Law. For the benefit of any freshman who has not yet mastered this, it reads, "If anything CAN get worse, it WILL."

Campus Notes

2 To Present Recitals

Charles Treger, violinist, and William Doppmann, pianist, will present a recital Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Macbride Auditorium. Both are members of the SUI music faculty. Tickets will not be required for the recital.

Included in the program will be "Chaconne" by Vivaldi, "Sonata for Solo Violin" by Bartok and sonatas by Mozart and Grieg.

Pharmacy Speaker

Leo Brau, president of the Iowa Pharmaceutical Association, will be the guest speaker for the monthly meeting of the Student Branch of the American Pharmaceutical Association at SUI Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. He will speak in Room 221 of the Chemistry-Pharmacy-Botany Building.

Medical Conference

Some 100 physicians from Iowa and neighboring states are expected to attend a postgraduate conference in obstetrics and gynecology Tuesday and Wednesday at the SUI College of Medicine.

The conference will be the 11th in the current annual series of postgraduate conferences held at SUI to help physicians stay abreast of the latest advances in medicine.

Members of the obstetrics and gynecology faculty at SUI who will participate are Drs. William C. Keetel, James T. Bradbury, Clifford P. Goplerud, and William F. Howard.

ROTC Rifle Meet

The SUI Army ROTC Varsity Rifle Team will participate in its second Big Ten Rifle Meet today, at Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind.

Other universities participating include the University of Illinois, Indiana, and the University of Wisconsin.

Will Display Dickens' Work

The varied literary "faces" or skills which British novelist Charles Dickens presented to his readers will be featured in an exhibition which will open next week at the SUI Library.

The display of first editions, manuscripts, letters and drawings, which is being assembled in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of Dickens' birth in 1812, will feature several of the author's less widely known works. It will be shown in the main lobby of the SUI Library until Feb. 1.

Virtually all items in the exhibition are from the Library's own collections. Recent articles on Dickens' works will show the continuing interest in writings of the 19th century novelist.

The display will include the biographies of Dickens and some of his original letters from the Leigh Hunt Collection of the SUI Library.

Name Five to CD Posts in Iowa City

Five Iowa City physicians and a mortician have been appointed to civil defense posts by Dr. E. W. Paulus, chief of the health service of Iowa City's civil defense organization.

They are Dr. Sidney Ziffren, professor of surgery at SUI, who will be assistant chief of health service; Dr. William Yetter, head of medical care division; Dr. Elmer DeGowin, head of the medical care division's blood program; Dr. Richard Lawton, director of the 200-bed civil defense emergency hospital; Dr. Franklin Top, head of the SUI Department of Hygiene and Preventive Medicine, who will be head of the public health division; and mortician Walter Donohue, head of the mortuary division.

Claim North Viet Nam Provoking Laotian War

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Some shots have been fired again in the Laotian civil war and Premier Prince Boun Oum's Government issued a communique Friday playing up the action as fierce fighting. Informed Western sources played it down as minor skirmishing.

Communist North Viet Nam was accused anew of reinforcing the neutralist-Pathet Lao rebels behind lines largely dormant since the proclamation of a cease-fire last May. The communique named two North Vietnamese regiments allegedly moved into Xieng Khouang Province.

Western military men, who have taken previous charges of North Vietnamese intervention with several grains of salt, said they had no confirmed evidence of Red reinforcements or any major resurgence of battlefield activity.

The one point of agreement was that there had been trouble, whatever its scope, on the Tha Thom sector southeast of Xieng Khouang.

Western sources reported there was some fighting there, not on any great scale. The Government said the rebels launched a violent attack on Tha Thom after Soviet planes dropped their weapons and supplies. By its account, rebel 155mm howitzers fired more than 100 shells at the defenders.

U.S. army officers in the field as observers and U.S. reconnaissance fliers keep in close touch with developments across the jungle kingdom.

The Government's communique, its second of an alarmist nature within 24 hours, was authorized by Gen. Phoumi Nosavan, pro-Western deputy premier and defense minister whose army has been built up with American help from 25,000 to 70,000 men.

SUI Gets Bids on New Equipment for Addition

Bids were taken Friday afternoon by George Horner, superintendent of University planning and construction, for equipment for the new addition to the Chemistry Building.

Bids were taken for elevators, electrical equipment, and mechanical equipment. The State Board of Regents will meet next week to take the bids into consideration.

INTERVIEWS of more than usual interest are scheduled for today's CUE, from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sen. Estes Kefauver on the drug industry, Flanders and Swann on their particular brand of humor, Prof. Stuart Edie about his current exhibition of paintings, and the British Ambassador to the U.S. on whatever interests him most — these are the subjects and their subjects (technically, only Flanders, Swann and the diplomat are subjects; the others are bona fide citizens of the United States).

THERE WILL BE A SUBJECT FOR Saturday Supplement, too, today at 1 p.m. What it is nobody knows at this writing because the fellow doing it (me) won't, or can't, communicate with the writer of this column (also me). If you like suspense, however, be sure to tune in; and anyway, the program will be a trifle shorter today because of . . .

BASKETBALL AT 3:25 this afternoon: Wisconsin, I am advised, against our own lads. Just why any state university would send its boys out into such weather and all those miles from home (Madison must be a good hundred and some miles away) is beyond me. Perhaps it's because they are going to have their pictures taken (on nation-wide TV).

RADIO STATION WSUI, 910 k.c., the radio sta . . . (oops, sorry; I don't have to put that in any more).

2 L.A. Newspapers Halt Publication; 2 Consolidate

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two of the four Los Angeles metropolitan newspapers, the morning Los Angeles Examiner and the evening Los Angeles Mirror, Friday announced they would halt publication as of this week.

Official notification of employees of both newspapers was made separately, although in almost simultaneous announcements. An estimated 1,200 employees, about 1,000 at the 59-year-old Examiner, will be released. Approximately 400 of those affected are editorial department workers of the two papers.

C. T. Griffiths, business manager for Hearst Publishing Co., informed Examiner employees Sunday's edition would be the last.

Norman Chandler, president of the Times-Mirror Co., personally notified more than 175 employees Friday morning that final edition of the Mirror Friday would be the last for the 13-year-old newspaper as a separate publication. He announced the Mirror would be consolidated with the Times.

Each of those severed by the Examiner received a letter from Randolph Hearst, president of the Hearst Publishing Co. It said in part:

Two SUIowans Fined For Theater Incident

Brian L. Peterson, A2, Des Moines, and Dan Lee Kelley, 123 N. Dubuque St., were fined in Iowa City Police Court Friday on charges of disorderly conduct.

The charges were filed by Gerald Weiss, manager of the Iowa Theater, who said the pair were bothering a patron in the theater Saturday night.

Peterson was fined $25 for intoxication, $25 for disorderly conduct, and $10 costs. Kelley was fined $25 for disorderly conduct and $5 in costs.

Hawkeyes Face Badgers in Big 10 Opener

Wisconsin Poses Top Threat in TV Game

By HARRIETT HINDMAN
Staff Writer

Iowa's Hawkeyes open their 14-game Big Ten basketball schedule today when they meet Wisconsin at Madison in a regionally telecast game starting at 3:30 p.m.

Both teams have identical 6-3 records in non-conference games this season and both finished second in major tournaments last week. Iowa was defeated by Villanova 69-56 in the Quaker City meet while Wisconsin fell at the hands of powerful Cincinnati 101-71 in the Holiday Festival Tourney at New York.

Iowa Coach Sharm Scheuerman said Friday, "If we do a good job against Wisconsin, I believe that it is going to help us later. As far as I am concerned, this is our key game this semester."

Discussing the expected strategy of the game, Scheuerman made it clear that the Hawkeyes intend to play their slow deliberate type of ball rather than the "give and go" brand of basketball which the Badgers have employed this season.

"We are not going to try to run with them," the Iowa coach said. "We are going to try not to let them dictate the tempo of the ballgame."

He continued, "If we slow them down and they want to hurry us into playing their type of fast ballgame, they may very well use the press." This was in reference to the all-court press used by Wisconsin quite effectively in the first two tournament games last week.

Scheuerman cited 6-3 sophomore forward Ron Jackson, who is averaging 23 points a game as Wisconsin's outstanding offensive player. "But," Scheuerman added, "they have been averaging over 80 points a game, so the other boys are scoring too."

The other Badgers are indeed scoring. Four of the five starters boast averages in double figures. Badger Coach John Erickson will start Ken Siebel, his only letterman, and Jackson at forward; Jack Brens, 6-8 and the team's tallest player, at center; and sophomores Mike O'Melia and Don Hearden at the guard spots.

Scheuerman said he preferred to wait until after the first round of conference games is completed before commenting on the Big Ten. "I would like to wait until this weekend is over. If we feel this Saturday's game is a real key, I will know afterwards how we are progressing."

"We have five ballgames before semester break, and we have to do well in those five if we want to do real well," Scheuerman explained.

Right after the beginning of the second semester, Iowa will meet Ohio State, Illinois, Indiana and Purdue. Defending champion Ohio

State is a favorite to repeat while Illinois and Purdue are rated close to the top, so the Hawks will then be meeting the top three teams in the conference according to pre-season ratings.

Iowa will meet an improved Northwestern team in the first Big Ten home game of the season Monday night at 7:30 p.m. in the Field House. Northwestern now has a mark of 5-4 and opens its conference season against Ohio State today.

Iowa's starting lineup, which has experienced numerous combination changes this season, now appears to be somewhat stabilized.

Led by All-America candidate Don Nelson, 6-6 center averaging 20 points a game, the Hawkeye lineup includes sophomore forwards Dave Roach and Doug Mehlhaus, with Andy Hankins, Iowa's second leading scorer, and Matt Szykowny holding down the guard positions.

Szykowny, who suffered an ankle injury last week, has not fully recovered, but will be a starter against Wisconsin.

Today's game marks the beginning of the battle for the Big Ten crown, at which all the experience gained in previous non-conference games is aimed.

Asked if he was pleased with the progress made by the Hawks in their first nine games of the season, Coach Scheuerman replied, "Yes, except for the first quarter against Villanova, but in all fairness to the boys I must add that Villanova was a great ball club that first half against us."

Stan Musial Plans One More Season

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Stan Musial, the bane of National League pitchers for two decades, all but made it official Friday in announcing during his contract signing that he intends to retire as a player at the end of the 1962 season.

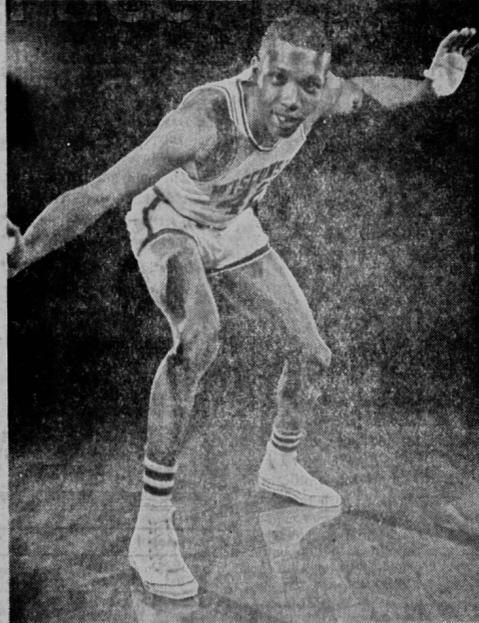

"A fellow just can't go on forever," said the 41-year-old outfielder, seven-time league batting champion whose entire major league career has been with the St. Louis Cardinals.

Still trim and feeling strong, Musial said there is one mark he doesn't want to add to the 37 National League and 13 major league records he already holds.

"I don't want to be the oldest player who ever played," he said. Musial and his bosses — President August A. Busch Jr. and General Manager Bing Devine — indicated he will remain with the club in some capacity in 1963.

Hustling Badger

Wisconsin's Ron Jackson is expected to play a major part in the Badger attack as they go against Iowa in the Big Ten opener at Madison. Jackson has been averaging 22.8 points a game in pre-conference play.

Dietzel Released by LSU; Will Accept Army's Offer

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — Officials at Louisiana State University Friday freed head football coach Paul Dietzel of a contract with four years remaining so he could take over coaching duties at the West Point Military Academy.

Dietzel, appearing a little misty eyed as he discussed his plans with newsmen, said he would fly to the Point Sunday to sign his coaching contract and work out minor matters with officials there.

"I think in the back of my mind I've always wanted to be head coach at the Point," he said. "You can't be at West Point without having some of it rub off on you." He was an assistant coach there for two years under Earl (Red) Blaik before accepting the LSU post in 1955.

At West Point, Army athletic director Emory S. (Hank) Adams Jr. said, "we are elated with the news. Now we can proceed with the final negotiations."

Regina High Bows To North Scott

Regina High was defeated by North Scott 78-70 in a fast-moving, rough game at Iowa City Friday night. North Scott lead throughout the game, although a large margin never separated the two teams.

North Scott led 21-14 at the end of the quarter, 38-35 at halftime, and 67-57 at the end of the third quarter. Several times during the third quarter, and again during the fourth, North Scott boasted a 12-point lead.

Both North Scott and Regina made 29 field goals, but North Scott had 29 attempts from the foul line, and connected on 20 of them while Regina made only twelve of 21.

Larry Rogers was the big gun for Regina with thirty points, while Gary Hoffman led the winners, tallying 21.

Iowa Swimmers Go Against Wisconsin in Big Ten Meet

By GEORGE KAMPLING
Staff Writer

Coach Bob Allen's Hawkeye swimming team opens its Big Ten dual meet schedule here this afternoon at 2:30 in the Field House pool against Wisconsin. This is the opening meet of the year for the Badgers, while the Hawks have one victory, a 63-42 win over Nebraska, already under their belts.

"This one will be a lot tougher than the meet against Nebraska," said Allen, "but if the team really puts out, they can take it. The meet should be real interesting, and we expect some good close races," he added.

In Iowa's opener, Dennis Vokolek and Bill Meyerhoff both had two first places, and Iowa will again be depending on these two along with backstroke ace Les Cutler, and Binky Wadington in the distance events. Meyerhoff continues to improve rapidly, according to Allen, and could be one of the Hawks standouts this year.

In the diving competition, Iowa will go with Jim Robbins and Dale Mood, who finished 1-2 against the Cornhuskers in December.

Allen is counting on several sophomores to come through, including Ralph Laughlin, Craig Erwin, John Jones, and Don Anderson. Anderson took a third in the meet against Nebraska, while Laughlin took a first and second.

"Wisconsin is a stronger team than they were a year ago," Allen said. "They have power in the free style, and also a good strong relay team," he commented.

Outstanding performers for the Badgers include captain Ron McDevitt, a 50 and 100-yard free style ace from Clinton. Other top Badger hopefuls include Nelson DeJesus, Bill Birmingham, and Ron Herms, all free stylists at various lengths.

McDevitt tied for third in the Big Ten meet last year in the 50-yard freestyle, and was fourth in the 100-yard event. Another Iowan, Jim Brophy, Ottumwa sprinter, is listed as a top sophomore.

Big Ten Race Opens Today—

OSU (10-0) Title Favorite

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Big Ten basketball teams, fresh from their best pre-championship tuneup in several years, will plunge into the 1962 league title race today with a full five-game conference slate.

Ohio State, heavily favored to capture its third straight crown, takes a perfect (10-0) warmup mark against Northwestern (5-4). Other openers include Iowa (6-3) at Wisconsin (6-3), Michigan (2-7) at Illinois (7-1), Michigan State (5-3) at Indiana (5-4), and Purdue (7-2) at Minnesota (4-6).

Thanks mainly to Ohio State's peerless Buckeyes, Western Conference cagers slammed through their tuneup campaign with a decisive 57-33 edge over non-conference opposition.

That .633 percentage, including play of Ohio State and Purdue in the top-notch Los Angeles Holiday Classic, was far ahead of last season's .529 mark on a 46-41 record. The year before, the Big Ten made a .596 showing on 53-36.

If the Jerry Lucas-paced Buckeyes capture the title, as unanimously expected, they will become the first team to take three successive Big Ten championships in almost half a century.

Wisconsin last did the "hat trick" in 1912-13-14. In that span, the Badgers set the all-time conference record of 23 successive victories. Ohio State seeks its 16th consecutive conference triumph in its opener at Northwestern where a sellout crowd of 8,000 is expected.

In the opinion of Northwestern Coach Bill Rohr, "Ohio State has too much poise to be beaten by gimmicks. I think the only way anyone is going to beat them is to go against them with a man-for-man."

Wilton Jct. Tops U-High

University High, leading until less than four minutes were left in the game, dropped a 48-43 Eastern Iowa Hawkeye conference game to Wilton Junction here Friday night.

High for the game was Wilton's Roger Marolf with 15. High for U-High Blues was John Spitzer with 11.

Score by quarters:
Wilton Junction — 8 12 11 17—48
University High — 7 12 13 11—43

Iowa Gymnasts Meet Gophers on Road Trip

By Staff Writer

The Iowa gymnasts are in Minnesota today for their first Big Ten dual meet of the 1962 season with old rival Minnesota. The Hawkeyes easily beat another Minnesota team, Mankato State, in the opener December 8.

George Hery, sophomore, leads Iowa, having scored sixteen points in three events in the first meet. Other top performers on the Hawkeye squad include Roger Gedney, Hans Burchardt, and Russ Porterfield. Also making the trip are: Jon Boulton, Jon Cada, Joe Liddell, Joe Roos, Keith Spaulding, Bob Schmidt, Drew Mawhinney, and Ed Wilson.

Minnesota, which started the season with only six men, is led by Captain Dick Stone, who placed second in the Big Ten meet in free exercise last year.

Iowa coach Dick Holzappel said Friday, "Minnesota was hoping to get some of their men back at the end of the quarter, and if they did they will be as rough as any team in the Big Ten."

Davenport West Nudges Hawklets

The Iowa City Little Hawks dropped a narrow 53-51 game to the Davenport West Falcons here Friday night. The loss gives City High a 1-5 mark in Mississippi Valley conference play, and a 3-5 record for the year. The Falcons are now 2-4 in the conference, but have a 6-4 mark for the season.

The Little Hawks were only down by one, 13-12 at the end of the first quarter, but hot shooting from the field and free throw line both, gave the Falcons a ten point halftime advantage, 38-28. West hit 63% of their shots from the field the first half, and 14 of 18 free throws.

Score by quarters:
City High — 12 16 16 7—51
West — 13 25 3 12—53

WILLIAM PENN WINS

OSKALOOSA (AP) — William Penn led all the way in defeating Northwestern College, 77-65, in non-conference basketball here Friday night. Hank Williams of Penn led all scorers with 19 points. Penn has a 6-4 record.
