

Kennedy Urges Peace in New Guinea

Dutch, Indonesians In Naval Skirmish

HOLLANDIA, Dutch New Guinea (UPI) — Netherlands and Indonesian naval forces battled off the coast of this disputed South Pacific island territory Monday. The Dutch said two Indonesian motor torpedo boats were sunk and the rest of an apparent "invasion" fleet routed.

Both nations blamed the other for the battle. An announcement from Dutch naval headquarters in The Hague said the Indonesian vessels, equipped with anti-aircraft guns, opened fire first on Netherlands Neptune fighter-bombers patrolling Dutch New Guinea waters. The Dutch acted to repulse the attack, it said.

In Jakarta, Indonesia accused the Dutch of an unprovoked attack on Indonesian vessels in the open sea and President Sukarno called an emergency session of his special operation command for the "liberation" of this territory which his Government calls "West Irian."

Indonesia did not confirm Dutch reports that two Indonesian vessels had been sunk. The clash took place at 9 p.m. Monday (7 a.m. EST Monday), the broadcast said.

Reports from The Hague quoted defense sources as saying the Netherlands has decided to strengthen its armed forces and will rush more ships here as a result of the naval skirmish.

Capt. R. M. Elers, official Dutch naval spokesman here, said "It looks as if we frustrated an Indonesian invasion attempt."

In The Hague, Premier Dr. Jan E. de Quay said Holland is still prepared to negotiate a settlement with Indonesia despite the naval clash. De Quay said his Government has informed U.N. acting Secretary-General Thant of the battle.

Earlier a Dutch defense ministry spokesman would not comment when asked if the clash meant a state of war existed between Holland and Indonesia.

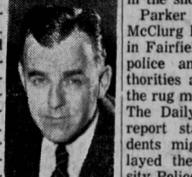

In Washington, U.S. officials expressed concern that Indonesian President Sukarno might declare war as a face-saving gesture. Sukarno, who has mobilized his nation and massed 48,000 troops in the South Celebes for an invasion attempt, met with his war cabinet in Jakarta. Reports filtering through heavy Indonesian censorship indicated the Indonesian navy had sent a flotilla of destroyers to the North Celebes.

There were unconfirmed reports that some fighting had already taken place on the New Guinea mainland between Dutch troops and Indonesian infiltrators, but of

Coe Prexy Will Speak At Graduation

Joseph E. McCabe, Former Theologian, To Talk February 3

A theologian turned college president will speak at the SUI Commencement exercises Feb. 3. He is President Joseph E. McCabe of Coe College, Cedar Rapids, who took over his present post in February, 1958, after four years as senior minister of the Presbyterian Church of Chestnut Hill, Pa., near Philadelphia. Coe College is a Presbyterian-related school.

Dr. McCabe's book, "The Power of God in a Parish Program," was the June, 1958, selection of the Religious Book Club. The club termed it "a rare combination of practical suggestiveness and of spiritual inspiration... a soul-stirring record of actual experience in bringing a new spiritual vitality into the program of a local church."

Dr. McCabe also is an active contributor to a number of professional and religious journals, including "Pulpit," "Monday Morning" and "Pulpit Digest." He is the great-grandson of Dr. John McMillan, a Presbyterian minister of Scotch-Irish descent, who founded Washington and Jefferson College, the first college established west of the Allegheny Mountains.

He holds five earned degrees and honorary doctor of divinity and law degrees. His master of theology degree was earned at Princeton Theological Seminary in 1947 and his Ph.D. degree from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, in 1951.

The accusation was made by Ambassador Vasco Vieira Garin before the 104-nation General Assembly. Two Communist bloc countries had proposed that the assembly direct the Security Council to consider application of harsh penalties against Portugal.

Poland and Bulgaria introduced a resolution that would also have the assembly condemn Portugal for pursuing a colonial war against the Angola people and reaffirm their right to self-determination.

Despite Garin's protests delegates to the 16th assembly session, which resumed meetings Monday, went ahead with the scheduled debate on Angola, the restive Portuguese possession on Africa's western coast.

Garin and his entire delegation walked out of the assembly hall immediately after he spoke. He made clear, however, he reserved his right to return to reply to charges against Portugal by subsequent speakers.

Garin denounced the debate as "mischievously designed, from which only evil can come to Angola and to this organization itself."

But he did not threaten that Portugal would quit the United Nations, as did Premier Antonio Salazar in a speech Jan. 3. Portugal refused to let the commission make an on-the-scene investigation, but its chairman, Ambassador Carlos Salamanca of Bolivia, talked with Portuguese officials in Lisbon.

Herky Is Back; Culprits Face Action at Parsons

By DOUG CARLSON Staff Writer

The "Herky" rug stolen from the Iowa Memorial Union the night of Jan. 4 has been found and charges are now pending against a number of Parsons College students for the theft.

The rug was found lying in the snow outside the house of a Fairfield junk dealer.

According to Chief Bruce M. Parker of the University Police Department, the rug had been stuffed into the trunk of an old car that had not been in operating condition for some time. Parker said that the car was sold to the junk dealer by some Parsons College students for $10 last Thursday.

The dealer's son found the rug the next morning, hauled it to the house on this sled, and dumped it in the snow.

Parker and Captain Verne H. McClurg had spent Thursday night in Fairfield working with Fairfield police and Parsons College authorities after receiving a tip that the rug might be found in Fairfield.

The chief said that the investigation has not yet been completed and the number of persons actually involved in the theft is not known. When charges are filed, the matter will be referred to Johnson County authorities for prosecution, Parker said.

Parson College officials said Monday that "there will definitely be some action taken" against the students involved in the theft. Richard Simon, assistant to the president of Parsons, said the students will go before the student court which will make recommendation to the faculty court. The president will make the final decision concerning any school action against the students.

George F. Stevens, associate director of the IMU, said that the rug is in a "bad state of repair." He said that it is torn in a few places and has been stained. Stevens said he doesn't know when the rug, valued between $1,000 and $1,500, will be returned to the Terrace Lounge.

The warning came after heavily armed Moslem extremists ambushed a French army patrol in the heart of Oran and execution squads of the outlawed Secret Army Organization (OAS) killed three Europeans considered too friendly to the Moslems.

The government warning — signed by the Algiers regional inspector general, the prefect of Algiers, the commander of the territorial region and the Algiers army corps — did not say what liberties might be restricted. Such a move would be close to martial law, however.

"The public powers will never abandon their mission of protecting the population," the announcement said. "The measures they may be called upon to take to assure that mission can only limit the exercise of public liberties and restrict your lives."

May Curtail Civil Liberties In Algeria

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — French authorities warned Monday night it may be necessary to curtail civil liberties in Algeria where clashes between Moslems and rightwing French settlers have taken a toll of 246 lives since Jan. 1.

The government warning — signed by the Algiers regional inspector general, the prefect of Algiers, the commander of the territorial region and the Algiers army corps — did not say what liberties might be restricted. Such a move would be close to martial law, however.

Moslems killed a French police sergeant in Oran in one of the terrorists attacks sweeping all of Algeria and bringing it ever closer to all out civil war. Bombings, shootings and knifings had killed 246 and wounded 500 since Jan. 1.

Moslems carrying machineguns shot up a bar in Algiers Monday night, killing a French soldier and a European chauffeur and wounding a French soldier. Other Moslems threw a grenade at a bus in downtown Algiers, killing one European and wounding four Europeans and two Moslems.

In Lille, France, several thousand persons angry at the OAS for the explosion of a plastic bomb at a student restaurant marched through the streets shouting "OAS, assassins" and demanding peace in Algeria. No students were hurt in the explosion.

In one of the boldest strikes yet in Oran-hothed of European opposition to President Charles de Gaulle's Algerian program — a group of Moslems opened up with machineguns and grenades from apartment house balconies as a patrol reached the juncture of the European waterfront district and the Arab quarter.

The patrol ducked for cover and fired back. The battle raged for 30 minutes in a heavy downpour.

Portugal Files Charge of Bias Against U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Portugal accused the United Nations of bias Monday and declared it would refuse to take part in debate on alleged Portuguese terrorism in Angola.

The accusation was made by Ambassador Vasco Vieira Garin before the 104-nation General Assembly. Two Communist bloc countries had proposed that the assembly direct the Security Council to consider application of harsh penalties against Portugal.

Poland and Bulgaria introduced a resolution that would also have the assembly condemn Portugal for pursuing a colonial war against the Angola people and reaffirm their right to self-determination.

2 Men Hold Up Coralville Station; $200 Taken

A Coralville service station became the scene of the latest in a series of robberies Monday night, when the Superior Gas Station was held up by two men.

The men entered the station at approximately 9:30 p.m., held the attendant at gunpoint, and escaped with less than $200.

Station attendant Ed Vrchoticky, Route 2, said the two men came into the station one after the other. The first held his hand over his face, he said, and pointed a small gun at him.

He described the gunman as 45 to 50 years old, about 5 feet 4 inches tall, and weighing about 200 pounds. The other man, he said, was about 19 or 20 years old, and taller and slimmer than the first man.

The shorter man forced him to face the wall, Vrchoticky said. When they failed to open the register, the holdup man shoved Vrchoticky to it, and ordered him to get the money. After he gave the money to the men, he said, they told him to lay flat on the floor.

Another man, Charles Forman, was in back of the station during the holdup, but said he did not hear anything.

Vrchoticky said he believes the shorter of the two men might be the same person who came into the station earlier in the day to buy cigarettes. This man was driving a brown Ford Galaxie. He stayed around the station for about half an hour, Vrchoticky said.

Hire of Negro Teachers Sought by Local Group

Hiring policies of the Iowa City Community School system were discussed Monday night at a Civil Rights meeting. The group drew up a petition asking that more Negro teachers be hired next year.

Organized by William Bunge of Hawkeye Apts., the meeting was attended by about 20 people, including members of the Student Senate, the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), the Congress of Racial Equality (CORE).

The group will also try to sell on this campus buttons to earn money for the Southern Student Freedom Fund, to aid students arrested for protesting against racial discrimination.

Such buttons have been sold on campuses at Yale, Harvard, and Wisconsin.

The petition drafted reads as follows: "In view of the conspicuous absence of Negro teachers in the Iowa City Community School District, we, the undersigned, request that beginning the school year 1962-63, the Iowa City Community School District make a concerted effort to employ qualified Negro applicants as teachers."

Mrs. Joseph Rocha, a Negro who has a Masters degree in Education and six years teaching experience in Washington, D. C., said she was unable to get a job here, while many applicants just graduated and with no experience were hired.

Mrs. Rocha, 657 Hawkeye Apt., said that to be hired an applicant must be interviewed by two principals who make the final decision.

Other Foreign Policies Aired For Newsmen

Fields Tariff Queries; Replies to Domestic Critics at Conference

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy appealed to both the Netherlands and Indonesia Monday for peaceful settlement of their New Guinea dispute lest an outbreak of war bring harm to all the world.

He urged both countries to cooperate with the peace efforts of United Nations Secretary-General Thant. He said the United States was "extremely anxious that a peaceful accommodation be reached in this matter" and had used its influence toward that end.

The President's statement came after the Dutch navy said it had repulsed an Indonesian invasion fleet off the New Guinea coast, destroying two Indonesian motor torpedo boats.

In a second foreign policy development, the President told a news conference that a tariff-cutting arrangement had been negotiated between the United States and the European Common Market which is "on the whole satisfactory."

While the President gave no details, the United States and the Common Market countries were said to be ready to sign a pact calling for tariff cuts of up to 20 per cent on some industrial products.

Turning to Berlin and charges by some critics that this country should have torn down the Communist wall, the President put on the record what he has been saying privately for several weeks. He told newsmen that tearing down the wall might have resulted in "violent" military reaction by the Russians and East Germans — a reaction that "could have taken us down a rocky road."

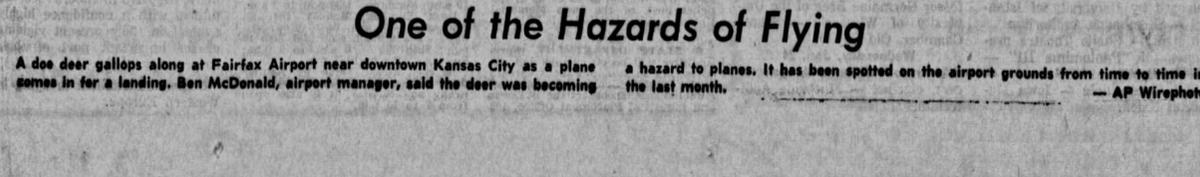

The President also replied to Republican critics on the domestic scene. To GOP charges that he had been inactive in the civil rights field, the Chief Executive said his Administration had made more progress over the last 12 months than the Republicans had over the previous eight years.

He said his Administration had filed a great many more suits to assure voting rights for Negroes than had the Eisenhower Administration, had appointed more Negroes to federal office, and had done more to protect Negro rights in interstate travel.

On another domestic issue, the President expressed hope that a steel strike could be averted this year by a labor-management agreement reached early enough to avoid heavy stockpiling and later layoffs. He said Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg was available for any service he could perform looking toward an early agreement.

The President reiterated that any wage increase for steelworkers should be based on productivity and with an eye toward stable prices.

The President also was asked about talks in Moscow between U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. He was asked whether there was any sign that Russia would agree to negotiate the Berlin crisis on terms acceptable to the West.

One of the Hazards of Flying. A doe deer gallops along at Fairfax Airport near downtown Kansas City as a plane comes in for a landing. Ben McDonald, airport manager, said the deer was becoming a hazard to planes. It has been spotted on the airport grounds from time to time in the last month.

Don't Sacrifice Civil Rights This Session

President Kennedy, in his State of the Union address last Thursday, hinted at Administration-proposed legislation on civil rights to come before this Congress.

Kennedy said there is much more to be done by Congress as well as the executive and the courts to secure the constitutional rights of all citizens. The President did not elaborate except to say: "... the right to vote, for example, should no longer be arbitrarily denied through such iniquitous local devices as literacy tests and poll taxes."

The day before, in a televised interview with Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.), Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield said that "As far as I can see, there is no civil rights legislation on the horizon this year."

Apparently Kennedy's recommendation had not been anticipated by Keating who asked Mansfield: "Do you agree with the Administration's position not to press for further civil rights legislation this session?"

Certainly Mansfield had not anticipated it, for he replied that much progress has been made through executive action during the past year and that the Administration believes further progress can be made through executive action.

We are wondering if the President actually does intend to press for legislation on the issue. In view of what he said, it would appear that he does. But on the other hand, it seems unlikely that President Kennedy would fail to consult Mansfield — who will have to push any program through the Senate — if he has a specific program in mind.

We agree with the Senator from Montana that much progress has been made through executive action. The Justice Department has done much in the last year to eliminate abuses of civil rights. But we wonder if more still could not be done by congressional action.

If, as the President hinted, the Administration does come up with a program to present to the Congress, it might be blocked by Southern filibusters. It might also be blocked by a coalition between Southern Democrats and Northern conservatives (who are especially vote-conscious in this pre-election session). We feel the Administration should not try to dodge the fight merely because it might be defeated. Nor should it sacrifice civil rights legislation in exchange for some other bills it hopes to push through. We think the fight should be taken to the floor of the legislature despite the political implications. Each dodge entrenches the opponents of civil rights even more than they already are.

If, as Sen. Mansfield said, there is no legislation coming in the civil rights field, opponents of civil rights legislation have again won the fight without lifting a hand. We hope this doesn't happen.

Little Bang Too

A simple sentence in the State of the Union message marks the end of a revolution. "We intend to have at all times the capacity to resist non-nuclear or limited attacks — as a complement to our nuclear capacity."

How to explain the staggering quality of that statement? Military doctrine has been against it for a decade. Conventional warfare was virtually out. The frustration that exploded when American planes were forbidden to attack China, when the Korean War approached the Yalu River, had won behind the scenes in Washington. All the massive power of command decision at the very top was invoked to impose this concept.

Decision became dogma. A formidable phalanx of experienced Pentagon fighters policed it. War was in most cases to be nuclear war. The public was not allowed to discuss the issue with knowledge. The documents were highly classified. Only generalities were available in public print.

If this sounds like fiction the answer is that it was grotesque.

It is a great relief to have this episode closed. Only those who lived through it can hint at the intensity of a non-democratic and imposed partisan military attitude over a large number of years. Little wonder that President Eisenhower warned as he left the White House against an industrial-military special interest. It managed, in this case at least, to put democratic debate in a concentration camp.

Believes U.S. Will Suffer From Careless Expansion

By ERIC SEVAREID

State Department officials normally buried in endless "position papers" on endlessly recurring crises are currently passing around a 13-page letter, like connoisseurs examining a rare gem of uncertain market value. This document is hard as a diamond in reasoning, cool as a moonstone in tone.

The letter — "black and white impressions sketched from a distance" — is the summation of conclusions about America's world position and policies, reached by a former American diplomat with 30 years experience on four continents, a man who was greatly respected among his foreign service peers, never considered as cynic or reactionary. He has recently had time for fundamental thinking, a commodity usually denied to diplomats in active service. Here are a few brief excerpts from his conclusions:

ANTI-AMERICANISM — "The commonest binding tie among the ruling groups of the underdeveloped countries." It is in the nature of our power position and "if it did not exist, we would have reason to worry about our world position. We might emulate a predecessor, the British, and recognize foreign antipathy for its worth, but not become obsessed with it nor waste energy in combatting international neuroses curably only (if even by that) by our withdrawal from the world scene. What was often taken for British arrogance was merely British boredom. Generations of civil servants had learned the futility of explaining to alien minds the rationale of world-wide power and its attendant responsibilities."

THE COMMUNIST APPEAL — It exists not because underdeveloped peoples like Russians or Chinese want to be ruled by them. "It is because they are drawn to authority, mass solidarity, a shared formula for salvation and Governments taking problems off one's shoulders... the less ensured to choice and decision the people, the more attractive this simplifying formula. The people themselves, after colonial rule, submission to native tyrants or governing themselves through scallywags and weaklings, are receptive to authoritarianism in which the simple man finds brief realization as an individual in local party meetings, 'popular' demonstrations and possession of a militiaman's gun.

while losing his individuality in the socially secured 'people.'... Ideologically, the underdeveloped countries will tend increasingly toward authoritarianism. This trend does not necessarily play into Communist hands. If the leadership is firm of hand, intelligently egocentric rather than frivolously vain, it is likely to resist Soviet penetration more successfully than the usual caricature of democracy encountered in the underdeveloped countries."

FOREIGN AID — "There are two categories in this catalogue of good works, economic and political. As related to underdeveloped countries, they are in conflict. For the economic progress that we pay for can, in general, only be attained in disregard of the political goals we press for. Economic progress of the magnitude we propose can be made in an underdeveloped society only if that society is disciplined... but even a strong leader, exercising social discipline and striving to improve the economy of his country, with all our aid, may not win the race against economic and social disintegration. For we talk of accomplishing in five or ten years, or at most a generation, economic revolutions the magnitude of which took generations and centuries in Europe and Japan... by the most extravagant construction, our moral responsibility as a state stops somewhat short of our capacity to do constructive good, beyond which limit we now are.

"Outer space may be manageable. From there IN is the problem. I suspect that the answer may lie in reducing the size of the problem, for it is beyond ours, and anyone else's, wisdom or will."

The author of this letter, this needle shower of intellectual acid, is by no means a soured 'agin'er." He is a positive, affectionate personality, normally bubbling with life and ideas. But his training was in the classical school of diplomacy, in which the strength and welfare of the United States was the first and last consideration, in which the search for the hard core of truth in any situation was rigorously divorced from sentiments. He has spent half a lifetime in "backward" countries, in their spreading seas of crowded pain and passions.

He appears convinced that we shall suffer harsh retribution for having, in our disrespect for history, in our lack of humility before the eternal human tragedy, carelessly expanded our world-wide endeavors to an ungovernable magnitude. Letters to the Editor —

Criticizes SUI Campus Landscaping

To the Editor:

According to your Jan. 12 news story, the campus "polizei" attribute the theft of the expensive "Herky Rug" to either pranksters or grand larcenists, a body of opinion I find singularly shortsighted. I append the possibility of other motives, principally aesthetic ones.

One of the functions of a University, apart from the pursuit of knowledge and truth, is the cultivation of taste. While this University has contributed handsomely to the first of these ideals, many feel that it has been remiss with regard to the latter. It has been said that some students regarded the rug as a "work of art" rather than as a utilitarian artifact, preferring to walk around it rather than over it. But others, myself among them, regarded it as being not too hot. I would have walked over it any day.

The new entrance to the Union, faces an alley. On the side toward the foot-bridge, the main doorway is in the basement. The naturally attractive side of the Union grounds — the river side — is defaced by garbage machines, delivery paths, and ill-conceived landscaping.

For centuries architects and city planners have sought to utilize natural beauty to surround their structures and avenues. Not so SUI's campus architect, whose ideal conception of a well-laid garden seems to incorporate a parking lot wherever a natural vista presents itself. It may be argued that the Iowa River is not among the world's most beautiful bodies of water. But neither, is the Tiber, or the Main, or even the Charles. (It is no accident that in Springtime students sunbathe on the river bank between the Art and Dramatic Arts buildings, — one of the only naturally attractive and uncluttered spaces on campus.)

The disappearance of the rug may have been a performance in the tradition of Samuel Adams or Guy Fawkes — those spirited fellows who preferred positive action rather than face certain opposition from a committee. If this is the case, it may be proper to sound an alarmist's note.

If there are students around — hitherto I had doubted the possibility — who are intent on improving the appearance of the campus in their own way, then we may awaken some morning to find the Dramatic Arts building or Westlaw Park has disappeared; or, much more likely, that someone has finally turned the Union itself to its proper position.

Matter of Fact —

Criticizes 'FK's Prospects Have Improved

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Now that the President's message on the State of the Union has been delivered, and the Congressional wheels have actually begun to turn, the prospects for a fruitful session look considerably brighter than they did a fortnight ago.

The reasons for this are diverse. The first and perhaps the most important is President Kennedy's record-breaking support among the voters, which has been so repeatedly revealed by the public opinion polls. The word has been spread that the President's popularity will not gain him a vote in the Senate or House of Representatives; but this is nonsense.

Here Sen. Robert Kerr of Oklahoma is a case in point. Himself a fire-eating teetotaling Baptist from a Baptist state, Kerr heartily disliked the Kennedy nomination for the Presidency. The Baptist clergy in Oklahoma was even angered with Kerr because he stuck by the ticket, despite his distaste. And Kennedy lost Oklahoma by a wide margin, as Kerr expected, while Kerr himself was re-elected to the Senate by an even wider margin.

This autumn, however, the President paid a visit to Kerr's Oklahoma ranch. No less than 60,000 people turned out for the meeting in this remote district, which has a local population of no more than 40. The Baptist clergyman, who had been most angry with Kerr for failing to repudiate Kennedy, was now delighted to deliver the invocation. And the Senator has been telling all his colleagues that, instead of losing Oklahoma, Kennedy today would win the state in a walk.

KERR IS AN independent-minded but extremely astute politician. He would be the opposite of astute if he did not do his best to go along with the President and his party, whom he now regards as commanding overwhelming support in his state. Furthermore, he wants to go along, because he has come to like Kennedy. This suggests the second reason why the prospects have improved.

The fact is the President is not only popular in the country; he is also personally very popular in Congress. Here again, Kerr is a case in point. When they were both Senators, Kerr had no intimacy with Kennedy. In addition, he opposed Kennedy's nomination. Hence bad White House-

ALSOP

Kerr relations might have been anticipated when Kennedy took office.

Instead, the White House showed unexpected consideration of the Oklahoma Senator. The consideration included a judgeship, but the less tangible factor of simple politeness played the major role.

Thus Kerr, after opposing the Reciprocal Trade Act for years on end, changed his mind last session and gave the President a crucial vote for extending his reciprocal trade powers. This year, moreover, Kerr seems likely to be one of the leaders of the fight in the Senate for the President's much bolder new trade bill. If so, the effect will be great, nonsense.

THE CASE OF THE Oklahoma Senator is particularly striking, not only because it is so clear cut. The very great majority of Democratic Senators and House members resemble Kerr in now wanting to go along with the President, even if they have to stretch a point to do so.

Of course, some of them will not go along on civil rights, and other groups of law makers will leave the President on other issues. But the general desire to go along is nonetheless a crucial asset, which is bound to weight the averages in the President's favor.

Add to this another factor, introduced into the Congressional equation by Sen. William Fulbright of Arkansas. When last session ended, almost all his fellow Southerners thought Fulbright was in bad trouble. The international renown of the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was not expected to prevail against the raw demagoguery of the "conservative" racist, Rep. Dale Alford. Alford himself confidently looked forward to beating Fulbright in the Arkansas Senate primary this year.

BUT ALTHOUGH Fulbright is no master of stump speaking, Arkansas style, he took the stump with such effectiveness that, as one Senator put it, "he ran Alford right off the plantation." The ignominious withdrawal of Alford from the race against Fulbright has suggested to many Senators and members of Congress that extreme, allegedly "conservative" posturing may not be quite such a paying proposition as some had begun to hope. This too will help the President.

And finally one last factor, the opinion of most of the law makers that the country is in a sober mood, wanting to see the national business transacted soberly and efficiently. The sum of all factors is that somewhat brighter prospect above-noted.

Selfish Nationalism Dying In Western Europe

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst

The six members of the European Economic Community have achieved a step forward in mutual confidence which transcends even the highly important commercial aspects of their association.

When they have formally ratified last week's agreement to place their agricultural interests in the pool with coal, steel and commercial products, they also will have advanced to a phase of cooperation in all of their affairs which was an integral part of their original agreement, but which has been overshadowed in the public eye by the immediate trade problems.

UNDER THE ORIGINAL treaty it was agreed that, when the phase of agricultural union once was reached, the individual members would give up their veto power in the council of ministers by which the market is governed.

That means that these nations, some of them of widely divergent cultures, all of whom have played their roles on one side or another in the centuries of European wars, all of them with strong nationalistic traits, all of whom have been involved in the worst sort of rivalries, have agreed to place their very lives in each other's hands.

Putting aside fear — especially the fear of competition among the major powers for the support of smaller powers in an effort to obtain selfish control of the organization — they have agreed to take their future actions on a basis of majority, not unanimous vote in the council.

NOW FRANCE has done that, and Germany has done it. And Great Britain knows that when she joins — as it seems she will despite great difficulties — she will have to do it.

New trade agreements for the present, and those that are expected for the future, do not mean, necessarily, that the United States and the EEC were relatively easy. Those beyond will be far more difficult.

And it is just possible that, in order to preserve a solid front, a truly viable and effective front in the economic war declared by the Communist sphere, the United States will one day have to join EEC.

In the meantime, Europe has foreseen that economic union will eventually produce so many problems that political union will have to follow in order to coordinate the media of cooperation. Knowingly, the EEC members face this future, with a confidence highly evident in their present yielding of an important part of their sovereignty.

Selfish nationalism is dying in Western Europe.

Pantomime III Mostly Student Production

By BRYAN REDDICK
Staff Writer

Eleven students and a director have been largely responsible for the next Studio Theatre Production, "Pantomime III."

The production will be presented at 8 p.m. in the theatre in the Old Armory Jan. 17-20.

A class in pantomime, taught by James W. Gousseff, plus a lighting supervisor from a class taught by Dr. David L. Thayer, will present a show featuring 21 pantomimes varying in length from 30 seconds to 5 minutes.

Nora Null, A3, Cedar Rapids, has been in charge of publicity for the production. Anne Miller, A3, Des Moines, designed several special costumes. Diane Waterman, A2, Arlington Heights, Ill., has selected music to set the mood for several pantomimes. Variety is emphasized with tunes ranging from Elizabethan melodies to music to "twist" to Joe Lofton, G, Memphis, Tenn., has designed and made many of the basic costumes, which consist of a smock-type top, black tights, and ballet shoes. Unlike the two earlier pantomime productions at SUI, the current performance features costumes more specifically suited to the subject portrayed. In years past, almost all performers wore identical costumes.

Holden Potter, A4, Wayne, N.J., designed and arranged the stage form. Tony Bougoukas, A4, Campbell, Ohio, is in charge of properties. The demand for properties will change with each performance as new subject matter is selected for the "living Daily Iowan" feature.

Before each pantomime a card will be shown revealing the title of the performance. Card-holder Lela Litch, A3, Fort Madison, will strike a pose which in itself suggests the subject of the pantomime to follow. The cards were designed by Barbara Peeters, A1, Tipton. The program was designed and edited by Evelyn Stanske, A2, Bronx, N.Y. Bonnie McBeth, A2, Des Moines, has been in charge of display for the green room outside the Studio Theatre which features pictures of the class, the company of performers, and the production itself. SUI art students have provided sketches for the display.

In addition to these activities, all ten class members will appear in the performance.

Tickets can be picked up by students who present their identification cards at the east lobby desk of the Iowa Memorial Union. General admission tickets are 75 cents.

SUI Athletic Board Donates $12,000 to Research Council

The SUI board of control of athletics has awarded a $12,500 grant to the newly organized SUI Research Council.

Vice-President John C. Weaver, in charge of administering the grant as chairman of the new Research Council, Monday explained the award will be used in helping to support research and creative activities by SUI faculty members.

"It is impossible to estimate the total potential value of such a gift to our scientists and other creative thinkers," Dean Weaver said in expressing appreciation for the grant.

Group To Feature Bernhardt Film

A film of the last public performance of Sarah Bernhardt will be shown Tuesday at 8 p.m. at the monthly meeting of the Iowa City Community Theatre. The public is invited to the presentation.

The meeting will be held at the Trinity Episcopal Church, 320 East College.

Sarah Bernhardt died in 1923 after a career that earned for her, in the eyes of many, the position of "the world's best actress." She is perhaps best remembered for her role in "La Dame aux Camelias," often called "Camille," by Alexandre Dumas, fils. She began her career in Paris in 1862.

made possible by athletic revenues. "At the very least," he said, "such a substantial expression of support will make possible the launching of research efforts which might never have been started otherwise, or which at the very least would have been long delayed."

Dean Weaver described the new grant as "an impressive and heartening illustration of the manner in which the Iowa athletic program is an integral part of the University community."

While final allocation of the grant will be determined by the nine SUI faculty members who comprise the Research Council, Dr. Weaver said, in all probability most of the grant will be used for "seed money" — to get various research projects under way and eligible for "outside" support, or to help support creative efforts in areas which have no other financial support.

Dr. George S. Easton, chairman of the SUI board of control of athletics, noted that the grant to the Research Council is the largest ever made by the board. Over the past decade the board has awarded an average of more than $25,000 per year in smaller grants for medical research associated with athletic problems, contributions to the University's merit and activity scholarship funds, and assistance in purchasing uniforms and instruments for the Marching Band and Scottish Highlanders. But this is the first unrestricted grant to be made by the athletic board, Dr. Easton said.

First members of the SUI Research Council, appointed last week by President Virgil M. Hancher, are Professors H. W. Beams, zoology; David Gold, sociology; Nicholas Halmi, anatomy; Walter Krause, economics; Mauricio Lansky, art; Stow Persons, history; Ignacio Ponseti, orthopedic surgery; Hunter Rouse, mechanics and hydraulics; and James Van Allen, physics and astronomy. The council will advise in formulating research policies and in distributing research funds.

Will Hold Foreign Service Interviews Thursday, Friday

A Department of State representative will be at the Business and Industrial Placement Office Thursday and Friday to talk with students interested in foreign service careers.

Thomas P. Carroll, the Department of State's college relations officer, will tell students about the foreign service and the written examination offered on Sept. 8.

Students interested in talking to Carroll may sign up for a group meeting at the Business and Industrial Placement Office, 108 University Hall.

The foreign service requires officers with training in public and business administration, executive management, economics and related liberal arts courses such as history, political science and languages.

Candidates must be between 21 and 31-years-old on July 1. Persons 20-years-old may apply if they are college graduates or have completed their junior year.

They must have been U.S. citizens for nine years. Successful candidates in the one day examination will be examined orally by panels meeting at regional points throughout the United States.

New Foreign Service officers serve their first tour of duty in the Department of State's headquarters office in Washington, D.C. or at one of the 290 American embassies, legations or consulates abroad. Starting salaries range from $5,625 to $6,755 plus allowances, leaves, and other benefits.

Ernie Kovacs Rites Simple; Held Monday

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — Ernie Kovacs was buried Monday after a simple church service six blocks from the scene of the accident which claimed his life early Saturday morning.

The great names of movies and television attended funeral rites for the 42-year-old comedian at the Beverly Hills Community Presbyterian Church, less than a half-mile from the utility pole into which Kovacs crashed on a rain-slick street.

Comforting his tearful widow were pallbearers Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Jack Lemmon, restaurateur Joe Mikalos and directors Billy Wilder and Mervyn LeRoy. LeRoy replaced director Richard Quine who remained at home to comfort the comedian's mother.

Kovacs died when his station wagon jumped a curb and then smashed into the pole broadside. He was returning home from a party at Wilder's home honoring a newly adopted son of Milton Berle and his wife, Berle, pale and shaken, also attended the funeral.

Burial was at Forest Lawn Memorial Park in the Hollywood Hills. The Kovacs were the parents of a daughter, Mia, 2. He also was the father of two other daughters, Betty, 15, and Kippie, 13, by a previous marriage.

Soprano To Sing Wednesday Night

A faculty recital by mezzo soprano Patricia Barendsen, instructor of music department, will be presented Wednesday at 8 p.m. in McBride Auditorium. She will be accompanied on the piano by Professor John Simms.

The program will open with Alonso de Mudarra's "Soneto V" and other pieces, and will be followed by Ernest Chausson's "Opus 8" and "Opus 34." Miss Barendsen will also sing Alban Berg's "Opus 2" and Franz Schubert's masterpieces.

After graduating from Northwestern University with a B.A. and M.A. degrees, Miss Barendsen attended the Academy of Music in Munich, Germany. She also studied with Lotte Lehmann and Fritz Lehmann in California.

Before coming to SUI in 1959, Miss Barendsen was a faculty member of the University of Montana.

Show Burmese Children's Art in Union

A collection of paintings and drawings by Burmese children is displayed in the Terrace Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

The pictures were created by children in the Kanbe Middle School which was located in the compound of the teachers college. Others were done by the boys of the State High School in Rangoon, under Wachowiak's supervision and as demonstration lessons for art teachers in the Rangoon area.

Attached to each picture is a photograph and the name of the Burmese child who created it.

Most of the Burmese children, who ranged in age from 9-19, had never before worked with the tempera or crayon media shown in the exhibit. Working on large sheets of paper and with large brushes was also new to them.

Some of the pictures were done by children in the Kanbe Middle School which was located in the compound of the teachers college. Others were done by the boys of the State High School in Rangoon, under Wachowiak's supervision and as demonstration lessons for art teachers in the Rangoon area.

The display, which is sponsored by the Fine Arts Committee of Union Board, will remain on exhibit through Feb. 5.

Liberty Bell Rings Again

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — America's world-famous Liberty Bell, housed in historic Independence Hall, rang Monday as workmen lifted it before rebuilding its supports.

The bell, cracked for over a hundred years, was not struck itself. But one of the workmen tapped a wooden wedge on which it rested. And the tone echoed inside the bell and resounded throughout the area.

The wooden yoke, believed to be the same one from which the one-ton bell hung when it was first installed in the old stavehouse in 1753, is being removed. It will be taken to Franklin Institute and reinforced with a modern T-beam and then remounted under the bell.

While the yoke is being repaired the bell will rest on cement to keep it from vibrating.

Ohio Governor Refuses To Order Detector Test

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI) — Gov. Michael DiSalle Monday refused to order a lie detector test be given Dr. Samuel Sheppard, serving a life term for the 1954 slaying of his wife, Marilyn, because his attorneys have not produced "a single fact that was not before the court" during the trial and appeals.

At his news conference, DiSalle said he believed Sheppard's lawyers had not exhausted all their court appeals and there were "other courses" open to them, but he did not elaborate what else could be done.

DiSalle said Sheppard was convicted "before I became governor" and he was not bound to review it because it "wasn't a death case." He said that "any attempt to compare this with any other case such as the Elythe Klump murder conviction is inconsistent with the facts."

IS STUDYING NECESSARY?

Once there were three roommates and their names were Walter Pelucid, Casimir Fing, and LeRoy Holocaust and they were all taking English lit. and they were all happy, friendly, outgoing types and they all smoked Marlboro Cigarettes as you would expect from such a gregarious trio, for Marlboro is the very essence of sociability, the very spirit of amity, and very soul of concord, with its tobacco so mild and flavorful, its pack so king-size and flip-top, its filter so pure and white, and you will find when you smoke Marlboros that the world is filled with the song of birds and no man's hand is raised against you.

Each night after dinner Walter and Casimir and LeRoy went to their room and studied English lit. For three hours they sat in sombre silence and pored over their books and then, squinty and spent, they toppled onto their pallets and sobbed themselves to sleep.

This joyless situation obtained all through the first semester. Then one night they were all simultaneously struck by a marvelous idea. "We are all studying the same thing," they cried. "Why, then, should each of us study for three hours? Why not each study for one hour? It is true we will only learn one-third as much that way, but it does not matter because there are three of us and next June before the exams, we can get together and pool our knowledge!"

Oh, what rapture then fell on Walter and Casimir and LeRoy!

The wax in their ears got melted!

They flung their beanies into the air and danced a gavotte and lit thirty or forty Marlboros and ran out to pursue the pleasure which had so long, so bitterly, been missing from their lives.

Alas, they found instead a series of grisly misfortunes. Walter, alas, went searching for love and was soon going steady with a coed named Invicta Breadstuff, a handsome lass, but, alas, hopelessly addicted to bowling. Each night she bowled five hundred lines, some nights a thousand. Poor Walter's thumb was a shambles and his purse was empty, but Invicta just kept on bowling and in the end, alas, she left Walter for a pin-setter, which was a terrible thing to do to Walter, especially in this case, because the pin-setter was automatic.

Walter, of course, was far too distraught to study his English lit, but he took some comfort from the fact that his roommates were studying and they would help him before the exams. But Walter, alas, was wrong. His roommates, Casimir and LeRoy, were nature lovers and they used their free time to go for long tramps in the woods and one night, alas, they were treed by two bears, Casimir by a brown bear and LeRoy by a kodiak, and they were kept in the trees until spring set in and the bears went to Yellowstone for the tourist season.

So when the three roommates met before exams to pool their knowledge, they found they had none to pool! Well sir, they had a good long laugh about that and then rushed to the kitchen and stuck their heads in the oven. It was, however, an electric oven and the effects were, on the whole, beneficial. The wax in their ears got melted and they acquired a healthy tan and today they are married to a lovely young heiress named Gangliu Bran and live in the Canal Zone, where there are many nice boats to wave at.

In case you worry about such things, their wife is a Marlboro smoker, too, which adds to the general merriment. Marlboro is ubiquitous, as well as flavorful, and you can buy them in all 50 states as well as the Canal Zone.

Last Second Free Throw Fatal—

Wolverines Stun Hawkeyes

Takes Two To Tangle

Michigan's John Oosterbaan and Iowa's Joe Reddington (44) do a bit of fancy stepping as Iowa's Don Nelson (15) stands by ready to cut in. Action came in the Big Ten game at Ann Arbor as Michigan beat Iowa in the last second 56-55 on a free throw by Tom Cole.

Michigan Fights Back; Overhauls Iowa, 56-55

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — Iowa's basketball team was jolted by unheralded Michigan here Monday night as the clutch-shooting Wolverines posted a 56-55 win over the visiting Iowans.

Tom Cole's free throw with one second remaining climaxed a rally in which the hot-shooting Wolverines fought back from a six-point deficit in the last three minutes.

The victory snapped a seven game losing streak for the Wolverines and gave Iowa an 8-5 record with a 2-2 mark in Big Ten play.

It was almost a complete reversal of form for the Hawkeyes who looked impressive in a 65-63 home win over highly rated Minnesota Saturday.

The Wolverines fought from behind to tie the favored Hawkeyes at 49-all on a jump shot by Cole late in the contest.

After an exchange of baskets, Iowa got possession of the ball with little more than a minute remaining.

But sophomore Bob Cantrell stole the ball to put Michigan back in control.

The Wolverines took several shots at the basket but missed. Cole, who was desperately trying for a tip-in with time running out, was then fouled by Nelson.

With the scoreboard showing one second remaining Cole stepped to the line to put the game out of range for the Hawkeyes.

Iowa started fast and held a 32-26 halftime lead but saw an inspired Michigan five overcome the margin late in the game.

Iowa, sparked by Nelson's 13 points in the first half, led at intermission 32-26 but then the Wolverines caught fire.

Nelson was Iowa's high scorer with 20 points. The Hawkeye center now trails Purdue's Terry Dischinger by two points in the race for conference scoring honors.

Dischinger, who notched 20 points against Michigan State in an 89-74 Purdue victory Monday night, has 117 points in four games for a 29.25 average while Nelson has 115 for 28.75.

Andy Hankins and Joe Reddington scored nine points apiece for Iowa.

But it was 6-6 sophomore Dave Roach who kept Iowa in the game during Michigan's late drive, scoring three consecutive baskets in the last two minutes.

Cole and Cantrell paced Michigan with 14 points apiece.

Iowa's next game will be against Northwestern at Evanston, Ill., Saturday. The Hawkeyes beat the Wildcats, 74-69, in the first meeting of the year.

Colorado Rallies To Whip Cyclones

AMES (AP) — Hampered by a dismal start, Colorado spurred past Iowa State in the final minutes for a 56-55 Big Eight basketball victory Monday night which preserved the Buffaloes' conference lead.

Colorado fell behind 9-0 at the start and trailed until Milt Mueller converted a free throw which broke a 42-42 tie with eight minutes left.

The Buffaloes, led by the three-pronged attack of Jim Davis, Wilky Gilmore and Ken Charlton, pulled five points in front minutes later but the Cyclones whittled the margin to 56-55 with two minutes left.

Iowa State then stalled out the game in an attempt to score a victory with a last-minute shot, but the strategy backfired when Marv Straw's jump shot was short with eight seconds left.

Top scorer for Iowa State was Vinnie Brewer with 18. Gary Wheeler added 13.

Mississippi State Wins
ATLANTA (AP) — A last-second field goal by W. D. Stroud Monday night gave 10th-ranked Mississippi State a 57-56 Southeastern Conference basketball victory over Georgia Tech.

"wild card" substitutions instead of one be permitted next season, and elimination of a rule which frowns on coaches for sending in plays.

The coaches, for the first time in several years, made no specific recommendation on substitutions but reported they were split on the matter.

The safety proposals were for stricter enforcement of the rule against piling on a ball-carrier who is "clearly down," for removal of face guards unless needed to protect an existing injury, and for adoption of American Medical Association recommendations on helmet design, which include changes to cut down neck injuries.

The coaches also called for "clarification" of rules on defense signal calling; a change for the penalty for illegal shift from 15 to 10 yards, and for changing the penalty for illegal motion from 5 to 10 yards.

Bucks Still Dominate AP Cage Poll

By The Associated Press

Undefeated Ohio State is again the unanimous choice for first place in the Associated Press major college basketball poll today, surviving a major shakeup that lifted Kentucky into the runner-up position and jolted Mississippi State and Villanova.

The powerful Buckeyes, the only remaining major unbeaten team, were placed on top by all 41 sportswriters and broadcasters participating in the balloting. In its only game last week, Ohio State trounced Michigan 89-64.

Kentucky, the Southeastern Conference pace-setter, moved into second place on the strength of victories over Vanderbilt and Louisiana State. The Wildcats changed places with Cincinnati's Bearcats, who were upended by Bradley 70-48 in overtime. Bradley, unranked last week, moved into ninth place.

Mississippi State, which suffered its first setback Saturday night, 100-86 to Vanderbilt, fell three notches to the No. 10 position. Villanova, sixth a week ago, dropped from the first 10 after losing its second of the campaign, 87-66 to Xavier of Ohio.

Kansas State, winner over Kansas 70-45 and Oklahoma State 50-44, advanced one place to fourth while Duquesne, which whipped Dayton and Carnegie Tech, climbed from eighth to fifth.

Southern California dropped from fourth to sixth and Duke moved up three places to seventh. The Trojans split two games with Washington over the week-end while the Blue Devils turned back Clemson and Maryland.

Notch to eighth after defeating Bowling Green advanced one Toledo and Miami of Ohio.

On a basis of 10 points for a first place vote, 9 for second, etc., Kentucky piled up 358 points while Cincinnati had 322 and Kansas State 269. The competition for fifth place was close with Duquesne collecting 165 points and Southern California 162. Duke edged Bowling Green for seventh — 111 points to 109.

Except for Ohio State, Kentucky and Bowling Green have the best records among the teams in the top 10. Both are 12-1. Duquesne is 11-1 and Mississippi State 10-1.

The top 10 teams with first place votes and records through Jan. 3 in parentheses and poll points:

Not Superstitious

NBA All-Stars Best Players In Game's History: Schaus

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The National Basketball Association All-Star squads which meet tonight in St. Louis are the best in the game's history, according to West Coach Fred Schaus of Los Angeles.

"You could pick an all-time team for the sport without going beyond the 22 players on these two squads," said Schaus, who played in the first NBA All-Star game in 1951 at Boston.

"I know a lot of the old timers will disagree," he said.

The East squad includes the top scorer in basketball annals — point-

Cousy Chamberlain

a-minute Wilt Chamberlain of Philadelphia — plus a quartet from the perennial NBA champion Boston Celtics, led by the game's top ball-handler and feeder — Bob Cousy.

Red Auerbach of Boston will coach the East for the sixth straight year. He has a 3-2 won-lost record in All-Star games. This is Schaus' first turn as an All-Star coach.

The West starting team has a combined scoring average of 158.7 points a game compared to the East's 133.3, but the East starters have a big edge in experience, plus such reserves as Bill Russell of Boston and Paul Arizin of Philadelphia.

Cousy and Schayes have been selected for all 12 games. The West won last year, but the East holds a 7-4 edge.

The coaches are committed to start the top five men in the voting, but there are no restrictions afterward. The East starters besides Cousy and Chamberlain are Richie "Guerin" New York; Tom Heinsohn, Boston; and Dolph Schayes, Syracuse.

Gene Fullmer Hopes To File Challenge To Archie Moore

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gene Fullmer hopes to file an official challenge with the New York State Athletic Commission next week for a shot at Archie Moore's portion of the light-heavyweight championship, he disclosed Monday night.

Fullmer, recognized as middleweight champion by the National Boxing Association, wanted to file the challenge and post a forfeit check of $2,500 today. But manager Marv Jensen advised him to wait until next week — "until the light-heavyweight situation becomes more clarified."

Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, who received the "fighter of the year" award Sunday night at the annual dinner of the Boxing Writers' Association, is so eager to fight for the light-heavy title that Jensen says, "It's an obsession with him."

Fullmer, 30, issued his public challenge to 46-year-old Moore before a sell-out crowd of more than 500 at the Writers' dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

He said he could weigh 167 or 168 pounds, and that Archie would have an advantage of only eight or nine pounds over him since neither could scale more than the 175-pound limit.

Moore, at his home in San Diego, Calif., greeted Fullmer's challenge somewhat derisively. "I like Fullmer," he chuckled,

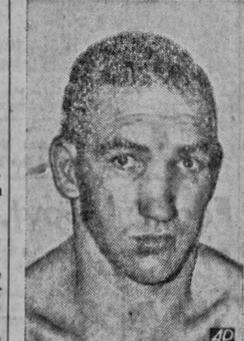

"and therefore do not want to cause him grief in Utah nor make enemies by destroying his fistic career."

Moore, who is recognized as 175-pound champion in Europe and four states, including New York and California, suggested that Fullmer qualify himself by fighting Harold Johnson of Philadelphia.

Johnson is recognized as light-heavyweight champion by the National Boxing Association. Both Johnson and top contender Doug Jones of New York already have filed challenges in New York against Moore and have posted forfeit checks.

Because of those challenges, the

New York commission has ordered Moore to sign before Jan. 31 for a defense against Johnson, Jones or some other commission-approved challenger. However, it is possible that Johnson will have to defend his title portion against Jones, who still has a contract with Johnson for a championship fight.

Tennis Title to Laver

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Australia's Rod Laver, 23, clinched World Amateur tennis laurels Monday by defeating fellow countryman Roy Emerson, 25, in a four-set final of the Australian National Championships.

The lefthander required 105 minutes in sweltering heat to subdue his close friend and fellow Queenslander, 3-6, 0-6, 6-4, 6-4 before a crowd of 3,000 at White City.

In dethroning Emerson, Laver added the Australian crown to his Wimbledon title and spectacular successes against the Italians in the Davis Cup challenge round last month. Emerson still holds the U.S. championship, which he won at Forest Hills, N.Y., last September.

The poised, precision-hitting redhead now has beaten Emerson four straight times in major tournaments in Australia.

Learning never stops for engineers at Western Electric.

There's no place at Western Electric for engineers who feel that college diplomas signify the end of their education. However, if a man can meet our quality standards and feels that he is really just beginning to learn... and if he is ready to launch his career where learning is an important part of the job and where graduate-level training on and off the job is encouraged — we want and need him.

At Western Electric, in addition to the normal learning-while-doing, engineers are encouraged to move ahead in their fields by several types of educational programs. Western maintains its own full-time graduate engineering training program, seven formal management courses, and a tuition refund plan for out-of-hours college study.

This learning atmosphere is just one reason why a career at Western Electric is so stimulating. Of equal importance, however, is the nature of the work we do. Our new engineers are taking part in projects that implement the whole art of modern telephony, from high-speed sound transmission and solar cells to electronic telephone offices and computer-controlled production techniques.

Should you join us now, you will be coming to Western Electric at one of the best times in the company's history. In the management area alone, several thousand supervisory jobs are expected to open up to W.E. people within the next 10 years. And our work of building communications equipment and systems becomes increasingly challenging and important as the communications needs of our nation and the world continue to increase.

Challenging opportunities exist now at Western Electric for electrical, mechanical, industrial, and chemical engineers, as well as physical science, liberal arts, and business majors. All qualified applicants will receive careful consideration for employment without regard to race, creed, color or national origin. For more information about Western Electric, write College Relations, Western Electric Company, Room 6206, 222 Broadway, New York 38, New York. And be sure to arrange for a Western Electric interview when our college representatives visit your campus.

Federal Govt. Fails To Aid Shelter Plan

DES MOINES (UPI) — The Federal Government has disappointed Gov. Norman A. Erbe in his efforts to get federal money to help finance a fallout shelter for the new Iowa Employment Security Commission building here.

Erbe said he had been told by Department of Defense officials that no federal money is available for shelters in buildings in which the "normal operations" of state and local Government is conducted.

The State Executive Council has already approved the final plans for the building. The commission told the council a considerable cost would be involved in revising the plans now for a shelter in a sub-basement of the building, but that a shelter could be constructed under the building's parking lot for about $200,000.

However, no additional funds are available for including the shelter in the building, which is being financed with both federal and state funds.

Paul S. Visher, a deputy in the civil defense section of the Defense Department, said the Federal Government is "contemplating paying $2.50 per square foot for every square foot in a building which meets our fallout shelter criteria."

However, he said these grants would be made for public and non-profit schools, hospitals, and welfare institutions but not to "buildings which house the normal operations of state and local Governments."

Although federal funds are helping to finance the Employment Security Commission building, Erbe said it will be state property once it is completed and that would not be eligible for federal fallout funds.

Visher said federal officials are planning to incorporate fallout shelters in all new federal buildings, and it will provide water, medical supplies, food and other material needed to stock privately financed community shelters.

Graduate Named To Head of Fund

Darrell Wyrick, a 28-year-old native of Ft. Madison, has been named field representative for the Old Gold Development Fund.

In his new position, he will visit alumni in Iowa and other areas to organize local "telefund" campaigns.

The SUI graduate has been a process engineer at Archer-Daniels-Midland Company in Minneapolis the past four years. He is beginning his new duties with the OGDG at SUI this month.

The OGDG was organized in 1955 by the SUI Alumni Association as a program to which SUI alumni could contribute directly to support activities and programs at SUI for which state appropriated funds are not available. In the past six years the fund has contributed close to a third of a million dollars to such activities.

Until this year, solicitation was principally by direct mail. However, Loren Hickerson, director of the SUI Alumni Association, explained that those associated with the fund realized the need for a more personalized form of fund-raising.

On Oct. 8 alumni in every county in Iowa began telephoning other alumni in their area to secure pledges for contributions. Because of the encouraging results, Wyrick has been named to develop this program throughout Iowa on a national level.

Early this spring Wyrick will begin meeting with alumni in each Iowa county to make plans for the local 1962 "telefund" campaign and other local fund-raising activities. Also during 1962 Wyrick hopes to organize the program in New York City, Washington, D.C., Baltimore, Los Angeles, Minneapolis, St. Paul, and Chicago. Campaigns in these cities would reach one-third of all out-of-state alumni.

Wyrick hopes that eventually funds will be solicited on a personal contact basis. This personal contact will begin this spring when he first meets with local residents who are active in the SUI Alumni Association. Later, he hopes this personal contact will be extended to include all 25,000 alumni living in Iowa.

Hickerson said that in 1956, the first year of solicitation for the Old Gold Development Fund, 50,800 alumni were contacted by mail and gifts were received from 1,309. In the following years the direct mail solicitation brought a steady increase in the number of contributors. In 1960 over 58,000 alumni were contacted by mail and responses were received from 2,141.

The "telefund" campaign idea was tested in Minneapolis this fall when 30 volunteers called 800 fellow-SUI alumni. As a result of this effort 20 per cent of the Minneapolis alumni pledged gifts as compared to the 3 per cent who participated in the program the year before. Wyrick, at that time still associated with Archer-Daniels-Midland in Minneapolis, was chairman of the "telefund" campaign there.

During the past six years, the fund has contributed over $78,000 to the various schools and departments within the College of Liberal Arts, more than $17,000 to the College of Medicine, another $33,000 has been given in scholarships and loan funds, and almost $5,000 has been given to the University Library for special acquisitions.

Wyrick received B.S. and M.S. degrees in chemical engineering at SUI in 1956 and 1957 respectively. A registered professional engineer in Minnesota, he was president of the SUI Club of the Twin Cities and a member of the Minneapolis Junior Chamber of Commerce.

TO MAKE MOVIE

LONDON (UPI) — Moscow radio said Monday plans are underway in Russia to make a movie starring American Negro singer Paul Robeson.

Will Show 3 Color Films From Turkey

Three color films from the cultural series of the University of Istanbul, Turkey, will be shown Friday at 8 p.m. in SUI's Shambaugh Auditorium.

"Roman Mosaics in Anatolia" (part of Turkey) compares the everyday life of the peasant of today and in the past in this area. "Colors in the Dark" depicts early Christian churches in an ancient country which is now part of Turkey. This film received a citation at the Bergamo, Italy, 1959 film festival and was shown at the Berlin, Germany, film festival the same year.

"Book of Festivities" closes the Friday evening program, which is sponsored by the Iowa Society of the Archaeological Institute of America.

The final film deals with miniatures in an illustrated manuscript of the 16th century which depicted a royal celebration in Istanbul. This film's sound track features 16th century Turkish music.

Alexander Kern, professor of English, will introduce the three films. Prof. Kern and his family lived in Turkey from 1958-60 while he taught American literature at the University of Ankara. During this time he was on a leave of absence from SUI.

ACCIDENTS KILL 5

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — A hand grenade explosion and an accident at a U.S. Army firing range killed five South Koreans over the weekend.

National police said Monday three school children perished Sunday when a hand grenade they were tinkering with exploded.

A U.S. Army spokesman said two men were killed apparently during a morning tank firing exercise Jan. 12, 30 miles northeast of Seoul.

Symphony Band Set For Thursday Concert

Music ranging from a Strauss waltz to a modern symphony will be featured by the SUI Symphony Band, conducted by Frederick C. Ebbs, in the group's annual mid-winter concert Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Iowa Memorial Union.

The concert, which will be open to the public, will open the fifth Iowa Band Clinic for high school band students and their instructors from all parts of Iowa. Instruction during the clinic will run through Saturday.

Hansens' "Valdres March" will start the program to be followed with "Symphony in B Flat" by Fauchet and "Dance Rhythms for Band" by Riegger.

Noted clarinetist Reginald Kell will be guest conductor for "Songs of the Gael" by O'Donnell. James Nielson, director of musical organization at Oklahoma City University, will take the baton for "Sebastian Ballet" by Menotti-Long. Featured soloist William Bell will play his own tuba arrangements of "Carnival of Venice," a traditional folk tune, and "In the Hall of the Mountain King," by Grieg.

Thomas L. Davis, assistant SUI Symphony Band conductor, will lead the musicians through a change of pace with "Dude Ranch Suite" by Kleinsinger. This will be followed by a Spanish March, "Sol Y Sombra" by Gates, and "Constellation March" by Myers.

Complimentary scores will be furnished when possible to those attending the clinic for the remaining numbers. These will include "Variation Overture" by Williams, "Two Pieces for Band" by Phillips, "Concert Overture" by Johnson, "Track Meet Suite" by R. R. Bennett and "Emperor Waltz" by Strauss. Free tickets for the concert are available at the band office and at the Union Information Desk.

NEW MAP DISPLAY WILL SHOW PILOT WHERE IN THE WORLD HE IS

No matter what the weather, speed or altitude, an IBM navigational display being developed will let pilots find their positions on a moving map. With this new computer display for planes, a pilot will actually be able to see his position though the earth might be totally obscured by a cloud cover.

In developing this display, IBM engineers and scientists solved a unique combination of optical and photographic problems. They were able to produce map images with good resolution on the inside surface of a glass hemisphere. A beam of light illuminates a small section of this hemisphere and projects it onto a screen in front of the pilot. In flight, the computer controls rotation of the hemisphere, correlating it with the plane's supersonic progress and the rotating earth. This approach to a computer-controlled map display suggests further application in a space navigation system, where a star map might be used instead of a map of the earth.

People with backgrounds in the sciences, engineering and liberal arts all contribute to the success of projects like this. At IBM, ideas which create new products and systems can come from anywhere—from research, programming, manufacturing, and systems engineering. If you would like to work where your ideas can be as important as the ability to apply them to vital and exciting areas of development, you should consider the many opportunities at IBM.

The IBM representative will be glad to discuss with you the many areas in which IBM is making important advances. All qualified applicants will receive consideration without regard to race, creed, color or national origin. Your placement office can give you further information and arrange for an appointment. Or you may write, outlining your background and interests, to: Manager of Technical Employment, IBM Corporation, Dept. 908, 590 Madison Avenue, New York 22, N. Y.

You naturally have a better chance to grow with a dynamic growth company. IBM IBM will interview Feb. 13.

SUI Combo Cuts Record; Waiting, Hoping for Results

Saturday afternoon seven men, six of them currently enrolled at SUI, went to Cedar Rapids and cut a record they hope will add their names to the growing list of successful college performers.

The group consists of Bob Rubin, A3, Highland Park; Rusty Jones, A2, Cedar Rapids; Brian Tabac, A1, Des Moines; Ron Fintech, A3, Iowa City; Max Yaro, A2, Des Moines; Jerry Weiner, A3, Rock Island; and Ron Bennet of Chicago.

Ron Bennet is the soloist. He is 20 years old and has been under contract to Chess Records and T-Rah Records. He is now freelancing and will leave Chicago for California Friday to make plans for redistributing the record.

Rusty Jones is the drummer, Bob Rubin plays piano, Ron Fintech, electric guitar, and Tabac, Weiner, and Yaro with Rubin provide the background voices.

Rubin wrote one of the songs, "The Twist Is Here To Stay", and Bennet wrote the other, "It Only Takes One To Be Lonely". Bennet prefers standards and ballads to rock-and-roll but he adds, "Good rock-and-roll, because of the excitement it generates, is fun to do."

He believes Bob Rubin is a very capable arranger and song writer and would like to work with him more often.

Rubin is the leader of his own group, "Bobby and the Pledges." They took first prize for entertainment in Profile Previews this semester, singing and playing two of Rubin's songs.

Foreign Student Adviser, Maner, Recounts Asian Tour

SUI Foreign Student Adviser Wallace W. Maner has completed a five-month tour of Asia to observe educational standards and methods, to lecture on American higher education and to advise students and faculty members on opportunities for study in the U.S.

An "unofficial" purpose of his trip was a reunion with former SUI Asian students who had returned to their homes.

"I had a wonderful time seeing them again," Maner said when he was interviewed for the first time after resuming his office, Jan. 2.

He visited Tokyo, Taipei, Bangkok, Manila and Rangoon last summer on the way to India and Pakistan where he and his family spent most of their time.

"In these cities, we received warm welcomes from former SUI students. They invited us to parties and their homes to introduce wives and children."

As the first receiver of the United States Government Award in India and Pakistan for Foreign Student Advisers, which was established last year, he left San Francisco in June, accompanied by his wife and two children, Minta, 19, and Martin, 15. They returned to Iowa City in mid-December.

The U.S. Government selected India as the main country for the award receiver to inspect, Maner said, probably because of the many Indian students studying in the United States.

According to Maner, the number of Indian students in the United States was 4,835 in 1961. This was third in the list of foreign students in the U.S. Canadian students, numbering 8,058, topped the list. China came in second with 5,304 students.

At SUI, Indian students, totaling 64, form the largest group of foreign students.

Maner said he believed more and more Indian students will be coming to the United States because he found that many Indian students and faculty members are quite eager to study in the United States, Maner said.

While traveling through India and Pakistan, he visited about 15 universities and colleges in both countries, and he said he realized that

WILLIAM L. SHIRER, who spoke to a capacity audience in the Iowa Memorial Union last Wednesday evening, was recorded by WSUI for use tonight at 8. Following his talk, "Russia and Germany—Keys to the Future," an interview with the author (and former radio man) will provide supplemental information.

A SAXOPHONE RECITAL, recorded earlier this month by Eugene Rousseau, a graduate student in the Music Department, will be our SUI Feature today at 2 p.m. A brief interview with the performer (just returned from a year of study in Paris) will be followed by three selections from the recital. If you are not acquainted with the saxophone as a "legitimate" musical instrument, Rousseau's recital should come as a pleasant surprise.

"LIVE" MUSIC will be heard on two occasions this week as it was last, the program by mezzo-soprano Patricia Barendsen is scheduled for tomorrow at 8 p.m., and the concert by the SUI Symphony Band will be offered at the same time on Thursday.

Erbe Asks Mayors To Push Seat Belts

DES MOINES (UPI) — Gov. Norman A. Erbe Monday sought to enlist the help of all mayors in Iowa in the Safety Department's campaign for increased use of automobile safety belts.

In letters to the mayors, Erbe urged them to support the state-wide campaign with their "influence, personal leadership, and the prestige of your office."

The seat belt campaign was recently launched by the state safety commissioner, Carl Pesch.

"I know that you are in sympathy with this goal, so I am asking you to join us now in a continuing campaign to convince Iowa motorists that the use of seat belts makes good safety sense," Erbe told the mayors.

"Intensive scientific research during the past few years has proved that the seat belt is the most effective, single safety device available today. Tests have shown that occupants of a vehicle secured by seat belts increased their margin of safety by as much as 60 per cent in case of a traffic accident.

"It has been estimated that if the majority of drivers can be led to install and use seat belts, we would see a reduction of upwards of 60 per cent in our traffic deaths and serious injury toll during the next few years," the governor said.

Erbe also urged the mayors to install seat belts in their own cars and to ask members of administrations to do the same.

Iowa Rehires Psychiatrist

DES MOINES (UPI) — State mental health officials learned Monday that their long efforts to get Dr. Peter Peffer back to Iowa have succeeded.

Dr. James O. Cromwell, state mental health director, said he received a letter Monday from Peffer, former superintendent of the Glenwood State School, saying he would return to Iowa in March.

Cromwell said Peffer would be appointed superintendent of Glenwood and the state hospital at Woodward at a yearly salary of $21,000 plus maintenance. Peffer, 60, was paid $21,000 a year when he left the state last September during the interim committee's battle with the Board of Control over the salaries of state hospital psychiatrists and administrators.

Peffer left to become superintendent of the Paul A. Dever State School at Taunton, Mass., but recently quit that post to live in retirement at Hollywood Beach, Fla.

Cromwell said Peffer was not "satisfied" with retirement and accepted Iowa's offer to return to the state.

Cromwell, who earlier called Peffer "one of the ablest mental health administrators in the nation," has been trying to persuade Peffer to return since shortly after he left the state.

Peffer will also be an unofficial director of the state's program for the mentally retarded, Cromwell said.

from a Roman Balcony

The same new great tradition which distinguishes "L'Avventura" and "La Dolce Vita." Based on stories by Alberto Moravia, author of "Two Women," the picture was directed by Mauro Bolognini, one of Italy's fastest-rising young directors who has two major awards from the Cannes and Locarno Film Festivals in recognition of the originality of his talents.

In "From a Roman Balcony," Bolognini reveals various facets of life in and around Rome through the adventures which occur in a twelve hour period, in the life of a young man looking for work, Jean Sorel, a comparative unknown, was chosen for the leading role because of the fresh and virile appeal inherent in his appearance and in his acting. For the three women with whom he becomes involved, Bolognini selected contrasting types... Lea Massari, the sultry brunette from "L'Avventura," Jeanne Valeris, a vivacious eighteen year old actress who has the unusual distinction of being moviedom's most censored actress, having appeared in five pictures which have been banned in various countries, and lovely blonde Valerie Clangottini, first seen in the United States in "La Dolce Vita."

Producer Paul Graetz, who was responsible for the forerunner of the "new" tradition in the film "Rome 11 O'Clock," surmounted governmental opposition in filming "From a Roman Balcony" as its theme was regarded by certain officials as too revealing of the economics of the underprivileged and the politically corrupt upper levels of society in Italy. As a result of Sorel's effective performance in this picture, Graetz signed the young actor to a pivotal role in his production of Arthur Miller's "A View From The Bridge," in which the multi-lingual Sorel makes his debut in an English speaking film.

East Germans Release Two Californians

Youths Imprisoned For Smuggling Girl Over Border In Car

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German Communists Monday unexpectedly released two California youths arrested four months ago for trying to smuggle an East Berlin girl to freedom in the trunk of their car. The boys blamed their troubles on chivalry.

The youths were Victor Pankey, 18, and Gilbert Ferrey, 20, both of Tustin, Calif. They were released Monday when Victor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Pankey, went to East Berlin to visit them in jail with Ferrey's mother.

The Communists still hold another American, Frederic Pryor, 28, a Yale University graduate of Ann Arbor, Mich., who disappeared on a trip to East Berlin shortly after the East-West Berlin border was closed Aug. 13. The Communists have hinted he was arrested on spy charges.

Pankey and Ferrey were arrested Sept. 8 and sentenced Sept. 26 to two years imprisonment for trying to smuggle out the East Berlin girl. The Communists said on Monday they were released as "an act of mercy" by East German Communist leader Walter Ulbricht.

Pankey and Ferrey met the press in a West Berlin hotel after they had a bath and a "good meal." Their story pictured them as the victims of a chivalrous impulse that began when they met the girl in East Berlin and she appealed to them to smuggle her to the West.

Ferrey and they did not blame the girl but told the Communist interrogators "it was the idea of all three of us." He said they were sure the girl was "not a plant" and that they were told Monday she was still in prison.

"The girl appealed to us to get her to West Berlin and we agreed," Ferrey said. "She told us her father was dead and her mother lived in West Berlin. We broke an East German law by trying to smuggle the girl out, but we are sure we did the humanitarian thing."

They said she was 22 but did not give her name.

FERREY PANKEY

"The treatment was very good in general," Pankey said. "We were not mistreated physically. We got everything we wanted but haircuts. We were not interrogated in prison, but we were given Communist lectures."

They said they went to East Berlin the morning of Sept. 8 to try to telephone their homes in California because they had heard that East German rates were cheaper. They met the girl and she offered to help, but the call was never made.

Pankey said, they "went back the same evening and visited the girl at her home and had dinner. She again made it known she wanted to leave and we decided to try and see if she would fit in the trunk of our car. She fit. It was her idea. We fell into it. We felt sorry for her."

"We drove to Friedrichstrasse," Pankey said. "The guards stopped us and told us to open the hood. We refused."

"We finally gave in. We were taken to a small room at the border for about two hours. Then we were taken to the main police station. There we were interrogated. Then we were taken to the prison in Magdelenstrasse."

Gizenga Censured; Trial May Be Next

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — The Central Congolese parliament Monday overwhelmingly approved a vote of censure against Vice Premier Antoine Gizenga, clearing the way for trial of the Communist-leaning Lumumbist on murder or treason charges. Gizenga was captured and placed under house arrest in Stanleyville by central Congolese soldiers after heavy fighting during the week-end. That apparently put an end to Gizenga's secessionist efforts.

A Central Government spokesman said "the 15 dead in Stanleyville are sufficient cause" for Gizenga's arrest.

There were reports that a formal arrest warrant was being prepared by the public prosecutor. The reports could not be confirmed.

Parliament voted the censure against the self-proclaimed heir to the late Patrice Lumumba by the overwhelming count of 67-1, with four abstentions. Sixty-five of the 137 deputies were not present for the vote.

Observers said the censure gives the Government of Premier Cyrille Adoula a free hand to deal with Gizenga as it sees fit. Gizenga had defied a parliament order last week which gave him 48 hours to return to Leopoldville from Stanleyville to answer to charges of "secessionist activities."

A spokesman said that under Congolese law the censure of Gizenga means his resignation, although this is not automatic. It is up to the discretion of the Government. The resignation would strip Gizenga of the immunity he held as a cabinet minister.

The spokesman said the cabinet would meet shortly to discuss the next move.

But it appeared that the die had been cast for the man who proclaimed himself "premier" and set up a rump regime in Stanleyville after Lumumba's death while trying to escape detention in Katanga Province.

The Communists and African-Asian states which had "recognized" his Stanleyville regime now have established diplomatic relations with the Central Congolese Government.

Gizenga's military strength also has been smashed. His former righthand man, Gen. Victor Lundula, has sworn loyalty to Leopoldville and has been placed in command of the Central Congolese troops in Stanleyville.

It was Lundula's soldiers who captured Gizenga after battling his personal bodyguard. The United Nations said 300 Gizenga troops had been disarmed by U.N. Ethiopian troops and Central Congolese forces and are being kept under guard.

A U.N. spokesman said there had been no fighting since Sunday when die-hard Gizenga gendarmes attacked Camp Ketele, Lundula's headquarters. At least 15 soldiers on both sides were killed in the clash.

McCormack Sees Postal Rates Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Speaker John McCormack predicted Monday that the House will approve next week a postal rate increase calling for a five-cent stamp on first class letters and an eight-cent stamp for air mail.

McCormack also said that the House Democratic leadership would support the Administration stand on the issue. Thus, the battle will provide the first test of the effectiveness of the new leadership team, McCormack; Democratic Leader Carl Albert (Okla.), and party whip Hale Boggs (La.).

The speaker scheduled for floor action a bill that would raise an additional $550 million in postal revenue, largely through a one-cent increase in first class and air mail rates. Administration forces will try on the floor to raise the bill's total to $621 million.

Super-Echo Balloon Torn To Shreds

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — A gigantic silver balloon was torn to shreds 230 miles above the earth Monday in a space age malfunction which scientists were able to watch on television.

Some residents of the southeastern United States had a longer range, earthbound view.

A dramatic 30-second telecast from a camera inside the soaring rocket gave scientists a ringside closeup of the 135-foot Super Echo balloon as it burst from its container on schedule but disintegrated into huge shreds.

A second camera on board the rocket captured a wider picture of the balloon, then was parachuted into the Atlantic Ocean in a recoverable plastic capsule. A team of skindivers parachuted from an airplane and retrieved the capsule.

The accident left scientists with more problems to iron out before they can go ahead with plans to fire a similar "rigidized" balloon into orbit over the poles later this year. A repeat of Monday's sub-orbital shot was tentatively scheduled for early March.

The balloon, as tall as a 13-story building, was the largest man-made object ever put into space as well as the first flight model of the rigidized versions.

Washington riddled with leftists—says Goldwater

According to Barry Goldwater, 37 key Washington jobs are held by members of a "strange organization"—a leftist group that wields great power. In this week's Post, Senator Goldwater lashes out at left-wing extremists. And tells how their ideas play "right into the hands of the Kremlin."

Restore Water Service In Downtown Iowa City

After 40 hours of searching by city water crews, a break in a four-inch pipe in the 100 block of E. Washington St., was repaired and water service to downtown business establishments was restored this weekend.

The break occurred in the pipe below the sidewalk between the Kelley Optical Co., 116 E. Washington St., and Lubin's Drugstore, 118 E. Washington St., late Friday afternoon and its source was not discovered until Saturday night.

According to Glen Eckard, water service office manager, a previously reported $10,000 damage estimate was not official. Total damage estimates have not been made.

Eckard said some valve stems are broken, but will not necessitate shutting off water supplies. Repair work on the valve stems will probably begin Sunday, said Eckard. City crews may begin area clean-up today.

The stores suffering the most damage were Lubin's Drugstore; Bremer's Clothing Store, 120-122 E. Washington St.; The Bookshop, 114 E. Washington St.; and Kelley Optical Co.

Bremer's Clothing Store estimated damages at $1,000, but inventory has not been taken. The merchandise was damaged by two to three inches of water on the basement floor.

Officials from the other stores said complete damage estimates had not yet been made.

The most extensive damage appeared to be at Lubin's Drugstore, where paper goods stored in the basement were damaged and probably destroyed. Store officials reported 16 to 18 inches of water in the front end of the basement and five inches in the rear.

The Bookshop reported damage to fixtures, merchandises and equipment stored in the basement. Store officials reported a foot of water in the basement.

Eckard said that it is very common for water mains to break during the winter. He said frost causes the ground around the mains to shift and exert pressure on the cast iron pipes. Eckard said, cast iron pipes are brittle and can stand only so much side pressure.

City officials are not sure as to the cause of the break, said Eckard. One supposition is that the main was weak because a fire hydrant and water trough used to be fed by the pipe.

Girl Watcher's Guide

Presented by Pall Mall Famous Cigarettes

Girl watchers are honorable men
LESSON 6—Who may watch
Any male is eligible to become a girl watcher. There is no age limit, although most girl watchers are over ten and under one hundred and four. There are no height or weight requirements, although taller men enjoy an obvious advantage at crowded parties. The only strict requirement is one of character. The girl watcher is a man of honor. Since he can't possibly take notes, as the bird watcher does, we must rely on his word. Therefore, when an experienced girl watcher tells you he saw nine beautiful girls while on his way to class, he saw nine beautiful girls. And when he tells you his Pall Mall is the cigarette of the century, believe him. It is.
