Russia Tests Another Blast Under Asia

AEC Reports First Since 50-Megaton Explosion in Fall

WASHINGTON (UPD) — Russia resumed nuclear testing Friday with an apparent underground explosion at its Central Asia weapon proving ground, the Atomic Energy Commission announced.

It was the first reported Soviet blast since last fall when Russia conducted a massive test series featuring a bomb equal to more than 50 million tons of TNT.

It also was the first Soviet underground test ever publicly disclosed by the United States. The explosion announced last fall either took place in the atmosphere or under water.

The reported Russian blast coincided with a prediction from an atomic source that the United States will resume H-bomb testing in the Pacific no later than April, "if President Kennedy gives the word."

Friday night's AEC statement said: "The Atomic Energy Commission announced that the Soviet Union apparently conducted a nuclear detonation underground early Friday. The detonation took place at the Soviet nuclear weapons proving ground in the Semipalatinsk area in Central Asia."

"The yield was well above the threshold of underground detectability, even by a single national system, and the absence of acoustic signals indicates that it occurred underground."

Above-ground explosions can be detected by signals transmitted by air waves.

The AEC would not give the estimated yield of Friday's explosion. But there were indications it was about 20 kilotons or more — roughly the same as the atomic bomb dropped on Hiroshima.

In the past, the United States has considered "the threshold of underground detectability" by an international system to be about 20 kilotons or equivalent to 20,000 tons of TNT.

At the now-defunct Geneva nuclear talks, the United States and Britain wanted a ban on underground tests above this 20 kiloton size. But they said a ban on the smaller underground tests should await perfection of foolproof detection machinery.

Russia rejected the Western plan and the Geneva talks broke up in total disagreement last Monday. They had resumed after a long recess caused by Russia's action breaking the three-year moratorium on testing.

Starting last Sept. 1, the Russians exploded more than 50 nuclear devices, including the massive megaton bombs, before coming to a halt in November. The 25-megaton bomb of Oct. 23, and the 55-60 megaton monster of Oct. 30 were both exploded in the Arctic.

In its current underground weapons test series at the Nevada proving grounds, the United States has been exploding devices of around 20 kilotons. Eleven have been publicly announced since these tests were resumed after Russia broke the moratorium.

The atomic source said he did not know whether Kennedy would give the green light to resume H-bomb tests in March.

Some Cleverness In Sunshineville

The latest retort by California has been lashed in answer to the current campaign being waged by the Iowa Outdoor Advertising Association.

The Los Angeles Herald-Examiner featured a Unit e Press Telephoto, Tuesday evening showing a billboard that says in bold letters that "There is no California, Stay in Iowa!"

The billboard which is "growing" like corn across Iowa is in retaliation to adjective-loaded California propaganda luring Iowans to the west.

The billboard stands alone. Long Beach, Calif., known as "Iowa by the Sea" continues to draw Iowans.

Reports on OAS Conference—

Castro Regime Leads Commie Attack—Rusk

Food, Medicine Not Banned by Embargo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Friday night the Communist bloc is making a "systematic subversive attack" against the Western Hemisphere nations with the Castro regime in Cuba as its spearhead.

In a speech prepared for nationwide television and radio report to the nation on the Punta del Este conference, Rusk said that during the past year and a half the "Communist nature of the Castro regime has become more apparent to all — and so have its aggressive designs."

He said this understanding of Castro's declared Marxist-Leninist position was one of the chief facts bearing upon the decision of the inter-American foreign ministers meeting at Punta del Este to exclude the Castro regime from the Organization of American States.

While the U.S. Government has banned sales of other items in a partial embargo against the Moscow-linked Castro regime, food and medical shipments have been allowed to continue on grounds that the United States is still friendly toward the Cuban people, though not the Castro Government.

The White House was expected to have an announcement Saturday on the Kennedy embargo decision.

It follows hard on the heels of the Punta del Este meeting at which the foreign ministers of the American republics unanimously condemned the Castro regime and Communism as incompatible with the American system. The Organization of American States ministers voted to take specific steps against Cuba.

The Secretary of State declared in a 15-minute address that international Communism has a "systematic subversive attack" underway in the Americas, spearheaded by the present regime in Cuba.

Rusk portrayed the arguments that took place among the American foreign ministers as a sign of strength, rather than weakness, of the OAS. He said this demonstrated how free nations could work together in a Democratic manner, reconciling different viewpoints and moving ahead together.

Some critics contended the Uruguay parley had a divisive effect on the inter-American family.

As to the potential effect of the reported embargo, Washington authorities have said about 90 per cent of the $35-million yearly amount of U.S. imports from Cuba is tobacco, the remainder being mainly fruits and vegetables.

A crackdown on the tobacco imports has been considered before but postponed at least in part because of potential unemployment for workers in the Tampa, Fla., area who make the Cuban tobacco into cigars.

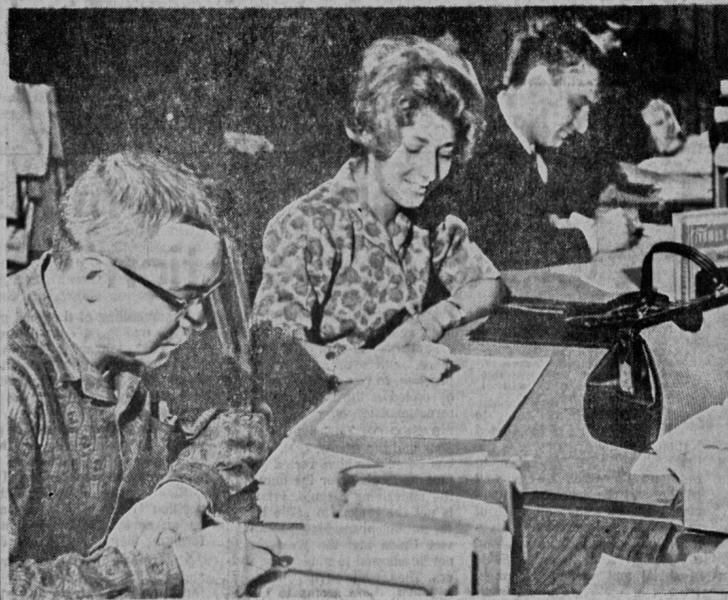

The main anti-Castro U.S. trade move was undertaken by the Eisenhower Administration in ending American purchases of sugar from Cuba. Sugar is Cuba's main product and the United States has been her principal consumer.

Rusk's talk seemed designed in part to counter criticism that the Punta del Este vote on expelling Cuba from the OAS actually disclosed a serious split within the American community of nations.

This move just barely rallied the required two-thirds majority in the 21-nation group as six of the largest members abstained.

"Honest debate was a sign of strength in the organization," Rusk declared to his nationwide audience.

"The fact that assurances were registered is an indication that the unanimity, when expressed, was genuine. Some governments sincerely felt that additional legal and technical steps were necessary before the exclusion of Cuba . . . could be finally settled."

Army Bosses Force Changes In Argentina's Cuba Policy

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UP) — Argentine President Arturo Frondizi bowed to military pressure Friday night and agreed to reverse the soft stand Argentina took toward Communist Cuba at the Punta del Este conference.

While apparently preparing for a full diplomatic break with Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime, Frondizi announced after a long meeting with his angry military chiefs that his Government will "comply with all resolutions adopted at Punta del Este."

The meeting was held amid reports that the Armed Forces heads had ordered their forces to stand by for possible action against the Frondizi Government.

The military leaders who handed Frondizi an ultimatum demanding an immediate break with Cuba and the resignation of Foreign Minister Miguel Angel Carcano, who headed the Argentine delegation at the inter-American conference.

The armed forces continued on a stand-by alert.

Sources said the military leaders had received "with reserve" the announcement after the meeting by the Casa Rosada — the Argentine white house.

Informants said the president — who has survived past military and other crises — managed to soothe the Armed Forces chiefs by agreeing to go along with the full anti-Castro declaration approved at Punta del Este.

The latest military threat was touched off by Argentina's abstention — along with five other countries — on a key conference resolution ousting Cuba from all Organization of American States functions.

"The Argentine Government will comply strictly and within all the resolutions adopted at Punta del Este," the communique said.

The communique emphasized that Frondizi's Government "supported the absolute incompatibility of the Marxist-Leninist regime with the inter-American system."

The development came in the wake of a military ultimatum handed Frondizi Thursday demanding a diplomatic break with Cuba.

PRESIDENT FRONDIZI Changes Stand

the OAS, only six — Argentina, Mexico, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Ecuador and Uruguay — maintain relations with Havana. With the exception of Uruguay, these made up the so-called soft bloc at the Punta del Este conference.

A communique issued by the president's office apparently satisfied the military, at least for the moment.

It made no mention of the demand for resignation of Carcano, who attended the session, saying only that the Foreign Ministry would look into Argentina's relations with Cuba.

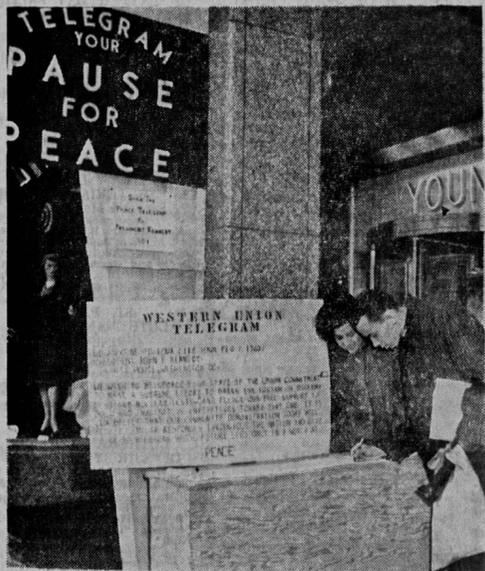

Informants said Frondizi's decision on the Punta del Este declaration means that Argentina will vote for Cuba's expulsion from the inter-American family when the OAS Council meets to consider the foreign ministers' collective actions.

"The Argentine Government will comply strictly and within all the resolutions adopted at Punta del Este," the communique said.

The communique emphasized that Frondizi's Government "supported the absolute incompatibility of the Marxist-Leninist regime with the inter-American system."

Ready Telegram to Kennedy—

Local Pause for Peace Gets Support in State

By FRAN SMITH Staff Writer

Iowa City's "Pause for Peace" program picked up speed Friday with the support of a state legislator and a member of the State Board of Regents.

The peace booth in downtown Iowa City garnered more than 100 signatures to add to the telegram being sent to President Kennedy endorsing his plan to "break the logjam on disarmament."

Manned by members of the Student Peace Union, the booth will be open between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. daily through next Tuesday afternoon. It costs a dime to sign the telegram to cover the cost of telegraphing your name to Washington.

The peace booth is part of the "Pause for Peace" plan. Iowa Citizens are being asked by local peace groups to take 53 minutes following 10 a.m. Wednesday to pause for peace — one minute for each billion dollars the President has asked for defense in 1963.

The "Pause for Peace" plan is strongly endorsed by John M. Ely (R-Muscatine) and Mrs. Joseph Rosenfield, Des Moines, a member of the State Board of Regents.

"More power to all of us citizens of a great country to do all we can to reduce mankind's greatest threat — nuclear war," Ely said.

Mrs. Rosenfield considers the project a "worthwhile effort to direct the thoughts of a community to peace because it helps balance out all the thinking we all have to do about nuclear war and our military readiness."

The "Pause for Peace" is an effective way to change people's attitudes and get them thinking, she said. "One never knows what may happen when man puts his mind to work," she added.

Larry Barrett, one of the sponsors of the project, emphasized the uniqueness of the plan. "The entire community is being asked to take this step all at once," he said, "and we hope to have the same things happen elsewhere."

Barrett said he felt some sort of demonstration was essential. "People have strong feelings toward finding alternatives to nuclear war," he said.

Also endorsing the plan is Student Body President John F. Niemeyer, LI, Elkader. "It would be wise to take time out to survey the situation," he said, "especially since the average knowledge of international affairs is pretty near nil."

Originator of the "Pause for Peace" plan, Michael Fine, owner of a downtown book store, said the reasons for the plan are simple. "In today's world," he said, "a positive and assertive action for peace is required."

He said that the present generation of students must bear the burden of suffering the anguish of living in a world that can be utterly destroyed by governments not yet old enough to run.

"With the advent of imminent destruction in our daily lives," he said, "to act for peace has become a demand for our daily living."

Fine said he will close his store during Wednesday's "Pause for Peace."

The plan first received support when a letter was sent to 48 SUI faculty members urging them to take action for peace. The letter stressed a better arms control and disarmament program, purchasing United Nations Bonds by the United States, a public review of military's mission in space, and an expansion of the National Defense education Act to cover language training and other areas.

The letter also suggested that the 53 minutes be spent in discussion of peace with students in regular classes, attending peace related talks, preparing letters or telegrams to the White House, and listening to a special broadcast to be aired by WSUI at 10 a.m.

The telegram to President Kennedy reads as follows:

"We wish to reinforce your State of the Union commitment . . . to make a supreme effort to break the logjam on disarmament and nuclear tests . . . and pledge our full support to bold and imaginative initiatives toward that end. It is our belief that our community demonstration today will elicit similar responses throughout the nation and give voice to millions whose future lies only in a world at peace."

Iowa City Mayor Dorr Hudson proclaimed a city wide observance of the "Pause for Peace" Wednesday.

College Bill Hits Snags

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kennedy Administration's $2.6 billion college aid bill ran into trouble Friday when controversial religious and lower education issues were injected during Senate debate on the measure.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., (D-Nev.) proposed that non-public and church schools be eliminated and the $1.5 billion in loans earmarked for construction of classrooms and laboratories be limited to public colleges.

At the same time, Sen. Pat McNamara, (D-Mich.), introduced an amendment to expand the college aid bill to include federal assistance for public grade and high schools.

Both proposed changes were sure to kick off sharp debate. Supporters of the bill felt that any sweeping changes might jeopardize chances for passage of aid to higher education.

Ervin told the Senate the Constitution prohibits the use of federal funds to advance the teaching of any particular religious tenet. He said restricting the loans to public schools would eliminate any question arising about the constitutionality of the pending bill.

McNamara said in a statement his amendment would provide $325 million over two years to assist states in building public elementary and secondary schools.

"The college construction and scholarship bill now before the Senate is of value," McNamara said, "but its passage alone, in lieu of a general aid bill, would actually be a disservice to education because it would again postpone action in this area of greatest importance."

It Is the Mark Of an Engineer

Recently the names of Gagarin, Shepard, Grissom and Titov were featured prominently in the American press. All four had been passengers in vehicles designed, built and operated by others. Despite their relatively passive roles in their respective adventures these men were hailed and feted as though each had performed the miracle of space flight single-handedly.

Let us have at least a faint cheer for the engineers who designed, built, launched and controlled the vehicle in which these space passengers rode. Let's be sure that the public knows that the real heroes were engineers, not scientists or astronauts. The scientific principles which govern space flight are few and simple. The engineering applications of these principles to accomplish a successful flight are incredibly complex.

An engineer told Shepard exactly what to expect at every instant of that flight. He told Shepard that he would experience so many G's within 10 seconds and so many G's within 15 seconds; that, at such a time, the periscope would come down; that, at a given time, the rotating rocket would fire and that, at another specified time, the retrograde rocket would fire.

The exciting thing is that someone on the ground, the engineer, was able to predict this before the rocket was fired. Furthermore, Shepard had in front of him a little globe on which the position of that capsule was located at every instant, and on which there was an arrow pointing to a landing place, if Shepard were to push the retrograde rocket button. How is it possible to design a thing that will tell a man in a tumbling space vehicle exactly where he is at any instant time? This ability to design a complex vehicle and to predict its performance before it leaves the ground is the most exciting feature of space flight.

It is . . . the mark of the engineer.

Good over Evil

Some of the best advice on fighting Communism has come from a most remarkable source. Few Americans will be aware of how constructive is the training of the U.S. Marines for combat.

"We don't teach them hate," said the top Marine, Gen. David M. Shoup. They are taught "faith and confidence" in their nation and its way of life. And they are taught the military job a soldier must be ready to do.

General Shoup explained to the Stennis subcommittee of the Senate a thesis he had developed once before. Hatred is a poison, he said, closely related to the fear which breeds defeatism instead of victory. It is "a disease that we cannot afford if we are to maintain our position in the family of freedom-living people."

The general has given "over 100 speeches" without mentioning Communism which is an unnecessary restraint and for which he could be criticized. But this is because he wants responsible officials to conduct the political education of Americans.

In any event, his analysis of hatred is timely and shrewd. Hatred is a destructive and ungovernable emotion which drains the ability of man to act rationally and efficiently. It spoils a good purpose and a good action. If it is not for the Marines, it is not for those who combat Communism on the political level.

Communism will be overcome not by evil, but by good.

Schizophrenic Public?

George Gallup, director of the American Institute of Public Opinion, has taken a poll in which the findings conclude that Americans are very optimistic concerning the rise of their standard of living.

Results showed that 56 per cent of Americans believe that their standard of living is destined to go up. In other countries, except Holland . . . the majority believed their standard of living would decline.

It is interesting to note that we who have one of the highest standards of living of all countries not only desire more to buy and do, but intensely believe that we will have what we desire.

This optimism is very healthy, but quite surprising when at the very same breath many of us talk about building fallout shelters. Can the American public be schizophrenic?

'Now, Now — Let's Not Have Any Muzzling'

United Nations Is a Symbol Of Accommodation

By JAMES MURRAY
(Editor's Note: This is the second of a series of articles to be written in conjunction with the "Pause for Peace" scheduled for Wednesday, James Murray, the author of this article, is a professor of political science at SU.)

At least three things come to mind on the subject of the United Nations and the arms race. In the first place, the organization, through its own activities as well as those of the specialized agencies, provides ample evidence of the need for dealing with problems facing both developed and developing countries in the fields of social and economic change. Without in any way underestimating the cruciality of the cold war, it is well to remember that even should some grand detente between East and West be reached, the world would still be faced with tremendous and complex challenges.

The United Nations continues to contribute substantially, then, to the solution of problems that in the long view may be far more important than the current Soviet-American conflict with its attendant arms race. Still, granting the importance of social and economic change, all the effort imaginable will be for nothing if nuclear war should eventuate. This leads to a second consideration.

What can the U.N. do about the regulation of armaments themselves? In fact, not very much. While the General Assembly can possibly supply some pressure on the major nuclear powers to reach agreement, and while representatives of the U.N. may conceivably be used to implement some control agreement, the fundamental fact remains that agreement among the major powers is crucial in this area, and there is little that the U.N. itself can do to effect such an agreement.

Does this mean the U.N. cannot affect the cold war and its concomitant arms race? To answer this necessitates a consideration of a third possibility. If we start from the premise that armaments are more the result than the cause of international tensions, we are immediately faced with the question of what the U.N. can do to reduce those tensions. Here, while the evidence is inconclusive, there is good reason to believe that the organization is coming more and more, both symbolically and in practice, to represent what might be called a third position in international crises.

Based on the experience of Suez and the Congo, U.N. actions can be said to have rested on the idea that, whatever the nature of the underlying dispute, (1) force is not the means to settle it and (2) antagonisms between the Soviet Union and the West should not be allowed to muddy the waters. Thus, while perhaps it is still incipient, there seems to be developing in the U.N. the notion that force, and especially nuclear force, can no longer be contented as a technique of settlement.

Now this would appear to be a fuzzy-minded notion. It is obviously not widely held with regard to so-called colonial questions. But, aside from this, there are doubtless many Americans who consider such thinking at best sentimental drivel, at worst a conspiracy to advance the cause of the Soviet Union, as though somehow peaceful settlement always rebounds to their favor. But what is the alternative to this fuzzy-mindedness?

The simple — all too simple — answer is to regard the cold war as a struggle to the death between East and West, a struggle in which "victory" must be won by the West. Thus Senator Dodd and General Walker talk of the failure to support Tshombe against the U.N. because Tshombe is anti-Communist, ergo not to support him is to help the Communists.

The alternative, in a word, is to view international events as the marshalling of the good guys vs. the bad guys, culminating in some kind of grand confrontation. But the ultimate end of such an approach is war . . . . This means one must either accept the notion of war — "we can win a nuclear war" — or revise his perspective. Stated in this way, there is little doubt, I trust, that the latter must be attempted. And the U.N., as an agency of the "third position" (force should no longer be an acceptable instrument of foreign policy), is one possibility.

The point should not be overstated. Doubtless, force or the threat of force will be very much with us for some time to come — and I for one would not want the United States unilaterally to renounce it. Nor is the U.N. the only alternative, nor conceivably the most promising alternative, to an eventual military showdown.

But if we are to look for alternatives to the arms race, if we are to reckon with the fundamental fact of our lives — that nuclear wars can only be lost; peace may be won, or lost — then the U.N. deserves our attention, support and sustenance. For it is a symbol of, and a means for, accommodation and adjustment — not total "victory" . . . nor total war.

Will Reds Shed Their Stealing Way?

By J. M. ROBERTS
Only one day after discussion in this column of the possibility that the Soviet Union might be led away from her aggressive policies through Western cooperation in her economic development, Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev and Communist party paper Pravda have made some motions which may or may not be significant.

They have used the anniversary of Franklin D. Roosevelt's birth as a peg for a new statement that, as Khrushchev put it to Mrs. Roosevelt in a cable, "today there exists not only all the prerequisites for improving our relations but that the need to do so has become even more pressing."

THE COMMUNISTS always like to make believe that if Roosevelt had lived, things would be different, merely because he did believe for a long time in a true coexistence, not the coexistence of Western surrender for which Khrushchev has striven. But Stalin betrayed Roosevelt after Yalta with regard to autonomy for Eastern Europe, and Roosevelt never failed to learn his lesson from a betrayal.

One of the very points at issue, in consideration of the possibilities of an eventual accommodation, revolves around the prerequisite the Soviet Union completely reverse its thinking about expansion by means of the Communist revolution, and its sponsorship of Communist interference in the affairs not only of the Western nations, but of all nations.

THE QUESTION is not whether she has done that, for she obviously has not, but whether there is any possibility of producing a recognition in the Kremlin that the true material interests of the Soviet Union lie in profitable association with the rest of the world to the benefit of her own economic and social development.

Nobody will accept such statements as those of Tuesday as either sincere or meaningful. They come amid too many boasts and brags about what they plan to do unilaterally in Germany, how they plan to exploit nationalist revolutions and civil wars, how Communism is "the wave of the future," and their utterly cynical actions regarding nuclear testing and disarmament.

The ultimate question is whether the Soviet leaders, after 17 years of thrashing about which has not gotten them much except trouble in the ranks of international Communism, can be persuaded to shed some of their stealing ways in favor of earning an honest living in cooperation with the rest of the world?

Now, There Is Real Art

To the Editor:
I am gratified to note the DI's zeal in reporting major events in the Iowa City art world and cite the recent picture of the snowman by James Burke and son (Jan. 27 issue). But I lament that this otherwise admirable report did not include a critique, an omission I cannot comfortably countenance. I shall attempt herewith to rectify the situation and compensate for an astonishing abdication of journalistic responsibility.

To begin, the abominable snowman fails to conform to the beau ideal plastique and other tenets of established sculpture-in-the-round. In short, the work is essentially planographic. Should the artist have realized a more 3-dimensional conception, the work would already have been convincing as a special entity.

We must regard this as a student effort — the child, in this instance, not really being "father of the man" — and criticism must be consonant. But even a larger nose, or, say, a prominent necktie set with bottle caps or coffee beans would contribute to a more "utilized" expression. Now, the execution of the snowman's hat is beyond reproach. Efforts might have been made to establish this gestalt throughout.

Most objectionable is the medium itself. Granted, as you say, that father and son "plan to reconstruct whatever melts now when the next snow falls." But, at best, the oeuvre cannot last far into July despite even the most elaborate reconstruction. (Or, as we say in the art world, "restoration.")

I only suggest some less ephemeral substance (such as caramelized popcorn or soap) that would enable the artists to experience the thrill of a resisting material. What's more, the intrinsic merit of a really permanent snowman would be great indeed; and a century's patinaization would make it more valuable still.

Let them not forget the dictum of Dr. Samuel Johnson: "A man would not value the finest head cut upon a carrot."

Astrologers Say Bloodbath Hits In Next 3 Days

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — With the chiming of the midnight hour, temple bells began tolling in many cities of India Friday while the voices of millions were raised in prayers to save humanity from doomsday catastrophe.

With newspapers of all languages splashing astrological forebodings that "the next three days will see the earth bathed in the blood of thousands of kings," a near panic situation was reported from many areas of India and Nepal.

The outlook of even some top leaders has become so gloomy that one of the stalwarts of the ruling Congress party, Dr. S. Sampurnanand publicly warned Prime Minister Nehru that "the idol of India's millions" should take extra precautions at this time.

While the Nehru Government, as such, is taking the predictions lightly, its servants are taking them with trepidation. Offices and schools are flooded with thousands of applications for permission to be absent the next three days so that families may swim or sink together.

Congregational prayers have been organized in many holy centers.

Thousands have moved into tents to escape earthquake danger from collapsing houses and others are sleeping in automobiles parked in the open.

Families have collected together under one roof wherever possible, adding to police problems the protection of vacant homes. Railroad bookings have reached a new low, with people preferring to remain in one place rather than travel in possible danger.

A great congregational prayer began here Thursday, with 250 learned Brahmins chanting verses from ancient prayers for the next 25 days. The actual danger period is said to begin at 5:35 p.m. — 6:05 a.m. Eastern Standard Time — Friday to last through Monday.

Wildcat Strike Against Western Electric Ends

DES MOINES (UPI) — A Two-day wildcat strike of midwestern telephone equipment installers against Western Electric Co. ended Friday just a few hours before national union officers authorized a full-scale walkout in 44 states if its demands were not met.

The executive board of the Communications Workers of America (CWA), meeting in Washington gave its approval to a strike but gave Union President Joseph A. Beirne the power to set the strike date.

The board directed the union's bargaining committee to return to negotiations to try to break a deadlock and reach a "mutually satisfactory settlement" with Western Electric.

These developments came just a few hours after some 720 members of CWA Local 7290 returned to their jobs in Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska and North and South Dakota under pressure from international union officials.

The "unauthorized" strike was touched off by dissatisfaction with the company's "final" offer, local officials said.

The wildcat walkout began in Iowa Wednesday when the more than 300 installers left their jobs and threw up picket lines around facilities of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. Western Electric is the manufacturing arm of the Bell Telephone System.

The Iowa walkout quickly spread to installers in the other four states, who are also members of Local 7290. By Thursday, about 720 of the more than 1,000 installers were out. However, international officials quickly applied pressure and the local bowed reluctantly to the demands that the men return to work.

Some strikers began returning to their jobs late Thursday and the others followed suit starting with morning shifts Friday.

Stevan Watson, Iowa chief steward of Local 7290, indicated the Iowa workers bowed "reluctantly" to instructions from international officials to return to work. The international had termed the strike "unauthorized."

The Iowa workers struck Wednesday morning because of dissatisfaction with Western Electric's "final" offer in the current negotiations.

Installers now average $2.66 an hour, with merit rates ranging as high as $3.32 an hour. Job clerks average $68.14 a week, while merit rates go up to $84.25 a week.

Quite Cold for a Hot Fire

Firemen from several Northern New York departments battled a $150,000 blaze early Friday which destroyed the 84-year-old town hall. The temperature at the time of the fire registered a cool -30 degrees. Many irreplaceable town records were lost in the fire. —AP Wirephoto

Rockefeller's Wife Plans Divorce Soon

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller, wife of New York's governor, settled down at the plush Donner Trail guest ranch Friday in apparent preparation for a Nevada divorce.

Mrs. Rockefeller arrived at this one-time stagecoach stop, now one of the most popular residences for wealthy divorce-bound women, after driving from San Francisco Thursday night with her sister, Mrs. Miriam Wallis, and Reno attorney William Woodburn.

Asked whether Mrs. Rockefeller would seek a divorce, Woodburn said, "apparently so. But all I can say is that she's in Nevada." Six weeks residence is required for divorce.

Rockefeller, a potential candidate for the Republican nomination for president in 1964, announced last Nov. 17 that the couple had agreed on legal separation after 31 years of marriage and that a divorce would follow.

Rocky Visits Art Center

DES MOINES (UPI) — New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller took a breather from politics Friday with a quick visit to the Des Moines Art Center — and wound up with three new items for his art collection.

Rockefeller, declining to comment on word that his wife had arrived in Reno, Nev., presumably to seek a divorce, paid a visit to the Art Center to view a special collection and ended up buying two figures of owls and a black and white drawing of an owl.

"I'm an enthusiast on owls," Rockefeller said and asked, "Can I buy these two?" when he spotted two modernistic wooden owl figurines. He paid out $6.50 each in cash for the works. Then moments later, he spotted the drawing of an owl and promptly told delighted center officials, "Send me that one."

Art Center director Thomas Tibbs said afterward he was "not sure Mr. Rockefeller meant it" but he planned to ship the drawing to him. No money changed hands but Tibbs said he was not worried about receiving the $35 payment. The drawing was done by Mrs. Marcia Shuler, a Des Moines artist and art teacher who does some instruction at the Art Center. It is done on several layers of a tissue-paper-like substance.

Rockefeller expressed great interest and delight in the Art Center and appeared relaxed as he spoke to every employee and even went down a hall to talk with a tiny blonde child whose mother declared, "She's a young Republican."

Stockpiling Head Quits; Now Judge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Frank B. Ellis resigned Friday as head of the strategic stockpiling program to accept a Presidential appointment as a federal judge in Louisiana.

The White House emphasized there was no connection between Ellis' selection to succeed Judge James Skelly Wright as judge for Louisiana's Eastern District and President Kennedy's call for a congressional investigation of the stockpiling program.

Two days ago Kennedy proposed a Senate investigation of what he described as this country's "astounding" $7.7 billion pile of metals, minerals and other items that might be needed in case of war. He said it was $3.4 billion too much.

It said Ellis told the President three months ago that he wanted to return to Louisiana where he previously practiced law in Covington and New Orleans, and served in the state legislature. Furthermore, officials said, Ellis participated in an Administration inquiry into the stockpiling program which prompted the President to propose a congressional investigation.

Censors Name Still Not Told To Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — A secrecy-shrouded peace talk between Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and senators looking into Pentagon censorship failed Friday to end their impasse over McNamara's refusal to point a finger at any of his censors.

But they decided to try again next week to avoid an open battle over the senators' insistent demands that they be told which censors made specific changes in speeches by generals, admirals and other top defense officials.

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.) chairman of the Senate Armed Services subcommittee conducting the inquiry, and Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.) whose charges that Pentagon censors have muzzled anti-Communist speeches by military men set off the hearings, met with McNamara for nearly an hour and a half in a Senate Office Building hideaway.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall (R-Mass.) who also had been named by Stennis to help negotiate with McNamara, was absent.

October Catholic Meet Attempt To Unite Against Communist

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope John XXIII has set Oct. 11 as the opening date for the Roman Catholic Church's first Ecumenical Council in a century, an event designed to give impetus to Christian unity.

In his pronouncement Friday, Pope John expressed hope the council would invigorate the Church, spread its benefits to men and aid in the cause for a true and just peace.

Vatican sources saw in Pope John's call a rallying cry to the world's Christian forces to band together against the threat of communism. The pontiff referred more specifically to that threat in his Christmas Day papal bull, in which he described communism as "militant atheism, operating on a world plan."

Pope John's call was a brief document. He had dealt exhaustively with the forthcoming council in his Christmas Day bull and in an encyclical of Dec. 9 dedicated to Pope Leo I.

While expressing his hopes for Christian unity in both, Pope John made it clear that he referred to a return of "the separated brothers" to the Roman Catholic Church rather than to the formation of a confederation in which there would be shared authority.

Pope John and other Christian leaders have professed to see progress in the matter of Christian unity.

Hawkeyes Play Tough Nonconference Game

By JERRY ELSEA
Sports Editor

Iowa's basketball team, out of action for 12 days during a recent deluge of tests, returns to competition here tonight against Creighton University of Omaha, Neb. Game time is 7:30 on the Field House court.

The Bluejays, directed by ex-Iowa freshman coach John (Red) McManus, boast one of the nation's leading rebounders in 6-7 Paul Silas and a tall, versatile group of sharpshooters.

If Creighton, 11-4, manages to wear the Hawkeyes down, coach Sharm Scheuerman will have to rejuvenate his boys in a hurry. Less than 48 hours after tonight's game the Hawkeyes will face mighty Ohio State at Columbus. Game time for the meeting with the No. 1 Buckeyes is 7:30 p.m. Monday.

"We hope our boys aren't going to be looking forward to Ohio State and-forget Creighton," said Scheuerman Friday. "This is going to be a real tough ball game."

"Their record is quite a bit better than ours and they have been playing steadily, while we haven't. I know Red McManus would love to win in Iowa City."

McManus, who posted a 119-45 eight-year record coaching at Davenport St. Ambrose High School, was freshman mentor here in 1958-59. His Creighton teams over two years and thus far this season have an even 28-28 mark.

This year's group of marksmen include all five starters from last year's 8-17 team and graduates from the best freshman team in the school's history.

Center Paul Silas, rated one of the country's 14 top sophomores, has averaged 23.5 points and 24 rebounds per game. Tall Paul, who has an 8-foot 10-inch reach, has made the Bluejays sixth in the nation in rebounding.

Chuck Officer, 6-3 guard from Moline, Ill., is another scoring threat with a deadly jump shot from outside. Last year Officer was the team's leading scorer and No. 2 rebounder.

Jim Bakos, who plays the double post along with Silas, is the biggest man on the club at 6-7 and 225-pounds. Bakos averaged 15.3 points a game on the '61 frosh team and was an All-State, All-Tourney prep player for East Chicago, Indiana's 1960 state champions.

Herb Millard, team captain who averaged 13 points a game last year, will start at guard and Ed Hubbard, 6-4 and 200, will be at forward. Top sub for the 'Jays is Carl Silvestrini, 6-5 senior, who was the team's No. 2 scorer last year and led the club in rebounds.

Iowa's lineup is the same '51 who started before final week, but 6-8 sophomore forward Andy Hankins may not go at full speed because of an ankle injury according to Scheuerman. The injury has been slow in responding to treatment and Hankins has been taking it easy in recent drills.

Leading the Hawkeye attack tonight will be senior center Don Nelson, who holds the Iowa varsity career scoring mark with 1,271 points. If Big Don can keep his 22.9 all-games average over the last 10 contests, he will end up with an even 1,500.

Nelson is currently third in Big Ten scoring with a 28.0 average. Indiana's Jimmy Rayl is leading with 35.0 in four games and Purdue's Terry Dischinger is second with 28.4 in seven outings.

In the all-time series with Creighton, Iowa leads, eight victories to three. The teams last met in December, 1960, when the Hawks won here 89-71, in McManus' first year with the Bluejays.

The Hawkeyes, 3-2 in Big Ten and 9-5 overall, have nine conference games remaining. After the Ohio State clash Monday night the Hawks will return to Iowa City for a Feb. 10 encounter with Illinois.

Iowa To Host Football Clinic

Iowa football coach Jerry Burns announced that the University will sponsor a football clinic for high school coaches of Iowa and adjacent states. The meetings will be held May 4 and 5.

Outstate members of the clinic staff will be Wayne Hardin, coach of the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., who has completed three years as Navy mentor with a record of 21-3-1.

Three prominent Iowa high school coaches also will be featured, Burns said. They are Don Fleming, coach of Sioux City, Heelan, whose 1961 team was voted No. 1 in the state, Harley Rolling, coach of Webster City, high school coach of the year in 1961; and Frank Bates of Iowa City (City High), prep coach of the year in 1958 whose Iowa City teams have won 70 per cent of their games.

Coach Burns said that members of the Hawkeye football staff also would participate in the clinic. Andy MacDonald, Iowa backfield coach, has been placed in charge of the affair by Burns.

Details of topics to be covered will be announced later. One of the features will be an Iowa intrasquad game in the stadium May 5. A registration fee of $2.50, which also includes a dinner, will be charged.

City High Falls to C.R. Jeff, 58-55

Clutch free-throw shooting by Gary Snook turned a near rout into a near upset as Cedar Rapids Jefferson slipped past a fired up Iowa City five, 58-55, here Friday night.

The cool calm Snook sank 11 consecutive free throws in the second half to bring his team back from 15 deficit to a 53-53 tie.

At that point the J Hawks' leading point maker, Dave Long, netted a field goal and free throw, and City High's John Ebert made good on two-pointers to run the count 56-55 with 39 seconds remaining.

The winners put the game out of reach with Dick Schley's two free throws, as desperate Iowa City was forced into fouling.

Carroll Burchett (40) Kentucky forward-center found the action fast and furious when he collided with Florida forward Cliff Luyk with the result that neither player looks too sure who has the ball or even whose hands are whose. ## Hawk Matmen Face Strong Badger Team

By GEORGE KAMPLING

Led by two grapplers with perfect records, coach Dave McCuskey's Iowa wrestling team hopes to get back on the winning track this afternoon at 2 p.m. against the Wisconsin Badgers in a Big Ten dual meet on the main basketball court in the Field House.

The Hawkeyes are 2-1 for the season, all meets held being conference meets. In their last meet, Iowa lost a narrow 15-13 decision to defending conference champion Michigan State. Their two wins were over Illinois and Northwestern.

The Badgers have 5-2-1 mark for the year, 1-2 in conference competition. They defeated Illinois, but lost to Indiana and Ohio State.

Leading the Iowa team are all-American Tom Huff, and Syd Walston, both grapplers with 3-0 records in dual meets. Also unbeaten is Steve Combs, 1-0-1. Combs has wrestled until now at 167, but is dropping down to his regular 157-pound division against Wisconsin.

Pacing the Badgers is Neil Leitter, 11-0-1 at 130, and heavyweight Roger Pillath, 12-0. Also unbeaten on the Badger team is Ron Paar, 17-0-0, with a 5-0 mark. Going against Walston in the 147-pound match will be Doug Goeters, 8-1. Another top match will pit Francis McCann (1-1-1) against Duane Quale (3-1) in the 123-pound match.

Probable Lineups

Ohio Seeks 30th Win Against Northwestern

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio State's nationally top-ranked Buckeyes seek a 30th successive home victory and Wisconsin's surprising Badgers invade Minnesota in quest of a sixth straight triumph on Saturday's Big Ten basketball program.

Ohio State, currently leading the conference race with 5-0, takes on struggling Northwestern (1-5) in St. John Arena, Columbus, Ohio, where the Bucks own a victory skein dating to Dec. 1, 1959.

Wisconsin, only other unbeaten Big Ten contender at 4-0, has a tough assignment against big and balanced Minnesota (2-4) in a regionally televised game.

Other conference contests include Indiana (3-1) at Illinois (2-2) and Michigan State (2-4) at Purdue (3-4) Michigan (1-3) is idle until a Monday night visit to Wisconsin.

Wisconsin had been expected to be weakened seriously when scoring leader Ron Jackson became scholastically ineligible after last Saturday's 89-86 conquest of Purdue in Madison, Wis. But Monday night, the Badgers appeared in Champaign, Ill., and nipped the tough Illini, 85-81, with the traveling squad's only three-year player, Tom Hughbanks, replacing Jackson and scoring 17 points.

Minnesota's 24 conference record could fool the Badgers. The rangy Golphers have all five starters averaging in double figures. The pacesetter is 6 feet, 6 Eric Magdanz with a 23.7 point average, fourth in the Big Ten.

Wisconsin, with a fine 11-3 overall record, is led by Ken Siebel with a 19.3 league average.

Indiana, still very much in the title running with its 3-1 mark, also has a rugged test at Illinois. However, if frail, but fearsome-shooting Jimmy Rayl is on the beam, the Hoosiers should take the decision. The 145-pound, 6-foot, 2 Rayl currently leads the Big Ten with a 35.0-point average, a record breaking pace.

Everyone's a Critic

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Deane Beman, former national amateur golf champion, got some straight-from-the-shoulder comment from an 8-year-old friend.

Beman, who fell from the lead in a current golf tournament here, saw Barney Buppert, son of a business associate.

"How would you say I played?" Beman asked.

"Shaky," Barney answered with a positive air. "You played like you stayed up too late last night."

Fencers Face Notre Dame, Indiana for Season Opener

By Staff Writer

Iowa's graduation riddled fencing team opens its season here today with dual meets against Indiana and Notre Dame. Competition will begin at 1 p.m. in the north gymnasium of the Field House.

Leading this year's swordsmen is team captain Bob Peterson, 24-13 in epee last year and Big Ten runnerup in 1960.

But Peterson, the only major letterman returnee, has little experience to back him. New fencing coach Achilles Nickles has four minor lettermen to help Peterson score points.

Lance Hellman, John Anderson and Bob Dresmal each gained experience in foil competition last year and No. 1 man Hellman is showing considerable promise, according to Nickles. Fred Rugger, a sophomore, will be on hand for reserve duty in foil.

In saber Nickles is counting on minor letterman Jared Tinklenberg, senior Dick Briar and sophomore John Kirchner. Nickles said saber is Iowa's weakest weapon class because of lack of experience.

Two sophomores, Steve Melgaard and Steve Bryan, will fence behind Peterson in epee.

Discussing the class of competition in store for the Hawkeyes Nickles said, "Notre Dame always has a very strong team and Indiana is improved over last year but is probably not as strong as Notre Dame."

Moore Given a Week To Sign or Surrender Title

NEW YORK (UPI)—With grim finality, the New York State Athletic Commission Friday gave Archie Moore one more week in which to sign for a light heavyweight title defense against Harold Johnson or Doug Jones.

The commission also warned 47-year-old Moore that if he attempts to sandwich in a non-title bout before his next defense, the commission will vacate what's left of his crown.

That warning was issued after the commission had checked with the California commission wide-spread reports that Moore had signed for a non-title bout with heavyweight Alejandro Lavorante of Argentina at the Los Angeles Coliseum, March 30.

Despite an announcement to that effect by promoter George Parassus, the California commission said he had no Moore-Lavorante fight contracts on file.

Moore is still recognized as world champion in New York, Massachusetts, California, Europe and some parts of the British Empire.

Over the phone from San Diego, Calif., both Moore and attorney Bill Yale pleaded with the commission for a longer extension; but commission-chairman Melvin L. Krulwich told them that next Friday, Feb. 9, is "it."

That will be the fourth and final deadline for Moore since his latest defense against Giulio Rinaldi of Italy at Madison Square Garden last June 10. The first deadline was on Dec. 10—six months from the Rinaldi fight. Then came Jan. 10 and Friday.

Moore was so flabbergasted by the commission's terse one-week extension that he had no immediate comment for newspaper men at San Diego.

The National Boxing Association vacated Moore's title on Oct. 25, 1960, for failure to defend. New York is not an NBA member.

Harold Johnson of Philadelphia, who succeeded to the NBA crown, and Doug Jones of New York are the two official challengers "suitable" to the New York commission. They are the only ones who have posted forfeit checks with the commission.

16 Foot Leap In N.Y. Meet

NEW YORK (AP)—John Uelses, a crew-cut Marine from Quantico, Va., Friday night became the first pole vaulter in history to clear 16 feet when he vaulted 16-1/4 in the Millrose Games in Madison Square Garden.

The crowd of more than 15,000 watched hushed as Uelses raced down the runway on his third try.

Over he went with room to spare and the crowd let out a mighty roar.

Uelses stole the show from Gary Gubner, a towering 255-pound New York University sophomore who broke the indoor shotput record with a heave of 63 feet, 10-1/2 inches.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES, as is WSUI's tradition, will be broadcast this morning at 9:55. Professor Orville Hitchcock will give a word picture of the ceremonies for the benefit of those friends and relatives of the graduates who may not be able to penetrate the elements.

A DELAYED CUE, therefore, is unlikely to begin before 11:30 a.m. When it does, however, it will run on to 1 p.m. with the following items in prospect: WSUI-News' Story of the Week (President Hatcher's "State of the University" address); episodes from the curious lives of Nichols and May; an interview with Professor of Marketing Uhl on the decline of Iowa as a market for consumer goods; and a brief explanation of next Wednesday's "Pause for Peace" demonstration in Iowa City.

PROBLEMS OF MENTAL ILLNESS will be dealt with on Saturday Supplement at 1 p.m. Norman Stein makes use, in this edition, of a series of programs prepared in collaboration with SU's Psychopathic Hospital and the Mental Health Association.

MUSIC AND MUSIC — jazz at 3:30 p.m. and what we laughingly call "serious" at 6 — will fill the remainder of our day at Broadcasting House. Music for a Saturday Night at 8 is as near as we can come to a sort of amalgam of the two. It runs on to 9:45 when, would you believe it, the final edition of news and sports is read.

Walker Will Run in Texas

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Former Army Major Gen. Edwin A. Walker Friday entered the race for governor of Texas as a Democrat.

Walker entered the race against the advice of Sen. John Tower (R-Tex.) and Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.), who represent conservative wings of their parties.

Tower and Thurmond met recently for two hours in Washington with Walker and vainly argued that by entering partisan politics, Walker would hurt himself and not help the conservative movement.

Walker, 52, resigned from the Army last Nov. 2. He could have gotten $12,000 a year in pension and allowances by retiring, but he "chose" to resign, he said, so he could speak more freely against what he calls two decades of "deception and misrepresentation" by American leaders.

He flew into Austin Friday in a private plane, James Harman, a stock broker and friend, met him at the airport and drove him to state Democratic executive headquarters.

There Walker posted a $1,000 filing fee. Harman took him back to his plane. Walker said he was returning to his home at Center Point, Tex.

He said he will be back in Austin to hold a news conference today and until then will have nothing to say about this campaign.

The Republican party is the conservative party in Texas, but if Walker had run as a Republican he would have had virtually no chance of winning.

Walker resigned from the Army after he was removed from command of the 24th Division in Germany and rebuked for making "derogatory remarks of a serious nature."

He explained that he and his wife, to whom he was married only 18 months before embarking for this country, were living with his parents and she continued living there while he has been away.

When he gets home, Kapadia will seek employment in the Indian pharmaceutical industry.

Packing for India

A separation of some 3 1/2 years from family and friends in Bombay, India, will end soon for Anil Kapadia, who came to SU on borrowed money and a scholarship. Kapadia is packing for his return home even before his Ph.D. degree in pharmacy will be granted in Commencement exercises today, because he leaves Iowa City Sunday.

SUI Graduate from Bombay Heads for Home with Ph.D.

Commencement usually marks the beginning of a new life, and a going forth into the world.

But for one of some 445 SUI graduates who receive degrees in today's SUI Commencement, the occasion marks an end and a return.

To Anil Kapadia, it means an end to years of separation from his wife and family, and a return to his home in Bombay, India, from where he set out on borrowed money in 1958.

Kapadia will receive a Ph.D. degree in pharmacy today, the second advanced degree he earned while in Iowa City. Before he made the difficult decision to leave a secure job, and his wife and family, Kapadia was a chemist with a Bombay pharmaceutical firm. He had a bachelor's degree and six years' experience.

The 29-year-old Kapadia held an international scholarship which paid his tuition and fees. He was a graduate teaching assistant for two years, and through his work he was able to repay the money and the faith — his friends in Bombay put into his foreign venture. Kapadia came to America on a freighter. He will go home on the maiden voyage of the S.S. France, sailing in a few days.

Hopes for Safety Of Yanks Rise

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — Hopes for the safety of 12 Americans rose Friday with a report that whites are in a hospital in the area where their mission is located.

At the request of the U.S. consul at Usumbura, a United Nations armored patrol was sent to the American mission at Kama, a remote town in Kivu Province. The consul acted when nothing had been heard from the mission for some time. Warring tribesmen are known to be in the area, and a year ago members of the same mission were attacked by native leopard men.

The report of whites in the hospital was given to officers of the Malayan armored patrol en route to the American mission. Congolese told the officers the whites are in a Catholic mission hospital at Kampene, 33 miles to the west of Kama.

In Grand Rapids, Mich., headquarters of the missionaries, officials said Wednesday the Americans were not believed to be in any danger. They said the missionaries reported in a cable that they had been cut off from the outside world by floods. Flooded roads and jungle undergrowth slowed the progress of the U.N. patrol. It left Wednesday but had traveled only 24 miles by Friday.

But U.N. headquarters, in radio contact with the patrol, told it to go on to Kampene to investigate the reports that whites have been hospitalized there.

Orientation Scheduled For Sulowans Monday

GITCHELL ZIFFREN

Debbie Ziffren, A2, Rock Island, Ill., and Bob Gitchell, A2, Cresco, will head Orientation activities next Monday and Tuesday. They will work in co-ordination with the AWS Orientation Council.

All new students (incoming freshmen and transfers) are urged to participate in all the Orientation functions. The second semester program begins Monday, Feb. 5, at 8 a.m. New students will meet in MacBride Auditorium and will be welcomed and introduced to University officials and the orientation program.

Monday at 7:30 p.m. new students will meet for a short informal gathering at Shambaugh Hall in the Main Library. Then they will go with their orientation group leaders to visit faculty homes. There are ten groups each headed by a boy and a girl.

Bob Gitchell invites all students to attend Monday night: "Debbie and I want to extend our personal invitation to all new students for an evening of fun. You will also find that Monday night is a perfect time to ask any questions that you may have. Orientation is a wonderful way to start your college life at SU1."

On Tuesday students are invited to meet faculty, administrators, and campus leaders at an informal Open House in the Iowa Memorial Union. President and Mrs. Hancher and basketball coach, Sharm Scheuerman, and Mrs. Scheuerman will attend.

Adoula Asks Assembly for Military Aid

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Congolese Premier Cyrille Adoula told the U.N. General Assembly Friday his Government is determined to end secession of Katanga Province. He asked for more military aid to help achieve his goal of national unity.

The slim, 40-year-old political leader spelled out his aims and policies in a half-hour speech delivered in French which drew resounding applause in the blue and gold assembly hall.

He is here for intensive talks with Acting Secretary-General U. Thant and other top U.N. officials on aid to the Congo. He will go to Washington Monday to meet with President Kennedy.

He met with Thant shortly after his arrival from Leopoldville, and will confer again with him Saturday. His schedule includes meetings with U.S. Chief Delegate Adlai E. Stevenson and Soviet Chief Delegate Valerian A. Zorin.

"Our first concern has always been and is the re-establishment of national unity," Adoula declared. "From the beginning my government has announced its absolute will to do away with the Katanga secession."

He said that his Government would seek that goal through peaceful negotiations, but added that its wish for peace "in no way means that we are prepared to compromise on the principle of unity."

Adoula, who has requested that he be permitted to address the 104-nation assembly, said he wanted to take advantage of the opportunity to appeal "for greater military assistance."

He declared that his Congolese Army needed more training and help in order to assure that its sole mission would be the maintenance of public security "with respect for legality."

He said the Congo would welcome assistance from any source, "on the condition that it does not interfere with our freedom of choice."

He declared the Congo chose a policy of nonalignment because "we consider this is the only means to do away with the antagonism of blocs and consolidate peace in the world."

Leftwing Socialists May Control Italy

ROME (UPI) — Premier Amintore Fanfani and his middle-of-the-road cabinet resigned Friday night, preparing the way for an historic collaboration with the leftwing Socialists and an era of high hopes and calculated risks.

President Giovanni Gronchi reserved a decision on whether he should accept or reject the resignations, but there seemed to be little doubt he eventually would accept them and appoint Fanfani to head a new left-of-center Government.

In the past the Socialists have collaborated with the Communists, Italy's biggest party with 1.6 million members. Backers of the Fanfani move hoped the new alignment would isolate the Communists for the first time since the war.

300 Rioters Storm Paris

PARIS (UPI) — Three hundred political prisoners shouting for a French Algeria rioted Friday night in Sante Prison, adding new tensions to a city bristling with heavy armor and security forces in fear of a weekend coup by the Secret Army Organization (OAS).

The OAS, which bitterly opposes President Charles de Gaulle's plans for an independent Algeria, increased its terrorist activities this week in both France and Algeria as reports spread De Gaulle was about to announce a peace agreement with the rebels.

New violence was reported in Algeria Friday. Troops and gendarmes killed three Muslim demonstrators and wounded three others in a sharp exchange of gunfire in the east Algerian city of Mercier LaCombe. It was the most violent clash since Nov. 1 last year.

Many of the Paris prisoners were jailed in connection with OAS activities including Philippe Castille, arrested Tuesday night and identified as the ringleader of the OAS plastic bomb commandoes who have terrorized France.

Police said the prisoners refused to return to their cells after an exercise period, seized steel bars from their cots and battled for nearly an hour with guards and ten truckloads of police rushed in to restore order.

It was not immediately known if there were any injuries.

Within the city itself a massive array of tanks, armored cars and paramilitary gendarmes gave Paris the heaviest concentration of military might since immediately after World War II. Authorities said the security forces numbered 30,000 men and included 32 light and heavy tanks and 75 armored cars and trucks.

Interior Minister Roger Frey, in charge of the security arrangement against any weekend OAS strike, said "the Government is resolved to show itself pitiless towards those who would try to destroy the internal peace."
