Registration Process: Not Really So Bad

Despite the usual grumbling by students that the registration procedure at Iowa is unorganized and bewildering, when all that that means is that it is not difficult to see that all officials deserve much credit for the fine registration job they do.

The registration procedure usually occurs under the fire of unhappy students who are unable to get into a course or a section they desired and were sent back to the classroom to work out a new schedule. Those who are forced to take a 7:30 a.m. class instead of the 9:30 hour they desired usually add their complaints too.

But the fire and smoke of the procedure — both at pre-registration and at registration — is actually quite moderate and as such will be asked for when more than 11,000 people are involved.

Good evidence of this was in the "new look" in registration and pre-registration this semester.

The pre-registration procedure is about as rapid as it could be hoped for. This semester for the first time the usual $50 advance payment was suspended for a number of courses. Those registrations were first semester and who paid their last University bill before the "late" deadline did not have to pay the advance $50 during pre-registration.

Instead, they were billed for second semester charges Feb. 1 at a rate that will equalize throughout the semester.

This program not only speeds up pre-registration, but also places the financial burden on the student at the start of the semester.

A second improvement is that student photos for $10 cost are taken with polaroid cameras at the Field House during registration. This picture is developed immediately and put on the ID card, thus the student does not have to wait for his card to be mailed to him, nor is the student's pre-registration delayed with time out for these pictures.

These new plans, coupled with improvements throughout in organization, particularly in the use of cards and machines, make the Iowa registration procedure much smoother than those of many other institutions of comparable or smaller size.

"The closer officials are constantly working to find ways even to improve the process makes it one more commendable."

The individual's voided session or a filled course may make the whole process seem to be rather poor, but considering that the number is now 11,000, public opinion is involved, the fine registration system indeed must be franchised speedily and quite well organized.

"I thought we played well defensively," Bellinger said after the game. "We limited their shots and forced them into tough ones.

OAS Kills 19 in New Terror Wave

Ship Carrying French Police Hit by Bomb

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Terrorists blew up a ship carrying 39 French police on duty in Oran, Algeria, and killed 19 of them. The victims included two children and 17 French police officers, President Charles de Gaulle said.

The explosion occurred on the ship's engine room, and thev were killed on the spot. The ship was en route to France from the French mainland. De Gaulle said the attack was a desperate attempt by terrorists to disrupt peace talks between France and Algeria.

French Foreign Minister Christian Fouchet said the terrorists had been using the Camargue, a cargo ship, to transport weapons to Algeria. He said the ship had been involved in several previous attacks on French ships.

The attack came just days after de Gaulle announced a new peace plan for Algeria, calling for an end to the four-year war and the withdrawal of all French troops. The plan called for a negotiated settlement with the Algerian National Liberation Front (FLN).

De Gaulle said the attack was a desperate attempt by terrorists to disrupt peace talks between France and Algeria.

CAB Blames Airline For Crash Killing 74

WASHINGTON (AP) - The CAB, in a letter to President David McDonald, said the airline industry should have been more alert in seeking ways of coordinating maintenance practices.

The CAB said that the Federal Aviation Agency had been trying to control the problem of maintenance for several years. The CAB also acknowledged that the agency's efforts had been hampered by the increased emphasis on the need for safety and efficiency, which led to greater emphasis on reducing the amount of time aircraft were out of service.

However, the CAB said that this approach was not sufficient and that the industry needed to develop better coordination systems to ensure that all maintenance work was done in an efficient and timely manner.

The CAB added that the recent crashes had shown the need for more effective maintenance coordination and that the industry needed to continue to work towards this goal.

Ask Steel Industry To Bargain Early and Avoid Strike

Most observers believe that the steel industry will avoid a strike in the near future if the two sides can work together to resolve the issues.

The steel industry has been under pressure to agree to lower wages and benefits in order to reduce costs and remain competitive.

However, the steel workers have been unwilling to accept these proposals and have threatened to strike if the industry does not agree to improve their working conditions.

In order to avoid a strike, the CAB is urging the two sides to come to an agreement as soon as possible.
Rightsists Face Bob Kennedy in Japan

AolUc, Japan (AP) — U.S. Attorney General Robert Kennedy arrived in Japan's industrial heartland and was met by a group of militant rightists who vowed to prevent him from making a speech in front of an enormous crowd outside Tokyo.

Kennedy, the brother of slain President, was invited to Tokyo by the Yomiuri Shimbun, which is a liberal newspaper.

The Yomiuri's editor, Masaharu Kato, welcomed Kennedy at the airport and said he would do everything in his power to protect the attorney general.

Kennedy, who was accompanied by a large bodyguard, said he was looking forward to his visit and hoped to meet with Japanese leaders.

However, the rightists were not pleased. They shouted slogans and waved flags as Kennedy walked towards the massive crowd.

They chanted: "Down with Kennedy!" and "Japan First!"

Kennedy, who was wearing a suit and tie, tried to walk past the protesters, but they blocked his path.

"They are very violent," Kennedy said. "But I will not back down. I have come here on behalf of the American people."
