New Atomic Tests May Put Soviets Ahead

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States disarmament chief said Friday new information on the 1961 Soviet atomic tests shows the Reds, with another test series, might pass the West in the nuclear arms race unless the West tests too.

The disarmament agency director, William C. Foster, expressed particular misgivings that the Soviets might come up first with a missile able to shoot down attacking intercontinental missiles.

The development of such an anti-intercontinental ballistic missile by the Soviets without a comparable Western advance could, in the opinion of many Western strategists, greatly alter the power balance in favor of the Communists.

Foster's statement highlighted a day of continuing controversy over the nuclear test issue which saw these other developments:

RUSSIA—The Soviets remained silent on Thursday's proposal by President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan for a three-power foreign ministers meeting on halting the nuclear weapons contest. At the same time Moscow roundly criticized the United States and Britain for their moves toward resuming testing in the atmosphere.

FRANCE—The De Gaulle Government announced it would not join in the U.S.-British appeal for a foreign ministers meeting. And it said the 18-nation general disarmament conference starting in Geneva March 14, in which France is a listed participant, shows little promise of bringing about "a positive contribution to the problem of disarmament."

U.S. SCHEDULED TO BEGIN TESTING IN MARCH

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The first U.S. nuclear tests in the atmosphere in more than three years probably will take place over Nevada early next month if President Kennedy decides to resume such experiments, officials said Friday.

They would be small, low yield shots to be followed in a month or six weeks by a series of large tests from Christmas Island in the mid Pacific, the officials said.

The French have long maintained that true disarmament would come not through a halt to testing nuclear devices, but through a ban on the weapons themselves and the means to deliver them.

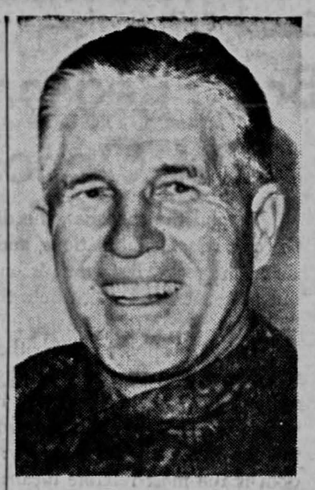
JAPAN—As expected, the Japanese Government said it would protest to Washington if the United States resumes atmospheric testing. Kennedy has not made a final decision to do so but has indicated he will give a go-ahead order shortly.

BRITAIN—Conservative newspapers generally agreed, though with a note of regret, that further western atmospheric tests seem necessary for free world security in the face of the Soviet testing. Meanwhile some 1,000 demonstrators on the other side of the issue marched on the U.S. Embassy, some chanting "No more tests on Christmas Island." Macmillan Thursday announced permission for U.S. use of the British-held island for testing.

Foster made his statement in a letter to the Washington Post, as a "clarification" of Kennedy's Wednesday statement that a future test ban agreement with the Soviets must include protection against such secret test preparations as preceded the Soviet test series that began last September. Previous U.S.-British test ban proposals did not provide for inspection and controls against preparation before testing.

An initial analysis of the Soviets' three-month series of some 50 tests last fall presented at the December Kennedy-Macmillan meeting indicated the Soviets had made considerable progress in triggering mechanisms and increasing the yield of a given size warhead. Newsmen were told that he West still had a superior atomic arsenal.

U.S. sources said today this evaluation still holds, but that further information — whether developed from fuller analysis or from new intelligence information they did not say — indicates that a further Soviet test series on top of the beginning already made could give the Reds a significant advance in the anti-missile field.



George Romney, 54-year-old president of American Motors Corp., will announce at a news conference today whether he will seek the Republican nomination for governor of Michigan.

Professor Clyde F. Kohn will serve as acting chairman of the Department of Geography at SUI through August, while Professor H. H. McCarty, the department's regular chairman, is on leave of absence to serve as visiting professor at the University of Canterbury, Christchurch, New Zealand.

Dr. Kohn's appointment as acting chairman was aproved Friday by the State Board of Regents, who also approved leave of absence during the 1962-63 academic year for Professors Alan B. Spitzer, history, and Robert E. Belding, education. Dr. Spitzer will accept a temporary appointment at Stanford University, while Dr. Belding will be an exchange professor at the University of Nottingham, England.

Regents Discuss Building, Budget

Regents OK 'Atom Smasher' Tower, Nuclear Equipment

First steps toward construction of a seven-story tower to house a new 5.5 million electron volt "atom smasher" at SUI were taken Friday by the State Board of Regents.

The Regents approved preliminary plans and a $300,000 budget for the structure, chose the Dubuque firm of Durrant and Berquist as architect, and authorized SUI to seek approval of the Budget and Financial Control Committee and to ask the committee for allocation of funds from the $300,000 voted by the 59th General Assembly for the building.

University officials also reported to the Regents that the National Science Foundation has granted $498,000 during the current fiscal year and will give SUI another $150,000 next year to purchase the Van de Graff positive ion accelerator, which will enable Iowa's nuclear physicists to study a vast range of nuclear phenomena.

As approved by the Regents, the accelerator will comprise an integral part of a new Physics-Mathematics building and Educational Data Processing Center. The combination building, estimated to contain 110,000 square feet of area, will cost an estimated $3,300,000 of which an anticipated $1 million will be in matching funds.

The combination building will extend along the north half of the block immediately west of SUI's East Hall. The Physics Building itself would extend east and west, with the accelerator building attached to the southwest end, near Dubuque street, and the Educational Data Processing Center extending north and south along the east end of the Physics Building, near East Hall.

In explaining their choice of location for the new structures, SUI officials told the Regents that the accelerator building should be connected to the Physics building for most effective use of the accelerator in physics research. The Educational Data Processing Center should adjoin East Hall, they said, because the College of Education and the Iowa Testing Programs make so much use of the data processing equipment. And it should connect with the Physics Building because present-day physics research requires extensive use of the same equipment, they said.

The accelerator building will consist of a tower approximately 32 x 36 feet, approximately seven stories in height, with the lower story measuring 79 by 90 feet. The "target chamber" where the research projects will be carried on, will occupy the lower story.

The new accelerator will be the fourth accelerator used for nuclear research on the SUI campus. It is hoped that it may be installed in September and in operation by late December, an SUI official reported.

Regents Set SUI Tuition For Summer

Iowa students who enroll in a new 12-week summer session at SUI will pay $120 in tuition, the State Board of Regents decided Friday.

The Regents also set a tuition of $150 for non-resident undergraduates who enroll in the new program, which will get under way in June. Tuition rates for SUI's regular eight-week summer session are $100 for resident students and $130 for non-residents.

Last December the Regents discussed the merits of an extended sumer session which might enable more undergraduates to pursue their studies on an accelerated basis, and the University agreed to launch a 12-week program in the summer of 1963. However, plans are now under way to offer half a dozen or so freshman courses in the 1962 summer session, President Virgil M. Hancher told the Regents Friday.

Two new courses aproved Friday by the Regents for SUI's regular eightweek summer session this year were supplemental Russian reading and a field course in textiles and clothing.

The Russian course will be offered primarily for graduate students wishing to develop reading ability for use in research, supplementing the course in scientific Russian offered during the regular academic year. It will also provide additional training for those preparing to pass a graduate language examination in Russian.

Designed particularly for teachers of textile and clothing at the college and university levels, the field course in textiles and clothing will feature visit sto textile centers in six eastern states and to several departments of the Federal government in Washington, D.C.

Approve Purchase Of Land for SUI

DES MOINES — Purchase of three pieces of Iowa City property adjoining SUI's west campus, electrical system improvements, purchase of laboratory equipment, a new roof for the armory and the drilling of a well were approved for SUI Friday by the State Board of Regents.

Located in the same general area toward the east end of Melrose Ave., approximately two blocks south of the men's dormitory area, the properties are within the general boundaries of SUI's west campus, and one of the three lots is bordered on two sides by property already owned by the University. To be purchased are a large lot, house, garage-apartment and duplex apartment unit.

Allies Block Soviet Bid To Shut Berlin Routes

BERLIN (AP) — The United States and its Western Allies blocked a Soviet bid for a partial take-over of the air corridors that link isolated West Berlin to the outside world, it was disclosed Friday.

Looks at Nuclear Aged Men—

Illinois Prof Says Dynamics Of Thinking Created War

Critically analyzing man in the nuclear age, Charles E. Osgood, director of the institute of communications research at the University of Illinois, said that the dynamics of human thinking created the cold war.

Osgood pointed out many paradoxes about the nuclear age which provide a framework for international tension. "The greater destructive capacity we have, the less concern we hold for our own security," Osgood said as he pointed out that not many scientists or intellectuals really stop and consider that, "So few people can destroy so many people in so short a time."

Osgood went on to point out that while so many are engaged in the arms race, both sides express fervent hopes that these weapons will never be used. "Nations are spending more for defense today than ever before but yet they have even less security," Osgood said. "Offensive capability has outstripped defensive capability.

"There is a great freeze along traditional lines of solving peace, and the greater a nation's military power, the less initiative it has to start treaty relations."

Osgood pointed out that the dynamics of human thinking prevents seeking alternative courses of action in solving the cold war. "Human nature, such as frustrations and fears, and human relationships are one of the basic detterents to seeking alternative courses of action.

Osgood said that novel situations call for novel solutions, and that the cold war is certainly a novel situation. "Traditional policies are thought to be realistic because they are traditional," Osgood said, "and so these traditional lines continue to be followed.

"Refusal to seek new solutions is caused by fear," Osgood pointed out, "and so there must be some acceptable solution which will channel this fear into some workable solution."

Osgood said that one of the main problems with pacificists is that they threaten with fire and brimstone, but offer no acceptable solution.

In presenting a solution for the cold war, Osgood said that bilateral negotiations require commitments on both sides before action can be taken, and that this is impossible. "As a result of these commitments, neither side is able to take initiative in starting new negotiations," Osgood maintained.

"A unilateral approach is a sound idea," Osgood said, "and I propose a graduated recipication in tension reduction. In unilateral action each side sets up a tension stimulus for the other side, and this begins reciprocal action."

Osgood said that "The plan would be flexible and self-regulatory, with each side monitoring its own actions.

"I think that the chances are good that the Soviets will participate in such a plan," Osgood said, "for they are worried about a hot nuclear war, a re-armed Germany, and the rising power of Red China.

"Such a policy is feasible in our times, but it will require sensitivity and flexibility on both sides," Osgood maintained, "and a lot of high level planning for peace presents as much a challenge as war."

French Leader's Cousin Feared Nabbed by OAS

PARIS (UPI) — Marc-Andre Schwartz, 19-year-old university student and second cousin of Premier Michel Debre, was missing Friday and feared kidnaped by the outlawed Secret Army Organization (OAS) in a move to embarrass the Government.

Police late Friday found the youth's car abandoned near the village of Cognieres, about 18 miles southeast of Paris.

Joint Conference Considering Salary Increases for Faculty

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Iowa will attempt to retain its third place in the Midwest in salaries paid to the faculty at the state-supported college and universities, the institutions' presidents said Friday.

The presidents of SUI, Iowa State University, Ames, and State College of Iowa, Cedar Falls, told the board of regents meeting that the policy was one the legislature understood and has accepted in the past.

The presidents and the regents began preliminary discussions of the budget requests that will be presented to the next session of the legislature, which convenes in January, 1963.

In the past, the regents have based their requests for salary increases to staff members of the school on the desire to remain third from the top compared to other institutions in an 11-state area in the Midwest.

Virgil M. Hancher, president of SUI, said intensive work would be delayed on the budget requests until a study on the cost of educating each student at the three schools is completed.

He and James Hilton, president of Iowa State, and J. W. Maucker, president of State College, also said they were in the process of drawing up a long-range view on what future increases will be needed in staff members and new buildings.

The Regents also began approving the estimated budgets for the next fiscal year, 1962-63.

They approved a total figure of $14.2 million for Iowa State. This is an increase of nearly $1 million over the probably 1961-62 fiscal year expenditures.

About $700,000 of the estimated increase would go for the cost of instruction, Dr. Hilton said.

The Regents approved a slight increase in tuition effective next fall at the State College of Iowa.

Tuition will be increased $3 a semester to $126, Maucker said, with the extra money earmarked for use in developing the new Commons at the school.

Co-op Units For Coeds Are Blocked

With a continued heavy demand from married students for apartment housing, it would presently appear unwise for SUI to convert any such housing into co-operative living units for single women, President Virgil M. Hancher told the State Board of Regents Friday.

He reported to the Regents concerning the University's efforts to determine whether and how such "co-op" housing could be provided within the present framework of SUI's housing system, which by law is required to be self-liquidating — supported entirely from room and board payments and apartment rentals, with no tax funds used either in constructing or operating the units.

President Hancher reviewed a report which he made to the Regents last spring concerning the possibility of converting 28 married student apartments in Parklawn, SUI's first permanent apartment building, to co-operative housing for single women students.

It had been suggested that this might be tried experimentally as the most feasible and least expensive way to determine potential demand for this type of housing, he noted in reviewing the problem for the Regents.

However, Hancher said, even with its 670 temporary and 200 permanent University-owned apartments, SUI still cannot meet the demand for married student housing — last fall aproximately 200 student families were turned away, and there is a current list of more than 200, he said.

There are more board-and-room jobs for girls in private Iowa Citly homes than there are girls seeking this kind of student assistance, President Hancher noted in discussing potential demand for University-sponsored "co-op" housing where students would do their own housework and cooking.

Another possible influence is the fact that the University last summer lowered the minimum age for single students eligible to live in private apartment housing from 23 to 21.

Primarily because of the current demand for married student housing, the SUI president recommended that the Parklawn apartments continue in use for that purpose, and the Regents concurred. Hancher also assured the board that the University is "doing its best to find a way to provide" additional married student housing units at the lowest possible cost to students.

Regents Discuss Extension Program

DES MOINES (UPI) — The Iowa Board of Regents Friday asked the three state-supported colleges and universities to formally present their views on how to carry out extension education without duplicating efforts or overlooking major problems.

The move was aimed at obtaining more information for the regents before they make a decision on a controversial recommendation by R. J. Blakely, dean of the SUI extension division.

Blakely proposed that a three-man committee supervise the extension activities of SUI, Iowa State University, and the State College of Iowa.

The proposal was opposed by ISU President Dr. James Hilton, and to a lesser degree by SCI President J. W. Maucker.

They contended that a "superstructure" such as that recommended by Blakely would bring about a "bureaucracy," a "uniformity" in the extension programs that would be undesirable and take away the "missionary zeal" they contend has marked the extension program.

Guest Editorials—

Basic Reason Why We Must Oppose Castro

Behind the speeches, the diplomacy, the propaganda, the quarrels, confabulations, and hobnobbing at Punta del Este, Uruguary, last week is one of the basic conflicts of our times. It was brought into the Western Hemisphere by Cuba.

Put it simply, it is whether Communistic variety of totalitarian socialism is more appealing to under-developed nations than the capitalistic, free enterprise system for which we and the Western world stand. Secretary Rusk put the Western case this way: "History shows that freedom is the most reliable means to economic development and social justice, and that Communism betrays in performance the ends which it proclaims in propaganda." Cuba's Foreign Minister Raul Roa had earlier put his country's case in these words: "The future belongs entirely to the universal socialist society that is coming and of which, forever, Cuba already forms part."

The last word in this dispute may be given to President Kennedy who, in an address last year to Latin-American diplomats said: "Our hemisphere's mission is not yet complete. For our unfulfilled task to demonstrate to the entire world that man's unsatisfied aspiration for economic progress and social justice can best be achieved by free men working within a framework of democratic institutions."

Until the Cuban revolution came along there was no such ideaological conflict in the Western Hemisphere. As Mr. Rusk said in a speech: "The Castro regime has extended the global battle to Latin America." We in the United States are certain that our democratic, free enterprise system is best adapted to the task of bringing social justice to the peoples of Latin America. This is what the Alliance For Progress is trying to do. This is what lies at the heart of the controversies in Punta del Este. And this is one of the basic reasons why the Castro regime must be opposed.

Federal Scholarships

A considerable amount of American talent is doubtless wasted because thousands of bright young high school graduates cannot afford to go on to college.

A Senate-House conference committee is now wrestling with the question of whether taxpayers of the nation should help them continue their education. The Senate version of the bill provides for 212,500 scholarships; the House for none at all.

President Kennedy's education message to Congress includes a set of figures that would support arguments for a compromise scholarship effort. That message stated that last year some 200,000 students who ranked in the upper 30 per cent of their classes failed to go to college — one-third to one-half because of lack of finances.

The arithmetic of the presidential message appears to be at variance with its concluding plea for 200,000 federal scholarships. A Senate-House compromise of between 70,000 and 100,000 scholarships would apparently fill the gap not currently covered by private and industrial scholarships.

If qualification tests for such scholarships are devised by objective professionals, the taxpayers' scholarship would be sound enough to profit the nation as a whole.

But in the future the number of federal scholarships should never be so great as to undercut such excellent incentive scholarship programs as the widespread community effort of the Citizens' Scholarship Foundation of America. The student striving to make good for his friends and neighbors is more likely to live up to his potential than one responsible only to amorphous national taxpayers.

Silent Suggestion

We don't know whether there is a great moral lesson in a news item about Marge Merrick of Columbus, Ohio, the new queen of women's bowling, but it is interesting to note that she does very, very little talking on the lanes in major tournaments.

"Following the qualifying rounds in the world tournament last month, I determined I wouldn't talk except to say 'hello' and 'goodbye' while bowling," she said.

Friendly bowling — as distinguished from championship bowling — is something else again, and Miss Merrick admits that failure to talk under such circumstances "might be taken as downright unfriendliness."

We believe that the lady has a point — a good bowler must concentrate, and a lot of useless chatter interferes with concentration. We hope it is not too ungallant to suggest that less talking and more concentration would well be applied to things other than bowling — driving a car, for example.

Securities Industry Pushes Training for Improvement

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Reports are mounting of some questionable practices in securities dealings, particularly on the American Stock Exchange . . . at a time more Americans than ever are becoming investors for the first time. What has been done and what is being done to maintain and raise ethical standards in this industry? These questions are answered here by a St. Louis securities executive, Edward A. White. White is also a member of the New York Stock Exchange. This article is reprinted from the St. Louis Globe Democrat.)

By EDWARD A. WHITE

There has been a great deal of material published recently with regard to the current investigation of the American Stock Exchange and the coming investigation of the securities industry as a whole.

Unquestionably there have been certain practices which have developed over the years which should be investigated and certain recommendations and changes should be made in the carrying on of the securities business.

I think it might be well to point out, in order to keep these current discussions in the proper perspective, the tremendous strides forward that have been made by the securities business voluntarily and during a period of tremendous expansion.

THE "TREND Toward Professionalism" is the acknowledged goal of the securities industry.

Although much has been said recently about the floor of the American Stock Exchange, the real key to the day-to-day activity in listed and unlisted securities has to do with the actions and activities of the registered representatives of the various firms.

While as recently as 1950 very little more than a superficial knowledge of the brokerage business and a clean criminal record was needed to become registered to offer securities to the public, today the New York Stock Exchange requires six months of extensive training before any solicitation can be made with regard to general securities.

THIS TRAINING covers the broad field of investments, taxation, money markets, exchange activities, etc., and this training is capped by an independently given and independently created examination prepared by the psychologieal testing center in New York City.

The philosophy of professionalism in regard to the registered representative is, in our opinion, the real key to preserving integrity in the securities business.

Today, according to recent estimates, 12½ million persons own shares in publicly owned American companies. These shareholders come from every state of the Union.

EVERY LEVEL of occupation, income, age and education is represented and therefore, it is really here in this phase of the brokerage business where the industry has concentrated its efforts, in order to insure that the information being given to the client is clear, accurate and concise.

The philosophy has always been that of full disclosure so that all the pertinent information will be given to the client prior to this time of investing.

The securities business, as we know it today, is a relatively young business reaching its initial impetus from the sale of Liberty Bonds during World War I.

ALTHOUGH THE Stock Exchange dates back to the original meeting of a group of merchants in 1792 and adopted its first constitution in 1817, the full public participation in the market did not come until after World War I.

Today the majority of brokers are developing professionalism within their ranks of registered representatives.

These men have the training, background and integrity to qualify them to discuss securities with their clients, to make recommendations and generally to serve the modern investor; who realizes the constant risk of inflation and the benefits that accrue to him from investment in American industry; while being aware of the risks that are involved while investing in a free economy where some businesses do extremely well while others may make only a fair show, and some may operate at a loss.

Therefore, while there are a few who have erred and therefore should be censored, the constant exercising of internal controls within the securities business, the intensive training of the registered representatives and the constant admonitions to the investor to "investigate before acting," make us sure that this industry which is the bulwark and backbone of the free enterprise system, is a strong and healthy industry and one which has in the past and will in the future perform its service to American industry and to the individual investor.

Art Guild Will Present Six Films

By DAVID ROUTON
Written for The Daily Iowan

A generous sampling of short films by the master comic of the U.S. silent cinema, Charlie Chaplin, will launch the Student Art Guild's second semester program of film classics. The 'Chaplin Festival", scheduled for Friday is the first of six presentations making up a varied slate of comedies, dramas (witty or formidable), and one classic documentary.

The Chaplin films — including "The Rink", "The Vagabond", "The Adventurer" and "Easy Street" — should provide a full measure of the soul-satisfying action farce which so beautifully animated early U.S. film — plenty of chases and slapstick.

THE LAST SHOWING in the series, set for May 11, will provide other excellent examples of this comic genre. It will present five Max Sennett comedies. These will include the Keystone cops, throwing pies or racing futilely to somebody's rescue.

The second film in the series is one of the best Japanese dramas not from the hand of their most gifted director, Kurosawa. It is more elegant than the work of this modern film master and probably more Japanese. "Gate of Hell" tells an old tale, a classic and powerful tragedy in a setting of court life in feudal Japan. Visually it presents one of the most effective uses of modern color film techniques ever made. It is as if the art director had studied ancient paintings and emulated their color harmonies.

"THE SEVEN Deadly Sins," program four of the series, is in the pattern of French feature length productions consisting of several separate stories (such as the much revered "La Ronde" and the more recent "Love and the Frenchwoman") "Sins" strings together short dramas each by a different writer and each master-mined by a different director. Each story illustrates one of the mortal sins.

Also in the series is a film essay on Ireland by the first, and probably the best, documentary director, Robert Flaherty. "Man of Aran" is about the inhabitants of a group of islands off the coast of Ireland.

ROUNDING OUT the list will be another example of an increasingly popular genre, the horror film. Like last semester's "Nosferatu" it is about vampires and, in fact, is called "Vampyr". Unlike the previous bloodfeast, it comes with the endorsement of having been made by a celebrated director, Carl Dryer, who did "The Passion of Joan of Arc," "Day of Wrath," and, most recently, "Ordet".

Season tickets for the program may be obtained by mail by writing the Art Guild, SUI Art Department; by direct purchase in the Art Building where a selling table will be set up Monday, or at the Chemistry Building auditorium before the first showing.

WASHINGTON — A Pentagon spokesman, describing the appointment of Lt. Gen. Paul D. Harkins to head of the U.S. Military Assistance Command, Viet Nam, as new evidence of American determination to give every aid — short of combat — to South Viet Nam:

"This is one war the West cannot afford to lose. But that does not mean that we at this point are committed to combat ourselves."

Correction

The author of a Letter to the Editor ("Pause for Peace"), which was published Feb. 8 was incorrectly labeled as "Professor of Russian."

The poem was not written by anyone from the SUI Russian Department, and was not in any way connected with that department.

Preucil Soloist Tuesday At SUI Orchestra Concert

William Preucil, asst. professor of music, will be viola soloist when the SUI Symphony Orchestra presents a concert Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Union.

Preucil will perform as soloist in "Concerto for Viola and Orchestra" by William Walton.

The professor was principal violist in the Detroit Symphony Orchestra for two years and appeared at the Casals festival in Puerto Rico in 1958. He has been soloist and principal violist for the Peninsula Music festival for nine years.

The SUI Symphony Orchestra will begin the concert with "Suite from the Water Music" by Handel. This will be followed by the three symphonic sketches "From Dawn to Noon on the Sea," "Play of the Waves," and "Dialogue of the Wind and the Sea" from "La Mer" (The Sea) by Debussy.

The concert will close with the rondo from "Till Eulenspiegel's Merry Pranks, Op. 28" by Strauss.

The Orchestra is under the direction of Paul Olefsky, assoc. professor of music.

BAND AUDITITIONS

Auditions for the SUI Hawkeye Concert Band and the Symphony Band will be held through Friday of next week, according to Frederick Ebbs, director of bands at SUI.

An audition can be scheduled by calling the band office, University extension 2322.

Men and women accepted for membership in the bands can earn scholastic credit for participation.

HOLDUP

PARIS (AP) — Men held up a fashionable jewelry store Friday and escaped with an estimated 60,000 francs — $12,000 — worth of pearls and diamonds. The same store was held up last Dec. 26, when gunmen took an estimated $50,000 francs and escaped on motor scooters.

Med Lecture Monday

Hawkeye Playmaker

Co-captain Joel Novak will be in the starting lineup when the Hawks meet Illinois at the Field House tonight. Novak is a good floor leader and defensive man.

Sharm Regards Game As 'Crossroads Contest'

By JERRY ELSEA
Sports Editor

Iowa's basketball team, stung by Creighton and swamped by Ohio State last week, will attempt a comeback tonight against rival Illinois in a 7:30 p.m. encounter at the Field House.

Discussing the 12-3 Illini, Iowa Coach Sharm Scheuerman said, "I would rather have my team beat Illinois than any other Big Ten rival and the six Illinois men on our squad feel the same way.

"This game I regard as a crossroad contest," continued Schuerman, "It will show whether we have a good chance for a spot in the first division."

Scheuerman announced Friday that sophomore guard Andy Hankins is not able to go full speed because of a still weak ankle, and will not start against Illinois.

Starting in Hankins' place will be team Co-captain Joe Novak. Veterans Matt Szykowny and Joe Reddington will start at guards.

Iowa's standout senior co-captain Don Nelson will be at center and dependable 6-7 sophomore Doug Mehlhaus will start at forward and share the double post with Nelson.

Scheuerman said 6-8 sophomore Jerry Messick will probably see more action than in the past few games. Sophomore Jim Freese, 6-3 guard from Muscatine, would be the first of three additions to the team to play, he added.

The other two rookies who just gained sophomore status are Leon Schimmel, 6-0 guard from Sioux Center, and Lon McMean, 6-4 forward from Gregory, S.D.

The Illini, 4-2 in Big Ten play, feature a potent fast break and an impressive offense of 85.3 points per conference game to opponents' 80.3.

Chief characters in Illinois' high scoring attack are Dave Downey (19 points per game), Bill Burwell (18), Bill Small (15) and Jerry Colangelo (12).

Illinois' fine scoring balance discourages sagging on one man, for any of the top four scorers may erupt for a bundle of points on any given night.

Small, for example, tossed in 29 points in an 89-80 win over Indiana last Saturday and held the Big Ten's leading scorer Jimmy Rayl to 18 points.

The Hawkeyes, 3-3 in the conference and 9-7 overall, are now tied for fifth place with Purdue. Schuerman takes his team to Lafayette, Ind. Sunday for a Monday night game with the Boilermakers.

Emphasizing tonight's game and withholding comment on Purdue, Schuerman said, "We are not discouraged by the beating (89-63) by Ohio State." No teams play the Buckeyes close ones. I think the Hawks will be ready for their best effort against Illinois, stimulated by the fact that it is Illinois we are playing."

The six Iowa players from Illinois are: Nelson and Novak, Rock Island; Hankins, Waukegan; Roach, Pinkneyville; Bill Skea, Batavia; and Messick, Wood River.

Michigan Foe Of Wrestlers On Road Trip

By Staff Writer

The Iowa wrestling team goes for its fourth win in five dual matches against Michigan at Ann Arbor today. The only loss marring the Hawkeye record, was a 15-13 decision to defending champion Michigan State. They have deeated Illinois, Northwestern, and Wisconsin.

Hawkeye Coach Dave McCuskey will send the same lineup against the Wolverines that faced Wisconsin here last Saturday. Herm Reininga will go at 147, while Syd Walston, who was unbeaten in three matches remains on the sidelines with a knee injury, an injury that will probably keep him out of action the rest of the month at least.

Sherwyn Thorson, outstanding football guard, is not in the lineup against Michigan. Thorson finished second in the NCAA finals in 1960, but was sidelined last spring by ineligibility. McCuskey feels he is not quite ready to go a nine minute match, having just reported for practice, but hopes he will be ready to go against Oklahoma here next week.

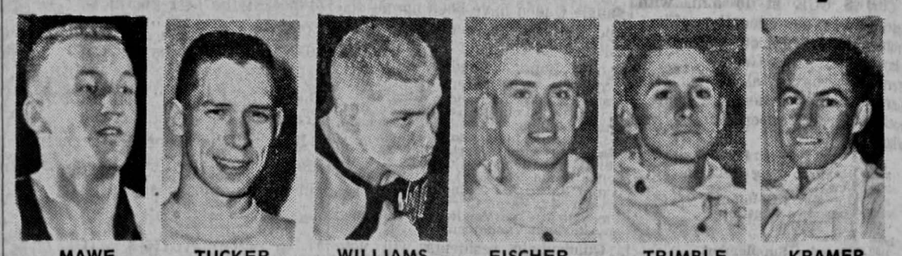
The Wolverines have a pretty strong, well-balanced team, not having lost in dual competition so far this season, and having a tie with the always strong eastern power, Pittsburgh.

Conference victims include Indiana, Purdue, Ohio State, Wisconsin, and Northwestern.

Leading Michigan is Fritz Kellerman, conference 130 pound champ, who may wrestle either 137 or 147, and Don Corriere, team captain. Corriere won the 157 pound conference title two years ago, and last year finished third at 167.

Hawkeye lineup for today's match has Francis McCann (2-1-1), 123; Norman Parker (3-1), 130; Tom Huff (4-0), 137; Herm Reininga (0-1), 147; Steve Combs (2-0-1), 157; Vern Kohl (0-4), 167; Jay Roberts (0-2), 177; and Ken Johnson (0-3), heavyweight.

Track Team Opens Indoor Season at Wisconsin Today



MAWE TUCKER WILLIAMS FISCHER TRIMBLE KRAMER

By GEORGE KAMPLING
Staff Writer

The Iowa track team opens its 1962 indoor season at Madison today, with a dual meet against the Wisconsin Badgers, winners last week 95-46 over Ohio State. "We should be fairly strong in the track events," said Hawkeye coach Francis Cretzmeyer, "but we will be real weak in the field events."

"The meet Saturday might be a real close one if we can perform up to capacity," said "Cretz." "The first meet is one I'm always a little leery of. Last year we lost to Northwestern in our first meet, then came back the following week and beat the same team."

"We are depending a lot on sophomores to come through," said the Hawkeye mentor. "We have two in the high jump, and one in the pole vault and broad jump."

Another drawback to early strength of the Hawk thinclads is the fact that practice has been limited the past two weeks because of exams, commencement, a home basketball game last weekend, and registration early this week.

The team will also be handicapped by the fact that some members of the team are not physically ready for action. These include captain Bill Mawe, who has a foot ailment and has not worked out; Gary Richards a knee injury; and Gary Hollingsworth who just enrolled this semester.

"I'm sure we will be a whole lot tougher in another month than we are right now," said Cretzmeyer who is starting his 14th year as Hawkeye track coach. "Then our sophomores will have gained a lot of experience, and we should have decent practice sessions. After Hollingsworth and Richards get in shape, we should soon have a real good mile relay team, one of the best we've ever had."

Lettermen returning include Gary Fischer, Jim Tucker, Ralph Trimble, Roger Kerr, Jerry Williams, and Don Gardner. Fischer is Big Ten 1,000-yard run champion, and holds the Iowa indoor 880-yard record of 1:54.9.

Tucker was captain of the Big Ten champion cross country team last fall, and is a cross country all-American. He will run both the mile and two-mile runs. His best time in the mile is 4:15.8, and he has run the two-mile in 9:14.

Trimble will run the mile and half mile events, with Kerr, a good quartermiler. Williams and Gardner are both hurdlers.

Top sophomores on the track team include Bill Frazier, Larry Kramer, Bob Sherman, Hollingsworth, Tom Egbert, and Richards. Frazier runs the quarter and half. Kramer finished fourth in the Big Ten cross country meet, and placed second behind Tucker in practically all of the Hawkeyes' dual meets last fall.

Sherman, halfback on the Hawkeye football team, is a good prospect in the hurdles, and has looked good in practice. Hollingsworth, Egbert, and Richards are all quarter-milers.

Without Wes Sydney and Felton Rogers who could both clear well over six foot in the high jump, things look dim in the field events again this year. Jim Brye and Bob Nielsen, both sophomores, will take over the high jump chores, while Jim Edens, sophomore, will go with veteran Tom Herzberg in the pole vault.

The Hawks will have another soph, Jim Piper, state high school champ, in the broad jump.

THE PROBABLE LINEUPS

60-yard dash—Hollingsworth, John Thomas, Egbert.
440-yard run—Kerr, Frazier.
880-yard run—Fischer, Trimble, Norm Maske.
Mile run—Tucker, Trimble.
2-mile run—Tucker, Kramer, Fearing.
Hurdles—Sherman, Williams, Gardner.
High jump—Brye, Nielsen.
Broad jump—Dick Leazer, Piper.
Shot put—Bill Rief.
Pole vault—Herzberg, Edens.
Mile relay—(Four of the following five): Kerr, Frazier, Gardner, Williams, Egbert.

2 Key Men Sidelined—

Iowa Gymnasts Meet Tough Southern Illinois

By GARY SPURGEON
Staff Writer

Southern Illinois, one of the foremost gymnastics teams in the nation, invades the Iowa Field House today to face Iowa's Hawkeyes. The meet will begin at 2 p.m. in the North Gym.

The Hawkeyes will be handicapped by the absence of two of the team's top performers. Leading scorer George Hery has injured his chest and will not compete. Roger Gedney, likewise, will not see action due to a leg wound.

Hery and Gedney would have normally competed in free exercise, tumbling and trampoline. Their loss is expected to greatly hinder Iowa's chances of a victory.

Iowa coach Dick Holzaepfel said, "While I hadn't expected to be able to handle this gymnastics team, which is gymnastics' equivalent to Ohio State in basketball, I had expected to give them a good run for their money."

He pointed out that the three events in which Hery and Gedney were expected to compete were the events he was depending upon the most.

The Iowa mentor was not at all confident, but indicated that his team would be strengthened by the return of Larry Snyder. Snyder, who is a former national trampoline champion, was ineligible last semester.

In addition to Snyder, the Hawkeyes will be depending quite heavily upon Jon Cada, Joe Roos, Russ Porterfield, Hans Burchardt and others.

Discussing Southern Illinois, Holzaepfel said, "This team could very easily be the NCAA champions this year."

Leading the way for the Salukis is Rusty Mitchell, a sophomore from West Covina, Calif. Mitchell recently won three firsts, tied for another and finished third in a victory over Ball State. He is considered one of the better men in the nation in both free exercise and tumbling.

Three other top performers are on the Southern Illinois roster also. Fred Orlofsky, a member of the U.S. Olympic team, and Fred Tijerina, national parallel bars champion, will be competing for the Salukis. Another squad member, Bruno Klaus, is listed as a possible national champion.

Holzaepfel encouraged anyone who wishes to see some very fine gymnastics performances to attend the meet.

Hawkeye Swimmers Face Illinois in Big Ten Meet

By HARRIET HINDMAN
Staff Writer

The Hawkeye swimmers met Illinois, holders of a 2-2 record, this afternoon at Champaign.

Iowa and Illinois participated in a double dual meet at Michigan State earlier this year, so the swimmers have had a chance to see each other in action although Iowa did not actually compete against Illinois in that meet.

Asked how the Illini impressed him early in January, Iowa coach Bob Allen said, "At that time it looked like our meet Saturday should be a close one. But now we're in our second semester. This will change things. They may have gained or lost some of their men.

"I would say Jim Spreitzer is about the most outstanding swimmer on the Illinois team," Allen commented. Spreitzer, a junior, finished second in the 100-yard freestyle, and third in the 220 in the Big Ten Championships last year.

Other outstanding Illini mentioned by the Iowa coach were Phil Karafotas, a sophomore who swims the 220 and 440-yard freestyle events, and Joe Sommer, top competitor in the butterfly.

"I think that the most exciting event will probably be the 100-yard freestyle with Spreitzer and Bill Meyerhoff. The 440 between Karafotas and Binky Wadington should also be a good event. It should be real close," Allen predicted.

Les Cutler, Iowa backstroke swimmer, will try to win his fifth straight 1962 race against the talented Sommer. Cutler, who has placed in the 100 and 200-yard backstroke in the NCAA meets the last two years, broke his own record against Minnesota January 20, with 2:06.2.

Ingemar Wins In Comeback

GOTEBORG, Sweden (UPI) — Former heavyweight champion Ingemar Johansson made a successful start on the comeback trail Friday night by scoring a technical knockout over West Indian Joe Bygraves in the seventh round before a sellout 6,200 in the Maesshallen Sports Hall.

The scheduled 10-round bout was stopped at two minutes and eight seconds of the seventh.

Johansson, fighting for the first time since he was stopped in the 10th round last March 13 by champion Floyd Patterson, weighed 199 pounds. Bygraves scaled 208½.

Referee Andrew Smyth of Belfast halted the bout when Bygraves was hanging on the ropes practically helpless and bleeding freely from a cut on his left brow.

Johansson was in command throughout but his showing disappointed the spectators, although he won more impressively Friday night than in their first fight, Feb. 24, 1956, when Ingemar had to be content with a 10-round decision.

Fencers in Action Against Wisconsin, Michigan State

By JOE GEHRINGER
Staff Writer

Iowa's fencing team will be out to better its 1-1 dual meet mark today as it faces Wisconsin and Michigan State, beginning at 1 p.m. in the north gymnasium of the Field House.

The Hawks split their opener a week ago, downing Indiana, while loosing to Notre Dame.

Coach Achilles Nickles said he is depending on four returning lettermen, led by captain Bob Peterson, who was 24-13 in the epee last year and Big Ten runner up in 1960.

Others are Lance Hellman and John Anderson, foil and Jared Tinklenberg sabre.

He added that Larry Stoltenberg, considered one of the best sabre fencers will be eligible following today's meet.

Charlie Schmitter's Spartans, hurt by graduation, have only two returning lettermen, captain Dick Schloemer and Al McCallum.

Schloemer, regarded as the best man on the team, will head the foil division, while Ben Burns and Joe Antonetti hold down the number one epee and sabre spots, respectively.

Play Continues in SUI Chess Meet

Second round play in the fourth annual SUI chess tournament begins today at 8 a.m.

Twenty persons started in the first of five rounds last night. The tournament is being conducted under the five-round Swiss system, where each player opposes a player with a similar record.

Third round play will begin at 1 p.m. today, fourth at 1 p.m. Sunday and fifth round at 6 p.m. Sunday. All sessions are open to the public.

City High Falls to Moline

By ERIC ZOECKLER
Staff Writer

Moline, solely on the basis of a 23-point fourth period scoring outburst, handed Iowa City high a 54-39 defeat Friday night for its 15th win against one defeat.

The Maroons, top ranked team in the Illinois U.P.I. poll, were forced into numerous errors by the effective defense tactics of the Hawklets, held a slim 19-16 margin at the half and were tied 31-31 at the three-quarters mark.

But with City High's ace Guard Gary Snook, hitting a cold spell combined with the timely hitting by Moline's Jim Rosborough and playmaking of Bill Moffitt, the Maroons slowly forged ahead in the fourth quarter. They outscored the Hawklets, 20-3 in the last six minutes after the home team had held a brief 35-34 lead.

Rosborough, a 6-2 forward led in game scoring with 23 points and 6-5 forward Dave Fisher hit for 18. Snook, who had 10 points during his hot third quarter spurt, ended the night with 21.

SENTENCING DELAYED
