Play Review—
Go . . .
Don't Ask

By WALTER R. KELLER
Reviewed for The Daily Iowan

People sit and stand in their sixth year of near-starve in the hills of West Virginia . . . and John Glenn waits at Cape Canaveral to sail off into the cosmos. What has this to do with Bertolt Brecht and the play at the University Theatre? . . . Only everything.

There is not a line in the play, a movement, a sound, that does not scream forth the same horrifying, hysterical incongruity. Azdak, though, speaks the specific line. Azdak, the twisted reasoner — the perfect incarnation of Brecht's tortured, brilliant apprehension of The Gigantic Contradictions, the fathomless ironies . . . Azdak speaks of men who "conquer the roof of the world" while the bottom falls out from underneath.

When you go to see this play the scenes will be familiar. All the criminals will waddle, crawl, run and limp before you. And the crimes will be there to warm you too. And perhaps they'll glue themselves on the sidewalks of your consciousness as they did on ours last night.

Some have called this a play about "justice." Undoubtedly there have been those who have not been complimentary enough to call this even a play. Let it suffice that Bertolt Brecht has captured Contemporarydom, and in doing so has knifed his way forward, back, up, down, around, and through the all of everything.

And the players have captured it too. Forget the lapses, the tattered instants of "almost" — they have captured it. And the music, and the costumes, and the sounds — they have captured it. No! They are it!

One doesn't watch and arrive at this knowledge intuitively. He is told — explicitly, simply . . . he is told by the little boy who sits by the side of the stream and splashes himself with it; who bathes his little feet in it.

And that boy's name is Patrick Terfloth — (in the play his name is Michael). And his father's name is John Terfloth — and that is the name of the man who directed all of it — who was somehow able to be big enough and who was beautiful enough to bring it to us.

Go and be with it. Listen to the people around you laugh and giggle. They'll be giggling because some of the things they are seeing are funny, but mostly because they are finding out that it's too painful to cry even when you must; and they are finding out that Brecht, and Terfloth, and all the people of this play have known it.

Kirk: Nation Can't Depend On Pacifism

By JOE GEHRINGER
Staff Writer

There is no such thing as "a liberal" or "a conservative" foreign policy, instead, foreign policy must vary with the circumstances, said Russell Kirk, noted spokesman for the conservative movement.

Speaking before about 150 persons in the House Chamber of Old Capitol, Tuesday night, Kirk contrasted four areas in which conservative and liberal views on foreign policy differ.

First, he said, is human nature. The conservative believes that neither men nor nations are perfect and is not distressed by the fact that diplomacy uses methods that would not be employed in human relations.

The liberal, on the other hand, believes man can be perfected, and uses conciliation and pacification to achieve his ends.

"You cannot depend on conciliation and pacification, you cannot depend on sweetness and light to solve the problems of international relations," Kirk said.

Second is the lust for power, which the conservative feels is the strongest of man's desires, he said.

The liberal feels power is to be used to do for others what they want — whether it is wanted or not.

"The conservative maintains that many of the problems of the United States and its allies are caused by this view," he said.

Third, is the conservative view of diversity versus the liberal view of a universal society, he continued. "It is impossible to create a universal society because race and instincts are opposed to it," he said.

Fourth, is the balance of power versus permanent solutions to world problems," he said.

"The conservative believes peace is kept by the balance of power," he asserted.

"Liberals feel there is no need for the balance of power and that there are permanent solutions that will get us away from the balance of power."

Currently, he said, the balance of power between the United States and Russia is preventing war, and probably will for the next 100 years.

Dr. Kirk's lecture was sponsored by the Iowa Conservatives.

New Party at SUI To Enter Candidates in March Election

By KATHIE SWIFT
Staff Writer

A new political party which will run candidates for offices in the forthcoming SUI Student Senate elections, work to improve civil rights, lower student costs, and abolish compulsory ROTC, is being formed.

The party, the Independent Student Party (ISP), desires to polarize those students interested in campus politics," according to its spokesman Seymour Gray, A2, Des Moines. Membership is open to all students.

According to Gray, ISP already has tentative support of several campus organizations, such as the Student Peace Union, and the Socialist Discussion Club. ISP will hold a public meeting on Feb. 27.

Gray said ISU, in supplying its own candidates for the March 28 all-campus elections, hopes to "make something worthwhile out of these elections." He said there is not much interest in the elections and many students do not even vote. "Mostly it is the fraternity and sorority members who do vote, because they have to," Gray added.

Gray criticized the Student Senate itself, saying that it has no real power, that it can only suggest changes and "hope that the Administration will go along with them. The entire Student Senate is watered down," he said.

Gray said the Senate needed student support so it could have more persuasive power.

ISP plans to work for improvement of the present off-campus civil rights situation. Gray stressed that "most students do not like to report discrimination against themselves to the University Administration." He said that the new party would work to form a permanent commission of students, as part of student government, for investigation of reports of racial discrimination.

Gray criticized the SUI chapter of the Congress on Racial Equality (CORE) as a "do-nothing group on campus. CORE is even an inhibitive force as to discrimination," he said.

Gray said he believes CORE's president, Judith Sutherland, A4, Monticello, thinks there is no racial discrimination problem at SUI. He said the party would work with CORE in bettering the situation. If this was not satisfactory, he said ISP would either ask for a new president or apply to CORE headquarters for a new chapter at SUI. The party's platform also includes efforts to lower student costs, to raise working students' wages, to obtain a "more effective" student book exchange, and to work for the abolishment of compulsory ROTC.

Katanga Parliament Ends Secession—On Condition

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, the Congo — The Katanga Parliament decided Thursday to end its secession from the Congo — on several conditions. Among other things, it demanded that the Congo Government take a strong stand against Communism and what it called the machinations of certain imperialistic countries.

The assembly, which has been after two weeks of fighting in Elisabethville between the gendarmerie and U.N. troops.

Since then Tshombe has announced that all foreign mercenaries in his forces — one issue over which the fighting raged — have gone. U.N. sources say that as far as they know that is true.

It appeared Katanga and the Leopoldville Government are closer to getting together than at any time since Katanga seceded in July 1960 in the Congo's first month of independence.

Besides a stand against Communism and imperialists, the assembly demanded:

An immediate end to military operations against Katanga and a pledge by the Congo Government that it will renounce the use of force to settle internal problems;

Portfolios for Katangans in the Central Government consistent with the political and economic importance of the province.

Personality Profile—

Counseling, Personal Interest Are Important—Miss Barnes

By NORM ROLLINS
Staff Writer

"A student who is helped in weighing his interests and desires in line with his ability, will go through college with vision and purpose." This is the philosophy of Miss Helen Barnes, co-ordinator of the Business and Industrial Placement Office.

Miss Barnes, who started "from scratch" the Placement Office in 1949, follows closely a placement philosophy which includes counseling and a personal interest in the students who use the services of the Placement Office.

"I am vitally interested in creating personal relationships with students who use our facilities. I think that this is an important function, and that more should be known about a student than his academic record."

Miss Barnes feels that counseling is one of the most important functions in placement, and that "counseling should do everything possible to encourage the undergraduate to give serious thought to self-analysis and to selection of his future work."

To insure this relationship, Miss Barnes feels that too much emphasis cannot be placed in selecting "warm, generous personalities to direct and staff the Placement Office."

"I need capable assistants, and they are just as important as the director. In this same vein, business and industrial representatives must feel that personal attention and selection has been made for their particular needs and that they get results from more than bulletin board postings," she said.

Miss Barnes said that although her office provides excellent facilities, they are extremely cramped in working space. She estimated that five office personnel must work in an area 9 by 15 feet.

"This is not the worst of it," Miss Barnes said, "for during the interviewing season 100 to 150 students a day must study company literature and contact the assistant director in a space about 7½ by 9½ feet."

Miss Barnes also pointed out that the counselor must work in a room with a fan as the only means of ventilation.

"So many seniors come to me with no idea of what profession they want to follow. If I could only have reached these students in their sophomore or junior years, I could have showed them the facilities and opportunities we have."

Miss Barnes said that this is one of her greatest problems — reaching the student and telling him of the available facilities.

"When we counsel the senior who is beginning to interview for employment, we must work hard at this stage to make up for what he hadn't done before."

After several years in the Educational Placement Office, Miss Barnes worked for the Red Cross during World War II. She then returned to SUI to organize the Business and Industrial Placement Office.

"Credit must be given to Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, for the successful building of the Placement Office," Miss Barnes said. "Dean Stuit, who was then dean of personnel services, had much interest in developing a placement service for all students. I owe him a lot for his invaluable guidance and help."

Constantly building and keeping up relationships with employers, Miss Barnes makes new contacts with business and industry to determine the employment situation.

"I like to find out what industry is doing, and many times a company representative comes to the campus to interview as a result of my visit. This also gives me an opportunity to check on old grads and see how they are doing."

Invasion Charge By Cuba Rejected By U.N. Committee

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — The U.N. Political Committee sharply rebuffed Cuba Thursday on its charge that the United States is planning an invasion aimed at overthrowing Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Government.

By an overwhelming vote the 104-nation committee rejected a key provision in a Czechoslovak-Romanian resolution which would have in effect upheld the Cuban charge in the face of repeated U.S. denials.

The committee voted 50 against and only 11 in favor of the paragraph which would have had the General Assembly appeal to the United States to halt alleged interference in Cuban internal affairs. There were 39 abstentions, mostly Asian-African countries.

Not a single Latin American country outside Cuba voted in favor of that paragraph.

Says Soviets Are Running Great Risks

U.S. Takes Alerting Measures To Insure Allied Aircraft Safety

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet MIG jets buzzed Allied planes flying the Berlin air corridors for the second straight day Thursday, and the Western Big Three warned the Soviet Union it is "running grave risks" with such harassments.

U.S. authorities in Washington said alerting measures have been taken for the safety of Western channels linking Communist-surrounded West Berlin with West Germany.

Fighter planes were reported ready to fly into the corridors at a moment's notice if an Allied plane should run into trouble.

The United States, Britain and France — in protest notes delivered in Moscow — said they hold the Soviet Union "responsible for the consequences of any incidents which might occur."

During the day Soviet jets roved for four hours in the Berlin — Frankfurt corridor, performing what Allied sources called harassing acrobatics around several Western military planes.

"Their maneuvers could be called reckless and dangerous," an informant said in a sum-up of Allied views.

A Western spokesman in Berlin, noting Soviet pressure for exclusive use of parts of the corridors, asserted Western planes will continue using the lanes as a matter of absolute right.

Diplomatic circles in London expressed belief Soviet interference in the airlines was aimed at further unsettling West Berliners and testing Western reaction. The reaction came swiftly in the Allied protest notes, which referred specifically to three instances Wednesday in which Soviet jets "seriously threatened by close approach" Allied transports using either the Hanover-Berlin or the Hamburg-Berlin corridor.

The Western powers declared: "An effort by one of the four powers Russia to allocate to itself the exclusive use of flight levels for any period of time is entirely unacceptable. Such a practice would amount to an arbitrary limitation on the free use of air corridors by the aircraft of the three Western powers as is guaranteed by quadripartite 4-power agreements . . ."

Informants said the latest antics of the Red planes involved several of five Allied military planes using the Berlin-Frankfurt corridor. They said the MIGs came dangerously close to the aircraft.

But in commenting on the informants' observations a spokesman for the U.S. Air Force's European headquarters in Wiesbaden officially insisted, "There was no interference with our aircraft."

Despite the Communist plane's maneuvering, Western air traffic — civilian and military — droned in and out of Berlin as usual.

Holding the right to use the corridors on equal terms with the Western powers, they opened a campaign nine days ago to seal off certain levels for certain periods for use of Soviet planes alone.

Western authorities, in rejecting their demands, have made a point of routing Western planes at altitudes the Soviets wanted to monopolize.

Bad Weather Postpones Glenn's Ride

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., disappointed that bad weather over the Atlantic had forced postponement of his orbital space flight until next week.

The Federal Space Agency said a takeoff Saturday appeared to be "very much of a lost cause."

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) did not rule out a Sunday launching if weather permitted. But NASA weather forecasters refused to attempt a prediction that far in advance. They said the weather in the western Atlantic was too tricky this time of year.

For the time being, at least, space officials ruled out any cancellation of the flight for several days or weeks because of weather. They said Glenn's Atlas rocket and space capsule are in excellent condition and it would not be appropriate to shut down the man-in-orbit program on "a calendar basis."

"We will continue to try to launch," said a spokesman "We're ready now."

Correcting the Flaws In Women's Hours

Women's hours — and more specifically the treatment of violations — have been an area of discontent at SUI for quite some time.

Agitation that began during the last school year for a revision of the hours system resulted in a change last summer. Because this change extended the hours that underclasswomen could remain outside their housing units, it was hailed as a "liberalization" of the hours system.

This new program went into effect at the beginning of this year's fall semester. As welcome as the change was, it was not without flaws.

Under this system, unit judiciary boards ruled upon violations by residents of their respective units. Most of the complaints stemmed from this provision. The main complaint seemed to be the wide variation in punishments meted out by the different unit boards. While one coed might receive only a slight punishment, another in a different unit might receive a punishment two or three times as severe for the same type of infraction.

The other drawback was that many of the unit boards were swamped with more cases than they could handle. For example, one night last week a Burge unit board had more than 30 cases to hear. The situation had reached the point where many unit boards faced carrying out the hearings into the late hours of the evening. The other alternative was to meet several evenings a week.

As a result, Associated Women Students (AWS) undertook a study with correction of these discrepancies in mind. Revisions in the system were handed down by the AWS General Council this week. Except for some minor points, the changes appear to be an excellent solution.

The outstanding feature of the revision is that minimum and maximum penalty periods have been established. The minimum period for early sign-ins (signing in one hour earlier than normal hours) is now two weeks. The maximum is four weeks.

In effect, this will standardize the penalty periods that unit judiciary boards may prescribe. The advantage to coed violators is that they need not fear excessive punishment in their case, while others would be receiving light penalties for similar offenses.

In an effort to lessen the burden upon the unit boards, offenders with late-minute violations of less than five minutes will not be required to appear before the board. Instead, they will be given an automatic penalty of two weeks of early sign-ins. If they wish, they may appeal their automatic penalty and appear before their unit board.

This last provision is the one that may be unfair if it is not carefully administered. Notice of the automatic penalty will be given on the morning after the violation. The violator, if she wishes to appeal, must then contact her unit judiciary chairman prior to the board's regular Monday night meeting.

The flaw is that should a coed receive an "automatic" on Monday night for a Sunday night violation, she may have insufficient time to prepare her case. A specific instance of this might occur if a coed is delayed by bad weather in returning home. It would be necessary for her to get a statement from her parents that she had left home early enough (allowing for existing weather conditions). It might be difficult for her to obtain such a statement in one day.

Notice of an "automatic" will probably be placed in the individual's mail box, according to Tobye Baron, AWS chairman, although individual units decide upon their own method. If the mail box method is used, a coed may not pick up her notice until late Monday afternoon because of classes or other commitments. Again, if it were for a Sunday night violation, she would not have sufficient time to prepare an appeal.

Therefore, it would seem more appropriate if Sunday night — and perhaps Saturday night — violators were given the opportunity to wait until the next week's board meeting to appeal their "automatic."

If these minor flaws are corrected, and if careful consideration is given to each case that appears before judiciary boards, this new system should be the best that has been in effect at SUI in recent years.

Republicans happily contend that George Romney, American Motors president turned gubernatorial candidate in Michigan, can become their party's next Wendell Willkie on the national scale.

A quick check of the 1940 election results will show why that claim doesn't upset the Democrats too much.

Argentine Finds Communist Infiltration Comes from Top

By JOHN CROSBY

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — I had dinner with a Communist student the other night. Lean, hard, bright, serious to the point of solemnity, he explained very quickly that he's not a Communist but a Marxist-Leninist. Communism is illegal here, as it is in the United States. I asked him what was the difference between a Marxist-Leninist and a Communist and he explained that the Communists were international in their thinking, where the Marxist-Leninists were national.

This is very much the party line in Argentina, which is intensely nationalistic on all levels. The Communists have run into intense opposition in promoting a revolution which seems to be directed by Moscow. Consequently they are soft-pedaling the Moscow line and emphasizing the strictly native origins. Nevertheless, Jose (which is not his name) is strictly a Communist who talks pure party. If there is ever a Communist in Latin America, Jose is the type who will be its backbone.

We are inclined to think that if revolution comes, it will be lower class and peasant misery that will provide the spark and the fuel. But this was not true in Cuba and it won't be true in the rest of Latin America, either.

Castro's beard obscures the fact that he's a college boy, a graduate of the University of Havana. Che Guevara, his second-in-command and the ideological brain of the Cuban revolution, is a graduate of the University of Buenos Aires right here, where he attended the medical school.

The medical school here is saturated with Communists. An American newspaperman asked one of them why the Communists were so interested in becoming doctors and he said, "Because it gets us in touch with the people."

Jose, who is 19, will enter the University of Buenos Aires next year. He'll study sociology, another branch of learning that will put him in touch with the people. If the Vice President of the United States gets eggs or stones thrown at him in the next four years in Buenos Aires, Jose will undoubtedly be in the crowd throwing.

THEY ARE A different breed from our college student — altogether humorless, intense, and far more politically aware. I asked Jose when he got interested in politics and he said, "When I was 15. When you begin to think, you begin to see" — an excellent example of his prose style, which has an irritating dogmatism about it. I couldn't resist asking him if he intended to have any fun in college — football, tennis, girls? Football is all right because both the rich and the poor can play it. Tennis is only for the rich. He likes girls, as what Argentine doesn't, but of course their ideological seduction is as important as the other kind. I asked him if he supported Castro and he said, "Unreservedly. This is what we are working for."

In Argentina Jose is the enemy. Hundreds of Jose's fanning out from Latin American universities as doctors, as lawyers, as sociologists, are the greatest source of Communist infection in Latin America, far more dangerous than any peasant leaders or labor leaders. The most effective Communist leaders in Latin America are intellectuals, and the Latin American university is their rallying point, their headquarters.

Today various student organizations march on Washington to protest nuclear testing, foreign policy, and a number of other items they consider detrimental to peace. This group, who asks you to wear a white armband today and tomorrow in support of their cause, loftily assert "Peace is Our Defense." My only thought is: Are white armbands, etc. going to stop the bomb from hitting if they're dropped?

COMMENTS ON THE WORLD SCENE: A former Army private has revealed that he helped Ike with his famous, spare-time paintings. Comment: I wouldn't admit it, they weren't that good. The private also said he chose an average of seven western novels a week for the General's consumption. I always kinda thought Ike had Custer's ability for getting into a jam (or on the "brink"). The U.S. had better start training more astronauts. At the rate they're going, the ones they have now will be past retirement age before we get the thing off the ground.

Jack Paar, whose number one enemy is the American press, says in Esquire "Specific lies and distortions in the press outnumber the lines of advertising that fill their newspapers." Wonder if that's why he quit his late show. Can't stand that distortion. Prediction for his future: JFK will hire him as a "good will ambassador" (note recent Berlin escapade) and send him to the South Pole. He should have it so good.

With the recent "expose" of the Hawkins entrance test fiasco, there comes to mind another question: Do all of our Government scholarship supported physicists, etc. have to take Physical Education?

REFLECTIONS: Too bad our basketball won-lost average isn't as high as the team's average grade-point. I protest six-ounce soft drinks in near campus eating places. Why doesn't the state sell license plates in the summer when it's warm? And if it keeps raining, there really won't be a California. It will be part of the Pacific.

A well-known campus "botcher-up of good causes" seems ready to lend his "kiss of death" touch to still another cause. This "Bungler" apparently is going to "use" a Negro to prove (to himself, perhaps) that it can't be done, by running him for Student Body President. IT CAN BE DONE, but let's not run anyone only because of his color.

BACK DURING the blizzards, this column complained about the city maintenance (?) crew's failure to clean the snow off the streets. Now that Dame Nature has done their job for them, I've decided the snow packs were safer than the immense and quite numerous chuckholes decorating our fair city's carpaths.

A Colorado legislator accuses students of Boulder of having low standards of morality. Many people in the older generation believe our generation is (as one of "ours" puts it) "sliding down the greased rail to degradation and immorality." Which generation makes the "grease" available?

The recent "gift" of the keg to a sorority which couldn't drink it without breaking University regulations reminds me of a famous line from the "Ancient Mariner": "Beer, beer, everywhere; And not a drop to drink." And Mississippi now has a Negro bus driver. The only trouble so far is that he has to use a 35-foot steering wheel.

BEST MOVIE OF THE WEEK: "Question 7." WORST MOVIE: "The Marriage-Go-Round." (They are all pretty good for a change.) BEST RECORD: "Son of Word Jazz," by Ken Nordine.

Internationalism And Academicism

By JAMES J. MORRISSEAU Herald Tribune News Service

"One of the most conspicuous educational developments since World War II has been the growth in our universities of area-study programs which have sought to dispel our ignorance of non-Western societies." (Annual report of Dr. Robert F. Goheen, president of Princeton University, Jan. 3, 1962.)

"For several decades — perhaps longer — there has been slowly growing in Harvard a sense that her mission is worldwide." (Annual report of Nathan M. Pusey, president of Harvard University, Jan. 19, 1962.)

"Columbia's primary mission as an educational institution is to contribute to the world's sum of knowledge through research conducted abroad and through contacts with foreign individuals." (Report of the Coordinating Committee on International Affairs, Columbia University, Feb. 3, 1962.)

That three of the nation's greatest universities chose within a month to underline their international orientation in major reports probably is coincidence.

But it is a coincidence that is easily understood. A quiet revolution has just about remade the self-image of the American academic community. And now, perhaps with some prodding by international events the educators feel impelled to show their new face to the nation and the rest of the world.

NOT TOO MANY years ago, American colleges and universities regarded themselves as serving their community and nation and sharing in an intellectual world pretty much bounded by the confines of Western civilization, at least so far as the humanities and social sciences were concerned.

Today, they find themselves serving the world and living in a world-wide intellectual community. "The way all of us are now looking beyond the confines of the Western world," said President Pusey, "has effected an enormous broadening of the subject matter of the curricula and of the general scholarly activity of this academic community."

THUS, THE COLLEGES and universities last year found themselves with 53,000 foreign students from 143 countries and political areas. And 3,636 foreign scholars were serving on 304 American faculties.

At the same time, more than 15,000 American students and faculty members went abroad to study, teach, do research or assist foreign institutions.

Sixty-eight American universities were carrying out nearly 100 contracts under the International Co-operation Administration in 33 countries, most aimed at bolstering the educational systems of newly-independent countries. Everywhere, even in the professional and technical schools, the international outlook found greater expression in the regular curriculum. And the specialized "area study" programs cited by Goheen proliferated.

AT LEAST ONE COLLEGE announced a tentative plan under which all of its students would have to spend at least one semester overseas in order to graduate.

American universities found themselves in a new role as "parent institutions" for the new universities springing up in sub-Saharan Africa and elsewhere in underdeveloped parts of the world.

Northwestern University, for example, took the University of Khartoum, in the Sudan, under its wing. Michigan State University lent its expertise to the development of the University of Nigeria. And Yale's Law School has been instrumental in the creation of the new Faculty of Law in the equally new University of East Africa, which is to serve Kenya, Tanganyika and Uganda.

And American scholars were to be found throughout the world, tapping new resources as they pushed their research in every field of knowledge. A few even cracked the "little Iron Curtain" around the archives of the Lenin Library in Moscow.

IN PART, the new academic internationalism probably can be taken as the inevitable result of a world that has grown smaller as modern communications and transportation brought far-flung peoples and places within easy reach of each other.

But the more important factor probably is an outgrowth of a purpose the universities have espoused all along — that of serving the nation's interests.

In describing Harvard's new sense of world-wide mission, President Pusey wrote:

"This is not to question Harvard's essential rootage in this nation; it is rather simply to recognize that the present activities, interests and responsibilities of our country, and so also of her educational institutions, reach around the world."

THERE IS, said the Columbia report, "a determined, though somewhat undefined, desire to associate the university with the major goals of United States foreign policy."

There have been indications, particularly in a report a year ago by the Committee on the University and World Affairs, that the revolution still is not complete and that the universities need to do much more in the international arena and do it with a better sense of direction.

The reports from Harvard, Princeton and Columbia give evidence that the academic community is aware of these shortcomings and moving to overcome them. The American campus, it is clear, will become even more international.

STAY WITH THIS IDEA. G.N. "Some of my friends tell me my sport clothes are too conservative. Being short, I wear mostly solid or neat patterned sport-coats and avoid strong color contrast in slacks, as I'm afraid that would make me look even shorter. Am I right?"

Strong contrasts cut height. Matching slacks to the dominant shade of a patterned jacket or using slacks a tone darker or lighter with a solid coat is best. With the right accessories, this is dressing smartly — not conservatively.

TO J.L. — It's easy to get confused by the terms wool and worsted. Both are wool. In worsteds, the fibers are "carded and combed" so after weaving the cloth is smooth and firm. This process is omitted in wool fabrics. The result's a softer texture. More confused?

M.L. writes, "I've often wondered why a coat or sweater without a collar is called a cardigan. It's a rather odd expression and my curiosity prompts me to ask."

Remember the charge of the light brigade—led by the Earl of Cardigan? He created this style. We're not sure whether it was a result of a flair for style or an aversion to slipping sweaters over his head. At any rate, we have him to thank for this style.

CLOTHES-ING NOTES—You won't need Petry Mason to solve the "case of the missing links" if you'll make it a point to keep them and other elusive items in a box in your dresser drawer.

GRIME DOESN'T PAY—It weakens the fibers of your clothes. Knock it out by periodic brushings and cleanings.

Ready for Sooners

Grapplers To Host Sooners Saturday in Home Finale

By GEORGE KAMPLING
Staff Writer

Coach Dave McCuskey sends his 1962 Iowa wrestling team before a home crowd for the last time Saturday against Oklahoma University, always one of the wrestling powerhouses of the country.

The Hawks go into the non-conference affair with a good 4-1 record, all in Big Ten Conference duals. The Sooners have a 5-3 dual mark for the year.

"McCuskey's Maulers" cannot take the mediocre record for granted, as two of the defeats came at the hands of the Oklahoma State Cowboys, National Collegiate champs 22 of the past 30 years. The Cowboys whipped the Sooners, 25-7, in late January, and again last week, 24-11.

The only other loss on the Sooners' record is a 17-8 defeat at the hands of Lehigh, usually an outstanding power in the East. On the same trip East, Oklahoma defeated Rutgers, 19-9, and took a 16-11 decision from Maryland.

Other Sooners wins have been at the expense of Colorado Mines (20-6), Colorado State University (20-13) and Colorado State College (18-6).

The Sooners are on a northern trip this weekend wrestling the Iowa State Cyclones at Ames tonight, then moving Monday to Carbondale, Ill., where they tangle with Southern Illinois.

The Iowa team will be trying to break a seven meet losing streak against Oklahoma. No Iowa team has ever beaten the Sooners since the series started in 1955. In those seven meets, Oklahoma has out-pointed Iowa 109-62. The Sooners won at Norman last year, 14-11.

McCuskey said he will go along with practically the same team that has beaten Wisconsin and previously unbeaten Michigan the past two weeks. This team includes Tom Huff, unbeaten in five dual matches, and Steve Combs, with a 3-0-1 mark. Huff wrestles in the 137-pound division, with Combs wrestling at 157.

Beaten in only one start in five matches is Hawkeye 130-pounder, Norman Parker. Francis McCann, 123, goes into the Sooner meet with a 2-1-2 record.

Other probable starters for the Hawks include Herm Reininga, Vern Kohl and Jay Roberts, all three looking for their first win of the campaign.

Sherwyn Thorson, NCAA heavyweight runnerup in 1960, will wrestle in that division against Oklahoma. With two grapplers out of action against Oklahoma State, and two more put to bed earlier this week with the flu, the Oklahoma lineup is not definitely established for Saturday's meet with the Hawkeyes. The Sooners' two leading scorers this year, Bill Carter, 137-pounder, and Skip Perillo, 157, missed the Cowboy meet last weekend.

Carter, Big Eight 137-pound champ and third in last year's NCAA meet, was out of action with a muscle injury. Perillo, unbeaten, but having three draws on his record (4-0-3), missed the meet because of a knee bruise. The condition of both is unknown.

Carter was a former National AAU champ while in the Navy. Perillo, an ex-Marine, was three-time National AAU runnerup at 160. Carter has a record of 6-0-1 this season.

Laid low by the flu bug this week were Mickey Martin (3-1), who was third in last year's NCAA 130-pound division as a sophomore, and Wayne Baughman, 177 pound runnerup in both the NCAA and Big Eight meets.

Holder of a 5-2 mark in the 147-pound division is Bud Belz, an ex-Marine champion and national AAU champion at 147 in 1958. It is possible that Port Robertson, Sooner coach while regular coach Tommy Evans is on military leave, will start four men who have not won a match yet this season.

Mack Riley, Sooner 123-pounder, has been unable to win a match in seven starts. Other possible starters include Tommy Edgar, 0-3 at 177. Edgar is student manager, but wrestles when needed. Stan

Harrison, 167, is also 3-0, with Von Henry, heavyweight, 0-2.

The Hawks close out their dual meet season next week with three matches in five days. Monday they face Minnesota at Minneapolis and travel to Indiana next weekend where they face Purdue Friday night. The final dual of the year Saturday night will be at Indiana University.

Davis Signs; Anxious To Play in New Park

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Outfielder Willie Davis, hampered by the lack of running room in the Coliseum his rookie season, Thursday eagerly signed his 1962 contract with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"I'm sure anxious to get into the new stadium in Chavez Ravine," he said. "That park is built for a man who can run a little."

Beatty Unsure About 4-Min. Mile Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Beatty, the only indoor sub-four-minute miler, makes his first start tonight since setting his record of 3:58.9 just six days ago. He goes in the New York A.C. meet at Madison Square Garden.

Is there another four-minute job in the making in the Baxter Mile?

"To get near four minutes," said Beatty before heading for a workout Thursday, "you need a pretty good pace. But I'm not so sure the pace will be fast this time.

"Anyhow, if I find the first quarter is too slow for my liking I'll step out myself." He indicated a time of about 4:04 was more expectable.

The 27-year-old, 5-6 Beatty set his record in the Los Angeles Times meet last Saturday and he had three of his Los Angeles Track Club mates — Dave Martin, Laszlo Tabori and Jim Grelle — setting a hot pace for him. It sliced a big chunk off Ron Delaney's indoor record of 4:01.4.

There won't be any help this time. Pete Close of the New York A.C., Cary Wiesiger of the Quantico Marines, Johnny Reilly of Georgetown, and Tom O'Hara of Loyola of Chicago, the other four starters, will be but strictly for themselves. None ever has beaten 4:05 on a board track.

If Beatty can't hit the four-minute mark again, there are some other events in which indoor records could be broken or tied.

One's the shotput which Gary Gubner, a 19-year-old New York University sophomore, is beginning to treat as though he owns it. He already holds the indoor record — two weeks old — of 63-10.4. Last week, he fouled on a 66-footer.

Dark Leads Ballplayers In Golf Meet

MIAMI (UPI) — Alvin Dark took on a familiar role Thursday by shooting a 74 to lead the first round of the National Baseball Players' golf tournament.

The San Francisco manager's old nemesis, Jim Hearn, former Philadelphia pitcher, came in right behind Dark with a 75 over the par-70 Miami Springs course.

Dark, a three time winner, and Hearn have battled each other for the title twice. In 1955 Dark beat Hearn who turned the tables in 1960.

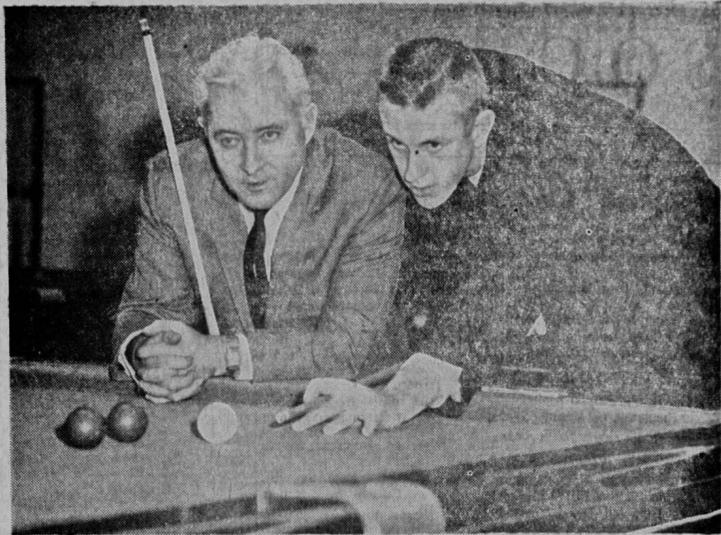

The day's best round, however, was a one-under-par 69 fired by Roy Cullenbine, former Detroit pitcher making a bid to capture his third straight title in the inactive major leaguers' division.

Third in the active majors bracket was Virgil Trucks, Pittsburgh coach, who shot a 76.

Harry (Peanuts) Lowrey of the Phillies, defending champion, collected four penalty strokes on the back nine with out-of-bounds shots and wound up with a 79 that tied him with New York slugger Mickey Mantle.

Most of the gallery of 3,000 followed Mantle who started his round in a burst of exploding fire crackers as he swung from the first tee. Cincinnati Reds infielder Gene Freese admitted staging the prank on the Yankees' famed hitter.

Mosconi Enjoys Hot Streak In Billiard Exhibition Here

By MOHAMMAD IDREES
Staff Writer

Willie Mosconi, the world's pocket billiard champion for 15 years, Thursday night gave an exhibition game scoring 150 points in 35 minutes with just one break at 113.

Mosconi played the exhibition game against Dave Bollman, A2, Sheldon, who was a runnerup in the University pocket billiards tournament. Bollman made a total of 11 points against Mosconi's 150 with a break at 2.

The game which began at 8 p.m. in the River Room of the Iowa Memorial Union got off to a good start when Mosconi made an uninterrupted 113 points to two by Bollman in the first 20 minutes. He rounded out the remaining 37 points in the next 15 minutes, which included the time taken by Bollman in making his concluding nine points.

Mosconi, who flew into Iowa City Thursday evening, was unable to play the exhibition scheduled for the afternoon. He is to play three more exhibitions today at 1, 4, and 8 p.m. in the Union's River Room.

Mosconi's visit to the Union was sponsored by the SUI Union Board, providing a rare opportunity for billiard fans to watch what possibly has been one of the few exhibition games of this type ever to be played in the Union.

As Mosconi warmed up with his cue, and began to score point after point, scattering gentle strokes on the golden cloth billiard table, spectators gradually began to take his shots for granted and the rousing applause he got whenever he made his way out of a tricky placement became even more enthusiastic.

Once the game was over, Mosconi gave a display of the fundamentals of pocket billiards and explained the mechanics of balancing the cue and making the proper bridge on the table to play an effective game.

This was followed by a display of some of the trickiest of trick shots in pocket billiards including what Mosconi described as a machine-gun shot.

One shot towards the end which held the boards to extravagant applause pocketed six balls in a single stroke.

Mosconi will be demonstrating most of the trick shots seen in "The Hustler" in the exhibition games today.

Forty-seven-year-old Mosconi, who started playing pocket billiards at the age of six when he played his first exhibition game, presents the view of a deeply reflective man as he balances the cue to make a shot.

In an interview with The Daily Iowan, Mosconi said he likes pocket billiards more than billiards. "I make more money at it. I excel in pocket billiards, but not in billiards."

Mosconi said 90 per cent of the play in the United States is pocket billiards not billiards. He added, "In some sections of the country a game called snooker, which is more popular in England and Canada, is also played."

Mosconi holds the record in pocket billiards with 526 points in a game which he played in Springfield, Ohio, in 1955. He has no intention of trying to beat his own record. "Let someone else try and beat it."

Mosconi entered his first pocket billiards championship at the age of 18 and played for competition for eight years before winning his first championship in 1941.

He quit competition three years ago. Not being in competition now, Mosconi thinks he feels "wonderful" because the pressure is off and his mental "attitude is better."

Asked if he had ever played against a Russian, Mosconi gave a quick rejoinder, "No, I'd like to though."

Mosconi likes to draw himself up and count some eight names in pocket billiards history against whom he has played. They include such men as Ralph Greenleaf, Andrew Potzi, Erwin Rudolph, Frank Taberski, Benie Allen, Jimmy Caras, Irving Crane, Andrew St. Jean, and George Chanier.

Dischinger Soars Closer To 4 Conference Records

CHICAGO — Purdue's Terry Dischinger has only four games remaining in his brilliant Big Ten basketball career. But these four games place him on the threshold of four scoring records and the opportunity to become the third man in Conference history to win the scoring title three straight years.

The four marks in reach of Dischinger are: season average, career average, three year scoring and most free throws in a single season.

SEASON AVERAGE — The record — 32.5 — set by Robin Freeman of Ohio State in 1956 (455 points in 14 games). After 10 games Dischinger has 317 points . . . he needs 139 points (34.75 ave.) in the final four games for the record.

CAREER AVERAGE — The record — 27.03 — set by Freeman in 1954-55-56 (919 points in 34 games). Currently Dischinger has 1106 points in 38 games, a 29.11 average. He needs only 30 points in the final games for the mark.

THREE YEAR SCORING — The record — 1207 points — by Don Schlundt of Indiana in 1953-54-55 (46 games; 26.24 ave.). Dischinger, with 1106 points in 38 games needs 102 points in the final four games (25.5 ave.) for the mark.

MOST FREE THROWS — the record — 157 — by Don Schlundt in 1955 (14 games; 11.2 per game ave.). Dischinger currently has 129 free throws . . . needs 29 more for the mark. He also needs 39 free throw attempts to break Schlundt's 1955 record of 193 free throw attempts . . . Dischinger now has 155.

Dischinger surged back into the scoring lead over the weekend with 47 points against Indiana and 38 against Iowa, giving him an average of 31.7 over second place Jimmy Rayl's 31.1.

If Dischinger maintains his lead he'll become the third man in Big Ten history to lead the league in scoring. John Schommer of Chicago was the first, doing so in 1907-08-09. The first in the modern era was Schlundt, 1953-54-55.

Jerry Lucas of Ohio State is well on his way to breaking his own season field goal average. With a record .933 (14 of 15) performance against Minnesota, Lucas extended his season mark to .715 (82 of 115). His record is .656 (143 of 218) set in 1960.

Don Nelson Chosen For European Trip

Don Nelson, high scoring Iowa basketball center, has been chosen by Parade Magazine and The Cedar Rapids Gazette to act as counselor for 70 newspaper carriers on a European trip in May.

The Young Columbus VI trip is sponsored by Parade, and the 70 newspapers around the country, including The Gazette, which carries the Sunday magazine supplement.

Nelson will be one of nine or ten college men who will accompany the carriers. A number of the supervisors are usually outstanding athletes, a qualification which is well met by Nelson's achievements. Earlier this season, the Hawkeye co-captain broke the Iowa career scoring record. He is now averaging about 23 points per game.

The former Rock Island star, who will be 22 May 15, is married and the father of a 13-month-old daughter, Julie Ann. He and his family live at 417 Hawkeye Apts.

Nelson accepted the position Wednesday, and told The Daily Iowan Thursday, "This is a tremendous opportunity for both me and the newspaper carriers. I'm going to try to get about a week ahead in school before I leave. Then I'll take my books with me.

"I know that I'll be behind when I get back but this is too great an opportunity to pass up."

Nelson will leave the Cedar Rapids airport May 2 and return May 14. The group will travel by TWA to Spain and Portugal where they will visit Madrid, Lisbon, the Portuguese Riviera and other historic and scenic spots. They also will view a bullfight, be entertained at the American embassy in Madrid and visit the Prado art museum.

Buena Vista's Ahrens Leads Iowa Conference

DUBUQUE (UPI) — Lanky Jim Ahrens, the Buena Vista basketball ace who has a chance to break the state's all-time scoring record, is the Iowa Conference's leading pointmaker, league statistics showed Thursday.

Ahrens is maintaining a 25.4 points per game average to lead runnerup Richard Yapp of Dubuque, who has 23.2 points a game.

Reds Sign Lynch for Estimated $23,000

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Outfielder Jerry Lynch, one of baseball's top pinchhitters last season, signed his 1962 contract with the Cincinnati Reds Thursday for an estimated $23,500.

Lynch, who had a .404 batting average as a pinchhitter and an overall mark of .315, was the 29th member of the National League champions to come to terms.

The husky outfielder had rejected two earlier contract offers by the Reds and remarked, "It's time pinchhitters receive the same recognition accorded the top relief pitchers."

Nelson Still 3rd in Big Ten Scoring

Iowa's Don Nelson is the Big Ten's third highest scorer, averaging 27.3 points in conference games to trail only Purdue's Terry Dischinger, and Indiana's Jimmy Rayl.

Nelson, 6-6 senior from Rock Island, Ill., has scored 218 points in eight conference games. Rayl has scored the same number of points, league statistics showed Thursday, but has done it in one less game.

Dischinger is averaging 31.7 points a game, while Rayl is hitting for 31.1 each outing.

No other Iowa player is included in the conference's top 30 scorers.

In the Hawkeyes' entire 18 games, Nelson is averaging 22.9 points a game. Iowa is 9-9 for the season and 3-5 in the conference.

The Hawkeyes travel to Indiana Saturday for an early afternoon game, and hosts Michigan State here Monday night.

Andy Hankins is the only other Iowa player who has a scoring average in double figures. The sophomore has averaged 11.1 points a game. Hankins has hit 38 per cent of his shots from the field.

Nelson, in all games, is hitting 55 per cent, while in conference play he has been successful on nearly 59 per cent of his shots.

The only better percentage in the conference belongs to Jerry Lucas of Ohio State who is clocking on 71 per cent, which would be a new conference record if it can be maintained through the Buckeyes' last games.

Still Not a Regular— John Blanchard—Baseball's Top Sub

NEW YORK (UPI) — The world champion Yankees (who else?) have baseball's best "spare wheel" in slugging, 28-year-old Johnny Blanchard.

He walloped a pair of homers and batted .400 as the hottest Yankee in the World Series against Cincinnati last fall. After it was over, the critics agreed the Yanks would have to find a regular spot for him in 1962.

But spring training already is underway at the advance bases and Yankee plans again call for big John to continue spare-wheeling as a combination catcher, outfielder and first baseman.

Probably only the talent-laden Yankees could afford to keep Blanchard in such a role but there's plenty of method in manager Ralph Houk's apparent madness.

"I regard him as a catcher," says Houk. "With all this travel and a 162-game schedule you need two good catchers these days. By having Blanchard share the work with Elston Howard we had them both in fine shape all season.

"They alternated in doubleheaders and if one caught a night game the other worked the next afternoon. That way neither one got tired. On other clubs, catchers who had to do most of the work were tired and fading by July."

As a result of split duty, Howard and Blanchard both had great seasons in '61. Howard hit .348 in 129 games, including nine at first base. Blanchard was .305 in 93 games, 15 in the outfield.

Both blasted 31 homers but Blanchard had a wide edge in the power department since he finished with nearly 200 fewer "at bats" than Elston. In one stretch Blanchard hit homers in four consecutive times at bat, twice as a pinch-hitter.

As a pinch-hitter, or any other time for that matter, John usually is on his own at the plate because he goes up there swinging and Houk feels he shouldn't be fettered by "take" signs.

As an outfielder, Blanchard's no gazzelle but "he did cover a lot more ground than I realized he could," Houk admits. He spelled Berra occasionally in left.

Chances are Blanchard might be a well-established regular somewhere in the majors if he hadn't signed originally with the Yankees.

Big John was signed as an outfielder but converted to catching as a possible future replacement for Berra. Then he spent six years in the minors plus two in service waiting for Berra to wear out, which Yogi refused to do.

Finally Blanchard came up to the Yanks to stay as a third string catcher in 1959. Only that kept him from quitting the game entirely, which he fully expected to do if the club hadn't made a place for him. Neither the Yankees nor Blanchard regret his decision to stick.

Fencing Team To Face 3 Opponents on Road

By Staff Writer

Iowa's fencing team will have its hands full as it tries to get back in the win column Saturday, taking on defending Big Ten champion Illinois and undefeated Wayne State and Detroit University at Detroit.

The Hawks, 1-3, split their opener with Indiana and Notre Dame and suffered a double loss to Michigan State and Wisconsin here last week.

Coach Achilles Nickles and his nine man traveling squad will leave this morning. Members of the team are Captain Bob Peterson, Steve Melgaard and Steve Bryan, epee division; Lance Hellman, John Anderson and Tom Evanoff, foil division; and Jared Tinklenberg, Theron Bailey and John Kirchner, sabre division.

Nickles said the team has shown improvement in practice and in last week's meet.

The next two meets will show how well the team does the rest of the season, he added.

The Illini have both strength and depth, with five of seven major lettermen returning.

Leading last year's team is senior Bruce Kriviskey, defending conference champion in epee. In sabre, Illinois has one of the finest college fencers in the country, senior Nicholas Szuha, who placed second in the conference and fourth in the NCAA meet last year.

Foil is Illinois' weakest weapon. Captain Stu Cohn holds down the No. 1 spot, but has no experienced swordsmen to back him up.

Nickles said Detroit has a strong, balanced team, while Wayne State lacks strength in the sabre division.

Calahan, the nation's leading junior college scorer with an average of 34 points a game, bettered the old tournament high by 12 points.

Secret Army Bombs Rock Paris Homes

PARIS (UPI) — Terrorists of the outlawed Secret Army Organization (OAS) Thursday set off seven plastic bombs in Paris, heavily damaging the homes of De Gaulle supporters.

The bomb attack was the worst in eight days although there were no casualties. It was launched in defiance of new French security precautions both at home and in Algeria. The Government steps are aimed at preventing an OAS uprising when the announcement of an Algerian cease-fire, expected within two weeks, is made.

Targets in Thursday's attack, the worst since last Friday when nine bombs exploded, were: the homes of three editors of Le Monde, a pro-Gaullist newspaper; a Communist political writer; a Catholic trade union official, and a professor. A seventh bomb exploded near the fashion house of Dior.

French officials said the secret talks with the Algerian rebel leadership are "making good progress" and agreement may be reached within 10 days or two weeks.

There has been no official information on the talks. Even their site, believed somewhere near the French-Swiss border, is secret. But the newspaper Paris-Presse reported that Thursday's session would be the final one, with both sides then reporting to their Governments before arranging a final public meeting to announce agreement.

MRS. ROOSEVELT'S FILM
PARIS (UPI) — Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said Thursday she does not think France will be ripped by civil war over Algeria.

"I'm confident as far as I can see there won't be an actual civil war," she said. "And I think President Charles de Gaulle can solve the Algerian question, if anyone can."

She commented on the French crisis after she filmed a television show here on which she induced four prominent Frenchmen to do the commenting on the future of France for her regular U.S. TV series, "The Prospects of Mankind."

"This program will be a milestone in greater understanding," said Mrs. Roosevelt. "We Americans have a traditional love for France but great misunderstanding the past few years. This program should clear up some points that seem very confusing at home, about Algeria and French nuclear testing."

SUI Will Offer Summer Course In Textiles Here

Visits to textile centers in six Eastern states will be featured in a new course to be offered by the SUI Home Economics Department this summer.

Designed particularly for teachers at the college and university levels, the course also will include visits to a number of Government departments in Washington, D.C.

In the textile centers, the graduate students will observe production of fibers and yarns; weaving, printing and finishing of textiles for clothing and home decoration; manufacture of clothing, and research and testing procedures.

In Government offices, the group will study the functions of Government agencies as they relate to the textile and clothing industries.

The group of 30 or fewer will travel by chartered bus while in the East. The four-week course will begin June 14.

Prof. Adeline M. Hoffman of the SUI Home Economics Department will conduct the field course.

Yocum Sues To Collect For '58 Fire

Attorneys for Max Yocum, 520 Second Ave., Iowa City Councilman, filed a petition in Johnson County District Court Wednesday against the Firemen's Insurance Company of Newark, N. J., for recovery of damages incurred when a two-story house owned by Yocum burned Dec. 17, 1958.

The petition, filed by Bartley, Bartley & Diehl, 528 S. Clinton St., attorneys for Yocum, stated that shortly after the fire, negotiations were entered into with representatives of the company. No agreement was reached during these negotiations.

According to conditions of the policy, Yocum selected Richard Oliphant, 1147 Maple St., now of Tucson, Ariz., as an appraiser, to meet with an appraiser to be selected by the insurance company and determine what settlement should be made.

The company failed to select an appraiser, according to the petition, making it "impossible to determine the amount of actual cash value and loss and the amount to be paid to the Plaintiff" (Yocum).

Yocum has asked for judgment in the sum of $6,000, the amount of the policy, as well as five per cent interest from the date of the fire, attorney fees, costs of the action, and further relief as the court deems proper.

If required, the petition continues, the plaintiff asks the court to name an appraiser for the insurance company to help determine the damages owed the plaintiff under the terms of the policy.

Yocum bought the house from the federal Government in connection with the Coralville Dam Project. The house, located about two miles northwest of North Liberty, was valued at $10,000.

Empress of Ethiopia Is Buried Amid Tears

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — Emperor Haile Selassie, tears streaming down his face, Thursday walked alongside the chariot carrying the body of his wife, Empress Menen, from her palace to Trinity Cathedral.

The empress, Selassie's wife for 50 years, died Wednesday night at the age of 71.

Ethiopian women tore their garments in grief and shrilled the ancient song of death as the empress' coffin was taken to the cathedral.

PEARL INCREASE

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan plans to produce 193 million cultured pearls in the year starting April 1. The Government said the figure represents an increase of 42 million over the preceding 12-month period.

Union Board will sponsor and direct the presentation program. Prof. Earl Harper, director of the School of Fine Arts, will speak.

Norman Nichols, A4, Osage, president of the Union Board, will preside.

Artists who created works for the collection and titles of their works include: Keith Achepohl, instructor in art, "Libera Me," color intaglio; Byron Burford, associate professor of art, "Battle ground," polymer tempera painting; Stuart Edie, professor of art, "The Pitchers," oil painting on canvas; Mauricio Lasansky, professor of art, "Fire Bird," intaglio, and Eugene Ludins, associate professor of art, "Landscape," oil painting on canvas.

Others represented in the collection are Marvin Lowe, Berea College Art Department faculty, Berea, Ky., "Night," color intaglio; Virginia Myers, former staff member now studying in Paris under a Fulbright grant, "To Iowa and Mollybrooks," engraving; Jack Ormans, Madrid, Spain, "Portrait of Lasansky," engraving; and Franklin Sampson, University of Colorado faculty, Boulder, "The Blind Lead the Blind," color intaglio.

India Election Begins Today; Menon Shaky

NEWY DELHI (UPI) — India's national elections, largest in the free world, begin today and will continue for 10 days. Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru's Congress party is the top-heavy favorite.

Nehru appears certain to continue his control of the national parliament and the 14 state legislatures being chosen, as he has in every election since independence. His party holds 371 of the 490 seats in the present parliament, chosen five years ago.

But Nehru's top foreign policy aide, Defense Minister V. K. Krishna Menon, faces a tough fight for his seat. Opponents charge that Krishna Menon represents Communist China, not India, and that the electoral issue is Ghandism vs. Marxism.

Menon has Nehru's and other Congress support in the race, but all major opposition parties except the Communists are backing his opponent, Acharya J. B. Kripalni, who is running as an independent.

The Congress party is contesting 485 of the 494 seats at stake in the new parliament, but the opposition parties have far fewer candidates in the field. The Communists, now the largest opposition party with 27 seats, will enter only 137 candidates. The Jana Sangh Orthodox Hindu party will contest 198 seats; the Conservative Swatantra 172; and the Praja Socialists 166.

'FORCED' DRAFT

SAIGON, South Vietnam (UPI) — South Viet Nam reported Thursday night its forces arrested 47 youths Tuesday who had been "drafted" by the Communist Viet Cong and were on their way for military training. A Government report said the youths were in two boats stopped by a Government patrol on a tributary of the Mekong River.

Pharmacy Dance Saturday Will Feature 60 Prizes

Students in the SUI College of Pharmacy will hold their 26th annual Prize Prom Saturday from 8 to 12 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Union.

"Hearts in Harmony" is the dance's theme. Don Benda and his orchestra, a campus group, will provide the music.

The dance will be attended by undergraduates, graduates, faculty and alumni of the College of Pharmacy and representatives of various pharmaceutical supply houses throughout the state.

The evening's highlight will be the distribution of about 60 door prizes at intermission. They include a hair dryer, two cameras, a travel alarm clock, a bathroom scale, a medical dormitory, a clock radio, a golden hour clock, comb and brush sets, a cigarette lighter and case, a pen and pencil set, cosmetics sets, cologne sets and a 25-foot escape ladder.

In addition, each couple in attendance will receive a package containing samples of products from drug stores. All gifts were donated by local firms and pharmaceutical supply houses in Iowa.

Tickets are $2.50 and may be purchased from the class presidents or in Room 210 CPB from Wendle Kerr, associate professor of pharmacy. Dr. Kerr is the faculty adviser for the dance.

Pianist Ganz To Lecture Here Today

Rudolf Ganz, a prominent figure in the musical world for the past 50 years, will conduct classes and lectures today and Saturday at SUI. His master classes in piano will be in the North Rehearsal Hall at 9:30 a.m. today and 10 a.m. Saturday. He will present a lecture-performance entitled "The Delightful New Revolution in Music" at 8 tonight in the North Rehearsal Hall.

Both the master classes and this evening's programs will be open to the public.

Ganz has gained world renown by giving first performances of important new works of some of the great composers of our time including Debussy and Ravel, Bartok and Dohany. He made his debut at the age of 12 in Zurich, Switzerland, and later made extended concert tours in Europe. He is now president emeritus of Chicago Musical College (part of Roosevelt University). His works include a "First Symphony" performed by the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra in 1900; "Animal Crackers," a suite of 20 pieces for orchestra; "Konzertstück" for piano and orchestra, and some 200 songs.

Killer of U.S. Diplomat Sought in Congo Hunt

LEOPOLDVILLE (UPI) — U.S. assistant air attaché Lt. Col. Hulen Dorris Stogner, 39, was shot and killed in his bedroom Wednesday night in the presence of his blonde American secretary.

U.S. authorities said Thursday Stogner was killed by a rifle shot fired through the window of the bedroom at about 9:20 p.m. He was lying on his bed and was shot through the back of the neck. The secretary, Miss Elizabeth Tryng, 22, of Washington, D.C., was sitting in a chair in the room when the Valentine's Day slaying took place.

Stogner's wife and six children live in El Paso, Tex. His Leopoldville home was in a residential quarter that has been partially deserted and the frequent target of looting.

U. S. charge d'affaires G. MacMurtrie Godley said Stogner was hit by a bullet, apparently a 9 mm, that pierced his neck from back to front.

Miss Tryng picked up Stogner's revolver after the shooting and called the embassy. Stogner, bleeding heavily, was taken to a U.N. hospital, where he died about an hour later.

Miss Tryng told Nigerian U.N. police that she saw a Congolese near the scene of the slaying. "I saw a man walking," she said. "He looked like the chauffeur of the air attaché Col. Dan Matlick."

The chauffeur was picked up for questioning, but Nigerian police superintendent R. J. Carter said "we do not believe he has anything to do with the murder."

Congolese Premier Cyrille Adoula ordered 4,000 troops and police to search for the killer.

Finns Re-elect President By 2/3 on First Ballot

HELSINKI (UPI) — President Urho Kekkonen, pledged to maintain Finland's neutrality in the East-West cold war, formally was re-elected to a second six-year term Thursday by a two-thirds majority of the 300-member electoral college.

Kekkonen, who won on the first ballot, polled 199 votes to 62 for Communist candidate Paavo Lipiäinen, 37 for Social Democrat Rafael Paasio, and 2 for leftist Social Democratic Emil Skog.

Except for special wartime elections, it was only the second time that a Finnish president had been chosen on the first ballot.

The January elections were called after the Soviet Union caused a crisis in Finland when it sent a note to the Government last Oct. 31 asking for joint defense consultations under terms of the 1948 Soviet-Finnish Treaty of mutual aid. The request was made, according to the Russians, because of fears of a NATO and West German arms build-up in the Baltic area.

NEW POWERS
AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — Parliament has given the Government broad new powers to revamp and streamline executive and administrative agencies.

Good Listening—Today on WSUI

By LARRY BARRETT

Written for The Daily Iowan

WHILE THEY LAST, you'd better hear our Evenings-at-the-Opera, because there will be few chances to hear opera during the next two months. The reasons why are not terribly important (basketball broadcasts, mostly); the important thing is to listen while you can. Tonight, for example, two of the staple items in anyone's repertory will be offered at 7 p.m.: "I Pagliacci" by Leoncavallo and "Cavalleria Rusticana" by Mascagni (that's quite a little opera right there). Next week you may hear Debussy's "Pelleas and Melisande," but then comes the drought.

THREE COLLEGE COURSES are now being broadcast every week by WSUI; two of them meet again today. There is still time to acquire the materials for them and to join — by means of radio — the students assembled for Chaucer

(8:30 a.m., Monday, Wednesday, and Friday); American Intellectual History (2 p.m., Monday, Wednesday, and Friday); and Man and Meaning in Contemporary Jewish Literature (Tuesday and Thursday at 11 a.m.).

THE MAIL HAS BEEN RUNNING rather heavy in the past few days — what with the "Pause for Peace" and all. And frankly, we would like to have more correspondence of whatever nature, but we rarely come right out and say so. If you've been thinking of writing anyway, why don't you? Whatever the sentiments, we would appreciate knowing what you think of what you're hearing.

Daylight Time, VNA Contract Before Council

Council member Mrs. Thelma Lewis proposed Thursday at the City Council meeting that Iowa Citizens observe daylight saving time this year by getting up an hour earlier than usual without any official clock change.

Mrs. Lewis proposed that businesses and institutions set summer hours beginning an hour earlier than usual and everyone in town agree to it by mutual consent without an ordinance to advance the clocks.

Official action on the matter was delayed pending discussion with officials in surrounding communities.

In the main business of the special meeting, the council unanimously passed a motion to modify the existing contract between the city and the Iowa City Visiting Nurses Association (VNA).

Under terms of the motion the VNA will occupy space in the new City Center Administration Building, but for the first time will pay rent.

For the past 10 years the VNA was housed in the old City Hall without paying. Now that all city operations have moved into the new City Center, the question as to whether the VNA's status as a public health agency entitles it to the space in a city-owned building.

The motion, presented by Mrs. Thelma Lewis, said the modified contract provides the association with $5,000 for its services as a public health agency and floor space. It defines "certain functions which will be set out under consultation with the city health office, the VNA and the city manager."

Mayor Dorr Hudson said that among the "certain functions" will be the price the association is to pay for rent and definition of the VNA's duties. The modified contract will then be sent back to the council for approval.

W. V. (Pat) Pearson, president of the VNA, said that besides the $5,000 given the VNA under contract, the association in 1961 received $12,500 from the Community Givers which helped meet the $20,120 yearly expenditure.

City Atty. William Supple said, "There is no question that the city has the right to employ public health nurses."

Red Satellites Support Soviet Bid for Summit

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union added satellite support and another strong press attack Thursday to its drive for a summit disarmament conference next month.

The Communist party newspaper Pravda printed a front-page announcement that Czechoslovakia had accepted Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's proposal to meet at the top level when the 18-nation disarmament conference opens in Geneva March 14.

Informed sources said Poland, Romania and Bulgaria, the other Communist members of the conference, could be expected to voice their summit demands presently.

Pravda continued its propaganda campaign obviously intended to put President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan in an unfavorable light if they persist in their rejection of Khrushchev's bid.

Khrushchev is believed sounding out the eight neutral conference members and readying the East European satellite leaders before announcing whether he will appear in Geneva.

In London, Iron Curtain diplomats said Khrushchev's decision may hinge to a large extent on whether Indian Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru agrees to the summit call. Nehru has not indicated his position.

The newspaper Al Ahram in Cairo said Abdel Nasser has informed Khrushchev he will go to the summit disarmament conference if the leaders of the other countries attend.

The motion, presented by Mrs. Thelma Lewis, said the modified contract provides the association with $5,000 for its services as a public health agency and floor space. It defines "certain functions which will be set out under consultation with the city health office, the VNA and the city manager."

Mayor Dorr Hudson said that among the "certain functions" will be the price the association is to pay for rent and definition of the VNA's duties. The modified contract will then be sent back to the council for approval.

W. V. (Pat) Pearson, president of the VNA, said that besides the $5,000 given the VNA under contract, the association in 1961 received $12,500 from the Community Givers which helped meet the $20,120 yearly expenditure.

City Atty. William Supple said, "There is no question that the city has the right to employ public health nurses."

The Project AID membership drive will get into full swing Saturday when AID memberships cards go on sale in the housing units, on campus, and in downtown Iowa City, Charles Pelton, A4, Clinton, AID publicity chairman, announced. Memberships cards cost $1.00.

The cards are being sold to raise money for the AID scholarship fund. Pelton said $3,500 has been raised. He said a $10,000 goal has been set.

John Diehl, A2, Des Moines, a committee member said, "The money available for scholarships at SUI is $90,693 less than the average amount available at the other Big 10 schools."

Pelton said a card will entitle the holder to a reduced admission price to either the Variety Show, April 14, or Winter Carnival, the date of which has not been set.

Project AID will also present the play, "Once Upon A Mattress," May 16-19 to raise scholarship fund money. Persons interested in parts may contact Gary Niebuhr, A4, Cedar Rapids, director of the play, or Ron Andersen, A3, Dike.
