

Kennedy OK's Russian Space Pool Plans

'Countdown' for JFK-Glenn Meeting at Canaveral Begins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy said Wednesday he has notified Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that the United States stands ready to cooperate with Russia "to assure that space is peaceful and can be used for the benefit of everyone."

Kennedy told a news conference that was his reply to a cable from Khrushchev proposing that the two powers pool their resources to explore space.

The President made clear, however, that it will take deeds as well as words to convince him that Russia means business about peaceful cooperation in space exploration. When reporters asked about the possibility of a joint U.S.-Soviet mission to the moon, Kennedy said:

"All we have so far is an indication of interest and we know from long experience that it is more difficult to transform these general expressions into specific agreements."

"We are spending billions of dollars in space and if it is possible to assure that space is peaceful and that it can be used for the benefit of everyone, then the United States must respond to any opportunity we have to insure that it is peaceful," Kennedy said.

The President called Tuesday's dramatic space journey by U.S. astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., a "magnificent achievement." He said it was increasingly clear that the flight of the capsule carrying an American into orbit for the first time would affect life on this planet for many years to come.

"It has been said that peace has her victories as well as war, and I think all of us can take pride and satisfaction in this victory of technology and the human spirit," the President said.

As for Khrushchev's "let's cooperate" proposal, Kennedy pointed out that he has been issuing similar invitations to Russia since he took office last year.

He said the United States has long taken the position that "when men reach beyond this planet they should leave their national differences behind them."

Therefore, he said, this country is ready to discuss the matter of space cooperation with Russia "bilaterally, in the United Nations, or in any other form."

Reporters asked whether Russia had given any tangible evidence of willingness to share scientific knowledge with the West on a basis of genuine mutuality.

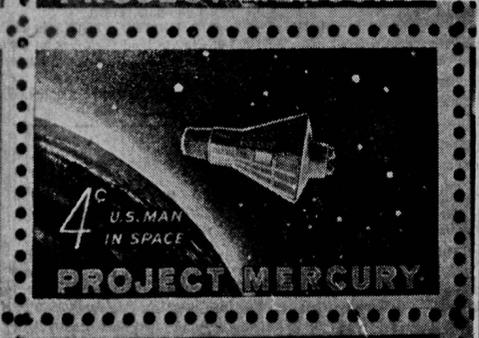

Kennedy replied that there had been no evidence in the last 12 months to support confident expectation that Russia was ready for "this kind of cooperation." Russia, he said, has not furnished the United States with any technical data about its space flights except for what has been published generally, and some medical information.

Kennedy added, however, that "perhaps the prospects are improving for a true cooperative program in space."

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson said Khrushchev merely was copying a U.S. proposal that the two nations cooperate in exploring space.

Johnson, chairman of the National Space Council, said both Kennedy and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower had advocated the idea on several occasions.

"We're pretty much on record with this," the vice president said.

Space Stamps Here

The Iowa City Post Office Wednesday morning received 20,000 commemorative postage stamps marking the first United States triumphal orbital flight by spaceman John Glenn. Postmaster Walter Barrow said the four-cent stamps were put on sale at the city Post Office on receipt from Washington, D.C. The stamps have been distributed to other postal stations in Iowa City and Coralville where they will go on sale. Printed in blue and yellow on a white background, the stamp pictures a capsule in space with the earth in the lower left corner. The initial printing was one million stamps.

Hancher Not Pleased with High Tuition

Blames Legislature For Not Providing Enough Money

By FRANK SMITH
Staff Writer

SUI has one of the highest tuition rates among state supported institutions in the country, President Virgil M. Hancher said Wednesday evening before a joint meeting of the Young Democrats and Young Republicans.

"We are not very happy about that," he said.

One of the reasons for the high rate, he said, is the recent tuition increase because of inadequate appropriations from last year's State Legislature.

The annual SUI budget is in excess of $53 million, he said. Of this amount, less than two-fifths comes from state appropriations. The rest is from student fees, athletic receipts, hospital patient's fees, and dormitory fees, Hancher said.

During World War II, according to the president, restrictions were placed on building construction. Money that would have been used for this purpose could have been invested in the state, but it was not, he said.

Instead, the money was used to pay off bonus obligations of state bonds which should have been paid off by taxes, he said.

SUI will receive $20 million for construction of new buildings and rehabilitation of old buildings in the next biennium. "We are grateful for that amount," he said, "but in relation to our needs, it is quite modest."

Growing research at all levels "from outer space to inner consciousness" is one aspect of SUI's growth, he said.

Hancher said he has seen the University grow from 2,000 students when he was a student here, to over 11,000 students now. Between 1965 and 1970 more than 18,000 students are expected to be enrolled.

Hancher said the University will soon go to the Legislature for more money for salaries and expanded programs. "Scientific knowledge doubles every 10 years," he said. Programs must expand too.

About one-half the annual economic growth of the country can not be accounted for by traditional means of increased labor and capital, Hancher said, quoting economists.

This growth, he said, can only be accounted for by the country's high degree of education.

"Therefore," he said, "we can be conscienceless when we ask for money to support this institution. What better social use could money be put to?" he asked.

This money will yield great returns to the people asked to pay the price, Hancher said.

Quiz Powers; OK So Far

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy said Wednesday a board quizzing Francis Gary Powers about his capture and imprisonment in Russia so far has found no evidence that the U2 pilot did not comply with his Government contract.

He probably can make a more final judgment of Powers at his next news conference, Kennedy told reporters. The inquiry will be completed by the middle of next week.

After the interrogation is completed, Kennedy said, Powers will be available to any congressional committee who want to question him and to newsmen. Powers, he added, is cooperating fully with the inquiry board.

The President revealed that the board is headed by Judge E. Barrett Prettyman. He did not say who the other members are except to call them other outstanding citizens.

Nor did Kennedy hint where Powers has been in seclusion since his return from Russia Feb. 10. Prettyman recently went on an inactive status as a judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals here.

The main questions still being raised about Powers is how his plane happened to be downed in Russia and why it was not destroyed by Powers to prevent it from being seized.

Iowa City Race Bias Brought into Open

SUI Doctors Discuss Med Care, Benefits

Liechty Wants Care Extended, but Not By Social Security

By JOE GEHRINGER
Staff Writer

Medical care and other benefits should be extended to cover all persons over 65 who do not receive Social Security, and, to persons of all ages who are in need, but not by the present Social Security system, said Dr. Richard Liechty, assistant professor of surgery in the SUI College of Medicine.

Speaking before about 300 persons in the Medical Amphitheatre of University Hospital Wednesday night on "The Case Against Government Medicine," he pointed out that only 14 million out of 17 million persons over 65 now receive Social Security.

The present system is in the red, he continued. According to a Government audit, Social Security is $1.7 billion in debt and the present $21 billion trust fund would be used up in two years if payments from it were started immediately.

He said the proposed King-Anderson bill assumes the elderly can't care for themselves, but statistics show that only five per cent of them are destitute.

He further criticized the bill because it doesn't provide enough control of the $2 billion appropriation.

He said the Mills-Kerr bill provides a better solution. It calls for a matching fund of federal and state funds that would be administered at the local level.

Revenue for the bill comes from general taxes, and is more equitable than Social Security, which is based on only the first $4,800 a person earns in a year.

He said the bill has been adopted by the Iowa Legislature, but no state funds have been appropriated to match the federal.

Nor is socialized medicine the answer, according to Dr. Daniel Stone, associate professor of internal surgery in the SUI College of Medicine.

Stone, who came to this country from England in 1957, recounted the problems Great Britain has had with its programs of socialized medicine.

The greatest drawback, he said, is loss of incentive doctors experience when they are assigned as family or hospital doctors by the government.

He added their efficiency is impaired by patients who exhibit hypochondriac tendencies, causing the neglect of those who need help.

Since 1948, he said the welfare program has cost the government five times more than it originally planned to spend, has taken money that would have been used for medical research and delayed hospital construction.

England has built only one new hospital since the end of the second World War while the United States has built over 700, he pointed out.

Bill Hummer, M.D., Des Moines, president of the Student American Medical Association, served as moderator.

AFL-CIO Initiates Liberal Campaign

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — The AFL-CIO Wednesday kicked off a $750,000 register-and-vote campaign apparently designed to preserve and increase the power of "liberal" forces in Congress.

12 Inches On Ground, More Coming

Iowa City Wednesday dug out from under five inches of new snow, while more of the "white stuff" continued to fall bringing the on-the-ground total to 12 inches.

More snow is forecast for today—possibly up to two inches. But northern Iowa was again expected to bear the brunt of the new snowfall, the third of major proportions this winter.

Sioux City got seven inches of new snow, giving it a total of 17 inches. Des Moines had a whopping 20 inches on the ground — of which eight inches fell Wednesday. Council Bluffs had 17 inches on the ground, Dubuque 18, Cedar Rapids 24, and Mason City 30.

Johnson County highways were open Wednesday, because state highway crews had worked since 9 p.m. Tuesday. All plows were out. Highway 6 east was normal, and was 50 to 70 per cent normal to the west.

The snow halted air traffic in Iowa City because the airport couldn't clear off the snow fast enough to let planes land. East-bound buses were running an hour late Wednesday, but others were on schedule, officials said.

Although Iowa City schools remained open, schools in Des Moines, Spencer, Grinnell, Johnson County, Ottumwa and Sioux City were closed.

The forecast for Iowa indicates that 5 to 10 inches of new snow could fall within the next five days.

At least two persons died as a result of the storm. Wallace Koestner, 45, Centerville, was killed on Highway 60 south of Centerville late Tuesday night. Ernest Zietler, 61, Sioux City, was killed in a two-car smashup on Highway 20 east of Sioux City last Tuesday.

SPU To Ask Compulsory ROTC End

The SUI Student Peace Union (SPU) voted Wednesday night to ask for the abolition of compulsory ROTC, partly on the basis that it is "a coercion and regimentation of a student's life."

The SPU will send letters to the Iowa State Board of Regents, the faculty Educational Policies Committee, and Virgil M. Hancher, president of SUI, asking for an end to the compulsory ROTC program because it is "unfair to students who want to fulfill their military obligations in another way, and because it is a coercion and regimentation of a student's life."

Duane Sanger, A1, Iowa City, was elected head of a committee to plan activities protesting compulsory ROTC. These activities might include picketing the ROTC Military Ball on March 1, or holding a debate on the ROTC issue at the same time as the Ball.

Dick Talcott, A1, Des Moines, president of the SPU, said the purpose of the debate would be "to draw people away from the Ball and attract people sympathetic to the SPU stand."

Two SPU members will attend the Positive Peace Techniques Workshop to be held this weekend at Grinnell College. The workshop is sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee. Phil Walker, A3, Nashua, N.H., and Dick Potter, A1, Nyack, N.Y., will attend.

In other business, the SPU elected Phil Walker vice president; Brian Peterson, A3, Des Moines, secretary; and Dan Kelly, A2, Iowa City, treasurer.

Hawkins Blasts Republicans Here

Lex Hawkins of Des Moines, Iowa Democratic chairman, said in a statement here Wednesday that three Iowa Republican members of Congress voted last year against an appropriations bill that helped pay for the orbital space flight of Col. John Glenn.

Hawkins said the congressmen are Reps. James Bromwell, Ben Jensen and H. R. Gross.

He said the three voted last July 20 against a conference report on a bill which appropriated $1.3 billion for space exploration.

SUI Negroes Cooperate in DI Inquiry

Claim Off-Campus Housing Rules Often Evaded or Ignored

By STEVE SANGER
Staff Writer

Southerners have often advised northern critics to be sure their own houses are in order before becoming too vociferous in criticism of southern segregation policies.

They make a good point. Much noise has come out of Iowa City concerning racial discrimination in the South. But racial discrimination exists in Iowa City — and its existence is widespread.

"Negro students at SUI who live off-campus are discriminated against," Bill Perkins, A3, Jersey City, N.J., told The Daily Iowan during this newspaper's investigation of racial discrimination in off-campus student housing.

He said he had never encountered any prejudice until he came to Iowa City. He thought the harsh industrial environment of his hometown, Jersey City, may have "somehow played down prejudice."

Perkins expressed puzzlement over the way African students are often preferred to American Negroes. He said, "We're Americans aren't we?"

Mike Harper, a Negro and a former graduate student, looked for an apartment to share with a white friend, John Hodgkins, G, Mineola, N.Y., last September.

His search was thwarted by racial discrimination even though they went as far as North Liberty, a small town six miles north of Iowa City.

Harper finally moved into a small downtown hotel. He has since returned to his home in Los Angeles.

One Negro couple, Mr. and Mrs. Americus John-Lewis, have been apartment hunting for the last three weeks. Mrs. Lewis said, "We've called 30 apartments and they have all either said no Negroes or said the apartment was already rented."

John-Lewis, a former SUI basketball player, dropped out of school to work at the beginning of this semester. He plans to return this summer as a graduate student in industrial design.

The couple has been living in Templin Park, a University owned housing area. Because he is no longer a student, the University has been anxious that John-Lewis and his wife move.

However, three weeks of "frantic" searching has been futile, Mrs. John-Lewis said.

Seymour Grey Jr., A2, Des Moines, in January wrote a letter to The Daily Iowan charging racial discrimination against him when he tried to find a room last semester.

When interviewed, Gray said he had found two places which seemed to be what he wanted. Both were listed as approved undergraduate housing at the Office of Student Affairs.

He called one and made arrangements to see it. The landlord was not there when he looked at it. He telephoned the man at his job and said he would take the room.

Grey then saw the landlord to pay the rent and was told, "Sorry, my wife called me a nigger."

Television Coverage Of Flight—Good!

It had all the drama of the famous Orson Welle's "invasion from outer space." Well, maybe not quite, but it was convincing.

The first American orbital space shot starring Astronaut John Glenn probably had the highest rating in terms of audience attention of any television production ever. And it wasn't even a choice time spot.

These columns have criticized the nonsense in television coverage of the several previous attempts to put Glenn into orbit. Tuesday's production, however, for the most part avoided the periphery and time-filling which characterized network coverage of the earlier attempts.

Except for an occasional sojourn into the ridiculous, the news coverage was good. At least they didn't bother us with the temperature in New York or the mechanics of the "cherry-picker."

During those agonizing moments when Col. John Powers would calmly announce, "The countdown is at T minus 22 and holding," the T.V. commentators gave us valuable information. They explained the cause of the hold, related pertinent weather data, and told that changes in plans might be necessary because of the delay.

Interviews were with people who were closely associated with Glenn or the space project, and not with a former classmate who thought "John was a nice kid in kindergarten."

The networks did a good job.

A New Trick

Love, in the process of conquering all, also produces some pretty strange actions on the part of its victims.

Newlyweds seem to fall into a special category for getting involved in some unusual experiences.

And so it was in Lincoln, Neb., Wednesday. The Associated Press reported that a pair of newlyweds dropped into the Lincoln police station and asked to borrow some handcuffs.

"They're trying to steal me," the bride explained. College friends planned to separate the bride and groom as a prank.

The honeymooners left the station happily handcuffed.

We know that Cupid's well-aimed arrows have felled a number of people, but this is the first time we were aware that he tied his victims up too.

Offbeat Washington

Will the Congressman who told his constituents last week that John Birch Society members are "law abiding, high-caliber individuals," please step forward and identify himself? In a newsletter, this House member disclosed that during the last war he attended a counter-intelligence school and studied Communist terror techniques. This hush hush training must have made an impression. The newsletter carries no name or other identification except: "Your Congressman reports from Washington."

ADMINISTRATION OFFICIALS are happily logging a fresh example of an apparent Russian foreign aid failure. This latest case involves Mali. This new African nation wanted aid on its own terms from the United States and turned to Moscow when it wasn't forthcoming. Now Mali is quietly asking for U.S. help again — and it's being notably more agreeable than it was the first time around.

ONE OF President Kennedy's tot-aged nephews was introduced the other day to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.).

"Oh, I know you," the youngster told the Senator. "You ran against Jack and lost."

SOME IMPORTANT reshuffling is in the works at the Democratic National Committee. Matthew H. McCloskey, long-time party treasurer, is expected to resign soon and be named by President Kennedy as Ambassador to Ireland.

Richard Maguire of the White House staff is in line to succeed him. And John Siegenthaler, of Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy's staff, is likely to move to the National Committee as a top assistant to chairman John Bailey.

This will bolster the Attorney General's already vast influence at Committee Headquarters.

ONE MEMBER OF Congress, writing his newsletter home, ran hard up against the tyranny of words the other day. Telling constituents of a luncheon with President Kennedy and Premier Cyrille Adoula of the Congo at the White House, the lawmaker described the dining room this way in the first draft:

"There, a handsome portrait of Abraham Lincoln looked down on the young Congolese Premier . . .

Reflecting, he changed his mind, and in the final version wrote:

'Boss, Are You Out of Your Ever-Lovin' Mind?'

Roscoe Drummond Reports—

Defense Posture Has New Look, Kennedy Gets Tough

When you look at the pattern of the President's recent actions, it is clear that Kennedy is now taking a tougher cold-war line than any time since he entered the White House.

They are all of one piece. They all point in the same direction: 1 — GEN. PAUL D. HARKINS is in Saigon to take over the U.S. military assistance command and give it new drive.

2 — AMERICAN MILITARY assistance to South Vietnam is being greatly expanded. Some 4,000 Americans are now engaged in training, advising, and supporting stepped-up South Vietnamese efforts to drive out the North Vietnamese Communist invaders. 3 — THE ARMY IS centralizing the command for all its "special warfare" services in the hands of its youngest general, Brig. Gen. William Rosson. He is directing a wide expansion in the field of guerrilla training and techniques.

4 — THE UNITED STATES is coolly resisting all harassment by Soviet fighter planes trying to drive Allied aircraft from some of the airbases in West Berlin.

5 — IN A MAJOR statement of policy, cleared by President Kennedy and Secretary of State Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara serves notice on Premier Khrushchev that the U.S. will vigorously challenge "Communist subversion and covert aggression" on its own terms.

There was no censor's watering down of this speech. McNamara mentioned Khrushchev by name and cited the Soviet Premier's famous speech of Jan. 6, 1961, in which Mr. K. proclaimed Russia's support for "wars of liberation" against non-Communist nations. He described it as "the Communist design for world conquest."

MacNamara's is the first official public speech spelling out the directives which Kennedy gave to a special meeting of 52 top policy-making and advisory officials of the Administration at the White House on Jan. 18. At that time the President set forth the conclusions of his own "new look" at our total defense posture and how he believes the U.S. can prevail in the cold war.

The substance of what the President had to say at this meeting was reported a few days later. Two of the most significant were these:

IT IS EVIDENT that after months of trying to find ways to reduce East-West tension, Kennedy has concluded that, far from joining with him to resolve any tensions, the Soviet Union is acting to exploit them — in South Vietnam, in Laos, in Berlin, in breaking the test moratorium, and in two aggressive aide-memoires Khrushchev thrust at the President in Vienna.

The United States, Kennedy said, will maintain its powerful nuclear deterrent and is strengthening its capability to wage conventional war. What he found missing was an effective capability for unconventional warfare of the kind the Communists mount against the weaker nations.

At this point the President gave the U.S. military leaders his own personal conviction that, if we keep the first two conditions — strong nuclear and conventional capacity — the odds are that during the next 10 years the only wars with which the Communists will likely challenge the free world will be unconventional; that is, attacks by subversion, terror, and guerrilla operation.

It is this guerrilla-warfare capability which Kennedy is pressing with vigor. The United States is appreciably stepping up this type of highly specialized aid and training in South Vietnam.

The Khrushchev speech which MacNamara cited has recently had intense re-study by the White House.

DRUMMOND The President asked every high official of the Government to re-read it and keep it before them as an authoritative blueprint of Soviet purposes.

All of these developments reveal a much tougher Administration course in fighting the cold war — and in fighting it to win. It is my conviction that the nation will welcome these developments with relief.

Thoughts On Space

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Some thoughts after a week of inactivity:

SOVIET PREMIER Khrushchev's reaction to the Glenn flight — that the United States and the Soviet Union might pool their space research — adds to the thought that the best way toward eventual accommodation between the two countries is to demonstrate through economic, scientific and military strength that cooperation is more profitable than conflict.

Actually, the seeming adoption of the space idea by the Soviet Union, after years of such suggestions by others including the United States, is a shrewd effort to take advantage of a natural human thought — that it would be so much better to explore all of the things that need to be done rather than for the two to keep duplicating each other's efforts.

The record, however, is not promising. The Soviet Union likes to talk about big things, such as space cooperation, wholesale disarmament and nuclear test bans, but is never willing to begin with the simple things for which it has unilateral responsibility, such as flying arms into Southeast Asia and the horse-trading harassments around Berlin.

THE SCRIPT of the Glenn flight as it was played out might well have been written by a top master of adventure and suspense, from the moment of take-off, through the control troubles, the decision for the third orbit and the drama of his recovery.

PRIME MINISTER Nehru's advice to Khrushchev, that a summit conference might come later but not now, is a prime reminder to the Soviet Premier that, after his backdown on his own proposal for lumping nuclear test and disarmament discussions, a lot of spadework will be necessary to get negotiations back on anything that even resembles a track.

Politics Needs More Romneys

By EARL MAZO
Herald Tribune News Service
WASHINGTON — Republican leaders are looking, hopefully, for an indirect benefit from George Romney's dramatic switch to politics after a spectacularly successful career in business and industry.

Romney's enlistment is a major coup. Not often does a dynamic personality forsake a quarter-million-dollar annual income and a distinguished, secure private career for hectic, relatively austere and often frustrating public service as an office-seeking politician.

The party leaders believe the decision of the 54-year-old former have not seriously contested 25 per cent of the Senate positions and governorships.

Most of these concessions have been in Southern and border states and overwhelmingly Democratic big cities of the non-South.

A lack of candidates, even token candidates, contributed substantially to the Republican disaster in 1958. The Republicans had no one on the ballot in 94 Congressional districts. The Democrats lacked standard bearers in only one district.

The Republican performance improved slightly — and the Democrats skidded a mite — in the 1960 elections.

IN THE ELECTIONS next November about a dozen Senate and gubernatorial races hinge largely on the caliber of candidates who will oppose incumbents.

Former President Eisenhower's adopted state of Pennsylvania is an example. The Republicans have an excellent opportunity there to regain a powerful state capitol, a senator and other important elective posts, but the chance is in danger unless the party comes through with top-flight candidates. Maryland is another opportunity the Republicans have yet to seize upon.

DEMOCRATS ALSO have difficulties finding the candidates they need. In New York, for instance, no challenger has yet been found for Sen. Jacob K. Javits. And the party moguls seem to remain in a quandary about a candidate "hot enough" to pit against Gov. Rockefeller.

The candidate-producing problem stretches across the country from New Hampshire to Wisconsin to Colorado to Washington to Oregon to Hawaii to Nevada and so forth.

In Arizona it takes an odd twist: the Republicans haven't yet found any one to seriously challenge Democratic Sen. Carl Hayden, and the Democrats are at a loss for a quality candidate to oppose Republican Gov. Paul Fannin.

PRESIDENT KENNEDY is becoming increasingly active in helping to solve the Democratic perplexities. The decision to have HEW Secretary Ribicoff oppose Republican Sen. Prescott Bush in Connecticut, has reversed previous forecasts of a Republican sweep there.

General Eisenhower, in the forefront of those working to fill the Republican gaps. His efforts so far have been fruitful and frustrating. Former Defense Secretary Thomas S. Gates and Neil McElroy were not persuaded to seek the governorships, respectively, of Pennsylvania and Ohio.

The United States is pushing vigorously the development of superpowerful rockets capable of carrying men on prolonged flights.

With only relatively small rockets available thus far, U.S. engineers and scientists have made remarkable advances in miniaturizing electronic equipment, small and light enough to do useful work in payloads.

The Soviets have not had similar needs, and U.S. industry is profiting from the techniques developed.

GEORGE ROMNEY
'Need More Like Him'

chief of American Motors Corp. to run for Governor of Michigan may encourage, inspire and embolden other first-rate potential candidates to take the plunge.

The need is greater this year than it has been in a long time. An unusually large number of governorships and Congressional seats are on the verge of being lost for lack of worthy opposition because of a dearth of high-caliber candidates in some crucial states. As the "out" party threatened with permanent minority status, the Republicans must produce notably in the balloting next November or possibly will away to ineffectiveness.

Because the Republican party has simply failed to come up with meaningful candidates or a any candidates at all in so many places, the Democratic party has been starting every election year with an enormous advantage. Its lead for control of Congress and a majority of state executive offices has been almost insurmountable before a vote was cast.

From time to time the Democrats too have conceded Congressional posts and governorships in such one-time Republican strongholds as Maine, Kansas and Nebraska. But their concessions have a never remotely matched those of the Republicans.

THE REPUBLICAN party has been defaulting on two-thirds of the seats necessary to win majority control of the House. In this generation, the Republicans usually have not had a candidate or

Glenn Voyage Marks The End of a Beginning

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

The thrilling voyage of John H. Glenn Jr. marks the end of a beginning toward sending men on useful missions in space.

The Soviet Union has the same goal, a large head start, and plenty of momentum.

THE END of a beginning is the way Walter C. Williams, deputy director of Project Mercury, has described Glenn's flight.

The Soviets were first with the brilliant flights of Yuri Gagarin and Gherman Titov, last year. More Soviet flights, possibly even with two-man crews, are anticipated this year.

The United States also is expected to send several more men into orbits around the earth this year — perhaps a trip of 17 to 18 orbits like Titov's.

THE RUSSIANS, with a long head start because of their powerful boosters, could be first on the moon — set as a target within this decade for America by President Kennedy.

But many authorities, including foreign experts, credit the United States with already possessing a lead in gathering scientific information about space through its impressive total number of satellites launched so far.

Soviet reports indicate the Russians plan greater experience with manned flight close to earth before attempting to send men around the moon. Possibly they do not yet have rockets powerful enough for sure travel to the moon and safe return.

THE UNITED STATES is anticipated to land packages on the moon, and to send probes out to investigate Venus this year. Soviet scientists have mentioned similar plans.

Business Confo Termed 'Successful' —

Goodyear Comptroller Calls Expression Ability Top Asset

The ability to express oneself, both orally and in writing is one of the most important assets in the business world, a comptroller and vice president of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio, said Wednesday.

Bruce M. Robertson, speaking on non-academic requirements in business at the luncheon of the Business Careers Conference, said it is more difficult to express oneself in writing, but with practice and ability comes success.

"One of the top executives at General Electric was a classics major in college. He had a brilliant mind and could express himself well, so he became an important and influential man in the company," he said.

Robertson held several posts with General Electric over a 24-year period. He was assistant treasurer, treasurer of International General Electric, and finance manager of the apparatus sales division.

Listing other non-academic requirements in business, Robertson said that an inquisitive nature is also important. "I think that everyone should do a lot of reading," Robertson said, "not only in his immediate area of interest, but in things concerning his community, and society in general."

Robertson also referred to initiative and the willingness to take responsibility as other important assets. He said that one should always be looking ahead of his immediate job — looking into the future. With this comes the need to assume responsibility, and to make decisions.

"It's tragic to see that many well-educated people lack nerve enough to take responsibility, and make decisions. This is a very grave weakness."

"In the business world, this is what separates the executives and other management personnel from the followers and others who must be led with guidance."

Coupled with the willingness to assume responsibility is the desire to advance, Robertson said. It is only natural that one would want to better himself in his job. "In the depression years, graduates started at very nominal salaries, and so the need was great to advance. We had to do better."

"Now business realizes the need for higher salaries, but most graduates are used to many of life's luxuries, and so the incentive is less. Not many men are willing to take on the responsibility to advance," Robertson said.

There is a need for very high moral standards in business, Robertson said, and this is especially true in the area of finance. A businessman must be above suspicion at all times.

Robertson said that although it is difficult to interpret ethical standards in the business world, there can be no compromise. Men who rise to the top have found the true ethical standard.

"College graduates who have the basic academic competence coupled with these other attributes are the people sought by the business world," Robertson said, "and these are the people who will become our community and national leaders."

Robertson was one of more than 40 of the nation's leading business men who came to SUI for the conference — the 17th held here.

Charles Gordon, assistant dean in the College of Business Administration and conference adviser, said the participation in the conference was greater this year than in the last few years. "Attendance at the sessions today was most satisfactory — in spite of the bad weather," he said. Gordon said attendance was greater Tuesday — "probably because of Wednesday's weather and the fact that most pre-business students have more time on Tuesday."

Gordon said many speakers were impressed by the success and magnitude of the conference. He said comments from students and his own observations indicated that this year's conference benefited many students. "All in all, even considering our competition from (Lt. Col. John H.) Glenn and the snow, the conference was successful," Gordon said.

The conference, which is sponsored by the SUI Collegiate Chamber of Commerce, is intended to help pre-business students determine their major field of study, and to give upperclassmen information about opportunities in industry.

The conference was planned, beginning last September, by the SUI Chamber's board of directors. The 11 board members also served as session leaders for the conference.

City Theatre Tickets Out

Tickets are available for the Iowa City Community Theatre presentation of "Tea and Sympathy."

Performances of the locally produced play will be given Feb. 27, and March 1 through 3 at 8 p.m. in Montgomery Hall on the Johnson County Fairgrounds.

The play was first presented at the Barrymore Theater in New York on Sept. 30, 1953 by the Playwrights Company under the direction of Elia Kazan.

Brooks Atkinson in a New York Times review said the "... play catches a group of characters in a complicated web of hostilities and sympathies and looks deep into the hearts of its principal people."

Community Theatre officials said the play is a fine example of adult theater fare. The drama is presented by special arrangement with Samuel French, Inc.

Reservations are necessary for all performances and may be made by calling 3-5493 weekdays from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. General admission tickets are $1.25 and are available at Jackson's, Willard's, or at the door before the evening performance.

Acid Burns Two SUI Chem Students

Acid burned two students Wednesday about 4 p.m. in the organic chemical laboratory in the Chemistry Building.

Robert I. Lewis, P1, Iowa City, was treated at Student Health for second-degree facial burns he suffered when a solution containing 100 per cent sulphuric acid splashed in his face during an experiment.

Lewis was shaking a bottle containing the chemicals when the stopper came out. Safety glasses he was wearing at the time protected his eyes.

Algha D. Lodwick, P1, Onawa, who was standing beside Lewis when the accident occurred, was also splashed with some of the chemicals. Both stood under the emergency shower for several minutes to remove the acid.

U.N.'s Congo Forces Brace For Attack

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga. The Congo (UPI) — Katangese gendarmes were reported Wednesday to have advanced toward the north Katanga capital of Albertville where the U.N. Indian garrison was braced to resist any attack on the town.

Radio reports from the area said the gendarmes, who last week recaptured the railway center of Kongo from mutinous Congolese troops, were within 13 miles of Albertville.

Informed sources in Elisabethville said the Katangese force have halted their advance to try to find out how the U.N. troops would react to an attack on Albertville, on the shores of Lake Tanganyika.

A senior U.N. official in Elisabethville told UPI Tuesday the Indian troops are ready to resist any attack and have "quite a welcome" prepared for the Katangese force.

Albertville, biggest city in north-east Katanga, is capital of Lualaba province, a territory loyal to the Central Congolese Government. It is a stronghold of Baluba tribesmen who are opposed to Katanga President Moise Tshombe.

The province was created after Congolese troops occupied Albertville last November.

A U.N. official, meanwhile, said he expects Tshombe and Central Congolese Premier Cyrille Adoula to meet "very quickly" to discuss the agreement they signed at Kintona last December to end Katanga's secession.

U.N. legal counselor Constantin Stavropoulos said before his departure for Leopoldville that the only disputed issue is a site for the meeting.

"But I think that problem will be solved in one or two days and that the meeting will take place soon afterward," Stavropoulos said.

Reports in Leopoldville said Adoula has rejected an offer to go to Elisabethville to confer with Tshombe and has appealed to the Katanga leader to travel to Leopoldville.

De Gaulle's Cabinet Approves Cease-Fire Draft on Algeria

PARIS (UPI) — The Government of President Charles de Gaulle Wednesday approved a draft cease-fire agreement with the Algerian rebels that could end more than seven years of warfare in Algeria by March 5 at the latest.

An official communique issued after a Cabinet meeting said the Government approved the terms reached in recently concluded cease-fire negotiations held secretly with Algerian rebel leaders. It said these included:

- Terms for a cease-fire in the key North African territory.
- Conditions for a self-determination vote that could lead to independence for Algeria.
- An agreement on "Franco-Algerian cooperation," including rebel guarantees for the European minority in Algeria.

The agreement still must be approved by the rebel National Council of the Algerian Revolution (CNRA), which is the parliament and supreme authority of the Algerian nationalist movement. The rebel council will meet in the Libyan capital of Tripoli Thursday to study the agreement.

If the rebel council also approves the accord, French officials hoped a cease-fire would be signed and proclaimed by March 1.

"Everything depends now on the stand taken by the other side," French cabinet spokesman Louise Terrenoire said after the five-hour cabinet meeting — one of the longest in the history of the De Gaulle Regime.

U.S. Protests Berlin Shots As Border Gunfire Echoes

BERLIN (UPI) — The United States warned the Russians Wednesday that border gunfire by East German Communist police posed "grave dangers" that could have serious consequences. Even as the warning was delivered new Red gunfire crackled along the East-West Berlin border.

The warning was made in a protest note as Soviet fighter planes appeared once more in the Berlin air corridors. But the Soviets notified the West in advance of their detailed flight plans and Russian jets refrained from harassing Western aircraft in the vital air lanes.

U.S. Berlin commandant Maj. Gen. Albert Watson II directed the protest specifically against last week's incident in which Communist police poured gunfire at a fleeing woman and child and at West German police seeking to cover her successful escape.

While the American protest was being delivered to Col. A. V. Solovyev, Berlin's Soviet commandant, Communist police fired 12 machine pistol shots in the air to break up a crowd of 100 West Berliners who gathered on the Western side of the anti-refugee wall in the French sector.

West Berlin police also reported hearing shots fired within East Berlin Wednesday at three other border points. The reason for the shooting was not known but it was believed the Communists were firing at persons trying to flee to the West.

Wednesday's American protest note referred to an incident of Feb. 16 in which an eastern sector woman fled with her five-year-old son to West Berlin. Communist border police fired about 50 shots at the escapees and police aiding them. West Berlin police fired warning shots at the Red police but no one was hit.

Track and Field Championships —

Aim at Three Records in AAU Meet

By STEVE SNIDER
United Press International

NEW YORK — AAU secretary Dan Ferris predicts at least three world records will be shattered Saturday night in the national AAU's indoor track and field championships at Madison Square Garden.

Records in the mile, shot put and broad jump all are vulnerable, says Dan, with peak performances expected in those events by Jim Beatty, Gary Gubner and Ralph Boston, respectively.

"And there's a possibility of a fourth world record — in the pole vault," said Ferris, who soon will call it quits after devoting 55 years of his life to amateur sports.

"There's every chance John Uelses can come back after his illness and regain his 16-foot vaulting form."

Beatty, Gubner and Uelses already this season have cracked what Ferris calls world indoor records though technically they're American indoor marks since the international federation as yet has no machinery for recognizing records as "world" except for outdoor events.

Beatty, 27, became the first to break the four-minute mile barrier indoors with a 3:58.9 at Los Angeles Feb. 10. Gubner upped the shot put mark to 64 feet, 11 1/4 inches last week and Uelses twice has soared over the 16-foot pole vault barrier with a topper of 16 feet, 3/4 inch.

Why so many records? The competition is keen and, says Dan, the boys have got the message — "hard work means records."

"They've come to realize that hard, serious training is the only way into the record books," Ferris explained. "Furthermore, there is greater interest among our spectators and that's given the boys the incentive to work even harder."

"Jim Beatty is a fine example for all of them. You won't find a man more dedicated."

Beatty, a 5-8, 127-pounder who has bettered the existing indoor mile record of 4:01.4 in his last two starts, will be pushed Saturday night by Ireland's Ron Delany, the official record holder. Delany hasn't been licked in 34 straight indoor miles nor tasted defeat in his last 40 indoor races at various distances.

Gubner, hulking New York University sophomore, gets his competitive push in the shot from nine times indoor champ Parry O'Brien, though it's Gary not Parry who is the man of the hour among the weight lifters.

Gubner broke O'Brien's listed indoor world mark of 63 feet, 1 1/2 inches on three different throws last Friday with 64-11 1/4 on his best toss.

Ralph Boston, Tennessee State's broad jumping star holds the indoor record of 26-5 1/2 set in the AAU championships last year. He hasn't come close to that this season but Ferris feels Ralph is pointing for the big effort Saturday night.

Ferris also looks for Villanova's Frank Budd to crack the meet record of 6.1 seconds for the 60-yard dash. Jack Yerman to knock over the AAU 600 yard record of 1:09.5 and Uelses or someone to top the AAU mark of 15-5 in the pole vault.

And where they will stop, no one knows.

Conerly Decides To Leave Football

NEW YORK (UPI) — Forty-year-old Charley Conerly, who hurled 173 touchdown passes while quarterbacking the New York Giants for 14 seasons, decided Wednesday he has "played long enough."

Chuckin' Charley, craggy-faced and graying, retired as an active player to enter private business. He'll also serve as a talent scout for the Giants in whatever section of the nation he settles down when he decides which business offer he'll accept.

Only two players in pro football history ever pegged more touchdown passes than the Giants veteran. Sammy Baugh and Bobby Layne share the all-time record with 187 and Conerly is tied for third at 173 with Norm Van Brocklin, who retired in 1960 to become coach of the Minnesota Vikings.

"Football got tougher every year," said Conerly at his retirement party. "And I mean mentally as well as physically. You lose something every year. The other players on the club took pretty good care of me the last few years so I wasn't bumped around much but it was tough to get set mentally for so many games."

Conerly denied he was swayed in his decision by the fact that he split the team shortly after the season opened and drew high praise for his clutch performances.

"I'd like to stay in football or in sports but I'm not interested in coaching as a career or in reporting games on radio or TV," he said.

Conerly admitted he had "several" feelers last fall from colleges who were in the market for coaches, including Mississippi State and Tulane, but he didn't know for sure if he was wanted for head coach or assistant and didn't pursue the matter.

A star tailback at the University of Mississippi, Conerly joined the Giants in 1948 after coming out of the Marine Corps and replaced Paul Governali as the team's offensive whiz under coach Steve Owen. He pitched 22 touchdown passes his first season, a career high.

Cold War Rift Threatens Ice Hockey Meet

CHICAGO (UPI) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, said Wednesday that political differences should be ignored to permit the East German team to compete in the world ice hockey championships scheduled next month in Colorado.

Brundage said the Olympic Committee "would like to help them and would do so, if we can," because of Olympic Committee policy that religion, race and political affiliations have nothing to do with sports.

"It's none of our business," he said, "but people from all over the world have been calling me."

"There was one suggestion that the International Olympic Committee give identity cards to these teams, which we offered to do."

"The trouble is not in the United States," he added. "I talked to the State Department, and the trouble is at the other end, where the Allied Control Commission is not recognizing East Germany."

Dischinger, Rayl Battle in Scoring Race

CHICAGO (UPI) — Purdue's Terry Dischinger and Indiana's Jimmy Rayl remained in a neck and neck chase for the Big Ten basketball scoring crown Wednesday with only one point per game separating them, conference statistics showed.

Dischinger, scoring champion the last two seasons and sure of setting a record for average points per game during his career boasts a 32.9 point per game mark with three games to play.

Rayl, a junior, has a 31.9 average with five games remaining. Last week Rayl hung up a new consecutive free throw record of 32, covering games against Wisconsin, Iowa and Michigan. The old record was 29 by Dick Miller of Wisconsin in 1955-56.

Don Nelson of Iowa was third in scoring with a 27.6 mark, with Jerry Lucas of Ohio State fourth with 22.9 and Eric Magdanz of Minnesota fifth with 22.7.

Others in the top ten were Dave Downey, Illinois, 21.1, Ken Siebel, Wisconsin, 19.9, Tom Bolyard, Indiana, 18.3, Bill Small, Illinois, 17.2, and Bill Burwell, Illinois, 16.6.

One team record, most field goals in a game, was set last week, when Wisconsin netted 43 and Illinois 42 for a total of 85, two more than the previous mark by Illinois and Indiana in 1957. The total points in the 103-101 Wisconsin win equalled the third highest points in one game in Big Ten history.

Dodgers Get 2 Key Men

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Star lefthanded pitcher Sandy Koufax and infielder-outfielder Frank Horner have signed their 1962 contracts with the Los Angeles Dodgers, General Manager E. J. (Buzzie) Bavasi disclosed Wednesday night.

Koufax' removal from the list of possible holdouts left only outfielder Wally Moon and catcher Doug Camilli unsigned, with Moon turning down Bavasi's offer late Wednesday.

Moon, who led the Dodgers at the plate last season with a .328 average, conferred with Bavasi for two hours without reaching an agreement and was warned that he would not be on the plane for Vero Beach, Fla., Saturday for the start of training unless he signed.

Koufax had his best year as a Dodger in 1961 with an 18-13 won and loss record as well as compiled a mark of 289 strikeouts to break the National League record set in 1903 by Christy Mathewson.

The slim hurler felt he was entitled to a substantial raise for his 1961 performances and was reported to have accepted an estimated $25,000. In 1961 he received around $18,000.

Howard had been playing winter baseball and agreed to terms of around $16,000, several thousand dollars more than what he was reported to have earned in 1961.

Howard batted .296 last season and hit 15 homers in his first full season in the majors. He and Ron Fairly will battle it out for the first base job this season.

Reddington: Vital for Wins

By JIM TUCKER
Staff Writer

In Iowa's final basketball game last season, the Hawkeyes and the Northwestern Wildcats traded baskets throughout most of the game. Northwestern took a 62-61 lead in the final half-minute of play, but with 17 seconds left on the clock, sophomore guard Joe Reddington hit a jump shot to give the Hawks a 63-62 win.

That memorable field goal climaxed a fantastic season — both for Iowa and for Reddington.

The 6-1 guard was "just another reserve" when the season began. He showed promise but lacked experience.

When Iowa lost four regulars at the end of the first semester, Reddington jumped into a first team spot. During first semester play, he had seen only limited action in six of Iowa's fifteen games. But with his pestering defensive play and his play-making ability, he helped the Hawks win six of their remaining nine games.

Reddington is not a scoring ace, but he is dependable for 10 to 12 points a game and occasionally hits 16 or 18.

One of his best games this season was against Minnesota when he tossed in 17 points to help the Hawks stop the Gophers 65-63.

He had another high-scoring night against Purdue when he scored 16. Currently, he is third among Iowa's scorers with 162 points in 20 games.

In the first Northwestern game this season, Iowa Coach Sharm Scheuerman credited Reddington's clutch defensive play as a decisive factor in Iowa's 74-69 victory. Reddington held Northwestern's high-scoring Bill Cacciatore scoreless in the second half.

Reddington takes a lot of pride in his defensive play and is a strong advocate of emphasizing team defense. "When you're not hitting too good, defense can win for you," he said.

Coach Scheuerman said Wednesday, "I wish all of our basketball players would work as hard as Joe does. He certainly gets a lot out of his ability."

What Reddington may lack in ability, he more than makes up for simply by out-hustling his opponent. On hustling, Reddington said, "It's hard to get a guy to hustle. It's something he has to do on his own. And if two players are of equal ability, the one who hustles the hardest will come out on top."

Reddington was graduated from Orient, Iowa, High School. The school was consolidated since Reddington left, but in 1959 he was one of 60 students in the entire high school.

Playing for a small high school was a big disadvantage for the scrappy guard, and he'll be the first to admit it. "For one thing," he said, "there is no pressure. You don't have to work very hard to keep your starting position."

Looking back over Iowa's current season, Reddington said he thought the Hawks could have compiled a better record, but he isn't discouraged.

Despite Iowa's mediocre 10-10 record, Reddington is still enthusi-

Yanks Refuse Deal

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — The New York Yankees Wednesday turned down an offer to make a deal for Dale Long, slugging first baseman of the Washington Senators.

Long, who is having contract difficulties with the Senators, was offered to the Yankees by general manager Ed Doherty and field boss Mickey Vernon.

Roy Hamey, general manager of the Yankees, disclosed Doherty made his offer during a visit to the Yankee training camp Wednesday.

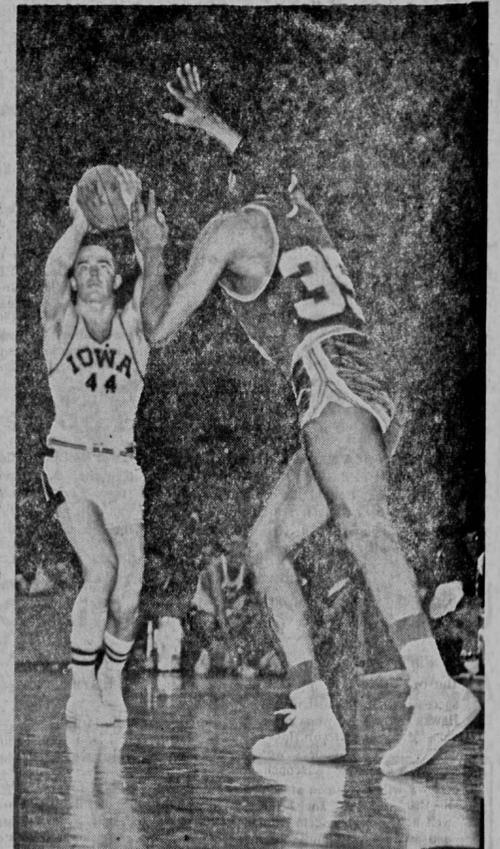

"I told Doherty we were not interested," Hamey said. "I told him we were interested in Long last season, but not now."

Hamey said he got similar sentiments from Ralph Houk, Yankee manager, when the news was relayed to him.

'Old Professor' Casey Still Blankets Managerial Field

CASEY STENGEL
'Where's My Men?'

By FRANK ESK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor
Today's big league baseball manager is 45 years old, somewhat wrinkled from the sun and sometimes irascible after night games. From February through September he has 25 or more players to worry about. He can't become "pally wally" with his players and often must cater to front office whims.

After all, the manager isn't chosen by the players. He is chosen either by the general manager or club president.

All this puts Casey Stengel in a rather exclusive bracket. Not only is the Old Professor well above the average age of today's manager (he's 72 or 73 — even he's confessed) but he is well above the field in results — 10 American League pennants and 7 World Series wins in 12 seasons with the Yankees.

This marks the second time

George Weiss, who is running the New York Mets with the blessings of Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson's millions, has picked Stengel.

The Mets' roster is neither Stengel's nor Weiss' idea of a winning ball club. They have a collection of has-beens and inexperienced players "offered" them in the National League's "well planned" expansion program.

Managers age faster in baseball than in any other sport, and Casey has aged well, despite the uneasy one season idleness forced on him by his former Yankee pals, Dan Topping and Del Webb.

Look at Danny Murtaugh, Pittsburgh manager. He is only 44. "What made you look so old?" this reporter asked Murtaugh, now 44.

"Did you ever see my batting average?" was Murtaugh's reply.

Stengel never grew old with the Yankees. The National League teams he had in Brooklyn and Boston aged the man. He concocted all sorts of ways "to beat the other fellow." He may not have to resort to trickery with the Mets.

BAUER CRAFT MELE TEBBETTS

Players will be shutting in and out of New York until Casey comes up with a respectable combination.

The Mets began spring training with only 34 men on their roster — discounting John Antonelli's retirement and Billy Loes, who retires every other winter. Stengel will add a few men after he looks over the field in exhibition games. He needs pitchers badly.

At this early stage we predict Stengel's Mets will finish seventh or higher.

Seven other managers will be in new uniforms this spring. There is Johnny Keane, finally discover-

Bauer, with Kansas City, Billy Hitchcock with Baltimore, Mel McGaha, a former basketball player handling Cleveland, and Sam Mele, who has the Minnesota Twins. Birdie Tebbetts has the Milwaukee Braves. You might call this a sort of demotion, since Birdie was running the club from the front office.

"I could get fired," says Birdie, "but I just had to get back into harness."

Something also had to be done to inspire Milwaukee fans. Interest at the gate in Beertown has been declining steadily.

Bauer, a pleasant guy to work for despite this ex-Marine's bulldog features, has the worst pitching staff in baseball but one of the best pitching coaches in Eddie Lopat. Bauer was forced to trade his best pitcher (Bob Shaw) for outfielders "who could catch a fly ball."

Hitchcock takes over Baltimore which means Paul Richards no longer has to write magazine stories telling hirings to win him his first pennant. Paul is now Houston's general manager after 11 American League managerial campaigns.

Hitchcock, Richards' successor, is the "if you can't play for him you can't play for anyone" type. He was an Army colonel with a fine record. Buffalo for one year and Vancouver, B.C. last season comprise Hitch's only experiences as a pilot. He figures to do well even though Army calls have clipped the wings of the Orioles.

McGaha is a willing worker who has kicked around baseball since 1948. He tried the outfield, first base, other infield spots, pitched and caught. He managed seven years in the minors. He had winners at Shreveport, La. (Texas League) in his debut year of 1954 and led Toronto to the 1960 International League flag with 100 wins. He coached in Cleveland last year.

Thus far, naming McGaha looks like the smartest move general manager Gabe Paul has made since taking over at Cleveland last summer. But McGaha must go through half the season while the Army feeds two of his starting pitchers — Mudcat Grant and Wynn Hawkins.

The American League managers average 43 years in age. Chicago's Senor Al Lopez is the senior at 53. McGaha, 35, is the youngest in either league.

Iowa Track Team To Host Minnesota

Evenly-matched Iowa and Minnesota track teams will try to squeeze out a vital point here and there among the twelve events Friday in the only dual meet in the Hawkeye Field House this season.

Field events start at 7 p.m. and the track events open with the one mile run at 7:30 as Iowa attempts to win its second successive indoor meet in 1962. The Hawks beat Northwestern, a previous Minnesota victim, last Saturday, while the Gophers were absorbing a defeat by Wisconsin.

Iowa will rely upon strength in the 400, 880, mile and 2-mile, as well as the high and low hurdles and mile relay. Minnesota looks superior in the dash and in all four field events, with a possibility of compiling 32 points to Iowa's 4 in the shot, pole vault, high and broad jumps.

One of the top races should be the 440, with Minnesota's Big Ten outdoor champion, Jim Fischer, capable of under :49, challenged by Iowa's Bill Frazier and Roger Kerr. The race may produce a new meet and Field House record.

Iowa's Jim Tucker, winner of the mile and 2-mile in the first two meets, hopes to lead an 8-1 scoring parade in those events and Gary Fischer and Ralph Trimble are strong in the half mile.

Iowa hurdlers Bob Sherman, Don Gardner and Jerry Williams and a mile relay team which endangers the Field House record also can score well.

Minnesota will rely upon such performers as Rod Lazork and Lyle Myers, distance runs; Chuck and Dick Morrow, vaulters; Tom Skadeland and Judge Dickson, 6-4 or 6-5 in the high jump; Bill Munsy, dash; and Wayne Steffenhagen, shot put.

In the last three indoor meets, Minnesota has beaten Iowa, including the 59½-44½ win at Minneapolis in 1961.

Dayton Accepts National Invitation Tournament Bid

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dayton, perhaps the most frustrated tournament basketball team in the country, Wednesday accepted another chance to make good in the National Invitation Tournament at Madison Square Garden, March 15-24.

Dayton has appeared in nine NIT's — and lost in the final round five times. The Flyers were runners-up in 1951, '52, '55, '56, and '58 but never won the crown. Dayton, led by 6-6 Gary Roggenburk, has a 15-6 record, not counting Wednesday night's game against Memphis State.

Dayton was the sixth team named for this year's carnival. Previously selected were St. John's, Houston, Duquesne, Providence, and Loyola of Chicago.

Two of the remaining six berths are understood to be reserved for the runner-up teams in the Missouri Valley and Skyline conferences, leaving four other berths still to be filled by selection.

The NCAA tournament, which has filled 11 of its 25 berths, did not announce any additional terms but announced sites and dates for certain first-round games.

The first-round game in the Midwest regionals between the Air Force Academy and the Southwest Conference champion will be played March 12 at the home court of the Southwest Conference champion.

The first-rounders between Oregon State and Seattle in the Far West regionals will be March 13 at Corvallis, Ore. In the same regional, the first-rounders between Arizona State and the Skyline Conference champion will be at Tempe, Ariz., March 12.

NCAA, AAU Meet Again On Dispute

NEW YORK (AP) — The Amateur Athletic Union has invited 15 groups, including the NCAA, to send representatives to a meeting here Sunday for the purpose of broadening the AAU committee structure.

"We recognize the equity of these organizations in the over-all amateur sports picture of the United States," Louis J. Fisher of High Point, N.C., president of the AAU, said in making the announcement Wednesday.

"In order to have the combined thinking of all groups connected with amateur athletics, we are inviting them to become a part of the Amateur Athletic Union's policy-making bodies."

Lack of proper representation is one of the complaints of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, which has moved to set up rival federations in track and field, basketball and gymnastics.

Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, recently called a meeting in Chicago in an effort to resolve the differences between the AAU and the NCAA. They failed to reach an agreement.

The power struggle is threatening America's role in international sports. The AAU for years has been the governing agent for most U.S. sports in international and Olympic competition.

Top Players Miss New Orleans Golf

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Some of golf's best-known names won't be on the scoreboard and a lot of unfamiliar ones will Thursday in the opening round of the $30,000 Greater New Orleans Open.

Among those absent are Arnold Palmer, South Africa's Gary Player and Gene Littler.

But a couple of the game's most promising newcomers grace the field that will start the 72-hole, four-day grind over the 6,700-yard City Park No. 1 course.

Phil Rodgers, winner of two of the seven tournaments staged since the opening of the spring tour, and former National Amateur champion Jack Nicklaus will be among the favorites.

This will be something of a homecoming for Nicklaus, who won last year's Western Amateur at the New Orleans Country Club.

Visual Aids Meet Planned

Visual aids in teaching foreign languages, geography, social studies and mathematics courses will be demonstrated to some 100 educators attending the SUI Iowa Audio-Visual Conference March 2-3.

In a second conference session three SUI professors who have recently directed the production of motion pictures on business, music and science education will talk to the Iowans on "Producing Teacher Education Films."

Audio-Visual specialists and school administrators attending the conference will also have an opportunity to tour the SUI Motion Picture Production Laboratory.

Theme of the two-day conference, sponsored by the Audio-Visual Education Association of Iowa and the SUI Center for Continuation Study, will be "A Practical Approach to Your Audio-Visual Program."

Professors who will demonstrate visual aids for various courses are Joe Hohlfield, mathematics, State College of Iowa, Cedar Falls; Camille LeVois, foreign language, University High School, Iowa City; Kennard Rutledge, geography, SUI, and Harry D. Jackson, social studies, University High School.

SUI professors who have recently directed the production of educational films and will speak at the conference are Cleo P. Cassidy, associate professor of office management; Neal Glenn, professor of music and T. R. Porter, science department, University High School.

SUI speakers at the conference will include Willard Lane, professor of education, "School Buildings and Educational Media;" Lee W. Cochran, director of the Extension Division, "A Practical Approach to Your Audio-Visual Program;" and John R. Hedges, associate director of the Audio-Visual Department, "Planning the Local Audio-Visual Workshop."

Discovery I Tonight

Discovery I — not a satellite — but a performance of contemporary dances will be given at 8 p.m. tonight by the Dance Club at the Art Gallery in the Art Building.

The Dance Club has been newly formed on the campus. It is sponsored by the Women's Department of Physical Education. The students have worked in various kinds of modern dances including jazz and ballet. Marcia Thayer is their adviser and D. A. Gunsey, president. It has nearly 20 members and is open to students and others who may be interested.

'World of Cilli Wang' Delights 450 SUIowans

"The World of Cilli Wang" was viewed with continued pleasure and frequent delight Wednesday night by 450 earthlings.

One Martian, felled by a sharp blow of parody on an artist at work, voiced his pain and pre-empted left Miss Wang's world. Displaying a variety of talents, Miss Wang adeptly swung from buffoonery through quiet artistry.

Alone on stage she took the male, female, plant, animal and dual roles. The global struggle between East and West was ingeniously portrayed by the dual puppet costume and acrobatic body, hand, and footwork. Despite the buffeting suffered by the rubber-ball earth, no final victory was established. Elaborate, unhidden "flicks" tied in with the costuming, permit humor and versatility of action. Especially entertaining was her Russian peasant dancer with the very flexible "legs." The tiny energetic mime enjoys performing. She has commented costume changing is the most tiring aspect of a performance. Miss Wang's "Children of Flora" was the artistic highlight of the evening. The growth, blooming and death of a flower was subtly presented by delicate movement and soft, varied lighting. This item drew prolonged applause. Pathos, poignancy, whimsey and wit flowed through the human characterizations of a little man in the every-day world and a chambermaid who tried mightily and failed. William De Vries, piano accompanist, also displayed the verbal wit of the evening. His clever introductions of the numbers fostered the imaginative participation of the audience. A quality of reality permeated Miss Wang's world of fantasy and made the audience a part of it.

Niemeyer Suggest Judiciary Inquiry At Special Meeting

SUI's Student Senate, meeting informally Wednesday evening, discussed a proposed committee to investigate the University judiciary system.

The committee, suggested by John Niemeyer, Student Senate president, would take a universally wide look at the judiciary system and disciplinary action, and then propose a theory of action to the Committee on Student Life.

Niemeyer said, the committee would essentially be a study group to feel out the judiciary system and make recommendations.

Dave Killinger, Student Senate vice president, said a sticky problem facing the proposed committee will be its jurisdiction, and the limit of its power. Killinger suggested that the committee investigate judiciary systems of other universities for ideas and examples.

Niemeyer pointed out that the committee should have full jurisdiction to investigate the entire judiciary system, and not necessarily a single case.

A proposal to amend the election rules was also proposed by Niemeyer. This amendment would give the Student Senate authority to enlarge upon, or modify the election rules.

In other action, Niemeyer suggested that some liaison be established in the Senate between the Peace Corps and the student body.

Because there was no quorum present at the meeting, no formal action was taken. All proposals will be considered at the regular Student Senate session next Wednesday.

Employment Up in I.C.

Iowa City's January 1962 employment was up 10 per cent over the same month last year according to figures compiled by Bernard C. Barber, manager of the Iowa State Employment service office, 302 S. Gilbert St.

Despite a natural decline in high seasonal employment in Iowa City during December, the higher employed figure remained true. Except among clerical workers, a labor surplus now exists in all categories. The excess is not as great as one year ago.

NATO Allies Don't Back U.S. Cuban Embargo

PARIS (UPI) — Authoritative sources Wednesday said the United States will find little support among NATO allies for any complete trade embargo against Cuba.

Walter Rostow, U.S. State Department planning chief, was reported to have urged the Western Alliance Tuesday to restrict trade with the Government of Premier Fidel Castro. The U.S. ended commercial dealings with Castro after Cuba was ousted from the Organization of American States (OAS) last month.

Movement Seems Growing To Put Negro in Cabinet

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's plan to create a new Department of Urban Affairs and put a Negro in the Cabinet as its head was killed in the House by a massive 264-150 margin Wednesday.

The rebuff, which some Democrats hope to make a hot campaign issue this fall, was expected. The 114-vote margin of rejection for the reorganization plan made certain there will be no urban affairs chair at the Cabinet table this year.

Kennedy, at his news conference, immediately expressed regret and predicted an urban affairs agency eventually would be created.

"I don't think it is so much the Administration's loss as it is a loss for the city and the country," he said.

In the voting 111 Democrats, mostly Southerners, joined 153 Republicans to veto the plan. Only 13 Republicans and 137 Democrats voted for it.

The President had announced earlier he intended to name a Negro, Robert C. Weaver, to head the new department. Weaver now heads the Housing and Home Finance Agency.

This maneuver put Republicans, who said they disliked the idea on principle in a position of seeming to oppose a Negro cabinet member, along with a solid bloc of Southern Democrats. In rebuttal, they accused Kennedy of injecting racism into a matter that should be decided on its merits.

A movement seemed to be growing to put Weaver in the Cabinet anyway, as a replacement for Secretary of Welfare Abraham A. Ribicoff who plans to run for the Senate in Connecticut this year.

Several Republican leaders, including Senate Minority Leader Everett Dirksen of Illinois, and Democratic Senate Whip Hubert H. Humphrey suggested this appointment.

But Kennedy seemed to be lukewarm to it. "While I am sure he (Weaver) is grateful for those good wishes for a Cabinet position where there is no vacancy, I think this country would have been better served to have voted for an urban department," he said.

"We are going to have an urban department. It may not come this year, but in my opinion it will become as necessary and inevitable as the Department of Agriculture or HEW. The difficulty is that many of those who do not live in urban areas are opposed to it."

In the House debate, Rep. Dante Fascell (D-Fla.) led those who favored the department. He said 70 per cent of the population now lived in urban areas.

Rep. George Meader (R-Mich.) reiterated Republican charges the department would be "premature, unnecessary, and is contrary to sound principles of Government organization."

PAINT THEFT

Oil paints valued at $150 to $200 were taken from a car owned by Caroline Goodbar, A3, Burlington, sometime Tuesday.

Miss Goodbar said she left the paints in the car, parked near Currier Hall dormitory, Tuesday morning. When she went to class in the afternoon, the paints were missing.

SUI Works In Concerts

The first of two public concerts of compositions by SUI students will be held Friday at 8 p.m. in the North Music Rehearsal Hall.

The composers' program is held yearly by the SUI Music Department and arranged in conjunction with the annual Midwest Composers Symposium. SUI has participated in the symposium for the past 11 years. Original compositions by SUIowans are selected for entry in the four-school event.

The concert at SUI will include these members: "Fanfare for Brass Septet" by William Bunch, G. Keokuk; "Sonata for Clarinet and Piano" by George Mellott, G. Iowa City; "Quartet for Brass" by Richard du Bois, G. Cedar Rapids; "Canzona for Brass" by F. W. Teuber, G. Flint, Mich.; "Sonata for Piano" by Charles Dodge, A2, Ames; and "Brass Quintet" by Frederick Tillis, G. Marshall, Tex.

The symposium is held in rotation at each of four universities — the University of Illinois, the University of Michigan, Northwestern University and at SUI.

This year's symposium will be held at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor May 18-19. Each of the participating universities will give a chamber music concert of works composed and performed by its students.

STARTING SATURDAY! 4 DAYS ONLY!
HONESTY IS NOT ALWAYS THE BEST POLICY
We assume that audiences come to the theatre to be entertained. Our biggest problem is to determine an adequate definition for the word "entertainment." To some it is the excitement of "West Side Story," while to others it is the drama of "Room At The Top," while to still others it is the rollicking good humor of an Alec Guinness comedy. Every once in a while a film comes along, and in an effort to classify it, we find that there has never been another like it. We do not want to present THE MARK purely as a sensuous, sensational film. We do not want to make a "sex film" out of THE MARK, even though it has one of the most tender love affairs ever filmed, in which a man achieves his first genuine relationship with a woman, THE MARK. We feel, so much more than a love story. We do not want to refer to THE MARK as another adult drama from Great Britain, in a league with "Saturday Night and Sunday Morning" and "Room At The Top." We feel that THE MARK is far deeper-reaching than these and stands on its own merits. And we do not want to call THE MARK a psychological drama, since it is so much more searching a study of a man's innermost thoughts than any we could call to mind. For THE MARK has the ring of truth about it. THE MARK, in short, is a motion picture that breaks all the rules. It dares to be different. It dares to be exciting in a fresh way.

SOUTH AMERICA comes in for considerable attention today at WSUI. At 8:30 this morning, a London Forum (BBC) discussion on "Latin America — Today and Tomorrow" contains special emphasis on the effect of Cuba and Fidelism on the Western Hemisphere. Then, at 2 p.m., another program in the Great Decisions series will deal expressly with Brazil under the general heading "Which Way Half a Continent?". As most should know by now, the broadcast is related to the group discussions — three at the moment in Iowa City — held under the aegis of the Foreign Policy Association. Need we add that, with so much talk about Latin America, there will be some music from south of the border wherever it can be squeezed in?

BIG MUSIC NEWS of the day will probably be the inclusion of Gershwin's Concerto in F in the Evening Concert to be heard between 6 and 8 p.m. Another London Chamber Concert, bits of Bach, Beethoven and Britten, and an organ concerto by Haydn will precede Eugene List's performance of the Gershwin piano work.

CLAIRE BLOOM, the lovely English actress, will read from "Tristan and Isolde" tonight at 8. It's an Evening-at-the-Theatre presentation.

"THE RUBBER ARMY" is the subject under consideration on The Bookshelf nowadays. That's what A. J. Lieblich has called the troops of Chiang Kai-shek in "The Press" — this morning at 9:30.

Although Soviet science classes might warrant study by United States educators, their foreign language classes are not well taught, an SUI professor said Wednesday.

Speaking at the annual convention of the American Association of School Administrators at Atlantic City, N.J., Robert E. Belding, associate professor of education, said foreign language teachers in Russia rarely have the opportunity to travel or to communicate with people from countries whose languages they teach.

Even some who were teaching Russian in such republics as Georgia, Uzbekistan and Kazakhstan, where the provincial tongue is used, had never even been to republics where Russian was spoken as the native language, Belding continued.

The professor was one of 55 members of the Comparative Education Society to accept invitations from the Russian Trade Union of Educational and Scientific Workers and observe Russian schools in action during August and September, 1960.

Belding said from his observations of foreign language classes, he believes there is far more opportunity for West European students to gain facility in oral language expression than would be true in similar classrooms in the Soviet Union.

Discussing some of the major differences in teaching foreign languages in Western Europe and in Russia, Belding said that typically the Soviet classroom has only a small blackboard for teacher use. "Crude chunks of chalk and dusty rags for erasers further discouraged use of this invaluable aid." In only one Russian classroom he visited was a tape recorder in use, he said.

By contrast, in Western European classrooms blackboards were large, rooms were decorated with pertinent pictures, charts and maps, and the tape recorder was frequently used, he said.

In a number of observations, Russian teachers demonstrated lack of confidence in their language fluency and in grammatical technicalities, he said. "This can only be readily understood in light of evidence that few if any had been exposed to the language they were teaching," said Belding.

Before obtaining certification for foreign-language instruction in Western European democracies, however, teachers are required to take residence in the country of the language they are to instruct. "By contrast to the teachers in Soviet Russia, these Westerners possessed a genuine and warranted confidence in the language of instruction," Belding said.

In all instances which the professor observed in Russia, the teacher's lecture formed the core of the class procedure, and only rarely was time left for questions from pupils. The Soviet teachers spent more than twice as much time lecturing before the class as did the Western European teachers.

"While Soviet teachers were lecturing, Western European teachers were turning over a large percentage of the class time to questions from pupils," Belding said.

NURSE MEETING
The meeting of the Fifth District Nurses Association, scheduled for tonight at 7:30 at Mercy Hospital in Cedar Rapids, has been cancelled.

that Soviet teachers are today being given more opportunities to travel abroad, and even to hold less to some distant expert's syllabus.

"So there is a good chance that the Soviet foreign language teacher will come more and more to resemble his West-European counterpart — an enviable counterpart from whom American language teachers have already learned much," concluded the professor.

In making his contrasting observations, Belding visited Western European classrooms in Holland, Scandinavia, West Germany and Switzerland.

Belding spoke before the section on International and Cross-Cultural Studies of the American Education Research Association. Articles related to this same research by Belding have appeared in the November, 1961, issue of "Elementary School Journal," the January, 1960, issue of "Modern Language Journal," and "Overseas."

Belding has been granted a leave of absence from SUI for the 1962-63 academic year to be an exchange professor of comparative education at the University of Nottingham, England.

age of their time for class members to recite, to read, and to experiment with the sounds of the language," he said.

"Despite these obvious contrasts in procedures employed in foreign language teaching across Europe," said Belding, "evidences are clear

Former SUIowan Moving Up In Federal Prisons System

Norman Carlson, 28, criminologist and a former SUI student, has been selected by Attorney General Robert Kennedy to head a federal rehabilitation program with headquarters in Washington, D.C.

Recently included in the Saturday Evening Post feature "People on the Way Up" Carlson has achieved notice for his work with the Federal Prisons Service.

In 1957 he received his Master's degree in criminology from SUI, under Robert G. Caldwell, SUI professor of Sociology.

Caldwell expressed delight with the honor and recognition given Carlson. Caldwell remembers him as, "an excellent student who showed a strong interest in this work."

Carlson participated in SUI's combination work-study program for advanced students in criminology. He was given college credit for a summer job as prison guard plus a paper concerning this work.

Caldwell said the objectives of the work-study program are:

1. To promote better relationships between the state's educational and correctional institutions through an interchange of resources.

2. To provide training situations, or field work, for careers in correction.

3. To create cooperative "laboratories" for research in penology.

4. To provide consultant service to correctional institutions by SUI specialists in criminology.

Currently working with several graduate students in this program, Caldwell also acts as consultant to the Fort Madison prison staff. He joined the SUI faculty in 1948. Previously he had earned his Ph.D. in criminology, a degree in law and published three books.

He has taught at William and Mary College, and the University of Delaware; did wartime work for the Federal Security Agency and practiced law in Virginia.

His book, "Criminology," published in 1956, is a basic text in the field.

REPUBLICAN PARTY
The Johnson County Young Republicans will meet Friday at 8 p.m. in the Rose Room of the Jefferson Hotel.

Guest speaker Russell Ross, SUI associate professor of political science, will speak on the "Issues of the 1962 Campaign."

The public is invited.

SUI Grad Sent to Iran

Robert M. Macy, a former SUI student, has been appointed director of the United States AID Mission to Iran.

Macy has been chief of the International Division of the Budget Bureau since 1952.

Macy succeeds Harry A. Brenn as Mission Chief in Iran, where the U.S., through the AID mission, is assisting in carrying out economic development programs.

Macy was born March 17, 1908, in Adel, and has degrees from SUI (BS 1930), Leland Stanford University (MBA 1932), and Harvard University (Ph.D. 1936). He joined the Budget Bureau in 1950 after a career which included experience in both business and government.

From 1948 to 1950, he served as a special assistant to W. Averill Harriman, coordinating Marshall Plan operations in Western Europe with the Mutual Defense Assistance Program. From 1946 to 1948, he was an associate in a management consulting firm. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II.

Fire in Currier

Fire in the waste paper chute at the south end of Currier Hall dormitory was reported Wednesday afternoon. All Iowa City fire Department units answered the call, but the sprinkler system had extinguished the blaze when they arrived.

The blaze apparently was started by a lighted cigarette in the chute.

Heart Fund Drive

Heart Fund pamphlets will be distributed by members of the Inter-Fraternity Pledge Council and Junior Panhellenic Council in Iowa City today from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.

Donations received from the house to house drive will be turned over to the Heart Fund.

George Tracy, A1, Shenandoah, and Betty Randall, A1, Sioux City, are the project's co-chairmen.

Spotlight Series

Another program in the Spotlight Series will be presented today at 3:45 in the Pentacrest Room of the Iowa Memorial Union. There will be a panel discussion on the topic, "Resurrection of the Right."

Panel members will be: Robert P. Boynton, assistant professor of political science; John S. Harlow, associate professor of general business; H. W. Saunders, professor of sociology; and Marshall C. Gelscher, L2, Hamburg, vice president of the Iowa Conservatives.

Coffee will be served at the meeting.

Music Recitals

Two students will present recitals for partial fulfillment of the bachelor of arts degree in North Music Hall within the next week.

Susan Channer, A3, Bassett, will present a varied program of music for the soprano voice Saturday at 7:30 p.m. She will be accompanied on the piano by Gordon Steel, A3, Huxley.

Gail Starks, trombonist, A4, Conroy, will present four works Tuesday at 4 p.m. Mary Steele, A2, Wheatland will accompany Miss Starks on the piano.

Hairstyling Program

A hairstyling program will be presented by the Student Nursing Organization in the recreation room of Westlawn at 8 p.m. tonight.

Nursing students will be used as models for the monthly group meetings. Carl Swenson, director of the University College of Cosmetology, will supervise the hairstyling and explain makeup techniques.

The program, open to all nursing students, has been arranged by Carol Johnson, N4, Clinton, program chairman. Linda Newell, N2, Des Moines, will be mistress of ceremonies.

To Hire Sanitarian

Iowa City's Civil Service Commission Wednesday announced an examination to recruit an environmental sanitarian for the city health department.

The exam will be given at 7:30 p.m. April 2, at the Civil Center. Applications should reach the city clerk by 5 p.m. March 15. Blanks are available in his office.

U.S. citizens between 21 and 45 with four years of college are eligible to apply.

Tuition Scholarship

Mrs. Elke Bellie, A4, Iowa City, has been named winner of the Delta Delta Delta tuition scholarship for the spring semester.

The scholarship is awarded to a senior woman during her second semester at SU1. To be eligible for the award, the student must have a 2.5 cumulative grade-point average or better on all undergraduate work. (2.5 is midway between "B" and a "C" average.)

Humanities Lecture

Prof. Erich Keller of the Department of German at Northwestern University will be the Humanities Society's guest lecturer at 8 p.m. Monday in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol. Professor Heller will speak on "Faust's Damnation: the Morality of Knowledge."

Guest Lecturer

Fritz Rohlich, professor of physics will be visiting lecturer at Dakota Wesleyan University, Mitchell, S.D., March 27-30.

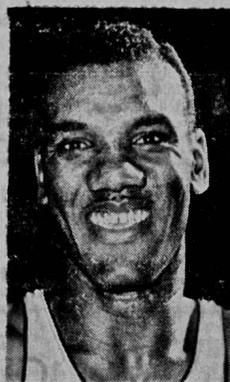

He will lecture under the auspices of the American Association of Physics Teachers and the American Institute of Physics as part of a nationwide program to stimulate interest in physics.

SEYMOUR GRAY JR.

BILL PERKINS

AMERICUS JOHN-LEWIS

In a letter to the editor Gray, A2, Des Moines, charged racial discrimination because two Iowa City landlords last semester denied him access to unoccupied apartments.

"Negro students at SU1 are discriminated against," the junior fullback on Iowa's football team told The Daily Iowan. Perkins said he had never experienced prejudice in his home town, Jersey City, N.J.

Since dropping out of school to work, John-Lewis and his wife have been unable to find off-campus housing. Over a three week period, the former Iowa basketball player has tried 30 apartments — with no results.

Bias Against SU1 Negroes

few minutes ago and said she had rented it to someone else." Gray called him back the next day to see if the room was really rented and was told, "Sure, it's still for rent." Gray told him he was the Negro who had talked to him the day before.

The man answered, "Oh, I just remembered. My wife called me and said she rented the room." Gray tried the other listing. The landlady offered to come to his address and drive him back to look at the room. When she saw him, she said, "I don't rent to Negroes or foreign students," and drove away.

The 1961-62 Code of Student Life, which is the statement of University policies and regulations, contains several provisions relating to racial discrimination in off-campus student housing.

These are: "After Sept. 1, 1961, approval by the University of any new off-campus housing facilities for single undergraduate students under age 21 shall be granted only if the householder agrees in writing to rent to all students on the basis of individual merit and without restrictions on the basis of race, creed, color, or national origin."

"It is assumed by the University that householders whose off-campus facilities have been approved for single undergraduate students prior to Sept. 1, 1961, shall rent to all students on the basis of their individual merits as persons without exclusion on the basis of race, creed, color, or national origin."

"In any case of proven violation of this standard, action of an educative and remedial nature shall be initiated by the Office of Student Affairs. Should such action fail, the University may remove the facility from the housing listing and/or withdraw approval of the facility for undergraduate housing.

"In performing its service of listing available off-campus facilities for married students (which do not require University approval), the Office of Student Affairs shall list after Sept. 1, 1961, only those facilities in which the owner or manager agrees in writing to accept student tenants on the basis of their merits as persons and without exclusion on the basis of race, creed, color, or national origin."

The Code also states: "All single undergraduate students under age 21 are required to reside in quarters approved by the University..."

M. L. Huit, dean of students, said Monday that there has been one formal complaint of racial discrimination in off-campus housing.

It occurred last summer, was checked, and found untrue, he said. Huit stressed the University will investigate promptly any complaint.

James J. Rhatigan, off-campus student housing adviser, also said the University would be thorough in any investigation of discrimination.

Explaining he is an administrator, not a policy-maker, Rhatigan said the University has to move slowly in regulating off-campus housing because otherwise, "fanatical opposition would result."

The University, under the Code of Student Life, can require only those persons applying for approved undergraduate housing status after Sept. 1, 1961 to sign the agreement not to discriminate racially.

The Daily Iowan, in order to check first-hand on the charges of discrimination, sent a reporter to work with Seymour

Gross Raps 'Uncle Sap'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) said Wednesday it appears a "troika" of Pierre Salinger and "Bobby" and Edward Kennedy have taken over the job of Secretary of State from Dean Rusk.

Gross included this picture of the handling of U.S. foreign affairs in the Kennedy Administration in his weekly newsletter. Other targets for his fire were the "deadbeats" in the United Nations, and "Uncle Sap," the name he applies to the U.S. when he thinks the country has gotten the short end of a deal.

Gross suggested that perhaps this country has a "troika" Secretary of State in noting that the presidential news secretary, Pierre Salinger, is planning a trip to the Soviet Union, Robert Kennedy — "supposedly Attorney General" — is on a world tour, and another Kennedy brother, Edward is on an "unofficial" tour of several countries.

In expressing his opposition to the proposal to float a $200 million bond issue to support the United Nations, Gross said a "great number of Americans who are sick and tired of paying the bills for the deadbeats in the U.N."

City Council Sets Interstate Hearing

A public hearing on construction work on N. Dubuque Street made necessary by the proposed interchange Highway 80 was set for March 6 at 7:30 p.m. by the Iowa City councilmen.

Although the interchange itself is outside the city, plans require reconstruction on some area streets. Most of the work will be financed by the State and Federal Governments.

The highway commission asked the city for an agreement on the work. The hearing is scheduled in connection with this agreement.

Asks How Long Will U.S. Subsidize U.N.?

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States has supplied almost half the money the United Nations and related agencies have spent since 1945.

Critics of the United Nations or its financing are asking how long this can continue. On the other hand, U.N. supporters call the total U.N. expenses a minor thing compared to what the United States itself spends on its own far-ranging activities in a single year.

U.S. congressmen are getting both sides of the story as they study U.N. spending in the light of a proposal from President Kennedy for some extraordinary U.S. spending in the United Nations.

He wants Congress to appropriate $100 million to buy half the bonds the United Nations seeks to sell to get out of the red. It is an item in the budget the President submitted Jan. 18. That budget calls for the United States to spend $92.53 billion for everything in the financial year starting next July 1.

The spending of the United Nations, its specialized agencies and its aid and peace-keeping operations has totaled $3.43 billion for the years 1946-61. Of that, the United States has contributed $1.617 billion, or 47 per cent.

It has contributed $256 million of annual budgets of the United Nations totaling $784 million, and $168.6 million of annual budgets of nine specialized agencies totaling $594.12 million.

In addition the United States has given $1.03 billion of the $1.75 billion spent through the years by U.N. programs depending on voluntary governmental contribution — mainly technical assistance and refugee relief.

It has paid $52 million of the $110.87 million laid out since 1956 on the U.N. force in the Middle East and $77.47 million of the $160 million laid out since mid-1960 on the U.N. force in the Congo. It has also given $28.5 million of the $37 million governments have contributed to a voluntary economic fund for the Congo.

The military operations have put the United Nations in debt.
