Senator Says U.S. Still Buying Stockpile Goods

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Stuart Symington said Friday that the Government still is buying materials for its already "excessive" strategic stockpile under previously negotiated contracts. He said the contracts should be cancelled.

SYMINGTON

But the Missouri Democrat, head of a Senate investigation opening soon on the multi-billion-dollar stockpile, said he doubted that the Government could get out of these firm commitments. Symington said the Government had spent $8.6 billion to buy strategic materials for three separate stockpiles. He said this was $3.4 billion more than would be needed in case of war.

President Kennedy has said the stockpile, whose current market value is $7.7 billion, is astonishingly large. He called it a potential source of unconscionable profits. Symington said purchases of all but three of the 76 strategic materials in the stockpile equaled or exceeded maximum goals.

Quickly following up Kennedy's order Thursday removing secrecy from 12 items, Symington made information public on these materials at a news conference. He said data on the 64 other items would be released next week. Information affecting national security will be withheld.

Information released by Symington showed zinc supplies exceeded emergency needs by 800 per cent, or $336.4 million. There was a $442.2 million surplus of tin and a $349.8 million surplus of aluminum.

Symington said the 12 items represented 75 per cent of all the strategic and critical materials in U.S. stockpiles. He said inventories "greatly exceeded our goals." He promised a full and impartial investigation.

In response to a question, Symington said he had no justification now for labeling the buying as "scandalous." But he said it certainly was unbusinesslike.

The former business executive and Air Force secretary said his subcommittee eventually would look into purchase contracts, some of them going back to the early 1940's.

JFK: World Moving Away from Communism

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — President Kennedy, before the largest crowd he has ever addressed in one place, declared Friday that the tide of history is sweeping the world away from communism toward democracy and freedom.

"Knowledge, not hate, is the passkey to the future," Kennedy told an audience of 88,000, largest crowd in the history of the University of California's 30,000-seat Memorial Stadium.

"Mankind must seek eternally to acquire knowledge and apply it with wisdom," he said in a speech at the celebration of the 94th anniversary of the university's Charter Day.

And with a revolution for national independence "a fundamental fact in our era," the President asserted, "no one who examined the modern world can doubt that the great currents of history are carrying the world away from the monolithic idea toward the pluralistic idea — away from communism and toward democracy and freedom."

While Americans may look with confidence on the direction history is taking the world, Kennedy said, they must reject "oversimplified theories of international life."

Among these he cited "the theory that American power is unlimited, or that the American mission is to remake the world in the American image."

The possibility of Soviet cooperation in space enterprises "opens up exciting prospects of collaboration in other areas of learning," Kennedy said.

"And cooperation in the pursuit of knowledge can hopefully lead to cooperation in the pursuit of peace."

Kennedy flew here to give his "long view" of the profound tendencies shaping the future of the world and to receive an honorary degree.

He stopped half an hour at the university's radiation laboratory, first of the nation's big nuclear research installations, to express his support of its programs.

While there, he received a confidential briefing on its works.

At the stadium, Kennedy received a standing, shouting, whistling, clapping ovation from the crowd massed on a beautiful, sunny afternoon.

Kennedy marched into the stadium near the head of the academic procession. Motoring over from the University House, where he had attended a reception and gone over his speech, the President entered a tunnel and did not see several hundred pickets objecting to nuclear tests, U.S. policy toward Cuba and Viet Nam.

One placard simply stated: "JFK Stinks."

An estimated 88,000 persons assembled in Memorial Stadium at the University of California in Berkeley to hear President Kennedy speak during the Charter Day ceremonies Friday. It was the 94th anniversary of the University's charter. The President spoke to the largest crowd ever to gather in the stadium. He received an honorary degree from the university. —AP Wirephoto

De Gaulle Says 'Crush Them Without Pity'

French Jets Strafe Secret Army Troops in Ten-Hour Battle

ALGERIA (UPI) — French Air Force jet fighters Friday attacked Secret Army Organization (OAS) commandos locked in a 10-hour battle with French Army troops and gendarmes in an Algiers suburb as the OAS insurrection approached all out civil war.

President Charles de Gaulle called the OAS disturbances an "armed insurrection" and pledged to crush them "without pity." Plastic bombs exploded in France Thursday night and Friday night, raising the fear of a terrorist offensive on the mainland.

Oran was reported comparatively quiet after recent street battles but OAS commandos hit the bank of Algiers there Friday and stole $4.8 million in new bank notes.

The battle in the suburb of Bab-EI-Oued raged from 9:40 a.m. to 7:45 p.m. It began when a 15-man OAS commando group opened fire on a truckload of young French conscripts in Bab-EI-Oued and killed six of them and wounded 20.

It was the first deliberate slaying of soldiers by the OAS which up until now has handled the Army with caution, hoping for its eventual support. The army resisted fiercely and the spirits of French settlers sank when they learned the Army would battle "French Algeria" Frenchmen.

The Army command in Algiers said at 6 p.m. the death toll among French troops in Bab-EI-Oued was 15 and that 43 were wounded. There was no accurate estimate of casualties among OAS men battling from the rooftops but the death toll was believed high.

The OAS attacked gendarmes Thursday night and the Army Friday. It appeared to be the big showdown threatened by the OAS ever since Monday's cease-fire ended the 7½-year war of independence and started Algeria on the road to independence.

Thousands of weapons, grenades and bazooka shells stolen by OAS commandos in recent months finally went into action as the OAS launched its first all out attack on the Army.

Police imposed a one-night curfew on Algiers and its suburbs from 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. "because of the military operation underway at present," the curfew at Bab-EI-Oued is to remain in force "until further orders." Police warned civilians not to stand near windows nor show themselves on terraces.

Several ships of the French fleet, including the missile cruiser Colbert and the aircraft carrier Lafayette, arrived Friday at the eastern port city of Bone.

Five months after the special curfew went into effect OAS men threw a Molotov cocktail from an alleyway at a gendarme armored car on the Rue Michelet. The armored car opened fire and smashed several windows in the deserted street but nobody was wounded.

Earlier two grenade explosions shook the suburb of Belcourt and the OAS put a "pirate broadcast" on the airwaves close to the Algiers radio wavelength.

Electric power was cut in the waterfront sector of Algiers. A rightwing Moslem splinter group opposed to the rebel National Liberation Front which won Algerian independence warned all Americans in Algiers to leave town by 8 p.m. Friday night or they too will be "struck down without pity."

'A Phony,' Snorts Bemidji At Rival Claim to Bunyan

BE MIDJI, Minn. (UPI) — Righteous indignation mounted to Paul Bunyan proportions in this north woods town Friday over the boldness of Bangor, Maine.

Quit claiming Paul Bunyan as a native son of Bangor, the Bemidji Chamber of Commerce warned.

"Everyone knows that Paul was born on the shores of Lake Bemidji," the chamber said, "and if you don't believe it, just ask us."

Resort operator Bob Kohl snorted: "How could Bangor think of such a thing?" he asked. "Next thing you know, they'll try to claim Chief Bemidji, the Indian chief for whom the town was named."

Bemidji's indignation swelled over a report that someone in Bangor had printed up a birth certificate alleging that Bunyan, legendary and mighty king of lumberjacks, was born in Maine on Feb. 12, 1832.

"A fake and an obvious forgery," said the Chamber of Commerce. "A phony, not worth the paper it was forged upon."

The chamber was further irked by the intelligence — slipped to it by a Bangor woman with Minnesota connections — that the Bangor Chamber of Commerce planned to exhibit the birth certificate at the Seattle World's Fair beginning next month.

The birth certificate — according to the story told here — was to be shown at the fair together with other Bunyan relics and a 25,000-pound birthday cake for Paul.

The Bemidji chamber considered sending a Bunyan display of its own to Seattle to "tell the truth about Paul Bunyan." It has a museum full of them.

Bemidji experts in Bunyan lore said everybody knows that Paul was around long before 1834.

Paul's tankwagon trickled down to New Orleans and formed the Mississippi River.

"Why, a whole herd of cows here kept Paul's milk bottles filled," Kohl said. "He would eat 40 bowls of Minnesota porridge just to whet his appetite."

"And everyone knows Paul and Babe were inseparable," Kohl said. "The only statue of Babe in the world is right next to Paul's statue here. That's proof positive that Bemidji is their home."

Kennedy Wants Many To Invest in Space, Inc.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy believes that as many Americans "as can prudently do so" should have the opportunity to invest in a planned satellite communication system.

This was disclosed Friday in a letter from Dr. E. C. Welsh, executive secretary of the National Space Council, to Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.).

The Administration has suggested a bottom figure of $1,000 a share in its proposal for a private, profit-making corporation to set up the American part of a global space communications system.

Welsh, in effect, invited Congress to reduce the price of the initial stock offering. Keating has suggested that this be done.

'12th Night' Adds Extra Performance Tuesday

Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" has added a night.

A complete sellout of tickets prompted the University Theatre officials to add an extra evening to the schedule of the production, now being presented.

The feed grain section will authorize the secretary of agriculture to set acreage allotments for growers in an effort to bring production in line with demand and reduce the huge surpluses now on Government hands.

House Subcommittee OKs Feed Grain Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House Agriculture subcommittee Friday approved new feed grain legislation very close to what the Kennedy Administration had requested.

Subcommittee Chairman W. R. Poage (D-Tex.) said, "It is a safe prediction that this will be in the bill approved by the full committee."

I.C. Police See No Traffic Problems After Tournament

Iowa City Police don't anticipate any outstanding traffic problems from the Boys State Basketball tournament finals tonight, Police Chief Emmett E. Evans said Friday.

Evans said the amount of traffic will not approach that during football Saturdays in the fall. All men are on duty after football games, but only about half during the tournament.

He said about a dozen cars were towed away by police from emergency fire lanes near the Field House Thursday. Outside of this, he said, there has been no problem.

Police earlier advised fans to park on the east side of the Iowa River. Parking places will be available in the SUI Library lots, The Grand Avenue approach to the east entrance of the Field House will be blocked throughout the tournament.

Gather to Hear President

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Arturo Frondizi Friday night appointed key members of a new cabinet with which he hopes to appease Argentina's military bosses.

He also appealed to Argentina's popular elder statesmen, Gen. Pedro Aramburu, for help in saving his regime from the still seething revolt of the military chiefs.

Three young anti-Peronists, little known to the public, have been named to the interior, labor and national defense ministries, Frondizi's press officer announced.

The president apparently was trying to put together a slate that would prove acceptable to the Peron-hating military groups that sought to oust him.

Aramburu, a retired infantry officer who served as caretaker president after the 1955 downfall of dictator Juan D. Peron, responded to Frondizi's call by holding a two-hour meeting with the secretaries of the disgruntled, armed forces. He also talked with some political leaders, and scheduled more talks for Saturday.

He said there was no easy solution to the crisis and that the present situation could continue for a week to 10 days.

The cabinet appointments were: Miguel Hugo Vaca Narvaja, 47, a moderate, interior minister; Oscar Puigres, 45, who resigned from the Christian Democrats after they made a sort of alliance with some Peronists, labor minister; and Rodolfo Martinez Jr., 43, defense minister.

Jorge Webbe, finance minister in the outgoing cabinet, was named economics minister. He also is known as an anti-Peron man.

From the opposite direction, Peronist unions hit the nation with a partially effective 24-hour strike to protest Frondizi's decree washing out important victories Peronist candidates gained in last Sunday's elections. The unions threatened to extend the strike for an indefinite period on Monday unless Frondizi rescinded the decree. But this is something the military clearly would not stand for.

Laureano Landaburu, a minister in the post-Peron provisional Government, in a talk with newsmen, said constitutional Government must be maintained by keeping Frondizi in power. He contended, too, that the popular will as expressed in Sunday's voting must be respected. On the other hand, Landaburu said, Peronists must give guarantees — "concrete and practical" — that the nation will not return to dictatorship. Peronist candidates had said in their campaigns they would work to bring Peron back from exile in Madrid, Spain.

SPI Appoints Editor for '63 Hawkeye

Karen Kimberly, A3, Bettendorf, was named editor of the 1963 Hawkeye by the board of trustees of Student Publications, Inc. Friday.

Miss Kimberly is presently office manager of the 1962 Hawkeye. She served as assistant office manager and exchange editor of the Hawkeye last year.

Majoring in speech pathology and audiology, Miss Kimberly is a member of Sigma Alpha Eta, honorary fraternity for those in her major.

She was chairman of judges and awards for the 1961 University

Olefsky Gives Last SUI Cello Concert Sunday

Paul Olefsky, conductor of the SUI symphony orchestra and associate professor of music, will present an unaccompanied cello concert Sunday at 5 p.m. in the Main Gallery of the Art Building.

The concert, sponsored by Choregi, will be the last solo concert Olefsky performs before leaving SUI in June. He is leaving the University, he said, to devote more time to concerts.

Choregi is a group newly formed by SUI students and faculty with the purpose of promoting cultural excellence on campus. They are sponsoring events involving all phases of the arts.

In his concert, Olefsky will present the works of Bach, Crumb, Kodaly and Finney. Included in the performance will be the Iowa premier of Finney's Chromatic Fantasy in E.

Nobody Told the Fish

When the hook, line and sinker brigade takes to the Iowa River, can spring be far behind? These two fishermen show the young and old of a more active variety of riverbanking. But judging from the number of fish they caught Friday, the fish must not have been told about the balmy weather.

The American Consulate

The American consulate was reported taking the right-wing threat seriously but there were no plans to evacuate the 250 Americans in Algeria. Another 25 American newsmen are covering the fighting and they, too, were threatened.

Groups of civilians clustered on some street corners watching the action as if it were a football game but women and children apparently were tucked away in the cellars. The streets were littered with broken glass and debris as in a wartime bombing.

Red China Can't Be Neglected at Geneva

Negotiators in Geneva are again bickering over the much-desired, much-publicized, and little understood topic of disarmament, particularly a nuclear test-ban treaty. Conferences to end war and stop arms build-ups have been held before, some with apparent success but eventually found to be faulty.

It is doubtful whether any substantial agreement will be reached at the current discussions because, among other reasons, the negotiations do not include Communist China which may become the next nuclear power.

It is Red China which the United States has more to fear of starting a "hot" war than Russia. The reasons are the ideological split between the two Communist powers, including differences about disarmament, and the reportedly growing nuclear capabilities of the Chinese Communists.

Karl Marx, Communist prophet number one, expressed reservations about disarmament, possibly because his opponent, the tsar, supported it, but otherwise had little to say about the subject.

Frederick Engels, prophet number two, once rejected disarmament as a utopian ideal, but later reversed his stand because of the growing fear that an arms race would bring on economic ruin or a catastrophic war.

V. I. Lenin, prophet number three, reasoned that one could not support disarmament and be a Bolshevik. He believed that violence was necessary for the overthrow of the bourgeoisie and that agitation for disarmament would serve no purpose for the world revolution. He also objected to disarmament because it was superficial, his presumption being that the bases of conflict are inherent in capitalism, and that no amount of negotiation, law, or goodwill could avert the catastrophic end to which the capitalist powers are moving.

The Khrushchev explanation of Communism parallels Engels' while the Chinese Communist version, dictated by Mao Tse-Tung, has revived the Leninist viewpoint. Unlike Khrushchev, Mao adheres to the Marxist belief that war with capitalism is inevitable and adds that in a nuclear war the West would be destroyed but enough of the Communist system would be left to rebuild the world.

As long as this thinking predominates, Red China is unlikely to accept disarmament, but an agreement which excludes that Government will have little long-range meaning, especially after the People's Government has its own stockpile of nuclear weapons.

Take a Good Look

The population of Iowa City has suddenly been increased this weekend by the influx of fans attending the boys high school basketball finals.

During the times when games are not being played, their presence can hardly go unnoticed because they are everywhere — on the streets, in local stores and even on campus.

Probably the only contact most of them will have with the campus will either be in the Field House or the Union, or as they cross the campus to go downtown. Another thing they can hardly miss is the stately gold dome of Old Capitol.

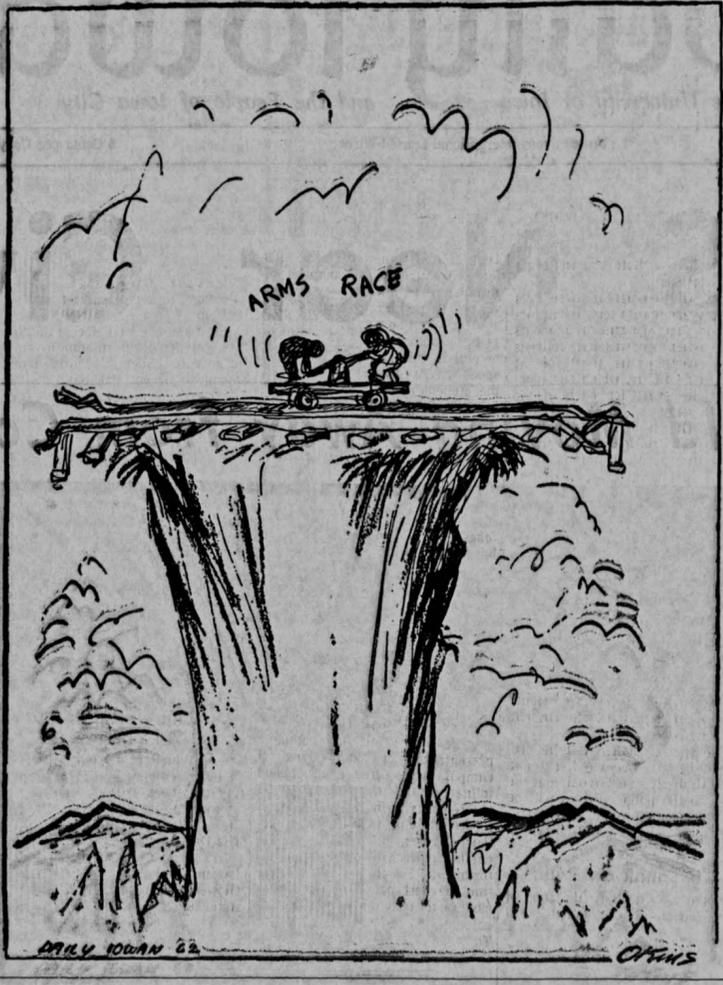

We were wondering, though, just how many of them have taken the opportunity to really explore the campus and the University while they are here.

Most of the high school crowd are high school students, many of whom will be soon considering what college they will attend. If they are considering SUI — or even if they haven't thought about it yet — a face-to-face encounter will be worth a hundred pamphlets or brochures they may receive through the mails.

Classes will not be in session today, but plenty of other things will be open. We suggest, for example, the University Library, Macbride Hall's wildlife exhibits or the Art Building. And, there are several others.

Parents and others already out of school will probably not have the same interests in looking over the University, but they have another interest. Since a great deal of their tax money helps to finance SUI's operation, here is a chance for them to view firsthand what is being done with that money.

We encourage all visitors to the city this weekend to take a good long look at the University campus.

Report Forecasts Increasing College Entrance Obstacles

By TERRY FERRER
Herald Tribune News Service

April could well be called the month of the envelope. The envelope, for those boys and girls who are anxiously awaiting word on whether they have gotten into college, comes in two varieties — thin and thick. Thin means rejection, the simple short letter. Thick signifies acceptance; the letter is full of forms which have to be filled out and returned.

Most colleges will begin mailing out the thick and the thin next month. The deadline mailing day for the eight Ivy League colleges (except for Cornell) is April 16. Cornell has "rolling admissions," which means that it accepts freshmen throughout the school year for the following fall. For the "Seven Sisters" — the women's college equivalent of the Ivy League — mailing day is April 24.

As if the current tension were not agonizing enough for parents and their children, there was fresh word recently that more of the same is in store during the rest of the 1960s.

THE BIENNIAL REPORT of the College Entrance Examination Board — the most powerful college organization in the country — predicted that by 1970, at least 1.5 million candidates will be seeking college admission each year, or 500,000 more than are now accepted. But, the report declared, the 427 selective colleges which now are board members will not expand drastically.

Written by Dr. Frank H. Bowles, the College Board's president, and Richard Pearson, executive vice-president, "Admission to College: A Program for the 1960s" sounded other notes of warning. For one, the college boom may well bring "a clerical breakdown in the admissions process."

THE SCHOOLS, Bowles and Pearson continued, fear that "rank in class" — a mere statistical summary — is being over-emphasized by the colleges to the exclusion of each student's individual record.

The colleges, on the other hand, complain of "hastily prepared, illegible, and sometimes inaccurate school transcripts," as well as "some principals' recommendations written in such general and perfunctory terms as to give no indication of the candidate's probable performance in college."

Stating that "this is a far more critical state of affairs than has been generally recognized," the College Board officials emphasized that "the three or four years a student spends in secondary school are crucial to any good assessment of 'his' prospective performance in college."

WHILE ENTRANCE examinations are useful, they continued, "they cannot be regarded as substitutes for a comprehensive evaluation of school achievement."

Bowles and Pearson had more bad news on the cost of colleges and their financing. "Probably no more than 10 per cent of American families can take college costs in stride" in the 1960s — a rather frightening statistic.

"Middle-income families who are not and will not be the recipient of financial aid, must plan carefully to meet college expenses, which amount to as much as one-third of their annual incomes" (an even more appalling statistic).

BOTH COLLEGES and students will be up against it. If both public and private institutions receive tax support, soaring tuitions may well reach their upper limit at $2,000 a year by 1970.

Then there is the matter of tests. The College Board itself gave almost 2 million college entrance examinations last year. But, Bowles predicted, in coming years "increasing sophistication in the use of tests will reduce the amount of testing undergone by secondary school students and improve the effectiveness of tests." Yet in the body of the 130 page report, there is talk of "year-round" testing from the end of the junior high school year to the end of senior year.

For those youngsters who now are awaiting the envelopes, thick or thin, it is late to worry about tests or school records — if certainly not too late to fret about costs. But for their younger brothers and sisters, the College Board report paints an increasingly gloomy picture of the obstacles to be faced into getting into college.

'Friends' Lead Opposition To Romney

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

When George Romney, the uncomfortable Republican, returned to his home front this week, he must have thought that the Gridiron Dinner skit, in which he had figured prominently, was coming to life — with a vengeance.

Romney had been greeted by a Republican character on the Gridiron stage with the remark: "I'd like to welcome you to the lodge. Or would I?" A moment later Romney's impersonator was singing: "Maybe they'll get my goat, maybe they'll cut my throat."

And that's DRUMMOND what they are trying to do to Romney in Michigan — for real.

"They" are some of Romney's supposed political friends. "They" are the party-powerful feudal Republican leaders who want to make sure that Romney and the state constitutional convention, now convening in Lansing, do not bring out a model of a Michigan constitution any newer than the Civil War.

"They" are the kind of political friends who would rather see Romney defeated than lose their own power. "They" are the kind of Republicans who are quite prepared to tie a little-improved constitution around Romney's neck rather than have him win with a constitution capable of giving the state modern Government.

BUT IF THOSE backstage, backdoor, backward-looking Michigan Republicans, who wield the largest party power at the constitutional convention, do succeed in cutting Romney's throat, they aim to make it a nice, clean job. They hope it won't show, hope Romney will hardly know it — until he moves his head.

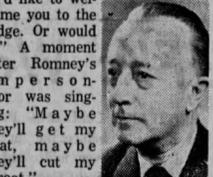

Naturally they don't want to do it in the open. And they are willing to pick up an ally wherever they can find him, whatever his motives.

AT THIS STAGE the opponents of real reform in the structure of the Michigan state Government, which has creaked to a standstill in recent years, are at the point of watering down nearly every improvement in the constitution — whether it be the selection of judges, just reapportionment of the legislature, Congressional re-districting, or investing the Governor with powers to weed unneeded or incompetent people from the payroll.

The net effect would be to create the appearance without the substance of constitutional reform and to launch the next governor, Republican or Democratic, of Michigan into his job without the tools with which to work.

To Romney this must surely look like giving the dilapidated one-horse shay a partial paint job and calling it a new compact.

It is perfectly obvious what Romney's 18th-century Republican "friends" want. They want to block every constitutional reform they can. They don't care whether this makes it impossible for Romney to break the 14-year Democratic rule in Michigan. They may even be pleased to throw glass in his path on the theory that a successful Romney would be more than they could stand, that inevitably he would cut down their political power.

GEORGE ROMNEY
Throat Being Cut?

This is why Romney heard a Gridiron Dinner solist, impersonating Mrs. Margaret Chase Smith, sing:

I feel so helpless each time that I detect That they're hanging poor old Romney to the mast.

There is no doubt that Romney's effectiveness as the Republican candidate for governor will be related to the quality of the new constitution the convention is trying to produce. But he has not yet lost the battle. He may still win the reforms he seeks. Even if he doesn't win them all, he will serve his own cause well by battling his opponents openly and vigorously to the end.

Protests E. German Police Firing at U.S. Military Car

BERLIN (AP) — A strong protest against the shooting up of an American military car by East German police has been sent to the Russians, the U.S. Army announced Friday.

An East German police squad riddled the rear of the car with submachine-gun bullets and punctured a tire but did not hit the occupants, a U.S. Army major and an enlisted driver.

The incident occurred Tuesday when the major challenged the right of the East German police to stop him, demanded to see a Soviet officer and drove on after an hour's argument, the Army said.

Despite the shooting, the second such case in two weeks involving British and American liaison officers stationed at Soviet Army headquarters at Potsdam outside Berlin, officers of the missions continued their lonely automobile tours through East Germany, informed sources said. The Russians have similar missions and rights of travel in West Germany.

Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, commander of the U.S. Army in Europe, addressed his protest to Marshal Ivan S. Konev, commander of Soviet forces in East Germany. It was handed to a Soviet liaison officer at Gen. Clarke's headquarters in Heidelberg Thursday.

Informed sources said Konev has not replied.

The British still are waiting for a reply to their protest to Konev about a similar shooting incident outside Berlin two weeks ago. The British driver of a staff car was seriously wounded then.

The U.S. shooting incident occurred Tuesday near Wahlwinkel, about 12 miles east of Eisenach, an East German town near the Iron Curtain border with West Germany.

The khaki-painted car bore large signs back and front identifying it as belonging to the U.S. liaison mission. East German action in halting it, the Army called "unaccountable and improper."

The East German squad leader, in refusing the U.S. officer's demand to see the Soviet regional commander, said, "We are in charge here."

Will Consider Repeat Concert By Symphony

By MOHAMMED IDREES Staff Writer

An unprecedented welcome awaits the Minneapolis Symphony Orchestra when it appears for a two-concert performance at SUI Monday.

The East Lobby Desk at the Union had sold all tickets for the two concerts — one at 2:30 and the other at 8 p.m. — by Friday afternoon.

Judging from the ticket sale and distribution, 2,600 SUIowans will attend the concerts in the Union's Main Lounge.

The University Concert Course, which is presenting the orchestra, is examining next year's program to see if it can have more concerts by the orchestra since this year's response is so enthusiastic.

Concert Course Manager William L. Adamson said a committee will consider featuring the orchestra in more concerts next year, but it will have to operate within certain limitations because of the expense involved in presenting the orchestra.

Cook To Discuss Asian Migrations on Tuesday

Ionic migrations to Asia Minor during the Greek Dark Age (around 1000 B.C.) will be the subject of an Archaeological Society lecture Thursday evening at SUI.

Prof. John M. Cook of the University of Bristol, England, will present slides illustrating his lecture in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol at 8 p.m. Thursday.

The public is invited. Cook is the 1961-62 Norton Lecturer for the Archaeological Institute of America. He will give a brief account of the early development of Ionic cities as revealed by excavation, and will show slides of sites, houses and fortifications.

Cook has excavated on Ithaca and Mycenae, Sparta and Knossos. From 1948-51 he conducted joint excavations at ancient Smyrna for the British School at Athens with Prof. Ekrim Akurgal of Ankara University.

Here the temple and houses of the early Greek city were cleared, and occupation levels dating from 3000 B.C. to 330 B.C. were discovered. In 1959-60, Cook carried out excavations in the extreme southwest corner of Asia Minor, uncovering remains of an ancient temple and sanctuary of the fourth century B.C.

Cook was educated at Marlborough and King's College, Cambridge University. He was a student at the British School of Archaeology at Edinburgh University from 1936-46, with an interruption for war service in the British Army from 1943-46.

From 1946-54, he was director of the British School at Athens, then became lecturer and reader in classical archaeology at Bristol University in 1954. He became professor of ancient history and classical archaeology at Bristol in 1958, a post he still holds.

Senator Says JFK's Friend Gets Account

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Carl T. Curtis (R-Neb) said Friday the Government-operated General Aniline and Film Corp. switched its lucrative advertising account to a firm employing a close personal friend of President Kennedy.

Curtis charged that "political maneuverings" were involved.

He identified the friend as K. Lemoyne Billings, vice president of Lenhen and Newell, a New York advertising firm. Billings and Kennedy have been friends since they were classmates at the Cheate School, in Wallingford, Conn.

Also securing business under the Kennedy administration's operation of the $170 million film and dye company, Curtis said, was the accounting firm with which Carmine Bellino, former accountant for Senate investigators, is now associated. Bellino worked closely with Attorney General Robert Kennedy when the President's brother was counsel for the Senate rackets committee.

In a speech on the Senate floor, Curtis offered for the Congressional Record two articles on Washington bureau chief for the General Aniline. The articles were printed in the Binghamton N. Y. Press.

Curtis said it was obvious that "the attributes of private business, namely, legal fees, advertising fees and auditing fees find their way to the faithful."

"We are all familiar with the fact that private businesses operated by the federal Government become a warm haven for high salaried patronage employees," Curtis said.

Curtis commented that General Aniline was seized as a German owned corporation and operated by the attorney general ever since. He said it is time to return it to normal operation.

Hill To Run Against Gross

WEBSTER CITY (UPI) — Neel F. Hill, 40-year-old Hamilton County farmer, Friday plunged into the 3rd District Congressional race which has been dominated the last 14 years by Rep. H. R. Gross, Waterloo Republican.

Hill announced as a candidate for the Democratic nomination from the enlarged 3rd district to which six counties were added in the 1961 redistricting which trimmed Iowa's Congressional districts from 8 to 7.

Hill said he had resigned from the Iowa Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee (ASC) and pledged to "conduct a vigorous campaign from the very beginning."

Gross, seeking re-election to his 8th term, will be opposed on the Republican ticket in the June 4 primary by Ernest Seemann, Waterloo.

Referring to Gross, Hill said the Congressman "claims the dubious honor of being a dedicated opponent of proposals which even his own party leadership declares essential." He said Gross has taken "the proverbial position of putting your head-in-the-sand or ignoring-dollar-bills-to-save-nickels."

He said he planned to hold at least 144 — "or a gross" — of meetings throughout the 3rd District during the primary campaign.

Hill said he looked forward to receiving support from "Eisenhower Republicans" who "must still remember the opposition" which he said Gross registered to the former president's Administration.

Lambda Chi Alpha Receives Charter At Dinner Tonight

Delegates from 13 area chapters arrived Friday for the weekend installation ceremonies of SUI's 20th national fraternity — Lambda Chi Alpha.

Tozier Brown, national president, will deliver the main address at the banquet tonight in the Union. National director Seth L. Winslow will present the charter to SUI colony President Lee Theisen.

Other speakers include: George Spasyk, Lambda Chi Alpha national service secretary; M. L. Huit, SUI Dean of Student Affairs; and Ralph Prusock, SUI fraternity advisor.

The first two colony presidents, Scott David of Chicago and John Price of Abilene, Texas, will attend the banquet.

A formal ball will be held after the banquet. The fraternity's Crescent Girl will be named during intermission.

Denmark Buys 3rd U.N. Bond for $2.5 Million

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Denmark paid $2.5 million Friday for the United Nations bond No. 3 in the biggest purchase yet toward a $200-million bond issue to wipe out the United Nations' deficit from its Congo and Middle East peace-keeping spending.

Three countries now have bought $5.78 million worth of bonds, of 20 that have promised to buy $149.31 million worth, in some cases subject to parliamentary approval.

Group To Discuss Education Method

Iowa City's Montessori group will meet at 8 p.m., Tuesday to inform interested persons about the Montessori process of education.

Montessori is a type of pre-school based on the belief that children need a specially prepared environment to develop normally.

The meeting will be held in the home of Miss Karene Eades, 1302 Ginter Ave.

The program will include a half-hour tape on the history and method of Montessori by Nancy Rambusch, president of the American Montessori Society. A demonstration of materials used in Montessori schools will be presented by Mrs. Gene Lata of Iowa City.

Information about present prospects of establishing a Montessori school in Iowa City this fall will be given. Literature will also be available.

SINFUL SKI RESORTS?

TUTZING, Germany (AP) — Roman Catholic Bishop Paul Rusch of Innsbruck, Austria, claims European ski resorts have become centers of what he called sinful and frivolous behavior. The bishop told a tourism study conference that tourists hungry for adventure seek ski resort amusement in a carnival atmosphere that leads to corruption.

Wilson Attacks Iowa Tax Policies

CEDAR FALLS (UPI) — Democrat William P. Wilson, at 24 one of the youngest candidates for the Iowa House of Representatives, Friday attacked "rural oriented taxation policies of Gov. Norman A. Erbe's Administration."

Wilson, of Cedar Falls, is seeking the Democratic nomination from Black Hawk County.

He said in a message to voters "the property tax re-valuation fiasco is an excellent example of the complete disregard for equality in taxation between the urban and rural areas of the state."

"The rural dominated Republican party has controlled all three branches of the Iowa Government by huge majorities during the past two years and they can blame no one but themselves for the fiscal mess we are in," he said.

To Attend Ad Meet

Nicki Ann Gustin, A4, Fort Dodge, and Larry Prybil, A4, Iowa City, have been selected to represent the SUI School of Journalism at the annual St. Louis Advertising Club College Awards program May 13 through 15. Both are majoring in advertising.

They will take part in three days of conferences with top-ranking advertising and journalism students from other midwestern colleges and universities as guests of the St. Louis Ad Club, which has sponsored the event for each of the last 17 years.

Miss Gustin, who has been a member of The Daily Iowan advertising staff, also has worked in the advertising department of The Fort Dodge Messenger. Prybil currently is advertising manager of The Daily Iowan.

Accompanying them to St. Louis will be E. John Kottman, instructor in advertising and faculty advertising adviser to The Daily Iowan.

Newman Club

"A little bit of Italy" will be the theme of the Newman Club's "spaghetti alla Carbonara" dinner Sunday at 6 p.m. in the Catholic Student Center.

The special dinner will be prepared by Dr. Luciano Lenzi and Dr. Umberto Bertazzoni and is open to the public. Prices will be 50 cents for Newman Club members and 75 cents for non-members.

To Speak on Press

Leslie G. Moeller, director of the School of Journalism, will speak before the American Association of University Women Tuesday.

His topic will be "The Role of the Newspaper in Today's Society."

SUI senior women, special guests of the association, will meet at 7:30 p.m. The general meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the Iowa Memorial Union.

Films on Jordan

Dr. Badi Mansour Boulos, G. Alexandria, Egypt, will speak and show slides on the country of Jordan Sunday at 7:30 p.m. in the East Lobby Conference Room of the Union.

Admission is free and coffee and cookies will be served.

Travel Movies

A prize-winning film producer will present two film-lectures in the Iowa Mountaineers series Sunday.

Curtis will present "Paris and the Riviera" at 2:30 p.m. and "The Road to Mandalay" at 7:30 p.m. in Macbride Auditorium.

The color Paris film shows artists, entertainers, and fashion collections along with famous landmarks of the city. The Mandalay film shows life in Singapore, Bangkok, Rangoon and Mandalay.

Genetics Film

All students are invited to see two movies to be shown Monday and Tuesday in the non-credit genetics course of the College of Medicine.

The two films, "Pleiotropism, Penetrance and Expressivity" and "Allelism and Lethals," will be shown at 12:30 p.m. both days in the Medical Amphitheater in the General Hospital.

Dr. Curt Stern, author of the text, Principles of Genetics, will be featured in the films, part of the 48-film series.

Hoeven Seeks An 11th Term

DES MOINES (UPI) — Iowa Congressman Charles B. Hoeven, Alton Republican, has filed his completed nomination papers with the secretary of state's office seeking his 11th term.

Hoeven, who submitted the papers late Thursday, has represented the old 8th District in northwest Iowa. The district was renumbered the 6th by the re-alignment of counties adopted by the 1961 Legislature. Six counties from the old 6th were added to the 8th to form the new 6th district.

Several persons seeking seats in the State Legislature also filed completed papers Friday or late Thursday. They included Reps. John M. Ely Jr. (D-Cedar Rapids); Merle W. Hagedorn (D-Royal); and Fred B. Hanson (R-Osage). Also filing were: Raymond T. Lucas Republican, to run for state representative from Lucas County, and Vernon Gerner, Shell Rock Democrat, seeking his party's nomination for state representative from Butler County.

Requesting nomination papers Thursday were William H. Merkle, Oelwein, who did not list a party affiliation, running for state representative from Fayette County; M. John Bevan, Bellevue Republican, seeking the Jackson County seat in the House, and J. Gilmore Long, Des Moines, who said he would campaign for one of the Polk County seats in the lower house of the Legislature.

SPI Candidates' Platforms

Below are the platforms of candidates for the board of trustees of Student Publications, Inc. One member will be elected for a one-year term, and two members for two-year terms.

JIM MORRISON One Year Term

1. To insure that SUI makes The Daily Iowan a newspaper of and for SUI students, autonomous of Administration wishes. Regular student opinion polls would be conducted in this respect. 2. To give the student editor full authority and responsibility for editorial with faculty acting in an advisory rather than approval relationship. 3. To continue The Daily Iowan Magazine supplement on a regular basis. 4. To have syndicated columns on the fine arts, etc. in accordance with student wishes. 5. To elect faculty members to SPI by a representative body of the faculty rather than present appointments by President Hancher.

LARRY PRYBIL One Year Term

1. To insure fair and complete presentation of both sides of campus issues, free from outside influence and to insure editorial interpretation of these issues, including guest editorials. 2. To obtain the best possible features, columns, etc., for The Daily Iowan. SUI should attempt to work to gain access to such features as "Peanuts," "Fogo," Lippman, Weston, and the New York Times wire service. 3. To work with the School of Journalism toward a revision of journalism curriculum which would enable journalism students to have two years of liberal arts work, then devote at least two consecutive semesters of concentrated work on the student publications in their junior year. This would prepare senior journalism students to take positions of responsibility equipped with a solid liberal arts background and practical experience. 4. To insure student publications have the best in modern equipment, including a new press for The Daily Iowan, and moving the shop to the Communications Center where original planning had it placed.

JULIE FILBERT Two Year Term

1. Uphold the original objectives of The Daily Iowan by printing more University news and fewer wire service articles. 2. Send daily issues of The Daily Iowan to various high school libraries to promote high school interest in the University. 3. Use The Daily Iowan to investigate the University's inconsistencies of admitting athletes who are academically ineligible.

JIM GEBBIE Two Year Term

1. Uphold the original objectives of The Daily Iowan by printing more University news and fewer wire service articles. 2. Send daily issues of The Daily Iowan to various high school libraries to promote high school interest in the University. 3. Use The Daily Iowan to investigate the University's inconsistencies of admitting athletes who are academically ineligible.

DENNIS W. BINNING Two Year Term

1. Consistently enforce the SPI

philosophy that The Daily Iowan should be a "well documented, responsible and precisely written" paper in the tradition of quality professional dailies. 2. SPI, as a buffer organization, should try to crack the present "iron curtain" of silence now surrounding Administration officials so that reporters have access to the men with direct information of importance to students — instead of having to accept pat handouts. 3. Agitation should be increased to get funds for a new fourth floor on the Communications Center in which to house a new press, for which SPI has nearly $100,000 in a University account. 4. Under no circumstances should student publications become an administration tool, but should remain under joint student-faculty control that reflects student opinions and interests. 5. Attempt to promote a humor magazine on campus. 6. Encourage wider contributions to the DI from outside the School of Journalism.

DENNIS W. BINNING Two Year Term

1. To insure that SUI makes The Daily Iowan a newspaper of and for SUI students, autonomous of Administration wishes. Regular student opinion polls would be conducted in this respect. 2. To give the student editor full authority and responsibility for editorial with faculty acting in an advisory rather than approval relationship. 3. ## DENNIS W. BINNING Two Year Term

1. Consistently enforce the SPI

Administration or SPI, while keeping in mind an independent paper must also be responsible. 2. I think the chairman of the board of trustees should be elected for a one-year term by the board. He is now appointed for an indefinite term by the Administration. 3. I will demand the highest professional qualifications for the editors of The Daily Iowan and Hawkeye, and make sure they represent no particular interest group. 4. I will insist that sound business practices govern The Daily Iowan and Hawkeye so that their equipment may be kept as up-to-date as possible, with an eye toward the expansion of the University. 5. SPI's proceedings, functions, and responsibilities to the student body should be made public, since it is a quasi-public corporation and its decisions affect the student body. 6. Increase the remuneration of the Hawkeye staff and increase those on salary, thereby giving just compensation for the time and effort devoted to it.

NANCY SHINN Two Year Term

1. A system should be set up whereby the validity of facts and sources of items printed in The Daily Iowan could be checked. 2. The editorial staff of The Daily Iowan should take a more firm stand on controversial University issues instead of their present "middle of the road" stand. 3. I feel there should be student reporters' analysis of wire service articles rather than the article being printed verbatim as is now the case. 4. Give more emphasis to campus news and less material from the wire services, thereby making the paper more oriented to campus activities. 5. Higher salaries for The Daily Iowan staff, so that there will be less loss of good personnel. 6. Establish a clearer line of communication between SPI, The Daily Iowan and the University, making SPI more aware of the needs of The Daily Iowan and the Hawkeye. 4. Encourage a policy of comments and articles by professors on current events and issues pertaining to the University. 5. Encourage various departments within the University (such as ROTC, Political Science, etc.) to make up a detailed calendar of their events for the coming year at the beginning of each semester, thus making it easier for The Daily Iowan to prepare stories and provide adequate space with this advance notice. 6. ## RAISE JFK BUDGET FOR MEDICAL STUDY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee Friday recommended a boost of more than $80 million in President Kennedy's request for medical facilities and research. It said the Administration "did not rise to the challenge" of fighting disease.

The recommendation and the charge were continued in the committee's report on a money bill, cleared Friday carrying $5,170,788,000 to run two big federal agencies during the fiscal year beginning July 1.

House consideration of the measure is due Tuesday. Its funds are for the Departments of Labor, Health, Education and Welfare and related agencies.

Despite the increases for health programs, the committee cut the department total by $105,720,000. Of this, $288 million was in deferred expenditures or bookkeeping transactions.

Regis vs. Laurens for State Title Tonight

Regis Scores Again

Larry Casey of Cedar Rapids Regis scores on a driving layup in the first half of Regis' High School Basketball Tournament win over Sioux City Central here Friday night. Attempting to block the shot is Central's Terry Peters (15). Converging on the play are Regis' Jim Wagner (52) and Central's Don Haster (55).

Royals Beat Central, 75-62; Elks Trim Sac City, 67-58

By Staff Writer

Cedar Rapids Regis badgered Sioux City Central with a relentless full court press in the Boys State Basketball semifinals here Friday night and the strategy paid handsome dividends—a 75-62 win over the Little Maroons and a shot at the title tonight against Laurens, 67-58 winners over Sac City in the second game Friday.

The Cedar Rapids five, the pre-tournament favorite will meet the sharpshooting Elks on the Field House floor tonight at 7:30. Central and Sac City will meet in a 6 p.m. battle for third place honors.

Regis, 22-5, jumped off to a 23-12 first quarter lead when Central grew careless with passes and committed several traveling violations.

The Little Maroons matched the Royals in second quarter scoring but trailed at the intermission 40-32.

When the Little Maroons did get the ball through the Regis press, a basket was almost inevitable. Central made an incredible 80 per cent of its field goal attempts in the first half, but only took 15 shots, hitting 12.

Meanwhile some consistent goaling by the Royals' Jim Cummins, Denny Phillips and Jim Wagner hinted that it might be a long evening for the Little Maroons if they failed to solve the Regis press.

Central did threaten early in the second half when consecutive baskets by Terry Peters, Cliff Wilder and Don Haster brought the little Maroons within four, 42-38.

But a fancy hook shot by Cummins, a free throw by center Joe Schmitz, a jump shot by Phillips and a layup by Schmitz pulled the Royals out of danger 49-38.

Regis led 66-45 at the end of the third quarter.

Four players were in double figures for Regis, with Cummins scoring 14, Phillips adding 16, Wagner counting 14 and Schmitz getting 10.

Central's scoring leaders were Haster and Kilstrom with 16 each and Wilder with 15.

Kilstrom the 6-5 center who averaged 20 points per game during the season, had hit for 23 points against Des Moines Roosevelt in Central's 63-56 win over the Rough Riders Thursday, but he was unable to spring loose against Regis.

The loss was Central's second in 25 games, the only other defeat coming at the hands of Sutherland, 66-63, in the season opener.

In the second game, Laurens again got classy performances from the Ziegler brothers, Bob and Don, who pitched in 17 and 16 points respectively.

Laurens, boosting its record to 27-1, took an 11 point second quarter lead and then fought off the game little Indians who came to life in the second half.

Sac City pulled within six points, 59-53, midway in the fourth quarter but was unable to catch the rangy Elks.

Sac City's loss was its second in 24 games. Top scorer for the Indians was little Ron Olson who hit 18 points. Sac City's 6-3 center Bill Arndt tossed in 18.

The Laurens five was backed by a home town crowd which appeared to be the entire population. Many of Sac City's residents were also on hand.

Sac City's loss was its second in 24 games.

Sherwyn Thorson Gains NCAA Mat Finals; Huff Out

Special to The Daily Iowan

STILLWATER, Okla. — Iowa's muscular 215-pounder Sherwyn Thorson won his way into the heavyweight finals of the NCAA championship meet here today with a 2-1 Friday night win over Michigan State's John Baum.

In another semifinal match Friday night, Iowa's All-America 130-pounder Tom Huff lost to Al DeLeon of Mankato State (Minn.).

Huff had gained the semifinals with an easy 12-3 win over Eddie Davies of Fresno State. In another afternoon match, Thorson pinned Toledo's Merrill Solowin in 3:49.

Thorson's victory over Baum in the evening round was a repeat of the Big Ten meet March 2, when the "Thumper" pinned Baum.

Thorson's opponent today will be Northwestern's Roger Pilla, who handed the Hawkeye his first and only defeat, pinning him in the Big Ten finals.

In team scoring, THORSON Iowa was tied for third with 12 points going into the evening semifinals, but only Thorson and Huff were still undefeated at that point.

Hawkeye 115-pounder Francis McCann drew a very rugged quarterfinal opponent in two-time NCAA champion Elliot Simons of Lock Haven, Pa., and dropped a 6-3 decision. Simons was voted the meet's outstanding wrestler last year.

In today's semifinal consolation, McCann will face Mike Grandstaff of Virginia Tech.

In other afternoon matches Friday, Iowa's Big Ten Champion Norm Parker, 123, lost a 5-1 match to Mike Nissen of Nebraska and 157-pounder Steve Combs was out-pinned by Skip Perillo of Oklahoma, 7-2.

Other Iowans advancing into today's finals are Frank Freeman, 123, and Bill Dotson, 137, both of the State College of Iowa.

Freeman gained the finals with a 4-2 win over Fred Powell of Lock Haven in the quarterfinal and out-pinned Richard Martin of Pittsburgh 7-5 in the semifinals.

Dotson defeated Navy's Mike Harmon 4-1 in his afternoon match and then trimmed Dan Fix of Colorado, 4-2, in the night-time bout.

SCI's fine 130-pounder Dave Jensen lost an overtime match to

Bucks Dump Wake Forest; Lucas Injured

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Jerry Lucas, Ohio State's three-time All-America, suffered an injured left knee Friday night as the top-ranked Buckeyes raced past bulky Wake Forest 84-68 in the opening semifinal game of the National Collegiate Basketball Championship.

Defending champion Cincinnati defeated UCLA, 72-70, in the second game of the doubleheader played before a sellout crowd of 18,274 at Freedom Hall. The Bearcats will meet Ohio State in the championship game tonight.

The 6-8, 223-pound Lucas, player of the year the last two seasons and playing his next to last college game, fell heavily to the floor with 6 minutes, 19 seconds left and the mighty Buckeyes leading by 19 points.

He lay on his side a few seconds, pain showing on his face, then slowly regained his feet. He gingerly tested his already heavily taped knee and twice almost collapsed as he put pressure on it, trying to walk.

Assisted to the bench, he was examined for about 30 seconds, then was led to the dressing room.

The knee was packed in ice and big Luke said, "I think I'll be able to play tomorrow night."

Until the accident, the brilliant all-around player of both Lucas and 6-5 John Havlicek had made the difference in the game.

The score was tied six times. OSU led 46-34 at halftime.

Lucas, who wound up with 19 points — 16 in the first half — picked up a couple of field goals on the fast break, but the big man was Havlicek, a 200-pound former all-state football quarterback from Lansing, Ohio, who had 25 points.

All-America Len Chappell, 6-8, 240-pound Wake Forest pivot man, led the Deacons with 27 points before fouling out in the closing minutes.

UCLA had one chance remaining.

Johnny Wooden's Bruins called time out with one second showing. But they weren't able to get off a shot when time resumed.

NEW ZEALANDER WINS

SEBRING, Fla. (AP) — Young Bruce McLaren of New Zealand wheeled the Italian Abarth team to a clean sweep Friday in the three hour race for grand touring cars under 1000 cubic centimeters.

The race was considered a warm-up for Saturday's 12-hour grand prix of endurance.

Feud Grows Hotter—

'Maris Couldn't Carry My Bat,' Says Hornsby

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) "He couldn't carry my bat." With those stinging words, Rogers Hornsby, baseball Hall of Fame hitter, turned up the heat Friday on a newly-spawned feud with Roger Maris, the 61-homer hitter of the New York Yankees.

Hornsby, now a coach with the New York Mets, called Maris a "little punk ball player," a swelled-up guy and a "bush leaguer" — the latter perhaps the sharpest of the printable things one major leaguer can call another.

It was the latest incident in a turbulent spring for Maris — known as "rude Roger" to at least one New York newspaper — that has included a running fight with the press, and a report he signed autographs with an "X."

The Hornsby-Maris spat started Thursday at an exhibition game between the Mets and the Yankees. A photographer asked Hornsby, one of the game's greatest hitters, to grab a bat and pose for a picture with Maris, who hit more home runs last year than any other man in a season.

Hornsby obliged, but Maris turned his back on the Mets' coach. "I've posed with some real major leaguers, not bush leaguers like he is," Hornsby exploded.

The Rajah still is fuming many hours after the incident. He said Maris muttered something when he turned his back on him.

"Something about 'that guy has been knocking me in the papers,'" Hornsby said. "I know what he meant. Last season I told a writer that there was only one thing Maris could do better than the Babe — that was, run."

"I'll give Maris credit for hitting 61," Hornsby said. "That's a tremendous feat. But he has the advantage of playing in Yankee Stadium. The stadium has a short right field and Maris is a right field hitter."

"The fellow's behavior off the field is unforgivable," Hornsby added.

AVERAGE LENGTH

The average National Football League game ran two hours and 35 minutes from kickoff to final gun during the 1961 season.

Bill DeWitt Buys Redlegs

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UP) — William O. (Bill) DeWitt, who led the Cincinnati Reds to a pennant in his first year with the organization, Friday purchased the club for $4,625,000 and immediately promised to keep the team in Cincinnati.

DeWitt, who has a long and varied career in baseball management was named president and general manager of the Reds Nov. 2, 1960, and through a series of good trades, saw the club win its first pennant since 1940.

The factor apparently entered into the minds of the Crosley Foundation directors who said they not only wanted assurance the team would be kept in Cincinnati but that it would have "capable management."

The sale of the baseball team has long been rumored, generally in connection with reports the club would be moved to a larger city. But this was always denied, a denial repeated again Friday in the official statement announcing the sale.

Nothing was said, however, as to how long the DeWitt organization would keep the club here.

Reliable sources said that DeWitt purchased the club for less than other offers. Three other groups were said to have bid recently, one of the bids being a $5.5 million offer by Joseph F. Rippe, a local real estate developer.

Paret vs. Griffith In Garden Tonight

NEW YORK (AP) — Welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret, a 4-1 underdog when he regained the crown from Emile Griffith six months ago, was made a 17-5 long-shot Friday for his third title fight with the New York milliner tonight.

They will clash in a television (ABC, 9 p.m., CST), 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden.

The odds seem way out of line, especially to the muscular, fast-punching champion from Cuba. The price apparently is based on Griffith's 13th round knockout of Paret at Miami, Fla., in their first title fight last April 1, and the fierce beating Paret absorbed in his 10th-round knockout defeat by middleweight king Gene Fullmer.

TELEVISION GAMES

BRADENTON, Fla. (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves ended their long holdout against television in Wisconsin Friday by announcing that 15 road games will be telecast this season to a Wisconsin network.

John McHale, club president and general manager, said that the tentative TV schedule calls for telecasting of nine Saturday games, five Sunday games and one during the week.

Manchester Judge To Speak At Finkbine Dinner Tuesday

Ninety-two SUI male students, chosen by the heads of their departments as "most likely to succeed" in their respective fields, have been invited to the 45th annual Finkbine dinner Tuesday in the Main Lounge of the Union.

Judge Shannon B. Charlton of Manchester will be the alumni speaker at the dinner. Charlton, a guest at the first Finkbine dinner in 1917, received a B.A. degree in political science from SUI in 1916. He left the SUI College of Law in the spring of 1917 for World War I military service. The judge recently retired after serving on the District Court bench at Manchester for several years.

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher will deliver the main address. Phillip Currie, A4, Mason City, editor of The Daily Iowan, will speak for the students.

The dinner was inaugurated in 1917 by the late W. O. Finkbine, a former Des Moines businessman and 1880 graduate of the SUI College of Law, and the late Carl Kuehne, from Denison, an 1882 graduate of the College of Law.

The number of students invited from each school or department is determined by its enrollment, some students selected before were named to the list this year. One hundred students, asked to the banquet in the past, were also invited this year.

Invitations were also sent to members of Omicron Delta Kappa, men's honorary leadership fraternity; leaders of other men's campus organizations; and nearly 1,000 Finkbine "alumni" living in the Iowa City area.

Students invited to attend are Larry Vickrey, L3, Albia; James McMahon, L3, Algon; Stephen Walsh, M3, Ames; Richard Frank, B4, Anamosa; Gael Miller, A4, Anita; Harold Hatfield, A4, Bedford; David Fisher, L3, and Ronald Stolte, E4, Boone; Joseph Lord Jr., E4, and Alan Pistorius, A4, Burlington.

William Whelpley, A4, Cedar Rapids; John Cortesio Jr., L3, Centerville; Stephen Curtis, M3, Cherokee; Gary Lorenz, A4, Howard Mayer Jr., A4, and John Quinn, A3, Harlan.

Robert C. Cronk, 1104 Muscatine Ave., has announced his candidacy for the office of National Director of the Iowa Junior Chamber of Commerce.

If elected, Cronk would be one of five men in Iowa who coordinate work between the state and local Jaycee groups and the national organization.

Cronk is presently a state vice president in the Iowa Jaycee Organization. The election for the Iowa National Directors will be held the last week in April at the Iowa Jaycee Convention in Waterloo.

conduct, will not be broadcast: but the evening program may be heard simultaneously from both WSUI and KSUI-FM.

AS FOR TODAY, there's important music on CUE, too, at 10 to 1 (which is pretty good odds). The old French horn, Anna Russell, is the one funny type in a morning of guests who are all business: an Internal Revenue agent; the director of the SUI Summer Repertory Company; a military intelligence officer; and an assistant secretary of commerce. That's plenty of brass.

EVERYBODY TALKS ABOUT IT, but today at 1 p.m. Saturday Supplement will do something about the weather: it will broadcast a lot of things that people actually say to each other when they're talking about it. Meteorologists, geologists, and other research-minded types will be on hand; and there will also be some revealing details about the running battle between the U.S. Weather Bureau and the Krick on its back.

County's Children To Get TB Tests Monday, Tuesday

Johnson County school children in grades 1, 5, 9, and 12 will be given tuberculosis tests Monday and Tuesday. All tests will be read by physicians two days after the tests are administered.

The tests are sponsored by the Johnson County Tuberculosis and Health Association and are a continuation of the program begun in 1959-60.

The schedule is: Monday: Iowa City parochial schools, University elementary and high schools; Solon and Newport Township schools at Solon; Tiffin and Madison Attendance Centers at Tiffin; Penn Township school at North Liberty; Coralville, Scott, and Liberty Township schools at Coralville. All testing programs begin at 9 a.m.

Rural teachers and other employees will be tested at the County Courthouse from 4 to 5 p.m. Monday.

Tuesday: Lone Tree, Pleasant Valley Township, Hills Parochial School, and Liberty No. 4 at Lone Tree, 9 to 9:45 a.m.; Iowa Menonite, Washington Township and Sharon Township at Iowa Menonite School in Kalona; 9:15 to 10:15 a.m.; Cosgrove school at Cosgrove; 1:30 p.m.; Oxford school at Oxford, 1:30 p.m.

McClellan agreed, but he said, "It may be a month before we are through with the debate merely because some persons, would impose their will and their way of doing things on citizens of other states."

Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) told newsmen, however, that he expects the Senate may get to a first vote by Monday or Tuesday.

Arkansas is one of the five states in which payment of a poll tax is a prerequisite for voting. The others are Alabama, Mississippi, Texas, and Virginia.

The fight over changing the Constitution to outlaw the poll tax as a requirement for voting in federal elections now is in its eighth day. This prompted Ervin to suggest the Senate is spending "an awful lot of time on an exceedingly small matter."

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.) told his colleagues the poll tax doesn't disenfranchise anybody. "People who refuse to pay their poll tax disenfranchise themselves," he said.

Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) said the $1-a-year poll tax levied by his state is used for the support of the schools, and demanded to know what is wrong with requiring citizens to pay it for the privilege of voting.

Iowa City Buzzes With High School Fans

Regis Meets Laurens at 7:30 Tonight

By JOE GEHRINGER
Staff Writer

Excitement is nearing its peak for the championship game of the 1962 Boys State High School Basketball Tournament, which begins tonight at 7:30 in the SUI Field House. Cedar Rapids Regis will meet Laurens in the championship game. Sioux City Central will play Sac City in the consolation round, beginning at 6.

Francis (Buzz) Graham, business manager of athletics, Friday said reserve and general admission tickets were available for tonight's games. Prices are $2 for reserve tickets and $1.25 for general admission.

An estimated 10,000 fans invaded Iowa City for the three days of tournament play filling hotels and motels, and restaurants.

Bill Gilpin, treasurer of the Iowa City JayCeers' basketball housing committee, said arrangements had been made to accommodate over 400 high school students in schools throughout the city.

He said they were sleeping on gymnasium floors on mattresses and mattress covers rented from SUI.

Groups of these, dressed in their school colors, made their way through downtown Iowa City, buying sweatshirts, tournament hats, plastic whistles and other souvenirs.

Iowa City should be back to normal by Monday morning.

Not Too Busy to Eat

Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Hawley and children, Cynthia, 13, and Fred, 11, of Laurens, take time out for lunch in their busy tournament schedule. "We're for Laurens all the way," Hawley said. He added that although he had no relatives on the team, he was still an avid supporter. Laurens is the smallest school in the tourney.

Let's Hurry, Guys

Eager Sac City students hurried through downtown streets Friday afternoon as they waited for their game with Laurens at 9 p.m. The students are: (from left) Dick Olsen, Bob Bowker, Terry Parkinson and Ron Olson. Three of the students display letter jackets which have been so prevalent around Iowa City during the basketball tournament.

'8-Ball in the Corner Pocket'

Many high school students were found in the Iowa Memorial Union during the tournament days. These two fans from Sioux City Central High School seem particularly interested in the pool game in progress. Other student groups invaded the Gold Feather Room, the cafeteria and other areas of the Union.

What's New?

Three Sioux City Central fans stopped in at The Daily Iowan newsroom to pick up copies of Friday's DI. They were given a tour of the newsroom operation. Watching the Associated Press and United Press International wire machines are (from left) David Kipf, Jim Youngquist and Walt Bedinger.

Roughrider Hat?

Looking over merchandise in one of Iowa City's stores is Denny Kavocovich of Des Moines. He will be cheering for the Roosevelt High School Roughriders. Denny is one of the many students sporting tournament hats they purchased in Iowa City stores. His is a sort of Gauncho hat.

Busy Shoppers

While in Iowa City (from left) Linda Dallenbader and Elaine Runneberg from Laurens take advantage of their free time to do some shopping. Laurens was scheduled to meet Sac City in the second round tournament game Friday at 9 p.m. The girls appear quite calm as they wait for their turn to scream for the Laurens team.

Traveling Central Boosters

One of the many cars decorated for the Boys State High School Basketball Tournament being held in Iowa City cruises the city streets. These fans proclaim their support of Sioux City's Central High School team which won its first round game Thursday afternoon. One load of fans arrived via bus with a sign announcing 'Iowa City or Bust.' Whether arriving by car or bus the students were everywhere rousing support for their various teams.
