IN THE STATE—
DES MOINES — U.S. Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper filed his nomination papers Friday and commented that his campaign for reelection to a fourth term "looks all right."

Hickenlooper will be opposed in the primary by Herbert Hoover, Oskaloosa, a distant relative of the former President.

DES MOINES — The Iowa Supreme Court Friday was asked to reconsider its decision upholding the validity of the state Senate reapportionment act passed by the 1961 legislature.

Attorneys for Charles Selzer, superintendent of schools at Amana, and Robert F. Barclay, Iowa City, filed a motion requesting a rehearing of the case by the high tribunal.

IN THE NATION—
SAN PEDRO, Calif. — An explosion ripped a missile frigate under construction at Todd Shipyards Friday, injuring a number of workmen.

Half a dozen men were reported seriously hurt or burned, with perhaps a dozen others suffering lesser injuries.

Cause of the blast aboard the USS England was not immediately learned.

WASHINGTON — Two top officers of the U.S. Communist party, Gus Hall and Benjamin J. Davis were arraigned in federal court Friday on charges of violating the Internal Security Act of 1950.

They pleaded innocent and were continued in $5,000 bail each pending an exchange of legal arguments on whether they should go to trial. The arguments may go on for months.

NEW YORK — Singer Eddie Fisher said he made a dramatic transatlantic plea Friday to Elizabeth Taylor to affirm their love for each other, but she refused. The report strengthened reports of their estrangement.

IN THE WORLD—

BUENOS AIRES — Senate President Jose M. Guido was installed as provisional chief executive of Argentina ending at least temporarily the 12-day political crisis climaxed by military ouster, arrest and banishment of President Arturo Frondizi.

ALGIERS — The Secret Army Organization (OAS) carried out a new wave of terrorist attacks against Moslems and rocked the city with plastic bomb explosions again during the night in protest against formation of the Moslem dominated Provisional Executive that will rule Algeria till full independence comes.

Meanwhile President Charles de Gaulle's Government announced that it has smashed a plot by the underground Secret Army Organization (OAS) to launch a major terrorist offensive in France. It said many terrorists have been arrested.

Details were not disclosed but the plot was believed to call for wide-spread plastic bombs and attempts to assassinate members of the Government.

GENEVA — The United States will submit to the Geneva disarmament conference a plan calling for elimination of national armies within nine years and their replacement by a United Nations force, reliable sources said.

BERLIN — The Russians increased their harassment of Allied air traffic by sending eight military transports on day and night flights in the Berlin air lanes to the West. No incidents were reported, however.

U.S. Plans Aid Cut to Some Segregated Schools

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary Abraham A. Ribicoff made a surprise announcement Friday that the Kennedy Administration plans to take its first direct action against racial segregation in the nation's schools.

In a statement that drew immediate fire from Southern Democrats in Congress, Ribicoff said his Health, Education and Welfare Department will cut off some federal aid next year to certain segregated schools attended by the children of servicemen and Government workers living on federal installations. Integrated schools would be provided for the youngsters.

Ribicoff also said the Justice Department was considering legal action aimed at ending all such "impacted areas" assistance to segregated schools.

The political effect of Ribicoff's statement, which came as a complete surprise to Congress, was expected to be immediate and troublesome for some of President Kennedy's key legislative proposals such as his liberal trade plan and medical care program.

To win congressional approval, Kennedy is depending heavily on support from Southern Democrats.

So far, the Southerners have displayed a willingness to be wooed. But Sen. Strom Thurmond (D-S.C.) said the aid cut-off "constitutes a flagrant act of economic blackmail." Sen. Herman E. Tamm (D-Ga.) said the administration was "about to engage in an act of usurpation of legislative authority over education reserved by the Constitution to the States."

Administration officials said Ribicoff's statement had been cleared with the White House in advance.

But officials emphasized there was no authority or present intention to make any wholesale cuts in federal aid to segregated schools in impacted areas.

The change of policy would affect only a small part of the $285-million a year "impacted areas" aid program for schools claiming they are overcrowded because of nearby federal activities.

The ruling would cut off assistance paid to local schools which serve the children of persons who both work and live on federal property. For the most part, this would mean the children of servicemen stationed in Southern states.

It would not touch payments on behalf of persons who work at federal installations or defense-related factories but live elsewhere. This category is by far the largest part of the impacted areas program. Ribicoff was unable to give the subcommittee detailed figures on the amount of money and number of school children involved in the new ruling. An unofficial tabulation showed that it could affect payments of more than $8.7 million on behalf of some 46,000 students in 11 Southern states.

However, Ribicoff said there were 200 federal installations where resident children were served by segregated schools. He said some of these installations were served by several schools.

An official of the U.S. Office of Education said the Government paid nearly $15 million toward maintenance and construction of "federally impacted" schools in the 11 Southern states in fiscal 1961. About 53,000 children of federal employees were involved, but some attended nearby integrated schools and some went to schools on federal installations.

The official said that unless the school districts involved became integrated before the fall of 1963, there would be considerable duplication of school facilities in the affected areas.

Flood Danger Nearing Waterloo

White Named to High Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Deputy Atty. Gen. Byron R. White, former All-American football player, Rhodes Scholar and corporation lawyer, was named by President Kennedy Friday night to succeed retiring Justice Evans Whitaker on the Supreme Court bench.

The President said he picked the 44-year-old White, known as "Whizzer" in his football days, because his "character, experience and intellectual force qualify him superbly for service on the nation's highest tribunal."

White's appointment, which is subject to Senate confirmation, would tip the present balance of a liberal-conservative conflict on the court to the liberal side. An old friend of the President, White regards himself as a liberal.

The appointment, Kennedy's first to the high tribunal, also would mean that the court would be composed of six Democrats and three Republicans.

First reaction from members of Congress was highly favorable. Some hours before announcement of White's appointment, Welfare Secretary Abraham A. Ribicoff, among those mentioned as possibilities for the post, removed himself for consideration by saying he preferred to run for the Senate from Connecticut.

Others mentioned for the appointment included Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg, Harvard law professor Paul A. Freund and several federal appeals court judges.

Prof Ranks Birth Control Over Space

"In my opinion it is more important to the welfare of our nation, and to the entire world as well, that we make an all-out effort to stem the tide of population growth through a reduction in the birth rate, than it is that we strive mightily and spend huge sums to put a man on the moon," Harold Saunders, SUI professor of sociology said Friday.

Furthermore, to consider interstellar migration and colonization to relieve population pressure on this planet is utterly ridiculous, he added.

Professor Saunders addressed Iowa industrial editors meeting on the campus.

He said the "population explosion" is in many ways more of a problem than the threat of World War III. This situation will drain away much of the economic gains to be attained through scientific and technological advance, he said. Also, it is one of the basic conditions producing and accentuating group tensions which make nuclear war highly probable with a mounting armaments race.

"As American dollars continue to be allocated to the needs of other peoples and cultures around the world, it is both humane and enlightened self-interest that we negotiate and plan with them effective ways and means to reduce their rates of population increase in order to elevate their levels of living and make it possible for them to share in the abundance that modern science affords," said Saunders.

Indict Ex-Soldier For Giving Reds Nuclear Secrets

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — George John Gessner, a former soldier, was indicted by a federal grand jury Friday on charges of giving a Soviet agent information about nuclear weapons.

The six-count indictment held that information was allegedly transmitted by Gessner, 25, to a Soviet agent. The federal building swarmed with federal security agents as the indictment was announced. Some of the details in the indictment are classified.

Gessner, arrested March 19 on his release from the U.S. Disciplinary Barracks at Ft. Leavenworth where he had served a term for desertion, was sent to the U.S. medical center at Springfield, Mo., for psychiatric examination.

The indictment alleged Gessner, formerly of Homestead, Pa., gave information relating to the firing system of the Mark VII, weapon, an 8-inch gun-type nuclear weapon, and methods of operating the weapons. The final count said Gessner had reason to know the persons to whom he allegedly passed the information were representatives of a foreign government.

Student Loans Bill Receives First OK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An additional $3.1 million would be made available for student loans at colleges and universities in nine mid-western states, including Iowa, under the supplemental appropriation bill approved Friday by the House Appropriation Committee.

The committee recommended approval of the $16,155,000 which the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare sought for student loans authorized by the National Defense Education Act.

The money is needed, the committee said in a report accompanying its bill, for loans to about 36,000 students who can enter college this fall.

Proposed Iowa allocation of the money, including amounts in the supplemental bill and student loan funds already available, in that order, is $406,659 and $1,313,281.

Peaceful Pickets Parade

Nearly 40 persons protesting compulsory ROTC at SUI picketed the annual Army - Air Force ROTC Military Ball Friday night. The gathering was the second picket session of the day. A token group of five started the picketing Friday afternoon in front of President Hancher's office at Old Capitol. Joining the night picket line was Walter Keller, G, Brooklyn, N.Y., and his German shepherd, Ko Ko von Nordland.

40 Picket Military Ball

By STEVE SANGER
Staff Writer

About 40 persons picketed the Military Ball at the Iowa Memorial Union Friday night to protest compulsory ROTC.

The picketing, organized by the Student Peace Union (SPU) Committee to Abolish Compulsory ROTC, was joined by members of the Socialist Discussion Club (SDC), Student Association for Racial Equality, American Civil Liberties Union and other interested persons.

SPU spokesmen said they were pleased with the turnout and that the picketing accomplished its purpose of "focusing attention on compulsory ROTC."

Richard L. Talcott, A1, Des Moines, SPU president, said there will be an open discussion of the picketing Wednesday, at 7:30 p.m. in the Pentacrest Room.

The marchers carried signs such as, "We Want Freedom of Choice," "Down With Regimentation, Up With Education," and "Ames First, SUI Next." Iowa State University at Ames recently abolished compulsory ROTC.

There was some excitement when a crowd of about 50 undergraduate men appeared and watched while three of their group hung a sign over the entrance to the Main Lounge of the Union, where the picketing was centered.

The sign read, "Abolish SPU and SDC, Use Method, Not Madness." A slight scuffle resulted when a WSUI reporter tried to question an unwilling woman marcher.

Several bystanders pulled one man out of the picket line to answer their questions. He pulled away and continued walking. SPU had handed out an instruction sheet which warned against violence before the demonstration.

Bruce Parker, chief of campus police and three uniformed officers were present. Parker said several plainclothesmen were circulating in the crowd.

Once, a student in an I-cap with a sign reading, "I like ROTC," posed on the steps with the picketers and their signs.

Friday afternoon, five persons demonstrated in front of President Hancher's office at Old Capitol. It was described by one as a "token picket."

SPU had planned to picket Hancher's home, but decided against it. No reason was given.

At the end of the demonstration, two marchers sang a chorus of "I Don't Want to Join the Army."

Conduct Survey of Fund Honors Women on Hours

Are SUI coeds night people? This question may be answered when the Central Judiciary Committee of the Associated Women Students completes a survey it has been conducting during the past week.

From Sunday through today judiciary representatives have been stationed at the entrances to all dormitories and sorority houses during the two hours before closing.

As each student enters, she is asked her classification and a mark is recorded on a sheet with others of her group. The purpose of the survey is to see what the coeds are doing with the new hours.

The survey is being conducted from 10 p.m. to midnight on week nights and 11:30 p.m. to 1 a.m. on weekends. Closing hours are 11 p.m. for freshmen and midnight for upperclassmen on week nights and 1 a.m. for everyone on weekends.

Women's closing hours last year were 10:30 p.m. during the week and 12:30 a.m. on the weekends for all coeds.

Fund Honors Dorr Hudson

A memorial fund honoring the late Iowa City Mayor Dorr Hudson, who died Tuesday, has been established with proceeds going to the city Recreation Fund.

Contributions are being received at Beckman's Funeral Home. At requiem high mass Friday in St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Iowa Citizens paid last respects to the mayor.

Mr. Hudson was lauded as "a man who served his God as a good member of society, through his hard and serious work toward making Iowa City a better place to work and to live," by Father Eugene Benda, who officiated in the service.

"Both as a man and as a leader of men, Mr. Hudson will be missed in this community," the priest said.

Hundreds of Iowa City business, education, and governmental leaders gathered to pay final tribute to the mayor.

Uniformed policemen and firemen attended and formed an honor guard outside the church before and after the mass.

BARBARA STEELMAN
Honorary Cadet Colonel

Barbara Steelman, A4, West Des Moines, was crowned Honorary Cadet Colonel at the annual SUI Military Ball Friday night.

She was crowned by Mike Arganbright, A4, Guthrie Center, corps commander of the SUI Air Force and Army ROTC units.

Miss Steelman is a member of Delta Gamma social sorority and is president of the liberal arts senior class this year.

Floyd Down, Sioux Rising In Sioux City

Evacuation Starts In Eastern Iowa

Combined from Leased Wires
Iowa's flooding rivers are receding at danger points at Sioux City, Cherokee, Charles City and Marshalltown. While downstream areas prepared for the battle.

The Cedar River was rising rapidly at Waterloo Friday night and volunteers were set to work around-the-clock on sandbagging operations.

The river rose to 17.2 feet at 9 p.m., a boost of 12 inches in three hours. However, city officials say it would take a rise to about 21 feet to cause serious flooding.

The U.S. Geological Survey has predicted a crest of 19 feet for late Sunday.

The river was over its banks in many low areas, and had surged into the Waterloo ball park and into the grounds around the Waterloo Dairy Cattle Congress Auditorium.

Flood waters from the Cedar River had blocked Highway 20 between Waterloo and nearby Cedar Falls.

Firemen made a door-to-door tour of Cedar Falls earlier Friday and alerted residents of possible danger. Officials said up to 200 persons could be affected by flood waters in Cedar Falls.

Toiling flood fighters won their battle against the Floyd River Friday and began battering down for a new fight against the marauding Big Sioux.

For the second day in a row, the cool temperatures slowed the melting of snow in the northern counties and helped to ease the strain on flooding streams.

While the city's flood emergency committee went home for a few hours sleep for the first time in nearly a week, work crews began throwing up an earthen dike to ward off a Big Sioux River crest expected by early Monday.

Crews moved 140 truckloads of dirt an hour up to the Big Sioux and began building a 3,000-foot-long dike 3 to 3½ feet high.

The Little Sioux River edged above 14 feet at Spencer for the first time Friday afternoon. A crest of from 14.5 to 16 feet was indicated for Sunday.

The Missouri River was spreading over more bottomlands south of Bellevue, Neb., and across the river to the east, Pacific Junction, Iowa, braced for a major test of its dike system.

All but two highways between South Dakota and northwest Iowa were closed by high water. In all, 7 Iowa highways were blocked by floods.

John Story, reservoir manager at the Coralville Dam, said Friday that the crest of the Iowa River, which reached Marshalltown Thursday, should take about five days to reach the Coralville reservoir.

Story said the level of the reservoir was 691 feet above sea level, more than a foot above Thursday's level.

He said more than 13,000 cubic feet of water per second (cfs) is entering the upper end of the reservoir near Marengo. The discharge rate is 9,000 cfs. The river stage was 10.58 feet at Iowa City.

The reservoir can store almost 21 more feet of water before reaching the top of the spillway, 712 feet above sea level.

Lost? Don't Ask Us, We're Confused Too

As the University gets larger it becomes increasingly difficult to keep various buildings straight. To overcome this problem we have prepared this handy guide:

The first places you should try to locate are the University's several halls. There's East Hall, North Hall, Schaeffer Hall, Macbride Hall, Close Hall, University Hall, Currier Hall, Burge Hall, and the Music Rehearsal Hall.

The lawns are fairly easy since there are only three of them, Eastlawn, Westlawn, and Parklawn.

At this point perhaps we should explain about the five Law Building temporaries, A, B, C, D, and E. They are on the east side of the river next to North Hall, and across the street from the Dental Building. Of course the Law Building is on the west side of the river north of Westlawn. Here it gets a bit complicated.

Originally North Hall was the Law Building and the Law Building wasn't. When the new Law Building was built someone decided to call the old Law Building North Hall since they thought calling it the Old Law Building would create a mix-up. Nonetheless, many of the misguided student body persist in calling North Hall the Old Law Building or just the Other Law Building.

Other old buildings to watch out for include the Old Armory with its respective temporary, by far the most permanent temporary on campus. This should not be confused with the Armory which is really in the Field House. One should also be careful in distinguishing between the Dental Building and the Old Dental Building.

There is one more building at SUI officially recognized as "Old." That is Old Capitol. But don't try to find its successor. That's in Des Moines.

There are a number of Finkbines which add appreciably to the confusion. Finkbine Park is for married students. Finkbine No. 1 is for camping out. Finkbine No. 2 is for golf. And the Finkbine Dinner was for speeches at the Union last Tuesday night.

A final word of caution, don't confuse Quadrangle with South Quadrangle. The results can be embarrassing at the least. A Quad resident we know was awakened one night recently by a lost South Quad resident. The misguided one had the right room but the wrong building.

We hope this little guide has been of some help. But if you're still confused you'd better not ask us. We're busy trying to figure out why West Liberty is to the east of North Liberty and Liberty itself isn't even on the map.

Makes Little Difference

Dr. James Van Allen, head of SUT's physics department and nationally respected space scientist, struck a heart-warming blow for good old horse sense last week while testifying before the House Science and Astronautics Committee.

There has been a running squabble over "Anna," a proposed satellite experiment that is aimed at improving the measurement of distances between points on the earth. Some scientists have become indignant because Anna's intercontinental measurements are off by as much as 500 feet at times.

The Pentagon recently classified information concerning Anna. This made some scientists irate. They argue that Anna offers a unique opportunity to refine their knowledge of the earth. But the Pentagon says the information could help the Russians improve their ICBM accuracy.

This is where Dr. Van Allen comes in. He agreed. But he added, gesturing at the 100-foot-long Caucus Room where the House Committee was meeting: "It really makes very little difference whether the center of impact of the thermonuclear weapon is in one corner of this room or the other."

Must Consider Suburbia In Figuring Reapportionment

By DAVE DODRILL Staff Writer

On Monday, the U.S. Supreme Court handed down a verdict which, in short, said unfair distribution of seats in a state legislature may be challenged by the federal courts.

This means that urbanites will have the legal machinery to order work for a change in voting districts by legislatures. Also, on the basis of current population figures, they have the legal machinery to give metropolitan regions fair representation in state assemblies and Congress.

When the High Court decided that federal judges did have the right to decide in cases of malapportionment, to many people it signaled a shot-in-the-arm for a trend toward Congressional "liberalism." The reasoning behind this is that rural (conservative-voting) areas are over-represented in the House of Representatives, and that reapportionment would sharply increase the number of urban Congressmen who would presumably vote more "liberally."

However, there are two considerations which tend to discount this argument. The first is that a new force, suburbia, must be taken into account when figuring reapportionment. Although a geographical extension of the urban area, suburbia has a number of characteristics, one being its voting behavior, which distinguishes it from the "mother cities."

BEFORE LOOKING into the distinctions, a breakdown of current representation is needed. According to "Congressional Quarterly," urban districts (containing at least one "central city" of 50,000 or more) have about 29.7 percent of the country's population and 27.9 percent of the seats in the House.

Suburbs (areas contiguous to "central cities" having population not over 250,000 or one-third of the "central city") have 14.1 percent of the population and control 9.3 percent of the House seats. Rural areas (those not included in urban and suburban regions) have 56.2 percent of the population but control 62.8 percent of the House seats.

In an "ideal" apportionment rural voters would lose 27 representatives, seven of them going to urbanites and 20 to suburbanites.

In the 87th Congress urban areas have 126 House seats divided among Democrats and Republicans, 93-33 respectively; sub-urbanites occupy 60 seats — 31 Republicans, 29 Democrats — and rural areas seat 110 Republicans and 140 Democrats. (These figures do not include the "at-large" seat in Connecticut.)

THE SIGNIFICANCE of these numbers is the division of suburbia into half Republicans and half Democrats. If the present ratio is maintained, the 20 new suburban seats would be divided equally between the two parties. Past voting patterns of representatives from suburbia, based on "party lines" and Democrat-Republican coalitions, indicate no change in the liberal vs. conservative vote.

The other major consideration in discounting a rise in liberalism is the seniority system which places power in the hands of men who come from politically "safe" (usually conservative-voting) districts lying in the rural areas of the North and South. In the 87th Congress there are 20 Democratic committee chairmen, 14 of which are from rural areas and 10 of those from the South.

By gaining control of committees, these men are able to "kill" liberal legislation before it gets to the House floor.

One must consider, too, the single-member district system. Although U.S. Senators, representing a whole state, are well aware of pressures from urban areas to obtain assistance from the Federal Government, the House member is far less subject to these pressures, unless there is an urban area within his district. He will likely be representing his constituents' views when he votes against government aid to urban regions.

To present a subject such as this in any detail would take many columns of statistics, charts, and definitions. The ideas presented here are quite simplified but illustrate some of the general ideas that are involved in considering a shift toward liberalism with nation-wide reapportionment.

Letters to the Editor —

Offers Dissent To Editorial On Picketing

To the Editor: As a spokesman for the Student Peace Union, may I dissent from the conclusions drawn in your editorial (March 30) opposing the decision by the SPU to picket the Military Ball?

We could have wished that you would have ASSUMED that our intention to picket was a deliberate and serious political action (you could, after all, have avoided such biased terms as "screaming mimies' attitude" and "If the SPU really is sincere...") but this is of minimal importance. We were furthermore aware of the objections and alternatives cited, but chose to picket because under the circumstances we felt it was the most viable and expressive form of protest.

Your editorial stated that petitioning might exert more influence than picketing. This is not true. As President Hancher stated (in reference to the Hancher affair) "It's easy to get anybody to sign a petition."

Which also isn't so: The atmosphere of fear and the many urges to conformity make it quite difficult to convince many people to sign a petition, their signature on which, they feel, might at some future date be used against them. Furthermore, petitions almost always assume the role of a show of strength in opposition — which we most certainly do not intend. Rather, we wish to present a symbolic and visual demonstration of our disapproval.

Your further suggestions that we might work through either the Student Senate or the Committee on Student Life, in view of the recent campus elections, can hardly be considered a reasonable alternative.

Student government on this campus, at the present time, is a farce, and the two aforementioned committees are without either authority or influence.

It needs to be pointed out, perhaps, that the responsibility for the decision to continue or to abolish compulsory ROTC does rest very largely with the University Administration. It is pretty generally known that the Defense Department and the various branches of the armed forces consider that required ROTC is a hindrance to efficient recruiting for the advanced four-year advanced programs. In view of this fact, it is difficult to see why we should not focus our attention upon this role of the Administration.

We do not feel it essential that the editorial policies of The Daily Iowan coincide with our decision to use the tactic of picketing to make public our opposition to compulsory ROTC. May we only ask that when, in the future, the editors take the time and the initiative to oppose decisions of the SPU, they first take the time and consider what their own opinions may be?

News Notes

A great many people in the United States, letting their wishes rule their minds, have refused to believe that Soviet astronaut Titov really made 17 orbits around the earth.

Now the National Aeronautics Association has accepted Titov's claim to both length and time of flight, which should let people get back to more profitable speculation.

Man's desire to know where he is from is just about on a par with his speculations as to where he is going. The search for evidence has been going on for a very long time.

But once you get back 14 million years, the process becomes rather meaningless as an answer to the more pressing question of where he is right now — and, for Pete's sake, why?

Johnson County Cancer Drive Opens Tomorrow

The Johnson County Cancer Crusade — which opens officially Sunday — will get a head start today, when a giant sign to measure the progress of the drive toward its $25,000 goal is erected.

The sign, to be placed on the north side of the Iowa State Bank and Trust Co. Building, will be constructed in the form of a space capsule, with the capsule moving up thermometer-like graduations, showing day-by-day progress.

The sign will be erected by volunteers, according to Lawrence Walcott, publicity chairman for the drive.

"Anyone who is willing to roll up his sleeves and work is welcome," he added. "It's for a very worthy cause."

Sheldon Edwards, rabbi of the Agudas Achim congregation, is chairman of the Johnson County Crusade.

Edwards said, "Starting Sunday, volunteers will call on friends and neighbors with the double-barreled objective of saving lives now and in the future."

"Every resident in Johnson County can cooperate by heeding the advice of the literature the volunteers will distribute and by making a contribution," he said.

Half the persons who get cancer this year could be saved, if the cancer was found and treated in time, he noted.

"Our objective is to help save these lives — an estimated 260,000 men, women and children," he said.

"The long-range objective is to save the 260,000 others who will get cancer this year," he added. "Hope for them rests with scientists who are searching for breakthroughs that will cure all types of cancer or perhaps prevent them."

"The more money we can earmark for cancer education," Edwards continued, "the more people we can reach with life-saving information."

"I urge every one of my fellow townsmen to give to the Crusade and to help Johnson County exceed its goal," he said.

Chairmen appointed by Edwards are Allin W. Dakin, SUI administrative dean, SUI chairman; Michael Maduff, A3, Oak Park, Ill., student chairman; and SUI President Virgil M. Hancher, honorary co-chairman.

New Arguments Asked On Erbe Magazine Ban

DES MOINES (U.P.) — The 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has asked for additional arguments in a case arising from Gov. Norman Erbe's crackdown in 1959 on magazines he said were pornographic.

The case has been before the court since 1960. Several magazine publishers are appealing a Federal Court decision in Des Moines that said Erbe had acted within his statutory powers as Iowa attorney general, which office he held at that time.

Erbe had listed 42 magazines he said were obscene and warned newsstand operators to take the magazines off the stands or face possible prosecution.

The publishers contend that this action amounted to censorship in advance of publication of future issues of the magazines.

Walston 'Fighter's' Bad Knee; Post's 10-4 Season Mark

By JIM TUCKER
Staff Writer

Sid Walston, Iowa's 147-pound wrestler, started this season with three straight wins in Big Ten competition. After compiling a 7-2-2 record last year, it looked like he was going to have his finest season.

He won four of six matches in two early-season tournaments. He then beat John Brannan of Illinois, 7-2, and John Hoffman of Northwestern, 7-0. The following week he ran his season record to 7-2 with a 4-1 win over Michigan State's Walt Byington.

Then it happened. In preparing for Iowa's next foe, Wisconsin, Walston was working out with teammate Tom Huff in a practice session. During the workout, Walston's leg was twisted, and he suffered a torn ligament in his right knee.

The injury required a cast from his thigh to his ankle, and doctors said it was doubtful that Walston would wrestle for the rest of the season.

He couldn't bend his knee, but he was able to do certain calisthenics, such as push-ups and weightlifting. He kept reporting to workouts, doing as much as he could despite his handicap. He was almost too anxious with his determination to keep in shape, as he cracked the cast the second night he worked out in it.

Walston missed meets against Wisconsin, Michigan, Oklahoma, Minnesota, Indiana, and Purdue. Then, with the Big Ten Championships just one week away, Walston's cumbersome cast was removed Thursday, March 1.

He still couldn't bend his knee, but he made up his mind he was going to wrestle in the conference meet. The injury subsided somewhat by Monday, so he was able to take brief workouts on Monday and Tuesday. The Hawks left for the meet on Wednesday.

Doctors advised Walston that it would probably be best if he did not compete, but said, "It's up to you."

Walston's coach, Dave McCuskey, told the grappler before the meet, "If you want to try it, you're going to have to forget about that injury and get out there and wrestle."

Walston did just that. If the injury bothered him, he didn't show it. Cautious and apprehensive after his long layoff, Walston stopped Gary Vogt of Illinois in the first round.

Advancing to the second round, Walston won again to reach the semi-finals in his weight division.

Walston was finally defeated in the semi-finals by Purdue's Dave Gibson, who went on to win the championship.

In the consolation match, Walston won his third match of the tournament and took third place by beating Michigan State's Byington, 5-2.

Walston said the injury didn't bother him much. "I tried to keep them from grabbing that bad knee," he said.

Whenever his opponent would grab his injured knee, Walston did not fight it, but rather, he relaxed and tried to ease out of the hold. This usually resulted in the opposition changing the hold.

In the national meet at Stillwater, Okla., last week, Walston drew a tough opponent, George Kelvington of Pittsburgh, and dropped a 3-0 decision in the first round. Kelvington went on to take fourth place in the meet.

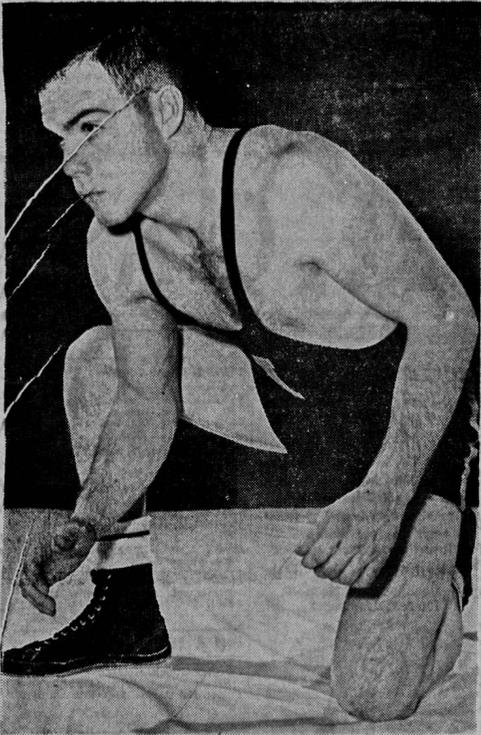

It was a long, frustrating season for Walston. The odds were against him, but he kept fighting and ended the season with a 10-4 record.

Walston, a high school star in football, wrestling and track at Manchester, is a physical education major and wants to be a wrestling coach.

He is engaged to Mary Carson, N4, Ely. They plan to be married this summer.

FLOYD IN ROME

MADRID — Floyd Patterson, world heavyweight boxing champion, arrived from Rome by plane Friday for a brief sightseeing tour.

Determined Hawkeye

Iowa wrestler Sydney Walston's season almost ended when the 147-pounder twisted his knee during practice after participating in three meets. But determination and hard work paid off as Walston came back to win third place in the Big Ten championships, and compete in the NCAA finals.

Billy Martin Released; Offered Scouting Job

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Billy (The Kid) Martin, who drifted to six major league clubs after he got into the New York Yankees' doghouse in 1957, was released unconditionally Friday by the Minnesota Twins.

The 33-year-old infielder was given two alternatives by President Calvin Griffith of the Twins. Martin can make a deal for himself with another club, or he can work for the Minnesota organization as a scout.

Martin said he preferred to try to catch on with another major league club.

The development of second baseman Bernie Allen during the spring exhibition games greatly diminished Martin's usefulness to the Twins. Allen, 23, is a former Purdue baseball and football star.

The fiery, hustling Martin, often referred to as "Casey Stengel's boy" when he played for the Yankees, was a World Series hero in 1953. In that series against the Brooklyn Dodgers, Martin collected 12 hits in 24 times at bat and drove in 8 runs, including the

Predicts Ninowski Will Be Browns' No. 1 Quarterback

DETROIT — Cleveland Browns Coach Paul Brown held an airport tryst with Jim Ninowski Friday and predicted that the newly acquired quarterback will be in the starting lineup for Cleveland next fall.

Brown, accompanied by his chief scout, Paul Bixler, conferred for two hours with Ninowski and talked about the quarterback's expressed reluctance to make the switch from the Detroit Lions to Cleveland.

Ninowski said Thursday he wouldn't play for Cleveland because a trade which involved five other players would ruin his off-season business plans. Ninowski had emerged from Friday's meeting saying nothing had changed. But Brown stated flatly: "There is no doubt in my mind that when the time comes next fall Jim Ninowski will be playing football in Cleveland."

"He has always wanted to be No. 1 quarterback. He will be No. 1 with us and I can tell you he likes that idea."

In answer to a question, Brown said that if Ninowski refused to play in Cleveland, it would not change any other conditions of the trade.

Paret Remains Critical; Mother Rushes to N.Y.

NEW YORK — For the sixth straight day, boxer Benny (Kid) Paret remained unconscious with his condition still critical. An afternoon bulletin from Roosevelt Hospital reported Friday there was "no change."

"He is still in a moderate coma," the bulletin said.

The 25-year-old Cuban suffered a savage beating at the hands of Emile Griffith in Madison Square Garden Saturday night. Griffith knocked out Paret in the 12th round, hammering him into unconsciousness with a torrent of blows, causing brain damage.

Paret's wife, Lucy, maintaining vigil at the hospital, said her husband "looks much better to me today."

She said his eyes were open and "when the man screams, the kid shakes his head and blinks his eyes." "The man" is another patient in a bed near the injured fighter.

Meanwhile, Paret's mother, Mrs. Maxina Crespo, arrived in Miami by plane from Havana.

Mrs. Crespo — penniless, lonely and weeping — had a ticket only to Miami. No one met the fighter's mother at the airport on her first trip to the United States.

Mrs. Crespo, who does not speak English, appeared slightly bewildered. Newsmen and airline employees took her in hand.

A National Catholic Relief Service representative bought Mrs. Crespo a ticket on an airliner for New York and gave her $10.

Paret's mother was given a note, written in English, which said: "Take me to Roosevelt Hospital where my son is. He is Kid Paret."

The weeping Mrs. Crespo, 56, said that she had never seen Paret fight. "I had no desire to," she sobbed. "Boxing is brutal."

Tiger, Hank Meet Tonight At Garden

NEW YORK — The repercussions of last Saturday's Benny (Kid) Paret-Emile Griffith fight could affect the outcome of tonight's scrap between middleweight contenders Dick Tiger of Nigeria and Henry Hank of Detroit.

The hard-hitting 160-pounders will meet in a 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden, scene of the 12th-round technical knockout defeat by Griffith in their welterweight title bout.

The Tiger-Hank fight will be telecast (ABC-TV 10 p.m., EST) nationally. Tiger is the 8-5 favorite.

A cut or one jarring punch could be enough to force a sudden termination of the bout. The recent history of boxing shows referees and ring physicians have been quick to halt hostilities in fights that come on the heels of a fatality or a serious injury to a boxer.

The National Boxing Association rates Tiger, 32, as the No. 1 contender behind champion Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah. Ring magazine, which recognizes Briton Terry Downes as champion, has Tiger the No. 2 contender behind Fullmer.

Hank, 27, is ranked fourth by the NBA and fifth by Ring.

The referee won't be named until fight time. Scoring will be by the round system.

Don Nelson Track Meet In East-West Tilt Tonight

KANSAS CITY (UPI) — Iowa's Don Nelson is among the top college cage seniors likely to see action in tonight's East-West Shrine Basketball Game.

The 6-6 blond, who led the Hawk-eyes with a 24-point average will be playing for the East team, coached by Army's George Hunter, which is a slight underdog against the powerful west squad, coached by Fred Taylor of Ohio State.

The west has been bolstered by the addition of All-Americans Jerry Lucas and John Haveliack of Taylor's Big Ten championship team, and Billy McGill of Utah.

Lucas, a three-time All-American, averaged 23.5 points and Haveliack had a 17-point average during the past season.

McGill may steal the thunder from the heralded Ohio State pair, however. The 6-9 center from Utah was the national's leading collegiate scorer this year with a 39-point average.

The east will counter with Cincinnati's Paul Hogue, the 6-9 245-pound center who led the Bearcats to the NCAA championship the last two years and was named most valuable player in the recent national tournament at Louisville, Ky.

Hogue will have ample help from Dayton's Gary Roggenburk, a 6-6 forward who has been the Flyers' top scorer the last two years. He averaged 18 points per game in leading Dayton to the NIT crown this season.

Purdue's Terry Dischinger, with a 30.3 point average, and All-American Chet (The Jet) Walker of Bradley, with a 27-point mark, should help balance the east scoring.

Western Kentucky's Bobby Rascoe who averaged 26 per game, should see considerable action. And Jack Foley, a late arrival here because of school regulations prohibiting him to leave the campus until Friday, should add plenty of weight with a 33-point scoring average. The Holy Cross hot-shot was named the outstanding player to appear in Madison Square Garden this year.

Missing from the field will be All-American Len Chappel of Wake Forest, who was forced to withdraw and was replaced by Roggenburk.
