Syria Seeking Renewed

Cedar Rapids Calm as River Nears 16-

Mayor Credits Early Plans With Saving Homes in City

By NORM ROLLINS
Staff Writer

The Cedar River neared an estimated flood crest of 16 feet Monday in Cedar Rapids, but did little damage to the city.

Dikes had been reinforced, sandbags filled, and a complete plan of city mobilization had been planned. But Cedar Rapids authorities said no emergency is expected.

Cedar Rapids Mayor Robert Johnson, who is heading the flood control program, said the city's biggest worry now is whether the clay dikes will hold out against the crest which is expected to last seven to nine hours.

"The dikes are in good shape now," Johnson said, "but they can get a little soggy after several hours pressure."

The city has been set up into zones to enable faster comprehension of where the river is spreading. In Zone A, which includes Ellis Park, the river covered the beach and spilled onto Ellis Blvd. The shelter in the park was sitting in about three feet of water.

Cedar Rapids has been planning for the flood for more than three weeks and hence there was no last minute panic. Johnson said there have been six briefing sessions with city officials, the last one Monday morning. He said everyone was so well organized there was no reason to meet any more.

"Fifty thousand sandbags were filled by the Boy Scouts," Johnson said. "They worked four-hour shifts, and some boys even had contests to see how many bags they could fill. One Scout filled more than 700 bags."

The City Playground and Recreational Director and the State Employment Office cooperated in finding people to work on an emergency basis, if they were called. Johnson said 3,000 young people were on call. "Many of the people were from Cedar Rapids' schools, and the first ones to be called would have been seniors," Johnson said.

Water damage to property is the biggest worry. All stores in downtown Cedar Rapids gave a listing of basement storage damage last year. This list will be kept from year to year to help estimate flood damage costs.

Johnson said there was no evacuation of residents within the city limits, but the Red Cross had moved two families living near the river on the outskirts of town.

He also said the Red Cross has 1,000 cc's for typhoid shots, but since there has been no sandbagging, no shots will be given. Typhoid shots are necessary for only those coming in contact with river water.

Johnson said city employees should be commended for their efforts in planning for the control program. He said Gov. Norman Erbe was especially impressed by the city's plans.

Commenting on flood conditions in other parts of the state, Johnson said other cities have made a good effort in combating the high waters. Cities near a river should realize that every year flooding will happen, and plans should be made early in March, he said.

The communications network also was well planned. A chart was drawn listing the open phones between various stations, and the distances between headquarters.

Johnson said no serious accidents have resulted from the floods. "The only accident we know of is when a city truck backed into a car," he said.

A documentary color film is being made of the flooding in Cedar Rapids, and of the flood control efforts by the city. The film is being made by the Police Department, and will feature only local people. A camera has been donated, and the only cost will be that of the film.

"The film will be used for our NEW PLANT FOR CLINTON WILMINGTON, Del. (UPI) — The DuPont Co. announced Monday it will build a plant at Clinton to manufacture polyolefin films. The multi-million dollar plant initially will employ about 100 persons with production expected to start in mid-1963. It will be built adjacent to and operated as a unit of the company's Clinton cellophane plant.

own study," Johnson said, "and we can see our mistakes and where improvements can be made. The film will also be shown to Cedar Rapids Service Clubs."

Should Have Seen Floods In I.C. Then!

SUlowans who have been complaining because the Iowa River has flooded their favorite "parking" place in City Park should have seen it in the "old days" — three or four years ago.

Recent flooding is insignificant compared to the Iowa River floods before the Coralville Dam was constructed in 1959.

Iowa suffered one of the worst floods in its history in June, 1947, when the state was deluged with rains of up to 16 inches. There was no dam then, and the Iowa River flowed far above its banks.

Pumps had to be used to keep the waters from entering the Iowa Memorial Union.

Iowa City was subjected to another severe flood in July, 1881. According to the Iowa Journal of History and Politics, Iowa City Mayor W. A. Morrison received a dispatch from Marengo, a town west of Iowa City on the Iowa River, warning him of a four-foot rise in the river level.

Morrison issued this proclamation: "A great flood threatens! Overflow of the lower parts of the city. Marengo under four feet of water. The flood may reach here before morning. Be on your guard so as to move on approach of danger."

During these pre-1959 flood years, the river sometimes spread across the lowlands for a mile and a half. But the dam, which to many SUlowans merely created a pleasant spot for picnics, now protects Iowa City from the floods resulting from winter thaws and spring rains.

Explains Flood Plan

Cedar Rapids Mayor Robert Johnson explains the city's flood zoning system for fighting the flood. The city's plans were recently praised by Gov. Norman Erbe on an inspection trip. A documentary film in color is being made of the flood control effort.

End of the Road

This road running through Ellis Park in Northwest Cedar Rapids ends abruptly at the edge of flood waters from the Cedar River. The river reached an estimated crest of 16 feet Monday, but did little damage to the city. Cedar Rapids officials said they have been planning for the crest for more than three weeks.

No Picnics Here

The shelter in Ellis Park was standing in about three feet of water Monday. Mayor Johnson said the damage so far has been minimized, partly because of the efforts of volunteers. The Boy Scouts, he said, filled 50,000 sandbags. Johnson said no families had been evacuated within the city limits.

Youth Held in Church Arson Enters Psychopathic Hospital

By LAEL MOE
Staff Writer

A 17-year-old Johnson County youth, who has been questioned in connection with a series of fires here Sunday morning, has been admitted to the SUI Psychopathic Hospital of psychiatric evaluation, according to Iowa City police.

Officials said the evaluation will take about three weeks to complete.

Permission of the youth's parents was obtained before he was admitted, detectives said. The youth has not been identified, pending further investigation.

Results of a lie detector test administered Sunday evening were termed "inconclusive" by detectives. The test was administered by Richard Holcomb, director of the SUI Bureau of Police Science.

A detective commented: "All indications lead us to believe this boy is the one involved in the fire at the First English Lutheran Church." Investigators have not yet questioned the youth in connection with the other fires Sunday morning, he said.

Detectives called the fires at the First English Lutheran and First Christian churches as arson. A minor fire in a car near the Memorial Union might be arson, they said.

A kerosene-filled street flare was tossed through a plate glass window at Jim Dickerson Motors, 325 E. Market St. Detectives said this also might be the work of an arsonist.

Damage to the First English Lutheran Church, at the corner of Market and Dubuque Streets, was estimated at $100,000, according to the Rev. Roy B. Wingate, pastor.

Officials said the fire probably started in two places, at the altar and in the boiler room below the sanctuary. The blaze, discovered shortly before 3 a.m. by Iowa City Patrolmen Ronald Rreyer and Donald Strand, damaged beams under the first floor and spread to the attic.

The library and the altar in the church were destroyed, as well as most of the pews. Hymnals, damaged by water, can probably never be used again, officials said.

Choir robes, church records, dishes and other items were saved, but smoke damaged the remaining portion of the 67-year-old building, as well as a recently built education addition.

Appraised by insurance officials in 1957 for $67,000, the church was insured for $54,000, 80 per cent of its value. The full amount of the policy will be collected if the church is declared a total loss.

Dale M. Bentz, chairman of the church council, said construction of a new church building "can be started in 60 to 90 days — if we're lucky."

The church had already approved architect's plans for a $310,000 building to be constructed on the site of the old church. "We're aiming for Easter, 1963, to move into the new church if all goes well," Bentz said.

He said church services for the next few weeks will be held either in Macbride Auditorium or in the Englert Theater. The church council will meet Wednesday night to decide the location of services.

The First Christian Church, 217 Iowa Ave., was damaged only slightly. Fire was discovered there about 1:30 a.m. Sunday by residents of the adjacent Reardon Hotel. The fire, confined to Fellowship Hall, resulted in $200 to $500 damage, according to The Rev. Spencer A. Adamson, pastor.

After the fire was put out, firemen discovered that fires had been set with paper on windows on both sides of the hall. Drapes on both windows were burned, as well as hymnals and church papers. One of the fires reached the ceiling under a newly renovated pipe organ, but church officials doubted that the organ was damaged.

At about 3:30 a.m. Jeffrey D.

Davis, A2, Dubuque, discovered that a blanket in the front seat of a car he had parked in the Union parking lot had been on fire but had gone out. Davis said the blanket had been on the back window ledge of the car when he had gone to work at the Union earlier.

Davis said damage to the car, owned by Wayne Anthony of Dubuque, his girl-friend's father, was negligible.

No estimate has been made of the damage at the Dickerson establishment. A plate glass window was broken and the shattered glass scratched a car. The street flare landed upright, and no fire was started.

Attorney for Liz, Eddie Says Divorce Sought

NEW YORK (AP) — An attorney for Elizabeth Taylor and Eddie Fisher said Monday night they have agreed to part and seek a divorce.

A spokesman for an attorney, Louis Nizer, made the formal announcement of the breakup after weeks of rumors that the marriage was going on the rocks while romance blossomed between the actress and her current co-star, Richard Burton.

BONN — U.S. Undersecretary of State George Ball bluntly told America's European Allies they are dragging their feet on military preparations and aid to underdeveloped countries. Ball told the West German Foreign Affairs Society that the United States "is not faltering in its commitments" although it has a balance of payments deficit.

GENEVA — Non-aligned nations at Geneva started pressuring East and West to compromise on inspection and control of a nuclear test ban treaty. Ethiopia, Sweden, India and Burma called on both sides to relax their positions.

WASHINGTON — The House approved Monday a bill which would authorize the United States to pledge $2 billion to a special standby currency stabilization pool that could be used to strengthen the dollar.

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy Monday promoted Assistant Atty. Gen. Nicholas de B. Katzenbach to deputy attorney general, replacing newly named Supreme Court Justice Byron R. White.

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. — Five convicts escaped over San Quentin prison's 40-foot outer wall Monday with a stolen ladder and a cotton rope. It was the prison's first wall-scaling escape in 19 years.

Plan To Release DI, SUI Relation Report Next Week

The Haefner Report, dealing with The Daily Iowan, will probably be released next week, according to Phil Connell, assistant to President Hancher.

Connell said Hancher is waiting until next week to make an announcement on the report because he is now out of town and would not want to release the report and then not be here to answer comments.

The Haefner Committee was set up last July to study the relationship between the University and The Daily Iowan. John Haefner, head of social studies at University High School, was appointed chairman of the committee.

The committee's report was to be finished by Dec. 1.

In forming the committee last July, Hancher said there were "at least two logical approaches to the problem" — the campus newspaper as either a journalism laboratory or an independent operation.

ria's six-day-old military junta were reported being shipped into exile early Tuesday in a move to avert civil war.

Reports reaching here from the Syrian capital of Damascus said two top political figures were seeking to quell a pro-Nasser military uprising in northern Syria. Their actions so far indicate that Syria will move toward close ties with President Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic. Those ties were severed last September.

According to these reports, former President Shukri Kuwalty — one of the leaders of Syria's original merger with Nasser's Egypt in 1958 — and the conservative Aleppo political leader Rushdi Kikhya were mediating between the Damascus junta and the pro-Nasser army officer in Aleppo.

The reports said a compromise, ending the Aleppo uprising against the junta, was near.

Monday, the junta appeared to be ignoring northern rebel radio broadcasts claiming control of the area. The junta threatened stiff punishment for troublemakers and closed land and sea frontiers.

But a junta statement that followed indicated the junta leaders want an equal partnership or federation with Egypt — and not what they consider Syria's submergence by Nasser.

"The high command of the armed forces explained that it believes in unity with all liberated Arab countries, and first of all with Egypt, provided his unity is established in a genuine basis and with conditions guaranteeing the dignity of this country and its entity and avoiding the mistakes of the past — on the condition that these conditions are decided in a popular free referendum," it said.

With all the conditions, the offer seemed to amount to a proposal that Syria, Egypt and possibly other Arab states organize a federation, rather than a unified republic as in the old U.A.R.

It also seemed to be aimed at placating the rebellious officers in northern Syria.

The broadcast of an army revolt came after clashes Sunday between troops and demonstrators either supporting Nasser or the civilian regime the junta set up last year and which toppled last Wednesday.

A broadcast from Aleppo, Syria's second largest city, said a free officers command had rebelled against the junta, declared martial law in northern and eastern Syria.

CSL Tables Race Bias Issue at SUI

A September, 1963 deadline for campus organizations to prove they are free not to discriminate in choosing members was the central topic of discussion at the Committee on Student Life (CSL) meeting Thursday, according to informed sources.

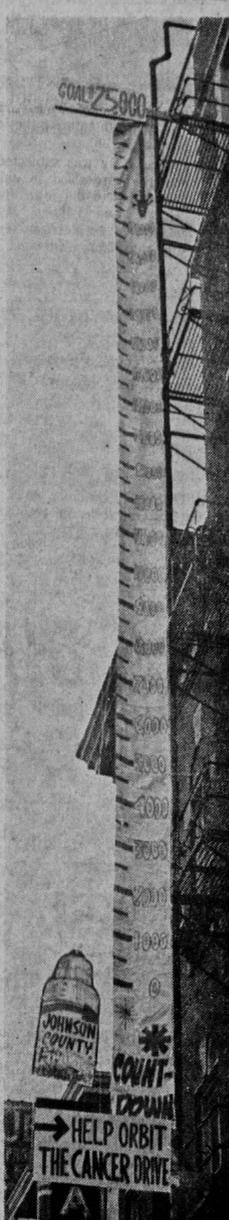

After considerable discussion the deadline proposal was tabled. The committee will meet again Monday.

At a previous meeting, the CSL referred two Student Senate resolutions concerning discrimination to a sub-committee headed by Allan D. Vestal, professor of law.

The sub-committee proposed to the CSL that all University recognized organizations be able to prove that they are free to choose their membership on a merit as a person and not by race, creed or national origin by September, 1963. Failure to do this, the sub-committee said, should result in revocation of the group's certificate of operation.

No deadlines were specified in either Senate resolution the committee considered.

Approving a provision in one of the resolutions as recommended by the sub-committee, the CSL voted to require campus organizations to submit to the Office of Student Affairs all documents relevant to membership policies and any other material requested by the CSL.

'Cancer Capsule'

This "space capsule" will mark the progress of the Johnson County Cancer Crusade, which was launched Monday. The 45-foot sign, attached to the north side of the Iowa State Bank & Trust Building, indicates the 1962 goal of $25,000. The sign was erected by six volunteers. See story, Page 3.

Revolution of Rising Neuroses Is World's Real Restlessness

By ERIC SEVAREID

We have misjudged the terrible restlessness in the world. The "underprivileged" peoples abroad do not only want to have what we — and West Europe — have; they wish to be what we are.

What is going on is not only a "revolution of rising expectations" in terms of health, housing, food, education, and the other decencies of civilized living. What is going on is also a revolution of rising neuroses. There is a universal craving, on the individual, village and even national level, to be in the swim, to join a semi-fictive life of "glamor."

You can't, so we were informed by song and story, keep the young man down on the farm after he's seen Broadway. Now, by means of motion pictures, television, radio and mass magazines, the whole world has seen Broadway, by which I do not mean a certain tawdry stretch of street in America's Manhattan. I mean the whole earthly Valhalla of shine and supposed significance, of importance, celebrity, the realm of the latest in clothes, music, gadgets, manners and ideas.

When belief in a heaven after death fades away, as it is across great stretches of this globe, something must take its place. The unholy ghost of modern communications has touched the uneasy spirits of men everywhere and beckoned them to enter the gates of this semi-fraudulent paradise on earth. Everyone wants to dwell in this Stork Club, or to visit it, and say he's been there or, if necessary, build a facsimile in his own backyard.

IT IS AN ILLUSION to believe, with the wholesome directness of the social worker, that the 20th century fight by masses of people is only against illiteracy and poverty; it is also a frantic fight against anonymity.

Not only for better wages does the African youth leave his tribal village and head for Lagos or Accra, where, incidentally, he would rather be half-starved in a "white collar" job than well fed as a laborer. He leaves to find surcease from the sense, now made intolerable by modern communications, of being "left out." It hardly matters what economic level his life may reach — the fear and the craving will not leave him, and as president of his country he will buy a "presidential yacht," so that he, too, may cruise to Monte Carlo.

We are startled by the sudden surge of the Peronistas in Argentina and attribute it to the pocketbook pinch of the Government's austerity program, but we are wrong. Peron auster they feel important, and they thirst to feel important once again.

IF THERE IS ANY kind of mass revolt in Chile, it will not come from sweating peasant or ditch digger in the streets; it will come from the lower middle class of frayed white collar office workers, literate and affluent enough to know how much more affluent they could be — if only. Hunger is making men desperate by the millions, but it is not always and everywhere the hunger of the belly.

In a sense, and to a degree, all this represents the pushing current of what we mean by the word progress. But progress ought to be toward something, and in many places men have lost sight of the goal; the neurosis has replaced the vision.

Canada, Government as well as people, is a prime example. Canadians are prosperous, literate, modernized. But Canadians are unhappy, consumed by baffled jealousy and, in the words of an English writer in Ottawa, "desperately unsure of their own reality." For they are not "in the swim" of the United States or Europe and yet so near it. Popular culture and modern communications, their own or others', have not touched them with the magic of glamor. They should be enjoying the contentment in freedom that our sonorous official platitudes prescribe for all peoples, but they are in a state of psychic rebellion, for they possess neither a Churchill for the headline nor a Rubirosa for the gossip column.

THE PATIENT MAY INHERIT heaven, but not the earth. On earth they merely live at the unfashionable addresses — and learn to hate it.

Only in part does "glamor" co-habit with size and power. Russia has both power and size, but not the stuff which the modern dream merchants can easily merchandise.

The most powerful revolutionary force in our world is nobody's political ideology, but the contagion of popular culture, carried by glossy communications. Culturally, the West is bound to win the whole world including Russia and China. But it is likely to be a victory without peace, between the armies or in the hearts of men.

The Political Spectrum

By ALFRED M. LEE
President, SDC

"Burge Hall," an esthete I know remarked the other day, "needs a kick in the glass." That this is so points up a problem which should be central not only to socialists, but to all who would like to emerge from this University into a society fit for a college man to live in.

So it was that I undertook to examine the construction in question. Having approached a likely looking bobby-soxer, I learned where I might find the five-year old dormitory, thereupon making my way to the corner of Capitol and Bloomington. What I discovered was astonishing.

For almost two years now I'd thought the building I'd driven past so many nights had been, glowing with such subtle electric tones, the housing for a local atomic pile. In daylight the structure was altogether different. Indeed it reminded me, with its Saran Wrap windows and Reynolds Wrap walls, of one of those Time Magazine surveys in color of public housing in Ghana, or Brazil, or Ceylon, or some other tropical haven. Imagine my surprise when I reached the Clinton Street entrance!

LEE

"Burge Surf Club di Viareggi" ought to have been placed in five-year high neon lettering atop that contoured turquoise marquee framing the domicile's plate glass frontage. Noting the scraggly cedars in pots at the doorway, I said to myself that undoubtedly the building was, unlike the late Mr. Wright's Imperial Hotel in Tokyo, designed to collapse totally at the first earth tremor.

AS I MADE my way inside a bellhop snatched my attache case and beach towel and wouldn't give them back until I slipped him a 500-lire note. Over at the reservations desk, suspended above which were five Chinese lanterns, I asked if I could charge a newspaper on my Hilton Carte Blanche card, but the day clerk, in broken Berlitz English, told me that would be a pretty chintzy thing to do. So I cashed a Traveler's Check and proceeded with my investigation.

I observed that the ceiling, carefully contoured to render distinct rumbling of mal de mer in the residents' viscera, was on two levels, housing a system of indirect lighting that one usually associates with a roadside casino somewhere in the Nevada desert. Supporting these swirling planes were columns decorated with violet, pink, and white tile mosaic, in a style less Byzantine than bathroom.

Having acquired a considerable array of furniture upholstered in leather, the management, I understand, refinished everything with soothing pastel dyes, violet, pink, aqua, egg shell white, and, dilly dilly, lavender blue. The chairs, the love seats, the S-shaped couches, however large and commodious, all were supported by tiny, pencil-thin, brass-tipped legs.

The bases on the lamps must have been designed and constructed in high school pottery classes around the state, while the lampshades reflected a definite Woolworth's influence.

SOON I DISCOVERED that the foyer was merely the mezzanine which was planned to entice the guests into the hotel's rathskeller. Prominently placed near the entrance was a sign — in English of course — welcoming me to the Carnival Room ("now open — 9 a.m. to 10 p.m."), up from which floated the music of Lester Lanin playing for the cocktail set.

The giant staircase leading down to La Carnivale, assuming it wasn't picked up when the producers auctioned the set of The Prisoner of Zenda, must have been copied from the floor plan of Chambord. The brass-plated handrail, however, suggests in its simplicity the dowels of a playpen.

The transients living there, fortunately, cannot help knowing they are transients. No one would live in such a place, fashioned as it is for one night stopovers. Burge is where you go to steal the doubtlessly elegant stationery on which you write letters to impress your friends back home not with your taste, but with your riches.

WHAT CAUSED Burge? Certainly the accumulated wealth which goes into the construction of major buildings has, in the past, been put to better use. The Medieval Church invested its monies decorously, and the absolutism of the Bourbons was not without art. But such were periods in which the managers accumulated the exchequer never were privileged to spend it. When, as under capitalism, those trained for commerce begin spending without the proper training, they create a notion of blankness, in which we drown.

Letters to the Editor —

'A' Weak Stomach'

To the Editor:
Bravo. Hooray, etc.

My congratulations to Miss Slavin. It is time that someone pointed out the dangers of compromise to the students of SUU. It is a known fact that one must never compromise for it is the evil that has placed us in the terrible situation that we find ourselves in today. Tolerance and its cousin compromise have destroyed the world for all of us good people. When a person believes in a thing (a principle) nothing and nobody can be allowed to stand in the way of that principles realization. Compromise will abort the realization of any belief.

I want to sound the call to rally to all who believe Miss Slavin and I. We must band together before some fool tries to take exactly one-half of our principles and adulterate them with poison from an unprincipled "Liberal" mind. The result of such attempted folly could never be honored as a principle.

May I warn you, Miss Sarah, that you must take care that no opinions about your article sway you from your chosen way. The current of opinion can be dangerous. Decide what your principles are and then hang on to them never to review them for then you will become confused. By holding to your principles you will demonstrate that yours are right (otherwise, how could you have held on to them?). Those who will try to convince you that a principle can be wrong are themselves wrong. Remember: it is not what is carried in the basket that counts, but the fact that you have a basket to carry.

We, you and I, Miss Sarah, can laugh at those who will hoot at us for we know that ours is THE way. Those who will say that we are clothing specifics in generalities are mistaken. We must reply to them that the general principles of a compromiser are nothing more than slop for those who have not the initiative to develop their own specific principles.

I find that we agree on a point that has troubled me for years. We MUST revive the Christian belief in the unity of man. To achieve this we must band together and stamp out all of the non-believers. There are those out there who are trying to poison our society by introducing non-Christian principles like "I am my Brother's keeper." To tolerate these is to admit that we might be wrong in our beliefs. As you know, this is not so. The details of how to stop the above trend I must leave to you . . . I have a weak stomach.

John E. Rathbun, G
1317 Rochester Ave.

In your editorial of Saturday, you commented that as the University gets larger it becomes increasingly difficult for a person to find a building for which he is looking. He failed to mention that once a person finds the proper building, he often has a great deal of difficulty in finding the room he wants.

For example, in the Chemistry Building, Room 500 is on the third floor. The rooms on the ground floor are numbered in the 300s. In Schaeffer, Room 105 is on the second floor. The rooms on the first floor are numbered in the units and the tens. In Burge Hall, Room 4502 is on the fifth floor. The giv-away for the room number in Burge is the second digit of the room number. In the Quadrangle, Room B134 is on the second floor. The clue to the floor number is not the first digit of the room number, but rather the letter preceding the number.

Once a person finds the correct floor, he still can not necessarily find the room for which he is looking without a great deal of confusion. In Schaeffer, for instance, when a person enters from Washington Street, he sees Room number 6. As he goes down the hall, he finds Room 25, and right next to that Room 5. Across the hall from Room 25, is 21A. At the other end of the hall Room 7 is located.

In the Quadrangle, a person may know that rooms with an "A" preceding the number are on the first floor and those with a "B" preceding the number are on the second floor. If he is looking for Room B96, he is likely to be overjoyed when he finds room A96. He thinks that all he has to do is go to the room directly above A96. However, he is likely to be very much surprised when he finds B108 directly above A96.

Letters with Room numbers mean different things in different buildings. In the Quadrangle, the "A" in Room A162 means that it is on the first floor. In Schaeffer Hall the "A" in Room 221A means that it is a large lecture room. In University Hall, the "A" in Room 305A means that the room is a closet within Room 305.

I finally thought that I had the numbering system in South Quadrangle "figured out" when I discovered that I had really "decoded" the system in the Quadrangle. One should not worry about finding the correct room until he is certain he has found the right building.

fully. Cars parked along various streets were ticketed in order that the city might finally clear up snow that caked all the residential streets. Not enough cars moved, however, and finally the drive was abandoned.

This example, we think, points to the real problem for the street officials and the Iowa City police. If streets are to be cleared of snow during the winter and of double parkers the year 'round, then officials must be more consistent in their efforts to clear them.

Snow should have been removed from all Iowa City streets following each snow fall. It was not, and as a result the city streets were so completely covered with layers of ice and snow that a "drive" had to be started to clear them. Likewise, double-parking has finally become so bad that a "drive" is needed to clear up that mess.

If Iowa City is to have clear and uncongested streets then the "drives" must give way to more consistent and complete cleaning and patrolling methods.

In winter, when snow falls, Iowa City street department officials need to get clean-up crews on the job quickly each time it snows. It does little good to try to clear downtown streets after cars have had a day and a half to pack the snow into solid ice.

Likewise, if double parkers were urged to move along by the police during each day — and especially at the 5 p.m. hour and on Saturdays when generally no police are in sight — the double parking situation would clear up much better over the long haul.

If in the future more consistent policies are followed to clear up the problems of city streets and traffic, no more "drives" should be necessary.

A Good Addition

Harvey Miller is a patrolman on the Iowa City police force. He has announced that April 15 he will leave that position to join the University Campus Police. Iowa City's loss will be the University's gain.

In June, Miller will receive a degree in political science from SUU. He has also studied in the fields of sociology and criminology. His integrity, competence in police work, and honest concern for the welfare of the community combine to make him one of the finer law officers in this area.

The Campus Police has traditionally been known as an agency that tickets cars and directs traffic at football games. It is fast becoming far more than that.

It is charged with protecting the persons and property of a fair-sized city, the University community. If something is stolen from a student, if a student party gets out of hand, or if a codd is annoyed late at night, it is the proper concern of the Campus Police.

To better serve the University community the Campus Police has been undergoing a revision and modernization under the direction of Professor Richard Holcomb, a well-known authority on police work.

It recently acquired new offices and has facilities at its disposal ranging from a lie detector to radio-equipped patrol cars.

But regardless of its equipment, the ultimate standard of quality for any organization is its men. If the Campus Police continues adding men like Officer Miller to its ranks, it can't go wrong.

Louisiana Segregationist Raps Threat of Excommunication

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — A New Orleans woman Monday said she wants her "day in court" before Roman Catholic Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel about his letter allegedly threatening her with excommunication.

Mrs. B. J. Gaillot Jr., who heads the militant segregation group Save Our Nation, Inc., said she received the letter Saturday night threatening excommunication because of her segregationist activities.

The archbishop's chancery, however, labeled the letter a paternal admonition and said it went to a few Catholics. The chancery again denied it went to all Catholics who shared the speakers' platform at a meeting of the pro-segregation Citizens Council on Friday.

State Rep. Rodney Buras, who was on the platform at the meeting, said he had received the letter. He declined comment pending a requested audience with the archbishop.

Mrs. Gaillot, interviewed in her apartment, refused to show the letter to newsmen.

"The letter was marked private and confidential and I'll keep it that way until the archbishop refuses to see me," she said. "But I'll tell you this — this letter contains false statements and accusations which I feel entitled to answer."

She was asked if the letter contained admonition that she must reply yes or no to orders that she stop her segregationist activities.

"They've got the wrong idea if they think I'm sort of a robot and going to nod my head and say yes or no. I can back up my stand with scriptures that the Bible preaches segregation," she replied.

"I'm not going to give up my Church or my God. I know I'm right and I love my archbishop," she said.

"But I don't think Archbishop Rummel is responsible for this," she said of the 85-year-old prelate who has been archbishop of New Orleans for 27 years.

Still Tickets for Easter Concert on Wednesday

An Easter Concert, featuring two works, will be presented by the Oratorio Chorus and the SUI Symphony Orchestra 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Some tickets are still available for the concert, which will be directed by Daniel Moe, assistant professor of music. Tickets may be obtained free by the public at the Information Desk in the Union. Anyone who wishes to hear the program, but is unable to attend the concert, may hear the groups at the dress rehearsal at 7:15 tonight in the Union.

The first half of the program will be devoted to a first performance of "Te Deum," by Daniel Moe. The text of the work is a hymn of praise that has been in use since the Fourth Century.

"Te Deum" was completed in July, 1961 as Moe's doctoral dissertation at SUI. The work is scored for chorus, woodwind instruments, percussion, brass and contrabasses. Moe, who said he is striving for a different effect with this composition, did not score for other stringed instruments.

The work, which is in three large sections, will receive its second performance April 10 at the University of Kansas annual symposium of contemporary music.

The "Missa Solemnis in D Minor," by Joseph Haydn, otherwise known as the Lord Nelson Mass, will be the second work to be presented at the Easter concert.

Double-Parking Drive Succeeding

Iowa City's beginning battle against double-parking was termed a success Monday by Police Chief Emmett Evans and Police Judge Jay H. Honohan.

"The program has been going very well," Evans said. "We've had extremely good cooperation from the motorists."

"The general business district, on Washington and College streets, between Dubuque and Clinton is now the biggest problem area," he added.

Evans said about the usual number of tickets had been issued during the crack-down.

Honohan said he felt motorists were afraid of being ticketed, but wasn't sure this was the only reason for the success of the drive.

Meardon May Take Redistrict Issue to U.S. Supreme Court

William L. Meardon, Iowa City attorney who represents a man attacking the constitutionality of the bill to redistrict the Iowa Senate, said he may take the issue to the U.S. Supreme Court.

An application for a rehearing has been filed with the Iowa Supreme Court, Meardon said. The application has not yet been acted on.

Meardon said the bill is "clearly unconstitutional." The Constitution requires that senators be elected for four-year terms, he said, and under this bill some senators would only be elected for a two-year term.

The redistricting has been upheld by the Iowa Supreme Court.

Meardon represents Charles Selzer of Homestead, who contends the plan is unconstitutional because some of the newly redistricted senators were not elected by the people they represent.

Sen. D. C. Nolan (R-Iowa City) called the bill "the greatest piece of gerrymandering in history" when he argued against it before the Supreme Court in February.

He also declared the bill to be unconstitutional.

The action then was for a declaratory judgment to restrain Iowa County Auditor Gordon Willis and Secretary of State Melvin Synhorst from exercising their duties as election officials. The court ruled the act constitutional except for one part which called for two-year senate terms in three newly formed districts.

Johnson County's Cancer Crusade Launched Monday

The 1962 Johnson County Cancer Crusade — postponed from Saturday by bad weather — was launched Monday with the erection of a 45-foot sign constructed in the form of a space capsule on the north side of the Iowa State Bank & Trust Building.

The sign, marked with thermometer-like gradations, will measure the progress of the drive toward its $25,000 goal. The Crusade will be conducted throughout April.

Lawrence Walcott, publicity chairman for the Crusade and program supervisor at radio station

WSUI, designed the sign, which is reputed to be the tallest ever erected in Iowa City.

Walcott said it was approved by the Iowa City Council and the city engineer's office.

The sign was partially erected Saturday, but one of the supports was in the center of the fire escape and the Fire Department ordered the support be moved to the side, he explained.

Saturday afternoon's rain caused the final postponement, he added.

Monday, six volunteers — with professional advice from Capitol Sign Co. — finished the job.

The volunteers were Russell Weintraub, associate professor in the SUI College of Law; Kenneth Jablon, instructor in romance languages; Michael Maduff, A3, Oak Park, Ill., student chairman; Norm Stein, program assistant at WSUI; and Bob Nelson, A2, Waterloo, an announcer at WSUI.

Harvard Law Prof To Give Murray Lecture on Friday

The growth of U.S. law over the past 50 years will be described at SUI Friday by Austin W. Scott, Harvard law professor who has witnessed the changes.

Scott, who was dean of the SUI College of Law in 1912, will deliver the annual Murray Lecture at 8 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Union. His talk will emphasize the development of the law from a practitioner's art to a more effective means of achieving justice.

A professor-emeritus of the Harvard Law School, Scott is the leading American authority on trust laws.

The Murray Lecture is among the activities to be held next weekend in connection with the dedication of the new Law Building. Earl Warren, Chief Justice of the United States, will speak at the dedication ceremony Saturday at 2 p.m. in the Union.

Frank Gifford Ends Retirement; Signs N.Y. Giant Contract

NEW YORK (UPI) — Frank Gifford, six-times an all-pro halfback, ended a one-year retirement Monday and signed with the New York football Giants for "pretty close" to the $25,000 he was paid before he quit at the end of the 1960 season.

A record-setting ball-toter and pass receiver for the Giants for nine seasons, the handsome Gifford, now 31, retired to pursue a year-round career in radio broadcasting and served as chief scout for the Giants last year. He has severed his radio connections.

"Retiring was a big mistake," Gifford said. "There's still plenty of football left in me, I'm sure. Probably I'm not as strong as I was after laying off a year but I'm at my old playing weight (196) and back in football as long as I can stay as a player."

A severe tackle by linebacker Chuck Bednarik of the Philadelphia Eagles on Nov. 20, 1960 brought the first phase of Gifford's pro career to a close. The Giant star suffered a concussion and spent 12 days in a hospital. He never played another game for the Giants, though he denied when he first retired that the Bednarik episode had influenced his decision.

Club President John V. Mara said Gifford's 1962 salary would be "pretty close" to his top pay in 1960 but pointed out the Giants will be playing two more league games than they did two seasons ago. Gifford was one of the league's highest paid players when he quit.

"We're glad to have him back," said head coach Allie Sherman.

"We discussed this quite a bit before he made his decision but we'll have to wait until we get into training camp before deciding how he'll fit into our three-end offense."

Les Cutler 5th In Backstroke At NCAA Meet

Les Cutler, Iowa's only entry in the NCAA Swimming Championships at Columbus, Ohio, last weekend, finished fifth in the 100-yard backstroke which was won by L. B. Schaefer of Ohio State.

In last year's national collegiate meet, Cutler took second in the 200-yard backstroke and fourth in the 100-yard event.

Ohio State won the title with a total of 92 points. Southern California finished second.

This year's win marked the eleventh title for the Buckeyes in 26 years of competition. Michigan has won the crown ten times.

The winners:
100-yard butterfly—Edwin Spencer, North Carolina State, 5:25.
100-yard free style—Steve Jackman, Minnesota, 3:75.
100-yard breast stroke—Dick Nelson, Michigan, 1:51.7.
100-yard back stroke—L. B. Schaefer, Ohio State.

Paret Catches Pneumonia; Sinks Deeper into Coma

NEW YORK (UPI) — Boxer Benny (Kid) Paret, in the ninth day of a coma following his knock-out by Emile Griffith, has contracted pneumonia, officials at Roosevelt Hospital disclosed Monday.

In addition, Paret's coma has "deepened slightly," the officials said. Previously the coma had been described as "moderate," although Paret never has regained consciousness since being knocked out by Griffith in the 12th round of the world welterweight championship bout at Madison Square Garden, March 24.

Hospital officials did not picture the pneumonia as a sudden new crisis for Paret, but simply as one more factor now going against him in his long-shot battle for life. "All treatments are being continued," said the hospital announcement.

Attendants pointed out that pneumonia is not an uncommon development in bed-ridden patients unable to move.

The 24-year-old Cuban fighter, whose wife and mother are with him almost constantly, underwent a delicate operation to relieve pressure on his brain shortly after the bout. He is breathing with the aid of a tube inserted through a surgical opening in his throat.

Dick Lamb Here For Sports Dinner

Dick Lamb of Davenport, widely known football historian and statistician will be guest speaker tonight at an Elks' Club dinner honoring Iowa City high school's varsity athletes in wrestling, basketball, football and cross-country.

Tickets for the dinner to be held at the downtown Elks' Club are priced at $2.50 each and a limited number are expected to be on sale at the door tonight. The program begins at 6:30 p.m.

Lamb's talk will probably deal mainly with unusual and little known sidelights about football past and present. Football is not only Lamb's hobby but his occupation. His official title is Historian for the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame.

USC Gymnasts Win NCAA; Iowa Fails To Qualify

Southern California's strong gymnastics team won the national collegiate championship in Albuquerque, N.M., over the weekend, while Big Ten schools took a back seat.

Iowa's three gymnasts failed to qualify, with Russ Porterfield taking 11th on the high bar and George Hery 11th on the trampoline (10 best scores qualify). The other Hawkeye competing was trampolinist Larry Snyder.

Michigan, Illinois and Michigan State fared much better, taking third, fourth and fifth respectively. Second place Southern Illinois scored 75 points to USC's 95½. Iowa coach Dick Holzapfel said Monday the competition in Albuquerque was the best he has ever seen.

Indians, Twins Bargain—

Power, Stigman Traded for Ramos

VIC POWER
Unhappy with Tribe

PEDRO RAMOS
Losingest Pitcher

ORLANDO, Fla. (UPI) — Vic Power, the Cleveland Indians' unhappy first baseman, and pitcher Dick Stigman were traded Monday to the Minnesota Twins for Pedro Ramos, the American League's losingest pitcher last year.

President Cal Griffith of the Twins announced the trade prior to Monday's exhibition game against the New York Yankees.

Ramos, a 26-year-old righthander from Cuba, lost a league high of 20 games last season against 11 victories and gave up 39 home runs. This was the fourth straight season he had suffered more losses than any other A.L. pitcher.

Power, 31-year-old native Puerto Rican, long has been regarded one of the most talented players in the league. He is rated a good hitter, has speed, is a good fielder and is versatile.

But many managers have felt that Power rarely has played up to his full potential. He has batted over .300 three times during his eight-season major league career, but last year he hit only .268 with only five home runs.

There have been reports this spring from the Indians' training camp at Tucson, Ariz., that Power was unhappy at being shifted to second base. He also was sensitive to criticism of his playing by his managers.

To replace Power at first, Mel McGaha, the Indians' new manager, can shift Tito Francona from the outfield, or use Gene Green, a converted catcher.

Stigman, a 26-year-old lefthander, showed promise when he joined the Indians in 1960. He developed arm trouble last year, however, was placed on the disabled list from April 10 to June 5, and wound up with a 2-5 record.

Another Cage Scandal Victim Pleads Guilty

NEW YORK (AP) — Philip La Cort, 36, pleaded guilty Monday to bribing a college basketball player to "shave points." He was continued in $125,000 bail pending sentence, set for May 7.

General sessions Judge Joseph A. Sarafito accepted the plea of guilty to one of six counts in an indictment to cover all counts.

La Cort, described by Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan as a New England gambling figure, pleaded guilty to paying $750 to Peter Kelly to shave points in a game between the University of Connecticut and Colgate University March 1, 1960, season. Kelly was captain of the Connecticut team at the time.

The indictment also accused La Cort of giving $1,500 to Jerry Graves to shave points in a game between Mississippi State College and the University of Mississippi during the same season. Graves was a Mississippi State College player.

La Cort, the indictment charged, offered Edward Test and Richard

Bob Allen Given National Office

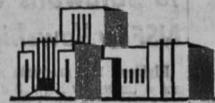

Bob Allen, Iowa swimming coach, was named representative-at-large of the Collegiate Swimming Coaches Association of America Saturday at the NCAA swimming meet at Columbus, Ohio.

Mark Randall of Colgate was named president and John Hickman of Wisconsin was chosen president-elect. Allen's office will boost him to the presidency in six years.

Fisher $1,500 each to shave points in a game between the University of Tennessee and the University of Kentucky during the 1959-60 season. Test and Fisher were Tennessee players. The prosecutor's office said the money was not accepted by the players.

La Cort was accused of offering $1,250 to Edward Bowler to shave points in the La Salle-University of Duquesne game that same season. Bowler was a La Salle player. Bowler did not play in the game, but received $750, the prosecutor said.

La Cort gave his address as 69 Walderman Ave., Boston.

Joint Tax Committee —

Predicts $3.8-Billion Deficit

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House-Senate committee predicted Monday that the Federal Government would wind up the next fiscal year with a $3.8 to $4.9-billion budget deficit instead of the $500 million surplus foreseen by President Kennedy.

The forecast was made by the Joint Committee on Taxation as Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon appealed to the Senate to restore to the pending tax reform bill the revenue-yielding provisions knocked out of the measure by the House.

At the same time, Dillon held out for some federal income tax cuts in the next year or so. He said the Administration planned to submit another tax reform package later which would permit a "substantial readjustment of income tax rates." He had spoken previously of such possible reductions.

Dillon appeared before the Senate Finance Committee to open the Administration's drive for the tax bill passed last Thursday by the House. He sought revival of Administration proposals rejected by the House Ways & Means Committee. He said failure to enact them would cost the Government $960 million a year in tax revenue.

The treasury secretary also challenged the budget deficit forecast by the joint taxation committee. The committee anticipated a far lower level of economic activity than the President and his economic advisers predicted last January for the fiscal year starting July 1. They said this would hold down tax receipts and result in a $383,818,000,000 budget deficit.

Furthermore, it said, if the House-passed tax reform bill becomes law it will further reduce revenues by $1,090,000,000 and result in a deficit of $4,908,000,000.

To Attend Big 10 Residence Parley

Indonesian Says Forces May Take W. New Guinea

JAKARTA, Indonesia (UPI)—Defense Minister Abdul Haris Nasution said Monday that Indonesian youth forces have landed on the West New Guinea coast and Indonesia soon will be powerful enough to drive the Dutch off the island.

Nasution's bristling statements, made at Bandung University, coincided with a sharp increase in military activity around Jakarta.

A convoy estimated to be carrying about 1,000 uniformed men was reported headed for the capital's harbor.

"no knowledge" of any such landings.

The Hague dispatch said Holland shortly would announce four month extension of service for conscripts serving on New Guinea because of the tense situation. Another 2,900 Dutch marines and soldiers are being ordered to the territory.

The tough tone of Nasution's speech indicated that Indonesia had all but abandoned further thought of negotiating with the Dutch.

REPEATED FROM LAST NIGHT, the first program in the series SUI Radio Forum will be heard this morning at 8:30. The subject, again, "The Future of the Iowa Economy."

A PREVIEW OF A CONCERT by the newly-formed Collegium Musicum will take place at 2 p.m. Eugene Helm, CM's conductor, will be on hand to discuss the program planned for next Sunday afternoon in the Art Building under the aegis of Choregi. If at all possible, some recorded examples of the sort of music Collegium Musicum plays will be used to illustrate the talk about early instruments, those who played them and those who wrote music for those who played them to play on their early instruments.

"INDIVIDUAL BEHAVIOR and the Social Conditions for Human Action" is the title of tonight's address in the series Coexistence. The speaker is Dr. Edward Stainbrook; the time is 8 p.m.

MUSIC FROM AUSTRIA — not just Vienna, either — will dominate the afternoon of music from 2:50 p.m. An occasional Strauss waltz, maybe and a little Trapp family singers, too, but mostly the unusual will be heard.

IF ALL PLANS MATERIALIZE, we'll have a talk by Newton Minow instead of Jasstrack tonight at 9. He speaks this afternoon.

TONIGHT'S FM FEATURE: The Brahms Violin-Piano Sonata No 3 in D Minor, Opus 108.

Nasution told his audience at the university that Indonesian ships and planes are patrolling the West New Guinea coast.

"Our youth have succeeded in landing at several points on the coast of West Irian (West New Guinea) below Sorong, Fakafak and Kainama," he said.

City Council Seeks New Councilman

Iowa City residents are invited to suggest names for a successor to the late Councilman Dorr Hudson at a city council meeting at 7:30 p.m. today. No final action is expected.

Fred H. Doderer, temporary mayor, said the council met informally Saturday to discuss ways of naming a new mayor. Mr. Hudson died last Tuesday.

The council hopes to make the appointment soon. The mayor is chosen by vote of the council from among its members.

Principal item on the agenda is consideration of plans for a new 16-inch water transmission line that is designed to insure an adequate water supply for Iowa City's east side.

Ford Grant Extends Merit Program to 1970

The National Merit Scholarship Corporation is extending its program through 1970 with an additional grant of $14.5 million from the Ford Foundation.

The corporation, established in 1955 through a $20-million Ford Foundation grant and a $500,000 grant from the Carnegie Corporation of New York, provides four-year merit scholarships to outstanding high school seniors.

The initial Ford Foundation grant was to last from 1955 to 1965. The additional grant, which brings the total to $34.5 million, will carry the merit program to 1970.

The corporation also will be able to expand experimental programs of additional merit scholarships for exceptionally promising students.

In addition, the new grant will help the corporation step up studies seeking improved ways to identify and educate unusually talented students and intensify the search for financial support for able but needy students.

Corporation President John M. Stalnaker cited data to indicate that each year about 17,000 students receive financial aid as a result of their high performance.

In the last five years, the Corporation has awarded 4,882 merit scholarships. Of these, 2,432 were financed out of funds provided by the Ford Foundation.

The remaining 2,450 awards were financed by corporations, professional societies, and individual foundations, unions, professional societies, and individuals.

So far the total value of all merit scholarships given or committed by the Corporation and sponsors is nearly $25 million.

This year's awards, to be announced April 26, are expected to number about 1,000, increasing the total by about $4.5 million. Some 150 sponsors will join the Corporation in making these awards.

SUI's March Gifts Total $418,854

Gifts, grants and contract funds totaling $418,854.18 were accepted for SUI in March by the finance committee of the State Board of Regents.

About 75 per cent of the March total, $305,946.50, will be used for research in projects such as studies of survival rations and nutrition, arthritis, physiology of speech mechanics and dental pulp capping.

The remaining 25 per cent was allocated as follows: scholarships, fellowships and student aid, $16,364.25; loan funds, $51,457.75; endowment funds, $155.72; training grants, $107; miscellaneous, $44,823.16.

Women Voters Name Trade Emphasis Week

This week has been designated Trade Emphasis Week in Iowa City by the League of Women Voters.

During the week, merchants are asked to display both imported goods and Iowa products that are exported. The displays show that international trade is a two-way street.

According to the league, Iowa's share of the nation's export trade brought nearly half a billion dollars into the state in 1960, selling $248 million of agricultural products and $243 million of industrial products.

Charred Altar

This was how the altar of the First English Lutheran Church looked Sunday morning after a fire gutted the interior of the building. Damage to the building at Market and Dubuque streets was estimated at $100,000. Fire investigators said the fire probably was deliberately set. It apparently started in two places — at the altar and in the boiler room. See story on page 1.

Pastor Inspects Damage

The Rev. Roy Wingate, pastor of the church, inspects damage in the library. Most of the pews in the church were destroyed. Hymnals, damaged by water, probably cannot be used again, church officials said. Only some choir robes, church records and some miscellaneous items were saved. The building was insured for $54,000.

'Old Music' Group Will Give Concert Sunday at 5 p.m.

Music composed during the 16th and 17th centuries will be featured in a concert to be sponsored by Choregi Sunday at 5 p.m. in the new gallery of the Art Building.

To be given by Collegium Musicum, an SUI organization devoted to studying and performing old and unusual music, the program will also include a Siamese orchestra piece, "Kham Horn" (Sweet Words). Directed by Eugene Helm, professor of music, the Collegium Musicum includes 30 students.

The transition from the Renaissance to the Baroque in music will be demonstrated.

Thomas Davis, professor of music, will direct the instrumental group which will present the Siamese work. Called a gamelan by the Siamese, the percussion "orchestra" will use American instruments to produce musical effects like those created on authentic Siamese instruments.

Founded early this semester, Choregi promotes closer relationships among the arts represented on campus.

Stuit: SUI Isn't Considering ROTC Requirement Change

By STEVE SANGER Staff Writer

Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, said Monday that the University is not now considering any change in the one-year ROTC requirement.

In September, 1961, when the two-year requirement was changed to one year by the State Board of Regents, the plan was to be evaluated in two years.

Stuit said a review of ROTC will be made in June, but no decision for a new program will be made until after June, 1963, as far as he knew.

A scholarship plan for Army and Air Force ROTC, sponsored by the Department of Defense, is now before Congress. It would pay the cost of instruction and monthly payments to students in return for two years and two summers of ROTC training.

"This plan, if passed, would probably abolish compulsory ROTC in the United States," Stuit said.

The scholarships would be available to qualified juniors and seniors in return for an agreement to serve a specified number of years after graduation, he said.

The Navy already has such a plan. Under it, the graduate must serve three years.

The Army is currently heavily dependent on compulsory ROTC for officers and would not want it discontinued with no alternative chance of attracting students, Stuit said. The Air Force does not need officers as badly and, "would not feel as strongly on the matter," he added.

Stuit had "no doubt that the services would move toward a scholarship program — if offered — thus abolishing compulsory ROTC."

Any change at SUI would be recommended by a special faculty committee from the College of Liberal Arts and relayed by President Hancher to the Board of Regents, who would act on the recommendation.
