

Opposition to Testing In Wrong Approach

The United States probably will resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere before another week is out.

This will not be an occasion for rejoicing, but it will be accepted calmly by most Americans as a decision that President Kennedy has made after full consideration of every thing involved.

The U.S. did resume underground nuclear testing rather hurriedly, shortly after the Soviet Union last fall ended the three-year voluntary moratorium on testing. That decision was not preceded by the thorough study of everything involved, as has been the decision to resume testing in the atmosphere.

U.S. resumption of tests undoubtedly will be followed by new Soviet tests. The nuclear arms race will be stepped up. The danger of the nuclear warfare that neither side wants will be increased.

However, the president, having made his announcement in early March that testing would be resumed unless there was assurance that the Soviet Union would abandon testing, had no real choice at the time.

There has been little discussion or debate by leaders in Congress on this question of testing. There seems to have been a truly bi-partisan or non-partisan approach, with leaders of both parties agreeing with, or at least accepting, the position of the president.

The American public, however, has not been deprived of an "opposition" point of view because of the failure to debate the question by Congress. Thirty or more organizations which oppose nuclear testing have been very active. Their views have been presented in speeches and articles and they have resorted to picketing, peace parades and other demonstrations.

They have overstressed one danger from the resumption of nuclear tests, the effect of fallout. But fallout probably will have some adverse effects on future generations, although not the extreme results that some individuals depict.

The other danger cited by the peace groups, that resumption of nuclear testing leads to stepping up of the arms race and increases the possibility of war, is a greater one. However, the leaders responsible for safeguarding this country's security recognize that danger. But they think the danger of war might be even greater if the U.S. did not resume testing. This might leave the way open for the Soviet Union to get military supremacy that would lead it to reckless action.

Some of the peace groups proceed on assumptions that cannot be accepted by President Kennedy and Congress, including the assumption that if the U.S. would refrain from testing and stepping up the arms race so would the Soviet Union. The arguments of the peace groups do help in reinforcing the view that the resumption of testing solves nothing; it just makes it more imperative that every effort continue to be made to find a way to bring about arms control and halt the nuclear arms race.

The Danger Signals

More than 87,000 Americans will die of cancer this year. Cancer will kill over 75 people in Johnson County in 1962.

Much research is being done to curb this dreaded disease. Much more needs to be done. But with all the research advances, many people will still die because they visited their physicians too late. They did not know the danger signals of cancer.

The final phase of the Johnson County Cancer Crusade is now under way. Volunteers will deliver free cancer information, including pamphlets describing the seven danger signals of cancer, to Johnson County residents next Sunday and Monday. The volunteers will also ask for contributions to help fight the disease.

Money devoted to research can only help individuals with cancer when they get to see a doctor in time. People should know the facts about cancer and should act upon them.

When the volunteer comes to your home Sunday or Monday, study the material he leaves. And give as generously as you can. By knowing the danger signals you are protecting yourself. By contributing money, you are helping others.

Do both.

Dislikes 'New Set' Of Bias Rules

To the Editor: Dean M. L. Huit, our trained investigator in the Office of Student Affairs, has once again found no evidence of discrimination. He has, of course, already shown in the Andy Hankins-Delta Chi affair, an unusual skill in this respect. But what is most distressing on this latest occasion is that Mr. Huit has made it clear that he, as an agent of the University, does not seriously intend to do anything about the elimination of discrimination in University-approved off-campus housing. He has investigated discrimination and has come up with a new set of rules which reduces greatly the probability that he will even have to go through the empty formality of an investigation in the future.

He indicates that he is always willing to aid "sincere students" who suffer discrimination. Apparently he means to question the sincerity of some of those who have raised the issue of discrimination. However, it seems to me that he has yet to demonstrate his own sincerity in this matter of moving toward the elimination of discrimination. (And if he honestly accepts the results of his own investigation in the current affair, then certainly he ought to do something about those students who brought false accusations against the good landlords of Iowa City. How could they, the students, have been wrong in so many cases? Surely, the only explanation is an evil desire to bring embarrassment to the University.) Mr. Huit snidely suggests that picketing is not really the respectable way to secure some action on the part of the University; it is only necessary to come in and talk with him. I have talked with him, at considerable length, and can testify that it is useless. His veneer of respectability prevents direct confrontation of the ugly facts of prejudice and discrimination. And, in any event, by his norms of respectability, vigorous action and complaint against prejudice and discrimination, if not more, "respectable" people do not raise their voices about prejudice and discrimination; they might just offend some of their best friends.

Mr. Huit finally wraps himself in the mantle of "education." But here we have only to ask what program of education to eliminate discrimination by householders under University approval has he set up in the past. It is perfectly obvious that he has done nothing in the past to "educate" the prejudiced nor does he have anything in mind for the future.

It is disillusioning when the Dean of the Office of Student Affairs of a state-supported university north of the Mason-Dixon line has continually to be prodded into taking any forthright action toward disapproval of prejudice and elimination of discrimination. And he compromises the integrity of the University by providing support for the forces of bigotry on this campus and in the community.

Leftist Label Not Right Says SARE

To the Editor: On the editorial page of the April 19 issue and on previous occasions, the term "Left Winger" has been applied to SPU, ACLU, SDC, and SARE.

We request that the D.I. define this label so often tagged onto its editorials. We are writing for SARE.

If by left winger you mean those people interested in assuring that the dignity of the individual is preserved through equal opportunity for employment, housing, etc., the executive committee of SARE is delighted to be coupled with such "left wing" documents as the Bill of Rights and Constitution of the United States. We also receive great pleasure in being identified with "left wingers" Locke, Rousseau, Jefferson, and Lincoln.

If, on the other hand, you are speaking of political "left wingers," i.e. Marxists, then perhaps an investigation by the D.I. of the executive board of SARE would be advantageous. What we are saying, is that if the latter is your claim, "it just AIN'T so."

Former Publisher Comments On DI Investigation Report

By JOHN M. HARRISON
Written for The Daily Iowan
EDITOR'S NOTE: John M. Harrison, author of the following article, is the past publisher of The Daily Iowan who resigned last summer to take a teaching position at Pennsylvania State University. His letter of resignation, which contained remarks on a "free student press," has been reprinted and quoted in several articles in the Iowa Defender and in the Letter to the Editor column of The Daily Iowan. We asked Mr. Harrison to comment on the recent recommendations set forth by the President's Committee to Study The Daily Iowan. The following article was submitted to The Daily Iowan by him.

A penalty that must be paid for achieving a measure of immortality relatively early is the discomfort of finding one's words and one's spirit invoked in behalf of positions one cannot wholeheartedly endorse.

Even in the face of this discomfort, it probably is best to rest in a state of beatification, at a distance of about a thousand miles. To return to the field of battle where one has fallen is to destroy the illusion of having gone on to a martyr's reward.

YET IT HAS BEEN proposed that because both my words and my spirit have been introduced (albeit on separate occasions) into the controversy now raging on the banks of the placid Iowa River concerning a report on "the place and relationship of a campus newspaper in a complex University," I might want to speak for myself. So against my better judgment — lulled, no doubt, by the relative peace and quiet of this lovely campus in the Pennsylvania mountain country — I return to the fray.

Let me say at the outset that I have read and enjoyed most of what has been written and printed about the Haefner Report. If some of it has been hogwashed and pompous showoffery, some of it has been honest and eloquent. It includes even one attempt to discuss the report in terms of what was meant by the men who wrote it instead of what an assorted array of campus pundits believes they meant.

I can't, of course, look at this report objectively. Some of my experiences as publisher of SPI and The Daily Iowan cloud and distort my vision. What I have to say should be considered in this context.

Its ambiguity bothers me, especially where it espouses responsibility in that curiously negative sense which enjoys such popularity at Old Capitol and in the Communications Center. When I read these passages, I keep wanting to remind the members of the Haefner Committee that another illustrious group which undertook to assess the performance of the press in America entitled its report "A Free and Responsible Press."

Dr. Hutchins and his associates, though they shocked a lot of American publishers, did scrupulously adhere to the notion that if the press is to be responsible, it must first be free. Reading the Haefner Report, I keep wishing this committee had been equally insistent on that point.

How do we determine what the committee did have in mind? Well, if I were in Iowa City I would try to find out by asking its members. This relatively uncomplicated solution seems to have suggested itself to only one man — Phil Currie, editor of The Daily Iowan. Not even the Iowa Defender's learned pundit who was the particular advocate of the get-up-off-your-duff-and-find-out brand of reporting seems to have managed to get-himself-up-off-his. One may argue that The Daily Iowan editor was naive. Knowing him as a pretty hard-nosed and sometimes very stubborn young man, I'm willing to take his word for it.

Some other things about the Haefner Report make me uneasy — that talk about the "image of the University," for instance. And the proposal that the publisher or his representative be in the newsroom when The Daily Iowan goes to press is unnecessary and — whatever its intent — smacks of censorship.

But I would suggest that none of these is anything more than window dressing. The significant part of this report is none of this but the proposal to abolish SPI and establish a new board of control, directly accountable to the president. It is this board which would determine the direction in which The Daily Iowan is to go. It is to the makeup of this proposed board that attention should be directed.

IT IS WORTH NOTING that the new board, while it would overturn the majority of students on the SPI board, might provide a far healthier situation than the one that exists under the present system. Note that neither the president nor the director of the School of Journalism has approved even tentatively this part of the report. I am willing to wager that neither is in the least happy with this part of the report. It does not give them the kind of tightly controlled board they want. In destroying the student's majority, it could create a far more potent majority in favor of a free and responsible Daily Iowan — a majority composed of students, faculty, and alumni.

One faculty member of the new board would be named by the Faculty Council — a group which has more than once in the past given the Administration several kinds of fits. If this group were to elect to the new board any of a large number of able members of the SUJ faculty who want The Daily Iowan to be free as well as responsible, it would provide student members with a valuable ally they rarely have had under the present system.

And what about the alumni members proposed in this report? They would be named by the president. But could he easily pass over such a distinguished alumnus as the man who made this suggestion to the Haefner Committee — a man whose reputation, interest, and proximity would make him so natural an appointee that failure to name him would loom as a gross affront in everyone's mind? If the alumni appointees included a Harry Boyd (Cedar Rapids Gazette), or a Hank Hook (Davenport Democrat), or a Ken MacDonald (Des Moines Register and Tribune), student members would have — on many key issues — another valuable ally.

JOHN HARRISON

Comments on Haefner Report

FOR ALTHOUGH JOHN HENRY (who has brought intelligence and guts to the student membership of the board in the last two years) is right in declaring that allegations of "bloc voting" against student members are improper and unfair, it unfortunately is too true that "bloc voting" has been a problem for some time. Indeed, one of the first things that disturbed me after taking over as publisher in January, 1958, was the frequency with which faculty members voted as a bloc against any proposal to liberalize restrictions or to stand against pressures from outside. Time and again, the faculty members cast their votes as a unit.

And so long as the director of the School of Journalism, in his capacity as chairman, could frighten one or two student members with his bear stories about what President Hancher might do if the board crossed him, he was able to keep SPI affairs under his thumb. It was only when students finally stood as a unit that he became alarmed about "bloc voting," though he could easily have avoided the label by casting his vote with the students for a change.

There is, of course, no reason why the interests of students and faculty should be inimical where The Daily Iowan is concerned. Indeed, the fight has clearly not been between students on the one hand and faculty on the other so far as the whole SUJ campus is concerned. It has been, rather, students and those faculty members who want a free and responsible campus newspaper against the Administration and those faculty members who are afraid to oppose it. Had faculty members of the SPI board taken a less rigid stance over a period of years, the line which finally was clearly drawn need never have existed.

It would be better for everyone — and especially for The Daily Iowan — if this line did not continue to exist. The procedure proposed for establishing the new board of control offers the chance to expunge it. For if the Faculty Council were to name a Slow Persons, a John Gerber, a Frank Seiberling, a Clyde Kohn, a Willard Boyd, a Jim Murray, a Bob Turnbull, a George Bedell, a Richard Lloyd-Jones, an Alan Spitzer, a Lane Davis — distinguished faculty members all, covering a wide range of academic areas, and only representative of a much larger segment of available men — students on this new board no longer would stand alone against a hostile faculty membership. If the additional support of an alumni member were gained, assurance of a free and responsible Daily Iowan would be still greater.

Other aspects of the Haefner Committee's recommendations would greatly improve the existing situation. Faculty members would be named for specific terms, not at the president's pleasure. The new board would elect a chairman from its membership each year, a vast improvement over the arrangement under which the director of the School of Journalism is automatically chairman. The strategic importance of the present arrangement in these two matters is impossible to estimate. Those who want a free and responsible Daily Iowan should enthusiastically support these proposed changes.

One other commendable recommendation clarifies the position of the publisher, providing that he is "solely responsible to the Board for the operation of the paper." Such an arrangement would help clarify operational procedures, which have become hopelessly entangled with the School of Journalism, and permit the publisher to function as executive head of The Daily Iowan.

No less dedicated to the proposition that The Daily Iowan should be free than I was during my term as its publisher, I am equally convinced (and have written to this point in a Nieman Reports article which has been widely reprinted) that the freedom of the college press always is subject to the will of the Administration. One hopes that the president of any particular college or university will be sufficiently dedicated to the proposition of free examination of ideas that he will want to sponsor such a newspaper on his campus.

PRESIDENT HANCHER, UNFORTUNATELY, does not. In appointing the Haefner Committee, he made it clear that he sees only two alternatives — a controlled laboratory or a publication completely outside the university structure. To appreciate the intensity of his feeling on this point, one need only to have read the extensive correspondence he dispatched during, before and after the period of which Kirk Boyd wrote in The Daily Iowan recently.

The Haefner Committee has not given him the answer he wanted on this point. I suggest that it has not given him the answers he wanted with respect to control and organization either. But it has made it harder for him to do what he wants to do with regard to The Daily Iowan. Now he must reject the proposals of his own committee to get the kind of control he prefers.

If, then, I were still on the SUJ campus and concerned to protect The Daily Iowan's freedom, I would hold my fire now and save it for efforts that will be made to circumvent these relevant parts of the Haefner Report. For all its ambiguity, for all its reliance on public relations gobblegook, it could be the means of establishing a more solidly based freedom than The Daily Iowan possesses today. If, indeed, it were adopted now with the provision that it be put in operation by Mr. Hancher's successor as president, it might go down in history alongside the judgments of Solomon.

It would be better for everyone — and especially for The Daily

Texas Farmer Enters Clash On Civil Rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Texas farmer named James Norman was projected suddenly into the middle of a gathering Senate clash over civil rights legislation Tuesday.

Norman's name was on a routine bill selected by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana as the vehicle for his move to force Senate action on President Kennedy's literacy test bill.

Mansfield was compelled to delay his motion for at least 24 hours when Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Go.), demanded a quorum call that showed there were not enough senators on hand to start the fireworks.

Russell made it clear in a few preliminary remarks that Southern senators were ready to fight the bill "with every means at our command."

The Southerners' chief weapon is a filibuster, by which they hope to set up a verbal blockade against Mansfield's motion to attach the literacy test legislation to a bill for the relief of farmer Norman.

The bill provides that no one who has completed a sixth grade education shall be barred from voting in federal elections on literacy grounds. Sponsors of the legislation say literacy tests are used in some areas to prevent Negroes from voting.

A showdown is expected after about 10 days on a motion to invoke cloture, or debate limitation. It has been known for some time that Mansfield planned to try to hook the Administration bill onto some obscure piece of legislation as a means of getting it before the Senate.

The bill he chose has already passed the House. It would relieve James M. Norman of Memphis, Tex., from the obligation of repaying $2,001.48 to the Federal Group Insurance Corp.

Students To Hold Table Clinics Here

Table clinic competition between senior dental hygiene students and junior dental students will be held tonight at 7:30 in Room 10 and the basement hallway of the Dental Building.

A table clinic is a demonstration showing a new method or improved procedure in dentistry in a quick, direct and simplified manner.

Three clinics will be selected from 13 competing dental hygiene clinics, each including two students, to participate in the University table clinic demonstrations on May 9 in conjunction with the state American Dental Association meeting in Des Moines.

Each of the eight dental students' clinics will participate in the Des Moines meeting. One of these groups will be selected to attend the national ADA meeting later this year in Miami, Fla.

There is also one combined dental hygiene and dental students' clinic.

Koufax Equals Strike Out Record

CHICAGO (UPI) — Sandy Koufax struck out 18 Chicago Cubs Tuesday — equaling the major league strike out record for the second time in his career and setting a new National League daytime strikeout record — in a 10-2 Los Angeles Dodgers rout of the Chicago Cubs.

The little southpaw was in magnificent command, striking out nine of the first 10 Cubs to face him and whiffing the side twice — once on only 10 pitches. He had 10 strikeouts over the first 13 batters and didn't allow a hit until late in the fourth inning, when Ron Santo got to him for a single.

Koufax's 18 strikeouts equaled the major league record first set by Bob Feller when, as a teenager pitching for the Cleveland Indians, he set down 18 Detroit Tigers on strikeouts on Oct. 2, 1938.

Koufax equaled that record when he fanned 18 San Francisco Giants on the night of Aug. 31, 1959.

The strikeouts topped by one the previous National League daytime mark set by Dizzy Dean against the Cubs on July 30, 1933.

Rookie Ellis Hurls Redlegs Past Mets

CINCINNATI (UPI) — Rookie Sammy Ellis, with relief help from Moe Drabowsky, won his first major league game Tuesday night by fire balling the Cincinnati Reds to a 7-5 victory over the New York Mets.

The 21-year-old Ellis was wild, walking 11 in five innings, but was able to blaze the ball past the Met batters with men on base. He struck out six and gave up only one hit.

Drabowsky relieved Ellis after he walked two men to open the sixth inning and shut out the Reds the rest of the way.

The Reds scored four runs in the first inning to take a lead which was never endangered.

Don Blasingame led off with a walk, went to third on a single by Eddie Kasko and scored when Charley Neal let Vada Pinson's routine grounder go through his legs.

Colts Defeat Cards, 5-4

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A three-run uprising in the second inning and Don Taussig's bases-empty homer in the sixth gave the Houston Colts a 4-3 victory over St. Louis Tuesday night and extended the Cardinals' losing streak to three games.

The homer by Taussig, selected from the Cardinals in the National League player stocking draft, gave Hal Woodeshick the edge he needed to record his second victory against no defeats with a six-hitter, although his mates made five errors.

St. Louis scored on a wild pitch by Mets' starter and loser, Craig Anderson, and Pinson tallied on a single by Gordy Coleman.

Post's homer was his fifth of the season, tying him with Tommy Davis of the Dodgers for the National League lead.

Neal got the Mets' first hit in the fifth inning, a single through the middle, scoring Elio Chacon from second.

The Mets scored two more in the sixth, Felix Mantilla's single producing the first one and the second one scoring as Chacon bounced into a double play.

New York scored on a double play in the seventh, scoring Elio Chacon from second.

Tigers Score Late To Ruin Rookie's Pitching Debut, 1-0

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Tigers pushed across a run in the eighth inning Tuesday night and ruined a magnificent debut as a starting pitcher by Dan Pfister in a 1-0 victory over the Kansas City Athletics.

Rocky Colavito's two-out single off third baseman Ed Charles' chest chased in Jake Wood with the only run. Don Mossi, who issued four hits compared to Pfister's three, was the winner.

Pfister, a 25-year-old rookie, held the Tigers to one hit until the eighth. He was working on a no-hitter until Steve Boros singled in the fifth.

Wood started the Tiger scoring in the eighth inning with the second hit off Pfister, a double to left on which Gordon Windhorn just missed a shoestring catch. The rookie right-hander retired the next two batters before giving defending batting champion Norm Cash an intentional walk.

Colavito slashed a one-bounce shot that struck Charles and skipped into short left field as Wood scooted home with the run.

Kansas City scored on a double play in the seventh, scoring Elio Chacon from second.

Rampaging Pirates Nip Giants; Increase Lead

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Right-hander Alvin McBean, with relief help from Elroy Face, pitched the rampaging Pittsburgh Pirates to a 7-3 victory Tuesday night over the San Francisco Giants.

McBean was sailing along on a six hitter when he walked catcher Ed Bailey and surrendered a single to Jose Pagan with one out in the ninth. Face got Jim Davenport on a fielder's choice and pinch-hitter Tom Haller on a fly ball to end the game.

The Pirates opened the scoring with two runs in the second inning on catcher Don Leppert's second homer of the season, a wrong-way shot into the right field stands with Don Hoak on base.

They wrapped up the game with five runs in the fourth inning, chasing Giant starter and loser Juan Marichal. Ten batters went to the plate in the inning. The big blow was Bill Mazeroski's bases-loaded single.

Powell, hitless in his last 12 times at bat, topped a four-run Oriole uprising in the ninth after the Twins apparently had sewed up a 4-1 victory.

Twins starter Jack Kralick gave up a single to Jackie Brandt to open the ninth. Brooks Robinson then walked. The rally appeared to die when Gus Triandos hit a grounder to third baseman Rich Hollins, who turned it into a double play, leaving the Orioles with a runner on third base and two out.

Jerry Adair then singled to make it 4-2. Pinch hitter Dick Williams, batting for winning pitcher Milt Pappas, singled to left, chasing Kralick in favor of reliever Joe Bonikowski. On a 3-2 count, Johnny Temple hit a sharp grounder to third that took a bad hop off Rollins' outstretched glove and went for a double, scoring Adair to make it 4-3.

Dick Stigman then took over for Bonikowski and purposely walked pinch hitter Ozzie Virgil to load the bases. Then Powell hit a ground single which nicked second baseman Bernie Allen's glove but scored the tying and winning runs. It was Baltimore's fourth straight victory.

Minnesota scored on a double play in the seventh, scoring Elio Chacon from second.

Runnels' 2 Homers Lift Red Sox, 4-1

BOSTON (UPI) — Spray hitter Pete Runnels, taking advantage of winds up to 44 miles per hour, hit two homers Tuesday to lead the Boston Red Sox to a 4-1 victory over the Washington Senators.

First baseman Runnels, who had hit only five home runs during the past two seasons, got his 320-foot first homer of the year as leadoff batter in the third inning, and his second with the bases empty to ignite a three-run Boston rally in the eighth.

Runnels' second homer, a 380-foot drive to the centerfield bullpen, offset a seventh inning solo homer by Washington outfielder Jim King. All three home runs and all but one of seven extrabase hits were with the wind.

The sudden Runnels power spree gave Boston right-hander Galen Cisco his first complete game and his second victory in as many decisions. He held Washington to four hits, walked four and struck out two.

The second Runnels' homer also touched off a three-run Boston rally when Washington starter and loser Joe McClain issued two walks, a single to Carl Yastrzemski, and Frank Malzone's second double of the game, that hit driving in two runs.

Washington scored on a double play in the seventh, scoring Elio Chacon from second.

CRAM COURSE No. 3: ENGLISH POETRY

Final exams will soon be upon us. This is no time for fun and games. Let us instead study hard, cram fiercely, prepare assiduously.

In this column today let us make a quick survey of English poetry. When we speak of English poetry, we are, of course, speaking of Byron, Shelley, and Keats. Some say that of the three, Keats was the most talented. It is true that he displayed his gifts earlier than the others. While still a schoolboy at St. Swinith's he wrote his epic lines:

*If I am good, I get an apple,
So I don't whistle in the chapel.*

From this distinguished beginning, he went on to write another 40,000 poems in his lifetime—which is all the more remarkable when you consider that he was only five feet tall!

I mention this fact only to show that physical problems never keep the true artist from creating. Byron, for example, was lame. Shelley had an ingrown hair. Nonetheless, these three titans of literature turned out a veritable torrent of romantic poetry.

Nor did they neglect their personal lives. Byron, a devil with the ladies, was expelled from Oxford for dipping Elizabeth Barrett's pigtail in an inkwell. He thereupon left England to fight in the Greek war of independence. He fought bravely and well, but women were never far from his mind, as evidenced by this immortal poem:

*How splendid it is to fight for the Greek,
But I don't enjoy it half as much as dancing cheek to cheek.*

While Byron fought in Greece, Shelley remained in England, where he became court poet to the Duke of Marlborough. (It is interesting to note in passing that Marlborough was the original spelling of Marlboro Cigarettes, but the makers were unable to get the entire word on the package. With characteristic ingenuity they cleverly lopped off the final "gh". This, of course, left them with a "gh" lying around the factory. They looked for some place to put it and finally decided to give it to the Director of Sales, Mr. Vincent Van Gogh. This had a rather curious result. As plain Van Gogh, he had been a crackerjack director of sales, but once he became Van Gogh, he felt a mysterious, irresistible urge to paint. He resigned from the Company and became an artist. It did not work out too well. When Van Gogh learned what a great success Marlboro Cigarettes quickly became—as, of course, they had to with such a flavorful flavor, such a filterful filter, such a flip-top box, such a soft pack—he was so upset about leaving the firm that he cut off his ear in a fit of chagrin.)

But I digress. Byron, I say, was in Italy and Shelley in England. Meanwhile Keats went to Rome to try to grow. Who does not remember his wistful lyric:

*Although I am only five feet high,
Some day I will look in an elephant's eye.*

But Keats did not grow. His friends, Shelley and Byron, touched to the heart, rushed to Rome to stretch him. This too failed. Then Byron, ever the ladies' man, took up with Lucrezia Borgia, Catherine of Aragon, and Annie Oakley. Shelley, a more domestic type, stayed home with his wife Mary, and wrote his famous poem:

*I love to stay home with the missus and write,
And hug her and kiss her and give her a bite.*

Mary Shelley finally got so tired of being bitten that she went into another room and wrote Frankenstein. Upon reading the manuscript, Shelley and Byron got so scared they immediately booked passage home to England. Keats tried to go too, but he was so small that the clerk at the steamship office couldn't see him over the top of the counter. So Keats remained in Rome and died of a broken heart.

Byron and Shelley cried a lot and then together composed this immortal epitaph:

*Good old Keats, he might have been short,
But he was a great American and a heck of a good sport.*

Truth, not poetry, is the business of the Marlboro makers, and we tell you truly that you can't find a better tasting, better smoking cigarette than today's Marlboro.

Hot Floyd Robinson Leads White Sox Past Yankees, 3-1

NEW YORK (UPI) — Floyd Robinson's two-run homer clinched a three-run rally in the eighth inning Tuesday and gave the Chicago White Sox a 3-1 victory over the New York Yankees.

Robinson's towering blast, into the corner of the distant right field bleachers, came off Yankee starter Ralph Terry, who had kept the White Sox well in hand on four scattered hits until he lost control of the game in the eighth. Terry was the loser, his first of the year against three victories.

John Buzhardt, who went out for a pinch-hitter in the eighth, allowed all the Yankee hits, including a homer by Johnny Blanchard and was credited with his second victory of the year. He had lost one.

Blanchard's homer in the second inning kept the Yankees in front until the eighth. With one out in the eighth, Terry walked Jim Landis, who stole second and went to third on Blanchard's attempt to throw him out. Joe Cunningham singled to left, scoring Landis. Robinson then hit his home run to end the rally.

The victory broke a four-game White Sox losing streak. It was the third defeat in a row for the Yankees.

Hoosiers and S. Illinois Split in Doubleheader

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Indiana edged Southern Illinois, 4-3, Tuesday in the first game of a non-conference college baseball doubleheader, but the visitors came back to take the nightcap, 12-2.

The relief pitching of Charlie Hall and a run pushed across in the last half of the eighth inning gave the Hoosiers their victory in the opening game.

A single by Terry Ryser, a pair of groundouts and a single by Jerry Flanagan accounted for the winning run.

Hall, who took over for Bob Bradley in the sixth inning, was credited with the victory.

'Good Hope' Expressed For Moss' Recovery

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Doctors at Atkinson Morley Hospital expressed "good hope" Tuesday for the recovery of British auto racing star Stirling Moss, although he still was unconscious more than 24 hours after his Monday racing smashup.

A hospital spokesman described Moss' condition as "good" and reported there is no sign of any brain hemorrhage.

Moss, 32-year-old Daredevil who is regarded as one of the best sports car racers in the world, was injured when his new Lotus car careened off the track at Goodwood at 100 miles per hour on the 35th lap of the annual Goodwood 100 mile race. His condition was described as "serious" Monday night.

However, a bulletin issued by the hospital secretary Laurence Brown Tuesday evening said: "Although it is too early to say with certainty, there seems good hope of his recovery. His general condition remains good and there has been no deterioration during the day."

"He is still unconscious, though less deeply so than he was, and there are no signs to suggest dangerous bleeding within the skull," Brown said.

Cubs' Taylor Threatens To Quit if Not Traded

WOODRUFF, S.C. (UPI) — Sammy Taylor, regular catcher for the Chicago Cubs, said Tuesday he would quit baseball if he is not traded.

Taylor, 29, said he was not making enough money to keep up two homes, in Chicago, and in Woodruff where his wife prefers to live with their 4-year-old daughter.

Taylor said he has no team in mind he wants to be traded to, and knows of no deal in the making.

In Chicago, Cub Vice President John Holland said Taylor was suspended from the team when he failed to show up for Tuesday's game with Los Angeles.

Taylor confirmed that Holland had refused him permission to visit his home in South Carolina and told him he would be suspended without pay if he went.

"My family means more to me than baseball," said Taylor. "We know Sammy has had difficulties for some time, but these are his problems and he will have to work them out," Holland said.

Taylor, reached by telephone at his home, said he preferred not to discuss family problems.

Taylor said that if he does not remain in organized baseball, he would like to get a job in youth work, perhaps teaching baseball and other sports to youngsters.

Hapless Mets Have Traded; Plan More

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI) — The floundering New York Mets have closed one player deal and are on the verge of closing another, club President George Weiss said Tuesday.

"One is all set," said Weiss. "It now is just a question of the other club informing their players."

Weiss did not hint at any of the players involved, nor did he say what teams he is dickering with. He disclosed that the deals probably will be announced on Thursday.

"They won't be anything earth-shaking," Weiss said. "But we think they will help us. We have had a little time to assess things now and see what we need."

Although Weiss has stressed throughout the spring that the club's top need is pitching, there are indications that the deals on the fire revolve around obtaining a catcher.

There was a slight hint that the Milwaukee Braves might be one of the other clubs involved. Weiss was reminded by a newsman that the Mets still owe the Braves a player in the Mets' purchase of slugger Frank Thomas from the Braves.

"That will be taken into consideration if we have any deals with them," Weiss replied without further explanation.

Another possibility is that the Reds are involved. Weiss has been conferring here with Reds' owner Bill DeWitt, who once served as assistant general manager of the New York Yankees when Weiss was general manager of that club.

GIAMBRA TRAINS
MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Joey Giambra, scheduled to meet Florentino Fernandez in a nationally televised 10-round middleweight fight at Miami Beach Auditorium Saturday night, opened training Tuesday.

Giambra has had 73 fights, won 64, lost seven and drawn twice. Thirty victories were by knockout. Fernandez, with 30 victories and four losses, has recorded 24 KOs.

One-way Rides For Negroes Draw Protests

South-to-North Train With 1,000 Negroes Denounced by Many

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—A proposal to send a "freedom train" North carrying 1,000 Negroes on a free one-way ride away from segregation in the South drew cries of outrage and defiance Tuesday.

Northern political leaders, the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People and the Congress of Racial Equality spoke stinging words against the idea, originated by the Citizens Council of New Orleans.

Rep. F. Edward Hebert (D-La.), defended the proposal. He said it was merely "Freedom Riders" in reverse.

George L. Singelman, director of the Citizens Council, made the idea public. He said the council wanted to provide the one-way transportation for Negroes unhappy with segregation customs in New Orleans.

The program to pay for one-way tickets for Negroes wishing to go to the North already has drawn one taker. Louis Boyd, his wife and eight children, went to New York by bus. The Citizens Council paid the $263 fare and gave each family member $5 for incidentals.

In a Senate speech, Sen. Jacob Javits (R-N.Y.), called the freedom train proposal shocking and shameful and said the American people "will be aroused by this heartless display of theatricalism."

Clarence Laws, field secretary for the NAACP, said the freedom train idea was a cruel hoax. Ortha Castle, New Orleans official of CORE, called it a hypocritical effort to gain cheap publicity.

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said the plan "violates every fundamental concept that we believe in as people."

But, Rep. Hebert contended it was the NAACP "which helped the Freedom Rider pattern when it wholeheartedly endorsed Freedom Rides from North to South, even though the Southbound riders caused widespread disorder in flagrant disregard of law."

He referred to whites and Negroes touring from North to South last year, testing segregation customs. Hundreds were arrested.

"Is it possible the NAACP has no genuine interest in the advancement of colored people?" Hebert asked in Washington. "What happens to the NAACP dues and contributions; or are they to be used only to finance rioting in peaceful Southern communities?"

Boyd was the first to accept the Citizens Council offer. He started Tuesday as a $100-per-week handyman with a Jersey City, N.J., medical electronics firm. He said he and his family "couldn't be happier anywhere else in the world."

Ice Removal Cost Hits All-Time High

AMES (UPI)—Snow and ice removal costs on Iowa's primary highways hit an all-time high last winter, and travel on the state's roads decreased as much as 10 per cent.

The commission said an estimated $4,446,000 was spent in keeping and removing ice and snow from the highways. The previous high of $4,300,000 was recorded in the 1959-60 winter.

The cost of salt alone hit $300,000, the commission said.

In checking over the monthly automatic counters placed at 26 points on the state's rural primary roads, the commission noted that traffic decreased by as much as 10 per cent on some of them during the winter months.

The peak dislocation in travel was reached in February when the combined total of all counters declined an even 10 per cent. In January, totals went down only 4 1/2 per cent, while March saw an 8 per cent decline.

12 Riverside Residents Left Homeless by Fire

RIVERSIDE (UPI)—A family of 12 was left homeless here Tuesday when fire gutted their nine-room frame home.

Bernard O'Connor said he awakened to find the house full of smoke. He and his wife roused their 10 daughters, ranging in age from 8 months to 17 years, and fled in their night clothes.

Firemen said the blaze apparently began in the basement furnace room.

Numerous organizations in the area—Riverside is in the northeast corner of Washington County—have started drives to collect clothing and household goods for the family.

Bids Opened Tuesday for Chem Annex

Bids from 18 firms were opened Tuesday for construction of an addition to the SUI Chemistry Building. The addition will contain a 400-seat auditorium.

The two-story addition will be built on pillars with the open area under the first floor to be used for parking and delivery. The west wall will be red brick to match the present building; the south and north walls will be of glass panels to provide light for corridors which will connect the new auditorium with the main building.

A major portion of the addition will be the two-story sloping auditorium. The first floor will contain space for lecture preparation, supplies and apparatus and three offices. The second floor will contain three rooms for apparatus and instrument storage.

Award of a contract for construction will be made by the State Board of Regents. Funds for the construction were appropriated by the 59th General Assembly.

The following bids were submitted:

General—Pattison Construction, Cedar Rapids, $295,600; Frantz Construction, Iowa City, $267,700; Rinderknecht, Cedar Rapids, $274,460; and Larsen Brothers, Council Bluffs, $276,657.

Living Costs Up To Record High

WASHINGTON (AP)—Higher spring season prices for women's and girls' clothing helped push the nation's living costs up to a new peak in March.

The Labor Department reported Tuesday its consumers price index rose two-tenths of one per cent to reach the record level of 105.0 per cent of the 1957-59 average.

ready available in preliminary form and others will have to be developed as needs become apparent, Hoyt said.

The second phase, which will begin before all instruments are ready for use, will be to collect information supplied by the participating research schools (members of SOS Research, Inc.), survey and test students currently attending the schools, collect data from former students now on the job, and collect background information data on the students from the high schools they attended.

A team of professional counselors and educators will visit participating research schools throughout the nation. One of the prime purposes of such a visit would be to verify data reported by the individual schools.

The third phase will be to analyze the data. Part of the analysis would have direct reference only to single schools and would be primarily for local use, said Hoyt. Another part will be for the benefit of participating research schools in general.

The final, and possibly most important, part will be the addition of new knowledge to the content of counselor education programs—knowledge which, it is hoped, will allow the counselor to more effectively aid the specialty-oriented student, Hoyt said.

The fourth phase of the research program will be publication of findings. Hoyt said he hopes that in a relatively few years enough knowledge will be accumulated so that publications will then become a valuable part of counselor education programs throughout the United States. Among the publications planned is a directory that contains basic facts about participating research schools.

Montessori Group Meets April 26

Discipline in children's homes will be discussed at the Iowa City Montessori society meeting, April 26 at 8 p.m. in the basement auditorium of West Music Co., 217 S. Clinton St.

Mrs. Gene Lata and Mrs. Ralph Janey will give the program. It will be followed by a general discussion.

Mrs. Duane Daggett was named librarian of the society during a recent board of directors meeting. The local group has decided to affiliate with the American Montessori Society.

Representatives of the local group plan to attend a regional meeting in Chicago this weekend. A mid-west society will be organized and will send representatives to the national meeting June 18-22.

Membership in the local society is still open. Information may be obtained by calling Mrs. George Keithley at 8-5127.

Auto 'Borrowing' Case Hearing Continues

A charge against an SUI student of operating a motor vehicle without the owner's consent was continued in Iowa City Police Court Tuesday.

John R. Fritz, G. Cherokee, was arrested at a Coralville service station Monday night. Iowa City police accused him of taking an auto belonging to Jerry Sullivan of Storm Lake. The auto was taken from a parking place on Washington Street on the hill above the SUI Library.

During his appearance in Police Court, Fritz's attorney, J. Newman Toomey, said Fritz "certainly had no intent to steal the car." Toomey said Fritz's wife had taken the family car from the library parking lot earlier in the day and Fritz was looking for it when he decided to use Sullivan's car in the search.

Fritz said he does not know Sullivan.

Prof To Present Flute, Piano Music

Flutist Betty Bang and pianist John Simms of the SUI music faculty will present a program of Bach and Beethoven selections "in the round," to create an atmosphere similar to that in which the selections were first offered, tonight at 8:30 in North Music Hall.

The two groups of works to be played will be contemporary compositions and early classics.

Contemporary works will be "Denisty 21.5" (1936), by Edgar Varese; "Woodwind Quartet" (1962), by Abram Plum; and "Duo" (1960), by Harvey Solberger.

After intermission Miss Bang, assistant professor of music, and Simms, professor of music, will present "10 National Themes with Variations" by Beethoven and the trio sonata from "The Musical Offering" by Bach.

5 Apply for DI Editor

Hatfield, author of File 13, was also editor of the DI magazine. He is assistant managing editor of the DI, and has served on the staff for two years. He has a 2.54 GPA.

He is also president of the journalism junior class, and vice president of Associated Students of Journalism. Hatfield also serves on the news staff for WSUI.

"The DI should be a gadfly in the administration's complacent little world by making the student and the faculty voice heard," Hatfield said. "It should be an effective forum for public opinion—all opinion.

"The DI should also be a means to project the true image of SUI to the State and the rest of the country, and it should tell the students what is happening on the local and national levels.

"As editor of the DI, I think I could make it do this," Hatfield said.

"Many people have said the DI is one of the five or six best campus newspapers in the country. I want to make it THE best."

Mayner, a member of Phi Beta Kappa medical fraternity, has a GPA of 3.10. He said maturity is his main asset for the position as editor.

"I intend to make a worthwhile contribution to the DI and to improve the relationship between the DI and the Administration," he said.

Carlson has served on the DI staff for one year. He is secretary of Sigma Delta Chi. A resident of Hillcrest, he was vice president of the dorm, president of Fenton House, and a student Senate representative. He is also a member of Pershing Rifles.

"I think the position of editor is an important job," Carlson said, "especially since the Hatfield report. I would like to make certain the change isn't too great in the DI, and I would want to voice my opinion with certain authority."

"I also would work for the best interests of the DI, the administration, and the student body to be voiced in the paper."

Segregation Rally Set in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Roman Catholics who oppose Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel's order to integrate 153 parochial schools next September will hold a rally Wednesday night in defiance of their church's stand.

The rally is scheduled in American Legion Hall. The size of the crowd may indicate how many New Orleans Catholics are willing openly to oppose the archbishop.

Rummel excommunicated a woman and two men on charges of inciting other Catholics to oppose his integration order.

Consider Her Plight, with $150 to Spend

Cathy Fischgrund, A2, South Bend, Ind., who won third prize in the 1962 Lanz College Coed Fashion Contest is now faced with spending $150 on Lanz clothing.

Miss Fischgrund is to choose her new clothes at Richey's Fashion Center as her prize for planning a complete fashion show in the national contest sponsored by Lanz clothing designers and manufacturers.

The planning involved choosing a theme and the type of clothes to be shown. Miss Fischgrund, an advertising major and member of Gamma Alpha Chi, national advertising fraternity for women, also had to plan the in-store promotion and on-campus promotion for the fashion show.

She entered the contest in the first week of March and then threw away her own copy of the plans for the fashion show and all the contest information. As a result, she didn't know what she'd won when she received the telegram Friday, April 13.

"It was just totally unexpected," she explained. A letter followed saying that she could pick up a $150 Lanz wardrobe at Richey's Fashion Center in Iowa City.

Miss Fischgrund plans to pick out some items now but hopes to wait until next fall to choose the last of the clothes.

Lanz, a California company, designs and manufactures dresses, ensembles, sports clothes, and swimsuits. The 1962 Lanz College Coed Fashion Contest had 25 winners.

The first prize, a summer at any university in Europe, and the second prize, a $300 Lanz wardrobe, went to Ohio from Denison University in Ohio and Smith College in Massachusetts.

Ousted from their posts by Castro and detained were Jose Luis Gonzalez Carvajal, the regional secretary for the Integrated Revolutionary Organizations, the Cuban politburo, and political police chief Capt. Antonio Yibre.

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — Travelers from Cuba reported Tuesday Premier Fidel Castro personally pinned political and police leaders in Pinar del Rio after an incendiary fire destroyed most of the San Ramon sugar mill.

Saturn Rocket Launching Set For 2nd Time

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (UPI) — A second test flight was scheduled today for America's giant Saturn booster — the rocket that will permit the United States to put up payloads heavier than anything orbited so far by Russia.

This time out the Saturn will carry a payload of tapwater that will be dumped in space and likely will create the highest and largest ice cloud known to science since the world began.

Saturn is a prototype of the rockets that will lift teams of men and tons of machinery to the moon later this decade.

Firing of the 460-ton Saturn comes at a time when both Russia and the United States are bidding for attention in the space race.

Russia grabbed the stage temporarily today by launching an exploratory satellite that passes over America. The Soviet Union gave no indication whether the new moonlet — named Cosmos — could perform "sky spy" duties.

Russia's accomplishment was shorn of some of its impact however, by the fact that even while Cosmos III started orbiting, America had a rocket — dubbed Ranger 4 — on its way to the moon.

Although the radios aboard Ranger-4 went out shortly after launching, scientists said the vehicle would still hit its target.

The latest computed data indicated Ranger would impact on the dark side of the moon five minutes ahead of schedule — at 8:50 a.m. EST. Officials hailed the shot as a fantastic display of accuracy.

Today's scheduled Saturn launching will be almost identical to the first Saturn firing, executed with spectacular success last Oct. 27.

New Bond Drive Starts on May 1

The first nation-wide savings bonds drive in 11 years will begin on May 1 and will run for two months.

H. Clark Houghton and Ben E. Summerwill, both of Iowa City, are the Johnson County chairmen.

"This campaign, appropriately called the Freedom Bond Drive, is designed to give every American the opportunity to put himself into the fight for freedom as an active partner of his government," the chairmen said.

They said that purchasers of bonds during May and June will be putting dollars to work building economic strength for the nation.

The chairmen reported that March sales of series E and H bonds in Johnson County amounted to $183,063, giving the county a three-month total of $676,675 for 52 per cent of its quota.

Physical Endurance Stressed By 'Space Traveler' Westfall

By JIM VAN KLOMPENBURG Staff Writer

Air Force Captain Bernard W. Westfall, an SU graduate and former ROTC instructor, said Tuesday night that in his opinion the physical problems far outweigh the psychological problems of space travel.

Speaking before an audience which nearly filled Macbride Hall, Westfall told of some of his experiences while taking part in a simulated space flight at Brooks Air Force Base in San Antonio, Tex., last year.

Westfall said the preparation for the test was actually "worse than the test itself." For two weeks test subjects went through grueling physical and mental tests eight hours a day, six days a week. Westfall added, "They practically turned my eyes inside out."

The capsule, in which Westfall and a companion spent 17 days, was eight feet high, 5 feet wide, and 12 feet long. Maximum height inside the capsule was only 6 feet because of air conditioning and purifying equipment under the capsule floor.

The test, simulating a trip to the moon and back, was conducted to gain information about cabin pressurization techniques, oxygen and food problems, and compatibility of space men with each other.

The test cabin was pressurized at 3.71 pounds per square inch, equal to conditions at an altitude of 33,500 feet. Actual conditions of zero gravity could not be duplicated.

During the 17 day test period, the two men had a five-gallon water supply. Water in the capsule was recovered by distillation.

Oxygen within the capsule was purified and re-breathed during the test.

Inside the capsule Westfall said it was quiet except for the hissing of air. He noted that as the capsule was being depressurized, doors popped open when food storage tubes expanded.

Westfall pointed out that it was impossible to whistle inside the capsule because the air was not dense enough.

Westfall said that interesting experiences occurred during the test which were mechanical malfunctions typical of space travel. Leaks in the water supply and wiring troubles gave them something to do, he said.

Other physical problems with the men themselves were the discomfort of internal gas expansion which lasted during the first five days of the test, loss of appetite due to lack of exercise, and symptoms of a lack of oxygen.

Westfall added that he and his partner experienced no psychological problems during the test because they were kept busy most of the time with periodic "orbit reports" and working at the control panel of the capsule.

After the test was completed, Westfall noted that he felt physically run-down.

Westfall's mother, Mrs. Velma Westfall of Lone Tree, said after the talk, "I didn't know he had it in him."

Minor Skirmishes Highlight HUAC Hearing Reopening

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Mass picketing went off without major incident Tuesday as a House subcommittee on un-American activities began hearings on alleged subversion in Southern California.

Demonstrators, including some students, marched outside the Federal Building in protest against the committee and its hearings for eight hours. Police estimated the maximum total of pickets at perhaps 800 shortly before noon — but the number was far lower through most of the day.

This came as a disappointment to the leader of one of the protesting organizations, calling itself the HUAC Reception Committee, which described itself as being composed of students from local campuses. This was Maitland Churton, 26-year-old philosophy major at UCLA, who acknowledged that his turnout did not meet his predictions of 750-1,000.

The subcommittee heard testimony from three witnesses during a 2½ hour morning session and 4-hour afternoon hearing, both closed to the public. One witness was Ben Dobs, who described himself to newsmen as a "spokesman for the Communist party" and said he invoked the Fifth Amendment in refusing to answer questions.

Another was John Despol, administrator of Steelworkers Union Local 2058 in Maywood, Calif. He was reported to be questioned about a dozen or so members of that union who have been subpoenaed by the committee.

Despol told reporters he "answered all questions" but also asked the committee to investigate the John Birch Society.

The third witness was not identified to reporters.

There was only one known disturbance during the outside demonstrations. These were marked not only by picketing but also by jeering from the sidelines, soap-box oratory for and against the committee, shouted arguments and an assortment of demonstrators and passersby.

The single disturbance resulted in the arrest of 30-year-old Ronald C. Currier, who was accused of slapping another man during one of the sideline discussions. Currier, who said he was not a member of any group, was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Theodore Hocke because the alleged offense occurred on federal ground and was held in lieu of $250 bail.

Dobs was the first witness called before Rep. Clyde Doyle, (D-Calif.), and other members of his subcommittee Tuesday morning.

The anti-subcommittee demonstrators were represented by three groups — the Citizens Committee to Preserve American Freedoms, the HUAC Reception Committee, ostensibly a student group, and the Fair Play for Cuba Committee.

The American Freedoms people gave out handbills with a copy of the Bill of Rights and charged that the Un-American activities committee violated freedom of speech and "breaks down the historic guarantees of our constitutional system."

Extra precautionary measures were taken to prevent any violence such as the mob scene that occurred at subcommittee hearings in San Francisco in May, 1960. Police used fire hoses on that occasion to quiet demonstrating students.

Students at various campuses throughout the country were scheduled to hold local demonstrations Wednesday in protest against the subcommittee.
