A Smile and a Point

President Kennedy points at newsmen scurrying for an exit from the State Department Auditorium, breaking into a smile as he refuses to call a halt to his news conference today after the customary "Thank you, Mr. President." The chief executive had one further remark to make, then called a halt to the meeting by simply walking away.

Tax Cut Effective January—Kennedy

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy has barred an immediate tax slash to add zip to the economy, but pledged Thursday an across-the-board cut in both individual and corporate income levies, effective Jan. 1.

The President declined to say how big these cuts will be but there are reports the Administration is considering recommending to Congress a net reduction of $5 billion a year.

At a news conference devoted largely to economic affairs, including wild gyrations on the stock market, Kennedy urged quick action by Congress on a bundle of economic measures he already has recommended.

"There is no need," he said, "for us to stand helplessly by and watch our economy run out of gas."

He said that as a matter of fact the economy is progressing, but he acknowledged that it lacks the zip deemed desirable, and the nation's economic growth is not as great as it should be.

The massive tax overhaul which he will recommend this year, to take effect in January, will include income tax cuts which, he said, will not be wholly offset by other provisions of the measure.

As the stock market decline, he said most financial experts had realized for some time that an overpriced market would not hold up after realization came.

But he said the adjustment must not slow the recovery. Economic indexes are up, he said, consumers have cash on hand and prospects are for recovery—but steps must be taken to see that another recession does not arrive.

The tax structure, he said, must be such as not to put too great a strain on the economy—especially compared with the booming European Common Market.

The effect of the heavy tax structure was shown in 1958, he said, as the country was coming out of a recession.

The President went on then to recall some of the proposals he has pending before Congress and urge quick action on them. Among them he cited:

A measure to give business a $1.3-billion incentive to invest in new plant and equipment.

Standby authority to cut income taxes by five percentage points in case recession threatens.

Repeal of the 10 per cent transportation tax on train and bus travel.

Enumerating these and other measures, he said they "are all the stimulus and safeguards now deemed necessary."

There had been reports that, in view of the wild stock market gyrations, Kennedy might urge an emergency tax cut now, to make sure the economy does not slide. But his program as enunciated

Dental, Medical, Pharmacy Students Receive Awards

Special awards were presented to students in SUI's colleges of Dentistry and Medicine in special convocation ceremonies here Thursday night, and seven seniors in pharmacy were presented awards at the annual senior banquet.

Dentistry

At the dentistry convocation held in Macbride Auditorium, Gary Blodgett, Pleasantville senior, received the Alpha Omega Award for the highest scholastic average in the College of Dentistry. Blodgett also received one of six Omicron Kappa Upsilon awards.

Other Omicron Kappa Upsilon awards went to Richard Frank, Anamosa; Richard Sagers, Maquoketa; Harry T. Shearer, Des Moines; Dan Steele, Maloy, and David Tupper, Manson, all seniors.

Shearer received two other awards—the American College of Dentists Essay Award and the Iowa Society of Oral Surgeons Award.

Edward Fowler, Coralville, received the American Academy of Dental Medicine Award—a certificate of merit and a five-year subscription to the Journal of Dental Medicine.

The American Academy of Gold Foil Operators Award, given to a student who shows outstanding promise in gold-foil work, was presented to John Thomas, Spirit Lake.

K. William Mopper, Sioux City, received the Certificate of the American Society of Dentistry for Children—a certificate of merit—and a year's membership in the American Society.

A certificate from the American Academy of Oral Roentgenology for his interest and accomplishment in the use of dentistry X-ray methods was presented to William LaVelle, Sioux City.

Jerry Walker, Cedar Rapids, received the $100 Block Drug Company Essay Award. The Fenton Memorial Award, given to a junior who has excelled in basic science subjects, was presented

Hunt for Missionaries Continues in Jungle

SAIGON, South Viet Nam — U.S. Army helicopters airlifted hundreds of Vietnamese troops into the jungle Thursday for the second straight day in a widening hunt for three kidnaped American missionaries. But they found no trace of the Red guerrilla band that abducted the three from a leper colony last week.

The Army said there were no casualties among the occupants of a helicopter that was forced to land because of engine trouble during the opening airlift Wednesday. The copter was destroyed by the crew.

The President was asked about the Senate's vote Wednesday to cut off U.S. aid to Communist-dominated countries—applicable to Poland and Yugoslavia.

Kennedy recalled there had been attacks for years on the aid programs, and "I suppose people do get tired" of the aid burden.

But he said the Poles, for instance, did not want to be under Communist rule and he did not believe the United States should now slam the door on their hopes for eventual freedom.

Yugoslavia is a complicated problem, he went on, but Tito's government has at least shown partial independence of Moscow.

The Senate should give the administration the right to deliver such assistance, he said, when it appears to be in the national interest. He expressed gratification at the introduction Thursday of an amendment which would exempt food from the cutoff of assistance. The Senate adapted the amendment.

He was reminded he left out of his introductory remarks any reference to tax withholding on dividends and taxing on overseas companies.

Kennedy said the dividend tax was not new, but the proposal to withhold was only a new way of collecting it.

On the overseas taxes, he said, the purpose was to make it less attractive to U.S. capital to leave the country, and thus halt the outflow of gold.

The matter of primary concern to him, he said, is the Alliance for Progress in Latin America. The countries there, he said, are plagued with many problems, notably reliance on a few commodities.

The News In Brief

WASHINGTON — A House subcommittee investigating the Billie Sol Estes case fired its Republican counsel Thursday for giving a newspaper reporter a confidential report before it was even read by committee members.

The day-long, interparty wrangle behind closed doors over the action of Robert Manuel, counsel of the GOP minority members of the committee, delayed public examination of ousted Agriculture Department employees who had been scheduled as witnesses.

OAS Terrorists Follow-Up Threat Of War by Fire

ALGIERS, Algeria — Secret Army Organization terrorists turned to destruction by fire in Algeria Thursday, apparently following through with their threatened scorched earth campaign.

Two blazes raged in Oran and the main building of Algiers University here was burned.

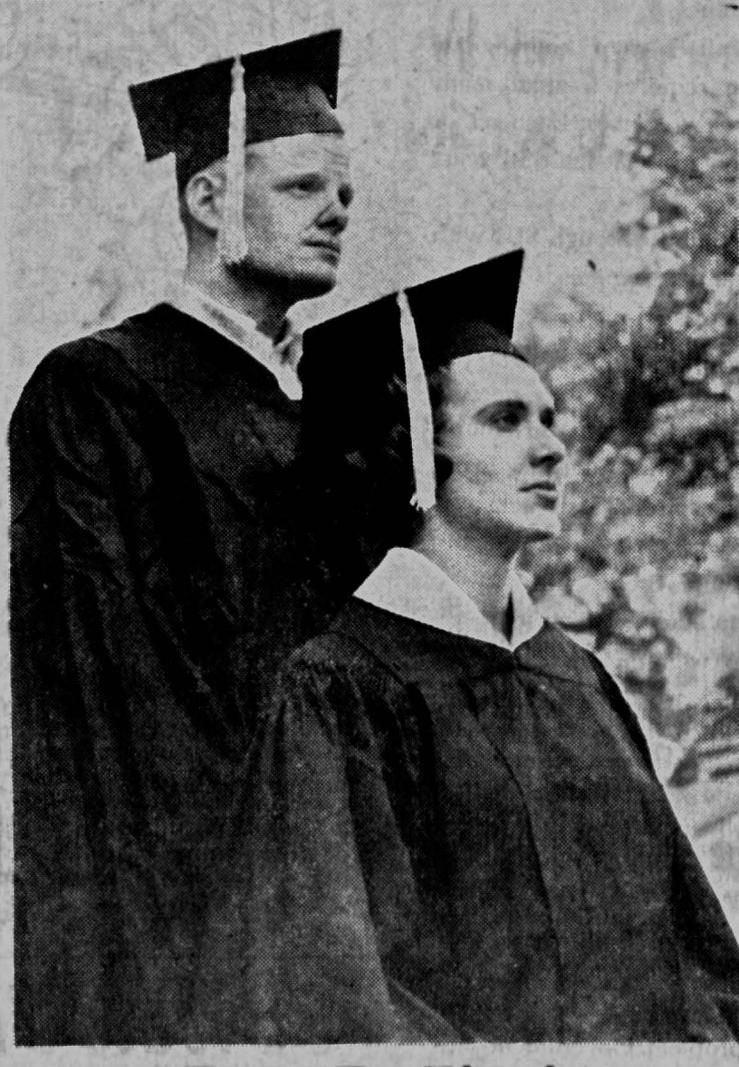

In Oran, a booby-trapped tank truck filled with 4,000 gallons of gasoline exploded and set fire to a high school building used as a police barracks. As the fire roared, terrorist mortar shells crashed into the school yard where flames engulfed armored cars and gun positions. Official sources said three gendarmes were critically wounded.

In the same part of Oran, terrorists riddled a large neutral gas tank, leaving flaming jets roaring out of the bullet holes.

The terrorism resumed in Algiers after several days of truce with the mowing down of Moslems and the burning of the Algiers University building.

"His advice and guidance on the many aspects of the Army ROTC program together with his outstanding ability and professional knowledge have enhanced the effectiveness and prestige of the ROTC program on the campus and throughout the nation.

Chicago Nips Giants, 4-3; Pierce Loses First Game

CHICAGO (AP) — Lefty Billy Pierce, winner of eight games, suffered his first National League defeat Thursday as eighth-batting Andre Rodgers drove across three runs in a 4-3 Chicago Cub triumph over the San Francisco Giants.

Former Chicago White Soxer Pierce was nicked by Rodgers for a bases-loaded single and a none-on corner and left for a pinch-hitter in the eighth trailing 4-2.

Don Cardwell, going the route, won only his second victory of the season against six defeats in scattering six Giant hits, including a ninth-inning homer by Felipe Alou.

It was the big right-hander's first victory since May 22 when he whipped the Pirates 3-1.

Chicago's Billy Williams slammed two hits in four trips to maintain his league batting lead with .349, while runner-up Felipe Alou's 1-for-4 day left him with .343.

Pierce, who had finished only three times in his eight victories, was touched for three runs in the fourth inning as nine Cubs went to bat.

Boston Edges Tigers, 5-4

BOSTON (AP) — Carroll Hardy's single on the heels of a Bob Tillman triple enabled Boston to defeat Detroit 5-4 Thursday in an eighth-inning comeback.

The teams were locked in a 4-4 battle of relief pitchers when Tillman slammed a three-base blow to deepest center field off Ron Kline.

When Terry Fox was called as the fourth Tiger hurler, Hardy promptly crashed a drive off shortstop Chico Fernandez's glove into left field, scoring pinch runner Lou Clinton with the deciding tally.

Red Sox starter Earl Wilson had held the Tigers to three singles, one of a fluke infield variety, through five innings before wildness proved his undoing.

Boston was ahead 3-1 when the Tigers landed hard on Mike Fortin in the seventh, turning homers by Jake Wood and Rocky Colavito into a 4-3 lead.

Gary Geiger opened the Boston seventh with a long homer down the right field line to tie the score. Wilson, not involved in the decision, hit his first major league homer for the home forces.

Minnesota Whips Kansas City, 5-2

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Rich Rollins delivered a pair of key doubles and Joe Bonikowski hurled six-hit ball as Minnesota spanked Kansas City 5-2 Thursday to remain in the thick of the American League first place scrap.

Rollins, collecting three hits to raise his average to .341, belted a double to left in the fifth inning that scored two runs and lined another two-bagger to left in the seventh to produce another tally.

Bonikowski (5-4) pitched his third complete game and had only two troublesome innings. The A's bunched three of their hits in the fifth and Jerry Lumpe scored on a wild pitch.

George Alusik's single and Dick Howser's double got the other Kansas City run in the eighth. Bonikowski struck out five and didn't walk a man.

Hit Baseballs to Moon?

Wynn Asks Spacemen About Particles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Early saw in orbit. Wynn, the elder statesman of the Chicago White Sox pitching staff, has a feeling that when the first man reaches the moon he'll find a supply of major league baseballs up there. The likeable right-hander, at 42 still a man to be reckoned with, says he hasn't heard from astronauts John Glenn or Scott WYNN Carpenter, to whom he sent a personal message last week.

"I wired them that a careful study of the films of their flights might disclose some interesting facts about those particles they league's less ferocious hitters send baseballs into orbit. Mentioned was Detroit's smallish Jake Woods. He banged a pitch into the centerfield bleachers at Detroit recently that went into the upper tiers at more than 420 feet — and did it falling away from a pitch.

"Some of the fellows are hitting the ball farther than Joe DiMaggio or Hank Greenberg ever did."

Wynn enlisted the journalistic advice of a Chicago writer, Warren Brown, and drafted the wire to the astronauts.

"Being a flier myself, I understand the value of solid fuels in such space ventures," said the erudite Mr. Wynn. "So I suggested that if we have not developed a satisfactory fuel for our first moon flight, I was sure baseballs would supply the secret because the solids in baseballs these days are the most powerful known to man."

With that, Mr. Wynn adjusted his tie and headed for a nearby newsreel theater. He indicated maybe he might detect something from the films himself.

Bucs Keep Dodgers In Second

PITTSBURGH, (AP) — Dick Stuart's three-run homer in the ninth inning gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Thursday night and ruined the Dodgers' shot at exclusive possession of first place in the National League.

The blow, Stuart's seventh of the season, also spoiled southpaw Johnny Podres' bid for a shutout.

Going into the ninth, Podres had given up only four hits and had a 2-0 lead that would have enabled the Dodgers to slip past the San Francisco Giants into first place.

But Dick Groat and Roberto Clemente led off the ninth with back-to-back singles and Stuart followed with his blast off reliever Larry Sherry that dropped the Dodgers out of the first place tie into second place.

Willie Davis clubbed home both Dodgers runs in the third with his 10th home run of the year.

(2) to protect lake users from discriminatory legislation

(3) to conduct group cruises and other recreational activities

(4) to promote safe boating practices

(5) to get greater enjoyment from the lake area

The club is in the process of affiliating with a national boating organization, the Outboard Boating Club of America. Anyone interested in information about CLBC may call the secretary-treasurer Mrs. R. B. Harrington, Solon 642-2256; Membership Chairman, Wayne Walters, Solon 644-2312; or write Coralville Lake Boat Club, Rural Route 2, Solon.

The next CLBC meeting will be Friday, June 22, at a time and place to be announced.

Sadecki, Cardinals Resolve Dispute

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Recalcitrant pitcher Ray Sadecki, St. Louis Cardinal General Manager Bing Devine and Field Manager Johnny Kean had a talk Thursday and after it Devine said in a terse statement that all is again harmonious.

Cardinal Public Relations Director James Toomey said Devine had nothing further to say and that there was no comment from either Sadecki or Kean.

Cardinal spokesman said earlier that Sadecki had called Devine Thursday and asked for a get-together.

Devine suspended the 21-year-old $50,000 bonus player Wednesday night when Sadecki didn't show up for the Cincinnati-St. Louis game here.

Sadecki was fined by Kean following Tuesday night's game with the Reds after the left-handed pitcher allowed five runs to score when he was brought in as a relief pitcher at the start of the sixth. The pitcher gave up two home runs and committed two errors. Kean yanked him from the game before he got a man out.

Keane said Sadecki "goofed off." The pitcher denied it and said the fine was uncalled for.

K. A. Navy man and Yoshiteru Nakamura of the Marine Life Research Institute of Hokkaido University said the mysterious marine life, which frightened fishermen Yoshiharu Tsuruga, was undoubtedly a kelp from off Puget Sound, Wash.

McBride Gets Revenge the Hard Way—in 1-0 Games

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Right-hander Ken McBride of the Los Angeles Angels has said he didn't think he got a fair try with the Chicago White Sox. And the 25-year-old six-footer keeps on proving his point as the record shows.

He beat the White Sox twice without a loss last year and Wednesday night he shut them out for the second time this season, 1-0, for the only time the White Sox have been blanked this season.

McBride is expected to be the only one available as the Merchants open against Williamsburg, last year's champion of the East Central Iowa League, at 2 p.m. Sunday at the City Park diamond.

Szykowny, an all-round athlete, played football and basketball, at SUI but passed up baseball to concentrate on his studies. He is a top-rated pitcher and outfielder.

Reddington played left field for Otto Vogel's Hawks, hitting .284 with 15 RBI's in 30 games.

Williams has never played baseball at SUI.

The Merchants have played five pre-league games and are 3-2 for the season.

Tom Burges was sent in as a pinch-hitter for Steve Bilko. Rogers is unique in that at the age of 33 he is a rookie, one of the oldest in the major leagues.

Age or not, he came through with a sacrifice fly that scored Wagner with the winning run.

In April, McBride whipped the White Sox by the i-0 margin on a four-hitter. And Wednesday night was his fourth win, the previous one a brilliant four-hitter over the New York Yankees, no less.

Sunday TV Show To Discuss 'Food Gap' of U.S.-Reds

The "food gap" between Communist countries and the United States may be more important in the long run than the missile gap, according to Dr. John Fischer, agricultural economist at Montana State College.

Fischer, professor and head of the department of agricultural economics and rural sociology at Montana State College, will discuss the "food gap" and other aspects of America's agricultural abundance on "Meet the Professor," Sunday on KCRG-TV, Channel 9 Cedar Rapids, at 1:30.

3 SUI Stars To Aid Local Merchants

Three SUI athletes — Matt Szykowny, Joe Reddington and Joe Williams — will desert the University fields to do battle for the Iowa City Merchants this summer.

Szykowny is expected to be the only one available as the Merchants open against Williamsburg, last year's champion of the East Central Iowa League, at 2 p.m. Sunday at the City Park diamond.

Paintings Trace Figures in Art

Nine paintings by American artists which suggest the breadth of approach in treatment of the human figure in art in this country since 1900 were placed on exhibition this week in the Terrace Lounge of the Union.

Titled "Six Decades of the Figure in American Painting," the exhibition was assembled by Frank Seiberling, head of the Art Department, as one of the major art shows to be featured throughout the Summer Fine Arts Festival at the University.

"Vintage Moderns," which gives a kaleidoscopic view of the pioneer years of abstract art in this country, opened May 24 at the SUI Art Building and will be shown until Aug. 2.

Though the popularity of abstract art through the first part of this century has tended to crowd out the use of the figure, a number of artists of stature have continued to give the human figure a significant place in their paintings. Dr. Seiberling points out in the catalog for "Six Decades of the Figure in American Paintings."

"Gangster's Funeral" by Jack Levine is representative of the social protest found especially during the depression of the 30's. Figures grounded in front of the casket in the picture present the mixed emotions, hypocrisies and ironies which the artist sees in human relations.

Samuel M. Adler's "Man" depicts man as important only as he shares a somber and brutal world with other men.

Mankind as a fallen and faceless giant whose flesh is corroded, is revealed in Leon Golub's "Boxer," called by Dr. Seiberling "a kind of painterly summary of the decline of the West."

Schwengel Endorses College Tax Credit

Congressman Fred Schwengel (R-Iowa) announced Thursday that he has written President Kennedy, Secretary of the Treasury Dillon, and Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Ribicoff, urging their support of his proposal for a tax credit for college expenses.

Both the White House and the Treasury Department have acknowledged Schwengel's letter indicating that further study and consideration will be given to the Iowan's program which he has labeled The Iowa Plan for Growth and Progress in Higher Education.

Schwengel's plan incorporates three phases: (1) a tax credit for the expenses incurred each year (2) an investment certificate plan which parents can purchase in advance of the child's entrance into school and applied at the time he enters college and (3) a plan, now in the development stage, which would provide for utilization of the money invested under phase two. Schwengel expects to announce the mechanics of phase three in the near future.

The Iowa Congressman stressed that since the Administration supports the principle of tax credits for business as incorporated in the Tax Revision bill now being considered in the Senate, it should be willing to support the same type of credit for college expenses.

"I am sure that you will agree," Schwengel wrote, "that no business is more important than higher ed-

Art Shows Scheduled

The first of two summer shows sponsored by the Guild Gallery, 130½ South Clinton, will have its formal opening tonight from 8 to 10 p.m. This will be a group show of the work of graduate art students.

There will be two shows during the summer. The first will run from today through July 5; the second from July 6 through August 3. The hours for the Guild Gallery during the summer are 8 to 10 Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings and 1 to 5 Saturday afternoons. The gallery will be closed on Sunday.

Coffee and cookies will be served at the opening Friday evening. The public is invited to attend.

Iowan Delivery Stops

Daily Iowan delivery to students living off campus will cease Saturday. Some papers will be left at dormitories, fraternities, and sororities for residents to pick up. Papers will be available at the Field House Tuesday and at the bookstores until regular service is resumed. Completion of route lists including all students going through the regular registration is expected by June 19.

Med Student Program

A scientific program will be held today for graduates of the SUI College of Medicine who attend alumni reunion events this Commencement weekend.

Speakers for the program, which will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the Medical Amphitheatre, will be Rubin H. Flocks, head of the department of urology; Jack M. Layton, professor of pathology; James P. Jacobs, assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology; Johann L. Ehrenhaft, division chairman of surgery; James R. Fouts, associate professor of pharmacology, and William E. Connor, assistant professor of internal medicine. Welcoming the alumni will be Dr. Norman B. Nelson, dean of the College of Medicine.

The problem of making the figure convincingly natural yet pictorially organized, fascinated Isabel Bishop. Her work on display is "The Lunch Hour."

James Weeks' "Musicians" poses human figures formally with no effort to indicate their individuality. The artist uses his subjects primarily as elements of a design, retreating from any presentation of the uniqueness of human beings.

Arthur Davies, like Weeks, makes use of the figure as part of an esthetically conceived whole. His "Idyllic Landscapes with Figures" pictures nymphs against a "never-never" land background.

SUI Student Tries New Bronze Cast

An SUI student has broken with tradition dating back to pre-Renaissance times in developing and using a new technique for casting bronze art works.

James Born, who receives a master of fine arts degree here today, devised the method to eliminate many of the time consuming, costly steps involved in casting in the centuries-old way.

Born, whose home is in Toledo, Ohio, wrote a long thesis explaining his method, and with the written work he submitted three bronze pieces as proof that the system works. One of the pieces, when still in the basic clay figure stage, was described by an experienced foundryman as too ornate and complicated to be cast.

"Too often the time and expense of transferring the original idea from the clay state into finished bronze has discouraged the student from completing an object," Born said. "But under his method, the time needed to complete an object is reduced from weeks or months to a matter of hours by eliminating many technicalities of the traditional methods."

In either the traditional or the Born method, the starting point is a piece of clay which the artist has pressed, carved, or bent to the form that artistic expression and talent create. The ultimate goal is the same in either case — to get the contours and markings of soft clay set in bronze with the utmost quality of reproduction.

In order to do the job under either method, it is necessary to produce a mold capable of withstanding the heat and pressure of molten bronze, with an inside surface exactly like the original clay model's exterior.

Born sought a break with tradition because he felt the complex technique of the steps between clay original and final mold was becoming more important.

Both James Lee and James Ghee have made excellent adjustments with their host families — Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Mittman and Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Constantino respectively, said John G. Craig, chairman of SEE.

James Ernest Lee Jr., Farmville, Va., completed his second year as a tuition scholar at Iowa City High School Thursday. Together with his new-found classmates, James received his high school diploma in the usual ceremonies.

But there was an additional surprise awaiting him from SEE — the sponsors who brought him to Iowa City after a year's absence from school. In order to help James pursue a career in teaching the sum of $400 was assured him for the academic year 1962-63 at Virginia State College where he has recently enrolled.

The schools of Prince Edward County, closed in defiance of the Supreme Court's integration order, have not graduated a class in three years. About 50 of the Negro students in the county have been rescued; however, by the American Friends Service Committee and placed in a handful of communities throughout the nation.

During the past two years, Iowa City has assisted with the education of four boys; one of them dropped out of school, another is in military service, a third, James Ghee, has just finished ninth grade, and the fourth received his diploma

City Helps Southern Student Get Diploma

Although the schools of Prince Edward County, Virginia, have been closed for three years, at least one youthful citizen of the county will graduate from high school this June — thanks to the Iowa City Sponsors for Equal Education (SEE).

James Ernest Lee Jr., Farmville, Va., completed his second year as a tuition scholar at Iowa City High School Thursday. Together with his new-found classmates, James received his high school diploma in the usual ceremonies.

Ghee, too, has done well in studies and has been active in student government and all forms of athletics. He came to Iowa City after missing two years of schooling.

Ghee's family may relocate in New York next year and it is possible he will go to school there. The SEE has promised him the same help with college finances that was offered Lee.

Community Givers Appoint Arneson 1963 Chairman

Allan H. Arneson, manager of a local department store, was named chairman of the 1963 Community Givers campaign for Iowa City, Coralville and University Heights.

The appointment was made Wednesday by the Community Givers board of directors.

The campaign will get underway in September. As a result of the 1962 campaign, the program received over $90,000 in cash and pledges to be used by 16 local service and charitable organizations.

After his appointment, Arneson said, "I feel the Community Givers campaign is the most important single effort that we make in a year. If we are going to continue to have the kind of community we all want, then we can't fail in this obligation."

Dr. Orville Hitchcock will describe the ceremony at 9:30; the hour preceding will include Brahms' Academic Festival Overture, Antal Dorati's scoring of Strauss for the ballet "Graduation Ball", and several of Elgar's Pomp and Circumstances marches that aren't the one you ALWAYS hear.

THE THREE FOR THE ROAD ("down life's highway") will come right from Broadcasting House:

Mary Ann Sytsma, Dave Wente, and James Longstaff. Miss Sytsma, a native of Pella, was formerly secretary for WSUI and later became associated with KSUI-FM where she prepared music programs for a very select audience.

Wente will graduate in the College of Law. He is best known to listeners for his cultured manner in moderating WSUI evening music and opera programs. Young Long-staff, after an exciting tenure as supervisor of Tea Time and Jazz-track, has chosen to combine the vagaries of radio with the concreteness of married life. Commencement, indeed, will have a dual meaning for him this week. Bryan Reddick, a student staffer of sophomore standing, will be absent, too, next year. He's going to Paris. (The Sorbonne radio station can't hold a kilowatt to SUI's, so there.)

Student Exodus Causes Little Traffic Problems

Iowa City Police Chief Emmet E. Evans said Thursday that Wednesday's exodus of students created "no serious traffic problem."

Extra policemen were assigned to control traffic in the business district downtown, he said, and they worked off and on when and where they were needed most.

Traffic seemed to be much heavier in the morning, Evans said, an unusual situation.

SUI Continuation Center Sponsors Nursing Workshop

Fifty-eight faculty members from schools of nursing in Iowa and ten other states will attend a workshop on how to evaluate learning among nursing students next week at the SUI Center for Continuation Study.

The workshop will be the second meeting of the group this year. The first session of the conference was held on the SUI campus in January.

Florence Sherbon, associate professor and assistant to the dean at the SUI College of Nursing, will serve as principal consultant for the workshop. Professor Sheldon will lead group discussion and work projects on such topics as "Defining Behaviors of Students in Nursing," "The Role of the Instructor in Clinical Nursing" and "Teacher Self-Evaluation."

Other SUIowans who will serve as faculty members for the workshop include Ann Whidden, assistant professor of nursing; Barbara Bernard, associate professor of nursing and Kay Green and Ann Hunter, both instructors in the College of Nursing.

Pearl Zemlicka, assistant professor of nursing, will serve as conference coordinator.
