Amendment By Eastland Anti-Court

Proposal Concerns Prayer Decision, Post Office Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) of the Senate Judiciary Committee introduced a constitutional amendment Friday which he said would "completely nullify both the effect and implication" of the Supreme Court's prayer decision.

His double-barrelled proposal also would alleviate in part what he called "the awesome consequences" of another Supreme Court ruling last Monday which overturned a post office ban on mailing of three magazines the postmaster general declared obscene literature.

Eastland was joined in offering the amendment by Sens. Olin D. Johnston (D-S.C.) and John L. McClellan (D-Ark.) both members of the Judiciary Committee, and Sen. Herman Talmadge, (D-Ga.)

Earlier Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) a former attorney general of New York, said that in his judgment the court's decision barring official prayers in public schools is "much narrower in its scope than the public debate about it suggests."

"For example," he said, "if the Board of Regents recommended to school authorities that each day begin with a noncompulsory opportunity for a period of silent prayer and meditation, I would not consider this to be in defiance of the court's ruling."

What the court held, Javits said is that "the state or federal governments are prohibited from prescribing by law any particular form of prayer which is to be used as an official prayer in carrying on any program of governmentally sponsored religious activity."

Eastland said that "in the minds of little children not versed in the intricacies of law," the court's decision might well create "the fixed impression that the act of praying to God is in itself unconstitutional wherever the prayer might be uttered."

Most of his senate speech, however, was directed to the court's ruling in the obscene literature case. In this, he said, the tribunal declared that the dissemination of pornographic literature designed to appeal to homosexuals was not obscene and indecent under existing laws.

Part of the court's majority based its decision on a judgment that the particular magazines were not obscene. Others said the postmaster general lacked power to act as he did in the particular case.

Clara Hinton Ends 32 Years at SUI Library

Clara Hinton, head of the circulation department at the SUI library, finished 32 and one-half years of work for the University Friday.

Miss Hinton came to SUI in 1930 as head of the order and binding department of the University library, then located in Macbride Hall.

She became head of the circulation department in 1952 when the library moved into its new building.

Miss Hinton said she had seen the library grow and develop its various departments to "ideal working conditions."

"I have especially enjoyed corresponding with people on a worldwide basis; and my contacts with students and University people have been so interesting," she said. "It will be pleasant to continue being in University surroundings," she added. Miss Hinton will continue to make her home in Iowa City, although she is planning a trip to Europe for late summer.

Before entering library work, Miss Hinton taught elementary school and was a high school principal of the Webster Consolidated School.

She attended library school at the University of Wisconsin and worked in the Cedar Rapids Public Library for 4 and one-half years.

Douglas Hieber, art librarian will replace Miss Hinton July 1, as head of the circulation department.

Buffalo Post Goes to Eller

William Eller, associate professor and director of the Reading Laboratory at SUI, has been named professor of education at the University of Buffalo (N.Y.). He plans to develop a new improvement of the reading program at Buffalo.

Professor Eller, whose new appointment becomes effective in September, has been on the SUI faculty since 1954.

Senate Okays Compromise Export Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate quickly approved by voice vote Friday a compromise bill extending the Export Control Act for three years. The House may complete passage today.

The action followed an overnight reversal by House conferees of their stand on an amendment proposed by the Kennedy administration.

The conferees originally had deadlocked and finally decided on a simple one-year extension of present law.

But the Senate refused to accept this Thursday night and instead instructed its conferees by a 44-33 vote to make another try for the Senate amendments.

The act, which contains authority for the government to ban shipments to unfriendly nations, expires midnight tonight.

The compromise bill would provide a three-year extension.

Says Symington Is After Scapegoat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn.) has accused Stuart Symington (D-Mo.) of playing politics in the Senate stockpiling investigation by seeking to find scapegoats among former Republican officials.

Symington briskly denied this, as well as Bush's charge Friday that he has been using unfair and improper tactics as chairman of the inquiry.

Sir Winston OK After Operation

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill underwent a successful operation Friday, to pin the bones of his fractured left thigh.

A bulletin issued later at Mid-dlesex Hospital said the condition of the 87-year-old statesman was satisfactory.

Doctors carried out the 90-minute operation shortly after Sir Winston returned home in a jet ambulance plane from the Riviera, where he suffered the break Thursday.

Sold Out, But...

Tickets for the four productions of the SUI Summer Repertory Company were almost completely sold out Friday afternoon.

At that time Roland Reed, assistant business manager of summer repertory, began conferring with the cast and crew members of the plays to see if additional performances could be given.

Late Friday night, Reed announced the following dates for extra performances: "Much Ado About Nothing," July 25; "Madwoman of Chailot," July 26; "The Miser," July 27; and "Death of a Salesman," July 28.

Time and place to obtain tickets for these performances will be announced later.

The News In Brief

By The Associated Press

JERUSALEM, Israeli Sector — Speedy deportation seemed to be in store Friday for Dr. Robert A. Soblen, the bail-jumping Soviet spy who sought asylum in Israel from life imprisonment in the United States.

Israeli papers urged that Soblen be ousted, some citing his presence as a potential irritant in relations between Washington and Jerusalem.

WASHINGTON — The federal Government will embark Sunday on a new fiscal year that seems certain to produce a budget deficit of at least $4 billion. President Kennedy had hoped, six months ago, to show a surplus of $500 million.

Administration officials see no possibility now of returning to a balanced budget in the coming year.

WASHINGTON — New steel labor contracts go into effect Sunday with new job and income protection features sure to be welcomed by industry workers worried about their jobs and slackened mill activity.

Beginning Sunday, under terms of the new steel agreements, the steel companies will nearly double the money they put up for supplemental unemployment benefits. They supplement state jobless payments.

CLEVELAND — Concluding an 11-day triennial convention, Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod delegates rejected Friday an effort by conservative elements to sever the 2½-million-member denomination's connections with the National Council of Churches.

The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod is not a member of the council but uses some of its services.

WASHINGTON — The railroads accepted on Friday a Government proposal to arbitrate their manpower economy dispute with five unions representing 200,000 on-train rail employees.

The unions have not yet responded to the request made Wednesday by the National Mediation Board under terms of the Railway Labor Act.

WASHINGTON — A bi-partisan plan for health care for the aged financed under Social Security was unveiled in the Senate on Friday and appeared to attract enough support to pass that body.

Five Republican senators joined 18 Democrats in co-sponsoring the new proposal, worked out after weeks of intensive conferences.

Despite confidence of sponsors that they now would have votes to spare in the Senate, however, it seemed questionable the plan could clear the House this year due to majority opposition.

Definition of 'Crime' Fires Committee Hearing on Estes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Karl E. Mundt (Rep.-S.D.), strove to establish that Billie Sol Estes was guilty of crime in his cotton-allotment dealings and the Agriculture Department condoned the Texan's action.

Under sharp cross-examination by the South Dakota Republican, Secretary of Agriculture Orville E. Freeman refused to acknowledge that this was true. He argued that a finding of civil wrongdoing — even if sustained in court — does not constitute a crime.

Freeman's position won the support of the Democratic members of the Senate Investigations subcommittee which is inquiring into Estes' tangled affairs in an effort to see if the promoter enjoyed improper favors in his extensive dealings with the Agriculture Department.

Mundt challenged Freeman's claim that he has taken adequate steps to prevent future operations of the kind which led the department to levy a $554,000 penalty against Estes for improperly acquiring cotton-planting allotments for more than 3,000 acres of land. The penalty has not been collected and is subject to court review.

Mundt, senior Republican on the subcommittee, said he could not understand what he called the reluctance of the department to plug a loophole.

Freeman came under cross-examination Friday after having read to the subcommittee Thursday a 50-page statement on the Estes case.

In that, he acknowledged the department had moved too slowly in its investigation of Estes and had made mistakes. But he reiterated no special favors were extended and that the government will lose no money because of Estes' dealings.

The exchanges Friday centered largely around Estes' success in getting the allotments of farmers who had been dispossessed when their lands were taken for public improvements such as reservoirs and highways. He did this by selling land to the farmers and leasing it back along with their allotments.

Mundt bore down on the fact that Estes was allowed to remain on a National Cotton Advisory Committee even after department officials had decided he acted improperly in obtaining the allotments. The Dakotan sought to show that this constituted condoning of a criminal act.

Mundt noted that Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy had called on every official in the administration to notify him immediately of any suspected wrongdoing. He wanted to know why the Estes case hadn't been referred to the Justice Department.

Freeman replied that it was a civil matter and at that point could not be prosecuted criminally.

Mundt read a portion of a memo by department general counsel John Bagwell which said the allotment scheme was a device to obtain cotton acreage "contrary to law."

"Do you mean it is not a crime to violate the law?"

"It was contrary to the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938," Freeman said. "There is no implication that every time one doesn't comply with procedures established under that law that it is a criminal offense."

Mundt snapped, "I've got too many lawyers in here already," when Sen. Henry Jackson (Dem.-Wash.) tried to elaborate.

Finally, Jackson and Sens. Sam J. Ervin Jr., (D-N.C.) and John L. McClellan (Dem.-Ark.) subcommittee chairman, all supported Freeman's position.

McClellan explained that when the department had firmly established a civil violation of the law, then it would be time to see if a criminal statute could be applied.

U.N. Congo Forces on Alert After Unity Talks Break Up

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Acting Secretary-General U Thant said on Friday he had placed U.N. forces in the Congo on the alert as the result of a new crisis caused by a breakdown in Congo unity talks.

In a statement to a meeting of his 19-nation Congo Advisory Committee, Thant said he might call the U.N. Security Council into session to consider strengthening the U.N. hand in the Congo.

Congo Premier Cyrille Adoula and Katanga President Moise Tshombe broke off on Tuesday their long talks on bringing Katanga Province back into the Congo. They set no date for another meeting.

Thant told his committee this created "a new critical phase for the U.N. operation in the Congo."

"It is, I think, a bit early to attempt to draw any conclusions as to the significance of the failure of the Leopoldville talks to end in agreement," he said.

"There is no provision for their resumption but we will press for them to do so."

"The decisive question, of course, will be whether Mr. Tshombe and his lieutenants will now undertake to resume their secessionist efforts. They may or may not."

Thant declared that while Tshombe had renounced secession some of his colleagues have increasingly evidenced a lack of participation in the talks and with the so-called "conciliatory line" Tshombe was pursuing.

Illusion of Reality—

Repertory Lights, Settings Present Production Problem

By JANET MINX Staff Writer

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the third in a series of articles on SUI's Summer Repertory Theatre.)

The theatre is not reality; it is the illusion of reality.

An actor creates the illusion of being a real person; but, his performance is only one part of the illusion intended by the author. Lighting and stage setting are the technical aspects of production which are also used to suggest reality within a play.

Before the University Theatre can present its Summer Repertory program July 6-24, certain problems of lighting and stage setting need to be worked out because four different plays will be performed in nightly rotation.

If only one play were being presented, the lighting on the actors would be adjusted according to the "blocking," or the location of the actors on stage. This requires about 65 pieces of lighting equipment.

However, when four plays are performed, each with different patterns of "blocking," this equipment can not be readjusted every night.

According to David L. Thayer, assistant professor of Dramatic Arts and lighting director, the problem is solved by using more equipment and arbitrarily overlapping it so that the light areas overlap the entire stage.

Then, for each play the light area is selected which includes the actor or actors who are speaking. One hundred pieces of equipment are necessary to compromise the lighting for all four plays.

Three of the plays present specific problems of lighting.

In "The Madwoman of Chailot," the main character blows out a kerosene lamp. Since it is not a real lamp, the illusion that the lamp is dimmed is done by lighting. Of course, it is necessary for the light man to time his action exactly with the action of the character.

In "Much Ado About Nothing," much of the action occurs at night. To create this illusion for the audience, Thayer uses blue backlighting and dims the stage lights.

In "Death of A Salesman" the main character recalls several times when his home was surrounded by trees and not city apartment buildings.

This alternating illusion of apartment buildings and trees, is accomplished by projecting the images on a cloth background, or cyclorama. It is 40 ft. high by 100 ft. long and serves as a backdrop for the stage.

Since most machines are too small to project these large images, Thayer designed a special projector for his purpose.

The problem of building an elaborate set that will not fall down is not so far removed from building an elaborate house that will not fall down.

However, scenery must also be light, simple to construct, and easy to store. These problems come under the direction of Arnold Gillette, professor of Dramatic Arts and director of University Theatre.

In last summer's repertory program, scenery for the four plays was adjusted by rearranging a set of folding screens. However, the same idea could not be used this summer because of the nature of the plays.

"Death of a Salesman" requires a two-story composite which will resemble the first and second floors of a house. Two rooms and a staircase to the third, have been mounted on a slip-stage, or wagon stage, which rolls on a track onto the main stage.

"Much Ado About Nothing" will use three summer houses, or gazebos, which are "running" pieces, i.e., carried on stage by hand. These houses include detailed lattice work and landscaping.

"The Madwoman of Chailot" is the most complex setting. It requires a staircase on stage and one backstage for departing actors; an outdoor cafe setting; a trap door; and an arch, 18 ft. high by 32 ft. wide, which will be "flown up" when not in use.

"The Miser" is basically a one-set play and will include cut-out doorways, a swinging gate, and fireplaces.

Most of this scenery work has been completed in time for rehearsals. As with lighting, the best that scenery can do, is suggest the mood of each play and create an illusion of reality. For the theatre, this is successful because the technical aspects stimulate the imagination of the audiences. People make the reality because, in a sense, they create it themselves.

Jim Helgens' Death A Great Loss

The flag atop Old Capitol was flown half-staff all day Friday in tribute to James Gordon Helgens, who was killed Thursday in a traffic accident in Marshalltown.

Jim Helgens was known to most SUIowans as a promising end on the Hawkeye football team. To those who knew him personally, he was known as happy, intelligent, a good friend — a darn nice guy.

He was an excellent student, receiving a trophy from the Athletic Department for maintaining a 3.00 grade-point average. He had planned to enter dentistry or law.

Athletic Director Forest Evashevski said of him: "... Jim was a fine young man, a fine student, and an outstanding athlete. He will be sorely missed as a great man on our team. The loss would have to be measured in terms of team morale and spirit, as well as athletic prowess."

Jim's death at the age of 19 is a great loss to his family, his friends, his hometown, and his university.

As assistant football coach Bob Flora said: "He was an unusually fine boy — a wonderful boy. He had everything; as fine a person as you would ever want to meet."
We will all miss him. —Larry Hatfield

Letters to the Editor

Spraying May Be Harmful

To the Editor:

Concerning our present problems over the Dutch elm disease in Iowa City, I think the following information should be brought to everyone's attention:

The value of spraying is by no means certain, in fact, there is much evidence to indicate that spraying does more harm than good, both in relation to the disease of the elm trees and to the bird and other wild life population in the areas involved. Quoting from a recent magazine article, "It is difficult to understand why Midwestern towns have so unquestioningly embarked on ambitious and expensive spraying programs, apparently without inquiring into the experience of other areas, which have had a longer acquaintance with the problem."

New York has achieved a fine record in the control of Dutch elm disease and has done this by rigorous sanitation, meaning the prompt removal and destruction of all diseased or infested wood and not only the wood in which the beetles might breed, but the diseased trees must be destroyed. By such a program Dutch elm disease in New York City has been restricted to two tenths of one per cent. Similar experiences have been noted in Westchester County, in Buffalo, and in Syracuse. It is quite possible to keep losses below one per cent a year by a vigorous sanitation program without spraying. There is no question but that once Dutch elm disease is established, the only way to approach it is to keep it within reasonable bounds, since it can not be completely cured. By carrying out a sanitation program, the opportunity for replanting and growth of new trees other than elms would be ample.

The above information is taken from one of two recent articles by the noted biologist, Rachel Carson, writing in the New Yorker magazine, June 16-23. These articles are recommended to all as enlightening.

The problem of indiscriminate use of chemicals and poisons is one that most of us do not realize. The dangers are enormous and we should wake up to this problem before we do irreparable damage to both plants and animals.

Reaction Emotional, Illogical

To the Editor:

I am quite disturbed at the quality of reaction a single editorial (Hatfield, June 20) has evoked in this vicinity. In particular, the feverish, emotionally charged irrationality of Gwen Inman (June 26) seems to represent something especially dangerous in any social or political sense.

Miss Inman's arguing tactics should become predominant in this country, there will be no protection or safety for the dissenter, however just or courageous his stand, and miscarriages of justice will be commonplace.

Miss Inman at no place attempts to specifically refute any single point advanced by Hatfield. The letter is disturbingly vague. What is meant by the phrase, "If you want to know the qualities behind the majority of our population"—what minority is implied here by the use of the opposite term? What is "the reason for the Walter-McCarran Immigration Law"? What attitudes does Miss Inman hold toward our foreignborn and people of other nations generally? This kind of foggy hinting about not only fails to hit the mark, but involves the character and reputation of innocent persons not involved in the original discussion.

She does not bother to defend her position personally but rather refers the reader to a pair of books. Slavish reliance on an authority, even if honestly meant, is not only a logical fault but also an abdication of responsibility. Because she provides no specific description of what bearing the cited references have on the subject, we are justified in suspecting her of consciously exploiting the tendency of thoughtless readers to take her word for it that the named sources are truly authoritative, or do, indeed, support her view. The fact that today's readers are remarkably gullible and tend to believe everything they see in print does not help to excuse this practice.

4. Last, I deplore the argument ad hominem whereby a series of epithets and personal abuse substitute for convincing reasons. The brunt of Hatfield's attack, at least, was not centered upon a single individual, nor did he select a scapegoat to be condemned and pilloried by those who agree with his opinion on the matter.

Needs Help, Not Abuse

To the Editor:

I am in complete sympathy with Mr. Hatfield of your staff. He has been persecuted entirely too much, and it is about time that this stop. People should sympathize with him, and try to realize that he needs help, and not criticism.

Let's face the situation, he needs to have his name on the tip of every tongue in order to dispel the fears he undoubtedly has about being insignificant. His odd articles have accomplished this, and I would be the last to try to thwart his ambitions.

I also am not going to condemn him for his article about the terrors the female sex is posing to the male sphere. He is probably worried that some incompetent female will bounce in and take his job away from him. This is a very real possibility, and he is wise to note it.

Ike Explains Demand For Military Cuts

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A week ago former President Dwight D. Eisenhower made a cryptic, surprise call for a cut in defense spending. This puzzled even some members of his own Republican party and a Democrat — Sen. Stuart Symington of Missouri — has called on Eisenhower to elaborate. Arthur Edson of The Associated Press Washington bureau visited Gettysburg, Eisenhower's home, and has written an authoritative analysis of the former president's views on this matter.)

By ARTHUR EDSON

GETTYSBURG, Pa. — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower firmly believes that President Kennedy is in the clutches of "the big spenders" — and that this is best illustrated in the Administration's military spending plans.

Eisenhower is disturbed that military requests have gone up around $8 billion since he left office. It's his belief that nothing has happened that is so ominous to justify such an increase.

The former president won't go into details and spell out where the $48.3 billion military budget presented by Kennedy can be cut.

And he has made no public comment beyond the speech of a week ago that took even members of his Republican party by surprise.

Speaking at a $100-a-plate GOP dinner in Washington, Eisenhower said:

"I must record my personal belief that substantial amounts in our current defense budgets reflect unjustified fears, but a reluctance in some quarters to relinquish outmoded concepts.

"ACCORDINGLY, I personally believe — with, I am sure, very little company in either party — that the defense budget should be substantially reduced."

Although Eisenhower refuses to go beyond this public statement, it is known that he feels that international crises have unfortunately become a way of life, that there is no reason to panic when a new one arises, and that the United States should set a course and stick steadfastly to it regardless of what the Communists may do.

Military requests, Eisenhower thinks, have a habit of creeping up steadily.

INDEED, THIS occurred in his own Administration, when the military budget rose from $35.5 billion in 1957 to $41 billion in 1961. But he thinks this increase came largely because of the switch to costly missiles while still trying to keep other defenses ship-shape.

Although Eisenhower won't go into details on where military spending could be cut — he no longer has access to the information on which the requests are based — it is known he believes the Army ground forces are too large.

He believes this is chiefly because Army leaders, jealous of other branches of the service that need and get more costly equipment, try to balance accounts by pushing for more men, instead of being happy at getting by for less.

EISENHOWER doesn't see any need for Kennedy to call up the Reserves, although he thinks sending troops into Berlin may have had some morale building value in Western Germany.

Although no one is more aware than Eisenhower how difficult it is to balance a federal budget — one of his own budgets wound up with a $12-billion deficit, the largest in peacetime — he thinks that Kennedy is surrounded by men who find merit in spending more money than the Government takes in.

It's his fear that in military spending the increase may become even more rapid, since the general realizes most voters are simply too overwhelmed at the size and the destructive power of military might to make constructive comments.

Yet Eisenhower is known to feel that if this nation is to continue to be great it will only be if the general public takes a critical look at everything every president does in his planning and in his requests for money.

Then, the former president believes, if a crisis comes, all should join in support of the chief executive, the only spokesman this nation has in international affairs.

On Gormly

To the Editor:

If a man exposes himself indecently in public criminal law suppresses him. If a citizen erects a glue factory in a select residential neighborhood, civil law abates his nuisance.

So Gormly, Judge Stephenson's merciful action in ordering a psychiatric examination for this sick, sick man offers a sane hope for his possible reconciliation with a society in which he must live.

Academic Freedom Vital to Education

A problem frequently faced by many colleges and universities is whether to allow controversial speakers to appear on campus.

Many universities have denied permission to speak to speakers with Communist affiliations. The University of Washington recently banned all Communist speakers bringing strong protests from faculty members and students.

Gus Hall, general secretary of the Communist Party, making a tour of the Northwest, was refused a platform at five state colleges. Oregon Governor Mark Hatfield and the American Legion voiced opposition to Hall though he spoke on several Oregon campuses.

President Arthur S. Fleming of the University of Oregon, who was backed by his entire faculty in permitting Hall's appearance there, said that a university cannot pay "lip service to the concept of freedom of expression" and deny those in disagreement an opportunity to express their views.

At Ohio State University, strong protests were made when three scheduled speeches on campus by representatives of the Emergency Civil Liberties Committee and the former head of a student group urging abolition of the House Un-American Activities Committee were cancelled.

Former Ohio Senator John W. Bricker, who is chairman of the OSC trustees, came out in support of the ban condemning "reactionary groups which would convert the university into a sounding board for their propaganda." He said that "students who are trying to run the university rather than get an education had better move on," and that "any professor who is not willing to live under the rule of the university... can look for another job."

We could not disagree more with Sen. Bricker's statements. It is folly to suggest that to listen to a Communist speaker is "trying to run the university." We feel that being presented with all opinions available is a valuable asset to education.

Sen. Bricker's statements are an unabashed attempt to subvert free speech and academic freedom. Far from making a university a sounding board for propaganda, the policy of allowing any and all speakers to be invited to a campus greatly aids the process of education.

The words of Meredith Wilson, President of the University of Minnesota, are very appropo as an answer to statements like those of Sen. Bricker: "The university is neither afraid of freedom, nor can it serve society well if it casts doubt on the ability of our free institutions to meet the challenge of doctrines foreign to our own."

To deny academic freedom at a university is to subvert the basic purpose of any institution of higher learning; that is, the search for truth. When our society becomes so frightened of being exposed to foreign doctrines that it prohibits the expression of those doctrines, the search for truth has been stopped.

Fortunately, SUI has never had any serious problems concerning permission for a speaker to come here. A notable example is the appearance of Danny Rubin here last year.

We hope that permission to speak here is never denied to anyone regardless of his beliefs or political affiliations.

Cast for SUI's 'The Crucible' Announced

Murray Engelhart, Elizabeth Al- and Wayne McIntire will sing in the roles in "The Crucible," opera to be presented at SUI July 31 and Aug. 1, 3 and 4 as a feature of the 24th Annual Summer Arts Festival.

Based on Arthur Miller's play about the Salem witch hunts of 1692, the opera by Robert Ward will be presented at 8 p.m. in Macbride Auditorium.

Ward's Pulitzer-Prize winning opera centers around the historical fact that Abigail Williams, a prime mover of the Salem hysteria, "cried out" Elizabeth Proctor as a witch. "The Crucible" presents dramatically the severe trial endured by Elizabeth and John Proctor.

Mrs. Engelhart, the wife of Dr. R. S. Engelhart of the SUI Department of Psychiatry, is cast as Abigail Williams, while Miss Allen, G. North Caldwell, N.J., will have the role of Elizabeth Proctor. McIntire, G. Osceola, will sing the part of Proctor.

Eric Giers, G. Minneapolis, Minn., and Allan Kellar, G. Danville, are cast as ministers, and Edward Richmond, G. Iowa City, as a judge.

Seventeen other students also have roles in the opera.

Opera tickets may be ordered by mail from July 17-26. Orders should be addressed to OPERA, Iowa Memorial Union, Iowa City, Iowa, with a self-addressed, stamped envelope enclosed.

Tickets will also go on sale at the East Lobby Desk in Iowa Memorial Union July 17. All seats will be reserved for the four performances. Tickets are $2.25 each.

Iowa Rejects Turkey Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Iowa growers were among those in the nation rejecting a proposed national marketing order for turkeys the Agriculture Department said Friday.

The vote in Iowa was 307 for and 477 against. That was a favorable percentage of 39.2, with two-thirds approval needed for passage.

Nationally, the proposal was rejected by a vote of 4,073-3,116. The marketing order was designed to limit the amount of turkeys that could be placed on the market during the year. It would not have set limits on production of turkeys, but would have limited the amounts to be marketed.

It was proposed as a means of stabilizing prices to producers, many of whom lost heavily in 1961 as a result of overproduction.

Former Prof Named To High Post at Curtis

A former professor in the SUI School of Journalism and assistant publisher of The Daily Iowan has been elected vice-president of the Curtis Publishing Co., it was announced Friday in Philadelphia. Charles E. Swanson received his M.A. from SUI in 1946 and his Ph.D. degree here in 1948.

While at SUI, Swanson, now 50, wrote "A Mid-city Daily," a 20-month study of a midwestern newspaper. He also wrote articles for Journalism Quarterly, Editor & Publisher, and other publications.

After leaving SUI in 1949, Swanson taught at the University of Minnesota and the University of Illinois.

In 1954, Swanson was made manager of research for The Saturday Evening Post. He was appointed assistant director of research for the Curtis company in 1960.

The Curtis board of directors Friday had not yet named a president of the company to replace Robert E. MacNeal, who was ousted. Matthew Joseph Culligan, 44-year-old New Yorker, has been reported to be the top contender for the position.

Push for Tax Cuts from CC

WASHINGTON (AP)—New pressure for immediate tax cuts came Friday from the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, which outlined what it called a program of massive aid for the economy.

The chamber proposed quick reductions totaling $5.5 to $7.5 billion all along the line in corporation and income taxes, with the biggest cuts in upper income brackets.

Putting off such action, the chamber said, "not only courts the disaster of a recession in the United States but its spread to Canada" and the rest of the free world.

In the Senate, Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, assistant Democratic leader, renewed his urging for a tax cut now, saying he saw no reason to wait until next year.

The Chamber of Commerce said it realized its proposal would throw the federal budget further out of balance, but it said the best hope "for future balanced budgets and fiscal sanity lies in removing immediately these tax rate deterrents to economic growth."

It was the first such proposal ever advanced by the businessmen's organization and it came in the wake of a demand by organized labor for immediate tax cuts in the lower income bracket.

'No Politics Intended' In Collins Battle

WASHINGTON (AP)—A witness told congressional investigators Friday his firm didn't intend "to become embroiled in any form of politics" when it contested an exclusive Navy contract award to Collins Radio Co., of Cedar Rapids.

The witness, Vice President R. G. Rau of Arvin Industries, Inc., also conceded his firm for the past six years had not made any ultra high frequency radios, such as those involved in the contract dispute kicked off by Rep. Earl Wilson (R-Ind.).

The Navy is withholding final action on the contract because of Wilson's charges. Arvin has headquarters in Columbus, Ind., in Wilson's district. Rau said Arvin bid on the job at the request of Wilson, who has charged "it is almost certain there is a criminal conspiracy to defraud the government" in the case. Wilson will testify Monday before the House Armed Services subcommittee hearing the case.

Good Listening—Today on WSUI

By LARRY BARRETT
Written for The Daily Iowan

END-OF-THE-MONTH, closing-out of the old Music Guide takes place today at WSUI. Actually, only a handful of items remain to be disposed of: the overture to "La Dame Blanche", a Vivaldi concerto grosso, Piano Concerto No. 23 in A Major by Mozart, and the complete ballet score to "Swan Lake" — all on Evening Concert tonight at 6. In order to find out what's happening next month at Broadcasting House, you will really HAVE to have the new Program Guide to Serious Music. Write now while the supply is limited.

WITH PRESIDENT KENNEDY in Mexico, solidifying relationships with our neighbors to the south, WSUI will tackle Canada today on Saturday Supplement at 1 p.m. You see, Canada's Dominion Day is tomorrow, July 1, and the natives have a tendency to get restless this time of year when most of us are thinking of our own Independence Day. Be that as it may, for 2½ hours this afternoon, it's Canadian music, history and ceremony which will be celebrated at 910 kilocycles.

Market Rally Stirs Hopes Of Wall Street

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock market trading for the first half of 1962 ended Friday with the list accomplishing what it has not done for a month — rising for two straight sessions.

At the same time, the week's gains were the greatest in two years.

The market's rally stirred overnight the cold ashes of optimism on Wall Street.

Some experts had been dubious about its staying power when the advance began late Wednesday.

When the upward surge carried through Friday it widened opinion that probably the bottom of the slump had been reached at least for the time being.

This would coincide with historic evidence that summer usually is a season of advancing prices. Many analysts felt that the rally was based on technical factors rather than any economic developments for the better.

Yanks Half-Game Out as Tribe Falls to Chiago, 3-2

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago White Sox, scoring all their runs in the first inning when they rapped out five successive hits after two outs, defeated the Cleveland Indians 3-2 Friday night before 33,843, Chicago's largest baseball crowd of the season.

Yanks Whip Angels, 6-3

NEW YORK (AP) — Ace New York left-hander Whitey Ford found his tender shoulder well mended, tossed a solid four-hitter and led the second-place Yankees to a 6-3 victory over the Los Angeles Angels Friday night.

Ford, who pitched seven innings of no-hit ball before retiring with an injured shoulder the last time he faced the Angels, May 23, was in major trouble only once this time — and that was his own doing.

The Yankees held a 3-1 lead and Whitey was working on a two-hitter before Leon Wagner singled and Bob Rodgers tripled in the seventh. Felix Torres hit a ground ball back to the box, but Ford couldn't find the handle. Finally, retrieving the ball, he threw wildly to the plate as he fell heavily on the oft-ailing left shoulder.

Rodgers scored easily with the tying run, but Whitey got out of it without trouble the rest of the way, and the Yanks got the winner in the next half inning on a single by Tom Tresh, a walk to Bobby Richardson and a couple of infield outs.

Gabriel, Ferguson Lead East Past West Stars, 13-8

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP) — Roman Gabriel of North Carolina State and Bob Ferguson of Ohio State, a pair of 1961 college phenoms headed for the pro ranks, led the East to a 13-8 victory over the West Friday night before 22,759 fans in the second All-America football game.

Gabriel, a future Los Angeles Ram, plunged over from the 1 on a quarterback sneak for one East touchdown in the third period and fullback Ferguson, slated to join the Pittsburgh Steelers, raced 38 yards for the final score in the final period.

Ferguson later was voted the most valuable player in the game. The West took the lead temporarily at 13:59 of the third period when Tom Hall of Minnesota intercepted a Gabriel pass and ran 70 yards for a touchdown.

Quarterback Sandy Stephens of Minnesota added a two-point conversion by running the ball over for an 8-7 lead.

But the East came back with Gabriel throwing a 43-yard pass and paving the way for Ferguson's powerful run for the winner.

The West remained in contention until the end with Stephens hitting

Ortiz Will Defend Title Three Times

NEW YORK (AP) — Lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz said Friday he will defend his title in a series of bouts in Manila, Tokyo, London and Puerto Rico.

Ortiz announced through his business manager, Bill Daly, that he will make his first title defense in Manila in September against either Flash Elorde or some other opponent named by Filipino promoter Jorge Araneta at the Araneta Stadium.

Daly said that if Ortiz keeps on winning he will defend in Tokyo in October against an opponent to be named and later in London against England's Dave Charney.

"We hope to wind up the tour in a title fight in San Juan, Puerto Rico, in November to celebrate the opening of a new stadium there," said Daly.

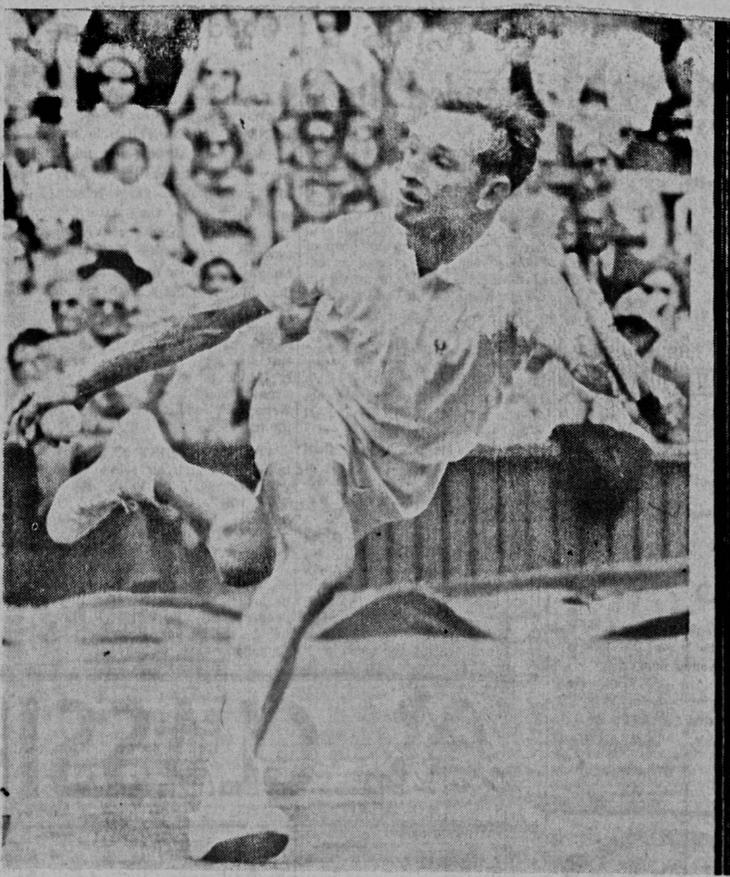

The 25-year-old Ortiz, a Puerto Rican native, won the title by trouncing defender Joe Brown at Las Vegas last April 21.

Patterson, Liston To Sign Monday

CHICAGO (AP) — Champion Floyd Patterson and challenger Sonny Liston will sign formally on July 2 for their heavyweight title fight Sept. 25 in Comiskey Park.

However, at the July 2 session, the fighters are expected to announce Chicago training plans, including camp sites. Both currently are working in the East.

Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois State Athletic Commission said the boxers would sign at the Sheraton Chicago, which is fight headquarters.

Laver Warms Up for Title Defense

Defending champion Rod Laver of Australia reaches for a hard shot in first round action of the men's singles competition at Wimbledon, England. Laver won the match from Nareth Kareth of India and moved into the finals. He is seeking the grand slam of tennis — the Australian, the French, the Wimbledon and the U.S. Championship — a feat achieved only once, when Don Budge did it in 1938.

Cards Blank Pirates, 5-0

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals, powered by Charley James' two-run homer, moved into a third place tie with Pittsburgh behind the seven-hit pitching of Curt Simmons Friday night, beating the Pirates 5-0.

James' homer, his third, cleared the left field wall and came with leadoff hitter Curt Flood on base in the first inning against losing lefty Harvey Haddix.

The Cardinals, also collecting seven hits, scored their other three runs in the sixth, on but two safeties. One of the hits was a gift two-run double by B. G. Smith, whose drive to right-center was mis-judged by right fielder Roberto Clemente.

Simmons gained his eighth victory against four defeats.

Elston, Buhl Blank Milwaukee, 4-0

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Chicago Cub right-handers Don Elston and Bob Buhl combined to beat Milwaukee 4-0 Friday night, holding the Braves to four hits.

Billy Williams and Andre Rodgers each drove in two Cubs runs. Starter Buhl held his former teammates to three hits but walked his way into trouble and was rescued by Elston, who came on in the eighth.

The Cubs came up with five double plays to blunt Milwaukee threats.

Redlegs' O'Toole Blanks Colts, 4-0

HOUSTON (AP) — Lefty Jim O'Toole hurled a four-hit 4-0 shut-out over Houston Friday night as Cincinnati ended a three-game losing string.

The shutout was the second straight for O'Toole against Houston and extended the Colts' losing string to five. O'Toole (6-9) struck out seven and walked none.

The crafty Red lefty had trouble only with the Colts' Roman Mejias, who counted three of Houston's four hits and was the only runner to get past first.

Aguirre 3-Hits Baltimore, 1-0

BALTIMORE (AP) — Hank Aguirre of the Detroit Tigers allowed three hits and struck out 11 Friday night as he hurled a 1-0 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

The 30-year-old left-hander did not permit a runner past second base while yielding singles in the second, seventh and ninth innings.

Baltimore's only threat came in the seventh when Jim Gentile singled with two out and moved to second on a walk to Jack Brandt. But Aguirre fanned rookie Boog Powell for the final out.

Washington Sinks Minnesota, 6-3

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chuck Hinton's tremendous home run into the Minnesota bullpen in the bottom of the 10th inning gave the Washington Senators a 6-3 victory over the Minnesota Twins Friday night.

Ray Moore retired the first two Senators in the 10th, but Harry Bright hit a double that just missed clearing the fence in right field. Bright went to third on a wild pitch during a walk to Bob Schmidt.

Hinton, a late-inning replacement, then hit his 11th home run, scoring Bright and Schmidt ahead of him.

Hinton was credited with batting in the tying run in the 8th when he walked with the bases loaded.

Vicky Palmer Pulls Upset at Wimbledon

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Vicky Palmer, a 17-year-old surprise from Phoenix, Ariz., and the two top men's doubles teams gave the United States a mild lift Friday in the All-England Tennis Championships.

Miss Palmer, bouncing around in a beehive hair-do, upset Robyn Ebbren of Australia 2-6, 6-0, 7-5 and became the fourth American woman survivor in the ladies' singles competition.

Jon Douglas of Santa Monica, Calif., and Don Dell of Bethesda, Md., stunned Italy's veteran team of Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola in the second round of men's doubles 3-6, 6-4, 6-1, 15-13. The Italians won the championship in 1956.

The other American team bidding for Davis Cup recognition, Chuck McKinley of St. Ann, Mo., and Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., beat the secondary Australian pair, Bill Bowery and Brian Knox 2-6, 6-4, 6-3, 6-4. McKinley showed no ill effects from the arm injury which caused him to lose in singles to Britain's little known Mike Hann.

Miss Palmer, the U.S. Junior Girls champion, had to come from behind twice to beat the favored Miss Ebbren.

Miss Palmer thus went into the women's round of 16 with second-seeded Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., eighth-seeded Mrs. Karen Hantze Susman of Chula Vista, Calif., and upsetter Billie Jean Moffitt of Long Beach, Calif., all of whom advanced previously.

This quartet of fighting ladies and a gangling, 6-foot-3 student from Coral Gables, Fla., Frank Froehling, are keeping Uncle Sam's colors flying in the closing stages of the singles competitions.

Froehling, the lone American male survivor, plays sixth-seeded Manuel Santana of Spain in the fourth round Saturday and he is given a good chance of providing the tournament with another of its many upsets.

2 Clinton Homers Aid Boston, 9-3

BOSTON (AP) Boston reserve Lou Clinton, striding to the plate as an .097 hitter, crashed a grand slam and a two-run homer for a 9-3 victory over Kansas City Friday night.

Playing only because Carroll Hardy is ill, Clinton started his six runs-batted-in spree with a bases loaded blast in the sixth inning off loser Diego Segui.

Clinton belted his second homer after Pete Runnels had singled in the eighth, this time at reliever Jim Archer's expense.

Prior to the sixth, Clinton had managed only six hits for the season though one included a grand slam against Detroit April 19. He now boasts 13 RBI for eight safeties.

Kansas City . . . 010 000 020—3 5 1
Boston . . . 200 004 120—9 7 3
Segui, Archer (7) and Azcue; Monbouquette (7-7). L—Segui (5-4).

Mickey Wright, Ruth Jessen Tie for 1st in Women's Open

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — Ailing Ruth Jessen slipped to a four over par 76 Friday to drop to a first place tie with defending champion Mickey Wright after 36 holes of the Women's National Open Golf Championship.

Rodriguez, Armstrong in TV Bout

NEW YORK (AP) — Luis Rodriguez, the second ranking welterweight contender from Cuba and Miami, Fla., aims for his seventh straight win when he takes on middleweight Ace Armstrong of Elizabeth, N. J., in a television fight tonight.

The clever, fast-moving, 25-year-old Cuban was rated an 8-5 favorite Friday to win the 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden ABC TV, 9 p.m. (CST).

Rodriguez, taking what he can get while marking time for a welterweight title fight, figures to be too fast and busy for the ring rusty, 30-year-old Armstrong.

This will be Armstrong's first fight since he suffered a broken rib and absorbed a terrific beating from Dick Tiger, Nigeria's British Empire middleweight champion 16 months ago. Tiger trumped the ace in a ninth round technical knockout. Armstrong has lost only three fights in his pro career — all to Tiger. His record is 19-3-1, including only one knock-out.

Rodriguez' record is 43-2, including 18 knockouts.
