Police Chief Fears Disorders, King Returns to Negotiate

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The chief judge of the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals set aside temporarily Tuesday an earlier order of another federal judge which had banned demonstrations by Negroes seeking to end segregation practices at Albany, Ga.

Life Spared In Alabama Racial Issue

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Gov. John Patterson has spared the life of a condemned white slayer whose lawyers had argued that he was deprived of his rights by the absence of Negroes on trial juries.

Patterson commuted the death sentence Tuesday of Edward S. Bosarge, 40, of Mobile to life imprisonment. Bosarge was scheduled to die in the electric chair Aug. 10.

The racial issue — unexpected in view of the fact that Bosarge was convicted of the hammer killing of a white waitress, Dorothy Cash — was injected at his clemency hearing before the Governor July 11.

His attorney, Ira Dement of Montgomery, pointed to a recent decision by the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals reversing the conviction of a Mobile Negro, Willie Seals, who was sentenced to death for raping a white woman. The court set the jury verdict aside on the ground of exclusion of Negroes from juries in Mobile.

Judge Denies Medicare Injunction

REGINA, Sask. (AP) — A federal judge rejected Tuesday an application for a temporary injunction against operation of Saskatchewan's compulsory medical insurance program.

Justice D.C. Disbery of the Court of Queen's Bench said in his ruling:

"It is not for the court to in effect sit in appeal on valid acts passed by the elected representatives of the people and to interfere with such laws on the grounds of whether or not the effect of such legislation . . . is beneficial or detrimental."

Dr. L. M. Brand of Saskatoon, Hans Taal of Saskatoon and Ralph J. Purdy of Regina had sought the injunction as part of a move to test the constitutionality of the act setting up the 24-day-old program.

The province's Socialist government and the Saskatchewan College of Physicians and Surgeons announced settlement Monday of a dispute over the program that led to a doctors' protest strike.

A special session of the legislature will meet soon to approve amendments to the act that will permit doctors to work outside the program.

Air Strike Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Striking flight engineers offered Tuesday to accept a government plan to end their month-old walkout against Eastern Air Lines, but the company stuck by its rejection of the proposal.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg conferred with Eastern President Malcolm MacIntyre for more than an hour at his office at midday.

Afterward, Goldberg told reporters MacIntyre indicated he would think over the government proposals — rejected by Eastern Monday night — and let the secretary know the airline's position. MacIntyre subsequently issued a statement that said in part:

"The company must stand upon the offer which it has made to its flight engineers and which requires that they report before midnight tonight or lose all rights to jet flight engineer jobs."

Eastern had set Tuesday as the deadline for its 575 engineers to return to their jobs or lose them.

The action of Judge Elbert P. Tuttle in staying a temporary injunction granted city officials by Judge J. Robert Elliott brought an immediate and ominous statement from the Albany police chief, Laurie Pritchett, of possible disorders.

Pritchett said he expects demonstrations to be renewed on a broadened scale. He announced that the 200 policemen and state troopers now on duty in the southwest Georgia city of 58,000 would be supplemented by additional state patrolmen.

King to Return
In an interview immediately after Tuttle announced his decision, Negro integration leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said he planned to return to Albany immediately. King said he would advise the Negro leadership to seek to re-open

BULLETIN
ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — Several hundred singing Negroes started a march toward the downtown area of racially troubled Albany Tuesday night and about 40 were hustled off to jail.

The Negroes were urged on by Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. at a mass rally where an integration leader disclosed court action aimed at crumbling segregation barriers in public facilities.

with city officials negotiations to end racial troubles which have brought the jailing of nearly 1,000 Negroes at various times since last December for violating city ordinances.

King, who himself served two days in jail there recently for leading a protest march, said that if the officials refuse to negotiate differences in good faith, "We will have no alternative but to resume our peaceful demonstrations until victory is complete."

"Victory for Justice"
"We felt all along," he said, "that Judge Elliott had rendered an unjust and unconstitutional decision. Our feeling that our rights have been denied is substantiated by the remarks of Judge Tuttle. It is a victory not for the Negro people but for justice and democracy in America."

Tuttle indicated no temporary injunction should have been issued by Elliott. He did not void the action — only stayed it until the case can be heard on its merits before Elliott next Monday at Albany.

Tuttle announced his decision within minutes after Albany Mayor Asa D. Kelley Jr. told him that a stay might bring on a crisis in his city.

"It seems to me," Kelley told the court, "that as the defendants are restrained only from engaging in unlawful acts, no harm could come to them for the injunction to remain in effect and for them to wait until the hearing Monday."

"We simply are seeking to preserve peace in our city and to see that the laws of our city and state are not violated. A stay would create intolerable conditions in the city. If Judge Elliott had not signed the restraining order last Friday evening, in my judgment there would have been violence and possible bloodshed in Albany."

The government plan involves binding arbitration of economic issues — including retroactive pay, its effective date, pay rates and severance pay. It also includes settlement of the crew complement issue along lines Goldberg said both sides had previously assented to.

FREEDOM BOND DRIVE
H. Clark Houghton and Ben E. Summerhill, Iowa City, volunteer county chairman, reported that June sales of Series E and H bonds in Johnson county amounted to $168,344, bringing the county's six-month total to $1,150,200 to close the Freedom Bond Drive with 88 per cent of its quota.

Sales in all of Iowa for June were $8,376,820, giving the state a six-month total of $60,443,167 for 77 per cent of the bond quota.

Ben Khedda Bows to Rivals; Terrorism Seen

Expect Quick Ben Bella Takeover

ALGIERS (AP) — Algerian officials flashed an alert Thursday against a possible new wave of European terror while the tottering government of Premier Ben Youssef Ben Khedda warily bowed before its more dynamic rivals.

Ben Khedda and his ministers approved a proposed meeting of the Algerian Revolutionary Parliament that would vote into power a seven-man political bureau of the Front of National Liberation FLN. This is a victory for dissident deputy premier, Ahmed Ben Bella.

The Ben Bella faction, entrenched in the western city of Tlemcen, has pushed for formation of the political bureau. Ben Bella is one of the seven men who would have undisputed power over the nation once in such a bureau.

The Ben Khedda government leaked what amounted to virtual capitulation in informal statements, but never made a flat announcement.

Algiers Police Prefect Amar Mohammedi warned that the European Secret Army Organization is reconstructing its network to increase the new nation's difficulties by more terror and bloodshed.

He said European terrorists staged a concentrated, organized attack against Algerian policemen and soldiers in the heart of Algiers Monday night. Four Europeans and three Moslems were killed and seven Moslems were wounded.

Mohammedi told a news conference his men seized immense quantities of arms and ammunition in European apartment buildings. He said he has mobilized troops and auxiliary police to ward off a planned wave of terror.

Mohammedi's statement was viewed by many Europeans as an effort to find a scapegoat for the country's internal chaos.

European witnesses said Moslem policemen started the shooting.

Takeover of power by the Ben Bella group seemed only a question of time.

Ben Khedda's information minister, Mohammed Yazid, told newsmen the decision to accept Ben Bella's proposal was the result of pressure by Algerian masses.

Foreign Aid Bill Allows U.S. Help To Communists

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $4.672-billion foreign aid bill preserving the President's discretionary authority to give limited aid to Communist countries was sent Tuesday to the White House.

The compromise measure, previously passed by the Senate, was approved by the House, 221 to 162.

Included in the bill is $600 million for the Alliance for Progress for this year. The measure also sets that limit on assistance to Latin America for each of the three following years.

The authorizing legislation was $306.5 million short of the current year total requested by the Kennedy Administration.

Included in the total are prior authorizations of $1.25 billion for the Development Loan Fund and $1.5 billion for military assistance.

The completed bill eliminated restrictions placed in it by the Senate some weeks ago to withhold aid to Communist Poland and Yugoslavia and limit aid to India.

The compromise permits aid to Communist countries if the President concludes they are not dominated by international communism, as distinct from domestic communism.

Pickets marched around this gasoline lantern outside the State Penitentiary all night Monday until condemned slayer Charles Brown was hanged Tuesday morning. The execution was scheduled for 5 a.m. (CST) Tuesday. At 5:02 a.m., the trapdoor was sprung. Brown was pronounced dead at 5:05 a.m. The torch was snuffed out when pickets learned that Brown was dead.

Brown Dies on Gallows, Asks Forgiveness of God, Society

FORT MADISON (AP) — Slayer Charles Noel Brown went to his death on the gallows at the State Penitentiary here Tuesday, breathing the hope that "the people will forgive me for what I've done."

His last words, immediately before he dropped through the trapdoor sprung by Sheriff Roy Wichel of Pottawattamie County, were "God forgive me."

Brown was executed for the fatal shooting Feb. 22, 1961, of Alvin Koehrsen, 54, of Walnut, in Council Bluffs, as he and Charles Edward Kelley, 21, tried to steal Koehrsen's car.

Kelley, also under the death sentence for the shooting, was in his death row cell only about 50 feet from the building where the execution took place, though he could not see the proceedings.

The slaying of Koehrsen was near the end of a bloody crime spree by the two men, both of Minneapolis, through three states. They also have admitted slaying two other men and wounding three more.

Brown, pale but unflinchingly, walked steadfastly the 150 steps from the room where he spent his last hours, to the gallows. He climbed the 16 steps unaided and stood quietly on the platform while Associate Warden Bernard Nelson and his assistant James M. Richard, strapped his arms and legs.

He wore a black prison-made suit of the type given to men released from the prison.

The trap was sprung at 5:02 a.m. and Brown was pronounced dead by prison physicians Drs. Frank Poepsel and Robert Feighner at 5:05 a.m. CST. Fifty-nine persons witnessed Iowa's first execution in 10 years.

Warden John Bennett said Brown passed a quiet night. The Rev. Lester Peter, prison Protestant chaplain, spent the night with the prisoner. He said they discussed passages of Scripture among other things, but declined to give further details.

Brown's body was released to his widow, Mary Lou, mother of his six children. He will be buried in Bedford, Ind., his boyhood home.

A group of 26 pickets, most of them SUI students, kept a vigil outside the prison walls from 7 Monday night until Charles Brown was hanged at 5 Tuesday morning. The pickets carried signs protesting capital punishment in general and Brown's execution in particular.

Local police dispersed any other groups that formed. About 2 a.m., two Fort Madison youths, William Koellner and Edward Ludden, both 21, were arrested after they had heckled the pickets for about 20 minutes.

Each was fined $25 Tuesday for using what Police Chief R. L. Peak called "abusive and sarcastic language." They were charged with disturbing the peace and intoxication.

Police had earlier broken up a crowd of about 400 people, some of whom had been heckling and throwing pennies at the pickets.

Shortly after 5 Tuesday morning — as witnesses to the execution were leaving the prison — solemn picketers extinguished a gasoline lantern which had burned all night.

When the hearse carrying Brown's body left the prison, the picketers dispersed quietly.

Grim Vigil
Two of about 26 pickets — who maintained a vigil outside the walls of the State Penitentiary Monday night — grimly await news of Charles Brown's death. Pickets marched until Brown was pronounced dead early Tuesday. The torch in the foreground burned until the execution was completed.

SUI Financial Anemia 'Justifies Extra Funds'

By MARVIN MILLER
Staff Writer

SUI needs more funds than the other state schools because of an "educational load factor" unique to it, James Jordan, director of University Relations, said Tuesday.

The Board of Regents had recognized this need twice in the past four years and is taking steps to determine exactly what the differential should be, Jordan added.

The action by the Regents, which allows SUI to put a request before the State Legislature next January for $300,000 per year for the next two years, has sparked strong protests from both Iowa State University at Ames and State College of Iowa at Cedar Falls.

The regents also permitted SUI to request additional funds two years ago. A total of $400,000 per year was granted SUI after the issue was debated in the Legislature.

Jordan said the term "educational load factor" is used by SUI to indicate four conditions which add up to "chronic financial anemia." He said neither of the other two institutions were hit by it.

First, SUI has more graduate students enrolled than both the other land grant schools. Of the 4,975 students beyond the fourth year, SUI has 3,027, or 60.8 per cent. The cost of educating these students is about three times higher than the cost for beginning undergraduates, said Jordan.

About 33 per cent of the graduate students are enrolled at ISU and 6.2 per cent at SCI.

Second, Jordan said, liberal arts universities, such as SUI, need larger appropriations because of the nature of these schools. This need has been recognized by other states with similar patterns of state-supported institutions of higher education.

Jordan cited a study of six states which showed that appropriations for liberal arts, graduate, and professional schools average over 27 per cent more than those for land grant institutions.

If this formula were applied to Iowa schools, SUI would receive $3,400,000 as a differential.

Third, SUI has more students enrolled in expensive professional courses. Instruction in these areas requires highly trained teachers and a very small ratio of students to teachers, which makes them more costly.

SUI has 1,269 students enrolled in medicine, dentistry, nursing, and pharmacy. To support these colleges at their present level, $2,500,000 is required in annual state appropriations.

Fourth, SUI simply has more students than the other schools. Jordan said there are between 1,300 and 1,500 more students here than at ISU, and about 7,000 more than at SCI. The Board of Regents expects the difference in enrollment will continue at about its present level.

These four conditions make up the educational load factor claimed by SUI.

Jordan emphasized that SUI was not attempting to get more money at the expense of the other schools. All we want schools needs more money," he said. "We do not want the extra money to come out of the hides of other schools. All we want is to iron out an established in-

Houlton Back to Oakdale, Accident Still Unclassified

By JOHN SCHOLZ
Staff Writer

Leo Paul Houlton, 49, charged with leaving the scene of an accident involving personal injury, was taken from county jail to Oakdale Tuberculosis Sanatorium about 2:30 p.m. Tuesday according to Police Judge Jay H. Honohan.

Houlton has not yet posted the $1,000 bond set Monday and is "under detention at the sanatorium" Judge Honohan said Tuesday.

Oakdale officials said that Houlton has been confined to his quarters. Houlton, from Sioux City, has been a patient at the sanatorium.

Houlton appeared in police court Tuesday morning and pleaded innocent to the charges. He asked for a preliminary hearing which has not yet been scheduled.

Authorities remain puzzled about the exact times that cars driven by Sharon A. Francis and Houlton plunged off the end of the incomplete Interstate 80 east of Iowa City about midnight Sunday.

A major question is whether the three girls who died in the Francis car were still alive at the time Houlton's car plunged down the embankment and landed on top of the Francis car.

Killed in the accident were Mary L. Purvis, 18, of Iowa City; Judith Ann Brack, 17, of Iowa City; and Miss Francis, 17, of Coralville. Miriam Stallfort, 17, a fourth occupant, was taken to University Hospital Monday morning with facial lacerations.

Examiner had not reported the results of his examination Tuesday afternoon according to County Attorney, Ralph L. Neuzil. Neuzil said that "no further inquest will be held."

Houlton told Iowa Highway Patrolman, Richard Reddick, that he left the scene of the accident because he thought that the car he landed on was a Grinnell car which had gone over the end of the incomplete interstate Friday at the same place.

Present charges against Houlton remain unchanged "unless something new comes up" according to Sheriff A. J. Murphy. He said that unknown factors hampering the present investigation could be learned when and if Miss Stallfort is able to recall more details of the accident.

At 7 p.m. Tuesday, Miss Stallfort was listed in good condition at University Hospital.

Funeral services for the three girls will be held Wednesday. Oath-taking funeral home is handling the arrangements. Services for Judith Brack will be at 9:30 a.m. at St. Patrick's Church; for Mary L. Purvis at 1:30 p.m. at First Presbyterian Church; and for Sharon A. Francis at 3:30 p.m. at First Methodist Church in Iowa City.

The agency said the ship, the Pualu Sjafi, left Surabaya June 21 and should have reached Ambon, in central Moluccas, several days ago.

Prompt Removal - 'Education' Next

An Iowa City householder, formerly "University-approved," has been removed from the University Listing Service after a complaint alleging racial discrimination was lodged by two SUI students.

The action taken by the Office of Student Affairs denies the facility the privilege of a free listing in that office. However, the householder will still be able to rent to students until the case is reviewed in June, 1963.

Though this action may not be the strong economic sanction that many have urged (and perhaps should be taken) against "approved" householders who discriminate, the prompt action on the part of University officials is heartening. Dean of Students M. L. Huit talked with the students last Friday concerning their complaint and accepted a written report on the incident Monday. Tuesday, the facility was removed from the University List.

We hope the local "approved" householders take note of this action. We also hope the University's policy of "educating" the landlords of this fair city is successful. It's about time someone did something.

Congolese Decisions Should Be African

A new phase of the Congolese struggle for unity is opening - with an emphasis on showdown. But what appears to be developing now is an American initiative to force Moise Tshombe to accept the next proposals which may be made to him by the Aduala Government for union of Katanga with the rest of the Congo.

G. Mennen Williams, Assistant Secretary of State for African Affairs, is in Brussels reportedly to ascertain whether Belgium would go along in a program of economic sanctions against Katanga. However, in London it is objected that Mr. Tshombe might answer economic sanctions by ordering a military attack on United Nations forces in Katanga, bringing on a state of war between that province and the world organization.

It looks as if more diplomatic spade work is needed before exposing the new move to publicity. This is not to say that the Congo must await Mr. Tshombe's pleasure before achieving unity and solvency. It is to say that the opening of new diplomatic offensive against him should not appear to be merely an American inspiration, no matter how much this might promise in the way of political dividends on the American home front.

First of all, decisions concerning the Congo should be obviously African decisions, and African leaders should not be placed in the position of seeming to follow an American lead. Second, an atmosphere of showdown is easier to create than a climate for sound compromise. A good deal more unity among the Western powers themselves should be assured. So should the readiness of Africans to take front-line positions, bearing the responsibilities and getting the credit attached to a strong new move for Congolese unity.

Antiquated Death Code

That unpleasantness at the State Penitentiary at Fort Madison early Tuesday was a hard job for state officials to perform, but it was a necessity, you know. The Iowa Supreme Court, carrying a mandate from the people of Iowa, had ruled that Charles Brown must hang, so penal authorities were merely carrying out a directive.

But the mandate for capital punishment was given over 100 years ago when Iowans numbered in mere thousands instead of millions.

Nevertheless, the permit to kill stood up Tuesday morning and it will be exercised again soon, if Gov. Erbe does not commute the execution of Charles Brown's 21-year-old accomplice Charles Kelley.

So it appears that Iowa will again have to perform that arduous task made less memorable by a small attendance (59 Tuesday morning) and an on-the-spot hearse which whisks the body away moments after the trap door is sprung.

Thus, the chore of executing a man remains difficult and grisly. But it is also incongruous that a state which is too lazy to change, or at least intelligently examine, an antiquated death code should work so hard to snuff out a man's life.

Years of Dizzy Living Gave Hangover to America

By ERIC SEVAREID

Since we enjoy in this space what President Kennedy at Philadelphia called the ultimate luxury of giving free advice, we may as well luxuriate to the limit and propose what is shockingly obvious - an Alliance for Progress for the mis-developed people of the United States.

We won't call it a five-year plan because that carries overtones of fur hats, communal kitchens and massed choirs singing official odes to the beloved bulldozer.

It will have to be an alliance of federal, state and local governments, universities, foundations and all other major sectors of that sprawling entity now called the American "establishment", the general repository of money, brains and power.

For 20 years the American people have been carried blithely and heedlessly forward, sideways and backward on the swelling tide of war spending and the happy, hectic sellers' market of a world starved for the good - and bad - things of life.

THE PARTY is over. Now comes SEVAREID the hangover and we focus our bloodshot eyes to discover that: We have at least twice as many farms as we need, with chronic insecurity for most farmers and a malignant tumor in the federal budget; we have too many airlines, which are now facing bankruptcy after having helped bankrupt the railroads, the form of passenger transit of which we now have desperate need; we have developed, without plan or purpose, the monstrous social sprawl called the magalopolis, which is neither city nor country and is governed by up to a hundred overlapping units of government, which is to say that the communities are not governed at all but merely administered; we have allowed millions of our poorest, most unskilled people to drift from the south and concentrate, out of the need for human companionship, in the Harlems of the country where relief and schooling facilities break down, tensions build up alarmingly and jobs for the young are not to be found.

With the swelling number of the unskilled at one end and the spread of automation at the other, we are now confronted with what looks very much like the certainty of permanent unemployment for several million Americans, this side of a vast public works program - but that, of course, would mean planning and planning is a dirty word for the eight months of the year Congress sits.

THOSE WHO enjoy the luxury of offering free advice also enjoy the luxury of asking unanswerable questions, and so some of us raise the plaintive query as to why America insists on a comprehensive national development plan in those countries recipient of our aid, while refusing even to consider a redevelopment plan for the headquarters country on whose order and well-being the recipient nations depend.

Various individuals and groups within the "establishment" make a try from time to time. A presidential group submitted an over-all, long-range plan to rationalize the morass of our transportation facilities. Rather, they threw it up for grabs and nobody grabbed. Senator Claiborne Pell has proposed a multi-state pooling of power and resources to make railroading work in the stifled and glutted northeastern states.

THE HARD-HEADED Committee for Economic Development has come forward with a scheme for the "massive readjustment" of agriculture, which would mean, over a five-year period, the elimination of two and a half million separate farm units.

Every Congressman must know in his heart that all these things must be done if America in the immediate future is not to become a dizzying Disneyland of clamor, crowding, waste and, for millions, sheer wretchedness.

The President was wrong at Philadelphia. The ultimate luxury is not to offer free advice. It is to possess the facts and the power and to do nothing with either.

Lolita's Sins Go Unpunished - Audiences More Mature

By ROBERT S. BIRD
Herald Tribune News Service

NEW YORK (HTNS) - American movie audiences have at last come of age. In the film "Lolita" sin goes unpunished and nobody is shocked.

Consider the plot in its most narrow aspect:

A sexually provocative child of high school age helps to entice her aging, perverted, European-educated stepfather into seducing her. Together they tour the country sleeping in motels and enjoying their illicit adventures at night.

But eventually she gets bored with the obsessive old man who is more than three times her age, and she dumps him with a flick of the finger. Then she takes up with another sex delinquent, this one a Hollywood scenario writer and alcoholic who is only twice her age. Next she deserts this oddball, too. Finally, she tries something altogether new and different - marriage with a young, Joe Doakes sort of guy, a blueber as American-normal as a blueberry pie.

THE SEX irradiated nymphet ends up all cooled down in a cluttered but cozy kitchen wearing horn rimmed glasses over her wayward eyes and a horribly house wifely kitchen dress over her fast-swelling figure.

For as the film story closes, she's looking forward to motherhood in three months' time. And husband Doakes is out there in the backyard with hammer and saw already building a playhouse or something.

The moral of the film story could be - if you wanted to read it that way, which apparently nobody does - that Lolita's sins bring her a contented marriage with a good, steady husband.

More than that, even. For if you watch the film closely you will note that toward the end Lolita acquires by gift approximately $14,000 more cash than she possessed before she embarked on her sinful escapades, when her liquid assets were zero.

NO OBJECTIONS have been made to the movie "Lolita" from any important quarter up to now, and interviews with persons seeing the first run of the film at Lowe's State in Times Square last week indicated that an adult audience (and even youngsters who succeeded in speaking in) did not find the film offensive.

Most important from the standpoint of guarding motion picture morality, "Lolita" has gained an acceptance rating from the Roman Catholic National League of Decency, with the proviso that it should not be shown to children under 18. But the exhibitors had voluntarily adopted that rule already.

The League has been traditionally the most jealous of all the agencies which watch for objectionable films. In giving this a separate classification, meaning that it was suitable for adults but not for minors, the League said in its official observation:

"Based on a controversial novel of the same title, this film has been sufficiently modified in its screen adaptation to warrant a code seal of approval of the Motion Picture Association of America. Moreover, the producer and distributor have attempted to fulfill their social responsibility to the general public by advertising the film for persons 18 years of age and over. Exhibitors should be mindful of this policy of voluntary classification and cooperate with full integrity in implementing it. Although the film's subject matter is dramatically permissible, its viewing requires caution and is to be restricted to a mature audience."

THE LEGION of Decency does not go beyond its official observations on any particular movie it reviews, but the Assistant Executive Secretary, the Rev. Patrick J. Sullivan, S.U., explained the Legion's belief that movie audiences are more mature than they used to be.

Ten or 15 years ago, he said, the Legion would hardly have accepted "Lolita" even on the for-adults-only basis.

Audiences are more mature in the sense that they are more selective in film entertainment," he explained. "What is significant is a growth in film selection. More judgment is being exercised by the public today."

"YEARS AGO" people went to the movies to be passively entertained. For audiences whose habit, of entertainment is purely passive the very subject matter of "Lolita" would have seemed extraordinary and altogether shocking. Such a passive audience would fail to distinguish between the shocking aspect of the subject and the moral significance of the treatment given to the subject matter. They would have tended to equate shock with immorality."

Why are audiences more critical? Because, according to this Catholic authority, of the world crisis which is forcing people to ask questions, and because of a falling sense of security and an awareness that all is not peaches and cream in the world today. This is having a "transfer effect" in the various media toward saying something about the actual life people are leading today, Father Sullivan says. He asserted:

"A consequence is that people who have been asking where things are going are now asking the same questions of films - where is this film, this plot, going?"

The Legion of Decency official said that even though audiences are getting more mature, still a "false sense of sophistication has made possible the temporary popularity of sick films in the last two years."

"We are reaching a period now where people who are generally on the side of free expression are becoming a bit alarmed because there are no controls. Teachers and religious leaders are blasting the industry for some types of productions which are coming out, and are asking for controls."

Even so, Father Sullivan said, there is no widespread groundswell for demand for controls, which indicates that the public in general does not want controls which would affect adults.

As for teen-agers, he said a drastic change has come in the relationship of parents and the children in the sense that parents are yielding their puritanical attitudes towards discussion of sex with their children and children are far better informed on the realities of life than formerly.

"I THINK" this is a step in the right direction," Father Sullivan said, "because this makes it possible for teachers and parents to discuss these issues with the youngsters and to help them arrive at reasonable value judgments."

Saying that the motion picture industry had shown a "significant gain" in giving expression to important problems of contemporary life, Father Sullivan added: "The viewpoint of the Church is that caution should be used in relation to adult material in the motion picture medium, and the request the Church makes is that some system of voluntary classification by the industry and exhibitors should be adopted other than mandatory classification."

This is the classification which, he said, restricts adult subject matter to adults, and protects minors from being knowingly exposed to it.

EPHRAIM S. LONDON, an outstanding legal authority on motion picture censorship, who has battled in behalf of exhibitors and distributors, in such cases as the Italian film, "The Miracle," and the French film version of "Lady Chatterley's Lover," said that "Lolita" upholds the legal right of a film to show immorality which goes unpunished.

On the question of the growing maturity of audiences, he differed from Father Sullivan's view, saying that "audiences were never given the opportunity to show their maturity."

"The law and the producers conspired against them," he said. "The audiences were treated like idiots. They were only allowed to be pleased. Evil had to be punished and good had to triumph. The solution to a bad situation was to shoot somebody and get him out of the world."

"The Legion of Decency is now facing up to something they must face, for if they are to continue to function they must keep up with the times. It is not so much the audiences which have grown up as the Legion, and I applaud it for this."

Wants No Part of Murder, War, Racial Discrimination

To the Editor:

During the twentieth century we have witnessed two major world wars, and numerous other minor military battles, and many feel that we are on the brink of a third world war. The first of these wars was in cave man style compared to the refinements of warfare used in the second.

The climax of the second war yielded a bomb so terrible that it could wipe out a city of millions as they stood wondering why only one bomber was flying over.

Even today there are still people dying from the radiation caused by the burns from the bomb. Nuclear weapons have been perfected to the point that we don't even know what effects they will cause if released. Perhaps we have created a monster that will destroy us. I act not as a prophet of doom, but as a viewer of realistic possibility. Occasionally there are those who protest against these things.

A local protest we are familiar with is that of Walter Gormly. He protested by refusing to pay income taxes which would be used for the preparation of men and materials for another war. His savings were confiscated, and he protested again, this time by a hunger strike in a federal building. He was arrested and placed in a psychiatric hospital for observation.

He had been all but classed as an incompetent because he has not accepted every edict of the Government as coming straight from the mouth of God. I am not going to relapse the case, but merely want to point out the way this protest was dismissed - by calling it madness, insanity. He has been declared legally sane, but there still exists in the mind of the majority of the people the idea that he is, indeed, insane. The insinuation became fact, and the legitimacy of the protest very cleverly negated by the charge of "madman."

In the magazine, The Cross and The Flag, there was an enumeration of various protests throughout the world, and each was labeled "Red," "Commie," "Pinko," or some other thing like

Little Nations' New Attitude

By J. M. ROBERTS
Associated Press News Analyst

Representatives of 31 non-aligned and underdeveloped countries have met in Cairo to take a sober look at their positions in the world and wound up with less contention about big-nation politics and more talk about the need for cooperation.

Although the grouping is a loose one, it adds dimension to a picture of the world in which the Communist bloc is organized for taking, the Atlantic nations and their allies are organizing for give and take, and the weaker ones for receiving.

The smaller nations are not trying, as the Communist bloc does, to stop the march of European unity and Atlantic cooperation.

At former meetings a good many of them have spent most of their time criticizing the industrial and former colonial powers, stressing their own independence and not infrequently trying to undercut each other. This time they merely adopted unanimously a moderate request for constant consideration of their needs as the world revises its trade lines.

Some of the countries represented are aligned with one or more of the powers already, others seek to play the field. It is notable that Yugoslavia and Egypt set the pace for moderation in Cairo, standing with India and others on nonalignment.

Many of the African states which are economically aligned through France, with the European Common Market, were not represented.

There is something in this of a new attitude, and a new realization that the Western industrial powers really mean what they say about using their organized strength for the benefit, not the detriment, of the world in general.

It would be cynical to view this merely as an aims-asking attitude. Some of the countries, to be sure, will continue efforts to take advantage of the East-West conflict for selfish purposes.

Stuit Discusses Education In Relation to Space Age

Advances in mathematics, physics, chemistry, medicine and engineering which have made the space age possible are the result of the dedication in higher education to the objectives of research as well as teaching, Dewey B. Stuit, dean of the College of Liberal Arts, said Tuesday.

Likewise, higher education has been responsible for applying discovered knowledge to the practical problems of agricultural and industrial production, national defense, and the improvement of our standard of living, he continued.

Stuit addressed Iowa educators attending the SUI Conference for School Superintendents. Topic of the three-day conference is "Education in the Space Age."

"During this coming decade we shall witness dramatic developments as a result of space exploration and research, but we should not lose sight of the fact there will be other problems equally deserving of study and equally important for education," Stuit said.

Discussing changes now underway which are of special significance to education, Stuit listed first the growth in size of organizations. This is the age of the big corporation, big government, big institutions of higher education and big communities.

The second major change underway is the emergence of new nations, he said. The dramatic redistribution of power which has occurred during the past 20 years with the rapid decline of colonialism has brought to importance some geographical areas and cultures which previously have not figured prominently in programs of academic study.

The third change is the advance in science and technology, Stuit said. Distance has virtually been erased, standards of living have been vastly increased, the life span has been lengthened, and destitution and want in our own country have virtually been eliminated.

Fourth is the increase in population, he continued. The rising population of young people has special significance for higher education. Actually, Stuit said, higher education will face the impact of a three-fold change — increase in the total birthrate, increase in the birthrate in the upper socio-economic groups, and an increasing percentage of young people going to the college.

Fifth is increased leisure time, he said. "One can be quite sure that unless leisure time is put to constructive use, there will be more juvenile delinquency, more emotional illness and more boredom. If leisure is to be a blessing, education must prepare the individual to make good use of it," Stuit said.

Sixth is increased concern for is the emergence of new majors of concentration. He pointed out that in the past 50 years SUI has added liberal arts majors in American civilization, anthropology, Chinese language and civilization, humanities, social work, nuclear physics, clinical psychology, child welfare, speech pathology and audiology.

Along with changes in curriculum, significant changes in teaching methods will take place, such as the increased use of TV, audio-visual aids and teaching machines, he said. Stuit also forecast increased emphasis on independent study, especially for superior students.

equity when new money is made available."

The controversy began in 1960 when SUI first presented its educational load factor to the Board of Regents in an effort to show why it needed additional funds.

Traditionally, state appropriations have been granted to the three Iowa schools on the basis of enrollments.

At that time, the Regents authorized SUI to request an additional $1 million from the State Legislature over a two-year period. The budget was cut by 22 1/2 percent by the Governor before he sent it to the legislature.

After the bill became deadlocked between the Senate and the House, a conference committee granted $800,000 to SUI over the two-year period.

In preparing a budget for 1963-65, SUI again requested additional funds. The Regents authorized a request for $300,000 per year for the next two years "to strengthen the academic position" of SUI. This has caused the protests from the other two schools.

In a parallel action, the Regents also decided to "engage a neutral, outside authority to study the cost load of the three schools and determine the nature and extent of any differential in educational load factor."

The results of such a study are expected to be available before the 1965-67 biennium.

Jordan said the Regents apparently "agree that the principle of an educational load factor for SUI is right but don't know what the amount of the differential should be and want an expert to tell them."

Jordan said that the $800,000 granted SUI over the past two years has been used "in virtually every college at SUI" to improve the quality of instruction. Some of the money has been used to hire new instructors and some has been used to buy equipment for the school, he said.

competition" is likely to maintain a lively interest in quality education.

The effect of these changes on education may come in several areas said Stuit. College education as it is today should not be expected to serve all high school graduates.

The demand for post high school education for all graduates may bring an increase in technical institutions and community colleges, serving primarily students who do not intend to go on with a traditional four-year college education, he continued.

Discussing changes in financial support for education, Stuit said that federal funds should not be sought simply to get the funds. "However, if such funds will help an institution do that which it ought to do anyway, then I feel that the role of the Government as a supporter of education should be applauded rather than feared," he concluded.

He listed several changes in college curriculum already clearly discernible. They include the gradual disappearance of remedial type courses in writing and mathematics because high schools do a better job of instructing in these areas, will be the revision or elimination of "how to do it" type courses.

Another change in curriculum "The college should not teach material which can be learned just as well or better on the job," Stuit said.

Still another change already underway is the inclusion of more subject matter in non-western areas, he told the school superintendents.

The final change noted by Stuit

Hoover Library To Display Gifts of Gratitude, Memos

A 1700-year-old Peruvian Inca burial cloth, a Russian scroll, and the first telephone to be on a president's desk are among the items which will be displayed in the Herbert Hoover Presidential Library at West Branch.

A scroll, which was presented to Herbert Hoover as an expression of gratitude from the Russian people after World War I, will be exhibited in the new library according to William B. Anderson, president of the Herbert Hoover Birthplace Foundation. Former President Hoover was the chairman of the relief committee which saved millions of Russian lives during the war.

"The Russian scroll is significant," Anderson said, "because the leadership of Hoover probably has contributed to the saving of more lives than anyone in our history."

The Herbert Hoover Presidential Library will be dedicated on August 10, the 88th birthday of Hoover. Former presidents Hoover and Truman are expected to attend the dedication activities in West Branch, the birthplace of Hoover. The library contains the presidential papers and memorabilia collected by Hoover.

Another item of interest to be in the library is a Paracas Mantle which was presented in gratitude to Hoover in 1928 by the Peruvian government. The 1700-year-old mantle is an Alpaca cloth, approximately 6 1/2 by 11 feet, in which an Inca chief was buried. The mantle is valued at $20,000, according to Anderson.

Chemists have been unable to determine what type of dye was used in making the burial cloth. The cloth is in excellent condition and the color is distinct.

The east end of one of the galleries of the library will be a replica of the White House office during the Hoover Administration. The desk and chair used by the former President will be among the items in the display.

On the desk will be the telephone used by Hoover, the first president to have a phone on his desk.

The library, a room of the Presidential Library, has been decorated in an Oriental motif. Some pieces in the room are of blue and white porcelain which dates from 16th century China. The porcelain is from Hoover's personal home collection.

People from Belgium and other European countries sent flower sacks with embroidered messages to Hoover as a tribute for the aid he gave them during World War I. These sacks will be on display in the library with typical translated messages reading "Our homage to a great American."

Children's letters and scrapbooks from the areas helped by the Hoover relief programs will be seen at the Presidential Library.

A map indicating the locations of more than 40 schools named for the former president and the 85 honorary diplomas awarded Hoover are some of the other items in the library.

I.C. Tradition Soon To Bow To Progress

Tradition has once again moved over in the face of progress.

Whetstone's lunch counter — for 88 years a favorite gathering place of students — is no more. The store is being remodeled in order to give "more complete and better service to University students and town people," Everett O. Moss, owner of the store, said Tuesday.

The remodeled store will be finished by Sept. 1 at the latest, Moss said. The front of the store, facing Clinton St., will be all glass. There will be a glass vestibule between the main entrance and the interior of the redecorated building. All the doors will be glass.

"It will be a modern drug and toiletry store where more people will be able to buy more things they need," Moss said.

According to Moss, the new part of the store would not be self service. "There will be trained clerks to help the customer find what he wants," he emphasized.

Moss explained that in the last 15 years, night-time business in the lunch counter has been falling off. "When the library was at East Hall," he said, "we did a tremendous night ice cream business with students coming back from studying."

However, he continued, since the building of the new library and the expanding of the Union, the demand for the lunch counter has diminished.

Moss said he plans the grand opening of the new store for early in September when the first groups of students are returning to Iowa City. He said the new section would carry more school supplies and other things of interest to students.

Berlin Talks Still Produce 'No Change'

GENEVA (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko met for 3 1/2 hours Tuesday without producing what an American spokesman called "any significant change on the Berlin question."

It was the third meeting for the two. Whether a fourth meeting will be held may be decided Wednesday, the spokesman said.

There have been reports the Soviet Union will carry out later this year its often made threat to sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany in its campaign to get U.S., British and French garrisons out of West Berlin. This would give the East Germans control over Western supply lines to the isolated city.

Gromyko had told newsmen his talk with Rusk included the subject of a German peace treaty.

He said Rusk repeated again the American position that there are vital interests involved in this question that cannot be wiped away by a peace treaty.

Rusk said the United States has rights in West Berlin that were never given nor could be taken away by the Russians.

The two met after attending a session of the 17-nation disarmament conference, at which each accused the other of blocking progress on disarmament.

Rusk, Gromyko and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home expressed desires to end the arms race. But this as far as they got in the first session after a recess last Thursday.

Rusk declared that repeated Soviet declarations that communism will eventually dominate the world tend to stall disarmament.

Gromyko said the conference, which started four months ago, has "not really moved the cause of disarmament one step forward."

Bids To Open on Bond Sale To Finance Union Additions

The State Board of Regents is scheduled to open bids Thursday on the sale of $3.5 million in revenue bonds to finance construction of three additions to the Union.

By 1972, SUI officials estimate, the enrollment at Iowa will reach 19,000. Besides serving as the center of student activities, the expanded Union is expected to be used extensively for the conferences and meetings held each year in connection with SUI's programs in continuing education.

The Regents intend to sell $3.5 million in bonds now, and may sell another half-million dollars in bonds at a later time should it be necessary to finance construction. The Union expansion is a $4.2 million project.

An accumulation of $700,000 in Union revenue will be applied to the construction budget also. This money has been built up over the past three years since the debt on the most recent Union addition, Unit 3, was retired.

The student Union fee — which was placed at $8.50 a semester and $4 for the summer session in 1950 — will be the primary source of funds for retiring the debt over a 25-year period. If necessary, net revenues from the Union food service, recreation areas, and guest rooms will be used in debt retirement also.

No portion of the debt will be an obligation of the state of Iowa, nor may any part of the debt be paid through taxation.

A recent financial analysis indicates that there will be no need to increase the present student Union fee rates, said Elwin T. Joffile, SUI vice-president for business and finance, although the Regents must pledge to the bondholders that the fee will not be lowered and that it would be increased if debt service revenue came to be insufficient.

The three additions provide for:

- 1) Expanded activities areas such as meeting and conference rooms for the more than 170 student organizations at SUI. Hobby rooms, six large conference rooms, 19 small meeting rooms, a banquet kitchen, and an auditorium-ballroom are included in this unit.
- 2) Relocated and enlarged kitchen and dining facilities needed for the increasing number of students and University events using the Union.
- 3) A guest house with 63 twin bed rooms and 48 double bed rooms and 48 double bed rooms to accommodate official visitors to SUI, parents and relatives of students, participants in University conferences, and other campus guests.

A fourth major item that is part of the Union project is a parking facility on which bids for construction have not been taken. This facility will cost an estimated $225,000.

Using an assumed interest rate of 3.5 percent, it is estimated that total debt service will amount to $5,407,850 over the 25-year repayment period. During the same time, the estimated revenue from the student fee would total $7,930,000 while money available for debt service from net revenues of the Union would amount to $1,890,000.

The difference between debt service and estimated revenues — $4,417,850 — will be placed in the bond reserve fund and an improvement, repair and depreciation fund, both of which could be called upon for debt service, and in a surplus fund.

The bonds are to be sold in denominations of $1,000 and in 24 maturity lots which would call for principal payments ranging from $20,000 due July 1, 1964, to $185,000 in each of the fiscal years 1981 through 1987.

STEREO NIGHTS at Broadcasting House have become more attractive this summer because of the larger quantity of time available for binaural transmission. Several major works will be offered tonight: Bach's Suite No. 4 in D, Violin Concerto in A Minor by Dvorak, and Richard Strauss' Don Quixote. Bits of Mendelssohn and Buxtehude — not to mention a quintet by Franz Danzi — will separate the larger items. Interested auditors must adjust their dials to 910 kilocycles for WSUI and 91.7 megacycles for KSUI-FM. The hours are 7 p.m. to 9:45.

THE TIME DRAWS SHORT for those who would enjoy the sweetmeats of Broadcasting House to their fullest. We have, in fact, only a handful (two handfuls, really, if you count the standard number of fingers) of full-schedule days remaining before the intervention of seven weeks of abbreviated broadcast days. Therefore, we shall try to give careful advance notice in these columns to the aired events of greatest significance.

Pox Vaccination Called Deadly

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A leading British physician said Tuesday that smallpox vaccination is a bigger killer in Britain than the disease itself.

Prof. George Dick, head of the department of microbiology at Queen's University, Belfast, told the annual conference of the British Medical Association that the Government's aim of vaccinating every baby in Britain against smallpox "is asking for the sacrifice of at least 20 babies a year."

Dick, a 48-year-old father of four and one of the men responsible for advising the Health Ministry on vaccines, urged parents to ignore the minister of health's appeal to get their children vaccinated against smallpox.

A son, Michael John, was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. John Bernard Hayes at University Hospital. The baby weighed 6 lbs. 10 ounces. Hayes is an assistant professor of geology.

STEREO NIGHTS at Broadcasting House have become more attractive this summer because of the larger quantity of time available for binaural transmission. Several major works will be offered tonight: Bach's Suite No. 4 in D, Violin Concerto in A Minor by Dvorak, and Richard Strauss' Don Quixote. Bits of Mendelssohn and Buxtehude — not to mention a quintet by Franz Danzi — will separate the larger items. Interested auditors must adjust their dials to 910 kilocycles for WSUI and 91.7 megacycles for KSUI-FM. The hours are 7 p.m. to 9:45.

THE TIME DRAWS SHORT for those who would enjoy the sweetmeats of Broadcasting House to their fullest. We have, in fact, only a handful (two handfuls, really, if you count the standard number of fingers) of full-schedule days remaining before the intervention of seven weeks of abbreviated broadcast days. Therefore, we shall try to give careful advance notice in these columns to the aired events of greatest significance.

Pox Vaccination Called Deadly

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A leading British physician said Tuesday that smallpox vaccination is a bigger killer in Britain than the disease itself.

Prof. George Dick, head of the department of microbiology at Queen's University, Belfast, told the annual conference of the British Medical Association that the Government's aim of vaccinating every baby in Britain against smallpox "is asking for the sacrifice of at least 20 babies a year."

Dick, a 48-year-old father of four and one of the men responsible for advising the Health Ministry on vaccines, urged parents to ignore the minister of health's appeal to get their children vaccinated against smallpox.

A son, Michael John, was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. John Bernard Hayes at University Hospital. The baby weighed 6 lbs. 10 ounces. Hayes is an assistant professor of geology.

Frank Howard's Main Goal: To Become Dodger Regular

ST. LOUIS (AP) — It's hard to believe that Frank Howard, who has hit five home runs for the Los Angeles Dodgers in the last six games, has only one goal: Playing regularly for the club.

The huge outfielder said Tuesday: "The only goal I have is playing every day for the ball club. If I fulfill that, I'll be doing a lot."

It seems doubtful the power hitter will have much trouble gaining that ambition.

Howard has driven in 11 runs in the past six games and boosted his home run total to 17, two more than last year's total. Since returning to the lineup June 19 he has hit at a .342 clip. One of the homers, in Cincinnati, sailed about 500 feet.

He is 6-foot, 6-inches tall and weighs about 250 pounds. The manager of the first place Dodgers, Walt Alston, says Howard has two big problems to overcome.

"His first problem was the strike zone," Alston said. "He swung at a lot of bad balls. He doesn't swing at many now but he's still fooled sometimes. He is greatly improved in that department."

"His other problem is he is too anxious and lunges at the ball too much. The word for it in baseball is 'Keep your weight on your back foot. Wait for the pitch. Don't stride too soon,'" Alston said.

The manager said Howard is waiting for good balls now — not all the time, but he's doing much better.

Alston added that Howard "still tries to hit the ball too hard. He's trying to hit the ball 600 feet where it's only necessary to hit it 350 feet."

"He can be a better hitter if he tries to meet the ball more squarely and not use too much power."

"He sure does have power to spare."

N.Y. Continues To Master Red Sox, 5-3

NEW YORK (AP) — Marshall Bridges, working in relief of Whitey Ford, choked off a budding Red Sox rally Tuesday night as the New York Yankees continued their mastery over Boston 5-3.

Ford had struck out 8 walked only one and had been in trouble only once when he weakened in the ninth, and gave up a walk to Lu Clinton and a single to Jim Pagliaroni.

Bridges came on and, after walking Pete Runnels, induced Chuck Schilling to hit into a double play and struck out pinch hitter Don Gile.

Bill Skowron drove in two Yankee runs with a double and a triple as New York recorded its 10th victory in 12 starts, and seventh in eight games against Boston this season.

White Sox' Wynn Blanks Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chicago topped Washington 6-0 Tuesday night with Early Wynn chalking up his 297th major league victory and his 49th shutout.

Wynn held the Senators to five hits, and the White Sox got him all the runs he needed in the first inning, when they scored twice.

The last-place Senators had won nine of 13 games since the All-Star break, and came home from a road trip as one of the hottest teams in the league. A crowd of 12,599 turned out to watch.

Joe Cunningham, Mike Hershberger and Al Smith clouted home runs for the White Sox, who had a 4-0 lead before a batter was retired in the second inning.

Pinch Homer Lets Reds Beat Bucs

CINCINNATI (AP) — A pinch homer by Wally Post and 10 other assorted hits carried Cincinnati's Reds to a 6-4 victory over Pittsburgh Tuesday night.

Jim Marshall homered for the Pirates in the seventh when starter Joey Jay began to lose his touch and also gave up two singles.

Jim Brosnan took over in relief and gave up a run-scoring single to Dick Groat before shutting off the rally.

However, it took Bill Henry to make the final two outs after Brosnan yielded two singles in the ninth.

Pittsburgh 000 020 200-4 10 1

Chicago Trips Phillies, 5-3

CHICAGO (AP) — Rookie second baseman Ken Hubbs, who stroked a solo homer in the first inning, teamed with Ron Santo to hit back-to-back doubles in the seventh inning as the Chicago Cubs scored three times for a 5-3 victory over Philadelphia Tuesday.

The victory, the Cubs' eighth in 12 games against the Phillies, enabled Chicago to snap its third seven-game losing streak of the season.

Don Cardwell, making his fourth relief appearance of the season, pitched the last two innings to save starter Glen Hobbie's third win of the year. Hobbie has lost nine.

Pinch hitter Jim McKnight touched off the Cubs' winning spurt with a single. Don Landrum, newly returned to center field in the latest revision of the Cub lineup, also singled to set the stage for the double trouble explosion by Hubbs and Santo.

The Cubs added an insurance run in the eighth.

Philadelphia 021 000 000-3 8 0
Chicago 100 000 310-5 11 0
Mahaffey, Smith (6), Baldschun (7), Short (7) and Dalrymple; Hobbie, Cardwell (8) and Barragan. W — Hobbie (5-4). L — Smith (1-5).
Home run — Chicago, Hubbs (4).

Tigers Edge Twins, 4-3

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Rocky Colavito lined a single to left field in the ninth inning Tuesday night to drive in the winning run as the Detroit Tigers edged the Minnesota Twins 4-3.

Vic Wertz, pinch hitting for winning pitcher Jim Bunning (10-6), lined a single to right to start the winning ninth. Frank Lary, running for Wertz, moved up on a sacrifice before Colavito's blow.

The Tigers were close to victory in the seventh when they loaded the bases with one out and literally knocked starter Jim Kaat out of the box. Kaat was forced from the game when a wicked grounded by Rubba Morton struck him in the mouth, knocking out two teeth.

With the bases loaded, however, loser Lee Stange (2-3) came on and forced Al Kaline and Colavito to pop out to end the inning.

The Tigers tied the score in the eighth on Norm Cash's 27th home run.

Kaline collected his first hit since rejoining the club Monday — a third inning double which drove in a run.

Detroit 002 000 011-4 10 2

Bunning, Fox (9) and Brown, Roark (7); Kaat, Stange (7) and Lary. W — Bunning (10-6). L — Stange (2-3).
Home run — Detroit, Cash (27).

4 D.P.s Aid Cleveland, 5-4

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Willie Kirkland's 17th home run and four double plays sparked the Cleveland Indians to a squeaky 5-4 victory over the Kansas City Athletics Tuesday night.

Kirkland blasted the ball over the right field fence after Ty Cline opened the game with a single and Tito Francona was safe on a sacrifice bunt as the A's tried vainly to nail Cline at third.

Cline also scored in the third inning — singling, advancing on Don Dillard's safety, and crossing the plate on an infield out.

Howard Edwards produced the Tribe's fifth run with a home run — his second — that led off the fourth inning.

The A's scored in the first, then were held scoreless by Dick Donovan until the ninth, when he yielded to Reuben Gomez after giving up a single to Jerry Lumpe and a walk to Norm Siebern. Gomez allowed a scratch single by Manny Jimenez that loaded the bases, and Gary Bell took the mound.

Gino Cimoli walked, forcing in Lumpe, and Siebern, with one out, crossed the plate on an infield out. Bobby Del Greco walked, filling the bases again, but Jose Tartabull flied to right field and ended the threat.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ernie Broglio held the Los Angeles Dodgers to four hits Tuesday night and the St. Louis Cardinals scored an unearned run to break a 2-2 tie and end the league leaders' winning streak at four games, 3-2.

With two out in the sixth, Los Angeles catcher John Roseboro committed a two-base error with a wild throw on Broglio's bunt.

Then Curt Flood doubled to right center to score Broglio.

Stan Musial tied the score at 2-2 and also tied Mel Ott's National League record of 1,860 runs batted in with a double in the fifth inning.

The Dodgers made good use of their first three hits. Jim Gilliam tripled and scored on an infield out in the first inning. Tommy Davis singled and scored on Howard's two-bagger in the fourth.

The Cardinals scored once in the first inning on a walk, an infield out and Bill White's single. They got their second run in the fifth on a walk, an error and Musial's double.

BOSTON (AP) — Colorful Yogi Berra, picked for the 14th straight year, and leading batsman Pete Runnels have been added to the squad for the second All-Star game, American League President Joe Cronin announced Tuesday.

In a further bid to stem the rising National League tide, AL Manager Ralph Houk of the New York Yankees has named his circuit's hottest pitcher — Los Angeles' Ken McBride, winner of 10 straight — and left-hander Jim Kaat of Minnesota.

Going into the second All-Star test at Chicago's Wrigley Field Monday, the Americans have won only one of the last seven starts, though still clinging to a 16-15-1 margin in the series.

The National League won the first game at Washington 3-1.

Houk made his moves under a ruling permitting an addition of three players to bring the squad to 28 for the second All-Star contest. New York's Berra, who has played a majority of his 14 games as a catcher, will be a spare outfielder while Runnels of the Red Sox its an added infielder.

Given a free hand in the pitching department, Houk chose McBride (11-3) and Kaat (9-9) while dropping Boston's Bill Monbouquette, who hasn't hurled a complete game in nearly a month.

Houk also named Milt Pappas from Baltimore to his mound staff instead of teammate Hoyt Wilhelm, who had been picked for the first game but had to be replaced by Pappas at the last minute when he developed a sore shoulder.

The repeat pitchers are Detroit's Jim Bunning and Hank Aguirre.

Dick Donovan of Cleveland, Minnesota's Camilo Pascual, Dave Stenhouse of Washington and the Yankees' Ralph Terry.

The eight All Star players for the other positions who were voted their berths by fellow athletes must be in the starting lineup for both games. They are Yankee outfielders Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris, left fielder Leon Wagner and second baseman Billy Moran of Los Angeles, catcher Earl Battey and third baseman Earl Rolins of the Minnesota Twins, Baltimore first baseman Jim Gentile and Chicago shortstop Luis Aparicio.

Except for the additions of Berra and Runnels, the reserve men for the non-pitching positions remain the same. Detroit's Rocky Colavito, the Angels' Lee Thomas and Jim Landis of the White Sox are the outfielders.

Bobby Richardson and rookie Tom Tresh of New York, Baltimore Brooks Robinson and Norm Siebern of Kansas City are the infielders. As in the first game, there will be two additional catchers, Elston Howard of the Yankees and the Indians' John Romano.
