JFK Asks Call Up Authority

Both Parties Back Request In Congress

International Situation Makes Standby Power Necessary — Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy, faced with what the White House termed a critical international situation, asked Congress on Friday for standby authority to call 150,000 Reservists to active duty.

The President's request is likely to be granted speedily, but there was no indication at the Pentagon that any immediate callup of Reservists or National Guardsmen is planned.

Congress members of both parties have been growing daily more vocal in demanding that some action be taken to counter the Communist military buildup in Cuba.

The White House did not limit the scope of its request to the Cuban problem, however, but spoke of the "general international situation."

In a letter sending the proposed legislation to Congress, Kennedy said: "In my judgment it is necessary to permit prompt and effective responses, as necessary, to challenges which may be presented in any part of the free world, and I hope that the Congress will give its prompt support for this authorization, as it did so effectively a year ago."

It was just about a year ago that nearly 145,000 National Guardsmen and Reservists were called to active duty in the Berlin crisis, and this problem has been heating up again.

The authority voted a year ago to call up the Reservists expired on July 1. Most of the men in last year's callup have been returned to civilian life during the past couple of months. Members of the Reserve who were ordered to active duty involuntarily last fall could not be called again in the possible new buildup unless they volunteer.

In addition to placing a ceiling of 150,000 men from the Reserves of all the armed forces, Kennedy's proposed new authority would limit the period of service to 12 months or less.

The new authority would run from the time Congress adjourns, now expected to be some time next month, until Feb. 28, 1963, which would be about two months after the next session begins.

During that time the secretary of defense could extend the terms of service of the Reservists for not more than 12 months.

Republican as well as Democratic backing for the President's request was assured when Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, the senior GOP member of the Senate Armed Services Committee, announced he would join with Chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) in sponsoring it in the Senate.

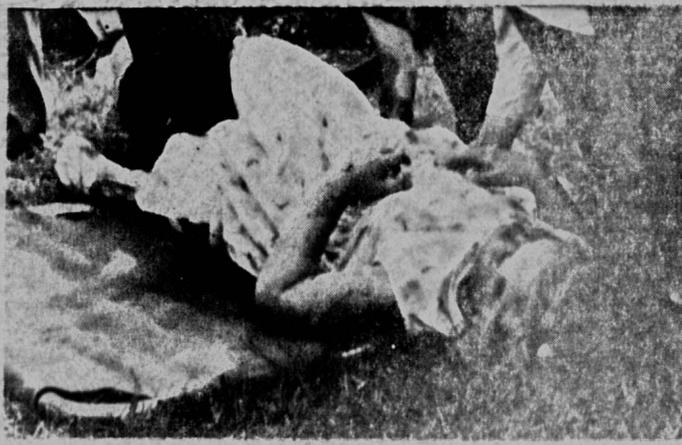

"Certainly we should give the President his authority, if he feels it will be helpful to maintain the security of our country," Saltonstall said.

Russell told reporters his committee will take up the legislation "at the earliest possible date next week and, in my opinion, there is no question Congress will grant the President this authority."

Pierre Salinger, White House news secretary, told newsmen the President's decision to seek this new authority was discussed with Republican and Democratic leaders at a White House meeting Tuesday. The congressional leaders were called in then for a briefing on the latest intelligence reports concerning the situation in Cuba.

Tuesday evening, after the White House meeting, Kennedy issued a statement reporting that the Soviet Union had delivered to Cuba a number of anti-aircraft defense missiles, torpedo boats equipped with guided missiles, and some 3,500 military technicians.

But he added: "There is no evidence of any organized combat force in Cuba from any Soviet-bloc country; of military bases provided to Russia; of a violation of the 1934 treaty relating to Guantanamo; of the presence of offensive ground-to-ground missiles; or other significant capability either in Cuban hands or under Soviet direction and guidance."

Struck By Car

Susan Randall, a San Antonio, Tex., elementary school student, is given aid by passersby after she was struck by a car as she walked to school Friday. San Antonio Police Chief George Richel said patrolmen in unmarked cars will take to the streets in an effort to cut down on the city's traffic deaths, which he claims is headed for a new city record.

Senate Ok's Disputed Tax Deduction Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, by a 75-4 margin, passed a much-diluted version Friday of the controversial bill which would permit self-employed persons to set up tax-deductible private pension funds.

This legislation has been bouncing around Congress for a dozen years and has passed the House three times. But previously the Senate rejected it even after watering down the provisions to pacify stiff opposition from both the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations.

On passage only Sens. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill.) Albert Gore (D-Tenn.) Pat McNamara (D-Mich.) and Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) voted against the bill.

Many of the amendments the Senate tied to the House-approved measure are unacceptable to backers of the legislation. They are hoping these will be dropped or toned down in the Senate-House Conference Committee that will work over the bill.

However, there is no assurance President Kennedy will find any version of the legislation acceptable. Some backers claim they have the strength to override any veto, provided Congress can finish the bill far enough ahead of adjournment.

The measure has drawn heavy support from doctors, lawyers and other professional men, along with many independent businessmen. Sponsors said it would help seven million self-employed and 11 million of their employees.

As passed by the Senate, the bill would permit a self-employed person to put up to 10 per cent of his income into the plan up to a maximum of $2,500. But under an amendment by Sens. Russell B. Long (D-La.) and Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn.) only half of this contribution could be taken as a tax deduction. The House version had the same ceiling but would have permitted 100 per cent deduction.

Long said his and McCarthy's amendment would prevent a presidential veto. As the bill cleared the Senate it would cut income tax revenues an estimated $35 million a year.

These are the three other major amendments adopted by the Senate: • By McCarthy, to apply to owners of manager pension plans the same limits on deduction included in the bill for the self-employed.

• By Gore, to end the capital gains tax treatment allowed to beneficiaries of corporation pension plans who take lump sum payment when they retire. Instead normal income tax rates would apply but averaged over a five-year period.

• By Gore, to place a limit of 10 per cent of an employee's salary, up to $5,000 ceiling, on a company's annual contribution to a pension plan for an executive, with a lifetime $250,000 limit.

• By McCarthy, to apply to owners of manager pension plans the same limits on deduction included in the bill for the self-employed.

Integrated School Fired on at Dawn

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Shots crashed through the glass front door of one of the New Orleans Archdiocese's newly desegregated schools about dawn Friday. For the most part, however, the scene was quiet.

Bomb threats, pickets and crowds of jeering and booing white people continued as this Deep South city neared the end of the first week of its biggest school desegregation — a total of about 300 Negroes in 20 public schools and 36 parochial schools.

But the crowds were dwindling in size and energy from Thursday. Attendance was up at all but two of the desegregated public schools. No figures were available on the parochial schools.

One parochial school closed unexpectedly — the Our Lady of Good Harbor at Buras, where five Negroes enrolled on opening day last week and haven't been back since. The parish priest, the Rev. Christopher Schneider, said simply: "Nobody showed up." He declined further comment.

The shooting occurred at the St. Rosalie Elementary School in the Harvey community across the Mississippi River from New Orleans.

Nobody was reported hurt and the school opened as usual a few hours later with a piece of cardboard over the door.

"We don't know how many shots were fired and we don't know who fired them," said a spokesman for the archdiocese.

The rash of false bomb threats continued, forcing the temporary evacuation of a Negro public school, McDonogh 19, and a Roman Catholic church. In both cases, authorities checked the buildings and okayed them for use.

A crowd of 150 to 200 white parents gathered at the St. Raphael Catholic School, where several white parents withdrew their children when a Negro girl enrolled Thursday.

Three of them carried signs. One read: "If segregation was not sinful in 1954, why is it now?"

At Westwego, outside New Orleans and also across the river, the crowd numbered about 50 at the opening of Our Lady of Prompt Succor Catholic School — about half the size of Thursday's crowd — and fell off to about 25 later.

A small but active crowd stood around the Thomas J. Semmes Public School, another one where a number of white parents withdrew their children when Negroes appeared.

The crowd, numbering only about 50 compared with 200 Thursday, booed when eight Negroes entered, and shouted "traitor" and "nigger lover" when white parents took their children in.

One white woman withdrew two children after the school opened. But a man returned the daughter he had withdrawn from the school Thursday.

"You can't do anything about this damned thing," he said. "You can't win."

French Police Find De Gaulle Assailants

PARIS (AP) — A Foreign Legion deserter and four accomplices in a commando killer squad that missed assassinating President Charles de Gaulle by inches last month have been caught, the Government announced Friday. But six members of the band still are at large.

Interior Minister Roger Frey, announcing the arrests, said the gang received its orders from other plotters outside France. He did not identify the plotters or the country.

Frey said two earlier attempts had been set up to kill the 71-year-old President before the Aug. 22 ambush in suburban Petitclaire.

Police checked the identities of nearly a million persons before making the five arrests. The interior minister named as leader of the gang Alain Bougrenet de la Tocnaye, a former lieutenant in the 1st Foreign Legion Paratroop Regiment which supported the April 1961, generals' putsch in Algeria.

Frey said that if the ambush of the De Gaulle motorcade driving from downtown Paris to Villacoublay airport had succeeded it would have resulted in a "butchery" of all the persons in the president's car. Riding with De Gaulle were his wife and their son-in-law, Col. Alain de Boissieu.

Frey said the intention of the eight gunmen at the scene was to halt De Gaulle's speeding car with a barrage of machine gun fire from a parked light truck. The slugs pierced the body of the car but bounced off puncture-proof tires. The chauffeur sped on to the airport.

If the car had been halted, the intention of the gang was to close in and fire until their ammunition was exhausted. Then grenades and a plastic bomb with a 17-second fuse were to be hurled at the dead.

Frey said the assassins at first intended to kill De Gaulle during a military parade on the Avenue des Champs Elysees on July 14, the French national holiday. This attempt was called off, he said, apparently because of the heavy security precautions.

Communist-bloc specialists are building camouflaged guided missile bases in Cuba with a striking range up to 400 miles, said the report. More than 10,000 foreign troops have landed, the information added.

Reported landings and activities were detailed in a 20-page booklet signed by chiefs in exile of the People's Revolutionary Movement, National Recovery Movement, Christian Democrat Movement, and Revolutionary Unity.

The report said that when the landings are completed, the men will be distributed to form a western army of Chinese, a central army of Russians, Hungarians and Czechs, and an Isle of Pines force of Africans.

The information added: "Large missile bases will be finished in 60 days."

"Cuba will then join the Warsaw Pact under agreements signed by Armed Forces Minister Raul Castro on his last trip to the Soviet Union."

The underground groups echoed Thursday's charge by the Cuban Revolutionary Council that the military buildup violated the Monroe Doctrine and inter-American treaties.

Soblen Still Sleeps — Condition Serious

LONDON (AP) — Dr. Robert Soblen remained in his drug-induced coma early Saturday. Doctors kept a round-the-clock check on symptoms of heart exhaustion.

There was no sign Soblen was responding to the treatment administered since he lapsed into the coma on his way to London Airport Thursday morning.

Soblen's wife Dina, like him a New York psychiatrist, flew in from New York and was permitted to spend a few hours in his Hillington Hospital bedroom.

Two medical bulletins summarized the condition of the 61-year-old spy. At 10:20 a.m., the hospital announced that Soblen "remains unconscious. His heart is showing signs of exhaustion. His condition gives rise to anxiety."

Six hours later came the announcement that Soblen's "condition is unchanged. He is still unconscious."

Mrs. Soblen personally put up $40,000 and borrowed $60,000 to make up the $100,000 bail Soblen forfeited when he fled the United States June 25. A member of Soblen's London legal team said she had to get money from friends for the plane fare.

'No Progress' at Arms Ban Meet

GENEVA (AP) — The 17-nation disarmament conference adopted a "no progress" report to the U.N. General Assembly today and then recessed until Nov. 12. The United States and the Soviet Union are deadlocked on disarmament and a nuclear test ban.

The two powers vowed to press their clashing proposals when discussion of these issues is taken up by the assembly which convenes Sept. 18.

The chief U.S. delegate, Arthur H. Dean, and the Soviet deputy foreign minister, Vasily V. Kuznetsov, devoted their final speeches before the six-month-old conference to assailing each other's positions.

Dean urged the Soviet Union to reconsider its rejection to compulsory on-site inspections, one major issue which has caused the long deadlock.

Steel Executives To Face Senate Judiciary Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee on Friday gave executives of four steel companies a chance to appear before it and explain why they feel they should not be cited for contempt of Congress.

The committee's Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee voted such a citation last Friday when the steel men refused to honor subpoenas calling on them to produce manufacturing cost data.

But instead of voting on the subcommittee's request for approval of the citation, the parent committee in closed session Friday decided to hear the company executives in public next Wednesday.

The steel executives already had requested such a hearing in a letter to the committee chairman, Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.). The companies involved are Bethlehem, Republic, National and Armco.

Their refusal to produce the requested records is based on a claim that if the data became public or otherwise reaches their domestic and foreign competitors, they would be seriously damaged in a business way. They argue additionally that no legitimate legislative purpose would be served by making the records available.

Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn.), chairman of the subcommittee, insists, however, that the fears of disclosure are unfounded.

He says the plan is to have the figures submitted directly to the General Accounting Office where they would be analyzed in groups of three and averaged out with the companies identified only by letters. Kefauver claims not even the subcommittee members will know the figures for any individual company.

The protesting companies claim these safeguards are inadequate because cost accountants could break down the data made public and get company figures.

Eight other steel producers, including U.S. Steel, have agreed, under protest, to produce the requested records. But Kefauver has withheld collection of any of the data pending settlement of the dispute with the recalcitrant four.

The subcommittee's efforts to obtain the cost data began back in April shortly after U.S. Steel announced a $6-a-ton price increase. U.S. Steel's lead was promptly followed by most other producers but some held out and the increase later was rescinded under pressure from President Kennedy.

The subcommittee announced goal was to determine whether monopoly practices are followed in steel industry where prices charged by all companies tend to be uniform and U.S. Steel usually sets the pricing pattern.

Reported landings and activities were detailed in a 20-page booklet signed by chiefs in exile of the People's Revolutionary Movement, National Recovery Movement, Christian Democrat Movement, and Revolutionary Unity.

The report said that when the landings are completed, the men will be distributed to form a western army of Chinese, a central army of Russians, Hungarians and Czechs, and an Isle of Pines force of Africans.

Red Troops Build Up In Cuba

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Intelligence reports released by four major Cuban underground organizations Friday painted a picture of Cuba's being converted into a military fortress, and said Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Government will join the Warsaw Treaty powers in two months.

Communist-bloc specialists are building camouflaged guided missile bases in Cuba with a striking range up to 400 miles, said the report.

More than 10,000 foreign troops have landed, the information added.

Mediator Reports No Progress in Rail Strike Meet

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal mediator held separate meetings again Friday with management and union representatives in an effort to end the 8-day-old strike against the Chicago and North Western Railway.

Mediator Francis A. O'Neill Jr. reported "no progress" after meeting with representatives of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers and negotiators for the railway.

Many Factors To Weigh In A Cuban Decision

Most Americans have thought the Cuban problem through.

There is reason for this. The President, who has thought the problem through, cannot talk about it in public with full candor. He cannot lay all the American bargaining problems with the Soviet Union on the table.

But the civilians can. The following is a brief review of the essentials.

To state a gross but useful oversimplification:

Fundamentally, American policy on Berlin is established.

Fundamentally, American policy on Cuba is not.

The issue at Berlin is whether Communist power can break out of the East-West line — the military and political circle which holds it in place.

The issue in Cuba is whether the Communists can leapfrog over that circle, and establish their power in the vast unguarded territories behind the East-West line. They have often tried this kind of deep penetration. Up to now they have never, for long, succeeded.

These are two different — though related — issues.

In the case of Berlin, there has never been any serious doubt as to where the West stood. Some people would act to stop creeping aggression at an early point, some later. But the West stands strongly agreed on the fundamental that, if the Communists cut Western access to Berlin and the right to keep West Berlin free and economically alive, the West will fight.

If the Russians make a military base out of Cuba, on the other hand, it is not decided on what to do. Or if they stop short of creating a Soviet base and continue to build up Cuba as an ally, as the United States has armed Pakistan, there is still no decision on what to do with Cuba itself. The only firm decision is to prevent the use of Cuban force elsewhere in Latin America.

So American public opinion is understandably on edge. Serious minded people of all viewpoints are gravely concerned, some in a state of incipient alarm.

There are several conflicting concerns which the United States must resolve.

It must consider the threat to its own immediate security. How damaging is a nearby base?

It must consider Latin America. Would an American invasion of Cuba deliver significant, angry Latin-American forces in to the hands of Castroism? Could the United States then invade those countries?

It must consider American bases and military missions overseas. They ring the Communist perimeter. If the United States invades Cuba, will the Soviet Union invade a nearby country containing a United States base or mission? What will the United States do then?

It must consider world opinion as well as Latin American. The peoples once colonized by Europe have a deep and undiscriminating distrust of Western military action against small countries like Cuba. The Communists play skillfully on this.

To return to fundamentals: the West cannot merely balance one Communist action against one Western action. These may seem alike to the unwary but they are not alike. All actions beyond the Communist perimeter are aggressive actions. Those of the West are the defense of the Western world. This fact must be made more persuasively.

There are reasons of poise in making this fact known and there is still time. One success in deep penetration is no reason for panic: It is greatly overbalanced by a succession of Red failures in Egypt, India, Indonesia, Malaya, Ghana, South Viet Nam, etc.

But the Cuban success remains a peculiarly awkward one. The United States now faces a kind of thin-Red line in Cuba, the uniforms of the Soviet Union itself, comparable to its own thin khaki line in Europe.

The special nature of this new type of threat, an armed satellite deep inside the free world, needs to be analyzed although it has not yet developed very far in the military direction.

'Keep A Close Watch On Those Men Over There — They're After Your Money'

Imbalance Of Congressional Committees Deserves Inquiry

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — The Republican crusade to correct the intolerable and crippling imbalance in the professional staffing of the Congressional committees is taking on new force and drive. It is at last being taken into the hands of high-level and influential party leaders and is now being pressed in a manner which, in the end, cannot be denied.

Sen. Hugh Scott, himself a former chairman of the Republican National Committee and the most powerful Republican leader in Pennsylvania, and Rep. Thomas Curtis of Missouri, who has been stirring up opinion on this issue almost single-handedly for a long time, are creating an ad hoc committee of three Senators and three Congressmen to make this crucial reform a national crusade and to enlist the active support of party leaders and independents in every state.

They merit this support. When the facts are widely known, I think they will get it.

THE FACTS are not in dispute. There are eight joint Senate-House committees. They are served by a total professional staff of 72 persons, 70 of whom are controlled by and responsible to the Republicans. The imbalance is 35 to 1.

The comparable professional staff of the 22 House committees is 461 responsible to the Democrats, 42 to the Republicans. The imbalance is 11 to 1. The Senate Democrats have a professional staff of 462 on 16 committees, the Republicans, 39. The imbalance is 12 to 1.

These are the facts which justify Sen. Scott in saying to his Democratic colleagues in Congress — and to the voters across the country — that "the majority party is not playing by the rules of the game, and if the American people knew the full facts of the story, their sense of justice and fair play would cry out against the shame of a loaded legislative procedure."

That's strong language, accusing the Democratic leadership of "loading" the legislative dice against the minority party. It is a valid complaint. It is a truthful complaint. It will stand as a fair and factual charge until the Democratic party puts an end to the egregious imbalance in the professional staffing of the Congressional committees.

I AM CONVINCED that unless the Democratic leadership corrects this injustice before Congress adjourns next month — or gives assurance that it will do so next January — the Republican party has in its grasp an effective Congressional campaign issue. If the Republicans find it necessary to make this an issue at the polls this fall — and I find it hard to believe that the Democratic Congressional leaders will make the mistake of leaving their party exposed to this issue — here are the questions which they can properly put to the voters:

Do you wish to endorse a ratio of 12 to 1 between the majority and minority staffs in Congress?

Do you approve of a system that places virtually complete control of the Congressional committee staffs under the majority chairman — with the majority chairman free to hire and fire at will, set salaries, and determine tenure?

Do you wish to condone the limitations placed upon the minority in terms of inadequate office space, very limited travel, telephone calls, secretarial services, and other essentials of the mechanics of an adequate staff work?

THE REAL ISSUE here is not the welfare per se of any particular minority party, whether Republican or Democratic, but the preservation of the two-party system of government and the effective functioning of Congress itself.

Tipping — A Needless Bribe

By BARNETT D. LASCHEVER Herald Tribune News Service

I'M FED UP with tipping. At hotels and resorts the outstretched hand, beckoning for a coin, is shoved relentlessly into your face at every move. It's an odious practice that puts demands on both the giver and the receiver.

Confined perhaps to the dining room, it might be acceptable, but even then I ask, "Why should it be necessary to bribe a waiter to perform his job?"

The custom started, strangely enough, in the barber shop during the days when the barber performed the bleeding operation. Since there was no set fee, the patient tipped the barber whatever he felt it was worth.

The practice since has become universal, with some notable exceptions. And while the tip is almost always with us, it doesn't necessarily always insure promptness. No matter, the hapless traveler, intimidated by the obvious superiority of the waiter, still dutifully digs into his pocket and pays, even when the service is abominable.

THAT'S NOT ALL: tipping is a sneaky camouflage. It kides the customer into thinking he's getting something for nothing. Parking is free at many resort hotels, but every time you want your car, it's two bits to the lad who fetches it for you — or you'll find yourself waiting.

There is no charge for day camps at mountain resorts, but camp directors have printed up helpful memos to parents with lists of "suggested" tips to the counselor, the waiter, the bus boy and even to the director himself.

Huge signs hang from the girders in the pier sheds along the Hudson River proclaiming that porter service is free, but the longshoreman who takes your bags out of the car carries them three feet to a conveyor belt, always announces: "Well, I don't be seeing you anymore, do you want to take care of me now?" There are intrepid souls who have put their full confidence in the signs — and lost their baggage 'twixt pier and ship.

At a big resort hotel we recently found tucked to the door another helpful list of tipping recommendations:

TIPS WERE suggested for the following: bell boy, dining room waiter, bus boy, dining room captain, dining room head waiter, maitre d', chambermaid, bar waiter, sports activities attendants, night club headwaiter, superintendent of service, car attendants, and health room attendants.

A full day of tipping eats up a tidy sum.

This army of people is employed by the hotel. As in any other business, why doesn't the employer pay their salaries and end tipping?

If no tips were received hotel and restaurant workers would not make a living wage in these days.

The alternatives: pay higher wages, or as in Europe discourage tipping and instead add a 10 or 15 per cent service charge to bills.

THIS PRACTICE was started ostensibly to eliminate tipping. How has it worked?

With Europeans very well. But Americans, creatures of bad habits, have refused redemption. Even now they insist on tipping, in addition to the service charge.

Some American hotel owners are thinking seriously of abolishing tipping and adopting the European system of adding a service charge.

We'd like to see them abolish tips, forget service charges, and instead pay higher salaries and then charge realistically higher rates.

Or So They Say

The Iowa law requires all motorists to stop when meeting or overtaking school buses loading or unloading children.

As we start another academic year, we say to the youngsters "learn how to study." And we say to the teachers, "Make them study."

It's much easier to talk to a garage mechanic about your car's brakes than it is to plea with a traffic cop.

No Festival Safe From Festival Goers

By JOHN CROSBY

CHURRIANA, Spain — Here we are at the end of another European summer and what trophies have I to show? Not one. Not one! Did I go to Spoleto to see the unveiling of Tennessee Williams' new play (he's looking for God now after all those years of exploring the other extreme). No, I wasn't. Was I at Edinburgh for the bagpipes or the mountaintops of Chiriuella-for-the-ballet? No, I wasn't. Was I in Greece for the Aristophanes or in the valley of the Loire for the historical recreation of the ancient castles? No, and again no.

You'd think I would say to myself, "Eight-toned thralls played on the six-stringed lute was good enough for the thirteenth century, why isn't it good enough for you?"

This, after I didn't show up at the festival at Cligias deep in the Pyrenees. (Three day's hard travel on muleback because the trail is not big enough for cars.) The caves (you can't really appreciate a thrall except in a cave) were murderously uncomfortable, but the thralls, according to Hindeman (and who would know better than Hindeman?) were more piercingly sounded (you don't play a thrall, you sound it) than at any time since Charlemagne. That's because the caves have achieved just the right degree of wetness, which adds resonance to the six-stringed lute and brings out the pitch. The caves won't get that wet again until the twenty-sixth century. (Hindeman says they won't get that wet again until the twenty-seventh century. But Hindeman has been wrong before.)

Well, I wasn't there. It's not that I don't like thralls. It's not that I don't like the six-stringed lute. It's not even that I don't like the thirteenth century. I like the thirteenth century well enough. I don't love it, but I like it.

IT'S JUST — well, I had other things to do that week. And anyway, that's a long way to go for a thrall. That's what marks me off from your true festival nut — er — enthusiast. The distance doesn't matter. In fact, the distance, the expense, the trouble, and the discomfort add just that touch of charisma that really turns him on. If he comes from California first class, if the whole thing costs him a year's pay, lands him in bed for a week with pneumonia, and maybe loses him a wife — well, that's 26 points, grand slam, and rubber.

One night Ken Tynan and I sat around trying to invent a festival which would be so thoroughly repellent that no one — not a single soul — would come. Believe me, this is not easy. Some idiot is going to show up — no matter what you put in the caves. (Or the mountaintops or the ruined abbey or the medieval village.)

"Try this on for size," I suggested at one point, "a festival of eleventh century love poems recited in the original Gaelic by Sir Osbert and Edith Sitwell. That should keep people away by the millions. We could stage it in a monastery in Galicia — if there is such a place. There must be a Galicia, mustn't there?"

Tynan shook his head gloomily: "It won't do. The Sitwells would come by the thousands — from Asia, from Africa, from Park Avenue. They'd even find Galicia. No, it won't do. How about a production of 'Tamarlane' in modern dress with Helen Hayes and Charlton Heston? We'd stage it in the old Druid ruins in Ireland. It gets about three degrees above zero on a warm summer night there and it rains incessantly."

I WAS FORCED to tell him about the Helen Hayes mob. "They'd swim the Atlantic to see Helen Hayes play 'Peter Pan' in Hindustani. No, it won't wash. Let's kick this around: Gregorian chants with Fabian. Fabian would scare the Gregorian chant crowd out of its wits and the Fabian mob would be bored dizzy by the Gregorian chants. And to make it magnificently repulsive, we'd stage it in a mountain village in Albania I know of where the bedbugs are the biggest in Europe and the food is awful beyond description."

But it was no good. You know and I know they'd pour in by the thousands. Hindeman would be there, covering for the Hipster's Review and writing things like: "The superbly articulated dissonances of Fabian gave these ancient chants a simplisticism they have always cried out for. This ancient village, which survived Attila the Hun, may not outlive the enthusiasm of the festival audience which tore down the local Doric temple and made Fabian autograph it, stone by stone." And little Vassar girls would be writing home to their mommies: "And the local inn has the most marvelous stew — tarantulas cooked in deep fat and smothered in paprika."

600 Iowans Out of Work By Packing Plants Layoffs

CORNING (AP) — Rising retail meat prices and layoffs of workers at some packing plants were reported Friday after a week of a National Farmers Organization drive to hold livestock from market.

Retail chain stores headquartered in Chicago and St. Louis, major packers and the U.S. Department of Agriculture said retail meat prices may be higher next week, reflecting boosts in wholesale prices. The increases may run as much as 10 to 15 cents a pound for certain cuts.

Herbert Wiggs, manager of the Swift & Co. plant at Kansas City, said meat prices are rising with boosts of four cents a pound on choice beef and eight cents a pound on pork loins the past week at a time when retail prices normally decline.

A Louisville, Ky., supermarket chain has raised some beef prices five cents a pound. Another chain said that prices will go up five to 10 cents on beef and pork Monday because of short supplies of livestock going to market.

Opinions vary as to how much of the increase can be attributed to the NFO action, although it undoubtedly has been a factor in curtailing the supply of slaughter animals at the market.

Meanwhile, there were recurrent reports of violence by NFO members in Iowa and Missouri. They were denied by NFO President Oren Lee Staley.

Wilson & Co. reported it was laying off 18 hog slaughter employees at its Omaha plant and unspecified numbers of employees at Cedar Rapids and Minneapolis because of the drop in hog receipts.

Armour & Co. said it was reducing its force by 175 at Kansas City and by 200 at Jacob Decker & Sons, its subsidiary at Mason City. Other cutbacks were ordered by the Oscar Mayer Packing Co. at Madison, Wis., and Davenport; Rath Packing Co., Waterloo; John Morrell & Co., Ottumwa; and Dubuque Packing Co. More than 600 employees are affected in Iowa.

W. R. Miller, Armour general manager in Kansas City, blamed the cutback on "lower livestock receipts brought about by the NFO withholding action and other economic factors."

A Wilson spokesman in Cedar Rapids said the reduction in its hog slaughter operation came at a time when it normally would be increasing employment.

In Chicago, the U.S. Agriculture Department office reported receipts of cattle, hogs, sheep and lambs have lagged far behind receipts for the corresponding Labor Day week last year at 12 major markets.

It said figures for the week showed 177,000 hogs compared with 259,000 a year ago; 173,000 cattle compared with 202,000 last year; and 82,000 sheep and lambs compared with 103,000 a year ago.

The NFO in its holding action seeks to force processors to sign contracts agreeing to higher prices. The NFO would act as a marketing agent and would take a commission from both the processors and farmers who belong. The organization says it has members in 16 states but declines to reveal its membership figures.

Effectiveness of the holding action appears to be spotty, but its main effect is in the states where the most livestock is fattened for market — Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Indiana, Missouri and Nebraska.

In Denver, the Union Stockyards said the NFO action has had virtually no effect on cattle marketing. The Detroit market said the effects of the action won't be felt until next week.

In Minnesota, however, John Engels, an NFO organizer, said hog marketings in 15 southern Minnesota and northern Iowa counties were down from about 7,775 a day a year ago to 1,600 a day.

Interior Iowa hog market receipts for the Labor Day week came to 130,000, compared with 248,000 for the corresponding week last year.

Milwaukee receipts for the week, compared to a year ago, were down 10 per cent on cattle, 21 per cent on calves, 65 per cent on hogs and 80 per cent on sheep.

The holding action apparently is most effective at small county markets in Indiana and Iowa, reducing the total supply despite good runs at the larger markets. Receipts for the week also were down in Kentucky, but spokesmen said the drop couldn't be attributed entirely to the NFO action.

There was some evidence that the holding action was hurting trucking firms which specialize in farm-to-market hauling. One such firm in Mason City said its business this week had been half of normal, and the worst since 1946.

In Johnson County, where a Lane Tree farm woman reported Thursday that NFO members intimidated her and her husband after he trucked 21 head of cattle to market, Sheriff A. J. Murphy said after investigation that "there wasn't anything to the incident." He said he has received no other reports of trouble and believes "the NFO has broken no laws in Johnson County."

Visit U.S. Medical Centers — 7 Congo Students Tour SUI

Seven medical students from Lovanium University, near Leopoldville, Congo, today completed a week-long visit of the Medical Center at SUI.

The Congolese came to SUI Tuesday as part of an eight-week tour of U.S. medical facilities. The tour is sponsored by the Agency for International Development and the U.S. Public Health Service.

W. W. Morris, associate dean of student affairs in the SUI College of Medicine, accompanied the Congolese students through most of their visit in Iowa City. He said the medical students were "terribly curious and asked many questions, good questions."

"We hope they will go back to the Congo with not only a better idea of health care and health education in this country, but also with the idea that they will most likely be future health leaders in the Congo and will have to implement health practices there," said Dr. Morris.

The seven students represent approximately a third of the medical students at Lovanium, where in 1958 there were 22 students enrolled in medicine and the first medical diplomas were awarded in July, 1961.

Dr. Morris said the main reason for the group coming to SUI was to give them an idea of how a large medical center functions, and also to acquaint them with the Midwestern area and agriculture surroundings. The Congo is essentially rural and agricultural.

"As future leaders in their country, it is important that they go home with a better idea of how others do things, and that they use some of the knowledge gained here in setting up the Congo's program of health," Dr. Morris added.

Many departments in the College of Medicine were visited, including a day in the Department of Hygiene and Preventive Medicine, a field which is of great importance in the Congo today.

Other points on the eight-week tour include federal and state health institutions in Washington, D.C., Baltimore and Annapolis, Md., Springfield, Ill., Chicago, Buffalo, N.Y., and New York City.

Lovanium University is a private institution subsidized by the public authorities, situated on a 550-acre campus at Kimuenza, seven miles outside Leopoldville. To be admitted to the Faculty of Medicine, students must hold a certificate of completion of secondary education in this country, but also studies (Greek and Latin, Latin and Mathematics, or Latin and Science) or a diploma from a local secondary school, supplemented by a year of pre-university studies.

Medical studies last for seven years and lead to the degree of Doctor of Medicine, Surgery and Obstetrics. In addition to the medical education program at Lovanium, the university has assumed responsibility for public health activities in two nearby villages (Ndjili and Matete), which have a combined population of 14,000.

Although fluent in French, the Congolese students have a limited knowledge of English and so were provided with interpreters by the U.S. Government.

Erbe Says Railway Locks Out Workers

DES MOINES (AP) — The Minneapolis and St. Louis Railway was accused by Gov. Norman Erbe Friday of locking out employees, and the State Commerce Commission asked for an explanation on the discontinuance of service.

The M&St. L., owned by Chicago and North Western Railway, was shut down after telegraphers struck the North Western Aug. 30.

Erbe sent a telegram to President Kennedy Friday saying "the lockout action by the Minneapolis and St. Louis Railway is bringing undue economic distress to the communities it serves."

"Would appreciate your efforts in halting this action," Erbe said industries and farm product dealers have complained that the interruption of service by the railroads is causing problems in shipping. Thursday he had sent President Kennedy a telegram in which he said the strike against the North Western is causing problems in Iowa and the Midwest.

The Commerce Commission said in a letter to the North Western that it has received numerous reports that employees of the M&St. L. are ready and willing to resume their jobs, and that it is possible to restore service to the division. The commission asked Ben W. Heineman, chairman of the North Western at Chicago, to report in writing whether M&St. L. employees are on strike, whether pickets are interfering with the division's operations, and the economic feasibility of operating the division.

Employees of the M&St. L. have separate contracts and are not involved in the telegraphers strike against the North Western. Spokesmen for employees of the M&St. L. have complained that they were locked out when the North Western closed down the division.

Marshall Wins Committee OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thurgood Marshall, Negro whom President Kennedy nominated nearly a year ago to be a federal appellate judge, finally won approval Friday of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

But the battle against confirmation of the former chief counsel of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People is expected to be carried to the Senate floor when the nomination is brought up there.

The committee vote recommending confirmation was 11 to 4. Those opposed were Democratic Sens. James O. Eastland of Mississippi, Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina, Sam J. Ervin Jr. of North Carolina and John L. McClellan of Arkansas.

Johnston was asked by newsmen if Southern foes of Marshall would filibuster against confirmation. The Carolina senator replied: "I don't know yet." He said that he and other Southerners had not discussed their plans.

Mass. Beads Made From Poison Beans

BOSTON (AP) — The Massachusetts commissioner of public health issued a warning Friday against what it said was peril from an extremely poisonous bean from Haiti, used for necklaces, clothing ornamentation and novelty adornments.

Dr. Alfred L. Frechette said the chewing of a single bean will be followed by violent sickness within hours and can result in death within 12 days. He said thousands of necklaces made from the poisonous beans have been sold in Massachusetts.

He described it as "the jequirity bean" and said it poses an especial threat to children because they frequently chew on necklaces and other ornaments. He said piercing of the hard shell of the bean for use in ornamentation permits easy ingestion of the poison inside.

While State Food and Drug Division inspectors believe they have removed most of such necklaces from stores, some may still be on sale.

The beans are said to resemble lady bugs in appearance and size. The ripe bean is small and black, but they generally are seen as rather small red beads with one black spot.

In Washington, a spokesman for the Food and Drug Administration said that agency plans to file warnings where ever the products containing the beans are found.

English Slimming Pill Blamed for Birth Deformities

WASHINGTON (AP) — A British medical magazine said Friday a drug used in slimming pills in that country may possibly be a culprit of unborn children. U.S. Food and Drug Administration officials said they have no such evidence.

The herbal drug, known as podophyllum, is used in some laxatives which are sold over the counter in this country and in Canada without a prescription. It is used in laxative and slimming tablets similarly sold over the counter in British drug stores.

The British medical magazine Lancet published a letter from Dr. J. E. Cullis of Dorset, England, saying a 24-year-old woman gave birth to a badly deformed baby after taking several slimming tablets containing podophyllum.

The magazine said podophyllum may affect the nerves somewhat as does the sleep-inducing drug thalidomide, which has been blamed for deformities in thousands of babies born in Europe.

A Food and Drug Administration spokesman said that agency has had no reports such as the one published in London. He said the agency is seeking more information, including a complete copy of the Lancet article.

The drug is made from the root of the podophyllum plant, which grows in the eastern United States and Canada, where it is known as American mandrake. It also grows in the Himalayas.

SUI Graduate Assigned To Marine Corps Band

Gordon Hallberg, an SUI graduate, enlisted today in the U.S. Marine Corps for assignment with the world-famous Marine Corps Band at Washington, D. C. He enlisted for four years and was appointed to the rank of Sergeant.

Hallberg, a trombonist, was selected after being auditioned by the Band's Director at Washington and found musically qualified.

He holds a B.A. in music from SUI and has been on the music teaching staff here. He was also a member of the Moline High School and the SUI bands.

Math Skills Dropped At SUI This Semester

The basic skills course in mathematics has been eliminated this fall from the SUI curriculum. The course was formerly offered to permit students who had insufficient high school mathematics to meet University requirements.

A decision to eliminate the mathematics skills course was made in 1958 by the College of Liberal Arts Faculty Council. High schools were alerted to allow them to change their mathematics curricula so that students could meet minimum college requirements.

Since then, enrollment in the course at SUI had steadily declined. William T. Reid, head of the Department of Mathematics, commented that nearly every student enrolling at SUI now meets the University requirement.

Students may meet these requirements by presenting at least two and one-half units of high school mathematics exclusive of such courses as business arithmetic and consumer mathematics.

They may also qualify by passing college placement tests in mathematics.

Should a student lack both of these, he may qualify by satisfactorily completing a college-level mathematics course such as intermediate algebra or college algebra.

Two other basic skills programs are still offered by SUI to permit students to meet University requirements. These programs are in rhetoric and physical education skills.

Farm Youth Killed In Hunting Accident

LINEVILLE (AP) — A farm youth was killed Friday in a hunting accident with a rifle.

Jerry Bush, 15, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bush, who farmed eight miles east of here, decided to go squirrel-hunting while his parents were away from home. He apparently tripped, the gun went off and the bullet struck him in the mouth.

Larkin Appointed Periodicals Editor

Ernest F. Larkin has been named Periodicals Editor at SUI beginning Sept. 10.

Larkin, a 1957 graduate of the SUI School of Journalism, served as a member of the circulation department for Better Homes and Gardens in Des Moines and as a member of the advertising staff of The Oelwein Daily Register prior to returning to the University in 1961 to begin work on a Masters Degree in journalism.

The Iowa depth situation described as "critical" by Coach Jerry Burns at the beginning of fall drills, may have taken a turn for the worse Friday.

Laver Stays Hot in Drive For U.S. Title

FOREST HILLS, N. Y. — Rod Laver, the explosive Australian left-hander, continued his relentless drive toward a coveted grand slam Friday when he ground down Mexican Davis Cupper Antonio Palafox, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2 and led the way into the quarter-final round of the National Tennis Championships.

The top-seeded Laver already has won the Australian, French and British titles. The United States crown would make him the only other player in history besides Don Budge — who did it in 1938 — to score a grand slam.

Joining Laver in the quarter-finals were defending champion Roy Emerson, his Aussie Davis Cup teammate; Chuck McKinley of St. Ann, Mo., seeded No. 3, and America's top hope; Rafael Osuna of Mexico, seeded No. 4; unknown Andy Lloyd, a 20-year-old collegian from Shreveport, La.; Hamilton Richardson of Dallas, a 29-year-old semi-retired Davis Cupper, and Gordon Forbes of South Africa.

Emerson took four sets before he managed to harness Sangster's booming service, but finally won out after 2½ hours 4-6, 6-3, 6-4, 9-11, 6-1. McKinley easily eliminated Jan Leschley of Denmark, 6-0, 6-3, 7-5. Osuna crushed Jaidip Mukerjee of India, 6-2, 6-2, 5-7, 6-4.

Lloyd, a member of the junior Davis Cup squad, turned back Reino Nysssoenen of Finland, 9-7, 6-3, 6-4. Richardson wore down 39-year-old Vic Seixas of Villanova, Pa., 12-10, 7-5, 4-6, 6-1, and Forbes outlasted Billy Knight of England, 4-6, 3-7, 6-4, 11-9, 6-4.

The final match Friday between eighth-seeded Frank Froehling of Coral Gables, Fla., and Ron Holmberg of West Point, N. Y., was called because of darkness. Froehling was in front, two sets to one.

Yankees Rally to Win

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Yankees, scrambling after their 12th American League pennant in 14 years, stormed from behind with a three-run burst in the seventh inning Friday night and went on to beat the Boston Red Sox 5-4.

Boston's Gene Conley was working on a five-hitter, had a 3-2 lead and had retired 13 men in order before the Yanks put on a typical, decisive rally in the seventh.

Elston Howard led off with a single and scored ahead of Bill Skowron who cracked his 20th homer of the season.

Two outs later Tony Kubek hit his third homer of the season, giving the Yanks a 5-3 lead. It stood up against a Red Sox rally that produced one run against relief pitcher Bud Daley in the eighth.

Bill Stafford, New York's starter who worked seven innings before being lifted for a pinch hitter, was credited with his 13th victory in 21 decisions. Conley was charged with the loss.

Home runs — Boston, Runnels (10), New York, Howard (18), Skowron (20), Kubek (3).

PHILS NIP BRAVES, 4-3
MILWAUKEE — A home run by Roy Sievers in the 10th inning broke a deadlock and gave the Philadelphia Phillies a 4-3 victory over the Milwaukee Braves Friday night.

The victory went to reliever Jack Baldschun who now is 10-7. The loser was Claude Raymond (5-3).

Henry Aaron and Joe Adcock hit home runs for all the Braves' runs. Don Demeter also got a homer for the Phillies.

Philadelphia 010 000 101 1—4 7 1
Milwaukee 000 100 200—3 4 1
Sievers (1), Baldschun (9) and Darymple; Shaw, Raymond (9) and Uecker. W—Baldschun (10-7). L—Raymond (5-4).
Home runs — Philadelphia, Demeter (26), Sievers (19), Milwaukee, H. Aaron (37), Adcock (26).

INDIANS TRIP A'S 2-1
CLEVELAND — Cleveland's Pete Ramos pitched a two-hitter and beat the Kansas City Athletics, 2-1, Friday night. The Indians scored both their runs in the bottom of the ninth.

The A's had scored an unearned run in the top of the ninth. John Wyatt came in for loser Orlando Pena, who permitted only six hits but had allowed the Indians to fill the bases in the ninth. His first pitch was hit for a game-tying single by Bubba Phillips. Wyatt then walked Jerry Kindall.

Pena, Wyatt (9) and Sullivan; Ramos and Edwards. W—Ramos (8-11). L—Pena (3-3).

When asked if No. 3 end Jim Winston had achieved the 90 per cent efficiency that has been desired since the beginning of drills, Burns commented:

"I'm hopeful that Winston will be ready for the first game, but he isn't ready yet." Winston was sidelined most of last season with a broken leg.

He added that he was pleased with the play of the linebackers during the drill and said, in light of the center situation, that Dave Recher still holds the No. 1 position.

During the morning workout, the team ran through another punt return pattern receiving the kicks from Matt Szykowny, Lonnie Rogers and Warren Renader.

The Hawks will clash in a full scale scrimmage session today.

CRAZY CATCH

DEAL, England (AP) — An 11-year-old girl caught a fish with her bare hands Friday while 18 fishermen watched in envious amazement.

Anne Pointing went wading near where the anglers were casting, saw a fish, stooped down, picked it up and lugged it ashore. It was a cod weighing 11 pounds, 5 ounces.

P.S. — The fishermen caught nothing.

Twins Win on Rare Play

Angels Keep Pace with Yanks By Edging Orioles in 10th

BALTIMORE (AP) — The third-place Los Angeles Angels, struggling to stay in the American League pennant race, scored twice in the 10th inning Friday night and hung on for a 5-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

The tense squeaker left the Angels 4½ games behind the league-leading New York Yankees, who defeated Boston 5-4.

The Orioles, who whipped the Yankees five in a row two weeks ago to make a contest of the pennant chase, scored one run in the 10th and had the potential tying run on first base with none out.

Los Angeles Manager Bill Rigney, sidelined with an ulcer recently, didn't do his condition any good as he rushed three pitchers into the contest in the final inning.

A double by Russ Snyder and a single by Brooks Robinson, his fourth hit of the game, chased relief specialist Dan Osinski who was making his seventh appearance in the last nine games.

Ted Bowsfield then came on to DETROIT (AP) — The Minnesota Twins, surging ahead with a run on an obstruction play, continued their mastery of the Detroit Tigers 6-4 Friday night and remained in the thick of the pennant race.

The second-place Twins' 11th victory in 13 games with the Tigers enabled them to stay three games behind the New York Yankees, who edged Boston 5-4.

Minnesota also retained its 1½ game margin over the third-place Los Angeles Angels, 5-4 victors over Baltimore, in the close American League scramble.

The Twins wiped out a 4-3 Tiger lead with two runs in the sixth on Ric Rollins' single and the obstruction ruling by plate umpire Ed Runge.

Rollins drove in winning pitcher Jim Kaat with the tying run and sent Vic Power to second. Power advanced when Al Kaline's throw from right field skipped past third base to the edge of the Tiger dug-out.

Rounding third, Power collided with third baseman Steve Boros and was beaten to the plate by Phil Regan's throw with the retrieved ball. But Runge promptly ruled Boros had obstructed Power and allowed the go-ahead run.

Kaat and Batters; Regan, Kline (7) and Brown. W—Kaat (16-12). L—Regan (9-9).
Home runs — Detroit, Kaline (25), Fernandez (18).

Cyclones Work Behind Closed Doors Friday

AMES (AP) — Iowa State went behind closed gates Friday to practice defense for its opening game Sept. 15 against Drake.

Before the gates were locked, the Cyclones spent 40 minutes polishing up their offense.

Coach Clay Stapleton had the first and second units working on defense against offensive plays presented by the third and fourth teams.

COLTS TAG METS, 4-2

HOUSTON (AP) — Tight relief pitching by Jim Golden and Don McMahon gave the Houston Colts a 4-2 victory over the New York Mets Friday night.

Golden, who rescued Colt starter Hal Woodeshick with two on and one out in the 7th, was the winner. He is 6-11.

New York 000 101 000—2 4 1
Houston 000 011 20x—4 7 1
Jackson and Pignatano, Coleman (7); Woodeshick, Golden (7), McMahon (6) and Smith. W—Golden (6-11). L—Jackson (8-18).

Golf's Big 3 Set To Start World Series

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Jack Nicklaus, the young U.S. Open champion, has no intention of taking a back seat to either Arnold Palmer or Gary Player when the three champions tee off in the World Series of Golf today.

The 22-year-old former National Amateur champion warmed up for the 36-hole playoff, which has a top prize of $50,000, by firing a 4-under-par 66 over Firestone Country Club's 7,165-yard course despite two bogeys in the first three holes in Friday's final practice round.

The talented trio, joking their way around Thursday's practice round in which Palmer matched par 70 while Player had a 74 and Nicklaus a 76, played more seriously Friday.

Player, collecting four birdies in Friday's practice round, also came in with a 34-32-66, while Palmer had a 36-23-68. The course, charged up by heavy rains early in the week, was plush and is expected to remain so for the NBC-TV telecast today and Sunday.

2 Players Hurt In 7-2 Nat Win

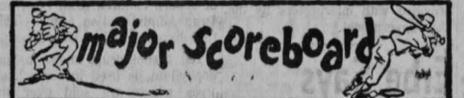

CHICAGO (AP) — The Washington Senators knocked out Eddie Fisher in the fourth inning and continued against Turk Lown to rout the Chicago White Sox 7-2 Friday night in a game in which both clubs lost the services of one player.

Harry Bright, Senators' first baseman, suffered a torn rib cartilage when he checked his swing at the plate in the third inning and had to retire from the game. Bob Sadowski, whose two-run homer accounted for the only Chicago runs, had to be carried from the field on a stretcher when he strained ligaments in his ankle sliding into second base in the eighth.

In the eleventh, Eddie Kasko had doubled in the deciding run in the eleventh inning Friday night giving Cincinnati a come-from-behind 6-5 victory over St. Louis.

The game had see-sawed into overtime after the Reds finally tied it in the ninth inning off starter Bob Gibson.

Gibson, Shantz (10), McDaniel (10), Simmons (11) and Oliver; Purkey, Brosnan (8), Klippstein (10), Sisler (11) and Edwards; Folles (10), W—Sisler (3-3). L—Simmons (8-9).
Home runs — St. Louis, Whitfield (8), Cincinnati, Robinson (34).
