Soviet Arms to Cuba Reported on Upswing

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials reported Thursday that between 65 and 75 Soviet ships have arrived at Cuban ports since late July with cargoes including military equipment and personnel.

The figures indicate an increase in the rate of Soviet deliveries to Cuba.

The total number of Soviet military personnel in Cuba is now put at 4,200. And authorities here reported establishment of 12 short-range surface-to-air missile sites in western Cuba, many on the northern coast opposite the United States.

Officials first said that the 65 to 75 Soviet ships all carried military equipment and personnel, but a few hours later told newsmen that possibly half the ships were carrying general cargoes, including food and industrial equipment.

The difference in the first and second accounts given to newsmen apparently was due to some misunderstanding of the information available to the official informants.

In addition to the dozen surface-to-air missile sites, the Soviet technicians have set up one missile site of a different type on Cuba's northeastern coast near the town of Banos. U.S. experts say it is similar to Soviet coastal defense installations, and is believed to be designed as a base for anti-shiping missiles with a range of 20 to 35 miles.

The Soviet Union is reported to have supplied Prime Minister Fidel Castro's air force with at least 60 MIG jet fighters of older types — MIG15s, 17s and 19s — and at least one very modern MIG21. Officials here believe that several more 21s are in process of assembly in Cuba.

The MIG21s generally carry heat-seeking, air-to-air missiles comparable to the U.S. Sidewinder.

The figure on the number of Soviet ships, 65 to 75, which have arrived in Cuba since July 26 is cumulative and overlaps previous official disclosures here of arms shipments to Cuba.

On Aug. 24, U.S. officials said, on the basis of available intelligence information, that eight Soviet vessels had delivered military cargo to Cuba between July 26 and Aug. 8. They estimated that, in the period July 26-Aug. 24, probably 20 Soviet-flag vessels had either arrived in Cuban ports or were en route.

These figures indicated that in the first month of the speedup of Soviet arms deliveries to Castro, so far as the United States could determine, about 20 shipments of arms were involved. The latest figures show that, according to information available to the Government, at least 45 additional shipments were delivered in the period Aug. 24-Sept. 20.

NFO Action Nears End Of 3rd Week

CORNING (AP) — A heavy run of hogs at Omaha Thursday kept receipts at Midwest markets at about the same level as a year ago, as the National Farmers Organization's holding action on livestock neared the end of its third week.

An estimated 10,000 hogs were at the Omaha market, compared to 6,000 on the same date a year ago. Despite the large supply, butcher hog and sow prices were steady to strong.

Kansas City, East St. Louis, Indianapolis, St. Joseph, Mo., and Sioux City, Iowa, reported declines in hog receipts, with Chicago and South St. Paul, Minn., reporting receipts the same as a year ago and Peoria, Ill., reporting an increase of about 500 head. The total at the markets Thursday was 47,200, compared to 46,700 a year ago.

Cattle receipts at the same nine markets declined, with an estimated 13,700 head Thursday compared to 17,700 head a year ago.

The NFO's harassment tactics at the John Morrell and Co. packing plant at Ottumwa, Iowa, were not resumed after pickup trucks Wednesday unloading of livestock there was delayed.

Two men were charged with malicious injury to a motor vehicle. Abraham W. Schippers, 44, of near Albia, and Donald M. Van Steemis, 20, of Ottumwa, pleaded innocent to the charges Thursday. Officers did not say whether the men were NFO members, but about 50 NFO members accompanied Schippers when he was arrested.

Officers said about 100 light trucks carrying only one or two animals lined up on the street leading to the Morrell plant and blocked the way for large livestock trucks entering the plant. About 200 NFO members and several hundred spectators were in the area, officers said.

Police reported that some street lights were broken out, a windshield on a vehicle was smashed, and roofing nails were scattered in the street.

While the NFO's attempt to get long-range contracts and higher prices from processors of livestock and grain continued, NFO President Oren Lee Staley announced here that meetings have been set in six cities to determine if dairy producers wish to join the holding action and keep milk off the market.

Iowa Regents O.K. Budget For Institutions

SUI Takes Biggest Cut from Amount Originally Sought

DES MOINES (AP) — The Iowa Board of Regents Thursday approved budget requests totaling $109,836,987 for general operation of its six institutions for the 1963-65 biennium.

The board also approved $17,096,500 in requests for capital improvements.

The total operational budget requests were $110,102,219. These include budgets of the institutions and the Regents' general office.

Approval of the budget requests represented a 32.7 per cent increase over total funds sought from the state legislature two years ago.

Final say on all appropriation requests is up to the legislature. The board approved the following operational budgets:

State University of Iowa — $56,958,570.

Iowa State University — $36,815,827.

State College of Iowa — $10,282,458.

Iowa Braille and Sight Saving School — $1,120,244.

Iowa School for the Deaf — $1,979,746.

State Sanatorium — $2,707,142.

The schools and institutions had originally requested $119,042,068. The board approved the total requests made by the institutions, but reduced the amount sought by the four other institutions.

SUI took the biggest cut, as slightly more than $5 million was whittled from its operating budget request of $62,076,581.

Slightly under $4 million was trimmed from Iowa State's request.

In capital improvements, the Regents approved a total of $7,110,000 for SUI. This includes proposed funds for general improvements, a classroom building, art and psychology building, a speech pathology center and air conditioning in part of the library. SUI had sought a total of $26,670,000.

Iowa State was granted a total of $6,275,000 for equipment, a plant science laboratory, a computer lab and transfer and development of a poultry farm. Iowa State had asked for $12,365,000.

Capital improvement funds approved for the State College, which had sought $2,870,000, came to $2,338,000 and included money for a science unit and remodeling of a library building.

The Sight Saving School was granted $131,000 for capital improvements. This figure included an estimated $42,000 for bowling alleys to be installed as recreational facilities. A $55,000 request to be used for tearing down a barn was turned down.

The Iowa School for the Deaf was granted $14,500. The sum does not include funds sought for renovation and improvement of the school's kitchen and bakery. The school had asked for $250,000 for this project.

A request for $128,000 by the State Sanatorium to build living quarters for personnel was approved. The Regents refused to allow $75,000 for a new green house.

Total requests for capital improvement funds were sliced by $3,802,700.

Council Postpones Sidewalk Action Until Next Week

The Iowa City City Council held a public hearing Thursday night on the proposed sidewalk project, and then deferred further action until 4 p.m. Monday to give public works director Lane Mashaw time to see if those objecting to the issue were property owners, who are the only ones legally able to oppose the action.

There were few objectors to most of the proposed additions.

The main dissent came from a group of property holders on Lexington Avenue and McQueen Street, who claimed the new sidewalks would create problems for both the city and themselves, due to the high banks and terraces adjoining the property.

However, the Rev. L. D. Sowers, the principal of Regina High School, presented a petition signed by the pastors of the four Iowa City Catholic Churches, urging the placement of sidewalks on Rochester Avenue, which is the main approach to the school.

The reasons cited by the petition were the lack of transportation and the fact that the street is also a state highway and connects with the recently completed Interstate 80.

Senate Serves Warning Against Soviets in Cuba

Says U.S. Will Fight To Halt Armed Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Thursday to serve clear notice on the Kremlin that the United States will fight to prevent Cuba from being turned into a military threat to any of its neighbors.

A resolution warning that any aggressive buildup "could have the gravest possible consequences" was adopted by a vote of 86-1 after a three-hour debate.

The lone negative vote was cast by Sen. Winston L. Prouty (R-Vt.) who said the resolution does not go far enough.

All of the 13 absent senators were announced officially as favoring the resolution.

The policy declaration was drafted by leaders of both political parties and is intended as an expression of U.S. determination and solidarity by Congress and President Kennedy.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee approved a companion resolution and leaders scheduled it for floor debate today. Some members were pressing for tougher language, however, and this may delay until next week its journey to the White House for Kennedy's signature.

Punctuating the congressional action was a report indicating a substantial increase in Soviet shipments to Cuba in the past month.

U.S. officials said that since late July the Soviets have delivered between 65 and 75 ships-loads to Cuban ports, divided perhaps about evenly between military equipment and personnel, and general cargoes consisting of food and industrial supplies.

The officials said the latest U.S. Government estimate of the number of Soviet personnel in Cuba is 4,200. They said the growing military buildup in Cuba is still regarded by the Kennedy Administration as defensive in nature, however, and presents no serious threat to this country.

Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper, Iowa, chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee, was among those supporting the resolution. He interpreted it as a declaration that "we are fed up with a lot of nonsense that could get beyond our control if we don't meet this challenge."

The action came as the Havana radio broadcast a pledge by Red China to support Cuba in its "fight against the aggression of North American imperialism."

The Communist Chinese note, Havana radio said, included a denunciation of "the Yankee preparations for an invasion of Cuba."

In its two key paragraphs the congressional resolution puts, the U.S. Government on record as being determined —

1. "To prevent by whatever means may be necessary, including the use of arms, the Marxist-Leninist regime in Cuba from extending by force or threat of force its aggressive or subversive activities to any part of this hemisphere.

2. "To prevent in Cuba the creation or use of an externally supported military capability endangering the security of the United States."

President Hancher Urges All To Develop Capacities

The following is the text of President Hancher's Induction Day Address given Thursday:

"This is Induction Day, 1962. It is a 'landmark' day — a day of separation — a day of new beginnings. You are leaving your childhood behind you. Henceforth you journey forward into adulthood. It is this University's task to help you on that journey.

"You begin your journey on an historic spot, 'Old Capitol,' the building which stands before you, was the last capitol of the Territory of Iowa and the first capitol of the state. In its historic halls, the Act was passed creating this University on February 25, 1847 — one hundred and fifteen years ago. Here this state first pledged its faith in higher learning. Here generations of students have been inducted into the life of learning. Here thousands of alumni have returned from all parts of the world to pledge their faith anew to the life of learning. Here for 42 consecutive years, entering students, like you, have paused on Induction Day to pledge their allegiance to this University and the ideals for which it stands.

"You are now members of a great university. As such you at once become the heirs of a thousand years of university life and traditions, beginning in Italy at Salerno in the tenth century and extending continuously to our own day. Remember, therefore, why you are here — that this is first and foremost an educational institution. You will not be required to spend 24 or even 16 hours a day in the Library or the laboratories. But it does mean that here your studies have first priority. And it is your responsibility to see that they do have first priority. This is not a high school. It is not a junior college. It is not a technical institute. It is a university. Once when the headmaster of a boys' school was asked to state the school's policy, he said that it was liberty tempered with expulsion. You may find more freedom here than you have been accustomed to in your past experience. Use that freedom wisely.

"Use that freedom wisely because the years ahead offer a priceless opportunity, and one that once passed by will not soon return again. They offer you an opportunity to gain a broad perspective on the world and its civilizations. They offer you an opportunity to acquire the skill and competence which come from knowing one field of knowledge well. The time has passed when even an Aristotle can know all knowledge. You must be selective. Be wisely selective and, before you graduate, acquire the assurance and competence that can come only to those who become deeply involved in at least one field of knowledge. And think about what you learn and in the process make it your own. Nothing is more important to you than the development of your capacities and their effective use.

"And the time to begin is today. Therefore, on this Induction Day, 1962, I ask you to raise your right hand and join in this pledge which generations of student have taken before you.

"Here, before Old Capitol, symbol of the vision of the pioneers who founded this State and this institution, I pledge my loyalty to the University of Iowa.

"I pledge myself to her traditions of high scholarship, moral character, right and justice, and service to the cause of freedom.

"I pledge my constant efforts to the increase of her greatness as a truthful teacher, a pioneer in research, and a faithful servant to the people of this State and this Nation."

Football Tickets To Be Distributed By I.D. Numbers

Distribution of tickets for the Sept. 29 football game with Oregon State will begin Monday with the number of the student I.D. card determining the period during which the student may pick up his ticket.

The following schedule will be in effect:
I.D. numbers 1 to 95,000 — Monday, 7 a.m. to noon; 95,001 to 105,000, Monday, noon to 6 p.m.; 105,001 to 116,000, Tuesday, 7 a.m. to noon and 116,001 on, Tuesday noon to 6 p.m.

All tickets must be picked up not later than Tuesday at 6 p.m. They will be distributed at the Athletic Department Ticket Office and at the Union.

Student must present their I.D. Cards and certificates of registration to obtain their tickets. One student may pick up two tickets providing he has both I.D.s and certificates.

Students with different classifications who wish to sit together must get their tickets with the latest classification.

I.D. cards must be shown at the gate at each football game. A married student may purchase a spouse ticket for $10 at the Athletic Department Ticket Office anytime after registration.

Research of I.C. Consumers Reveals Areas of Criticism

Iowa City downtown parking, retail credit, cost of living and retail sales personnel have been criticized by consumers polled in a new University Bureau of Business and Economic Research retail trading area analysis. Iowa City's "shopping tour" area was commended.

The analysis was presented by Conrad C. Stucky, project supervisor, to members of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce during a dinner meeting Thursday at The Mayflower restaurant.

Residents in a computed Iowa City trading area were asked a series of questions about the city's retail trade area. The most important findings are the following:

1. The survey and other recent surveys indicate that store sales personnel in the downtown Iowa City area are rated relatively low by the farm, city and student representatives polled.
2. Nearly two-thirds of the farm sample and one-third of the city sample indicated that they are not aware that credit is readily available in Iowa City stores.
3. Over 60 per cent of both the farm and city samples indicated that they do not feel that sufficient parking space is available in Iowa City.
4. More than 60 per cent of the city sample think that the cost of living in Iowa City is higher than in previous places of residency.
5. The amount of walking required to do the majority of one's shopping in Iowa City was considered to be much less than is required in other shopping centers.

Over 900 persons were selected by scientific sampling methods for the survey to represent the entire trade area of Iowa City which comprised most of Johnson County and portions of Washington, Muscatine and Cedar Counties.

The analysis prepared by the bureau, which is an integral part of the University's College of Business Administration, made nine suggestions:

1. Iowa City store owners should concentrate on locating less adept employees and find ways to help them to improve through proper sales training.
2. Rural, city and college residents should be made aware of the fact that they are an integral part of the consumer group served by Iowa City merchants.
3. Possible solutions to the parking problem — real or imagined by those polled — include assuring people that empty spaces are available and informing them of the lots that normally have empty spaces.
4. Compute a cost of living index in order to prove or disprove the idea that the cost of living in Iowa City is high relative to other cities in the state and the nation. Stucky said it might be shown that the high cost of rents in Iowa City is being generalized to all purchases.

5. Advertise sales far enough in advance to assure ample time for a distribution of news media to non-Iowa City residents before the supply of sales goods is exhausted.

6. Store managers should consider the damage done to their public image when they advertise items that either are not available or in such short supply that they are not available shortly after the sale begins.

7. Iowa City merchants should be aware that the availability of easier credit terms in Cedar Rapids is influencing shopping decisions of residents of the trade area. The survey data indicate that this may be an important factor in attracting the young, middle income group away from Iowa City.

8. Methods of locating new city residents and university students could be adopted so that sales promotional materials could be sent to them before their arrival in Iowa City.

9. The Chamber of Commerce should strive for improvement in the appearance of the central business district. The analysis pointed out that several merchants have suggested that Washington Street between Clinton and Dubuque Streets be closed to traffic and transformed into a mall.

SUI School Spirit — Lagging Already?

The flag was raised yesterday morning at the State University of Iowa for the 107th time. As in past years, the SUI band played prior to the entrance of the Deans and President Hancher. As in years past, they played the SUI fight song, 'On Iowa.'

When President Hancher and his entourage lined across the yard, Frederick Ebbs led the band in the Star Spangled Banner. From the crowd of some 2,000 American students there issued forth a faint, strained cry which we believe was an attempt by a handful of students to sing a chorus of our national anthem.

At the close of the induction ceremony Mr. Ebbs again struck up the band with the Iowa rouser. It did not however, arouse a single audible chorus.

This is indeed a brilliant debut for SUI esprit de corps. What an impressive display of pride and loyalty to the most powerful nation on earth! How the new foreign students must have been filled with overwhelming pride as the people of this nation proudly paid tribute to their own country.

On one side of a barrier, which stretches around the world, thousands sing loudly and proudly the Internationale. On the other side, the side men are dying to reach, many songs of freedom are as voraciously done. Why not ours?

If all parts of our nation sang the Star Spangled Banner with the fervor demonstrated at SUI yesterday morning, the ones who brave death to come to the United States will surely be disillusioned; especially when they recall the powerfully sung strains of communism's international hymn.

Some years ago, at Michigan University, the Hawkeyes were leading the Wolverines by a slim margin. Time was fleeting. The demoralized Wolverines had the ball deep in their own territory with time remaining for one sustained march on the distant goal.

Up until this time the crowd had remained silent; possibly numbed by the realization that their powerful U. of M. squad was trailing the upstart Hawks.

Then, starting faintly in the upper reaches of the giant student section in the Michigan stadium, the strains of the Michigan fight song were sounded.

The cry gained momentum, sweeping through the partisan crowd until the whole stadium rocked with the thunder of "Hail to the Victors."

The Hawks heard it. So did the Wolverines, and their sudden renewed vigor was quite visible. As the din mounted and then failed to taper it seemed incomprehensible that the SUI footballers could withstand the massed efforts of team and fans. As Michigan smashed time and again through the Hawk line en route to the decisive score, the Michigan students continued demonstrating a clamorous pride in their Wolverines.

A pride in school or team or band or anything at SUI has not been voiced loudly, if at all, in the past. The vanguard of a change in spirit certainly was not apparent here yesterday either.

Last year, students singing the On Iowa song were seldom audible above the band's playing. The difficulty did not lie with the band but with the total disinterest of the many students massed in the student section. The whole song was probably never heard by the fans across the gridiron.

This year we would like to see the new cheering block, which is replacing the card section, succeed in stimulating vociferous student support so both visitors and students will know that 12,000 of us go to SUI and we are all proud of it.

We hope also that it will not be left solely to the cheering block to demonstrate a pride in this country.

'The University Recognizes Your Joy At Being Assigned To The Burge Hall Fallout Shelter, Kolderup — But We Simply Cannot Blow The Sirens Whenever You Get Lonely!'

Roscoe Drummond Reports —

U.N. General Assembly Entering Crucial Hours

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON—Approximately 10,000 decisions, affecting the state of the world for good or ill, will be taken at the United Nations during the 17th General Assembly which opened in New York this week.

This arises from the fact that there are nearly 100 items on the agenda and 104 member countries — with eight to ten more soon to be added — each of which must decide how it is going to vote.

It is a formidable and moderately frightening prospect, particularly since the UN has been developing a tendency to pass all kinds of resolutions without the authority — or the responsibility — to carry them out. Last year, for example, the UN with 100 non-nuclear powers, decisively passed one resolution advocating a total test ban with inspection and another resolution advocating a total test ban without any inspection. The Soviet Union blandly voted for both.

Despite these vagaries, the UN is a useful forum and a good index of world opinion. None of the great powers will always find it an agreeable forum, but it would be about as meaningful to resign from the United Nations as to resign from the human race.

From the standpoint of the United States — and of the UN itself — the outlook for the Assembly session now just beginning is quite favorable. Several desirable actions are probable, and there is reason to anticipate increased support from the unaligned nations for many Western positions. Here is the way things look on the principal issues:

ELECTION OF SECRETARY GENERAL — U Thant will almost certainly be retained and given an overwhelming vote of confidence. He has widespread backing in nearly every part of the world and the Soviets — to whom he spoke candidly and critically in Moscow only a few weeks ago — have voiced no opposition. They don't like him, but there is little they can do to oust him; they don't like any Secretary-General who isn't a cipher. U Thant is no cipher; he is a quiet-spoken, clear-spoken, positive force. By its veto in the Security Council, Moscow could prevent the Assembly from taking the word "acting" from in front of his title, but the Soviets could not prevent the Assembly from retaining him in the position of Secretary General. U Thant will continue to act — and that will be good.

FINANCIAL RESPONSIBILITY — It is imperative that the finances of the UN be put on a secure and equitable basis. The $200 million UN bond issue is a repair operation only. The first step toward solving its weak finances was the advisory opinion of the World Court holding that all UN special assessments, which the Soviet bloc, France, and some others have refused to pay, are binding on all members. The next two necessary steps are for the Assembly to adopt this advisory opinion and to establish that any nation which is two years in arrears in its UN obligations automatically loses its vote in the Assembly. This is the penalty in the Charter. There is ample precedent to make it applicable simply by the presiding officers' refraining from reading the names of any arrears-country when a vote is called for.

COLONIALISM — There are nine African territories, mostly under the British, which are on the way to independence. The unresolved question is whether enough members of the UN have learned the lesson of the Congo, a nation given independence without adequate preparation, so that the UN does not create more Congos by ill-considered pressure.

DISARMAMENT AND SPACE — The West seeks wide cooperation in outer space; the Soviet Union holds back. The West favors complete and general disarmament with complete and general inspection. The Soviets offer any kind of disarmament as long as there is no inspection of retained weapons. The UN hopes to break the deadlock.

RED CHINA — Red China's admission to the UN may not even be proposed this year and, if so, it is wholly unlikely to be approved. For one thing, India, with its northeast frontier being violated every day by Chinese troops, is not going to sponsor a resolution to help Red China into the UN. If there is to be any such resolution, the Soviet Union will have to initiate it. On this point, it is significant that no Soviet-sponsored resolution, which the U.S. felt it had to oppose, has ever passed the UN General Assembly.

Classes started, assignments handed out... and oh, for the $50 (or more) spent on books. Say what you will about creeping socialism — it would be better than the "free enterprise" system reflected in Iowa City bookstores. SUI needs a student cooperative bookstore. First, however, they would have to arrange with our many book-writing faculty to break ties with the commercial bookstores.

COMMENTS ON THE WORLD SCENE: "Teddy" beats Eddie in the Massachusetts Democratic primary and Boston society is split into two bitter camps (more if you count the GOP bluebirds running for office). Shows the ingredients for a fun and successful

HATFIELD hobby: a pretty wife, flamboyant mother, lots of money and the last name Kennedy. The United Nations opens with a China debate rapidly shaping up. One China is not in the UN — the one with 23 per cent of the world's population. But it can't be in because according to the U.S. and Chiang Kai-Shek, it is not a nation.

Student Senate stands to lose much of its color this year if the wailing from the West side of the river is accurate. Parliamentarian, Hillcrest senior senator, bridge-player, and Project AID Director Ron Andersen may be booted off that august body because he can't live in Hillcrest — he didn't return his dorm contract soon enough. What it means, if it happens (which it probably won't), is that the Senate will miss the eloquent explanations of parliamentary procedure when the going gets rough on an Andersen-supported bill or an Andersen-opposed bill seems likely to be passed.

The city of Iowa City decides to try a meter-maid experiment which would replace ticket-writing male floatists with ticket-writing female high heels. The reason, according to the publicity blasts, is to allow the males now tied up with non-moving traffic control to spend more time policing and controlling moving traffic. Then the city council announces a shorter work week for the city's finest. What gain?

On the Iowa political scene, it is most interesting to note the changing political stance of our governor, Mr. Erbe. Erbe, although he denies any change in approach, now seems to be leaning towards the liquor-by-the-drink program proposed by his opponent, Democrat Harold Hughes. Far be it from me to stand in his way. I think now he is being more realistic. And our sympathy to the governor for having to run against two people (the apparently objects to the vote-getting magnetism of former governor Loveless who is campaigning for Hughes). He's going to have a hard enough time being just one of them.

H. R. Gross, called by many the "conscience of the House" and by many others the "curse of the House," was given a surprise "appreciation" party by a number of his House Republican colleagues and nearly a dozen Democrats (that's what they call a conservative in the South and they were Southerners). And the Des Moines Register, in a "news" story by Clark Mollenhoff, gave the good Representative an unsolicited editorial plug by describing him as the man "who year after year has fought steam-roller political tactics and loose spending." The Register didn't use quotes — and that's the strongest thing they've said editorially for quite a while.

On the football scene, Wesleyan University (Middletown, Conn.) has announced that a 40-year-old marine lieutenant colonel will try out for the tackle slot on the Wesleyan team. The candidate played collegiate football 19 years ago for Yale, Dartmouth, and Wesleyan (three separate seasons). He has returned to Wesleyan to complete his senior year under a college defense program (which sounds like it was designed by a defensive coach). And I thought the Iowa recruiters were good!

Matter of Fact—

Allies Ill-Prepared For Berlin Explosion

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON — The Western Alliance is ill-prepared for the climax of the Berlin crisis, which may now be coming in the fairly near future. That is the only conclusion a returning traveler can draw from a short survey of Western Europe.

Taking the elements of the problem one by one, the so-called Berlin contingency plans are under continuous restudy. Presumably, therefore, they have been adapted to meet the new situation created by the increased military strength of Khrushchev's East German puppets. But in the event of a challenge at Berlin, the contingency plans cannot be put into effect without the prior consent of all the governments concerned.

Among these governments, the British have persistently refused to bring their forces stationed in Germany anywhere nearly up to strength. Despite this refusal, how the British may respond to a final Berlin challenge is still anyone's guess. But the best guess appears to be that they will meet the challenge by calling for renewed negotiations.

THE FRENCH Government, with forces on the spot far weaker than the British forces, have flatly refused to send reinforcements to Germany, although the end of the Algerian war has now made this easy to do. It is not too much to say that France has made no preparations whatever for a final challenge at Berlin. And this is understandable, since Gen. de Gaulle is operating on the theory that President Kennedy will dodge or duck the challenge, if and when it comes — in which case the blame will be America's.

Finally, the West German Government, while apprehensive of a final challenge, is mainly preoccupied by a bitter internal argument about a reduction of defense spending — which could hardly be more ill-timed. Even the West German response, in truth, is very far from predictable; and this is true, although the new German divisions would probably be called upon to play a mere supporting role in any initial crash, since West Germany is not one of the official guarantors of Berlin's freedom.

The meaning of all this should be obvious. The postures of our chief allies offer no sort of guarantee that they will quickly and unanimously consent to immediate enforcement of the Berlin contingency plans, if and when the need arises. One may be stout and prompt. Two may be stout and prompt. But the odds against all three being stout and prompt are clearly rather high. THAT FACT, in itself, is probably regarded by Nikita S. Khrushchev as his major ace-in-the-hole. Lately, the Soviets have been trying to improve the odds against prompt and unanimous stoutness by returning to the rocket-brandishing tactics that Khrushchev used after his Vienna meeting with the President.

"The Soviet Union is firmly and consistently championing the cause of peace," said a recent article in the army newspaper, Red Star, which then went on to threaten Britain, Germany, and other American allies with 100-megaton bombs. The desire to intimidate, and thereby to promote hesitations and discords, is too clear to need pointing out.

Yet nothing will be more fatal, if there is a final challenge at Berlin, than the smallest hesitation or the shortest pause for argument — so-called newsworthy willards among the Western allies. Soviet psychology is such that their grabs must be stopped instantaneously, in mid-grab, so to say. Then the risk is left. But let the grab be completed: let the grab become an accomplished fact amid calls for negotiations and the like. Then the risk of reversing the grab will be ten times more grave.

THIS BEING the case, it must be added that there are two encouraging features of the Berlin situation, to balance against those already noted. On the one hand, the Soviets seem to be preparing a limited test of the Western will to defend Berlin, which implies some residual caution in Moscow. On the other hand, even though the Western Alliance is ill-prepared for a climax at Berlin, the United States is very well prepared. The measures taken by President Kennedy and Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara have importantly strengthened the U.S. forces in Europe. Without other assistance, the U.S. divisions in Germany should now be able to handle the kind of challenge the Kremlin appears to have in mind with the improved East German forces.

THAT SUGGESTS the only way out of his predicament that appears open to President Kennedy. A challenge at Berlin cannot safely be met on a committee system, for the reasons already noted. But the President can quite safely let the West German, British, and French Governments know that he means to meet a Berlin challenge alone and unaided, if that is the only way.

Once that is done, we shall know exactly where we stand; and Khrushchev will soon know, too, which may be even more useful.

Fallout Shelter Program Absurd and Dangerous

To the Editor:

The "University Emergency Fallout Shelter Plan," page 14 of the Fall Schedule of Classes is both absurd and dangerous. Not only does it seem unworkable under the conditions of panic, confusion, and chaos necessarily occurring should there be a real nuclear war, but more ominously, it represents acceptance of the spreading war psychosis which makes war and annihilation unavoidable and acceptable. It is very probable that the set of instructions and the publicity in The Daily Iowan have caused numbers of the impressionable also to feel this position.

This I feel is dangerous. Faith in civil defense and armaments is not the solution to the greatest problem of our day, for in the final analysis it will neither defend us nor deter war makers. (I do not believe that digging a hole or hiding in specified buildings will solve in any constructive way our current political tensions.) Rather, it merely increases the potential for war, leading inexorably to the final cataclysm. We have reached the point in human history beyond which there will be no history unless we make a dramatic and imaginative turn toward a new concept of peace.

Instead of being mesmerized by the nightmarish nonsense put forth by the Herman Kahn-type "thinkers of the unthinkable," we must accept without reservation ex-President Eisenhower's dictum that "there is now no alternative to peace." Clinging to the assumptions that war and preparation for war are inevitable and accepting concepts such as those inherent in the program of civil defense diverts thinking from its rightful course — imaginative solutions to conflicts which preclude war as a solution. The only real protection against nuclear war is to prevent it.

The honest concern of the University for its students and personnel is admirable, but perhaps misguided concern as represented by its fallout shelter plan is worse than no concern at all. It would seem better for the University to exert its energies wholeheartedly in the quest to banish the assumption that war and preparation for war is inevitable. This will not be done by accepting the treacherous sense of security offered by fallout shelters.

JFK Tells Finance Leaders To Share Defense Burden

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy gave European financial leaders a pointed yet diplomatically worded warning Thursday that they must do more to finance free-world defense and development.

Addressing the annual meeting of the World Bank and International Monetary Fund, Kennedy coupled this with a statement that "speculation against the dollar is losing its allure" — to the point where "no extreme or restrictive measures are needed."

The President's expression of confidence in the current monetary situation echoed recent statements of many American and foreign finance ministers and central bankers attending the week-long sessions.

But, in calling for a greater sharing of aid and defense burdens, Kennedy stated the proposition in terms more blunt than he has used in the past.

He reminded Europeans, for example, that they received $26 billion of U.S. economic aid during the postwar years — out of a total overseas defense and aid outlays of $88 billion.

The United States as a result no longer has a disproportionate share of the free world's gold, economic strength, or economic responsibility," he said.

Kennedy reminded his audience also that the United States could solve its balance-of-payments problem overnight by withdrawing troops stationed abroad, cutting foreign aid, raising tariff barriers, and retreating into isolation.

In his prepared text, Kennedy said speculation against the dollar "has lost its allure." But, in making the address, he changed the phrase to "is losing its allure." Still, he made evident his belief that the present monetary system requires no radical tinkering. He added however, "this country will always be receptive to suggestions for expanding or improving the operation and efficiency of the international payments system."

Repeatedly, Kennedy emphasized that the dollar's difficulties "are not American problems, they are free-world problems." He based this statement on the proposition that the dollar is the world's "most effective substitute for gold" and plays a vital role in the financing of the rapidly growing volume of international trade.

"Cooperative efforts to defend the international currency system based primarily on the dollar, and to share other responsibilities, are not, therefore, based on appeals to gratitude or even friendship," he said, "but on the hard and factual grounds of self-interest and common sense."

Predicting that the U.S. balance-of-payments deficit will approximate $1.5 billion this year, compared with $2.5 billion in 1961, Kennedy noted that the entire deficit could be more than eliminated by eliminating annual overseas military outlays of $3 billion. He said aid spending abroad totals $1.3 billion.

"In short," he said, "our balance-of-payments deficit is not the result of any monetary or economic mismanagement, but the result of expenditures our people have made on behalf of the people of the free world."

The President said the complete elimination of the U.S. payments deficit remains a matter of the first priority. And he predicted the task will be accomplished "without resorting to deflation or retreating to isolation."

New County Home Planned for Area

The Johnson County Board of Supervisors disclosed plans Thursday for a new $745,500 county home.

The proposed 110-patient home would be built east of Iowa City where the present home is located. After construction, the old one would be torn down.

County residents will vote in November to determine whether the new home actually will be built. A 60 per cent majority for the bond issue is required to clear the way for issuing bonds.

administration in 1962. Spector looked briefly at 1961, pointed to the Peace Corps as the outstanding accomplishment, but maintained that the trade expansion bill is the major accomplishment to date.

He also noted how the growing elderly population is presenting major problems for government and said that administrators are even beginning to think of life expectancy in "terms of 100-120 years" for this generation.

He added that while the national population has increased 5 per cent in the last 10 years, there has been a 20 per cent increase in those over 65 and a 43 per cent increase in those over 85.

U.S. Official Speaks At Young Demo Meet

By Staff Writer

Sidney Spector, an assistant administrator for the U.S. Housing and Home Finance Agency, Thursday night scanned the Kennedy Administration's legislative accomplishments and outlined the problems the elderly are posing.

He spoke before about a 100 persons at a meeting of the SUI Young Democrats. This noon he will address a luncheon-meeting of the Johnson County council on social planning at the University Athletic Club.

Spector, a former University of Chicago political science lecturer, pointed to Kennedy's victory with the trade expansion bill and called it a "major accomplishment" that may well be the most profound achievement of the Kennedy Administration.

In countering the notion of Kennedy and his contumacious Congress, he cited the manpower retaining bill to fight automation, the public works bill for combating unemployment and the $4.7 billion foreign aid authorization as a significant legislative record for the

Weatherly Nips Gretel In America's Cup Win

NEWPORT, R. I. (AP) — The American defender Weatherly cut through the gently rolling sea like a blue steel raper Thursday and again ran away from Australia's Gretel for a 2-1 lead in the battle for the America's Cup, the world series of yachting.

The canny American skipper, Emil "Bus" Mosbacher, took command in the first five minutes and then proceeded to sail the white-hulled challenger from down under into the brine for a thorough shelling. The Weatherly crossed the finish line with about a mile lead as the race ended with seas almost flat and winds of six miles an hour.

Weatherly outfooted Gretel going into the wind and walked away from her downwind, finishing the 24-mile course in 4 hours, 21 minutes, 16 seconds — a whopping margin of 8 minutes, 40 seconds. Gretel's time was 4:29:56.

The Australians immediately exercised their prerogative and raised the flag asking for a "lay day" — the third day off in as many races. This postpones until Saturday, the fourth in the best-of-7 races between these two sleek racing toys of millionaires.

A's Fischer Runs Skein To 73, But Loses, 5-2

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Pedro Ramos pitched a five-hit baseball game Thursday for Cleveland as the Indians beat the Kansas City Athletics 5-2.

Kansas City starting pitcher, Bill Fischer distinguished himself only by running his major league record of consecutive innings without a base on balls to 73. He went to the showers in the fifth inning.

The brash challengers from the bottom of the world actually may have outsmarted themselves in their insistence on these legal delaying tactics. The rule permits either boat to ask for off day after each race.

Most observers felt the Aussies would have been wise to race Wednesday while still riding the impetus of Tuesday's dramatic triumph and while winds on the Atlantic were whipping up white caps with gusts up to 22 miles an hour.

But the visitors chose to gamble on even rougher conditions — originally predicted Thursday — and lost.

The third race started on calm waters with winds of no more than nine miles an hour and turned into a dull drifting match on the spinaker runs as the winds dropped to a ghostly whisper.

Twins Humbled, 5-1!

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Minnesota handed Detroit three unearned runs in the first inning, and that was all right-handers Phil Regan and Terry Fox needed to subdue the Twins 5-1 on eight hits Thursday.

The outcome pushed the idle New York Yankees a notch closer to clinching another American League pennant.

Magic number for the Bombers to wrap it up is now four, with the Twins trailing by 4½ games. The Yankees have eight games left, the Twins seven.

Wills Needs 3 Bases for Mark

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A disheartened, tired and bruised Maury Wills said Thursday, "as far as I'm concerned I might as well forget trying to break Ty Cobb's record for stolen bases."

The Los Angeles Dodger made the remark moments after he learned Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick had ruled Wills must steal three bases in tonight's game with St. Louis in order to break Cobb's mark of 96 stolen bases.

Frick said in New York that Cobb's record "is based on a 154-game schedule" and in order for Wills to break the record he must steal 97 bases in the first 154 games on the Dodgers schedule.

Wills, who has stolen 94 bases, said Cobb set his record in 1915 when he played in 156 games. The two extra games were played because two contests ended in ties and had to be replayed.

The Iowa coach said, "Giacobazzi has shown improvement in toughness. His blocking ability and pass-catching ability have been strong." Burns added that previously ranked No. 1 left end Lynn Lyon, who has been out of action with an elbow injury, will be on the alternate unit when he returns to full duty Monday.

Alan Fischer, 200-pound left guard, who has been out a couple of days with a neck injury will be ready for scrimmage today.

$1 To Be Assessed to Park In Athletic Lots for Games

A $1 charge will be assessed to all who desire to park their cars on SUI athletic department grounds on home football Saturdays this fall, Francis (Buzz) Graham, athletic department business manager, announced Thursday.

This is the first time in at least 15 years, Graham recalled, that parking on all athletic grounds on football dates will be subject to a charge. Fans who have parked cars on the Old Finkbine golf course, north of the stadium, have been assessed for many years, he explained.

The move was made by the Board in Control of Athletics in the "hope to gain control of the parking situation around the area," Graham said. Revenue will go to the Board's treasury.

Those exempt from the charge include drivers with special official, press and radio, and physically handicapped indicators at-

Cardinals Drop Giants 4 Games Off Lead by 5-4

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ken Boyer singled home the winning run in the ninth inning as the St. Louis Cardinals dropped the San Francisco Giants four games behind the idle first-place Los Angeles Dodgers by defeating the Giants 5-4 Thursday night.

The Giants carried a 4-3 lead into the ninth inning when Curt Flood opened with a single off Dick Lemay, the losing pitcher. Stan Musial's single sent Flood to third and Flood scored the tying run on Lemay's balk.

Don Larsen, the fifth Giant pitcher, walked Bill White intentionally, and Boyer followed with his game-winning hit.

Head Coach Jerry Burns put the Hawkeyes through a routine practice Thursday, and afterward termed it one of the better sessions of the year.

"The team showed good spirit and enthusiasm. Bob Wallace and Fred Riddle threw the ball well behind Matt Szykowny on offensive drills."

Tony Giacobazzi, 215-pound sophomore from Farmington, Mich., took over the No. 1 left end position in Thursday's new 3-deep.

"Not a trace of shabbiness can be found anywhere on the car," says Road & Track magazine.

The people at Road & Track get to drive some pretty exotic cars. So when they come out and say that "the Volkswagen's finish is unbelievable," we take it as quite a compliment. Mind you, they didn't say, "At the price." Just "unbelievable." Period. Frankly, the Volkswagen people are not surprised. After 15 years of improving and refining their one basic model, the surprise would be if it weren't as good as it is. Volkswagen parts fit each other so well, the car is practically airtight. If you stripped a VW to the skin, you'd find it completely painted, inside and out. (And not with one coat or two. Four.) Volkswagen puts as much effort into the glove compartment door as the front door. They run in every engine before it's installed, they check every windshield. Road & Track wound up by saying, "Overall, the VW is so good, it leaves us a bit short of anything to say." Enough said.

Argentina Deadlocked In Army-Gov't Struggle

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—Argentina swarmed with troops Thursday, talking tough but holding their fire in a power struggle bringing a new threat to President Jose Maris Guido's government.

Guido met again with the rebel leader, Gen. Juan Carlos Ongania, at the presidential residence. Their first truce talks collapsed Wednesday night.

Thursday Guido and the rebel commander talked for almost two hours. Ongania glumly refused to say anything to newsmen emerging from the conference to return to his headquarters.

Guido reportedly made the gesture for the new talks, apparently arranged by businessmen and other civilian leaders afraid that the army feud will erupt into a shooting war.

Rebels led by Ongania have accused an army clique of using Guido as a front man to pave the way for setting up a military dictatorship in this key South American nation. Guido rejects the charge.

Guido's military-backed regime has been split by a fight among the generals for key command posts almost from the moment he took over from ousted President Frondizi last March.

The war has been waged mostly in words.

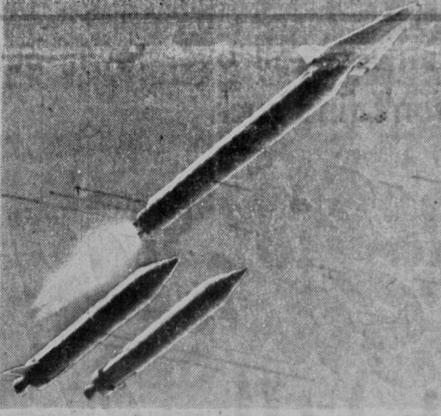

There were reports that rebel tankmen clashed with loyalist infantrymen southeast of the capital, but the reports could not be confirmed.

Another report said troops at La Plata, capital of Buenos Aires Province, shot at a rebel plane flying low to drop pamphlets.

Troops dug trenches, set tank traps and hastily erected anti-aircraft guns in the capital and the suburbs. Government forces in combat dress took up key positions.

Hundreds of residents around the rebel stronghold Campo de Mayo, 10 miles outside Buenos Aires, packed up and fled in fear shooting might break out.

The rebels are demanding that Guido fire Gen. Juan Carlos Lorio, army commander in chief. They accused Lorio of plotting behind the back of the mild-mannered president and planting his own men in key commands to pave the way for a military takeover.

Dyna-Soar in Flight

This artist's concept of how the Dyna-Soar space ship will be put into orbit around the earth depicts the burnout of the strap-on solid fuel motors and the ignition of the Titan III first stage engine as the solid-fuel motors fall away. Successive stages will blast the Dyna-Soar into an orbit 100 miles high at speeds of more than 17,000 miles an hour.

Estes' Associates Sentenced For Mail Fraud, Conspiracy

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Three associates of Billie Sol Estes were sentenced to Federal prison terms Thursday for mail fraud and conspiracy in connection with Estes' widespread operations.

Sentenced to terms of six to 10 years were Harold E. Orr, 31, and Ruel W. Alexander, 36, of Amarillo, Tex., and Coleman McSpadden, 45, of Lubbock, Tex. All were officials of Superior Manufacturing Co. of Amarillo.

U.S. Dist. Judge R. E. Thomson said the men were guilty of one of the "most premeditated, fantastic and ruthless frauds" ever to come before his court.

All three had previously pleaded guilty to five counts of a 29-count indictment, which also named Estes. Estes pleaded innocent to all 29 and awaits trial. Orr, Alexander and McSpadden pleaded innocent to 24 counts.

McSpadden and Orr were sentenced to 10 years on each of two counts of interstate transportation of securities obtained by fraud; 10 years on one count of conspiracy to execute a scheme to defraud and transport interstate commerce securities taken by fraud; and five years on two counts of mail fraud.

This made a total of 35 years, but Judge Thomson ordered the sentences to run concurrently, meaning a maximum prison term for McSpadden and Orr of 10 years.

Alexander received three five-year sentences and two six-year sentences. He would serve a maximum of six years under the judge's order.

No fines were assessed against the trio, but Superior Manufacturing Co. drew $1,000 fines on the five counts for a total of $5,000. The company manufactures anhydrous ammonia fertilizer tanks which played a prominent part in Federal and state investigations.

Orr was president of Superior and McSpadden, a major stockholder.

UN Plane Possibly Shot Down in Katangan Crash

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—A U.N. plane with 10 Swedes aboard crashed Thursday 30 miles north of the Katanga Province town of Kabongo, the United Nations said. First preliminary reports received here said the plane "may have been shot down by gunfire of undetermined origin."

There was no word on whether anyone survived.

The plane was a two-engine Dakota C47 on a reconnaissance mission over secessionist Katanga Province.

The crash scene was near the village of Kamunza. U.N. officials said a search mission including helicopters with fighter cover would be sent out at dawn today from the U.N. base at Kamina.

Word was relayed here by Robert K. A. Gardiner, chief U.N. representative in the Congo state-tioned in Leopoldville.

The Swedish Foreign Department and General Staff in Stockholm also were advised by cable from the Congo that the plane had crashed and is believed to have been shot down.

Just a year ago last Monday the Swedish U.N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold and 15 others died in a plane crash near Ndola, in Northern Rhodesia while on a Congo peace mission.

Ole Miss Demonstration

Hundreds of Ole Miss students jam the street in front of the registrar's office on campus in Oxford, Miss., Thursday morning, hoisting the Confederate flag and giving yells for continued segregation in their University. Governor Refuses To Admit Meredith

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Ross Barnett of Mississippi defied orders of federal courts Thursday and refused to admit James H. Meredith, a Negro, as a student at the University of Mississippi.

The Mississippi governor made his defiant decision in a face-to-face meeting of 23 minutes with Meredith, who hopes to be the first person of his race to enroll in Ole Miss in the school's 114-year history.

He said "no" despite a federal court edict that Meredith must be admitted and in the face of a convey of four men believed to be U.S. marshals.

Gov. Barnett courted a contempt citation from a federal court by the action, taken upon authority given him by the Mississippi College Board a few hours ago.

A week ago the governor told Mississippi in an impassioned speech that he would go to jail rather than integrate a Mississippi school and more than hinted that he would close schools before so doing.

The dramatic meeting of Barnett and Meredith, 29, took place behind the guarded doors of Alumni House on the Ole Miss campus, a few minutes after the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals in Hattiesburg, Miss., overthrew a new state law that would have barred from the school the Kosciusko, Miss., Negro.

When Barnett took his action the court had ordered all Mississippi officials not to: 1. Interfere with Meredith's admission to Ole Miss under previous court orders; 2. To try to arrest Meredith under his conviction on voter registration fraud charges; or 3. To put into effect an order by Jones County, Miss., Chancery Court which would bar Meredith from the state University.

About the same time, Barnett held a telephone conversation with Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy in Washington. While the conversation remained courteous, a Justice Department spokesman said, neither man retreated.

Earlier, Kennedy said: "We are going to make sure that the court orders are followed."

His defiance made, Barnett left

Erbe, Hughes Hold Debate Face-to-Face

DES MOINES — Republican Gov. Norman Erbe and Democrat Harold Hughes continued their campaigns for the governorship Thursday in a face-to-face encounter at a Junior Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

Both restated positions they took earlier in the campaign — Erbe saying Iowans need confidence, Hughes saying a new approach is required.

The governor described his ideas for new efforts in industrial development, including an industrial financing authority to supervise a revolving fund to provide loan funds for industry and a program of designating ambassadors at large to publicize the state.

Hughes warned that Iowa's industrial development is lagging because of lack of initiative, and called for "imaginative, hard-working, stick-out-your-neck kind of effort" to use all the state's assets.

Hughes used statistics to show the need for more industry. He said that while the nation's population growth averaged 18.5 per cent during the 1950-60 decade, Iowa's growth averaged only 5.2 per cent. He said the proportion of elderly persons in the state has increased during the decade along with that of youths under 18, while there are four to five per cent fewer in the primary wage earning bracket of 18 to 65 years.

Ben Bella Gets Support Of Algeria

ALGIERS — A substantial majority of Algerian voters Thursday approved Ahmed Ben Bella's 196 unopposed candidates for Algeria's first National Assembly.

The massive turnout in the "yes" election was a clear endorsement for the strong man and the political bureau which he expects to bring stability to the troubled nation.

Official results were not yet available. Two hours before the polls closed, preliminary figures showed that at least 60 per cent of registered voters cast their ballot for Ben Bella's list.

The only way to register opposition to Ben Bella was to abstain from voting or spoil ballots.

More than two-thirds of the city's 300,000 European inhabitants have left the country, but many of those still here decided to vote to show their willingness to cooperate with the new Moslem state.

There was no apparent interference with the voting in the areas west and south of Algiers, regular army forces surrounded a rampaging unit of Wilaya No. 4 troops suspected of killing a Belgian settler and his wife.

Two Plead Guilty For Possessing Gambling Gear

Two men pleaded guilty to illegal possession of gambling equipment and each paid a $12 fine and $8 costs in Judge Jay H. Honohan's police court here Thursday.

Police said the two — Bernard D. Milet, about 42, of Phoenix, Ariz., and Claude E. Van, about 46, of St. Paul, Minn. — had gambling equipment including a deck of marked cards, a mechanical card palmer and some dice in their hotel room plus $1,200 in cash.

Police said they believe the two were linked with a card game reported to have been scheduled near Iowa City Wednesday night.
