

Booing, Gunshots At Ole Miss Stirs Easing Tensions

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

OXFORD, Miss. — A booing crowd of students and a report of gunshots shattered the mood of easing tensions on the University of Mississippi campus Friday.

Still, there were signs that federal officials, holding a tight grip on the situation, feel the crackling sense of danger is letting up. Nicholas Katzenbach, deputy U.S. attorney general, said:

"I think we've gone a long way toward relieving tensions here and getting back to normalcy."

The developments came near the end of Negro James H. Meredith's first week as a student at previously all-white Ole Miss.

The 29-year-old Meredith planned to leave the campus for the weekend — destination unannounced, but believed to be a meeting with his wife and perhaps their 2-year-old son.

The report of the shots fired at an Army vehicle carrying three or four soldiers came in just as the school day was nearing its end.

Nobody was hurt. FBI agents began an investigation. One report said only one shot was heard.

The report of gunfire was the first since the rioting on the campus Sunday night and in the town square Monday.

A crowd of students jammed into a narrow hallway and booed and hissed Meredith as he walked out of a political science class.

They screamed obscenities and profanities and at least one threat — "Your life is short" — as Meredith and his escort of marshals walked through the crowd.

The number of marshals walking with Meredith in his rigid routine remained small — only three, the same as Thursday.

For the first time since the riot, the government reported Friday that nobody was arrested Thursday night.

And yet, at the same time, an undercurrent of uneasiness remained. The university junked most of the campus homecoming festivities and moved the game to Jackson, the capital, 170 miles to the south.

The federal officials didn't want to face the prospect of a football crowd of 20,000 to 30,000 — most of them dead set against desegregating Ole Miss — swarming into the campus over the weekend.

HOMES SHOT INTO

JACKSON, Miss. — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People said "more than six homes and a store were shot into by roving bands of whites" in Harmony, Miss., Thursday night.

This was the fourth in a series of racial incidents reported in Mississippi since Negro James H. Meredith was admitted to the University of Mississippi on Monday.

Medgar Evers, NAACP state field secretary, said no one was injured but the six houses and the store were damaged. Harmony is about 50 miles northeast of Jackson.

News in Brief

WASHINGTON — The United States touched off one of the biggest nuclear tests in its current series Friday beneath the Nevada desert, the Atomic Energy Commission announced.

WASHINGTON — The judge who ordered a psychiatric examination for Edwin A. Walker, former Army major general, had been told that Walker's medical history indicated "functional and psychosomatic disorders," it was learned Friday.

MIAMI, Fla. — Fringe winds of Daisy, a 600-mile-wide mass of gales with a hard core center of 100-mile-an-hour winds, socked the tiny Atlantic Ocean Island of Bermuda Friday night.

WASHINGTON — West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt said Friday he and President Kennedy "take it for granted" that Soviet Premier Khrushchev probably will visit the United Nations in New York this autumn.

NEW YORK — Cornelius Drummond, a veteran of 16 years in the United States Navy, was indicted Friday on federal charges of selling a vast and varied store of the nation's defense secrets to the Soviet Union. He faces the death penalty if convicted.

Committee Dismisses Charges Against Colorado U. Student

BOULDER, Colo. — The Discipline Committee of the University of Colorado dismissed a student's attack on Sen. Barry Goldwater Thursday as an expression of free and open discussion.

The committee voted unanimously to dispense with charges brought against the student author, Carl Mitcham of Dallas, Tex.

The young philosophy student was accused of conduct unbecoming a student, failure to respect the rights and privileges of others and conducting himself in a manner bringing discredit upon the University.

Conviction could have brought a reprimand, probation or suspension.

Of Mitcham's strongly worded article in the University newspaper, the Colorado Daily, assailing the conservative Republican senator from Arizona, the Discipline Committee said the choice of language was in part injudicious. But it said the language could not be considered a personal attack on any individual.

"The committee firmly upholds the right of students to engage in free and open discussion," the group said.

The article led to a sharp dispute between Goldwater and the University president, Quigg Newton.

Newton wired the senator "sincere apologies and regrets" and said the University disavows the article without qualification.

The editor of the student newspaper, Gary Althen, 21, of Wheat Ridge, Colo., also wrote Goldwater an apology.

Goldwater replied to Newton that "You either do not know what is going on in the University or you don't care, and in charity, I would presume the latter. To put it briefly, I doubt that you have the interest or the concern to be in the position you hold."

Newton quickly replied, calling the senator "a symbol of the suppressive forces which are waging an all-out assault on the University."

Contest Canceled

The contest, announced in Friday's Daily Iowan, for SUI males to guess which of the 26 candidates for Miss SUI would win, has been canceled. The decision to eliminate the contest was made at a meeting of the Pageant Board Friday night.

The Board decided that due to unforeseen expenses they would not have sufficient funds to finance the contest.

In addition, the contest had not originally met with total agreement of the board.

Evy Tells Hawkeye Rooters, 'Don't Make Vacation Plans'

By BILL PEMBLE
Staff Writer

"Explode the Trojans," Pep Rally number two of the year, went off despite a muddy track Friday night before about 1,500 loyal Hawkeye rooters. Iowa Athletic Director Forest Evashevski highlighted the evening with a brief address, warning the Iowa fans "not to make plans for Christmas vacation."

Emcee Roger Wiley, A3, Sioux City, introduced the opening number, a "Can-Can" featuring Jolene Bryant, A3, Fort Dodge, Gwen Owen, A2, Rapid City, S. D. and Anne Parham, A4, Kirkwood, Mo. Mary Blakey, A3, East Moline, Ill. coordinated the dance routine.

After the "Can-Can," the yell leaders and the "Pom-Pom" girls led the crowd in a few cheers, setting the stage for Evy.

Iowa's genial gentleman of sport, Evy recalled his first Pep Rally at Michigan State after coming from Syracuse to join the MSU staff. Addressing the rally, Evy said, "You need not fear, we'll win for Syracuse."

He hopes "that this year will be more profitable than last." Evy's first year out of the coaching ranks. He had planned to spend time "with my bride of 20 years" and watching his sons play football, Jim at City High and Frosty at Michigan, he said. But, injuries plagued the Evashevskis as well as the Iowa Hawkeyes. Frosty was ruled out for the season, and Jim suffered a head injury and was also forced out.

"This has got to be a happier season!" Evy continued. "When we have a top football team, it represents our university and we know that backing the Hawkeyes gives the students and other fans a chance to 'give vent to pent-up emotions.'"

Coach Jerry Burns and the Iowa football team appeared after Evy's talk. A few more cheers were led and then Wiley informed the crowd that no qualified person was available to donate the USC Trojan horse. Pre-rally plans had called for blowing up a facsimile of a Trojan horse floating on the Iowa River. The fans had to settle for a bonfire instead. Next rally is before Homecoming.

Snodgrass To Lecture Here Monday

W. D. Snodgrass, the only SUI graduate to win the Pulitzer Prize for poetry, will be on campus Monday to study student poems and deliver an address.

Snodgrass will give a public lecture and reading at 7:30 p.m. in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol.

Paul Engle, director of SUI's Writer's Workshop, describes Snodgrass as a "witty as well as excellent speaker."

Snodgrass will discuss the nature of poetry, and will read from Heart's Needle, for which he won the Pulitzer Prize in 1960. Much of the volume was written in the SUI Poetry Workshop while Snodgrass was a student here.

Before his talk, Snodgrass will visit the Poetry Workshop and discuss student poems.

Snodgrass received his B.A. in 1949, M.A. in 1951, and M.F.A. in 1953 all from SUI. He has taught in English departments at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., University of Rochester, N.Y., and Wayne State University, Detroit.

Crowd Cool To JFK Step Into Campaign

President Blasts Republican Party Asks Election Aid

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL

EN ROUTE WITH KENNEDY — President Kennedy blasted Republicans as a party without a program Friday night and declared that only by electing a Democratic Congress can this country get moving again.

Taking his campaign directly into enemy GOP territory, Cincinnati, Kennedy said of the Republicans: "They have made the word 'no' a political program but I believe in the word 'yes.'"

Presidential Press Secretary Pierre Salinger said police captain Gaynor Mills estimated the crowd's size as 30,000.

There was no question that the crowd's sentiment did not completely match the President's.

For as he spoke, Kennedy looked out on an array of homemade signs that carried such slogans as: "Troops for Mississippi but none for Cuba."

"Uphold the Monroe Doctrine," "Less profile, more courage, blockade Cuba."

It apparently was in a direct answer to this silent but conspicuous heckling that Kennedy said: "The last administration paid no attention to Latin America for eight years — and we have paid the price."

But mostly Kennedy kept to the prime purpose of a series of weekly campaign parades which will take him all over the country by Election Day, Nov. 6: to do his best to see that the Congress remains Democratic.

Legislature Adjournment Still Delayed

WASHINGTON — Wrangling over pork barrel legislation plus maneuvers for a pension plan killed hopes Friday for congressional adjournment this week. But the two biggest remaining measures were untangled from controversy.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield (D-Mont.) obtained unanimous consent for the Senate to skip Saturday's sessions — once planned as the windup — and to meet again on Monday. The House went ahead with plans for its Saturday session in order to act on the foreign aid money bill.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.) asked Mansfield how many more days Congress might stay in session. The Democratic leader replied that it might extend "anywhere from next Tuesday to next Saturday or beyond."

Physicians from six states registered here Friday for a two-day conference on arthritis and related disorders being held at the SUI College of Medicine.

The conference is sponsored by the SUI Department of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation and the Iowa Chapter of the Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation.

Dr. Janet Travell, personal physician to President John F. Kennedy, was one of the guest speakers at the conference Friday. W. L. Mooty, lieutenant governor of Iowa, spoke on Building a Healthy Iowa at a dinner meeting Friday evening.

Friday's Clouds Say Rain Today

By The Associated Press

More clouds moved over Iowa Friday, a prelude for expected rains and thunderstorms today.

The rain will precede the movement of a low pressure center into Iowa from the west. By Sunday skies should be partly cloudy and temperatures mild.

Where clouds had already moved into the state Friday, afternoon temperatures stayed in the 60s. In the western counties they were near 70 degrees.

Vietnamese Guerrillas Stage Attack

AP MY LUONG, South Viet Nam

— Communist guerrillas threw a vicious counterpunch at a government task force of more than 1,000 troops Friday, killing a U.S. helicopter crewman and crippling an entire company of Vietnamese rangers. The government claimed 100 guerrillas were slain in the action.

Eleven U.S. Army helicopters roared into the attack area at dawn, and were greeted by heavy ground fire even before reaching their objectives. American gunners in nearly all the battle-scarred H21s in the group blazed away with their 30-caliber machine guns, and tracer bullets churned the watery fields below into fountains.

Here and there running rebels fled and did not move again.

The government had received intelligence reports that several hundred Viet Cong regulars had moved into the area to reinforce regional Communist troops. Since a year ago, this part of Dinh Tuong Province, 50 miles southwest of Saigon, has been controlled by the Viet Cong.

The names of the Americans were withheld pending notification of kin.

A wave of Vietnamese helicopters dived in to evacuate casualties. All of them made it, and for practical purposes, the ground battle was over. Then artillery and bombing planes went to work.

Regents Approve $8,973,000 Asked by SUI for 1963-65

By PEGGY ANNE ROGERS
Staff Writer

The State Board of Regents, in the second session of a three-day meeting here, approved SUI President Virgil M. Hancher's request for $8,973,000 for SUI for the 1963-65 biennium.

The Board also approved a total figure of $22,086,500 for the six state institutions: SUI, Iowa State University, State College of Iowa, Iowa School for the Deaf, Iowa Braille and Sight-Saving School, and State Sanatorium.

In addition the Board will request that the Legislature give the State Board of Regents power to decide on a sabbatical leave policy for faculty members and the right to set traffic regulations and speed limits on campus areas.

Hancher originally asked $25,283,000 for SUI. After consideration by the Board, this figure was reduced to the nearly nine million.

The requests for building needs and related improvements were placed in priority order, and the Board approved in toto the first eight items in the revised proposed budget.

The Legislature of three years ago provided for new buildings at SUI. The present Legislature, to meet this January, will be asked to appropriate $1,123,000 for the

Trojans Seek Grid Revenge Before 60,000

By ERIC ZOECKLER
Sports Editor

Two precision "T" formations go on display this afternoon at Iowa Stadium when Iowa's Hawkeyes tackle the Trojans of Southern California with a national football ranking hanging in the balance.

But the effectiveness of Iowa's new "Floating T" and Southern Cal's "shifting T" may be marred by expected thunderstorms.

The weather could also put a dent in attendance figures as nearly 60,000 fans are expected to turn out if the sun shines.

The Trojans, seeking revenge after last year's 35-34 loss to the Hawks in Los Angeles, must humble the Iowa team to hold on to their six-place national rating. An Iowa triumph — coupled with the easy conquest of Oregon State last week — probably would boost the Hawkeyes into the top 10.

Both Coach Jerry Burns of Iowa and John McKay of USC are hoping for a dry field so they can put their intricate offenses and top flight passers to a real test.

The Trojans sport a remarkable 26-year-old left halfback in junior Willie Brown, a mercury-heeled fellow who runs like the wind with the 15-ounce pigskin.

The Hawks will counter with their captain, Larry Ferguson, like Brown, a left halfback, who proved to Iowans last Saturday in Iowa's opener that he indeed is as sharp as in 1960 when he won All-American honors.

When it comes time to give the ball a toss, both teams will have competent passers with All-American candidates for receivers.

McKay will bank on two formidable signal-callers — Bill Nelsen and Pete Beathard — who will be tossing most of their aerials in the direction of big Hal Bedsole, a 6-5, 225-pound left end, who sets USC records every time he pulls in the ball.

Burns, who will start the same team as last Saturday, will have pin-point passing artist Matt Szykowny and lanky Cloyd Webb, who has made an awesome start toward an all-American rating last Saturday.

In Southern Cal's 14-0 triumph over Duke and 33-3 conquest of Southern Methodist last Saturday, Beathard completed a total of 63 per cent of his tosses, compared to Szykowny's 12 for 17 (70 per cent) against the Beavers.

Bedsole has nabbed nine catches for a total of 211 yards and three touchdowns, while the flashy Brown has romped for more than five yards per carry in two games.

Ferguson will be ably backed by Willie Ray Smith as the Hawks test, for the second time, the new "Floating T." Fergie last Saturday smashed for 64 yards in 15 carries. Smith romped for 64 in 15 attempts.

Burns, who was pleased with the alternating of his first and second units last week, has promised the same procedure today, but he will keep Szykowny in the game when the second unit runs.

McKay will counter with a three-team alternating system with the first team playing both offensive and defense and specialized offensive and defensive units backing it up.

Burns has held light drills this week. Three were in the rain, which will be a point in his favor if the predictions hold up.

If the Iowa monsoons do arrive this afternoon, both coaches are expected to turn more to the services of their big and talented fullbacks.

For McKay, big Ben Wilson would get the call to penetrate the relatively small Iowa defensive wall which, nevertheless, held Oregon State to a —8 yards rushing. Wilson, a 225-pound bull moose, is just now rounding into shape after a knee operation.

Burns would call on Bill Perkins, an equally powerful fullback at 204 pounds. Perkins had only three rushing chances last week, one going for a touchdown.

Unheeded, but explosive as any major football backs, are Iowa's Bobby Grier, who turned in a creditable job last week in his

Barry's Definition Of American Twisted

The current battle raging between Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) and the University of Colorado, indicates that the political right in Colorado with the aid of some powerful outside stormtroopers has once again stepped up its campaign to discredit the University, its administrators and the Democrat-controlled Board of Regents.

The furor started over a possibly libelous statement made about Goldwater in a supplement to the Sept. 21 Colorado Daily. Goldwater demanded and received apologies from both the CU President Quigg Newton and the Daily editor Gary Althen.

But the rampaging senator from the Southwest was not satisfied and responded with a vicious and personal attack on Newton and the University.

We agree that the statement made in the Daily article was possibly libelous, in poor taste and senseless, and that Goldwater deserved an immediate apology. But we also feel that Goldwater should have accepted both Newton's and Althen's apologies in the same spirit in which they were offered. He didn't.

Instead, he chose to renew his attack on CU — apparently still smarting from the less than cordial reception he received there at a speaking engagement last spring.

His attack was politically motivated and constituted an unbelievable insult to not only Newton and the University, but to the whole state of Colorado.

His actions were nothing more than pure political meddling and we suggest that the good senator should keep his nose out of Colorado politics — it is neither needed nor wanted there.

In the increasingly bitter remarks flying between the Capitol in Washington and the campus in Boulder, Goldwater has made one statement which borders on the preposterous and with which we can never agree.

Said Goldwater: "... I am far more concerned about the ability of people with an un-American philosophy to have that philosophy displayed in the college press and, in some cases, defended by that press, than I am about what happens to me or my name. I have spoken with groups of some 250 colleges and schools in this country, and this is the only one where the Socialists, or whatever you care to call them, seem to have the ability to do what they want without censure."

It is hard for us to believe that a man who can be called a United States Senator would level this charge. We do not believe criticism of the American government or its public officials is "un-American." We do not believe that the college press, however critical, should be silenced. And we commend President Newton for his defiance of the Arizona conservative in his reply, "Senator, I shall not silence them."

We commend the University of Colorado for allowing a wholesome atmosphere of academic freedom to exist there and hope that those responsible are not scared off by the "offended" like Goldwater.

We do not believe, as apparently Goldwater does, that we have to agree with him or his conservative philosophy to be American. And we question his definition of "Americanism" when he advocates silencing the voice of the people.

With Fingers Crossed...

As federal forces are beginning to move out of calming Oxford, Miss., many people are looking to the future with their fingers crossed.

They are looking with some apprehension to the last two Southern strongholds of segregation — Alabama and South Carolina. It is inevitable that those states will soon face the same decision which was forced upon Mississippi.

And with many important voices being raised in those states against the federal government's action in Mississippi, the issue is changing from segregation vs. integration to states rights vs. the authority of the United States government to govern by law.

We stand behind President Kennedy's plea to America to support the laws of the land and we hope that the more rational voices will prevail in South Carolina and Alabama.

If those voices do not prevail, America will have to again brace itself for a bloody period of insanity like or worse than that just experienced in Mississippi.

Predicts Nixon Win, If...

By JOSEPH ALSOP
SAN FRANCISCO — The trend in a few precincts does not make a state-wide tide, anymore than a few swallows make a summer. But after rather intensive pavement pounding both here and in Los Angeles, this reporter is convinced that former Vice-President Richard M. Nixon has an excellent chance to win the California elections.

THIS WILL BE something of an upset, if it happens. As already reported in this space, Mervin Field's usually dependable California poll now shows Nixon's opponent, Gov. Pat Brown, with a close-to-commanding lead of 6 percentage points. The best local judges of political form think Field is right. And Nixon's own polls also show Brown in the lead, though by a mere hairline margin.

That was not what Tom and Joan Braden of the Oceanside Blade-Tribune and this reporter found, however, when we rang doorbells in precincts 1240 and 2180 in Los Angeles, and in the 254th precinct of the 18th Assembly District here in San Francisco.

These precincts were chosen because, in 1960, they divided almost exactly evenly. The widest margin, either way, was Kennedy's lead of 106 to 103 in precinct 2180 in Los Angeles.

The two Los Angeles precincts were as like as two peas in a pod — pleasant, semi-suburban neighborhoods full of pleasant people in the comfortable lower middle income range. The San Francisco precinct was a more varied neighborhood of apartments and two-familys houses, in which Chinese, Italian, left-leaning intellectuals, and all sorts of other types co-existed in an amiable melting-pot style.

WE TOOK BIG samples in all three precincts. Leaving out persons who were unregistered, and those who were plainly not going to bother to go to the polls (like some of the less politically aware Chinese ladies in San Francisco), our total of pollees was 136 — which was a large sample from three precincts which only cast a total of about 700 votes in the Presidential election.

In all three precincts, some people who had voted for President Kennedy in 1960 were now getting ready to vote for the former Vice-President. But among those who had voted for Nixon in 1960, no one was seriously considering voting for Brown this year except a solitary San Francisco Chinese.

This is such good news to Nixon, and such bad news for Brown, because the 1960 election in California was about as close as an election in a very big state can possibly be. Nixon won the state in the end by a few thousand absentee ballots. It is obvious, therefore, that if almost no former Nixon-voters are moving into the Brown column, and if fair numbers of former Kennedy-voters are meanwhile moving into the YANKEE-COLLEGE newspapers from Harvard University to UCLA have been printing student reaction and editorial comments on the recent action in Mississippi.

As may be expected, the northern schools were unanimous in both student and editorial opinions concerning Meredith's enrollment. All were dismayed and disgusted by the actions of Mississippi's segregationists.

Student newspapers at Dixie universities in Virginia, North Carolina, Mississippi, Kentucky and Texas were more conservative. Some papers, like the Virginia Cavalier and the Tulane (La.) Hullahaloo seldom mentioned the Ole Miss situation in their news columns, and never did in their editorial columns.

Other southern schools did make notable efforts to underwrite Meredith's right to attend college.

Among them was the University of Texas which sent two telegrams during last week's difficulties. One went to Meredith saluting his "... courage and perseverance in facing overwhelming opposition to ... your constitutional rights."

The other message was addressed to the Ole Miss student body and was sent to the student body president. In it the Texas university said "... (we) remind you that the preservation of freedom and individual rights is the responsibility of every American."

THE TEXAS STUDENT assembly voted 21-8 to send the telegrams.

Also active in the telegram crusade were 400 students at the University of North Carolina. They sent a telegram to Gov. Barnett informing him that the Tar Heels were backing Meredith's admission.

Members of the student government and Daily Tar Heel staffers circulated the telegram, gathering signatures from the entire campus.

A Frenchman at the University of Kansas is disenchanted with Kansas coeds.

He dislikes the women's ever-present white tennis. In France, said Jean-Japues Saurel, the women all wear heels — even to class.

He dislikes the appearance of the American girls here. He said they all look alike with their short hair and white shoes.

He dislikes the way American girls wear their skirts. "Too long and too wide," opined the French connoisseur, "their clothes have no form."

"French girls wear mostly slim skirts, but they don't dress alike."

He dislikes cosmetics. He aimed a blow at lipstick saying: "You can see it from a distance and when you walk up to the girl, it hits you!"

I predict that's not all that will be hitting M. Saurel.

A scheduled vote by the University of Wisconsin faculty members to decide the fate of the local Delta Gamma sorority was postponed this week.

Mounting pressure from students, faculty members and regents has resulted in the faculty's vote being put off until November.

The two-phased plan recommended by a faculty committee seeks to 1.) remove the DG's from campus and 2.) require all Greek organizations to gain autonomy in their pledge choices.

English Prof To Talk On Literary Criticism

Murray Krieger, professor of English at the University of Illinois, will speak on "The Mirrors and Windows of Metaphor" Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the House Chamber of Old Capitol. His talk is sponsored by the Humanities Society and the Graduate College.

Ralph Freedman, associate professor of English, calls Krieger "one of the most important theorists of literary criticism of the younger generation who have developed since World War II. He has been in the forefront in defining the new area of literary criticism."

The lecture will consist of a discussion of a number of sonnets, mainly by Shakespeare, and much of it will be taken from his forthcoming book.

Krieger's studies cover a wide range, including Shakespeare, Croce, Arnold, Hawthorne, Conrad and contemporary poetry.

He has authored several books, including The New Apologists for Poetry, published in 1956, and The Tragic Vision: Variations on a Theme in Literary Interpretation, published in 1960.

Krieger is co-editor of a definitive textbook on aesthetics and the philosophy of art.

This is the first in a series of Humanities lectures for this school year.

Law Graduates Admitted To Bar At Drake Party

Twenty-five SUI law graduates were admitted to practice law in Iowa at a ceremony after a luncheon Friday at Drake University.

The SUiowans were among 39 who passed Iowa bar examinations given at the Statehouse in Des Moines earlier this week.

The 25 SUiowans are: Donnie E. Bennett, Clarinda; Robert E. Coats, Iowa City; William A. Conzett, Dubuque; James C. Davis, Iowa City; Glen L. Griffith, Keokuk; Terry Guinan, Council Bluffs; John E. Harmlink, Yankton, S.D.; Brian R. Heaney, Grand Rapids, Mich.; Russell R. Henry, Des Moines;

Larrie C. Hindman, Meservey; Karl J. Horn, Audubon; Lloyd E. Humphreys, Iowa City; Charles M. Kiersch, Iowa City; David R. Killinger, St. Petersburg, Fla.; William D. Kurth, Lake City; Milford R. Limesand, Lake Mills; Donald J. Menster, Cascade; Howard P. Myers, Pleasantville; Dean E. Phillips, Brewerton, N.Y.; Daryl E. Roberts, Dallas; Thomas Rowe, Fairfield; Leo J. Steffen Jr., Oelwein; Gary M. Veldey, Estherville; Thomas J. Wilkinson Jr., Cedar Rapids; and Chris J. Zogg, Long Grove.

College of Nursing Hosts Workshop

More than 50 nurses from Midwestern hospitals will attend a Workshop in Supervision of Direct Patient Care next week at the SUI Center for Continuation Study under sponsorship of the SUI College of Nursing.

Thora Patterson, associate director of nursing services at Michael Reese Hospital, Chicago, will give eight of the workshop lectures. Other speakers will include Sister Mary Annetta, director of the Mercy Hospital School of Nursing, Iowa City; the Rev. Paul M. Dietrich of the Asbury Methodist Church, Wellman, and Pearl Zemlicka, assistant professor of nursing at SUI.

Group discussion leaders will be Ann Hunter, former instructor in the SUI College of Nursing; Margaret Miller, nursing supervisor, University Hospitals; and Betty Hendricks, instructor in nursing at SUI.

Hebrew Holy Day Observed Here

Agudas Achim congregation and Hillel foundation will observe the Hebrew holy day, Yom Kippur (day of atonement), here Sunday evening and Monday.

Rabbi Sheldon Edwards, foundation leader, and Cantor Leo Pettman will officiate at the services. Yom Kippur is the holiest day in the Hebrew calendar and marks a period of 24 hours of fasting.

The observance here will begin with the Kol Nidre service at 6 p.m. Sunday in Macbride auditorium.

Episcopals Plan Dinner

All Episcopal students, faculty, and members of Trinity Parish are invited to the annual Student-Faculty Parish Dinner at the Episcopal Church at 5:15 p.m. There will be dancing in the lounge from 7:30 p.m.

'Pom Pom Girls' Work Hard To Help Stir School Spirit

NADINE GODWIN Staff Writer

Football games are a little different this year. This fall a megaphone cheering block, created by the SUI Pep Club, sits where the card section sat last year; Coach Jerry Burns this season instituted the floating T formation, a new alignment for the SUI football team.

And to complete the "new look"

theme for SUI, the SUI-Liters, tagged the "Pom Pom Girls," replace the female cheerleaders. There are seven pompon waving, dancing SUI-Liters. They are: Diana Lyman, A2, Des Moines; Jinny Hall, A3, Cedar Rapids; Sherrie Dunham, A2, Rock Island, Ill.; Sandi Ericson, A2, Elmhurst, Ill.; Jill Owens, A2, Davenport; and Linda Markulin, A2, Elmhurst, Ill. Judy David, A3, Decatur, Ill., is alternate.

The seven girls are not cheerleaders as such. They work out their own dance routines and perform in cooperation with the SUI Marching Band.

The Liters came to Iowa City two weeks before classes started in order to begin practice. They practice two days a week now and each Saturday morning before a game.

Marcia Thayer, head of the dance department at the women's gym, is advisor to the Liters. Norman R. Holzappel, gymnastics coach in the men's physical education department, also works with the girls in making arrangements for their out-of-town trips.

The Liters will accompany the football team to Indiana, Wisconsin, Minnesota and perhaps to Notre Dame. They will also help stir SUI spirit during the basketball season and will travel to some basketball games.

Last spring the girls were selected by the outgoing cheerleaders and four representatives from the Pep Club and men's and women's gyms.

The girls then chose their name, the SUI-Liters. They have since been dubbed the "Pom Pom Girls," although correctly speaking, they wave pompons.

Creation of the Liter group is part of an effort of George Mayer, A3, Fairfield, president of the Pep Club, and others to create pep among SUI fans.

Miss Dunham said the girls hope "to stir up more school spirit, to make the kids really want to support the team."

She expressed her own feelings and said, "Really, we do have a great school. I wish these kids would get out there and yell their heads off."

Talks Set On Aging

The ninth annual conference on Gerontology will be held on SUI campus Monday and Tuesday.

Those attending the conference will register between 10-30 and noon at the main lobby of the University Library.

The conference will focus on education for aging. During the three sessions the following themes will be discussed: 1. The educational status of middle-aged and older adults. 2. Motivation and resources for adult education. 3. A program of action: next steps in education for aging.

Dr. W. W. Morris is the director of the SUI Institute of Gerontology and general chairman for the conference.

SUI Music Librarian Returns from Sweden

Rita Benton, SUI music librarian returned to the campus recently after a trip to Europe during which she attended the Sixth International Congress of Music Librarians.

The congress was held at the Royal Swedish Academy of Music in Stockholm, Sweden, and at the University of Uppsala. Mrs. Benton spoke at a session of the congress on "Early Musical Scholarship in the United States."

The SUI music librarian is president of the Music Library Association of the United States.

Odd Job Help Wanted

Male students interested in working odd jobs at $1.25 an hour can register with Howard Moffitt, manager of student affairs, at the Office of Student Affairs, University Hall.

The jobs will include, for example, work such as removing screens, putting up storm windows, yardwork, and cleaning basements.

She Saw Psychiatrist—

Boston Deb Suspect Jailed

BOSTON — Seemingly dazed, a small, blonde post-debutante stood in Municipal Court where a judge ordered her jailed Friday pending grand jury consideration of a charge that she murdered the man she had talked of marrying.

Suzanne Clift, 21, was quoted by police as saying she shot to death Piero Brentani, 27, Italian electronic engineer. But they said she offered no reason.

The nude body of the handsome, 6-foot Brentani was found Wednesday beneath a sheet on a bed in Suzanne's locked bedroom.

Police said they were told by the girl that she killed Brentani Monday and left the apartment Tuesday for an airplane flight to Brazil and return, accompanied only by her pet dachshund.

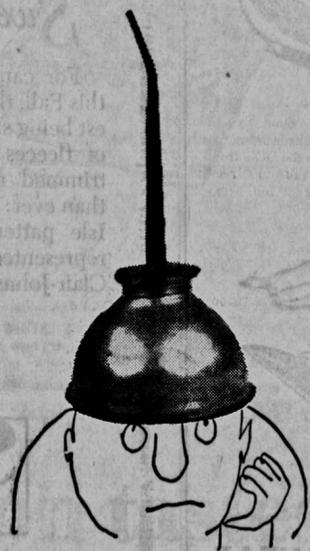

The return of her social-register grandmother, Barbara Pierce Pearmain, from her summer home on Cape Cod led to the discovery of the slaying. Suzanne occupied quarters in her grandmother's Beacon Hill home.

Miss Clift, a niece of movie actor Montgomery Clift, had met Brentani on a blind date two years ago. They had been friends since.

Recently, Brentani, holder of degrees from a Swiss university and Harvard, resigned his position with the announced intention of vacationing in Florence, Italy, and then taking a job in California.

Seemingly confused, she shuttled by cab from the railroad station to her home, and then, without entering, to a hotel where she turned the dog over to the cab driver. He went to police.

Cracked Road To Be Checked

AMES — A district engineer for the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads said Friday an investigation will be made into the settling and breaking up of half-completed Interstate 80 south of Grinnell.

Morris Sloan, the district engineer, said an engineer from the Ames office of the bureau will make the investigation. He said the federal government, paymaster for the interstate system, wants to check the daily records on the project dealing with construction, inspection and testing.

"We're not going to sit back and twiddle our thumbs and say 'Gosh, that's too bad,'" Sloan said. "We're naturally concerned about this and we want to find out why it happened."

Sloan said the inquiry will be made Monday. Part of a dirt embankment supporting one of the interstate lanes started sliding out from under the road earlier this week, leaving huge crevices in the roadbed of the superhighway.

In one 300-foot area, the roadbed has dropped about a foot, leaving cracks 8 to 10 inches wide. This area will be ripped out and replaced before construction continues.

L. M. Clauson, chief engineer of the Iowa Highway Commission, said Friday the embankment "could have been built so the slide wouldn't have happened, but it would have cost so much extra it would have been uneconomical."

"We could have removed the natural soil from beneath the embankment and put in better soil, but our tests showed us the natural soil met our strength requirements."

He said to have done the job the other way would have cost an extra $40,000 to $50,000. Clauson said that by the time all corrective measures are taken on the bad spot, they will cost a total of $10,000 to $20,000.

"Even considering the cost of the corrective measures, we're ahead of the game moneywise," the chief engineer commented. "These things have happened before."

ENGINEERS—Can you intersect each of these circles using 3 straight lines, without retracing or removing your pencil from the paper?

ALL OUR PROBLEMS ARE NOT THIS SIMPLE

We say "our" advisedly. YOU have to decide which companies to see about your future job. At a time when you've already got more to do than you can reasonably handle, it would be helpful if making that job choice could be done for you by slide rule—or computer. If it's any consolation, WE are facing much the same problem—from the opposite side of the fence. We've got to make decisions about a lot of young Engineers like you—also without benefit of slide rule or computer. We must decide who would be of help to us in tackling assignments in today's technologies of the aerospace and electronics industries. You DO have one advantage we haven't—you probably know something about General Dynamics already. We'd like to even the score a bit by finding out more about you. A discussion might solve both our problems.

Our Representative will be on your campus shortly with information about positions in each of these divisions:
in CALIFORNIA—Convair and Astronautics Divisions in San Diego; Pomona Division in Pomona in NEW YORK—Electronics and Telecommunication Divisions in Rochester in TEXAS—Fort Worth Division in Fort Worth

Incidentally, our man will have the solution to the puzzle along, just in case you missed it. Why not make a date to see us at your Placement Office now?

INTERVIEWS AT SUI
TUESDAY, OCTOBER 9
This invitation is also open to candidates for advanced degrees in Engineering, Physics and Mathematics. If you should miss us, you can get information on careers at any of General Dynamics Divisions by writing to Tracy Brooks.

Chats Disrupt Schirra; He 'Goofs' Fuel Use

By RALPH DIGHTON

ABOARD USS KEARSARGE IN PACIFIC — Too much chit-chat on the worldwide radio network distracted astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. during his six-orbit space flight Wednesday, and once caused him inadvertently to use fuel from two sources, a space agency spokesman reported Friday.

The radio gabfest did not prevent a sensationally successful mission. But, on future space trips, "We will make a definite effort to reduce the amount of talk on the astronaut frequency," said Lt. Col. John H. Powers of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The problem of too many people on the air waves was brought out during Schirra's discussions with his fellow astronauts and engineers as this recovery ship steamed toward Hawaii. The Kearsarge is due Saturday. Schirra will transfer immediately to a plane and fly to Houston, Tex.

Schirra was quoted as saying in the private conference: "You need some quiet time up there."

He complained that every time he had to start thinking about adjusting the space capsule's attitude controls or some other part of the system, somebody on earth broke in on the radio.

In addition to messages addressed to him directly, he could not help hearing the talk of tracking stations and everyone else on the network.

Powers disclosed that Schirra at one point used fuel from both his available sources to control drift. Schirra himself considered this as a "goof," possibly due to distraction.

Scientist Sees Space Danger

WASHINGTON — Astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. might have been killed if his space capsule had passed through an artificial radiation belt created by a U.S. high-altitude nuclear test explosion, an Air Force scientist said Friday.

"It conceivably could have been fatal to Schirra if he'd gone above 400 miles," Lt. Col. Albert C. Trakowski Jr., said. He presented an Air Force statement on the radiation belt and answered questions at a news conference.

Schirra actually got no higher than 176 miles on his six-orbit spin around the earth two days ago. This was below the weakest part of the artificial belt that starts about 200 miles above the globe and extends at least 1,000 miles.

The scientist's report on the intensity of radiation in the artificial belt carries implications of danger to future exploration deeper into space.

Trakowski indicated also the belt generated by the 250-mile-high nuclear test blast would be strong enough to blind any spy-in-the-sky satellite — U.S. or Soviet — which might move through it above 400 miles, where the radiation increases sharply.

WHAT TO WEAR TILL THE DOCTOR COMES

Now that you have enrolled and paid your fees and bought your books and found your way around campus and learned to hate your roommate, it is time to turn to the most important aspect of college life. I refer, of course, to clothes. What does Dame Fashion decree for the coming school year? (Incidentally, Dame Fashion is not, as many people believe, a fictitious character. She was a real Englishwoman who lived in Elizabethan times and, indeed, England is forever in her debt. During the invasion of the Spanish Armada, Dame Fashion—not yet a Dame but a mere, unlettered country lass named Moll Flanders—during the invasion, I say, of the Spanish Armada, this dauntless girl stood on the white cliffs of Dover and turned the tide of battle by rallying the drooping morale of the British fleet with this stirring poem of her own composition:

Don't be gueses,
Men of Britain,
Swing your cutlass,
We ain't quittin'.
Smash the Spanish,
Sink their boats,
Make 'em vanish,
Like a horse makes oats.
For Good Queen Bess,
Dear sirs, you gotta
Make a mess
Of that Armada.
You won't fail!
Knock 'em flat!
Then we'll drink ale
And stuff like that.

In 1589 she invented the laying hen

As a reward for these inspirational verses Queen Elizabeth dubbed her a Dame, made her Post Laureate, and gave her the Western Hemisphere except Duluth. But this was not the extent of Dame Fashion's service to Queen and country. In 1589 she invented the laying hen, and she was awarded a lifetime pass to Chavez Ravine. But she was not to end her days in glory. In 1591, alas, she was arrested for overtime jousting and imprisoned for thirty years in a butt of malmsiey. This later became known as Guy Fawkes Day.)

But I digress. Let us get back to campus fashions. Certain to be the rage again this year is the cardigan (which, curiously enough, was named after Lord Cardigan, who commanded the English fleet against the Spanish Armada. The sweater is only one product of this remarkable Briton's imagination. He also invented the glottal stop, the gerund, and the eyelid, without which winking, as we know it today, would not be possible).

But I digress. The cardigan, I say, will be back, which is, I believe, cause for rejoicing. Why? Because the cardigan has nice big pockets in which to carry your Marlboro Cigarettes—and that, good friends, is ample reason for celebration as all of you will agree who have enjoyed Marlboro's fine, comfortable, mellow flavor and Marlboro's filter. So why don't you slip into your cardigan and tie yourself to your tobaccologist for some good Marlboros? They come in soft pack or flip-top box. Cardigans come in pink for girls and blue for boys. © 1962 Max Shabman Cardigans or pullovers—it's a matter of taste... And so is Marlboro a matter of taste—the best taste that can possibly be achieved by experienced growers and blenders—by science, diligence, and tender loving care. Try a pack.

Kelso: 'Try to Educate People'

Preserve the Traditions, Folk Singer Says

By BILL GRIMSTAD
Staff Writer

Paul Kelso G. Dallas is a young man who is making quite a name for himself around town on the folk music scene.

The following are some of Kelso's ideas about folk singing as told to a DI reporter:

"What I'm trying to do is to educate people as to where the folk song comes from and put it in its historical perspective. My primary purpose is to recreate or more or less save the traditions of folk music. That's what so many of these young people need — they learn fifteen songs from a record album and they think they're a folk singer. — Tradition, tradition."

"You know I play for a lot of fraternities and banquets and conventions. There's a lot of interest in folk songs on this campus and I'm darn pleased! The instruments and the songs are easy to learn by anyone. But not everyone realizes how much there is to learn from the past!

"And that so much of what's sold as folk these days isn't genuine. And the popular folk song groups often use jazz chords, for instance."

"I've been interested in these songs since I was about 13. My mother was from Arkansas and loved this music and my father knew a lot of the old firehall things. I sing a bit myself."

Kelso, 25, was graduated last year from North Texas State, and is currently doing postgraduate study at the University, with an interdepartmental major in music and English. "The long term goal of my training is to be a concert folk singer with an academic background."

"You know this Saturday we plan to run something very good over WSUI," Kelso said. "Five or six of us from the campus went down to Arrow Rock, Mo. last summer where there were pickers, singers, fiddlers, what have you. And we're going to play the tape from it. —

"I have no objection to a folk singer changing a song as long as he does it in the traditional way. I guess you might say I have a whiskey baritone voice. There are three styles: finger pickin', flat pickin' and blues. This style I'm using is a mountain style I'm not certain anyone else uses it. Lester Flatt and Earl Scruggs (two country music pickers and singers) are two great stylists."

Kelso has just begun a series of programs on WSUI at 8:30 a.m. each Saturday. During these programs Kelso provides comment and historical data about folk music, some of which is on record and some of which he sings.

Des Moines To Get Land

DES MOINES (AP) — U.S. Rep. Neal Smith of Altoona sent word from Washington Friday of a plan to dispose of 340 acres of surplus land at the old Fort Des Moines army post.

The General Services Administration outlined the plan to Smith.

The plan calls for the College of Osteopathic Medicine and Surgery of Des Moines to get 86 acres as a site for a new campus. The City of Des Moines is to get 138 acres as a site for a park. The Des Moines School District is to get 86 acres as a site for an elementary school, a junior high school and a high school. And 30 acres is to be sold as unimproved land to the highest bidder.

Students Protest Ban

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — An estimated 1,400 umbrella carrying University of Wisconsin students staged a demonstration Thursday in protest to a proposal that Delta Gamma sorority be banned from campus.

The students paraded on the walk around various university buildings and along fraternity row.

Spokesmen for the group presented to Leroy E. Luberger, dean of students, a resolution protesting a University faculty Human Rights Committee recommendation to ban the sorority. The recommenation contended the sorority's national council maintained a policy of racial discrimination.

Luberger accepted the resolution and said he would give it to UW President Fred Harrington.

The University faculty is expected to rule in a few weeks on the recommendation offered by the Human Rights Committee.

NOW YOU KNOW

why more people smoke Winston than any other filter cigarette.
Flavor does it every time—rich, golden tobaccos specially selected and specially processed for filter smoking!

PURE WHITE. MODERN FILTER

PLUS FILTER - BLEND UP FRONT

Winston tastes good like a cigarette should!
