Attacks on Cuban Shipping Prompt U.S. Statement

No Guarantee Extended For Cargo Safety

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States declined Friday to guarantee the safety of British ships carrying cargoes to Cuba. In effect, it warned all maritime powers that vessels in the Cuban trade run some risk of attack by anti-Castro raiders.

State Department press officer Lincoln White told a news conference:

"There is no absolute guarantee against any incident taking place."

There already has been at least one attack which involved a British ship. A Cuban-exile organization, Alpha 66, which claimed to have carried out that operation, announced Thursday it is declaring war on all ships carrying supplies to Cuba.

The British government, through its embassy here, had expressed concern to the State Department about an incident which took place on Sept. 10. News dispatches from London reflected British displeasure with the general U.S. attitude toward Cuban shipping.

White dealt specifically with the problem of attacks on shipping and did not get into the broader issues raised by U.S. efforts to reduce the number of free world vessels carrying supplies to Prime Minister Fidel Castro from the Soviet Union and other Soviet-bloc countries.

The British were assured that these attacks do not have the sanction of the U.S. government, he said.

But he went on to say that Cuban refugee groups "reside in many places all around the Caribbean Sea and the United States cannot assume responsibility for acts initiated by Cuban exiles who have left from points not under U.S. jurisdiction."

In the affair of Sept. 10, a hit-and-run assault was made on a Cuban harbor, and the Havana radio said that the raiders fired more than 60 shots into a British freighter and other vessels. The port was Caibarien, on Cuba's north coast. The British ship involved was the 7,043-ton freighter Newlane.

In the background of the issue over Cuban exile activities is a more fundamental policy argument over shipping and that is due to come into clear focus next week.

At that time the Kennedy administration plans to impose penalties on ships carrying supplies from the Communist Bloc. The principal penalty will be the closing of U.S. ports and the denial of U.S. cargoes to such vessels.

The News In Brief

By The Associated Press
MOSCOW — The Soviet Union Friday ordered another U.S. diplomat expelled on charges of spying — evening the score for two Soviets kicked out of the United States as spies.

The U.S. Embassy termed the Soviet move so obvious that Minister-Counselor John M. McSweney did not even bother to protest.

The Soviets charged Kermit S. Midthun, first secretary at the U.S. Embassy, "attempted to induce a Soviet citizen, an employee of institutions, to transmit to him information of a secret character."

MONTE CARLO, Monaco — The French Government clamped a customs barrier around Prince Rainier's tax-free paradise of Monaco early Saturday. Then, within an hour it melted away under a soft Mediterranean rain.

Apparently, the French went off to bed — forgetting at least for the night about using the barrier as a means of forcing the tiny Riviera principality to accede to demands of Paris for customs taxes.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam — Government armored vehicles spearheading a Plain of Reeds offensive killed 37 of a band of Communist guerrillas Friday and scattered the rest, the Vietnamese high command announced.

Bride Uses Shotgun; Laggard Lover Leaps

RAGUSA, Sicily (AP) — She fired eight shots at him and hit him only once. Three months later, she married him in the Ragusa prison where she is serving a sentence for attempted homicide.

Wed Friday were Nunziata Ventura, 16, and Emanuele Starquadaine, 19.

The bride's father, Gaetano Ventura, was present to give her away. He is serving a sentence in the same jail for encouraging his daughter to take vengeance when her fiance kept putting off the wedding.

Bridge Opens With Boycott Of Diplomats

PANAMA (AP) — A new, U.S.-built bridge over the Pacific entrance to the Panama Canal opened Friday to jeers of students waving Cuban revolutionary flags and a boycott of almost the entire diplomatic corps.

The diplomats refused to attend the opening ceremonies sponsored by the Joint U.S.-Panama Commission on a charge that their invitations did not come from official Panamanian channels. They were miffed, too, because arrangements called for their use of buses, rather than their own cars, to reach the bridge.

Ambassadors from only five countries attended the ceremonies opening the span linking the Americas for the first time since the Panama Canal was dug nearly 50 years ago. These ambassadors were from Italy, West Germany, Great Britain, Nationalist China and Spain.

None of the ambassadors of Latin America turned out. The papal nuncio, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Antonio Pinci, also joined the boycott.

The Foreign Ministry agreed there were no official invitations issued by the government but it said the diplomatic corps was invited by an agency accredited by the Panamanian government — the Joint U.S.-Panama Commission.

Construction of the bridge with $20 million in U.S. funds has become a sore point with Panamanian nationalists who claim Panamanian sovereignty over the canal.

Against this background, large numbers of left-wing students turned out with Cuban flags in an attempt to break up the ceremonies. But police kept them at a distance.

Burge Hall Evacuated After Laundry Alarm

A small fire started in Burge Hall Friday night, the result of a load of clothes overheating while in a dryer in the Burge laundry. Firemen received a call at 6:40 p.m. The dorm was evacuated and the small blaze extinguished.

JFK Steps Up Campaigning

PITTSBURGH (AP) — This steel city gave President Kennedy a howling welcome Friday night as he came to key Pennsylvania for a slashing attack on the Republicans after low-gear campaigning in New York and New Jersey earlier in the day.

By far the most enthusiastic — if not the largest — throng of his fall political journeys in behalf of Democratic congressional and state candidates lined Pittsburgh's streets to cheer the president.

Previously, the nearby steel town of Aliquippa had turned out en masse to hear Kennedy denounce what he called GOP obstructionists and to appeal for the election of Democrats he said he would support his programs and "keep the country moving ahead."

In a shift from the low speed campaigning he had done on a Columbus Day tour of Newark, N.J., and New York City, Kennedy lit into the Republicans for what he said was a "blind, negative opposition" to American progress.

This attack represented a change in pace from his display of the presidential image to crowds in New Jersey and New York.

But the political impact of the President's exposure to hundreds

House Blocks Adjournment Of Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress hopes to adjourn Friday night were blasted when the House failed to muster a quorum, and had to quit until noon Saturday.

A roll-call vote on an amendment to a public works appropriation bill produced only 204 members after a long delay. That was 14 short of a quorum, or a majority, to transact business.

Rather than try to round up absent members, Majority Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma moved for adjournment and Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts declared the motion carried.

Leaders believed they could produce enough absentees by noon Saturday to have a quorum. Many of the absentees were Easterners who had left late Friday. Many of the California members had left for Saturday's funeral for Rep. Clem Miller of California.

It had appeared earlier that action by Senate conferees in yielding to the House on $1.5 billion in authorizations for "pork barrel" projects had cleared the way for final adjournment sometime during the night.

Other ticklish problems remained, however, including two big money bills. Among other things they carry actual funds for water and flood control projects.

This final regular session of the 87th Congress already has run longer than any since the Korean War session of 1951 which ended Oct. 20.

The big break came late in the afternoon when Senate-House conferees reported agreement on a measure authorizing navigation, flood control and power dam projects to be built in future years with funds to be appropriated later.

Final action isn't necessary at present but these authorizations are important to incumbents seeking re-election.

The House had approved 166 projects to cost about $2.25 billion but the Senate boosted this by 50 projects and pushed the authorization to about $5 billion.

Red Aid to Cuba $1 Million a Day

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asst. Secretary of State Edwin M. Martin said Friday night the Soviet Union is now supplying military equipment to Cuba at the rate of about $200 million for this year.

Martin also estimated that at present over-all Soviet assistance in support of the Castro regime is costing the U.S.S.R. about $1 million a day "above and beyond what they are getting from Cuba."

In a CBS radio interview, Martin said Soviet help is probably just about enough to keep Cuba's "head above water — at a relatively low level."

Kennedy Greeted By Friendly Signs

President John F. Kennedy has been greeted by critical signs along the campaign trail in recent days. Along the speech-making route Friday he saw some cheering signs.

In Harlem there were signs borne aloft that were happy to see. One said, "Meredith has courage and so does Kennedy." Another, sounding the same theme, said, "Columbus discovered America — Kennedy discovered the Constitution."

Kennedy Greeted By Friendly Signs

But the President discarded all pretense of nonpartisanship when he flew into Pennsylvania.

He said in a speech prepared for a Democratic party rally at the University of Pittsburgh field-house that while his Administration has put a million more people back to work than had jobs at the end of the previous Republican regime, a lot remains to be done.

"This election is all-important," he said. "For while we have made progress despite Republican opposition, there is much more to be done."

Walker Waits Nehru Issues Warning For Tests

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Former Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker remained ready Friday to undergo psychiatric examination any time he is called, one of his attorneys reported.

The former Army officer presented himself at 10:30 p.m. Thursday to Southwestern Medical School for examination as directed by court order.

He talked there 20 minutes with Dr. R. L. Stubblefield and left with instructions to return when Stubblefield directs.

The pending examination is an outgrowth of federal charges against Walker of insurrection and seditious conspiracy. They came as a result of Walker's activities when a crowd rioted during integration troubles at the University of Mississippi on Sept. 30 and Oct. 1.

Nehru estimated the Communists suffered nearly 100 casualties — nearly three times the 33 casualties acknowledged by Peiping. Indian losses were officially listed here at 6 killed, 11 wounded and 7 missing.

Nehru told reporters, just before boarding a plane for Ceylon, he had ordered the army "to free our territory in the North East Frontier."

The prime minister's departure from the country for three days indicated Indian troops were not about to start marching immediately.

Nehru told newsmen: "So long as this particular aggression of the Communists continues there appears to be no chance of talks."

The Indian leader has repeatedly insisted the Chinese must withdraw before he would negotiate the 50,000 square miles in dispute.

Nehru took no public cognizance of Peiping's stiff warning Thursday in what the Communists called "another strongest and most serious protest" concerning Wednesday's fight.

The Peiping note declared: "Should the Indian side still not rein in before the precipice but continue to spread the flames of war, the Indian government must bear full responsibility for the resulting casualties on both sides and all other consequences that may ensue."

Quick Work Halts Danger In Gas Leak

By JAN SURASKY
Staff Writer

Tragedy was prevented here Friday afternoon with the quick welding of a broken gas line across the street to the east of the Union.

According to D. E. Richards, foreman of the G. Grading Excavation and Construction company, his men were clearing stumps with bulldozers behind the Dentistry building at 3:30 p.m.

A 3 1/2 by 2 1/2 hole was gouged in the top of a natural-gas pipe when a stump was torn from the ground. The escaping gas was shut off as soon as possible.

The fire and police departments were called. The Union was evacuated and Market and Jefferson Streets were blocked in the area.

The 2-inch gas line, part of the Iowa, Illinois Gas and Electric Company service, was about 1 foot under the ground. The line has a pressure of 100 pounds per square inch.

Gas service was restored about 5:15 p.m., when the line was welded.

A fireman at the scene said that an explosion could have been caused even by a car backfiring.

The ground across from the Union is being cleared so a parking lot can be constructed.

Girl Breaks Color Bars

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP) — A Negro girl was enrolled at Patrick Henry College here Friday — the first of her race to break the classroom color barrier in staunchly segregationist southside Virginia.

Hazel Huth Adams, 17, of Cascade in nearby Pittsylvania County, came to the college — a University of Virginia branch — on a day when no classes were being held and registered without incident.

Sherman Dutton, director of the community college here, kept his office open in order to register Miss Adams, who won admission to the all-white college in a federal court suit that went unopposed.

The community college's advisory board has bitterly criticized the parent university for failure to contest the girl's suit when it came before U.S. Dist. Court Judge Thomas Michie last Wednesday.

The 11-member board said Thursday the contest of such suits by Negroes for enrollment in white public schools and colleges is "the clearly declared policy by our state government."

Miss Adams, a freshman, graduated from an all-Negro high school last June and originally was enrolled at the Virginia State College at Petersburg, a Negro institution. She changed her mind, however, and sought enrollment here.

She explained today that this meant they would comply insofar as they were "legally permitted to do so."

The court also delayed final action on the Justice Department's request for a preliminary injunction to block interference with Meredith.

The tribunal said it would have to decide legal questions relating to the injunction before it could take final action in the contempt proceedings.

Clark said Barnett had complied with the court's orders in that James H. Meredith, 29, had been admitted to Ole Miss and was attending classes there. Chief Judge Elbert P. Tuttle of Atlanta, Ga., said the Negro was "barely" an Ole Miss student.

Earlier, the Mississippi attorneys attacked a Justice Department request for an injunction to prevent interference with Meredith, saying the court has no legal power to issue it.

Also at Oxford, Meredith completed his second week as a student at the university. At 3:10 p.m. he left the university by Border Patrol plane, presumably to spend the weekend at Memphis, Tenn.

Marshall's suggestion to the appeals court that it only start collecting fines — and forego any jail term — for Barnett's contempt drew opposition from Meredith's attorneys. They asked the court to put the full penalty into effect immediately.

The court delayed any final decision pending submission of written briefs from opposing attorneys in the case on Monday.

Clark said his words were misunderstood by the court at a hearing here 10 days ago. Barnett had originally been given until Oct. 2 — 10 days ago — to show he had purged himself.

Judge Rives, who was present at the Oct. 2 hearing said: "I didn't get that the governor is to substitute his judgment for that of the court and now you say he is."

Clark said that Barnett and Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr., had promised they would obey the court's mandate "to the best of their ability."

He explained today that this meant they would comply insofar as they were "legally permitted to do so."

Gov. Barnett Braves Fines In Court Test

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Braving huge fines and possible imprisonment, Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett told a federal appeals court Friday he could not do everything the judges wanted in the University of Mississippi desegregation case.

As before in the series of hearings on contempt charges, Barnett did not appear before the court. An attorney spoke for him.

The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals took no immediate action against Barnett.

Of Oxford, the dean of students at Ole Miss, L. L. Love, ordered an immediate end to student demonstrations — jeers and threats, among other things — aimed at Meredith. He said violations will "bring immediate and drastic disciplinary action."

Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. Burke Marshall said Barnett's arrest would serve "no remedial purpose" at present.

However, Marshall said Barnett had only "partially purged himself of contempt." He recommended the court start collecting part of the $10,000 daily fine which — along with imprisonment — it had previously set as Barnett's penalty for civil contempt.

Barnett's attorney, Charles Clark, said the court had misunderstood his plea at a previous hearing. He said Barnett reserved for himself to decide which of the court's orders he could legally comply with.

U.S. Circuit Judge Richard T. Rives of Montgomery, Ala., commented: "We have indeed entered 'Alice in Wonderland' where language doesn't mean what it says."

Clark said Barnett had complied with the court's orders in that James H. Meredith, 29, had been admitted to Ole Miss and was attending classes there. Chief Judge Elbert P. Tuttle of Atlanta, Ga., said the Negro was "barely" an Ole Miss student.

Whetstone Funeral To Be Held Today

Funeral services for Robert R. Whetstone, 79, an Iowa City drug-gist for many years, will be held at 3:30 p.m. today in the First Presbyterian Church here.

Mr. Whetstone, owner of three drug stores here from 1912 to 1945, died Thursday of a heart ailment.

Mr. Whetstone graduated from Iowa City High School in 1900 and the SUI College of Pharmacy in 1904.

His only survivors are three cousins, one of Iowa City, William M. Byington.

Undergrads Neglected By Federal Grants

In the past two decades, the amount of Federal aid to institutions of higher learning has jumped from small research grants to more than $2 billion per year. The need for more Federal aid stems logically from a large number of veterans enrolled under the G.I. bill and from a gigantic increase in enrollment caused by the population explosion.

Since the great majority of today's students are undergraduates, it seems fair that the majority of Federal funds be of direct benefit to them. But a consideration of statistics and the attitude with which colleges accept Federal aid shows that the undergraduate may be getting a thin slice of the Federally endowed pie.

In 1959, the Carnegie Corporation undertook a study of 26 institutions to determine the nature of Federal involvement in college affairs. Despite the oft-discussed dangers of Federal control, the 26 colleges all reported that Federal involvement was "a good thing."

The institutions felt that Federal help stimulates research, and provides expensive laboratories and facilities colleges would ordinarily save to build for themselves. In addition, Federal grants contribute greatly in supporting and encouraging professors and graduate students, according to the colleges.

However, the colleges did not reflect an entirely "Pollyanna" view of Federal involvement. The Carnegie investigation revealed a widespread fear that "encouragement of research within a University will make it increasingly difficult for a faculty to show proper concern for instruction of undergraduates."

SUI is a very graphic illustration of this adverse effect on undergraduates. While a graduate student in our ten colleges can usually expect an ideal environment for personal and scholastic enrichment, freshmen may attend Western Civilization classes in antiquated quonset buildings on Clinton Street.

On the state financing level, the Board of Regents at times appears reluctant to meet the allocations asked by the Administration, and yet it approves a $4.6 million addition to the Iowa Memorial Union.

And to top off the enigma which exists here, the undergraduates who should voice their discontent remain apathetic, seemingly unaware of their position.

But even if undergraduates dispute the preferential treatment given to graduate students and professors, one iron-clad argument may be used against them. Graduate students and professors have proven their right to superior facilities by showing high scholastic aptitude.

The still-large dropout rate among college freshmen discourages large scale Federal programs for the less attractive "business risks." Limited grants are available under the National Defense Education acts, but their funds are trivial compared to Federal aid to research.

The problem confronting our underclassmen has no immediate solution. Only when entrance requirements become so strict that only the academically superior are admitted, will the Government turn over funds for more first and second year students. But even then the problem will not be solved, for the benefits will still be going to a select group. We predict that very little Federal aid will trickle down to those who must seek their training in less academic areas.

Ill-Advised Wit

The recent behavior of Gen. Edwin A. Walker in leading Mississippi students and residents to riot (as a private citizen) has prompted many of the country's newspapers to editorially question his mental health.

Some of the adjectives used in describing Gen. Walker are reminiscent of a time when mental illness was misunderstood — a source of shame for relatives of the afflicted.

The words "nut house," "booby-hatch" and the terms "flipped his lid" and "off his rocker" reveal ignorance or indifference to correct phraseology just as an overabundance of swear words betrays a limited vocabulary.

Editorials are written to mold public opinion, but we hope editorials using these tasteless expressions do not effectively impart the message.

We think Gen. Walker's actions reveal that he may be suffering from mental illness. In order that his behavior could be analyzed, he was taken to a mental hospital.

While these terms are perhaps not as colorful as the slang expressions, we feel they are more appropriate than the ill-advised wit so regrettably abundant in so many of today's editorials.

Drama Review—

Dame Judith Anderson Superb in 'Medea,' 'Macbeth'

By PEGGY ROGERS Staff Writer

The hubris of hate, horror and hysteria emanated from veteran actress Judith Anderson in the Main Lounge of the Union Thursday evening. A capacity audience of 1500 gave Miss Anderson and her cast a standing ovation at the conclusion of the "Macbeth" and "Medea" performances.

Members of the cast were without their own lights and sets due to a truck breakdown, yet they adapted themselves well to the provisions made by SUI's drama department. Supporting actor William Roerick noted "What began as an evening of disaster will be an evening of tragedy after all."

AS MUCH A QUEEN OF the contemporary stage as of the ancient roles she portrayed, Miss Anderson's presentations were reminiscent of an earlier dramatic period.

Her full range of feelings, from triumphant heights to abysmal depths, swiftly rose and fell from angry shouts to pathetic weeping. Even her whispers contained emotional power. Every gesture of her body, blended with her verbal outpourings.

Dame Judith Anderson received her first accolades for the Lady Macbeth performance in London twenty-five years ago, yet she met the SUI audience with verve and freshness. The four scenes in which Lady Macbeth appears in the Shakespearean drama were recreated.

Lilyan Chauvin as the witch gave her prophetic incantations in sinister whines to the receptive Macbeth. William Roerick's strength as Macbeth was in his portrayal of mental torment following Duncan's murder. As he raves, Lady Macbeth first tries to soothe him, then becomes frightened and shouts with him.

THEY REACH a clangorous height, and suddenly stop, creating one of the best dramatic moments. She regains courage and with determined dominance over the weakening Macbeth, plans the next murder. Yet even Lady Macbeth cannot endure such horror. The climactic sleep walking scene is Miss Anderson's famed achievement, as she stares vacantly as one in deep shock.

Robinson Jeffers adapted the Grecian drama of "Medea" especially for Miss Anderson, and it allows her a wider range of emotional expression than did extracts from "Macbeth."

MISS ANDERSON'S flowing poetic monologues to the audience as "the women of Corinth" serve also to incorporate the observers with the actors. Through-out the Medea performance Miss Anderson's attitude develops from grieving despair to vengeful triumph. As Medea's obsessive love for Jason changes to embittered hate through his rejection, Miss Anderson's sobbing despair, Machiavellian plans and evil triumphs excellently express her superior co-ordination of voice and gesture that has brought her honors through the television medium as well as the theatre.

Lilyan Chauvin again sets the stage as the first speaker. Her attitude of despair over Medea is well intoned, drawing the audience toward the suffering Medea. Medea wails, her cry falling from cascades of sobs to drained depths.

SHE ENTERS, draped in an ochre Grecian dress with flowing stole. Miss Anderson makes full use of her costume, at one time twisting the material distractedly, at another thrusting a hand heaven-ward, the flowing stole draped over her wrist.

Jason presents the archtypal figure of a man sickened and unsatisfied with power. He rejected Medea for Creon's daughter, desiring Creon's throne for himself and his sons. That her sons might be kings is a joy to Medea, but as she considers they are the blood, the eyes, the expression of Jason, she cannot endure their existence. That she would destroy them is the climax of the ever-growing horror, and Roerick achieves the height of his performance as the broken, distraught Jason groveling in despair before the bitterly triumphant Medea. She has returned evil for evil, but in much greater measure than it was ever given.

On Other Campuses

By JOHN KLEIN Assistant Managing Editor

A 20-year-old University of Minnesota student was fined $100 and costs for selling false ID cards on the Northwestern University campus.

The student sold kits, containing three different falsified ID cards — a skiing membership card, a University of Minnesota ID card and a Minnesota drivers license application card.

The Minnesota native said he bought 25 ID kits at the U. of M. at $5 per kit. He had sold 11 of them at $8 per kit before he was arrested by Evanston police.

Northernwestern officials said they would take no action against the students who had purchased the cards.

More than 2,000 Harvard University students attempted to squeeze into a Harvard lecture hall to hear West Berlin Mayor Willy Brandt lecture last week. Less than half got in and many of those who did enter had to stand as Brandt called for East-West coexistence.

Women have been dropped from Southern Illinois University's marching band to insure, according to the band director, "that the general appearance, height and stature of all the members will be more uniform."

The Inter-Fraternity Council Judicial Board at Northwestern University slapped a $1500 fine on a fraternity there last week for allowing its Mothers' Club to send summer rush letters.

The Mothers' Club of the unnamed fraternity admitted it had sent 82 letters to prospective rushees during the past summer. But the club did so only after the fraternity urged them to do it insisted the Club's president. She said the fraternity even offered to pay postage.

An I-F law prohibits any summer correspondence between fraternities and rushees.

To sidestep this law, all the letters to prospective fraternity rushees were addressed to "Mrs.," and each letter started with "Dear Parents."

The I-F Council said it discovered the illegal rush activity after an I-F member received one of the letters.

The Council later reported it had added a phony name, with an I-F member's address, to a prospective rushee list to check on possible summer rush violations.

Women at Kansas University who have decided they want to marry naval officers can now take a course "designed to equip officer's wives with knowledge helpful in military life."

While the course does not guarantee a naval husband, it will broach the etiquette of the military wedding.

Students living in residence halls at Michigan State University can no longer make long distance phone calls from their rooms. Not even long distance calls with reversed charges will be permitted.

MSU officials said they were informed by the Michigan Bell Telephone Company that if the University would collect the tolls, expenses incurred in collecting the tolls would be refunded by Michigan Bell.

Michigan Bell now refuses to reimburse MSU $50,000 which it claims it spent in collecting toll call bills. MSU said it collected $300,000 for Michigan Bell during the last school year.

The phone company is now installing in the dormitories 100 pay booths to accommodate long distance calls.

Incoming long distance phone calls may still be received in dormitory rooms.

The University of California (Berkeley) will experiment with an honor system during the 1963 spring quarter.

Students at that University will be asked to sign a pledge after taking a test, stating that they had not cheated during that examination.

A professor there said students should be concerned with others cheating during an exam. The professor compared a student who ignored cheating with "the person who turns his head from a murder, saying the matter will be taken care of by the police."

The administration plans to discuss the merits of the program with students and instructors following each exam.

Iowa State University dubbed the Queen of ISU's horticulture show the "Tropical Empress". She reigned over an assortment of fruits, flowers and vegetables.

Correcting a Correction

So far according to The Daily Iowan, Nancy Gross has been identified as Judy Wishart and Margie Anderson but never as Nancy Gross. On the other hand Margie Anderson has been identified as Nancy Gross while Judy Wishart was first identified correctly and then incorrectly as Margie Anderson. If you follow this so far check the accompanying pictures to see the girls identified as themselves.

These three candidates for Miss SUI have suffered from a double error on the part of The Daily Iowan and we wish, once again, to apologize. And we hope we are right this time.

Dr. Martin Luther King To Speak at Coe College

Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., a man who looms above all others in leading the cause for equal human rights, will speak in the Coe college auditorium Tuesday at 6:30 p.m.

Currently co-pastor of Ebenezer Baptist church in Atlanta, Ga., and president of the Southern Christian Leadership conference, Dr. King is world renowned for his leadership in non-violent crusades that have sought to better the plight of the Negro in the South.

Dr. King's non-retaliatory tactics were most recently tested during a Southern Christian Leadership conference convention in Birmingham, Ala., Sept. 28. On that occasion Dr. King was struck by a member of the American Nazi party. Neither Dr. King nor any member of the audience advanced upon the assailant.

A graduate of Morehouse college and Crozer Theological seminary, Dr. King received his Ph.D. degree from Boston university. He is a recipient of countless awards and honors and has been distinguished with numerous honorary degrees from colleges and universities throughout the nation.

The Baptist theologian is currently listed in "Who's Who in America." In 1957, the same year Time magazine named him one of the 10 outstanding personalities of the year, Dr. King was noted by the Gallup Poll as one of the most admired religious leaders in the world.

The author of two books, he has travelled extensively in Europe, Asia, South America and Africa, and has lectured at more than 100 colleges and universities in America.

Dr. King's appearance at Coe Tuesday is open to the public free of charge.

Soviet Crew Aids Cubans

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The crew of a Soviet tanker gave a helping hand Friday to three persons fleeing Cuba in a small boat.

The Cubans were spotted in the ocean about 25 miles southeast of Miami by a lookout on the 705-foot Soviet tanker Druzhuva. After the ship's radio operator broadcast location of the Cubans a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter picked them up.

They were turned over to the U.S. Immigration Service which declined to identify them.

Pacific Test Area Extended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission said Friday the test area around Johnston Island in the Pacific has been extended for a new series of low-yield, low-altitude nuclear weapons tests.

A spokesman said the extension would have no effect on the misslaunching high-altitude test scheduled over the Pacific on Sunday night or early Monday morning. The new regulations take effect Monday.

Meanwhile, the AEC announced a low-yield underground nuclear test at the Nevada test site, the 54th in the Nevada underground series. The low-yield range includes devices with an explosive force of up to 20,000 tons of TNT.

The AEC said Joint Task Force 8 in the Pacific had extended the test area on the surface to a circle with a radius of 600 nautical miles extending outward from the Johnston Island area.

The area radius increases gradually until it is 810 nautical miles at 40,000 feet and higher. This represents an increase of 130 nautical miles on the surface and 110 miles at 40,000 feet.

Rain Threatens Again—

Ford, Pierce in Series Duel—IF

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Rain and 45-mile-an-hour gale winds forced postponement of Friday's sixth World Series game and threatened plans to resume play today at 1 p.m. (CST).

An all-night rain soaked the uncut outfield grass at Candlestick Park, tugged at the infield tarpaulin and threatened to carry it away despite a number of 35-pound weights.

Commissioner Ford Frick, who delayed 71 minutes past game time before calling Tuesday's game in New York, wasted no time Friday.

Frick was at the park early and called off the game well over three hours before it was scheduled to start. As soon as he and ground-keeper Matty Schwab stepped on the field, Frick waved his hands and said, "the game is off because the field is unplayable."

The weatherman's latest forecast for today was for scattered showers. However, the wind gusts should help dry the outfield area.

Billy Pierce, the stylish lefty who never has lost at Candlestick, where he has a 12-0 record, still is slated to be the pitcher for the San Francisco Giants. Manager Al Dark did say he might switch to Jack Sanford for Sunday if today's game also is washed out.

Whitey Ford, winner of a record 10 World Series games, will be the New York Yankee pitcher. Ford and Pierce had many duels in the days when Pierce was with the Chicago White Sox. Against the Yankees he has a lifetime record of 25-38.

The Yankees need only one more victory to close out the Series, for they lead 3-2 in the best-of-7 competition. Both pitchers are well rested. Pierce hadn't worked since Sunday, when he lost the third game at New York 3-2. Ford pitched the opener Oct. 4 and tolled six innings Monday before he was taken out for a pinch hitter with the score tied at 2-2.

When it comes to winning Big Ten football games in their brand new stadium, Indiana's Hoosiers must feel like they're up against TV's Perry Mason. They haven't won yet.

So today they try again to get that first conference win, this time against Iowa's Hawkeyes who are expected to show some extra ramifications of their "new look."

Indiana has tried three times to upend conference opponents in its shiny new football plant and has never done the trick.

Now Iowa—with rookie quarterbacks Bob Wallace and Fred Riddle spelling hampered Matt Szykowny—tries to keep the Hoosier's "record" in tact with primarily a running game from its "Floating T" offense.

Most observers feel that Head Counselor Jerry Burns is hoping the Hawks can get past the Hoosiers by using Wallace and Riddle, giving injured Szykowny an added week to rest his knee before facing Wisconsin.

But Burns indicated Friday that Matt may see a little action, especially if the Iowa team gets into deep water.

"The doctors say he suffered a bruise, or maybe a slight tear of a ligament in his left knee. They don't think he's in danger of hurting it more by playing, and it's a question of how long he can stand to play if it starts hurting him again."

But assuming that the Hawkeye coach will go with the 18-year-old Wallace, a boy who has yet to prove his worth in a passing situation, Iowa should stick to the ground.

In the Hawks' two games, Wallace has tossed 15 times and completed five for a .333 average.

The unstable Hawks running game folded at five crucial times last Saturday in Iowa's 7-0 loss to Southern California. Each time the cause was attributable to fumbles.

The only question mark in the backfield is fullback Bill Perkins who injured his knee against the Trojans. He has been cleared for action by doctors and is expected to start.

The Hawks will use a quick and rugged defense against the power of Indiana's outstanding runners, halfback Marv Woodson and wingback Nate Ramsey.

Thus far this season the Iowa team has been at its best in stopping the advances of the opposition—holding both foes to an average of 45 yards a game.

Iowa's defensive line will be bolstered by the return of senior letterman Dayton Perry, a defensive ace for two years who became eligible this week by completing three correspondence courses. He will be used at defensive tackle and perhaps to snap back the ball in punting situations.

He will also serve as a replacement for No. 2 tackle George Latta, who is not expected to see action because of a sprained ankle sustained Saturday. Latta has been operating as a "wild card" substitute for No. 1 Gus Kasapis.

The Hoosiers go into this trial with a 2-1 record, the loss coming last weekend to Wisconsin, 30-6.

But Burns says "the Hoosiers did not play well in that game. They are a good team, and physically tough."

Indiana has beaten lowly Kansas

State, 21-0 and Cincinnati, 26-6 in its other games.

Coach Phil Dickens' squad runs out of the wing T, with emphasis on the ability of Ramsey and Woodson. He has an outstanding blocker in quarterback Woody Moore, who also did a fine job against Wisconsin displaying his worth as a passer, completing seven of 12 attempted.

At the fullback spot, Indiana sports Jim Bailey, always a consistent ground gainer. But injuries have hurt the Hoosier depth. This is especially true at wingback. Mike Lopa, who runs behind Ramsey is out and No. 3 Doug Lackey has been stopped by a pulled muscle.

With letterman Chuck Fawcett also on the ailing list, this leaves only Doug Spicer to back up Ramsey. The situation is getting so desperate that Dickens has prepared No. 2 halfback Jim Helminiak ready for service at both spots.

Happy Homecoming, 34-13—

Little Hawks Triumph

By GARY SPURGEON

The City High Little Hawks pulled away from East Moline to score a 34-13 Homecoming win Friday night after an evenly played first half.

The Little Hawks went ahead, 20-13, with 1:02 remaining in the second quarter and then promptly added another score a few minutes after the opening of the second half. They iced the win with another touchdown mid-way through the fourth period.

Mike Langston, Little Hawk quarterback, passed for two touchdowns and scored another on a sneak.

Langston hit Dick Beaver in the first quarter from 18-yards out for the first City High score and the extra point.

This score tied the game at 7-7. East Moline took an early lead in the game after 2:15 had elapsed. The Panthers' score followed a 41-yard pass from Bob Jensen to Tim Dennis Rusk and a 37-yard jaunt by Ron Schneider.

The Little Hawks gained the lead for the first time shortly after the beginning of the second quarter when Bob Falls ran seven yards into the end zone.

East Moline came roaring back, marching 66 yards in six plays. The drive was capped by a 37-yard run by Schneider around his own right end.

The Little Hawks then took over and were in command the rest of the way. Leading 20-13, it seemed as though the Little Hawks would make a runaway out of the contest, but the Panthers' defense stiffened.

English Hockey Coach Here Sunday, Monday

An English hockey coach will be the guest of the Iowa City Field Hockey Club and the SUI Department of Physical Education for Women Sunday and Monday.

Primrose Upton, who has been coaching hockey teams and giving hockey clinics in the United States in recent week, will coach two teams of the Midwest Hockey Association—the Iowa City team and that of Northeast Iowa—in a game Sunday at 2 p.m. on the Women's Athletic Field south of Iowa Memorial Union.

Miss Upton will coach students taking part in a game Monday at 4:15 p.m. between teams from the Women's Recreation Associations of State College of Iowa, Cedar Falls, and SUI.

Radio Coverage

Two local radio stations, WSUI and KXIC, will broadcast today's Iowa-Indiana football contest from Bloomington. Game time is 12:30 p.m., Iowa City time.

Blues' Defense Holds West Branch; Win, 19-0

U-High's rugged defense held West Branch almost at will here Friday night as the Bluehaws wrapped up a joyous Homecoming celebration with a 19-0 victory.

With both teams held scoreless in the first quarter, the Blues hit paydirt once in each of the three remaining periods. John Haefer sneaked from the 2-yard line in the second quarter; Keith Mickelson ran 15-yards for a touchdown in the third and freshman right halfback Ron Ellis romped for 20 yards in the fourth for paydirt.

The Blues held West Branch to 14 yards rushing in the first half and yielded only 24 yards in the second. The losers picked up 71 yards through the air. The Blues tallied 180 yards on the ground and 33 yards passing.

West Branch's biggest threat came in the fourth period when it marched to the Blues' 1-yard line. But an alert Skip Johnson intercepted a Dave Semotan aerial in the endzone and carried it to the two yard line to end the rally.

C.R. Jeff Hits Early To Nip Warriors, 14-6

By DICK RILEY Special Correspondent

CEDAR RAPIDS — First-ranked Cedar Rapids Jefferson romped for two quick touchdowns, and with the aid of a break, edged crosstown rival Cedar Rapids Washington 14-6, before a capacity crowd at Kingston Stadium here Friday night.

Taking the opening kick-off, Jeff rolled for 60 yards with fullback Tom Knutson plunging for the score in the first quarter. The J-Hawks then converted a Washington fumble into a score when halfback Jim Meskimen tallied on a five-yard jaunt with 9:39 left in the first half. Knutson's conversion made it 14-0.
