

Administration Officials See Berlin Crisis by Christmas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A high administration official said Monday that Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev has indicated he may try to touch off a "first class" Berlin crisis by Christmas.

But West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder told Secretary of State Dean Rusk he believes Khrushchev has not yet determined his course in Berlin.

Commenting after another in a series of meetings with Rusk, Schroeder said he believes the Soviet leader is groping for some way to move in the Berlin crisis without triggering a military reaction by the United States.

U.S. Justice Dept. Seeks $100,000 Barnett Fine

Negro's Entry Ended Charges, Gov. Claims

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The Justice Department today asked a Federal Court to slap at least a $100,000 fine on Mississippi Governor Ross Barnett for contempt of court in the James Meredith integration case at the University of Mississippi.

Attorneys for the Governor and Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson contended that the fact the 29-year-old Negro now has been enrolled at Ole Miss is proof both officials have purged themselves of contempt.

Lawyers for Meredith, who also represents the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, argued that both Barnett and Johnson should be held in custody by the Justice Department until Meredith is treated at the school in Oxford like "other students."

The attorneys for the Governor and Lieutenant Governor counter-charged that the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans no longer has jurisdiction in the case. The court must rule on whether it can act.

Barnett's attorneys, in the 89-page brief, said Barnett and Johnson have complied with the Federal order to admit Meredith. They said the proceedings now belong in a Federal District Court and the Federal Government has no right to intervene as a party because it entered the suit as a "friend of the court" yet seeks relief "only a party can seek."

The Mississippi lawyers said, "Any claim or cause of action by the United States against the State of Mississippi must originate in the U.S. Supreme Court or in a Federal District Court."

They contended the original case was filed in a Federal District Court and the Government did not enter the case until it reached the Appeals Court.

The U.S. Court of Appeals "can exercise only appellate and not original jurisdiction," they contended.

"When a fine is imposed, the lawyers said, it must be a compensatory fine and paid to Meredith. They said the only way he is entitled to receive such a fine is to prove he actually was damaged."

The attorneys for Barnett and Johnson also made these points: — Barnett's actions were per-

Vatican Council Ponder Easing Marriage Laws

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Ecumenical Council may ease some of the restrictions applying to Roman Catholics who marry non-Catholics, informed sources said Monday. But the sources also said it was unlikely the restrictions would be abolished altogether.

The Secretariat for Promoting Christian Unity, invited Protestant and other non-Catholic observers here to state their "positive criticism" for Catholic practices to help promote Christian unity.

National delegations to the council, after three days of work, submitted revised electoral lists for the 10 key commissions which will debate church policy. The revisions aimed at eliminating objections to the preponderance of Italians slated for top posts.

The 10 commissions of 24 members each will study an agenda of 70 subjects, including a draft on "mixed marriages" between Catholics and non-Catholics.

Under present church law a special dispensation is required for such marriages and it can be granted only if there is (1) "grave cause," (2) a written promise of the non-Catholic not to interfere with the religion of the Catholic and of both parties to have all children baptized and educated as Catholics, and (3) "moral certainty" that the promises will be fulfilled.

Believe 5,000 Red Personnel Now in Cuba

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Russia has now sent close to 5,000 military technicians into Cuba, U.S. officials reported Monday.

This compares with 4,500 estimated to have been in Cuba on Oct. 3 and indicates the Soviet military build-up, which began in mid July, has been continuing.

Officials said this is about the number of Russian military personnel that would be expected to install new military equipment the Soviet has sent Cuba and to train Cubans in its use.

The equipment includes anti-aircraft missiles, coastal defense missiles with a range of 15 to 20 miles, motor torpedo boats and advanced type MIG jet aircraft.

None of the missiles are believed capable of being used with nuclear warheads, and officials said it is doubtful Russia ever would supply Cuba with any nuclear weapons.

Officials said the Soviet technicians have been keeping away from the Cuban population. They stay in their camps, have their own chauffeurs and, for some reason, even their own bricklayers.

The United States were conducting a similar training operation, officials said, the training probably would take 12 to 18 months.

Officials said the Russians have shipped nothing into Cuba which changes the administration's assessment that the build-up there is "defensive" and no threat yet to U.S. security.

All the Soviet equipment together, they said, probably would delay only by "several hours" any U.S. invasion of Cuba.

The officials stressed that the buildup has not gone far enough to require any U.S. use of force.

Officials, meanwhile, said they were disturbed by recent raids by Cuban exile groups on Cuban harbors.

They said such "nuisance raids" accomplish little. Furthermore, they said, a few of the estimated 200 Cuban exile organizations in this country appear to be interested in "starting a war" between the United States and Cuba or even between this country and Russia.

But officials said it is almost impossible for the United States to patrol thousands of miles of U.S. coastline and thousands of small vessels in southern harbors which might be used on such raids.

Indo-Chinese Border Fight Flares Anew

TOKYO (UPI) — Communist China and India Monday were reported moving troop reinforcements into the disputed border areas along the eastern Himalayas for a possible full-scale battle. Peiping claimed a "mass invasion" by Indian troops appeared imminent and called on Red Chinese forces to be prepared "at any time" to fight.

There were no reports of fighting along the border between Red-occupied Tibet and the Indian border area known as the North-east Frontier Agency (NEFA) since the bloody skirmishes last week in which 33 Chinese troops and 17 Indian soldiers were reported killed or wounded.

But Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru has ordered the Indian Army to drive out, by force if necessary, the Chinese "intruders" in the NEFA. And Peiping has ordered its troops to deal "resolute counter-blows" against any Indian "intrusion."

An authoritative Chinese Communist magazine, copies of which reached Tokyo today, claimed India stirred up the border tensions to please U.S. "imperialists." An article in the China Youth magazine asserted that India's "dependence on U.S. aid cannot but affect the policies of the Indian government internally and externally."

"Using the Sino-Indian border question to whip up anti-Chinese campaigns and destroy Sino-Indian relations has thus become a means by which the Indian ruling class pleases the United States," the magazine said.

India and Red China had reached a tentative agreement to open negotiations Monday on the dispute. But Nehru insisted that the Red Chinese troops be withdrawn from the NEFA and the talks confined to the dispute at the western end of the border. Peiping refused to negotiate under these conditions.

In Colombo, Ceylon, where he is on a state visit, Nehru told a press conference that India is ready to settle the border problems with Red China through negotiations.

"But the problem is that the Chinese believe in first advancing into our territory and then calling us for talks later," he said.

"India is not interested in fighting but in the face of advances by Chinese troops into our territory, we have nothing else to do than defend it."

But Peiping insisted that it was Indian troops who were doing the intruding. They claimed that Indian forces were operating north of the so-called McMahon Line which India recognizes as the boundary but Peiping does not.

The official Peiping People's Daily, in an editorial broadcast by Peiping Radio and monitored in London, cited Nehru's clear-Reds out order as proof of preparations for a large-scale attack.

The newspaper insisted that Red China is "absolutely unwilling to cross swords with India" and wanted to negotiate the dispute. But in the next breath it bragged of the military might of the People's Liberation Army.

It said that history has shown that the "Japanese Imperial Army and the Yankees were cleared out of Chinese territory . . . and this has been the fate of all foreign aggressors on Chinese soil and this will be so in the future."

"If there are still some maniacs who are reckless enough to ignore our well-intentioned advice and insist on having another try, let them do so," the newspaper said.

Blakely Admits Drunken Driving, Fined $300

DES MOINES (AP) — Robert J. Blakely, 47, dean of the SUI Extension Division, was fined $300 here Monday after he entered a plea of guilty to charges of driving while intoxicated.

Blakely was arrested here Sept. 22, after his car was involved in an accident. A charge of ignoring a red traffic light was dismissed.

Blakely's fine was paid by his attorney, Wendell Gibson of Des Moines.

Put Off Plan To Murder De Gaulle

PARIS (UPI) — The Terrorist Nationalist Resistance Council (CNR), successor to the Secret Army Organization (OAS), Monday announced the suspension of efforts to assassinate President Charles de Gaulle until after the Oct. 28 Constitutional Referendum.

De Gaulle faces a five-to-one party alignment against him in the critical vote on his plan to change the 1958 constitution so that his successors will be elected by the nation as a whole instead of by limited college of some 50,000 notables.

The CNR announcement was made in a statement mailed to newspaper offices purporting to come from renegade ex-Col. Antoine Argout, CNR chief for metropolitan France. He said he ordered the temporary suspension of De Gaulle's "death sentence" to give the nation a chance to show whether it really wants De Gaulle or not.

De Gaulle returned to Paris Monday after observing France's biggest postwar army maneuvers, as the referendum campaign officially opened.

Six parties are participating, and all but one have called for a "no" vote against De Gaulle. The CNR statement also urged a negative vote.

The parties lined up against De Gaulle are the Communists, Socialists, Radical Socialists, Catholic Popular Republicans (MRP) and Independents (conservatives).

The only group calling for a "yes" vote is De Gaulle's own Union for the New Republic (UNR). The UNR appeared likely to face a similar line-up in the Parliamentary General elections convoked for Nov. 18 and Nov. 25.

The Socialists, Radical Socialists and Independents are preparing to put up single anti-De Gaulle candidates in every constituency in the decisive run-off balloting Nov. 25.

The UNR campaign appeared to be keyed to De Gaulle's threat to resign if the referendum vote goes against him. Former Premier Michel Debre warned in a speech before the UNR central committee yesterday: "If De Gaulle leaves, the alternative would be a government incapable of managing the country's internal or external affairs."

Situation in Yemen Confusing; Control Undecided as Yet

CAIRO (UPI) — Prince Hassan, son of the self-proclaimed Imam Hassan, died in an Aden hospital from wounds received in a Yemen border battle, the Middle East News Agency (MENA) said Monday.

In a dispatch from Yemen, Capital of Sanaa, MENA said the Prince was buried in Lahej.

The agency also reported that Imam Mohammed Badr of Yemen, who was said to have been killed in the military revolt which overthrew his government, is alive in Saudi Arabia, but suffering from a serious wound.

Earlier new military victories were claimed by both rebel and monarchist supporters in the fighting for control of the ancient desert kingdom. The contradictory claims added to the confusion surrounding developments there.

(Authoritative reports reaching London said control of Yemen appeared to be divided at present, with the rebels holding the South and Southwest and tribes loyal to the monarchy holding the North. Skirmishes between the two opposing forces were reported but no details were disclosed.)

New doubts were raised over the fate of Imam Mohammed Badr when they shelled his palace in Sanaa last month.

The semi-official Middle East News Agency (MENA) of the United Arab Republic, which supports the revolutionary regime, said Badr was wounded but escaped in disguise and was granted refuge by a mountain tribe. It added, however, that it was "understood" he had flown to Dahrein in Saudi Arabia for treatment at the hospital operated by the Arabian-American Oil Company.

Erbe Speaks In Old Capitol At 8 Tonight

Iowa Governor Norman Erbe is due to arrive in Iowa City at 5 p.m. today and will deliver a major campaign address in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol at 8 p.m.

Erbe, seeking re-election as the state's chief executive, will meet with press and radio at the Hotel Jefferson until 6 p.m. After an informal session with members of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce, the Governor will have dinner with members of the Republican Central Committee. Republican candidates William Tucker, running for State Representative, and William Hartsock, running for County Auditor, will also attend.

SUI Young Republicans are sponsoring Erbe's speech which is open to the public.

Martin Luther King Stresses Non-Violence in Cornell Talk

Dr. Martin Luther King, religious and moral leader, called Monday night for the establishment of a non-violence policy in fighting against segregation.

Citing America's image abroad, Dr. King said, "The hour is late and the clock of destiny is ticking onward; America must act before it is too late."

"But more than anything else," he asserted, "we must defeat discrimination because it is morally wrong."

"We must eliminate it, not because it is diplomatically expedient, but because it is morally compelling."

He called for a combination of education and legislation to better race relations. "Morality can not be legislated," he said, "but behavior can be regulated."

He described himself as "mal-adjusted" in that he is unwilling to accept the present racial situation in this country. "I hope many people become mal-adjusted," he continued, "and reject the existing situation."

Dr. King called for religious leaders and the churches of America to lead the country towards the elimination of segregation. "The Christian Church has failed Jesus Christ miserably," he stated. "The most segregated schools of the week are the Sunday schools."

"When the churches assume the role as leaders in this area, a transition can be effected," he stated.

Dr. King is a Baptist minister. He pointed to three approaches to the racial problem: extreme optimism, extreme pessimism, and realism.

Esponding what he called the realistic view, Dr. King stated, "The real approach combines the truth of both and avoids the existence of both. It admits that a lot has been done in this field, but also recognizes that there is a long way to go."

He also called for the Negro to

Britain Given 'Assurances' Against Attack

Britain said Monday the United States has given "assurances" that it will seek to prevent Cuban exile sea raiders from attacking ships engaged in Cuban trade.

The British Foreign Office said, however, that the Americans made it clear they could not be held responsible for any such attacks mounted outside the United States.

A Cuban raiding party operating from a Caribbean base early Saturday sank a Castro patrol boat less than a mile off Cuba's north coast and rescued two wounded members of its four-man militia crew.

The foreign office said the American "assurances" had been extended through the British Embassy in Washington. The British had asked for the guarantees because of a "Declaration of War" on all foreign shipping engaged in Cuban trade by the Cuban Exile Alpha 66 group.

Representatives of 45 unions in the major port of New York area, meanwhile, unanimously endorsed a longshoremen's boycott of ships in Cuban trade.

The Maritime Port Council in approving the "Red Cuba Boycott" of the longshoremen called for creation of a national committee to coordinate the boycott.

Other demands for an embargo of all ships in Cuban trade were voiced by Sens. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.) and Gale W. McGee (D-Wyo.).

Keating said "every vessel carrying food, fuel or other supplies to Cuba is freeing a Soviet ship to carry weapons and soldiers." McGee said a trade embargo would "close the ring" around Cuba and would be a more effective way of dealing with "this pipsqueak" (Fidel Castro) than invading Cuba.

Schirra Receives Hero's Welcome In New Jersey

ORADELL, N. J. (UPI) — Astronaut Walter M. Schirra Jr. received a hero's welcome from 50,000 wildly-cheering fans in his home state of New Jersey today. He told them he was "more shattered by all this than the count-down in the nose cone."

The cool, outspoken spaceman, who made the first 6-orbital flight in the U.S. space program, was easily the calmest man in sight however, as the crowds went into a frenzy of cheering and applauding in Hackensack, his birthplace, and in Oradell where he grew up.

A crowd of 20,000 lined the 10-mile motorcade route from Hackensack to Oradell and another 30,000 jammed into Oradell — a quiet commuter suburb with a normal population of only 8,000.

The Stevenson letter pointed out that an international conference

NSA, SUI and Poor Student Government

Tonight the SUI Student Senate will hold a special meeting to determine whether this University will re-enter the National Student Association (NSA).

Re-entry at this time, which is supported strongly by Student Body President Mark Schantz, would be foolish and short-sighted — an exercise in perpetuating the mockery of SUI student government.

NSA is described by its proponents as an organization of student governments designed to deal with the many problems of its member student governments.

It is not. NSA at present is nothing more than a poorly organized vehicle of political expression for a very small group of campus activists.

The membership figure of 1.3 million students given by NSA apologists is at best specious. That number represents the total enrollment of all the institutions belonging to NSA.

The NSA has set itself up as an organization of students — as opposed to its original idea of being an organization of student governments. Few of those students whom NSA is supposed to represent have any idea even what NSA is, and probably could care less.

The people who go to the Congresses, where NSA policy is formed, are not representatives of their student bodies, nor are the five national officers and about ten staff men who "execute" policy.

The reason for all this is simple. As The Nation points out, galloping apathy still dominates most American college students.

Until recently, the NSA devoted itself to the issues which did, indeed, concern its member student governments; i.e. parking, homecoming dances, womens' hours, etc.

Now, however, those few students who presume to speak for all the students of its member schools have taken stands on such controversial items as HUAC, the Peace Corps, Algeria, Cuba and nuclear testing.

Before the leaders of NSA steered the function of NSA from that of "helping student governments" to being the "political opinion of American students," NSA avoided such controversial issues out of necessity — for its existence depended on continued participation by members, who could easily withdraw when NSA displeased them.

Now the elite opinion-makers controlling NSA apparently are even less worried about being representative.

An article by Steven Roberts and Carey McWilliams, Jr. in The Nation states, "Contemporary collegiate student governments are, to put it mildly, a poor vehicle for transmitting student awareness. They reflect the desire of the college administrator to 'avoid difficulties' at all costs by eliminating the student from all areas of controversy which might 'reflect on the university.'"

This condemnation is particularly true at SUI, where student government has disintegrated to the point where a resolution on something as insignificant as football seating can be squashed by the University with barely a peep from the sponsors — the Student Senate.

There is a close interaction between the type of student government at SUI and student apathy — which is "galloping" at SUI.

The Nation article states, "The banality of student government repels the student; the absence of student criticism and interest leaves student governments in the hands of those who find playtime bureaucracy and homiletics about alma mater to be congenial pursuits."

It was the governments like SUI who sent delegates to the NSA Congresses. The student "awakening" which has occurred in the last two years was reflected by NSA, but instead of becoming representative of student opinion on important issues, it became even less representative. It became a vehicle for those campus leaders who really are NSA. What NSA thinks is what that small group thinks and not necessarily what the American student thinks.

In view of this criticism, we think that it would be a serious miscarriage of justice and another proof of SUI's student government's separation from the student, if the Senate votes to join NSA tonight.

SUI was a member of NSA, but dropped out last year when it became apparent that SUI could do little for NSA and NSA could do nothing for SUI.

If SUI does rejoin NSA, we suggest to the Senate that that choice should be made by the students — not its so-called "representative" Senate.

There are a number of practical reasons why SUI's affiliation with NSA would be foolish. The most important, perhaps, is the simple utilitarian question of "What can we get out of it?"

The answer is simple — not nearly as much as we put into it. The financial burden placed on the Student Senate's already strained budget for conferences, dues, etc. would be possibly disastrous.

As one campus leader puts it, "We could get a lot of posters and literature which could easily give us the facade of being a progressive student government." We are waiting for SUI's junior bureaucrats to cut away some of the present facade and substitute a little more progressiveness.

NSA does not offer to SUI's student government what it needs. Instead of involving itself in the "busy-work" and convention going of a national organization which is not concerning itself with problem of student government, we suggest that the Senate spend more time on the problems at SUI. When those problems are solved, then, perhaps, our student government would be justified in solving the world's problems.

A good example of where NSA does not face the problems of student governments lies in the area of off-campus housing. NSA has not taken any stand on this problem which we consider to be among the most crucial to SU-Iowans.

In short, NSA has involved itself in the "political inside" while our student government should be first involving itself in the "social inside."

To be worth membership to SUI, NSA should concern itself with problems which our campus and other campuses face. It does not, negating its value to SUI.

Membership in NSA for SUI would be folly. It would help perpetuate ineffective student government by giving the campus politicians an out. By busying himself with the workings of the vast network of national and regional affairs of NSA, he can successfully avoid coming face to face with the local problems with which he should be concerned.

We urge the Student Senate to carefully consider Schantz' proposal to re-affiliate with NSA. A careful evaluation of NSA, which very few student senators have taken the time to make, we feel will lead to the deserved defeat of his proposal.

We also urge SUI students to make their thoughts known on NSA membership to their representatives. We do not have to join NSA — which is not representative — but we should be concerned enough to do everything possible to make our own student government representative. Only by making our wishes known to your student representatives will this occur.

The Host's View

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Following is the text of an address delivered to the Ohio State University Student Senate Sept. 17, by Student Senate President, James H. Gross. Ohio State hosted the National NSA Congress this summer.)

For the past quarter the question of our membership in the NSA has been an issue of controversy. Last spring I expressed my support of the "wait and see" position until after the National Student Congress. The Congress has come and gone, and now we all must publicly state our position. First, I believe the question of membership in NSA should be decided not by the Student Senate, but by the Student Body; for NSA is no longer an association of student governments. Today NSA is a self-proclaimed national union of students concerned not primarily with student government problems, but primarily with strictly political issues. If NSA is to claim that it speaks for the student bodies of member schools on these issues, then the respective student bodies should vote on their membership. I view NSA from the perspective of President of the Student Body, a position which is committed to and concerned with student problems. In making my decision, I have put aside my own personal political beliefs, for they are irrelevant in this question. I have based my decision which I, and I alone, have made after much reflection on the question.

There are two basic issues involved. Does the individual student or student government derive any benefit from membership in NSA? If not, can the situation be corrected within the structure of NSA? It is my opinion that this campus does not, at the present time, derive any significant benefit from NSA. This is the case because of the very nature of NSA as it exists today. A national union of students as conceived and directed by current NSA leaders can never serve the campus as a student government organization structured on a national level should and must. Today we spend over $1250 or 12 per cent of our annual budget for our membership in the association. This expenditure cannot be justified unless we receive something from the organization, something which directly benefits this campus. For 15 days I attended the National Student Congress — 15 days of confusion and disillusion. Yes, there were procedural reforms in NSA, reforms which I supported. Once I thought procedural reforms were enough, but today I know differently.

The basic concept of NSA did not change, and unless the concept returns to its original position, NSA will never be of value to our student body. As the only student on this campus to attend the past two Congresses as a delegate, I believe I speak with some authority on the question of a change in orientation within the Association. I brought back nothing of value from the Congress to this campus. The concept of a politically-oriented organization dedicated to social and political action first and student government last is more entrenched today than ever before. Many former critics on the right now support staying in NSA because they believe that they can take over the Association so it falls in line with their political philosophy. I am not so much concerned with what political views are espoused, as I am concerned that during the Congress and throughout the year student government is all but forgotten in the political struggle.

If I foresaw a hope for change in the near or immediate future, I would support staying in NSA. But let us remember that we are amateurs. We are active in student government and in NSA for four years and then we graduate, leaving new students to take our place. We attend two Congresses at the most. There can be little prolonged or coordinated reform efforts when we are faced by a group of professionals who have controlled NSA almost from its inception and who return each year to help run the Congress and the Association throughout the year. Even if we could control the Congress, we could never control the Association itself because the national staff is not and cannot be effectively supervised by the members student governments and because NSA has assumed an existence both separate from and above the member schools.

Student governments now exist for NSA, not NSA for the student governments. We often hear that student governments are not doing enough for NSA. Student government does not exist to serve NSA. If NSA were truly a confederation of student governments, its primary concern would be what it is doing for student governments.

Some will say that if we leave NSA we will be isolated and will have no communication with other schools. This is clearly not the case. We are members of the Big Ten Student Government Conference which meets twice a year. Let us remember this campus does not send delegates to the National Congress so that they have an enjoyable personal experience, but that they may learn something from the Congress.

NSA is clearly not fulfilling its function as an organization which aids student governments in the solution of their problems. The National Congress consumes its time in political struggle. I realize that if this student body withdraws from NSA, I would be taking upon myself the responsibility to help build a new national student organization which would be committed to the students and the student governments of this nation. This responsibility I willingly would accept.

Tonight I commit myself to withdrawal from the National Student Association. I shall do everything in my power to see that this end is accomplished.

Williams Frat Purge An Unjust Decision

Ever since the first American fraternity, Phi Beta Kappa, was founded at William and Mary College in 1776, fraternities and sororities have been a source of controversy among students, alumni and practically everyone concerned with college life.

The various news media have never been overly kind to the fraternity system, especially when members of an organization show their group in a bad light. Some years ago, a pledge in a West Coast university fraternity was forced to eat a slice of raw liver — he choked to death.

The occurrence brought a groundswell of criticism of fraternities and a demand for thorough examination of the usefulness of the fraternity-sorority system.

But reverberations from sensational incidents in fraternities have usually been shortlived. Today more than 5.3 million Americans belong to social, professional and honorary societies. Obviously, it would take more than occasional outbursts of castigation to harm the fraternity system.

Now it appears that a more deliberate campaign against fraternities may be starting. Its first effects have just been felt at all-male Williams College, Williamstown, Mass., where the school's Board of Trustees has announced plans for the College to take over all housing, eating and social functions of the 15 fraternities by next year.

The decision, in effect, dooms fraternities right out from under the stunned members of the College's 15 fraternities. Incomes of the individual houses will now be removed and the houses will be sought by the College for a low price, or as gifts.

If the legislative death of the fraternities had been imposed by members, the decision would not be of such national significance. Members at other colleges and universities could rest easy that the same fate could never happen to them.

But the Williams fraternity purge was brought about in a frat stronghold where 94 per cent of the three upper classes eat, and 44 per cent sleep in fraternity houses.

The Williams Board of Trustees flashed its danger signal in July when it released a 14-page report which stated, "fraternities at Williams have come to exercise a disproportionate role in undergraduate life, and as a result the primary educational purposes of the college are not being fully realized."

The report urged that the College takeover the fraternities at "the earliest feasible date." One section of the recommendation stated: "Many Williams men, undergraduates and alumni, both within and without the fraternities, find little appeal in fraternities as they are now constituted. They are intent on a new and better alignment wherein any student with or without fraternity affiliation, may have equal opportunity with any of his fellows to find and enjoy the riches of four college years. . . ."

A survey conducted immediately after the report was released showed that the "many" referred to in the report did not exist. Students took a poll and found that 524 of the 683 students in the upper classes opposed the recommendations.

On a national scale, the Williams College fraternity purge may not be felt for years. Hopefully, it will never be felt.

Fraternity members at Williams had staged no riots, and had not mistreated pledges or detracted from the "intellectual atmosphere of their college. Yet they have been told how they must live — "for their own good."

The practices and standards of many fraternity and sorority chapters all over the country are often open to criticism. But they should not be subject to regimentation unless they break the law or violate the rules of their own national council.

The decision by the Board of Trustees at Williams College was a harsh blow at self-determination. We would deplore and oppose a similar occurrence at SUI.

Report Lays Blame for Cuba 'In Part' to U.S. Diplomat

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Internal Security Subcommittee said today that U.S. Foreign Service Officer William Wieland must bear a "share" of the blame for the Communist takeover in Cuba.

It cited the Wieland Case as an example of "much of what is wrong with the State Department from a security standpoint." It stressed that loyalty was not involved but "such factors as integrity and general suitability."

Wieland, who served in a number of posts in Latin America, was one of two State Department officials whose cases prompted an angry outburst from President Kennedy when their security status was questioned at a news conference in January.

Kennedy said he had looked into the cases and found nothing to substantiate the claim. "In my opinion," Kennedy said, the officials can carry out their duties "without detriment to the interests of the United States."

Wieland is now employed in the State Department Office of Management, but neither State Department officials nor Wieland's office made any comment today on the subcommittee's charge.

In a 200-page report which was strongly critical of State Department security procedures, the subcommittee said:

"Mr. Wieland was not responsible for the Communist Cuban takeover in the sense that he alone brought it about. Neither can he escape a share of the responsibility."

The subcommittee asserted that exact placement of blame for certain failures in the department can not be made because certain official reports were withheld under the doctrine of executive privilege.

The report, based on 600 pages of testimony, was made public by order of the nine-member subcommittee. Vice Chairman Thomas J. Dodd, in an additional statement of his own, said he shares the subcommittee's doubt as to the wisdom of retaining Wieland in any position suitable for his rank.

However, Dodd said he has discussed the case with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and examined certain documents exhibited by Rusk in confidence. He said he is convinced that Rusk and his aides determined that Wieland was not a security risk on the basis of a careful examination of the evidence.

Noting that he differs with his findings, Dodd said he believes Rusk and President Kennedy acted responsibly and carefully "on the basis of information available to them when they reviewed Wieland's clearance early this year."

Dodd said certain of the information available to the subcommittee was not then available and added that he hopes the subcommittee's full record will be reviewed in the department.

The subcommittee report complained that Wieland had seen intelligence data over the years indicating that Fidel Castro was a pro-Communist with Communist associates. As early as 1958, or earlier, the report said, Wieland was telling friends that Castro was a Communist surrounded by Communists and subject to Communist influence.

"Yet he never told his superiors officially or wrote in any department paper down to the day when Fidel Castro stood before the world as a self-proclaimed Marxist, what he told friends privately . . ." the subcommittee said.

"Mr. Wieland became an active apologist for Fidel Castro, even to the extent of openly contradicting intelligence officers who were attempting to brief Dr. Milton Eisenhower (then on an official trip to Mexico representing his brother, President Eisenhower) respecting communism in the Castro Regime," the report said.

It complained that Wieland omitted data from his State Department job application and later falsified a personal history form. It criticized the conduct of Wieland's security inquiry in the State Department, and said no written record ever was filed which specifically

Moeller Editorial Lauds Journalism

"Journalists have a high impact on the nature of American life," said Leslie G. Moeller, director of the SUI School of Journalism, in a recent guest editorial in the Mason City Globe-Gazette.

"How would the maker of autos tell millions of people about his new small car? How would the homemaker learn about new products and methods? And how would the citizen learn of plans for new laws and proposals for new taxes, if it were not for the mass media?" Moeller continued.

"The media are effective in persuading, in arousing to action, in selling, and in informing the people. It is this factor of high public service," he said, "which helps make careers in mass communication satisfying for thousands of journalists."

"This type of journalism service began with newspapers and magazines. It has expanded into radio and television and a long list of special kinds of printed publications. "It includes a whole industry of advertising and a new field of public relations," Moeller explained.

"As Journalism expands, new ways develop for the journalist to practice his profession. He finds many more chances for employment."

Journalism work is stimulating and satisfying, said Moeller, and the duties are non-routine. "There are opportunities for great public service; for community leadership; for professional status; working conditions are increasingly good; compensation is improving; and there are opportunities for advancement."

Journalists' freedom of action in their work of informing the public, and their encouragement to always find a "new way to do it," is another important and satisfying factor in the journalism profession, he said.

Concluding his editorial, Moeller made the point, "Exposure of the public to the mass media constitutes a continuous never-stopping educational process."

"As journalists, they are proud to make this great contribution to the process of democracy," he said.

Moeller To Head U.S. Journalism Award Committee

Professor Leslie G. Moeller, Director of the SUI School of Journalism, has been named chairman of a Steering Committee of Journalism educators for the 1962-63 Journalism Awards Program of the William Randolph Hearst Foundation.

The committee will be in charge of awarding $40,900 in scholarships and grants to undergraduate students in the 48 accredited journalism schools which are members of the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism.

The program consists of monthly Writing Competitions in the categories of news, sports, features, spot news, editorials and investigative or interpretive writing.

The student writing the entry ranked highest each month will receive a $750 fellowship award; nine other awards, totaling $1,900, will also be made each month. The journalism school in which the student is enrolled will receive a matching grant.

All fellowship and grants are to be used for the furthering of education in journalism.

The three journalism schools whose students accumulate the highest number of points in the seven monthly competitions will receive $3,800 in merit grants.

Hubbard Keavy, chief of bureau, The Associated Press, Los Angeles, Roger Tatarian, executive editor, United Press International, New York, and Lawrence C. Martin, retired associate editor of the Denver Post, have been named judges of the monthly competitions.

2 Thefts Reported Here in Week End

Two weekend burglaries were staged in the Iowa City area resulting in the theft of $2,369 in merchandise.

Officials of Bowers Appliances in Coralville reported to authorities that $1,369 in electrical equipment was taken from the store's showroom late Sunday. The thieves reportedly broke a south window, reached in to unlock the south door and entered the showroom.

In another theft, around $1,000 in saws and tools was reported missing from a storage truck belonging to Stark Construction Co., Cedar Rapids.

Pacific Coast Storm Brings Federal Aid

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Federal Government today gave "priority attention" to devastated communities along a 1,000-mile stretch of the Pacific coast in the wake of three-day killer storm which caused millions of dollars in damage.

Federal disaster teams moved into Western Oregon, hardest hit by the lashing winds and driving rain of the storm that caused at least 57 deaths along the West Coast.

President Kennedy said in a telegram to Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon that "the Office of Emergency Planning is giving priority attention to the condition caused by the recent storms in your state."

Gov. Hatfield had asked the President to declare Oregon a major disaster area because of an estimated $170 million damage.

Meanwhile, Rep. John F. Baldwin (R-Calif.) asked the President to declare storm-battered Contra Costa, Sonoma and Alameda counties in northern California a disaster area.

Disaster teams were already inspecting flood and mudslide damage which drove hundreds from their homes in the San Francisco Bay area.

The casualty count up the coast included 19 persons dead in northern California, 21 in Oregon, 10 in Washington and 7 in southern British Columbia. Nine of the persons in the height of the storm died of heart attacks.

In his telegram to the President, Baldwin said:

"Numerous homes have been destroyed or pushed off foundations by slides. Many places of business have been flooded, hundreds of homes have been flooded with resulting serious damage and countless streets and highways have suffered major slide damage."

"I would like to urge immediate Federal disaster assistance be made available to these counties; that flood disaster loans be made available to business and homeowners suffering heavy losses and that financial assistance be provided to counties and cities for repairing streets damaged by slides and flooding."

In Oregon, public schools in Portland and Salem were still closed. Most power service was restored, but scattered areas remained blacked out.

The Red Cross said the storm left some 200 families homeless in Oregon.

Help Check Tree Disease

More than 75 SUI fraternity men turned out Saturday morning to pick up dead wood in Taff Speedway area in north Iowa City. This work was done in cooperation with the Junior Chamber of Commerce which is conducting a city-wide drive to check the spread of Dutch Elm disease. AROTC Designates 10 Top Military Students

Ten Army ROTC cadets will be designated Distinguished Military Students at a ceremony to be held at 7 tonight in the Field House Armory.

Designated cadets include: Frank L. Bauer, A4, Edgewood Arsenal, Md.; John C. Calhoun, E3, Iowa City; Paul D. Carlson, A4, Davenport; James F. Clark, A4, Sioux City; John E. Garwood, A4, Iowa City; Gerald T. Gilmore, A4, Iowa City; Charles A. Jenkins, L1, Iowa City; Robert C. Richardson, E3, Clinton; Charles L. Schalon, A4, Ripon, Wis.; and John R. Wicks, L3, Iowa City.

The Distinguished Military Student cadets are selected on the basis of outstanding leadership, high moral character, definite aptitude for military service, and demonstrated leadership and participation in campus and civic activities.

Scholastically, cadets must rank in the upper one-third of their ROTC classes and the upper one-half of their college or university classes. The deans of the colleges in which the cadets are enrolled must also approve their selection.

In addition, all cadets must have attended summer camp and must be enrolled in their second year of the advanced corps program.

Distinguished Military Students may be graduated as Distinguished Military Graduates. To be designated a Distinguished Military Graduate, cadets must maintain the standards prescribed for their selection as Distinguished Military Students until they have completed their requirements for graduation. The deans of the colleges in which the cadets are enrolled must also approve their selection.

Distinguished Military Graduates can accept a commission in the Regular Army. This is the same commission received by all graduates of the United States Military Academy at West Point, N. Y.

Soviets Announce New Rocket Test Series

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union Monday announced a new series of tests of multi-stage carrier rockets in the central Pacific starting today.

The tests, which will run through Nov. 30, were called to perfect Soviet's space boosters. They will be carried out in two areas, one about 600 miles south of Johnston Island, and the other 600 miles north of Midway Island. The Russians warned all airplanes and shipping to avoid the areas.

Tass did not say where the rockets would be fired from, but in two previous series of tests in 1960 and 1961 the Soviets were reported to have fired them from central Russia on flights of approximately 7,500 miles.

Western experts said the rockets being tested without their last stages may have significant military implications.

Late August, Mstislav Keldysh, president of the U.S.S.R. Academy of Sciences, said western observers could not be permitted to witness Soviet space launchings because of the military nature of the rockets.

Soviet boosters are estimated to produce about 1.2 million pounds of thrust, which is not considered sufficient to send a man to the moon. Experts of the U.S. National Space Administration (NASA) have estimated a booster for putting a man on the moon would require 10 to 12 million pounds of thrust.

Bad Weather Stalls U.S. A-Bomb Test; No Final Decision

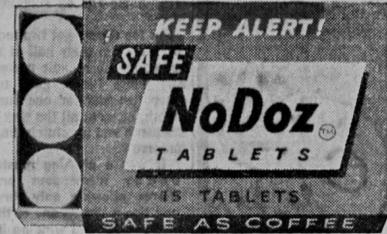

HONOLULU (UPI) — Thick clouds around Johnston Island today left only a 50-50 chance that Monday night's scheduled atomic blast would be fired.

The low-yield rocket detonation was postponed 24 hours Monday night due to "weather," and the Weather Bureau Monday forecast that towering thunderheads were moving in from the southeast.

The blast was originally scheduled to detonate between 1:30 a.m. and 6:30 a.m. Monday.

The countdown was continuing, the Atomic Energy Commission reported, and will go on until a decision is made on whether or not to postpone the shot again.

The pending U.S. blast was expected to be fired at an altitude of 30 to 40 miles, and scientists said it was doubtful if the fireball would be visible to residents of Hawaii, although the flash is expected to illuminate the Hawaiian skies.

Pierce, Giants Stay Alive, 5-2

Dramatic Showdown with Yanks Today Ends Wierd World Series

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

SAN FRANCISCO — Little Billy Pierce fired a brilliant three-hit now-or-never 5-2 victory for the San Francisco Giants Monday to square the World Series and keep them alive for a seventh and final game against the New York Yankees today.

The 35-year-old Pierce, an American League refugee with a squeaky voice and a fading fast ball, handcuffed the mighty Yankees while his mates handed Whitey Ford a record-tying fifth World Series defeat and evened the classic at three victories each.

It was a "must" victory for the cinderella Giants and, as they had done so often before this longest of all seasons, they bounced back from the brink of extinction on one of the wierd days in Series history.

The Series had been postponed three straight days because of a gale-whipped storm and, before they could go at it this time, three helicopters hovered over the soggy outfield in an attempt to make it playable.

The Giants were accused — during the regular season — of wetting their basepaths against the Dodgers to cut down on their running speed. And the wet footing came to their aid again today — even if they didn't order it — as they sprayed the spongy, deep-grassed outfield with hits which the Yankee outfielders couldn't cover.

But Pierce — who had won 12 games in Candlestick Park this season without absorbing a single defeat — was their man of the hour before a roaring crowd of 43,948 partisan fans.

Obtained from the White Sox this year, and apparently well over the baseball hill, Pierce had that left-handed magic which had beaten the Yankees 25 times during his 15 years in the American League.

The Giants gave him three runs in the fourth, an explosion detonated on Ford's own errant throw on an attempted pickoff play. And it wasn't until the fifth that Pierce gave the Yankees their first hit.

That one was a dandy — a towering home run by slugging Roger Maris.

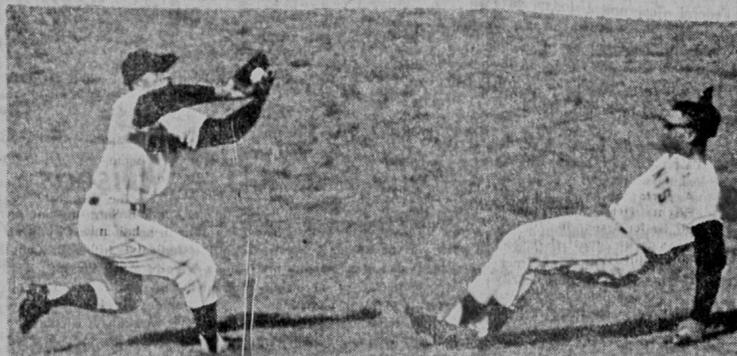

But the Giants got two more back for Pierce in their half of the fifth as a four-hit assault routed Ford. And while Pierce gave up those other two hits for one run in the eighth, he went all the way to force a seventh and absolutely final game tomorrow.

It was a pitching masterpiece under tremendous pressure, Pierce allowing only three hits and two walks — one of those intentional — and winding it up on the final out of the game by striking out Maris, the man who had touched him for the home run.

The Giants threatened to break through in both the first and second innings but each time Ford was bailed out by a double play. But then in the fourth, Ford put himself in a hole — that wild pick-off throw — as the Giants rang up three runs.

One man was out when Felipe Alou singled sharply off Cletis Boyer's outstretched glove. Willie Mays walked and then, with Cepeda up, Ford wheeled and tried to pick Alou off second. The throw was 20 feet wide of the bag and sailed into short right field.

The Yankee outfielders were playing deep on Cepeda and when the wet grass stopped the ball, Maris had to make a long run to ★ ★ ★ retrieve it. By the time he did, Alou had raced all the way home and Mays was on third.

Cepeda, who had been hitless in 12 trips to the plate before bouncing a single over Tony Kubek's head in the second inning, really broke out of his slump with a double to right center which sent Mays loping home. Jim Davenport then singled to that grass-clutching outfield, Cepeda coming home from second with the third run.

Maris delivered his fourth World Series homer and the first hit off Pierce in the top of the fifth, banging the ball high over the right field fence.

But the Giants weren't long getting it back, and with interest, as they routed Ford in the fifth with two more runs for a 5-1 lead.

Again there was one out when Harvey Kuehn, hitless in 10 previous appearances at bat, singled to left. Chuck Hiller moved him all the way to third on a grass-stopped single to center and Felipe Alou's single to center scored Kuehn as Hiller pulled up at second.

Now it was Cepeda again and the powerful Puerto Rican smashed his slump wide open with a single which scored Hiller and perched Alou on third. That was it for Ford — beaten in the series for the first time since Oct. 5, 1953 — as Jim Coates came on to get those Giants out.

Today the Yankees will shoot for their 20th World Championship in that windup game with Ralph Terry, who broke a four-game losing streak in Series play by winning the fifth game of this prolonged duel.

For the Giants it will be stocky Jack Sanford, who also is one-and-one in this go-round and now faces what is a day of reckoning for both clubs.

All-U Golf Honors PEK, Chui, Galiher

By DOUG IDEN Staff Writer

Phi Epsilon Kappa, professional fraternity, capped All-University honors in the intramural golf tourney with an aggregate score of 328 Saturday.

Individual All-University laurels were capped by Ed Chui and Bob Galiher with the identical scores of 76. In a three way tie at 79 were Ed Kearney, Al Pechacek and Dick Elliott.

There was a champion from each of five leagues which was then eligible for All-University competition. Capturing second and third respectively was Sigma Phi Epsilon, 338 and Bush of the Hillcrest League at 350. This is a rotating trophy and will be at large again for the spring tournament.

The results of the leagues are as follows: Hillcrest, Bush (350) and Phillips (400); Professional Fraternities, Phi Epsilon Kappa (328) and Alpha Chi Sigma (431); Social Fraternities, Sigma Phi Epsilon (328), Sigma Nu (362) and Sigma Alpha Epsilon at 385. Neither Quad nor Town Men entered a squad.

Disgusted

SAN FRANCISCO — Immediately after Monday's sixth game of the World Series, groundskeeper Matty Schwabb began mowing the soggy and overgrown outfield grass.

Matty faced a long task, for he had to trace behind the mower. The machine normally used — with its comfortable seat — was too heavy 700 pounds to be used on a field soaked by three days of rain.

Two assistants were tramping behind Matty — with hand-operated grass picker-uppers.

THE ARMCHAIR QUARTERBACK

SUI Cagers Look To New Season Without Nelson

By ERIC ZOECKLER

It seems significant that when Coach Sharm Scheuerman and his 1962-63 Iowa basketball team opened practice sessions Monday there wasn't much talk of how much the Hawkeyes would miss Don Nelson.

Scheuerman, talking with a battery of newsmen from across the state answered one question in relation to the 6-foot, 6-inch blond, all-time Iowa star who holds seven Iowa records: How is Iowa going to compensate for the loss of Nelson?

"We must get a lot more of good outside shooting to compensate for the loss of Don. I really think our outside shooting will be better this year," the coach answered.

Here's a rundown of some of the other important questions which Sharm was asked at the news conference and his replies:

Will the Iowa style of offense be the same as years past?

"As of right now, we plan to use the same basic alignment (1-3-1) about 75 per cent of the time with variations the other 25 per cent of the time. We like it because it is so hard to defend. We are operating under the same theory as Jerry Burns and his 'Floating T' offense. Under our system, we spread out the defense and can drive that much easier."

Is the Iowa team going to fast break a lot this year?

"We are going to try to find out in the first six weeks whether we will have an effective fast break. I like to run, but we must determine if we have boys with the natural ability to utilize it."

What role will the sophomores play early in the season?

"We are not going to be looking to our sophomores for awhile. We'll let the upperclassmen take the brunt of the load at first. Jim Rodgers is probably our top sophomore prospect. He's a 6-3 guard who does things very well. We think he can be a pretty good ball player."

How does the team look from a point of aggressiveness?

"We feel that our sophomores are real aggressive which is in contrast to last year's sophomores who lacked this quality. This means that these youngsters are going to be battling the juniors and seniors for starting jobs. We had a problem last year with some of our sophomores, who just naturally, are quiet, subdued type of men."

Who currently holds to top positions in your mind as eventual starters?

"In the front line we have Doug Mehlfuss, Jerry Messick, Dave Roach and Dick Shaw with the back court men looking to be Andy Hankins, Matt Szkowny and Joe Reddington. Top sophomores include Rodgers, Mike Denoma, Fred Riddle and Terry Lyon."

How does your non-conference schedule shape up?

"In planning a non-conference schedule, you're torn between two alternatives: whether to make it too easily and insure that everyone gets a chance to play or make it tough so we gain a lot from it. This year we open with Evansville (Ind.) College, Dec. 1, then meet St. Louis, Ohio University, Clemson and have the Kentucky Invitational (Dec. 21-22) and the Far West Classic at Portland, Ore. (Dec. 26-29). All in all, I think we're playing a very tough non-conference schedule."

How do your big boys (Don Faes, 7-foot center and Bill Skea, 6-8 center) look now?

"Don has improved a great deal, but still has a long way to go. He's a great competitor and gave Don Nelson a lot of trouble last year when the freshmen scrimmaged the varsity."

"Bill Skea is also like Don (Faes). He shoots well and works hard. It would be nice to see him gain about 20 pounds. They both have to master their moves."

Coach Scheuerman greeted 17 of the 19 players he expects to be on the squad. Fred Riddle, a sophomore guard, and Matt Szkowny are busy quarterbacking the Iowa football squad. He said of Matt:

"He adjusts quickly to the basketball situation, but he probably won't be ready for the starter. We expect him soon after that, however. Fred will take a little longer adjusting, mainly because he's a sophomore and doesn't anticipate as much as can Matt."

When asked how Iowa should wind-up in the Big Ten race, a puzzled look came over Scheuerman's face.

"We will be as hard to predict as anyone," Sharm answered. "If we continue like we are playing at the end of last season and if our outside shooting is good, we might show up pretty well."

He mentioned Ohio State, Illinois, Indiana as teams to beat in the conference race.

Frosh Cagers Start

Practice for the freshman basketball team will begin today. Interested freshman are asked to report to assistant coaches Gary Lorenz, and Jim Deyo at 3:45 p.m. in the North Gym of the fieldhouse.

Players are asked to supply their own equipment during the first weeks of practice.

Burns Added to Iowa Disabled List, But Expected Back Today

Iowa Coach Jerry Burns did not appear on the practice field Monday because of a strep throat, but the Hawkeyes ran through a light workout in sweat clothes under the direction of the assistant coaches.

The team concentrated on kicking with the reserves learning Wisconsin plays.

Matt Szkowny, Iowa quarterback injured in the Southern Cal game and forced to sit out at Indiana Saturday, was handling the ball and working out lightly, but the report from the dressing room said the knee still pains him.

End Cloyd Webb, who received a bruised knee in Saturday's 14-10 win over Indiana, was in sweat clothes and doing some running although he did not line up with the team. His knee is not serious, however, and he should be ready to go soon, perhaps today.

After the Indiana win, which was completely under the direction of No. 2 quarterback Bob Wallace, Burns commented:

"I feel that we have yet to exploit the full potential of our offense. Three games have gone by without this occurring but I believe one of these Saturdays Iowa will break loose and really roll to justify expectations."

The coach acknowledged that so far the opponents have prevented Iowa's speedy backs from breaking away, the two longest runs being 50 and 28 yards. Fullback Bill Perkins broke away on a 50-yard touchdown effort for the first score against the Hoosiers Saturday.

Asked about Wallace's performance Saturday, Burns said, "Bob Wallace ran the team well in his first full game and I am sure he gained confidence. But, of course, we hope that Matt Szkowny, the usual No. 1, will be ready."

Wallace moved the offense for 293 yards against Indiana and completed six of ten passes.

The Hawks' fine defensive play has held the opponents to an average of 65 yards rushing and 186 total offense per game.

The rushing race continues to be close with Captain Larry Ferguson leading (156-yards and 3.7 avg.). He is followed by Bill Perkins and Willie Ray Smith with Bobby Grier ranking fourth.

Floater Paul Krause leads in pass receiving with ten catches for 142 yards. End Cloyd Webb has 88 yards on eight catches.

Harriers' Depth Aids 20-37 Win

By ERIC ZOECKLER
Sports Editor

Standing on a hilltop on Finkbine Golf Course on Monday, a peaceful-type of Injun Summer afternoon, Iowa's Cross-Country Coach Francis Cretzmeier seemed satisfied over his team's 20-37 win over Illinois here Saturday.

"The results were about what we expected, but we're still not in tip-top shape," Cretz commented. "We have a new and hillier course here this year which is about 20-30 seconds slower than last year's course."

Nevertheless, a thin young man, named Al Carius of Illinois, solved the 4-mile trek in 20 minutes and 33.4 seconds to take first place. The majority of the handful watching evidently were a band of Carius followers who traveled all the way from his home town, Morton, Ill., near Peoria.

But the Hawkeye depth, which could be a prime factor when they defend their Big Ten Championship here Nov. 2, broke the Illinois' backs.

Tying for second spot were seniors Gary Fischer and Ralph Trimble in 21:06 as favored Larry Kramer turned in a disappointing fourth.

"Larry just had a kind of bad day. We know that he's capable of running right with Carius." In fact, along with Carius and Charlie Umbarger of Indiana, I would rate Kramer as one of the top runners in the conference," his coach asserted.

Prior to Saturday's jaunt, the diminutive Kramer had spun around the Finkbine course in 20:50, but could manage only 21:18.5 against Carius. He took the early lead, but right at the 2-mile mark the bare-footed Carius took over.

Thus, the Hawkeyes prepare to meet Wisconsin's Badgers Saturday morning before the pigskin contest at Madison in the afternoon. The Badgers have won three straight meets, Cretz emphasized, the same record they had when Iowa defeated them last year. "We're hoping for the same thing this year."

One of the boys who displayed fine worth Saturday, Bill Frazier, Big Ten half mile champion, has a foot blister problem, "but turned in a good performance taking seventh place Saturday," the Iowa coach said.

Leading the Badgers, 21-34 victors over Michigan State Saturday, is Don Foker who has turned in a 20:44 over Wisconsin's new course, which according to Cretz, "is not as rough as ours."

Following is the order of finish Saturday:

- 1 — Al Carius (Ill.); 2 — Ralph Trimble (I); and Gary Fischer (I), 3; 4 — Larry Kramer (I); 5 — George Clarke (I); 6 — Bill Frazier (I); 7 — Stan Ripiski (Ill.); 8 — Lance Hering (Ill.); 9 — Rick Lally (Ill.); 10 — Norm Maske (I); 11 — Jim Ashton (I); 12 — Lynn Laible (Ill.); 13 — Lee Walker (Ill.); 14 — Tom Hauser (I); 15 — Larry Sheets (I); 16 — Jim Spicer (I).

12 Former Nazis Tried for Crimes

COBLENZ, Germany (UPI) — Twelve one-time Nazi officials charged with slaying 70,000 persons during the Nazi occupation of Russia in World War II went on trial today in the biggest War Crimes trial in Germany since the 1946 Nuremberg Trials.

The central figure in the trial was George Heuser, 49, Chief of the Rhineland-Palatinate Police Force until his arrest in 1959. He is charged with the murder of 30,326 persons in the Minsk area from 1941 through 1944.

The prosecution charges that all defendants belonged to the SD (Security Service) execution squads operating in Russia during the war.

Their victims were Jews, Gypsies and other "enemies" of Nazism during the Russian campaign of World War II.

They are accused of shooting, gassing or burying alive their victims. The prosecution's formal charges take up 318 pages.

Heuser, wearing horn-rimmed glasses and an ill-fitting brown suit, told the court in a low but firm voice, "I feel partially guilty." Asked whether he pleaded guilty to all the charges against him he replied "No."

Heuser, a native of Berlin, told the court he joined the Nazi Secret Police (SD) in 1938 because "I had no inclination to serve with the Gestapo." He said he automatically became a member of the SS (elite guard) by joining the Secret Police.

Heuser said he forged records after the war to substantiate his claim to the bogus doctor's diploma and that he escaped postwar "de-Nazification" by giving false answers in a questionnaire "like 80 per cent of all Germans."

He said he tried his luck with a number of private firms in post-war Germany and in 1953 applied for a police job "because I noted comrades had successfully followed the same path." He quickly became an Inspector and was appointed Chief of the Rhineland-Palatinate Police Force in 1952.

He was arrested a year later in Bad Orb during a vacation when the Ludwigsburg Center for Investigation of Nazi Crimes uncovered the case.

Also on trial are white-collar worker Rudolf Schlegel, 49; laborer Frank Stark, 61; laborer Ernst Wertholz, 55; teacher Arthur Wilke, 52; merchant Arthur Harder, 52; white collar worker Friedrich Merbach, 50; electrician Jakob Oswald, 62; police inspector Johann Feder, 51; bookkeeper Karl Dalheimer, 55; customs inspector Wilhelm Kaul, 58; and Baron Eberhard von Toll, 56, now an office worker.

Pharmacy Seniors Elect Lloyd Bare Class President

Lloyd George Bare, Pleasantville, has been elected president of the senior class of the College of Pharmacy at SUI for 1962-63.

Other senior officers are Robert Tolleson, St. Ansgar, vice-president; John Henry True, Buffalo, Mo., secretary, and Ray Karl Wunder, Dysart, treasurer.

The junior class in pharmacy named Gil Thomas Hartliep, Cherokee, as president; Kenneth Clifford Wichman, Grinnell, as vice-president; Donald Lee Hurt, Athens, Ill., as secretary; and Michael Moran, Morrison, Ill., as treasurer.

Roger Alan Parker, Hawkeye, was chosen as president of the sophomore class in the college. Robert Ivan Lewis, Iowa City, is vice-president; Linda Joyce Law, Riceville, secretary, and George William Nash, Bowen, Ill., treasurer.

President of the freshman class is Howard Anthony Norman, Ottumwa. Joel Arthur Osborne, Moline, Ill., is vice-president; Cheri Lee Sweeting, Iowa City, secretary, and Delbert Wayne Swan, Fairfield, treasurer.

Power Failure Causes Coed Stuck in Elevator

A power failure Sunday afternoon caused the loss of electricity in all SUI buildings served by the University Physical Plant.

The electricity was shorted at 1:50 p.m. Sunday, according to R. J. Phillips, superintendent of the Physical Plant. He said that men doing repair work on distribution cables north of Old Capitol accidentally caused the short.

Phillips said electricity was restored by 3 p.m. when the electricians confirmed that all the circuits were clear, and that it was safe to start the power.

In Burge Hall, for example, power was not turned on until almost 3:30 because it was necessary for custodians to reset the motors of all electrical equipment after the failure.

In the dining hall Sunday dinner was already over, the dishes were washed, and most of the equipment was cleaned. The waitresses and cooks still remained in the dining hall did have to grope their way down a dark stairway because the regular doors were locked.

The Carnival Room, which is the public cafeteria in Burge, resorted to light by candles and flashlights while the electricity was out. The Sunday dinner rush was already over so only a few in the Carnival Room were affected by this.

The desk in the main lobby of Burge, which handles all incoming calls, did have a few problems. No one could call into the dorm and no lights on the switchboard would flash when a girl already in the dorm called the desk.

And, as you may have guessed by now, no power failure is complete without someone getting stuck in the elevator. This also happened in Burge.

Patty Bloomcamp, A3, Manson, was between fourth and fifth floor in Burge when the elevator came to a halt. As Patty said, "I was scared to death at first. I just stood there and pushed all the knobs."

By calling until some girls heard her, Patty was told that the electricity had gone out. It was then a matter of waiting half an hour until one of the custodians managed, with Patty's help, to get the outer door of the elevator open.

He put a ladder in the elevator and Patty came down the ladder to the solid safety of fourth floor.

SUI Orchestra To Play Wagner, Debussy, Ives

Orchestral excerpts from a Wagner opera will open the SUI Symphony Orchestra concert, 8 p.m. Wednesday in Iowa Memorial Union.

Professor James Dixon will conduct the group in "Funeral Music of Siegfried" from Wagner's "Die Gotterdammerung," and in a suite from Debussy's "Le Martyre de Saint Sebastien" and Charles Ives' "Symphony No. Two."

Free tickets for the concert are available to the public at the Information Desk in the Iowa Memorial Union.

Program notes for the concert by Professor E. Eugene Helm point out that orchestral excerpts from Wagner's operas are far better known and much more often performed than the entire works.

Professor Helm notes that Wagner's music has been a mainstay of orchestral repertoires for almost a century. The whole epic of the "Ring" cycle — four operas by Wagner — is recalled in themes of the "Funeral Music of Siegfried," he continues.

The Debussy work was originally composed as incidental music for a play based on the life of St. Sebastian, but is heard today chiefly in the concert version for orchestra alone. Debussy's tonal language showed a new element of restraint and clarity in this work, Professor Helm says.

Ives' "Symphonic No. Two" is as "optimistic and open as 'Yankee Doodle'; it is direct, unsophisticated, honest," says Professor Helm. Written between 1897 and 1901, early in Ives' career, this symphony is full of style imitations, Helm continues.

"Choose a coposposer from Smetana to Sibelius; he is represented in Ives' 'Second Symphony' — not usually in direct quotations (almost

SUI Enrollment Hits Peak of 12,114

A final enrollment of 12,114 for the fall semester at SUI was announced Friday by President Virgil M. Hancher.

President Hancher noted that the figure for this fall is 413 greater than last fall's final enrollment at the University, and it stands as the largest enrollment in the 115-year history of the University.

Ten years ago, there were 7,382 students at SUI. Ten years from now there will be 19,000 students on the Iowa City campus, according to the current estimates made by SUI officials.

This fall's students include 7,801 men and 4,313 women. A year ago these figures were 7,723 and 3,978 respectively. The total includes 203 veterans, a drop of 164 from those registered a year ago.

Enrollments in SUI's colleges this fall are: Business Administration, 401; Dentistry, 261; Engineering, 515; Graduate, 2,721; Law, 350; Liberal Arts, 6,853; Medicine, 441; Nursing, 414; Pharmacy, 158.

SUI Prof Petersen In Panel Discussion

Wilbur Peterson, associate professor of journalism, will participate in a panel discussion, "Research for the Small Daily," at the Midwest Regional Conference of the National Newspaper Promotion Association in Des Moines, Oct. 26.

Other members of the panel are Harry Lund, promotion manager of the Saginaw (Mich.) News, and Dr. John Scott Davenport, Research, Inc. of Ohio.

Prof. Peterson is head of the Bureau of Media Service at the School of Journalism. Dr. Davenport is a former faculty member of the SUI School of Journalism.

HOW FAR APART SHOULD BE SPACED?

Proper spacing is one of the marks of Stephens' traditional natural shoulder tailoring. We feel that the top and center buttons should be placed 4 3/4" apart. Very frankly, the jacket looks better with this spacing. In authentic traditional clothing, the top button is left open to permit the lapel to roll between the top and center buttons.

Assignment: build a brake that will make its own adjustments

It's now a fact: every Ford-built car in '63 has self-adjusting brakes

"Give us a brake," Ford Motor Company engineers were told, "that will automatically compensate for lining wear whenever an adjustment is needed — and make it work for the entire life of the lining."

Tough assignment — but not insurmountable. Today, not only does every Ford-built car boast self-adjusting brakes, but the design is so excellent that adjustments can be made more precisely than by hand.

This Ford-pioneered concept is not complex. Key to it is a simple mechanism which automatically maintains proper clearance between brake drum and lining.

Self-adjustment takes place when the brakes are applied while backing up. This adjustment normally occurs but once in several hundred miles of driving. The brake pedal stays up, providing full pedal reserve for braking.

Another assignment completed — and another example of how Ford Motor Company provides engineering leadership for the American Road.

Gomułka Welcomed by Workers in E. Berlin

BERLIN (UPI) — The East German Regime today turned out thousands of workers and school children to welcome Polish Communist Party chief Wladyslaw Gomułka. Gomułka is the first high-ranking foreign Communist to come to Berlin since the anti-refugee wall went up more than a year ago. East German authorities beaded the route of the official motorcade with flags and banners and lined thousands of factory workers and school children along the streets. But western observers said the crowd displayed a marked lack of spontaneous enthusiasm. The motorcade did not go near the anti-refugee wall erected through Berlin by the East German Communists in August of 1961. No mention of the wall was made either by Gomułka or East German Chief of State Walter Ulbricht in the exchange of formal speeches. Gomułka, Polish Premier Josef Cyrankiewicz and other party and Polish Government officials arrived in East Berlin for an official one-week visit. In his welcoming speech, Ulbricht stressed that a German Peace Treaty, which would end Western Allied rights in Berlin, "must not be put off any longer." Gomułka, in reply, reiterated the Communist line that West Berlin must be made a "free city" without Allied troops. But he did not say such a change was urgent. Ulbricht, obviously taking his cue from Moscow, did not set any deadline for the signing of a German Peace Treaty although he spoke of the "pressing urgency" for and end to what he described as the "occupation regime of the imperialist Western Powers." Ulbricht also reminded Gomułka and the Polish delegation that East Germany has recognized Poland's permanent occupation of German territories east of the Oder-Neisse Line. The Allied Powers and West Germany maintain these territories

Week End News In Brief

Congress Adjourns
WASHINGTON, D. C. — The Eighty-seventh Congress finally adjourned Saturday after being on the "brink" several times during the preceding days. This session of Congress was one of the longest ever held — nine months and four days.

Common Mart Praised

LLANDUDNO, Wales (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan enthusiastically lauded the European Common Market at the Conservative Party's annual conference Saturday, saying the plan would signal a brilliant revival in European industry, trade, culture, sports, and politics. Macmillan earlier in the week had won a long fight within his party for approval of Britain's entry into the Common Market. All that now remains for entry into the plan is the approval of the six Common Market countries. West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and President Charles de Gaulle of France have not appeared anxious for Britain's entry.

Town Men, Women Needed For Float

Town Men interested in building the Town Men-Town Women Homecoming Float will meet at the Burkett-Rhinehart used car lot, 632 S. Riverside Dr., at 7 p.m. Thursday to begin construction on the float's framework. If anyone has any carpenter's tools, he is asked to bring them with him. Questions may be directed to Mike Parizek, 7-9308. Town Women will be helping with the float next week. If anyone wishes to volunteer assistance, she may call Gaida Kalnins, 7-3321.

are only under "Polish administration" pending a peace treaty settlement. The welcome ceremony at the East Berlin Railway Station and the motorcade through the city were carried out according to strict Communist protocol with an air of strained formality. Gomułka appeared fidgety while Ulbricht was speaking and made only a cursory review of the East German honor guard at the station. Activities of the Polish delegation were not disclosed. However, it was expected to make the usual rounds of factories and institutions. The visit is widely regarded as the Communist answer to the popular trip of President Charles de Gaulle of France to West Germany last month. The Poles are sometimes considered the "historic enemy" of Germany in the east as is France in the west.

University Club To Meet Oct. 23

The University Club will hold a "Look and Meet Tea" at 2 p.m., Oct. 23 in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union. Mrs. Arthur Wise, chairman and Mrs. Robert Randall, co-chairman, are in charge of the tea. The program will feature four decorated tables. Mrs. Joseph Wayne will decorate a bridal table; Mrs. William Nusser, a football game table; Mrs. E. T. Hubbard, a morning coffee table; and Mrs. Robert P. Ray an antique table. Mrs. Ralph Shriner will design the descriptive table plaques. Mrs. Robert Caldwell is decorating the two serving tea tables. Reservations for the event may be made by telephoning one of the following persons from Wednesday through Friday: Mrs. Robert Randall, Mrs. Robert Marsden, Mrs. M. L. Masher or Mrs. J. A. Buckwalter. The University Club and members will share the expense of refreshments of which the members will pay 25 cents. Members of the club include women faculty members, wives of faculty members, and women college alumni in Iowa City.

Dance Club Meets

A meeting of the Contemporary Dance Club will be held tonight in the Mirror Room of the Women's Gym. Members interested in choreography are asked to come at 6:30. The remaining members will meet at 7:30.

Russian Corn Yield Up

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet cooperative farm in the Ukraine has produced a yield of 111 bushels of corn to the acre, a farm machine operator has reported to Roswell Garst, the Coon Rapids, Iowa, corn grower. Tass News Agency said Monday the machine operator, Alexander Gitalov, made the report in a letter to Garst. He said the yield, amazingly high for Russia, was turned in by his cooperative farm in the Kirovograd region. In the United States the national average yield is 61 bushels, and in Iowa it is 78. But experimental plots have turned in bumper crops as high as 200 bushels to the acre. Gitalov's letter, as quoted by Tass did not make clear whether the 111 bushels was for an isolated plot or a farm average. "The lessons I have learned working at your farm in the summer of 1958 have been useful," Tass quoted Gitalov as writing to Garst. He added that other cooperatives and state farms in the area had turned in bumper yields, and concluded: "Competition in raising bumper crops of maize (corn) is a much more honorable and humanitarian matter than the useless waste of effort and energy on terrible means of annihilating people and wiping out everything alive on our planet."

Ben Bella Spends Day With JFK and Family

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Ahmed Ben Bella, who spent six years in French prisons before emerging to take over power in Algeria, came to Washington Monday for a first-hand look at American democracy.

He was greeted by President Kennedy, a 21-gun salute and Caroline Kennedy's play school.

In addition there was the Speaker's chair in the House of Representatives, the Lincoln Memorial and the Gettysburg Address, and a group of American school children who wanted his autograph.

The Premier, who smiles rarely, obviously felt happy and flattered as he wrote his name on envelopes and notebooks. It was just another incident in a colorful and often wacky day.

A joint communique issued after the meeting said that after outlining their respective foreign policies, "President Kennedy and the Prime Minister stated their hopes for a close and continuing friendship between the two countries."

To welcome Ben Bella, the State Department tried a new technique. Instead of holding the ceremonies at the airport, it staged them at the White House.

For the first time, the 21-gun salute was fired from the nearby ellipse. The traditional Ruffles and Flourishes were played by trumpeters on the first-floor balcony of the executive mansion.

The only unscheduled attraction was Caroline and her 20 play school and kindergarten playmates. While the military review was under way, the sound of childish laughter and shouts could be heard from the third floor.

In a voice that reverberated from the mansion as the military review was going on, a little boy shouted "Attention! Forward, March!"

Kennedy, with a serious expression on his face, kept looking toward the room.

Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy, holding John Jr., watched the ceremonies from the edge of the rose garden. Afterward she was introduced to Ben Bella, and the Algerian leader pinched the boy's cheek.

Aside from the byplay, there were serious talks at the White House. The keynote of the visit was sounded by Kennedy, who as a Senator in 1957 made a controversial speech in favor of Algerian independence.

"I am sure," Kennedy told Ben Bella in his welcoming remarks, "that Algeria will have a great place in the affairs of North Africa and the world. I am saluting in you a strong patriot who has proved his patriotic feelings in the most trying circumstances."

"I hope that while staying here you will have the opportunity to make a judgment on the American people; I hope you will recognize the hand of friendship extended to you, and that we will remain united in the safeguarding of world peace."

Ben Bella, in reply, paid tribute to the "lucid, clear and courageous" position that then Sen. Kennedy had taken in his 1957 speech. He added: "I am certain that you will continue to be the artisan of the friendship between our two peoples."

While the Ben Bella-Kennedy talks were underway, U.S. and Algerian officials met at the State Department to work on projects for U.S. aid to Algeria.

Contest Set For Hawk-I New Cheers

This week, Oct. 14-20, is Boost Iowa Spirit Week, student body president Mark Schantz proclaimed Monday.

Schantz said, "I urge all students of SUI to help Boost Iowa Spirit by donating their talents and ideas to the Hawk-I Pep Club's New Cheers Contest."

The student who writes the winning cheer will win free tickets for two, plus expenses to the Iowa-Minnesota game on Nov. 10.

Forms for the New Cheers Contest may be picked up at the Union New Information Desk. They must be returned to that desk by midnight, Saturday.

Students are advised that they may utilize drums or music as they wish. The cheers will be led by SUI's yell leaders but may be designed to use "Herky."

The five top winners will be announced at the Homecoming Pep Rally, Oct. 26.

Judging will be done by a cheering block committee under the direction of Heikki Joonsar, E3, Waterloo, in conjunction with the yell leaders.

Czech Arrest Of U.S. Teacher Protested by Gov't

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department today said it has formally protested the arrest of Robert Roy Budway, a Washington gym instructor, in Czechoslovakia on espionage charges.

A spokesman said a protest note was delivered in Prague Saturday, after Czech charges were made against Budway, who had gone to Czechoslovakia to visit relatives.

The United States protested "most strongly" his detention without immediately notifying American authorities. The United States had asked the Czech Government on Sept. 11, Oct. 3 and Oct. 6 about Budway's whereabouts and had received no reply.

The U.S. note requested that an American consular officer be given immediate permission to visit him. But there has been no report here so far on whether the Czechs had agreed to this.

The note referred to what it called the "studied discourtesy" of Czech officials in announcing his arrest some 12 hours before they got around to notifying the American embassy.

Homecoming Badge

Homecoming Badges Go On Sale Thursday

"Ladies and gentlemen, the Hawkeye Marching Band." Thousands of Iowa football fans have come to know that those words mean topnotch music from an SUI group that needs no introduction in the state or nation.

This year the SUI Marching Band and Director Frederick Ebbs are featured on the Homecoming badges. Fifteen thousand of these badges go on sale in Iowa City Thursday under the direction of the YWCA. Residents of student housing units will act as salesmen.

The two-inch diameter badges have a gold edge with black lettering and a picture of Professor Ebbs directing his band in the University Hymn, "Old Gold."

Ebbs' first SUI band received thundering approval from Hawkeye football fans in 1954 when band members quick-stepped onto the field and brought the "show band tradition" to the Iowa City campus. Since that day, Ebbs and various editions of the Hawkeye Marching Band have continued to draw praise and recognition from Iowans and individuals and groups across the nation.

Following a special show in 1958 which featured tunes from "The Music Man," Meredith Willson said, "The Iowa Band is the finest university band I have ever seen."

Ebbs' history as a band director shows success with every position he has held, starting in 1937 at the Rittman, Ohio, Public Schools, as director of bands at Hobart, Ind., Ebbs' bands received nothing but first division ratings in district and state contests from 1941 to 1948.

The SUI professor spent six years as director of bands at Baldwin-Wallace College, his alma mater, before coming to Iowa City in 1954.

Ebbs has served as clinic director or guest conductor for summer band camps, clinics, conferences and workshops in 18 states. He has been a judge at festivals, contests and competitions throughout the United States.

Future Teacher's Meetings Set for Today, Tomorrow

Teacher candidates, don't forget the placement meetings today and Wednesday.

Graduate students expecting to begin college teaching February or September, 1963, or to seek administrative positions, should attend the meeting at 4:30 p.m. today in room 221A Schaeffer Hall.

Seniors and graduate students, expecting to teach in public schools in February or September 1963, should attend the meeting at 4:30 p.m. Wednesday in the same room.

Registration procedures with the educational placement office, teaching opportunities, and salary trends in the educational field will be discussed at the meetings.

Students planning to enter military service upon graduation are also urged to attend the appropriate meeting.

"What is
Lutheran Brotherhood
anyway?"

Glad you asked...

Here's how we started. First incorporated as The Luther Union, our fraternal life insurance society was formed by nine distinguished Lutherans during a 1917 church convention in St. Paul. After borrowing $6,000 to cover the expenses of obtaining applications, the society issued its first life insurance policies in 1918. Here's what we do. We offer a variety of life insurance, health insurance and retirement plans to all Lutherans. (Purchase of a policy automatically qualifies you as a member of Lutheran Brotherhood.) We also aid the Lutheran Church through an extensive benevolence and fraternal activities program. Here's how we're growing. With more than 1 1/2 billion dollars of insurance in force in June, 1962, Lutheran Brotherhood now is among the leaders of all organizations operating in the insurance field. Surplus, assets, investment earnings and benefits paid to Society members have also risen phenomenally during the past few years. Here's how the future looks. Although Lutheran Brotherhood's gains in all phases of its operation have been sizeable, the management and directors predict even greater growth. More and more Lutherans are realizing that Lutheran Brotherhood offers both amazingly low-cost security and a sound investment opportunity.
