JFK Orders Blockade of Cuba, Warns U.S.S.R. of Retaliation

'Provocative Threat'

In a nationwide address Monday evening President Kennedy advised the American public that the U.S. was setting up a Naval blockade against Cuba. Kennedy said "let no one doubt that this is a difficult and dangerous effort on which we have set out."

Meets Crisis With 7-Point Deterrent Plan

By The Associated Press
President Kennedy told the nation Monday night that these seven steps are being taken in reaction to the Soviets' establishment of offensive missile sites in Cuba:

1. A strict quarantine on all offensive military equipment under shipment to Cuba is being initiated. All ships of any kind bound for Cuba, from whatever nation or port, will, if found to contain cargoes of offensive weapons be turned back. If necessary the quarantine will be extended to other types of cargoes.
2. Kennedy has directed continued and increased close surveillance of Cuba and its military build-up.
3. "It shall be the policy of this nation to regard any nuclear missile launched from Cuba against any nation in the Western Hemisphere as an attack by the Soviet Union on the United States requiring a full retaliatory response upon the Soviet Union."
4. The U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo, Cuba, has been reinforced, dependents of military personnel there have been evacuated and additional military units have been ordered on an alert basis.
5. The United States is calling for an immediate meeting of the organ of consultation under the Organization of American States, "to consider this threat to hemispheric security."
6. The United States is asking that an emergency meeting of the United Nations Security Council "be convened without delay to take action against this latest Soviet threat to world peace." Ambassador Adlai Stevenson took such action immediately after Kennedy spoke.
7. Kennedy has called on Soviet Premier Khrushchev "to halt and eliminate this clandestine, reckless and provocative threat to world peace and to stable relations between our two nations."

These were the sequence of events preceding Kennedy's address:

Amidst a mounting air of mystery and feverish activity, Kennedy called on Soviet Premier Khrushchev "to halt and eliminate this clandestine, reckless and provocative threat to world peace and to stable relations between our two nations."

U.S. Scores Red China's 'Aggression'

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — The United States condemned Communist China's aggression against India today and warned that the Chinese must not be allowed to "shoot their way" into the United Nations.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson urged members of the world organization to reject again the Soviet Union's attempt to seat Communist China. He said acceptance of the "aggressive" Peiping "dictatorship" would mean forsaking the principles of the U.N. charter.

U.S. Photos Show Arms In Jungle

By United Press International
WASHINGTON — U.S. photographs taken high over Cuba show launching pads in jungle clearings and missiles half-hidden by canvas. A Pentagon spokesman said the pads were pointed out the United States and the trailers standing by carried missiles that could reach practically any point in this country.

He told about 150 newsmen at a special briefing that the Government did not know positively that there were nuclear warheads in Cuba.

But he said it was "almost inconceivable" that Russia's latest medium and intermediate range missiles, capable of traveling up to 2,200 miles, would be used with anything but nuclear warheads.

The photographs, enlarged 30 times, were pasted on stage placards beside the spokesman. He pointed at the first of them and said in the drone of a lecturer: "This is the photograph of a portion of Cuba, which became available to us Monday midnight or Tuesday morning."

"These are launchers, here and here, aligned to a specific section of the United States. These missiles on trailers are backed up against the launcher, the missile is grasped by the launcher, erected, and the trailer moves away."

"This is a mobile installation," he continued. "It can be put in place in a matter of days. We have sequential photographs separated by a period of a day or two, and you can see the movement of the equipment onto the site, the erection of certain buildings used in checking out missiles, and the movement of convoys carrying the missiles onto the site."

GOP, Demo Leaders Give JFK Support

By United Press International
WASHINGTON — President Kennedy was reported Monday night to have been given assurances by both Republican and Democratic congressional leaders that they will stand solidly behind the action he has taken on Cuba.

This was reported to newsmen by Sen. George A. Smathers, (D-Fla.) one of the 19 lawmakers who met with Kennedy and Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson shortly before the President's radio-television address to the nation.

Smathers, secretary of the Senate Democratic Conference, said Kennedy had asked the House and Senate leaders to remain in Washington at least through Wednesday to await further developments on the Cuban situation.

He said he thought Kennedy would meet again with the congressional leaders Wednesday, or perhaps today. The legislators were brought back to Washington on Air Force planes on hasty notice today from their home states and other places to which they had gone after the adjournment of Congress.

Smathers said that in their one-hour and a half meeting with Kennedy in the cabinet room there was a general discussion of "just what this thing might lead to."

"The consensus of everyone was that this had to be done," Smathers said. "The principal consensus was that there must be unity. The leaders — Republicans and Democrats — indicated they will join hands behind the President because he is the Commander-in-Chief."

Sen. Prescott Bush (R-Conn.) who did not attend the meeting, said: "The actions ordered by President Kennedy with respect to Cuba deserve the support of the American people. I am confident the President will have the support of Congress and the Republican Party. These actions are long overdue, but welcome nevertheless."

Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.) said: "Our real enemy in Cuba is Russia and her military buildup there can seriously endanger our safety and survival. The full quarantine, which I of course approve, is only a first step. I favor a full follow up and the destruction of those missile bases, if they are not dismantled."

Socialist Club Opposes New U.S. Foreign Policy

The SUI Socialist Discussion Club plans to send a telegram to President Kennedy today opposing his Monday declaration of American policy in the Caribbean Sea.

The club began soliciting signatures for the telegram at its first fall meeting 8 p.m. Monday in the Pentacrest Room of the Iowa Memorial Union.

A Grim-visaged Joe

Grim-faced Joe Gehringer, A4, Burlington, was one of the many students classified 1-A by their draft boards who crowded around the Associated Press and United Press International teletype machines in The Daily Iowan office Monday afternoon as news of the Cuban blockade unfolded. After all, this could be a forewarning of an interrupted college career.

SUI Campus Reactions Favor Kennedy's Action

Here are some reactions to President Kennedy's speech: Hugh Kelso, assistant professor of political science said "happy to see us on the offensive rather than the defensive. There may be a reaction by the Soviets in terms of Berlin. Don't think in terms of legality on this question nor did we when Russia acted in Hungary. It is a question of being nibbled to death or fight back before we are nibbled to death."

Robert Boyton, assistant professor of Political Science said "like the rest of the nation, I'm overwhelmed. Any comment I'd make wouldn't enlighten the situation. I do think he made the right action, but I have no little ball to tell me the consequences of the action. I don't know what else he could have done under the circumstances. I don't favor overt action, but I do support him in this."

Col. Michael Milulak, professor of Air Science thought "it would be presumptuous on my part to make any judgment now. I have no other information except what everyone got on television."

James Murray, associate professor of Political Science said "my own reaction is that the action was directed at the Soviet Union, not Cuba. I do not think that missiles on Cuba represent a significant increase to challenge our national security. We are doing our best to see that the Soviet Union will not get away with a distinctly provocative action."

George Ginsburgs, assistant professor of Political Science said "the (Kennedy) is a bloody idiot. He is begging for armed action. One does not stop ships in time of peace and they have no right of search and seizure. There is no legal basis for this."

Reports Proof Of Nuclear Installations

Gives Reds Implied Warning of Bombing Cuban Offensive Sites

From Combined News Sources
WASHINGTON — President Kennedy proclaimed a U.S. Naval blockade against Cuba Monday night, saying the Soviets have started to turn Cuba into an offensive military base capable of raining nuclear destruction on all the Americas.

He coupled the action with a warning to Russia that any nuclear missile attack from Cuba against this — or any other Western nation — would bring instant U.S. retaliation against the Soviet Union.

Kennedy reported that within the past week the United States has received unmistakable evidence that — contrary to Soviet assurances — nuclear-type long-range missile sites and atomic-capable Soviet jet bombers are being established in Cuba.

Kennedy uttered what seemed an implied warning that the United States may have to bomb offensive sites in Cuba if the buildup continues. He put it this way:

"Should these offensive military preparations continue, thus increasing the threat to the hemisphere, further action will be justified. I have directed the armed forces to prepare for any eventualities; and I trust that, in the interest of both the Cuban people and the Soviet technicians at these sites, the hazards to all concerned of continuing this threat will be recognized."

And the President cautioned the Soviets that, if they react by aggression somewhere else in the world, they "will be met with determination."

"Any hostile move anywhere in the world against the safety and freedom of peoples to whom we are committed — including in particular the brave people of West Berlin — will be met by whatever action is needed," he said.

He emphasized, both in his prepared text and in his delivery, that the steps he was ordering now were only "initial" ones.

Even before the President finished speaking, U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson requested an urgent meeting of the United Nations Security Council to seek the withdrawal of offensive weapons from Cuba. Stevenson acted on a directive from Kennedy.

Solemnly, Kennedy accused the Soviet Union and its foreign minister of lying in denying that Cuba was being transformed into a base capable of launching "weapons of sudden mass destruction."

Kennedy said the only purpose of a series of offensive missile sites that have been established in Cuba can be "to provide a nuclear strike capability against the Western Hemisphere."

He said the first concrete information on this was received Tuesday morning.

Two distinct types of installations have been detected, he said. Several of them, he said, include medium-range ballistic missiles that could send a nuclear warhead more than 1,000 nautical miles — to such places as Washington, the Panama Canal, Cape Canaveral, Mexico City, or any other city in the Southeastern United States, Central America or the Caribbean area.

Kennedy said all this, contradicts repeated assurances of Soviet spokesmen, given publicly and privately, that the arms buildup in Cuba would be defensive only.

The size of the undertaking, he said, makes it evident that it was planned months ago. Yet only last month, Kennedy said, the Soviet government stated publicly, on Sept. 11, that the armaments sent to Cuba were designed exclusively for defensive purposes.

"That statement was false," Kennedy said.

Nehru Gives India 'Call for Sacrifice'

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru warned Monday night that India's independence as a nation was threatened as Red Chinese threw tanks into battle in some of the world's loftiest mountains and extended their attacks to a spread of 1,400 miles along the Himalayan frontiers.

The prime minister, 72, who helped lead the nation to independence 15 years ago, told his 457-million people in a 13-minute broadcast nevertheless that, "The final result will be in our favor. It cannot be otherwise."

Sounding tired from the three days of crisis and Chinese attacks which were steadily pushing back India's frontier troops, Nehru said India must carry on the struggle because she cannot submit to the aggression or domination of a powerful and unscrupulous foe.

Calling on the people to have faith and full confidence, he said, no important part of the nation's five-year economic plan will be reduced. But he declared everything will be sacrificed if necessary to save Indian freedom.

Nehru's warning and call for national sacrifice was sounded as Indian defense spokesmen announced that Mao Tze-tung's Chinese warriors had opened a new front in the area of Rima formerly Chayu, only about 20 miles northwest of Burma's border.

This is at the extreme eastern end of India's northern frontiers and 1,400 crow-flight miles from the western front in Ladakh.

Near Pangong Lake in southeastern Ladakh, whose brackish waters are nearly 14,000-feet high, Indians lost four out of five defense posts, one of them to an attack by Chinese tanks, the Indians reported.

In this drive the Chinese were threatening Chushul, site of India's only landing strip in the area.

In the entire Ladakh area the Indians lost eight outposts by capture and seven others by evacuation. There were signs, too, of an impending attack at Longju, in the center of the northeastern sector where the Chinese were reported concentrating a powerful force.

Although the fighting was spreading and apparently growing in intensity, there was still no word as to casualties although they have been reported heavily on both sides.

The Indian reports listed these six trouble spots from east to west: Rima — The Chinese attacked at Kibitoo, apparently just south of Rima near the Lubit River. Fighting was continuing but no information was given on troop positions.

Longju — New Chinese concentrations spotted. Longju was the scene of the first border clash in August, 1959, in the dispute over 51,000-square miles of border lands.

The Bhutan border area — Chinese troops, driving southward from Thag La Ridge on a line parallel to Bhutan's eastern border and about 10 miles from it, forced the Indians back to places two or three miles south of the Nam Kha River.

Pangong Lake in Ladakh — Thirty Indian soldiers at one post beat off two assaults by 150 Chinese and then succumbed to a tank attack. Three other posts fell after heavy fighting.

Galwan Valley of central Ladakh — An Indian outpost, cut off since midsummer, still has not been heard from.

Chip Chap Valley of northwestern Ladakh — The Chinese attacked 11 out of 16 posts. Four fell Sunday and seven more were given up for tactical reasons.

In the Ladakh area the Indians were unable to match Chinese tanks with similar weapons. Their tortuous supply routes lie through the Himalayas and Karakhorams, two of the world's highest mountain ranges where snow already is falling, and the fall of Chushul airfield would disrupt the air supply.

The Last Straw On Barnett's Back

Even after a grim showdown for Mississippi's die-hard segregationists, Gov. Barnett continues unruffled in his defiance of Federal authority — a defiance that can ignite another grave crisis in the last great stronghold of the Deep South.

Gov. Barnett has treated with impunity the U.S. Justice Department's plea to slam a $100,000 fine on him for contempt of court in the Meredith case. Even at this late hour, the Governor is dogged in his insistence that he is not in contempt of any court — and this in spite of the judicial ruling that he did act in violation of court orders when he barred Meredith's enrollment at Ole Miss.

In a statement last Tuesday, Gov. Barnett made it quite plain he was in no mood to recant. He asserted he had never taken the position that he had purged himself of contempt in the Meredith case, nor for that matter had he authorized anyone to take such a position on his behalf.

Remarkable as it is, this classic spirit of defiance, this utter disregard for the dictates of law is fraught with dangers for the peace of Mississippi. It might stir up the embers of hatred which are beginning to cool off, and reap another harvest of blood.

It should be an article of faith with all Mississippians to avert the creation of another Oxford. The odds are heavily against Barnett. He has not yet been able to recover from the setback of his abortive attempt to keep Meredith out of Ole Miss. His actions now are characteristic of a man who has been sorely thwarted in his designs and is eager to catch at the last straw.

His nonchalant attitude toward the idea of purging himself of contempt smacks of a deeper motive. He is reasonably certain the Justice Department will go to the far end to demand that he purge himself of contempt, even if it means seeking imprisonment for him.

If this should happen — as it very likely will — Gov. Barnett will have succeeded in precipitating another crisis in Mississippi. When he gets into deeper trouble with the law, he will not forget to tell the mob he incites that he loves the people of Mississippi.

His implicit purpose in espousing the racist cause in the Meredith affair was to recapture lost popularity and to gloss over the ineffectual record of his administration. He is now out to deepen the crisis — and to do so he must try to attain pseudo-martyrdom by invoking for himself the ultimate in legal justice.

Legislature Should Heed Schools' Pleas

The current alarm in education, classroom shortage and lack of increase in competent professors, is well understood by Iowa college and university administrations, but unfortunately a more complacent segment of bureaucracy, namely the state legislature, is painfully slow to act.

SUI's request of $8.9 million in capital improvements would go a long way toward bettering classroom conditions and providing an attractive work atmosphere to many professors who might otherwise leave for better educational environs.

The requests of President Virgil M. Hancher of SUI, James H. Hilton of ISU and James W. Maucker of SCI should be enough to convince legislators that the needs should be met.

While SUI has not been entirely sold short in recent allocations, most of the sizable appropriations have been self-liquidating. Witness, for example, the $4.6 million now being dumped into the addition to the Iowa Memorial Union. Within a few years the addition will have paid for itself. But classrooms to replace the ancient Clinton St. temporaries could prove their worth only by accommodating the impending increase in students. Can the legislature foresee the value of these classrooms despite the absence of that attractive self-liquidating capability? We hope so.

Iowans should join the presidents of our institutions in asking for more money for classrooms. The pleas could come in letters to the editors of Iowa newspapers or letters to the legislators, but they should be sent immediately.

"Operation Bootstraps" within a state's educational arena are usually slow getting started but the campaign for better classrooms can not wait until some spare money shows up in the state's coffers.

The Fight Rages On — CU Daily-Goldwater Skirmish Now Full-scale Political Fight

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is a reprint of an article appearing in last Friday's The Daily Californian, the student newspaper of Berkeley.)
By LEN GOODWIN
The Colorado Daily crisis has grown into a major issue in the current Colorado state election campaign, involving candidates for most major offices.

"The controversy threatens to envelop candidates for major state offices, including the Board of Regents," said Conrad McBride, Democratic congressional candidate.

COMMENT FROM most state officials and candidates has been sharply divided along party lines, according to Jack Gaskie of the Rocky Mountain News, a Scripps-Howard newspaper published in Denver.

"Most Republican candidates have remained silent on the issue. The consensus of Democrats is somewhat misinterpreted. It was never my purpose to restrict the power or freedom of the press but only to recall to Althen in no uncertain terms his responsibility."

THERE ARE TWO positions on the predominantly Republican Board of Regents which will be filled in November. Charles D. Bromley, a Republican, and Betz, the incumbents, and Republican Dr. Dale M. Atkins and Democrat attorney Dale Tooley, are campaigning for six-year terms.

Bromley has been a strong critic of Democrat Newton's (Quigg Newton, CU president) administration but because of a recent heart attack has not been active in the campaign.

"The general atmosphere among the faculty at the University is one of fear," Bromley said. "THERE IS NO true academic freedom on the Boulder campus except for those who happen to agree with the President."

A spokesman for Governor Stephen L. R. McNichols said the governor made no mention of the controversy in either of his two press conferences Thursday.

He added McNichols would stick to his statement on the controversial letter blasting former President Dwight D. Eisenhower last week. (That letter was written by Carl Mitcham, the author of the original article which contained possibly libelous statements about Sen. Goldwater and started the controversy.)

At that time the governor said, "All Coloradans are glad to have prominent visitors in the state. We shouldn't be calling them names."

McNichols added, "It would be a good idea if the journalism department took over the administration of the newspaper."

CU PRESIDENT Newton requested that the Regents make this change at their meeting last Sunday. The Regents refused.

Newton and his administrative assistant Don Saunders were both unavailable for comment Thursday.

Picketing of the Newton's home, which involved over 500 students Tuesday afternoon and evening, has died out.

Student Body President Ards Gaither said most students are "taking a wait-and-see attitude."

GAITHER HIMSELF is "deeply disappointed by the President's action."

Letters to the Editor — CU Editorial 'Priggish'

To the Editor:
Your priggish editorial on the firing of the Colorado Daily editor might be an example of the "responsible journalism" you think Althen wasn't up to, but, oh, didn't it smack of the eunuch so boldly denouncing the man who's been arrested for speaking plainly of sex.
And how do you argue your courageous denunciation? You tell us first that Althen "deserves dismissal," then abandon that pendulous assertion (later you blithely support it by referring to the "obvious cases of libel" in the Colorado Daily) by saying it's not even the significant issue. What is the issue? Well, it can't be freedom of the press, you say, because hotspurs are always yell-

Book Review — 'An Eloquent Indictment Of Capital Punishment'

STAR WORMWOOD by Curtis Bok. (Berkeley paperback $3.55 available at the Paper Place)
Reviewed for The Daily Iowan by WALTER R. KELLER
"Sometime we will look back upon our criminal and penal process with the same horrified wonder as we now look back upon the Spanish Inquisition."

The late Justice Bok's book — an eloquent indictment of capital punishment — reviews itself. I shall supply only a few guide-words to fill in between the quotations. The book's form is somewhat unusual and bears a little explanation. There are three main sections respectively entitled "The Crime," "The Trial," and "The Execution." Each is followed by a substantial "Comment" section by the author.

The heart of the story concerns the legalized, progressive, entrapment and destruction of a silent young boy who commits a cannibalistic crime in a fit of famined, crazed passion. The diction is terse, clean and poetic.

It begins: "It may have all begun when Roger was a little boy, playing with his father. To the end of his short life his father remained a dim but pleasant memory, and their game was clear, down the years. His father would muzzle his neck and say that he would eat him. Roger would cry delightedly that he couldn't. Father replied that he could but he wouldn't, and when this had gone on a satisfying length of time, Roger would clinch the argument: 'You couldn't. I'm too big. Part of me would stick out.'"

The author is a highly perceptive man who has not come to the conclusion that capital punishment is a just and necessary part of our legal system.

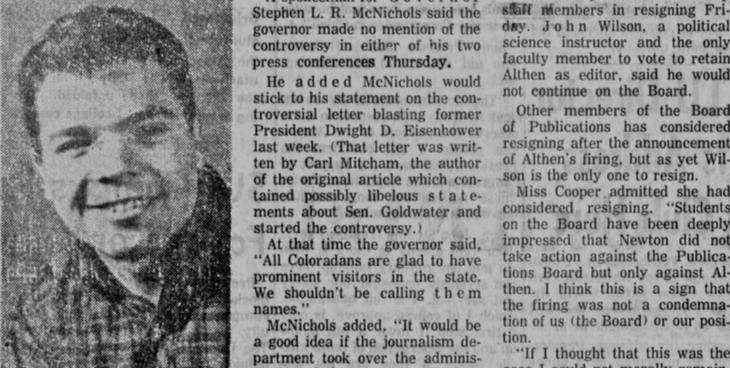

To say that this book is timely — especially in this state of Iowa — would be to piddle with the obvious. This slim novel should be a must for anyone who ventures to have anything resembling an informed opinion about capital punishment.

And when you do read it, be prepared for the worst if you have a weak stomach. The stark scenes in the first section are about as nauseating as anything you can ever expect to read.

that something ought to be done about the Daily situation," Gaskie said.

One exception is the race for the Board of Regents, where Republicans have demanded action and Democrat incumbent Fred M. Betz, Jr., has termed the situation "merely a political issue."

Colorado is one of the few states where the University Regents are elected by the people. In California (and Iowa) members of the Board of Regents are appointed by the Governor.

MAX PRICE, education editor of the Denver Post, termed the state controversy "hazy." He added, "There is a general feeling that Goldwater began the controversy to assist Republican candidates in the November election, but there have been no charges made and it is impossible to pinpoint where the remarks are coming from."

Democratic congressional candidate Conrad McBride attacked Gary Althen, fired Colorado Daily editor, saying "it's pretty obvious that his stubborn insistence on using the editorial page of the Daily as a personal opinion sheet has seriously jeopardized the ability of the paper to act effectively."

McBride, Althen's most vocal critic outside the University, said Althen had "expanded the crisis out of all proportion."

McBride emphatically denied he had called for Althen's resignation. "I did feel that it was time for him to receive a very serious administrative reprimand and correction. My position has been

Isn't it so? Fall is at its height on the SUI campus, characterized by the activities so typical of this time of year: classes and studying on the Pentecrest lawn; riverbanking and parties at Coralville; rain; the mass exodus of excited freshmen returning home to their Alma Mater Homecomings; more rain; GAUTHIER

Adios SUI

And of course freshmen and transfer students are becoming familiarized with the indispensable SUI exams. Speaking of tests, I'm a little deranged over those which I (among others) have immediately after Homecoming. That's virtuous SUI timing for you'. One could easily get the sad but true impression that our beloved administration is attempting to annihilate us. They offer a swingin' weekend, filled with numerous diversions, including the dismissal of those loved Friday afternoon classes. Then, after it's all over, when you're all but delapidated, they become exceptionally generous with the exams. It's only then that you realize the stimulating weekend was actually a farewell party! And so, SUI Administration with its tests live on, but you don't!!

Men???

Judging from some of the males I've seen on campus, I've come to the conclusion that the girls are well ahead in the "battle of the sexes." My evidence is found in those simple-minded boys who don't "take the trouble" to seek information regarding what particular dorms their dates happen to inhabit. What happens to the guy who thinks his date lives in Burge and gives the desk a Currier exchange number? I've seen it happen many times. The boy sits impatiently in the lobby waiting for his date, who at the same time is searching madly for him in a different dorm! After an hour or so they both leave, thinking they've been stood up, and taking with them their ruined pride and that feeling of failure. You'd be surprised how many "could-be-wonderful" relationships are destroyed by this blunder!

Psychic Answers

Aren't SUI students, especially coeds, forever originating new fads? The latest development in one of the girl's dorms seems to be "The Zodiac Craze." A few girls started purchasing astrology books to determine their horoscopes for the forthcoming days. This way they could foresee that date, test

SUI Quartet To Present Fall Concert

The Iowa String Quartet will give its first concert of the current academic year at SUI Wednesday 8 p.m. in Macbride Auditorium. Tickets will not be required for admission.

Made up of SUI faculty members, the quartet includes Charles Treger and John Ferrell, violins; William Preucil, viola, and Camilla Doppmann, cellist. The group's last appearance on the campus was in a June concert which was part of the SUI Fine Arts Festival.

The quartet will play three works for the Wednesday evening concert — "Quartet in C Major, Op. 74, No. 1" by Haydn, "Quartet No. 2" by Bartok and "Quartet, Op. 15, No. 3" by Beethoven. The group will present the program Monday evening in Mason City.

Professor Treger, who joined the SUI faculty in September, 1961, has given more than 700 concerts as violin soloist with leading orchestras and on radio and television programs. Before coming to SUI, he was founder and first violinist with the Washington String Quartet and solo violinist with the Rocco Ensemble.

A member of the SUI faculty since 1954, Professor Ferrell had been a soloist with the Eastman-Rochester Symphony and had given numerous concerts in the Southwest and the Midwest before coming to the University.

Professor Preucil was principal violinist in the Detroit Symphony Orchestra for two years before joining the SUI faculty. He was a member of the orchestra at the Casals Festival in San Juan, Puerto Rico, in 1958 and has been principal violinist and soloist at the Peninsula Music Festival, Door County, Wis.

Mrs. Doppmann joined the Iowa String Quartet as cellist last spring. She was co-founder of the Concert Arts Chamber Players, which in 1961 inaugurated a series of summer chamber music concerts at Bowdoin College, Brunswick, Maine.

etc. A perfect guide for the confused coed; what to do when, why, where and how! Evidently, the girls became obsessed with the Zodiac system, as they held a birthday party for those born in October, giving them a "cake inscribed with" "The Zodiac Craze." (Wonder what the bakery thought of that request?) Anyway, the belief of "rule by the stars" must have something to it, as I see that horoscope books are now on sale at the dorm snack bar. Who says superstition is replacing religion in our society? Personally, I think these astrology books are relatively impressive. The other day I was overcome by curiosity and embarrassment as I was, got the fortune to buy one of these guides to living. The saleslady gave me that look of wonderment and fear but finally handed over the book. Quite interesting, to say the least! So, here I am, writing my column at the time designated by my horoscope for the day, and using the particular typewriter suggested by the Libra Scales!!

City Chooses Site To Launch Drive On Elm Disease

Spraying for Dutch elm disease will begin here as soon as weather permits, according to Lane H. Mashaw, director of public works.

The first section to be sprayed is the area bounded by the Rock Island Railroad tracks, Dodge Street and the Iowa River.

Motorists are urged to avoid parking in areas to be sprayed. Immediate washing of accidentally-sprayed cars should prevent damage to the finish, Mashaw said.

Coffee Hour By J-School Here Oct. 27

The SUI School of Journalism will sponsor a Homecoming coffee hour from 9 to 11 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 27, in the Communications Center.

All alumni of the school are invited, along with persons active in newspaper, radio, television, and other areas of mass communications. It is expected that approximately 200 persons will attend the annual affair, part of the university's homecoming festivities.

The guests will be free to inspect the facilities in the Communications Center, which houses the school's eight journalism sequences.

The program is being sponsored by the Associated Students in Journalism; Sigma Delta Chi, men's professional journalism society; Gamma Alpha Chi, women's professional advertising fraternity; Theta Sigma Chi, women's professional journalism society; and Alpha Delta Sigma, men's professional advertising fraternity.

Homecoming Has Bonus Attractions

With Homecoming at SUI comes several free bonuses. Many of these added attractions are financed from the proceeds of Homecoming badge sales.

Robert Froeschele, Manager of the Recreation Department of the Iowa Memorial Union and representing the University on the Homecoming Badge Committee, lists the Homecoming parade as the major recipient of badge funds.

The parade, to be held on Friday receives money for the reviewing stand, lights and trophies for winning floats. Funds are also allocated for the alumni coffee hours given by various colleges and schools of the University. The Union open house, where coffee and doughnuts are served, also receives money.

Another major expense is the Homecoming Monument and the prize offered for designing the monument, all coming from Badge profits.

Good Listening— Today on WSUI

WSUI begins its broadcast day today with a program of inspirational music on Morning Chapel, followed by a fifteen minute summary of late news at 8:15.

At 8:30 this morning Morning Feature will present a discussion from the George town University Forum entitled "Public Opinion and Min-Armament." At nine o'clock you'll hear a 30-minute potpourri of light recorded music.

Douglas Brown continues his reading of William Faulkner's "The Rievers" on The Bookshelf. Le Petite Vocal Ensemble will offer a program of French-Canadian songs at 10. The program is made available to WSUI through the facilities of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Professor Leonard Goodstein offers another lecture in the classroom broadcast series "Psychology of Adjustment" at 10:30.

The WSUI Daily Calendar of Events, reviewing activities and special events on the State University of Iowa campus and around the Iowa City area, will be broadcast at 11:55, followed by a capsule summary of news at 11:58. Stardust means Rhythm Rumbles each weekday at high noon.

Today's thirty minute program features the recorded music of the new Glenn Miller Orchestra and the Modernaires. Afternoon Report, at 12:30, features a complete summary of all late news, plus a report of the news in depth. Then at one o'clock our afternoon segment of recorded music offers a complete performance of the opera "King Priam" by Tippett. Dick Kliesch presents 45-minutes of swinging jazz on Tea Time this afternoon at 4:30, followed at 5:15 by Mike Hoyt and Tom Riecke with Sporttime... a complete report on the sports scene. Evening Report, another 30-minute news package, will be heard at 5:30.

Evening Concert is heard at six o'clock. The program features the music of Adson and Handel. The rebroadcast of today's classroom lecture "Psychology of Adjustment" follows at eight o'clock. Music for an autumn night... dance music, vocal music, and music with a cool sound... will be heard at nine tonight on Trio. And WSUI concludes its broadcast day with the Final Edition of news at 9:45.

Big Question Looms: 'Can Hawks Recover?'

By HARRIETT HINDMAN
Assistant Sports Editor

There's a big question that looms on the Iowa football horizon this week:

"Can the Hawks recover from the Wisconsin defeat and contain the mighty Boilermakers who invade Iowa City for Homecoming?"

Purdue, which has been defeated once this year, 10-7 at the hands of small Miami of Ohio, beat Michigan handily Saturday, 37-0.

Purdue's passing attack gained 212 yards and the ground game added 200 more against Michigan's sagging defense.

Iowa coach Archie Kodros, who scouted the Purdue-Michigan game said Monday, "They run from formations using wingbacks and a real good chance against the Boilermakers Saturday, but added, "We will have to play as we're capable of playing and we won't be able to make any mistakes such as fumbles, pass interceptions and penalties."

Iowa Lineup Changes Slated

Iowa Head Coach Jerry Burns Monday looked back on his team's 42-14 drubbing at Wisconsin Saturday and commented, "Whether on offense or defense, we haven't been getting the job done as we should and much of it is due to a lack of execution of assignments and doing things as they are supposed to be done."

The Hawks experienced trouble Saturday in the execution of their running and passing game.

Costly fumbles hurt the Hawks. One which especially hurt was Willie Ray Smith's fumble of a kickoff on the Iowa 14-yard line, which Wisconsin converted into a touchdown to take a 14-7 lead. Passes fell through the hands of intended receivers frequently.

Iowa must now forget the Wisconsin defeat and prepare for Purdue, who smashed Michigan 37-0 Saturday. "The big thing we've got to do is to prepare mentally for Purdue and the Homecoming game," Burns said Monday.

"We're going to have to do some things differently. Michigan tried to stay basic against Purdue and the Boilermakers just overpowered them."

After a light workout in sweat clothes Monday, Burns announced that Lonnie Rogers has moved ahead of Bobby Grier at No. 1 right halfback. He said that he anticipates other changes before this week is over, and said Dayton Perry may see more action at tackle against Purdue than he has in the last two games.

slot backs and feature a man-in-motion. They are a big, strong club with lots of power and they supplement their offense with a counter game."

Kodros said that Purdue has a real good passing attack and cited Ron DiGravio, 6-0 178-pound junior, and Gary Hogan, 195-pound junior, as "two real fine passing quarterbacks." DiGravio was "sophomore of the year" last fall when he ranked third aerially in the Big Ten.

Leading the Boilermakers' ground attack is the smallest man on the squad, 5-9 163-pound halfback Tom Fugate, along with last year's regulars Tom Bloom and Dave Miller.

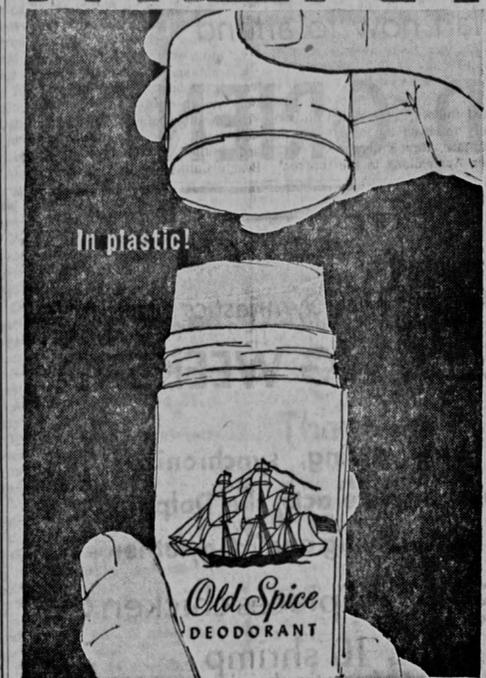

Purdue lost five lettermen linemen last fall and one of Coach Jack Mollenkopf's hardest jobs has been replacing them. He has done an adequate job with a line which averages 214-pounds.

Kodros stressed the idea that Purdue is deep in personnel and Mollenkopf substitutes quite freely.

"I was very impressed with their defense," the Iowa coach commented. He said that Purdue's highly regarded pass defense, which let the Wolverines complete only three of six passes, does not feature red-dogging on the part of the linebackers, but rather a big tough line rushing in.

Kodros said he believed Iowa had

Mauch, of 7th-Place Phils, Named Manager of the Year

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gene Mauch said Monday of his selection as 1962 National League Manager of the Year:

"It makes me very happy. The only thing that will make me any happier is when the Phillies are the team of the year."

He didn't predict when that might be.

The 36-year-old MAUCH Philadelphia skipper admitted, "It comes as quite a surprise, finishing seventh and being named Manager of the Year."

The Phils were the hottest team in the last month of the season, winning 19 of their final 26 games. They wound up only 2½ games behind the sixth-place St. Louis Cardinals.

Mauch received 33 votes in extremely close balloting by members of the Baseball Writers Association.

Alvin Dark of the pennant-winning San Francisco Giants was named on 31 ballots. Walter Alston of the runner-up Los Angeles Dodgers was third with 27 votes.

Concerning the Phils' sudden improvement, Mauch said:

"The whole club, including myself, kind of started together in 1960, and I think it's just continued improvement on the part of all of us — no more than we have a right to expect."

His manager of the year selection crowns an ambition he expressed upon becoming Philadelphia skipper in 1960:

"I don't want to be just another big league manager. I want to be the best in the business."

Fullmer, Tiger Skull Session Meet for Crown

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Middleweight Champion Gene Fullmer, the awkward-appearing belter from Utah, risks his World Boxing Association crown on an eighth time Tuesday night facing Nigerian Dick Tiger, a sharper hitter with as much strength.

Neither 160-pounder has set any pattern of action for the 15-pound closed-circuit television battle at Candlestick Park with Fullmer's share of the world championship at stake.

"Whatever way he wants to fight me is the way I'll fight him," declares the 33-year-old Tiger whose given name Ietu was discarded long ago when he started boxing with the leaping style of a tiger.

Since then, he's improved steadily, using a close-in style of attack with the left hook his best weapon and a straight right to the body almost as dangerous.

Despite reports the challenger was having trouble making the 160-pound limit, the odds in his favor have climbed the past few days from 7-5 to 8-5.

Even when the odds were 7-5, Fullmer expressed disdain with the declaration, "If I didn't think I could win, I wouldn't have offered to fight him."

Fullmer ended his workouts last Friday but Tiger boxed on Saturday and scheduled a workout Monday on the eve of the fight.

Skull Session For Purdue

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Purdue Coach Jack Mollenkopf withheld his first two units from contact work Monday as the Boilermakers studied defensive tactics to be used against Iowa's speedy backs at Iowa City Saturday.

Mollenkopf indicated he is planning no changes in the alternating units which blanketed Michigan 37-0 Saturday in Purdue's Big Ten opener.

Co-captain and left end Forest Farmer was expected to be sidelined for the second week with a broken left hand and there was doubt that halfback Dave Miller, suffering a shoulder injury, would be able to return to action.

Deadline Today For Game Tickets

Today is the deadline for students to secure tickets for Saturday's Homecoming football battle between Iowa and Purdue.

Tickets may be picked up on presentation of the SUI Identification Card and Registration Certificate at the Athletic Department Business Office and the East Lobby of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Scheduled to pick up tickets today are students with ID numbers from 105,001 to 116,000 from 7 a.m. to noon; and 116,000 on up from noon to 6 p.m. Students with other ID numbers may pick up tickets anytime today.

Little Hawks To Meet Dubuque Thursday at 7

Iowa City Little Hawks will tangle with Dubuque here Thursday at 7 p.m. instead of Friday so to avoid any conflict with the SUI Homecoming celebrations.

The 7 o'clock starting time was established so Dubuque players could get back home early since Friday is a school day.

THE ARMCHAIR QUARTERBACK

Out-of-State Sports Writers View Iowa Loss

By ERIC ZOECKLER

Football writers are funny people (which is nothing new). Our state scribes seemed to view Wisconsin's 42-14 drubbing of the Iowa Hawks as one which wasn't quite as bad as the score indicated. We agree. But a glance over some out-of-state press dispatches on the game, indicates another feeling. Here are some examples:

David Condon, Chicago Tribune: "This was Dr. Fred Harvey Harrington Day at the University of Wisconsin. It was Ron Smith Day. It was Ron VanderKelen Day. It was Pat Richter Day. It was also Parents' Day at Camp Randall."

"It certainly wasn't Iowa's day. Instead it was the most miserable afternoon in recent Iowa football history as the invading Hawkeyes reeled under the battering Badgers, 42-14."

Ollie Kuechle, Milwaukee Journal: "Wisconsin picked Iowa's Hawkeyes clean here Saturday afternoon — picked them clean right down to the pin feathers."

"In their best game of the fall so far, the young Badgers hammered Iowa into total submission 42-14, maintained their clean slate through four games and took stature of one of the Big Ten's prize contenders."

Wally Provost, Omaha Herald: "Undeclared Wisconsin killed Iowa with four touchdowns in the second quarter Saturday, then buried the victim in a 42-14 Big Ten football game marked by spectacular passing and earnest fisticuffs."

"Milt Bruhn's pro-sized Badgers were out for vengeance. A crowd of 62,097 watched in awe and hysteria as a young Dutchman named Ron VanderKelen enabled them to take full satisfaction."

Monte McCormick, Wisconsin State Journal: Wisconsin football team ignited the bombs that provided the backdrop Saturday for the inaugural of the University's 14th president.

When the explosion was over at Camp Randall, the undefeated Badgers had emerged with a 42-14 victory over Iowa.

MOST EVERYONE close to Saturday's battle in Madison agreed that Willie Ray Smith's fumble on returning a Wisconsin kick-off offering in the second quarter following the Badger's first TD was the game's turning point.

Yet in talking with a few Hawks, we also heard that Bernie Budzik's swift right to the chin of the Badger's Carl Silvestri certainly decked the player, but uplifted Wisconsin's spirits tremendously.

Going into the contest the Badgers were reportedly slow and down for the contest. The Hawks, on the other hand, had great spirit as exemplified by their fine play early in the contest.

But Budzik's fracas fired up the Wisconsin team, while Smith's fumble soured the hopes of the Hawks.

NEITHER MR. Budzik nor Mr. Bill Perkins, we believe, need feel that their involvements in fisticuffs with Badger players cost the Hawks anything. Only as gentlemen should they be expected to apologize. As gentlemen, they did.

Yet Wisconsin Coach Milt Bruhn was irate at the actions of Lee Berbet (who reportedly took the first pot shot at Budzik) and Jim Purnell, who Perkins accused of starting their fracas by taking a swing.

Bruhn said: "They don't do us any good on the bench. No matter who hits them or how hard, they should turn the other cheek." What Mr. Bruhn seems to forget, it seems, is that this is Big Ten football which sports some of the country's toughest players.

Certainly if these players are to be respected as gentlemen both on or off the field they will contain their hard-hitting to legal moves on the gridiron.

But if a player takes offense at a comment or action by popping another across the chin, should he really turn the other chin? Or is it his right to defend himself?

He surely won't do a team any good knocked silly.

ALL EYES will be at Columbus, Ohio this Saturday where the Badgers have a real opportunity to do something about winning the Western Conference football crown when they meet Ohio State.

The Madison squad is the only one of the remaining unbeaten teams in the conference that plays seven loop games.

Purdue, Northwestern and Michigan State play only six. The extra game may thus determine the title, because Big Ten championships are figured on a percentage basis of wins, losses and ties.

Wisconsin must dispose of the Wildcats at the Badgers' Homecoming Nov. 10, but it doesn't meet the Spartans and Boilermakers this year.

THE NORTHWESTERN CAMPUS, noted for its fine Republican conservatism, lack of picket lines and other traditional activities noted at other conference schools, exploded Saturday afternoon.

Loving every minute of their Wildcats' 18-14 upset of Woody Hayes' Buckeyes of Ohio State, the Northwesterners, who reportedly drank Martini's as opposed to our 3.2 stuff, sang the fight song and formed a congo line which paraded through Evanston's downtown section.

Quite possibly, their glee was also directed to the whispered thought that, for the first time since 1948, their school might represent the Big Ten at the Rose Bowl Jan. 1. It took Coach Bob Voigts' 1948 Wildcats to win the berth with only an 8-2 record.

Barring any serious injuries to the Wildcats (like to Tommy Myers, for instance) we feel the Wildcat boosters should get their wish.

Harriers Gird For Air Force

Beat Badgers 23-32 For 12th Straight Win

By ERIC ZOECKLER Sports Editor

Iowa's Cross Country squad Monday began preparing for its Saturday Homecoming meet with Air Force Academy after sloshing to a 23-32 victory over Wisconsin last Saturday at Madison for the Hawks 12th consecutive dual-meet victory.

Despite the high winds lashing the South Finkbine 4-mile course, Coach Francis Cretzmeyer put his swift Hawks through a stiff workout. But the conditions were no worse than Saturday when the Iowa outfit turned in its best performance of the season. "Everyone ran better this weekend than last," Cretz commented.

"It was really encouraging," he continued, to see Larry Kramer win the race in 20:19.4 which established a new record for the Odana Hills golf course run.

Kramer, a junior, who is regarded as Iowa's top runner, placed fourth in Iowa's 20-37 win over Illinois in its season opener here.

"Although the race was run in a steady rain, Kramer's time was 59 seconds faster than he ran against The Illini, but was over a 'flatter course than ours,'" according to Cretzmeyer.

Gary Fischer finished second, only two seconds behind the winner and was followed by the Badgers Greg Gard and Don Loker. The Wisconsin team was undefeated in four meets going into the Iowa run.

Iowa's Ralph Trimble placed fifth and was followed by George Clarke, Hawk sophomore, who dropped behind and then got some life and finished strong," according to Cretzmeyer.

The Air Force Academy has a 2-2 record, including a 24-34 loss to the Army run over an unfamiliar 5-mile course. The Falcons have also lost to a strong Western Michigan team, 16-43 and have defeated Kearney (Neb.) Teachers College and Oklahoma State.

At the Movies With Bill Grimstad

It may have been one of my off days, but for the life of me I could not whip up much enthusiasm for "Tomorrow Is My Turn," which is now playing at the Iowa. In fact, about ten minutes of it made me very cross and very bored. I feel that my and most people's time is too valuable to spend upon shoddy and sprawling mediocrity. Just in case anyone is interested however, it should not take more than a couple of minutes to list several Dogmatic Don'ts for the benefit of director Andre Cayette and his many colleagues these days.

1. Do not start a picture until you decide whether it is to be a 'Come wiz me to zee box-office! exploitation number or a mighty epic or a human document or what. Do not begin a glorified stag film and then begin larding in drama and epopeia as if it's going out of style halfway through.

2. Avoid unmotivated, merely biological love scenes. A bad French director — and Andre Cayette does seem very good, alas — can make human love as jejune as animals rutting sporadically in a barnyard. It might seem like purest c'est la vie to the Playboy set, but it is dramatically indefensible to have some libidinous Pierrot say "When a man and a woman feel like making love and don't do it, it's stupid," and then to have a big dumb broad start unbuttoning her smock every five minutes thereafter.

3. Do not plagiarize earlier films too obviously without due credit — especially when it is as well known as Renoir's "Le Grande Illusion."

4. Do not use the two-hour slide lecture as model for a moving picture. Learn something about pace. Do little things to keep the actors interested — when they are on camera especially. Minimize pregnant pauses: the rule of thumb is one per reel, not one per line.

5. Do not under any circumstances permit the picture to be "dubbed" into a foreign language by a professional re-recording studio — especially by that one with the Bronx accents. Subtitles are desideratum.

6. Do not use title songs by popular crooners. Do not blare them irrelevantly into the soundtrack at the final curtain. Don't rub in the swindle with a lyric like "... Time may help you forget all that has happened, / But it is too late to regret ..."

The reason why I did not very early walk out on the above was, of all things, that I wanted to see the travelogue again. The management of the Iowa Theater are to be complimented upon the short "Royal River," which they ran with "Viridiana" last week, and for the one on the inns of England which is being shown now with "Tomorrow Is My Turn." "Royal River" was a lingering past Oxford, London and the Tower, and on out to sea in sunset and night. It had some of the most hauntingly glorious color photography which I have ever seen, and it was richly dight with history. Novel readers may be reminded of that so-moving last chapter of H. G. Wells's Tono Bungay when there is a run down the Thames in a destroyer, making the protagonist feel that he sees all England, all centuries passing in review before his eyes.

The second shot is a mite less appealing, since the color medium is used less imaginatively and since a rather improbable "plot" is used: a man who "collects inns," i.e., one who is a connoisseur of British roadside inns and who narrates the ensuing visits. Still, the same reflective, quiet nostalgia is here, and the same unassuming authority in portraying real people in their everyday surroundings. These two are the first of a series made by Mr. Alex Giklison and Rayant Pictures Ltd. for the British Travel Association. The Iowa Theater people expect to run more of them in the near future.

It was probably grossly unfair, but I did not try to screen "The Chapman Report," now at the Englert, because I kept thinking about that old favorite collected by Kermit Schafer in his "Pardon My Bloop-er" record series of a few years back.

Man-on-the-street radio interviewer: "Oh hello there ma'am! Tell me, have you read 'The Kinsey Report' yet?" Woman: "No, I'm waiting for them to make it into a movie."

Only One American on Net List

NEW YORK (AP) — Australia has five players and the United States only one in the men's top ten of the unofficial world amateur tennis rankings, released Monday.

The list is compiled annually by Edward C. (Ned) Potter, chairman of the publications committee of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association and recognized historian of the game.

Rod Laver, the Australian who completed tennis' first grand slam — Australian, French, Wimbledon and U.S. titles — in 24 years, was named the world's No. 1 amateur, closely followed by his Davis Cup teammate, Roy Emerson. Other Australians in the top ten are Neale Fraser, No. 4; Martin Mulligan, No. 7 and Fred Stolle, No. 10.

The only U.S. players to rate a place in the top ten is Charles (Chuck) McKinley of St. Ann, Mo., ranked No. 5.

Margaret Smith of Australia, winner of all the major women's tournaments except Wimbledon, was chosen the No. 1 woman player, followed by Mario Bueno of Brazil.

U.S. players chosen were Darlene Hard of Long Beach, Calif., No. 3; Karen Hantze Susman, Chula Vista, Calif., No. 4; Carole Caldwell, Santa Monica, Calif., No. 9, and Billie Jean Moffitt, Long Beach, Calif., No. 10.

Sulowans Art Work For Display

One faculty member and five graduate students in the SUI Art department have had their works accepted for exhibition in the Centennial Hall art gallery at Augustana College at Rock Island.

The works of Robert Knipschild, assistant professor of art, and George Bogdanovitch, G. Iowa City; Jan Harris, G. Coldwater, Mich.; Don Cole, G. Iowa City; Tom Majaeski, G. Iowa City; and Robert Rorex, G. Jonesboro, Ark.; will be shown until Nov. 4.

Awards of $300, $200 and $100 will be made to the first, second and third place winners, respectively. In addition, there are eight honorable mention prizes of $25 each. Winners of the awards will be announced at a 23rd reception to be held Oct. 22 at Centennial Hall.

Sixty works of art are being exhibited in the show, which is sponsored by the Container Corporation of America.

New Routes on Highways Thru I.C. Open Wednesday

A new route for Highways 1 and 261 through Iowa City will go into effect Wednesday in an attempt to ease downtown traffic congestion.

The new routes become effective when directional signs are moved. This should be completed some time Wednesday morning according to Lane M. Mashaw, director of public works.

Highways 1 and 261 now are routed over Dubuque Street in the center of the business district.

Cuban Vote Slated Here For Students

Timely enough SUI students will be given an opportunity to express a "Yes" or "No" opinion on Cuba in the mock election to be conducted this Wednesday.

Included on the ballot, in addition to the candidates up for election in November, are a number of questions on current state, national and international problems.

The last question on the list is "Do you favor U.S. military intervention in Cuba?"

Other questions are: Do you favor — liquor by the drink in Iowa? J.F.K.'s medicare program? N.F.O. withholding program? Schaff plan for reapportionment?

Listed on the ballot will be the candidate for U.S. Senate from Iowa, U.S. Congress from all seven Iowa districts, governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, state treasurer, secretary of agriculture, state auditor, and attorney general.

All SUIjows male and female, 21 or not, are eligible to vote in this election which will be run along with the balloting for Miss SUI.

The polling places, open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., will be the same for both contests: Schaeffer Hall, Law Building, Medical Laboratories, Chemistry building, and the entrance to the Gold Feather Room of the Union.

The results of the mock election will be announced in Thursday's Daily Iowan. The election is being sponsored by the Student Senate.

E. German Guards Delay West Traffic

BERLIN (UPI) — East German border guards Monday night slowed down westbound German civilian truck traffic on this end of the Autobahn to West Germany, West Berlin police headquarters said.

Officers said, however, no special significance was attached to the delaying tactics. Headquarters pointed out that the communists from time to time delay highway traffic.

At 10:30 p.m., about 100 trucks were backed up at the Babelsberg checkpoint on the Berlin end of the 110-mile superhighway. Waiting time ranged up to 2½ hours.

Will It Go 'Round'?

The skeleton of the traditional Homecoming monument begins to take shape as three engineering students add new members according to specifications in the master plan. The monument is being constructed on the west side of Old Capitol. Workers from left are Stan Schroeder, E3, Dubuque; Larry Strawhorn, E4, Belle Plaines, and Tom Breesse, E4, Iowa City. Breesse, chairman of the monument erecting committee, said he expects to have the structure completed this afternoon.

Countdown A-OK As Homecoming Fete Draws Near

By JANICE SURASKY Staff Writer

Excitement is rising throughout SUI-land as preparations for the annual Homecoming weekend are reaching their final stages.

The Hawkeye football team is holding daily workouts to sharpen its plays for the Purdue Boilermakers. They will meet in the Homecoming game here Saturday.

Tickets are still available for the Homecoming dance, featuring Stan Kenton, which will be held 8 p.m. Saturday in the Memorial Union. They may be purchased at Whetstone's Drug Store, the Campus Record Shop or at the Information Desk at the Union.

Dolphin Show tickets may still be obtained at Whetstone's and the Athletic Department. Single shows will be given Thursday and Friday nights, and two shows will be presented Saturday night. The 1962 Dolphin Queen will be named Thursday.

Also, tickets remain for the University Theatre production of Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest." They can be picked up in the East Lobby of the Union.

The campaigning of the 10 remaining Miss SUI candidates is getting into full swing. The pictures of the girls and their slogans are appearing in store windows throughout downtown Iowa City.

SUI men will vote on their selection for the title Wednesday. Dormitories, fraternities and sororities are busily constructing floats for the Homecoming Parade which will be held Friday night.

But, alas, their slogans must be revealed. Plans are being made for the various "welcome back, alumni" coffee hours which nearly every college and department will hold for visitors either Friday or Saturday.

Work on the top-secret Homecoming monument, which is being constructed by the engineering students, has now begun. Work will continue steadily on the monument as it slowly begins to take shape.

The SUI Marching Band and Scottish Highlanders will put the finishing touches this week on their shows to be held before and during the Homecoming Game Saturday.

Only one thing remains to wish for: that the weatherman do his share toward making this SUI Homecoming the best one yet.

Austrian Sets Greeks Work At Odd Jobs To Help AID

Dr. Erik von Kuehnelt-Leddihn, Austrian political scientist, novelist and lecturer will speak on "The U.S. and Latin America," Wednesday, at 8 p.m. in the Senate Chamber of the Old Capitol.

Dr. Kuehnelt-Leddihn is sponsored by the Iowa conservatives in his appearance here. An international writer and lecturer, he speaks eight languages fluently which include Russian, Japanese, Hungarian, and Spanish.

He regularly publishes articles in the political and intellectual journals of the U.S., Britain, Germany and France. He reads 15 languages and was a Russian correspondent for a Budapest newspaper and the Viennese correspondent for the London Spectator before he was 25.

He has travelled extensively in more than 50 countries, since 1960 concentrating in Africa, Australia, and South America. Dr. Kuehnelt-Leddihn spent the war years, 1937-47, teaching in American Universities including Georgetown, Fordham and Chestnut Hill College (Philadelphia), and travelling throughout the United States and Canada.

Since his return to Austria in 1947, he has devoted himself to writing and lecturing, and in recent years he has lectured yearly in the United States on such subjects as "Neo-Conservatism and Neo-Liberalism," "The Future of Democracy in Europe," "The Hungarian Revolution," "Colonialism—Myth and Reality," and "The Church in Latin America."

Kuehnelt-Leddihn's intellectual efforts have aimed at "strengthening the great Western tradition of human freedom now under attack from so many directions."

Of his several political novels, one, "Gates of Hell" (1933), was confiscated by the Nazis, but awarded a prize by Cardinal Baudrillat. Another, "Moscow 1979," (1940) is an early, convincing, and terrifying prediction of Communist aggression. His most recent novel, "Die Gottlosen" (1962), has not yet appeared in English.

As a political theorist, he considers himself in the tradition of the Founding Fathers, De Tocqueville, Jacob Burckhardt, and Montalembert. In this tradition he has published "The Menace of the Herd" (1943), "America's Founding Fathers" (1948), and "Liberty and Equality" (1952).

In more recent years, as a Catholic, he has studied the Catholic faith and the liberal position in Neoconservatism y Neoliberalismo (Madrid, 1958), and he has sketched the role of freedom in the Catholic Church in Zwischen Ghetto und Katakomben (Salzburg, 1960) to appear in English this year. Although he stands in no specific political camp, Kuehnelt-Leddihn considers himself a "Neo-Liberal in the Central European sense."

Born in 1909, Kuehnelt-Leddihn received the B.A. degree in classics from the Theresianic Academy, Vienna, and the Ph.D. in politics from the University of Budapest.

Liner Sinks Off Norway, Over 30 Die

RORVIK, Norway (AP) — Survivors told Monday of scrambling into lifeboats in a howling gale off this arctic port after the coastal liner Sanct Svithun ran on a reef and sank.

By nightfall, officials reported 48 survivors had been found and 30 bodies had been recovered. The search for possibly more survivors and bodies was suspended until daylight. It was not yet known exactly how many persons were on the ill-fated 2,172-ton liner.

The ship carried a crew of 50. The owners said it was not determined how many passengers were on board but the number was "somewhat more than 20."

Capt. Anker Pedersen, traveling as a passenger, said he saw the skipper of the Sanct Svithun on the deck minutes before the liner sank Sunday night and expressed fear he went down with his ship.

The Sanct Svithun radioed she ran aground 20 miles of Rorvik and 15 minutes later sent an SOS that she was sinking fast.

Searchers failed to find a trace of the liner and the harbor master here said the stormy sea and cold made it unlikely more survivors would be found.

Living Units Pair To Sell More Badges

Seventeen "teams" of male and female housing units are competing to sell the greatest number of Homecoming Badges.

Daily reports will be issued on the contest which is being run on a point system. The groups receive one point for each badge sold plus 10 extra points if the men's half reports and another 10 if the women's half reports.

Following are the top four groups to date and the points they have accumulated:

- Pi Kappa Alpha and Zeta Tau Alpha, 402.
- Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Ruth Wardall of Burge, 392.
- Hillcrest and Currier, 384.
- Acacia and Delta Zeta, 286.

Similar get-togethers held last year were considered successful and will be given following the opening night of each University Theatre presentation this season.

The sessions are sponsored by the Board of Governors of the University Theatre.

Hoffa Claim of 'Loaded' Jury Given Short Shrift by Judge

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Lawyers for Teamsters President James R. Hoffa lost their bid to derail his $1-million conspiracy trial Monday by claiming the jury panel is loaded against him.

After two hours of testimony and argument, District Court Judge William E. Miller briskly examined the defense motion section by section and overruled it.

The judge said he felt that the government system of obtaining names of prospective jurors provided a reasonable cross-section of the community.

The defense contends the system favors the management and business class. Defense attorneys made it clear they will try to make the point repeatedly when selection of the jury begins Tuesday.

Hoffa is accused of using union influence to make a fortune in a trucking enterprise. Such an action would violate the Taft-Hartley Act. The short, stocky defendant, head of the huge 1.5-million member Teamsters Union, sat quietly through most of the hearing. His broad face fixed in an expression of solemn preoccupation.

The indictment in the case against Hoffa and the late Owen Brennan, a Teamsters vice president, conspired with Commercial Carriers to form Test Fleet Corp., chartered here in 1949.

Test Fleet was given a lucrative auto-hauling business by Commercial Carriers, the indictment said, with stock in Test Fleet placed under the maiden names of Mrs. Hoffa and Mrs. Brennan.

The government said the Test Fleet profits during the 1949-50 totaled $1,008,057.

The Taft-Hartley Act prohibits union officials from receiving payments, other than wages, from employers.

The maximum sentence on conviction would be one year in prison and a $10,000 fine on each of the counts.

JFK Talk Enters Moscow, Finds Red Bear Asleep

MOSCOW (AP) — President Kennedy's speech declaring a blockade of Cuba came through to Moscow Tuesday on news services two hours after midnight and found the city asleep.

But violent Soviet reaction to the stop-and-search blockade of aggressive arms headed for Cuba seemed inevitable.

The Soviet radio and official press agency Tass Monday carried reports of the American operations in the Caribbean.

Washington is once again raising its armed fist over Cuba and once again threatening the peace and tranquility of the people," said a Moscow radio commentator some hours before the Kennedy speech.

This paralleled Tass statements earlier in the day which had given a detailed outline of the building on Key West airfield, of the movement of the various air carriers and other vessels.

A call to the American Embassy brought the reply that not one comment of any kind would be given there.

To a question as to what might happen if an American warship should stop a Russian ship for search on the high seas near Cuba, and embassy spokesman said: "All answers to such questions will have to be given elsewhere."

The Kennedy speech was given too late for any Soviet paper to give much of the text, even if it chose to hold open for an extra hour or two.

HOME OF THE 'DRIES'

MEXICO CITY (AP) — About 22 million of Mexico's 35 million people lack modern water facilities, said Alfredo del Mazo, minister of hydraulic resources.

Repercussions Envisioned In JFK Talk

HAVANA (AP) — Well-informed neutralist sources in Havana predicted, Monday night, that the U.S. arms quarantine of Cuba will put Soviet Premier Khrushchev on the defensive — and cause serious repercussions.

They predicted a new Soviet blockade of Berlin and other strong Soviet countermeasures, perhaps at such flashpoints as Laos, South Viet Nam and Formosa.

There was no immediate reaction from Prime Minister Fidel Castro's regime.

One neutralist informant called Kennedy's measures shortsighted. He said that with "the hot potato having been thrown over to Khrushchev," Kennedy's measures may turn the Soviet leader away from his avowed policy of peaceful co-existence to the more rigid and drastic cold war line of the Communist Chinese.

It appeared that the Kennedy announcement caught most of the Soviet bloc personnel here by surprise.

It was said in some circles that if the Kennedy proclamation is carried out to the letter and the Communists try to maintain their present sea traffic to Cuba, the situation could result in "war, global or local."

Passengers arriving in Havana from Miami reported late Monday, that they saw five warships, presumably American, steaming about a third of the way from Florida to Cuba. The distance from Key West, Fla., to the north coast of Cuba, is about 90 miles.

Nixon Backs JFK's Move

OAKLAND, Calif., (UPI) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, President Kennedy's opponent in the 1960 election, Monday fully supported Kennedy's action on Cuba.

"There are obvious risks in this action," he said. "But the risks of inaction are infinitely greater."

"In my view, this action will not lead to war," he said.

Nixon said strong action decreases the possibility of war in dealing with Communist aggression such as in Quenoy, Matsu and Lebanon.

"Whenever our peace and freedom are threatened, Democrats and Republicans alike think of America first, rather than party first," he said.

JFK Challenge to Russia Boosts Demo Election Hopes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy's abrupt challenge to the Russian arms build-up in Cuba junked the prime campaign issue on which Republicans hoped to win this off-year election.

Kennedy's blockade of arms to Cuba and his warning to the Soviet Union cleared him for the remainder of the domestic political contest of Republican charges that he was indecisive, timid and unable to devise policy to cope with a Communist threat based 90 miles off Florida. Cuba was the top and most effective Republican example in the argument that Kennedy foreign policy was a no-win, futile instrument.

The Republican Congressional

Meets—

Kennedy held morning meetings with a string of key administration officials in Washington, including Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

• The President called a 1:15 p.m. (CST) meeting of the National Security Council, to be followed by a 2:30 p.m. cabinet session.

• Kennedy summoned 17 congressional leaders, Republicans as well as Democrats, to a 3 p.m. talk at the White House. Some of the leaders, busy campaigning, were rushed to Washington by Air Force jet.

• Ambassadors of 46 friendly nations were briefed at the State Department on the Cuban situation shortly before Kennedy spoke.

• Soviet Ambassadors Anatoly Dobrynin met with Secretary of State Dean Rusk for an hour before Kennedy's broadcast.

• The Pentagon shortly before noon abruptly announced cancellation of a scheduled practice landing Tuesday by 6,000 Marines on Vieques Island near Puerto Rico, blaming Hurricane Ella.

• After Kennedy spoke the Navy in Puerto Rico announced that more than 40 ships and 20,000 men originally scheduled to participate in maneuvers in that area are now "sustaining the blockade."

• Later, the White House announced that Kennedy had canceled all the remaining engagements on his political campaign schedule.

• The tension in the capital sent jitters over the stock market and prices on the New York Exchange tumbled during the morning, steadied some and remained well below their Friday close.

Committee newsletter distributed yesterday contained this paragraph:

"The three Republican chairmen — Rep. William E. Miller, New York, of the National committee; Sen. Barry Goldwater, Arizona, of the Senatorial committee, and Rep. Bob Wilson, California, of the Congressional committee, — agreed with many neutral observers that Cuba was the No. 1 issue of the 1962 campaign."

These three, in a statement, added: "If we were asked to state the issue in one word, that word would be Cuba, symbol of the tragic irresolution of the administration."

SUI—

for this action and it is high-handed and unreasonable. He can do this only if it is a declaration of war. This action is contrary to the United Nations. The Rio pact (mentioned by Kennedy) is overruled by the U.N. and besides Cuba was thrown out of the Rio pact."

SUI students generally view the situation as being very grave. In Burge and Currier, coeds jammed the TV lounges to hear Kennedy's speech. At the Union, only standing room was available in the lounge where a hushed audience heard the President's address.

A host of possible draftees, in case of war, made arrangements to hear, via radio, the speech to find out about their future status.

Among other campus comments was heard: "I can't conceive of anything wrong happening. It's been so long since a war, our generation cannot possibly conceive of it." "I have my fingers crossed. My husband still has a year to go in the Reserves."

"The President's message was very decisive. As far as actual war is concerned, I'm optimistic. I mean by this, of course, that I believe there will be no war."

"It's a tragic situation for all of us, but I have great faith in President Kennedy and his leadership. I also have faith in Mr. Castro, that is he won't be foolish enough to resist us." "My fiance and I were going to be married in June — now it may be this weekend."

And to top it all off, a local bar was suddenly quiet when the TV was turned on with news of the current crisis. Remarkably a local patron, "the first time I ever saw them turn it on for news."

Policy Outlined by Dulles—

U.S. Tries 'Get-Tough' View

By J. M. ROBERTS

Associated Press News Analyst
The United States, facing up to the Communist military buildup in Cuba, returned Monday night to a policy similar to the one of massive retaliation enunciated by the Eisenhower administration after the Korean war.

The policy, outlined by John Foster Dulles in an effort to warn the Communist nations not to let the compromise settlement of the Korean War lead them into new and serious adventures, had been allowed to fall into disuse.

Now it has been revived, concurrently with military moves in the Caribbean designed to back it up with a blockade of the Castroites while laying full responsibility for any offensive use of missile bases in Cuba directly upon the Kremlin.

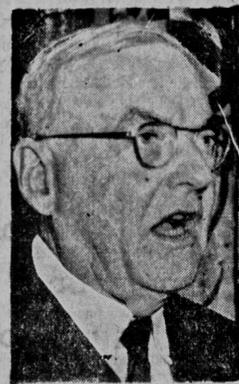

Soviet military shipments to Cuba will be blocked by force if necessary. U.S. naval ships were already at sea, and reinforcements were at Guantanamo. A missile fired at any American country would bring "a full retaliatory response upon the Soviet Union." Those words of the President were even more direct than the ones Dulles had used.

Nikita Khrushchev, Kennedy made plain, can recognize the dangers, stop the "reckless" threat to peace, and seek peace. The United States will not submit, he said.

The direct thrust came as the Kremlin was obviously off balance because of the action of its Communist Chinese partners — or semi-partners — in India.

The 48-hour buildup of tension in Washington as Kennedy conferred with administrative and congressional leaders over intelligence reports of the Soviet buildup in Cuba had led to speculation that more than Cuba was involved. Few believed an invasion was planned, and they were correct.

Many believed the President would take advantage of Soviet embarrassment at home and in India to make a show of determination and force on more than one front — and he still can do so by reinforcement of Allied forces in

JOHN FOSTER DULLES "Outlined Policy"

Germany, arranging for allotment of nuclear force to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and by joining Britain in full military aid to India.

That latter move would put the Soviet Union in the position of needing to choose between India and China or of remaining supine while the world mobilized against the Communist sphere, which already is seriously divided.

The U.S. reaction has been one of the toughest and most direct in modern international dealings, especially since the naval blockade involves ships flying allied flags.

A good many people already have been wondering if some similar direct placing of responsibility was not required by the Berlin situation. These people will now be asking if it may not be required in India.

The Kremlin has been caught in a moment of concern for Chinese actions, during the midst of an interecnic conflict over policy for the bloc as well as over economic policy at home and among the east European satellites. Already unbalanced, the proper blows might fell it.
