

Blockade Lifted for 2 Days On Request from U Thant

Move Seen Only As 'Gesture' by Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Monday night ordered its blockade of Cuban waters lifted for the next two days but left unanswered whether its reconnaissance flights over the island also will be halted.

A brief White House announcement said the quarantine was being suspended at the request of Acting U.N. Secretary-General U Thant. The U.N. leader goes to Cuba today in connection with the Soviet agreement to withdraw its missiles under U.N. supervision. Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said he did not know why U Thant had requested the suspension of the quarantine, set up a week ago to check all ships headed for Cuba to block any offensive-type arms shipments. The request was relayed to the White House, Salinger said, through U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson at the United Nations.

The lifting of the blockade, even on a temporary basis, was at least a partial reversal of the frequently stated U.S. position that it would not change its present course until given solid evidence that the orders to dismantle the bases and remove the weapons are being executed.

In fact, however, the announced suspension of the blockade was largely a gesture since both State and Defense Departments have said that as of Sunday there were no Soviet ships within two or three days' sailing time of the blockade area. As far as is known, only Soviet ships have been used to carry the critical offensive weapons to the islands.

A few ships of other nationalities were reported near the blockade zone Monday night, including two Turkish vessels reported to be carrying cargoes of wheat from the Soviet Union.

Earlier Monday, the United States brushed aside a Castro demand that this nation give up its Cuban naval base at Guantanamo, and continued aerial reconnaissance over the island while maintaining the naval blockade.

Meanwhile, there was no answer to the key question of whether the orders the Soviet leader announced Sunday morning are being carried out.

The Defense Department late Monday afternoon announced that aerial reconnaissance flights were made over Cuba Monday and "all aircraft returned safely."

But Assistant Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester told a news conference that pictures made will not be developed before Tuesday. And he would not say whether flights are made Sunday, from which pictures presumably would have been available Monday.

Prior to this somewhat cryptic announcement, both the Pentagon and White House had persistently turned aside questions about whether there is evidence the reported orders by Khrushchev are or are not being carried out.

Judge Rules Out First Degree In Murder Trial

MAQUOKETA — District Judge Matthew Westrate said Monday he is ruling out first degree murder as a possible verdict in the trial of Donald Kinyon, 27.

The judge told opposing counsel, after the state had rested its case and the jury and spectators had left the courtroom, that he will tell the jury not to consider a first degree murder verdict in the case.

E. L. Schoenthaler, the defense attorney, filed motions to dismiss the case, contending that the state has not proved a case against Kinyon. Schoenthaler also moved that the case be withdrawn from the jury so that the judge may rule on the evidence. Arguments on the defense motions was set for Tuesday morning.

Kinyon is charged with murder in the fatal beating of Vincent Batey, 68-year-old farmer who gave Kinyon a job last June after the younger man was paroled from the Anamosa Men's Reformatory.

The Weather

Generally fair through tonight. Locally warmer in the southeast, but locally cooler tonight. Highs from the upper 50s in the northwest to the 60s in the southwest. Partly cloudy with little temperature change Wednesday.

Officials Say DeGaulle Will Stay in Office

No Official Word
From French President
Since Sunday Election

PARIS — Paris newspapers pulled out big black type Monday to proclaim "De Gaulle Stays."

No official word has come from the president since the results were tabulated of Sunday's referendum on popular election of future presidents. He stayed at his country home at Colombey-les-Deux-Églises in eastern France, resting and reflecting, and apparently confined his thoughts to no one.

But official circles seemed to be taking it for granted the president would return to Paris Tuesday, and preside over the weekly cabinet meeting Wednesday.

The election results showed that the project for direct election of DeGaulle's successors — rather than by an indirect sort of electoral college system — had captured 61.76 per cent approval from those who cast ballots. The black note was that because of abstentions and "no" votes, only 46.44 per cent of the registered voters had given formal backing.

"The 61.76 per cent 'oui' vote is certainly a remarkable victory, in view of the fact that almost all the political parties and most of the newspapers were against it," one source close to the Government said. "I can't see how anyone could interpret it as a result that would cause the president to leave."

De Gaulle said in a radio-television speech during the campaign that he would be forced to retire from office if the results were "weak, mediocre or doubtful."

DeGaulle diplomatically refrained from naming any percentage figures that he would interpret as the warm response that he said was necessary for him to continue his task.

Almost all political parties claimed a victory, but in most cases the statements had a hollow ring. The figures indicated that calls for a "no" vote by the Socialists, Radical Socialists, Popular Republican Movement, and Independents-Peasants had influenced only about 10 per cent of the electorate. These four big parties make up the center groups that ruled France during the Fourth Republic.

U.S. Arms Airlift Expected To Reach India This Week

NEW DELHI (UPI) — Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru Monday asked for and was promised immediate U.S. military aid to fight the Chinese Communists in the undeclared border war in which more than 5,000 Indians and Chinese have been reported killed or missing in action.

The U.S. Embassy said Nehru in a conference with Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith asked for Infantry weapons which could be brought in by American airlift by the end of the week from such U.S. supply points as Japan, Okinawa or Thailand.

The wanted weapons are mortars, machineguns, rifles and portable artillery for the fighting taking place 15,000 feet up in the Himalayas. The undisclosed aid terms left the way open for bigger weapons later if needed.

Reliable sources said Nehru also made similar requests for urgent military aid to the British, French and Canadian Governments. It was believed they also would aid India in the fight against troops who have poured across the frontier along a 1,000-mile section of the border.

An Indian Defense Department spokesman announced today that India had lost up to 2,500 troops killed or missing in action during the past 10 days. He said the Chinese losses were "much heavier." The figures did not include the thousands of wounded.

The spokesman said the heaviest fighting was in the Ladakh area, north of Kashmir and at the extreme western end of the border, where the Indians appeared to have lost all of the southern tip of Ladakh on both sides of the Indus River.

The Chinese exerted "considerable pressure" with fresh troops, according to the spokesman and the Indians were forced to withdraw from Damchok and Jara La. Jara La is a pass leading into India through the snow-covered Himalayas from China and is 8 miles northeast of Damchok in the upper Indus River Valley. Indian supplies were destroyed before the threat.

The Indian militia there fought with such commendable courage and determination the units have been accorded regular army status. They will be known as "Ladakh Scouts" with the same pay as the regular army, the spokesman said.

The spokesman reported there had been only some sporadic fire in the Northeast Frontier Agency Area some 1,000 miles East of the Ladakh fighting. He disclosed that Lt. Gen. B. M. Kaul returned to the NEFA area today to take command. Snow in the higher reaches of the 15,000-foot battleground was reported, but it was not hampering fighting.

Although no fighting was reported in the NEFA area, Chinese communist broadcast hinted at an offensive in the Towang area near the borders of India. Bhutan and Tibet. Peiping reported heavy Indian shelling and other "provocative" acts — usually a communist preliminary to action.

A spokesman for the foreign affairs ministry said Galbraith had called on Nehru and delivered a letter from President Kennedy extending U.S. "sympathy and support in the crisis facing India."

The Kennedy message was in response to one Nehru sent Saturday explaining "the serious situation created by the Chinese aggression on India which took the form of a massive attack on our defense forces and which could only have been made after careful preparations."

Guitar Recital By Montoya Here Nov. 8

Carlos Montoya, one of the world's foremost flamenco guitar virtuosos, will give a recital here at the Iowa Memorial Union on Nov. 8.

Montoya has revolutionized the flamenco music world by building up one of the most extensive repertoires of any living guitarist. He is the first guitarist ever to have worked without a singer or dancer. Prior to his departure from the norm, flamenco guitarists generally possessed a rather limited repertoire and one which dictated the presence of other performers to round out an evening's recital.

The concert is sponsored by the Central Party Committee. Tickets are $2 and will go on sale Thursday at the Union Information Desk, Whetstone's, and the Campus Record Shop.

Castro Orders Destruction—

Army Mobilized in Sabotage Threat

CARACAS — Regular Army troops took over law enforcement throughout Venezuela Monday to prevent further Communist sabotage under instructions radiated from Havana by the Fidel Castro Government.

It was the first time since World War II the Armed Forces had been mobilized. President Romulo Betancourt ordered the mobilization Saturday to help counter Cuba's conversion into a Soviet military base. The action was taken before saboteurs blew up four power stations of the American-owned Creole Oil Corporation in Maracaibo.

The Government confirmed it had intercepted radioed instructions from Havana ordering Venezuela University students to go out and disrupt order, stage pro-Castro demonstrations, and commit sabotage.

Under the present modified martial law, terrorists will be subject to prosecution before courts-martial, rather than in civilian courts.

In New York, a spokesman for the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, parent of the Creole Oil Corp., said full production except for 100,000 barrels daily should be restored by noon tomorrow. He set total production loss at $25,000 barrels a day.

Betancourt has decreed as "Zones of Military Operations" the 11 most populous of Venezuela's 22 states, the Federal District of Caracas, and one of the two federal territories.

Radio stations today appealed for 1,500 volunteers for the Army, which has called up its Reserves.

Authority for the mobilization decree is provided in the military code section dealing with times of war or suspension of constitutional guarantees.

Guarantees were suspended on Oct. 8 for the fourth time in Betancourt's turbulent administration following a violent Communist terrorist campaign, the worst since Communists attempted to topple the Government through civil disorder in October, 1960.

The "Military Operations" zones encompass the vast Western oil regions, the iron-producing southeast, and the heavily populated industrialized northern coastal belt.

Mixed Emotions Follow Khrushchev Decision

By United Press International

Relief mixed with apprehension Monday greeted the report around the world that Premier Nikita Khrushchev had decided to pull his missiles out of Cuba. Some newspapers called it a victory for President Kennedy.

Western newspapers demanded that the apparent end to the Cuba crisis be followed by wider east-west disarmament talks.

There were two questions dominating the day-after assessments:

— Why did Khrushchev agree to U.S. demands so quickly and so completely?
— What has the communist chief got in mind now?

In Britain, Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and his cabinet met to study dramatic weekend developments. Macmillan was to give his views in the commons today. Monday, the attitude was wait and see.

In Bonn, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and the West German Government adopted an attitude of extreme caution toward the Moscow announcement and, in effect, warned the Soviets that they cannot expect Western concessions because of the decision on the missile bases in Cuba.

In Paris, President Charles de Gaulle adopted an attitude of cautious reservation.

In Moscow and throughout the Communist world, Khrushchev was being proclaimed as a statesman filling the role of peacemaker.

"Khrushchev's message is a blank check showing that grave international problems can be solved easily when the partners have confidence in each other," said Budapest Radio.

The Czechoslovak radio said: "The peaceful efforts of the Soviet Union . . . have forced the U.S. Government to withdraw from its original position." A Bucharest Radio report commented "The new Soviet initiative is designed to assure world peace."

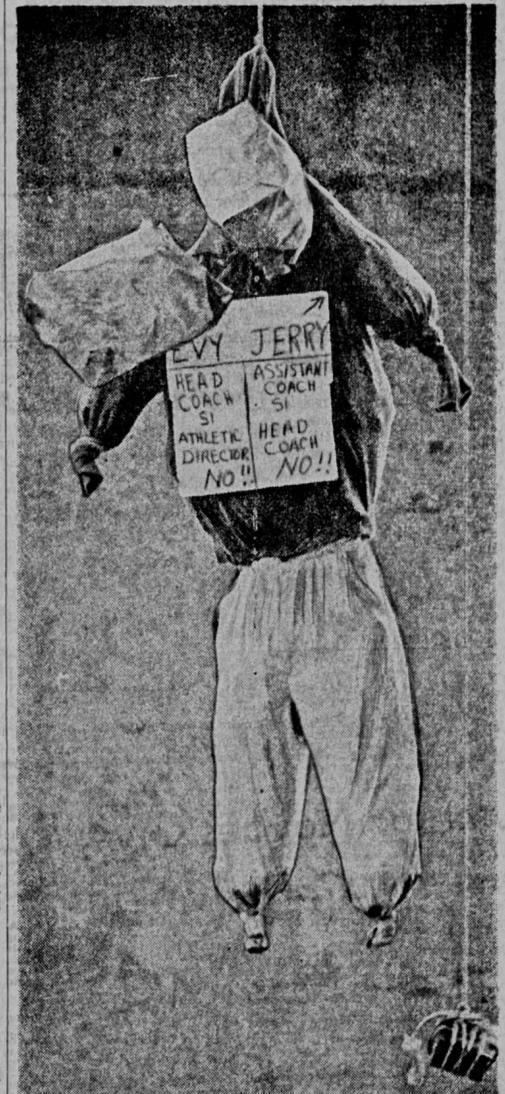

In London, the Times said "The world may breathe more easily," but the London Daily Sketch asked in a headline: "What is Mr. K. up to now?"

West Berliners were elated at the news, but openly feared that the Soviets might try to recoup with a move against their city.

"We ought to remind ourselves of that old German saying, 'After victory, strap your helmet tighter,'" said Berliner Kurt Hirschmann.

"Sensational and satisfying," said the Frankfurter Neue Presse. "The easing over Cuba marks a victory for the wisdom and efficiency of the Kennedy doctrine," said Paris Combat. Also in Paris, Le Figaro commented:

"The Soviet chief cannot ignore today that he would meet with resolution equal to that he has just tested."

Aftermath

Athletic Director Forest Evashevski and Head Football Coach Jerry Burns were hanged in two-headed effigy Monday on the railroad bridge south of the Union footbridge. The sign suggests Evashevski return as head football coach and Burns be demoted to assistant coach. It was the second effigy hanging in four days. ## Effigy-Hangers Blasted By Evashevski Monday

CHICAGO — Effigy-hangers were blasted as cowards Monday by Forest Evashevski, Iowa athletic director.

Evashevski, apparently referring to football coaches Jerry Burns of Iowa and Bump Elliott of Michigan, told Chicago's American Quarterback Club:

"I've had two good friends hanged in effigy. I resent some coward who hides behind obscurity and hangs someone in effigy."

"These idiotic hangings should be treated the same as anonymous letters to the editor and thrown out."

"People who pay $5 to see a football game have a right to criticize. But if a coach is to be hanged in effigy, let the person doing it be known. Otherwise, I see no reason to give it publicity — it is the work of cowards."

"My friends who were hanged in effigy have children. Such acts certainly are unfair to the family. I have a son (Frosty) who is a quarterback at Michigan. I am glad he is playing for such a coach as Bump Elliott, who will never sacrifice a conviction to win a ball game."

Guimar Novaes Gives Concert at SUI Tonight

By PEGGY ROGERS
Staff Writer

Guimar Novaes, noted Brazilian pianist, will present a program composed almost entirely of the Romantic period Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union. Tickets are free to students upon presentation of ID cards at the East Lobby Desk in the Union, and may be purchased by University staff for $1.50.

Any tickets remaining today will be available for sale to the general public until 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Madame Novaes holds the coveted Legion of Honor from France, as well as the Order of Merit presented to her by the President of the Brazilian Republic. She has performed with the world's leading orchestras and conductors. Such composers as Serge Prokofiev and Hector Villa-Lobos have especially requested her to present their piano compositions in her recital programs.

Madame Novaes' late husband, the Brazilian architect and engineer, Octavio Pinto established the Guimar Novaes Prize, which provides an exchange scholarship between students in the United States and Brazil, and provides that the American winners and the Brazilian winners tour one another's countries.

Wednesday evening Madame Novaes will open her program with a work of the classic period, Mozart's Sonata No. 11 in A Major.

This she will follow with the Beethoven Sonata, Opus 27, No. 2, popularly termed the "Moonlight Sonata."

Following intermission Madame Novaes will perform two Brahms selections: the Intermezzo in B Flat Minor and a Capriccio in B Minor. She will close the program with a Chopin Barcarolle, Two Mazurkas (B Flat Minor and B Minor) and a Scherzo, Opus 39.

CU Incident Should Not Be A Test Case

Colorado University's student body last week tried to nail shut the coffin lid on an uneasy question concerning freedom of the college newspaper. Two thousand and forty-nine students voted against a motion deploring the University president's decision to fire the college editor. Only 907 students voted for the motion to censure the president.

Obviously, President Quigg Newton hopes that the trouble is over, that people and politicians will forget, that the University's reputation will never again be hurt by an editor the likes of Gary Althen.

But the casket lid is not sealed. The impact of the extra-legal firing will not be limited to the University of Colorado. By usurping an authority delegated to the Colorado Daily publications board and the State Board of Regents, Newton has established a precedent which could influence other administrators worried about their campus newspapers.

If Newton had followed his Machiavellian bent at the outset of the trouble, he might have cushioned the University's difficulties. As it stands now, Newton is criticized coast to coast as a turncoat who, within the span of a calendar month, defended the editor and then fired him. Hopefully, the Colorado situation will not provide a test case for other universities.

At some colleges and universities, the student editor is appointed by a publications board. At others the Student Senate may do the hiring, and at still others, the decision is left to the student body.

Most college systems of editorial policy are well-meant, if sometimes weak, attempts to keep the control of the campus newspaper out of the hands of the president.

In the professional newspaper business, an editor is responsible to his publisher. The editor of the New York Times, for example, can not print material opposing the views of his publisher.

A college newspaper editor should also be responsible to a publisher, but the hierarchy of power is unworkable if that publisher is in effect the president of the institution.

We hope that presidents of the country's institutions do not take the example of Colorado University as an excuse to investigate chances for editorial control over the campus newspaper. Editor Althen was not a typical college editor and hopefully President Newton is not a typical administrator.

Too Many Special Days

The silly observances of "Days" for everything from Strained Grapefruit Day to Organized Ping Pong Day has gone too far.

The Security Council of the United Nations adjourned for five hours last Thursday afternoon, in the midst of the all-important Cuban discussions, to observe U.N. Day.

And how was U.N. Day observed? The delegates heard a concert given by the Leningrad Philharmonic Orchestra.

'Well - That's Show-Biz!'

'We're Fans' - When Winning

By LARRY HATFIELD
Managing Editor

Every once in a while, which is then too often, a newspaper gets crank "Letters to the Editor." They are normally disguised by ingenious literary techniques (like the stunning dialect exhibited in the letter printed below), they are always complaining about a "wrong" or "bad," and they are never, never signed by their authors.

The general policy of The Daily Iowan is to ignore those letters and to allow their writers to frustrate in anonymity. On occasion, however, we feel that the writers of a certain gem of wisdom should have his work published - even though the world will never know his author (which, we feel is probably the world's gain).

HATFIELD

Reprinted here, with no editing done to destroy its art or wit, is the latest of those letters. We are not, however, reprinting it solely in the interest of endowing the ages with art. In addition, we think the subject matter is worth commenting on.

This is the text:
Addressee: The Daily Iowan
Addresser: Unknown
Date: Oct. 26, 1962

"What's the matter with you people down at the newspaper place anyhow? A man calls ya an' you acks like you t'inks he is crazy. (Editor's Note: The writer did call the DI twice late Thursday night to announce that he and "many friends" had hanged Jerry Burns in effigy - he also made sure the spelling of his name was correct). Now, ah goin' to tell you how its am. Ah, De Ole Massa, ain' satisfied wif the performance of Jerry burns, de coach a de baall team. How is ah qualified to criticise de poor man? I De Ole Massa an' ah know what ah know, das how! In addition, ah am be in knowlidge of de bestest way what am to do anyting anytime! n EVERYWHERE! - TOO!!!!

"We, mah peoples an me, done hanged de dummy by da thout til he done die. We done done it not to cause MISTAH BURNS to try to cop a plea, but to show him dat the peoples is a gittin' tired of his losin' games. We ain' goin' to do dis stuf to him for real - only in Effigy (a small town out- only Iowa City). We don' mean to put da bad mouf on da man as fur as de Bode a Regentalsms is concerned wif his gittin' hired and gittin' fired, we just want to get him to win some baall games. We are supported by doctus, lawyns, Injium chiefs, students faculty, football players, watah boys, spo's writahs, 'n mommies 'n daddies TOO!!!!

"Well, nuf done been said. Mistah burns, you best win Sat-diddy or you gwine be humiliated on mo'gin wif feeling nex' week."

Cordially,
DE OLE MASSA

May we say initially, that we are quite sure Jerry Burns will not be frightened by your "threat" in your last paragraph, for he has one quality which you so obviously lack: a degree of intelligence.

Also, we are glad that the most vocal critics of Burns so far have maintained your approximate level of stupidity. As long as the arguments remain at their present low level, they can be viewed with a certain amount of amusement.

And we thank you for not rewarding us with the knowledge of your identity - we prefer to attribute a little intelligence to everyone we know.

We hope you continue your effigy-hanging. We think that all children should have a harmless outlet to take the weight off their burdened minds and relieve themselves. And we are sure that tree climbing fits your stage of development.

AND MAY we congratulate you on your tasteful choice of language and the adulteration of it. You sound like you would fit into that very small group which has made so much publicity lately at the University of Mississippi.

We have a few more comments about you which aren't printable and we are sure our readers don't have that much sustained interest in you. But anytime you care to make yourself known, just crawl over to our offices.

We choose, instead, to comment briefly on the phenomenon which seems to have incurred the wrath of you and many others - a losing football team at SUI.

WE REALIZE that Hawkeye football fans are not accustomed to losing and we recognize the fact that it is nice to win.

We cannot, however, blame the recent fall of the Mighty on one man - least of all, Coach Jerry Burns. It takes a coaching master to win in the Big Ten, but it also takes a bigger and better team than Iowa has.

The days of Iron Man football are gone. Iowa does not have the depth to play four good quarters of football against a strong team. As one writer pointed out, following last Saturday's disaster, Iowa has several players playing quite often who could not have made Purdue's 38-man traveling squad.

OUR TOP players can match almost any player in the country in ability and performance but they do not have anyone to back them up and it is physically impossible to play 60 minutes of Big Ten football and retain maximum effectiveness.

More stringent recruiting and academic rules have limited the ability of the Athletic Department to lure the "big stars" to SUI. The fact that a few other schools are still getting those players and we are not may mean that our school is obeying the restrictions a little more honestly.

Nor can we blame the mistakes of the players on the field on the coach - who is on the sidelines. Even the most ingenious coach can't catch a punt, prevent a fumble, or make up for mental lapses. He can repeat to his charges every day that certain maneuvers are illegal, but he cannot insure that those maneuvers won't be used during the game.

We feel that the time has come for SUI football fans to be honest and accept one of the three alternatives given in these columns earlier this year:

1) Make college football at SUI strictly amateur - which means we will accept a losing team. An amateur college team cannot compete with other college football teams (which aren't quite amateur) with much hope of winning.

2) Make football at SUI strictly professional, not requiring academic standing and paying athletes for services rendered. If this were to happen, a return to the Fabulous Fifties might come about.

3) Abolish college football at SUI and return to focus of the University to the halls of learning.

WE PREFER the first alternative and think that SUI is approaching that position. We hope that pressure of prestige hungry fans will not change the present direction.

And we continue to stand behind the Hawkeyes - whether they are winning or losing.

Finds France Is No Longer French

By JOHN CROSBY

PARIS - I had lunch with a French husband the other day who said to me rather gloomily: "I don't see why you bothered to come to live in Paris. These days we lead exactly the same kind of life you do in America. You might as well have stayed home."

I said that I didn't think life in Paris resembled life in the United States very much.

"Well, you live in St. Germain-des-Pres. That's not at all typical of French life. Now take my life, for example. I get up in the morning very early, just like an American, because I live in the suburbs. Just like an American. There's no place to park my car in Paris, so I take the train.

CROSBY

"When I get home at night, I am too exhausted to hold a conversation with my wife. After dinner, I turn on the television - just like in America. Then I go to bed. What's the difference between that and America?"

I said that it had a familiar and very un-French ring about it, that sort of life.

"LIFE IN FRANCE is becoming increasingly un-French," said this Frenchman. "Women are taking a more and more important part in French life." Then he added in tones of shocked horror and I must admit I shared this horror: "Do you know that rarely does a man buy a car in France without discussing it with his wife? Imagine discussing a thing like that with a woman!"

When did all this Americanization of his life begin? I asked.

"It begins in about the second year of every Frenchman's married life," said the Parisian. "Then you have had some children and your wife wants a refrigerator, which she has got along without all her life until now. She wants all sorts of electrical engines - vacuum cleaners, washing machines."

How about the food? I asked. That's not becoming American?

"OH, BUT assuredly," said the Frenchman. "Now we worry about calories and cholesterol. We never thought about things like that before. More and more our doctors tell us we must eat broiled steaks. No so much butter. How can you cook without butter? The whole secret of French cooking is plenty of butter and lots of time. Now we can't eat the butter and we don't have the time."

The Frenchman has always been a family man. The home was the heart of his existence and he was absolute king there. "Not any more," said the Frenchman. "More and more the Frenchman is a company man - just like in America. His primary interest ceases to be the family. More and more he leaves all the household problems to his wife. Before, no wife would dare buy so much as a box of matches without consulting her husband.

"The sort of things we consider newsworthy are becoming very American too," said the Frenchman, in tones of gravity verging on despair. "We used to get excited over crimes of passion. Now, more and more, the front pages are being taken over by depressing things like the discovery of a new oil well. The papers print pictures of new factories on the front pages instead of pictures of girls, as they ought to.

"A FEW YEARS ago we'd talk about the Folies Bergeres or our wine or our women. Now we talk about a new dam we just built. Technicians and technical affairs are taking over everything. Even the language is changing - becoming more anglicized. In an industrial and engineering society, eight of ten words are English.

"The public spirit itself is changing. Frenchmen are more in a hurry. Paris is no longer very gay. I don't know why you didn't settle in Rome. It's much gayer there. No industry at all there. Only movies. In Paris, we used to chase the girls through the street. Now we are too busy chasing money."

He sighed: "Some day I must take you out to what I call French America. This is the western suburbs of Paris. Blocks and blocks of flats - just like in America. Right in the center is the supermarket, which is the intellectual heart of the place. The wives drive their husbands to the station every morning and go get them at night." He shook his head: "You know, my wife can't drive yet. But it won't be long. She's been after me to buy a second car - just like in America."

Military Might Not The Only Answer

To the Editor:

May I say at the outset that I can understand why President Kennedy made the decision he did, although it must be admitted by those not taken up with war psychosis that the U.S. has flaunted international law, is contemplating an act of imperialism and in the process denying the idea of self-determination. Besides the fact that the Monroe Doctrine is an anachronism, there are these considerations: Cuba has a recognized regime that, admittedly, has definite ties with the Soviet bloc. But does not this established regime in the eyes of most of the international community take precedence over the claims of a doctrine unilaterally promulgated in 1823? Does the idea of self-determination only apply to regimes we like? If so, why not do the equally ridiculous thing - revive the open door policy in China?

The real issue is one of power politics. Why should we becloud the issue with a lot of righteous indignation and "Don't tread on Me's." The situation is this: The Russians have finally got the bone in our throat, a quid pro quo for West Berlin. We have our bases around their perimeter, but now they have their missiles near our perimeter. The shoe is on the other foot.

May it be said that the Russians aren't the only ones (i.e. they are necessarily black and we are like the lilies of the field) that practice a little power politics. I think it is fair to say that even we practice it on occasion, but it may be that we have a short memory.

I don't think there is an objective basis for saying where the "right" lies in the Cuban mess. Just the same, talk about "piracy" seems to have its element of naivete where talk about being "brave" has its element of chauvinism. In an age of nuclear retaliatory power the latter kind of talk seems slightly insane.

The answer? Short of invasion, there is none. Do the Cuban missile sites alter the world balance of power? I doubt it. My suggestion: We can and, in light of world assumptions of power, must play the act as it was written. But must we forget that there are instruments at the disposal of our foreign policy other than that of military might?

Says Alston's Stand Is Worthy of Respect

To the Editor:

In the light of the recent rash of criticism of Prof. Patrick Alston's stand on the Cuban blockade, I feel compelled to speak out in support of academic freedom. Those red-blooded Americans who condemn Mr. Alston for his vigorous and open opposition to the Administration's action should recall the academic suppression of czarist Russia and Nazi Germany. In these cases the right of scholarly dissent was ruthlessly subordinated to a self-righteous, monolithic State.

A large university such as SUI is no place for political chauvinism and unqualified support of administrative policies. By speaking out against the Cuban blockade Mr. Alston was simultaneously affirming academic freedom and refuting the accusation that he is "100 per cent gutless." His courage is heightened by comparison to the apparent toadyism in the departments of political science and military science. Whether or not one agrees with Mr. Alston, he still merits respect for his courage to dissent.

No Valid Reason Why Reds Should Not Answer Threat

To the Editor:

A crisis has occurred, and, as usual, the thinking has stopped and the mouthing of inane slogans begun. Messrs. Shallou and Lage, as well as Miss Oestreich, seem distressed that there exist persons whose perspective differs from their own. These three patriots seem to suggest that the best means for preserving "democracy" is the discouraging of dissent.

How convenient for persons such as these that there exists a "little fat man in Moscow" who can be blamed as the cause of all our ills. It is so much easier to hurl epithets than to open one's eyes to a, perhaps most unpleasant, reality in which the "peace-loving and democratic" United States continues the production of bigger and better weapons, when we already have the means to destroy the greater bulk of existing civilization; and fights for freedom by giving aid and support to such libertarians as Franco and Chiang Kai-Shek.

We have installed missile bases in all parts of the world, including areas bordering the U.S.S.R.; there seems to be no valid reason why the Soviet Union should not follow our example. The fact that we may find the pot's behaving like the kettle inconvenient does not quite constitute a moral justification for illegal proceedings on the seas, and the endangering of an already precarious peace.

Madison Police Dept. Commends SUI Students

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter was received by SUI President Virgil M. Hancher after approximately 2,000 SUI students visited Madison, Wis., for the Iowa-Wisconsin football game Oct. 26.)

Dear President Hancher: It is with pleasure that I inform you that the past weekend in Madison was peaceful - though busy. Despite the large number of students here from your University, there was not a single incident involving them. Their conduct was exemplary and you, your staff and faculty have sound basis to be proud of them. Officers on the beat reported numerous friendly contacts with Iowa students. Off the record, some frankly said, "If we get in trouble, we will be dropped."

I might add that all of us that attended the football game were delighted and impressed by the magnificent appearance and performance of your Highlander Band as it performed at half time.

On behalf of the Madison Police Department, I extend to you my sincere thanks and appreciation for the excellent behavior of your visiting student body.

Jerry Burns Has Right to Sue Us For Non-Support

By ERIC ZOECKLER

If the Iowa football team lost all of its remaining games without scoring one touchdown, it would emerge in better light across the nation than its fickle fans.

In fact, if Coach Jerry Burns had the time within his very busy schedule of working with his team, he might be wise to sue us all for non-support.

Jerry and his staff work harder and longer in these months than anyone we know. Their labors are for one express purpose — they are working for YOU in an attempt to give YOU the best football team they can.

What appreciation do they get?

While most Iowans are not acting as like hapless children in stringing up ridiculous dummies of their coach and athletic director, many are muttering under their breath about disposing of Mr. Burns.

Just because Iowa football fans are spoiled silly.

They are used to winners. Iowa has lost three football games while winning two this season. But Iowans are creating more of a stir about this than the little man in the Kremlin is over Cuba.

What we ask: Is Jerry Burns and his staff to be judged by a group of people who go to football games just for something to do on balmy Saturday afternoons? Or by people who know little to nothing about the complexities of football?

Captain Larry Ferguson said it Friday at the Homecoming Pep Rally and we'll say it again.

Jerry Burns is the greatest football mind in the country."

But little things can ruin a potentially fine football season.

As Athletic Director Forest Evashevski said at a Davenport luncheon last week:

"Football games can go one way or the other depending upon little things which happen.

"At Wisconsin we had a touchdown via a pass in our hands. Instead of six points we wound up with a 15-yard penalty back from the line of scrimmage. That was quite a reversal."

Evy also talked about the Southern California defeat.

"The night before the Southern California game I watched the Iowa centers pass almost faultlessly. You know what happened the next afternoon. Came the mistakes and the Southern Cal victory."

"The Iowa coaches worked hard all week and the kids were ready for the game."

"That's why I got out of coaching. I got tired of seeing some irresponsible kid running up and down the sidelines with my paycheck."

As you have probably seen on page one of this issue, Evy has some pretty timely comments on those who hang effigies.

We spoke at length with Roy Damer of the Chicago Tribune who covered Evy's speech. He agrees with Evy. This writer agrees with Evy.

The Tribune, Damer said, has a policy not to print stories or pictures of coaches who are hanged in effigy. In essence, Damer said, "it's because we know this is the work of crackpots."

We have been asked frequently since Iowa's 26-3 loss to Purdue whether this column will continue to pick the Hawks to win on Saturdays.

The answer is yes. The reason? Because we are confident that Iowa's football team, under the guidance of Jerry Burns, is going to stop making mistakes and come through, even though the win may not be appreciated by Iowa fans.

"After all," many might say, "we have a right to be mad. We aren't going to the Rose Bowl."

Bunk!

Hawkeyes' Dilemma: Regrouping with 3 Injured is a Problem

By Staff Writer

Iowa's football team is in a dilemma.

How does it go about regrouping its tired forces after a 26-3 pasting by Purdue to cope with an equally rough foe, Ohio State, with injuries to three key players?

Captain Larry Ferguson, tackle Gus Kasapis and Center Gary Fletcher reported to practice Monday with injuries sustained in the Boiler-maker contest.

Of the three, Kasapis seems to be the worse — a severely sprained ankle. Ferguson incurred a hip injury on the first series of plays but went ahead to turn in one of the best performances since his 1960 All-American days. Fletcher also has a hip injury.

Before and after the tragic Iowa defeat, Coach Jerry Burns made this statement about Ferguson:

"For my money, he's the best in the country."

Despite the injured hip, Ferguson romped for 56 yards in 10 carries and grabbed four passes for 34 yards. One of his catches resulted in a run into paydirt, but a holding penalty nullified the score.

This turn of events, coupled with untimely penalties and pass interceptions cost the Hawks the ball game, according to most observers.

The Hawks fumbled three times, losing the ball on each occasion and had four of its passes intercepted.

"It was that pass interception at the start of the second half that really hurt us," said Burns.

He was referring to Tom Fugate's interception of Matt Szykowny throw intended for Clyde Webb which set up Purdue's second touchdown of the contest after Iowa had taken a first quarter 3-0 lead.

After the Boilers' Ron DiGravio struck left halfback Tom Bloom with a 6-yard pass play, the swift back jutted into the endzone. Skip Ohl's placement made it 13-6, as hope for the fumbling Hawks dwindled among the 60,100 Homecoming fans.

One important feature stood out like a sore thumb after Iowa failed to score in the second half against the charging Boilers.

The Hawks haven't scored in the last half since their opening 28-8 victory over Oregon State. They have yet to score in a fourth quarter.

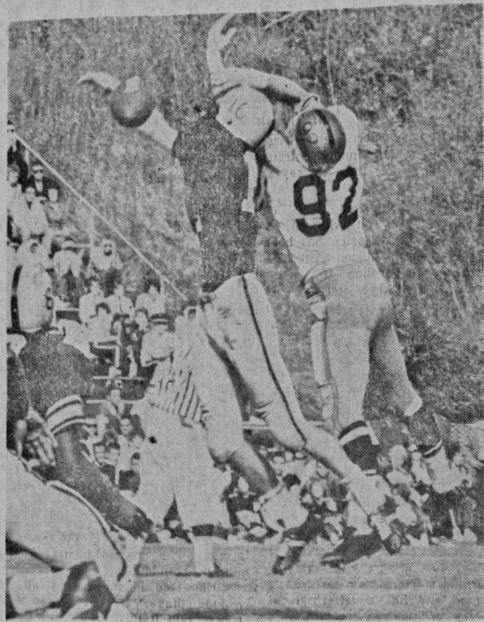

Burns indicated in the first part of the season that his first team would have to see plenty of action, because of the comparative weakness of the second string. Saturday was no exception.

With two good running backs — Lonnie Rogers and Willie Ray Smith — out with injuries, unable to see action, Burns was forced to rely more on fullback Bill Perkins, Ferguson and Bobby Grier.

Thus, it was clear: man-for-man, Iowa was overpowered.

This was exemplified by the powerful charging of fullbacks Roy Walker and Gene Donaldson who combined rushed for a total of 112 yards on the ground. Purdue gained a total of 183 yards rushing.

It is hoped by Iowa coaches that Ferguson and Fletcher will be up to normal capabilities Saturday, but Kasapis' injury is one of grave concern. He did not see action in the second half.

Northwestern's No. 1!

Northwestern, a Big Ten powerhouse which has averaged better than 30 points a game in sweeping past five tough opponents, forged into a solid first place Tuesday in the national college football rankings.

The Wildcats from Evanston, Ill., who handed Notre Dame a crushing 35-6 defeat last Saturday, took a resounding lead over their chief rivals, Alabama and Southern California, in the weekly poll by The Associated Press.

Texas, No. 1 for the past two weeks, dropped to fifth after being held to a 14-14 tie by Rice.

Alabama, the defending national champion, clung to second place on the strength of a 35-6 triumph over Tulsa while Southern California, unbeaten pride of the Pacific Coast, moved up a notch to the No. 3 position after thumping Illinois 28-16. Once-tied Louisiana State was fourth and Texas fifth.

Rounding out the top ten were Mississippi, No. 6; Michigan State,

No. 7; Arkansas, No. 8; Washington, No. 9; and Auburn, No. 10. Auburn, with a 5-0 record, is the only newcomer in the list, which underwent a mild revision in order. The Plainsmen replaced Wisconsin, which' dropped out after suffering its first loss — a 14-7 defeat at the hands of Ohio State.

Branch Rickey Rejoins Cards After Absence of 20 Years

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Branch Rickey rejoined the St. Louis Cardinals Monday after a separation of 20 years and announced it would take a miracle for the Cards to win the pennant next year.

The bushy-browed, 80-year-old Rickey sat in his Busch Stadium office and said his new job was the production and development of players. Near him sat the big names in the Card organization — President August A. Busch Jr., General Manager Bing Devine, and Executive Vice President Dick Meyer.

"This club can't be traded into a pennant," Rickey said. "There aren't that many players around for trade. The players have got to be developed."

When told that a new baseball stadium is scheduled for completion in St. Louis in 1964, Rickey said, "It would be a great thing if the team could be a contender by then."

"I'm anxious for the team to win a pennant," he added, and 1965 seems to be a "rational objective for a pennant."

Rickey, who said he looks upon St. Louis as home, said he was happy to return to the Cardinals, for whom he worked as field manager, business manager and vice president from 1917 until 1942. Two of Rickey's most noteworthy contributions to baseball were the development of the farm system and the bringing of Negroes into the major leagues.

With a heavy wooden cane resting near one hand, and a big cigar held in his other, Rickey spoke strongly against the payment of bonuses to young players.

Hidden System 'Fartlek' Key To Iowa Wins

Harriers Take 13th Straight over Falcons

By ERIC ZOECKLER
Sports Editor

FRANCIS CRETZMEIER
And "Fartlek" Too

"Fartlek." This cute little word which has an exhaustive connotation may become a key concept in Iowa's drive for its second consecutive cross country championship.

Iowa's harriers, who have been utilizing the "Fartlek" principle in their training know that it brings rewarding benefits. They have now won 13 consecutive cross-country meets, the latest being a 16-39 victory over the Air Force Academy Saturday over the South Finkbine course.

"Fartlek" is a method of training adopted by top distance runners in Europe and Austria — and Iowa's successful contingents. Under the method, runners run hard for 100 yards, stride for another 100, then sprint for the next 100.

"In fact," says Iowa Coach Francis Cretzmeier, a 13-year advocate of the system, "a boy can run up a hill, run backwards or do anything he pleases just so he is running. The literal Swedish translation means "Free play."

Cretz continues: "The important thing about this concept is that the runner develops a feeling of self discipline. Only if he pushes himself to the ultimate can he get something out of it."

The object of the program is for the runner to develop the endurance to keep up this pace for 35-40 minutes, Cretz adds.

The South Finkbine course, over which the 1962 Big Ten cross country championship will be run Nov. 12, is an excellent place to utilize "Fartlek" because of its rolling hills and valleys.

Four Hawkeyes demonstrated equal endurance derived from the unusual system as they crossed the finish line Saturday in a dead heat. Larry Kramer, Gary Fischer, Ralph Trimble and

No Circus When Woody's Buckeyes Arrive Saturday

By HARRIETT HINDMAN
Assistant Sports Editor

Colorful Woody Hayes and his colossal Ohio State Buckeyes invade Iowa Stadium Saturday afternoon to offer the Hawkeyes another challenge in the Big Ten race.

But although colorful and colossal, Woody is not planning a circus and neither are the Hawkeyes. Here's why:

Ohio, the defending Big Ten champion, given an edge to repeat in pre-season polls, has been upset twice this season. After defeating North Carolina, 41-7, in the opener, the Buckeyes fell to UCLA 9-7, defeated Illinois 51-15, and then lost to league-leading Northwestern, 18-14. Saturday, Ohio State managed to skid by fifth-ranked Wisconsin, 14-7.

Iowa freshman coach Bill Hoppel, who scouted Saturday's game at Columbus, commented, "Ohio State is a big, strong, powerful team with a lot of go. I think the Buckeyes played their best game of the season against the Badgers. They were bouncing back from the Northwestern loss and were really fired up for the game."

Hoppel commented that the Ohio State offense has eight returning starters from last year's squad and has a letterman at every position on the offensive unit.

The Buckeyes have one of the most talented tackle combinations in the country in two all-America candidates, Daryl Sanders (6-5, 230) and Bob Vogel (also 6-5, 230). While primarily offensive players, the two are well-equipped to go both ways.

Paul Warfield, junior halfback who saw plenty of action last year, is probably the best back of the Buckeyes. "Warfield was moved to a split end position for a while Saturday to take advantage of his pass catching ability," Hoppel observed.

"I think Ohio State figured it was going to have to open up and run some end sweeps, but as the game progressed the Buckeyes went back to the old Woody Hayes' type of play grinding out their yards. Ohio State's longest run from scrimmage was 17 yards, and they were running their quarterbacks and fullbacks through."

Ohio State controlled the second half of the Wisconsin game, running 40 plays while the Badgers had the ball for only 20 plays.

Ohio State's defense is mainly a sophomore team," Hoppel commented. "They are big and use the same type of Oklahoma defense they have used for years. Warfield looked real tough on defense, playing Pat Richter man-to-man."

Richter, the big Wisconsin end, had caught a touchdown pass in eight consecutive games, but was unable to get one Saturday. He caught only two passes for 41 yards.

Hoppel said that the Buckeyes put a tremendous rush on the passer. Ron VanderKelen, Badger signal-caller who had a 59 per cent completion record going into Saturday's game, hit on only 7 of 22 attempts.

John Mummey, 6-0, 198-pound two-year letterman, commands Ohio State's T-formation. Bob Butts has taken over at fullback, a position left up-for-grabs when All-American Bob Ferguson graduated last year. Teaming up with Warfield at halfback is Robert Klein, a 170-pound senior who has been hampered by injuries.

Two Buckeyes were injured in Saturday's game. Ray Krstolic, a defensive lineman, received a broken arm and Sanders, the outstanding tackle, left the game in the third quarter and did not return to action.

Woody Lauds Little Center

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coach Woody Hayes of Ohio State Monday draped the mantle of gridiron greatness around the shoulders of his littlest lineman, center Billy Joe Armstrong.

The Buckeye boss, at his weekly press luncheon, practically ignored Saturday's 14-7 victory over Wisconsin and next Saturday's fray with Iowa, as he handed out superlatives about his 189-pound, 5-11 up-front stand-out.

"Billy Joe is the best all-around player on our squad," Hayes said flatly.

"He's the best I've had here in 12 years. He has been tops for four years in grades, attitude, behavior and playing ability. He's just as good on defense as on offense, and if any player is entitled to national recognition, Billy Joe is the one."

Shades of '59 Bothers 'Cats

Won First 6 Straight Then Lost Next 3 Tilt

Northwestern's top-ranked Wildcats, having firmly established themselves as the best in the Big Ten thus far, return to conference wars this week, haunted by the memory of 1959.

That was the year Northwestern won its first six games and did a turn about, losing the final three thus going from contender to also ran.

The undefeated Wildcats trounced Notre Dame Saturday, 35-6, and again it was the Tom Meyers-to-Paul Flatley passing combination which clicked brilliantly for two Northwestern touchdowns in the triumph over the shaky Irish.

Meyers, the nation's third ranked passer, completed 11 of 18 tosses for 186 yards while Flatley snared six Meyers' spirals for 102 yards including two touchdown grabs of 23 and seven yards.

Powerful Northwestern will meet Indiana, a team that has yet to own a Big Ten victory, this Saturday.

Wisconsin, the squad that battered the Hawks two weeks ago, was nipped, 14-7, by Ohio State.

The Buckeyes stepped out of character, employing passes to score its first touchdown, but resorted to its usual power formula to gain the winning tally.

Wisconsin will meet Michigan's Wolverines who are still hungry for a conference win while Ohio State will be in Iowa City to meet the Hawkeyes.

In other Big Ten action Saturday undefeated Michigan State rolled past Indiana, 28-8, while Minnesota downed Michigan 17-0. In intersectional battle Southern Cal downed Illinois 28-16.

Power Plus

Charging fullback Gene Donaldson of Purdue emerges from a maze of tacklers to pick up some of his 61 yards he gained on the ground as the Boilermakers whipped Iowa 26-3 Saturday. The Hawks also fell before the might of No. 1 fullback Roy Walker who picked up a total of 51 yards.

Twins' Rollins Cited Sophomore of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Rich Rollins, the young third baseman whose unexpected power hitting helped the Minnesota Twins finish second in the American League race, was named the circuit's sophomore-of-the-year Monday in the annual Associated Press poll.

Rollins collected 49 votes in the balloting by members of the Baseball Writers' Association. Outfielder Floyd Robinson of the Chicago White Sox was next with 34, followed by outfielders Chuck Hinton of Washington and Carl Yastrzemski, Boston, 7 each; Leroy Thomas of Los Angeles, another outfielder, 6, and pitcher Claude Osteen, Washington, 3. A total of 106 writers participated in the voting.

Rollins played in only 13 games for the Twins in 1961. However, he spent more than 45 days in the majors and thus does not qualify for this year's rookie award.

Off to Angels—

Once Best in Majors, Turley Is Traded

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Turley, the majors' outstanding pitcher four years ago, was shipped to the Los Angeles Angels by the world champion New York Yankees Monday.

NCAA Requests Members to Drop AAU Affiliations

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association has recommended four new steps to its full membership in its continuing struggle with the Amateur Athletic Union, Executive Director Walter Byers disclosed Monday night.

The recommendations: 1. Withdrawal by member colleges from AAU membership until the AAU indicates a cooperative attitude toward the new sports federations created in the NCAA-AAU war.

2. A boycott on entering college athletes or teams in AAU competition unless the event is sanctioned by the appropriate federation.

3. Resignation of college personnel from AAU committees in the sports in which federations have been created — basketball, gymnastics and track and field. 4. That college facilities and equipment be utilized to "the maximum to further federation activities."

The recommendations were included, Byers revealed, in a statement of NCAA policy which was mailed to its 591-member institutions last Wednesday.

It amounts to the latest step in the AAU-NCAA haste, now more than 2½ years old, over control of amateur sports, particularly involving international events such as the Olympics.

The deal was conditional. General Manager Roy Harney of the Yankees said that the Angels will give the Yankees a mutually satisfactory player by opening day, 1963, if Turley is retained by Los Angeles. The veteran right-hander developed bone chips early in the 1961 campaign and has worked infrequently since then. He underwent elbow surgery last fall.

Turley, who pitched only one complete game in the past two seasons, had a 3-3 record in 1962. He also won three games in 1961.

He is currently player-manager of the San Juan club in the Puerto Rican Winter League. In his most recent effort, Turley was shelled from the mound in the third inning as Santruce defeated San Juan 6-1 Sunday night.

Turley was the ace of the Yankee pitching staff in 1958 when he won 21 games and was named winner of the Cy Young Award as the best pitcher in the big leagues. He also paced the club's World Series triumph that year, winning two games and saving another in relief as New York edged the Milwaukee Braves, four games to three.

In 10 big league campaigns, Turley has won 98 games and lost 74. He is a native of East St. Louis, Ill., and lives in Lutherville, Md., just outside of Baltimore.

Assignment: build the "grease gun" into our cars

We went to the mountain to make 1963 Ford-built cars go 30,000 to 100,000 miles between major chassis lubrications

Quite a task faced Ford Motor Company engineers when they set out to eliminate the traditional trip to the grease rack every 1,000 miles.

Like Mohammed, they went to the mountain—Bartlett Mountain on the Continental Divide in Colorado. More molybdenite is mined there than in the rest of the world combined. And from molybdenite ore comes the amazing "moly" grease that helps extend the chassis lubrication intervals for Ford-built cars. This grease sticks tenaciously to metal, stands up under extreme pressures and resists moisture, pounding and squeezing. It is slicker than skates on ice!

New, improved seals were developed. Bushings, bearings and washers of many materials were investigated. Slippery synthetics, like nylon and teflon, were used a number of new ways.

The search for means to extend chassis lubrication also led to New Orleans—where experimental suspension ball joints tested in taxicabs in regular service went two years without relubrication.

It took time. And ingenuity. But the effort paid off when Ford-built cars were the first to build in chassis lubrication good for 30,000 miles or two years—whichever came first.

Another assignment completed—another "Ford First" and another example of how Ford Motor Company provides engineering leadership for the American Road.

O.A.S. Warned To Prepare Against Cuban Sabotage

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — The threat of wide-spread Communist sabotage and the increasingly apparent control of the Soviet Union over Cuba may lead to a total diplomatic quarantine of Cuba by the Organization of American States (OAS), diplomatic sources said Monday.

U.S. Ambassadors throughout the Hemisphere have been warning chanceries to prepare for possible Havana-ordered terrorism since President Kennedy's Oct. 22 speech establishing the Cuban Blockade.

Venezuela Sunday blamed the Maracaibo Oilfield sabotages on code radio messages sent from Cuba to Communist agents.

Cuba's loss of control over her foreign and defense policies and any Cuban-inspired sabotage, would constitute violation of the principle of non-intervention. It is this principle that has caused several nations to resist collective action against Cuba, diplomats here said.

The Mexican Government, which in the past had been opposed to any action against Castro, has vowed its firm support to President Kennedy's position that the Soviet missile bases have to be removed from Cuba at all costs.

Diplomats here expect the OAS to convoke another meeting on Cuba and possibly demand a total diplomatic quarantine of the Communist-controlled island. Five nations of the OAS maintain relations with Cuba: Mexico, Brazil, Bolivia, Uruguay and Chile.

The feeling in diplomatic quarters here is that Soviet domination over the Cuban regime — as manifested by Khrushchev's unilateral decision to remove the bases — is now clear, qualifying a re-examination of the Cuban case by the OAS.

Khrushchev's assertions were seen here as proof of Russia's violation of the principle of non-intervention which Mexico regards as the cornerstone of the inter-American system.

Chile, Uruguay and even the leftist government of Bolivia have begun to hedge on their "hands-off Cuba" policy in view of the apparent loss of Cuba's independence to manage its own foreign and defense policies.

Only the Brazilian Government has so far suggested the possibility of a period of "coexistence" with the Castro regime. This suggestion was seen as "extremely unrealistic" by diplomats here.

The main question posed in official quarters was whether the Soviet decision to remove the missiles under international inspection, after Castro rejected the step, had created a split between Moscow and Havana. This could be expected to generate new tensions between the old-line Communists and the "melons" of the Castro regime.

The old-liners can be expected to follow the Moscow-line faithfully. Their veteran leader, Blas Orca, applauded the Soviet move to remove the bases in comments to reporters in Copenhagen last night. "Melons" — green with the uniform of the rebel army on the outside, and red inside — is a word coined by Castro's labor minister Maj. Agustin Martinez Sanchez. It is used to describe Fidel and his potentially non-detracted Communists.

Undergrads Offered Study Grants in Europe

Scholarship applications for undergraduate study in Europe during the academic year 1963-64 will be accepted by the Institute of European Studies beginning Thursday.

Seven scholarships are being offered for study at the Institute's centers in Vienna, Paris, and Freiburg, West Germany. Included are three full scholarships which cover all basic costs such as tuition, fees, field-study trips, room, most meals, and round-trip ocean transportation from the United States.

Each program embraces formal classes, lectures, seminars and field-study, and is designed to fulfill usual course requirements at its academic level, officials of the Institute said. The programs in Vienna and Paris are open to college sophomores and juniors, while the Freiburg program is limited to juniors.

A full scholarship valued at $2,230 and partial scholarships valued at $500 and $1,000 are available for the Institute's program at the University of Vienna.

The program there combines English-taught liberal arts and general studies courses, intensive German language instruction, regular university courses taught in German for those competent in that language, and supplementary lectures and seminars. Previous knowledge of German is not required.

For its program at the University of Freiburg, the Institute is offering a full scholarship worth $2,125 and a partial scholarship valued at $1,000. The program stresses political science, German language study, German philosophy and literature, and European history, with all classes taught in German.

Scholarships offered for study in Paris include one covering all basic costs, equivalent to $2,475, and a partial scholarship valued at $500. Intended for superior students, the program encompasses liberal arts and general studies combined with opportunities for independent study at the University of Paris and other institutes of higher learning in Paris.

The Institute's announcement said scholarships will be granted on the basis of academic achievement, financial need, and recommendation by the applicant's "home" college or university. Applicants must be aged 18 to 24 and unmarried.

Completed applications must be submitted no later than Feb. 15, 1963. Forms and descriptive literature are available from the Institute of European Studies, 35 E. Wacker Drive, Chicago 1.

Awards will be announced about May 1, 1963. Enrollees bound for Paris and Vienna will sail for Europe late in August, followed in mid-September by those bound for the Freiburg program.

The Institute, a nonprofit organization described as the largest institution conducting foreign study programs, is currently accepting non-scholarship applications for its spring semester, 1963, programs at the universities of Vienna and Freiburg. The application deadline for those programs is Dec. 10, with sailings scheduled for early February.

Schwengel Asks U.S. Be Included In Cuba Inspection

DAVENPORT — Rep. Fred Schwengel (R-Iowa) Monday said he has sent a telegram to President Kennedy urging that an American be included on any United Nations inspection team sent to Cuba to oversee the dismantling of Russian missiles.

In the telegram, Schwengel said he first urged that the inspection team be American. But, the Iowa Congressman said, since the President has approved a U.N. inspection team, he now insists that an American official be included "so that we won't again misjudge what is offensive and what is defensive with respect to war materials."

Schwengel later told a meeting of the Davenport Lions Club that the Cuban danger is not past. He said the United States cannot place confidence in Premier Khrushchev's assertion that Russian missiles will be removed.

Speaking before a crowd of 600 at the Iowa Memorial Union, Nitish C. Lahary, president of Rotary International, Monday called on all Rotarians to be the "torchbearers" in the effort to achieve "a world order of friendliness and neighborliness." Lahary of Calcutta, India was the guest of Allin Dakin, administrative dean in the office of the President, during his weekend stay in Iowa City. In his luncheon speech to Rotarians from all over the state, Lahary stressed the goals his members could aim for in helping to better the international situation. He asked them to lead the way "to world fellowship on a person to person basis." He also warned: "Rotary will be sounding its own death knell if it sinks into nationalism, ignoring the fact that the world has been compressed into a neighborhood." A CRADLE OF PROGRESS The infant space age is growing fast. Billions are required for trips into space — and that means tax dollars are needed with which to keep America ahead. But there are some people who would have our federal government spend your tax dollars to build more federal electric plants and lines. This is unnecessary. Iowa-Illinois, along with nation's more than 300 other investor-owned electric light and power companies, can furnish all the electric power our growing nation will need. This is no time for needless tax spending.

Mrs. Tucker Takes Pride In Her Family, New Home

By JUDY TOOHILL
Staff Writer

Mrs. William Tucker, wife of the Johnson County Republican nominee for the Iowa State House of Representatives, is a very modest woman. It was Mr. Tucker who came out to the kitchen to say, "I'll have to put in a plug for my wife — she is a member of Phi Beta Kappa," while Mrs. Tucker was telling about going back to SUI for her degree.

They were married after her junior year at SUI and she stopped her education at the end of her first semester senior year. She went back and received her degree in 1956. Because of added graduation requirements and family responsibilities it took her three semesters to finish.

A Finkbine married student barrack was their first home. In 1948 the "barracks" were relatively new and one of the cleanest places married students could live in," commented Mrs. Tucker. "We loved it," she added, recalling the companionship of other married students.

The Tuckers now live in a modern colonial home at 325 Fern Street. They moved to this home last June when they decided their previous ranch style home was not big enough.

"It's my first big kitchen. Before, everybody wanted to be in the kitchen, and now I have room for them," she explained. The kitchen is a sunny yellow and a collection of wrought iron hot plates decorate the wall.

Mrs. Tucker went on to say that they were fortunate in finding a large, old house which had recently been redecorated by the previous owners. An original print made at SUI by Virginia Meyers is in the dining room. The Tuckers are interested in art and hope to collect other originals in the future.

Also in the dining room is a collection of cut glass which Mrs. Tucker highly prizes. "My mother started it for me, and my husband is the most recent contributor. He got me a matching pitcher and six glasses," and she mentioned how difficult it is to find matching pieces of cut glass.

Another antique they recently acquired is a 1911 Ford headlight. Mrs. Tucker is considering having it made into an electric light for their son's room. However, Mike, 14, and Dick, 13, are not quite sure that is what they want done to the lamp. Both boys attend University schools, and they are the student managers for the U-High football team.

Mrs. Tucker tries to keep her evenings free of community and club activities so that she can be home with her family. "Night is the only time we are home together, and I feel that it is important to be with my family."

"Speaking from experience, I strongly urge women to finish their education. I went back to SUI to get my degree because I think it is a good insurance policy. While at SUI she majored in journalism and is a member of Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism fraternity and Kappa Tau Alpha, honorary journalism fraternity.

Presently she is helping to organize an alumnae chapter of Theta Sigma Phi in which she serves as historian. She is also an alumna of Pi Beta Phi social sorority.

Mrs. Tucker has worked in the University Information Service and in 1959 she worked in the School of Journalism. However, she said "an eight to five job is too much with a home to take care of. A career is fine for a mother if she can do it part time — if not, either the job or the home will suffer."

Each month Mrs. Tucker donates a half day to the Altrusa Club, an organization of 30 Iowa City women who sponsor a clothing shop for school children. "We collect good clothing for school age

Well, SUI's 51st annual Homecoming is all over, and at this time life seems that way too. We're all in a complete state of exhaustion, survival appears to be doubtful, and we're plagued with the words "never again." But it's only a temporary sentiment: after a week of rest, which means 15 hours of sleep per night SUIowans will be back in swing. And by the time next year's Homecoming comes around, recovery should be enough established that a repeat of the previous celebration will be anticipated. Heaven forbid!

51 Down, ? to go

The general feeling towards the past celebration seems to be that of satisfaction: the Greeks and Independents broke even in the "beauty battle"; the monsoons avoided our campus; for a change, and the weather was surprisingly glorious; local entertainment places boomed with business, as stimulated SUI students filled them to capacity; alumni appeared to be pleased with the welcome and entertainment given them. (Year-rah-rah); Stan Kenton received a multitude, so now CPC can probably pay the bill; and the Homecoming monument finally went up in flames after a slight difficulty in igniting it.

It's only too bad that the football team couldn't have come through to make the weekend a real success, because now the hopes for that trip to sunny California are dimming, and Jerry Burns will no doubt swing again from the Pentacrest trees!

I see that JFK's overgrown P. T. boats may finally leave their posts around the "isle of no return." But SUI students are still flying around madly, trying to map out the quickest route to their fallout shelters. Hyperness! Unfortunately, this incident is really disrupting our "peaceful" little campus. The young men are in a pandemonium, for fear of receiving that invitation from Uncle Sam, and the coeds are wondering what they'll do for entertainment when the boys leave. Don't be surprised if Cape Canaveral or Cuba suddenly replaces Fort Lauderdale as the place "where the boys are." Also, SUI's academic atmosphere (?) is in chaos. The students have cleverly rationalized their way out of studying: why bother to prepare tomorrow's assignments — they'll probably be blown up anyway!

Meanwhile, back at the White House and the Kremlin, the two K's are sitting on their thrones, busily trying to instigate favorable propaganda. And Fidel in the midst of it all, is furiously pulling on his beard, hoping that U.S. ships won't intercept his Russian-exported cigars.

Germ-Warfare?

SUI has evidently been invaded by a multitude of nasty little germs, as I see that the infirmary children, and while there are not a great amount of needy families in Iowa City, there are people who at times are down on their luck.

"For instance, one year the father of a family was in the hospital. We provided some clothing for his children, and the next year when he was working again, he donated several new garments to the group."

Organizations to which she belongs are PEO, Republican Workshop and the Johnson County Council of Republican Women. Mrs. Tucker also enjoys sewing, knitting and reading. "Although I only sew gift (type) items, I can go to my own sewing room in the house, leave it untidy, and just shut the door!"

BIRTH

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Stolne, 161 Riverside Park, are the parents of a seven-pound, eight-ounce girl, Amy Michelle, born Wednesday, Oct. 17, at University Hospital.

has been crowded with victims of mono, strep throat, etc. In fact, one of the Dolphin Queen candidates reportedly missed the crowning ceremony because she was all involved in the infirmary. If I remember correctly, last year's Interterm Queen met the same misfortune.

What's wrong with SUIowans? Why are we so submissive to these detrimental invaders? Chances are that we're relying too much on the unsealables (No-Doz) and the untealables (diet pills). Not enough time for sleeping and eating too much studying. Instructors: THIS IS A HINT!

Oh well, at least the drug stores are selling an overdose of medicine and get-well cards. How nice for them! At times I wonder if the druggists and the professors have some kind of an agreement: you pour on the assignments and I'll give you a commission on every card I sell and every prescription I fill out. Ah, such is life on the SUI campus.

Medical Research Dean Resigns for Texas Job

Dr. Robert C. Hickey, professor of surgery and associate dean for research at the SUI College of Medicine, has resigned to accept a new position at the University of Texas.

Dr. Hickey has been appointed an associate director and professor of surgery at the M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute at the Texas Medical Center in Houston. His resignation from SUI will be effective Nov. 5.

Constructed in 1954 at a cost of $10 million, the hospital and institute is now regarded as one of the two top cancer research institutions in the nation. The center is now entering a new period of growth, with new buildings in the planning stages and a c a d e m i c programs being transferred from the main University of Texas campus at Austin.

Upon assuming his new duties, Dr. Hickey will assist in planning a new seven-story, $2.5 million basic research addition. He has been principal investigator on several major development programs at the SUI Medical Center, including the five story Clinical Research Center now under construction. Born in Halstead, Pa., Dr. Hickey served his internship at the SUI Hospitals in 1943.

Following military service, he returned to SUI as an assistant resident in surgery in 1946. From 1947 to 1948 he was an assistant resident in surgery at Memorial Hospital for Cancer and Allied Diseases in New York, N.Y.

Dr. Hickey returned to SUI for a three-year period as a trainee of the National Cancer Institute before joining the staff of the Veterans Administration Hospital in Iowa City as assistant chief of surgery. He was appointed an associate professor of surgery at SUI in 1953, assistant dean for research in 1955, professor of surgery in 1957, and associate dean for research in 1959.

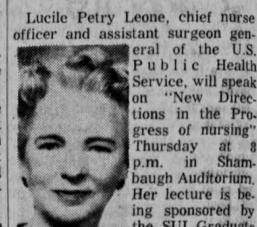

Long active in the state and national branches of the American Cancer Society, Dr. Hickey was president of the society's Iowa Division in 1959-60, and since 1955 he has served as a director and chairman of the research committee. He was awarded the division's highest honor, the bronze medal for cancer control in Iowa, by the society in 1959.

In 1957, Dr. Hickey was instrumental in bringing the first cobalt radiation therapy unit to the SUI Medical Center. The unit was purchased with a $43,000 grant from the American Cancer Society.

From 1959 to 1961, the SUI surgeon served as a consultant to the Surgeon General on the Cancer Control Committee of the U.S. Public Health Service (USPHS), and in 1961 he was named as a consultant to the USPHS Cancer Program-Project Committee for a three-year term.

MED WIVES MEET

By any other name... not as sweet

Juliet (by way of Mr. Shakespeare) said it first: "That which we call a rose, by any other name would smell as sweet." The rose, maybe, or even Romeo himself would have been the same by another name. But, alas, it is not so in men's clothing. The St. Clair-Johnson name in your suit means the very best in quality, style, workmanship. No other name stands for so much.
