Warm Spell' To End; More Snow Ahead

Storm Threats Given For Adjoining States; Blizzards Expected

Companies raised from Iowa City's adjoining states. The weather map shows that the high temperatures in those states are expected to remain above freezing, while the low temperatures in Iowa City are expected to drop below freezing, leading to a significant drop in temperature. The cold wave is expected to continue for several days, with a high probability of snowfall in Iowa City and adjoining states. The snowfall is expected to be moderate to heavy, with accumulations of up to 10 inches possible in some areas. The cold wave is expected to bring wind chill temperatures that could exceed -20°F, making outdoor activities dangerous. The National Weather Service is advising people to stay indoors and avoid driving if possible.

Washing Away The Mississippi Mud

It now appears that Negro servitude will be allowed to continue in a white Clemson University, marked the first full-year admission of a non-white student in the institution's academic history. South Carolina is the only Southern state which officially permitted private universities, but they have traditionally been more segregated than state institutions.

Although Clemson and South Carolina officials have been actively trying to overcome this state's long tradition of racial discrimination, the apparent relaxation of the state's segregation laws is welcome news to many students and faculty members.

Clemson President H. H. Summey has said that once the Negro student and the Negro are accepted, the Negro is happy. He added, "We will not allow any Negro until we are willing to accept him as a part of the university community."

EAST LANSING, Mich. — To members of the Iowa basketball team it was as if light had been stolen from their world, and all that was left behind were shadows — shadows that threatened to engulf them.

For the past two years the Hawkeye eyes have been blinded by the driving force of Big Ten play. But the shadow of that force has sent chills down the spines of the Iowa Hawkeyes.

The realization that the Big Ten ...

Pravda Prints Latest Chinese Attack on Russian Policies

LEIPZIG, G.D.R. — The Russian Communist party newspaper Pravda has published an article licensing Moscow’s latest challenge to the United States. The article, written by a leading member of the party, strongly criticizes American policies in the Middle East and expresses concern over the influence of American capitalists in the region.

The article, which appears in Pravda’s weekly supplement, states that the United States is using its military might to maintain its position in the Middle East, and that this is in direct contradiction to the principles of internationalism.

The article also advises Moscow to take a more active role in the region, and to support the struggles of the people of the Middle East against imperialism.

The text of the article is as follows:

"The United States is using its military power to maintain its position in the Middle East, and this is in direct contradiction to the principles of internationalism. Moscow should take a more active role in the region, and support the struggles of the people of the Middle East against imperialism."
