

ON CAMPUS—
SECOND SEMESTER classes begin today at 7:30 a.m.

TODAY is the last day of the showing of paintings by John Thomas. The exhibit is in the Main Gallery of the Art Building.

FOR A discussion of the Student Senate Faculty-Course Evaluation Poll in an editorial and letter to the editor, see page two.

THE UNIVERSITY Faculty Council adopted a resolution Tuesday to urge the construction of a large auditorium on campus. For details, see page six.

TICKETS for the Dave Brubeck concert in the Iowa Memorial Union Thursday night have been sold out.

IN THE CITY—

TWO MEN are being held in Johnson County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bond after being charged with check forgery Monday. See page three for the story.

LAWRENCE T. WADE, Iowa City agent for the Provident Mutual Life Insurance Co., was named boss of the year by the Iowa City Junior Chamber of Commerce at its annual Bosses Night dinner at the Mayflower Tuesday night.

James A. Sangster was given the award for distinguished community service and Keith Hemmingway of Route 2 of Iowa City was named outstanding young farmer. The latter two awards are given to men between the ages of 21 and 36.

NO CRIMINAL cases were submitted to the Johnson County grand jury which was impaneled Monday beginning the February term of the district court.

The grand jury recommended that inspection of the county jail, the county home and the county records be conducted by the grand jury opening the April term of court.

IN THE STATE—

DES MOINES — The Iowa House of Representatives Tuesday voted to abolish the death penalty in all cases except kidnapping. The story is on this page.

DES MOINES — A bill which would have required drivers who damage highway structures to pay the cost of construction of by-passes while the structure is repaired as well as the cost of the damages was beaten down by a 34-9 vote in the Iowa Senate Tuesday.

IN THE NATION—

WASHINGTON — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield Tuesday invoked the gag rule in an effort to end the anti-filibuster battle.

The Montana Democrat filed the required cloture (gag rule) petition which will bring a showdown vote Thursday on the issue of whether the senate is ready to end a three-week talkathon against revising the existing debate rule.

AN ATLANTIC storm Tuesday battered beaches from Florida to North Carolina. Sub-zero temperatures nipped Maine and morning fog plagued the Great Lakes states.

Sunny, mild weather spread over most of the nation — including Iowa — a welcome respite from the Arctic blasts of January.

INTERNATIONALLY—

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga — Moise Tshombe slipped out of Katanga Tuesday night, leading some to believe he may never return to the maelstrom of Congo politics, informed sources said.

Informants said the Katanga president flew to Northern Rhodesia for urgent medical treatment.

MOSCOW — The Soviet Union sent a stiff protest note to France and West Germany Tuesday denouncing the new Franco-German Cooperation Treaty. The note particularly lambasted plans for closer military cooperation between Bonn and Paris.

PARIS — President Charles de Gaulle said he blocked Britain's European Common Market bid because of Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Nassau agreement with President Kennedy. (See Page 3 for details).

STRASBOURG, France — West German and Dutch delegates to the European parliamentary conference attacked De Gaulle's veto of British membership in the Common Market. In Bonn, Chancellor Konrad Adenauer said in a statement that British membership must be "negotiated and concluded."

TOKYO — Red China in propaganda broadcasts praised Castro Cuba as a "hardline" Communist state that was inspiring other Latin American nations to follow the Cuban example. "In the backyard of U.S. imperialism."

No-Confidence Vote Ousts Diefenbaker

OTTAWA, Canada (UPI) — Canada's 25th Parliament and set the stage for the nation's second general election in less than a year. On the two confidence votes — motions of the opposition Liberal and Social Credit parties accusing the Government of stalling on the question of accepting U.S. nuclear weapons for Canadian rockets and planes — the vote was 142 to 111 against Diefenbaker. It was considered likely that the election resulting from Tuesday night's votes would put Liberal Party leader Lester B. Pearson, an advocate of quick acceptance of U.S. nuclear arms, in charge of the next Government. Pearson's Liberals led the fight against Diefenbaker's defense policy. Diefenbaker himself will set the date of the new elections — which must under law come within 58 days. April 1 appeared a likely choice, according to informed sources. There was no official U.S. reaction from Washington. It appeared the Kennedy Administration was using silence as its defense against conservative charges that the Canadian Government collapse was caused by U.S. interference. The State Department issued an official "no comment" as the U.S. position in the matter. President Kennedy was keeping in close touch with the situation, however, the White House said. With the shouting over, Commons adjourned at 9:05 p.m. EST, not to return until a new parliament has been elected. Under normal Canadian procedure, Diefenbaker will stay on to run a caretaker Government until after the election is held. This means, presumably that there will be no change in Canadian nuclear policy until the new Government takes office. Two members of the Socialist New Democratic Party bolted party ranks to support Diefenbaker on both confidence votes. But the remainder of the three-party opposition was solid and that was more than enough to send the Conservatives down to defeat. The three opposition parties combined for only the second time since this Parliament first met last September to crush the Diefenbaker minority Government less than a week after its defense squabble with Washington broke into the open. Ninety-eight Liberals, 28 Social Credit Party members and 16 New Democrats voted to oust Diefenbaker. Along with the two dissident New Democrats, 109 Conservatives voted for him.

SARE Group Returns; Local Drive Intensifies

IC Businessmen Urged To Contribute to Fund

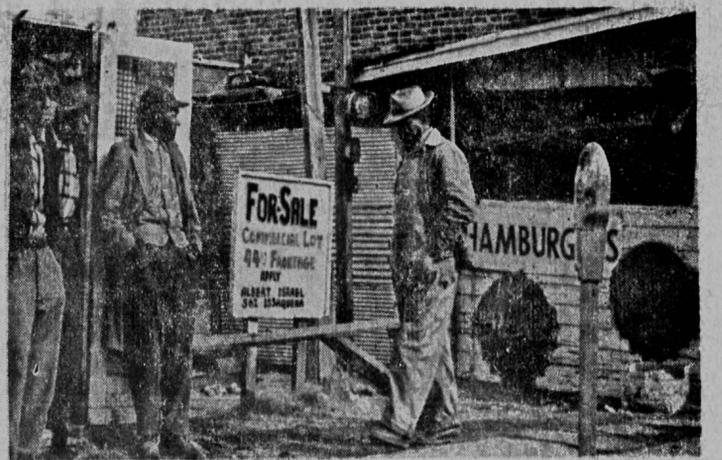

Five SUIowans returned from Clarksdale, Miss., Tuesday afternoon filled with conversation about the situation there and anxious to accelerate the program in Iowa City to collect more food, clothing and money to take to Mississippi.

Walter Keller, G. Brooklyn, N.Y., spokesman for the five, said that children's clothing, food and money for light and heat bills were especially needed. He said the local Student Association on Racial Equality (SARE) which has spent the last two weeks collecting food and clothing from individual Iowa Citizens, intends to turn their efforts toward town and visit every merchant in Iowa City asking for donations of merchandise or money.

Keller said they intend to go back down to Mississippi as soon as they have another load. The "garage full" of supplies, estimated by Keller at 450 to 500 pounds, was hauled down to Mississippi in a Volkswagen bus and a car with a large trailer attached. The supply convoy left Iowa City Sunday morning and returned around 3 p.m. Tuesday.

The collection was taken to Clarksdale's Haven Methodist Church which the Emergency Relief and Welfare Fund Committee of the Council of Federated Organizations was using as a distribution point. According to Keller, nearly 10,000 Negro families are in desperate financial need now because the Coahoma County (Clarksdale) officials have denied federal aid to many of the sharecroppers.

Both President Kennedy and Attorney General Robert Kennedy have been informed of the situation, Keller said, but legal proceedings in matters like this are slow. The present situation dates back to August 23, 1961, Keller said when three Negroes attempted to integrate the Illinois Central Railroad Station in Clarksdale. Their case is still under appeal in a Mississippi court. Since then, however, Keller explained, there have been reprisals on the part of the county officials. However, Keller said, the Negroes organized their own boycott against a number of white business owners and have to date put about six out of business. The effectiveness of the Negroes is rather great, Keller explained, because in Clarksdale with a population of 20,000, the Negroes outnumber the whites two to one. The other four going to Mississippi were Roswell Danielson, A3, Burlington; Tim Shaw, A3, Clinton; Martin Johnson, G, Des Moines and Dale Hurliman, G, Burlington. The group reported that they experienced no difficulties whatsoever with Mississippi officials or police. However, on the group's return trip, the police in Mt. Pleasant, Iowa, interrupted the group's perfect record by awarding them a number of overtime parking tickets for the convoy. One of the latest projects of the Emergency Relief and Welfare Committee, Keller said, is the process throughout the county. The main purpose of these classes is to teach the people the state constitution to aid them in passing literacy tests when they attempt to register to vote.

This is a typical street scene in the Negro section of Clarksdale showing unemployed men idle in front of an abandoned business shack. The drug store on the right is owned by Aaron Henry, president of the Mississippi National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and contains the only integrated lunch counter in Clarksdale with the possible exception of the bus terminal, according to Mrs. Vera Pigeo. —DI Photo by Dale Hurliman

Law Makers Worried; Call for Missile Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calls for an investigation of just how much this country knows about what is going on in Cuba arose in both houses of Congress Tuesday.

Members grew increasingly edgy over charges that the Soviet military threat is more dangerous than the Kennedy administration admits.

Developments included: In the Senate, Asst. Democratic Leader Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota called a news conference to urge a public congressional inquiry at which the head of the Central Intelligence Agency, among others, was questioned. In the House a brief but sharp debate broke out over Republican criticism of Kennedy Administration policies. Rep. William E. Minshall (R-Ohio) proposed a joint congressional investigation into all federal intelligence agencies.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton (D-N.Y.) accused Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.) of talking through his hat when he said the Russians are maintaining missile bases in Cuba. Keating replied that "The situation in Cuba is extremely critical and is becoming more so every day." Although Humphrey implied he believes President Kennedy favors public hearings on the controversy, the White House kept hands off. Pierre Salinger, the President's press secretary, said that as far as he knows Kennedy has not expressed himself on the matter. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois supported Humphrey's call for public testimony. Dirksen told a news conference that an investigation he personally is conducting has produced information similar to that given in the House Monday by Rep. Donald C. Bruce (R-Ind.). Bruce said friendly diplomats have indicated the Russians removed only about half of the 62 to 88 intermediate range missiles they had in Cuba. Dirksen said his figures varied somewhat but were substantially the same.

Council Resolution Introduced To Study 'Confusing Streets'

BY CELE FERNER Staff Writer
"I William Hubbard, boy councilman, age 37, have a speech. If you think I plagiarized it, you're right. "Six score and three and one half years ago, our fathers brought forth on this city, new streets, conceived in vain glory and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created to have a street named for them."

Thus ending the city council meeting Tuesday night, councilman Hubbard introduced the motion that a citizens committee be organized to study the confusing naming of Iowa City streets. Through the proposal, adopted by the council, Hubbard said he hoped to straighten out the "numerical nomenclature" of street names. In other action, the council passed a resolution prohibiting parking on the East side of 7th Avenue from Rochester south to Court and directed the police department to "remove the covers from the signs." Councilwoman Thelma Lewis introduced a letter to be sent to the Planning and Zoning Committee. It called for re-examination of the city's zoning ordinances. The letter specifically said the council should not have to be both a legislative and judiciary body concerning zoning, specific zones for trailers should be made, and an area should be set for industrial use only. Hearings were set for April 2 concerning the rezoning of the southwest corner of Dodge and Ronald and lots in Fairmeadow's Addition.

59-44 Vote in Iowa House—

Anti-Death Penalty Bill Passed

DES MOINES. (AP) — The Iowa House abolished the death penalty for first degree murder Tuesday but retained it in cases of kidnapping. Under present Iowa law only murder and kidnapping are punishable by death. Iowa executes by using the gallows. Before passing the bill 59-44 and sending it to the Senate, the House amended the original measure to keep the death penalty for kidnapping. Rep. Howard Reppert Jr. (D-Des Moines) offered the amendment, saying the death penalty would be a "life insurance policy to the kidnap victim and the only small guarantee he has that he will be reunited with his family alive."

The bill, introduced by Rep. Katherine Falvey (D-Albia) provides a penalty of 50 years to life in prison for murder. The 2½-hour debate on the bill was marked with emotional speeches, with legislators quoting from the Bible and from the 18th Century French writer Voltaire. Rep. John Duffy (D-Dubuque) argued that "God gave life and only God can take life away." He quoted Voltaire as saying the "punishment of a criminal should be of some use. When a man is hanged he is good for nothing." Duffy, former Dubuque County Attorney, told in dramatic detail of prosecuting in 1935 Marlo Heinz a relief worker convicted of strangling a boy. Heinz was hanged in 1938 and Duffy attended the execution. "I am not proud of the record I made in that case," Duffy said. In describing the execution, Duffy said, "I saw this man look for the last time at the rising sun. I saw the attendants slip the mask of death over his head. I saw the trap sprung. "I saw a man wiggle and squirm for seven or eight minutes and then the attendants cut him down. "Ladies and gentlemen, it was a hideous affair." In arguing for her bill, Mrs. Falvey said, "The gallows is the symbol of cruelty, savagery and irreverence for life. Let's show that we have the vision to make Iowa one of the 10 enlightened states with courage to abolish the death penalty."

Rep. Charles Grassley (R-New Providence) said he doesn't object specifically to capital punishment, but to what he called the injustice in its application. "I say either hang them all, or don't hang any of them," Grassley said. Rep. Ivan Wells (D-Bedford) quoted this Biblical phrase in support of his opposition to the bill: "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed."

Rep. Washburn Steele (R-Cherokee) said "if we do away with the death penalty, we will be putting the official stamp of approval on the false concept that man is not responsible for his actions. "We will weaken the moral fiber of our society and contribute to the moral rot that could eventually be the downfall of our free American way of life," Steele added. Rep. William Denman (D-Des Moines) said most prison officials oppose capital punishment. He added the aim of our penal system "should be rehabilitation of the criminal, not his destruction. The House also wrote into the bill an amendment by Rep. Paul Walter (R-Union) to require a unanimous vote of the State Parole Board to grant a parole to any person once sentenced to death or to life imprisonment whose sentence later was commuted to a term of years. On the final 59-44 roll call vote, Scott Swisher (D-Iowa City) cast his ballot for and Bruce Mahan (D-Iowa City) against the measure.

Sulowan's Observations—

Hungry Eyes Tell Story of Negroes' Misery in Clarksdale

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Here is the first in a series of articles of observation's by Walter R. Keller, one of five SUI students who delivered food and clothing to starving Negroes in Clarksdale, Miss. By WALTER R. KELLER Written for The Daily Iowan

A pair of eyes was all I needed to understand the obvious "why." Within three minutes after our little caravan began winding its way through Clarksdale's streets I saw the gray wood shacks that mean "home" to thousands of Negroes in the Mississippi Delta region. On each block the drab buildings huddled — almost leaning together — as if to offer some frail encouragement to one another. Most of the children were in school at 9:15 a.m. when we arrived, so it was not until later that we were to see many of them. But a suggestion of what was to be met later was made by the dark, tired, welcoming faces of the men and teenage boys and two or three women who helped us unload the food, clothing, and seeds and store them in the basement of the drab brick church. There was hunger in those faces, mixed with a certain shy openness. The shyness and openness of people who are the unwilling friends of starvation, and who unashamedly grasp at the few helping hands which are extended to them. This was the hunger which those children who crowded into our late afternoon had not learned to hide. This was the hunger which occupied their lengthening mid-winter days with its dull, insistent ache, the ache only to be worsened by the curious, muffled sobs which emanated from almost every door we opened in the short journey around the city on which Rev. J. D. Rayford escorted Martin Johnson and myself.

I did not see one healthy child on that afternoon. Instead I saw the bloated stomachs and skinny legs fed far too long, on far too little. But most of all I will remember those eyes. The countless bright and penetrating eyes which saw into us from the heads bobbing atop squirming little bodies in the unlit, unheated, stenchy, filthy rooms of the sharecroppers shacks. I will never forget those eyes. They will be peering into me and understanding — somehow understanding — long after I've forgotten the dumb details of gas mileage and road maps on a long-ago trip from Iowa to Mississippi.

Martin and I had joined that tiny number of whites ever to enter their little homes for "social" reasons (an act, for all general purposes and intents, to be considered a crime, or at least grounds for harassment, by local authorities). The ten homes we visited were all those of Negroes who had attempted to register to vote, a privilege rarely accorded by Coahoma

County, Miss. — to Negroes, at least. After these attempts at registration the county authorities had retaliated by withholding surplus federal aid during the bitter winter months, the months of joblessness for sharecroppers. And as a further reward for trying to exercise a bloody-born privilege, these people were cut off from heat and light, and were repeatedly threatened with injury, rape, and death.

Tonight, in Coahoma County, some of these people are eating out of cans of food some of you donated. They are feeling the rough warmth of the clothes you sent — the first warmth of the winter for some of them. They are heating their little homes with the heaters lit again because your checks and cash helped to pay the bills. And the bare bulbs are giving off their wan light for the first time in months in a few of those houses. Faculty Evaluation Poll: An Honest Attempt

THE STUDENT SENATE Faculty-Course Evaluation Poll seems to be an honest attempt on the part of the students to help show faculty members how effective they are.

An instructor may be extremely brilliant and well-liked by his colleagues and students but still not communicate his subject. From all outward appearances, he may be ideal; but it is necessary to go to the students to find out where he is lacking and how he can improve.

This may sound presumptuous on the part of students. Nevertheless, they are not claiming to be better than faculty members. They are not claiming to be judges. All they know is that they are capable of estimating what they gained from a course and how much of it was gained from the instructor.

THE POLL itself is far from perfect. It is extremely difficult to register on an IBM card, even with a five point scale, the various delicacies of an instructor's worth.

However, the poll has proved remarkably capable of divorcing an instructor's ability from his personality.

Students have been perplexed when they realized that they had rated highly instructors whom they personally disliked. After stopping to think, however, they admitted that the instructor knew his course, was well organized and communicated his subject. Personalities and student prejudices will not have too great an effect on the validity of the poll results.

CURRENT PLANS of the Senate provide that the poll be tallied by instructor and course number and the results be sent to individual instructors for their own courses and department heads for instructors and courses under them.

Hopefully, the results will have some impact on the instructors. If so, the primary purpose of the Senate's poll will have been served.

Some students are clamoring to see the results of the poll published. Publishing the results by instructor would be impractical and would not really benefit student or instructor. Boycotting or avoiding instructors who rated poorly, which would probably result, would hardly be a constructive action.

Is a Midwest Winter Motorist Ever Pleased?

SEVERAL CITIES in the Midwest have been confronted this winter (again) with the problem of trying to keep the city streets passable while at the same time trying to please their citizenry.

The problem is that the amount of salt required to break up the snow and ice also seems to break up the finishes of automobiles.

Davenport Mayor Ray O'Brien has gone so far as to write to other Midwest cities of approximately Davenport's size asking how much salt these cities use on their streets. So far, Peoria, Ill., and Waterloo have replied with the dubious report - at least to Mayor O'Brien - that they too have met considerable public protest to the amount of salting they do to their streets.

One wonders what the public reaction would be if the cities decided to comply with the wishes of the motorists and reduced the amount of salt spread on the streets. The day following the first snowfall would undoubtedly bring a storm of complaints protesting the impassable condition of the roadways.

For the present, the answer to the salt question will have to remain as elusive as ever. Let's face it - can you ever please the Midwest motorist in the winter?

Learning Not Measured By Poll

To the Editor:

The Student Senate Faculty-Course Evaluation Poll looks like something dreamed up by a suspicious state legislature to make sure it is getting its money's worth out of the public school teachers. All that is lacking is a question about the instructor's moral stamina and civic-mindedness.

It is bad enough to find this sort of thing on the elementary and secondary level, but disgraceful when it invades the university. The only criterion of good teaching is the impact of the individual instructor upon the individual student, a factor which does not lend itself to statistical analysis. The only way to achieve this impact is to hire intelligent and stimulating instructors and turn them loose with interested students. Whether or not the instructor has filled out his daily lesson plan, whether or not his examinations conform to the latest psychological methods, whether or not his grades make a beautiful bell-shaped curve - all these are totally irrelevant to the pursuit of real learning.

Setting up an image of the ideal instructor, superior in knowledge, organization, preparation, communication, etc., is utterly misleading. A dullard might possess all these splendid attributes, but what student wouldn't prefer a professor who was disorganized, unprepared and brilliant?

I find it impossible to participate in this poll, and I hope that any student who does so will first form a clear notion of what he is doing.

David Daniels, G 312 Hawkeye Apt.

He Registers A Protest

To the Editor:

I would like to register a note of protest concerning the article about folk music as written by Jean Musgrove. The article indicates to me a certain lack of knowledge concerning the subject on the part of the author.

To imply that such persons as the Kingston Trio and Harry Belafonte are the current representatives in the field of folk music and country blues is analogous to saying that the performers of rock-and-roll are the modern exponents of jazz.

While the various trios and rock-and-roll groups are different in kind, they are similar in method for they represent commercialized offshoots of their respective forms of music. Such a statement is not meant to reflect upon the quality of music performed by such groups. It is true that they do sing folk music and the blues. But merely singing such traditional songs does not place them in the mainstream of American folk music.

The point I am attempting to make is that as Miles Davis, Dave Brubeck, and the MJQ are considered to characterize the modern interpretation of the jazz form, such people as Sam Hopkins, Brownie McGhee, Sonny Terry, Pete Seeger, and The Weavers constitute the modern interpreters of the music once performed by such people as Huddie Ledbetter, Woodie Guthrie, and Lemon Jefferson.

To better inform herself, I suggest that Miss Musgrove read the various books written by John Lomax, Samuel Charters, and Fredrick Ramsey. And then I suggest she listen to the performers mentioned above and others such as Big Bill Broonzy, John Lee Hooker, and the late Jimmy Rodgers. Then she would be acquainted with the sound of folk music and the country blues.

Democrats and Junior Democrats

To the Editor:

And now for Mr. Theisen and his "Real Republican Combo." Mr. Theisen states that the Rockefeller liberals represent the image of the "Real Republican." This is a joke! Senators Clifford Case and Jacob Javits (both faithful Rockefellerites) and "Real Republicans" have about as much in common with the vast majority of the Republicans as does Hubert Humphrey.

In taking a negative view, Mr. Theisen is not building the Republican Party but destroying it. If the "Real Republicans" took over the party, there would be the following political parties in the United States - the Democrats and the Junior Democrats (formerly known as Republicans).

Americanism in Action Isn't Merely Waving the Flags

By RALPH MCGILL

About two years ago President Dwight Eisenhower named a commission of distinguished citizens to give diligent study to identifying our national goals. Its members did give time and effort to an examination of what might be called Americanism and the ideals toward which we should strive.

When the report was done it was, in essence, founded on the goals contained in the Declaration of Independence and the Bill of Rights of our Constitution. In our form of free society they held "these truths to be self evident; that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; that to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed." Every goal which this country has grown out of those truths.

ONE THINKS OF this in a time when states, municipalities, Chambers of Commerce, civic clubs and organizations with varied motives are engaged in, or about to begin, instruction in "Communism." One cannot help but wonder if much of the teaching in this complex and important subject is not putting

A Policy of Softness

(The Mason City Globe-Gazette)

Senator Keating of New York says a Russian ship laden with military equipment docked in Cuba a week ago. He says further there are still missile sites on the island.

A spokesman for the President denies the claims. And the distressing fact about the controversy is that neither side knows for sure. It's a matter of guesswork and our national security is at stake. We backed down on our demand that there be on-site inspection. We're pursuing a policy of softness.

Softness isn't the way to get along with Communism as we've discovered in Greece, in the Near East, in Korea and in Berlin.

necessary to warn against such vigilante-type groups which are, by their un-American tactics, some of the best little helpers Nikita Khrushchev and his agents could wish.

THE VERY BEST anti-Communism is Americanism - in practice and at work. A person who knows what his country stands for, and what its promises are, will strongly oppose Marxism in any form.

So, we must ask ourselves whether the best way consistently to reduce and destroy any possible practice of Communism is not to practice Americanism in our daily lives. It is right and proper that this country should be concerned with welfare assistance. If we callously neglect those who are unemployed, and who do not have skills or education to find work, we cannot expect them to close their ears to some propaganda which declares that Marxism has no unemployment and will provide work, schools and housing for all.

A Nebraska Editor Looks at Fraternities

By DONALD FERGUSON Daily Nebraskan

At the University of Tennessee, according to the Adviser to Fraternities, Joseph A. Cecil, the Intrafraternity Council (IFC) took voluntary action to correct their scholastic record. Through legislation the IFC levied a penalty on any fraternity failing to make a 2.0 or C average. For the first quarter of failure, the chapter will lose social privileges. If there is a repeat the second quarter, they add the loss of intramurals. If the deficiency continues for a third quarter, the chapter is placed on full activities probation and is suspended from the campus if the record is not improved by the next quarter.

Initiation averages have also been raised on many campuses. In addition, IFC's have legislated requirements on pledging. At the University of Nebraska, the IFC recently voted that no man may be pledged or participate in rush the first semester unless he was graduated in the upper half of his high school class.

MANY CAMPUSES, such as Syracuse, have also gone to a program of "Deferred Rush." Under this type of system, no fraternity may take a pledge class of new members until after the first semester. Most campuses have their pledging period or "rush week" just before the school year starts. Under the Syracuse program, only those students who have proved scholastically capable the first semester may be pledged.

There are still the "gimmick" approaches to raise scholarship in individual chapters and national fraternities - national trophies, bean and steak dinners, recognition certificates, reduced initiation rates, and many others - all in an effort to give more than lip service to the need for good scholarship. But the term "Scholarship" in the original sense, is much more than good grades, as noted by our knowledge of the early fraternity meetings.

Is there, then, a new trend to comply not only with aiding and encouraging better classroom scholarship, but to give the student these extra benefits?

ON MANY CAMPUSES, according to Alpha Tau Omega national executive secretary Stewart Daniels, it already appears that "our chapter houses are becoming more of a forum for an exchange of ideas."

Many chapters are starting to adopt parts of the Syracuse plan and are incorporating the idea of making the fraternity a second classroom.

"In addition to an astute awareness to the purpose of being in college - education - the fraternity should never lose track of its other obligations to the individual member," said John Nolan, former IFC president at the University of Nebraska.

What are these other obligations? ACCORDING to one national fraternity's pledge manual, the fraternity should aid in the development of good manners; teach the democratic process, instilling an understanding of the majority rule concept.

"We can teach you," stated the manual, "how to study, how to organize study; how to get maximum benefits from your professors; how to broaden your education. Do not think we can teach you how to avoid work; we can't open your head and pour it in."

A fraternity, the manual explained, is a business which is operated by the members. One chapter cited in the manual handles more than $75,000 yearly, operates $200,000 worth of property, buys food, supplies and furniture, has a housemother and a staff.

In addition, the manual states, the fraternity should teach you to get along with people, how to dress cleanly, neatly and presentably, and how to be a gracious winner and a good loser.

MANY FRATERNITY leaders, administrators and undergraduate

This is the last of two articles, gathered at a recent meeting of the National Interfraternity Conference in Pittsburgh.

It was written by journalism senior, Donald L. Ferguson, himself an active member of the Nebraska Interfraternity Council in 1961-62, is a member of Phi Gamma Delta, and served as editor of the Daily Nebraskan at the University of Nebraska. Ferguson is trying to find out if the recent publicity that fraternities are raising their scholastic standards and returning to the traditions of their earliest days is true, or just so much lip service for campus organizations which many claim are only social. The answers are in Ferguson's story.

IFC officers indicated at the NIC meeting that the college fraternity can do these things for the individual. They also seemed to be of the general opinion that the fraternity is not a dying institution.

"If fraternities are dying, they are the healthiest corpses you ever saw," stated Joel Reynolds, a leader in the NIC.

To back up his statement, he referred to the recent NIC expansion committee report which indicated that there is an immediate need for 500 more chapters on campuses across the country.

The report also indicates that undergraduate membership in fraternities over the past five years has increased from 1,578,870 to over 2,500,000.

"THE QUESTION of survival is still a relevant one, however," according to Nebraska's Hallgren. "Many chapters have not yet grasped the changing role of fraternity; many lack mature leadership, many lack a purpose."

Richard Fletcher, executive secretary of Sigma Nu Fraternity, commented that fraternities will survive, the same as any human institution, if it is "useful, purposeful and alert."

Fletcher continued, "We started as Fraternities, took on hotel and cafe functions, went into the club business in a big way, and are still in the club business primarily... with only casual concern for hotel and cafe and little or no emphasis upon fraternity, our original business."

"Now the institutions are doing the hotel, cafe and club business for the masses better than we can, leaving us only the fraternity business, a field in which - happily - we have no competition."

"WE'LL SURVIVE," he concluded, "if we're useful; we'll flourish if we're purposeful; and will insure our future if we're alert. Our future in the sixties, as at any other time, will depend on whether or not we are in fact what we say we are."

Letters Policy

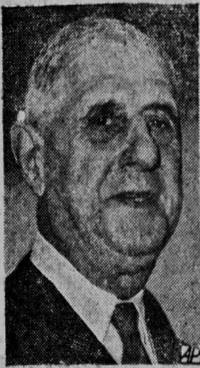

Readers are invited to express opinions in letters to the Editor. All letters must include handwritten signatures and addresses, should be typewritten and double spaced and should not exceed a maximum of 375 words. We reserve the right to shorten letters.

De Gaulle: JFK Talks Hurt Mac's Standing

PARIS (UPI) — President Charles de Gaulle said Tuesday he had turned down Prime Minister Macmillan's Common Market bid because of Macmillan's Nassau conference with President Kennedy, a member of the French Parliament reported.

CHARLES DE GAULLE Tells Why He Blocked Britain

De Gaulle met with French parliamentarians at an Elysee Palace reception and told them he had dealt roughly with Britain and the United States in his Jan. 14 news conference because Macmillan had reversed his views on European defense at the Nassau conference, the source said.

A Parliament member who asked his name be withheld said De Gaulle gave this account of Macmillan's visit to De Gaulle's official country residence of Rambouillet and of his Nassau trip immediately afterwards:

"At Rambouillet Mr. Macmillan came to me to say that we ought to unite our two forces. Several days later he went to the Bahamas (where he agreed to accept Polaris missiles instead of airborne Skybolts). Naturally that changed the tone of my press conference Jan. 14."

In the Jan. 14 news conference De Gaulle refused America's offer of Polaris missiles without their warheads and set the stage for France's later veto of quick British admission to the Common Market.

The Parliament member quoted De Gaulle as saying:

"The British adhere to a certain convention of respectability. That is how they have gained a certain influence in the foreign press and in certain circles in our too. Mr. Macmillan, whom I like well, has had me compared in the British press to Hitler. He knows me and I know him. He knows me and I know him. He knows me and I know him. He knows me and I know him.

A deputy asked De Gaulle about Macmillan's current political difficulties at home. De Gaulle was reported to have answered, "well, he deserves it."

De Gaulle's reference to a Macmillan "turnabout" explained an earlier mysterious reference in another reception for National Assembly members in which he said: "England has turned over to the Americans what meager atomic forces she had. She could have turned them over to Europe. Well, she has made her choice."

National Assembly member Jean Chamant quoted De Gaulle directly on part of Tuesday night's statements:

"Macmillan said, 'You are right to build a striking force. Even we should try to build ours. We should associate them in a European grouping, independent of the United States."

Deputies said De Gaulle accused the United States and Britain of trying to "dilute" the Common Market by using it as a market place for goods for which it could not receive hard currency in other world markets.

"The Americans can't sell — or they sell for nothing — to the Americans, the South Americans, even the Arabs," the deputies quoted De Gaulle. "They must now try to sell to Europe who can pay."

De Gaulle also was quoted on his views of the German political scene once Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is gone. Deputies said he hinted that Adenauer's successor might do worse than take a few leaves from the Gaullist book.

"What Germany needs is a constitution which will allow it to face the great problems of the modern world. The Germans don't have a good constitution because they don't have the referendum."

Earlier Premier Georges Pompidou said the Nassau agreement, showed that "special relationships" still exist between the United States and Britain. But he denied the Nassau conference caused De Gaulle to reject Britain's Common Market bid.

29 SUIowans Given Grants

Twenty-nine SUI students have been awarded $145 tuition scholarships for the second semester.

Of the 29 scholarships, 17 are SUI Student Aid Scholarships. Five students received Rand McNally Scholarships; five received scholarships from the Los Angeles Alumni Club; one was awarded a Freshman Merit Fund Scholarship and one a Scott German Scholarship.

The following is a list of the scholarship winners. SA following a student's name indicates a recipient of an SUI Student Aid Scholarship: FM, Freshman Merit Fund; FM, Rand McNally; LAAC, Los Angeles Alumni Club, and SG, Scott German.

Judith Ann Collins, N2, LAAC, Bettendorf; Donald Sample, B4, SA, Bloomfield; Edith Greenberg, A3, SA, and Linda Walker, A4, RM, both of Cedar Rapids; Larry Howe, A2, SA, Charles City; Barbara Ann Gjerpe, A5, SA, Decorah;

Nancy Bliesmer, A2, SA, De Witt; Duane Koberg, B3, LAAC, Durant; Inez Bartlett, A3, SA, Dyersville; Dennis H. Mathias, A4, SA, Garwin; Carl Fackler, A3, LAAC, Indianola; Mrs. Lillian Keller, A3, LAAC, Iowa City;

$500 Scholarship

Gerald Owen, A4, Dubuque, has been awarded the $500 Robertson G. Hunter Scholarship for the current academic year. The scholarship is granted annually to a student in Agricultural Science at SUI and is provided by the Equitable Life Insurance Company of Iowa.

Travel Talk

An informal illustrated talk on travel and study in Greece and Italy will be given Monday at 7:30 p.m. in 115 Schaeffer Hall by Raymond Den Adel, G, Pella.

Den Adel, a teaching assistant this year in Latin, has held fellowships for summer study both at the American Academy in Rome and at the American School of Classical Studies in Athens.

The talk sponsored by the Classics department is open to everyone. Refreshments will be served.

Zoology Talk

Dr. George E. Brousseau, Jr., associate professor of Zoology, will speak on "The Genetic Significance of Thalassemia," at the Zoology Seminar Friday at 4 p.m. in Room 204 of the Zoology Building.

Reading Clinic

All those who registered for Reading Clinic, 7:25, are asked to please call the Reading Clinic, ext. 2998, as soon as possible.

Gift to SUI

SUI was among 31 colleges and universities receiving individual gifts from Maytag employees the past year through the Educational Gift-Matching plan of the Maytag Company Foundation, Inc.

Robert E. Vance, foundation president, reported Tuesday that the SUI gift totaled $9,473.

WSUI Program Director

Robert H. Moore, former director of radio and television at Northern Illinois University, began his new studies Monday as program director at WSUI.

Prior to three years as director of Northern Illinois University station WNIC, Moore was news director of WTHI in Terre Haute, Ind., and was a producer for Purdue University's educational broadcasting station.

GENTLEMEN, IT'S TIME WE IN THE PEACE MOVEMENT STOPPED BLAMING OTHERS FOR OUR FAILURES AND LOOKED TO THE REAL CAUSE: OURSELVES.

NUMBER ONE—RE-TITLE OUR MOVEMENT "HAWKS FOR PEACE!"

NUMBER TWO—REPLACE OUR PEACE COUNCILS WITH PEACE COMMANDS—WE CAN CALL THEM "PEACE COMMS."

NUMBER THREE—RE-TITLE OUR PEACE WORKERS. CALL THEM "TROUBLE SHOOTERS."

NUMBER FOUR—PUT OUT A SERIES OF KHAKI-COLORED CRASH PROGRAMS ON SUCH THEMES AS "PEACE OR SURETY," "PEACE ESCALATION," "PEACE COUNTERFORCE."

NUMBER FIVE—ONLY ALLOW PEOPLE WITH SUITS AND TIES TO JOIN. GET A FEW OF THOSE MINISTERS OFF THE SPONSOR LIST AND PUT ON A COUPLE OF GENERALS.

WELL, WE HAVE DONE SOME RESEARCH AND THESE ARE OUR FINDINGS: THE PUBLIC FINDS PEACE LACKING IN VIRILITY, GENTLEMEN. IT FINDS IT OVERLY PASSIVE, NAIVE ABOUT COMMUNISM AND A SOP FOR WOMEN AND BEATNIKS!

THAT IS NOT THE KIND OF PEACE THAT SELLS! OUR FINDINGS REVEAL THAT PEOPLE FEEL THE PREPARATIONS FOR WAR STIMULATING! IT'S ONLY THE END RESULTS THAT THEY FROWN ON. IF WE'RE GOING TO MAKE PEACE CATCH ON WE'VE GOT TO MAKE IT AS MASCULINE AS WAR!

GENTLEMEN, ONCE WE MAKE THE IMAGE OF PEACE MORE WAR-LIKE, OUR FUND RAISING PROBLEMS WILL BE OVER!

I'M SURE CONGRESS WILL BE HAPPY TO GIVE US ALL WE WANT.

Iowa Heart Collections Reach Nearly $7,000

Memorial gifts for the Iowa Heart Association amounted to $6,856.09 for the three months of October, November and December, $140 of which was from Johnson County.

Mr. Harold E. Jacobsen of Sioux City, President of the Iowa Heart Association, explained "Memorial Gifts money is used for heart research. Doctors and scientists in Iowa, as well as in the rest of the country, are engaged in a concentrated effort trying to solve the enormous problem of heart diseases."

Heart Memorials may be made to local Memorial Gifts Chairmen, or may be sent directly to the Iowa Heart Association, 2100 Grand Avenue, Des Moines 12, Iowa.

Two Held in County Jail On Check Forgery Charges

Two men are in Johnson County Jail in lieu of $1,000 bonds after being charged with check forgery Monday.

Charged with trying a scheme involving $85 checks at both Iowa City banks at the same time are George A. Longan, 40, of Springfield, Mo., and David A. Vallier, 19, of Omaha, Neb.

According to detectives, one man called both banks, identifying himself as the representative of a fictitious business to ask if the two unnamed businessmen had enough money in their accounts to cover $85 checks.

Both banks said the accounts were large enough to cover the checks. Police charged Longan with forging the businessmen's name on the two $85 checks, making them payable to Longan and Vallier. Police said the two were using names of persons whose identification papers they had stolen in Springfield, Mo., and Omaha, Neb.

Vallier went to the Iowa State Bank and Trust Co. and Longan to the First National Bank to cash the checks about 2 p.m., police reported. Longan got his money, but Vallier ran when a teller said she would have to check the account.

Iowa State Bank officials called detectives who alerted police patrolmen with descriptions of the two men.

Assignment: design a suspension that "paves" its own way!

Result: "Cushion Recoil" provides a dramatically smoother ride in 1963 Ford-built cars

The challenge given Ford engineers was to design suspensions that would permit wheels virtually to roll with the punches—not only in a vertical plane but fore-and-aft as well. Conventional suspension systems provide only a partial solution to road shocks by limiting wheel recoil to an up-and-down motion.

The solution? Exclusive Cushion Recoil suspension design in all Ford-built cars for '63! Cushion Recoil, with cushioning action in a fore-and-aft plane as well as vertical, smoothes the jars and jolts of rough roads, adds to your comfort, safety, and driving pleasure. Even the thump of freeway tar strips is reduced, and on deeply rutted roads you experience better control of the car. Furthermore, your Ford-built car is spared the wear and tear of road-induced vibration.

Another assignment completed—one more example of engineering excellence at Ford and new ideas for the American Road.

THE CURSE OF THE CAMPUS: NO. 1

Hate me if you will, but I must speak. We college types are far too complacent. Sure, we've got plenty to be proud of. We've got atom smashers, we've got graduate schools, we've got new peaks in scholarship, new highs in academic honors. And yet, in the midst of these triumphs, we have failed dismally to make any progress in solving the oldest and most horrendous of all campus problems: we've still got roommates.

To be sure, all roommates are not bad. There is the well-documented case of Hilkut Glebe, a student at the Manhattan College of Agriculture, majoring in curds and whey, who admitted publicly that he actually liked his roommate—an odd admission when you consider that this roommate, Mervis Trunz by name, was frankly not too winsome a fellow. He practiced his tympani in his room, he kept an alligator, and he collected airplane tires.

But, on the other hand, Mervis bought two packs of Marlboro Cigarettes every day and gave one of them to Hilkut—and I ask you—who can stay mad at a man who gives you Marlboro Cigarettes? Who, upon tasting that flavorful blend of Marlboro tobaccos, upon drawing through that pure white Marlboro filter, upon exulting in this best of all possible cigarettes, Marlboro—who, I say, can harden his heart against his neighbor? Certainly not Hilkut. Certainly not I. Certainly not you, as you will find when you scurry to your nearest tobacconist and buy a supply. Marlboros come in small, medium, and large.

HAWKEYE SPORTS SCOPE

By Bill Pemble

WEEKEND-WISE, this will be the busiest time of the winter season for Hawkeye athletes. All of Iowa's winter sport teams are set to start the new semester off with a bang and a real bonanza is in the offering for spectators in this area.

Friday night, Dave McCuskey's defending Big Ten champs will grapple with a strong Northwestern team. Match time is 7:30 p.m.

Starting off a busy Saturday program at the fieldhouse will be coach Bob Allen's swimmers. The Hawks will be hosting the Fighting Illini finmen from Champaign at 2 p.m. The Illinois gym team will also be here along with Nebraska to take on Dick Holzappel's gymnasts at 3:30 p.m.

A real treat for track fans will be the duel meet on Saturday night featuring defending Big Ten champs Wisconsin and Francis Cretzmeyer's strong Iowa track squad. (See story below.)

McCuskey's wrestlers will close out the activity on Monday as they entertain Minnesota starting at 7:30 p.m.

BIG TEN cellar dwellers this year have been reluctant to stay that way. First it was Iowa's Hawkeyes snapping a three game losing streak at the expense of Wisconsin and then going on to whip Ohio State and Michigan State. But, the Hawkeyes must now contend with the other two "cousins" of the league, Northwestern and Purdue.

The Wildcats, coached by Bill Rohr, took three straight lumps, before they took it out on Purdue, 96-82, threw a scare into Ohio State before losing 72-70, and last Saturday ripped previously undefeated (in the conference) Indiana, 100-87.

Purdue's Boiler-makers waited a bit longer to get started, but last Saturday shot at a near 60 per cent clip while losing to Ohio State. Monday night, they gained their first conference win of the year by pounding Michigan State, 103-81.

But first things first, the Wildcats. Top scorer for the 'Cats has been 6-3 Junior Rick Lopossa. A lean forward, Lopossa hits from all over the floor on jumpers and set shots. He is also a fine drive-in man. Quick 6-footer Richie Falk, who scored 35 points in the win over Indiana, has been the floor leader in the Northwestern attack. Big men for the Wildcats are 6-5 Phil Keeley, 6-9 Bill Woislaw, 6-5 Bill Miller, and 6-8 Jim Pitts.

Captain Bill Gibbs, 6-2 guard was hampered by injuries, but has been a big help of late. Marty Riessen, a 6-1 junior, has been filling in at a guard spot for Gibbs.

Hawk Cindermen Prepare To Open Indoor Season

It's called the track team — and Coach Francis Cretzmeyer of Iowa wishes it were completely just that — without those four pesky field events on the competition program.

For he has the runners and the hurdlers for a strong Hawkeye team to open the six-meet indoor schedule here Saturday against Big Ten defending indoor champion Wisconsin.

But it is a sadly different story in three of the four field events, where there not only is a lack of scoring talent but in one event, the pole vault, an absolute absence of candidates.

"We have at least one good athlete in most of the track events — and in some we go deeper than that — but in general a lack of depth will hinder us in dual meets. Our runners from the 300-yard dash up through the two mile will score well and our hurdlers are adequate," Coach Cretzmeyer said.

Iowa has a dozen major lettermen and three winners of the minor letter and there is a chance that two more "I" men may join the squad later. Included are two former Big Ten champions who hold three Iowa indoor records and four others who have scored in conference title meets.

Runner of greatest reputation is Bill Frazier, Princeton junior, who ranks No. 8 in the world in the 880-yard run with an outdoor time of 1:48.1. Frazier last year won the Big Ten indoor 60, tied the outdoor record in winning the 880 and has run :46.6 for the quarter mile on the outdoor champion mile relay team which returns intact.

The corps of middle distance runners, which actually is the core of the team, includes former Big Ten champion at 1,600 yards Gary Fischer, Dubuque, who holds Iowa's indoor 880 record of 1:54.9 and who can run the mile around 4:15.

Capt. Roger Kerr, Wapello, has placed second in the Big Ten outdoor 660 and fourth in the indoor 440. He may concentrate upon the 600 indoors where his best practice time is under 1:12. Gary Hollingsworth, South English junior, has placed in the Big Ten 300 (:31.8) and 440 and Gary Richards, Corning, is a fast quarter miler who led off the league outdoor champion mile relay team.

From this, group and sophomore Scott Rucker of Bettendorf, Iowa can offer a mile relay team which will shoot for the U.S. indoor record of 3:14.4 and the Big Ten mark of 3:16.3. Hawkeyes won the outdoor race at the Sugar Bowl meet Dec. 31 in 3:13.8.

Able to run the half mile under 1:55 and the mile under 4:17, Ralph Trimble, Cedar Rapids senior, will add points, as will two miler Larry Kramer, Belmont, runner-up for the conference cross country title.

Don Gardner, River Rouge, Mich., senior, is a hurdler who has placed in the conference lows (:07.9) and lettermen John Thomas and Bob Kreamer, both of Des Moines, are 60-yard dashmen, along with quarter miler Richards. None has bettered :06.4, however.

Only "I" men among the leapers are Dick Leazer, Fairfield, who made 23-4 in the broad jump outdoors; and Jim Brye, Waverly, 6-foot high jumper who also runs the hurdles. John Kolb, Holstein, is a minor letterman who has 23-2 1/4 in the outdoor broad jump and Bob Nielsen, Clinton, won a minor award as a 6-foot high jumper. Another minor letter broad jumper is Jim Piper, Ames junior. Coach Cretzmeyer believes he will get help from several sophomores, including Rucker, who can go at 440, 600 and 880; John Pletcher, Clarion, hurdler and high jumper; Charles Smith, Chicago, Ill., 60 and 300; John Price, Milbank, S.D., the only shot-putter and George Clarke, Elmwood, Ill., two miler.

Lopat Hopes Pitchers Will Boost KC Athletics

By ED LOPAT
Kansas City Athletics

HILLSDALE, N.J. — Our biggest handicap last year was the fact that half the club was comprised of rookies, with seven of them on the pitching staff alone.

Add to this the fact that our right-handed hitting attack was nothing to speak of, plus the great number of injuries to our key players, and it is not difficult to understand why we finished as low as we did last year.

But for the unusual number of injuries, I believe we could have won six to eight more games. We were rarely able to field our best unit. The most damaging loss was the injury that kept Dick Howser, our fine shortstop, out for the entire second half of the season.

We feel that with a complete season under their belts, the rookies should make a better showing in 1963. At the start of last season, we had only one pitcher of major league status. That was Jerry Walker.

When the season ended we had six pitchers who, through trial, error and experience absorbed some knowledge and savvy, and most of all the mental reaction that they could pitch in the big leagues. This confidence, plus their natural ability, is bound to enable them to gain more and more momentum this season.

Unless I am badly mistaken, we now have seven young pitchers to start with and three spots open. The seven are Ed Rakow, who had a 14-16 record in his first year as a starter; Dave Wickersham, 10-3 despite being out half a season because of an injury; Diego Segui, 8-5; Dan Pfister, Walker, Orlando Pena and Ted Bowsfield.

The infield is the backbone of the club, and I can truthfully say it doesn't have to take a back seat to any infield in the majors, offensively or defensively. I look for Howser to repeat his fine 1961 season. He is an exciting player who can do a lot of things.

Ed Charles at third has to do as well as he did last year. And in Norm Seibern and Jerry Lumpe, we have the best first and second basemen in the league. Wayne Causey is our utility man at present.

ED LOPAT
Counting on Pitchers

The outfield could be a mad scramble. Gino Cimoli in right has to be relieved from time to time but still has good all-around ability. Bobby Del Greco and Joe Tartabull are our centerfielders. Tartabull could become an outstanding player although he is short on power.

Manny Jimenez batted .350 for two thirds of last season and while I don't expect him to maintain such a gait, he is a good hitter. George Alusik should be better this season.

We have three new outfielders in John Wojick, who is young and strong and could shove somebody out of a job; Ben Harrelson, a 20-year-old who broke the Eastern League record with 38 home runs and 137 runs batted in at Binghamton; and Bill Kern, who hit .315 at Portland last year. He hit 27 home runs and had 97 RBI.

If these fellows make the club, they will strengthen our bench and add much needed speed.

Haywood Sullivan and Joe Azcue will do most of the catching.

By The Associated Press
The unbeaten Cincinnati Bearcats are getting their second win in their bid for a third straight national college basketball championship.

Named No. 1 in The Associated Press poll for the 10th straight week Tuesday, Coach Ed Juckers defensive specialists shattered any idea that they might be growing stale by trouncing Drake 71-60.

The victory Monday night over a team that had carried the champs into overtime five days earlier was the 18th in a row for the Bearcats this season and the 38th straight without defeat over a 2-year span. Cincinnati received 42 of the 44 first place votes from a special panel of sports writers and broadcasters and amassed 430 points on the basis of ten for a first place vote, nine for second, etc.

Loyola continued to hold off Duke with 378 points compared with 303 for the Blue Devils from Durham, N. C. while Illinois, Arizona State and Georgia Tech clung to their 4-5-6 positions, leaving the top six teams stationary.

Stanford dropped from seventh to tenth after losing to Washington 49-48, yielding its place to Colorado, which climbed a notch, Mississippi State and Wichita also moved up to No. 8 and No. 9, respectively.

By United Press International
NEW YORK — Cincinnati's streaking Bearcats, unbeaten in 36 straight games, were the unanimous choice as the nation's No. 1 major college basketball team for the seventh straight week Monday in the United Press International board of coaches ratings.

Cincinnati added victories over Drake and St. Louis last week to run its season record to 17-0. Loyola of Chicago, keeping pace with the Bearcats but seemingly unable to supplant them in the top spot, also scored two wins last week for a 20-0 record. It earned the Ramblers the No. 2 spot for the seventh consecutive week.

Duke (15-2), the Atlantic Coast conference leader, held onto third place; Illinois (12-2), which tops the Big Ten conference, remained fourth; Arizona State U. (16-2), No. 1 in the Western conference, again was fifth, and Georgia Tech (16-1), tops in the Southeastern conference, held onto sixth.

In the only changes of the week among the top 10, Colorado (12-3) and Stanford (12-4) swapped places with the Buffaloes taking over seventh place; Mississippi State (14-4), a half-game behind Georgia Tech in the S.E.C. race, advanced from 11th to ninth, and Oregon State (12-4) slipped from ninth to 10th.

LARRY ORR

Larry Orr is a sophomore from Burlington, Iowa and is manager of the Medical Book Department at Iowa Book and Supply Co. At the moment Larry is debating between a pre-med or an English major. Larry came to Iowa Book during the book rush last September. In the photograph above Larry is proving that he knows where every book is in his department and will do everything he can to find the book you need or want.

The Medical Book Department has grown to the extent that now all recommended textbooks for the School of Medicine are kept in stock at Iowa Book. There is also a large variety of supplementary books for advanced students and practicing physicians.

Larry points out that one of the most valuable services of Iowa Book and Supply's complete book service is the Book Reservation and Ordering Service. It is impossible to tell with exactness how many students will sign up for a particular course and sometimes required texts are sold out early. By merely signing a book reservation card you can be assured of receiving ANY book that you need. When your book arrives Iowa Book will send you a postcard informing you of its arrival.

"We can order any book in print," says Larry. "Our reservation and ordering service is the best way that a student can be assured of getting the book he needs — and get it quickly."

No matter whether you are looking for a text book or a good novel, Iowa Book and Supply is sure to have the widest possible selection in its 4,200 square feet of book space.

Stop in and meet Larry Orr in our Book Department. Larry is one of over 450 students who have been employed by the Iowa Book and Supply Company during the past 12 years.

N.Y. Paper Negotiations Yield Nothing

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner Tuesday resumed separate negotiations with publishers and striking printers in an effort to settle the 60-day-old New York newspaper strike.

He met in his office at City Hall with Walter Thayer, spokesman for the Publishers' Association of New York City, and federal and city mediators.

Wagner had called a joint negotiating session earlier Tuesday between the publishers and printers, but the meeting failed to materialize. There was no explanation why it did not take place.

The mayor, who intervened in the strike 11 days ago vowing to keep the negotiators going until the nine affected newspapers resume full operations, said the two sides would discuss "collateral issues that need clarification."

Wagner said that he would not be present, but would be available. The mayor met separately with the two sides for three hours Monday and then adjourned the relatively short session.

City Kindergarten Roundup Leaders To Meet Thursday

Kindergarten roundup chairmen from Iowa City and Coralville and Coralville public elementary schools will meet with Buford W. Garner, Iowa City superintendent of schools at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Board of Education office, 104 S. Linn St.

Plans will be made for individual kindergarten roundups which are held each spring at the elementary schools. The roundups are to inform parents about kindergarten procedures and to give the school system an estimate of the number of kindergartners expected at each school. Elementary school principals also have been invited to the meeting.

Mrs. Charles F. Kent is city-wide roundup chairman for the Iowa City-Coralville Parent-Teacher Association Council. Mrs. Marguerite Clatterbaugh is the Iowa City Board of Education kindergarten roundup adviser.

Roundup chairmen from the individual schools are: Mrs. Orville Kinsinger, Henry Sabin; Mrs. Carl Cochenour, Herbert Hoover; Mrs. John Haydon and Mrs. Frans Schnorak-v-d-Vaag, Horace Mann; Mrs. Jack Smiley and Mrs. Charles Marberry, Lincoln;

Mrs. H. W. Piro and Mrs. Davis Hartwig, Longfellow; Mrs. Eldon Christensen and Mrs. L. A. Calkins, Mark Twain; Mrs. Kenneth Kabela, Robert Lucas; Mrs. Charles Read, Roosevelt and Mrs. Russell Slade, Coralville.

Free tickets for University students and $1.50 tickets for faculty and staff may be obtained at the East Lobby Desk of the Union beginning Friday, Feb. 8, from 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Distribution will continue until Feb. 13. The general public may obtain any remaining tickets for $1.50 each starting at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 12.

Two Opera Stars Here Next Week

A joint recital featuring soprano Irene Jordan and tenor Richard Lewis will be presented next Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Union.

Lewis, who is the leading tenor of the Royal Opera House in England, has appeared with the San Francisco Opera Company, and the New York Philharmonic. Composer Igor Stravinsky personally chose him to give the first performance of the Stravinsky "Canticum Sacrum" at the Venice Festival.

Irene Jordan has appeared with New York's Metropolitan and City Center Opera Companies, London's Royal Opera, and the Chicago Lyric Theater. She has sung the leading roles in "Judas Macabaeus," "Tales of Hoffmann," and "Macbeth."

Free tickets for University students and $1.50 tickets for faculty and staff may be obtained at the East Lobby Desk of the Union beginning Friday, Feb. 8, from 9 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Distribution will continue until Feb. 13. The general public may obtain any remaining tickets for $1.50 each starting at 9 a.m. Tuesday, Feb. 12.

16 Firms Schedule Interviews Here

The Business and Industrial Placement Office has announced that companies will send representatives to the campus beginning Feb. 11 to interview prospective employees.

During the first week 16 companies are scheduled: Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing, St. Paul, Minn.; Eastman Kodak, Rochester, N. Y.; General Electric Company, New York City; Armstrong Cork, Lancaster, Penn.; Baxter Laboratories, Morton Grove, Ill.; Consumers Power, Jackson, Mich.; Texaco, Minneapolis Division; Connecticut General, Hartford, Conn.; Equitable Life of New York; Lybrand Ross of Chicago; Ford Motor Company of Detroit; Alcoa, Pittsburgh, Penn.

Openings in the companies are in the areas of accounting, sales, advertising, data processing, credit and collection, editorial work, mathematics, production, finance, personnel, purchasing and technical writing. Most of these positions can be filled by men and women who are inexperienced or who have had some experience, and who have a B.A. or a graduate degree in any major.

Many students will make job decisions on the basis of these interviews, according to the Placement Office. For others, however, whose interests are special, help can be given on an individual basis, the office reports. Scheduling campus interviews is only one activity of the placement office. Confidential papers can be sent out to prospective employers and career information can be obtained.

Europe's Economic Losses in Millions

LONDON (UPI) — Communist bloc nations Tuesday reported "serious" economic troubles as the result of the Siberian cold wave which has gripped Europe for the past six weeks. Critical shortages of fuel, power and water also plagued Western Europe.

An unofficial count attributed more than 1,500 deaths since Dec. 23 to the worst winter of the century. Damages to crops, livestock and wildlife were estimated in the millions of dollars.

Giant drifts blocked railway lines and roads and ice closed rivers and canals, crippling shipments of badly-needed fuel and other supplies.

One third of usually sunny Portugal was blanketed with snow. Children were kept indoors at Viana Do Castelo where wolves were seen near villages, searching for food.

More snow was forecast for Spain, where drifts already hampered transportation in Madrid and other major cities. Many Madrid residents crowded into heated movie theaters to escape sub-freezing temperatures.

To Reduce Size of Legislature—

Substitute Measure for Shaff Plan Filed in Iowa House

DES MOINES (AP) — A new reapportionment plan which would reduce both House and Senate to about their present size was filed in the Iowa House Tuesday on the eve of a scheduled debate over the Shaff plan of reapportionment.

Congress Gets Measure for Mentally Ill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's unique and far-reaching proposals to offer a federal helping hand to the mentally ill and retarded went to Congress Tuesday. They drew little comment.

The first special mental health message ever sent to Capitol Hill by an American chief executive called for a sweeping program.

The President said it would return all but a small portion of the 600,000 hospitalized mentally ill to useful life, and would cut drastically into the 126,000 new cases of mental retardation each year.

He called for unspecified federal spending to help finance a broad network of community mental health centers — 24-hour operations, set for emergencies and aimed at diagnosis, prevention and treatment.

The President also offered a variety of new programs that would cost $3.35 billion the first year. They would provide more care, training and rehabilitation for the mentally ill and retarded; more pre-natal, maternity and child care aimed at reducing mental retardation, and more research centers to probe the causes.

"The time has come for a bold new approach," Kennedy said, to mobilize new medical, scientific and social tools and insights.

House Speaker John W. McCormack (D-Mass.) said the message "points the way for a compassionate people to extend a helping hand to those who must depend so much on their fellow men."

Sen. Ralph W. Yarborough (D-Tex.) said Kennedy had brought into the open "a growing national problem that has too long been clouded by superstition and survival of the fittest of witchcraft."

"This new national approach is badly needed," he added.

ids) filed the new plan as a substitute for the Shaff measure, which was passed by the 1961 legislature and was passed again by the Senate last week on its second trip through the General Assembly.

Passage of the Shaff plan by the House today would clear the way for a vote of the people on the measure. The Republican majority legislature has agreed to set a special election next December for ratification of the measure if it is approved by the House.

Opponents of the plan, however, promised a fight against adoption of the Senate-passed measure. Riley's plan was to be offered as a substitute.

Riley's proposal would set up a Senate of 25 members — one from each four counties in the state, except that Kosuth, Winnebago and Hancock counties would form one district.

The House would consist of 50 members, elected from population districts varying no more than two per cent from the average population of a district.

The plan calls for reapportionment of the House every 10 years by the Secretary of State, or by the Iowa Supreme Court if he failed to do the job.

Riley said that under his plan, the Senate would be "small enough to remain a deliberating body" and the House would be large enough "so that each member will be close to the people he represents."

Having the Secretary of State reapportion the House, he said, "would relieve the legislature of a difficult task."

Riley said that reducing the number of legislators by approximately half would cut the cost of the session to about half of the approximately $1 million it now costs to hold a session.

Rep. David Stanley (R-Muscatine) meanwhile received an opinion signed by Atty. Gen. Evan Hultman and his first assistant, Oscar Strauss, that the Shaff proposal would continue the present apportionment of the legislature until all the provisions of the Shaff plan go into effect.

The plan proposed by Sen. David

O. Shaff (R-Clinton) would set up a 58-member Senate based on population and a 99-member House with one representative from each county.

Stanley had asked if the Shaff plan would effectuate the 58-member Senate and 99-member House beginning with the legislature elected in 1966, meanwhile continuing the present apportionment of the General Assembly through the 1965 session.

Hultman and Strauss said it is a basic rule of constitutional law that all the words and language in a constitution should be construed together and its meaning and intent ascertained from the meaning of the instrument as a whole.

It was the intention of Sen. D. C. Nolan (R-Iowa City) that the Shaff plan would in effect abolish the Senate for one term because of its provisions for making the Senate portion of the amendment effective.

Hultman and Strauss, however, said that if a literal interpretation of the language used would give it an effect "in contravention of the real purpose and intent of the instrument as deduced from a consideration of all its parts, such intent must prevail over the literal meaning."

If you have trouble saying it...
Say it with a Parker.

If you're a little shy and have difficulty saying "I love you" or even "I like you very much"—say it with a Parker.

The new Parker Arrow makes a beautifully expressive gift and looks as if you paid a small fortune for it. It only costs $3.95, however, which should leave you with enough date money for an impressive presentation ceremony in romantic surroundings such as the second booth from the back in your local drugstore.

The new Parker Arrow comes in black, dark blue, light blue, light gray, and bright red, with a choice of four instantly replaceable solid 14K gold points. Gift-boxed with five free cartridges.

P. S. To girls: a Parker Arrow—besides being a very romantic gift—comes in one size (the right one), should last at least ten times longer than a scarf or a tie, and should bring in a harvest of correspondence you'll cherish the rest of your life.

SUI Faculty Council Urges Construction of Auditorium

BY DEBBIE ZIFFREN

The University Faculty Council adopted a resolution to urge the construction of a large auditorium on campus saying that "An auditorium, like a library, should be a center for the broad intellectual life of the University."

The action was taken Tuesday afternoon at the Council's monthly meeting in the House Chamber of Old Capitol. The resolution will be sent to President Virgil M. Hancher for his consideration.

Also covered on the agenda was the report that the Alumni Institute Committee is at work on its program. The committee is a liaison to the College of Liberal Arts for its summer institute program for alumni who desire to continue their education.

Serving on the committee are John McGalliard, professor of English, chairman; Harvey C. Bunke, associate professor of general business; Lane Davis, associate professor of political science; George Forell, professor of religion; Lawrence Gelfand, professor of history; Kenneth Rumage, associate professor of geography; Loren Hickerson, executive director of the Alumni Records; and Blanche Holmes, secretary of classes of the Alumni Records.

The Council also considered for further information the possibility of including several book reviews in the Alumni publication. The idea was received over to the Alumni Institute committee.

Also a letter will be referred to Provost Harvey Davis concerning those with Ph.D. degrees paying for courses at SUI. The letter was received by Faculty Council chairman, Richard Lloyd-Jones, from a faculty member who wished to be clarified on this point.

The meeting concluded with a discussion on the topic of faculty housing. The Council is considering this topic in order to see if improvements can be made to keep and attract faculty members.

SUI Writers Workshop To Offer Home-Study Program in Fiction

The first course in a new program of home-study in creative writing is being offered by the Writers Workshop in cooperation with the Britannica Schools Division of Encyclopaedia Britannica Press, Inc.

The initial course in Fiction Writing, the first home-study course in the Writers Workshop's 27-year history, was announced Tuesday by workshop director Paul Engle. A second course, Poetry Writing, is planned for next fall, and advanced courses are also under study.

R. V. Cassill, author and workshop lecturer, said the course is not intended to "guarantee success as a professional writer — no process of training can guarantee that."

However, he pointed out that it is possible to teach a great deal about the mechanics of writing and to impart an understanding of the concepts of unity, plot, characterization, tone and theme which lie behind all good story-telling.

Cassill added, "The purpose of the course is to help a student organize and effectively advance the talents for observation and expression that he has already."

The 10-lesson course was pre-

New County Home Plans Expected Ready in February

Planners of the new $795,000 Johnson county home said Tuesday that they expect that plans and specifications for the home will be ready to submit to bidders by the end of February.

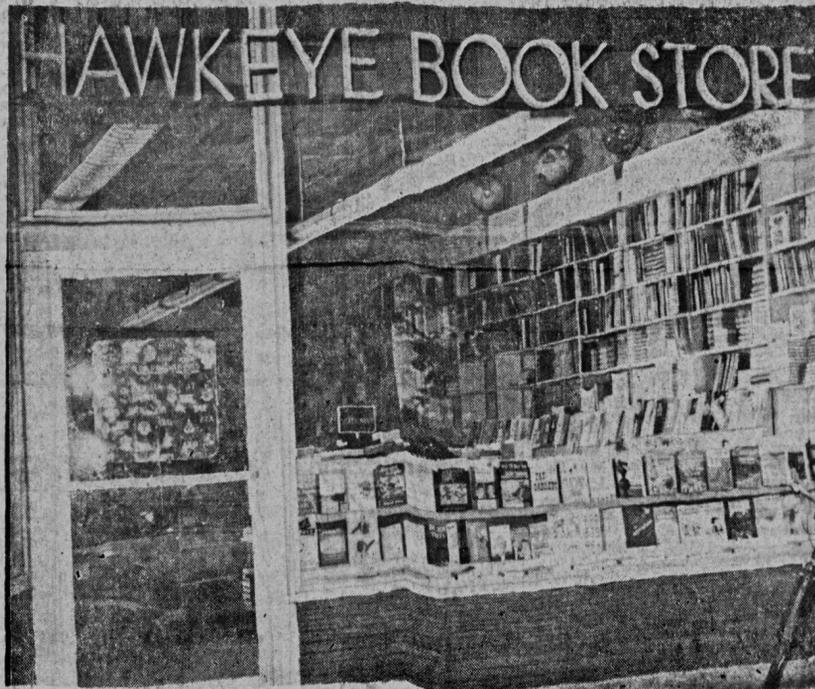

In a meeting with the county board of supervisors architect Robert Earnheart reported that architectural plans are about 75 per cent complete and electrical plans are about 50 per cent complete.

The new home which is to have facilities for retarded and mild mental health cases, and a few nursing patients, is to be a two-story T-shaped structure with a capacity of about 110.

LA DOLCE VITA

PRAGUE (AP) — Critics in Communist Czechoslovakia voted the Italian film "La Dolce Vita" the best movie of 1962, the Czech news agency CTK reports. The movie deals with decadent Roman society.
