IN THE CITY—

EVEN MORE PEOPLE were estimated to have taken advantage of George Washington's birthday sales in Iowa City this year than last. Lloyd Berger, chairman of the Iowa City Retail Committee, estimated that sales this year were up about five per cent over last year.

He said about 80 per cent of the city's merchants participated in the celebration and that it looks like it is definitely established.

Berger said, "people get a big kick out of it, and if George were around he would probably enjoy it too."

NEARLY 200 Iowa City National Guardsmen will open the local armory to the public today for the traditional "Muster Day," when recruiting is usually stressed.

The armory, at 925 S. Dubuque St., will be open from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

IN THE NATION—

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee will conduct a closed hearing March 1 regarding alleged Soviet propaganda in United Nations activities. The investigation was prompted by publication of a pamphlet containing the Soviet point of view by the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States disclosed Friday night it offered to slightly scale down its demands on the number of on-site inspections on Soviet soil for a nuclear test ban.

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Asian influenza has reached epidemic stage in 10 states and the District of Columbia, the Communicable Disease Center reported Friday. CDC spokesmen added Georgia, Minnesota and Ohio to the list which already included North Carolina, Maryland, Kansas, Illinois, New York, Massachusetts and Michigan.

IN THE WORLD—

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Brazil's raucous, rowdy pre-Lenten Carnival officially opens here today. Police braced for their annual headaches. Film stars Kirk Douglas and Rhonda Fleming will be special guests of the celebration.

LONDON — An 11th hour compromise Friday night averted a strike by Tower of London beefeaters who guard Britain's priceless Crown Jewels. The War Office agreed to boost the beefeaters' daily allowance by 17 cents a day, giving them their second increase in 113 years. They now earn 87 cents a day.

Wagner Sought As Newspaper Strike Referee

New York Mayor Under Pressure To Aid Settlement

Combined Wire Services
NEW YORK — Mayor Robert F. Wagner is under pressure to fill a role, outlined by President Kennedy, as impartial umpire in the 77-day New York newspaper blackout.

Through an aide, Wagner promised a decision within 24 hours. Meanwhile, he was in Boston Friday for a Washington's Birthday reunion with his two sons, who are away at schools in New England.

For the past month, the Democratic mayor has been trying in vain to end the printers strike.

It was Wagner's familiarity with the issues that led two nonstriking newspaper unions — the AFL-CIO New York Newspaper Guild and the Independent Newspaper Deliverers Union — to press on him the role of umpire. Presumably any settlement he might recommend, while not binding, would have the support of a large segment of the newspaper industry in New York.

Later, another nonstriking union, the paper handlers, through its president, Peter J. Ferris, joined in asking Wagner to recommend a settlement of the printers strike.

"I recognize that the mayor has been doing all he possibly can in trying to bring about an end to this situation," Ferris said. "If he sees no possible chance of a settlement through his mediation efforts, I am 100 per cent for him making a recommendation which would be submitted to both sides. If anyone is to make a recommendation it should be the mayor because he certainly is in the best position to make it."

President Kennedy told a news conference in Washington on Thursday that the blackout of New York newspapers has "passed the point of public toleration."

The chief executive, without recommending any candidate by name, proposed that New York publishers and striking printers submit their wage-hour deadlock "to independent determination of some kind."

New York publishers were quick to agree. But the striking AFL-CIO International Typographical Union held back, fearful the proposal might mean compulsory arbitration, which the printers long have opposed.

At this point, the nonstriking newspaper unions spoke up.

Wagner stepped into the newspaper deadlock Jan. 26 and kept peace talks going until Feb. 11, when they bogged down. There have been no negotiations since between printers and publishers.

The ITU printers are seeking a reduction in their 36½-hour work week to 35 hours, with an $18-a-week wage increase spread over two years. The publishers claim fringe benefits would bring the cost of the new two-year contract to $37 per week, per man. The newspapers offered a two-year, $10-a-week package. Printers were averaging $145 a week in wages.

In Miami Beach, Fla., AFL-CIO President George Meany said management must share the blame with labor in the New York newspaper blackout.

Asked about President Kennedy's news conference comments, Meany said he had not been completely filled in on them. But he said five of the New York newspapers had closed down when the other four were struck by the ITU.

Meany said the printers had agreed to continue working on the five papers at existing wage rates and without claim to any retroactive application of future contract terms.

Iowan Races 50 Fast Miles

FORT DODGE (AP) — The 50-mile hike fad has caused a speed record to be set in Iowa.

John Mulholland, 22, of Fort Dodge ticked off slightly more than 50 miles Thursday at speeds ranging from a walk to a dead run. His time: five hours and 53 minutes.

Mulholland has a head start in the physical fitness field, however. Before his graduation from Loras College last June, he was twice NCAA small college cross country champion. He still works out daily.

Thursday's trip started with Mulholland's daily routine. Then he decided to go on for 50 miles and took off down Highway 20 for Webster City. He added several side trips to make the 50 mile total, then got a ride back to Fort Dodge.

Asked how he felt the day after the jaunt, Mulholland said, "I got out of bed and fell back in."

School-Aid Bill Filed in Senate

DES MOINES (AP) — A bill guaranteeing Iowa school districts $325 a year to educate each student was filed in the Senate Friday. The bill provides for the establishment of a minimum foundation program for aid to public schools. It is sponsored by Senators Robert Rigler (R-New Hampton) and Edward A. Wearin (R-Red Oak).

"The bill would insure the tuitions for every child in the state, and broadens the tax base for the support of public education," the sponsors said.

Under the bill, the state would provide $80 yearly for each student. Local districts would have a six-mill tax on the market value of all property in the district. If funds from these two sources did not total $325 per pupil, the state would provide the difference.

The fair market value of property in each district would be determined by the State Tax Commission. The State Department of Public Instruction would then determine whether districts needed additional funds over the $80 grant per pupil to meet the $325 minimum.

Districts eligible for state funds would include those which have 12 grades or which pay at least $325 a year for each pupil attending high school in other districts.

The bill provides that districts which spend more than $325 per pupil from taxes and the $80 grant would be allowed to spend the additional money in the schools.

The sponsors did not indicate a revenue source for the state's share of the expenditure.

In other action in the Legislature Friday:

Sen. Earl Elijah (R-Clarence) said he would sponsor a bill that would limit places where school buses could stop on roads.

The Senate Schools Committee Friday turned down the proposal as a committee-sponsored bill. Elijah said he would undertake its sponsorship.

The bill would allow school buses to stop on primary highways only if there was 1,000 feet clear vision in front of and in back of the bus. On secondary roads, 700 feet clear vision would be required.

A bill, which would base the corporation income tax in Iowa on the percentage of sales, employees and property rather than on the amount of sales, was filed in the Senate.

The bill, introduced by Sen. Eugene Hill (D-Newton) would increase the amount of income tax paid by corporations who have most of their property and employees in Iowa but make most of their sales out side of the state.

Our Aim: Erase Castro, Communism from Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Richard B. Russell (D-Ga.) said Friday Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara "made it very clear that we are pursuing a policy that will result in the elimination of Castroism and Communism from Cuba."

Russell made this statement after the Senate Armed Services Committee, of which he is chairman, met behind closed doors with the defense chief.

In reply to questions, Russell said McNamara outlined methods for carrying out this country's Cuba policy, but he declined to divulge details on the ground that these are classified matters.

McNamara also assured the committee, Russell said, that U.S. planes will shoot down any Cuban-based MIGs that attack American ships or installations.

"There is no doubt that in the future the American planes will retaliate," Russell said, adding this would be so even if the Cuban planes attacked in error. Asked how, he said:

"The only way I know how to retaliate would be by shooting it down."

The question of retaliation came up when Russell said the Cuban MIG attack on a storm-disabled American shrimp boat had been discussed with McNamara.

Moscow said Friday that any American attack on Cuba would trigger World War III.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk, commenting on the speech by Soviet Defense Minister Rodion Y. Malinovsky, told newsmen it was "what you would expect on the 45th anniversary of the Soviet Armed Forces."

Malinovsky, speaking before a Moscow audience that included Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev, said:

"We would like to warn the aggressive circles of the United States that an attack on the Cuban republic would mean a third world war." He added that "the Soviet Union will be the first ranks of those who

Bulgarian Crisis Draws Mixed Views

African Students Interviewed Here Explain Reactions

By YOHANNES KIFLE

SUI's African students expressed mixed feelings towards the recent treatment given to African students in Sofia, Bulgaria, according to interviews conducted on campus this week.

Abdelatif Maas, Morocco, said, "I am surprised that the Communists made such an error. They are usually more subtle. We were led to believe that the Communists were really good to Africans, even though we knew that this was only a cover for their indoctrination."

Asked why African students go behind the Iron Curtain, Maas said, "Primarily they go for an education and not because they are Communists. There are more than 1,000 Algerian students behind the Iron Curtain and fewer than 100 in the United States.

He added, "I heard some of the expelled students have been offered educational facilities in the United States. I doubt if their lot would be better here."

"We really cannot make value judgments on the conflict since we have only one side of the story," said Mogus Molla, G. Ethiopia. "However, assuming that the press reports are true, the consequences of the Bulgarian incidents only will help to worsen the relationship that exists between the African and Communist states."

Olu Aderinkun, G. Nigeria, said, "The Bulgarians are justified in kicking them out. The students must have known the political situation of the country before they went there. They accepted the invitations to learn under the existing circumstances and did not go there to change the political situation. They had no business poking their noses in the affairs of the country. Anyway, this just goes to prove that Communism does not suit the African way of life."

South Rhodesian Vernon Francis, El. said, "The African students go there because of the free education offered them. The Communists advertise free education in the newspapers and students just accept them. But now, I guess the students must have gotten fed up with the propaganda forced on them."

"I'm glad that the African nations are taking their students out of Bulgaria. It's about time that the Communists accord us some respect," said Mohamed Khawasah, G. Egypt.

Committee To Study Expulsion Measure Aimed at Colleges

Combined Wire Services
BALTIMORE, Md. — Negroes attended a Baltimore movie theatre — previously restricted to white persons — for the first time Friday.

Many of about 15 Negroes who saw the afternoon's first show at the Northwood Theater were all-Negro Morgan State College students who had gone to jail in the belief they had a right to patronize the theater.

The theater and the college directly across the street are located in an all-white residential neighborhood.

One of the students was Clarence Logan of Baltimore, Maryland chairman of the Civic Interest Group. This integrationist organization had been demonstrating sporadically at the theater for eight years in an attempt to break the racial barrier.

The Northwood Theater Corp. announced Thursday through Mayor Philip H. Goodman it would integrate if demonstrations stopped immediately. CIG immediately agreed to halt them.

More than 400 white and Negro college students had been arrested and jailed during a stepped-up "stand-in" campaign at the theater during the past six days. They were released from jail after the integration announcement was made.

Police made the arrests, on trespassing or disorderly conduct charges, when students refused to leave the ticket line after Maryland's trespass law was read to them. The law forbids anyone from entering another's property without permission.

In the legislature, State Sen. Robert Dean introduced a bill to prevent similar demonstrations.

His measure, which was sent to a committee for further study, called for the expulsion of any student from a state-supported school convicted of trespass violations. The bill called for the state to withhold funds from any school refusing to expell such students.

The demonstrations by students from Morgan and Goucher Colleges and Johns Hopkins University climaxed during the past week. Night after night, students would demonstrate in front of the theater and promptly be swished off to jail.

By Wednesday night more than 350 of them were held in lieu of bail set as high as $600. When civic groups offered to post bail, the students refused.</

A Strong Hand Is Clearly Needed

CITY ATTORNEY William F. Sueppel, 33, was appointed Wednesday by Governor Hughes to succeed Carl H. Pesch as State Commissioner of Public Safety. The nomination has been sent to the Senate for confirmation.

Sueppel, a Democrat, is a native of Iowa City and has been practicing law here since 1958.

Sueppel will be heading the State Safety Department, one of the largest agencies in Iowa government. Under his direction will be the Iowa Highway Patrol and such divisions as motor vehicle and drivers license regulations, criminal investigation, police communications, fire marshal and safety education. The department includes 750 employees.

Hughes' choice seems wise because Sueppel has demonstrated his competency on a number of occasions. The consensus of City Council members with whom Sueppel has worked is that he has served the city conscientiously as an efficient, knowledgeable and capable attorney. Privately, several council members say they would recommend him for any responsibility.

Most Iowans have their enthusiasm for improvement in highway safety fairly well under control. In fact, the passive attitude of most of our citizens toward the slaughter on our highways is disgusting. In the past, safety commissioners have not been able to change this much.

But if the legislature should pass a bill providing the revocation of the driver license of a motorist who refuses to take a chemical test for intoxication, the department of public safety will have something to strike with.

With effective measures to curb intoxication on the highways as well as the use of the unmarked patrol car, we expect vigorous enforcement of the laws that govern travel on our state's highways. And we mean that this should include everything from speeding trucks to little old ladies who can't see well enough to get their drivers licenses renewed — but always seem to.

Clearly, a strong hand is needed in enforcement for effective highway safety. We look to William F. Sueppel for that strong hand.

A Good Opportunity: At-Large Representatives

APPLICATION BLANKS for student body president and vice president and other positions on the Student Senate to be filled at All-Campus Elections March 27 may be picked up beginning Monday at the New Information Desk of the Union.

This year for the first time four at-large representatives will be selected during the election. At-large positions are open to any SUI student in good academic standing and will be voted upon by all SUIIowans.

A resolution calling for these at-large representatives was recently passed by the Senate and the Committee on Student Life. Previous to this, all Senate members were elected by a particular constituency and owed allegiance to this constituency. One of the primary purposes of the at-large members is to provide an opportunity for students to represent the student body as a whole and not be bound by a particular group, such as a dormitory or fraternity.

The at-large representatives may help break up the traditional Greek-Independent splits which have plagued the Senate in the past. The newly created positions should be used to represent the general good of all SUI students and not to further splits.

The number of students applying for these positions may be proof of the general interest in the Student Senate as a representative body. A good turnout of applications will show that students do exist who are interested in promoting student government as a whole and not particular interests.

Students moving from one electorate to another could not apply under the old system but now can under the new. Also, each electorate is limited to a small number of representatives. This procedure automatically may leave out qualified people. Some of these could be regained through at-large membership.

The new at-large positions on the Senate are excellent opportunities for four SUI students to show what can be done on the Student Senate.

On Other Campuses

The University of Illinois last week issued an order requiring all landlords renting unapproved housing through the University Housing Division to sign a non-discrimination pledge.

According to The Daily Illini, Provost Lyle Lanier said the University Housing Division would remove all listings of owners who did not sign the non-discrimination pledge by the end of last week (March 15).

Unapproved housing renters in the Urbana-Champaign area send their listing to the University of Illinois which then acts as the go-between for students seeking unapproved housing.

Before last week's announcement, renters returned University non-discrimination forms on a strictly optional basis. Only about 10 per cent had returned the pledges this year, reported the Daily Illini.

Three deans at the University of Colorado decided last week that "students at the University of Colorado do not have the privilege to write scurrilous and insulting letters to other students, to teachers or to members of the Board of Regents."

The three deans, sitting on a special appeals board, were referring to a letter written by Colorado junior Terry Marshall. Marshall wrote to Colorado Board of Regent member, Dale Atkins, saying he would "continue to subvert his (Atkins') dirty Americanism."

The letter was apparently intended solely for the regent, but it quickly turned up in the state press. As soon as the story became public, the administration placed the student on probation. The board made the statement following an appeal of the probation by Marshall.

The board decided it had grounds to reprimand Marshall since his "letter was intemperate and insulting," and not in keeping with the University policy which states that "students shall conduct themselves in a manner which shall reflect credit upon the University."

Socially speaking, the ideal conversationalist is now the convivial somebody who says one thing but actually means something quite different. He expects each devoted listener to weigh every inflection, every ambiguous word, every raising of an eyebrow, and in some less-subtle cases, every sly wink and thereby catch what he really means when he's discussing a seemingly innocuous topic.

This social phenomenon has unfortunately permeated our society and is now found in every phase of life from U.S. diplomatic efforts to — Heaven forbid — the SUI classroom.

However, realizing the situation exists here, and acknowledging that many of our more subtle profs enjoy excursions into double-take statements which effectively obscure any intended meaning, a translation of common professorial offerings are listed below, courtesy of The Daily Universe, student paper at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah.

Prof's statement: The textbook for this course will be one you will want to keep all your life.

Translation: The book costs $15.95 and the book stores won't be buying it back next semester.

Statement: My philosophy of teaching embodies the principles of certain academic disciplines.

Translation: I'm a bear!

Statement: I appreciate your remarks. Unfortunately, we don't have the time to pursue that line of thought.

Translation: Quit interrupting my lecture!

Statement: Of course you all know that the honor system is in effect in this classroom.

Translation: You'll notice I've passed out alternate test and my assistants and I will monitor the classroom.

Statement: I know you would enjoy delving more deeply into this interesting subject.

Translation: You'll be expected to hand in at least two research papers this term.

Statement: The final grades will be determined on a rigid curve.

Translation: I plan to give one "A" in this class.

Statement: It might be well for me to cite one or two concrete examples of this principle.

Translation: Prepare to hear the history of my life.

Statement: The final exam will be nothing more than a brief review.

Translation: Memorize the textbook.

Letters to the Editor—

Political Labels—On Ignoring The Movement of Reality

To the Editor:
 I would like to make a reply to the article written in the Political Spectrum column of Feb. 19 by Jim Mellen. This letter is a response to that article and to other matters on the spectrum of political action.

In the article, Mr. Mellen mentioned the "role of the radical student." In doing so it seems to me that he has fallen into one of the semantic pitfalls which hinder much of the student's political thinking in the United States today.

This pitfall is the polarization of positions. I see nothing wrong with defining on the spectrum of political thought ones' position and then taking a stand in support of that position. However, as I see it, these definitions or labels have become artificial. Not only do I see them as artificial, but they are quite often, in my opinion, a hindrance to political action.

THIS HINDRANCE, as I see it, lies in the fact that quite often political action is stifled because a person has defined himself as a "conservative Democrat" or a "right-wing" Republican, etc. Because of this definition, it would be unthinkable and therefore impossible to move beyond this adamant and inflexible position.

It would seem to me that rather than define a position and blindly support it, despite the rapid change of reality, we should take this movement of reality into account. I.e., we should formulate opinions because they would be best suited or most adapted to our changing political, social, and economic milieu. If this were done our decisions would be made because of the changing nature of reality, not because of the position we have defined for ourselves.

The Student Association of Racial Equality (SARE) is an organization that has attempted not to define any adamant position for itself. This is because SARE is made up of students with various political beliefs, but these beliefs do not pre-determine any specific channels or modes of action.

The members of SARE have one basic goal and that is to promote and further racial and religious equality. The techniques employed in accomplishing this basic goal are many. They have ranged from the flamboyant and controversial technique of picketing to the more subtle channels of racial education.

EACH MODE of action is initiated because the members of SARE feel that it will be most effective at the present time. And not because we feel that picketing is a "good" technique or because racial education is the "best" method. These are things that can not, in my opinion, be decided far in advance with a blanket statement of policy.

At the present time, SARE is involved in a drive to raise food, money and clothing for the Negro "citizens" of Mississippi. These people need our support if they are to win their struggle for first class citizenship. I used the phrase "their struggle," but I shuddered a little in doing so. For it is our problem, i.e., the problem of first-class citizens as much as it is theirs. Until they are equal, we can never be certain of our position; not only can we not be certain of our position in this democratic society, but we can not — or at least should not — feel proud or honest about calling our society a democratic one.

THIS IS WHY SARE, Young Republicans, Young Democrats, the Student Senate, and other campus organizations are organizing this drive. We hope to place tags on each Iowa City door. These tags will tell the whys, whens and wherefores of our drive and will also ask that we be contacted by phone so that we may pick up the donations.

These donations will be appreciated no matter how small; fifty thousand southern Negroes are being starved because they dared to ask that the last vestiges of their shackles be removed — the demand is great and so the responses should be even greater.

NOW IOWA CITY has its own guardian of democracy. The guardian is politically heterogeneous, and therefore stronger. It would seem that the lady in the harbor has crossed the Appalachians and sits now as an ex officio member of our virgin Committee on Human Rights. The lady has a voice too; it stands, torch in hand, personified in professor William Boyd. Good! The committee has now stretched itself, its arms are stretched itself, its arms are strong, its ears are many. Good!

Yours truly,
 Seymour Gray, A2
 President, SARE

The Thin Line Between Fans And Fantasies

To the Editor:
 As I was reading Mr. Pemble's column in the Wednesday Daily Iowan, dealing with Coach McCracken, I couldn't help but be reminded of an incident that occurred long ago in the distant past — earlier this winter, to be more exact.

To my recollection, in a holiday tournament, a coach of a team that is known to us all was ejected from a game in which his team was playing.

The point I'm trying to make, and with no reflection on the team or coach involved, is that even a rabid (i.e., foaming at the mouth or typewriter, as the case may be) fan such as Mr. Pemble must realize that the word Iowa is not always synonymous with whiteness and purity, and that the word opponent does not always mean the embodiment of evil and wrongdoing.

There are shades in between, and one who doesn't realize this should go back to punching his typewriter in a high school classroom.

Army Man Tells of Viet Nam Experiences

By DOUG CARLSON
Managing Editor
Army ROTC Advanced Corps members got first hand information Thursday night as Captain Harry Hall, a former member of the Army instructor group at SUI, spoke on his experiences in Viet Nam during his tour of duty there.

Hall returned recently from a year of training the Vietnamese citizens in basic military subjects including simple squad tactics, hand-to-hand combat, weapons familiarization, and fundamentals of shooting.

He said U.S. military advisers are trying to instill confidence in the Vietnamese so that they can effectively counter the raiding tactics of the Viet Cong, the Communist-backed guerrillas who operate out of the jungles and mountains.

Hall was a member of the Military Advisory and Assistance Group (MAAG) while in Viet Nam. He said that there are approximately 3,400 Army personnel there in addition to the 12,000 U.S. citizens who are directly or indirectly involved with MAAG.

(Before beginning his speech Hall made it clear that his comments were his own and not necessarily those of the Army's.)

The reasons for the United States sending military aid to Viet Nam are two-fold, Hall said. First is that it is trying to stop the Viet Cong from being supplied by the people living in the area of their operations. The guerrillas have no established lines of supply and must rely on what they can steal or otherwise acquire from the citizenry.

The second reason, he said, is to try to win the people back to the side of the pro-Western Government in Saigon, the capital of the Southeast Asian nation. During the colonialization period by France, the Vietnamese developed deep distrust of the Government, mainly because of the conditions which the French imposed upon them, Hall said. Very little education was provided for the populace; most of the children received only five years of schooling while the rest were given only a few more years, he explained.

He made it clear that the populace, on the whole, is intelligent and capable of running its country without outside help, but for the time being, advisers are needed to teach the basics which the people will later be able to apply under their own leadership.

Hall described in detail the policy of building encampments for farmers living in the open countryside. He said Viet Nam Ranger units scour the country to gather up all the people living in the area. These people are then relocated in a central area and an enclosure consisting of bamboo fence, cactus fields, and moats is constructed around the settlement.

The primary purpose of the enclosure, which seals off the settlement from the outside from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 a.m., is not to keep the Viet Cong out but to keep the Vietnamese in, Hall said.

At this stage the citizens may not be loyal to the Viet Nam Government and the problem of keeping supplies from the Viet Cong is still acute, Hall said.

If the Vietnamese are kept under close watch, the Communist activities are noticeably curtailed, he said.

Hall said that the people were quickly won over by the kind treatment they received from the MAAG officers. Medical treatment was especially appreciated, he said. Segregating the people from the Viet Cong and resettling them is what brings them to the Government's side of the conflict, he added.

all those trained by the MAAG personnel, Hall said it was estimated that between 3 and 6 per cent of the trainees were hard-core Communists who could not be detected with existing intelligence information.

Hall was asked to clarify just what happened in the helicopter incident in which eight of the U.S. aircraft were shot down and three U.S. military men were killed.

He said that an "intelligence leak" was the only explanation for the attack. The communist leaders must have gathered every Viet Cong within 60 or 70 miles and all their best weapons, according to Hall.

He said that intelligence was always too slow and that it constituted the biggest problem.

Money is sometimes paid to the citizenry for information, he said, and this occasionally leads to erroneous reports of Viet Cong activities.

Hall said he will be happy to speak before groups interested in the Viet Nam situation up until the end of next week, when he leaves for a new assignment.

Buckeyes Seek Home Win No. 47 Against Hawkeyes

By HARRIETT HINDMAN
Assistant Sports Editor

Iowa's cagers, fighting to finish among the top three in the Big Ten race, meet Ohio State at St. John's Arena in Columbus tonight. Game time is 8:30 p.m.

The Buckeyes, now tied with Illinois for the league lead with a 7-2 mark, have won six straight games since bowing to Iowa, 81-74, January 19 at the Field House, and have a string of 46 home wins.

"Ohio State will certainly be ready for us as they want to avenge their only three losses during the season. They are also fighting for the championship which will make them tougher," observed Hawkeye Coach Sharm Scheuerman.

Before the Hawks left for Columbus, Scheuerman also announced, "There is a possibility that Andy Hankins may start at forward in place of Fred Riddle, but we have regarded both Andy and Fred as starters all year."

Hankins, 6-1 junior, started several early-season games before relinquishing his starting spot to Riddle, 6-3 sophomore from Collinsville, Ill. Hankins has come off the bench to aid Iowa in its recent close wins, and is among the team's top scorers.

Scheuerman said that he did not feel the Hawks' 72-71 loss to Indiana Monday night had affected the team's spirit and determination.

"We played well enough against Indiana to win certain ball games," the Iowa coach said. "When a game goes down as close as that one, it is anyone's ballgame. I feel that if the loss has any effect, it will be for the better. A team gets a winning streak going and then a lot of times a loss will make the next week's practices better."

Scheuerman revealed that Iowa has had very short practices this week. Tuesday night the Hawks had a chalk talk and worked out for about 20 minutes. Wednesday night they held an hour and 15 minute workout, and Thursday watched films before practicing an hour.

The Iowa coach said he was pleased with this week's practices, adding, "We have three more weeks to go. We had exams and a let down against Loyola, but we have won two of our last three ballgames, and I have confidence that we'll finish strong. I expect tonight's game to be a real battle."

The Hawkeyes biggest problem will be stopping the Big Ten's leading scorer, Gary Bradds, who is averaging 33 points in conference play. Bradds tallied 26 points against the Hawks in the teams' first meeting this season.

Jim Doughty, who scored 19 points for the Bucks' losing cause, will start at one forward spot with Doug McDonald at the other. Dick

Hawk Swimmers Host Boilermakers

Iowa's swimmers, looking for their first victory of the season, meet Purdue in the Field House pool today at 1:30.

Breaststroke artist and captain Dennis Vokolek will lead the Hawks in their seventh dual meet of the season. Divers Michel LeVois and Jim Robbins, who have done well in previous meets, should also bolster the Iowa team. Sophomore Bill Sjostrom will compete in the butterfly.

The Hawks have lost to Indiana, Nebraska, Michigan State, Minnesota, Illinois, and Northwestern. After meeting Wisconsin next weekend, they will travel to Lafayette, Ind., for the Big Ten finals and to Raleigh, N. C. for the NCAA championships.

Track Team Faces Gophers

The Hawkeye thinclads finished their dual season today meeting Minnesota at Minneapolis. The meet will be Iowa's final warm-up for the Big Ten championships at Madison March 1-2.

Coach Francis Cretzmeier's squad is 2-1 for the season. The Hawks lost to Wisconsin, and then handily defeated Bradley and Northwestern last weekend. This is their first meet on the road.

Captain Roger Kerr, a senior from Wapello, will lead the Hawks. Kerr competes in the 440, 660, and the 880 and also anchors Iowa's mile relay team.

Bill Frazier, who has been suffering from a foot injury, will probably compete in the 600-yard run. The speedy junior from Princeton is presently rated eighth among world half-milers.

Gary Hollingsworth, Gary Fischer, Larry Kramer, Gary Richards and Scott Rucker are also expected to turn in top performances for the Hawks.

Besides the conference finals, Iowa will also compete in the Chicago Daily News Relays at Chicago March 8, and the U.S. Track and Field Federation championships at Milwaukee March 14-15.

Wisconsin Challenges Hawkeye Gym Squad

By GARY SPURGEON
Staff Writer

Two powerful gymnastics forces meet head on tonight at 7:30 in the North Gym of the Field House as the Hawkeyes entertain Wisconsin.

Wisconsin is 9-1 for the season and has a 4-1 Big Ten record. The Hawkeyes have a 6-2 mark and 3-1 conference record.

Coach Dick Holztaepfel considers Wisconsin one of the top teams in the conference and figures his Hawkeyes will have a tough battle on their hands.

Glenn Gailis, who dislocated a finger in last week's meet with Navy Pier, is ready to compete in all but one of the five events he normally competes in. Holztaepfel said the injured finger would keep him from competing in the high bar.

The Hawkeye coach said the rest of his squad was in good condition and all would be ready for the Badgers.

Leading Wisconsin is Fred Rothlisberger. Rothlisberger is the leading scorer and competes in all events. He has won 25 first places and has scored 281 points.

"Wisconsin seems to have average strength in all events," Holztaepfel said. "They are particularly strong in free exercise, the side horse, the horizontal bar and the still rings."

Jim Hopper is an excellent man on the still rings, Holztaepfel said. Also competing for the Badgers will be Ray Bauer, son of Coach George Bauer.

Wisconsin and Iowa have both met Indiana. The Badgers topped the Hoosiers, 67-44. Iowa beat Indiana 73-38.

The Hawkeyes have only Minnesota left on the dual meet schedule after tonight's meet. The Gophers will face the Hawkeyes March 2 in the Field House.

Little Hawks Upset Clinton, 56-43

Special to The Daily Iowan

The Iowa City Little Hawks upset Clinton, 56-43, here Friday night for their second Mississippi Valley Conference win of the year.

Clinton, playing without its regular center, Dave Seematter, was ranked tenth in the Southeast district of the final Associated Press prep poll this week.

Unranked City High was led by the 19-point scoring of Captain Don Rhoades and Bob Schaaf with 13. Mark St. Clair led the River Kings with 13 while Dick Luett picked up 11.

Clinton moved to an early 4-1 lead in the first period, but a pair of free throws by Rhoades and a basket by Mike Flora put Iowa City ahead, 5-4, and the Little Hawks led the rest of the way.

Iowa City held a 29-18 halftime advantage and, with 2:23 left in the game, led, 51-34.

Score by quarters:
Iowa City 12 17 12 15—56
Clinton 7 11 15 10—43

FOUR VETERANS RETURN
LARAMIE, Wyo. (AP) — Four lettermen will be back for baseball at the University of Wyoming. They are first baseman Cliff Osborne, short-stop Dick Hawthorne, pitcher Don Cadman and outfielder Vince Zimmer.

Coach Glenn (Bud) Daniel, who missed last season while on duty with the National Guard at Ft. Lewis, Wash., began his 13th campaign when practice began on Feb. 4.

Fencers Seek First Win Against Ohio, Chicago University

Iowa's fencers, led by co-captain Lance Hellman and sophomore Ed Koe, meet the University of Chicago and Ohio State in two dual meets at Columbus today.

The Hawkeye fencers are still looking for their first win of the season after losing to Detroit, Illinois and Wayne State last Saturday. They are 0-7 for the season.

Hellman will compete in the foil and epee divisions while Koe will see action in foil, epee and saber competition. Other Hawks, rated high by Coach James White, include Theron Bailey in the epee and saber; John Anderson, foil, epee; Michael Kinsinger, foil, epee, saber; John Kirchner, saber; and John Klaus, saber.

Today's meets are the last dual action the Hawks will see. They will compete in the Big Ten championships at East Lansing, Mich. March 2, and in the NCAA finals at Air Force Academy March 29-30.

Big Eight Slates Showdown Today

By The Associated Press

Oklahoma State's five iron men challenge Colorado's 22-game home court winning streak while Iowa State plays at Kansas State tonight in a hot four-team Big Eight basketball race.

Any one of three teams could be alone at the top after these two big games. Only Colorado's defending champs, in fourth place but only one-half game from first, are barred from taking the lead. The best the Buffs can do is second place.

Oklahoma State's 7-2 Big Eight record matches K-State's. Iowa State is next with 8-3 and Colorado is 7-3.

Grapplers Beat Indiana; Host Purdue Today

By Staff Writer

Coach Dave McCuskey's Iowa grapplers scored a decisive 27-3 win over Indiana at the Field House Friday night. The victory was Iowa's seventh in Big Ten competition against one loss, that to Michigan State, 14-11, Monday night.

Four of Indiana's top men were unable to make the trip because of flu. 123-pounder Larry Mann, 147-pounder Don Schultz, 167-pounder Randy Galvin and 177-pounder Dick Isel were unable to compete.

Isel, who undefeated in eight matches, has scored four falls and allowed only three points. He was also unable to wrestle against Michigan State and Michigan last week.

The only fall of the night was in the 147-pound class when Iowa's Joe Greenlee pinned George Finley with 2:20 gone in the match. Steve Combs, who is 8-1 for the season, won his 167-pound match by forfeit.

Iowa also was forced to make some changes because of illness. Tom Huff, who has a 8-1 mark in 137-pound clashes this season, was out with a virus and will not wrestle against Purdue today. Parker, who usually competes at 130-pounds, moved to Huff's class and Charles Freyermuth won the 130-pound match by forfeit.

The Hawkeyes will meet Purdue at 2:30 p.m. today. Purdue has a 2-6 mark for the season and was beaten by Indiana, 21-8. The Boilermakers' only wins were over Hiram, 18-13 and V.P.I., 20-8.
