In The News

THIS MORNING

ON CAMPUS—

THE UNION BOARD presents a Barber Shop Quartet Concert and Contest tonight at 7 in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union. Admission is free.

TODAY is the last day for the showing of "Models of the Inventions of Leonardo da Vinci" which is on display in the Union.

THE UNIVERSITY Theatre Production of "The Threepenny Opera" opens tonight at 8 at the University Theatre. It will continue through Saturday night this week and play Tuesday through Saturday nights next week.

IN THE CITY—

THE IOWA CITY Chamber of Commerce will meet with City Manager Carsten Leikvold to discuss the proposed plan of parking today at 3 p.m. in the Civic Center.

All members of the downtown retailers and businessmen committee have been invited. It is hoped the conference will clear up part of the confusion about the proposed changes in parking in the downtown area.

DR. P. P. LAUDE, professor emeritus of dentistry will speak on "Some Interesting Phases of Orthodontology" at the Rotary Club meeting today at noon in the Jefferson Hotel.

IN THE STATE—

DES MOINES — Pupils of private schools would be allowed to ride public school buses under a bill filed Wednesday by three Democratic senators.

Gov. Harold Hughes has recommended the measure, but it has drawn fire from those who contend it violates the principle of separation of church and state.

DES MOINES — The Iowa Senate passed 17 bills Wednesday in attempt to shorten its legislative calendar before spring recess begins.

The Senate will adjourn today and won't return to work until March 11.

Under a bill passed 40-8 motorists would receive notice 30 days before their driver's license expires. Supporters of the bill contended that persons often drive without a license simply because they forget that their license expires every two years on their birthday. Opponents said mailing the notices would cost $55,000 per year, and added this was too much money to spend on memory jogging.

IN THE NATION—

PALO ALTO, Calif. (UPI) — Ben S. Allen, veteran newspaperman and adviser to former President Herbert Hoover before, during and after the Hoover Administration, died Tuesday night. He was 80.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Army Secretary Cyrus S. Vance, advocating a "lean, efficient, professional Army" told Congress Wednesday that the Communists have backed down whenever face to face with American military power.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said Wednesday that President Kennedy still wants reforms tied to his tax cut program — even though he said Monday that he would accept a bill without reforms if that were the only way to get his program through Congress.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Brotherhood of Railway Clerks said Wednesday they planned court action to fight an injunction that Tuesday postponed their scheduled strike against Southern Pacific.

IN THE WORLD—

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Soviet professor denounced as "pure fantasy" Wednesday a Moscow Radio broadcast that a pair of lizard-like triions had been brought back to life after 5,000 years of hibernation in Siberia.

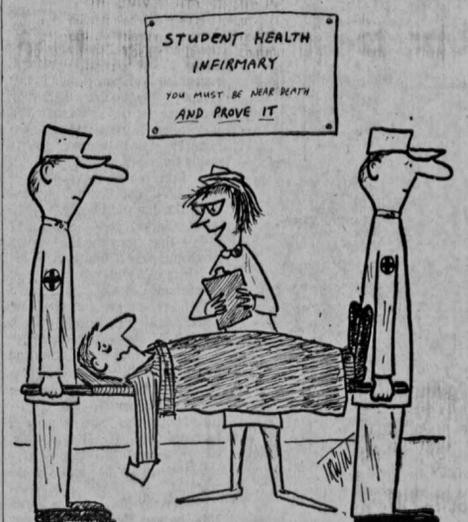

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Brazilian Naval Minister Adm. Pedro Paulo Suzano said Wednesday four French warships are en route to Brazilian waters and "we will repel these ships."

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John XXIII Wednesday opened the Lenten season with Ash Wednesday speech urging "every good Christian to live the precept of charity."

PARIS (UPI) — The United States Wednesday renewed an invitation to its NATO allies to join in a multi-nation sea-borne nuclear force armed with Polaris missiles. The reception was cool.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) — Secretary General Thant has asked Eugene R. Black, former president of the World Bank, to head a drive to collect close to $122 million in back dues owed the United Nations, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Mr. K: We Will Defend Cuba

Well, you can just turn right around and come back tomorrow morning — during office hours.

House Endorses HUAC 385-20; Okays Askings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Wednesday gave its Committee on Un-American Activities a vote of endorsement, 385 to 20, and all the money it asked to finance its further studies this year.

Members approved a $360,000 appropriation for the committee on a roll call ballot after its critics, on a non-record 167 to 22 vote, failed to open the money measure for possible reductions.

The effort to trim the committee's funds attracted 14 more votes than did a similar move two years ago. In 1961 the committee was given $331,000.

Reps. William Fitts Ryan (D-N.Y.), Thomas L. Ashley (D-Ohio) and James Roosevelt (D-Calif.) joined in protesting that the committee spent too much for what it produced. Ryan said the committee's methods tended to violate constitutional freedoms.

The committee's many defenders denied that any witness had been unfairly used and said its investigations had led to enactment of major legislation in the field of internal security.

Voting against the appropriation besides Ryan, Ashley and Roosevelt, were Democratic Reps. George E. Brown, Calif., Charles C. Diggs, Mich., John D. Dingell, Mich., Robert B. Duncan, Ore., W. Donlon Edwards, Calif., Leonard Farbstein, N.Y., Donald M. Fraser, Minn., Thomas P. Gill, Hawaii, Henry B. Gonzalez, Texas, Edith Green, Ore., Robert W. Kastenmeier, Wis., Abraham J. Miller, N.Y., Lucien Nedzi, Mich., Barratt O'Hara, Ill., Benjamin S. Rosenthal, N.Y., Edward R. Roybal, Calif., and Neil Staebler, Mich.

Today's committee endorsement by the House followed a 12 to 1 defeat in the Rules Committee Tuesday for a move to transfer the committee's functions to a special subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee.

Danger Exists In Cuba, Says Hickenlooper

Iowa Senator Claims Kennedy Attempting To Cover-up Damages

DES MOINES — U.S. Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) said here Wednesday night a very "ominous and extremely dangerous situation" exists in Cuba today, at a time the "Alliance for Progress in Latin America is at a stalemate."

He said the Administration tries to create impressions that Cuba is "no danger to the United States."

"It is not dangerous so far as any physical invasion of the United States — that goes without saying," Hickenlooper said. "But it is completely dangerous to the United States in the long pull because of the effect which activities there and the sabotage and subversive efforts emanating out of Cuba have on the other Latin American countries — especially those in the Caribbean."

"In October when the Russians got those so-called missiles out of Cuba under rather strange circumstances they seem to have effected an understanding with the Administration that we would not disturb Castro in Cuba."

"They have developed a haven there in Cuba for Communism and it is well known there are several battalions of troops being trained, or personnel being trained, probably by some of the 17,000 Russian experts who are there."

Hickenlooper said it is also "becoming increasingly apparent" that the Alliance for Progress is not moving forward in Latin America at all. He added:

"This program was started with much fanfare about two years ago and the necessary reforms and political operations have not been carried into effect."

Sociologist Dodd Sketches Theory of 'Reiterant Acts'

By ERIC ZOEGLER, News Editor

The simple act of wearing your boots when it snows can be explained by Stuart Carter Dodd's theory of "Reiterant Acts."

Dr. Dodd's theory has been discussed at length here during the professor's lecture series titled "The Probable Acts of Man" which will continue during this semester.

EXPANDED, Dodd's theory can explain why you always put on your boots when enough snow falls to merit the action.

"Reiterant acts simply is an attempt to build a theory to be able to predict the future. It attempts to explain why persons will repeat actions under the complete same conditions," Dodd explains.

"In short, what you will do tomorrow will be what you did yesterday, if the conditions are completely the same," Dodd believes.

Dodd, who works out of the University of Washington Institute of Sociological Research, says, "I'm trying to make the pursuit of science more effective and clean cut, especially in the field of social sciences."

THE INTERNATIONALLY-KNOWN sociologist says his theory may become as widely accepted as the Darwinian theory of evolution, because:

"It's a statement underlying logic, math, speech and therefore nearly all aspects of human thought. While the Darwinian theory explains the evolution of the physical nature of man, "Reiterant Acts" explains irregularities in thinking and its evolution."

Along with this theory, Prof. Dodd believes "there is more and more pressure for the world to develop a common language." And he believes this language should be an outgrowth of English.

"I think there is a trend in this direction already, and there is an increasing need for a common language for use in mass communications and to help ease world tension."

DODD SAYS, "Regularizing English is the simplest of any of the alternatives."

In supporting his argument, Dodd says the word "democracy" means one thing to Americans and another to the Russians.

"We believe 'democracy' means 'of the people, by the people and for the people.' The Russians believe it means of the people, for the people, but by the party."

Dr. Dodd, 63, will continue his lecture series on April 24 and 25 with two others slated for May 14 and 15. He is also conducting a series of seminars on the same topic for graduate students in sociology.

U.S. Invasion Means Nuclear War He Says

Warning Coupled With Compromise Hint for Berlin

(Combined from Leased Wires)

MOSCOW — Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev warned Wednesday that a U.S. invasion of Cuba would be met by a Soviet thermonuclear attack that would crush the West the first day. But he coupled the warning with a hint of compromise on Berlin.

Khrushchev extended the defense pledge to Red China, North Korea, North Viet Nam, East Germany and all other Communist nations although he acknowledged that the "imperialist camp is armed to the teeth."

In an 87-minute radio-television election speech to the nation Khrushchev said Soviet Armed Forces would "rout out" the imperialists if they attack Cuba — an implication the Russians would fight on Cuban soil.

"The President of the United States pledged himself not to attack Cuba and we agreed to withdraw strategic missiles and bombers from Cuba and did withdraw them," Khrushchev said.

"But this does not mean that we have abandoned heroic Cuba to the big sharks of American imperialism. We gave the Cuban people our word, the word of a brother, that the Soviet Union would come to Cuba's assistance and we shall not leave her in the hour of need."

"The imperialists must know that if they unleash a new atomic war, they will themselves be burned in the fires of that war."

The address echoed the words of Defense Minister Rodion Y. Malinovsky last Friday, who threatened the United States with atomic war if Cuba should be attacked. But Khrushchev expanded the warning to include the other Communist nations.

Khrushchev did not specifically mention Red China's latest blast in the quarrel, a 7,000-word broadcast editorial of the official People's daily accusing the Kremlin of double dealing. His remarks, however, seemed directly connected with that argument.

The Premier appeared tired, even a little bored, as he discussed the idea that "enemies of Communists" were benefiting from the appearance of differences in the Red camp. He added that "the workers' parties will find the strength to overcome all differences in their midst."

Khrushchev, running for a seat — and assured of it — in the Sunday elections to the Soviet Federation's Supreme Soviet Parliament, discoursed at length on both foreign and domestic affairs.

Civil Defense Steps Taken

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy issued orders Wednesday assigning 20 federal departments and agencies to set up plans "to develop a state of readiness... with respect to all conditions of national emergency, including attack upon the United States."

Kennedy signed nine executive orders directing the Government units to undertake emergency preparedness programs as a new step in non-military defense planning begun by his Administration in 1961.

The first major step of that program was to shift major civil defense responsibilities to the Secretary of Defense.

At that time, Kennedy said that "responsibilities for preparedness programs in connection with health, food, manpower, transportation and other needs in the event of an attack will be assigned to the appropriate department and agency heads."

Kennedy issued a series of executive orders in 1961 and 1962 along that line. The White House said "today's orders substantially complete the assignments of emergency preparedness responsibilities to the other departments and agencies."

'Threepenny' Opens Tonight

Mr. Peachum, played by Richard Thompson, Iowa City, and Polly Peachum, played by Kay Arnold, At, Des Moines, appear in one of the Threepenny Opera's scenes.

More Tickets On Sale Today

Tickets go on sale at 9 a.m. today for the second extra performance of Bertolt Brecht's "Threepenny Opera," as the first regular performance opens tonight at 8 in the University Theatre.

Tickets already reserved for all performances other than the Saturday matinee, must be picked up by 4 p.m. the day preceding the performance or they will be released for sale to the general public. This is necessary to insure that seats do not go unoccupied during a performance, while some people are deprived of a chance to attend the play.

The second extra performance — the Saturday matinee — is scheduled for 2 p.m. and is on a general admission non-reserved seat basis. Tickets will be sold today at the East Lobby Ticket Desk at the Union.

The play-with-music, a portrait of London low-life at the end of the 19th Century, attacks the smug complacency of society, the cause of this low-life. Adapted from Gay's "Beggars Opera," by Brecht and Weil, the play is set in 1897 during the Diamond Jubilee of Queen Victoria. It concerns the love story of Macheath, leader of a gang of ruffians in London, who is more popularly known as Mack The Knife.

"The Beggar Opera" was the most popular play of the 18th Century. It ran for 68 consecutive performances in London. The adaptation by Brecht and Weil was also an immense success, and was for a time the longest running play off Broadway in New York, running for five years.

Ticket prices for the matinee as well as for the evening performances are $1.50 or Student ID. The play will run Feb. 28, March 1, 2 (matinee and evening), 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9.

Macheath, played by Newell Tarrant, Erie, Pa., and Jenny, played by Marge Maxwell, G. Walcott, appear in one of the scenes in Threepenny Opera.

Folk Singer Lomax Calls Folk Singing 'Creative Forgettery'

By JEAN MUSGROVE, Staff Writer

The motive of a folk song collector, according to Alan Lomax, is to give the person who is considered of little importance a chance to tell his story to the world.

Lomax, an internationally-known collector of folk songs, spoke and sang at the University Lecture Series Wednesday night.

His lecture, "The Saga of American Folk Songs," dealt with the development of song types in various sections of the country. He illustrated it by singing some of his favorite songs from each area.

The first area to develop folk songs, said Lomax, was New England. These were realistic songs, dealing with everyday things. One of the first songs known to have been written in America, "Springfield Mountain," came from the

Coon Rapids Man Gets Regents Nod

John Chrystal, 37, a Coon Rapids banker-farmer was nominated to a six-year term on the State Board of Regents Wednesday by Gov. Harold Hughes. It was the third Regents nomination made by the governor.

Chrystal's nomination means that Hughes did not reappoint Harry Hagemann, Waverly Democrat, who has been a regent for 12 years and the board's president for six. Although Hagemann had never publicly acknowledged that he sought a third term, observers were assuming that he was.

Mrs. Joseph Rosenfield, Des Moines Democrat, was reappointed last week and Melvin H. Wolf, Waterloo attorney, was nominated to the board Tuesday by Hughes.

In other nominations, Stephen G. Darling, Iowa City realtor, and SUI instructor in general business, was reappointed to a four-year term on the Iowa Real Estate Commission.

fear of snakes which people of this area brought over from England with them. The song deals with a young man who died from snakebite.

Other songs from this area deal with the problems of women — who sometimes became cranky after living in houses with dirt floors and husbands who came home when they liked. One of the most famous songs deals with the woman whose husband gave her away to the devil. However, she outdid the devil, and he returned her to her husband.

A second area of song style was the southern mountains. The people of the area were mostly Scotch-Irish and their songs were often variations of those of the old country.

These songs were kept alive in gatherings in cabins where it was desirable to be a singer — one was permitted to stand by the fire that way, and the cabins weren't well insulated. An example of this style was a variation on the "Cherry Tree Carol" of the Middle Ages.

A third style appeared in the South arising from Negro slaves. This style was different in that it was organized for group singing rather than for the solo used by the whites.

A fourth area of song was the southwest. Songs in this area were a combination of the others as people moved West, but they acquired a lonesome sound. One of the most famous was "The Range of Buffalo" — the "big ballad of the plains."

A song which Lomax and his father recorded in Texas was "Get Along Little Dogies." Later, Lomax found equivalents to this ballad in Ireland. But the American version had "typically been cleaned up," he said.

Lomax commented the good folk singer had a stock of words and rhymes to put in when he forgot a line and thus many new songs emerged. This process he termed "creative forgettery."

A Reason Why Billboards Are Bad

IOWA LEGISLATORS pondering whether this state can afford to ban billboards from the Interstate highway...

A Long Island consulting firm studied accident records of the New York Thruway for 1961 and 1962. The results of that study indicate that billboard advertising is sufficiently eye-catching that countless motorists are drawn to it at critical times when they should be watching the road.

Only those accidents attributed to such driver inattention were included in the New York study.

Sections of the Thruway where billboards abound had an annual average of 1.7 accidents per mile while sections where such advertising devices were not visible had only .5 an accident per mile.

The study further revealed that this accident pattern for the entire Thruway was tragically consistent. Even in the dense traffic situations of the Buffalo and New York City divisions the same phenomenon was detected...

Certainly this study introduces the element of safety into the Iowa controversy.

With over 700 miles of Interstate highway nearing completion, our state must act soon before every foot in every mile is dotted with billboards.

A recent ruling has stated that the Federal Government stands ready to pay 90 per cent of the cost of acquiring the right to prohibit billboards for a distance of 660 feet from the Interstate.

The Iowa Highway Commission has already estimated that it would cost less than $350,000 to purchase advertising rights from property owners living along the highway route. With the Federal Government's 90 per cent (about $315,000) of that amount, the right to prohibit billboards would cost this state something less than $35,000.

If the New York study is indicative of the value of uncluttered roadways, then some measure to ban billboards along the Interstate is justified and in order.

No Room Here For a Royal Family

THE WHITE HOUSE made it official Wednesday: Reporters may no longer mingle with or talk to guests at official presidential receptions.

That was how an Associated Press dispatch from the national capitol began to explain the presidential edict on the tougher ground rules for press coverage of social functions.

From now on, reporters may watch the guests arrive, watch President and Mrs. Kennedy pose for pictures and watch the receiving line. Then they will be asked to leave.

However, at formal dinners newsmen will still be permitted to see and report the after-dinner program of entertainment — events the Kennedys have been spotlighting to boost culture.

We expect that quite soon this curb on reporters will be assailed as just another tiny but mighty extension of managed news.

In short, the Kennedys do not own the White House; indeed, as any Republican will tell you, they have only a 4-year lease on the place.

The American people are the real owners and they are quite interested in who is being wined and dined there.

As Rep. Abner W. Sibal (R-Conn.) puts it:

"The people have a right to full reports in the press. This is 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, not Buckingham Palace. There is no place for a royal family..." — Gary Gerlach

In One Ear

Written for The Daily Iowan By AMBROSE MITTENS

This morning we would like to add a footnote to the report of the recent trip to Des Moines by Frenkel and Schantz (the Ev and Charlie of student government) and their group. There were at least three important legislators that were not seen: Rep. Ebenezer Frisbie (R-Froelich), Senate majority whip Walter Gropius (R-Odebolt), and Sen. Clarence "Buster" Homestead (R-Pocahontas).

These three were in hiding. They were frankly reluctant to encounter our clear-eyed Rhodes scholar and tell him just how disastrous things were going to be. Peculiar as it may seem, they were huddled together under the desk of Secretary of State Mel Synhorst. Little did they know it had been bugged by the previous administration.

"Eb?" "Yuh, Buster." "Eb, d'you have the time?" "Can't y' read yer own watch, there, Buster?"

"WELL NOW, EB, I tell you, I could but it's so damn dark under here I can't see to get the case open. Besides, mine doesn't glow in the dark like yours does."

"I wonder if those darn college beatniks are still out there."

"I dunno. It's been pretty quiet. Maybe they went home. I don't see why they aren't in school where they belong. Come down here and waste our time. Don't get anything done, just raise a lot of trouble."

"That's what I say. We've gotta have our due deliberations. If these people won't go to class, I don't see why their folks don't just send 'em to work in a factory."

"A factory in Iowa?"

"Well, maybe in some nice gas station then."

"Y'know, Buster, I never have put much stock in this education business. I guess a little book-keeping's all right. And we have to have good doctors and dentists."

"And good chiropractors."

"And morticians, too, Eb."

"RIGHT. But I don't see much use for the physics and chemical people."

"Well, now, I understand they're doing some good work up at Ames."

"Now, Walt, that's something else. That's good useful knowledge that you can put to work on the farm. It's all these goings-on with atoms, and this space business that I don't hold with."

"By George, it's awful crowded under here, Eb, could you oblige me by getting your pipe out of my ribs?"

"Sorry, Buster."

"They write stories down there too. And poetry."

"Lot of foolishness."

"Eb, are you sure you can't see what time it is?"

"No, Buster, I told you I couldn't. What's so important?"

"It feels a little like supper-time, and I was supposed to have a nice supper tonight with Mr. Hill from the Iowa Manufacturers Association."

"Hill? There's a Hill with the Farm Bureau?"

"I met one that works for the Iowa Development Commission."

"I believe that it's the same person. He's a fine man. Sees a great future for the state. Course, he sorta helps run it, and I guess that makes a difference. Says it's a great state."

"That's the kind of person we need: loyal people. The trouble with these young people, and these school teachers, that go leaving the state is that they aren't loyal. If they really appreciated the state, they wouldn't mind not making any money. Good riddance to 'em, I say. We're well rid of 'em."

"WHAT DOES THIS man Hill make a year, anyway?"

"Oh, around twenty thousand, I suppose."

"Say, I think everybody's gone. Maybe we can get out from under this thing."

"Well, if anybody asks for a statement, we'll tell 'em we're all in favor of giving more money to the universities, if we can just figure out where to get the revenue."

"That's always pretty funny."

"Why, Buster here's been using that line for onto thirty years."

"Buster, tell me now: What time do you have?"

"Well, let's see here, Hm. March fourth, nineteen-ought-three, as I calculate it."

"I'd better hurry. I didn't realize it was so late."

'Unjustifiably Ignorant' View Of an Aesthetic Expression

To the Editor:

I should like to correct the superficial and unjustifiably ignorant view of "Shoot the Piano Player" which your readers may have received from the comment on it published in your issue of Feb. 22.

The column in question consists totally of conjecture, tenuous analogies, misinformation, distortion and an insincere apology — in this case, that the writer is a corn-filled simpleton. The writer's own overblown, if syntactically incomprehensible, style contradicts his disclaimer. Unfortunately, he means what he says.

THE FILM itself contradicts all that he assumes or guesses. Its techniques are, for the most part, rooted in cinematic tradition. It differs from the majority of movies given praise in The Daily Iowan this year primarily in the high quality of its technique and in what it reveals about the obviously high degree of concern for aesthetic expression brought to the making of it by those artists so naively considered in your pages.

Your columnist's remarks about what a film should be are irrelevant here, because they are arbitrary. If I understand his vague comments about "social insanity" and "dance of the atoms stuff" (and I am not sure that they contain even as much specificity as I am willing to grant them), he is viewing the film, and in subsequent discussion, was that most viewers did not; and I hope, therefore, that more individuals will try to see the film in the future.

Finally, your columnist's remarks about camera-movement and a "constant frame of reference" not only distort the impression a reader receives of the film, but also try to indoctrinate him with an absolute concept which is neither scientifically or aesthetically defensible.

Let me add that I attack your columnist's remarks with extreme reservations. He, like Director Truffaut, deserves empathetic evaluation. I appreciate the difficulty with which student critics necessarily attempt to accurately or adequately discuss the work of those whose training and thinking exceeds their own by so great a margin. Still, there are reasons for trying.

All Right, But on the Other Hand...

To the Editor:

While it is true that Mr. Grimstad, your movie reviewer, frequently has a public experience with language which borders on the orgiastic, I believe this is cause for praise, not blame. I would suggest that many graduate students, brainwashed in the traditional academic disciplines, have lost their capacity to exercise invention with language and to find delight in it. It is Mr. Grimstad's credit that he has not yet succumbed.

The Third Revolution In Transportation

PROFILES OF THE FUTURE. By Arthur C. Clarke. 234 pages. Harper and Row. $3.95.

Whether or not outer space contains Bug-Eyed Monsters (and there's no reason why there shouldn't be a few of them out there someplace), Arthur C. Clarke's science fictions do not. When you've read about one B.E.M., you've read about them all, and space to cross and times to come provide many more interesting matters for such speculative and imaginative authors as Mr. Clarke to write about.

Take the G.E.M. for instance. This is non-fiction, as is Mr. Clarke's latest book, and these are G.E.M.s already in operation on our own little planet (which has, as Mr. Clarke reveals, many surprises yet for its inhabitants).

THE G.E.M. is a Ground Effect Machine, a vehicle that literally floats on air, and that may bring about the third, and greatest, revolution in transportation in this century, "something that may make the future as strange and alien to us as our world of super-highways and giant airports would be to a man from 1890... may bring about the passing of the wheel, our faithful servant since the dawn of history."

Mr. Clarke, gently suggesting rather than prophesying, invites us to imagine a future in which Oklahoma City may be a greater port than Chicago, Switzerland may become a great shipbuilding nation, and "Israel could put the Suez Canal out of business merely by offering unspoiled desert on highly competitive terms."

IN AL JOLSON'S words, you ain't heard nothin' yet. Beginning with this already-arrived harbinger of the future, Mr. Clarke extends his inquiry into what he calls "the limits of the possible."

Deservedly pleased because, in 1945, he was the first to propose the use of artificial satellites to provide global television, Mr. Clarke here describes some of the dangers and benefits that may ensue — among the benefits "the abolition of all barriers to free intellectual and cultural intercourse," among the dangers: "We are already becoming a race of watchers, not of doers... Our epitaph may read, 'Whom the Gods would destroy, they first give TV.'"

What are the limits of the possible? Leonardo da Vinci would have understood a diesel engine if it were shown to him; an electronic computer he would have found incomprehensible. Mr. Clarke has 20th Century reservations about such matters as a world brain, the ability to distort time and space, and man-made immortality. But he believes, with Professor Haldane, that "the Universe is not only queerer than we imagine — it is queerer than we can imagine," and not even these seeming impossibilities are omitted from his enthralling, witty, and exciting commentary.

Coeds. Here's your opportunity to have a date with that guy in your Lit class that you've been just dying to go out with all semester. Or now's your chance to turn the tables and treat your pinmate or favorite guy to a wonderful evening. Ask him to tomorrow night's Spinster's Spree.

The 1963 Spinster's Spree promises to delight you and your date with colorful, exotic decorations and exciting entertainment. The line-up includes "Bali Hai" sung by Trudy Bradford, A2, Detroit, Mich., and "There's Nothing Like a Guy" sung by a girl's trio.

The entertainment committee is also pleased to announce that Barbara Hickle of Boone will be able to appear as originally scheduled. Miss Hickle, who does authentic Tahitian dances complete with costume and headdress, was in an automobile accident last week, but her doctor has confirmed that she has recovered and will be able to dance tomorrow night.

The Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union will be transformed into the island "Bali Hai" from 8 until midnight, as Hi Morgan's band plays music for dancing.

During the evening a tea will be given in honor of the faculty, administration, AWS and CPC. It will begin at 9:15 p.m. in the Old Gold Room and continue until 9:45 p.m. A photographer will also be on hand on the sun porch during the entire evening to take photographs of you and your date.

Tickets are still available for $3 at Whetstone's, the Campus Record Shop, and in all women's housing units. They may also be purchased at the door tomorrow evening.

N.Y. Designer Estevez Shows Spring Collection

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK — The tunic and cape, classics of fashion, are the sleepers of the spring collections. Everyone on Seventh Avenue, center of the multi-billion dollar New York garment industry, talks about the pullover or overblouse as the big news for the new season. And it is — in variations to fit any woman's figure.

But most "name" designers also include some version of the tunic and cape.

Luis Estevez, for one. The designer in a collection shown for out-of-town women's and fashion editors included just about every conceivable variation of the tunic. He showed it in lace, crepe, wool, silk and linen. He used the tunic theme in suits, costumes and dresses for day and after dark. It came in every color of the spectrum, in solids and prints.

Estevez, who always includes form-fitting sheath dresses in a collection, for spring has given them cover — shell capes. The capes run the length of the dress and many are lined with the dress color.

Estevez was one of four New York designer-manufacturer firms which today concluded 10 days of previews of spring collections for the visiting reporters. Most of the shows were sponsored by the New York Couture Group of Designers and auxiliary members who staged their 40th semiannual "National Press Week." Another group of designers then tacked on a series which ran from Friday afternoon through today.

The Estevez silhouette stressed the long, slender and shapely, plus neckline plunge. One giant sunflower print has a smooth torso with flamingo shirring swirling down the hip. The back is a deep U that comes nearly to the waistline. Estevez bared backs with squared-off necklines, with deep V plunges and peck-a-boo silts also. Clothes curved to the figure were the trademark at Jane Derby's.

In Big 10 Track —

Cretzmeyer Hopes For High Finish

Although lacking the personnel to be a title-contender, Iowa will shoot for a high place in the Big Ten track championship meet at Madison, Wis. with four first places as a possibility.

Coach Francis Cretzmeyer will take a 12-15 man squad to Madison. Preliminaries are set for Friday and the finals are Saturday afternoon.

Headliners of the Hawkeyes, with best 1963 times, are Gary Fischer, mile run, (4:12.6); Capt. Roger Kerr, 600, (1:11.1); Bill Frazier, 880, (1:53.9); and the mile relay CRETZMEYER team which last week bettered the conference record with the time of 3:16.

One worry of the coach is the fact that Frazier, the 1962 world-ranked half miler, injured a back thigh muscle Monday in a workout. The extent of the injury has not yet been determined. This is especially discouraging because Frazier has been recovering well from tendon trouble in a heel.

Gary Hollingsworth, who ran

4:8.8 in the quarter mile last week, will enter that event and Ralph Trimble will run the 1,000-yard race. The 300-yard dash will have Gary Richards, Richards, and Larry Kramer, who ran 9:22, will try to take at least six seconds off his two mile time.

In the high jump, Wes Sidney hopes to be among the leaders but he will have to clear around 6-8 if he is to do it. Scott Rucker will be a 600-yard run entrant and Don Gardner, who twice has placed in the low hurdles, will try to bring back some points.

KEHR

Burlington Places 11th In J.C. Poll

DODGE CITY, Kan. (AP) — Burlington's Junior College basketball team placed seventh in the final basketball coach's poll in the National Junior College Athletic Association.

San Angelo, Tex., with a 22-3 record was rated first, with Lon Morris of Jacksonville, Tex., (24-9) and St. Leo, Fla., (19-3) finishing second and third, respectively.

Behind the leaders, in order, were: Coffeyville, Kan.; Hibbing, Minn.; New York City C. C.; Trinidad, Colo.; Murray State of Tishomingo, Okla.; Broome Tech of Binghamton, N. Y.; Burlington, Iowa; and Austin, Minn.

One-Year Wonder Boys Seek To Prove Selves

NEW YORK (UPI) — Are they really that good?

Some of baseball's 1962 superstars will have to prove themselves all over again in 1963 before they're hailed as legitimate headliners and not one-year wonders.

Heading the list are pitcher Hank Aguirre of the Detroit Tigers and hot hitter Tommy Davis of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who never had it so good as they did last year.

You can add Ray Herbert of the Chicago White Sox, Felipe Alou of the San Francisco Giants, Don Demeter of the Phillies, Bob Purkey of Cincinnati, Rich Rollins of the Minnesota Twins, and Tom Tresh of the New York Yankees.

They vowed 'em last season with performances generally far above what might have been expected from their previous records.

Aguirre was a 4-4 pitcher for the Tigers in 1961, a reliever who worked only 55 innings. But last season, with ace Frank Lary shelved by an arm injury, Hank got a shot as a starter and wound up leading the American League in earned runs with a 2.21 average and amassed a 16-8 record.

In seven previous seasons, or parts of same, he had won only 18 games all told.

Davis, a Dodger speedster for whom great things had been hoped, put all those hopes and more to boot into a solid .346 batting average that gave him the National League title for average, runs batted in (153) and most hits (230).

Up to the time lighting struck, Tommy had a two-year lifetime major league average of .277.

One of the more amazing contributions of '62 came from Herbert, a right-handed pitcher who has been bouncing around for a dozen years. He had a 12-12 record for Kansas City in '61, just about par for the course for him, but then he cut loose with a 20-9 season for the White Sox last year and how do you figure that?

Felipe Alou hit .316 for the champion Giants, a happy surge over his previous lifetime mark of .274, and Demeter was a big stick man for the Phils with 29 homers and a .307 average compared to his earlier career average of .250.

Purkey, veteran Cincy pitcher who finished '62 with a 23-5 record, was 16-12 the year before and not exactly a bad risk any time he pitches. However, he whacked the better teams — Los Angeles, San Francisco and Pittsburgh — 10-1 en route to his fine season last year and nothing in his previous toiling provided groundwork for that sort of a showing. Up to last spring, his career record was 79-81.

Rollins hit .298 at third base for the Twins and Tresh, with 20 homers on a .286 average, was a shoo-in for American League Rookie of the Year.

Others with some proving to do include Leon Wagner of the Los Angeles Angels (37 homers), Chuck Hinton of the Senators (.310 batting average), and maybe even speedy Maury Wills of the Dodgers.

All hands probably are aware that Maury is the No. 1 base stealer with 104 thefts last season. But if you want to get technical it's well to recall he had "only" 35 the year before and 50 in 1960.

7 Is Not Lucky Number For Don Hoak of Phillies

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Seven may be a lucky number to most people but not to Don Hoak, the Philadelphia Phillies new third baseman.

Hoak, obtained the past winter from Pittsburgh, would rather wear No. 13, hold a black cat in the dugout or walk under a ladder en route to his position. Anything but wear No. 7 on his uniform back. General manager John Quinn found Hoak easy to sign, but this uniform number bit, that's something else again. Hoak and his wife, singer Jill Corey, were guests on a television show in Pittsburgh last month, when as a surprise gift, the producers unfurled Hoak's new red striped Phillies' uniform. It fitted him nicely and he was pleased as the audience applauded.

Then, Hoak noted the No. 7 on the back. He couldn't wait to get to a telephone and call Russ (Unc) Henry, the Phillies clubhouse custodian.

Hoak told his wife he just wouldn't wear No. 7.

The third baseman waited until reporting here for spring training to explain to Russell why he couldn't wear No. 7.

"I'm not superstitious," he said, "but 14 years ago I reported to Greenville of the Sally League. They handed me No. 7. I suffered a wound that took 30 stitches in my leg, two broken fingers and was banded three times. I also hit .231."

For the next eight years he wore a uniform number other than 7, but in 1956 he landed with the Chicago Cubs who handed him the "lucky" digit.

"I had the worst season of my life," says Hoak. "I couldn't do anything right. I was hit on the head twice and I batted .215. The Cubs traded me to Cincinnati and I swore I'd never wear a seven again."

Hoak, who had No. 12 at Cincinnati and Pittsburgh, asked Russell who had No. 12 with the Phils. Told it was Cookie Rojas, he said, "Aw Unk, wouldn't you say I've got seniority?"

That did it. Russell agreed that when the season opens, Hoak will get No. 12. For the time being he is using No. 19. Hoak wants it understood, though, he's not superstitious.

Farrell Still Holds Grudge Against Dodgers, Alston

APACHE JUNCTION, Ariz. (AP) — Dick Farrell gained a large measure of revenge last fall against his old team, the Los Angeles Dodgers, but he has lost none of his bitterness toward his former bosses, Dodger General Manager Buzzie Bavasi and Manager Walter Alston.

Farrell, it will be recalled, played a prominent role in the Dodgers' late season collapse with a brilliant pitching performance for the Houston Colts that resulted in a crushing defeat for the Dodgers in the final week of the campaign. The Dodgers lost their last five games and bowed to the Giants in the pennant playoffs.

It was the big right-hander's second straight triumph over the Dodgers, who shipped him to the Colts for $125,000 in the National League expansion movement in October of 1960.

"I won't deny that I was bitter about being released by the Dodgers," Farrell said Wednesday, "but that's not the reason for my grudge against Bavasi and Alston. It turned out they did me a favor by selling me to Houston."

"But I'll never forget their treatment of me after they lost the 1961 pennant. They made me the goat. "Every chance they got, Bavasi and Alston hung the blame on me. It seemed every time I picked up a sports paper or magazine, I read where they were singling me out. "I still can't understand why they singled me out. I pitched better than some other guys on the club, but it was always me. I had an 8-7 record with 12 saves, which was the fourth best record among relief pitchers in the league."

"The Dodgers blew the pennant when they lost 10 games in a row late in the season. Four were to Cincinnati. I didn't pitch in any of those games. I was out with a pulled muscle in my side. Still they blamed me for losing the pennant."

Burlington Topples Grand View, 88-74

DES MOINES — Burlington won the Region 11 Junior College basketball tournament here Wednesday night with an 88-74 victory over Grand View of Des Moines. The Blackhawks were led by Bobby Joe Hill with 39 points and Jim Boyce with 34.

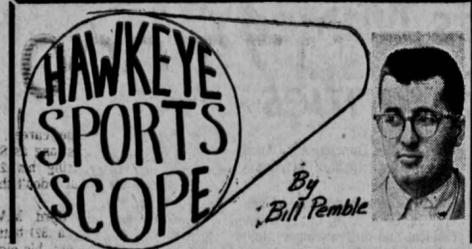

Q. C. Taylor and Danny Couch topped Grand View's scoring with 24 and 21 points respectively.

The victory allows Burlington to advance to the National Junior College Tournament at Hutchinson, Kans., beginning on March 15. Rated 11th nationally among junior colleges, Burlington is the only Iowa representative in the tourney.

Essegian Traded

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — The Cleveland Indians traded outfielder Cruck Essegian to the Kansas City Athletics Wednesday night in exchange for Jerry Walker, a 24-year-old right-handed pitcher.

A club spokesman said the deal is effective as of Saturday afternoon upon the expiration of waivers which had been asked by the Indians on Essegian, one of three unsigned players on the Tribe's roster.

By Bill Pemble

OVER IN Wolverine land, football is the thing. Basketball regularly has filled the gap during the winter months but has not generated too much enthusiasm in the Ann Arbor school. At the Iowa-Michigan game on Monday only 4,600 turned out, but nearly 3,000 of those were present to watch most of the freshman game in which the heralded Michigan frosh played an intra-squad game.

The prize catch by Bill Strack and his staff has got to be 6-5 Cazzie Russell from Chicago. Russell, sought by all of the Big Ten schools including Iowa, chose to matriculate at the Ann Arbor school, mainly because he could get in there. Strack has in Russell a man capable of playing any position on the team, a good rebounder, an excellent outside shot (though he didn't have a particularly good night on Monday) and a good ball handler.

Russell (no relation to Bill) was working out when the Hawks came in to practice on Sunday and was hitting from all over the floor. Freshman coach Tom Jorgenson rates Russell as the "finest basketball player I have ever seen." Jorgy himself played against Iowa's Sharm Scheurman and the Fabulous Five back in 1955-56.

In Monday's scrimmage however, Russell was just another man on the floor. High point man for the game was a 6-2 220 (Yes 220 and he looks like he weighs 250) pound guard named Bill Yearby. It was hard to tell what position Yearby, or for that matter any of the others were playing because of the run-and-shoot style employed by the Michigan Frosh. Yearby, considered the top football prospect at Michigan also, has a variety of shots but is most effective on a very soft outside jumper.

Two very quick guards impressed this observer. John Clawson, 6-3 from Naperville, Ill., and John Rowser, a six footer from Detroit (Eastern), the same school that spawned Yearby, were the fastest moving men on the floor. And believe me, the others weren't slow. In the height department the Wolves aren't in much trouble either. Oliver Darden from Detroit (Western) at 6-7 should be able to give Bill Buntin plenty of help in the Michigan forecourt. Van Tillotson at 6-5 is a fine shooter (a lefty) and also works well on the board. Van, a brother of Pete, former Michigan standout, is from Ludington, Mich.

This outstanding group of first year men, called the finest in Michigan history, should make the Wolverines one of the favorites in the conference.

From this corner, however, if we were Michigan we would be wary of that bunch that has been practicing over at the Iowa Field House all winter. Combined with an experienced group of Hawkeye juniors and seniors next year, the Iowans are a team to be reckoned with.

But, more about the Iowa frosh later.

Lary Says He's Ready Now; Frank's Flipper Feels Fine

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — Frank Lary knows the first question before it is even asked so he beats everyone to the punch by opening the conversation with: "It feels real good."

Then the veteran Detroit right-hander sits back quietly, does his best to keep from grinning and patiently waits for the next question.

Lary, who reported early this spring, has been working out in the Tigers' camp here two weeks already and has been asked about the condition of his arm at least 250 times.

Fans ask him, store-keepers ask him and writers ask him. Occasionally, even his own teammates inquire. The only one who doesn't is Detroit manager Bob Scheffing.

"Lary is a professional," said the Tiger skipper, coming out of the shower. "There's no need to ask him about his arm. He'll let me know soon enough, one way or another. I'm leaving him on his own. He knows what he's doing."

Over in another part of the clubhouse, Lary slowly unlaced his spiked shoes and then removed his dark blue windbreaker. Perspiration seemed to be oozing out of every pore of his body.

"Whew," he said, struggling to catch his breath, "I think I've run 50 miles for the day."

A pair of out-of-town writers entered the clubhouse and started in Lary's direction. Even before they had a chance to say howdy, Frank, still puffing, said:

"It feels real good."

By "it," of course, Lary meant his right arm, which accounted for 23 victories in 1961 but only two last season.

The 1962 campaign was the worst of the 31-year-old right-hander's career. He came up with tendon-muscle troubles in his arm during early April but still beat the Yankees, 5-3, in the opener. His only other victory was over Washington on June 19. The pain in his arm became so severe that he was placed on the disabled list from July 31 until Sept. 1.

Lary has won 20 games or better for the Tigers twice during his career and is generally regarded as a 20-game winner when he is right by most everyone. After last season, however, the key question Watch Lary sometime and you'll see what Scheffing means.

Hutch's Big Five —

Strong Reds Pitching Staff May Carry Cincy to NL Flag

By LEO H. PETERSEN UPI Sports Editor

TAMPA, Fla. (UPI) — If pitching is going to be the name of the game in 1963 as it usually is, Fred Hutchinson thinks his Cincinnati Reds will be in good shape because of his "Big Five."

One of the few major league pitchers who became a success as a major league manager, Hutchinson is confident the Reds "will have the best pitching in the National League this season."

He bases that confidence on that "Big Five" — starters Bob Purkey, Joey Jay and Jim O'Toole and relievers Jim Brosnan and Bill Henry. Among them they were involved in 92 of the 98 victories the Reds racked up in 1962.

Purkey won 23 games, Jay 21, O'Toole 16 and Brosnan and Henry 4 each for a total of 68. Brosnan was credited with 13 saves, Henry with 11 for a total of 24.

"That's an amazing number of

FRED HUTCHINSON Big Five Flingers

victories to have only five pitchers figure in," said Hutchinson, "especially when you stop and think that I have some other good pitching to go along with them."

He really is high on his pitching. "I wouldn't trade my three starters for any of the top three starters of any club in the league and I wouldn't trade my two relievers for any other team's two top bullpen men," he said. "As a matter of fact, I wouldn't trade my overall pitching for any other staff in the league."

Hutchinson concedes that it takes more than pitching to win a pennant, "but when you have five guys like that on your side you are in pretty good shape."

He'll choose five men from among Jim Maloney, Ken Hunt, Sammy Ellis, Johnny Klippstein, Joe Nuxhall, Jim Owens, Turk Lown, Dave Sisler, Allan Worthington and John Tsitouris to go along with the "Big Five."

"I'm sure we'll have the pitching depth and that's one of the big reasons I'm optimistic," said Hutchinson.

Other reasons? "At this time last year we didn't know whether Leo Cardenas, because of his slight build (he weighs only 151 pounds) could go a full season at shortstop or whether Johnny Edwards could do the job for us back of the plate."

"Now we know we are set in both those positions." Cardenas batted .294 and played in 153 games. Edwards hit only .255 but became a good defensive catcher.

"And he'll improve as a hitter," Hutchinson predicted. "He hits well for a spell and then goes into a slump. At first his slumps were long ones, but then they became shorter and shorter."

The skipper of the Reds thinks he has the necessary power in Frank Robinson, Vada Pinson, Gene Freese, Gordy Coleman, Wally Post, Jerry Lynch and Harry Bright.

He isn't worried about the age of the "Big Five." Henry is 35, Brosnan and Purkey 33, Jay 27 and O'Toole 25.

It could be that Cincinnati's pitching could well be what Hutchinson claims it is.

Home Indoor Season Closes This Saturday

Iowa's home indoor season closes Saturday with the Hawk gymnasts, wrestlers and cagers playing hosts to Minnesota, Michigan and Northwestern.

The gymnasts, 7-2 for the season, open Saturday's events at 1:30 p.m. when they meet Minnesota in the North Gym of the Field House. The Gophers have a 5-4 mark for the season and are 3-3 in the conference.

Glenn Gailis and George Hery will lead the Hawks. Gailis has scored 146 points and Hery 114. Larry Gleason is the star Gopher all-around performer, scoring well in six events, and Tom Arneson is unbeaten in the side horse.

At 2:30 p.m., the Hawkeye grapplers go for their ninth win of the season against Michigan, which has an 8-1 record and is undefeated in Big Ten competition.

Norman Parker, 130-pounder, will be trying for his 12th straight win, and 167-pounder Steve Combs will seek his 11th win against only one loss. Tom Huff, who missed last week's meets because of a virus infection, will return to wrestle for Iowa at 137-pounds.

The Hawkeye cagers close their home season at 7:30 p.m. against Northwestern, which lost to Iowa, 66-65, in a double overtime at Evanston, Feb. 9. The Wildcats are eighth in the conference standings with a 4-7 record while the Hawks are tied for sixth with a 5-6 mark.

The track team travels to Madison, Wis., Friday and Saturday for the Big Ten championship meet, and the fencing team will go to East Lansing Mich., Saturday for the conference finals.

The basketball team continues action against Wisconsin at Madison Monday night before closing out the season against Illinois in a sell-out game at Champaign March 9.

Mick Gets $100 G's —

M&M Sign for $172,000

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (UPI) — The World Champion New York Yankees Wednesday signed their "M and M" sluggers for the biggest two-man cash package in baseball history — Mickey Mantle for $100,000 and Roger Maris for $72,000.

Mantle, getting a $15,000 raise after winning the 1962 American League "Most Valuable Player" award, thus joining Willie Mays of the San Francisco Giants as the only active players in the "hundred grand" salary class.

MANTLE MARIS

Maris' pay was exactly the same as he signed for last year, even though he dropped from a record 61 homers in 1961 to just 33 in 1962.

The combined $172,000 salaries for the two hard-hitting outfielders represented the highest amount ever paid two players on the same team. Mantle was only the fifth player in baseball annals to reach the $100,000 level — joining Mays, Joe DiMaggio, Ted Williams, and Stan Musial, though still active, no longer receives that amount.

Babe Ruth, whom the Yankees once paid $80,000, still is reckoned the all-time leader in "take home pay" because of lower taxes in his day.

Mantle called the contract "Probably the highlight of my career, because it has to be my ambition to match the highest salary ever paid in baseball."

It was pointed out to the husky, 31-year-old Commerce, Okla., slugger that he reached the $100,000 level on his 13th Yankee contract. "I'm not superstitious," he grinned back.

The Yankees, in announcing Mantle's salary, said "We look forward to several more fine seasons from him." But Mickey didn't exactly go along with that.

"I don't think there will be too many more," said Mantle, who has been plagued by physical ailments, chiefly to his legs, throughout his major league career. "I would like to play as long as Stan Musial (Stan's starting his 22nd year this season), but I don't think I can."

Mantle won his third M.V.P. award last year with a .321 batting average and 30 homers, his eighth year as a .300 hitter and the eighth straight year he's hit over .300 homers. Because of those recurrent injuries, he played in only 123 games.

Fischer Is Hawk Hope In Big 10 Track Meet

As Gary Fischer goes, so may go the hopes of the Iowa track squad in the 1963 Big Ten indoor track championships to be held at the University of Wisconsin this weekend.

Fischer, a former Big Ten champion in the 1,000-yard run, is one of the Hawkeyes on whom Iowa Track Coach Francis X. Cretzmeier is pinning his hopes for a title. Cretzmeier admits, however, that the Hawks lack the over-all depth to win the team crown.

Off to his best start in three seasons, Fischer, who now lives in Dubuque, recently set three records in two weekends at the Iowa Field House. Against Wisconsin he broke both the Field House and dual meet record in the mile, which he won in 4:12.6. The Field House record had been made by is up for grabs," said Fischer. However, he doesn't know whether Coach Cretzmeier will enter him in the 1,000 or the mile this weekend. "For two years Tom Creagan of Wisconsin, Chuck Aquino of Michigan, and I have been battling each other. I won in 1961 and was second in 1962, and Aquino won in 1962. Creagan placed second in 1961 and was third in 1962. This year will sort of be the show-down."

Cretzmeier believes that Fischer should be up there with former Iowa all-American milers Deacon Jones and Wheeler before the year is over. Jones holds the Iowa record for the two-mile of 8:58.5, while Wheeler holds the Iowa mile record of 4:07.5.

"Gary has the ability," Cretzmeier said. "He is a hard, dedicated worker, but he needs more confidence. I think that if he were older, he would be even better." Although a senior, Fischer is only 20 years old.

Gary began participating in track when he was a freshman at Miles Consolidated High School in Miles, Ia. He lettered in all of the other major sports at Miles, but throughout the years track has been his favorite sport.

As a sophomore, he was named the fastest freshman-sophomore half miler in Iowa and Illinois when he won the two-state Morrison Relays Invitational Meet at Morrison, Ill. His time was 2:10. He ran the mile also as a sophomore and placed fifth in the Iowa State High School Championships.

Fischer's 880 time dropped to 2:08 his junior year. But as Miles needed a mile runner to improve team balance, Gary was asked to run the mile. He entered the mile in the state finals as a junior and placed sixth.

Not content with that performance, Fischer drove himself over the next year to improvement. It paid off. For as a senior, Gary won both the indoor and outdoor mile championships.

Although a senior, Gary is in a five-year combination engineering-liberal arts program at Iowa and won't receive his bachelor of science degree until next year.

In the meantime, he is aiming to finish first at the Big Ten championships at Madison. Iowans hope he will.

Iowa State's Straw Makes All-Big 8

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Ken Charlton of Colorado was the sole unanimous choice and only repeater on The Associated Press 1963 All-Big Eight basketball team announced Wednesday.

Charlton is the league's top scorer with a 19.7-point per game average despite playing with two bad knees.

Willie Murrell of Kansas State, No. 2 scorer with 19 points per game; Jim Davis of Colorado, the Big Eight's best rebounder; Nolen Ellison of Kansas and Marv Straw of Iowa State also make the first team.

Straw barely edged Oklahoma State's Larry Hawk and Iowa State's Vince Brewer for a berth on the first team.

Joining Hawk and Brewer on the second team were Ray Bob Carey, Missouri; James King, Oklahoma State; and Gary Marriott, Kansas State.

Honorable mention went to Iowa State's Rich Froistad and Gary Kleven.

GARY FISCHER

Threatens Distance Marks Frank Duis of Wisconsin in 1952. When he broke the mile record, Fischer was one of the most surprised Hawks in the Field House. "I had never anticipated running that fast this year," he said. "I had hoped to run a 4:15 mile this season. But now that I have run 4:12.6, I'm setting my sights on a 4:05 mile."

The following weekend, Feb. 15, Fischer came back to run the fastest 1,000-yard race of his life at 2:14, as the Hawks whalloped both Northwestern and Bradley in a triangular meet. Fischer made his best mark even though he wasn't pressed.

His time was more than two seconds faster than the mark of 2:16.8 he made when he won the Big Ten championship in 1961 as a sophomore and was one second off his best time of 2:15.2 he made last year when he placed second in the championships. It was a new Iowa record, too.

All-Campus Barber Shop Quartet Contest Tonight at 8

By SUZANNE MONTGOMERY
Staff Writer

Sweet Adeline is a swinger. Formerly a straight-laced gal who went for only the old gay-nineties robust-bravado type of singing, she has gone modern, thanks to the efforts of her most loyal admirers, the barbershop singers.

But their affair with the old gal hasn't ended. Jim White of the Cedar Rapids Harmony Hawks, a barbershop singing group, explained they will still sing the old songs, but they sing them with more variety of style and arrangement.

"The best way to tell people what barber shop singing is to sing it," said White, A4, Cedar Rapids.

And that is what will be done at 8 tonight at the All-Campus Barber Shop Quartet Contest which will be held in the Main Lounge of the Union. It will be sponsored by the Harmony Hawks and Union Board.

White is general chairman of the Harmony Hawks for the contest.

Four SUI quartets were chosen last week as finalists in tonight's competition. In addition, the Harmony Hawks' 40-member chorus and its two prize-winning quartets will sing several selections. A winner from the SUI competitors will be chosen by a panel of judges from the Harmony Hawks.

Admission is free. The 65-member Cedar Rapids group is a member of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America, Inc. (SPEBS-QSA), was organized in 1934.

The chapter puts on a show, known as a "parade," each spring. In addition to numbers by the Harmony Hawks chorus and the two quartets within the group, other SPEBSQSA quartets of national fame including the current national champions, are hired to perform at the parade.

The purpose of the national organization, which has chapters throughout the United States and Canada, is stated in its name, to keep barber shop harmony alive. The idea of the barber shop chorus, which consists of forty men singing four-part harmony, is new within the last ten years, said White.

The international society operates under a strict set of rules and a code of ethics. For example, no quartet can be registered with the non-professional society if its members make over 25 per cent of their total income from singing.

Each year, the society holds an international contest for both choruses and quartets.

Both quartets within the Hawks, the "Vigortones" and the "Diplomats," have been district finalists several times in the last few years.

Enthusiasm for barber shop singing is high in the Midwest, said White, and men's quartets in general are on the rise.

The chief exponent for barber shop quartets today are the Buffalo Bills, who were featured in the stage production and movie, "The Music Man." The Buffalo Bills were the society's international champions in 1950.

Many popular singing groups today started out barbershoping, said White. In addition, such men as Bing Crosby, Harry Truman and Arthur Godfrey were all society members at one time.

Beans, Anyone?

There will be baked beans and more baked beans Sunday when the Home Economics Club sponsors a baked bean supper from 5 to 7 p.m. in Room 212, MacBride Hall. Serving the main course here are Shirley Wilson, A4, Rockford, Ill. (left), and Carolyn Reinebach, A4, Quincy, Ill.

Old Gold Fund Honors 27 SUIowans

Twenty-seven students at SUI have been awarded Honors Scholarships for the spring semester by the Old Gold Development Fund, announced Joseph W. Meyer, associate director of OGD.

The 27 Honors Scholarships total $3,100 and are financed by the Old Gold Development Fund, organized in 1955 by SUI alumni as a channel for voluntary contributions with which to extend the scope of alumni support for the University.

The Old Gold Development Fund established the Honors Scholarships to aid and encourage students in their progress toward an Honors degree at SUI, explains Meyer.

Each of the recipients is a member of the SUI Honors Program and is working toward an Honors degree in his particular "major" field. They were recommended for the OGD scholarship by Professor Rhodes Dunlap, director of the SUI Honors Program.

Students whose scores on SUI enrollment tests indicate they will rank at the top of the class are granted Honors status. They must maintain a "B" average at the University each year to continue in the program.

Honors students study a number of subjects intensively in small classes, planned to encourage them to do their own thinking, and research, Dunlap said.

Since 1955 when OGD was organized, SUI alumni and friends have given $400,000 for projects at SUI such as scholarships, research and special library acquisitions. The fund supports projects of such a nature that they would not ordinarily be accomplished through state-appropriated funds.

The scholarship winners are:

- Charles Dodge, A3, Ames; Janis Bulgren, A4, Anamosa; John Wilson Jr., A3, Burt; Barbara Derr, A3, Cedar Rapids; Jo Frances McConnell, A3, Cedar Rapids; Judith Skalsky, A2, Cedar Rapids; Judith Wonders, A4, Clinton; Joe Harding, A3, Coralville.

- Martin Powers, A4, Delmar; James Ehrhardt, A3, Elkader; Linda Krane, A3, Fairfield; John Neuzil, A3, Hamburg; Charles Dick Jr., A3, Hampton; Carl Fackler, A3, Indianola; Eduardo Macagno, A3, Iowa City; Michael Martin, A3, Iowa City; William Orth, A2, Iowa City; Carla Shagass, A2, Iowa City.

- Elaine Higgins, A2, Lake View; Dean Mills, A3, Mt. Pleasant; Harold Gray, A1, New Hampton; Lois Kuchenbaker, A3, Olin; Dwight Eckel, A1, Shelby; Syndy McMillen, A2, Waterloo.
- Douglas Zahn, A2, Waverly; Stanley Verhoeven, A3, Woodland Hills, California; and Martha Logsdon, A2, Memphis, Tennessee.

Iowa in Facts and Figures Pictured in Compton's Book

Did you know the "smallest cathedral in the world" is St. Anthony's Chapel near Festina, Iowa? Did you know Ridotto in Pocahontas County, has a total population of 6?

These facts and many others about Iowa are included in the new 1963 Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia. Dr. Clyde F. Kohn, SUI professor of geography, and Dr. Henry Van Engen, head of the Department of Mathematics at Iowa State Teachers College, helped compile information on Iowa for the new volume.

The name Iowa came, according to Compton's, from an Indian word meaning "this is the place," or "beautiful land." The state nickname, the Hawkeye State, came from the name of a guide in James Fenimore Cooper's novel "The Last of the Mohicans." The name was first applied to Iowans and given publicity in 1838-39 by Judge David Rorer and James G. Edwards, a newspaper editor, both from Burlington.

Iowa is one of the nation's richest farm states, the volume explains. It has one fourth of the top-grade farm land in the United States and produces about one tenth of the country's food supply each year. Compton's notes that Iowa has more of its area in farms than any other state. (It has 175,000 farms.) It ranks at or near the top among the states in the production of corn, soybeans, hay, eggs, oats, and poultry and in the marketing of grain-fed cattle.

Iowa produces about one-fifth of the nation's hogs, more than any other two states. It markets more beef each year than any other state. The northeastern part of the state is often called "Little Switzerland" because of its production of milk and butter.

Iowa's industries include 3,500 manufacturing establishments that employ about one-fifth of the state's workers. The leading industries are food processing, non-lectrical and electrical machinery, printing and publishing and fabricated metal products.

At one time Iowa had the largest lead and zinc deposits in the world. These have now been worked out, leaving non-metallic minerals such as cement, stone, sand and gravel, as the chief mineral resources.

Gypsum, coal and clays are important. The average value of mineral production in Iowa is about $95 million a year.

Iowa has a population of 2,757,537, 53 per cent urban and 47 per cent rural. The state has 49.2 persons per square mile and ranks 28th in population density. About 2 per cent of the people are foreign born. Germans, Swedes, and English make up the most numerous members of foreign stock. Negroes make up less than 1 per cent of the population, and less than one half of one per cent are Indians.

Iowa's first schools were small private schools and students had to pay tuition. The first school was established in what is now Lee County in 1830. More than 40 private schools were established by the time Iowa was made a territory in 1838. Within 100 years Iowa had the lowest percentage of illiteracy of any state in the nation.

The first newspaper published in Iowa was the Du Buque Visitor, published in Dubuque between 1836 and 1837. Iowa now has 431 newspapers, according to Compton's Encyclopedia.

From east to west, Iowa's greatest width is 200 miles and its greatest length is 300 miles. The state's total area is 56,290 square miles and it ranks 25th among the states in size.

They Call Our Straight 'A' Averages Women Lazy, For 51 in Fall Semester Over-Sexed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A good many Europeans consider American women lazy, over-sexed, domineering, frivolous, or just plain lacking in good taste.

That and other conclusions were reported in 34 U.S. "prestige" polls conducted by the U.S. Information Agency (USIA) and made public Wednesday under an arrangement with a Congressional committee. All were a year or more old.

A September, 1960, study said people in Britain, France, West Germany and Italy had a "far from favorable" opinion of American youths and only a slightly better regard for U.S. women.

Those who had a "favorable" impression of American women amounted to only 11 per cent in France, 18 per cent in West Germany, 34 per cent in Britain and 36 per cent in Italy.

The U.S. women scored better with their feminine counterparts in Britain, France and Italy than with the males of those countries. In Germany it was the men who gave American women their best marks.

The polls also showed that President Kennedy took office in 1961 with a reservoir of international good will; that most Latin Americans had a "negative" attitude toward Fidel Castro in February, 1961; and that before the 1960 U-2 incident, former President Eisenhower's personal rating was far higher in West Germany than in Britain or France.

USIA Director Edward R. Murrow and Chairman John E. Moss (D-Calif.) agreed on a policy under which the polls will be released on a delayed basis. Some may be kept secret indefinitely if "the interest of national security requires them to remain classified."

Chamber's Membership Drive To Begin Soon

A Chamber of Commerce committee soon will begin approaching Iowa City business and professional men in an attempt to interest them in Chamber membership.

A list of non-members has been compiled and committee persons will contact potential members throughout the year. Committee chairman is Lawrence T. Wade.

Congratulating the SUI students, Dewey B. Stuit of the College of Liberal Arts said, "Though the earning of a straight 'A' average is a noteworthy accomplishment, we hope most of all that it will be a stimulus to further achievement.

"Success in any endeavor is a blend of ability and motivation, plus dedication to the attainment of a goal. Your records indicate that you have learned well the importance of this formula," he added.

The straight "A" students are: Charles Dodge, A3, Ames; Mrs. Janis Bulgren, A4, Anamosa, fourth semester of straight A's; Carolyn McKenzie, A4, Baxter; Barbara Bro, A1, Brayton; Ellen Snyder, A3, Burlington; Philip DeVoe, A3, Cedar Rapids.

Daniel Jones, A2, Cedar Rapids; Mary Lundquist, A2, Cedar Rapids, second semester of straight A's; Linda Rebeck, A3, Cedar Rapids; Billy Wayson, A2, Center Point; Carol Hansen, A1, Clinton.

Catherine Bigot, A2, Des Moines; Jean Grubbs, A2, Des Moines; Carole Oyen, A4, Dubuque, second semester of straight A's; Shirley Muench, A2, Elkader.

James Mathews IV, A2, Farmersburg; Carol Potter, A2, Hartley; Reinhard Riessen, A3, Hartley, third semester of straight A's; Virginia Lisle, A4, Hastings; Mrs. Susan Eddins, Iowa City.

Mary Hazard, A4, Iowa City; Ruth Hieronymus, A2, Iowa City; William Ingram, A1, Iowa City; Robert Morris II, A2, Iowa City; John Parker, A4, Iowa City, second semester of straight A's; Carla Shagass, A2, Iowa City.

Eugene Olson, A3, Jewell; Jean Powell, Logan; Mrs. Sharrell Baum, A2, Manchester, third semester of straight A's; Arline Bohl, B.A., Feb. 1963, Marble Rock, second semester of straight A's; Marjorie Rush, A4, Marango, second semester of straight A's.

Gavin Collins, Mason City; Gerald McCold, A2, Mason City; Toni Graff, A2, Olin; Karen Wilson, A2, Ottumwa; Ivan Hasselbusch, A2, Stanwood; Charlotte Hansen, A4, Storm Lake, second semester of straight A's.

Ronald Linde, A2, Swea City; Sara Brogan, A3, Thornton; Scott Stamos, A2, Tipton; Syndy McMillen, A2, Waterloo, third semester of straight A's; John Graber, A3, Wayland, second semester of straight A's; Rolena Klahn, A3, Wilton Junction.

Stewart Guthrie, A5, Miami, Florida; Sharon Graham, A1, Quincy, Illinois; Marianne Brunst, A3, River Forest, Illinois; Marjorie Carson, A1, Rockford, Illinois; Lynn Benson, A2, Rock Island, Illinois; Lucy Warner, B.A., in Feb. 1963, Vinalhaven, Maine; Melinda Ciancy, Trenton, Missouri.

Interviewing In Full Swing For Spring

The Business and Industrial Placement Office, 107 University Hall, has planned interviews with several companies for students interested in sales, accounting, finance or physics.

Some of the companies interviewing on campus this spring would also like to talk with well-qualified juniors or graduate students who wish to get orientation experience through summer work.

Twenty representatives from 12 companies will be interviewing seniors and graduate students for permanent employment during the week of March 4-8.

They are General Motors, Detroit, Mich.; McGladrey, Hansen, Dunn and Company, Cedar Rapids; LaSalle National Bank, Chicago; Penn Mutual Life Insurance Company, Des Moines; Hallmark Cards, Inc., Kansas City, Mo.; Detroit National Bank; General Mills, Inc., Minneapolis; Northwestern Bell Telephone Company, Des Moines; Western Electric, Chicago; American Telephone and Telegraph Company, Kansas City, Mo., and American Bakeries, Chicago.

Openings in the companies are in the areas of data processing, mathematics, sales, sales promotion, accounting, market research, production and management training programs in banking and insurance. Hallmark is particularly interested in talking with students who have shown talent in writing, art and design.

Most of these positions can be filled by men and women who are inexperienced or who have had some experience and who have a B.A. or masters degree in any major.

Students may get additional information from the Placement Office, 107 University Hall.

Reservations for the luncheon meeting may be made with Mrs. Paul Long at 8-0494 by Thursday. The meeting is open to all interested women.

Medical Meet

The Johnson County Medical Society will hold its March meeting Wednesday at 6 p.m. in the Mayflower. Louis T. Palumbo, M.D., Chief of Surgical Service at Veterans Administration Hospital, Des Moines, will speak on "Duodenal Ulcer."

Named to Workshop

Kenneth P. Uhl, assistant professor of marketing, has been selected by the University of California at Berkeley to participate in its Research Workshop in Marketing this summer.

Renamed to Committee

William D. Paul, M.D., professor of the Rehabilitation Unit of Children's Hospital, has been reappointed a member of the Committee on Medical Aspects of Sports of the American Medical Association (AMA).

Voice Recital

Guy A. Hargrove Jr., G. Hughes, Ark., will present a voice recital Saturday at 8 p.m. in South Music Hall.

Temperature, Humidity Correlated to Learning

Using a specially-designed school building, SUI researchers have found that students' learning can be increased if optimum temperature and humidity conditions are maintained in the classroom.

Sociologist To Lecture Tuesday in Old Capitol

Professor George A. Lundberg, author and researcher in sociology, will speak on "How to Live With People Who Are Wrong" at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol.

On March 18, he will deliver a second lecture at SUI on "Some Neglected Aspects of the Minority Group Problem."

Formerly head of the Department of Sociology at the University of Washington, Lundberg holds a Ph.D. degree from the University of Minnesota and an LL.D. degree from the University of North Dakota.

Professor Lundberg's lectures at SUI are being sponsored by the SUI Department of Sociology and Anthropology and the Graduate College.

Toboggan Party
Toboggan party for the United Campus Christian Fellowship members will be held Friday. Those attending will meet at the Disciples Student Center at 7 p.m.

If planning to attend, please sign sheets at the student centers, or call one of the offices by noon Friday.

Hot chocolate and popcorn will be served at anytime during the evening at the center.

Konopa Writes Article
An article written by Leonard J. Konopa, associate professor of marketing, is currently appearing in the Journal of Retailing, published by the New York University School of Retailing.

The article entitled "Are Work Simplifications Systems Adaptable to Retailing?" deals with a study made to determine if the principles of industrial work simplification were applicable to retailing.

According to Konopa, the work simplification techniques pioneered by Frank Gilbreth can be adapted to the retailing process with certain limitations and exceptions.

Ojemann To Speak
Ralph Ojemann, professor of child welfare, will speak on "What Kind of Discipline for Adolescents?" at a meeting of the Iowa City Child Study Club Saturday at 12:30 p.m. in the Union.

Reservations for the luncheon meeting may be made with Mrs. Paul Long at 8-0494 by Thursday. The meeting is open to all interested women.

Ticket Sales Start for SUI Festival

The eighth annual International Festival, "Spring Festival," will present stage performances by students from 18 countries in the Main Lounge of the Union on March 9-10.

Tickets will go on sale today at $1 for adults and 50 cents for children under 14 at Whetstone's Drug Store, Campus Record Shop and the Information Desk of the Union.

The stage show, which includes skits, folk dances, folk songs, and instrumental performances, will start at 7:30 p.m. March 9 and at 2:30 p.m. March 10.

Fourteen countries and groups of nations will install booths, in which they will display handicrafts, jewelry, fabrics, pictures and arts. The booths are open an hour before and after the stage presentations. Students will attend the booths, explaining displays and answering questions.

Because the festival is international, the United States will participate both in stage performance and booth display, in the Main Lounge of the Union, according to Barbara Derr, A3, Cedar Rapids, chairman of the preparatory committee.

The International Festival started in 1954 through the cooperation of Associated Women Students (AWS) and the International Center as a project in which American and foreign students work together and familiarize themselves with different cultures.

The AWS Foreign Student Committee of six chairmen and about 40 coeds, is now working with the foreign students committee composed of Aree Sakarin, G, Thailand; Des Collins, G, Australia; and Inder Khara, G, India.

The festival is open also to people in nearby communities. The Des Moines Register will carry an article and picture of three SUI foreign coeds in national costumes on the cover of its magazine this Sunday.

Chairmen of AWS committees are: Barbara Derr, A3, Cedar Rapids, general chairman; Ann Howard, A3, Cresco, stage committee chairman and mistress of ceremonies at the stage show; Brooke Morris, A2, Cedar Rapids, finance; Becky Ross, A3, Shenandoah, art; Roli Klahn, A3, Wilton Junction, booth; Linda Krane, A3, Fairfield, publicity.

Countries represented in the stage performances will be Mexico and Cuba as a group, the United Kingdom, Pakistan, Belgium, Korea, Germany, the Arab World, China, Israel, India, the Philippines, Japan and the United States.

Countries having booths will be Africa as a group, the Arab World, Canada, Cuba and Mexico, China, Germany, Greece, India, Japan, Korea, Pakistan, the Philippines, the United Kingdom and the United States.

Matrix Nominations
Nominations forms for the student Matrix Award winner are due at 205 Communications Center by Friday. The nomination forms were sent out to all women's housing units and to major women's organizations.

The student Matrix award winner is a senior coed selected on the basis of outstanding service and leadership on campus. She will be named at the Matrix Table Banquet March 21. Also named at the Banquet will be an Iowa City Matrix Award winner selected from nominations submitted by the city's women's organizations.

The Banquet is sponsored annually by Theta Sigma Phi, professional fraternity for women in journalism, to honor outstanding campus and community women leaders.

CIA Favors Restoration In Relations with Cuba

Restoration of U.S. diplomatic and trade relations with Cuba was supported by a majority of the members of the Iowa City Consensus on International Affairs (CIA).

The results of the CIA member poll showed that 68 respondents supported both propositions under consideration.

The propositions were:
1. We urge the U.S. Government to take immediate steps to re-establish diplomatic, cultural, and trade relations with Cuba.

2. We also suggest that the United States, working through the Organization of American States, take the lead in the formulation and early implementation of a regional disarmament plan covering countries in the Caribbean area, in Central America and in South America.

Fourteen respondents supported neither proposition, while 11 supported the first proposition but not the second.

The CIA is a group which polls its members on major questions of foreign policy, then sends the results to press and government officials.

School Prayer Conflict Erupts In High Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court heard arguments Wednesday in two new religion-in-school cases with two of the justices in open conflict over the issue. A sharp rift between justices Potter Stewart and Hugo Black became obvious shortly after arguments began on challenges to the reading of the Bible and the Lord's Prayer in Baltimore and Philadelphia schools. Six other justices questioned the attorneys before them frequently but displayed none of the friction that prevailed between Stewart and Black. Justice Tom C. Clark was the only one who did not raise any open questions.

In the hotly-disputed decision last term that outlawed the reading of a state-written prayer in New York schools, Stewart was the only dissenter while Black wrote the majority opinion.

The Baltimore case was the first on the hearing docket. It arose from a 1905 rule that reading of the Bible and/or recitation of the Lord's Prayer without comment should be conducted in the city schools.

Mrs. Madalyn E. Murray, who is bringing up her son, William Murray III, as an atheist protested the practice even though objecting pupils could be excused from the brief ceremonies.

Stewart interrupted when Mrs. Murray's attorney, Leonard J. Kerpelman, referred to a "wall of separation between church and state."

The justice said there was no such language in the Constitution and questioned Kerpelman's interpretation.

Top College Post To SUI Alumnus

Dr. J. Kenneth Donahue, a 1930 graduate of SUI, has been appointed president of Utica College of Syracuse University, Utica, N. Y. He has been acting dean of the college since August, 1962.

Donahue is the first chief executive of the college to be called president. Because of the growth of the college and the increased duties of the chief executive, he was appointed president rather than dean, according to William P. Tolley, chancellor.

Donahue earned his M.A. degree in 1932 and his doctorate in 1933 at Princeton University.

He is the author of over 30 research papers and articles in the fields of endocrine physiology, blood circulation, and science education. He is a member of the Society for Experimental Biology and Medicine, the American Society of Zoologists, Sigma Xi, and National Research Society.

Candidates Due For Union Board

All students who have in the past years run in the all-campus elections for Union Board are eligible to submit their names for placement on the ballot in this year's election, March 27.

If interested, students must submit their name, address, phone number, and college they will be representing at the New Information Desk in the Union by March 8 at 5 p.m.

Students interested in serving on the Board from the Graduate College, College of Medicine, College of Law, College of Dentistry, and College of Pharmacy should notify Board President Chuck Corwin at 338-5798 of their interest by March 8.

Check Forgers Plead Guilty; Handed Stiff Sentences by Court

A 19-year-old Nebraska parolee Tuesday was sentenced to three years in prison after pleading guilty in District Court of conspiring to cash a forged check here.

David A. Vallier was involved in a scheme along with George A. Longan, 40, Springfield, Mo., to cash a check at a bank here. The two were arrested Feb. 4 after a call from bank employees to the police.

Judge James P. Gaffney sentenced Vallier to the Anamosa Men's Reformatory. Longan, a veteran of prison terms in three states, was sentenced to 10 years in the Ft. Madison Penitentiary.

The two had tried to cash checks simultaneously at two local banks using forged signatures of Iowa City businessmen.

17-Car Derailment

Seventeen cars of a 34-car Rock Island "piggy-back" freight train derailed at Victor Wednesday afternoon and tore up tracks for more than a city block. Railroad officials at the scene thought the damage might total about $200,000. Derailment was attributed to a broken axle on one freight car. —Photo by Bill Schindhelm

Big Campus Vote Will Mean Big Expenditure, Senate Told

According to a report submitted by Quentin Miller, G. Des Moines, at the Student Senate meeting Tuesday night, the All-Campus elections this year will cost more than ever before. However, he assured the Senate that the increase will be borne by the Senate alone.

Miller explained that in order to have a maximum number of students participate in the voting, there is a bigger need to publicize the election. Other campus organizations will have to contribute their fair share to the election expense, he said.

Willard Boyd, professor of law and chairman of the University Committee on Human Rights, reported that the various subcommittees needed to facilitate the work of his committee have been established.

He told the Senate that his committee did not expect to come with recommendations instantaneously. "However," he said,

Lions Club Briefed On Law Work

The goal of six police officers who founded the Iowa Association of Chiefs of Police 56 years ago was to raise law enforcement to a more professional level and to improve law enforcement said O. A. White, Iowa City retired police chief, to the Lions Club here Wednesday.

White, now president of the Iowa Association of Chiefs of Police and Peace Officers, discussed the history of the organization which adopted its present name in 1915.

The yearly training session held for sheriffs, deputies, city council members, justices of the peace, and anyone interested in law enforcement is the outstanding program offered by the association, White said.

Of this year's program, FBI agents will discuss unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, suicide, the law of search and seizure, and equipment nomenclature. About 750 to 1,000 men are expected to attend this year's session.

A new topic of the session will be treatment of the mentally ill. White explained that police officers are often the first to come in contact with the mentally ill.

White stressed lobbying as an important function of the association. Currently the organization is backing a proposed bill to completely revise the Iowa juvenile court laws.

Mob Disrupts Johnson Visit In Dominican

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (UPI) — Rifle-swinging military police charged a mob of pro-Communist demonstrators screaming anti-U.S. slogans Wednesday as the Dominican Republic inaugurated its first constitutional president in 34 years. U.S. Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson witnessed the outburst.

The inaugural parade of Juan Bosch, 53, was broken up by the anti-American demonstration by about 100 youths who were identified as sympathizers of Venezuela's Communist Armed Forces of National Liberation (FALN), the group which recently hijacked a Venezuelan freighter.

Johnson, Venezuelan President Romulo Betancourt and other foreign dignitaries were hustled from the parade reviewing stand by security guards to the safety of a nearby building when police and the youths clashed in the street.

Most of the youth — chanting anti-U.S. slogans — were wearing gray sweatshirts apparently as a uniform. At least 10 bleeding from head wounds were taken to jail. The others scattered.

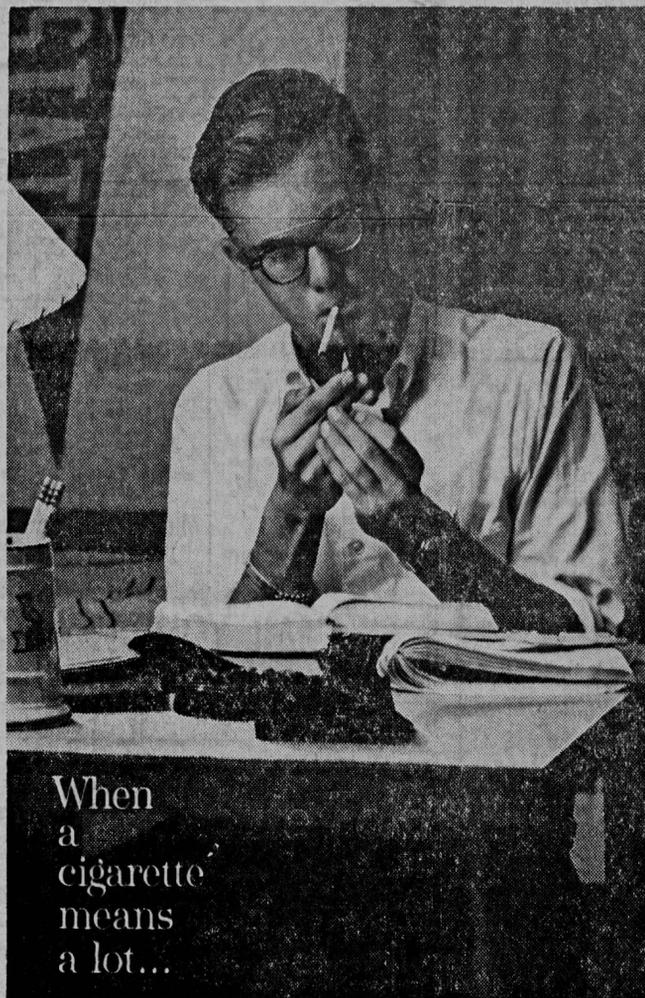

The remainder of the inaugural military parade was suspended after the clash.

The pro-Communist youths earlier threw sand into the faces of Venezuelan Marines marching in the parade, but the Venezuelans, with military discipline, remained in ranks and refused to be provoked by the insults of the youths.
