The missile was propelled about 65 feet from its horizontal position on the launcher, but fell into the 25-foot earthen embankment surrounding the site as a safety device, he said.

Good Chance for More Funds, Legislators Say

By DENNIS BINNING Staff Writer

State Representatives Bruce Mahan and Scott Swisher indicated in an interview with The Daily Iowan Friday that Iowa will have a three per cent sales tax and that chances are good that the 60th General Assembly will appropriate more funds for state supported colleges than Gov. Harold Hughes has suggested.

Swisher, an Iowa City attorney, said that pending tax revisions would figure greatly in how much money the Legislature will allot for higher education. He termed the three per cent sales tax a "major tax increase" which would net the state between $40-$50 million. He said there were already many hands being outstretched for the anticipated funds, but he had hopes that some of the money would be set aside for higher education.

"We have to make that third cent count," he said.

Mahan, Dean Emeritus of SUI's Extension Service Division, concurred that tax revisions would be important to the fate of Board of Regents appropriation requests. Mahan said that there had not been any major opposition to the sales tax increase and that it would probably be passed this session.

Both men indicated that there is serious concern in Des Moines over finding the money necessary to replenish the state treasury. Mahan, who has a seat on the House Ways and Means Committee, said that the state is looking for around $60 million. They both said that the treasury has been seriously depleted last session.

The Legislature as a whole was described by Swisher as being very enlightened about the needs of the University and the problems facing higher education in general. He felt that the general climate in the capitol was very good for SUI's requests as well as those of the State College of Iowa and Iowa State University. "Decisions concerning Regent budgets will be knowledgeable decisions," he said. "Those who do not know will listen to reason and argument before deciding."

Mahan said that he had been watching the state Legislature "since 1923 and the climate has changed (there) from one of skepticism and doubt to a genuine understanding of the needs of higher education." "As far as I can tell," he continued, "there certainly is no basic hostility towards higher education in the House."

Swisher and Mahan strongly suggest that there will be quite an attempt made to increase Regent appropriations for higher education over those proposed by Gov. Hughes. All indications are that the appropriation bills will be considered around the end of April and, it is hoped, right after the tax bills have been passed.

Swisher said he expects a "vital controversy" to result from SUI's asking for $600,000 to be added to its starting base for the coming biennium to offset the greater and more expensive program diversity at SUI. "Iowa State is already squawking," said Swisher. He described the so-called fair share request by SUI as "an honest and vital need."

Mahan said that he didn't believe anyone could doubt that SUI costs are not the same as the two other state supported colleges.

Swisher described the SUI budget as "having no water in it." He doubted, however, whether the requested faculty funds would put SUI in its hoped-for third rank position in the Big Ten longer than one year. He pointed out that other state legislatures were working on the faculty salary problem and, as everyone seems to be coveting, third place no one knows at this time where SUI will stand. He did say he believed that, at minimum, the additional salary funds would be an adequate "catch up" appropriation.

Both Mahan and Swisher have strategic committee seats in the House. Mahan is on the House Ways and Means Committee and the Committee on Institutions of Higher Learning. Swisher is on the House Appropriations Committee and the sub-committee on Board of Regents Appropriations. They are back in Iowa City during the mid-point break in the current legislative session. State Senator D. C. Nolan, Iowa City attorney, was out of town and not available for interview.

Oil Find Could Foretell Boom

Plans Set To Stir Interest in Election

An elections pep rally, house-to-house skits, banners and billboards all are in the planning stages for the upcoming All-Campus elections campaigning. Each stage of the elections publicity work is calculated to interest the SUI student body to vote for the candidate of his choice March 27, according to Jeanne Berg, N2, Peoria, Ill., publicity chairman.

Billboards and banners downtown and along the most frequently trod sidewalks in the city will begin appearing within the next few weeks.

Peanuts was chosen as the election publicity theme because of its familiarity and eye-catching appeal, according to Miss Berg.

Fraternities and sororities can expect to be visited by in-the-flesh Peanut characters about a week before election day, she said.

"The skits won't be long and we'll make an effort to pay these visits during the supper hour so as to reach as many of the students as possible."

The pep rally is scheduled for election eve, and will be a forum for the presidential and Senate candidates, according to Miss Berg. Each candidate will be given about five minutes to make a last-minute appeal to the voters.

"Something new and different that we're trying this year," Miss Berg continued, "is a series of taped interviews for WSUI to be aired as close to election day as possible."

"These will involve only the candidates for Student Body President and will offer the student who hasn't yet heard the candidates a chance to form an opinion about their speaking ability and their response to rapid-fire questions."

"We're doing all we can to make this the biggest vote in SUI history," Miss Berg concluded. "The rest depends on the reaction of the student body."

Publishers, Printers Close To Agreement In Newspaper Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Publishers and printers reached agreement Friday on a formula for ending New York's three-month newspaper blackout. But eight closed dailies still appeared at least a week away from resuming publication.

The formula was proposed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

The shutdown has cost the industry alone at least $100 million. Fringe losses to the business community as a whole were incalculable.

Publishers and leaders of striking Local 6, AFL-CIO International Typographical Union, accepted Wagner's non-binding recommendations in the early hours of the morning. The package will be spread over a two-year contract span.

Bertram A. Powers, president of Local 6, said he and his negotiating committee, wanted to reject Wagner's recommendations. But top national officials of the ITU accepted the terms, and Powers said the local committee will recommend adoption by the membership.

However, contract language and some unresolved minor issues remained to be worked out before a new contract can be submitted to 3,000 Local 6 printers for a ratification vote. A union spokesman said the vote could not be held before late next week.

Also, eight other newspaper craft unions are pressing for new contracts with the Publishers Association of New York, including two that joined the printers strike, the mailers and the stereotypers.

There was no immediate indication whether the price of newspapers would go up as a result of a settlement that will increase newspaper costs by about $18.5 million over the two-year span. New York's four morning papers have been selling for 5 cents a copy, and the five afternoon papers at 10 cents.

Fears had been expressed that the strike settlement might force one or more of the New York papers out of business. President Kennedy raised this point at one time during the strike.

The ITU strike began at 2 a.m. Dec. 8, when printers walked out at the Times, Daily News, Journal-American and the World Telegram & Sun.

Two Get Approval To Run for Senate

Max Peterson, L2, Iowa City, and Seymour Gray, A2, Iowa City, have been accepted as valid candidates for Student Senate positions, according to Mike Schiavoni, A2, Burlington, chairman of the All-Campus Elections Committee.

The ruling procedures of the two, running for married student representative and town men representative respectively, were questioned because there was some doubt if they were legitimate candidates.

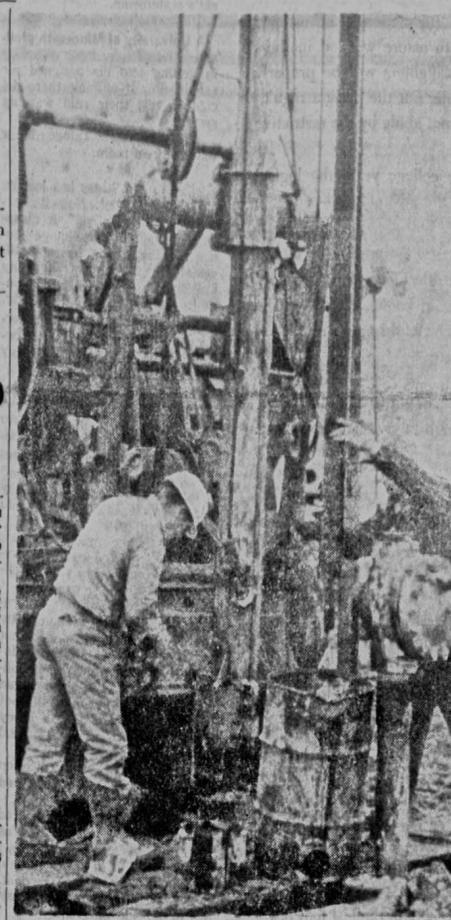

Schiavoni said, however, that the misunderstanding has been cleared up and both names will appear on the ballot March 27.

Senator Rakes GOP Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield Friday accused Senate Republicans of "panic politics" and of "prowling over the dead" in raking over the loss of four American fliers in the Bay of Pigs invasion.

His attack was aimed generally at senators who he said have discussed Cuba "without restraint." But he was particularly irked with Senate GOP Leader Everett M. Dirksen, who brought up the question of the dead pilots.

Although the story was published almost two years earlier in the New York Times, he said, critics of Administration Cuba policy permitted the impression to "gain national and international credence" that "this tragic news has been suppressed by the Kennedy Administration."

900 Evacuated During City High Bomb Scare

More than 900 Iowa City High School students got an unscheduled vacation Friday when the school building was evacuated because of a bomb threat.

No bomb was found during a search by Iowa City firemen and policemen.

According to Buford Garner, Iowa City Superintendent of Schools, the incident started when an unidentified male telephoned the Principal's Office. The caller said, "There is a bomb in the high school building that will explode between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.," and then hung up.

Garner said that Robert Sorenson, City High principal and the School Board decided to evacuate the building.

At 9:42 a.m. a message was sent over the school's intercom system ordering all students and teachers to leave the building, and classes were dismissed for the remainder of the day. Garner said that the building was emptied within 10 minutes.

Garner said the evacuation was taken because "there's always that one-in-a-thousand chance that something may really happen."

Jack Barrows, a sophomore, said he was "dressed for gym class" when "the instructor came running in and told us to leave." Another student said most students "took

Keota Deposit Gives Promise: More—Maybe

Well Now Produces 10 Barrels a Day; Move Over Texas!

After years of searching and many test drillings with no significant oil yield, officials of the Iowa Geological Survey in Iowa City were skeptical of the clues prompting their announcement Friday that oil had been found in the state.

A deposit of black, smelly crude oil was discovered on a farm 30 miles southwest of Iowa City by a natural gas company seeking an underground gas storage reservoir. Although extremely small in comparison with the commercial wells of Texas and Oklahoma, the Iowa deposit is the first such discovery in the state although it is not now known to be commercially producible.

The initial production is expected to be about 10 barrels a day.

"We have more than 14,000 sets of samples from fruitless drillings, and when this thing came through we just didn't believe it," said Charles N. Brown, assistant state geologist. The Geological Survey is not in the drilling business, he said, but under Iowa law anyone who drills for oil must notify and work in cooperation with the Geological Survey.

The Iowa Geological Survey, with headquarters on the SUI campus, took part in the exploration on the William F. Flynn farm northeast of Keota in Washington County. The drilling was done by the Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America.

Eighteen wells have been drilled in the area over the past three months, although only the No. 1 Flynn well is being tested.

The Keota well has an estimated initial production of only about 10 barrels of oil a day, and the oil is "heavy" and needs considerable refining.

The oil "dome" was found at a depth of 900 feet in porous limestone deposited 450 million years ago, Brown said. It now appears that the oil deposit covers an area of about 10 square miles. The average depth is not known.

It's doubtful that the accumulation can be produced at a profit, Brown said, but testing is continuing to determine if a commercial operation might be developed.

"This discovery is vitally important to Iowa because it is the first bona fide find in the state holding promise of being producible. The possibility of economically important oil deposits in Iowa can be viewed much more optimistically now than ever before, no matter what the outcome in the Keota area," he said.

Mecca Search Begins Sunday

The search for the Mecca stone, part of the annual Mecca week activities of the College of Engineering, will begin Sunday at 1 p.m.

Participants are to meet in the Associated Students of Engineering (ASE) Lounge, in the Engineering Building.

To start off the proceedings, graduate students in engineering hide clues and the stone.

John Thompson, E4, Hawarden, is in charge of the hunt, which continues throughout Mecca week until the stone is found.

The stone must be hidden within a twenty-five mile radius of Iowa City. Last year it was discovered in a cemetery near Hills.

In past years it has become the custom for law students, who frown on engineering as a profession, to compete with the engineers for the stone.

Estimate Needed

STOCKPORT, England — Stockport's longhairs will have to get a cost estimate in the future.

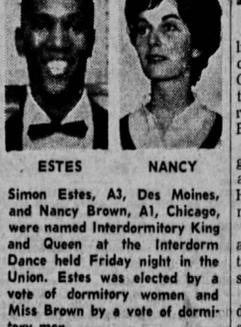

The barbers decided the standard price of 52 cents wouldn't apply to mopheads any more because of the work involved.

"We are sick of these long-haired Johnnies," complained Charles Septon, secretary of the local branch of the Hairdressers' Federation.

The price of a haircut for the hairy ones will be left to the barber concerned, Septon said.

"Estimates will be free, of course," he said.

Mom and Dad Need Top Billing

MOM MAY SOON be back in style at SUI. Having lost some of her rights as mater to that Alma Mater, she could reclaim them under the terms of a resolution passed by the Student Senate Feb. 26.

The fate of the proposal now is in the hands of the Committee on Student Life (CSL). The Committee will discuss the proposal either Tuesday, at a special meeting, or at a later meeting next month.

If it is approved, Mom (and Dad), and not the University, would decide whether their son or daughter could live in housing not approved and controlled by the University. Introduced by Student Senator Jim Kelley, the proposal would allow any SUIowan of sophomore or above standing to live anywhere he wants, provided his parents give the University a notarized statement approving the privilege.

COMMITTEE ON STUDENT LIFE has demonstrated in the past that it is no longer willing to accept regulations formed in another age to govern the students of the present one. In the last two years, for example, they lowered age requirements for unapproved housing from 23 to 21 and liberalized undergraduate women's hours.

In the light of this trend, we have high hopes for Kelley's resolution. Our only fear for its approval by CSL is based on the traditional reluctance of Iowa educators (and legislators) to "turn the kids loose on college campuses."

That's where Mom comes in. Restrictions of off-campus housing presumably exist now to assure worried mothers and fathers that their sons or daughters will be properly supervised when away from home. But the present regulations ignore the parents who do not abide by the restrictive theory of child-rearing.

Many parents consider the college years the logical time for their children to learn the advantages — and the problems — of independence.

That is precisely why the new proposal is a logical solution to the controls, no-controls dichotomy. It would allow parents, who logically should know better than the University, to decide whether their child needs restriction or independence.

We have sentimental attachments to the Alma Mater, but at her best she can only be a stand-in. We hope CSL believes in the real product enough to give her top billing.

Partisan Politics— A New Role?

PARTISAN POLITICS hardly raised its head during the first half of the Iowa legislative session. There are indications that it will play a more important role after the Legislature returns March 11 from its recess.

Representative Paul Knowles (R-Davenport) has accused Democratic Gov. Harold Hughes of hurting the chances of liquor by the drink legislation by estimating the possible revenue yield at only $2,500,000. This frankly was stated as an answer to criticism by Hughes of Republican leaders for not having pushed the bill to a vote earlier.

This may be only a flurry or may mean that the bipartisan honeymoon in Iowa government is beginning to lose some warmth. The air is filled with rumors of tactical moves and strategy plans.

A heightening of political activity in the last half of the session can be expected logically. What should be avoided is the hard enmity and bitter personal feeling which prevents compromise and settlement on such vital questions as taxes and appropriations. Both sides have wisely avoided the perils of irreconcilability so far and should continue to do so. Sound compromise is the best politics for the taxpayers.

On Other Campuses

By JOHN KLEIN
Exchange Editor

A campaign by a Michigan legislator to stop Communist party speakers from appearing at Michigan Universities was soundly quashed, at least for awhile, when Michigan legislators defeated his anti-Communist speaker proposal last week.

Richard Guzowski (D-Detroit) proposed an amendment to the Michigan constitution which would bar Communist speakers from state-supported schools. The motion was defeated 75 to 6.

After the motion was rejected, Guzowski stood up and told his fellow representatives: "I'm sorry to say you have just welcomed the Communist party into Michigan."

He had previously warned his colleagues that a no vote on his motion "is a vote for communism." The statement drew heated response from other representatives.

Guzowski charged the presidents of Wayne State University, Detroit, and Michigan State University with permitting known Communists to speak at their schools.

He called upon the presidents "to step aside from their official capacity until these serious charges against them are cleared."

University of Michigan president, Harlan Hatcher, said later that he didn't expect "any real trouble" to grow out of Guzowski's statements.

A University of Minnesota graduate student may have difficulty in getting into his assigned air raid shelter if officials there decide to test their raid warning system.

His designated refuge is a women's rest room.

"The United States has lost its old frontier spirit. Now it's extremely conservative," a disappointed Japanese exchange student at the University of California told a reporter of The Daily Californian. Apparently he is unimpressed with the New Frontier.

"Trade unions show this American conservatism. They have become somewhat senile and they have lost their ideals."

With this opening Kyoje Tabata, 27, exchange graduate student at Cal, began a somewhat random critique of American institutions.

Tabata said although the students here study very hard and accumulate knowledge here, they seem to lack political minds and imagination.

"There is too much emphasis on grades. The educational system seems to be very very small-minded," Tabata remarked.

Switching to student government, the Japanese exchange student said: "Student leaders do not seem to express their free opinions against administration policies. It is natural to see students cooperate with the University but students should keep in mind they sometimes have to take critical attitudes."

The degree of standardization is something which Tabata had not expected. Tabata, who is living in a fraternity at Cal, pointed to the fraternity system there as an example of conformity.

"They are all so similar," said the Japanese graduate student. "In Japan people are more sensitive to delicate differences."

Tabata was surprised by the importance of religion in America. He also felt the moral standards of this country are very high. Almost "too high" according to the Daily Californian report.

Tabata, who is the Japanese national chairman of the Japanese Socialist Student Organization and an executive member of the International Union of Socialist Youth, is studying at Cal in connection with a foreign student exchange program. He has been studying medicine in Japan but is pursuing political science at Cal.

The John Crosby Column—

Jean Seberg — the Lead In a B-Picture Shipwreck

By JOHN CROSBY
New York Herald Tribune

PARIS — I had lunch with Jean Seberg, the movie star, just after she had been shipwrecked on a boat going from Tangier in Morocco to Algieras in Spain. Miss Seberg won wide praise in the French press for quieting panicky passengers and taking care of the babies. In fact, the whole thing sounded like a bad movie.

"How do people behave in a shipwreck?" I asked.

"Like in a bad movie script," said Miss Seberg promptly. "In fact, I got the clear impression I'd seen all this before. And of course I had. On many screens. First there was a mouse of a man, the kind you least expected to act calmly in a situation like that. And of course he was a tower of strength. Then the guy who looked the most like a tower of strength went all to pieces on the second night. Just like in the movies. The old Hollywood switcheroo."

MISS SEBERG was aboard the Ciudad Tarafa, a ferry which normally takes only a couple of hours to ply between Africa and the Spanish coast. She took the boat because she's afraid of airplanes. The boat promptly ran into one of the worst storms in 20 years near Algieras, where it threatened to break in half. The passengers were marooned there for 48 hours.

There was a whole village of Moroccan Jews aboard on their way to live in Israel, said Miss Seberg. "Among them were two blind women and three women with babies."

It sounded like something Cecil B. DeMille would have liked. Not nouvelle vague material at all. Miss Seberg is best known for her part in "Breathless," which was one of the earliest and most successful of the nouvelle vague movies. She played the part of a very bad little girl indeed.

"The decks were full of people praying very loud because they wanted God to hear," said Miss Seberg.

"THE SECOND NIGHT out, streaks of cowardice began to appear," continued Miss Seberg. "One man took several of us aside and suggested that we bribe a crew member to lower a boat and get away — just the four of us."

"And you indignantly rejected the suggestion," I said.

"Of course," said Miss Seberg indignantly.

"You'll never grow up to be Bette Davis if you act like that," I said. "You want to be an ingenue all your life? What were you doing in Morocco, anyway?"

"I was playing the same girl I played in 'Breathless' — a very bad girl," said Miss Seberg triumphantly.

"Are you still selling the Paris Herald Tribune on the streets of Paris the way you did in 'Breathless'?"

"No, I could never sell the Paris Herald Tribune again, not after what Art Buchwald wrote about me."

"What did Art Buchwald write about you?"

"HE WAS QUITE annoyed by the character I played in 'Breathless.' He said Herald Tribune girls never act like that. So in this picture I'm promoted — I'm a reporter."

Or So They Say

There is some justification in permitting a reasonably fast truck speed to facilitate the movement of traffic but 60 miles per hour is too fast.

Hawks Face Illinois in Finale

JOE REDDINGTON
Ends Career

By Staff Writer
PROBABLE LINEUPS

IOWA	Position	ILLINOIS
Dave Roach (6-4)	F (6-5)	Bob Starnes
Fred Riddle (6-3)	F (6-4)	Dave Downey
Jerry Messick (6-8)	C (6-8)	Bill Burwell
Jimmy Rodgers (6-3)	G (6-2)	Bill Small
Joe Reddington (6-1)	G (6-2)	Tal Brody

The Hawkeyes conclude their 1962-63 basketball campaign this afternoon as they take on title conscious Illinois.

The Illini are hoping for a victory over the Hawkeyes and a loss by league leading Ohio State at Indiana. Such a chain of events would give the Illini a tie with the Buckeyes and a birth in the NCAA Tournament.

This is a precarious position for Iowa as it seeks to break a four-game losing streak. Illinois holds a 87-76 victory over the Hawkeyes in January.

Leading the way for the Hawkeyes will be Dave Roach, who pumped in 21 points in Monday night's loss at Wisconsin. Coach Sharm Scheurman hopes that the rest of his team can find their scoring eyes and provide Roach with some help.

Stopping the Illini will be no easy task. Illinois has been averaging 36.7 points per game and have a field goal shooting percentage of .461. They have held opponents to only 77.2 points per game.

All five of the Illini's starters have scoring averages in double figures. Senior forward Dave Downey leads the team with 20.3 points a game. Guard Bill Small is second with a 17.2 average.

However, Coach Harry Combes is worried about his team's performance. The Illini attack sputtered against Northwestern on Monday night. Illinois eventually won the game 79-73.

Combes expressed belief that his team was tired Monday and has held only light practice sessions this week. He expects his team to be rested and raring to go for the Hawkeyes.

An Iowa victory would bring the Hawkeyes' conference record to 6-8. The five wins already accumulated by the Hawkeyes is considered successful when pre-season predictions are taken into account. But the sixth victory would put a shiny gloss on the finish.

The Hawkeyes will be banking on their defense, which has held some of the conference's top scorers to their all-time lows. The defense has held opponents to a 68.7 points per game average.

Scheurman will be using the same lineup that has been starting in previous games. Roach and Fred Riddle will be at the forwards. Roach has been providing the Hawks with their best scoring in conference games. He has developed a deadly jump shot and a fine sweeping hook.

Facing the Illini's Bill Burwell at the post position will be Jerry Messick, who will be playing his final game. If Messick could regain the scoring form he exhibited in mid-February, things could be tough for Illinois.

Captain Joe Reddington will take the court for the final game of his college career. Reddington has been an inconsistent scorer all season, but he is due for a good day.

The other guard position will be manned by Jimmy Rodgers. Rodgers was the Hawkeye's early season scoring leader but he has slumped in recent games. However, Rodgers has become a defensive star and will probably draw the assignment of guarding Illinois' Bill Small.

Other Hawkeyes seeing their final college action today will be Dick Shaw and Tom Purcell.

Big 10 Approves New Intent Plan

CHICAGO (AP)—Big Ten athletic leaders, closing their two-day March business meetings, formally approved an interconference letter of intent program and had a split reaction on two recruiting proposals Friday.

Faculty representatives and athletic directors, convening jointly, moved to join a program with the Big Eight, Southwest and other conferences and independent schools to curb free-for-all recruiting of prep stars through mutual respect for tender signings.

The Big Ten's action, however, must be reviewed by individual member schools and acted upon again at the conference spring meeting in Minneapolis May 17-18.

The joint group rejected a previously-approved proposal for permitting unlimited home visitation of prospective athletes by athletic staff members, but submitted a modified plan for approval at the May meeting.

However, another recruiting proposal—permitting athletic staff members to visit high schools, with permission of principals, to confer with prep athletic officials on a prospective athlete—was approved by the joint group and becomes effective immediately.

The letter of intent program on an interconference basis is a substitute for a national plan already twice rejected by the NCAA at its annual conventions.

The Big Eight and Southwest conferences already have a pact to respect signing of tenders after Feb. 15. The Big Ten's tender starting date is April 1. Under the interconference agreement, participating leagues and independents would observe a June 15 deadline for

Mahaffey Learns He Telegraphed Pitches During '62

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP)—Art Mahaffey won 19 games for the Philadelphia Phillies last season despite the fact he was telegraphing his pitches.

Richie Ashburn, the former New York Met now a member of the Phillies radio-television team, told Mahaffey National League hitters have been "reading" him for three seasons.

Ashburn, who played on the Phillies' 1950 National League champions, said the star right-hander has a glaring delivery fault that tips off opposing batters on whether to look for a curve or a fast ball.

Mahaffey was stunned by the revelation.

"Imagine," he said, "winning 19 games last season even though everybody and his brother knew what to look for."

"Now that I think about it, the whole thing figures. When I had my good stuff, I guess it really didn't matter. But any time I was not up to snuff those other teams got me out of there in a hurry." Mahaffey said he was going to work on hiding his pitches.

"Those hitters are going to be on their own from now on," he added.

INTRAMURAL SOFTBALL

Men in Hawkeye Apartments who are interested in intramural softball should sign up on their unit bulletin boards by Tuesday.

athletes changing to a school of final choice.

Any jumping of tenders then would bring a two-year ineligibility of the athlete involved.

The joint Big Ten group also: Approved Michigan's request to start football practice Aug. 26 instead of Sept. 1 because that calendar, will start class Sept. 3.

Asked basketball coaches to draft a trial 18-game conference schedule for study by the joint group as a possible replacement for the present 14-game card.

Tabled a proposal to switch conference basketball games from Monday to Tuesday nights, pending study of the 18-game loop slate.

Approved a Nov. 30 start of the basketball season when Dec. 1 falls on a Sunday.

Recommended discussion at the May meeting of a varsity summer sports program for future years in view of a likely trend toward a year-around academic calendar to accommodate mushrooming enrollment.

Clark Leads Golf Tourney

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—A one-time pro tournament regular, Jimmy Clark, shot a 7-under-par 65 in the second round of the $25,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament Friday.

The tremendous round pulled the 42-year-old Clark into a three-way tie for the lead at the halfway point.

Tied with the Huntington Beach, Calif., pro at 136 were two youngsters, Johnny Pott of Gulf Hills, Miss., and Bobby Nichols of Midland, Tex. Clark now has rounds of 71-65, Pott 68-68, and Nichols 70-66.

Bunched in fourth place at 137 were Arnold Palmer with 69-68, Julius Boros, 67-70, and Gay Brewer Jr., 68-69. Palmer won the 1960 Pensacola title.

The cutoff point was 144, even par for the 36 holes, and there were some notable casualties.

Those failing to make the cut included Don Fairfield, winner at Pensacola in the 1956 inaugural tournament; Doug Ford, 1958 titleholder; Ken Venturi, Jim Turnesa, Rex Baxter Jr., Al Geiberger, Tommy Aaron and Joe Campbell.

Clark, who played regularly on the tournament between 1950 and 1956 and returned for 1960, tied for the low round of the day with seven birdies and no bogies. His longest putt for a birdie was a 15-footer on the fourth hole. The others were of 10 feet or less.

Doug Sanders, the defending champion and one of four tied for the lead at 67 Thursday, soared to a 73. "I did everything wrong," Sanders said.

Another first round leader, Allan Henning, the 18-year-old from Johannesburg, South Africa, shot a 73, including a two-stroke penalty for practice putting on the 17th hole. "I should have read the rules but I didn't," Henning said. Gary Player, who like Palmer was plagued by putting difficulties slipped to a par 72 for 39. The South African missed birdie putts on numerous attempts from inside 8 feet.

Second round leaders were as follows:

Jimmy Clark	71-65-136
Bobby Nichols	70-66-136
Johnny Pott	68-68-136
Julius Boros	67-70-137
Gay Brewer Jr.	68-69-137
Arnold Palmer	69-68-137
George Bayer	68-70-138
Frank Boynton	69-69-138
Jack McGowan	73-65-138
Mason Rudolph	71-67-138

Gymnasts, Matmen In 2nd Place

3 Hawkeyes In Wrestling Finals Today

SPECIAL TO THE DAILY IOWAN

EVANSTON, Ill. — Three Hawkeye wrestlers advanced to finals Friday of the Big Ten wrestling meet being held here.

Norm Parker, 130 lbs., Tom Huff, 137 lbs. and captain Steve Combs, 167 lbs., will be after championships today.

Parker and Huff are defending champions. Parker won the 123-pound division last year while Huff copped the 137 pound title. Both men moved up one weight class for this year's competition.

The Hawkeyes enter today's action in second place in the team standings with 35 points. Michigan leads the meet with 42 points. The Wolverines also have three men in the final round.

Iowa Coach Dave McCuskey said chances of overhauling Michigan appear very slim. "They would have to lose all of their final round matches and we would have to win all of ours," he added. "I think we are in second place to stay," McCuskey said.

The only other Hawkeye with a chance to garner points is Joe Greenlee who will be competing for third or fourth place in the consolation final.

Runnels Satisfied With Winter Swap To Houston Colts

APACHE JUNCTION, Ariz. (AP)—Pete Runnels has found more than one silver lining in the trade which sent him from the Boston Red Sox to the Houston Colts.

Houston is his home town. Now he has a chance to become the first player since Ed Delahanty 60 years ago to win the batting championship in both leagues.

Speaking of the batting goal, the slender 6-foot Texan said:

"I'll have to make an adjustment in this league. My biggest problem will be to get to know the pitchers. But I've talked to fellows like Harvey Kuenn and Roy Sievers, and I've learned some things."

12-year veteran of the major leagues, the 35-year-old Runnels is quietly proud of his record with Washington and Boston. He has won two batting titles, both with the Red Sox, and has hit over .314 in each of his last five seasons.

Pete topped the American League in batting last year with .326, just two months before the Red Sox swapped him to the Colts for outfielder Roman Mejias.

"I expected it," Runnels said of the trade. "As soon as they got Dick Stuart from Pittsburgh, I knew I had played my last game for Boston. That was perfectly all right with me. I didn't relish the idea of sitting on the bench again."

From Greenwich Village—

Cassius at Bitter End amid Art, Poetry and Cole Slaw

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK — When your eyes became accustomed to the gloom, you could make out the motto of the house, written on the back wall:

"The further the um, the larger the beard."

Gathered Thursday beneath the sign proclaiming this touching, if confusing, sentiment — and a drawing of what appeared to be a large parrot spanking the posterior of a naked lady — were an assortment of beatniks, sports writers, television types and Cassius Marcellus Clay, the self-proclaimed next heavyweight champion of the world.

The scene was the Bitter End in Greenwich Village, described by its manager as a coffee house, night club and by the civilians from the outside world as fair game for the health department. The lights were few and dim, the furniture rickety, the stage backdrop a plain brick wall and the interior decoration might be described as Greenwich Village Precious.

Clay was there to indulge in a poetry battle with some of the Village's foremost beat poets, and to thump a tub or two for his 10-round battle with Doug Jones next Wednesday at Madison Square Garden.

The poetry battle was about a draw. Cassius cringed at the poetic efforts of the beats. The beats cringed at the efforts of Cassius.

One cretin with straight black hair and about a pound of black goo on her face — consulted an authentic beatnik — contended that Cassius' work had a soul, but she turned out to be a researcher for a weekly news magazine and was disqualified as a judge.

Cassius arrived in the Village just as lunch — cole slaw and chicken wings — was being served.

He immediately launched into an impromptu press conference, during which he repeated his prediction that Jones would fall in six, said he was saddened that all but one of the seven New York newspapers was on strike and said he was the world's greatest fighter because "I'm the most outspoken, the boldest, the fastest and the prettiest."

Then the poetry contest got under way.

A gentleman weighing about 106, with a fine head of skin and a thriving beard, was the first challenger. His shoes were shined but his manuscript looked like he had wadded it up and used it for a doorknob.

He read: The Way of Emblems, or Sam the Gambler Talks to a Losing Horse.

Cassius called him "about a four round poet."

Finally, a living doll with baby blue eyes and about six hanks of dirty brown hair hanging down her back — "If you'd wash her off, she'd be beautiful," one spectator said — read an Ode to Cassius.

"Do you have a flag in your palm?" it began.

Actually, Cassius held a copy of his poem in his palm, and soon he got up to read it.

It rhymed. It was the turn of the beats to squirm.

It was a little difficult for Cassius, since he had his tongue so firmly planted in his cheek, but he went through the poem reading twice.

Here's a sample stanza:

The word's been passed around that I'm a very charming guy.

The greatest fighter that ever lived and I'll gladly tell you why.

My secret is self-confidence, a champion at birth,

I'm lyrical, I'm fresh, I'm smart,

And my fists have proved my worth.

The self-described "Noblest Roman of them All" then accepted his own congratulations, all around.

Guthrie Center, Wellsburg Advance in Girls Tourney

By HARRIETT HINDMAN
Asst. Sports Editor

DES MOINES — Guthrie Center will play Wellsburg for the Girl's State Basketball Tournament championship here at 8 tonight.

Karen McCool, the state's top scorer, hit an 8 ft. jump shot with one second remaining to give Guthrie Center a 76-75 semi-final win over Everly.

As expected, the game was a scoring duel between McCool and Everly's Peg Petersen, the state's number two scorer. McCool finished the game with 47 points; Petersen with 41.

The close-fought first quarter saw the lead change hands six times with three points the biggest margin separating the teams.

Guthrie Center failed to score in the first two minutes of the second quarter and Everly took the opportunity to grab a 21 to 16 lead which lengthened to 10 points at 35 to 25 with a minute and a half remaining in the first half. Two jump shots by McCool and a push shot by four-foot-tall Sherry Smylie narrowed the margin to 39 to 33 at intermission.

Guthrie Center, which hit 49 per cent the second half compared to 35 the first, came back to lead 60 to 59 at the end of the third quarter of play during which McCool hit 8 field goals.

In the final quarter, Guthrie Center retained the lead until Petersen tied the score at 68 to 68 on two free throws. The lead then changed hands three times until Everly took a 73-72 lead with 2:24 remaining. The Cattle Feeders then started stalling but a traveling violation gave Guthrie Center possession, and McCool scored on a back handed layup with 34 seconds remaining to put the Tigerettes out in front, 74 to 73. Petersen's jump shot with 17 seconds remaining gave Everly the edge once again.

With five seconds to go Guthrie Center called time out, and as the clock started Pat Chalfant passed in to McCool who drove down the left side of the court and sank the winning basket as the buzzer sounded.

It was the second heartbreaking loss for Everly in state tournament play. The Cattle Feeders lost to Mediapolis, 77 to 75 in a double overtime in the semi-finals of the 1962 tournament.

Sixth ranked Wellsburg, the Cinderella team of the tournament defeated Southeast Warren, 39 to 74 Friday night to gain a berth in tonight's championship game. Southeast Warren was able to stay with the Wellsburg girls in the first quarter and led 25 to 23 at the end of that period but the second quarter saw Wellsburg take a 51 to 45 lead at half-time.

In the third quarter Southeast Warren was able to come within four points several times but the hot shooting of the Haupt sisters, Lois and Glenda, coupled with the strong zone defense employed by Wellsburg led the Wellsburg team to a comfortable 71 to 60 lead at the end of the third quarter which was never threatened.

The consolation game between Everly and Southeast Warren will be played starting at 6 p.m. tonight followed by the championship game between Guthrie Center and Wellsburg at 8 p.m.

Life on Venus? — It's Possible

WASHINGTON (AP) — That ancient but endlessly fascinating question — Does life exist on the other planets? — got another airing Friday in a darkened basement hearing room of Capitol Hill.

And it seems that all hope for Venus is not lost.

Last week the results of the historic space probe Mariner 2, which flew close by Venus, were announced. It turned out that the surface temperature of the earth's sister planet was 800 degrees Farenheit.

That apparently ruled out Venus as a possible habitat of some forms of life, leaving principally cold and arid Mars to keep the prospect alive.

Homer E. Newell, director of space sciences for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, had a new slant on it for members of the House space subcommittee.

Newell said recent experiments with balloons in the earth's upper atmosphere have proved that "at times the stratosphere does contain large numbers of micro-organisms."

And if it is found by future investigations that these micro-organisms "live out their entire life cycle at high altitudes," Newell said, "one may conclude that the question of whether life exists on Venus is not necessarily settled by the very high surface temperatures that appear to exist there."

As for Mars, Newell said "the truly exciting phase of the space biology program, when we shall place instruments on Mars in search of life on the red planet, is yet to come."

NASA now has a new and improved "sticky string" machine, called Gulliver. It would fire out two sticky strings, which are supposed to pick up living organisms on the surface of Mars.

Then the strings would be reeled back into a tank of nutrient solution. If live organisms were picked up they would burgeon and change the fluid. That tipoff would be radioed back to earth.

Ted Kennedy Apologizes To Newsman

BURLINGTON, Vt. (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) apologized by letter Friday to a Vermont news photographer for allegedly exposing a roll of film and damaging a camera at Stowe Feb. 23.

Kennedy, youngest brother of the President, offered his apologies to Philip N. Lawson, 21, of St. Albans, of the Vermont Sunday News of Burlington.

"My wife and I are truly sorry about last month's misunderstanding and hope that this letter will serve as a sincere apology for any difficulty it may have caused," Kennedy said.

Lawson said he accepted Kennedy's apology.

JFK Urges U.S.-Paid Defenders for Poor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy urged Congress Friday to authorize the use of government-paid public defenders in federal courts for individuals too poor to hire lawyers in criminal cases.

In submitting a bill that would create the public defender system, the President said it would "diminish the role which poverty plays in our federal system of criminal justice."

"Whenever the lack of money prevents a defendant from securing an experienced lawyer, trained investigator or technical expert, an unjust conviction may follow," he said.

He wrote Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson and Speaker John W. McCormack that his bill would "assure effective legal representation for every man whose limited means would otherwise deprive him of an adequate defense against criminal charges."

The President cited three purposes of his proposal: "To define the representation rights of every defendant, to require the establishment of workable plans to make these rights operative throughout the federal system and to confine public payment for representation to the cases of those who cannot afford it."

Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy joined in urging the legislation. He observed that under the existing system, no attorney is appointed by a court for a needy defendant until he is actually arraigned and required to plead to the charges against him.

The proposed bill would provide for the appointment of a government-paid attorney before arraignment and in some cases allow for the hiring of investigators and expert witnesses where needed.

A local option plan was included which would allow district and circuit judges "broad discretion to select the plan by which their courts shall furnish compensated representation to qualified defendants."

Reminder to Iowans Could Save State $55,000 a Year

DES MOINES (AP) — State Safety Commissioner Carl Pesch said Friday he thinks an Iowa woman may have the answer to the problem of how to remind Iowans that their drivers license needs renewing.

If so, she could save the state $55,000 a year.

Mrs. Max Shoemith of Janesville wrote Pesch that the law should be changed to require renewal of a license during a 30-day period after driver's birthday every other year.

The law now requires renewal within 30 days before the birthday. Last year 90,000 Iowans forgot to renew their licenses on time.

"Most of us don't think of our birthdays a month in advance," Mrs. Shoemith said. "But once we have celebrated we realize the time has come to renew — too late. Let the birthday be the reminder to renew."

Pesch said Mrs. Shoemith's idea makes good sense and that he is forwarding it with a letter of recommendation to the House Motor Vehicle Committee.

Illinois Birth Control Gets Green Light

SPRINGFIELD, Ill (UPI) — The Illinois Public Aid Commission (IPAC) Friday gave a green light to an April 1 start of a controversial program to give birth control information and devices to married women and unmarried mothers on relief.

By a vote of 7-3, the commission reaffirmed a policy it adopted three months ago and overrode a move to delay the program's implementation pending further debate at a meeting next month.

The program was approved by the IPAC in an effort to stem swelling aid-to-dependent-children relief roles.

Proponents of the bitterly contested plan say state-subsidized birth control measures will save 1.25 million a year and prevent at least 4,000 births in Cook County (Chicago) alone.

IPAC executive Secretary Harold G. Swank presented to the commission a long-awaited program for implementation of the policy. The program was recommended by a special sub-committee of gynecologists and obstetricians from the Illinois Medical Society.

Dr. William Whiting, chairman of the IPAC's medical advisory committee, said the subcommittee could provide educational materials on birth control to all physicians in the state. Swank said the commission staff would keep a close check on the program and furnish monthly reports.

The IPAC voted against further delays as a group of 20 Protestant clergymen in Chicago protested against the plan, charging that it would "encourage and promote promiscuity."

The Rev. Scott Reed, a Chicago pastor, said 20 members of the Chicago Evangelical Ministers Association had signed a protest "against any plan which would offer contraceptives to women not living with their legal husbands."

James Cleary, who quit the IPAC in December after it first approved the policy by a 6-4 vote, said the birth control plan would amount to "using taxpayers' money to convert the homes of dependent children into houses of prostitution."

Welfare agencies said 200,000 children are being cared for under the ACD program in Illinois, 143,000 in Chicago. They estimated that 36 to 37 per cent of the children are illegitimate.

More than 100,000 children are being cared for under the ACD program in Illinois, 143,000 in Chicago. They estimated that 36 to 37 per cent of the children are illegitimate.

Oathouts Sued In Fire Case

A damage suit for $71,137 has been filed in Johnson County District Court by the survivors of a 53-year-old Boone man who died here in an arson fire at the Oathout funeral home last spring.

The suit names Eugene A. Ronald A. Gladys M. and the Alva B. Oathout estate as defendants.

The petition alleges that the victim, Chester E. Louk, was trapped in a second-story apartment when a fire occurred the night of April 2, 1962. Louk was visiting his son and daughter-in-law, occupants of the apartment. They escaped the building.

The petition also alleges that the operators of the funeral home were negligent in permitting the use of the establishment's second floor as a dwelling without complying to state fire safety precautions.

Ban on O'Neill Play Cited in Resignations

WACO, Tex. (AP) — Chairman Paul Baker and 11 other members of the Baylor University Drama Department resigned Friday, three months after the Baptist school closed a Eugene O'Neill production because of language considered offensive.

Baker's wife, a mathematics teacher and member of the Baylor faculty 24 years, also quit.

Within an hour, Trinity University at San Antonio announced Baker, 51, had been appointed chairman of its speech and drama department. Baker had been at Baylor for 28 years.

The 11 staff members were expected to be associated with Baker at the Dallas Theater Center, where he remains as director.

The O'Neill play was "Long Day's Journey Into Night."

(The SUI Drama Department will present the controversial play March 28-30 and April 3-6 at University Theatre at 8 p.m. Prof. Lael Woodbury is director.)

Stat Service Is Renamed

Statistical Service, which mails student's monthly bills, will not be sending out bills in April. But students will still receive bills from Data Processing.

The service changed its name Thursday to Data Processing "to fit modern terminology," according to Carl Gochenour, manager. The office originated as a statistical service for the University. The center is now more of an accounting center, Gochenour explained.

Although Data Processing still does some statistical work, most of that work has been turned over to the Computer Center in East Hall. Since the two centers, originally together, have split, the old name has confused many people, Gochenour said.

Data Processing handles IBM cards used for registration, and is in charge of all University accounting, University Hospital billing, student's grades and the University's mailing service.

Orders Exam In Rape Case

A psychiatric examination was ordered here Friday for Paul Van Smith, 19, charged with assault with intent to commit rape.

The order was handed down by District Judge James P. Gaffney in Johnson County District Court after Smith, from Washington, Iowa, pleaded innocent to the charge. His attorney, Charles A. Barker, requested the examination.

The trial will continue after University Hospital officials file a report of the examination.

Smith was arrested Jan. 30 after admitting that he attacked a 23-year-old nurse who came to the home of Smith's father-in-law, William Roberts, at 1026 Governor St.

When Smith was arrested, he said that his first intent was to rob the nurse and take her car and his second intent was to assault her.

1st 'Education Abroad' Discussion Is Tuesday

The first program of "Education Abroad," a new series of informal discussions sponsored by the Student Honors Committee, will be held at 4 p.m. Tuesday in the Honors Commons Room, Schaeffer Hall.

The topic of discussion will be German education at the university level. Special guest speakers will include W. R. Irwin, professor of English; F. Bargebuhl, professor of religion; G. Mueller-Schwabe, visiting professor from Germany this year.

All interested students and faculty are encouraged to participate. Those planning to attend are requested to leave their names at the Honors Office, 108 Schaeffer Hall.

Your Education Dollars

New York Herald Tribune

WASHINGTON — While it costs a lot, a college education once attained can add an average of about $3,000 a year to the family income, according to a Census Bureau study.

It showed that average family income in 1961 ranged from a high of $9,300 for families headed by college graduates to $6,300 for those headed by persons who had finished high school and $4,800 for families headed by elementary school graduates. The median low was $3,000 a year for families headed by persons who had not completed elementary school.

OTHER HIGHLIGHTS of the report:

The average income of families in 1961 was about $5,700, higher by 120, or 2 per cent, than in 1960. Consumer prices rose during this period by about one per cent, so there was an increase of about one per cent in purchasing power for the average family.

Average family income in the U.S. was nearly doubled in the post-war period — from $3,000 in 1947 to about $5,700 in 1961. Because of consumer price rises during the period, the average family purchasing power increased by only three-fifths. In terms of 1961 dollars, average family income increased from $4,100 in 1947 to $5,700 in 1961.

About 10 million families, or 21 per cent of the estimated 46 million families in the nation, received money incomes under $3,000 in 1961, a drop of about 8 1/2 million in this low-income group since 1947. In relative terms, the proportion of families in the cash income range under $3,000 decreased from one-half in 1947 to one-fifth in 1961.

ABOUT 9 MILLION families (20 per cent) received incomes between $3,000 and $5,000 in 1961; just over 10 million (22 per cent) had incomes between $5,000 and $7,000, and the remaining 17 million families (37 per cent) reported incomes of $7,000 or more.

For men, the 1961 average income was at an all-time high of $4,200, up $110 from 1960.

The women, the 1961 average income was $1,300, about the same as in 1960 and 1959, but up $100, or 9 per cent, from 1958.

Among year-round full-time workers, the average income of men in 1961 was $5,700 as compared with $3,300 for women.

Foreign Students Plan Displays, Stage Show For Annual Festival

The eighth International Festival will help SUIowans visit strange lands through stage performances by students from 18 countries and booth displays of foreign arts and handicrafts today and Sunday.

Stage presentation will start at 7:30 p.m. today and 2:30 p.m. Sunday in the Main Lounge of the Memorial Union.

Fourteen display booths will be installed in the Main Lounge and open one hour before and after stage performances.

The program, titled "Spring Festival," is co-sponsored by the Associated Women Students, the International Center and International Club.

Tickets for the two performances are available at Campus Record Shop, Whetstone's and Information Desk of the Union, and immediately before each performance at the entrance. Tickets are $1 for adults and 50 cents for children under 14.

In stage performances, many countries will be represented by dances: China by a classical fan dance; the United Kingdom by a folk dance "On the Village"; Japan by "Coalminers' Dance"; India by a folk dance in which they dance with sticks; Israel by a folk dance; Pakistan by a folk dance; Malaya by a solo "Candle Dance"; and the Philippines by "Pandango Sa Ilaw" and "Tinkling."

Arabic students in native costumes will illustrate the dancing and singing festivities of a typical Middle East wedding.

A group of American students will sing folk songs and the program by German students will be Deutsche Volkslieder (folk songs). A Mexican group will present "Mexican Hat Dance" and Antonio Pita, G. Navealan, Mexico, will sing native songs.

An oboe solo of Baroque music will be given by Gilbert DeCouvreur, G. Kessel-lo, Belgium, and a solo on a Korean harp by Aija Ha, G. Seoul, Korea.

Professor From India Will Speak

The director of a writers workshop in Calcutta, India, Prof. P. Lal, will speak March 21 at SUI.

Titled "Sanskrit Drama and the Theory of Rasa," his lecture will be at 8 p.m. in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol.

A special professor in Indian literature and history at Hofstra College, Hempstead, N.Y., Lal also lectures at Columbia University on Indian tradition.

He has translated Indian literature into English and is working on six Sanskrit plays. His poetry has been published in many American and Indian magazines, and he is editor of the magazine, Writers Workshop Miscellany.

Prof. Lal will also speak at a special meeting of the SUI poetry workshop March 22.

A second lecture sponsored by the SUI Writers Workshop will be presented March 25 by British scholar and novelist Rex Warner. He will speak on "The Poetry of George Seferis" at 8 p.m. in the Senate Chamber.

A well-known translator of classic and modern Greek literature, Warner is translator of a recently-published volume of the poetry of Seferis, who is considered to be the most distinguished modern Greek man of letters.

40 Hospitalized In School Blaze

Students, Teachers Leap from 2nd Floor

BELLPORT, N. Y. (UPI) — A smoldering fire exploded in a "blast of flame" at Bellport High School Friday trapping students and teachers on the top floor. Many leaped for their lives from second floor windows when the roof collapsed.

Deputy Police Commissioner John Finnerty said 40 students were taken to Brookhaven Hospital. Most of them, he said, were suffering from smoke poisoning, cuts and bruises. Several broke arms and legs.

"Some of the kids jumped out of the windows when the roof collapsed, cutting off escape," he said. "Firemen rescued others."

More than 100 students and teachers were treated on the scene. First reports said a boiler had exploded in the basement of the school. But Finnerty said the sound was a "blast of fire." He said the fire started in an attic over the gymnasium and billowed into life when the fire-weakened wall and part of the roof caved in providing a draft of air.

Students were mid-way through their afternoon classes when the alarm sounded.

Herman Chamberlain, manager of a bank located across the street from the school, said more than 50 students were trapped on the top floor of the two-story brick building.

He said bank employees rushed to the school with ladders. Dr. Frank Bell and two men propped a small tree to use as a makeshift ladder for some of the students to climb down.

Mrs. Robert Rousch, secretary of the Bellport Methodist Church, heard fire sirens and rushed to the school in time to see her daughter Susan, 13, leap from a second-floor window along with other students. Some students were caught in blankets held by rescuers.

"Everyone panicked," said Maureen Coyne, 14, a Bellport student. "They were all crying and everything."

"I was looking for my sister. I wasn't hurt but most of my friends were. There weren't any nets spread when one of my girl friends jumped. Luckily, five boys were there and caught her."

Bellport, a Suffolk County community about 55 miles from New York City, has a population of approximately 2,500. It lies on the eastern end of Long Island on the Atlantic coast.

Female Direction For Play 'Ardele'

For the first time in two years, a woman is directing a Studio Theatre production.

As a requirement for her master's thesis in play directing, Faith Potter, G. Egg Harbor, N.J., will produce "Ardele" by French playwright Jean Anouilh at 8 each night March 13-16 in the Studio Theatre. "Ardele," a bitter comedy on love and life, presents the antics of a general and the drawing-room comedy of his aristocratic family. Included is a hurried family conference called to discuss a hunchback sister's love for another hunchback.

Asked if being a woman presented any special problems in directing, Miss Potter responded with a firm "no." "A director does have problems," she continued, "but the person's sex is immaterial."

According to Miss Potter, her special problem with "Ardele" is trying to reconcile the pathetic aspects with the comical aspects of the play.

After she directs the play, she must also write a creative paper about it.

Miss Potter became interested in drama while an undergraduate at Glassboro State College in New Jersey. After receiving her B.A. in English, she came to SUI for graduate work in dramatic arts.

Her future plans include teaching drama in a small college where she believes there is more flexibility in the selection of material to be presented.

Tickets for "Ardele" are available at the East Lobby Desk of the Union from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. during the week and from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

Students may obtain free tickets with Identification Cards. Non-student tickets are $1 each.

Traffic Violators Didn't See Judge; Ordered Arrested

Warrants for the arrest of 12 persons failing to answer summons for traffic violations were issued Thursday by Iowa City Police Judge Jay H. Honohan.

In each case, the person charged did not appear in police court within one week after the summons was served, Honohan said.

Warrants for delinquent tickets were first issued in December when it was decided that too many citizens were simply ignoring tickets.

The warrants are being issued in the offense categories of "moving violations" and "delinquent parking."

Police court is now held in the council chambers of the Civic Center at 8 a.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and at 5 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday.

Firemen battle blazing Bellport, N.Y. high school

More than 50 of school's 900 students were injured in escaping flames.
