Newsman Reveals Cuban Bomb Raid

Boats Engage In Maneuvers Near Havana

No Shots Fired; No Evidence That Small Boat American

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two Cuban gunboats "engaged in maneuvers" Friday near a U.S. Coast Guard cutter sent out to investigate a report of a small boat in distress in the Florida Straits, the Defense Department reported.

Two F8U aircraft were sent from Key West, Fla., when the cutter reported the actions of the gunboats, and on their arrival "the maneuvers were discontinued," an announcement said.

Reports indicated no shots were fired, and a Pentagon spokesman said the actions of the gunboats were not characterized as hostile.

The incident occurred shortly before 2 p.m. some 30 miles northeast of Havana.

The Coast Guard cutter with a crew of about 16, was a 95-foot vessel assigned to help prevent anti-Castro exile raids against Cuba.

The small boat reported in distress in the area apparently was intercepted by the Cuban gunboats in international waters.

It was reported that about five people were seen in the small boat, and that later the Coast-guardmen noticed it drifting empty.

Officials said there was no evidence that the small boat was American.

Will Support Laos Agreement: Nikita

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev, in a 3½-hour conference with W. Averell Harriman, pledged the Soviet Union again Friday to support the Geneva agreements for peace and neutrality in Laos.

The agreement of the Soviet Union, jointly with that of the United States, was stated in a communique issued after the conference at which the undersecretary of state delivered a personal letter from President Kennedy to the premier.

KEY PARAGRAPH of the communique said simply:

"The President and the chairman of the Council of Ministers reaffirmed that both governments fully support the general agreement on the Laotian question about which there was an exchange of views between them at Vienna and a mutual understanding reached."

The President's part of the understanding apparently was conveyed in the letter from Kennedy that Harriman delivered to the premier.

BEYOND THE TERSE communique, not a note of what was discussed between the two came from embassy or Russian sources.

Some subjects undoubtedly discussed were indicated in repeated charges in the Soviet press that the whole new outlook in Laos was the fault of the Americans.

The Soviet military newspaper, Red Star, said the Americans incited the trouble in Laos in order to make an excuse for direct intervention.

The Soviet news agency Tass went further. In a dispatch from Hanoi, North Viet Nam, it said U.S. officers were leading right-wing Laotian troops into battle against the Communist-led Pathet Lao.

THE AMERICAN POSITION as to who started the new trouble in Laos is squarely opposed to the Soviet view. Kennedy made clear in his Wednesday news conference that the United States blamed Pathet Lao troops for reopening the fighting.

American information indicates that not only the Pathet Lao troops but troops from Communist North Viet Nam are taking part in the effort to upset the neutralist regime and perhaps force a division of the country.

Havana Radio Verifies Raid; No Explosion

Homemade Bombs Lit with Cigars; Fell on Oil Fields

WASHINGTON (AP) — Photographer Alexander Rorke Jr. said Friday he took part in a bombing raid over Cuba on Thursday night. Havana radio reported Friday night that a plane dropped bombs near Havana but none exploded.

Rorke said in a speech before an anti-Communist meeting that while he filmed the scene, crewmen lighted homemade bombs with their cigars and dropped them into a refinery area near Havana.

The Havana radio report, monitored by The Associated Press at Key West, Fla., said a twin-engine plane dropped a 100-pound bomb and some cans of inflammable liquid in the Nico Lopez area outside Havana at 10 p.m. Thursday night but none exploded. It said the plane came in low from the north.

The broadcast took note of U.S. news reports of the raid and said the U.S. Government did nothing about it.

The time given by Havana radio checked closely with Rorke's report that he was over the target at 8:55 p.m. Eastern Standard Time, which would have been 9:55 Havana time. Rorke did not claim any damage was done to the oil tanks at which the bombs were aimed but did claim the explosives went off.

It was believed here that the Nivo Lopez referred to by Havana radio is the name of a refinery in the Havana suburb of Regla, where oil installations are losated.

The U.S. policy is to discourage hit-and-run raids against the Castro regime by Cuban refugees, and prior to the Havana broadcast the State Department was skeptical of Rorke's report.

"We have no information on this at all," said Lincoln White, department press officer, "and we assume that if it had happened we would have heard about it."

Rorke, 36, a New Yorker, said he did not see any damage caused by the bombs. The raiders, he said, wanted to blow up the tanks but failed.

Rorke made his announcement at a meeting of the Anti-Communist Liason, a group devoted to right-wing, anti-Communist causes. After making the announcement, he stepped outside the meeting room and gave details to newsmen.

In describing the raid itself, Rorke said that:

- Four men were aboard the plane: Rorke, an American businessman, an American student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and a Cuban exile.
- The plane flew over Havana at 8:55 p.m. Thursday night. It swooped over former Esso-Shell oil refineries now run by the government of Fidel Castro. These refineries are just east of famed Morro Castle in Havana.
- The plane passed over the refineries at an altitude of 150 feet. The plane had a 100-pound bomb and four napalm bombs containing inflammable jellies. The bombs were homemade, and the crewmen ignited the napalm bombs with their cigars before tossing them out the door.
- The plane made two passes over the refineries, completing the raid at an altitude of 50 feet. The whole raid took just 4 minutes and 40 seconds.

"The bombs went off," Rorke said, "but the tanks did not blow."

Rorke said no shot was fired at the plane during the raid.

Rorke said he took films of the raid, but he did not know how they had come out. He said he had turned the films over to the American Broadcasting Co. television network.

The whole trip, from its mysterious embarkation point until he showed up in Washington, Rorke said, took 13 hours. He said the MIT student, whom he declined to name, flew back to Boston by jet this morning so he would be in time for classes.

ASSAIL COMMUNISTS

Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma of Laos assailed Communist tactics Friday as jeopardizing the future of Laos and made what appeared to be a spirited defense of the United States.

UAW Adopts Resolution Supporting Test Ban Pact

A resolution supporting the Kennedy Administration's effort to secure a nuclear test ban treaty was adopted Friday night by 200 members of the United Auto Workers (UAW) attending a Foreign Affairs Seminar at SUI.

Seminar delegates, representing UAW locals in Iowa and Illinois, also pledged "to do everything in our power to petition the senators from Iowa and Illinois, urging them to support the President in his work to end the arms race and thereby strengthen the security of the United States."

Jack Flagler, program director for the SUI Bureau of Labor and Management, said, "We're at the 'eleventh hour' in bargaining with Russia on nuclear test bans. The United States has asked for seven sites; Russia has offered three.

"There is a strong possibility of negotiating this plan, but there is also a strong possibility that the Senate won't ratify it. There are people in this country who are afraid peace will break out and cause more unemployment.

"We want to show them that we can translate defense moneys to meet human needs in education, public housing and other areas."

In outlining the purpose of the conference, Robert Johnson, UAW regional director, said, "We need to be aware of the problems facing underdeveloped countries so we can help them build better economies.

"We need the leadership of our unions and of our young people who know how to fight grievances."

The conference is being held this weekend with the UAW as host.

Delegates are attending workshop classes today and Sunday.

Victor Reuther, UAW vice president, will speak tonight on the role of American trade unions in helping workers in underdeveloped nations.

UAW's Reuther To Discuss Union's World-Wide Role

Victor Reuther, vice-president of the United Auto Workers, will discuss the responsibility and role of American trade unions in helping the workers in developing nations of the world in a speech at 6 tonight at the Carousel Restaurant, Hiway 6, Coralville.

Reuther will explain problems faced by workmen in foreign lands which are linked with the problems of American workers.

Reuther said unions must export a revolution which will add momentum to the efforts of developing nations to achieve economic solvency.

Also speaking at the three-day seminar will be Robert Blakely, SUI specialist in adult education and director of the Peace Corps training program here. He will discuss "Labor's Stake in the Peace Corps."

The major portion of the seminar will be devoted to three workshops.

James M. Murray Jr., associate professor of political science and Jack Flagler, program director of the SUI Bureau of Labor and Management, will conduct two of the workshops.

Sunday at 6 p.m. Reuther will be speaking to "Operation Support Kennedy", a group of Democrats from Iowa's First Congressional district at the Carousel Restaurant.

Monday he will speak to the Young Democrats at a lunch in the North Alcove of the Union Cafeteria.

Banquet To Honor City, SUI Leaders

Prof. James Van Allen, head of the SUI Department of Physics and Astronomy, will be the featured speaker at the annual Leadership Banquet sponsored by the Iowa City Retail Merchants Division of the Chamber of Commerce. The event will take place 6:30 Thursday evening in the Main Lounge of the Iowa Memorial Union.

Special recognition will be given to SUI student and faculty leaders and Iowa City business leaders.

One of the highlights of the evening will be the "tapping" of new members of Mortar Board, senior women's honor society, and Omicron Delta Kappa, upperclassmen's leadership honor society. The most outstanding community leader will also be presented with an award by the sponsors.

Some 115 students have been invited to the banquet in recognition of their leadership activities.

11 Iowa Cities To Lose Hour

Daylight Saving Time starts Sunday when at least 11 Eastern Iowa cities and towns will lose an hour.

Because Wisconsin and Illinois have recently adopted so-called fast time, Mississippi river cities have gone along with their neighboring states. Iowa towns along the Minnesota and Missouri borders have chosen not to switch to Daylight Saving Time.

The only towns in which daylight time stirred a controversy this year was Fort Madison. Herbert K. Hoglan, drive-in theater operator, has gotten a temporary injunction to enjoin the city from making the change.

Iowa cities and towns making the change at 2 a.m. Sunday are Burlington, West Burlington, Fort Madison, Keokuk, Mt. Pleasant, Danville, Davenport, Muscatine, Bettendorf, Eldridge and Clinton.

Dubuque, the northern-most Mississippi river city in Iowa making the switch, will change June 2.

Morning Sun will observe fast time beginning May 26. New London, May 28; Sabula, May 26; and DeWitt, June 1.

Cast Selected For Comedy '2 Masters'

Cast for "The Servant of Two Masters," by Carlo Goldoni, was announced Friday by James Gousseff, associate professor of dramatic arts, who will direct the play.

The play, the last production of the University Theatre season, will be presented on May 9 to 11 and May 15 to 18. Tickets go on sale May 2 in the East Lobby of the Union.

"The Servant of Two Masters" is a comedy whose plot deals with disguises and mistaken identities. The comedy centers around the efforts of Truffaldino (Harlequin) to attempt to serve two masters simultaneously, without their being aware of it.

Gousseff has previously directed Pantomime IV, which was presented by the Studio Theatre in December.

The cast includes: George Dale McClendon, A3, Berwyn, Ill.; Kent Gravett, G, Lexington, Ky.; Rebecca Jan Cox, A2, Iowa City; Darrell Allen Ruhl, A4, Webster City; Holly Michaels, A3, Oskaloosa; Lloyd Frerer, G, Los Angeles, Calif.; Sharon Schwarz, A4, Sioux City; John Morrow, A2, Memphis, Tenn.; Newell Tarrant, A3, Erie, Pa.; William Merrill, A2, Detroit, Mich.; Philip L. Fisher Jr., A4, West Bend; Evelyn Stanske, A3, Bronx, N. Y. and Beverly Tresan, A1, Memphis, Tenn.

Chivalrous Man Costs Coed $100 On Beer Charges

Even on his 21st birthday a gentleman can't very well knock a beer glass out of the hand of the young woman he's entertaining.

Such was the decision set forth by Police Court Judge Jay Honohan Thursday in a case involving two SUIowans.

Theron Bailey, A3, Clarion, was charged by Iowa City Police with making beer available to a minor, Miss Suzanne Rousso, A3, Bettendorf, Feb. 6, his 21st birthday.

Testimony at the trial this week indicated that Miss Rousso picked up Bailey's beer glass and began drinking from it. Bailey's lawyer, Rodger Ivie, asserted Bailey would have had to have knocked the glass from her hand to prevent her from drinking.

Judge Honohan dismissed the charges against Bailey and fined Miss Rousso $100 for drinking beer while a minor.

One Man Missing—

W. Virginia Coal Mine Blast Claims 21; Bodies Retrieved

CLARKSBURG, W. Va. (AP) — Weary rescue crews, laboring deep inside a northern West Virginia coal mine, retrieved bodies of 21 victims of a gas-triggered explosion Friday. Only one man still was believed to be missing.

The 22 men were trapped underground in the Clinchfield Coal Co. Compass No. 2 mine at Dola, about 12 miles northwest of Clarksburg, when the violent explosion jarred the mine late Thursday night.

All 22 men were married. They had 41 children.

Thirty of their fellow workers fled unharmed after the blast.

About 9 a.m. Friday the first bodies were found. The two victims were in a main passageway about 1½ miles from the foot of the mine shaft.

Some 30 minutes later a third body was located further down the corridor.

Officials said they believe the men suffocated. There was no evidence of fire.

Rescue crews wearing gas masks then came upon 11 more bodies in rapid succession.

Hope that any of the trapped men survived began to fade in the early morning hours.

It was the worst disaster in West Virginia's sprawling mine fields since 22 men died in a similar accident in McDowell County, in southern West Virginia, on Oct. 27, 1958.

About 15 miles northeast at Monongah, 361 miners died Dec. 6, 1907, in the nation's worst mine disaster.

Nolan's Condition Slightly Improved

DES MOINES (AP) — Sen. D. C. Nolan (R-Iowa City) was reported to have improved slightly Friday after treatment of a perforated ulcer.

The 60-year-old lawyer was taken to Mercy Hospital from a downtown hotel early Friday.

His condition was described as serious, but stabilizing.

Senate Majority Leader Robert Rigler (R-New Hampton) quoted Mrs. Nolan as saying she expects her husband to be back at his Senate desk in a few days.

ISU Puts Pixie Press to Death

The Ghost in the GOP Closet Is Stirring Again

Whether it likes it or not, the Republican Party has in its midst a ghost which refuses to quit haunting houses. That ghost is named Richard Nixon, a man of many personalities.

Immediately after his 1962 defeat in the California gubernatorial election, Nixon lashed out at the people, the party and the press. There were some who said then that the political obituary of Richard Nixon, the candidate, was a closed book.

RICHARD M. NIXON
Still Hanging On

But Richard Nixon, the man, refuses to unwrap his arms from the pinnacle to which he has clung since 1952.

It is Nixon the man, who is in demand as a speaker at various conventions throughout the nation. But after last week's Nixon speech before the American Society of Newspaper Editors it sounded like Nixon, the candidate, was back in action.

Speaking on the Soviet presence in Cuba, Nixon said "we have got to take what risks are necessary to do the job."

He indicated that the Cuban exiles in this country should receive U.S. support and be unleashed to vent their wrath against the Castro regime.

When asked what he specifically had in mind, Nixon characteristically repeated words to the effect that "we must do whatever is necessary to remove the Soviet beachhead in Cuba."

Conspicuously absent was his recommendation on the degree of involvement which the United States should be prepared to go in helping to rid Cuba of the communist dictatorship.

If he had a solution for effecting a permanent divorce between Moscow and Havana, he failed to expound upon it.

Earlier this year when Nixon informed the press that he had reversed his hasty November decision to leave the political jungle, it was conjectured that his self-forecasted reinvolvement would be limited to that of constructive criticism.

But there was little to be gained from his solutionless suggestions on the Cuban dilemma.

Already Nixon has been defeated twice in the past 30 months. He knows he will not be considered again for the Presidency.

But Nixon, the politician, is a campaigner. His home constituency has elected him before. Perhaps he has an eye on the Congress.

Does Richard Nixon, the ghost, contemplate another chapter for that obituary? Surely the Republican Party will slam shut the cover. —John Scholz

The nemises of Iowa State University's Greek system, a reportedly national secret fraternity — Pi Xi — and it's occasionally printed anti-Greek "gossip sheet" — the Pixie Press — is dead. Besides publishing the Pixie Press, the secret fraternity is also known for painting its Greek letter in yellow paint on campus sidewalks, buildings and community billboards.

Last week the Director of Student Affairs at ISU, Millard Kratochvil, announced that 17 members of the fraternity voluntarily submitted formal resignations from the group and turned over their fraternity paraphernalia. The beginning of the Pi Xi end came in the early morning hours of Sunday, March 31 according to an Iowa State Daily report, when three TKE's caught at least one Pi Xi delivering copies of the Pixie Press to fraternity and sorority houses.

KLEIN

About two weeks later Kratochvil announced that the remaining members of the fraternity had submitted their resignations from the organization. No further action was taken against them.

"Though repeatedly it has been made clear to fraternity men that an apprehended Pi Xi would be suspended, we have in this case taken the position that eliminating the organization in its entirety is preferable to suspending one or two members," said Kratochvil.

"Pi Xi is now dissolved and the fraternity system and Iowa State will not be further blighted by its publications or by other activities inimical to an institution of higher learning," continued Kratochvil.

According to an informal Iowa State Daily interview, most fraternity and sorority members supported the abolishment of the secret fraternity and its publication.

"Innocent people have been hurt or 'branded' due to statements in the Pixie Press," said Inter-fraternity Council president, Ray Sebastion, in approving the abolishment of the secret organization.

The Iowa State Daily reported the secret fraternity had been on campus since 1956. Similar action was taken against a Pi Xi fraternity when it was uncovered at the University of Nebraska. The University of Missouri suspended two Pi Xi members when they refused to divulge the names of their fraternity brothers.

During the school year the Pi Xi letters have appeared and still remain on SUI campus walks.

Charges against University of Mississippi Art Prof. G. Ray Kerciu, accusing him of desecrating a Confederate flag, were dropped last week.

Kerciu exhibited a painting entitled "America the Beautiful," which consisted of a scrawled number of racist slogans scrawled and lettered on a canvas painting of the Confederate flag (also the state flag of Mississippi).

When questioned about the painting, Kerciu said he had simply put onto canvas what he had seen during the September integration riots at Ole Miss.

Charles Blackwell, Ole Miss law student (and candidate for the state legislature) told a reporter from the student newspaper, The Mississippian, he had made an agreement with Kerciu's attorneys to drop the charges if the painting would never again be exhibited in Mississippi.

Blackwell stated that he had nothing against Kerciu personally and that he had brought the charges only because he "didn't like the idea of the flag being desecrated and didn't want it to happen anymore."

Kerciu is not familiar with the customs, traditions and laws of the South, Blackwell told The Mississippian. He compared the charges with a warning issued by the highway patrol to an out-of-state driver. Kerciu is a Michigan State University alumunus.

The day after Peter, Paul and Mary appeared at SUI, they traveled to Iowa State University to perform for ISU's Greek Week program. Following the performance, as the group hurriedly packed, two Iowa State Daily reporters descended upon them for interviews.

Peter Yarrow apologized to a reporter for answering her questions "mechanically," explaining that they always have to answer the same questions. But, perhaps Mr. Yarrow avoided an automatic response once when he remarked that Iowa Staters "are a lovely bunch of kids."

The Mood In Washington

The Master-Politician Has Confidence

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON — The politicians are visibly frustrated. This contrast in the bosom of the Kennedy Administration is very striking to a returning traveller. The reasons for the policy-makers' frustration are too obvious to need emphasis. From Cuba to Laos, our problems abroad are currently proving intractable or worse. And at home a Congress asked to pass a fairly modest domestic program has also proved intractable or worse, at least thus far.

ALSOP

The reason for the confidence of the politicians, including the master-politician of them all, President Kennedy himself, is the unexpectedly brisk performance of the U.S. economy. These days, the President is given to mocking reminiscences of a large rally of advisory economists organized last spring by Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon.

Instead of a downturn, we have an upturn, or so it is now believed. Consider as illustration of the contrast, the history of the gross national product forecasts. The chairman of the President's Economic Advisers, Walter Heller, never joined the Treasury panel in forecasting a recession. Yet his technical staff was sufficiently infected with the prevailing pessimism to wish to make a low forecast of gross national product for 1963.

HELLER HAD TO deliver many a pep talk to his technicians, in order to persuade them to agree to the final forecast-figure of $578 billion. In November-December, they feared they were overestimating by about $5 billion lower. Now, however, there is widespread agreement, in the Treasury, in the Economic Advisory Council and elsewhere, that the $578 billion figure is an underestimate, once again by about $5 billion.

Yet the fact that time are better than had been expected has in no way shaken the Administration on the need for a massive tax cut. Instead, it has increased the confidence of both Secretary of the Treasury Dillon and Economic Adviser Heller that the proposed tax cut will produce the desired results.

As Heller has put it, "Reversing a downturn is very much harder than augmenting an upturn." In other words, when a recession was still feared, there were also lurking fears that the business and investment incentive provided by a tax cut would merely hold the economy on an even keel, without promoting a real take-off.

ON CAPITOL HILL, meanwhile, the prospects for a tax cut have not been at all impaired by the economy's better-than-expected performance.

The primary motive of the pressure for tax cuts is not political, in short. But the fact that tax cuts, if voted, ought to produce very good times indeed in 1964, and the further fact that good times are good politics in election years, are by no means forgotten either. Doing the right thing, in short, is also held to be the best way to win votes; and this rare combination is always delightful.

Riding The Cuban Horse

Mr. Nixon Comes Prancing into Town

By RALPH McGILL

WASHINGTON — Emergence of Mr. Richard Nixon from that limbo to which he heatedly and forever consigned himself at the hour of defeat by California's Pat Brown is not without meaning. Mr. Nixon is thinking. He may be dreaming no dreams — at least not yet. But he is looking ahead.

McGILL

Mr. Nixon rode a horse named Castro into the meeting of editors in Washington. (He and Senator Keating and Governor Rockefeller apparently are patronizing the same rental stable.) Using this horse as a rostrum Mr. Nixon flailed the Administration's Cuban policy. He wanted action. True enough, he backed down later when asked if he wanted invasion. He did not. He wanted to do a vague thing called "whatever is necessary."

Neither Senator Keating nor Governor Rockefeller want invasion. They want action. But the suspicion grows that what they really want is political action. President Kennedy has a policy, but it is hardly reasonable to demand that he tell either Castro or Mr. K what it is. The facts are that Mr. K's policy isn't working well at home or in Cuba. And it may be that the Kennedy policy is moving along according to plan. Time will tell, it always does.

So what we are seeing at work is what Prof. MacGregor Burns calls politics by personality. Mr. Nixon is demanding that both Senator Goldwater and Governor Rockefeller prove themselves in the California primary of 1964. Mr. Nixon knows this would be a bloody affair in which the two contenders would be badly chewed and mauled. If that should happen, a lot of people in the GOP might begin to think again of Mr. Nixon. There still is another possibility which, one hears, is on Mr. Nixon's mind. If Governor Rockefeller's personal problems should contribute to an unwillingness of the party leaders to accept him, the too might be to accept him, the two might be reminded that Mr. Nixon still is around and available, if called.

Mr. Nixon's necessary task after having so finally and irrevocably removed himself last November was to re-establish himself as a political personality. The easiest way to do that today is to ride the Cuban horse. It is true, as Mr. Nixon senses, that Governor Rockefeller's political glamor has become somewhat dulled. It may become even more so. Michigan's Governor George Romney has caught on well with many Americans, but so far, at least, reports from GOP centers in the Midwest are that they are not yet ready to run with him. It very well may be that former President Eisenhower will determine the issue. He and Governor Romney hit it off well together in their talks before the Michigan election. Mr. Eisenhower reportedly told friends, in speaking of Romney, "He is my kind of man." An Eisenhower arm about the Romney shoulders would also shine up his political personality, or glamor.

The Price Hike Scare

Steel price hikes leave two questions unanswered, now that all the major companies have acted and President Kennedy has not: Will the increases stick? Will they be inflationary.

Best bet is that the price increases will stick despite minor adjustments; the boosts are on selected products where market demand has been steady and strong. As for being inflationary, most businessmen and Mr. Kennedy think not. The increases are not of the size or scope to trigger either excessive wage demands or general price advances. Mr. Kennedy himself noted that the boosts represent about a one per cent increase for steel products, the amount lost by steel prices since 1959. (National Observer)

Pope John's Encyclical—
A Message Befitting The Universal Hope

(Nation)

A strange misreading of Scripture has persisted for several decades. Every Christmas, the press plugs the slogan, "Peace on earth and good will towards men." But that is not how the Scriptures has it. The original rendering was: Peace on earth to men of good will. Who else has earned peace? How can there be peace without good will as a prerequisite? This phrasing makes sense; the other is as speciously sentimental as the products of Tin Pan Alley.

Pope John XXIII's encyclical, Pacem in Terris (Peace on Earth) is addressed to "all men of good will." All: not only Catholics, some of whom have the precious gift of love for their fellow men, some of whom do not. "Universal peace," the Pontiff writes, "is a good which interests everybody without distinction. To everybody, therefore, we have opened our soul." Everybody: Catholic, nonCatholic, believers and nonbelievers alike.

It is the kind of message which benefits the most liberal and earnestly religious Pope of this century. It echoes the yearnings of human beings everywhere. Whether the statesmen will dismiss it as the well-meaning declaration of one who has no atomic bombs at his command — that remains to be seen. Judging by past reaction, it will not dissuade them from redoubled efforts in the nuclear-arms race. And it may be that the peoples, though they desire peace, will continue to follow without question the leaders who are leading them on the way to annihilation. Still, this Easter season has not been allowed to pass without a message of hope and passion, and that it comes from a man in his eighties should be heartening to young and old alike.

A's Get 2 in 13th To Beat Senators

WASHINGTON (AP) — Kansas City and Washington staggered through 4 hours and 15 minutes of sloppy baseball Friday night before George Alusik's two-run single in the 13th inning gave the Athletics a 12-10 victory in the first game of a twi-night doubleheader.

There were eight errors, four by each team, in the marathon in which the Athletics trailed most of the way before pinch hitter Bobby DelGreco unloaded a three-run homer in the ninth inning to put Kansas City ahead 10-9.

The Senators scored one to tie the game in their half of the ninth.

HOUSTON (AP) — Houston's Bob Bruce pitched the first one-hitter in the National League this season, allowing only a first inning single to right field by Vada Pinson as the Colts defeated the Cincinnati Reds 2-0 Friday night.

Bruce, a 29-year-old right-hander, was touched for Pinson's single with two out in the first inning and hit Johnny Edwards with a pitch with one out in the second inning. Bruce then retired the Reds in order until Marty Keough opened the ninth by drawing a walk.

Bruce put an end to that threat when he struck out pinch hitters Jesse Gonder and Jerry Lynch, gave up another walk to Don Blasingame, then got Pinson to ground out the first baseman Rusty Staub.

Giles Orders Halt of Strict Balk Rule

CINCINNATI (AP) — A spreading controversy over calling balks in the National League has resulted in a temporary halt in strict interpretation of the rule by umpires.

President Warren Giles said Friday he ordered his umpiring teams to require pitchers "in a set position, to come to a 'stop' but disregard the requirements of 'at least one second'." Giles said the matter will be ironed out in a conference May 7 with Commissioner Ford Frick and President Joe Cronin of the American League.

GILES

Frick called for the meeting Thursday after noting the controversy and the statistics showing only two balks called in American League games this year compared to 68 in the National League.

Frick said he wanted uniformity if the rule is retained.

Giles said his umpires were enforcing the balk rule more strongly this season, but that lax enforcement in previous years caused some pitchers to develop wrong pitching motions.

Giles said he believed the question could be resolved three ways: strict conformance to the one second stop rule; elimination of the one second provision, or looser interpretation that would require a pitcher only to stop — but not for a set length of time.

Frick hasn't indicated any interest in eliminating the one-second provision, but said he doubts if it is enforceable.

He said, "I'm in favor of enforcing the rule, but it's nonsensical to think any man can try to time a second."

Joe Paparella, senior American League umpire in service, said a full stop by a pitcher is good enough in American League play, without the need for counting one second.

Augie Donatelli disagreed as captain of the National League umpire crew responsible for nearly half the balks calls this season. He said, "The pitcher must come to a full second stop."

Giles said earlier this year he had not told his umpires to crack down on the balk rule, but had told them as usual to enforce the rules.

NCAA PROBATION

MIAMI (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) placed Hardin-Simmons University at Abilene, Tex., on probation for two years Friday and placed the University of Omaha on probation indefinitely.

Two Chances: Slim and None

Hawkeye firstsacker Rich Lee stretches to take the throw to nab Minnesota's Mike Mulligan at first base in Friday's Big Ten opener for both teams. Iowa won, 3-2, on the brilliant 3-hit hurling of Jack Wiland and ended an 11-game winning streak by the Gophers. The win gave the Hawks a 12-4 season's record, and 1-0 in the Big Ten. The Gophers are 15-6 and 0-1 in the Big Ten. The teams play a doubleheader today, beginning at 1 p.m.

Wyatt Named as New Grid Coach

Bernie Wyatt, a former SUI football star, Friday was named head coach at Regina High School here.

Wyatt, 24, who graduated from SUI in 1962, was a defensive back. A native of Amityville, Pa., he had been teaching high school there in his home town this year at Copiague High School.

Wyatt is married and has one child. He replaces Duane Calvert, who earlier resigned to become football coach at Fort Dodge St. Edmunds.

Hawks Edge Minnesota, 3-2, To Win Conference Opener

Jack Wiland spun a neat three hitter at Minnesota Friday afternoon as the Iowa Hawkeyes edged Minnesota 3-2 on the Iowa Diamond. The victory in the league opener gives the Hawks a 12-4 record while the Gophers are 15-6.

The contest was rattled off in just 1 hour and 25 minutes, the fastest 9 inning game in recent Iowa baseball history.

Wiland was in absolute control during all but the 7th. He retired the first 10 men to face him in a row and later had strings of 7 and 8 consecutive Gophers biting the dust. The right hander walked none and fanned 1. Both Minnesota runs were unearned.

Iowa opened the scoring in the bottom of the first. With one out Joe Reddington hit a smash to deep short. Duane Markus made a fine stop but threw the ball away putting Joe on second. Matt Szykowny lined a hit over third to score Reddington with a game's first run.

The Hawks threatened in the second. Bob Sherman sliced a two out double down the right field line but the Gophers wiggled free when Wiland popped out after an intentional pass to Jim Freese.

Jim Botten became the first Minnesota base runner when he singled up the middle with one down. He was immediately erased as Steve Wally hit into a fast double play.

Iowa tallied the eventual winning runs in the sixth. Reddington opened the stanza by walking. Szykowny faked a sacrifice and ground a hit-and-run single into left moving Reddington around to third. Rich Lee lined a single to right scoring Joe and moving Matt to third. Jay Petersen bounced to short forcing Lee but scoring Szykowny. Jay was out trying to steal. Ron Isler walked before Sherman bounced out to end the inning.

Minnesota bounced back immediately. Markus singled to center and moved around to third on Botten's high hopper over the first sacker Lee. Botten advanced to second on a throw to third. Wally popped to short as Isler made a fine over the shoulder catch behind third. Jon Anderson hit a smash on which Isler made a great stop but made a bad throw to the plate allowing both Markus and Botten to tally cutting the Iowa lead to 3-2. Wiland got the next two hitters to end the final Gopher threat.

Petersen came up with the games top defensive play in the third when he cut in front of Isler to throw out Mike Mulligan on a close play.

Iowa and Minnesota will play a doubleheader at 1 p.m. this afternoon on the Iowa Diamond.

Six Tie for Lead with 136s In Texas Open Golf Tourney

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Bruce Crampton of Australia blew up with a double bogey on No. 12 and a fat 8 on the 17th Friday and fell back into a six-way tie for first place after the end of a temper-flaring second round of the $30,000 Texas Open Golf Tournament.

Crampton was angry over a ruling that forced him to shoot with a television wire in front of him on the par 4 17th.

Arnold Palmer, the favorite, meanwhile, got his game together for a 68 and climbed into contention after a lackluster first round. He made his total 139.

Palmer also was more than slightly irritated over photographers, especially the private cameramen.

"They should be barred from the course," Palmer said. "I had one of them clicking right in the middle of my try for a six-foot birdie putt." He made the putt but said he still didn't like it.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Defending champion Mickey Wright of Dallas shot par golf Friday and took a one-stroke lead over Marilynn Smith after the second round of the Women's Titleholders championship.

Miss Wright put together a 34-38—72 round for a 36-hole total of 146, while Miss Smith, of Jupiter, Fla., carded a 37-38—75.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Cain Hoy Stable's Never Bend proved Friday he is ready for next week's Kentucky Derby when he ran off from three colts for an impressive victory in the $7,500 Stepping Stone Purse at Churchill Downs.

Never Bend, who was unimpressive two weeks ago in winning the Forerunner at Kenneland, was in peak form Friday. He covered the 7 furlongs in 1 minute, 22-5 seconds, just two-fifths of a second off the track record.

Never Bend, ridden by Manuel Ycaza, had a five-length lead on the field when they hit the stretch and was eight lengths on top at the fininsh.

Hawks Finish Fourth In Sprint Medley Relay

By BILL PEMBLE
Sports Editor

DES MOINES — Ten records fell by the wayside here Friday in the first day of the 46th annual Drake Relays. Unfortunately so, it wasn't a particularly good day for the Iowa Hawkeyes.

The Hawks looked like a sure bet to grab first place in the sprint medley relay as Roger Kerr, Bob Kreamer and Gary Hollingsworth built up a good lead for anchorman Bill Frazier.

Frazier, however, in running his half showed the effects of his layoff, and ran himself out in the last lap.

The "game" Hawkeye hung on for most of the final lap, but was caught on the final curve and had to settle for third, and the two teams were disqualified.

The Iowa mile relay team also had a shaky day. In a photofinish, Kerr held on for third and was disqualified for today's finals of the John Griffith one-mile relay. Iowa's time was 3:11.6, just .3 of a second off the Drake record.

Head Coach Francis Cretzmeyer's plan not to use Frazier in Friday's races could possibly mean a cancelling out of the entries in the 2-mile and distance medley events today.

In other events, five new high school records were set, led by a 3-way tie for the pole vault.

Sharing first place were Lee Sargent of Ames, Jim Taylor of South Page of College Springs and Jim Baller of Jefferson.

They cleared 13 feet 1¾ inches, bettering the old mark of 13 feet ½ inch set last year by Charles Alsop of Oskaloosa.

All three tried unsuccessfully for a state record of 13 feet 5 inches.

The mile run was one of the top races of the day, with a stirring finish giving the title to Dave Lee of Des Moines Tech.

Trailing by 15 yards with 150 yards to go, Lee outlegged Don Bergan of Waterloo Columbus in a battle that had the crowd cheering both runners.

Lee was clocked in 4 minutes 22.4 seconds, which trimmed the old record of 4:24 set in 1958 by Deryl King of West Des Moines. Bergan also was under the old mark with a time of ':23.4.

West Des Moines, with Chuck Sammons, Ron Phillips, Jon Brinkley and Ron Griffith doing the running, set a sprint medley relay mark of 3:32.3 in the morning preliminaries, then came back with a clocking of 3:32.7 seconds to win the title in the afternoon finals. The old record was 3:33.7 set in 1954 by Des North.

In other college events, skinny Tom O'Hara overcame a 50-yard deficit as anchorman and carried Loyola of Chicago to a record in the distance medley.

The 130-pound Irishman with hair, who has run a 3:59.9 indoor mile this season, turned in a 4:02.1 on his mile anchor lap in beating Texas Southern's Major Adams by 30 yards.

Loyola's winning time of 9:50.9 erased the Drake record of 10:01.2 set by Texas Southern last year. In finishing second in 9.55.5 Friday, Texas Southern also was below its record, as was Emporia Kan. State, which was third in 9:56.5.

Texas Southern's lead-off Baton man, Ray Saddler, did the 880 in 1:50.9 to pry open a wide lead in the race, Charles White kept up the pace with a :46.4 for the 440 and Maurice Hobson with 3:03 in the three-quarter mile had a 50-yard lead on the field when he passed off to Adams for the final mile leg.

At this point, Bill Thomas of Howard Payne was second and Loyola with John Kolovich, Henry White and John Pendergast running the first three legs was third.

O'Hara made up the distance within 660 yards as he passed Adams.

Bill Washington of Central State Ohio hoisted a meet mark of :51.4 in the 440-yard hurdles. It knocked seven-tenths of a second off the standard set by Ron Ablowich of Georgia Tech in 1961.

About 900 athletes from 83 colleges and universities are entered in the two-day meet.

COUSEY HONORED

BOSTON (AP) — The world champion Boston Celtics assembled for the last time under retiring Capt. Bob Cousy Friday night in a combination celebration of their unprecedented feat and a farewell.

Never had a National Basketball Association team swept five straight playoff titles as Boston did by defeating Los Angeles 112-109 Wednesday night.

Cousy received a coffee table, the surface of which was the outline of a basketball court with the signatures of his teammates and the Celtic's official family sealed in the top.

'Birth Month, Mental Illness Are Unrelated'

Doubt was cast Friday on the theory that the month of birth is related to a susceptibility to mental illness.

Dr. Albert S. Morris, associate professor of psychiatry here, said the theory "is a fascinating concept which, in the 'science' of astrology, has been with man for thousands of years."

He spoke at the fourth annual Institute on Preventive Psychiatry which began here Friday and ends today.

Norris indicated that a number of studies in the past 35 years have investigated the relationship between the month of birth and mental illness, which have, for the most part, shown that spring conceptions have a greater likelihood of becoming ill.

However, this relationship disappeared when appropriate sampling methods were used, and when it was recognized that the normal birth curve itself varied for many reasons, and the appropriate statistical methods were applied to allow for this.

It seemed, Norris said, that many factors could account for this variation in normal birth. The factors might be sociological, cultural, economic, or physical.

Hancher Short In Raincoat Swap

While the State Board of Regents is trying to find someone to fill President Virgil Hancher's shoes — after he retires in June, 1964 — he and his wife are trying to find the man who's already filled his raincoat.

President and Mrs. Hancher still haven't figured out exactly when and where it happened, but some time about the last of March someone exchanged coats with him — and he got the short end of the deal.

Mrs. Hancher said her husband first noticed the results of the exchange in New York a few weeks ago. He donned what he thought was his raincoat, but found out it had shrunk.

To a size 38 short from a 40 long, in fact. The coat looked almost the same — an oxford gray plaid — but some checking revealed it had a different label than Hancher's.

$22.5 Million Voted Board

DES MOINES (AP) — An appropriations subcommittee voted Friday to recommend $22,520,250 a year for operation of State Board of Control institutions in the two years starting next July 1.

The subcommittee also recommended that the Board of Control be given $4,750,000 for capital improvements during the next biennium.

The board operates state mental and penal institutions and juvenile homes.

The amount recommended by the subcommittee for operations is $46,770 less than was recommended by Gov. Harold Hughes and $522,750 less than the board had requested.

It is, however, an increase of $881,430 more than the boards' present annual appropriation.

SUI Honors Convocation Slated May 18

SUI's annual Honors Convocation, sponsored jointly by the College of Liberal Arts and the College of Nursing, will be held in Macbride Hall May 18 at 10:30 a.m.

Included in the ceremony is the presentation of Dean's Awards to an outstanding Honors freshman, sophomore, and junior. Honors Certificates of Achievement will be given to outstanding seniors.

Invitations to the ceremony, to acknowledge superior academic achievement of undergraduate students, are being sent to Liberal Arts students with cumulative grade averages of 3.0 or higher. College of Nursing students with a 3.0 record in their college and professional courses are also invited.

Dr. Ray L. Heffner, SUI's Vice-President for Instruction and Dean of the Faculties, will deliver the convocation address.

Tickets to the Convocation may be obtained at the Liberal Arts Office April 29 through May 3 for faculty members, students in the program and their families, and after May 3 for the general public.

Flood Control Studied For Ralston Creek

Flood control measures for Iowa City's Ralston Creek will be studied by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, according to City Manager Carsten D. Leikvold.

The preliminary survey will be made to determine the economic feasibility of flood control for the creek. Corps representatives will meet with the City Council and other city officials May 2 in the Council Chamber of the Civic Center. The 7:30 p.m. meeting will be open to the public.

Leikvold, in requesting assistance by the corps, cited the flood on the troublesome creek after an 8-inch rain last July that caused extensive damage in Iowa City. Also, he noted, storms of light intensity often cause the creek to go out of its banks and cause damage.

Leonard A. Carlson, head of the Rock Island district office of the corps, emphasized that the corps is now committed only to a preliminary study of the Ralston Creek problem. The study is expected to take about two months.

Funds to make the Ralston Creek survey have been applied for by the Rock Island district office and the money is expected to be released soon. The study will start as soon as funds are available.

If the pilot survey shows that flood control on the creek is economically feasible and the decision is made to go ahead, a more detailed study will be made. This will take about six months, Carlson said.

"Ringside in Moscow"

He was under-Secretary of the Treasury and then Finance Minister until 1948, when he fled the country because of increasing Soviet pressures.

Now an American citizen, Nyaradi has written articles for leading newspapers and magazines. His book, "My Ringside Seat in Moscow," has been acclaimed as one of the best books written on modern Russia.

Nyaradi's knowledge of the Soviet Union stems from a seven month stay in Moscow negotiating a Russian reparation claim against Hungary. During the stay he personally became acquainted with leading Soviet statesmen.

Nyaradi has worked with Radio Free Europe in Munich, Germany, and has worked in connection with Hungarian relief activities.

Today's Hole

Today's hole, the envy of every other one in town, sits right at the top of a hill on Bloomington Street, just north of the Chemistry Building. Why the envy? Motorists coming up the hill can't see the hole until it's too late. What a thrill that must give a hole — and the driver. Another will appear in Tuesday morning's Iowan.

Neglect of Creative Students Cited by Harvard Professor

Education needs to focus attention on helping creative children, rather than concentrating mainly on the so-called good student who masters subjects with routine content successfully, Richard Alpert of Harvard University said Friday at the fourth annual Institute on Preventive Psychiatry at SUI.

Dr. Alpert is associate director of the Laboratory of Human Development at Harvard.

WE TEND to train students in what our testing programs can measure and so are neglecting the students who could make the most important creative contributions to society, Dr. Alpert suggested. "Creative children are as smart as anyone else, but tend to be 'oddballs' whom the teacher doesn't like," he added.

We are living in a "meritocracy" in which one gains identity through achievements, he pointed out. For the adolescent, one of these achievements involves admission to college, which is becoming increasingly difficult, Dr. Alpert noted. The fact that some persons respond to stressful situations such as college admissions tests by mobilizing their abilities and others by being debilitated means that all do not have an equal opportunity for admission, he explained.

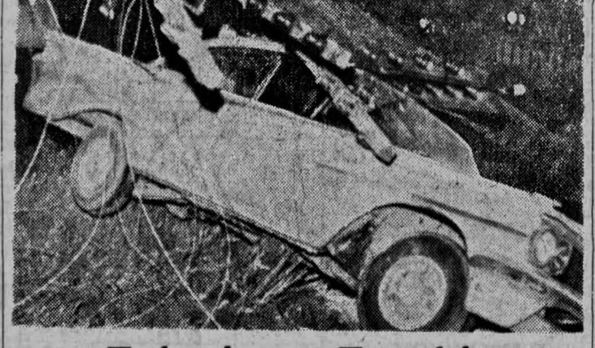
THE STUDENT who has trouble gaining a sense of achievement tends to turn to his peer group for a sense of approval — as a kind of escape valve — Dr. Alpert said. Characteristics of this student include lower emotional control, less orientation to the future, a poorer self-concept, underestimation of himself, and an inclination toward more concrete thinking.

Stimulating the student to have phantasies of high achievement, analyzing these fantasies and thinking about ways to improve their performance, is one means to increase the achievement of such a student, Dr. Alpert said. The teacher or parent needs to talk in language the child understands and to listen to the child, he continued. Too frequently the adult is caught in a kind of robot role which prevents him from "tuning in" on the child, the speaker explained.

The teacher needs to elicit ideas from children rather than facts if he is to develop creativity and motivate students to use knowledge, Dr. Alpert said. Since content is the only thing we can measure, we tend to end up teaching it, he added.

CHILDREN OF high achievement have been found to have mothers who were closely attached to them emotionally and fathers who stood ahead of them and beckoned as models, Dr. Alpert explained. These children tend to stand out first at the junior high level, being less well defined in the elementary school.

While the "achieving personality" is important in a culture where one must achieve to survive, such an individual creates problems when the culture shifts to providing more leisure, Dr. Alpert pointed out.



Telephone Trouble

Robert Wheeler, 38, Route 2, received a bruised elbow when his car was hit from behind by a car driven by Ronald Lindaman, 21, 426 Johnson Street late Thursday night. Wheeler's car crashed into a telephone pole across from the Coral Fruit Market in Coralville. Lindaman, not injured, was charged with improper lane change by Highway Patrolman Howard Shapcott. —Photo by Bob Nandell

STUDENTS RIOT

Student violence Friday marked mounting Japanese opposition to opening of Japan's ports to U.S. nuclear-powered submarines. Five hundred university students at Kyoto called a demonstration that ended in a clash with police.

South on Right Road, RFK Says

ATLANTA, Ga. — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, visiting Atlanta on Confederate Memorial Day, praised progress made in Georgia and the South in solving civil rights problems.

He said progress had been made in desegregating schools, transportation and other public facilities in many sections during the past few years and "We are on the right road now."

He urged that moderates throughout the country work together to prevent a rise in extremism on both sides of the racial issue.

Kennedy answered questions at a news conference after a breakfast engagement with Gov. Earl E. Sanders. Kennedy told Sanders Georgia has demonstrated it can handle its own problems and if that continues the state needs "no interference from the Federal Government."

The attorney general told newsmen he has no plans for offering for the Presidency, the Vice Presidency or as a candidate for governor of Massachusetts. He said he expected Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson again would be the second man on the Democratic ticket.

He said he hoped to continue as attorney general for the remainder of this term and "well into the next" and added, over the laughter of reporters, "Get it?"

Asked for comment on the possibility of a revolt by some Southern states against his party, Kennedy said the chances of Alabama and Mississippi going for President John F. Kennedy in 1964 are dim.

Commenting on Georgia, which has always voted Democratic, Kennedy said, "The state of Georgia has always shown great wisdom."

ROBERT F. KENNEDY
"Get It?"

Kennedy fielded numerous questions on the racial issue. He said that while there has been considerable progress, the effort to eliminate discrimination must be continued.

"You can't expect a group of people to continue to be treated as inferiors," he said. "It would be the most natural thing in the world to go in some different direction."

He made the comment in replying to a question as to whether he considered the Black Muslims, a Negro group, to be subversive. He said he did not.

Kennedy came here from Columbia, S.C., where he was picketed by several Negroes.

Earlier Thursday, he discussed racial problems with Gov. George Wallace of Alabama in Montgomery. Seventeen white persons demonstrating in front of the Capitol there were arrested.

There were no demonstrations during his Atlanta visit.

Kennedy was asked by a Negro reporter if he opposed cutting off federal funds to Mississippi. He replied that he did because federal funds are for all citizens and the Federal Government should not attempt to punish in an indiscriminate manner.

Steel Boost Will Add $10 To Car Price

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Labor Department expert estimated Friday steel price increases will add $10 to the cost of an automobile — but added the retail price impact can't be figured yet.

"We don't know what the effect will be on the prices of products using steel because that will be determined by the producers as they evaluate the market," Arnold E. Chase told the Joint Senate-House Economic Committee.

Chase, assistant commissioner for prices and living conditions in the Bureau of Labor Statistics, said the direct cost impact of the steel price increases would be about $5 on a new house, $4 on a small farm tractor and 50 cents on a refrigerator.

He said the effect "would be relatively small, as far as we can estimate it roughly."

But he agreed with Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) that steel-using manufacturers won't consider the steel price boost alone in figuring any retail price revisions.

Chase said the over-all impact can't be figured until statisticians see how steel-using manufacturers react to the changes.

Fire-Fight Demonstration Set Sunday in Coralville

Ten Johnson County fire departments will join Coralville's 28 man volunteer fire-fighting force in putting out a fire Sunday at 1 p.m.

No one will be searching for an arsonist after the blaze because the fire is all a part of a house-burning demonstration sponsored by the Johnson County Firemen's Mutual Aid Association.

The two-story frame house to be razed is located just south of the tracks at the south end of Tenth Ave. in Coralville.

Coralville Fire Chief Bryce Wolford explained the house-burning objective is to provide training for volunteer firemen and demonstrate various fire-fighting techniques to the public.

Wolford said the planned blaze will provide better training than an unplanned fire. Fires will be set in several parts of the house, extinguished and others set until the house is destroyed. Planned setting, Wolford explained, will allow a measure of control, letting firemen analyze the situation and determine the best methods for extinguishing the fire.

House-burnings occur whenever someone has a building to donate for the purpose. The fire department of the town where the donated building is located usually is in charge of the event, Wolford said.

Members of Iowa City's Fire Department, the only non-volunteer group in the county, will attend Sunday's demonstration which is open to the public. Explanation of the techniques being demonstrated will be broadcast over a public address system.

MOTHER'S DAY OFFICIAL NOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy has proclaimed May 12 as Mothers Day.

Kennedy's proclamation Friday cited a joint resolution of Congress approved May 8, 1914, designating the second Sunday in May of each year as Mothers Day.

KENNEDY VACATIONS

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy will spend the weekend at his Camp David retreat in the Catoctin Mountains, the White House announced Friday.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger said Kennedy would depart at 1 p.m. today by helicopter for Camp David.
