1,390 To Receive Degrees Today

Medicine, Dentistry Seniors Meet

A short history of the SUI College of Medicine was delivered by Dr. Dean M. Lierle, head of the Department of Otolaryngology and Maxillofacial Surgery, Thursday night in the Iowa Memorial Union. Lierle addressed 116 graduating medical seniors at the annual College of Medicine Convocation.

Lierle said there were five medical schools in Iowa between 1849 and 1913 but Iowa's College of Medicine, established in 1870, was the only one to survive the difficulties of the high cost of medical education.

In 1921 the college had a faculty of 37. SUI has 335 faculty members today. Comparing the wages and training of the 1921 resident physician and the 1963 resident, Lierle said that the former received $100 a year and maintenance and trained for an average of one year. Today's resident physician earns an average of $2,000 to $3,000 a year and trains from two to six years depending on his area of specialization.

Lierle advised the seniors to choose the field they wanted without regard for financial reward. He advised, "Find pleasure in your work, or you won't find it at all."

Seven outstanding students were honored during the ceremonies: John W. Olney, M4, Marathon, $500 Borden Award presented annually to a senior who has done meritorious undergraduate research.

Stephen J. Curtis, M4, Holstein, the Jane Leinfelder Memorial Award for outstanding scholarship in clinical medicine during his junior year. He also received the MacEwen Memorial Prize given to the senior student who has made an outstanding record in his medical course.

Alfred E. Mayner, M3, Montrose, the Milford Edwin Barnes Award for outstanding work done in public health and preventive medicine.

Dennis R. Samuelson, M2, Burlington, the Walter L. Bierring Award for his outstanding work in microbiology.

James W. Turner, M2, Manchester, the John T. McClintock Award as the outstanding medical student in physiology as a freshman.

Stephen R. Jones, M1, Denison and Robert H. Osborn, M1, Dexter, the Prentiss Memorial Award for their outstanding record in gross anatomy.

RICHARD SHOPE To Receive Degree

2 Honorary Degrees To Be Given

Among the 1,390 to graduate today will be 83 who will graduate with special distinction. The top 2 per cent of those receiving bachelor's degrees will be graduated with "highest distinction," the next three per cent with "high distinction," and the next five per cent with "distinction."

HONORARY DEGREES will be conferred upon Dr. Richard E. Shope, and Read Admiral Lewis L. Strauss, (ret.). Shope will receive an honorary Doctor of Science Degree (Sc.D.) and Strauss will be awarded the degree of Doctor of Laws (LL.D.).

Strauss will deliver the Commencement Address at 9:30 a.m. in the Field House.

SHOPE AN SUI graduate, is an authority in the field of comparative medicine and a pioneer in the development of new techniques for dealing with viruses in men. His research contributions include the discovery of the origin of "mad itch" in cattle, work on swine influenza, hog cholera, and eastern viral encephalomyelitis, a virus brain inflammation. Shope was awarded the Albert Lasker Award of the American Public Health Association, the Fuller Memorial Prize, the Army Legion of Merit and the Phillips Memorial Medal of the American College of Physicians.

STRAUSS WAS a member of the U.S. delegation to the Final Armistice Convention following World War I. In 1946 he was appointed by President Truman as one of the original five commissioners of the Atomic Energy Commission until 1950. He was named chairman of the commission in 1953. He was associated with the inception and development of the Atoms-for-Peace program and International Atomic Energy Agency. He headed the U.S. delegation to the U.N. conferences on peaceful uses of atomic energy in 1955 and 1958.

Honorary Degrees To Be Awarded To Shope, Strauss

Some 1,390 students will receive degrees from SUI Friday morning during spring Commencement exercises, according to Donald E. Rhoades, director of SUI convocations.

The 88,000th degree from SUI will be conferred at the ceremonies. Honorary degrees will be awarded to Dr. Richard E. Shope, internationally known virologist and former Iowan, and Lewis L. Strauss, former chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission.

STRAUSS WILL also present the Commencement address.

SUI President Virgil M. Hancher will confer degrees and deliver the traditional charge to the graduating students.

Professor Robert Michaelsen, director of the SUI School of Religion, will serve as chaplain during the exercises, and William D. Coder, coordinator of conferences, will be master of ceremonies.

Candidates for degrees represent 98 Iowa counties, 45 states, and 15 foreign countries. The foreign countries represented by degree candidates are Australia, Canada, China, France, Germany, India, Israel, Japan, Jordan, Korea, New Zealand, Pakistan, the Philippines, Turkey, United Arab Republic.

DEGREES TO be awarded include 66 doctor of philosophy degrees, 275 master's degrees, 610 liberal arts, 57 law, 117 doctor of medicine, 53 doctor of dental surgery, 24 pharmacy, 54 engineering, 124 business administration and 10 nursing degrees.

Processional and a short concert will be played by the University Symphony Band under the direction of Professor Frederick C. Ebbs of the SUI Music Department.

At 9:25 a.m. University radio station WSUI will broadcast its traditional on-the-scene account of the Commencement exercises, with Professor Orville Hitchcock serving as narrator. WSUI is heard at 910 kilocycles.

Berk To Receive Posthumous Ph.D.

A former SUIowan, who died in January, and who was scheduled to receive a Ph.D. at the February Commencement, will be granted a posthumous degree at today's graduation exercises.

Philip E. Berk, former news director of WKMU-TV and assistant professor of journalism at the University of Missouri, had completed all requirements at SUI for a Ph.D. in mass communications at the time of his death. Berk, 40, died in Columbia, Mo., after a heart attack the day after he completed the final draft of his dissertation.

The degree which will be conferred this morning was authorized by special action of the State Board of Regents.

JFK-Macmillan Meeting Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy was reported Thursday night to have decided — under heavy British urging — to meet with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan at the end of this month during Kennedy's European trip.

An announcement of this addition to the President's schedule is expected to be made within the next few days. The report lacked formal White House confirmation, but Administration officials appeared to have no doubt that the President would, in fact, see him.

The British Prime Minister is facing national elections between now and the fall of 1964 and reportedly has pressed his invitation to Kennedy with considerable insistence.

Meredith Registers Without Incident

OXFORD, Miss. (AP) — James H. Meredith, the University of Mississippi's first Negro student, registered for the summer session Thursday.

The 29-year-old senior arrived from Jackson, Miss., to find things a bit different than they were during the long and lonely winter session.

The dormitory quarters included another Negro student, Cleve McDowell, 21.

MEREDITH DROVE his little foreign car by the Law College to pick up McDowell, who had just completed his first class at Ole Miss.

McDowell, coatless with a white shirt and dark tie, had walked to the Law School building unaccompanied — although U.S. marshals watched from a few hundred feet away.

In a television talk Wednesday at Jackson, Gov. Ross R. Barnett said the might of the U.S. Government got McDowell into Ole Miss and is now responsible for his safety.

AT BAXTER HALL, the men's dormitory where both were assigned, McDowell helped Meredith carry his belongings to his room. Both were ignored by most white students. Some 2,000 of them are expected to register for the summer session — about half of the student population during the fall and spring sessions.

McDowell passed through registration Wednesday without incident. He said he didn't even hear a rude remark during the process.

WHEN MEREDITH first arrived on campus last fall, protected by some 400 marshals, it sparked a campus riot that left two men dead and scores wounded.

Of the some 20,000 troops sent into the Oxford area after the riot, 300 remain on duty as permanent guards at Baxter Hall and to assist the marshals.

IN ALABAMA the showdown between Gov. George Wallace of Alabama and the Federal Government next week will end with three Negroes enrolling in the University of Alabama, an administration source said.

An overwhelming Federal force will be used if necessary, the spokesman said, but President Kennedy hopes Army troops standing by in Alabama will not be needed.

Federal officials met Thursday with University of Alabama authorities and three Negro students to go over plans for registering the Negroes. University officials said that two of the students are scheduled to enroll at the main campus at Tuscaloosa next Tuesday and the other would be registered at the Huntsville extension center next Thursday.

U.S., Soviets Fully Agree On Hotline

GENEVA (AP) — American and Soviet communications specialists have reached full agreement on a hot line Teletype circuit intended to prevent accidental war, it was disclosed Thursday.

The agreement has been accepted by the U.S. Government and only the Soviet Government approval is still needed to start technical work on the unprecedented hookup.

The specialists agreed that existing telecommunications facilities should be used for the hot line, including an underwater transatlantic cable between the United States and Britain. The use of existing cables could allow the circuit to go into operation in a matter of weeks, officials said.

The line will pass through Stockholm and Helsinki. The British, Swedish and Finnish Governments will be asked to provide the circuits, but they will not have any right to use the hot line.

Both the American and Soviet Governments have rejected a British request to be linked into the hot line, at least at the outset.

Both Governments apparently felt that bringing in third parties might eventually turn the hot line into a network and thus reduce its effectiveness.

Communications on the hot line will be in a special code easily converted into either Russian or English. The signals will be scrambled to prevent eavesdropping en route.

Today's News in Brief

EDUCATION PLEA. President Kennedy Thursday called upon the nation to support his education program and blasted inequalities in the nation's schools. For full story, see Page 6.

VENEZUELAN BURN U.S. BUILDING. Eight pro-Communists Wednesday burned the U.S. Army mission in Caracas, left the occupants stripped to their shorts and knifed a portrait of George Washington. For full story, see Page 6.

MINDSZENTY WILL STAY PUT. A high Catholic source said Thursday Joseph Cardinal Mindszenty has apparently decided to remain in the U.S. legation in Budapest for the time being and not to take part in the Vatican conclave for the election of a new Pope.

The Hungarian Government, however, appeared eager to have the 71-year-old cardinal out of the country.

RAIL STRIKE? In the third day of forced draft mediation, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said Thursday there still were no visible signs of progress toward a settlement in the railroad "featherbedding" dispute.

If no agreement is reached before next Wednesday, a nation-wide rail strike could result.

The railroads and five operating unions asked Wirtz and the National Mediation Board Tuesday to step in.

SCHOOL PLAN LOSES. The Illinois House refused Thursday to raise by 30 per cent the state's support of public junior colleges.

Rep. Paul Elwarg (D-Chicago) and other members who objected to the proposal, said there was no provision made for obtaining the funds which would be needed to hike state aid.

THRESHER INVESTIGATION. A Navy Court of Inquiry wound up its investigation of the loss of the nuclear submarine Thresher Thursday and said it would turn over its findings to higher naval authorities.

A REAL BELL RINGER. Sen. Abraham Ribicoff (D-Conn.), wants prompt Senate approval of his July 4 bell-ringing resolution.

The resolution calls for a nationwide observance of the signing of the Declaration of Independence by ringing bells throughout the country. It cleared the Senate Judiciary Committee Wednesday.

Dental Convocation

"The academic market place is compelled to handle an ever-increasing variety of goods if it is to keep pace with, and ultimately satisfy, the mounting complexity of the society which it seeks to serve," Dean John C. Weaver said Thursday night.

Weaver, vice president for research and dean of the Graduate College, spoke at SUI's annual dental convocation in Macbride Auditorium.

He told the 53 graduating seniors in Dentistry and 33 coeds completing the program in Dental Hygiene the current unprecedented explosion of knowledge will be a major factor in shaping the character of our universities.

Weaver asked the graduates to keep aware of the problems facing higher education as alumni, reminding them of the role that a university fills in serving the society in which they will soon be a part.

"The volume of man's knowledge is doubling every 15 years," Weaver told his audience.

Weaver cited examples of scientific achievement that are shrinking the world and listed brain power as the greatest natural resource of mankind. "Brain power," Weaver said, "is the fountainhead of social, political and economic progress."

"University campuses offer academic environment where interdisciplinary teams can be assembled to encourage 'cross fertilization of ideas,'" Weaver told the graduates.

Registration For Alumni Opens Today

Registration for the weekend Alumni Reunion will continue today from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. in the South Lobby of the Union. Registration ends 3:30 p.m. Saturday.

Eighteen class meetings have been scheduled for SUI alumni who have returned to the campus for commencement weekend.

Class Reunions scheduled for today include: 1912 engineering; luncheon, Sun Porch, Union; 1913 liberal arts; 7 p.m. dinner, Old Gold Room, Union; 1913 law; 6:30 p.m. dinner, North Dining Room, Burge Hall; 1913 dentistry; dinner, University Athletic Club; 1923 medicine; dinner, Athletic Club; 1928 nursing; gab fest, Westlawn; 1938 medicine; social hour and dinner, Athletic Club; 1953 nursing; 6:30 p.m. social hour, 7 p.m. dinner, Athletic Club; and graduates of 1912 and earlier: 6:30 p.m. Emeritus Club dinner, South Dining Room, Burge Hall.

Iowa To Stay Hot and Humid

Partly cloudy and humid is the forecast for SUI's graduation exercises today. Occasional showers and thunderstorms are expected with little temperature change. High today 85 to 90 with little change Saturday.

Warm temperatures, high humidity and thunderstorms prevailed over Iowa Thursday.

The mercury climbed into the lower 90s at several places in the state, and into the upper 80s elsewhere.

Temperatures for the last few days have been averaging about 10 degrees above normal for this time of year.

Scattered showers and thunderstorms were expected to roam the state early this morning.

Very little change is expected in the state's weather for the next few days. Warm and humid conditions will continue, along with occasional night-time showers and thunderstorms.

JAPANESE VISIT

MATSUMOTO, Japan (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer canceled a visit to the Shinshu University here Thursday because university students refused to meet with him.

Reischauer arrived for discussions with the students on general affairs. But the University's student autonomy body refused to meet the American ambassador because it said the discussion was intended to dissuade them from opposing port calls by U.S. nuclear submarines.

Kenya: Is It Ready?

By RALPH MCGILL

Dr. Kwame Nkrumah, of Ghana, views February 12, 1957, as the turning point in his career. He was released from prison on that day to become prime minister of the Gold Coast, then in transition from colonialism (British) to independence.

In Kenya a similar transition has begun. Jomo Kenyatta, aged 73, who not long ago was released from a seven-year prison term, has been elected premier. He is of the Nkrumah philosophy, believing in a strong, one-party government, and socialization of major industries.

An old refrain comes to mind — "Of all sad words of tongue or pen, the saddest are these: 'It might have been.'" Nkrumah took back from his years in the United States a sense of frustration and injustice and a determination to create an African nationalism strong enough to weld the continent together.

Kenyatta, an abandoned orphan boy, was educated by Scottish missionaries. He was called Johnstone. He learned quickly. He had personality and the ability to communicate. He published a newspaper and became a political leader. In 1929 he went to London as a self-appointed emissary to lay before the government the grievances of his people, who believed they were deprived of their land by white settlers. He got nowhere. It now is believed that had he been promised some reform he would have returned home to put them into effect. But having failed to obtain concessions, he remained in London. He took the name of Kenyatta — symbolic of his country, Kenya. He drifted to Russia and studied there.

In 1946 he returned to Kenya. Vain, capricious, hypnotic and intelligent, he found a strong ferment. Tribal unrest was magnified — especially in his own tribe. Thousands of Kikuyus had served with the British Army in the Middle East, in Berma, and other theaters of war. They came back with money — and lifted horizons. In a land of much poverty the Kikuyus are contractors, and owners of small businesses, and are influential in the civil service.

They follow Kenyatta.

Kenyatta is linked with violent nationalism and tribal uprisings, and, almost certainly, severe counter-repressions by the Kenyatta Government are to be anticipated. He will have much help from the more nationalistic countries of Africa — Ghana, Morocco, Egypt.

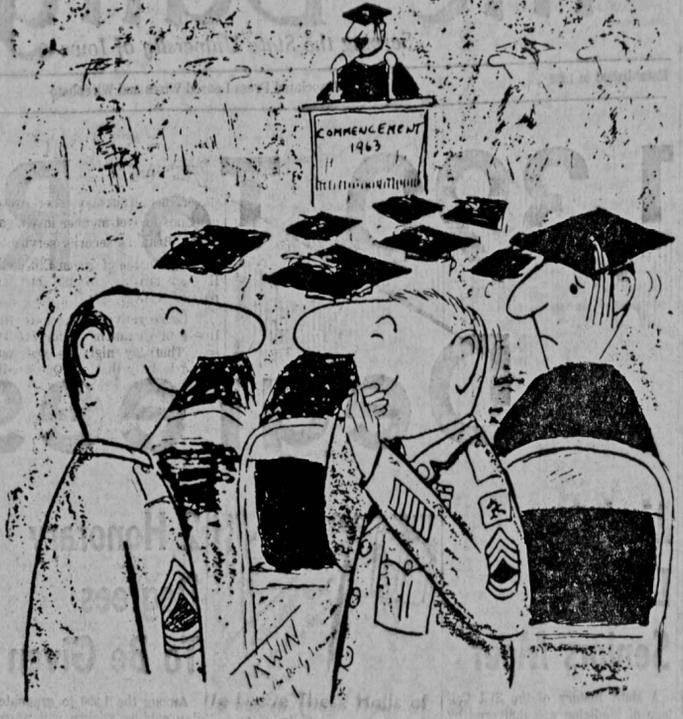

Kenyatta's party is the Kenyan African National Union (KANU). His chief associate is Tom Mboya, an urbane, sophisticated man, graduate of Ruskin College at Oxford, and a person well at home in the capitals of the world. Mboya has made no secret of the fact that Communist China has been financing him and the party. He has visited Peking and been feted there.

The Kikuyus are numerically and economically superior. But there are more than 40 tribes in Kenya, each speaking a different language. They cannot communicate with one another. One thing binds most of them. That is fear of the Kikuyus. North Kenya will be openly hostile to Kenyatta's Government. It is occupied by Somalis, a proud warrior class whose religion is Islamic. They long have wanted to affiliate with the republic of Somalia. Their religion is arid, harsh and nonproductive.

This is a beginning of elementary language in Kenya. There is much adult illiteracy. There is not much industry. A mixed agriculture, unorganized and primitive supports the country. The tsetse fly decimates large areas of the country. The fly-free highlands, where Europeans have made vast agricultural advances, are being sold to Africans to ease the political pressure for land. This will depress farm production.

Kenya is not ready for self-government? Not really. And yet, it would never have been under the old system.

The world stage is never empty of drama.

'As We Leave These Halls of Learning To Pursue the Careers of Our Choice . . .'

Graduates: A Challenge To Show Your Mettle

Graduates you are challenged. You are challenged to live up to the high ideals that your professors have been trying to instill in you during your college career.

But this is a specific challenge instead of a general challenge. We dare you to remain in Iowa and live up to these ideals. If you have already committed yourself, the challenge is to return to this state in a few years. We admonish you not to leave this state — preferably not at all, but definitely not for all time.

You will remember that Iowa has been tagged as a "Corn only state" by some of the nation's leading industrialists. They sarcastically laugh at our standards (standards they have imagined). Many pass up Iowa without a second thought when considering relocation of their industries.

We challenge you to look around yourself and view Iowa objectively. You will find that it is not one large corn field manned by a few country bumpkins who live in the sticks. You will find that Iowa has industry, educated people, culture and recreation.

It is your job to prove that these "big men" are wrong. It is your duty to help improve Iowa, and only you — college and university graduates — can do it. Only you can upgrade the culture, industry and recreation of Iowa.

That is our challenge. The rest is up to you — a college graduate with a B.A., M.A. or a Ph.D. Iowa is waiting with rich rewards, if you have the mettle to seek them out.

Planning Kennedy's Words

By JOSEPH ALSOP

WASHINGTON. In the back rooms of the White House, preparations are already being made for the President's European tour. In the usual Kennedy way, every sort of person imaginable is being asked what the President should say and how he ought to say it, in order to achieve the best results in Italy and Germany.

The central problem is what to do about the scheme for the multi-lateral nuclear deterrent. By proposing this mixed sea-borne force armed with American nuclear missiles, the President sought to recapture the European initiative after the jarring setback of Gen. de Gaulle's veto on British entry into the European Common Market.

The subject is so thorny that it is not much discussed. Yet it is so important that it has got to be discussed. The question is whether the American initiative will or will not fall from half-heartedness.

To recapitulate briefly: after making his public proposal, the President sent Special Ambassador Livingston Merchant to explain the multi-lateral deterrent to the Europeans. In Germany, which has become the key country in Europe and in NATO because of Gen. de Gaulle's intransigence, Merchant was given a warm, yet critical welcome.

German Defense Minister Kai-Uwe von Hassel asked particularly insistent questions about the control arrangements for the new cooperative, mixed-manned nuclear force. The American scheme called for a control committee, in which each contributing nation would have a veto on the use of the new nuclear force. Von Hassel pointed out first of all that if the American veto were retained, the creation of the new force would in no way dilute the effective American monopoly on nuclear power. But he gave vastly more importance to another point.

He drummed home the probability that with a one-nation-veto system, Labor leader Harold Wilson would quite soon have a veto as British Prime Minister. In that case, von Hassel remarked, heavy investment in the new force would hardly be justifiable.

Von Hassel's arguments were not — and still are not — easy to answer. With sensible moderation, however, he did not ask for any immediate change in the control arrangements, which would have required immediate, drastic amendment of the McMahon Act.

Instead, he asked for a personal commitment by the President to recommend control by majority vote of the control committee, after the new force had been built, organized, manned and operationally tested at sea. This request is the problem the U.S. policy-makers have since been wrestling with.

The wrestling has been complicated by three highly curious factors. Even at the outset, the President made his proposal with qualified enthusiasm. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who had little share in the original initiative, has also placed the main emphasis on avoiding Congressional trouble arising from excessive tampering with the McMahon Act.

Finally, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara is a high and dry non-proliferationist (the new word of art for those who wish to retain the U.S. nuclear monopoly at all costs). He therefore wants the U.S. veto kept in the scheme. The wrestling has therefore produced a compromise.

Somewhere along the line in Europe, and almost certainly in Germany, the President will do a re-take of his remarkable Philadelphia speech, on the theme that the U.S. wants Europe as a fully equal partner. He will point to the multi-lateral deterrent as the germ of a European deterrent, as it would be if majority control were adopted. But he will only commit himself to alterations of the control arrangements when Europe is "truly united," rather than when the force is operational.

Given the hard fact of Gen. de Gaulle, Europe is not likely to be truly united while President Kennedy is in office. The question therefore is whether this high-sounding compromise will satisfy the Europeans, and especially the Germans. Will the Germans really want to spend something like $200 million a year on a force over which Harold Wilson will probably have a veto?

For fear of seeming to demand nuclear weapons for themselves, the Germans have not again posed the question von Hassel asked Merchant in Bonn. The German Defense Minister was silent on the subject in his talks with Americans in Ottawa, and so was Minister Heinrich Krone on his exploration trip to Washington.

Rather complacently, therefore, the Kennedy policy-makers are saying the Germans have changed their minds. Yet they have done nothing of the sort, as was indicated in an interview given to a German journalist in Ottawa by Minister von Hassel. Hence the question posed above is still pretty worrying. And if the scheme goes sour because the answer to the question turns out to be negative, the Kennedy policy-makers would hardly give a more glittering present to Gen. de Gaulle.

Collegians Ready For More Responsibility

One Iowa college president has shut the door, literally and figuratively, on the idea of allowing boys and girls to visit each other's dormitory rooms at certain hours.

The Ottumwa Courier quotes President John Henderson of Iowa Wesleyan as saying "togetherness" can be carried too far on college campuses.

The co-educational visits are permitted at Grinnell College under controlled conditions and on an experimental basis.

Dr. Henderson rejected the idea of dormitory room freedom, stating: "Parents do not permit such use of bedrooms at home and I do not think we should go that far in college."

The Iowa Wesleyan president, however, said collegians today are ready for "more responsibility than we give them."

The Courier saluted his stand as a sensible one. We agree.

Pretty But Ineffective Cops

By JOHN CROSBY

ROME — Rome has the prettiest traffic cops in the world — and the least effectual. They're girls — not all, but many of them — and 'tis a heartwarming sight to see them waving their arms excitedly in the universal gesture: go, go, go.

Of course, you can't go, because there's a car in front of you and another one in front of that one, clear up to the Capitoline Hill and down to the Tiber. Rome has the worst traffic problem in the world. That's what everyone says and for once everyone is right. Man and boy, I've studied traffic jams all over the world. Rome's unquestionably are the worst. Or the best, depending on how you look on traffic jams.

If you look on a traffic jam as evidence of the rising prosperity of the middle classes, a throwing-off of the yoke of poverty, a triumphant symbol of the 20th century, then, by Jove (I run around with the old crowd who got here before the Christians), you ought to come here and sit in one of these tangles for an hour or so.

They're very restful, Rome traffic jams, if you don't especially care about getting somewhere. You can work out the impasse in your second act or do three-dimensional chess problems in your head. Another interesting intellectual exercise is to figure out what you are going to tell your hostess when you finally get there. She's certainly not going to believe you were caught in a traffic jam for two hours. That's ridiculous. It's true but still ridiculous. Your hostess may have lived in Rome for 15 years. She's been caught in traffic jams just as bad and arrived at parties just as late. She still doesn't believe it because Rome traffic is frankly incredible. So you'd better invent something more plausible. Tell her you were abducted by gypsies.

Of course, if you don't like intellectual exercises, you can just look at the pretty traffic cops. I really think that's why the Romans started using girls. You're not going anywhere. So you might as well have something to look at. Some corners, like the Piazza di Spagna, have two or three pretty girls, all pumping their arms telling you to go, go, go. There's no place to go, so you ogle the girls, while the Eternal City gets older.

Actually, the traffic problem is almost as eternal as the city. Ancient Rome had a terrible time with chariots. At one point chariots were not allowed into the city during the daytime because they meant the chariots had to come in at night, and for the next couple of centuries no one got any sleep, chariots being fairly noisy contraptions.

That brings us up to the present day. The city of Rome invited its traffic problem and every Roman had a solution. The city is swamped in solutions. There are almost as many solutions as there are cars. Somewhere in there is the right one that will make the whole problem disappear. But it'll take centuries to go through all that mail — I know a guy whose wife have been slightly addled by sitting in traffic jams who sends in a different solution every day — and in the meantime, there's this mess, and what I say is relax and enjoy it.

In Rome the automobile is the slowest means of transportation. Snails cross the city faster than taxicabs. If you really want to see the town, don't walk, ride. That way you'll have time really to study every cornice, every column, every fountain, every plinth. My goodness, what a lovely city it is. I'd never had had time really to see it if I'd gone flashing around on my own legs.

The most marvelous thing about Rome's traffic is that it's going to get worse, much, much worse. Italy is just at the beginning of the economic miracle. Next year there'll be even more cars and there'll be floods more after that. Instead of being two hours late for your dinner party, you'll be six.

Where will it all end? Well, I remember a fantasy NBC put on some years ago in which the final traffic jam occurs on Fifth Avenue. Traffic gets so snarled that nothing can move in any direction. People get out of their cars and walk away. They fill up the spaces between cars with earth, plant grass on top, and that solves the problem for all time.

I think that's going to happen here first. It's the only fair that Rome which had the first traffic problem should have the last one, too.

Are physically fit children better students?

There is some evidence that the physical fitness of children makes a difference in their scholastic performance. Even without specific evidence, it stands to reason that the better a child's health, the better he may do in his studies. Many schools have recognized this fact and are stepping up their programs of physical education. But in a surprisingly large number of our schools, there is still not enough emphasis on daily activities that develop stamina, strength, agility and other desirable qualities. For the sake of your child's physical and mental progress, find out about the activities required of him daily. Urge your local school officials to provide for his physical development with at least 15 minutes of vigorous exercise daily. If you'd like more information, write to The President's Council on Physical Fitness, Washington 25, D. C.

Regular size. Large economy size.

Volkswagens come in two handy sizes: Sedan and Station Wagon. The packages are very different, but the works are about the same. There is a genuine Volkswagen engine in the back of each. It gives both cars solid traction on ice and snow. The engines are air-cooled, too. So you never mess with water or anti-freeze. The Volkswagen Sedan seats 4 adults comfortably or 5 adults uncomfotably. (A mother, a father and 3 kids are about right.)

The Volkswagen Wagon is only 9 inches longer than the Sedan, a neat trick off by itself. It seats 8 comfortably, 9 uncomfotably and 10 very uncomfotably, but it's been done. (The kids that fit are countless.) The VW Sedan averages 32 miles to the gallon, the Wagon a mere 24. Once upon a time, people had trouble deciding whether to buy a VW or not. Now they have trouble deciding which size.

Altman's Hit Gives Cards 1st Place Tie

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Pinch-hitter George Altman's run-scoring double in the eighth inning gave St. Louis a 5-4 victory over Philadelphia Thursday night and moved the Cardinals into a three-way tie with San Francisco and Chicago for the National League lead.

The Cardinals had to choke off Phillies' rallies in the sixth and eighth innings to win. Bobby Shantz retired the side with two men on in the sixth after Bob Wine had belted a two-run homer to chase starter Bob Gibson and bring the Phillies to within one run.

The Cards had piled up a four-run lead in the third inning. Bob Gibson got the victory, his fourth against three losses.

Baltimore Scores Two In Eighth To Top Yanks

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles snapped a 2-2 tie with run-producing singles by Brooks Robinson and Jim Gentile in the eighth inning Thursday night to defeat New York 4-2 and replace the injury-jinxed Yankees as the American League leaders.

The Yanks, who lost Mickey Mantle with a broken foot bone Wednesday, had a starting pitcher Jim Bouton sidelined by a vicious line drive off the bat of Baltimore's Jack Brandt in the fourth inning.

Bouton suffered a cut on the right side of his face, which required 12 stitches to close, and also a severe bruise of the right clavicle. X-rays showed no fracture of either the jaw or the clavicle.

Stan Williams, the fourth of five New York pitchers, was the loser. He walked Louie Aparcio to open the eighth, and then after a ground out which advanced Aparcio to second, singles by Robinson and Gentile scored the two runs. Robinson went to second on the throw to the plate in an attempt to get Aparcio, and scored on Gentile's hit.

Robinson's homers, the 10th and 11th of the season, accounted for three runs batted in.

Cincinnati piled up four runs in the third inning, two of them coming on Robinson's first homer.

2-Run Homer Lets Nats Beat Red Sox 2-1

WASHINGTON (AP)—Larry Osborne's two-run homer in the first inning carried Washington to a 2-1 victory over Boston Friday night and extended the Senators' winning streak to four games, their longest of the season.

The Senators nailed the victory with Ron Kline's ninth-inning relief help. Kline came on for starter Dave Stenhouse after the Red Sox had loaded the bases with two out on singles by Roman Mejias and Chuck Schilling and a walk to Gary Geiger.

Kline then got Carl Yastrzemski to hit back to the mound for the final out.

ARROYO SENT DOWN
BALTIMORE (AP)—Luis Arroyo, relief ace of the New York Yankees in 1961, was shipped to the Richmond farm club of the International League Thursday when the Yankees recalled left-handed Al Downing from Richmond.

Griffith-Rodriguez Bout: Lots of Action (Maybe)

NEW YORK (AP)—If the fighters' action matches their words, the return title fight between welterweight champion Luis Rodriguez and Emile Griffith Saturday night should be a whale of a battle and an easy one for the officials to score.

But if they revert to form and their previous pattern holds, it should be a good fight and a tough one for the referee and two judges to figure out.

They are even in two clashes. Griffith won a split decision over the Cuban before either was champion at Madison Square Garden, Dec. 17, 1960.

In their next clash, at Los Angeles, last March 21, Rodriguez won a close but unanimous verdict in lifting the crown from the two-time welterweight king. A majority of boxing writers had Griffith the winner.

Because of their contrasting styles, they probably could fight 50 times and still wind up as close as a couple of relay runners passing batons.

Griffith is an aggressive boxer-puncher who relies heavily on wearing down his opponents with a body attack. Rodriguez is a boxer who always is on the move. He has dancing feet, a flicking jab, fast hands and a tendency to fight in flurries.

CHICAGO (AP)—Relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel slammed a 10th inning home run off Billy Pierce Thursday as the Chicago Cubs beat San Francisco 3-2 and tied the Giants for first place in the National League.

The Cubs tied the score at 2-2 on a two-run home run by Billy Williams in the eighth.

McDaniel had bailed the Cubs out of trouble in the top of the 10th by picking Willie Mays off second base with the bases loaded and one out, then fanning Ed Bailey to retire the side.

The Cubs thus swept the four-game series with the reeling Giants and now have won 11 of their last 13 games.

It was the eighth setback in 11 starts for the Giants.

USTFF Meet Features 3 Mark Holders

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Three world record holders, both world record indoor and outdoor mile relay teams and the great and near great of intercollegiate track go on display here Friday in the first championships of the United States Track and Field Federation.

Adolph Plummer, quarter-mileer from New Mexico; John Pennel, mighty pole vaulter of Northeast Louisiana; and C. K. Yang, big man of the decathlon, are the world record smashers.

The warmup competition for the NCAA meet at Albuquerque, N.M., next week involves about 170 athletes from 46 colleges and clubs.

Arizona State University's mile relay team that has a world record time of 3:04.5 pending will match strides with Texas Southern, which set an indoor record of 3:12 last winter then made it in 3:07.7 outdoors.

Yang, world record holder in the decathlon, won't be in his specialty here but will do the 120-yard high hurdles and pole vault. Plummer, who ran 440 yards in :43.9 to better the world record of :45.7, and Pennel, who vaulted 16 feet 6 1/2 inches to crack the world mark of 16-2 1/2, will show why.

RING NAMES PASTRANO
NEW YORK (AP)—The upset victory of Willie Pastrano over Harold Johnson in Las Vegas prompted Ring Magazine to name the new world light heavyweight champion the Fighter-of-the-Month.

Missouri, which has a 23-6 record, was ranked first. The only Big Ten team rated ahead of Iowa was Illinois, which won the conference title. Iowa was second in the Big Ten race.

MANTLE OUT FIVE WEEKS
NEW YORK (AP)—A second examination of Mickey Mantle's left foot Thursday showed that the New York Yankee's $100,000 outfielder will be out of the lineup "a minimum of five weeks."

Dr. Sydney Gaynor, club physician, made the examination after the player was brought here from Baltimore, where his left foot was hurt Wednesday night when the spikes of his shoe caught in a wire fence while he was chasing a home run by Brooks Robinson.

"Mantle has an undisplaced slightly oblique fracture of the third metatarsal with fragments in excellent alignment," Dr. Gaynor announced after an hour-long examination.

"Fortunately, he suffered no other injury. The cast placed on the foot is a very good one and needs no adjustment. However, it will take a minimum of three weeks for the bone to heal."

"When the cast is removed then, Mantle still will have to walk gingerly for two weeks after that so I really see no prospect of his returning to the line-up until after the All-Star game."

The All-Star game is scheduled to be played in Cleveland Tuesday, July 9.

"I'm sure the doctor knows more about it than I do," Mickey said as he hobbled off the plane with the aid of crutches. "But I have an idea it's not as bad as it sounds."

Second Ace In Two Days

Thursday marked the second straight day that a golfer has scored a hole-in-one on a University golf course.

Richard Dandarvold sunk his ball off the tee on the fourth hole of South Finkbine. Dandarvold used a 5 iron. He was playing with Elliott Tanis.

Wednesday, Bob Martin of Cornell College scored his hole-in-one on the second hole of North Finkbine. Martin used a 4 wood for his shot. He went on to shoot a 72 for 18 holes. Mike Newell and Vinyard Krogmann witnessed this shot.

7 May Run At Belmont

NEW YORK (AP)—Candy Spots or no Candy Spots, money still shouts and new recruits for the $125,000-advised Belmont Stakes were bouncing around Thursday like Mexican jumping beans. The latest count was seven, but don't bet on it to stay at that figure.

Instead of the five colts expected for the tough 1 1/2-mile grind to be decided for the first time at Aqueduct Saturday, at least seven will go in the 96th running of the race, wrap-up of the Kentucky Derby-Preakness-Belmont triple crown.

The latest to be heard from were Hirsch Jacobs, who trains Bonjour for his daughter Patrice, and Joe Kramer, trainer of Choker for Louis Lee Haggin II.

"Bonjour is a definite starter if nothing happens to him between now and the race," said Jacobs. "He's fit and can go from here to China."

The ink wasn't dry on that communique before Kramer hung up the telephone after talking with Haggin, and said to count on Choker.

"We've made up our minds — might as well run," said Kramer. "Johnny Rotz will ride."

Bobby Ussery, who won a one-mile race with Bonjour last Saturday, will pilot the Jacobs colts, who won the Derby Trial but was sixth in the Derby at Louisville when Chateaugay upset favored Candy Spots.

The Belmont winner stands to collect about $100,000, depending on how many owners shell out $250 for entries Friday, and another $1,000 to start Saturday at approximately 3:48 p.m. EST.

There isn't a trainer who will say flatly his horse can beat Candy Spots, who is rated a 1-4 shot. The opposition admits unanimously that the California colt, who has won three derbies this spring — Santa Anita, Florida and Jersey — as well as the Preakness, should win again.

Colleges Quickly Obey—

Mac Orders Participation

NEW YORK (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur ordered the nation's colleges Thursday to lift their boycott of the National AAU Championships — where the U.S. team for the annual track meet against Russia will be picked — and the colleges quickly began to obey.

The general ruled the colleges had taken action that violated the agreement he hammered out in the bitter sports war last January. He told them to stop the action immediately.

Asa Bushnell, commissioner of the 132-member Eastern College Athletic Conference, said his group will abide by the general's directive. An ECAC action sparked the latest flareup.

Ken Norton, athletic director of Manhattan College, said, "That's all we had to be told. Our athletes are being informed immediately that they have our permission to compete in any open meet."

Art Mahan, Villanova athletic director, said his school would file entries immediately for the nationals. Villanova is fresh from its fourth straight IC4A track title. "I am tickled the boys can run," Mahan said.

Bushnell said the ECAC, in establishing a boycott of AAU meets was acting in accordance with a ruling of the college — sponsored U.S. Track and Field Federation.

The USTFF was established by the colleges to battle the AAU for control of track. The struggle had threatened the U.S. team for the meet to be held in Moscow July 20-21.

MacArthur's ruling said: "The action of the USTFF through its affiliate, the Eastern College Athletic Conference, which has apparently been taken under a misunderstanding, in effect bars college athletes from open meets and is in contravention with the agreement of January."

The five-star general, appointed by President Kennedy to arbitrate the dispute, said: "I feel that it is necessary in this case to direct that such action of the ECAC be immediately rescinded in order that the meets may proceed as scheduled."

MacArthur's stern ruling came after a request from the AAU. In question was the sanctioning of the AAU championships in St. Louis June 21-22, where the U.S. team to face Russia would be picked. The USTFF had sought what amounted to a dual sanction and had ordered its athletes to stay out of the meet, unless the AAU did business with the federation.

MacArthur said the AAU had the "sole sanctioning power" for the meet, and said the colleges must "refrain from any action which inhibits the free participation of any athlete."

Col. Donald Hull, executive director of the AAU, said his organization was grateful that MacArthur "has spoken out to eliminate the confusion that has been generated."

Walter Byers, executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association and a prime mover in college sports, had no comment on the ruling. The federation is an arm of the NCAA.

Cloyd Webb Plans To Outdistance Big Ten Rival

CLOYD WEBB plans to top the only man who has outdistanced him in the discus at the Central Collegiate Meet at Notre Dame Saturday.

Webb lost the Big Ten title to Elmers Ezrinis of Wisconsin when Ezrinis tossed the discus 170 feet 10 inches. Webb took second place with 167-10.

However, Webb plans to turn the tables when the two meet on Saturday and again at the National Collegiate championships June 13-15 at Albuquerque, N.M. Whatever I do, I think in terms of winning. Now Ezrinis' marks are personal challenges for me and I'm going to do all I can to break them," Webb said.

Webb, who also plays end on the Hawkeye football team, has two other tosses over 165 feet. His best was on May 11 when he broke his own Iowa record with a throw of 169 feet 1 1/2 inches.

Cincy Beats Pirates, 7-5

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Red-hot Frank Robinson hit two homers for a total of four in two games, powering Cincinnati to a 7-5 victory over Pittsburgh Thursday night in the first game of a two-night doubleheader.

Robinson's homers, the 10th and 11th of the season, accounted for three runs batted in.

Cincinnati piled up four runs in the third inning, two of them coming on Robinson's first homer.

Hawks Baseball Team Ranked 25th in Nation

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Iowa was ranked 25th Thursday in the final college baseball poll of the season conducted by the newspaper Collegiate Baseball.

Missouri, which has a 23-6 record, was ranked first. The only Big Ten team rated ahead of Iowa was Illinois, which won the conference title. Iowa was second in the Big Ten race.

ARROYO SENT DOWN
BALTIMORE (AP)—Luis Arroyo, relief ace of the New York Yankees in 1961, was shipped to the Richmond farm club of the International League Thursday when the Yankees recalled left-handed Al Downing from Richmond.

MANTLE OUT FIVE WEEKS
NEW YORK (AP)—A second examination of Mickey Mantle's left foot Thursday showed that the New York Yankee's $100,000 outfielder will be out of the lineup "a minimum of five weeks."

Dr. Sydney Gaynor, club physician, made the examination after the player was brought here from Baltimore, where his left foot was hurt Wednesday night when the spikes of his shoe caught in a wire fence while he was chasing a home run by Brooks Robinson.

"Mantle has an undisplaced slightly oblique fracture of the third metatarsal with fragments in excellent alignment," Dr. Gaynor announced after an hour-long examination.

"Fortunately, he suffered no other injury. The cast placed on the foot is a very good one and needs no adjustment. However, it will take a minimum of three weeks for the bone to heal."

"When the cast is removed then, Mantle still will have to walk gingerly for two weeks after that so I really see no prospect of his returning to the line-up until after the All-Star game."

The All-Star game is scheduled to be played in Cleveland Tuesday, July 9.

"I'm sure the doctor knows more about it than I do," Mickey said as he hobbled off the plane with the aid of crutches. "But I have an idea it's not as bad as it sounds."

FOUR IN THE RUNNING

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP)—With four cities still in running, Lyons, France, and Detroit were believed Thursday to be the leading contenders for the 1968 Olympic games.

While the executive board of the International Olympic Committee declined to disclose any information after a joint meeting with international sports federations, a source said France's third largest city and Detroit appeared to have the best chance of obtaining the games.

Commencement Togetherness

Graduation will be a family affair for this young couple at SUI Commencement ceremonies today. Mrs. Dorothy Hendrickson will receive a bachelor of arts degree in home economics, and her husband, David, will receive a juris doctor degree in law with honors. He will practice law in Keokuk. Their 10-month-old daughter, Gretchen, will receive no degree this year, but she will be appropriately dressed for the occasion. Both David and his wife were enrolled for full academic programs during 1962-1963, and both participated in several extracurricular activities. While her parents were attending classes and studying, Gretchen spent weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. with a next-door babysitter. Hendrickson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Hendrickson of St. Ansgar, and Mrs. Hendrickson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Bittner, R.R. 1, Tiskilwa, Ill.

'Give Every Child a Fair Chance,' Kennedy Asks

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — President Kennedy called upon the nation Thursday to support his education program and the goal of giving every American child a fair chance, regardless of race.

Kennedy said that "American children today do not yet enjoy equal educational opportunities, for two primary reasons — one economic, the other racial."

Applauding listeners heard him add that "we must move ahead quickly in both areas" in order to meet the goal of "giving every American child a fair chance."

THE PRESIDENT'S forum was an academic one, at San Diego State College.

Kennedy delivered the commencement address after getting something of a history-making honorary degree.

California's 17 state colleges combined in giving him the first honorary doctor of law degree any of them ever has awarded.

"To be an instant graduate of this college is greatly appreciated," the President said with a chuckle.

AFTER HIS ADDRESS, whose passages on racial issues were toned down considerably from the advance version, Kennedy climbed into a helicopter and flew to the San Diego Marine Corps recruit depot for a short course in how a recruit is converted in a few weeks into a tough, fit, fighting man. This was a prelude to a trip to sea on an aircraft carrier to watch what the Navy can do in amphibious and anti-submarine warfare and in repelling or launching aerial attacks.

The day had political overtones, too. By the President's side all the way was Gov. Edmond G. (Pat) Brown.

THE GOVERNOR says he is going to run next year's election campaign in a state Brown won in 1962 and Kennedy lost in 1960. Both ran against the same man — former Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

San Diego was the pivotal point in California's swing to Nixon in 1960. Kennedy lost the state by only 35,000 but dropped San Diego County by 52,000 votes.

A police-estimated crowd of 300,000 lined a six-mile parade route through the city and gave Kennedy a warm reception despite the chilly weather. Children let out of school swelled the turnout.

HUNDREDS OF SIGNS were printed. Many were the product of Democratic clubs. A few showed a liking for Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) for president in 1964.

Once more the President focused on facets of the racial issue which have become a prime national problem.

To graduates and guests who filled the San Diego State stadium,

Kennedy said:

"WE MUST put more resources into the undernourished sectors of our educational system. And we must recognize that segregation in education — and I mean the de facto segregation of the North as well as the proclaimed segregation of the South — brings with it serious handicaps to a larger percentage of our nation's population."

Kennedy deleted from his text this paragraph: "Our goal must be an educational system . . . in which every child, whether born of a banker's son in a Long Island mansion, or a Negro sharecropper's son in an Alabama cotton field, has every opportunity for an education that his abilities and character deserve."

KENNEDY MARSHALLED figures behind his contention that the educational system is falling short in the field of equal opportunity, in meeting present day needs and in preparing for the challenge of the future.

He said "education is the instrument of freedom, and indoctrination the weapon of tyranny." And the task of improving it, he said, is a national one to be shared by government at all levels.

To carry out the federal role, he said, he has asked Congress for aid in constructing college buildings, stepped-up student loans, grants for more classrooms and higher salaries for secondary school teachers.

In Venezuela —

Leftists Burn U.S. Building

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Hundreds of Venezuelan police sought eight pro-Communists who Wednesday burned the U.S. Army mission, stripped occupants to their shorts and knifed a portrait of George Washington.

Three youths found loitering around the fire-blackened remains of the rambling, one-story Spanish colonial building were arrested for questioning. One had fresh paint on his hands, possibly the paint used to smear the mission walls with the initials FALN.

FALN STANDS for the Armed Forces of National Liberation, a leftist, pro-Castro underground movement campaigning to overthrow President Romulo Betancourt with terrorist attacks on Government and business installations.

Defense Minister Antonio Briceno Limares called on U.S. Ambassador C. Allan Stewart and expressed official regret.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the loss was small. The building was leased from the Venezuelan Armed Forces.

THE EIGHT raiders burned the mission's American flag in the attack and hoisted the black standard of the FALN while denouncing what they called Yankee imperialism. They wrecked files and destroyed office equipment.

"We won't hurt you, but next time you won't be so lucky," an English-speaking member of the group told three U.S. Army officers and four sergeants headed by Col. J. K. Chenault, 46, deputy chief of the mission.

SURPRISED WITH the American military men were Chenault's 15-year-old son and six Venezuelans — four National Guardsmen posted with submachine guns at the entrance and two civilian employees.

The Americans were not armed.

A U.S. spokesman said threats had been numerous in the past week. Threats have been common in Venezuela since the Communists and their allies began trying to shake down the Government.

The terrorists made off with the submachine guns of the Venezuelan guards, a U.S. pistol found in a cabinet, various uniforms, and the watches and rings of the 14. They passed up cash.

ALL EXCEPT Chenault and his son were left stripped to their underwear.

The band brought gasoline to start the fire.

The Americans and their Venezuelan companions were left outside the burning building as the band made off.

AT SUI COMMENCEMENT

Little Things Can Be a Headache

On big occasions the little things become important. No one is more aware of the truth in this than William D. Coder, the man who "breaks the ice" and then keeps the program moving along at an SUI Commencement.

Coder, whose regular job is Director of Conferences and Institutes, has been master of ceremonies in every SUI Commencement since his first on Jan. 31, 1946. He's become completely accustomed to the "routine" aspects, of course, but those little things — the unexpected, the overlooked, or even the mispronounced — don't permit him to become blasé about the whole business.

ONE OF THE MOST troublesome "minor details" Dr. Coder has to watch out for is the pronunciation of names. Among the 1,390 persons to be graduated Friday will be several to receive the Ph.D. degree. The full name of each Ph.D. recipient will be read as the signal for the person to move onto the platform to receive the degree from President Virgil M. Hancher.

Coder spends a good deal of time prior to Commencement in telephoning prospective graduates to confirm correct name pronunciations. He has found that the most difficult names to get right are not necessarily foreign names, but the middle names of American students. "The reason for this is that a middle name is often an old family name and frequently has a peculiar family pronunciation," explained Coder.

He recalls with some discomfort the time he mispronounced a seemingly simple name and the bearer of the name scolded Coder then and there.

BECAUSE COMMENCEMENT represents a memorable time for the graduates, their parents, families and friends, Coder bears a large responsibility in seeing to it as best he can that nothing happens to detract from the event. During the ceremony he is in complete charge of a program involving more than 1,000 persons and witnessed by many more thousands.

He introduces individuals, signals movements by the graduates, and indicates the appropriate times for music to be played. He did not signal, however, an incident which occurred several years ago at a February Commencement on Saturday a few hours before a basketball game was to be played in the Field House. An early arriving refreshment concessionaire, seeing a crowd assembled, began shouting his wares during the ceremony.

As might be expected in so complex an operation, many things can go wrong. At the June and August Commencements hot weather frequently causes discomfort among participants and spectators and occasionally leads to fainting. Ambulances and trained personnel are on hand at all times to take care of such emergencies.

At a February Commencement the primary concern is with cold weather and snow. Fully aware that poor road conditions may cause absences, Coder is ready to be a substitute for almost any dignitary who fails to arrive for the ceremony, including the main speaker. Fortunately, he notes, "none has failed to arrive, although there have been some close calls."

ANOTHER NAGGING worry is traffic congestion which may cause key persons to be late, as it did once when President Hancher, probably the only person for whom Coder cannot substitute, was unable to get his car through traffic around the Field House and the ceremony had to be delayed a few minutes.

One of his most embarrassing moments, recalls Coder, was caused by his own habit of making liberal program annotations to ensure any mental lapse on his part. In pasting a note into his program he accidentally covered the name of one of the Ph.D. candidates. He was almost finished reading the Ph.D. awards when he received a note from the young woman whose name had been covered up. Realizing what had happened, he immediately corrected the oversight. The girl said that she had been left out and had sent a note to Coder with a degree candidate whose name was about to be called.

Looking back on 17 years as master of ceremonies, Coder said that the most important change in the ceremony has been the greatly increased number of graduates each year. "All graduates used to receive their degrees directly from President Hancher," he recalled, "but now in order to prevent the ceremony from becoming too long only the Ph.D. candidates are called up to receive degrees."

Friday more than 1,300 degrees will be granted. At the first Commencement presided over by Coder there were 132 candidates; a comparison is lacking, however, since that was a mid-year graduation and four Commencements were held in 1946 due to acceleration of the University program immediately after World War II.

M.A. for Mom, B.A. for Jane At Graduation

An Iowa City mother is setting an example of academic achievement for her two daughters when she receives a master of arts degree in home economics today at SUI Commencement exercises. One of her daughters will be granted a bachelor of science degree in chemistry.

Mrs. Lee Bader, who earned a bachelor of science degree from Iowa State Teachers College, now State College of Iowa, before her marriage, decided to go on for the advanced degree in 1961 after she had taken a position as a research assistant in the SUI Home Economics Department, a post to which she will return next September.

Her daughter Jane, who will graduate with distinction and receive her degree with honors in chemistry, is a graduate of Iowa City High School. A second daughter, Louise, has just completed her freshman year at SUI.

Jane will do graduate study in chemistry at the University of California at Riverside on a three-year fellowship granted under the National Defense Education Act. She received the American Institute of Chemists Gold Medal in April and was named to Iota Sigma Pi, national honorary for women in chemistry, as a junior.

An Iowa City mother and daughter will receive degrees today at SUI Commencement exercises. Mrs. Lee Bader (right) will be awarded a master of arts degree in home economics. Jane Bader will be granted a bachelor of science degree in chemistry, graduating with distinction and receiving her degree with honors for having completed the honors program in chemistry. Home for the past 20 years for the Baders has been Iowa City, where Lee Bader teaches industrial arts at Southeast Junior High School.

Fire Drill Readies Kids For Assembly

DAVENPORT — It all began as a routine fire drill at Frank L. Smart Junior High School Thursday.

The next thing the children knew they were sitting on the school's front lawn attending an awards assembly.

In explaining the unusual procedure, Principal George W. Latta said it was the only way he knew to get all the children out of school in an orderly fashion.

He said it was too hot inside the school to hold the assembly there. He said classroom temperatures were in the low 90s.

A two-car collision at the intersection of Highway 6 and Rocky Shore Drive Wednesday night resulted in a minor injury for David Couch, G. Sarasota, Florida. Couch's car reportedly struck the rear of a car driven by Mrs. Genevieve Conklin of 315 North Governor St. Police arriving on the scene charged Couch with failure to stop in the assured clear distance ahead.

Sulowan Lives In Shelter Four Days

Says the Experiment Was 'Fun,' But He Wouldn't Do It Again

"We were tricked . . . it was fun, but I wouldn't go through it again unless I had to," reports William Hausler, an assistant director of the State Bacteriology Laboratory at SUI, about his recent four-day confinement in a subterranean bomb shelter.

As one of 34 naval research reserve officers starting two weeks active duty training, Hausler was in Maryland in mid-May for what the officers thought was to be a routine class on fallout shelters at the Naval Medical Research Institute in Bethesda.

However, once the group was inside a shelter the instructor asked for volunteers to stay for a period of time that was not disclosed to them. In best military tradition, they all volunteered.

THE CONFINEMENT was the first time a fallout shelter experiment had been conducted without the participants having advance warning. The Navy hoped to collect data on the sudden use of a shelter as might occur in an emergency.

A doctor and a psychologist went along to study the group's reactions. They knew the actual length of the test, but were sworn to secrecy.

Hausler said the experience had a number of interesting and significant sidelights for him personally.

First, he broke an 18-year smoking habit. He and six other smokers in the group decided to quit permanently after the group ran out of cigarettes.

Second, Hausler said he gained an appreciation of what shelter living is. "I now have a better idea of what should and should not be included in a shelter," he said. "Most people simply stock their shelters with no real idea of what it would be like to live in one."

ONE OF THE 34 officers, an architect who had designed shelters for civilians, came out of confinement with a number of new ideas for shelter designs.

The lack of privacy in the 24-by-48-foot shelter was the most disturbing part of the four-day stay, according to Hausler. "Actually, it could have been worse," he said. "We were staying in an area designed for 100 persons."

The Navy had a "blanket drop" for the group on the second day after the officers had spent a chilly first night in the shelter. The men slept in their clothes.

Water was rationed and used only for drinking. They were furnished moistened paper cloths (pre-packaged) for washing. There was no water for shaving.

EACH MAN WAS allotted a cup of canned soup, one teaspoon of peanut butter and 48 shelter biscuits daily. Hausler said the men had little praise for the biscuits, which were something like graham crackers without the honey.

Despite the fact that the group elected a leader and had regular duties, the officers had a great deal of free time. Aside from discussing when they would get out, the men played bridge, read and slept. The shelter had a well-stocked library, mostly paperbacks.

One of the men composed a 30-stanza poem, "We Fell for a Fallout Shelter." In it he related the problems of shelter living and did a verse biography of each member in the group.

THE GROUP WAS monitored on closed circuit television and also received several lectures on fallout and shelters via television. The men were divided into small groups for debriefing sessions after their release. The Navy was apparently pleased with the group's behavior.

Hausler said Larry Watko, an Ames microbiologist, had the roughest time in the shelter. The officer developed a toothache shortly after the confinement started, but despite intense pain, he refused to leave the shelter. The tooth was removed the day the men were released.

The men agreed, according to Hausler, that the experience was interesting and fun, but that they would just as soon not have to do it again.

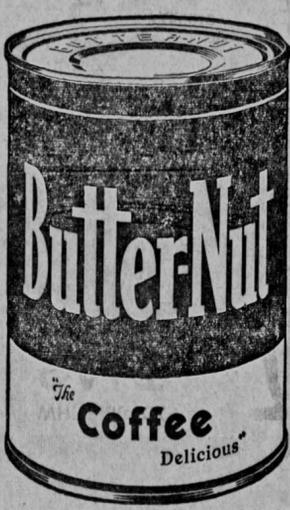

Bids To Be Let For Rec Center

Bids for construction of the proposed city recreation center will be let at the July 2 City Council meeting.

Plans for the center have been approved by the council. The building will be on the corner of College and Gilbert streets where the old Community Building burned in 1955.

Construction costs are expected to approach $675,000. The city will finance the project by a $490,000 bond issue, approved at the polls on Dec. 10, 1962, and from a pay-as-you-go plan which is primarily maintained by a three mill tax levy and from rental of city property.

The new center will include a gymnasium, handball court, game room, auditorium, craft room and an indoor-outdoor swimming pool. City officials expect the project to be completed by late in 1964.
