JFK Asks Tax On Foreign Bonds

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy tackled the recurring balance-of-payments problem Thursday with an unexpected solution — a request that Congress tax Americans on purchases of foreign stocks and bonds.

Kennedy asked that his revolutionary plan be made retroactive to Friday on long-term investments and stay in effect until Dec. 31, 1965.

By asking the July 19 date, the President obviously acted to prevent aggravation of the problem by any rush of overseas investment while Congress is studying the plan.

It probably will serve also to stem immediately the flow of gold and dollars out of the country even if Congress rejects the plan.

Foreign stocks traded on the New York Stock Exchange declined sharply in apparent reaction to the proposals.

Kennedy described his plan as an "interest equalization tax" to offset the fact that interest rates in the United States are lower than those abroad.

His aim is to discourage Americans from investing abroad and to discourage foreigners from borrowing in the United States.

A signal that the bold proposal will run into trouble was raised by Rep. Thomas B. Curtis (R-Mo.), a member of the House Ways and Means Committee which will be the first to consider it. He told newsmen he will fight the tax as an "artificial wall."

Instead, Curtis said, the United States should seek to keep investments at home by improving the fiscal and business climate here and enabling U.S. goods better to compete in world markets.

House Speaker John W. McCormack (D-Mass.) described the tax plan, plus other proposals put forth by Kennedy in a special message to Congress, as "meaningful, important and needed supplements to our national economic programs."

Aside from the tax plan, other steps outlined in Kennedy's message are of an administrative nature and require no congressional action.

The most significant of these is the plan, starting Monday, for the United States to begin drawing up to $500 million in foreign currencies from the International Monetary Fund.

This is the first time this country has exercised this privilege, Kennedy said these currencies will be used by the U.S. Treasury to buy foreign-held dollars that otherwise might be used to purchase American goods.

Miss U.S.A. Still Winning

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Miss U.S.A., Marite Ozers of Chicago, was one of 15 Miss Universe finalists selected Thursday night from an international parade of 50 beauty delegates from around the world.

One of the 15 will be chosen Saturday night to succeed Norma Beatriz Nolan of Argentina as Miss Universe 1963.

Miss Ozers, a native of Latvia, advanced to the international competition Wednesday night when she won over 15 U.S. contestants. She was Miss Illinois.

Bonds Fixed For Negroes

CHARLESTON, S. C. (AP) — Bonds totaling $600,000 were set Thursday for 68 Negroes arraigned on riot charges in Tuesday night's racial disturbance. The city has promised a "no compromise" prosecution.

Attorneys for the Negroes immediately served notice they will appeal to Circuit court for a reduction in $15,000 bonds fixed for two leaders of the Negro movement. They also will ask reduction of the $10,000 bonds set for the other 66 defendants, many of them teen-agers.

Magistrate George P. Runey ordered Rev. I. DeQuincy Newman, state field secretary for the National Association for Advancement of Colored People, (NAACP) held under $15,000 bond.

A $15,000 bond also was ordered for James Blake, an NAACP youth director who had been active in leading the weeks of demonstrations which culminated in the riot in which six policemen and a fireman were hurt.

Mayor J. P. Gaillard said in a statement Wednesday the city of Charleston "will not lag in prosecution of those who breach the peace." He said "there will be no withdrawing of charges... no compromise."

Despite advance notice of two mass meetings, the day passed with relative quiet in this old port city. Eighty-five state highway patrolmen have been dispatched here by Gov. Donald Russell.

Platinum Tools Are Missing From Safe

Campus Police Ask FBI To Assist In Investigation

By TOM IRWIN
Assistant City Editor

More than $9,000 worth of platinum metal and wire has been stolen from a safe in the Chemistry Building. The theft of the valuable metal instruments occurred between July 8 and July 15, according to campus police chief John H. Hanna, who released the information Thursday.

Campus police and Federal Bureau of Investigation agents were called at 1:10 p.m. Tuesday after Chemistry Department authorities decided that the platinum had not been misplaced or hidden by pranksters.

Hanna said there were no signs of forced entry to the 5-foot, 7-inch safe, located in the lecture prep room 237, and that other instruments in the safe had not been touched. The theft may have occurred at a time when the safe was open but unattended, Hanna added.

Hanna said since the amount of the theft exceeded $5,000, and since it was reasonable to suspect that interstate transportation of the stolen goods might be involved, the FBI was asked to assist in the investigation.

Curator of Instruments John E. Tener, who discovered the theft, said platinum metal instruments are used by the Chemistry Department because of the metal's high melting point (3191 degrees Fahrenheit) and its extremely high resistance to chemical bonds.

Among the instruments stolen were electrodes, dishes, crucibles, crucible covers, plates and wire, weighing a total of 2640 grams (about 6 pounds) and valued at $9,039.

Authorities, including Chemistry Department Chairman Stanley Wawzonek, were baffled as to who would want to steal the instruments. Platinum costs $4 per gram and is about 3 1/2 times more expensive than gold.

Authorities agreed it would be more difficult for someone to dispose of platinum than gold, since platinum is easily traced because of its limited availability.

Platinum is a very heavy, typically grayish-white, noncorroding, precious metallic element found in the Ural Mountains and Colombia. It is used for chemical apparatus, dental fillings, spacecraft and jewelry.

Hanna said the average person would not recognize the instruments as being valuable. The metal looks like inexpensive aluminum foil or lightweight tin. The crucibles resemble cupcake tins and would most likely be ignored if left lying around, Hanna said.

Plane Crash; Four Killed

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The U.S. embassy said Thursday four Americans and two Thais were killed in the crash of a C-46 transport plane near the border of Northern Laos and Thailand.

The plane owned by Air America, a private charter service under contract to the U.S. Government to fly missions for the Laotian army, plowed into a mountainside in a dense fog Wednesday while on a rice-dropping mission to a right-wing Army unit.

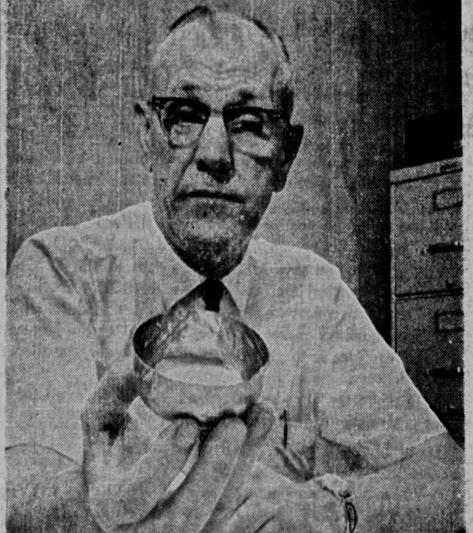

It had taken off from the royal capital Luang Prabang.

The embassy said rescue units had set out to recover the bodies and investigate the cause of the crash. Preliminary reports indicated, the embassy said, that navigational error due to bad weather caused the accident. There was no evidence the plane had been fired on.

Names of the victims were withheld pending notification of next of kin.

On the Plaine des Jarres, meanwhile, Neutralist forces claimed they had beaten off a general attack by pro-Communist Pathet Lao troops.

A communique from the office of Neutralist Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma said the Pathet Lao had been joined in an 18-hour probing of Neutralist positions by Communist troops from North Viet Nam.

3 Americans Are Slain In Viet Nam

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Three U.S. servicemen were slain Thursday in a Communist ambush on "Bloody Route 13" bringing to 89 the number of Americans killed in the South Vietnamese war.

The three — two captains and a sergeant of the special forces — were distributing medical supplies to villagers in Binh Long Province, 70 miles north of Saigon, when they were waylaid.

The Army in Washington identified the victims as:

Capt. Lawrence E. Hackley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brennie E. Hackley, Roanoke, Va.

Capt. Robert K. Mosier, husband of Kyung Mosier, Ft. Bragg, N.C., and son of Mr. and Mrs. George R. Mosier, Route 2, Grady, Ala.

M.-Sgt. Jack D. Goodman, son of Mr. and Mrs. David S. Goodman, Route 2, Bonifay, Fla.

U.S. military authorities said Red guerrillas opened fire with small arms as the three-vehicle convoy drove up the road near the village of Loc Ninh. The Vietnamese driver of the leading jeep and another of the leading jeep were killed.

The guerrillas then let loose with automatic weapons and lobbed a grenade into the second jeep. The American sergeant was killed outright and the two captains were fatally wounded. A third Vietnamese was critically wounded.

Convoy security forces returned the fire and the Communist Viet Cong withdrew.

The road through Red-infested territory is known as "Bloody Route 13" because of the number of casualties Americans have suffered there.

Of the 89 Americans killed so far, 47 were combat casualties and the rest victims of war-related incidents.

The U.S. Army special forces, who number only a few hundred out of the 12,000 American servicemen in South Viet Nam, have taken the brunt of Communist attacks this week.

Fourteen American special forces troops were wounded Tuesday night when Communist guerrillas raked the airport of Can Tho, South Viet Nam's second largest city, with mortars and machine guns.

That attack lasted only a few minutes. But one shell landed in a shack housing the special forces team, accounting for all the casualties.

Multiple Crash West of Tiffin; None Is Injured

A double accident west of Tiffin Thursday evening resulted in minor damage and no injuries, according to Iowa Highway Patrolman Blaine Goff.

Goff said a west-bound 1962 Imperial driven by William Wiese, 36, Chicago, slid on the wet pavement and collided with an east-bound semi-trailer, which failed to stop at the scene. The car then slid into the ditch on the right side of the road.

Then, Goff said, two more trucks and two cars stopped to render aid and were hit by a fourth truck driven by Marvin Longwell, 62, Wellman.

U.S., Mexico States Righters' Views Set Boundary On Civil Rights Hit In RFK Plea to Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mexico and the United States announced Thursday an historic agreement to return to Mexico an area in El Paso, Tex., which has been in dispute for nearly a century.

The shifting Rio Grande, which changed its course in 1861 and created the whole problem, is to be rerouted in a concrete-lined, $6-million channel, paid for 50-50 by Mexico and the United States.

This will bring an increase of 437 acres in Mexico's national territory, re-establish the river as the boundary between Texas and Mexico and end the diplomatic headache known as the Chamizal affair, after the name of the disputed area.

Plans for the settlement were announced by Presidents Kennedy and Adolfo Lopez Mateos, who worked out preliminary details when Kennedy visited Mexico City in June 1962.

Kennedy said the solution recommended "will make a significant contribution to relations between the United States and Mexico."

Various steps remain to be taken before the whole plan is in effect. And it may be 1967, at the earliest, before negotiations for a convention to carry out the terms of a memorandum, congressional approval, rerouting of the river and the rebuilding of six bridges can be completed.

Officials estimate the U.S. costs of the whole arrangement, including compensation for property of 3,750 persons now living in the areas to be returned to Mexico, would run approximately $28 million.

Mexico's costs will be much less because the major item of the U.S. expense will be compensation for properties involved in the move.

Dr. Travell Is Replaced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Janet Travell has been replaced as top physician to President Kennedy, but her name does not appear at any point in the White House payroll.

The U.S. Government Organizational Manual for 1963-64 lists Rear Adm. George G. Burkley as "physician to the President."

The manual was published on Wednesday.

The preceding manual listed Dr. Travell as Kennedy's physician, but her name does not appear at any point in the new book.

Burkley has been assistant White House physician since Feb. 1, 1961.

Concerning the disappearance of Dr. Travell's name from the organizational manual, Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, said: "The fact is that the President has two doctors. Dr. Burkley is listed as the White House physician for the record."

got under way when the Senate convened, forcing a recess in the hearing until next Wednesday. Ervin told Kennedy he was "not trying to filibuster" but he said "some of us see this bill as a very drastic assault on the principles of constitutional government and the private rights of individuals."

"I understand," Kennedy said. Ervin told newsmen he does not know how long his questioning will take, when Kennedy returns next week, but he noted that the bill has seven different sections and contains "an awful lot of legal gobbledeegook."

One section he does not expect to ask many questions about, Ervin said, is the one that would establish a community relations service to help conciliate racial disputes. However, Ervin said he would like to note that:

"The Civil Rights Commission agitates, the Civil Rights Division of the Justice Department aggravates, and now there would be a Community Relations Service to conciliate."

It was Kennedy's third appearance before congressional committees considering the civil rights proposals but his first before the Senate Judiciary Committee. This group is headed by Sen. James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) and includes other Southern foes of civil rights legislation among its top-ranking members.

Under questioning by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.) Kennedy said it is "not correct" to say the administration program was submitted to Congress because, as Ervin put it, "we are now having troublesome times" with racial demonstrations.

The Attorney General said the program was submitted "because there are injustices that should be remedied, not because demonstrations are taking place."

Ervin's questioning had hardly

Beckwith To Get Tests for Sanity In Evers Case

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Sanity tests were ordered Thursday for Byron de La Beckwith to determine whether the 42-year-old Greenwood, Miss., fertilizer salesman is competent to stand trial for the murder of Negro leader Medgar Evers.

Dist. Atty. Bill Waller filed the motion for a mental examination. Beckwith's three defense lawyers objected.

But Circuit Judge Leon Hendrick said the court had the right to order tests when the sanity question was raised.

The ruling came after Waller offered four witnesses and three sets of court records to show grounds for a mental examination.

Beckwith was arrested June 22 and charged with murder in the ambush slaying of Evers, 37-year-old state field secretary for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

City police found a rifle, equipped with a telescopic sight, shortly after the shooting. FBI agents traced the sight to Beckwith. They also identified a fingerprint found on the sight as one made by Beckwith.

Communist Talks Recess as Nikita Gets Latest Blast

MOSCOW (AP) — Communist China Thursday fired new salvos against Premier Khrushchev's policies of peaceful coexistence as high Communist sources predicted the deep split between the two Red giants would continue.

The talks designed to heal the breach were in recess until Friday. Many believed they would be allowed to sputter out after that session.

The Hungarian Communist newspaper, Nepszabadsag, blaming the Chinese for failure, wrote in Budapest that "there seems to be no other way but the course of continuing the dispute."

The Chinese continued to harp on the theme that the Russians were disastrously wrong in their doctrine of peaceful coexistence, especially in developing countries.

World's Crucial Situations Discussed by Marquis Childs

By GARY SPURGEON
Managing Editor

"I don't suppose you could imagine another moment in the history of this planet with the uncertainties, the hope and the fear of our time."

Marquis Childs, veteran Washington columnist, imparted this view in a lecture at the Union and in an afternoon press conference Thursday.

"I feel that we are in one of the most amazing moments in history because of the Chinese-Russian split, because of the racial violence," he remarked.

Childs explained that human beings are once again beginning to influence the course of events. He noted that this may lead to a better world or to no world at all.

But the SUI graduate said optimistically that humans are losing their fatalistic approach to world problems. Childs said that people can no longer ignore the events of the day and that this may help us develop a better civilization.

Following this line, Childs said he feels that "achieving a test ban is extremely important." It would be a step toward destroying these frightful weapons.

"I think this is an extremely important first step toward world disarmament," he said.

Childs considers chances to be good for a test ban treaty between Russia and the United States. He also indicated that he believed such a treaty would be ratified by the Senate although there would be an interesting political confrontation with formidable opposition.

"I feel that what individuals say across the continent will have an influence."

Commenting on civil rights, Childs said he believed that some form of legislation would pass Congress during the present session.

"I think the odds are against a southern filibuster. The leadership for the bill is confident and I feel they have a fairly effective strategy."

This strategy will be to get the bill passed through the House probably by the end of August, and then to get it through the Senate without hearings or amendments, he explained.

Childs feels that President Kennedy's current racial policy might lose him four of five southern states in the 1964 election. He said he did not know what effect the President's actions might have on the voting in northern states.

The columnist views the Russian-Chinese split as irreversible. "But, nevertheless, Khrushchev is going to be faced with resurgent power of Communist parties all over the world that will demand action." Childs then commented that this will temper any possible overtures to the United States.

"I can't see an alliance in the cards at all."

In a question and answer session following his lecture, Childs commented: "I think Gov. George Romney of Michigan is the strongest candidate the Republicans could have. He's an attractive personality, speaks well, and no one has any idea of what he's thinking."

The New Postal Alphabet: NIMS (ZIP ABCD, VIM)

IF YOU'RE IRRITATED by the idea of using the new ZIP code numbers for speeded-up mail delivery, consider yourself lucky. More urban-type folk are being deluged with the ABCs of modern mail delivery. Or more accurately, the ABCDs.

ZIP — as those of you who have used the code may know — stands for zoning-improvement program. The ZIP numbers are now in use across the nation to speed up mail delivery and allow eventual automation of the post office.

And we're certainly behind Postmaster General Edward Day's move to speed up mail all around. But we also have a certain sympathy for our big city friends who will soon have to worry not only about ZIP, but ABCD and VIM as well — all of which together means NIMS.

VIM — vertical improved mail — and ABCD — accelerated business collection delivery — were added to the alphabet-numbers maze this week for 300 of the larger cities. The idea is to give city businesses better, speedier mail delivery.

Despite the alphabetical mess it causes, we're all for the goal: nationwide improved mail service.

You guessed it — that's NIMS.

Municipal Financing Of Industry

THE ADVISORY COMMISSION on Intergovernmental Relations last week urged states to curb abuses that have grown up around attracting new grown industry with plants paid for by municipal revenue bonds. Iowa this year became the twenty-seventh state to authorize cities and towns to do this.

The 26-member Advisory Commission includes members of Congress, officials of the executive branch, governors, mayors, state legislators, and three citizen members, including Dr. Howard Bowen, president of Grinnell College. It believes that the municipal bond method of industrial financing leads to tax inequities and damages normal competitive business relationships and conventional institutions.

The new program in Iowa is fairly typical of others. A local government may build a plant with the proceeds of a municipal bond issue if it has lined up an industry to lease the facility for a long enough period to pay off the bonds. The industry also must make payments in lieu of property taxes. The attraction for industry is that municipal bonds are exempt from federal taxation and so carry a lower interest rate than most private financing.

The exemption that most disturbs the Advisory Committee is when the firm itself buys up the bond issue and enjoys the tax-exempt income from it. The Commission urges federal legislation to counteract this. In Iowa, the state law forbids a firm from buying such bonds.

The Advisory Commission's half-dozen recommendations are aimed at preventing this method of industrial financing from growing, and at phasing out gradually, if possible.

Iowa makes municipal bond financing of industry available in self defense because other states have it. Wisely our state will continue to rely mainly on its natural advantages: strategic location, good living, intelligent labor force.

The Depths Beckon Profumo

JOHN DENNIS Profumo has been sentenced to a lifetime of disgrace.

No punishment in the future can exceed that Profumo already has brought upon himself and his family.

Profumo stands before the world as a confessed liar and adulterer. He has been held in "grave contempt" by the House of Commons, stripped of the respect of his peers.

His misdeeds, which may topple a government, cannot be forgiven easily. It is a grave lesson for all in the public trust.

Still, there must be compassion for this man. None can be so perfect as to deny him this.

—SUI Research— Investigating Farm Injuries

For SUI researcher, L. W. Knapp, Jr., the idea is not "How You Goin' To Keep 'Em Down On The Farm?" but rather, "How To Keep Them Safe On The Farm?"

The tall, tanned, former farm boy from New York State, who now heads the Safety Section of the Institute of Agricultural Medicine here, is studying farm accidents. He and two co-workers are delving into accidents caused by the power-take-off shaft on farm machinery. (A power-take-off shaft, whirling more than 300 times per minute, transfers power from the tractor to an attached implement so the machine will operate. Most farm machinery is not self-driven.)

A farmer can become em-MARY MOHR meshed in this whirling shaft. If he is lucky, he escapes badly cut and bruised. Farmers who have become entangled in the shaft have been killed.

All farm equipment manufacturers provide shields for the power shaft. Accidents occur because the farmer has not put the shield over the shaft — an operation which can be done in seconds.

Take the case of Daniel O., a lanky, 40-year-old farmer living not far from Iowa City. He decided to check his baler to see if it worked properly before taking it to the fields. He attached the baler to the power take off shaft of the tractor and started the tractor. He started to walk around the back of the tractor and stumbled. When he did, his overalls got caught in the spinning shaft.

He was slammed to the ground, stunned, but his foot was still caught in the machinery. Prompt action by his wife who saw the accident and shut off the tractor probably saved his life.

He went to the doctor for treatment of multiple cuts and bruises. But the doctor did more than this — he reported the case to researcher Knapp.

Then Knapp's assistant, Larry Piercy, Adel, went to the scene of the accident. He interviewed the farmer, his wife and the doctor. He studied the machinery involved.

But he still was not satisfied with what he found. The farmer told him he had forgotten to use the protective shield. Piercy wanted to know what it was in this man's thinking process that would overlook this detail. He also wondered if the tractor design should be revamped; tractors are still made very much like the original models.

Studying accidents of Johnson and the surrounding counties is not always easy, Knapp explained. "First of all, not everybody injured will seek treatment. Or the attending physician may not report the accident until some time after the victim has left the hospital."

By the time that the researcher arrives on the scene, the machinery involved has often been repaired and is in use.

In their case studies, the SUI team tries to learn as much as possible about the man, environment and the machine. "Sometimes the man does not correctly remember what happened and tells us a rather incoherent story. Then we must piece together the event as much as we can," Knapp explained.

We question the farmer about what he was wearing, how long he has used power take off equipment, and about the weather. Another important factor is the age of the machinery. This has a definite bearing on accidents.

The researchers work with committees from the Farm Equipment Institute, a manufacturers' group. They report their findings to them, as well as to the Public Health Services from whom they have received the study grant.

Knapp has been studying tractor-motor vehicles accidents on Iowa highways. Although many motorists claim that they cannot see a tractor approaching the crest of a hill, paradoxically most accidents occurred on the straight-away. Knapp believes that the drivers failed to recognize the tractors as such and did not take precautions.

In this still-continuing study, the Highway Patrol will relay accident information via teletype to the Iowa City Police who pass it on to Knapp.

The group has also done investigative work on rural family accidents.

Knapp, Piercy and co-worker William McCConnell, a former Washington farmer, are kept busy relaying their findings to farm groups. Knapp has given safety talks to organizations and he writes reports for extension services, radios and newspapers.

It's Time To Shelve the Secrecy

Closed Doors Hit

(Iowa Falls Citizen)
The mess which developed over Governor Hughes' interim appointment to the Highway Commission and Board of Control was completely unjustified and could — and should — have been avoided. Whether one agrees with Hughes' procedure or not, it is perfectly clear that the cloak of secrecy which surrounds many of the Legislature's activities is largely at fault here.

When considering a governor's appointment, the Iowa Senate always works behind closed doors. It never discloses its reasons for refusing to confirm an appointee.

Senate Democrats undoubtedly reported back to Hughes on any debate that took place on the appointments of Robert Barry to the Highway Commission and Corbin Crawford to the Board of Control. However, the public still does not know why the Senate refused to confirm these appointments.

In the absence of information to the contrary, it can only be assumed partisan politics carried the day.

This same craving for secrecy carries over into the Legislature's sifting and steering committees. During the final days of the session these committees have the power of life or death over measures awaiting referral to the Legislature as a whole.

The votes cast by these committees are deep, dark secrets and the members answer to no one other than themselves. Hardin County's representative, Paul Walter, was a member of the House Sifting Committee during the last session.

An example of their influence may be seen in the bill to ban billboards along interstate highways. More than 60 per cent of the legislators publicly expressed a desire for this legislation, but these secret committees kept the bill bottled up and off the floor. Iowa lost $1.7 million as a result.

It's high time that Iowans insisted that the Legislature abandon this "Dark Age" voting procedure and get in step with the 20th century.

Unemployment

(Independence Bulletin-Journal)
THE LABOR Department has released figures showing that more than one million young Americans are unemployed, the highest level since records were started in 1949.

One of every four on the unemployed rolls is between 16 and 21 years of age, and the labor secretary has cautioned that the situation could "develop into one of the most explosive problems in the nation's history."

It's a problem that is receiving primary attention from both the administration and the opposition party, for while it is socially incendiary, it is politically inflammable as well.

Honest Comparison

(The Tipton Conservative)
An indication of the relative importance of science and amusement is reflected in the salaries of Dr. James A. Van Allen, head of the physics department at SUJ and Forrest Evashevski, SUJ athletic director. Van Allen will receive $21,000 next year, Evashevski will get $22,000.

Both men are entitled to their compensation, probably they deserve more. That Van Allen, an acknowledged leader in space science should receive less money than the athletic director, is a fair statement of our interests: We like football better than physics.

'Oh, Sorry — We Thought It Was A Goldwater Rally'

—The Ralph McGill Column—

The Ghost And Lenin

By RALPH MCGILL

An obscure three-paragraph item just out of Moscow reports that it now is disclosed that Fritz Platten, a Swiss who negotiated Lenin's safe-conduct to revolution-ravaged Russia in 1917 was a victim of the Stalinist purges. Platten, the story said, had been "illegally" arrested in 1938. He had "died" in 1942.

This scrap of news comes at a time when the Soviets and Red Chinese are acrimoniously debating Lenin's ideology. Lenin, the man, was a thing apart from Lenin, the Marxist theoretician. The man was ruthless, opportunistic, petulant, at times indecisive, and willing to compromise. But when power totally was in his hands he could, and did, institute the most callous, brutal terror.

Platten was one of the Russian revolution's large litter, most of whom later were to be devoured by it. Before he died many who had contributed more than he already had been executed on Lenin's orders. Platten was but one of thousands killed by Stalin.

Platten is in all the stories of the revolution. He was a Swiss Socialist with no concept whatever of the sort of Marxist rule Lenin eventually set up. He was one of many European Socialists who helped the exiled Lenin — the Russian Czar then being the symbol of oppression. The Germans long had plotted to take Russia out of the war and turn her on England. Lenin was willing.

Winston Churchill, writing in "The World Crisis," said of the Germans that they had used unlimited submarine warfare and had loosed poison gas on the largest scale. They also had invented, and employed, the "Flammenwerfer" — the flame thrower. "Nevertheless," wrote Churchill, "it was with a sense of awe they transported Lenin in a sealed truck (train) like plague bacillus from Switzerland into Russia."

Platten it was who negotiated secretly with the German embassy in Bern for Lenin's passage across Germany to Russia, via Sweden to Finland and across it to the Finland station at Petrograd. His arrival was on the evening of April 11. Lenin had not seen Russia for 10 years.

Platten later came to Russia with his family and established a commune with a group of Swiss workers. So far as is known all these eventually were "consumed." In the early years Platten seemingly was close to Lenin. Indeed, he once saved Lenin's life. On January 15, 1918, Petrograd was not yet Lenin's. There were still more Social Revolution Party members than Bolsheviks. On the 15th, a shot was fired at Lenin as he and a group were riding to a meeting in a car. Platten was one of them. He saw the would-be assassin raise a pistol and fire. Platten shoved Lenin's head down in time. Platten was wounded in the hand. (On August 30, Fanny Kaplan, who believed Lenin had abandoned basic principles, shot and wounded Lenin.)

On January 19, the Bolsheviks had betrayed every political slogan that had brought them into the war. They had managed, however, to dissolve the assembly and take control. The Germans, when the treaty talks began in 1918, in turn betrayed the Russians. They took Poland and vast territories previously renounced. They did not hold them long. The end came for Germany in November of that year.

The world was sick of war. It also was weary of czars and kaisers. The vast allied armies were withdrawn. Churchill objected. The vast blood-letting had bled most of Europe white and weak. In Russia the Bolsheviks began to organize their power.

At 6:30 p.m. on January 21, 1924, Lenin died of a series of brain hemorrhages. He was 53.

Churchill regretted his death out of a realistic belief that Lenin might have saved his country from the years of violence which lay ahead. Churchill said: "He alone could have found the way back to the causeway. . . . The Russians were foundering in the bog. Their worst misfortune was his birth. . . . their next worst. . . . his death."

Whether this surmise be true earth will never know.

Fritz Platten stayed on. In 1938 Stalin, whom Lenin had not trusted, had Platten arrested in the incredible purges of that period. The atrocities of the de-Stalinization speeches by Premier Khrushchev and others. Now comes the small item of news. Platten has been "rehabilitated." What his neat Swiss ghost and those of his family think of this is something else hidden from us.

Calls Play Review 'Severe Injustice'

To the Editor:
It should be pointed out in The Daily Iowan that Peggy Myers, "Daily Iowan Reviewer," did the Summer Repertory Theatre production of "A Streetcar Named Desire" a severe injustice in her review of the initial performance.

In fact, the large number of empty seats at 8 p.m. Saturday showed that she had successfully branded this play as a failure; a spate of insurmountable ineptness in the lighting, in the direction, and in the credibility of the actors' portrayals.

However, Saturday's performance certainly was not marred by the petty distractions which Mrs. Myers described. While not impeccable, the play is presented with the quality which has given SUJ's summer theater an excellent reputation, and hence, any one holding tickets to one of the remaining three performances will be rewarded with a very enjoyable evening if they see this play.

Chamber's Committees Cite Needed Projects

By SALLY JOHNSON Staff Writer

The downtown area constitutes the most serious problem to be considered in any re-development program for Iowa City, according to the first public report of the recently formed Re-Development Committee.

The report was made on behalf of the committee by Chairman Clark Houghton at a news conference held by the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce Thursday morning.

The Re-Development Committee has been reviewing improvement and so-called "beautification" projects of other cities, including Waterloo and Keokuk, Houghton said. The group also has been surveying various areas in Iowa City to determine the necessity and feasibility of similar programs here.

Houghton stated two problems before the committee are: 1) how to generate public support and 2) whether to proceed with or without government financial support.

Topics under discussion concern alleys, sidewalks and neon signs. In December, the committee will submit recommendations to the Chamber of Commerce for a one-year and a five-year improvement plan.

Other committee's reports included those on safety, good roads and parking.

Bill DeBruyn, chairman of the Safety Committee, discussed proposals for a full-time fire inspector and a public Clean-Up Month. According to the state fire inspector, DeBruyn said, a local fire inspector would "do the job of four firemen" through prevention measures and would improve the fire code. Letters now are being submitted to the City Council on this proposition, he stated.

DeBruyn quoted Police Chief Evans as saying jay-walking was the city's second most serious traffic problem, next to double parking. Evans has been unable to prohibit jay-walking due to a lack of available staff, DeBruyn said.

J. J. Swamer, chairman of the Good Roads Committee, called for public support of a southeast by-pass to connect Highways 6 and 218. He named the Riverside Drive-University Hospital area as "the greatest traffic problem in the city at the present time."

The proposed by-pass would carry north-south traffic from Coralville to the airport area, south-west of SUI. The committee presently is engaged in consulting with property owners in the involved area.

The Highway Commission is reported to be in favor of this proposal, said Swamer. No definite progress will be made until city approval is acquired.

Another recommendation of the Good Roads Committee would encourage use of Interstate 80 to handle east-west traffic. The committee plans to eventually propose a "belt line" surrounding Iowa City, Swamer said.

Swamer pointed out that the committee is recommending these measures because Iowa City streets were constructed originally as wagon roads in accordance with the terrain. Swamer cited Dubuque and Dodge Streets as examples of this situation, wherein the streets are poorly constructed and too narrow. Widening the streets is impossible in many cases, he said, due to their passage through residential districts and the high cost involved.

Lawrence T. Wade, chairman of the Parking Committee, discussed

Bezanson's Composition To Be Played in N.Y.

Prof. Philip Bezanson's "Rondo Prelude for Orchestra" will be played by the Youth Symphony Orchestra of the Chautauque, N.Y., Summer Music Camp on a program to be presented Saturday at Chautauque. Bezanson is a professor of music at SUI.

James Yannatos, an SUI music alumnus, is the conductor of the Youth Symphony Orchestra. "Rondo Prelude for Orchestra" has been recorded by Composers' Recording, Inc., with the Oslo, Norway, Symphony Orchestra playing for the record.

The Bezanson piece was played last November by the Oklahoma City Symphony Orchestra on a program which was broadcast nationally. The work was given its premier performance in 1956 by the SUI Symphony Orchestra under the direction of Prof. James Dixon.

Negro Leader Slaps JFK's Measure

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — A national Negro leader said Thursday he doesn't think "the President has a good idea of what is going on in the civil rights area."

"Kennedy doesn't understand the depth of the movement and he doesn't realize the true problem," John Lewis, national chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, said in an interview.

Although it has suspended demonstrations while a statewide group of lawyers tries to solve the town's long racial agony, the local non-violent action committee also took issue with President Kennedy on comments he made Wednesday at his news conference.

"Your remarks about our present movement in Cambridge have caused us great shock and concern," the committee said in a letter to the President.

"We have always deplored violence and we have always conducted our demonstrations non-violently. The instances of violence in Cambridge have been the result of constant frustrations and have been provoked by whites shooting at us and marching on our community."

Speaking of Cambridge, President Kennedy said "They have almost lost sight of what the demonstration is about. So I have warned against demonstrations which could lead to riots, demonstrations which could lead to bloodshed and I warn you against it."

The President noted that 400 national guardsmen have been stationed in Cambridge to maintain peace.

Lewis, a short stocky 23-year-old from Troy, Ala., said that what President Kennedy fails to realize is that "the people are demanding so much and demanding it now."

The application came from the Western Union Telegraph Co., which asked to increase its rates for services within Iowa 8.85 per cent.

The company asked to raise its charges in Iowa to conform with interstate rate increases which went into effect July 10 after approval by federal authorities. Similar requests are being made to regulatory authorities in other states.

False Bomb Report Holds Up Plane

MOLINE, Ill. (AP) — A United Airlines 4-engine plane, bound from Denver to Chicago was held up here for about an hour and a half Thursday evening after a telephone report that a bomb was aboard. No bomb was found.

The plane, a DC-6-B, left Cedar Rapids, Iowa at 6 p.m. with 42 passengers and shortly after an anonymous caller telephoned the Cedar Rapids ticket office and said:

"That flight that just took off will explode in 22 minutes."

The plane was closer to Moline and the pilot decided to land here. The deadline passed without any explosion. Twenty two passengers got off here. Illinois State police, Rock Island County sheriff's officers and firemen from Moline and Coal Valley, searched the plane and personal belongings of passengers.

The plane, flight 536, made stops at Omaha and Cedar Rapids after leaving Denver. Thirty one booked passage here. United officials said most were from the Chicago area.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill to provide for centralized management of costly automatic data processing equipment used by government agencies.

The bill would give the General Services Administrator authority to coordinate the purchase, lease and maintenance of the equipment.

Syrian Revolt Crushed; Govt. Seeks Rebels

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian troops beat down with tanks and guns an armed attempt to overthrow Syria's Ba'athist rulers, Damascus Radio reported Wednesday.

The session began late, because Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko held up the start for an hour and a half so he could give a luncheon for an East German delegation that arrived Wednesday.

An hour and 25 minutes after the meeting opened, Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman and Lord Hailsham, the U.S. and British chief negotiators, drove away in an American sedan. They talked seriously but seemed unperturbed.

Asked how the talks were progressing, Hailsham replied; "Reasonably nicely."

Harriman, Gromyko and Hailsham issued their most uncommunicative communique of the week. It said simply that they "met again on July 18 to discuss some of the provisions of a test ban treaty covering tests in the atmosphere, outer space and under water, and also continued their exchange of views on other matters of mutual interest."

The statement said the next meeting will be held on July 19. Wednesday's communique had said progress was made in drafting some of the provisions of a test ban treaty.

The delegates dug out texts of the earlier treaties proposed in the talks in Geneva.

One delegation member indicated he felt all along that if there truly was a will for a treaty, a treaty would be worked out.

Utility Co. Applies For Rate Increase

DES MOINES (AP) — The first application for a rate increase under Iowa's new utility regulation law was before the Iowa Commerce Commission Thursday.

The application came from the Western Union Telegraph Co., which asked to increase its rates for services within Iowa 8.85 per cent.

The company asked to raise its charges in Iowa to conform with interstate rate increases which went into effect July 10 after approval by federal authorities. Similar requests are being made to regulatory authorities in other states.

School Policy Criticized

CEDAR FALLS (AP) — Policies of state school officials are "out of step with the thinking of the tax-paying public," state Rep. Charles E. Grassley (R-New Hartford) said Thursday night.

He said many progressive bills on education failed in the 1963 legislature because the State Department of Public Instruction "made changes faster than the people of Iowa were willing to accept them."

Grassley's remarks were in a speech prepared for the opening session of a conference of school board members and school administrators at State College of Iowa.

Criticizing what he described as undue influence of professional educators of Iowa school policy, Grassley suggested that groups and leaders with opposing ideas about education hold a series of meetings before the 1965 legislative session.

He said, "School people put too much emphasis on money. They measure the quality of education by the money expended. More money does not mean better schools. Money never will buy the really dedicated teacher."

Briefest Session Held in Test Ban

MOSCOW (AP) — U.S., British and Soviet negotiators Thursday held their shortest session to date on a limited nuclear test ban treaty as they apparently moved toward difficult areas of the issue.

The session began late, because Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko held up the start for an hour and a half so he could give a luncheon for an East German delegation that arrived Wednesday.

An hour and 25 minutes after the meeting opened, Undersecretary of State W. Averell Harriman and Lord Hailsham, the U.S. and British chief negotiators, drove away in an American sedan. They talked seriously but seemed unperturbed.

Asked how the talks were progressing, Hailsham replied; "Reasonably nicely."

Nixon Remarks GOP Resist Right Wing

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Richard M. Nixon said Thursday night the Republican party should resist what he called the rising influence of "far-right fringe elements" symbolized by the John Birch Society.

He said these elements could become a Republican liability in the 1964 elections.

The former vice president, here on a private visit to Communist Hungary, said he did not consider Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, a leading Republican conservative, "to be a right-wing 'kook'."

Nixon's statement was a comment on reports of a struggle between Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York and Goldwater.

World Wide News Briefs

PARIS (AP) — The tiny principality of Andorra, perched high in the Pyrenees between France and Spain, has ceremoniously paid homage in Paris to one of its co-rulers — President Charles de Gaulle.

Under centuries-old accords, Andorra has two co-princes: the chief of the French state, and the Bishop of Urgel in Spain.

The chief administrator of Andorra, Julia Reig, led a delegation of Andorran officials into the Elysee Palace Thursday to greet De Gaulle and deliver the annual symbolic tribute — an undisclosed small amount of money.

Professor Will Be Clothing Adviser

Prof. Adeline Hoffman of the SUI Home Economics Department will serve as a special consultant in the office of the director of Civil Defense Emergency Welfare Services in the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare from Aug. 17 until early September.

While in Washington, Dr. Hoffman will update and expand materials which she developed on the country's clothing resources for the Emergency Welfare Services while she was a clothing specialist for the services in 1956-57.

Dealing with how to clothe civilians if evacuation should become necessary in a national emergency, the revised materials will be printed in a manual for use by government personnel.

Park Closed to Negroes, Turns into Private Club

OMAHA (AP) — Peony Park reopened Thursday morning as a private club after its gates were locked Tuesday noon following several attempts by Negroes to gain admittance to the swimming pool.

The reopening followed filing of nonprofit articles of incorporation for the Peony Park Club with the Secretary of State. Incorporators are Joseph Malec Sr., Joseph Malec Jr., and Charles J. Melec of Omaha, all of whom have been associated with Peony Park throughout the years.

The articles of incorporation specify "There shall be one class of membership in this corporation, which shall be prescribed by the by-laws of the corporation."

The club will have no capital stock and declare no dividends, the articles state. The purpose of the club is to "operate one or more private bathing pools or beaches, a picnic grounds, amusement park, dance hall, dance area and club facilities."

Joseph Malec Jr., said Wednesday Peony Park Club Inc., had leased these facilities.

Charles J. Malec who has been manager of Peony Park, is listed as resident agent for the new club.

Two complaints are on file against Peony Park, each claiming violation of Nebraska's civil rights law through alleged refusal to admit Negroes to the swimming pool area. One action is under consideration by Municipal Judge Donald Hamilton, who heard a motion to dismiss the case Wednesday. The other is on file in district court.

There was a "for members only" sign at the entrance to Peony Park Thursday. The admission price remained the same but each person admitted was given a small card providing one-day membership.

Charles Malec, park manager, was non-nuclear it was still the biggest explosion ever detonated in Australia. Strength of the blast was not disclosed.

U.S. and Canadian army observers watched the Australian test, measured by delicate electronic devices.

WOMAN HEADS PARTY SEOUL, Korea (AP) — South Korea's Democratic party, ousted from power by a military coup two years ago, has reorganized and named a woman as chairman.

At what was called the inauguration meeting in Seoul Thursday, Mrs. Park Soon-chun, 64, was elected to head the organization.

Former Premier John M. Chang, now banned from politics, watched the rebirth of the party he used to head.

COMMUNICATION SATELLITE LONDON (AP) — Delegates of 15 European countries have agreed to begin detailed study on cooperating with the United States in a worldwide system of communications satellites.

At a meeting in London Thursday they set up subcommittees to work out technical, financial and organizational aspects.

Desegregation Order Revised

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal appeals court Thursday amended its order directing desegregation of schools in Mobile, Ala., to give the school board more leeway.

Instead of ordering the Mobile schools to begin step-by-step desegregation in the first grade this fall, the directive now follows the more recent Birmingham, Ala., directive.

Birmingham was told to begin desegregation of schools this fall. But no grade was specified.

The school board was ordered, instead, to present a plan for using the state's pupil placement law without discrimination.

In the amendment, the three-judge panel of the Fifth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals decreed that its directive on Mobile schools should become identical to the Birmingham directive.

Divorced Actress Marries Engineer in N.Y. Chapel

NEW YORK (AP) — Danish actress Greta Thyssen's on-again, off-again marriage was on Thursday.

She married New York engineer Theodore Roy Gruenther in the chapel of the Marriage License Bureau in Manhattan.

The couple took out the license earlier this month, but Miss Thyssen announced last week that she was tearing it up because of a hassle with Gruenther over whether she should continue her career.

The 27-year-old actress, Miss Denmark of 1951, was divorced in California last year from Ronald Star. This was the 38-year-old Gruenther's first marriage.

Two Cities Stop Feud

WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the Coffee Clubs of Monroe, Wis., and Washington decided Thursday to bury the hatchet in their feud over which town started the coffee club idea.

But 16 members of the Wisconsin group who visited Washington's coffee swiggers were elected joint presidents of the meeting and were stuck with paying the bill.

Washington claims to have formed the first coffee club in the nation. It's a group of businessmen who meet at 10 a.m. for coffee at a local restaurant. By custom, someone is elected president every day and gets tabbed for half the bill. It dates back at least to 1939.

The Monroe, Wis., group claims to pre-date the Washington club, and the friendly feud has been going on for years.

The Monroe people came to Washington Thursday to settle the matter once and for all.

The group included Monroe Mayor Orville K. Evans Sr., Cliff Reasna, the owner of the waffle shop where the Monroe group meets, and two "Swiss Misses," Jane Hager and Martha Eiter, who served several kinds of Wisconsin cheese to the joint meeting.

The meeting signed a treaty in which the two clubs agreed to drown in more coffee their dispute over which was first organized.

But the approximately 100 Washington members present at the meeting, when it came time to pay the bill, elected all 16 visitors "president" and presented them with the tab.

Soprano, Baritone Graduate Recitals Scheduled Sunday

Two voice recitals will be presented in North Music Hall Sunday.

Larry Schenk, G. Esterville, will open his recital at 4 p.m. with the song cycle, "Vier Moerike-Lieder," by Hugo Wolf. Other works on this program include the serenade and aria, Deh vieni alla finestra, and Finch han dal vino from Mozart's "Don Giovanni."

Cavatina from Donizetti's "Lucia di Lammermoor," and four songs by the American composer Charles Ives. The program will conclude with four "Old American Songs," arranged by Aaron Copeland.

Schenk, a baritone, received a B.A. degree from SUI. Next year he will teach vocal music in the West Branch schools.

Kathleen Kelley, A4, Iowa City, will present her recital at 7:30 p.m.

Miss Kelley, a soprano, will be accompanied by Linda Jones, A1, Centerville. Miss Kelley is the daughter of A. O. Kelley, 434 Crestview Ave.

Alcoa Opens Negotiation

NEW YORK (AP) — The Aluminum Company of America (Alcoa) Thursday opened negotiations with the United Auto Workers of America, AFL-CIO, on a work contract for some 4,000 employees.

The aluminum producer began similar talks Wednesday with the United Steel Workers of America, representing some 12,000 Alcoa workers, and the Aluminum Workers International, representing another 9,000 employees of the firm.

The three unions are meeting with representatives of five major firms in the aluminum industry on the question of revising two-year contracts covering 50,150 employees in 55 plants.

No deadline was set on the talks to revise the terms of contracts that have more than a year to run.

The steelworkers met Thursday with all five employers — Alcoa, Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Co., Reynolds Metals Corp. and Olin Mathieson and Ormet Corp.

The negotiations do not cover some operations of the companies which are manned by other unions or by the same union but with more distant contract reopener or expiration dates.

Parking Violations Cost Student $75

Allan S. Frenkel, A3, Clarinda, has posted a $75 bond after Iowa City police charged him with non-payment of 20 over-time parking meter tickets and two other parking violations.

Frenkel has posted $2 bonds for each of the 20 parking meter tickets, $10 each for two tickets for parking in prohibited zones, and a $15 bond for violating an ordinance against a traffic summons.

Police said Frenkel had ignored the tickets and letters warning him of delinquencies for more than six months.

Rollins Leads 2 Eruptions As Twins Crush Yanks, 9-3

Drives In 5 With Double, Homer No. 10

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Rich Rollins drove in five runs with a two-run homer and bases-clearing double in the seventh and eighth innings Thursday as Minnesota erupted to crush the New York Yankees 9-3 and gain a split in a rain-shortened series.

The Twins were nursing a tenuous 4-3 lead until Rollins, after trying futilely to bunt, smacked a Marshall Bridges pitch for his homer in the seventh. Rollins' bases-loaded double in the eighth also came off Bridges.

Until Rollins' homer, it was a game of misplays and staggering starting pitchers.

Bill Dailey's sharp relief pitching choked off any Yankee rallies in the last three innings.

Dailey, making his 37th appearance, picked up his 10th save of the year by retiring nine of the last 10 New York batters. Dailey struck out two and walked one.

The victory went to sore-backed Camilo Pascual, who allowed three runs — two earned — before retiring in the sixth. Pascual, now 10-5, gained his first win since he beat Kansas City June 12. He had worked only three innings since that date.

Neither Pascual nor Yankee starter Ralph Terry was sharp. Terry, tagged for four runs — three earned — in five innings, took the loss and is 9-10.

3-Run Homer Leads Reds Past Cards

CINCINNATI (AP) — Gene Freese hit his first home run since 1961 with two on in the first inning and the Cincinnati Reds went on to a 6-3 victory over St. Louis Thursday night.

Reliever Jim Owens was needed to rescue starter Bob Purkey from a bases-loaded threat in the seventh.

Freese, recalled up from San Diego last Friday, also drove in a run in the Reds' two-run third as they took a 5-0 lead before St. Louis put over a run in the fourth, on two singles and Dick Groat's sacrifice fly.

Purkey wobbled in the seventh, walking Ken Boyer with one out and giving up a single to Tim McCarver. He fanned George Altman, but Julian Javier lashed a one-run single to center. When Gary Koh walked, filling the bases, Owens was called in to finish.

Singles by Tommy Harper and Vada Pinson preceded Freese's homer in the first.

Cubs Use 3 Hits To Get 3 in 6th, Edge Braves, 3-2

CHICAGO (AP) — The second place Chicago Cubs blended a walk with a triple, double and single to score three runs in the sixth inning and defeat the Milwaukee Braves, 3-2, before 15,231 Thursday.

The Cub's 17th victory in the past 25 home games, gave Larry Jackson his 11th triumph among 18 decisions. Starter Tony Cloninger took the loss, his sixth of the season — and second to Chicago without a victory.

After Jackson yielded a lead-off single to Joe Torre in the ninth, Lindy McDaniel came out of the bullpen for the 33rd time this season. The big fireman made just 10 pitches to retire Gene Oliver on a double play and Dennis Menke on a ground out.

Milwaukee . . . 020 000 000 — 2 8 0
Chicago . . . 000 003 00x — 3 8 1

Cloninger, Schneider (7), Raymond (8) and Grandall; Jackson, McDaniel (9) and Bertel, W — Jackson (11-7), L — Cloninger (6-6).

Illinois Pro Leads PGA With 5-Under-Par 66

DALLAS (AP) — A nervous, young, expectant father, Dick Hart of Hinsdale, Ill., fired a dramatic five-under-par 66, including a hole-in-one, and swept three shots ahead of the glamorous field Thursday in the opening round of the 45th Professional Golfers Association (PGA) Championship.

Three of the world's ruling champions — Jack Nicklaus, left-handed Bob Charles and Julius Boros — were among a small crowd breathing down the obscure front runner's neck with 69s, but two prime favorites Arnold Palmer and Gary Player, dropped well off the pace.

Golf's great money winner, Palmer, looking battle weary and disgusted, and the little defending titleholder from South Africa, Player, both fell eight shots back with 74s.

Hart sank his tee shot on the 216-yard 16th hole. It was the second hole-in-one in modern PGA tournament history.

The brilliant round eclipsed the efforts of the rest of the 167-man field, consisting of the holders of every one of the world's major pro championships.

All the U.S. athletes are ready, including Jim Beatty, the premier distance man who is favored in the 5,000 but had a muscle pull in a workout Wednesday.

"He rested and he looks ready and definitely will start," Jordan said.

Giants Blow Lead, Rally, Nip Mets, 6-5

NEW YORK (AP) — The sagging San Francisco Giants squandered an early 4-0 lead but came from behind with two runs in the eighth inning on run-scoring singles by Felipe Alou and Harvey Kuenn to nip the New York Mets 6-5 Thursday night.

The Mets, battling uphill all the way, scored their first run off right-hander Jim Duffalo in the sixth inning and then sent the 24,462 Met fans into near hysteria with a rousing four-run rally in the seventh to go ahead 5-4.

Jim Hicks, whose two-run homer in the 11th won Wednesday night's game, delivered again, smashing a three-run homer off relief pitcher Bob Bolin to give the Mets a short-lived lead. It was his third hit of the game and 13th in 30 times at bat since his recall from Buffalo.

Galen Cisco, pitching hero of Wednesday's victory, was the victim of the Giants' winning thrust. He replaced Don Rowe, who had relieved starter Larry Bernarth at the start of the seventh and walked leadoff hitter Ed Bailey.

Dodgers Clobber Pittsburgh, 10-5

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Maury Wills drove in four runs and Wally Moon, Johnny Podres and Tommy Davis batted in two apiece as the front-running Los Angeles Dodgers clobbered the Pittsburgh Pirates 10-5 Thursday night.

The victory maintained the Dodgers' National League lead over second-place Chicago at 6½ games.

The Dodgers hammered Pirate pitching for 14 hits and sent five earned runs over in a big sixth inning, when 10 men went to the plate.

Podres, who drove in the first Dodger run with a double in the fifth — only his third hit of the year — chalked up his ninth victory against six defeats.

However, he needed relief help from Larry Sherry in the seventh, shortly after Bob Clemente had tagged him for a two-run homer.

Ron Fairly's high pop fly in front of the plate that fell between catcher Jim Pagliaroni and first baseman Donn Clendenon for an error opened the way for the Dodger's five-run sixth.

Synhorst Hot; But Liddy Gets Cooler

DES MOINES (AP) — An air conditioner was being installed in the office of Iowa Secretary of Agriculture L. B. Liddy Thursday.

It was a new development in a controversy that has been sizzling in the Executive Council recently.

Secretary of State Melvin D. Synhorst heatedly commented that he was under the impression the Executive Council of which he is a member, hadn't accepted any bids for air conditioning for any State-house offices except that of Gov. Harold Hughes.

Synhorst said he "jumped with surprise" Wednesday when informed that an air conditioner — a three-ton job costing $2,901 — was being installed in Liddy's office.

A short investigation, however, revealed that three council members — Liddy, State Treasurer M. L. Abrahamson and State Auditor C. B. Akers — had approved Liddy's air conditioner without the knowledge of Synhorst or the governor.

Synhorst said he doesn't begrudge Liddy his air conditioner, but is concerned because the matter wasn't handled according to normal Executive Council procedures.

The council two weeks ago approved the spending of $2,205 for an air conditioner for the governor's office.

Synhorst said he was under the impression that bids for air conditioners for other offices were turned down. Minutes of that council meeting, however, do not say one way or the other what the council action was.

Last Monday, the council again postponed taking bids for air coolers for other offices because Synhorst insisted that bids be thrown open to all distributors, rather than only the three Des Moines firms which had submitted proposals.

Synhorst said he learned Thursday that the three council members had initiated a letter, dated July 9, authorizing the air conditioner for Liddy.

"Things like this should be out in the open and done at regular meetings," Synhorst said. "The only time things are approved individually is in emergencies, and this would be a new concept of the word 'emergency'."

High Court Appointment Next for Mills?

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The Little Rock Arkansas Democrat quoted Washington sources Thursday as saying Rep. Wilbur Mills (D-Ark.) is being considered for the next opening on the U.S. Supreme Court.

The newspaper said the Kennedy Administration was considering naming Mills to the post to remove him as chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee.

Associate Justice William O. Douglas is expected to retire from the court when he becomes 65 on Oct. 16, said the story from the Democrat's Washington bureau.

"If you can breathe life into the rumor, I'm for it," the Democrat quoted Mills as saying. "I've often wondered what I'd say if it was offered me." The newspaper quoted Mills as saying he had heard the rumor. But he said today nobody has talked to him about it.

Mills has a good Administration voting record, but he has opposed the Administration on several revenue proposals including Social Security.

Another Southerner, Sen. John Stennis (D-Miss.) also was rumored to be under consideration for the Supreme Court job, the newspaper said.

Stassen May Again Seek Presidency

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Harold Stassen spoke of becoming a Republican candidate for President Wednesday night after a speech criticizing the foreign policies of both parties.

The former Minnesota governor, now a Philadelphia attorney, told newsmen he definitely will be a candidate for the nomination in 1964 if he receives "substantial support from Republican voters," and said he will enter Presidential primaries in New Hampshire, Wisconsin and California.

In his address as guest lecturer at the University of Michigan, he said leaders of both political parties are advocating narrow, selfish foreign policies, and said one spokesman of his own party would drive this trend further.

"The leading spokesman of our Republican party currently is urging our policies be narrowed even more in a nationalistic sense," said Stassen. He did not name the spokesman.

Tower of Peace Opposing Castro May Be Built

By CHRISTINE MACGILL

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — An Episcopal layman who once had a furious face-to-face confrontation with Fidel Castro has launched a campaign to build a Tower of Peace just 90 miles from Cuba.

Joe Allen, 49, dreams of seeing the 175-foot spire rise on the grounds of Holy Innocents Episcopal mission here, the southernmost church in the continental United States.

A sanctuary at the top of the tower would have three "prayer desks" — one with a simple cross for Protestants, a second with a crucifix for Roman Catholics and a third with a star of David for Jews.

Volunteers would offer prayers for peace 24 hours a day. As they prayed, they would gaze southward toward Cuba from wide windows overlooking the Straits of Florida. Allen said the idea was born soon after Castro came to power. "Communism is too near for comfort and something must be done about it," he says. "A steady stream of prayer across the blue Atlantic can cause Fidel Castro and his band of anti-God Red sympathizers to be pushed out."

The tower would be topped with a lighted cross, visible far at sea. A heroic-sized head of Christ and the flags of all Western Hemisphere nations would be inlaid in mosaic on the building walls.

Allen, the Monroe County tax assessor and a lay reader in the Episcopal Church, estimates the cost at $250,000. An organization called the Guild of Prayer for Peace is in charge of the fund-raising drive. Many contributions already have been pledged, Allen reported.

Prof. DeBrum To Speak To Business Educators

Prof. S. Joseph DeBrum, head of the Department of Business Education at San Francisco State College, will make two speeches to the SUI Department of Business Education Wednesday, July 24.

DeBrum will speak to business education teachers, at 1:10 p.m. in the Pentacrest Room of the Iowa Memorial Union, on "The Teaching of General and Basic Business Courses in the High School."

In the evening DeBrum will speak at the annual Education Dinner at O'x Yoke Inn, Amana. A social hour will begin at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m. Reservations should be made in room 218 University Hall.

Professor DeBrum is co-author of a new general business textbook, published by South-Western Publishing Company, Chicago, Ill.

Flags Smaller For Survivors Of Veterans

J. Gordon Spendlove, M.D., Director of the Iowa City Veterans Administration Hospital, announced recently that the size of the American flag issued to the family of deceased veterans will be changed from 5 ft. by 9½ ft. to 4½ ft. by 7 ft.

The change was made at the order of John S. Gleason, Junior, Administrator of Veterans Affairs, since the flag now being issued to drape a casket is too large for any functional use by the family of the deceased veteran.

Customarily the flags have been given to the next of kin or the closest friend of the deceased after they have been used to drape the casket during the burial service.

These flags have been 5 ft. by 9½ ft. in size. Administrator Gleason has held the opinion that the flag would mean much more to the family of the deceased were they able to display it. Thus, the new flag will be smaller.

Blue prints and specifications are now being drawn up to permit manufacture of the new flags. They will be sent to VA field stations, to post offices and to embassies and consulates in foreign countries for issuance at the time of a veteran's death.

However, there are more than 100,000 of the older, larger flags already on hand at depots and the above distribution points. These older flags will continue to be issued until the supply is exhausted. This will depend entirely upon the local situation in each case, but VA officials estimate it will not be until October-November that the newer smaller flags begin to be used.

At the present time, about 15,000 flags are being issued each month.

Graduate Student Receives Position As ISU Adviser

Eugene L. Clubine, G, Iowa City, has been named foreign student adviser at Iowa State University succeeding Maxwell D. Epstein who will join the staff of the University of California at Santa Barbara.

Clubine is a 1955 graduate of Dunkerton High School and a 1960 animal science graduate of Iowa State. During the last three years he has done graduate work in sociology at SUI while working as a county extension associate.

As assistant to the Dean of Students, Clubine will counsel foreign students on personal problems and immigration regulations, serve as a liaison between students and government, and administer the University's exchange visitor program.

POLARIS SUCCESSFUL—CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The long-range Polaris A3 missile scored its seventh straight test launching success Thursday night on a 1,800-mile flight down the Atlantic tracking range.

The Navy reported that preliminary tracking data indicated the submarine weapon met all test objectives.

Youngsters From Abroad Mob Kennedy

Headed Home, Kids Have Fun, Sing; JFK Grins, Jokes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A near riot of friendly but fervent youngsters from abroad erupted around President Kennedy Thursday in the backyard of the White House.

Kennedy got nothing worse than a pawing and pushing from some of the more than 2,500 high school students from 56 countries. They are on their way home after spending a year in American homes and schools.

But the boxwood hedges and colorful flower beds of the Rose Garden took a beating and trampling, a White House police lieutenant needed a bit of first aid for a sudden flareup of hypertension, a Secret Service agent lost a shoe, and Kennedy apparently lost a pocket handkerchief and a tie clasp.

The President didn't seem to mind much.

He could have expected something of the sort, for it was the third year in a row that he has been mobbed under like circumstances.

This was the roughest demonstration yet, however.

The youngsters have been in this country on scholarships of the American Field Service, a non-profit educational organization, living with American families and going to American schools all over the nation.

Thursday morning, they were invited to the get-together on the south lawn of the White House, with ambassadors of their home-lands, to meet the President.

They cheered and yelled and sang American songs, such as "When the Saints Go Marching In," while they waited for Kennedy to show up.

When he did, they gave him a tremendous, roaring welcome.

"You are not," the President said with a grin, "the quietest group that has come to visit us at the White House. But we are glad to see you here."

Kennedy voiced hope that when the youngsters go home they will not be friends of the United States, but rather friends of peace and of all people. He said he hopes they will stand for "a fair chance for everyone, and also for a world in which we have some hope for peace."

"If we are able to do that," Kennedy said, "this will be the most remarkable generation in the history of the world."

That set off another roar of applause.

But it couldn't compare with the noise when Kennedy stepped down from a wooden platform and walked over to the crowd that faced him from behind two strands of a rope barricade.

He began walking along, shaking hands, signing autographs, and getting dozens of cameras thrust in his face.

But only those up front could get close.

So hundreds of others swarmed through and over and around the ends of the rope barricade and approached him from the flanks and rear. Police and secret service-men circled Kennedy and kept him from getting his weak back damaged any further. They were not smiling the way the President was.

Finally they got pretty tough and picked up youngsters and forcibly shoved them back.

Grain Draft Announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department announced Thursday provisions of the 1964 feed grain program designed to prevent overproduction of feed grains and wheat through voluntary measures and government payments.

The program offers higher payments than a 1963 program for cutting 1964 acreages of corn, barley and sorghum grain below this year's level.

To the extent such a reduction is accomplished in these acreages, use as livestock feed would be made of part or all of the increased production in wheat, which is expected to result because growers rejected tight wheat controls in a referendum last May.

The provision of a larger feed market for wheat would be expected to help support prices and incomes of wheat growers.

5 Sherpa Guides Are on U.S. Tour

BIG HILL, Calif. (AP) — Five Sherpa guides who helped an American team reach the summit of Mount Everest are starting on a tour of the United States Saturday.

They asked the American Automobile Association (AAA) for guidance. The AAA is routing them by way of the Grand Tetons and the Pacific Northwest Rockies.

Dr. James Lester, Berkeley, Calif., member of the American Everest expedition, is going along on the cross country tour.
