The Chicken War is serious business

EUROPEAN TRADERS have refused to take seriously American objections to the increase last year in the tariff on poultry shipped from the United States to Common Market countries, mostly to Germany.

After President Kennedy visited Bonn in June, German Chancellor Adenauer was reported to have said, "I have had three conversations with Mr. Kennedy and each time he brought up the subject of poultry. Is he a President or is he a chicken farmer?"

The Kennedy Administration Wednesday acted to impress on Chancellor Adenauer and other Europeans that it takes the "chicken war" seriously. It started up machinery to put retaliatory tariff increases into effect in October unless the Common Market tariff on U.S. poultry is reduced.

And why does the United States take the chicken tariff seriously? Because it indicates a philosophy contrary to the 1957 Treaty of Rome which pledges the promotion of freer trade. Instead, the Common Market has shown a tendency to build higher tariff walls on agricultural products, of which poultry is only one.

The poultry tariff was raised from 25 per cent to 45 per cent. The United States intends to test this particular wall. Perhaps the threat to discourage sales of wine, trucks or other European items here will bring home to our European friends the seriousness with which the United States takes the Rome pledge for a freer market. We hope so. And in time.

—Chicago Sun-Times

The knees take a stand in Iowa City

WHILE PRESIDENT KENNEDY battles with the Common Market over chickens, another war between the United States and Europe is on the way.

The outcome may not influence the course of the Cold War, but it could make almost as many people unhappy. The offensive is in that European fashion citadel, Paris. As for the defense, it seems to be forming everywhere. Some of its more militant troops are no doubt in Iowa City.

Paris, it seems, has gotten tired of seeing knees. Iowa City hasn't.

SUI coeds for the last few years had dutifully followed Paris in shortening their skirts, until in most cases they displayed naked knees. Skirt lengths around the world ranged from the usual mid-knee decree of the top designers to the four-inches-above-the-knee fad of London's "ya-ya girls."

So the girls kept shortening their skirts, and the men tried to anticipate to what lengths they would go.

Progress was stopped abruptly when the fickle Paris designers brought out a fall collection of skirts with hemlines from just below the three inches below the knee. Frankly, we're alarmed at the possibility of such a trend becoming wide spread.

There are encouraging words from female advisers here, however. They say it was easy enough to shorten their wardrobes — just rip off a piece of cloth here and there and hem back up.

But you just can't lengthen a short skirt; so some coeds, at least, plan to ignore the Paris trend and keep with their short skirts.

Sounds smart to us. Skirts lengths evidently run in cycles — short during the twenties, forties, and sixties. It would seem wise for the girls to wait before they jump into this long skirt fad, since the short ones will be in style soon enough.

Why, by 1980. . .

Rift means two problems for West

Worst may be ahead for world communism

(Last in a five-part series)

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The worst may be yet to come for world Communists, already severely shaken by the Soviet-Chinese feud.

Up to now the battle has been between two Communist parties, ostensibly over ideology. It may move on — to a feud between governments.

If that happens, the point of no return will have been passed. Red leaders around the globe will face dismal prospects of progressive splintering and slow disintegration in the world Communist movement.

SLENDER THREADS now link Moscow and Peking. For East and West, this can mean an entirely new phase of the Cold War. It can mean that some day in the distant future Moscow will find more ground for common cause with the West.

But for the foreseeable future, the West will have two fronts to watch. It will be trying to counter the Kremlin's political and economic campaigns to advance Communism short of world war. At the same time it will be trying to contain violence in Asia.

There is danger now that the impatient Red Chinese, wearied of waiting for the Kremlin's green light, may on their own step up the war in South Viet Nam.

But for the U.S.S.R., too, it will begin to look like a two-front conflict. Moscow, pursuing an avowed goal of world revolution through attrition against the West, will keep a wary eye on the rambunctious and reckless Chinese who still could touch off the catastrophic showdown. Moscow will be wary, too, of Peking's attempts to form a bloc of Communist parties in the underdeveloped world.

THE CHINESE REFER ominously to old border disputes with the Russians.

While the Chinese and Soviet delegations danced their futile ideological minuet at the mid-July Moscow meeting, the extent of the damage was becoming ever more apparent.

Today, the Kremlin no longer is the infallible center of world communism. There are two centers now.

Moscow concedes that splintering is taking place in parties around the world — in Brazil, in Italy, in Australia and many other places.

IN INDIA, the party is forced into orientation toward Moscow for fear of losing public support, in view of Peking's aggressions on India's borders.

But the rest of the Asian Communists are lining up with Red China. Strongly pro-Chinese are the Red Korean and North Vietnamese parties. The Indonesian party — world's largest outside the Communist orbit — is disturbed but leaning toward China. The Japanese party is badly split.

The split seems to go right down through the middle of the world movement.

Red China advances the notion that Moscow controls only a temporary majority of the world's parties.

THERE SEEMS TO BE rising trouble for Moscow with its European satellites. Albania, tiny, isolated and out of reach of the Muscovites, stands alone in Europe openly on the Chinese side. But the split has affected others.

Romania, though pro-Moscow, has made significant overtures to the Chinese, apparently as a means of defending herself against a Kremlin attempt to dominate and direct her economy.

The feud encourages satellite leaders to pump for more freedom of action in their own countries. Czech, Polish, Hungarian and even Bulgarian leaders may be secretly pleased with some aspects of the split, although they support Moscow. The feud tends to give them more importance. Perhaps they can get more concessions from the Kremlin, so long as it needs their support. Only the East German Regime seems wholly and willingly a creature of Moscow.

KHRUSHCHEV'S POLICY of guarding against the accident which might touch off World War III was sanctified by the 22nd Soviet Party Congress in 1961. But he has been on the defensive, clearly, in explaining it to those of the world's Communist leaders who seem to suspect they are being used as pawns for Soviet power politics.

Almost plaintively, Khrushchev has denied Peking's charge that he has been "begging for peace." He has claimed his policy remains unrelenting ideological war against the West in the Middle East, Algeria, Southeast Asia and elsewhere. He insists he has shown results by creating suspicions and divisions inside the western alliance.

The Chinese brush it aside as nonsense. If they had their way, Khrushchev and those who support him would be deposed. But the chances of this seem slight. The dispute seems to have strengthened Khrushchev's standing inside the U.S.S.R. as the man who promises peace and an era of abundance.

Thus the prospects are for more divisions and spills within splits in the Communist world, and for a time of vast confusion.

The decline of Ole Miss

Gov. Barnett and Gen. Lee

By RALPH MCGILL

A few weeks ago the University of Mississippi, answering a query, said that 29 members of the faculty had departed for other teaching positions. The total now has reached over 30, and it is likely that perhaps 40 or more will be gone by the end of August.

Many of those who departed did so with regret. They had a genuine wish to serve the young men and women of the state. They had, by resisting the succession of admittedly second rate legislatures and governors, kept the university intact. But capture of the state by the White Citizens Councils, the coercive blackmail activities of that organization, and the failure of the governor or the Legislature to learn anything from the folly and tragedy of the Oxford mobs indicated that for a long time the lights of education and learning will burn low in the state.

Several resignations, for example, followed Governor Ross Barnett's recent appeal to the student body to continue their fight for the state's traditions at the time of the admission of a second Negro student. He praised their past actions, which has consisted largely of disorders, vulgar abuse and cursing of James Meredith.

THE GOVERNOR AND the climate at Oxford apparently have had an effect on parents in the state who had hopes and affection for the state university. They are sending their children elsewhere. Not only is the faculty substantially eroded, the number of students registered for the fall semester is well below that of last year.

The largest decrease has been in the out-of-state students who, because tuition costs are lower, customarily make up more than 40 per cent of the University's enrollment. (One of the unusual facts of education in Mississippi has been the relatively small attendance from the state. Either hundreds of Mississippi young men and women have not wanted to attend, or could not afford the completely low costs. Out-of-state applications for the fall term of 1963 reported are a little more than half the former total.)

dents at Oxford, whose parents were all White Citizens Council members, were permitted to carry on harassment, which included tearing up the rooms and breaking furniture of students from outside (or in) the state who befriended James Meredith.

In the first term, for example, eight students had dinner with Meredith in the college dining room. When they got back to their rooms, two found their personal property broken or destroyed and "nigger lover" written in shoe polish on the walls. Faculty members who showed any friendship, or merely compassion, for Meredith were also subjected to insults.

The vestments of the Episcopal chaplain were stolen and he and his wife subjected to vile, filthy language on their home telephone.

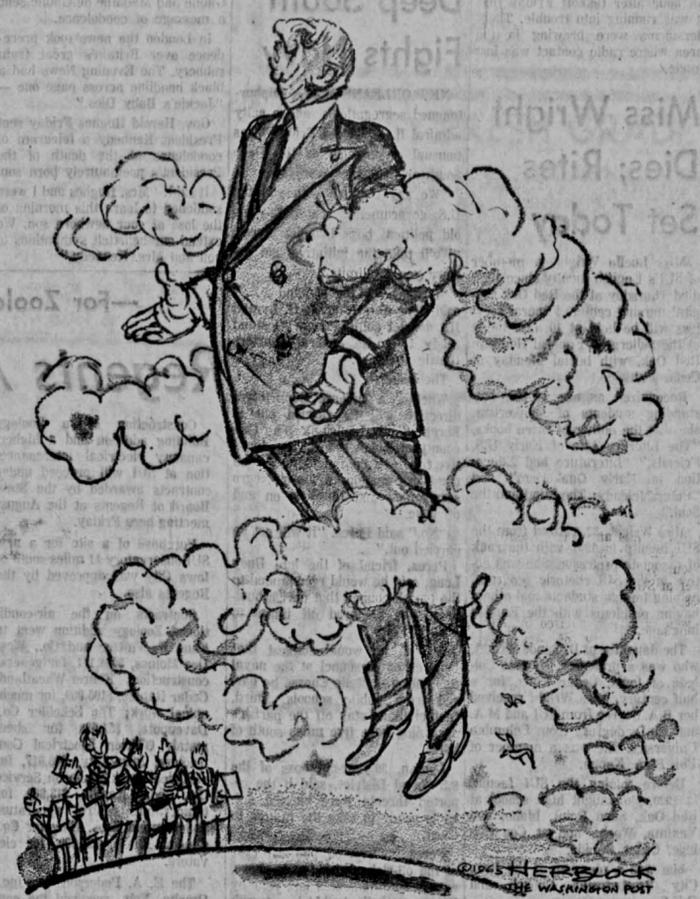

DESPITE ALL THIS, many faculty members would have stayed on had there been any sign of change. On the contrary, Governor Barnett continued to encourage defiance of federal orders and to say that the university was not integrated and would not be if the troops were not present. Hope of civilized attitudes replacing those of harassment and disorder faded.

The status of the University at Oxford will be increasingly in doubt. Its faculty salaries have averaged about $1,000 below those of other state-supported Southeastern universities. The Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools has placed the University in an "extraordinary status". This means its accreditation is in jeopardy.

In 1866, as he prepared to take over Washington College, General Robert E. Lee said: "I consider the proper education of the South's youth one of the most important objects now to be obtained, and one from which the greatest benefits may be expected. . . . The standards raised by General Lee long have been debased or ignored in much of the South."

But the values and hopes of a Lee are greater and more enduring than what Governor Barnett has allowed us to see of his. As the decline of the University of Mississippi becomes known, perhaps even the people of that state will be able to break the shackles of the White Citizens Councils and act to brighten the future of their young men and women — all of them.

New Specialist To Vie with Politicians

THE NEWS IS FULL of grim, serious things such as death in Korea and Vietnam, sit-ins and lie-downs, earthquakes, and the railroad labor impasse.

There used to be a time when the bad news was leavened with items about flagpole sitters, marathon dancers, goldfish swallow-ers, and like trivia. We'd just about despaired of seeing any more of those inconsequential until the other day when into the news came Specialist 4th Class Eugene McCarthy, of Somerville, Mass.

Specialist 4th Class McCarthy, it was solemnly reported, has succeeded in setting a new world's record for watermelon-seed-spitting by propelling a seed a distance of 37 feet, two and one-half inches.

That's more like it. Though we suspect that in the useless-or-object-propelling department Specialist 4th Class McCarthy can't beat the political orators.

Regents Approve Changes Of SUI Faculty Members

DES MOINES — Three appointments, two leaves of absence, and four changes of appointment involving SUI faculty members were ratified by the State Board of Regents at its August meeting here Friday.

The board also heard from SUI officials a report of three resignations. New members of the University faculty are Thompson Stone, widely-known New England orchestra conductor, to be visiting professor of music in the first semester of the 1953-54 academic year; Chilton R. Bush, professor emeritus of journalism at Stanford University, to be visiting George H. Gallup Professor of Journalism in the first semester of the coming year, and Malcolm S. MacLean, Jr., acting director, Communications Research Center, Michigan State University, to be the Gallup Professor of Journalism, effective in September, 1954.

Leaves were approved for Itrat-Husain Zuberi, professor of English, for two years while he will be a visiting professor at the University of Windsor, Ontario, Canada, and for the 1953-54 academic year for Norman E. Williams, associate professor of zoology, to accept a research fellowship at Carlsberg Laboratory, Copenhagen, Denmark. The resignations were those of Dr. H. Russell Meyers, chairman of the division of neurosurgery, College of Medicine, and Wayburn S. Jeter, associate professor of microbiology, College of Medicine. Professor Jeter will accept an appointment at the University of Arizona.

Anthony Constantino, associate professor, was named to a two-year term as head of the Department of General Business, College of Business Administration, to succeed Professor George Peek, who requested that he be permitted to leave the position effective Aug. 31 and continue as professor of General Business. The appointment of Dr. Merle L. Hale, professor and head of the Hospital Dental Department, was amended to include head of Oral

Easement of Gains Tax Approved by Committee

WASHINGTON — The House Ways and Means Committee, pushing toward its final decision on President Kennedy's $10-billion tax cut proposal, approved Friday a substantial easing of the capital gains tax.

Poison Gas Leak Hits Philadelphia, 275 Are Injured

PHILADELPHIA — Poisonous chlorine gas escaping from a railroad tank car blanketed a six-block area of thickly populated northeast Philadelphia Friday, sending more than 275 persons to hospitals for treatment.

At least 43 were admitted to hospitals, including 24 police and firemen. A fire department spokesman said the accident "could have been a real disaster," but a team of masked firemen sealed off the leak before the gas could reach fatal concentrations.

In small amounts, chlorine is used as a harmless disinfectant, familiar for its use in swimming pools. As a concentrated gas, it has a corrosive effect on the lungs and other sensitive tissues.

Surgery, College of Dentistry, Charles C. Wunder, research fellow in the Department of Physiology, College of Medicine, is now an associate professor of physiology. Among the new appointments, Prof. Stone was a member of the SUI summer faculty for several years in the 1930s as conductor of the All State High School and University choruses, and occasionally the University Symphony. A native of Boston, he was for 32 years conductor of the famous Handel and Haydn Society and the Peoples Symphony Orchestra of Boston. He also served for some years as head of the music department of Tufts University, and he is the recipient of an honorary Doctorate of Music from Boston University.

Prof. Bush, 63, retired as director of the Stanford School of Journalism in 1951 after 27 years on the faculty. He has been chairman of the Council on Research, president of the American Association of Schools and Departments of Journalism, distinguished service member of the American Society of Newspaper Editors, and national vice-president of Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalistic society. Professor Bush holds three degrees from the University of Wisconsin.

Prof. MacLean, who will occupy the Gallup Chair at SUI beginning in one year, received the bachelor's and master's degree from the University of Minnesota, and the Ph.D. degree in Mass Communications from the University of Wisconsin. He has served as research consultant for many organizations and held a Fulbright appointment in Italy in 1956-57. MacLean, 43, served on the faculties at Minnesota and Wisconsin before going to Michigan State in 1956. He is a member of the American Association for Public Opinion Research, Association for Education in Journalism, American Sociological Association, and Sigma Delta Chi.

Prof. Zuberi Will Teach In Canada

A two year leave of absence was granted by the State Board of Regents Thursday, for Itrat-Husain Zuberi, Professor of English at SUI.

Zuberi will teach at the University of Toronto in Canada during the leave, which starts Sept. 1. University officials said they have tried without success to have Zuberi's American visa extended.

but specific limits upon the time an alien may spend in this country are established by provisions of Public Law 555. When Zuberi returns to the U.S., officials said, he will be able to stay indefinitely. Zuberi, a native of Pakistan came to SUI in 1959, and was made full professor last year. He received a master of arts degree from St. John's College in India in 1951 and a Ph.D. degree from the University of Edinburgh, Scotland in 1955.

Opposition to Test-Ban Treaty Discussed Here

Much of the opposition to the nuclear test-ban treaty signed last Monday by the United States, Britain and Russia can be summed up in the statement "you can't do business with the devil," an SUI political science professor says.

Prof. James N. Murray feels, however, that the United States Senate will consent to ratification of the treaty, although a great deal of discussion and tactical delay will no doubt take place before consent is given.

He gives two principal reasons why he feels the Senate will vote to accept the treaty. First, no high officials in the Government have come forth so far with a specific objection to the treaty which of itself would be sufficient reason to reject it, he said. And second, the wording of the treaty permits any member to withdraw at any time it feels its national security is endangered—an "escape clause" built into the wording of the treaty.

An example of the delaying tactic is seen in Senate members seeking more specific grounds for objecting to the treaty who argue that every word of the text must be given detailed scrutiny by military as well as civilian leaders, the SUI professor of international relations said.

They do this in the hope of allowing the "first blush of enthusiasm" for signing the treaty to fade, Prof. Murray said. Then they will be in a much better position to have an effective voice in the outcome of the vote for ratification.

Many people have an intuitive feeling that whenever the Russians agree to a proposal of the West, they must have an ulterior reason for doing it, Prof. Murray said. And while this may be so, the test ban treaty marks the first time in 15 years of continuous and fruitless discussion that the U.S. and Russia have been able to reach an agreement on this vital issue, he said.

The treaty has been termed by President Kennedy a "first step" toward the lessening of international tensions in the cold war. "As such, it could be as much in

Dr. Ward Is Cremated In Secrecy

LONDON — Dr. Stephen Ward was cremated Friday in strictest secrecy a few hours after a coroner's jury decided that the man who started the Profumo scandal had died by his own hand.

The suicide verdict was delivered after just three minutes' deliberation by a seven-man coroner's jury. Witnesses testified that traces of a sleeping drug were found in Ward's blood. Coroner G. A. V. Thurston recorded that Ward's death was caused by barbiturate poisoning.

The 50-year-old osteopath and playboy scribbled a batch of notes before he swallowed the fatal pills, saying the strain of the trial had been too much and the imminence of a guilty verdict had driven him to suicide.

Ward died last Saturday after lying in a coma for 80 hours. He never learned of his conviction on two charges of living off the immoral earnings of Christine Keeler and Marilyn Mandy Rice-Davis.

Iowa Corn, Soybean Crops To Hit New High

DES MOINES — Corn and soybeans are busting out all over in Iowa this summer.

Record high production for both crops was forecast Friday by the Agriculture Department in Washington.

Corn production was estimated at 812,966,000 bushels — three per cent more than the all-time high of 789,035,000 bushels grown in 1959. A record yield of 77 bushels per acre also was forecast.

The soybean crop is expected to be a record 99,248,000 bushels, with a yield per acre of 27.5 bushels. The record of 97,042,000 bushels was set in 1961.

Frequent heavy showers last month boosted the prospects of bumper crops, the Iowa Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said.

"Corn is reported generally in excellent conditions except in a few northwest counties where soil moisture supplies continue limited and except in local areas where problems exist due to pests and diseases," the service said.

Last month, in the first report of the season, government forecasters estimated the corn crop at 791,850,000 bushels with an average yield of 75 bushels. Last year Iowa farmers produced 742,976,900 bushels.

The 77 bushels per acre expected this year tops the record 76 bushels set in 1962.

The 1963 soybean crop is eight per cent greater than the 91,935,000 bushels of last year. The estimated yield of 27.5 bushels per acre is under the record 28.5 bushels of 1961.

Oats production is expected to total 121,924,000 bushels, six per cent less than last year's crop.

"The 1963 crop shows a continued decline compared with recent years due to fewer acres harvested," the reporting service said.

"The current oat acreage harvested is the smallest since 1882." The reporting service said that excellent growing conditions in recent weeks have resulted in rapid development of the field crops, hay and pasture.

Hay production was estimated at 6,792,000 tons, 18 per cent less than last year and 16 per cent below the five-year average.

Hurricane Arlene Visits Bermuda, Veers Out to Sea

MIAMI, Fla. — Hurricane Arlene sped northeast in the Atlantic Friday after raking Bermuda with winds up to 80 miles an hour.

Because of its forward speed, the season's first hurricane lashed the island chain 670 miles southeast of New York only briefly and gales in the area ended during the afternoon. Damage was negligible.

The storm was moving at about 25 miles per hour and heading away from any land area. Gales extend outward 150 miles in all directions from the center, the Weather Bureau said.

Arlene was expected to continue on a general northeasterly course near 25 miles per hour for the next 12 to 24 hours.

Roark Named New Adviser

Eldridge Waldo Roark, Jr., a member of the Syracuse University dean of men's staff since 1961, has been named fraternity affairs adviser at SUI.

He will assume the duties of Ralph Prusok, who has held the position for the past three years. Prusok resigned to become assistant dean of students at Kansas State University, Manhattan.

Roark arrived on the SUI campus this week and has begun his new duties in the Office of Student Affairs.

He holds a B.A. degree in history from Howard College and a M.B.A. degree from Syracuse University.

At Syracuse he was coordinator of upperclassmen in University residence halls and director of Sadler Hall, a unit housing 500 men. Roark was also resident adviser to freshmen in Watson Hall at Syracuse in 1958-60 while he was a graduate student there.

He has taught at Brooklyn Park High School, Baltimore, and been a sales staff member for International Business Machines Corporation.

Roark held a Lion's Club Educational Scholarship for travel in Europe in 1955.

$217,171 Suit Filed Here By Sulowan

A $217,171 damage suit was filed in District Court Thursday against a rural Nichols man for injuries suffered by an SUI law student in an auto accident near Iowa City a year ago.

Allan E. Olsen, L2, Sioux City, claims the negligence of Wayne L. Westlake caused the July 19, 1952 head on collision on Highway 218 eight miles south of here, alleging the Westlake car swerved into Olsen's southbound lane.

Mrs. Vernda Westlake, 66, Westlake's mother, was killed in the accident.

Allegations of serious permanent injuries from the accident, and past, present and future pain, suffering and impairment of earning capacity were made in the suit.

Olsen further alleged that the injuries cost him a commission in the Air Force, through AFROTC, and claims that the accident injuries forced him to graduate "in absentia" from the University.

The petition also claims that the injuries prohibited Olsen from working at his job as an insurance salesman, and that his future as an attorney will be limited as a result of the accident.

Attorneys for Olsen are Hutchison, Hurst and Duggan of Sioux City.

New College Post Offered to Alum

Prof. Daniel D. Feder, a graduate of SUI, and former SUI faculty member, has been named dean of the School of Humanities and Sciences at San Francisco State College.

Dr. Feder, had served as chairman of the Division of Psychology at the California institution since August, 1961. He received a Ph.D. from SUI in 1934 and was a member of the faculty at Iowa for the next four years. He was a guest speaker at SUI during Greek Week in 1958.

He went to San Francisco State from the University of Denver where he was dean of students and professor of psychology. Dr. Feder was a member of the faculty of the University of Illinois from 1938 to 1942 and was the head of student counseling there.

During World War II he served as an officer in the Bureau of Naval Personnel, where he assisted in refining navy personnel selection and assignment procedures.

Two SUI Students Get Scholarships

Two SUI students have been awarded $400 Western Electric Scholarships for the 1963-64 school year.

Recipients of the awards are David W. Hyde, E4, Cedar Rapids, and Gavin L. Collins, B4, Mason City.

Mets' Craig Ends Losses at 18 Straight

Wins as Hickman Belts Slam In 9th with 2 Out, Full Count

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Hickman crashed a full-count, two-out grand slam home run for the New York Mets in the ninth inning Friday night as dour Roger Craig sweated out a 7-3 victory over the Chicago Cubs, breaking his personal 18-game losing string that had matched the longest in a season in National League history.

Craig, wearing a big No. 13 on his uniform instead of his usual 38, sat alongside manager Casey Stengel, who gestured wildly with crossed fingers attempting to put the hex on Chicago relief pitcher Lindy McDaniel on the 3-2 pitch to Hickman. Hickman hit a fly ball down the left field line that caught the overhang for a home run.

Craig, who had limited the Cubs to eight hits, was lifted for a pinch hitter with two out in the ninth and the score tied 3-3.

Tim Harkness, the pinch hitter, drew a walk, loading the bases. Hickman, the leadoff man, followed with his drive off the facade in left and Craig, Casey and the rest of the Mets poured onto the field.

It was Craig's first victory since April 29. His record is now 3-20. A loss would have equalled the longest losing string in major league history, 19 by John Nabors of the Philadelphia Athletics in 1916.

Craig was staked to a 1-0 lead on Frank Thomas' fourth inning homer, but the Cubs went up 2-1 on fifth inning homers by Andre Rodgers and Lou Brock.

The Mets took a 3-2 lead in the fifth on a walk to Al Moran, a sacrifice, a fielder's choice, and singles by Duke Carmel and Duke Snider. The Cubs matched it in the eighth on Billy Williams triple and Ron Santo's sacrifice fly.

In the ninth, Joe Hicks stroked a one-out single to right and Al Moran doubled him to third with two out. The walk to Harkness followed.

Tiger, Fullmer Meet Today; Title at Stake

IBADAN, Nigeria (AP) — Dick Tiger will defend the world middleweight title and the prestige of his native land today against former champion Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, in the first championship fight ever held in Nigeria.

The 15-round match is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Nigerian time which is only 12:30 p.m. (CST). British referee Dick Hart will be the only official. When it is over he will raise the arm of the winner without further ado.

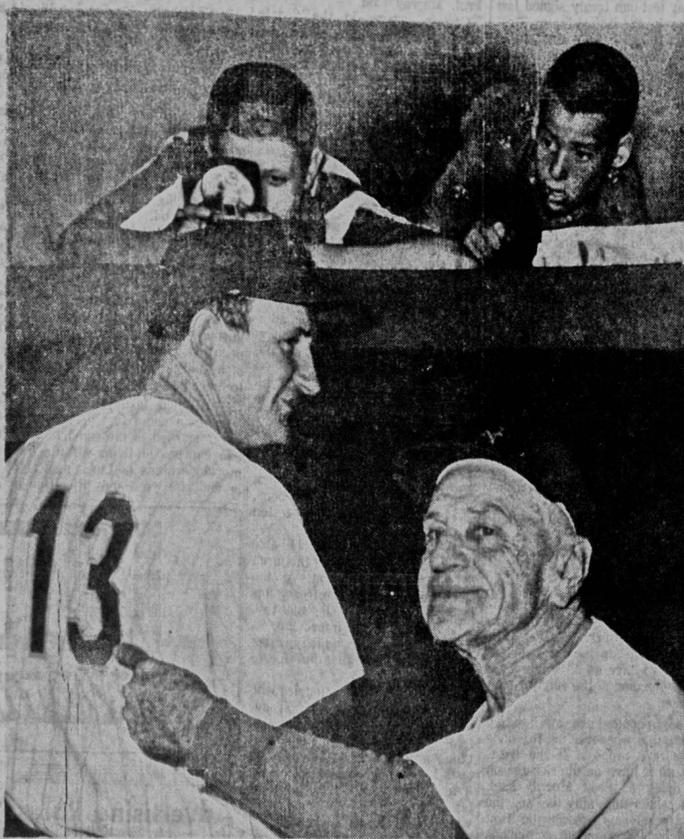

This will be the third meeting of these 160-pounders who are well-matched physically although Tiger does have a two-inch advantage in reach. Tiger, father of four, won the title by outpointing Fullmer in San Francisco, Oct. 23, 1962. Although many thought Fullmer would retire after taking that beating he went through with a rematch and fought to a draw Feb. 23 at Las Vegas.

The Nigerian government has thrown its full support behind the promotion, subsidizing the fight for $280,000. Jack Solomons, British promoter, came in to run the show. Tiger gets a $100,000 guarantee and Fullmer 50,000 plus 10,000 in expenses.

The rainy season is on the wane but heavy, drenching showers still are a daily occurrence, lasting two or three hours. Chief Joseph Modupe Johnson, cabinet minister for Labor and Sports, has hired a couple of rain doctors to chase away the clouds, just in case any would-be fans still have a sentimental attachment to such mumbo jumbo.

A crowd of 45,000 is expected at Liberty Stadium, normally used for soccer matches. Much will depend on the weather for this city is located 89 miles from Lagos, the capital of the nation, with which it is connected by a two-lane highway.

The Magic Number

New York Mets Manager Casey Stengel and pitcher Roger Craig defy superstition at the Polo Grounds Friday night as Casey sent Craig in to pitch against the Chicago Cubs. Casey points to the number 13 on Craig's uniform, which he used instead of number 38 while pitching 18 straight losses. One more would have been the major league record for losses in a single season. —AP Wirephoto

Didn't Betray Team Secrets To Opposing Coach: Butts

ATLANTA (AP) — Former Georgia Coach Wallace Butts, pledging loyalty to the university where he was football boss for 21 years, testified in federal court Friday he never betrayed team secrets to an opposing coach.

He denied any knowledge of alleged gambling activities by two friends and insisted repeatedly he was innocent of a magazine's charge that he helped rig a football game.

The stocky, graying Butts, who has been suffering from high blood pressure, took the stand to climax the first week of testimony in his $10-million libel suit against Curtis Publishing Co.

He sued because an article in the Curtis-owned Saturday Evening Post charged that he and Coach Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama rigged the 1962 Georgia-Alabama game.

"Have you in any conversation with Coach Bryant over the telephone or in person ever discussed with him what the University of Georgia planned to do in a game with the University of Alabama?" he was asked.

"No," Butts replied.

"Is there any doubt in your mind about it?"

"Absolutely not."

As the 58-year-old Butts began his testimony, one of his three daughters wept silently. His daughter and Mrs. Butts have occupied a front bench in the crowded courtroom since the trial began Monday.

The jury of 12 men, about a dozen lawyers and more than 200 spectators had just settled down when William H. Schroder Jr., chief counsel for Butts, called him to the witness stand.

Butts said he did not recall specific telephone conversations with Bryant but had talked many times with the Alabama coach about football, particularly new rules interpretations last fall.

He thumbed through the notes which an Atlanta insurance salesman, George P. Burnett, has testified he made while listening to Butts give information on Georgia's team to Bryant last Sept. 13, nine days before the controversial game. Burnett said he was cut into the long distance call accidentally.

"Did you at any time . . .

before that game give Coach Bryant any of the information contained in those seven pages of notes?"

"No sir. Absolutely not. I haven't talked with him about any football plans since I retired as head coach."

Butts resigned as coach at the end of the 1960 season but remained as athletic director at Georgia until last Feb. 28.

"Were you or were you not familiar with the University of Georgia game plan?"

"No."

"Did you know what formations Georgia had planned to use?"

"No. And I would like to add that I was amazed and surprised that they didn't do some of the things they do well . . ."

On cross-examination by Welborn B. Cody, chief counsel for the publishing firm, Butts was asked about a Chicago beer distributor named Frank Scoby and a Macon, Ga. man named Frank Childs.

"Did you know that Frank Scoby was a pretty big gambler?"

"This is the first time I knew," Butts replied.

He said he had known Scoby since 1947 and met him through former Notre Dame Coach Frank Leahy. Scoby testified several years ago as a witness in a federal case and said he had bet up to $50,000 with a Terre Haute, Ind., gambling syndicate booking sports events.

Butts said Scoby helped arrange a $4,000 loan at a Chicago bank for investment in small loan firms.

"Did you know that Mr. Frank Childs owned part interest in a gambling casino?" he was asked by Cody.

"Absolutely not," Butts replied. There was no proof of that allegation, he said. Childs was an associate in a small loan company, Butts said.

Only two other women bettered par 72 on the Sunnyside course. Sandra McClinton and Sandra Haynie each had 71.

Kathy Whitworth, seeking her third consecutive title on the women's tour and runnerup here the last two years, was in fifth place with a 72.

Miss Wright went two under par on the front nine with a 34 and cut a stroke from par coming in. Miss Smith shot a steady 35-35.

Miss McClinton missed a good opportunity for the lead when she took a 38 on the back nine after going out in 33.

Nicki Nordstrom of Minneapolis and Polly Riley of Fort Worth, Tex., were the low amateurs with 77s.

The 54-hole tournament winds up

Sunday.

Andrea Cohn, youthful pro from Waterloo, shot a 41-37-78.

The top score among the 14 amateurs entered was 77, shared by Nicki Nordstrom of Minneapolis and Polly Riley, Fort Worth, Tex.

Marilynn Smith, the defending champion, was one stroke back with a 70.

Twins Use 3 Homers To Defeat Boston, 5-3

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Don Mincher, Zoilo Versalles and Rich Rollins cracked home runs in support of Jim Perry's pitching and the Minnesota Twins handed the Boston Red Sox their seventh straight defeat 5-3 Friday night.

Perry, winning his ninth against eight defeats, allowed only four hits but two were home runs — by Dick Stuart and Carl Yastrzemski.

The Twins broke a 2-2 tie against loser Dave Morehead in the sixth when Earl Battey singled with two out, and Lenzie Green tripled to right center, then scored when Chuck Schilling cut loose a wild throw trying to get him at third. Rollins clinched it with his 14th home run in the seventh.

2 Champs Defeated, 2 Repeat In AAU Swimming Meet

CHICAGO (AP) — Two defending champions went down to humiliating defeats, two titlists easily repeated and four new champions were crowned in Friday's opening session of the National AAU outdoor swimming and diving meet.

World record holder Chet Jastremski, of Indiana's super-star squad representing the Indianapolis Athletic Club, never even got to defend his 100-meter breaststroke crown, failing to place among the eight qualifiers.

Almost as red-faced were a bevy of high-pedigreed divers, including defending champion Lou Vitucci, who finished behind 17-year-old Larry Andreason, Anaheim, Calif., high schooler, in the 3-meter springboard diving finals.

Andreason, a graceful mite who finished 17th last year, won the springboard event over runner-up Rick Gilbert, the National AAU indoor champion; fourth-finishing Vitucci; and Pan-American champion Tom Rinsley, the Hoosier from Canada, who wound up a lowly eighth.

The only record produced in the opening day's six-event program was of a modest nature, a U.S. citizen's mark in the 400-meter freestyle by another brilliant California youngster, 17-year-old Don Schlander.
