China Refugees Cross to Soviets

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin was officially silent, but Western sources reported Friday that refugees from Red China have been streaming into the Soviet Union by the thousands for the past year.

One Westerner said Soviet officials had told him they were still coming as late as last week. He put the figure at 50,000.

These reports, undoubtedly Soviet-inspired, spread through diplomatic quarters soon after Communist China charged Moscow had "enticed and coerced several tens of thousands of Chinese citizens into going to the Soviet Union."

Peking Charges
The Red Chinese charged the Russians had planned to use these emigrants to overthrow the Communist Chinese administration in Sinkiang on the border of Soviet Kazakhstan. Communist China and the Soviet Union signed a 30-year contract in 1950 to exploit the oil and mineral riches of Sinkiang jointly. These include gold and uranium.

Peking said the Kremlin had refused demands to send the Chinese back "on the pretext of a sense of Soviet legality and humanitarianism." Peking Radio added the incident still was unsettled and called it "an astounding event, unheard of in the relations between Socialist countries."

Exodus Marked
Peking Radio said the exodus had occurred in April and May 1962. It made no mention of a continuing flow. Neither did some of the Western sources here, although one mentioned he had heard the number was increasing.

This was the first charge of troubles and provocations along the thousands of miles of ill-defined border between the two Communist giants. Even more than Red China's anger at Soviet refusal to supply it with atomic weapons, it marked the shift of the Communist quarrel from the ideological to the severely practical sphere.

The border charges were part of a 30,000-word attack on Premier Khrushchev and the Soviet Communists published in Peking's official People's Daily and the theoretical journal Red Flag. The text was broadcast around the world.

Sinkiang Province — once known as Chinese Turkestan — has long been a bone of contention between Russia and China, no matter whether their governments were capitalist or Communist.

U.S. Seeks Assurances For 3 Buddhist Monks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Until it receives satisfactory assurances for their safety, the United States will not turn over to South Viet Nam the three Buddhist monks who have taken refuge in the U.S. Embassy at Saigon.

State Department press officer Richard I. Phillips made this point clear Friday as the monks provided a new focus of tension between Washington and the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Phillips acknowledged that the Diem government has requested formally that the three monks be turned over. But he said this question "remains under study, pending satisfactory assurances as to their safety if they should leave the embassy premises. . . . The South Viet Nam government has not yet offered satisfactory assurances."

One of the monks, Thich Tri Quang, is a high official in the General Buddhist Association.

While the Viet Nam government has made some effort to placate the Buddhists since an Aug. 21 crackdown which resulted in the arrests of hundreds of monks and nuns, authorities have talked about wiping out those monks who are politically motivated.

It is considered inevitable that the Buddhist question will become a prime issue before the United Nations if Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu carries out her announced intention to attend the U.N. General Assembly session at South Viet Nam's official observance.

Mrs. Nhu, as the wife of the president's brother, has had no official status in the Viet Nam government except at state functions.

American officials said there has been no request as yet for a visa which would permit Mrs. Nhu to enter the United States. The State Department said no restraints would be put in her way to travel to this country. But there is a marked lack of enthusiasm for such a visit.

Mrs. Nhu has contended President Kennedy is misinformed about the situation in Viet Nam. While the confrontation between Washington and Saigon continues, there is growing sentiment in the Senate to halt U.S. military assistance to South Viet Nam unless far-reaching reforms are carried out by the Diem government.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said he may offer a resolution to that effect.

Cancer Treatment Deemed 'Worthless' After Studies

BY W. JOYCE MACFARLAN
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Informed sources said Friday night the controversial cancer drug Krebiozen has been found to be worthless as the result of investigations made by the Food and Drug Administration and the National Cancer Institute.

The Welfare Department announced that a news conference would be held today for an announcement of the results of the investigation of Krebiozen but declined further information.

It was learned, however, from persons in position to know that the announcement would deal with the finding of the investigation made by the FDA.

It was reported by one source that the FDA had broken down the composition of Krebiozen, establishing that it is "a very common substance" and "worthless in treatment of cancer."

The FDA some months ago, with the cooperation of the sponsors of the drug, Drs. Stevan Durovic and Andrew C. Ivy of Chicago, made copies of more than 500 case records designated by the sponsors as illustrative that the drug was beneficial in the treatment of cancer.

In Chicago, Dr. Durovic said the FDA "certainly cannot conclude from our reports" that the drug is worthless. Of the 500 cases, he said, some 480 "were improved and many cured."

As to the agency's breaking down of the drug, Dr. Durovic termed it "a smearing business to call the drug worthless without saying specifically what was found."

Dr. Durovic said he was unaware that the FDA had tested the drug and said he had not been informed of any FDA findings.

The case records were supplemented by data obtained in field examination by FDA inspectors and then turned over to the National Cancer Institute for its evaluation and determination as to whether clinical tests involving humans would be warranted.

It was reported by informed sources that results of the National Cancer Institute studies probably would not be completed for another week or so.

The drug has been the subject of controversy for more than a dozen years.

State Troopers Block Children In Huntsville

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (AP) — Armed state troopers barred white and Negro children from four public schools Friday on orders of Gov. George C. Wallace, stirring a rising resentment in this missile city and other parts of Alabama.

One brigade of determined troopers braved the line of helmeted, club-carrying troopers at one school and took their children in for registration.

The City Council adopted a resolution condemning Wallace's actions and prepared to wire Wallace a request for immediate removal of the troopers and opening of the schools.

Approximately 2,300 students are enrolled in the four schools which are affected.

School officials would not say if they planned to go into court against the governor.

"Legal action is not called for at this time," said the school board attorney, Joe Payne. He said the board was not considering legal steps because Wallace had said he will not interfere with the opening of schools Monday.

Attorneys Move
But attorneys for one of the Huntsville Negro boys turned back Friday moved promptly into a federal court at Birmingham with a suit asking that Wallace be enjoined from interfering with desegregation.

The suit, brought in the name of Sonny Wellington Hereford IV, 6, seeks to enjoin the governor and his agents from preventing desegregation ordered Aug. 12 by a federal court. Judge H. H. Grooms set the latest petition down for a hearing at 11 a.m. Monday.

Another federal judge late Friday ordered Wallace to show cause next Thursday why he should not be enjoined from interfering with the integration of Birmingham schools. The order does not require the governor's personal appearance in court.

Wallace To Appear
While the movement of troopers here and there and federal court developments came thick and fast, a spokesman for a local television station said Wallace has scheduled a statewide television appearance Sunday.

In an early-morning executive order, Wallace decreed that the four white schools at Huntsville which were to enroll one Negro each were closed for the day.

He gave no explanation of the one-day provision which presumably meant schools could open Monday.

Board Resolved
Supt. Raymond Christian told Wallace aides he was standing on the board's resolution Thursday to open schools.

Similar action by Wallace on Monday shut down a white high school facing desegregation in Tuskegee. Angered parents there were barred by troopers. In Birmingham, three white schools remained closed at Wallace's request.

At Mobile, two Negroes failed to show up for scheduled classes at a white school.

Within hours of Wallace's intervention at Huntsville, a federal court denied an injunction requested by six white parents to keep the Birmingham schools closed.

Wallace had backed the court move on the basis that Birmingham school integration would bring violence. The petition was filed Wednesday, shortly before disorders left a Negro man dead and 20 persons hurt in Birmingham.

'Preserves' Peace
Preserving the peace was the reason Wallace gave for shutting down the Huntsville schools.

While the troopers kept pupils away from the four schools affected by Wallace's orders, more than 20,000 children went to classes at 24 other Huntsville schools.

Told the school was closed, the women ignored the troopers and walked right on. The troopers stood aside.

"Don't hurt them, let them go in," blared a state Highway Patrol loud speaker.

The mothers took their children inside and registered them. No classes were held.

S. W. Hereford IV, 6, was the first Negro turned away.

He went to Fifth Avenue School with his parents and two FBI agents. The group left quickly.

The other Negro pupils, John Brewton, 7; Veronica Terrell Pearson, 13, and David C. Piggie, 6, were turned away at the other schools.

No School Today
"No school today," a trooper told Mrs. Odell Pearson, mother of Veronica.

"Thank you, sir," was her reply.

Mayor R. B. Searcy said: "This is an unfortunate situation we have been subjected to by the governor. We did not ask for troopers to be sent in here and I did not want them."

"I think Wallace should remember he is fussing at the federal government for sending troops into our state."

There was no disorder at any of the schools Friday.

An editorial by the Huntsville Times said the school children were used as pawns in Wallace's "long-standing feud with the federal authorities."

Editorial Comment
Calling Wallace's actions silly, futile and disgraceful, the Times said "All Huntsville should let the governor know that this community bitterly resents the senseless and shameful actions of this day."

Many of the parents voiced their resentment at the troopers. Others agreed with Wallace.

"I don't want my daughter to go to school that bad," said one woman at East Clinton.

A boy put it this way: "Dog-gone it, I've been waiting three days to go to school."

This came from a sixth-grade teacher: "There's something about those troopers that makes my knees tremble."

A woman wanted to know, "What would you do if we broke through?"

"The troopers didn't reply."

A mother, her daughter and three other girls came to the gate at Rison Junior High. Halted by a trooper's raised hand, the woman said: "I know the school is closed. But I just came to show you that we want them open."

"I'm a native of Huntsville. I am not an integrationist. But I believe that we and the people of the South have to accept it."

Student Saves Himself In Fall From Tower

QUINCY, Ill. (AP) — A University of Missouri student had a brush with death Friday when he slipped on wet paint and fell at the 700-foot level of a television tower, then grabbed a strut 40 feet below to save himself.

Francis Bohlen, 27, of Slater, Mo., told authorities he credited practice in the sport of tumbling for the presence of mind to grab the strut and hang on.

He said he had finished painting for the day and had loosed his safety belt when he slipped. He was working on the inside of the steel framework of the 804-foot tower.

Wallace Seat Getting Hot; Resentment Up

BY RELMAN MORIN

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Gov. George C. Wallace appears to be sitting on an increasingly hot seat as resentment rises in Alabama over the delay in school openings and the issues of "cities' rights."

He is being accused of armed invasion, harming the state, and of having gone wild.

This criticism comes even from some of his friends.

The Montgomery Advertiser said in an editorial Friday:

"It appears as this goes to press that Gov. Wallace has dispatched state troopers to Mobile and Huntsville to usurp local power by force."

"If this becomes a fact today, the Advertiser must sorrowfully conclude that, in this instance, its friend has gone wild."

In Huntsville, a group of defiant women registered their feelings about the governor's action there. About 25 mothers marched their children through the cordon of state troopers surrounding East Clinton Grammar School and took them into the building.

In Birmingham on Thursday a woman said, when turned back by a trooper, "I want my child in school. Who is protecting my civil rights?"

There was similar reaction in Tuskegee last Wednesday when Wallace closed the schools there.

Before the Birmingham schools were closed, City Councilman George Seibels said in a statement, "If George Wallace or any other governor sends troops in, it would be a plain usurpation of rights unless there was a clear indication of riotous behavior that local forces could not control."

This issue of "cities' rights" looms large in the situation in Alabama.

Wallace's actions in sending troopers to Birmingham, Tuskegee, Huntsville and Mobile have been compared to what many Southerners consider the invasion of states rights by the federal government.

And states rights are supremely important to the Southerner, something to be cherished and jealously guarded.

Now, some Alabamians feel that Wallace has duplicated federal actions by moving in on local authorities.

Wallace, unquestionably, is still widely popular in spite of the events of the past few days. A woman, critical of one of this correspondent's reports on the situation in Birmingham, telephoned to say, "You have been talking to the wrong people. Everybody I know thinks Wallace has done the right thing."

But the Huntsville Times said in an editorial Tuesday:

"It is beyond the realm of reason to think that the governor's new moves will bring any benefits to Alabama. And it is equally as illogical to think that it will not do great harm to a state and region already suffering overmuch from foolhardy actions."

Mayor Moves To Halt Strike

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor Robert F. Wagner named a three-member citizens mediation panel Friday to study the issues and make nonbinding recommendations for settlement of disagreements that threaten a strike Monday of the city's public school teachers.

Representatives of the Board of Education and the United Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, accepted the mediation plan in the hope some solution can be suggested to avert crippling the city's 1-million-student school system.

Wagner made it clear, however, that the city had "no intention of coming up with any money at this time."

The union leadership, claiming to represent 21,000 of the city's 43,000 teachers, voted overwhelmingly Thursday night to reject the latest contract offer made by the Board of Education on the ground it did not include an immediate wage boost.

The union leadership vote Thursday night — to turn down the board's latest offer and strike — came in defiance of a State Supreme Court order against a strike on the grounds such action would be illegal.

At a membership meeting late Friday, 8,000 teachers gave overwhelming voice approval for rejection of the board's offer.

The board said it could not give any pay boost to the teachers this year, but promised at least a $12-million increase next year under a two-year pact.

The teachers demand a $9-million immediate pay boost and $20 million more next year under a two-year agreement.

The present teacher pay scale starts at $5,300 a year for beginners and rises to $9,170 after 13 years of service. Teachers also are eligible for three differentials totaling $1,275 a year for advanced training, making a top salary of $10,445.

Israel Draft U.S. Citizen?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department is seeking detailed information on the case of naturalized citizen Samuel Cohen who has been called for Israeli military service. It will use the information in determining whether anything can be done about Cohen's case.

A department spokesman said Friday the United States does not recognize dual citizenship and that once a foreigner is naturalized as an American he is considered to have American citizenship only.

Israel, on the other hand, holds that an Israeli retains his citizenship until he formally renounces it. All Israeli citizens are subject to military service.

Cohen, 27, left Israel when he was about 17, according to the State Department's information, and was naturalized as an American citizen four years ago. On Aug. 1 this year he returned to Israel for a visit.

The State Department assumes, the spokesman said, that he went in on an American passport. But since he is considered an Israeli he cannot leave that country except on an Israeli passport.

Grandma Sits-In To Protest Action

OYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Washington Gov. Albert Rosellini ate breakfast on the Capitol steps with Grandma Peggie Goodman Friday as her wheelchair sit-in for more welfare money went into its third day and attracted help.

The governor stopped for coffee and rolls before leaving for a weekend hunting trip.

"I hope you shoot some legislators and bring me one of them over your shoulder," said the 59-year-old Irish grandmother from Seattle.

She's conducting the wheelchair vigil at the Capitol trying to persuade Rosellini to call a special legislative session to restore 12 per cent trimmed from welfare benefits in the past three years.

She was joined Friday by Gary Douglas, 33, of Everett, Wash., partly paralyzed and also in a wheelchair.

The governor told Mrs. Goodman nothing further could be accomplished by continuing the sit-in, but said she had a right to do so if she wished. He reiterated he couldn't call a special session at this time.

Engineering Bids Opened

Bids on construction of utilities to serve the new addition to the SUI Engineering Building were opened Friday afternoon.

Firms which bid on the electrical work, and their quotations, were the E. H. Pederson Co., Omaha, Neb., $25,365; O'Brien Electrical Contractors, Iowa City, $27,339; and Fandel Electric Co., Cedar Rapids, $29,489.

Bids on steam line work were entered by Ryan Plumbing and Heating Co., Davenport, $14,872 and the Natkin Co., Omaha, $21,880.

The electrical work involves external and internal construction of high voltage services, transformer work, metering, switching and fusing.

The Departments of Electrical Engineering and Engineering Drawing will be housed in the addition, which is scheduled for occupancy in February, 1964.

3,000 Undergrad Students Expected To Start At SUI

An estimated 3,000 new undergraduate students are expected to enroll at SUI this fall.

Orientation Week for freshmen and other students new to the University campus will begin Sunday, Sept. 15 and continue through Friday, Sept. 20. Among the activities planned to acquaint the students with campus life are a Parent's Open House, Sunday (Sept. 15); a reception at the home of President and Mrs. Virgil M. Hancher, Monday and Tuesday (Sept. 16 and 17) and an Activities Open House and Recreational Activities Night, Wednesday (Sept. 18). Classes begin Thursday (Sept. 19).

The program for Orientation Week is planned each year by members of the Orientation Committee, composed of approximately 200 upperclassmen.

Judge Directs Gov. Wallace In New Order

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — A federal judge Friday directed Gov. George Wallace to explain why he should not be restrained from barring pupils from Alabama schools facing integration.

The order was issued by U.S. Dist. Judge Seymour H. Lynne on a motion by attorneys for two Negro boys scheduled to attend one of the three Birmingham schools ordered desegregated.

But the judge's order dealt only with Birmingham schools.

A similar suit affecting Huntsville was filed during the day.

A hearing on the Birmingham case was set for next Thursday by Lynne.

Volume Nears Mark—

Stock Market Boils In Trades

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market boiled Friday on the greatest volume since the hectic Memorial Day week of 1962. Prices declined somewhat from the all-time peak reached Thursday.

Profit taking, switching and reinvestment churned the market into confusing cross-currents as turnover soared to 7.2 million shares from 5.73 million Thursday. It was the biggest volume since May 31, 1962 when 10.71 million shares were traded in a great rebound from the "Black Monday" crash.

The market was higher at the start as steels, buoyed by encouraging reports, paced a ragged advance by market wheelhorses — but railroads were laggard. Analysts said market theory called for the rails to "confirm" the record highs of the industrials. Rails failed to oblige and the overall gain lacked conviction in the minds of many.

Some kind of "consolidation" — irregularity or retreat — was anticipated anyway by most Wall Street experts in view of the great proportions of the previous advance; so the day's small decline was by no means discouraging in the Street.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which made history Thursday by surging to an all-time record, underwent a moderate decline of 2.61, closing at 735.57, still above the previous peak of December 1961.

In a broad market of 1,332 issues traded, 679 declined and 400 advanced. New highs for the year totaled 94 and new lows five.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell 1/2 to 279.9, with industrials down 1.4, rails down 1.4 and utilities down .3.

Like the Associated Press average, Standard & Poor's 500-stock index also slid from a historic peak, losing .16 at 72.84.

Eight of the 15 most active stocks declined and 7 advanced — the nearly-even split reflecting the conflicting type of market it was.

The market leader was Sperry Rand, off 1/8 at 15 1/2 on tremendous volume of 616,500 shares. A single block of 396,000 shares, said by the New York Stock Exchange to be the largest regular transaction in history, helped build the total.

The word was current that the big block of Sperry represented a "clean-up" of large holdings in that stock by Martin-Marietta, variously estimated to have had between 700,000 and a million shares of Sperry. Confirmation of this report was not available from Martin-Marietta.

An irregularly lower trend also prevailed on the American Stock Exchange where volume was 1.66 million shares compared with 1.54 million Thursday.

Other news: The Dow Jones industrial average, which made history Thursday by surging to an all-time record, underwent a moderate decline of 2.61, closing at 735.57, still above the previous peak of December 1961.

The Iowa Law O Least Benefit

ANYBODY WHO ACCUSES THE Iowa weather of being unpredictable just isn't an Iowan.

But the Iowa weather, like other things Iowan, is contrary. The contrariness, in fact, fits into a pattern which can enable anyone to make reasonably accurate predictions about weather conditions.

The theory has been popular with the Iowa farmer for quite some time. He's always known that the skies will be blue and peaceful when he mows down a hay crop — and that as the hay is curing, a midwestern monsoon will swoop down to ruin the crop.

He's learned to expect a good hail storm when his corn and soy beans are looking their best.

And he's shared with the city dweller the experience of washing his car two hours before a rain.

It takes little imagination to extend this forecasting school of hard knocks. Anyone with a knowledge of The Iowa Law, for instance, could have predicted the rains and cold spell that greeted the opening of the Iowa State Fair — it happens every year.

Application of the theory to the SUI campus is a little more specialized, but just as accurate. Right now, for example, we're experiencing those cool, fall-like days traditional to the weeks before registration.

The reason? Those are the days most SUIowans want to spend in the sun, on the beach — before they return to the campus for the fall grind.

For the first day of classes, you can expect another change in the weather. We should get at least two weeks of blistering, humid heat — the kind that makes an SUI class room a miserable place.

After that, you can expect reasonably pleasant weather — during the weekdays. But on most Saturdays of home football games, you know darned well it'll be rainy and cool.

That's The Law. —Dean Mills

Fat... and Happy

FAT PEOPLE have suffered so long under the tyranny of fashion arbiters, diet faddists and the medical profession that it's high time they had a champion.

Dr. Dailey says there is no scientific evidence that a fatty who goes on a diet and thins down has greater prospects for a long and healthy life than if he had remained tubby.

Arise, roly-polies, and demand justice from society. Why should fashion models all look like fugitives from Buchenwald? Where is the "stylish stout" of yesteryear?

When Frost met Khrushchev—

'He's our enemy and a great man'

By RALPH MCGILL

This is to be a piece drawn from a superb article about the autumn meeting in 1962 between the late Robert Frost and Nikita Khrushchev at Gagra, on the Black Sea.

Before getting into it, it is well to note that Mr. Kennedy has been at his political best. He seems almost relieved that Mao-Tse-tung has made official the existence of two Communist blocs.

"Politicians are all alike," he said. "They will promise you a bridge even if there is no river."

This may or may not have been directed at Mao. One of our problems these days is that we seem to strain to read meanings into acts, words, poems and novels that fit our preconceived concept of the Cold War.

In midsummer of 1962 Robert Frost, 83 years old, was asked by the President to accompany Secretary of Interior Udall to Russia as a cultural exchange.

That Frost had a triumph reading his poems was made known to us then. That he had a talk with the Soviet premier also was reported.

AT GAGRA, on the Black Sea, Frost was worse. His stomach hurt more and he could not eat. At last he agreed to have a doctor.

A half hour later Khrushchev's doctor arrived and, later, the premier himself. Reeve's description of the meeting is a classic.

BUT FROST WANTED to talk. He didn't talk down co-existence. He assumed the Soviet system is here to stay for at least a while.

It must have been a magnificent picture — the two old men, both eminent in their fields, and the American, almost 90 and soon to be dead, arguing for nobility in international rivalries.

HE REPEATED HIS abhorrence of the idea that bickering over Berlin, on what he considered basically an irrelevant issue, might provoke a huge war between the two giants.

Frost was disappointed that much of the U.S. press chose to sensationalize his public comments. He used the word "ruffian" to give an impression of Mr. Khrushchev.

Frost wanted his country to ready ultimately to risk its own defense and be willing always to make gestures of magnanimity.

We do, as Frost believed, live more by power balance than by ideals and isms. Mao Tse-tung has made necessary a review of those balances.

—The subconscious Ian Fleming—

Malaprop teenager of the secret service

BY KEN SOBOL

One of the most puzzling of recent literary mysteries is the arrival of probably the poorest writer of his time to a position of the highest eminence among the reading public.

If we can believe his publisher — and there is no reason not to — his admirers are countless, and they include many otherwise intelligent people.

TO ANYONE who has dunked into the morass of Fleming's imagination for a few hours, it is obvious that his appeal does not derive from any source in the rational makeup of a reader.

AT play he is even less creditable. I haven't the space to document the assertion, but there is no doubt in my mind that he is the original bad orgasm, as described by Norman Mailer.

WE LOVE JAMES BOND because he is the incarnation of the ludicrous gaffe, the mortifying faux pas, the awkward, 15-year-old foot-in-mouth misstep.

IN SHORT, only one man, James Bond, could possibly survive the innumerable indignities of his miscalculations call down on himself.

And that is why, in the last analysis, we need James Bond and he appeals so greatly to us. He relieves our follies for us.

—The Washington Post failed to realize that there was something funny about the beautiful Chinese spy inviting us to tea at her estate on a deserted road way over on the other end of the island.

WE SEE PERFECTLY in Bond's actions all the social mistakes of our adolescence, the urgent, death-defying pursuit of a beautiful girl only to discover after all the risks are taken and overcome that she is pinned to someone else, as happens to Bond in "Moonraker."

Or the swift, supple, quick-thinking snapping of the grip and crippling judo punches into the groins of our supposed captors only to learn later that we have mutilated several CIA operatives sent down from Washington to assist us, as in "Dr. No."

BUT there is one difference, of course, and here is where we find our subconscious need for James Bond. If we had gone to see the sexy spy, there is little doubt that the agents of Dr. No. would have succeeded in running us off the cliff, or that Blofeld ("On Her Majesty's Service") would have inextricably smothered us under the nearest avalanche, or that Le Chiffre ("Casino Royale") would have beaten us at cards at the Casino Royale, thus insuring the victory of communism or that Hugo Drax ("Moonraker") would have given that last wrench on our privates that would have reduced our effectiveness so greatly.

And that is why, in the last analysis, we need James Bond and he appeals so greatly to us. He relieves our follies for us. He commits them again and again, never learning from his experiences, always falling for the most obvious tricks. He is, as always,

Job Training Bill Passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate passage Friday sent to the House President Kennedy's plan to expand the job training program for unemployed youths and to add new literacy courses, mainly for older jobless workers.

Approval came on a 41-26 vote after defeat of Republican efforts to slash the cost from $200 million to $60 million and to write in several limitations. The House Labor Committee has held hearings on the proposal but has not yet acted.

The bill would remedy some of the deficiencies which Kennedy told Congress in June had turned up in the Manpower Act passed last year for training unemployed workers and for upgrading skills of those with jobs.

Half the $200 million would be spent for the expanded youth program and half for the literacy training — a total of $100 million for the current fiscal year which began July 1 and $100 million for the next fiscal year.

Col. Booker Assumes Post Here

Col. Brooks W. Booker has assumed his post as professor of air science after serving four years as chief of war planning for the Air Force in Washington.

He replaces Col. Michael Mikulak, who retired in June.

COL. BROOKS BOOKER New Air Professor

Col. Booker returned this week from Maxwell Air Force Base, Ala., where he underwent intensive training for his first AFROTC post.

As chief of war planning in the Pentagon, the officer was responsible for the preparation of the national strategic target list. He briefed congressional committees, the President's board of advisers, joint chiefs of staff and the secretary of defense on his planning.

During his 23-year Air Force career, Col. Booker has served at headquarters Pacific Command in Hawaii; at Langley AFB, Va., as chief of operations, Tactical Air Command. He was also a flight instructor during World War II.

Col. Booker has a B.S. from Sacramento (Calif.) State College and an M.A. from George Washington University.

He and his wife, Edna, live with their three children at 311 Woolf Ave. His son, Brooks Jr., will be a freshman at SUI this fall. The Booker's have two daughters, Carolyn, 15, and Sandra, 13.

French Research Clinician To Speak Here Next Week

Dr. Pierre J. Pichot, associate professor of psychiatry at the University of Paris, will give two lectures under the sponsorship of the Department of Psychiatry next week.

Pichot will speak in the large classroom at the Psychopathic Hospital on the "Aspects of Contemporary French Psychiatry" at 4 p.m. Tuesday. He will lecture on "The Application of Psychological Test Methods in Psychiatry" at 4 p.m. Thursday in the hospital.

Pichot has made notable research contributions to clinical psychiatry, clinical psychopharmacology and the application of psychological test methods in psychiatry.

Three Rap Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., and two other members of the Senate Armed Services committee announced Friday they will vote against ratification of the treaty to ban all except underground nuclear tests.

Russell told reporters that "after long and careful study, I find that I can not conscientiously support this treaty."

Earlier, Sens. John Stennis, D-Miss., and Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., declared their opposition to the pact.

India Politics; Jet Probe; Fire Kills 250

NEW DELHI (AP) — Opponents of Prime Minister Nehru charge that India is worse off economically now than before it gained independence from British rule 16 years ago.

"There is more starvation, more poverty and more frustration now," Conservative N. G. Ranga told Parliament in New Delhi Friday.

The government is expected to reply next Friday.

ZURICH, Switzerland (AP) — Swiss experts have found that the Caravelle jet which crashed Wednesday with a loss of 80 lives scattered parts on the runway during take-off from Zurich's airport.

The experts said parts of a wheel rim, an earth connection cable, bits of tire and traces of hydraulic oil were found. A spokesman for Swissair said the investigation team doesn't know why the parts broke off.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP) — Parina State officials said Friday they feared at least 250 persons have perished in wind-whipped forest fires sweeping the state.

Col. Italo Cortes, coordinating the fire fighting operation, reported by telephone from Curitiba, the state capital, that 49 bodies had been recovered from the burned area.

Cortes said the fire was brought under control around Monte Alegre, a city of about 30,000 persons which was in the fire path. But he said the town, which houses Brazil's most important paper mills, still was in danger.

Nervy Bandit Takes Sackful From Bank

OMAHA (AP) — A nervy, unexcited bandit robbed the South Omaha Bank of a sackful of money Friday, then escaped into the street with only Teller Rosemary Klitz aware that a holdup had been staged.

The man walked up to Miss Klitz' window and handed her a note demanding money. Then he pulled a paper bag from his pocket and pushed it across the counter.

Miss Klitz, under orders not to jeopardize her safety by refusing to obey orders of a bandit, said she filled the sack with $10 and $20 bills. There was no guard on duty in the lobby.

Bank president Joseph Ringland said the loss could not immediately be determined, then added that it would not be in excess of $10,000.

At no time did the bandit show a gun, although he held a hand in a pocket as if to indicate he had a weapon and would use it if need be.

After Miss Klitz handed the bag of money to the man, he turned and swiftly walked out the door as several other bank employees and a few customers went about their business unaware of the robbery.

When the bandit had disappeared Miss Klitz hastened to the office of the bank auditor from where police were called.

"It seemed like they the police were here before the phone was hung up," said Ringland.

The bandit was described as a 55 to 60 year old man with blood-shot eyes, about 5 feet, 6 inches tall and weighing 175 pounds. He wore a common blue suit and a white shirt.

Campaign Opens Oct. 1

Kickoff date for the annual Community Givers campaign this fall will be October 1. The combined fund-raising drive in Iowa City, Coralville and University Heights will continue through October 17.

Co-chairmen for the drive are Lawrence T. Wade and Robert D. Marsden. They will be assisted by 500 other volunteer workers from the three communities.

Last year's campaign was held over a one-month period beginning September 18.

Goal of the drive will be the raising of $93,565 to meet the 1964 budget recently adopted by the directors of the local Community Givers organization.

Seventeen health, welfare and recreational agencies which serve the local community will share in the proceeds of the campaign. The agencies do not make individual solicitations for funds in the areas covered by Community Givers — Iowa City, Coralville and University Heights.

The new budget is down two per cent from last year's total of $95,500. That campaign netted $91,991, or 96.3 per cent of the goal. The allotments to the participating agencies are being paid in full, however, since the payment of pledges has been more complete than anticipated.

Community Givers directors were able to increase the allotment and at the same time decrease the amount to be raised because of a substantial drop in administrative expenses in the 1964 budget.

Principal reason for the decrease in costs is the decision not to use the services of professional fund-raising help this year. John Barrow & Associates of Galesburg, Ill., has assisted the last two years. The drive will begin October 1 with campaigns in the Iowa City and Coralville business divisions and in the government division. These campaigns will conclude October 9.

Units in the government division are the University of Iowa; the Veterans Administration hospital; other state and federal agencies; the public schools and county and city employees.

Residential Solicitations The solicitations in the Iowa City, Coralville and University Heights residential districts will begin October 9 and conclude with the end of the overall campaign October 17.

Individuals will be asked to contribute at their places of employment whenever possible. Purpose of the residential campaigns will be to contact those who have not been seen during the first half of the drive.

Business firms and their employees will be contacted at the same time by one volunteer worker. In previous years the solicitation of firms was done on a separate basis.

The 17 participating agencies are American Home-Finding Association, American Hearing Society, American Red Cross, Arthritis and Rheumatism Foundation, Boy Scouts of America, Council on Social Work Education, Girl Scouts of America, Iowa Children's Home Society, Iowa City Visiting Nurse Association, Iowa Association for Mental Health, Johnson County Association for Retarded Children, Salvation Army, School Children's Aid, Travelers Aid, United Cerebral Palsy Center, United Service Organization, Inc., and the Senior Citizens Service of Iowa City.

Fraternity Sweeps

The SUI chapter of Delta Upsilon fraternity has won the sweepstakes trophy at the International Convention held last week at San Jose, Calif.

The award is given to the outstanding Delta Upsilon chapter each year. The winner is determined by a rating system based on chapter administration, finances, improvement, organization, membership and chapter relations.

This is the first time the local chapter has won the traveling trophy. The 1962 winner was the Denison (O.) University chapter.

Helicopters Remove 27 Men On Threatened Sea Towers

QUONSET POINT, R.I. (AP) — A covey of Navy helicopters Friday lifted 27 men from two Texas Towers shaken by gales and heavy seas off Cape Cod.

The radar-equipped steel structures, once part of the Air Defense Command's early warning system, have been abandoned and are being dismantled.

They are similar to one which collapsed off the New Jersey coast in January 1961 with a loss of 28 lives.

The evacuated men were landed safely at the Quonset Point Naval Air Station. Three copters brought 15 men from Tower II, 110 miles southeast of Cape Cod, and two others plucked 12 men from Tower III, 50 miles due east of the outer cape.

James L. Deyampert, one of the men taken off Tower III and a welder, told newsmen he hoped to go back to work soon.

Deyampert, a native of Florida, didn't let one of the Atlantic's northeast gales bother him.

He said the tower shook "a little bit, but not much."

The evacuation, accomplished by pilots of Anti-Submarine Warfare Squadron 9 at Quonset, ended 24 hours concern over the safety of the dismantling crews.

With 40-mile winds shaking their steel pedestal, four workmen aboard Tower II asked Thursday to be brought ashore because of the approaching storm.

With the cross-patterning, and eye-coordination exercises, Mrs. Ward said she noticed improvement within two weeks.

Friends Help Build Bridge Over Part Of Boy's Brain

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The neighbors are helping to build a bridge over the damaged part of little Johnny Ward's brain.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Ward and Johnny, 2½, moved from Philadelphia, Pa., to Delmar, an Albany suburb, last January.

Yet, for six weeks now, members of eight families have dropped in four times a day to speed Johnny's rehabilitation.

Johnny was stricken two years ago with encephalitis, which damaged the brain cells.

"He didn't recognize me," said his mother. "He showed no interest in his toys. He could walk, but he fell down all the time."

A Philadelphia neurosurgeon finally halted the brain deterioration, she said, but it was too late to do anything about the brain cells already destroyed.

After Ward was transferred here as a company's traveling representative, the family — the Ward's have two other children — continued to take Johnny to Philadelphia. There, Dr. Eugene Spitz recommended treatment at the Philadelphia Rehabilitation Center for brain-damaged children.

Johnny was guided to a program called "cross-patterning." This means externally imposing the patterns of activity that would have been governed by the damaged brain levels.

Johnny was to be taken back to the point in his development where brain damage occurred — to the creeping stage, his mother explained. By making his arms, legs and head move in the creeping pattern, dormant brain cells would come into use in place of the damaged cells, she said.

"A sort of bridge would be built over the damaged part," Mrs. Ward said, "and then the next level of development would be taken over by undamaged cells."

Ward travels much of the time, and Mrs. Ward is expecting another child in December.

"We couldn't do it ourselves," she said.

"Here we were in a new neighborhood, and I hadn't said much about Johnny. I had to do something though, so I invited some of the women in the neighborhood for coffee. And then I just explained the whole problem."

Members of eight families — parents, teen-age sons and daughters — have responded.

Clan Gathers To Honor Joe

HYANNIS PORT, Mass. (AP) — The Kennedy clan gathered Friday night to pay tribute to their chief, Joseph P. Kennedy, former ambassador to Great Britain who celebrated his 75th birthday Friday.

All the Kennedy children were here and all the in-laws except one. Missing was actor Peter Lawford.

There was no formal party because the head of the clan still is ailing from the stroke he suffered December 1961.

A group of Iowa gridders work on one station of the Winning Edge conditioning program in Friday's morning practice as Coach Jerry Burns, left, looks on. Other members of the squad were divided among the other nine stations of the drill. In Friday's practices, group work stressed pass defense and tackling with light contact team drills on the passing game and the running of offensive plays against the dummies. Larry Hoffman, 232-pound sophomore tackle from East St. Louis, Ill., has left the squad cutting the number to 74. A closed scrimmage at 3 p.m. today will conclude the Hawks' first week of practice, as they prepare for the opener with Washington State Sept. 28.

Senators Beat Indians in 100,000th Tilt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Baseball history was made here Friday night, but nobody paid much attention to it.

Major league baseball passed the 100,000-game mark as the Cleveland Indians sought revenge for a defeat in the first game 92 years ago.

The Indians lost that one 2-0 to Fort Wayne, Ind., before a crowd of 200.

The Indians met with a similar fate 99,999 games later, dropping a 7-2 decision to the last-place Washington Senators.

HOUSTON (AP) — The Chicago Cubs survived several jams and beat the Houston Colts, 3-0, Friday night, with reliever Lindy McDaniel staving off the final threat.

Cub starter Glen Hobbie was touched for nine hits, gave up three walks and hit a batter but lasted until one out in the last of the ninth, then McDaniel came on with two on and cut down the Colts.

U.S. Wins Seventh Straight Americas Cup Golf Meet

DES MOINES (AP) — The United States, its amateur golf supremacy in the hemisphere threatened on opening day, turned loose a barrage of blistering shots Friday that brought it a seventh straight victory in the Americas Cup competition.

Ahead by only 1½ points after Thursday's opening matches with the best amateurs from Canada and Mexico, the Yanks had extended their lead to 4½ points in Friday morning's sixsome play.

At the end of the two-day affair, the United States had 26½ points, Canada 19½ and Mexico 8.

All the matches were played over the 6,896-yard layout of the par 36-72 Wakonda Club course.

The Cup stayed with the Yanks when Labron Harris Jr. of Enid, Okla., the defending U.S. champion, picked up a point by defeating Juan Estrada, the reigning Mexican titleholder, although both lost to Nick Weslock, Canada's best, in the afternoon singles.

Arnold Palmer is shown attempting to work the soreness out of his right shoulder before starting a practice round at the Firestone Country Club in Akron Friday. There was concern that the puzzling ailment the last ten days would pose a threat to his competing in the World Series of Golf starting today, or even his career. Palmer, however, told newsmen the shoulder feels better today than at any time since the soreness occurred.

15,000 To See Pro Football Exhibition Tilt

CEDAR RAPIDS — The biggest crowd ever to watch a football game in Kingston Stadium here is expected at 8 p.m. tonight when the World Champion Green Bay Packers collide with the Washington Redskins in the final pre-season game for both clubs.

The Redskins, who lost to the Packers by only one touchdown last year, will be gunning for their first exhibition victory against Coach Vince Lombardi's club.

The Packers come into the game with four straight pre-season victories after their upset loss to the College All-Stars.

Officials of the sponsoring West Side Civic Club said Friday that extra bleachers will be set up if the entire 15,000-seat stadium is sold out. Ticket sales have already exceeded the total for the three previous pro games sponsored by the club.

Palmer Says He'll Compete Despite Ailing Shoulder

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Arnold Palmer, moving toward the climax of a troubled year in which he's won nothing but money, gives his ailing shoulder the supreme test Saturday against Jack Nicklaus, Julius Boros and Bob Charles in the opening round of a two-day showdown for golf's biggest purse.

The competition is the second annual World Series of Golf, a $75,000 television spectacular devised to satisfy the most insatiable armchair viewer's appetite, while incidentally rewarding the winner with a check for $50,000.

Eighteen holes of medal play are scheduled Saturday and Sunday. The last six holes each day will be televised nationally by the National Broadcasting Co., from 2:35 p.m. (CST).

The golfers, playing in a four-some, will tee off each day promptly at 11 a.m. (CST). If they reach the 13th, where the television coverage begins, too early they will wait until air time to continue.

Nicklaus, then the U.S. Open champion, won the inaugural exhibition last year over Palmer and Gary Player with a 36-hole total of 135-five shots under par for two trips around the 7,165-yard, par 35-35-70 Firestone Country Club course. Palmer blew up after firing a course-record 65 on opening day.

The money to be won, including $15,000 for second place and $5,000 for third and fourth, is unofficial and will not be added to the PGA earnings these four capitalists, led by Palmer's record $101,555, have counted up in 1963.

THE PROFESSIONAL Golfers' Association, as well as the players, consider it an exhibition — no more no less. But the case of Palmer and his physical troubles have lifted it above that.

A bursitis condition that causes a stabbing pain below the back of his right shoulder has hampered the game's golden boy for more than a week. It became serious enough Thursday to raise the question that he might withdraw. Although he laughed off speculation it may have an over-all effect on his pro career, he is worried.

"YOU'RE always worried when something hurts," Palmer said. "I'm worried because I can't swing properly, it did seem to loosen up some today. I'm flying my plane home tonight and probably will get the shoulder worked on. But I'll play in any case."

Palmer, who incidentally will be 34 next Tuesday, lives in Latrobe, Pa., about a 30-minute plane ride from here.

Palmer got into the series this year because there was a double winner in the world's four major championships that determined the line-up, and, unlike last year, provision was made to add a fourth player.

NICKLAUS, the 23-year-old Columbus, Ohio, strong boy and obvious heir to Palmer as the king of golf, won both the Masters and the U.S. Open in a playoff with Palmer and Jack Cupit. Charles, a 27-year-old left-hander from New Zealand, won the British Open in a playoff with California's Phil Rodgers.

Palmer, Cupit and Rodgers were matched in an 18-hole playoff here Aug. 20, preceding the American Golf Classic, and Palmer shot a 76. Cupit a 74 and Rodgers a 76.

This is the first year Palmer has failed to win at least one of the major championships since 1959. Although he has won a bundle of money and leads all PGA players with six tournament victories, it has been — for him — an off year.

Pepitone's Single in 9th Defeats Tigers, 2-1

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Pepitone's line single in the last of the ninth inning brought the New York Yankees a 2-1 victory over Detroit Friday night and broke up a brilliant pitching duel between White Ford and Hank Aguirre.

Ford went all the way for the victory, his 21st of the season, as the Yankees continued an amazing string of one-run ball games.

They now have played seven in a row, winning five.

Hector Lopez got the winning rally started with a one-out single, moved to second on a single by Elston Howard and raced home on Pepitone's shot down the first base line.

Ford, 21-7, and Aguirre, 14-12, allowed only six hits each.

The Tigers played without Al Kaline, locked in a battle with Boston's Carl Yastrzemski for the league batting title. Kaline had an upset stomach.

CHICAGO (AP) — Ninth inning homers by Vic Power and Bob Allison, giving Minnesota 2-0 for the year, brought the Twins a 9-8 victory over Chicago Friday night and second place in the American League by one-half game over the White Sox.

The top-seeded McKinley and fourth-seeded Osuna clash in one of the men's semifinal matches today. A pair of unseeded gorm-wreckers, Ronnie Barnes of Brazil and Frank Froehling III of Coral Gables, Fla., meet in the other.

They now have played seven in a row, winning five.

Hector Lopez got the winning rally started with a one-out single, moved to second on a single by Elston Howard and raced home on Pepitone's shot down the first base line.

Hawkeyes To Host Skywriters

The Big Ten Skywriters, 27 strong, will look over Hawkeye football prospects Monday on the third stop of their week's tour.

Sponsored by the conference for the tenth year, the tour includes writers from eight states, with two from New York on the roster.

The men will arrive here at 4 p.m., attend practice, interview Head Coach Jerry Burns, have dinner, and take off for Champaign, Ill., at 7:45 p.m.

Pittsburgh Halts Cards' Winning Streak at Nine

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bob Veale fired a six-hitter as Pittsburgh halted St. Louis' nine-game winning streak, 5-0, Friday night in the second game of a two-night doubleheader. The Cardinals won the first game 5-1 behind the five-hit pitching of Bob Gibson.

The split left the second-place Cardinals five games behind the National League leading Los Angeles Dodgers, pending the outcome of the Dodgers' game with San Francisco.

It also left them without their ace shortstop, Dick Groat, for several days.

Groat, the National League's leading batter with a .328 average, suffered a contusion of the lower left chest wall when hit by a Don Cardwell pitch in the first inning of the opener.

AFL Season Opens Today

By The Associated Press

The defending American Football League champion Kansas City Chiefs, operating from a new address, and the runner-up Houston Oilers both swing into action tonight to kick off the fourth season for the aspiring AFL.

The Chiefs, who left Dallas after defeat at the gate by the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League, travel to Denver to meet the Broncos, the Western Division runner-up last year.

Houston is home to the Oakland Raiders, a doormat last season, but hopefully on the road to improvement this campaign.

Kansas City whipped Denver, 30-16, in a pre-season exhibition, and has never lost to the Broncos in regular season play. However, the Rocky Mountain team has two good rookie backs in Charlie Mitchell and Billy Joe and won both its home exhibition games.

Houston, still steered by George Blanda and Billy Cannon, opens its drive for a fourth straight Eastern Division title against the Raiders.

The other four clubs in the league get under way Sunday, in the television games.

Buffalo goes to San Diego and the renamed New York Jets, with a new bankroll in their corner but very few players, open in Boston.

Braves Shut Out Philadelphia, 5-0

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Milwaukee right-hander Bob Shaw blanked Philadelphia on three hits Friday night as the Braves, powered by Hank Aaron's 37th homer, whipped the Phillies 5-0.

What happens if you don't cash in your Savings Bonds when they come due?

You pay $97.50 for a Series E Savings Bond and in 7 years and 9 months it grows to $50.

But what if you don't cash it in? Fact is it keeps right on growing. At the current interest rate, when it's 10 years old it will be worth $53.66. At 15 years its value will be $64.52. And at 17 years and 9 months, $72.50.

There's no trick at all to letting your E Bonds work overtime for you this way. You don't even have to remember to renew them. The Treasury Department does it automatically.

And while your growing Bonds are making you richer, they're helping keep America strong in a world where strength to stand up to the enemies of freedom is imperative.

Buy Bonds where you work or bank and see if you don't feel pretty good about it.

Important facts about U. S. Savings Bonds

- You get $4 for every $3 at maturity
- You can get your money anytime
- Your Bonds are replaced free if lost, stolen or destroyed
- You can buy them where you work on the Payroll Savings Plan
