Burn, Cougars, Burn

More than 2,500 students crowd around the Union footbridge and Iowa River Thursday night as a bonfire burns brightly, climaxing the first pep rally of the season. Iowa meets Washington State in its opening game of the season here Saturday afternoon.

Fingers of flame reached into the sky and floating sparks melted into twinkling stars as the Iowa Fight Song echoed across the watching river.

Backing away from the heat of the fire was the "biggest crowd" of students Coach Jerry Burns had seen at a Pep Rally in his ten years at SUI.

The blaze, termed "nice" by Iowa City firemen on the scene, signified "the heights the SUI football team can aspire to this season", according to master of ceremonies Frank Patton, A3, Wilmette, Ill.

And in all the excitement of the approaching first football game of the season Saturday, the clue to the identity of the unknown "Miss Pep" was omitted.

So here it is:
"Roses are red, vinegar's sour, Miss Pep and her burden, are sometimes called the girl of the hour."

Editor's note: (?)
During the 45 minute rally behind the Iowa Memorial Union, Yell Leaders and Pom Pom girls were introduced, team co-captains Paul Krause and Wally Hilgenberg pledged the best efforts of the team Saturday, and Coach Burns guaranteed a win.

In addition, Patton compared the approaching football season to that of 1956 when the team "brought home a bouquet of roses."

Today, cheering block practice will be held in Macbride Auditorium at 4:30 p.m., and Saturday — Iowa vs. Washington State!

Grace's Niece, Architect's Son To Wed in D.M.

DES MOINES (AP) — Comely Mary Lee Davis, 15-year-old niece of Princess Grace of Monaco, and the young man she loves plan a simple wedding ceremony, possibly Friday.

The love affair with the international flavor came to light Tuesday night when police picked up Mary Lee and John Paul Jones Jr., 19, children of wealthy Philadelphia parents.

The young couple, missing for a month, had been living here in an $85-a-month apartment.

Thursday Jones' father, an architect, helped his son and future daughter-in-law through the necessary red tape to get a license and be married. Among other things, they were to buy a wedding ring.

Because of Mary Lee's age she can not be married in Iowa without the court's permission. This was granted Wednesday by District Judge Tom Murrow.

Earlier Wednesday the young people had received parental permission to marry after the elder Jones and Eugene Conlan, Miss Davis' stepfather, flew to Des Moines.

Iowa law says that a girl under 16 years can not marry, even with parental consent, unless the court grants permission and then only if parenthood is in prospect.

The elder Jones said today "we were mad as hops when we found out" what the couple had done.

"Now that we have determined that this is no fly-by-night infatuation, that Mary Lee and John are really in love, we are all pretty happy about it," he added.

When the wedding will take place has not been announced, but presumably it will occur Friday.

Miss Davis, a Catholic, was Princess Grace's flower girl when she married Prince Rainier in 1956. Jones is an Episcopalian.

"Our thinking is that the wedding will be performed quietly," the father said. "Then, we hope, that will be it."

Jones said it was undecided whether the two mothers and other relatives would come for the wedding.

In Philadelphia, Mrs. Jones said she would not attend.

The young couple arrived here late last month, rented a three-room apartment and got jobs — she is a waitress and he as an encyclopedia salesman.

Mary Lee and John were attending private high schools when they met about a year ago. They chose Des Moines to run away to because his brother had said it was a nice place.

"Actually my chief concern this last month has been for the girl," the senior Jones said. "Would he take care of her properly?"
"I'm proud that he's shown his feet are very much on deck."

Correction

A headline in Thursday morning's Daily Iowan incorrectly stated that Arthur Bonfield, assistant professor of law, criticized the civil rights bill now before Congress. Prof. Bonfield is in fact very much in favor of the bill. The Daily Iowan regrets the error.

McNamara On The Scene

The open door of a U.S. Marine Corps helicopter provided U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara a clear view of South Viet Nam terrain as he left Tam Ky today. The copter was carrying him to the command post of an operation that got underway today in the foothills of Tam Ky, 250 miles north of Saigon, against Communist guerrillas.

Marine Gunner Sgt. Franklin D. Riley, Victor, W. Va., sits beside McNamara with an arm draped over the machine gun mounted in the door. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, Chief of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, accompanied McNamara on a 1,000-mile inspection tour through South Viet Nam today.

Defense Head Is Pleased

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara staged a dawn-to-dusk tour of U.S.-Vietnamese military positions in northern coastal sectors Thursday.

Aides said McNamara, chief of President Kennedy's war survey team, was pleased with what he saw and heard on a swing from Nha Trang, 200 miles northeast of Saigon, to the ancient capital of Hue, 300 miles farther north.

Arthur Sylvester, assistant secretary of defense, told newsmen that U.S. and Vietnamese officers in the field advised McNamara the Buddhist crisis has had no effect on the scale of military operations or the morale of Vietnamese troops.

One of the main reasons for McNamara's visit is to determine whether the political-religious differences that have torn this nation's main cities in the last four months have hurt — or are liable to hurt — the war effort against Communist guerrillas.

Sylvester said reports received by McNamara indicated the impact of demonstrations against the government of President Ngo Dinh Diem was markedly different in the countryside from that in the cities.

He said American military advisers and Vietnamese military officers who reported to McNamara were unanimous in this opinion. He also said the flow of intelligence from villagers has remained normal.

U.S. planes and helicopters took McNamara, Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and their aides to four key regions in the first of several field trips on which McNamara proposes "to look under every bush and rock" to determine how the war is going.

McNamara and Taylor talked with American and Vietnamese officers, with a Communist Viet Cong prisoner and with several men who deserted guerrilla ranks to join the government forces.

McNamara showed special interest in the conical-hatted prisoner, captured Wednesday after Marine helicopters lifted 500 infantrymen and rangers into the foothills near Tam Ky.

Through an interpreter, McNamara asked: "Why did you join the Communists?"
"I had no choice," the prisoner said.

Dominicans Oust Their President

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — A right-wing, anti-Communist junta installed a three-man provisional civilian government Thursday to replace President Juan D. Bosch, overthrown in a bloodless coup Wednesday.

It jailed 31 persons suspected of being Communists and kept up a hunt for more.

Bosch, a prisoner in his own guarded palace, was visited by his wife, Carmen, who flew in from Puerto Rico accompanied by two leading Puerto Rican officials.

The provisional government apparently will determine the fate of Bosch, who was accused by the military chiefs of being soft on communism and bringing the country to a state of chaos.

The three taking over control of the Dominican government are Dr. Ramon Tapia Espinal, Emilio de los Santos and Manuel Tavares Espallant.

What would be done with Bosch, 54, a silver-haired, liberal intellectual, was uncertain, but it was believed he would be sent into exile in Puerto Rico.

The United States, upset by his downfall, "suspended" diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic and cut off economic aid which has been running $50 million a year.

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu duelled at long range Thursday about her description of U.S. junior officers in Saigon for the anti-Communist war as irresponsible "little soldiers of fortune."

Lodge charged the remark was cruel and insulting.

It was leveled by South Viet Nam's chic, vitriol-tongued first lady at a Rome news conference Sunday against subordinate officers in the U. S. military mission.

In his first public political statement directed against a member of President Ngo Dinh Diem's official family since he arrived in Saigon Aug. 22 at the height of the Buddhist crisis, Lodge said:

"It is incomprehensible to me how anyone can speak so cruelly. It is a shocking statement. These junior officers are risking their lives every day. Some of them have been killed side by side with their Vietnamese comrades."

Still in Rome, Mrs. Nhu stuck by her guns.

The sister-in-law and official hostess of Diem brushed aside Lodge's criticism and declared there were adventurers and saboteurs within the officers' ranks, opposing Washington policy.

"South Viet Nam, with a population of only 14 million people and a tight control due to war, cannot always prevent infiltration and sabotage in the ranks of its officials," Mrs. Nhu told Rome newsmen.

"It is normal that the United States, with a population of hundreds of millions (sic) and maybe a looser control, can find certain adventurers and saboteurs among their junior officials who do not hesitate to betray the official policy of their government."

The mission's officers are among 14,000 U.S. servicemen backing Vietnamese government troops in the war against Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

Friday, Ngo Dinh Nhu is becoming a national assembly deputy, joining his outspoken wife as a legislator and widening the power he holds as the adviser-brother of Diem.

South Vietnamese voters will elect a new 123-member assembly and the controversial intelligence chief, 52, is among 43 candidates who have no opposition. Many Vietnamese believe that, once in, he will be named president of the assembly.

Mrs. Nhu also is unopposed.

Britain Favors NATO Fleet

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Britain made a bid Thursday to join the planning for a NATO nuclear fleet but encountered U.S. resistance on one of London's terms.

Diplomatic sources listed the bid as one of the main results of a wide-ranging discussion between Secretary of State Dean Rusk and British Foreign Secretary Lord Home.

The two meet with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko Saturday.

Also during the Thursday session, it was authoritatively reported that:

1. RUSK TOLD HOME that the Soviet Union has shown an interest in buying corn as well as wheat. The Russian approaches about a possible purchase have been to private U.S. traders but not to the U.S. government.

2. RUSK AND HOME agreed that any NATO-Warsaw bloc nonaggression pact — which they expect Gromyko to propose Saturday — should include a guarantee of freedom of West Berlin.

Both sides agreed that President Kennedy's plan for a sea-borne Polaris missile force to be operated by interested NATO members was a prime topic. British Prime Minister Macmillan originally was sympathetic to the idea when he and Kennedy met in Nassau last December.

Blaik, Royall Meet with Council; Police Have Lead in Bombing

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — City councilmen scheduled a special closed meeting today with the two-man presidential fact-finding team as Birmingham police announced they had "something to work on" in investigation of the city's latest bombing.

The meeting will be held with former Army Secretary Kennedy C. Royall and former West Point coach Earl H. Blaik who were sent here by President Kennedy to seek racial harmony.

The meeting will mark the third straight day Blaik and Royall have conferred with Birmingham white and Negro civic business leaders.

Meanwhile, Birmingham Detective Lt. Maurice House, investigating the decoy-type bombing which rocked southside Birmingham on Wednesday morning, disclosed that evidence found at the scene "gives us something to work on."

Police said two explosions occurred Wednesday morning, and the first, a light blast, apparently was designed to lure Negro residents and police out onto the street, where they would have been caught by a second blast from a shrapnel bomb.

The shrapnel bomb, which went off 14 minutes after the first explosion, hurled nails and pieces of metal against houses and through windows.

No one was hurt, however, as the residents did not rush out onto the street as in previous bombings, and policemen were searching nearby when the blast went off.

The bombing occurred over a week after a bombing at the Sixteenth Street Baptist church killed four Negro children.

Dog-gone!

KEOKUK (AP) — Authorities in southeast Iowa Thursday sought a couple in a Wisconsin car which also contained 26 puppies.

Officers said the couple, identifying themselves as Mr. and Mrs. E. M. O'Neil of Middleton, Wis., used checks Wednesday to purchase the pups from two pet shops here at a total cost of $2,300.

But Thursday, authorities said they learned the checks had been stolen from a pet shop at Middleton.

Students at Yale Buck Authorities, Reinstate Wallace

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Two Yale student organizations overrode university and city officials Thursday and invited Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama to speak on the campus.

The move came only a week after a previous student invitation to the segregationist governor was withdrawn under pressure.

Acting University President Kingman Brewster Jr. and New Haven Mayor Richard C. Lee said they still did not like the idea of Wallace's coming but would not stand in the way if the Governor accepts the new invitation.

Wallace could not be reached immediately for comment.

The invitation came from the World Community Association of Yale Law School and the Yale Law Forum. They asked Wallace to speak some time in mid-November.

Thursday's invitation was signed by Arnold Villamil and James R. Lowe Jr., third-year law students. Villamil is co-chairman of the WCA, whose membership is equally divided between foreign and American students, and Lowe, chairman of the Forum, the law school's largest student organization.

They issued a statement, which said in part:

"The invitation has been extended because a substantial number of students at the law school have expressed the view that Gov. Wallace, as a leading figure in one of the major controversies of our times, should be heard here."

Hurricane Edith's Progress Uncertain

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Edith barreled toward the Dominican Republic and Haiti Thursday night but her unorthodox make-up had weathermen probing for the storm's center via reconnaissance.

Forecaster Paul Moore at the U.S. Weather Bureau, Miami, said there appeared to be some evidence of either stronger winds on the storm's northern side, or a northerly drift.

A northward shift, if it occurred, would take the season's fifth tropical storm away from its track toward Jamaica.

Foolproof method to avoid traffic tickets

A PARKING TICKET is an unpleasant sight when it's on the windshield of your car. A car which needs to be ticketed because it's improperly parked — believe it or not — an unpleasant sight for Campus Police, who know the problems errantly parked cars cause them.

Logically, then, few parking tickets should be issued. Unfortunately for both the Campus Police and University car drivers, however, those unpleasant tickets are prolifically scattered on car windshields.

The chief reason, thinks Capt. Verne McClurg of Traffic and Security, is that too few drivers bother to learn the basic University parking and sticker rule.

1. You are responsible for all violations by a car displaying a sticker issued to you. If you loan your car, proper operation of the car is still your responsibility.

2. If you transfer ownership of your car, scrape off the sticker. If you don't, you will be responsible for tickets received by the new owner. You will also need the fragments as evidence to secure a replacement sticker.

3. Your car may be parked in the University Hospital visitors lot only while you visit patients or receive treatment. However, to comply with the regulation, you must sign the guest book in the lobby. If you do not have a sticker you may not park in a visitor or restricted lot while visiting the hospital.

4. If you drive a car without a sticker while your car is being repaired, etc., you may get a temporary sticker without charge.

5. Put your sticker in the proper place as soon as you receive it. If you lose it, you must pay full price for a replacement.

6. Do not use the parking facility until you have your sticker in place. Even if you have applied for a parking permit, you cannot use the parking facility until the sticker is received and placed on the car.

7. Park only in the marked stalls. Do not take up parts of two adjoining stalls even if someone else has parked irregularly.

8. Watch the signs on the lots. They change from time to time with demands for parking.

9. If you have a reserved sticker, you may park in that reserved lot and in addition in any restricted or open lot. (You must still observe 3, above.)

10. Don't back into stalls, even with a station wagon or convertible.

11. A parking privilege is intended only for use by the person to whom it is issued and may not be used by anyone else.

The regulations are self-explanatory and fairly simple to follow. As Capt. McClurg phrased it, by a little cooperation "You can save money and a lot of trouble — for yourselves and the University."

Love by IBM: tilt!

IOWA STATE UNIVERSITY, home of "science with practice" in Iowa, is about to engage in some rather odd scientific practices, even for them. The engineers have gone and replaced ole Dan Cupid, arrows and all, with an IBM computer.

Debut for the lonely hearts machine will come Oct. 12 with a dance at which partners will be selected by the machine on a basis of age, race, religion, likes and dislikes, intelligence, dancing ability, and other such traits.

Students who wish to have their dancing partners selected for them by the mazes of wires, tubes and blinking light bulbs will be asked to fill out a 60-question form prior to the gala event.

All this sounds interesting, but hardly very romantic. Imagine a girl writing home, "Mother, I met the most charming boy yesterday — we were introduced by a machine."

Anyway we wouldn't look forward to such a thing here. The old "Didn't I see you in Atlantic City last summer?" line sounds so much better than "Weren't you scientifically approved as compatible with me by IBM last week?"

—One source of Congressional power—

Civil rights and the Commerce Clause

(This is the second in a series of articles adapted from a speech on the public accommodations provisions of the proposed Federal Civil Rights Act delivered by Arthur E. Bonfield, assistant professor of law. The speech was delivered Wednesday night at the Sixth Judicial District Legal Institute in Oskaloosa.)

By ARTHUR BONFIELD
Asst. Professor of Law

There are limits on Congressional power under the Commerce Clause. It may be conceded that Congress does not hold the power to regulate all of a man's conduct solely because he has some relationship between interstate commerce and the evil to be regulated. Over the course of the years, various tests have been established for determining whether this relationship exists. The proposed legislation clearly meets these tests. To be more specific, the public accommodations provision can be justified under at least three separate lines of commerce clause cases, any one of which would be sufficient to support Congressional authority in this respect.

FIRST, Congress has long used powers delegated to it by the Commerce Clause to remove burdens on interstate travel and interstate travelers. As a result, existing federal statutes already prohibit racial segregation of passengers on railroads, motor carriers, and air carriers, if they move in or constitute a part of interstate commerce.

The constitutional authority of Congress under the Commerce Clause, however, extends beyond the regulation of the interstate carriers themselves; it covers all businesses substantially affecting interstate travel. So, because of their effect on such travel, the Supreme Court has held restaurants to be within the scope of the Interstate Commerce Act's anti-discrimination provision if they are part of the facilities of an interstate carrier. Though the Interstate Commerce Act does not cover them, this same reasoning is no less applicable to service stations, hotels, motels and other establishments serving interstate travelers. Such establishments substantially affect interstate travelers, and therefore, interstate commerce, in the same manner as restaurants. Just as travelers need food, they must have gasoline and places to sleep. Clearly, discrimination by such establishments severely burdens and restricts interstate travel and may therefore be regulated by the Congress.

SECOND, the Commerce Clause also vests Congress with the authority to deal with conditions which adversely affect the allocation of resources and the flow of interstate commerce.

The Federal Government has, of course, a legitimate interest in the interstate movement of capital and goods, and Congress has frequently acted in furtherance of that interest. Thus, in the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1933, Congress invoked the commerce power because excessive supplies of farm products caused a disparity between industrial and farm prices and thereby tended to reduce "the volume of interstate and foreign commerce in agricultural products."

Experience shows that discrimination, when widely practiced throughout sections of the country, has a markedly adverse effect upon the interstate flow of both capital and goods. Capital is reluctant to invest in the region. Skilled or educated men who will be the victims of discrimination are reluctant to settle in the area even when opportunities are available. The inferior economic position to which general discrimination and segregation relegate a large segment of the population in some regions reduces their purchasing power thus reducing the flow of goods and the incentive to bring capital into the area. It is perfectly apparent that Congress may legislate with respect to such conditions.

THIRD, there is a parallel Congressional power to eliminate the causes of disputes that may curtail the flow of interstate commerce — a power which was recognized and sustained in a number of decisions under the National Labor Relations Act. These decisions show that Congress may, by legislation, deal with labor disputes which halt production or the resale of manufactured goods. This is because the federal interest in the elimination of obstructions to the free flow of commerce must necessarily authorize it to remove the causes of the disputes which are responsible for these obstructions.

Disputes involving the racially discriminatory practices of places of public accommodation give rise to picketing and other demonstrations. The picketing and the demonstrations interfere with the sale of goods and thus affect interstate commerce in precisely the same manner as would labor disputes involving such establishments.

The power of Congress to enact the proposed legislation under the Commerce Clause therefore seems abundantly clear, and sufficient in and of itself.

But because the bill is grounded on national power under the Commerce Clause it only goes as far as that national power extends. As a result, the proposed Act bars discrimination on the grounds of race or religion solely within the reach of the Commerce Clause. As a result it applies solely to

1) Any hotel or motel, etc., which furnishes to transient guests, including guests from out of state or traveling in interstate commerce.

2) Any movie, theater, sports arena or other place of amusement which customarily presents movies, performing groups, sports teams, etc., which move in interstate commerce.

3) Any retail shop, department store, drug store, gas station, etc., where

a) the goods or services offered by such place are provided to a substantial degree to interstate travelers

b) a substantial portion of the goods held out for sale to the public have moved in interstate commerce or

c) the operation of such a business otherwise substantially effects interstate travel or the movement of goods.

(Saturday, Prof. Bonfield will discuss the possibilities of using the Fourteenth Amendment as a source of power to enact the Civil Rights Bill.)

Discrimination hurts all—

Education affects everyone, negro and white

By RALPH MCGILL

Suppose we take just three educational items out of the news.

1. The Southern Regional Education Board has announced that research reveals 21.5 per cent of the college-age people in Georgia were in college in 1960. The national average was 39.5 per cent at that time. The 16-state Southern regional average is 28.7 per cent. In 1950 the national average was 27.3 per cent, the region's 18.7, and Georgia's 15.7.

This is largely attributable to the high school drop-out rate, which is the highest in the nation.

2. The Borough of Manhattan reports that for 91 elementary schools, the median turnover was 51 per cent, and for 25 junior high schools, 47 per cent. In three "difficult" elementary schools the turn-over for 1959-60 was 100 per cent. This was caused by the extreme mobility of the slum population, unemployment, dropouts, and so on. Population in all slum areas stays "put" for only brief periods of time.

3. In Chicago, school buildings serving the lower income groups are more than twice as old as buildings in the upper income neighborhoods. While this is partly a geographic accident — buildings tend to be older in the central part of a city where lower income groups live — the situation is worsened by the fact that new schools are most often built on the fringe areas of a city rather than in the central area. The schools in the low-income and slum sections are seriously deficient in laboratory space and equipment, have too little playground space for the bulging enrollments of today, and often lack adequate water supply and toilet facilities.

MORE THAN EVER before in our national life, education has become news. It touches more persons than any other one aspect. Continuing changes in our economy daily make us aware of the painful reality that the young man or woman without a first rate background is doomed to a second or third rate wage-earning level.

It is just now beginning to come into focus that we are all in the educational boat together. The Southern young man and woman are now aware that the denial of schools to Negroes has been, and is, a major factor in the economic development of the South.

Nor is that all. They are aware that the resistance to orderly desegregation and the abolition of separate schools — both poor and inadequate — will continue to make it harder and harder to get jobs and have opportunity in the South. Industry, science, and progress in economics are not going to come into regions where there is disorder and acrimonious, violent racial conflict. The picture of cursing, screaming teen-agers in Birmingham, waving Confederate flags and shouting, "Kill that nigger," are not reassuring to those who hope that Birmingham can become a prosperous, quiet community, with good schools and job opportunity for their graduates.

THIS APPLIES EQUALLY to any other city or town trying to evaluate its present and turn toward the future. More and more business men, who have in the past supported discriminations, also are learning that a work force with enough education to take instruction in skills is a basic requirement for industrial development. The South cannot close its economic gap unless it raises the potential of all its people.

Southerners grow restive in the face of the actuality that their states are behind the rest of the nation in education. Their dropout percentages are higher. Their ratio of college students is lower. There are not enough jobs to hold the best young graduates in their native states. These facts make all the more irrational the defiance of courts and morality, because thereby, the South is further depressed and delayed.

Letter to the Editor—

Frosh advice disappointing

To the Editor:

As a student new to SUU, and as a former collegiate editor, I was one of the people "dying to hear words of wisdom on the art of getting a college education," as divulged in your Sept. 29 editorial. The DI has a fairly respectable reputation; the ACP Convention of last fall often pointed to this paper for examples of good journalism.

Also, as a "Rhetoric" instructor, I was interested to see what you would tell my frosh. I was disappointed.

SOME OR THE advice, though backhanded, was good in and of itself; but when I examined the form in which it was offered, I quietly offered a prayer for your rhetoric instructor.

You ignored any semblance of generally accepted punctuation. I realize that such "misdemeanors" as partially missing parentheses, extra commas and the like can be blamed on your linotypists, but then, why not "jack up" your proofreaders?

Grammatically, run-on sentences and fragmentary clauses were the rule of the day; the latter may be attributed to style, but surely not the former.

As to organization, you silently disposed of any knowledge you might have gleaned in rhetoric or in journalism concerning the nature and rationale of paragraphing, particularly toward the end of your editorial.

LOGICALLY, within the space of two sentences, you managed to equate the "born student" (assuming there is such a creature) with the student who has adopted some "ideology."

Finally, stylistically, you spooned your readers with such vulgar expressions as "Profs can't be faked out all the time" and trite tidbits of phraseology as "diploma, the passport to a job," "solid academic fare" and "real student," phrases harmless, except when put in the context of your avowedly "philosophizing" treatise.

Admittedly, editors have deadlines to meet, but when they write their "think pieces" in this manner, what sort of standards do they expect their staff to follow?

Editorials are supposedly sophisticated; they generally deal with "elevated" topics, handling these propositions appropriately. Both as a freshman instructor (and thus a person concerned about "models" for his charges) and as an editor emeritus, I'd say you did neither.

Give sage advice, as a veteran of SUU; but practice what you preach, as an editor of the DI. Disclaim the four-hour theme; avoid the one-hour, 29-inch editorial yourself.

Since you are fond of quotations, try this one from Cicero: "What so effectively proclaims the madman as the hollow thundering of words... which have no thought or knowledge behind them?"

The Last Laugh

By ANNE WITTE

The odds against getting a ticket on the 50-yard line are 14,850 to 1. I know of a fellow who had a seat on the 50 — it was Woody Hayes.

The average college freshman reads from 270 to 290 words per minute — the average college senior is lucky if he can take a minute to read.

The latest weapon launched against the minor buying beer in Iowa City is a direct wire from the tavern to the police station. If waiters could be summoned in the same manner, everything would be great.

The University wants to change the students' impression of the word "administration." The student body wants to change the administration's impression of the word "students."

A GOOD QUESTION:

People are wondering whether the new Iowa City parking plan is Urban Renewal or Suburban Development.

New SUI Housemothers Enjoy Life in Fraternities

By PHYLLIS CREWS
Assistant Society Editor

The duties of a housemother are not new to Mrs. Fern Boardway, the new Phi Kappa Alpha housemother. However, it is a new experience for her to be "Mom" for a house full of boys since she had been a housemother at the Alpha Xi Delta sorority at Drake University and for the YWCA in Dubuque.

Mrs. Boardway, whose home is in Manchester, enjoys fishing, sewing and handwork such as crocheting and tatting. She is looking forward to participating in the various activities for the SUI housemothers. Her favored past time is playing duplicate bridge. She played the boards in Dubuque and would like to play bridge here on our campus.

After spending almost a month as housemother in the Pike house, Mrs. Boardway says that she likes fraternity life very much and anticipates a good year.

Mrs. Anna Treger left her home in Detroit,

Mich., to take over the duties of housemother at the Alpha Epsilon Pi fraternity. After a month in her new position, Mrs. Treger says that she is very much at ease with her new life.

Mrs. Treger, who is the mother of Charles Treger, the concert violinist, was in Iowa City this summer in July and August to hear her daughter-in-law sing in an opera. Her daughter-in-law, Debora, was interviewed at this time and said that if it were not for her mother-in-law all would not have been possible.

After the opera had completed its season, Mrs. Treger left with her son and his wife for the Peninsula Music Festival in Wisconsin where her son has been the concert master for the last four seasons. Upon her return to Iowa City, she was asked to become the housemother for the Alpha Epsilon Pi house.

Mrs. Treger says that she finds her new life as a housemother to a fraternity very interesting. She likes the gentlemen in the house and thinks that it is fantastic and unbelievable that she is here.

Informal Sorority Rush Meeting Sunday

Girls interested in informal rush are invited to attend an informative meeting Sunday, Sept. 29, at 2:30 p.m. in Shambaugh Lecture Room.

Panhellenic delegates and rush chairmen from each sorority will attend. Speakers at the meeting include: Carol Ingraham, A4, Clinton, president of Panhellenic, "Greek Life at SUI"; Dottie Darling, A3, Iowa City, "Alpha Gamma Delta", a sorority that will colonize at SUI in November; and Kathy Bay, Dx, Algona, Panhellenic rush chairman, "Rush". Following the talks there will be an opportunity to ask questions.

Attendance at the meeting is not mandatory to be eligible for informal rush. Anyone registered for fall rush is still eligible. Those not rushing previously can register at the Office of Student Affairs for $1.

To be eligible, a freshman must rank in the upper 50 per cent of her high school graduating class and have a 2.5 or higher grade point. An upperclassman must have a 2.2 or above for all college work completed.

Bangs Accent Fall Hairdos

NEW YORK — The newest hairdos are fluffy or smooth, curved up or under, and include something for every girl.

The accent is on bangs, interesting crowns, flips and page-boys with a new twist, and sleek flat tops. There is a style for every type of hair and shape of face — even a casual coiffure to play up a widow's peak.

Bangs range from fringy straight-across and pixie to crisscrossed. A straight-line pageboy with full sides and pixie bangs flatters a long, narrow face; a flipped, bouffant style with thick, straight-across bangs has special magic for a diamond- or heart-shaped face. Swirled bangs and a fairly high, roundly teased crown soften a slimming behind-the-ears hairdo.

While some of the styles are moderately teased for height, teasing doesn't make a hairdo; it just helps shape it.

Sleek, flat tops swept back to a bow are a new, carefree look for active girls. But, just for variety, crowns go up in a number of ways: short, fluffy curls behind a headband, winged topknot, demi-pouf with a bow for fall dances and parties.

Popular flips and pageboys take on new looks — and sometimes combine. One style, with upturned S-shape waves in front, turns under in back. A fluffy flip ends in a bow-caught kiss curl on one cheek. The important not-quite pageboy turns in, but not under; a short pageboy fans out into little earmuffs on each side.

Applications Now Available— 1963 Profile Previews Is A "Portrait in Fashion"

Applications for Profile Previews tryouts are now available in housing units and the Office of Student Affairs for all freshmen and transfer students.

The 1963 Profile Previews show, Portrait in Fashion, will be held Friday, Oct. 25, at 7:30 p.m. in the Main Lounge of the Union.

Applications are due at the OSA by 4 p.m. Wednesday, October 2. Tryouts will be held in the Union Oct. 15, 16, and 17. Each girl will be notified as to specific time she is to try out. Previous modeling experience is not necessary.

Ninety girls will be selected on the basis of grooming, poise, and general appearance to model in one of six categories — sportswear, campus wear, suits, coats, cocktail, and semi-dressy wear.

From the ninety models, fifteen will be chosen as semi-finalists. The field will then be narrowed to three and a Miss Perfect Profile will be chosen from them. Last year Miss Perfect Profile was Susan Susich, A2, Perry.

General chairman for the show is Linda Perrin, A4, Marshalltown. Other chairmen are Joeth Mannebach, A3, Glenview, Ill., styles; Dottie Morrison, A3, Rock Island, Ill., publicity; Nancy Sias, A2, Sioux City, art; Nancy Boyd, A2, Springfield, Ill., contacts; Heather Brisbin, A4, Cedar Rapids, script writer; Sharon Cortimiglia, A2, Iowa City, hostess, and Linda Rebec, A4, Cedar Rapids, entertainment.

Then Nadj climbed contentedly out of the coffin and joined them all in a feast of food and drink that lasted until next morning.

Piro: Washington State's Defense 'Very Impressive'

Mathieson's Passing, Fast Backs Spark Cougar Attack

By HARRIETT HINDMAN
Sports Editor

Hawkeye fans who expect to see a splendid offensive show in the opener against Washington State Saturday may be in for a big surprise or disappointment.

Besides the fact that Iowa's coaching staff feels the Hawks are stronger defensively, End Coach Whitey Piro, who scouted the Cougars last weekend, comments, "Washington State has a very impressive defense. The Cougars prevented Texas Tech (which defeated Washington State, 16-7, in its opener) from staging any long marches as Texas Tech's points were scored on field goals and pass interceptions. Washington State depends a lot on its line-backers, who are very aggressive and do a lot of red-dogging."

Asked if he felt this would hurt Iowa's passing attack, Piro said, "No, if we run our patterns right and everyone handles his assignment correctly, we should be able to throw against them."

The Cougars run from a tight slot winged-T offense with a split end. "Washington State has always been known as a passing team," Piro stated. "They attempted 28 passes last week, but only 25 were recorded because of penalties. In the last quarter when they were behind, they threw 15 times."

Washington State Coach Jim Sutherland, however, was not impressed with the Cougar's passing attack, and said after the loss to Texas Tech, "I never have seen a more pitiful offensive effort by one of my Washington State teams. Not only did we have a poor completion percentage on our passes (.121), but we did not gain much with the ones we did complete."

DAVE MATHIESON, THE Cougars' signal-caller, though not impressive last week, threw for 385 yards and three touchdowns last season in the game with rival Washington, which lost only to national champion Southern Cal in 1952.

Mathieson's favorite target is the split end Gerry Shaw, whom Piro called "a real good end."

Washington State also has a running attack with left halfback Clarence Williams who can run the hundred in :09.5, and fullback Herm McKee who has been clocked in :09.6 for 100-yards.

IN THE LINE, THE COUGARS are led by Captain Dean Kalahar, 190-pound junior. "Kalahar is one of the finest, a real quick line-backer," Piro remarked. Right tackle Brian Beveridge, 230-pounder who plays on the strong side of the offense, is also one of the Cougars' top linemen.

"Washington State will be up for this game after losing last week," Piro predicted. "I think the Cougars will be trying to uphold the prestige of the Pacific Coast teams against the Big Ten. Several Pacific Coast teams lost last weekend, and they will be out to improve."

SUTHERLAND COMMENTED after last week's loss, that his team was "out-blocked, out-tackled, out-hustled and generally out-played by Texas Tech," and added that the offense will be better this week "even if it means changing the entire lineup."

The Cougar coach has a reason of his own for wanting to beat the Hawkeys. In 1957, Iowa beat Washington State in the final minutes, 20-13. On their only other visit to Iowa Stadium, the Cougars lost, 54-12, in 1953.

HAWKS WORK OUT In Sweat Clothes
No live contact was the rule as the Iowa Hawkeys wore only sweat clothes during a spirited 90-minute workout Thursday.

A short review of kick-off procedure opened the session, while the squad concentrated on both offense and defense in a "merry-go-round" drill for most of the practice.

"We worked on the final polishing and now we're ready to go," commented Coach Jerry Burns after the Hawks ended the session with a basic offensive workout.

Concerning the physical condition of the team, co-captain Paul Krause stated, "I haven't seen an Iowa team in better shape. The guys could play all day if they had to."

The Hawks will hold their final practice in the stadium today before meeting Washington State Saturday.

Keating: Boxing Needs National Head

NEW YORK (AP)— Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-N.Y.), says boxing still is plagued by unsavory promoters and managers and needs a national commissioner.

Keating, who is a member of the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee which has submitted a bill calling for a federal boxing czar, made the statement during a television show which will be shown on a network, Sunday, Oct. 6. It was viewed by the press Thursday.

"New York and California have made earnest attempts to clean up boxing," said Sen. Keating, "but some states still are lax. A national boxing commissioner is needed."

The taped half-hour was unreeled following a panel discussion of a magazine article by former heavyweight champion Jack Dempsey. Five other former boxing kings and various ring figures participated in the talks.

The article and the television show go together. The Dempsey piece appears in the October issue of Reader's Digest and the show is a segment of the magazine-sponsored monthly program All America Wants to Know. This will appear on ABC, Sunday, Oct. 6.

Appearing with Dempsey in the discussion were former champions Jimmy Braddock and Jersey Joe Walcott, heavyweights; Tommy Loughran and Gus Lesnevich, light heavyweights; Barney Ross, ex-lightweight and welterweight ruler; Dr. Mal Stevens, chairman of the Medical advisory board of the New York State Athletic Commission; Ruby Goldstein, referee and former boxer, and Leo Birnbaum, boxing judge and former boxer.

In the article Dempsey proposed a six-point reform for boxing by more thorough examinations of boxers before and after fights; changing of the judging system so that only the referee will render a verdict; ousting of hoodlums from boxing; ending return bout contracts for championship fights; providing boxers more economic protection via lesser cuts for managers and creation of a pension plan, and for placing boxing under federal regulation.

U.S. Leads Britain in Davis Cup Playoff

BOURNEMOUTH, Eng. (AP)— The United States, with Chuck McKinley and Frank Froehling wielding the rackets, virtually clinched a chance to challenge Australia for the Davis Cup by taking a 2-0 lead over Britain after the first two singles tennis matches Thursday in the interzone semifinals.

"We're almost there," said U. S. captain Bob Kelleher. "No match is won until it's finished and the boys must not relax, but I think we're riding pretty high."

McKinley, of San Antonio, Tex., and the No. 1 U. S. player, whipped Britain's Mike Sangster 7-5, 6-2, 7-5 in the first match.

Then Froehling, of Coral Gables, Fla., ranked No. 2 but only recently emerged from a long stay in the tennis dog house for poor play, trimmed left-hander Billy Knight, 4-6, 8-6, 6-4, 6-4.

That means McKinley and Dennis Ralston, his doubles partner, can clinch victory for the United States Friday by beating Sangster and Bobby Wilson. Failing that, either of the two remaining singles matches will give the Americans victory.

The winner here goes on to meet India, and would be highly favored to win. India is the last hurdle before the challenge round in Australia Dec. 26-28.

Miss Gunderson Out of British Meet

NEWCASTLE, Ireland (AP)— Jo Anne Gunderson's bid for the British women's amateur golf crown ended Thursday on the 16th green of the Royal County Down links when she bowed to France's Claudette Cros.

The 24-year-old three-time U.S. champion from Providence, R.I., bowed to Miss Cros 3 and 2 in their quarter-final match over the 6,458-yard rain and wind-swept course.

Miss Cros, runner-up for the French title, then lost to Philomena Garvey of Ireland 1-up in the semifinals. Miss Garvey, who defeated England's Sheila Armistage 2 and 1 in the quarter-finals, will meet French champion Brigitte Varangot in the 36-hole final Friday.

Church Vandals Sought

Clues are being sought by Iowa City detectives about the identity of vandals who smashed four holes Tuesday night in the stained-glass window of the First Methodist Church, DuLaque and Jefferson Streets.

Damage to the large window facing Dubuque is expected to be more than $500, Detective Sgt. Wayne J. Winter said. At least one soft drink bottle was hurled at the window, he added.

Police believe that a heavy cap to a water valve was also thrown at the building, Winter said.

A possible connection between the vandalism and the smashing of a windshield of a car parked in the Post Office parking lot Wednesday also is being checked by detectives. "Damage in the car incident was estimated at $100. A metal ash tray and a pair of sun glasses were stolen from the car, owned by Mary Paradee of Riverside, police said.

THEY'RE OFF!— GRAY, Maine (left) — A motorist asked a startled toll collector on the Gray Turnpike "Is this the win or show window?"

Then he proceeded to explain he'd just passed about a dozen harness race horses that were running up and down the high-speed road at mile 70 in New Gloucester.

State troopers were sent to corral the animals, which apparently escaped from stables at the New Gloucester Fairgrounds.

54 Future Teachers Sign Up For NEA-ISE Membership

Despite the competition of a pep rally, more than 90 future teachers attended the National Education Association-Iowa State Education Association meeting at the Union Thursday night.

Fifty-four students joined the SUI NEA-ISE chapter, boosting membership to 90.

Howard R. Jones, dean of the College of Education greeted the students and briefly discussed the importance of NEA-ISE membership. This welcome was followed by president Carol Bokorney, A3, Hillside, Ill., who discussed, "What Can the NEA do for You?" Miss Bokorney also outlined the future NEA-ISE projects. They include publicizing "American Education Week" and teacher career month, and sponsoring a prospective teachers' day and a Future Teachers of America workshop.

The NEA-ISE chapter will meet once each month at a date and time to be announced later. Topics of interest to both male and female, elementary and secondary students will be discussed. They include the role of the teacher in integration, how to apply for a job, merit pay, and tips on practice teaching.

NEA-ISE faculty advisor is Dr. Jack Bagford, assistant professor of education. Other officers include: Karen Gray, A4, Waterloo, vice president; Susan Evans, A4, Fairfield, secretary; and Marie Patterson, A3, Haverford, Pa., treasurer.

'Liquor To Minors Still Punishable'

Police Judge Daniel W. Boyle Thursday served a reminder to SUI students and local bartenders that selling liquor to minors is still punishable by law.

Although fewer underage drinkers have been picked up this year than in the past, Judge Boyle stated that the maximum fine of $100 still applies to youths under 21 and that bartenders convicted of selling drinks to minors can be fined up to $300 and the owner's license revoked by the state indefinitely.

The judge also said that the warning was directed to the youth of Iowa City and not just to students of the University.

In February of 1961, Iowa City adopted the current liquor law pertaining to minors when Judge Ansel Chapman boosted the fine to the state maximum of $100.

Expect Some 20 Floats For Homecoming Parade

By JUDY BURKHARDT and MIKE TEGTMAYER Staff Writers

The Hawkeye Homecoming parade this year will feature an estimated 20 floats representing SUI's housing and student organizations.

The floats will be competing for trophies awarded to first and second place winners in each of three categories — beauty, originality and humor. Two traveling sweepstakes trophies, donated by the Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity last year, will also be awarded.

The traveling trophies are kept by the winning organization each year until the next Homecoming parade when they are presented to new winners.

Deadline for float entries in the parade is Friday at 5 p. m.

Sponsors for the floats will be assigned Saturday morning and judges for the parade will be named later.

Housing units and student organizations tentatively planning float entries are:

Alpha Chi Omega-Phi Kappa Sigma; Alpha Delta Pi-Sigma Pi; Alpha Phi-Phi Gamma Delta; Alpha Xi Delta-Pi Kappa Alpha; Chi Omega-Sigma Chi; Daley and Wardell Houses of Burge-Quadrangle; Currier Hall-Hillcrest Men's Residence; Delta Delta Delta-Delta Chi; Delta Zeta-Alpha Epsilon Pi; Gamma Phi Beta-Phi Delta Theta; Kappa Alpha Theta-Delta Tau Delta; Kappa Kappa Gamma-Delta Upsilon; McBroom House of Burge-Marketing Club; Pi Beta Phi-Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Sigma Delta Tau-Phi Epsilon Pi; Wellman House of Burge-South Quadrangle.

American Pharmaceutical Association and Newman Club will also have entries.

The SUI Pageant Board and the Dolphin fraternity will have floats for their respective queens, but will not enter competition.

Housing units and organizations are expected to use their initiative on the floats because no general theme has been set by the parade committee.

Winners of last year's trophies were Phi Gamma Delta and Alpha Xi Delta, recipients of the Sweepstakes trophies; Alpha Chi Omega-Sigma Pi and Townmen-Townwomen, first and second place winners in the beauty category; Phi Gamma Nu-Student Marketing Club and Delta Delta-Pi Kappa Alpha; first and second place winners in the originality category; Gamma Phi Beta-Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Alpha Delta Pi-Alpha Tau Omega, first and second place winners in the humor category.

SUI's Homecoming parade is set for October 11 — the day before the game.

Callahan Charged with 66 Parking Violations

Johnson County Medical Examiner and Coroner, Dr. George D. Callahan, was tried Thursday in City Police Court on charges of failure to pay 66 parking violation tickets that dated from October, 1962, to August 1963.

Municipal Judge Daniel W. Boyle took the case under advisement and said that a verdict would be rendered either Tuesday or Wednesday of next week. Callahan's defense argued the city had failed to prove that Callahan was the driver of the ticketed vehicles.

City Attorney J. H. Honohan based prosecution on grounds that an owner of an automobile is responsible for it at all times. The trial followed closely the announcement by City Hall of the prosecution of all traffic violators holding unpaid parking tickets. In the words of Assistant City Manager Will Laughlin, "It is unfair for some to pay and others not to bother."
