

City Council Primary Might Be Necessary

Three File Petitions Bringing Total to 5 For Fall Election

A primary municipal election for City Council vacancies may prove necessary as three more petitions were filed Friday.

Announcing their candidacies were: Eric W. Bergsten, 32, 212 West Park Rd., associate professor of law; Richard W. Burger, 38, 1500 Washington St., vice president of Burger Construction Co.; and Dale R. Miller, 36, 1417 Ash St., manager of the Kinney Shoe Store.

Petitions already had been filed by William C. Hubbard, 300 Kimball Rd., a present Council member and Dr. Richard D. Eckhardt, 1675 Ridge Rd., raising the total number to five.

IF SEVEN candidates file, the primary will be needed to cut the field to six, twice the number of positions to be filled at the November elections. All terms will be for four years.

The necessity of a primary can not be determined until all petitions and affidavits of candidacy are filed with the City Clerk by 5 p.m. Monday.

Reportedly, three more petitions are being circulated by Eugene T. Larew, 207 Black Springs Cir., James H. Nesmith, 256 Magowan Ave., and John B. Wilson, 501 Kimball Rd.

Bergsten, a faculty member at SU, received his education at Northwestern University and holds degrees from Georgetown University, University of Michigan and University of Chicago. He has taught courses in commercial and municipal law here.

Already a member of the bar in Michigan, Bergsten expects to be admitted to the Iowa bar this fall.

Bergsten said, "The community wants a reasonable variety of experience and talents on the council. I can bring it the training of the lawyer in governmental affairs and the fiscal responsibility of the certified public accountant."

"I am familiar with city affairs. I have attended virtually every meeting of the Council during the past year and a half because of a sense of responsibility and an interest in the city."

"Iowa City is a great city. It must grow and prosper to remain the community of which we are all so justly proud."

Burger is a lifetime resident of Iowa City, receiving his bachelor's degree from SU in 1950. He is a member of the city planning and zoning commission.

"I am very interested in city government, in having an active part in the growth and development of Iowa City and feel I can best serve the city in the capacity of councilman," Burger said.

"With Iowa City expanding very rapidly, I would like to help guide it on a successful path in industrial development," he added.

Returning to Iowa City in 1960, Miller assumed the management of the Kinney store, a position he had held from 1954-55. He was born in Oskaloosa and is a trustee and treasurer of the Church of Christ.

Miller commented, "I am not against our present form of city government. I do feel there are ways it can be improved. I believe there are ways to hold taxes to a minimum and that every effort should be made to do so."

"I know there is a great need for parking in Iowa City. This matter should receive prompt attention," he added.

Present members of the council whose terms expire are Hubbard, Mayor Fred H. Doderer and Mrs. Thelma B. Lewis.

Viet Nam Pull-Out Hinges On Its

EDITOR'S NOTE: On Wednesday, Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara and Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff Gen. Maxwell Taylor told President Kennedy the United States might be able to pull its military forces out of South Viet Nam by December 1965. However, the Associated Press' Peter Arnett poses questions to this statement from Saigon.

By PETER ARNETT
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — President Kennedy's Administration appears to have taken a calculated risk in forecasting the major part of the U.S. military task in South Viet Nam can be completed by the end of 1965.

A high American military source said Friday the generally optimistic report given to Kennedy by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, "took in a lot of imponderables." These relate particularly to the ability of Vietnamese troops to hold guerrilla territory for which they now are fighting and to professional standards of the Vietnamese Army.

There is also a belief here that, while Kennedy may see fit to withdraw most American military personnel by the end of 1965, the war will grind on indefinitely.

"Definition of victory in Viet Nam is hard to establish," one American official said. "These Communist guerrillas have been out there fighting either French or President Ngo Dinh Diem for nearly 10 years. We may think we've broken their back and find they'll come right back and again, as they did in 1961."

U.S. military chiefs also appear to have a different definition of victory than Viet Nam's acting military commander, Gen. Tran Van Don. He predicted Monday that victory will be achieved next year.

The Kennedy Administration's interpretation of a completed task here, according to a highly placed U.S. officer, is "what it takes to reduce the insurgency to proportions which can be installed by the Vietnamese Army" without outside help.

That would mean a crippled Red movement without the power to organize the kind of mass attacks that the guerrillas have staged this year. Any significant Red military infiltration from abroad might prevent or delay such a development. The American impression is that Viet Nam has the capability of blocking a major movement of Red recruits across its frontiers.

Anti-U.S. Bombing In Viet

VINH LONG, South Viet Nam (AP) — Nine U.S. Army servicemen were wounded in a terrorist bomb explosion in a bar in this Mekong delta town Friday night.

None were believed in critical condition, but six were flown to nearby Can Tho for hospital treatment.

Three waitresses at the bar also were wounded.

The bomb was either planted or thrown into Bar Mexico at 8:30 p.m., U.S. sources said.

The explosion demolished the bar, smashing tables, chairs, stools and the bar itself. Most of the Americans were injured in their legs and buttocks. They also suffered powder burns and concussions.

None of the Americans saw anyone throw the bomb but a Vietnamese was seen to have entered earlier carrying a basket of vegetables.

It is believed the bomb could have been carried in that way and left under a table. Other Americans believe it likely the bomb was thrown through the door.

John H. Hanna, Campus Police Chief, reported Friday that a University student is being questioned in connection with a bottle-throwing incident during last Saturday's Iowa-Washington State football game.

He said that no charges have been filed.

The student's name was turned in by the Athletic Department when the department learned that the bottle was thrown from the west stands into the Iowa team bench. The bottle narrowly missed two players, the department reported.

The student's name will be withheld until a full inquiry can be made by campus Police and the Office of Student Affairs, Hanna said.

SUI Observatory Open Monday Night

The SUI campus observatory will again be open to the public this year. Located on top of the Physics Building, the observatory will be open on Monday nights from 7:30 to 9 p.m., weather permitting.

Friday nights will be reserved as special group nights. Groups wishing to visit the observatory may do so by writing the Physics and Astronomy Department for reservations.

Florida Warned Of Hurricane

50-50 Chance Flora Might Hit Mainland

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Flora killed at least 25 persons in Haiti, left thousands homeless, then raked Cuba Friday on a course that prompted forecasters to alert the Bahamas and eastern Florida.

The vicious storm's swath through western Haiti built its death toll to 42. Seventeen lives were lost when it battered Tobago Island off Venezuela Tuesday.

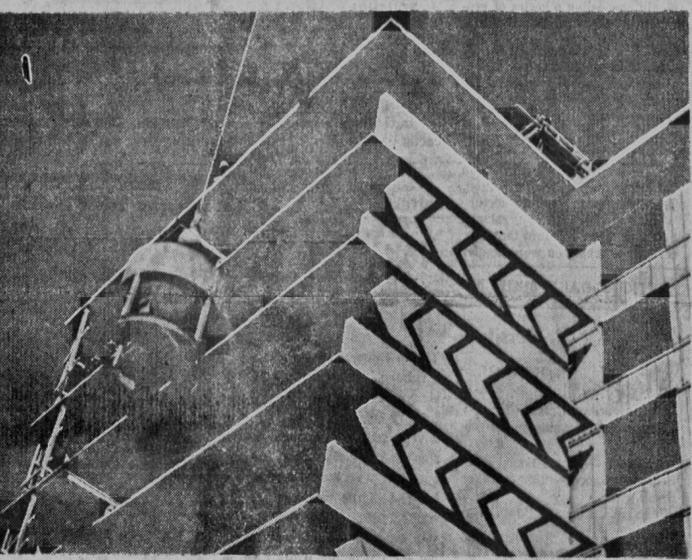

Forecasters in the U.S. Weather Bureau at Miami said at 8 p.m. there was 50 per cent or less chance that Flora would head their way. But they urged interests on the Florida east coast to stay in touch with advisories in the succeeding 48 hours.

FLORA wrought some damage on Cuba as the season's sixth tropical storm whirled over the island nation's Oriente Province. A report from a weather station at Punta Lucrecia on eastern Cuba's north coast said top winds were 85 miles per hour — a drop of 30 miles per hour at peak strength since Flora mauled and left western Haiti. But weathermen said the storm could regain strength over water.

Havana Radio reported that in crossing eastern Cuba Flora knocked out Guantanamo City's power plant, called a halt to traffic in Santiago de Cuba, damaged crops and sent the Mayari River cascading over its banks.

Flora — deemed fully capable of regaining what little punch she lost in battering land areas — was expected to whirl her center with 115-mile-an-hour winds into the southern Bahamas Friday night.

In Washington, the Navy said Flora's eye passed within 31 miles of the sprawling Guantanamo Bay facility "apparently without inflicting damage" there. The base received heavy rain and 40- to 50-knot winds.

U.S. Diplomatic Relations, Aid to Honduras Suspended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department announced Friday that diplomatic relations with Honduras and U.S. aid to that country have been suspended because of the military ouster of President Ramon Villeda Morales.

In a statement the Department described the seizures of power Thursday, engineered by Col. Osvaldo Lopez Arellano as an "unfortunate turn of events."

A spokesman said that the United States believes that the military take-over weakens stability in the Caribbean area, and hurts the interests of the United States and other Western Hemisphere nations and the aims of the Alliance for Progress.

Press officer Robert McCloskey made clear in the statement that the United States intends to take its time in deciding what to do about rule by Lopez Arellano.

McCLOSKEY also indicated that the Kennedy administration is beginning to look with increasing favor on proposals from other Western Hemisphere countries for a foreign minister's conference to consider measures to discourage military coups.

Meanwhile, in Honduras the army's commander assumed supreme power in Honduras reporting the last holdout forces of ousted President Ramon Villeda Morales had surrendered.

Col. Osvaldo Lopez Arellano, a career officer, announced in a proclamation he will act as provisional president without the junta that usually goes along with Latin-American military coups.

THE PROCLAMATION, issued 24 hours after Villeda Morales was overthrown in sharp fighting in Tegucigalpa, declared the nation was calm. Stores reopened, but soldiers still guarded government buildings.

An army communique under Lopez Arellano's signature asserted that the 2,500-man force created by Villeda Morales, had downed arms everywhere in the country.

The communique listed six army soldiers killed and 15 civilians. Mrs. Villeda Morales still was in the presidential palace, but the army said she is free to go. She is expected to join her husband soon at his exile in neighboring

Ben Bella Seeks Ease Of Tension

Berber Rebels Refuse Mission; Army Vigilant

ALGIERS (AP) — President Ahmed Ben Bella appointed Friday a mission to ease tension with neighboring Morocco after Algerian Berber dissidents defiantly rejected his peace overtures at home.

The Algerian president thus intended to diminish the crisis gripping the country since last Sunday. However, persistent reports continued of growing unrest spreading south and west of the capital.

There were growing economic difficulties too.

The dissident command refused to negotiate with a mission of parliamentarians and called on its troops to remain vigilant "to break fascism and save the nation."

The Government meanwhile moved to block bank accounts of French settlers affected by last Tuesday's sweeping nationalization of French farm property.

Departing French settlers were refused money in amounts larger than 1,000 francs ($200) and bank officials said a decree was in preparation to block all bank transfers.

A formal statement of the leaders of the rebellious "Front of Socialist Forces" described Ben Bella's attempt to negotiate as in vain and said: "Why did those deputies fail to denounce constant violence, arrests of militants, internments, torture and the banning of nationalist organizations?"

Thus President Ben Bella was faced once again with defiance of his peace-making overtures.

The refusal came at a time of growing unrest showing signs of spreading to other regions of Algeria.

Antigovernment guerrilla units were reported forming south and southwest of Algiers, threatening security of the highways.

Army sources and European travelers said guerrillas have set up road controls near Cherchell, 50 miles southwest of Algiers. They told of growing unrest in the mountain areas near Medea, Teniet-el-Haad and Orleansville.

According to some advices, 2,000 armed guerrillas have assembled near Teniet-el-Haad, about 150 miles southwest of the capital.

Antigovernment sentiments have been evident before in the area. The Berber dissidence in the Kabylie Mountains, east of Algiers, evidently helped to spark unrest there.

The nerve center of the growing antigovernment activity southwest of the capital was reported near Duperre and Tizi-Franco, south of the Cherchell Mountains. Duperre is 62 miles from Algiers.

Some reports spoke of minor clashes.

The antigovernment Front of Socialist Forces — FSF — has threatened to spread the Berber revolt to all of Algeria.

The command of the dissident forces set up in the Kabylie Mountain town of Michelet has established contact with opposition emissaries from other parts of the nation.

Vicious Storm Rocks Alaska

BARROW, Alaska (AP) — A vicious storm howled off to the north Friday after battering Barrow with 80-mile-an-hour winds and 15-foot waves that wrecked houses, contaminated the water supply and destroyed much of the winter's store of fuel.

One hundred and 43 persons, including almost the entire population were forced from their homes. Fifteen homes were destroyed. Eleven others were heavily damaged.

There were no fatalities. Cakes of ice rode the wild waves through the streets of this predominantly Eskimo town of 1,350.

Whale boats, important in winter fishing and hunting, were swept to sea. The natural gas line serving the town was ruptured.

Tryouts for TV Play Set Monday, Tuesday

Tryouts for a half-hour television version of the play "Roadbird" will be held Monday and Tuesday at 7 p.m. in 100 Old Armory.

There are parts for three: one white and one Negro man of medium build in their late twenties, and one Caucasian woman of the same age.

Murray Yaeger, visiting professor from Boston University, will direct the play.

Leaf Collection Starts Next Week

The annual city leaf pickup program will begin the first of next week, City Manager Carsten Leikvold announced Friday.

Piles of leaves must be placed in the street gutter, and must not contain limbs, trash or other foreign substances, since the machinery being used is not equipped to pick up such material, Leikvold said.

The branches and trash may be left on residents' property for collection at a later time, he added. Leaves may be burned until Nov. 15 without special permission, under a general permit provision of city ordinance.

ChiO, SAE Lead Sales

Sigma Delta Tau and Phi Epsilon Pi led all other units on campus Friday in badge sales cash receipts of $29.50.

However, they still remain behind Chi Omega and Sigma Alpha Epsilon who now have 2,396 points. Sigma Delta Tau and Phi Epsilon Pi now have 2,016 points.

Third place in competition are Gamma Phi Beta and Delta Upsilon with 1,382 points.

U.N. Talk Is Historic for Emperor

Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia addresses U.N. after ticker-tape parade in New York City Friday. Occasion was an historic one for the 77-year-old Emperor who is the only chief of state to have addressed both the United Nations and the defunct League of Nations. —AP Wirephotos

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia mounted the rostrum in the U.N. General Assembly on Friday and recalled how 27 years ago he appealed in vain to the League of Nations for help against aggression.

Then, looking to the future, the frail-looking 71-year-old bearded monarch told delegates from 111 nations that, "Here, in this assembly, reposes the best — perhaps the last — hope for the survival of mankind."

It was a moment in history and both the delegates in the hall and the spectators who filled the galleries to listen to the man in the dark, double-breasted suit were aware of it. They gave him a standing ovation before and after his address.

Speaking in Amharic, the emperor said that he sought in Geneva in 1936 to appeal "for relief from the destruction which had been unleashed against my defenseless nation."

"I spoke then to and for the conscience of the world," he added. "My words went unheeded, but history testifies to the accuracy of the warning that I gave in 1936."

He came to the United Nations from a ticker-tape parade in Manhattan in which he chose to walk instead of ride the last five blocks.

He said he wanted by that gesture to show the appreciation of Ethiopia for all that New York has done for his nation. New Yorkers stood five to 10 deep along the line of march which ended at City Hall Plaza where he was welcomed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner.

At the United Nations he had lunch with Secretary-General U Thant and diplomats attending the General Assembly. The guest list of 60 included U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko.

But it was in the Assembly Hall where the main drama occurred in his appearance before the organization which succeeded the League of Nations.

In somber tones he noted that the charter of the United Nations expresses the noblest aspirations of mankind — but so did the Convention of the League.

These, he said, "are only words — their value depends wholly on our will to observe and honor them and give them content and meaning."

Shown here, 27 years ago, Emperor Selassie appealed to the old League of Nations in Geneva, solini's Italy. Friday Selassie told the U.N. that the United Nations is the "last hope for the survival of mankind."

Legislative stinginess begins haunting state

THE STINGINESS of the Iowa Legislature of 1963 may come back to haunt it.

At least that is the way it appears after the announced cut in the benefits given under the Aid to Dependent Children (ADC). The cut will take up to $150 per month from some parents of children on ADC. The unfortunate part of the entire affair was that these people were receiving only 64 per cent of the amount scheduled for them.

Gov. Harold Hughes hit the nail on the head when he blamed the cut on the Iowa Legislature. Hughes explained that the Legislature chopped his recommended appropriation by almost $1 million. This coupled with the increase in persons applying for ADC benefits forced the benefits to be cut.

But ADC was not the only state program that was curtailed by the Legislature. The State Board of Regents was forced to cut the budgets of its member institutions. This forced SUI to slow down many of its scheduled programs including building programs, salary increases for professors and the purchase of new equipment. Many other state programs have had to undergo the same process.

These program alterations could have been avoided — at least partially — had the Legislature exhibited the courage to change the Iowa tax structure. Instead, the Legislature backed off from the tax proposals and meekly increased the cigarette tax along with legalizing liquor by the drink, which wasn't primarily intended to bring in revenue.

This failure has caused state agencies to do what happened to ADC. The state is likely to suffer because of this — a fact that will probably haunt the Legislature for some time to come.

Scanty skirts, plunging necklines distracting

AFRICAN POLITICIANS have ordered teen-age girls to lower hems of their dresses. They are even using some forms of physical persuasion to carry out these orders.

Young Africans are roaming townships near Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, telling girls their hemlines are immoral. Some gangs of youth are tapping girls on the legs with sticks if their skirts are above the knees.

The reason for all this fuss? It is claimed that the scanty skirts detract the attention of African men from world issues.

Meanwhile in London some British dress designers have brought out a new dress with a neckline so low it makes bras unnecessary. A spokesman for the designers said the dresses weren't for large girls since, "The larger girl might fall out of her own dress."

We don't know whether all this is good or bad, but either way it looks like a poor year for world issues.

Boycott all whites?

ADAM CLAYTON POWELL, outspoken Harlem Democratic leader, has done it again.

Early this week the U.S. Representative came out against Santa Claus, saying "Santa Claus is only a white man's invention, having nothing to do with Christmas."

Speaking to his Baptist church congregation, the Negro congressman urged members of his church to boycott Santa Claus this year by refusing to purchase presents for exchange.

With his argument that the jolly white man has nothing to do with Christmas we can't disagree. But his reasoning — Santa is always white — is absurd.

Perhaps Powell thinks his congregation should boycott Christ, too?

After all, was Christ a Negro?

The University of Kansas has a $32,000 grant from the Government to finance an investigation of a "correspondence-tutorial" method of teaching freshman English.

Unlike other correspondence enrollees, the students would be on campus and could have the help of a tutor-professor.

Everything in the program sounds good. One thing however, remains unclear — how do you cut class?

SUI Scottish Highlanders beware — you're being imitated, but not much. According to the Michigan State News a group called the "Scots Highlanders" will make their debut at Michigan State sometime this fall.

Unlike SUI's Highlanders the Michigan group is a drum and bugle outfit. Also unlike the local bagpipers the MSU organization is made up of ROTC cadets — all men, of course. Don't know how they sound, but if they wear kilts, they can't hold a candle to our bonnie lassies so far as looks go.

The Iowa State Daily has come up with a very interesting feature: The Fink of the Week. According to a recent editorial the "Fink" title is aimed primarily at eliminating "Mickey Mouse" in all forms of student activities. My, what will Walt Disney say? What, for that matter, will Larry Hatfield say?

Up at Michigan State they've gone all out for electronic gadgets and such, or at least it seems so. Their drum major is even wired with a walkie talkie. He gets

On Other Campuses

At San Jose State the Spartan Daily reports the bee population is rising. One of the professors there has built a new type of hive which will permit them to survive all year long. If this practice spreads, we might be in for trouble. With the bees living year-around and the birds still making their winter migration the balance of nature would be upset. Even worse the old story of "The Birds and the Bees" would be completely changed with a new cast of characters.

The Daily Kansan tells us they've got trouble at KU, believe it or not. It seems that an old Kansas tradition calls for having a bell at every football game. The bell is placed on the field and every-four small coeds got trampled; two larger ones fainted. It was hard to tell the faintings though, because they were so wedged into the crowd they couldn't climax the faint with a good, decisive keel-over.

The University of South Carolina Gamecock reports that CAROLINE lived up to its tradition during registration.

'Perplex' spoofs scholars

THE POOH PERPLEX. By Frederick C. Crews. Dutton. $2.95

Crews flings gleefully a whole stack of gooey pies into the foolish faces of the literary scholars.

His little opus pretends to be a freshman casebook for students in English Lit. It is presented in the form of a collection of critical essays — and in one case, a verbatim report of a classroom lecture — solemnly examining the "real" meaning of A. A. Milne's Pooh stories. Each of the supposed scholars is a specialist of some sort — and therein lies the spoof.

One arrogant psycho-critic finds esoteric personality symbols. A left wing scholar declares the whole affair is bourgeois fiction neatly concealing a series of proletarian fables. Another is an effete esthete, confused by it all. One egghead discovers all sorts of Oedipus complexes, and a befuddled German Freudian psycho-analyzes the author and hauls up a bucketful of slop, while a pious old character puts religious labels on all the characters and classifies the stories as a document in the Christian-Humanist tradition. The one who gives the lecture is a slangy, palsy-walsy, rah-rah academic type — and at the other end of the scale is a word-juggler so immersed in terminology that he forgets what he is writing about. And so on.

While this ivy-covered circus in action, Crews manages to slip in some not-so-sly, broad digs at scholarly envy, back-biting and narcissism.

It is an amazing performance, for Crews convincingly apes a wide range of academic nuts in devastating exact detail. An English prof himself, the author sees his colleagues in the round, and as squares, sketching them in a brilliant bit of mimicry and non-sense.

New stop sign misplaced

To the Editor:

I have noticed the new stop sign erected at the exit of the Library Parking Lot. I think it is a very good idea to have a stop sign there. However, I have a question. Why is the sign at the far end of the pedestrian crosswalk? Is this to allow drivers to stop right on the walk while waiting for on-coming traffic? Or is it also to allow drivers to stop right on any pedestrians who might be in the walk?

Dean Ray Heffner To Give Noon Talk

Dean Ray L. Heffner will deliver the main address at noon today to the annual meeting of the North Midwest Section of the American Society of Engineering Education (ASEE).

Heffner is vice president for instruction and dean of faculties at SUI. The address will take place in the Main Lounge of the Union.

Some 80 engineering educators from midwestern colleges and universities, including SUI, have registered for the two-day event which began Friday.

Campus Ministers Plan Celebration Of Laity Dinner

SUI's Association of Campus Ministers is planning a Celebration of the Laity dinner in the Hotel Jefferson, Sunday from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m.

The dinner is intended to encourage SUIowans to take more interest in their church youth groups. It is to be conducted to recruit students for lay theological study groups.

All students and faculty members who are interested in attending the dinner should see one of the campus ministers for reservations.

Guest speaker for the evening will be Joe Pierce who was formerly on the staff at the Austin Faith and Life Community in Austin, Tex. He will explain the place of Christian laity today and its responsibility in a changing world.

This morning 10 SUI faculty members will participate in programs of divisional meetings. They are H. Sidwell Smith, head of civil engineering; James O. Osburn, professor of chemical engineering; W. D. Wade, assistant professor of electrical engineering; Harold Shipton, research assistant professor in medical research, and Melvin Betterley, head of Engineering Drawing.

Also, J. Wayne Deegan, head of industrial engineering; T. R. Faucett, head of mechanical engineering; Edward M. Mielnik, associate professor of industrial engineering; and P. G. Hubbard and Royce Beckett, professors of mechanics and hydraulics.

Serving as officers on the executive committee of the North West Section of the ASEE are D. H. Madsen, professor of mechanical engineering, chairman, and Coleman Major, professor of chemical engineering, secretary.

Pep Club Issues Second Clue to 'Who's Miss Pep'

If your guess is right, you could win two free tickets to sit in the cheering block for the 1964 football season. You could also win tickets and transportation to the 1965 Iowa-Wisconsin football game in Madison.

Today's clue to Miss Pep's identity, announced Friday by the Hawk-I Pep Club, is:

The crowd has picked Miss Pep to reign A town in Iowa Has her to claim.

Past clues have been: Miss Pep is not a Pom Pom girl and she is in many SUI activities.

Pep Club officials say to enclose your guess along with your student identification number and send it to: Miss Pep, Hawk-I Pep Club, SUI, Iowa City.

New Store Sells Distinctive Items

"We like to bring distinctive, individual items to Iowa City residents," Martin Hauser commented on the merchandise in his new store—Cost-Plus importers.

Cost-Plus importers is located on Highway 6 in Coralville just across from Finkbine Golf course and has been open since September 13.

Hauser maintains he can import just about anything in the way of fancy art goods and sell it with a low price mark-up.

Hauser operates Cost-Plus with his wife, Kay, and has an extensive display of everything from teakwood trays to oriental scrolls. He features a stock of art goods, including some original oils. Hauser mentioned that anyone "can afford them."

In addition to running his store, Hauser is a graduate assistant in American Government at SUI, and is co-authoring two books. He has a B.S. degree from the University of California and an M.A. from San Francisco State College.

He said he did some buying and selling of art goods before he opened the Coralville store. He stressed that art should be pleasurable and is a wise investment.

Hauser claims that he can obtain most anything and sell it with a low mark-up as he doesn't work through wholesalers.

As an added feature of the store, Hauser mentioned that he plans to sponsor a one-man art show of artist Avrum Rubinstein's works in the near future.

Local Communities To Discuss Merger

The question of whether there should be a single metropolitan government for Iowa City, Coralville, and University Heights gets an airing Monday night in a special broadcast over WSUI.

Expressing their views on the matter, which has never gone beyond the discussion point, will be

Fred Doderer, mayor of Iowa City, Russell M. Ross, mayor of University Heights, Dan R. Fessler, mayor of Coralville, and Carsten Leikvold, city manager of Iowa City.

The program will be heard at 7 p.m. WSUI broadcasts at 910 kilocycles. Hugh Kelso, professor of Political Science, will act as moderator.

"IF HE HAD ANY SENSE, he wouldn't be a sportswriter. But, then, that's a contradiction. If he's a sportswriter, people automatically assume he hasn't any sense." Those are the concluding words of an essay entitled, "What is a Sportswriter?"

When football season rolls around and it comes time to make predictions, even sportswriters begin to wonder if they have any sense. To take a little pressure off the sportswriters, Gary Spurgeon, Managing Editor, has agreed to match wits with the Sports Editor in picking the winners of ten of the nation's top games.

IOWA 17, WASHINGTON 14 — This will be an upset. The Huskies, having failed to live up to pre-season write-ups by losing their first two games, will be tough in their opening home contest, but the Hawks' defense should hold them to two scores, and Jay Roberts can boot the winning margin from anywhere inside the 30.

NORTHWESTERN 26, ILLINOIS 14 — It will take more than the Illini have either offensively or defensively to stop or outscore All-American Tommy Myers when he takes to the air.

INDIANA 21, OHIO STATE 17 — The big upset of the week. The Hoosiers looked good against California and with a home crowd behind them, if Marv Woodson finds running room, it could be a bad weekend for Woody Hayes' not-so-tough 1963 Buckeyes.

NAVY 28, MICHIGAN 7 — The Middies have a good scoring punch and the young Wolverine team should have trouble stopping quarterback Roger Staubach, the nation's leader in total offense at the end of the season's first two weeks.

ARMY 9, MINNESOTA 6 — A toss-up, but Army's strength is defense while the inexperienced Gophers are going to have trouble both ways.

NOTRE DAME 21, PURDUE 7 — The Fighting Irish are looking more like the Notre Dame teams of old and in two games the Boilermakers haven't been too impressive.

ARIZONA 28, WASHINGTON STATE 21 — Dave Mathieson should head more than two touchdown drives for the Cougars, but the 1962 leaders in total offense should be able to out-drive Mathieson.

GEORGIA TECH 24, LOUISIANA STATE 14 — Billy Lothridge, the Yellow-Jackets' versatile signal-caller, will be out to prove his selection as last week's Back of the Week wasn't a mistake.

ALABAMA 35, VANDERBILT 14 — Vanderbilt claims it's on the comeback trail, but the battle with No. 2 Alabama won't show it.

By GARY SPURGEON
Managing Editor

KNOWING FULL WELL that a man doesn't have a chance in such a hazardous and contradictory subject as picking football game winners with a woman, I decided to match my wits with our blond bombshell.

Besides, I spent two hours in front of my magic box and it can't be wrong after I spent a whole dollar for it. Well, here's what it said:

WASHINGTON 21, IOWA 10 — Washington has lost two consecutive games and for a team rated as one of the top on the Pacific Coast, three straight losses aren't likely to blemish their record. The Hawkeyes should bounce back from their Washington State disaster, but the Huskies will be too hard to crack.

NORTHWESTERN 28, ILLINOIS 17 — Even though the Illini are on the comeback trail, the passing of Tom Myers and the overall Wildcat strength will ruin Illinois.

INDIANA 15, OHIO STATE 14 — This will be a real close one and it may be the upset of the year. Woody Hayes is due for a losing season and thus the reason.

MICHIGAN 14, NAVY 7 — The Wolverines showed some encouragement last week and should continue their winning ways. Navy looked impressive, but Michigan is much stronger than William and Mary.

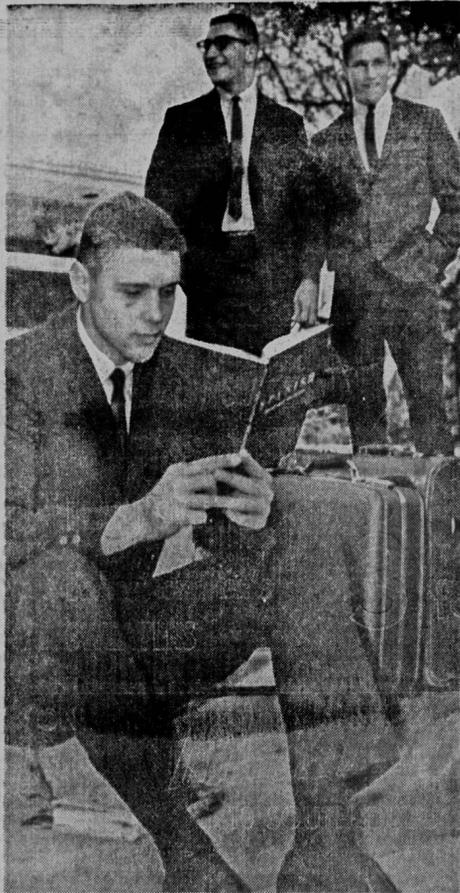

ARMY 17, MINNESOTA 10 — Army looks like the stronger team of the two especially after what Nebraska did to the Gophers. Besides, I don't like Minnesota.

NOTRE DAME 35, PURDUE 21 — The Fighting Irish are back in stride after a few years and should easily stop the Boilermakers.

ARIZONA 27, WASHINGTON STATE 14 — Arizona has too much running power for Washington State. Also the Cougars looked too inconsistent last week. Besides who likes Washington State now?

GEORGIA TECH 21, LOUISIANA STATE 7 — The 'Ramblin Wrecks' from Georgia Tech will make a wreck out of LSU. Bobby Dodd has his Engineers really perking and LSU is not the team to turn off the heat.

ALABAMA 42, VANDERBILT 0 — The No. 2 team in the nation isn't likely to find its opponent too troublesome. And... Oh the heck with it — Alabama's just going to win.

Se Habla Espanol?

Big Ten Teams Face Tough Opposition Today

CHICAGO (AP) — Five tough outside jousts will test Big Ten football prowess this weekend, but conference attention will focus on two league scraps — Northwestern at Illinois and Ohio State at Indiana.

In 10 games thus far played against outside rivals, Big Ten teams have a 7-2-1 record, but this could be deflated considerably Saturday.

Underdogs for today's competition are Iowa (vs. Washington), Michigan (vs. Navy) and Purdue (vs. Notre Dame). Michigan State was also an underdog in a Friday night game at Southern California, Northwestern, and Ohio State, rate as favorites in their games. However, both games are rated as close affairs. Wisconsin is idle today.

By HARRIETT HINDMAN
Sports Editor

The Hawkeye football team, one-game more experienced after last week's 14-14 tie with Washington State — meets the Washington Huskies at Seattle today. Kickoff time is 3 p.m. (CST).

Washington, rated as one of the Pacific Coast's top teams at the beginning of the season, has lost its first two contests, both on the road. Air Force edged the Huskies, 10-7, in the opener, and Pitt scored a 13-6 victory over Washington last week.

IOWA COACH Jerry Burns has announced one change in his starting lineup. Leo Miller, 5-10 222-pound sophomore from Sioux City earned the starting left tackle spot with his defensive play against Washington State. He replaces two-time letter-winner George Latta.

Burns said he felt the Hawkeyes would show improvement over their play in the opener. "We have worked on our deficiencies, but won't know how much we have improved until the game. Washington is a different type of team and plays a different type of defense and we have tried to take this into account."

THE BIGGEST problem Iowa will have to overcome against the Huskies, according to Burns, is "to match Washington's aggressiveness. The Huskies are a very aggressive team. We will just have to match them in a hitting contest. We are impressed with them as a defensive ball club and have directed our practices in that direction."

The coach said, "I think we have had a good week of practice. Tuesday night's drill was very good. Wednesday the spirit slacked off some, but I feel sure we will be ready for Washington."

"WE WILL HAVE to prove that we will be ready for Washington the first half against Washington State, and play the way we are capable of playing if we are to beat the Huskies," Burns commented.

Jim Owens' team has been hit hard by injuries, especially to key men. Bill Siler, quarterback, is out with a case of hepatitis and a hairline fracture on his left hand. Fullback Junior Coffey and guard Koll Hagen, both junior lettermen, will also miss today's game.

BILL DOUGLAS, a junior letterman, will replace Siler and Charlie Browning, who rushed for 83 yards against Pitt, will be at the fullback spot in today's game.

Iowa center coach Archie Kodros, who scouted Washington, brought back this report. "Washington is a very good team. Its men have a lot of hustle and there are quite a few big players — Washington's line averages 215."

Kodros concluded, "This is primarily a rushing team although it can use the pass effectively." The Huskies completed five of eight against Air Force and two of eight against Pitt. Their rushing game is led by powerful runner Dave Kopay.

Kodros concluded, "This is Washington's first home game. In losing its first two games, Washington scored two touchdowns and gave up only three. It could be a better ball club than Washington State."

Maris May Be Out as Yanks Try to Battle Back in Series

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Yankee slugger Roger Maris was a doubtful starter in today's third World Series game as the Los Angeles Dodgers came home with a 2-0 edge over the American League champions.

With Don Drysdale, 19-17, ready to take on New York's Jim Bouton, 21-7, in a battle of right-handers in the third game, the Dodgers had become 3-1 favorites to take it all. If Big D can win his start, Sandy Koufax, who set a Series record with 15 strikeouts in the opener, is primed to strike the finishing blow Sunday against Whitey Ford.

Twice before the Yanks have trailed 2-0 and come back to win, against Brooklyn in 1956 and Milwaukee in 1958. However, each time they had lost the first two on the road, not at Yankee Stadium.

The proud Yanks, 7-5 pre-Series favorites, now faced the distinct possibility that they might be humiliated in four straight. The only Yankee Series club that failed to win a game was the 1922 team, but even they managed to get one tie while bowing to John McGraw's New York Giants.

"Welcome Home Champs," read one banner held aloft in the tumultuous crowd of 2,000 that greeted the Dodgers at the airport Thursday night. "Where's all that Yankee power now?" another asked.

Fans remained in line all night outside Dodger Stadium at Chavez Ravine in hopes of grabbing some of the 4,100 tickets that go on sale before each game. A jam-packed mob of 56,000, with trumpets blaring "charge," was assured for the Dodgers' first home game.

Nobody ever has won a Series after losing the first two at home but the Yanks were grimly confident they would pull it out yet.

"We're not throwing in the towel," said Manager Ralph Houk in the Yankee clubhouse after Thursday's 4-1 defeat to Johnny Podres. He repeated it again Friday as his Yanks worked out in Walter O'Malley's many-splendored stadium.

TAKE GOLF LEAD — PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Phil Rodgers and lanky Al Balding took the lead for the $26,000 first prize in the Whitemarsh Open Golf Tournament Friday with scores of six-under-par 138.

To Give Players To Mets, Colts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — National League clubowners and general managers, in a move to beef up the New York Mets and the Houston Colts, voted Friday night to make available four players from each of the eight established teams at a price of $30,000 each to the two new clubs.

National League President Warren Giles said the players would be selected, on an alternate pick basis, by the Mets and the Colts at a meeting in Cincinnati no later than Oct. 14.
