Busy Homecoming Starts Today

Classes Suspended at 12:30 Today, Excitement Reigns

Five Finalists For Miss SUI

Exactly 2,471 SUI males voted Thursday to choose the following five coeds as finalists in the Miss SUI Pageant.

They are Elsie Andrews, N4, Marion, Westlawn; Joeth Mannebach, A3, Glenview, Ill., Chi Omega; Nancy Brown, A2, Chicago, Ill., Pi Beta Phi; Linda Nyquist, N2, Rockford, Ill., Kappa Alpha Theta and Maryann Ruud, A3, Rock Island, Ill., Gamma Phi Beta.

The finalists will ride on a float in this evening's Homecoming parade, and one of them will be crowned Miss SUI at the Pep Rally following the parade.

The crown is a silver one three inches high, decorated with rhinestones.

It is a gift to the queen. She will also receive three bracelets, two sweaters, a kilt, a pair of wool slacks, a necklace, pin, pen and pencil set, a blouse, a set of perfume, a cut glass perfume decanter, a pair of casual shoes, a gift certificate from a dry cleaners store and a beauty salon.

The gifts have been donated by Iowa City merchants.

One Will Be Miss SUI

One of these SUI coeds will be crowned Miss SUI of 1963 at a Pep Rally at 8 p.m. today in front of Old Capitol. They are, from left, Maryann Ruud, A3, Rock Island, Ill.; Linda Rae Nyquist, A3, Rockford, Ill.; Elsie Andrews, A4, Marion; Nancy Brown, A2, Chicago, and Joeth Mannebach, A2, Glenview, Ill.

Game Highlights Long SUI Weekend

Classes will be suspended today at 12:30 p.m., marking the start of the 52nd SUI Homecoming, a gala and action-packed weekend designed to keep some 12,000 students and thousands of visitors busy.

Attractions will include the open houses, a Homecoming dance and a football game. And the weather will be nice, too.

The Dolphin Fraternity began its share of the weekend's entertainment Thursday night with the opening of its show, "Nero's Nightmare" and crowning of a beauty queen, Linda Buresh, A2, Mt. Vernon.

There are to be three more performances of the swim show, one tonight at 8:30 after the Homecoming parade and two Saturday at 7 and 9 p.m.

THE HOMECOMING parade, with floats, bands, antique automobiles, Shrine units and other entries, will begin tonight's festivities when it sets off through the streets of Iowa City at 7.

The parade will pass a reviewing stand east of Old Capitol on Clinton Street; six awards will go to float-makers.

After the parade, Miss SUI of 1963 will be crowned. In the running are Elsie Andrews, N4, Marion, Westlawn; Nancy Brown, A2, Chicago, Pi Beta Phi; Joeth Mannebach, A3, Glenview, Ill., Chi Omega; Linda Nyquist, A2, Rockford, Ill., Kappa Alpha Theta, and Maryann Ruud, A3, Rock Island, Ill., Gamma Phi Beta.

Open house will be held at the Union until midnight Friday. All Union facilities will be available, as well as free refreshments. Open house includes alumni registration, SUI departmental exhibits, bowling, billiards, table tennis, Hawk-eye football films, television and informal dancing.

HOMECOMING festivities continue Saturday morning with coffee hours for visiting alumni in the following departments: Alpha Kappa Psi, 10-noon, Union; Delta Sigma Pi, 9-noon, Old Gold Room, Union; Office Management and Business Education, 9:30-11 a.m., 309 University Hall; Engineering, 9-10 a.m., Lounge, Engineering Building; Highlanders, 10:30 to noon, Sun Porch, Union; Home Economics, 9-11 Dining Room, Macbride Hall; Journalism, 9-11, 200 Communications Center; Law, 9:30-noon, Lounge, Law Center; Pharmacy, 9-11:30, 122 Pharmacy Building; and Dental Hygiene, 9-11:30, Lounge, Dentistry Building.

The Iowa-Indiana football game will begin at 1:30 p.m. Saturday. A large monument to Homecoming stands on the west approach to Old Capitol. Built by engineering students from a design submitted in a contest last summer, the 1963 monument is in the form of a giant ear of corn, with Herky the Hawk spinning around on the top. The 31-foot structure represents a rocket and has the theme "Top of the Crop."

Dolphin swim show, a parade,

Tradition dictates that should the SUI football team win the Homecoming game, it is set afire before a gathering crowd of SUI fans. However, regardless of the game score, the engineers are likely to see their hundreds of hours of work go up in smoke as soon as the crowds can move from the Stadium to Pentacrest.

SATURDAY from 8 p.m. to midnight there will be a dance at the Union, with music by Maynard Ferguson and his Orchestra.

Sunday's activities will include an Iowa Mountaineers travelogue, "Germany and the Berlin Story," with Dr. J. Gerald Hooper, at 2:30 p.m. in Macbride Auditorium.

An exhibit of art works, including paintings, drawings, sculpture and pottery, by SUI faculty members will be open from 2-4 p.m. Sunday in the main gallery of the Art Building.

Homecoming Badge sales by the YWCA will continue Friday night at the parade and Saturday morning in the area of the Stadium. In a contest ended Thursday, Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Chi Omega took first place among housing units for badge sales. Iowa City Boy Scouts have also been waging an active residential sales campaign.

Car Wrecked; Driver Unhurt

A late model station wagon was crushed between another auto and a semi-trailer shortly after noon Thursday at the intersection of Washington and Dodge streets.

Donald Volm, 1824 High St., driver of the station wagon, escaped with minor scratches although his car appeared to be demolished.

Volm was driving south on Dodge when he was struck broadside by an eastbound car driven by Edwin Delaney, 814 Market St. Volm's car was shoved sideways across the intersection into the path of a northbound semi-truck driven by Mahlon D. Troyer, 2409 Miami Drive.

Neither Delaney nor Troyer was injured although Delaney's car was damaged extensively. Damage to the truck was minor.

Stop signs on Washington Street at the intersection had been removed by workmen prior to the accident.

SAE, Chi O's Top Badge Salesmen

Sigma Alpha Epsilon and Chi Omega, with a total of 3,979 points, finished first among housing units competing in the 1963 Homecoming badge sales competition that ended Thursday.

In second place with a total of 3,045 were Phi Epsilon Pi and Sigma Delta Tau, followed by Delta Upsilon and Gamma Phi Beta.

A first-place prize of $25 goes to the winners, and a second-place prize of $10 to the runners-up.

Starting today the YWCA will be in charge of the badge sales.

Security Agent—

Sold U.S. Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department announced Thursday night that Sgt. Jack E. Dunlap, a former employe of the National Security Agency who killed himself while under investigation, sold U.S. secrets to Soviet agents over a two-year period.

Asst. Secretary of Defense Arthur Sylvester told a news conference that the material did not include U.S. codes and ciphers — the most sensitive items handled by the super secret National Security Agency where the Army sergeant had been assigned.

"There is evidence that he did commit espionage by selling certain classified materials to agents of the Soviet Union," Sylvester said.

The Pentagon spokesman told reporters that an investigation, which developed after an employment check disclosed a record of "petty thievery and immoral conduct" led to evidence that Dunlap, an 11-year Army veteran, sold secrets "for the sole purpose of receiving a monetary reward."

The Washington Evening Star, in a copyrighted story, pictured the sergeant as a high-living horseplayer and ladies' man who received about $60,000 from Russia for some of this country's secrets.

Explains Hillcrest Mishap

An unidentified workman gestures as he tells police how the driver of the caterpillar tractor on left was seriously injured Thursday when the vehicle overturned and threw him off. Ira R. Brooks, 50, a resident of the Coralville Trailer Park, was in serious condition Thursday night at University Hospitals with multiple cuts and other injuries. The accident occurred at 3:30 p.m. as Brooks was surfacing an elevation for an air conditioning project outside of Hillcrest men's residence. Brooks is a yardman for the Viggo M. Jensen Co. of Iowa City.

With Gala Parade—

SUI's Homecoming Starts at 7 Tonight

The 15th annual Homecoming Parade featuring 20 floats, 12 bands, campus queens and saddle clubs, will begin at 7 tonight.

The parade marks the beginning of the 52nd annual SUI Homecoming festivities.

Judging the floats will be Mrs. Richmond Valentine of Des Moines, a member of the State Board of Regents; David Peshkin, a Des Moines attorney and past president of the SUI Alumni Association; and Dave Carter of Cedar Rapids, news editor at KCRG-TV.

Judges will determine winners in the categories of beauty, originality and humor, and an over-all sweepstakes winner will also be chosen.

An additional prize will be awarded by the Elks Club for the best float entered by a men's dormitory, and the Kiwanis Club will award a prize to the fraternity with the best entry.

Seventeen of the 20 floats are being sponsored by Iowa City business concerns.

The parade will begin at the intersection of Iowa Avenue and Gilbert Street, move west on Iowa to Dubuque Street, continue two blocks north on Dubuque to Market Street, west on Market to Clinton Street, south four blocks on Clinton to College Street, and will end at the intersection of College and Gilbert.

Leading the parade will be a color guard composed of Army and Air Force ROTC cadets. Next will come official cars carrying the honorary parade marshals — Michael Carver, A4, Waverly, president of Student Senate; and Charles G. Dore, president of the Iowa City Chamber of Commerce.

Other cars will carry President and Mrs. Virgil M. Hancher, Iowa City Mayor Fred Doderer, and Jonathan Fletcher, Alumni representative.

Also near the head of the parade will be SUI cheerleaders and the five Miss SUI finalists.

March tunes will be provided by the Hawkeye Marching Band, the Scottish Highlanders, the Indiana University Band, and high school bands and marching units from Calamus, Cedar Rapids, Solon, Tipton, West Liberty, Danville, Davenport, Iowa City, Lone Tree, Mount Pleasant and Muscatine.

Today's News Briefly

NEW YORK — Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu nearly collapsed Thursday during one stop on her grueling round of speaking engagements in the United States. Her body shook and her voice quavered during a speech to 700 students at Sarah Lawrence College in Bronxville. A doctor was not needed, however. She told the students that "Viet Nam does not intend to be a beggar of anyone."

HERSHEY, Pa. — Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater accused President Kennedy here Thursday of joining a "cynical alliance" with political bosses and because of this the "vitality of American leadership in the cold war has waned to the vanishing point." He said the present Administration's choice is clear: "Government of the Kennedys, by the Kennedys and for the Kennedys."

WASHINGTON — Willingness and readiness to broaden the area of East-West accord was expressed Thursday after a meeting between President Kennedy and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko. A White House announcement said the two leaders discussed their positions on the proposed East-West nonaggression pact, the Kennedy plan for a NATO Polar force, Berlin, Laos and the banning of nuclear-armed satellites in outer space.

BELLUNO, Italy — More than 3,000 persons are estimated to have died in a flood caused by a mammoth mountain landslide into a hydroelectric dam reservoir here Thursday. A giant wall of water crashed down from the Vaiont Dam reservoir into the Piave River Valley and turned the entire area into a mass of water, mud, bodies and debris. Scientists said an earthquake apparently triggered the landslide.

Appeal Pends—

Teichner Seeks Young Demo Post

Stephen J. Teichner, A2, Amherst, Mass., announced his candidacy Thursday for the "vacated" office of second vice president of the SUI Young Democrats.

The announcement came after John Niemeier, president, Tuesday evening accepted the resignation of Fred Strawn, A2, Garrison, from the second vice president position.

Strawn, whose position in the club came into question after the executive council voted "no confidence" against him Tuesday night, said Wednesday he had not submitted a letter of resignation and was unwilling to do so. Strawn had asked for the impeachment of Niemeier.

Strawn said Thursday his charges against Niemeier still stand. "At this time, the situation doesn't warrant any further comment on my part," he said.

"I HAVE BEEN discussing with certain (Democrat) officials in the state organization what would happen if I should appeal this resignation," he said. "As of now, I don't anticipate to have any statement until Thursday, Oct. 17."

"This weekend I and several state officials are going to meet and talk this situation over," Strawn stated. "The whole situation is under close study by certain people outside the campus organization."

Teichner told The Daily Iowan

Thursday he decided to accept the candidacy "when it became clear to me the position would be open." This was when the council accepted Strawn's resignation, he added.

Teichner said Merle Wood, A3, Cedar Rapids, member of the executive council of the Young Democrats, had spoken to him about running.

"It is my intention to fulfill the office of second vice president of the Young Democrats in strict compliance with the constitution," Teichner said.

"I realize that this position is not merely an advisory or subordinate one," he continued. "I intend to use the office of second vice president as a vehicle for contributing to the welfare of the club as a whole and not for the personal satisfaction or gain of any clique or group within the Young Democrats."

The YD squabble: Where are the issues?

SUI INTERNECINE SQUABBLES sometimes have a way of becoming all-campus fracas with name calling, personal feuds, and politicking upstaging the real issues. Such a fracas seems to have evolved out of what were once real issues within the Young Democrats Club.

Name calling, unfortunately, attracts more attention than a less sensible discussion of policy disagreement. The latter seems to have been the impetus for the impeachment proceedings against the YD's president, John Niemeyer. Some of the Young Democrats executive board members disagreed with Mr. Niemeyer's actions as chief executive, and the attempted impeachment proceedings seemed a useful vehicle for expressing dissatisfaction with those policies.

When the group's vice president, Fred Strawn, acted as spokesman for the dissatisfied faction of the YD's, however, he went farther than the other dissidents had intended. His charges against Mr. Niemeyer's ethics and his sincerity were offensive to those who, although disagreeing with Mr. Niemeyer's actions as president, never questioned his personal honesty.

In defense of his position, Mr. Niemeyer engaged in some parliamentary maneuvering, the constitutionality of which Mr. Strawn questioned. These moves — justified or not — complicated matters more, and the original criticism of Mr. Niemeyer was further buried in the excitement.

We hope the Young Democrats can resolve the question which started the political free-for-all — the value of Mr. Niemeyer's actions as president — without any more in-fighting. The Young Democrats can be effective spokesmen for the political views of one campus faction — if they can bring some unity out of all the chaos.

Barry bugs machine

AS WE'VE MENTIONED in these columns, Barry Goldwater, the prospective president, has hired a data machine to keep his speeches and opinions straight for him.

In the earlier editorial we pointed up some contradictory statements which the Senator had made. We noted the difficulty presented to the machine in tabulating opinions when these statements did not agree.

We now see that early this month Goldwater told an audience in New Jersey he favored selling wheat to Russia. "I'm going to surprise you, but if our allies sell wheat to the Russians, maybe we should too. It's in the nature of the American people to help hungry people."

Last week in California Goldwater blasted the New Frontier for the proposed joint moon shot and the test ban treaty. Then he criticized the Administration saying the Administration was offering to "bail out the highly vaunted Soviet farm collective with a lot of what I'm willing to bet will be tons of free American wheat."

The poor machine is probably overheating right now.

Badge sales badgering

I BOUGHT A Homecoming badge. I even wear it. It didn't take much of a sales talk — all she had to do was smile sweetly and hold out her hand for the 50 cents.

Some badge salesmen, however, have been employing a harder sell, with a sales talk that is less than honest. We've received complaints from non-badge wearers that some salesmen have told them proceeds from the sales go to everything from Project AID to the Crippled Children's Hospital.

The proceeds from badge sales, of course, go to finance Homecoming activities. The competition between housing groups may account for the enthusiasm that has fostered dishonesty. Or maybe a few wayward salesmen have just been super patriots for Homecoming.

Whatever the reason, salesmen should be instructed to sell their badges for what they are — support for Homecoming. Otherwise, future salesmen — the ones who depend upon a sweet smile and a pitch for backing Homecoming — may find their sales prospects limited.

Our diplomatic bind— The Africans and Alabama

By RALPH McGILL

United Nations: Here is a non-diplomatic dish which was recently served to the U.S. delegation.

Some 32 African states, with perhaps a few allies, are talking of challenging the credentials of the South African delegation to the United Nations. They will do so on the basis that these delegates do not represent the people of that country, some 70 per cent of whom have been deprived of the right to citizenship, trial by jury, and so on.

The United States countered in conference that it is better to have South Africa in the United Nations than out — that more can be gained by such a situation.

This was, as it turned out, an error.

The Africans merely grinned like so many cats that had swallowed as many canaries, and said: "How about the case of Red China?"

The conference continued for a while. But it got nowhere. The Africans are in the strong position of being morally right. The United States is right in trying to resolve what probably is a situation impossible of resolution, without resorting to extreme measures. But the inescapable, uncomfortable fact is that our diplomacy here is in a bind.

Down in a small town in Alabama, Negro citizens were arrested for demonstrating with placards saying they wanted to register to vote. That, at least, is the interpretation put on the story by Asian and African countries. The Communist countries are emphasizing the story of the killing of colored children in Birmingham to insist the United States is a racist, fascist country.

Ambassador Stevenson finds here, as does the State Department in Washington, that race violence greatly frustrates the efforts of this country to play an increasingly necessary role of international leadership. How valid is our democracy?

Praises Zimm article

To the Editor:

I'm writing you to express my appreciation for the fine article you published in last Friday's Daily Iowan, a section reprinted from Howard Zimm's "The Battle-Scarred Youngsters" in the Nation. Since obviously you cannot have a southern war correspondent, and since (also obviously) the wire services have totally defaulted on their responsibility to report accurately the situation in any part of the world, I think you were wise to choose independently such a powerful and deeply-considered article. You should be commended for reprinting the essay, and I hope you will begin a practice of reprinting more such responsible reportage.

I do have one objection to the reprinted section, however, although I don't wish to detract from what I consider your genuine achievement. When you shortened the essay, you deprived the story's narrative of its very definitely political context. This makes the story's incidents told there only fragments of unrelieved horror — without explaining the real meaning behind these incidents. Unless you assume, as I don't, that what was described in the article was simply brutality for the sake of brutality, you're rather under an obligation to explain the origin and uses of such behavior. An interpretation and framework for the analysis and understanding of southern police brutality was set up in the introductory section of Zimm's essay, cut from your version.

Speaking of the March on Washington in the light of his experiences, Mr. Zimm writes:

"There was one relevant moment in the day's events at Washington: that was when the youngest speaker on the platform, John Lewis, chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, lashed out in anger, not only at the Dixiecrats, but at the Kennedy Administration, which had been successful up to that moment in directing the indignation of 200,000 people at everyone but itself."

"The depth of Lewis' feeling and the direction of his attack may have baffled Northern liberals, mollified recently by the Administration's new Civil Rights Bill, by its bold words and by the President's endorsement of the great March. But John Lewis knew, because the young SNCC workers in his organization are on the front lines of the conflict, that while the president and the Attorney General speak loud in Washington, their voices are scarcely whispers in the towns and the hamlets of the Black Belt."

And toward the end of the article Mr. Zimm draws his conclusion to his observations about southern brutality:

"The straight, crass fact at which John Lewis was aiming is this: the national government, without any new legislation, has the power to protect Negro voters and demonstrators from policemen's clubs, hoses and jails — and it has not used that power."

Reader protests Herblock art

To the Editor:

This is to protest The Daily Iowan's continued and consistent use of Herblock's editorial cartoons. The mere fact that a man may possess a profitable combination of insight and artistic ability does not require that we pay him an undue portion of our attention.

Particularly offensive to a sense of responsibility and objectivity is his characterization of Senator Barry Goldwater. Today's cartoon, for example, attributes to Mr. Goldwater statements which are neither accurate nor fair.

The cartoon is inaccurate. Mr. Goldwater has reiterated his position with respect to right-wing groups, and openly disagreed with their policies on frequent occasions. But more misleading is the implication that the political momentum which Mr. Goldwater now enjoys has come directly from the impetus supplied by extremists. It is a matter of record that Mr. Goldwater is the leading GOP contender for the presidential nomination, and that record is being confirmed each day by a growing list of responsible Republican leaders.

Further, the cartoon is unfair. Richard Nixon has adequately demonstrated how absurd it is to

New Dorm Housekeepers Share Enthusiasm For Jobs

Mrs. Edith Brysch and Mrs. Helen Pumphrey have moved into supervisory roles at Burge and Currier Halls this year. Mrs. Brysch is the new housekeeper at Burge; Mrs. Pumphrey occupies the position of housekeeper at Currier.

Both women now live in Iowa City although Mrs. Pumphrey was born in Kentucky. Mrs. Brysch is a native Iowa Citian and attended SUI for one semester before illness forced her to leave.

Enthusiasm for their work is a trait shared equally by the new housekeepers. "I really enjoy it. The girls are so nice," says Mrs. Pumphrey, who previously worked for three years in the Burge Dining Service. Mrs. Brysch, who began working at SUI as a maid 28 years ago, agrees that "the girls as a whole are very pleasant, although each requires a different approach."

Their housekeeping duties consist primarily of supervising the maids and housemen. Checking room damages and lounge areas are included. Mrs. Pumphrey pleasantly explained, "I am so pleased with the girls' responses to my requests."

When Mrs. Brysch began work at Currier Hall in 1935, there were only 325 girls in residence. During World War II girls resided in Currier, cottages, the Law Commons, even Hillcrest and three fraternity houses. Today there are 675 rooms in Burge and Currier.

"Things haven't changed much since 1935," she says, "but everything is more casual. More meals are served cafeteria style now. Adelaide Burge, who was Dean of Women when I first came, would probably be surprised at the quantity of bermudas and sneakers worn."

Raising purebred Hungarian

Vizsla dogs and registered Quarter horses helps to occupy Mrs. Pumphrey's spare time. Although she herself does not train them, she and her husband, Hadden, attend many horse shows and enjoy hunting with their dogs. Last summer the Pumphreys saw their 20-year-old daughter married and took a fishing vacation.

Mrs. Brysch and her husband, Roy, have no children, but, "We do have a big yellow cat named 'Schroeder.'" The Burge housekeeper enjoys knitting and cooking when she has time.

SEAT 19 PRESS ROW

By HARRIETT HINDMAN
Sports Editor

After last week's dismal showing, it might be wise to quit making predictions and accept the cliché that "anything can happen in football." But, with the belief that things can't get much worse, it's off on the prediction road again as the Big Ten swings into the conference season.

IOWA 24, INDIANA 7 — It's homecoming for the Hawkeyes who are more confident and more determined after their win over Washington. Marv Woodson is the only senior in the starting lineup for the Hoosiers and should be good for one touchdown, but Iowa's defense should stop Indiana thereafter. Ohio State beat the Hoosiers with the long aerial and the Hawks have the men who can throw and catch the long pass.

OHIO STATE 21, ILLINOIS 14 — The win over Northwestern was the big game for the Illini, and the Buckeyes, who blanked Indiana, 21-0 last weekend, are extra-strong at Columbus.

MICHIGAN 17, MICHIGAN STATE 7 — It's always a good ball game when these rivals meet, but even Duffy Daugherty is having trouble being optimistic about his Spartans.

NORTHWESTERN 26, MINNESOTA 14 — The Wildcats showed that they can be beaten in last week's 10-9 loss to Illinois, but they'll be out to reclaim their national ranking and the Gophers aren't the team to stop them.

WISCONSIN 28, PURDUE 7 — The Boiler-makers can't seem to score easily and the now Big Ten favorite Wisconsin will be out to prove its worth as the conference race begins.

OKLAHOMA 20, TEXAS 17 — A toss-up between the No. 1 and No. 2 teams in the country, but Bud Wilkinson's team hasn't beaten Texas since 1957 and in a close one, it's Oklahoma's turn to come out ahead.

SOUTHERN CAL 20, NOTRE DAME 14 — The Trojans haven't won at South Bend since 1939, but Pete Beathard and Hal Bedsole should team up on a number of aerials to outscore the Irish who stumbled against Purdue, 7-6, last week.

MIAMI (Fla.) 17, LOUISIANA STATE 14 — Louisiana State upset seventh-ranked Georgia Tech, 7-6, last Saturday, but will find All-America George Mira finally hitting on his aerials.

PENN STATE 16, ARMY 0 — The undefeated Nittany Lions should more than repeat Minnesota's 9-6 performance over the Cadets.

MISSISSIPPI 24, TULANE 6 — The talent-loaded Mississippi squad should easily defeat Tulane, picked to finish in the Southeastern Conference cellar.

By BOB MOYERS
Of Sports Information Service

Although this prediction column seems to be reserved for misguided managing editors (1-9) and misfiring blonde bombshells (3-7), I guess it's my turn to be the dud of the week.

Since I don't own a "magic" box or a seat in press row, I will just try to use my specially devised statistical analysis and computational method (i.e. coin tossing) to predict Saturday's games.

IOWA 31, INDIANA 14 — The Hawkeyes' passing attack is about ready to find its mark against the Hoosiers in Iowa's Homecoming feature attraction. Woodson will be hard to stop, but Iowa will use the air route to subdue Indiana.

OHIO STATE 17, ILLINOIS 7 — Woody Hayes just doesn't lose Homecoming football games. Although the Buckeyes will probably be scored upon, Illinois just doesn't have enough firepower for another top effort after Northwestern. Besides, I'm from Ohio.

MICHIGAN STATE 27, MICHIGAN 13 — The Spartans' explosive ground game and their strong showing against USC make them the favorites in this traditional rivalry. Let's hope the favorite wins in this one.

NORTHWESTERN 21, MINNESOTA 10 — You can't keep a good man down and Tom Myers should bounce back this week to lead the Wildcats back to the top.

WISCONSIN 28, PURDUE 7 — By comparative scores, the Badgers should win by four points. But with an unknown junior replacing Lou Holland on the first team, Wisconsin appears loaded for Saturday's game.

TEXAS 1, OKLAHOMA 0 — Anything could happen as these two top teams square off, but the Texans should upset the Sooners since Navy is destined to be the No. 1 team in the nation.

SOUTHERN CAL 21, NOTRE DAME 7 — The Irish could spring the upset of the week but USC appears just a bit too strong with the "B" boys combining once again for a victory.

LOUISIANA STATE 10, MIAMI 7 — George Mira has yet to throw a touchdown pass. Here's hoping that he still hasn't after Saturday's action.

PENN STATE 17, ARMY 6 — Pitt and Penn State are battling Navy for eastern honors. Army just does not match the running game of the Nittany Lions.

MISSISSIPPI 28, TULANE 7 — The predictor's special. Last week it was Alabama vs. Vanderbilt. At least any picker is entitled to get one right.

Iowa Harriers Open At Illinois Today

Iowa's cross-country team meets Illinois at Champaign today as it starts what Coach Francis Cretzmeyer calls "a lean year for Iowa."

Hawkeyes making the trip are Larry Kramer, George Clarke, Lee Walker, Jim Ashton, Derrick Williams, Larry Sheets, Ron Greenlee, and Lee Wraith.

Kramer, captain of the squad which is seeking its fifth straight dual meet victory, is suffering from a virus and will "not be up to par" for today's meet according to Cretzmeyer.

The Hawks have only two other returning lettermen, Clarke and Ashton, and "the rest of the competitors are very inexperienced," Cretzmeyer says.

At Illinois, Iowa's harriers will face the 1962 Big Ten individual champion, Al Carius. Other top runners for the Illini are Rick Lally, who placed second in the conference indoor mile contest last year, and sophomores Jan Bridges and Bill Harman.

"Illinois will be tough not only because of its personnel, but it has been practicing two weeks longer than we have and also has participated in a meet," Cretzmeyer commented.

The Illini lost to the University of Chicago Track Club, 20-41, last Saturday.

Iowa's first home meet is with Wisconsin Oct. 19.

U-High Hosts West Branch; I.C. on Road

U-High seeks its fifth straight win against West Branch at 8:15 tonight in the Blue's Homecoming tilt.

The Blues have yet to allow any opponent more than one touchdown in a game while West Branch has yet to be held to less than two touchdowns. U-High, in its four straight wins including last week's upset victory over West Branch, has never scored more than two touchdowns in a contest.

West Branch has a 2-2 record for the year.

IOWA CITY'S LITTLE HAWKS travel to East Moline for a Mississippi Valley battle starting at 7 p. m. (CST).

After winning their first two games, the Hawklets have suffered two consecutive losses and have dropped to a tie for seventh in the conference with a 1-2 mark.

Mantle To Have Knee Operation

NEW YORK — Mickey Mantle definitely will have an operation on his left knee within two weeks in a New York hospital.

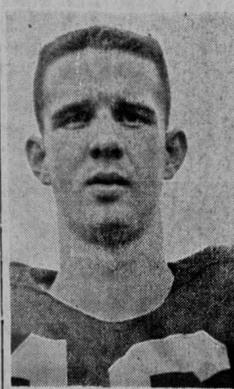

The New York Yankees announced Mantle's imminent operation Thursday after Manager Ralph Houk had conferred with co-owner Dan Topping and General Manager Roy Hamer. Houk contacted Mantle on a golf course in Dallas where he was playing with Ben Hogan.

Houston, Mets Select 3 Players

CINCINNATI — The New York Mets grabbed 20-year-old infielder Billy Haas from Los Angeles and pitcher Jack Fisher from San Francisco and the Houston Colts took relief pitcher Claude Raymond from Milwaukee Thursday at $30,000 each in the National League's gesture to help the newest clubs.

Parilli Returns

BOSTON — Boston will have regular quarterback Babe Parilli back in action for its American Football League battle with revamped Oakland tonight.

Parilli injured his right shoulder four weeks ago in San Diego and has seen only very limited action since that time.

The Patriots, second to New York in the Eastern Division with only a 2-3 record, have lost two straight. Oakland has demonstrated a rugged defense but has dropped three in a row during which span the team has mustered only 21 points.

"A guy has got to have desire . . . he's got to go 100 per cent all the time."

That's the formula for both great football players and winning ball clubs according to this year's Hawkeye co-captains Paul Krause and Wally Hilgenberg.

Hilgenberg and Krause, like the entire Hawk squad, possess this "desire" to try harder when the going gets tough.

When these men think of football, they think as a team. Both Paul and Wally are two-year lettermen and consider the gridiron part of their life. "I enjoy the game," said Hilgenberg, "and when I stop enjoying it, I'll quit."

Wally, a 6-2, 223-pound guard, has been playing organized ball for almost eleven years. He began playing with the junior high team in his home town, Wilton Junction, when he was in the fifth grade. His brother (Iowa Line Coach Jerry Hilgenberg), who was an All-American from Iowa in 1957, set a goal for Wally. "I've just always wanted to play for Iowa," he explained.

Like Hilgenberg, Paul, 6-3, 178-pound right half, gained his desire to play football from an older brother. Krause competed in high school football at Flint, Mich., and earned all-state and all-city honors in his senior year.

Baseball is another of Paul's loves (next to football, his wife, and his one-year old daughter). "I just love all sports," he added.

Being a husband, father, student, and football player occasionally makes life tough for Krause. "In fact," he stated, "sometimes my wife, Pam, gives me a rougher time after a game than Coach Burns does."

Professional football is the present goal for both Krause and Hilgenberg, although Wally hopes eventually to enter either the field of law or public relations.

In the near future, however, both Hawkeye co-captains have an identical goal — to beat Indiana.

"We can beat them," said Krause. "Our team morale is high and we know we can score when we want to."

When discussing his concept of a good athlete, Hilgenberg implied the factor which may give Iowa the winning edge in Saturday's game.

"The characteristic of a good athlete," he said, "is when he can pull himself up and fight back after he is down in the dumps or has fallen behind. The Indiana game will be decided on the field."

WALLY HILGENBERG

ONE LAST DRILL—

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. — Indiana University's football team reviewed offensive and defensive plans for the Iowa encounter Thursday and then began packing for the trip to Iowa City this morning.

The Hoosiers will practice in the Hawkeye stadium this afternoon and spend the night in a Cedar Rapids hotel before Saturday's Big Ten contest.

Heart's Dance Will Feature 'Wonderland'

Those who have always wanted to play Alice and Alice in Wonderland have the chance to do so Saturday evening at the Queen of Hearts Dance in the Union Main Lounge.

The theme will be carried out complete with a bushy-tailed Cheshire cat and a Mad Hatter. The cat will be perched in a tree (it will even be a real one) in the center floor of the lounge. The cat will be constructed of paper mache.

A huge mushroom beneath the tree will hover over a brilliantly painted paper mache caterpillar.

The decorations will be in hues of red, white, blue, gold and green with special accents of glitter.

Life-size cardboard figures of the Mad Hatter, party teacups, and royal guards will be placed at points of interest in the lounge and in the River Room.

Ferguson's bandstand will face Miss SUI's throne this year instead of being adjacent to it. The backdrop for her majesty's throne will be a large red heart flanked on either side by paper figures of royal guards and a king.

"Wild Child" Gibson will perform for River Room dancers and figures of Wonderland characters. Leo Cortimiglia and orchestra will be in the Gold Feather Room for dancers who want to retire from the hubbub of the Main Lounge for awhile.

Central Party Committee members will begin decorating the Union Saturday.

Dance bids for the event will be in the shape of playing cards, according to Mary Ann Ruud, A3, Rock Island, Ill., of the decoration committee.

An intermission tea will be in a hall adjacent to the Main Lounge at 10 p.m. Guests of honor at the tea will be President Virgil Hancher and other University faculty, Miss SUI and her court.

Tickets for the dance are still available at Whetstone's, Campus Record Store, and the Information Desk of the Union. Price per couple is $5.

Boone Youth Found Guilty In Third Trial

BOONE — Michael Faught, 19, Mason City, was convicted of manslaughter Thursday in his third trial for the slaying of a cook at the Woodward State Hospital and School two years ago.

A district court jury of eight men and four women returned the verdict after receiving the case late Wednesday afternoon.

He was charged with murder in the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Jessie Zenor, 53, of Madrid on July 9, 1961 while Faught was a patient at the school.

Hoosier Hundred Step-off

Journeying to Iowa City Saturday to participate in the Homecoming celebration will be Indiana University's Marching Hundred Band. Pre-game and halftime performances at the Iowa-Indiana football game will feature the newly added 20-piece coronation trumpet section, which was added this year, and which makes the Hoosier band the only known collegiate marching band in the country utilizing a complete section of this instrument.

Iowa, Indiana Bands Battle; Pay Tribute to All Coeds

The half-time show at Iowa's Homecoming Saturday will continue the battle between Iowa and Indiana with a special and extremely unusual tribute to the American coed.

Not knowing any of the other bands were planning such a salute, the Hawkeye Marching Band, the Sottish Highlanders and the Hoosier Hundred each planned to feature a salute to the coed as high points of their separate performances.

The Highlanders, who as a group are a salute to the international coed, will present their traditional "Drum Dance," and the Hawkeye Marching Band will introduce SUI's new twirler, Bobbie Foulkes, A1, Altoona, with a special arrangement of "Lady Be Good!"

The Indiana University Marching Hundred Band, sharing the half-time show with the marching Hawkeyes, will adapt music from "West Side Story" to its theme, "A Salute to the American Coed."

The SUI Marching Band and the Highlanders will begin their participation in homecoming festivities by joining numerous Iowa high school bands in marching in the homecoming parade Friday night.

The Highlanders, directed by William Adamson, will continue their performance with a full-length pre-game program starting at 1:15 p.m. Saturday. They will feature the colorful "Sword Dance," to be performed by Margaret Doolittle, A3, Madison, Wis., Mary Haase, A2, Chariton, Lynne Hohenshell, A3, Boone, Bonnie Pettengill, A3, Rock Rapids, and Jane Taylor, Conni Tuder and Joy Engel, all A2, Young Gregory, a three-year bandsman at Indiana University and former high school drum major, is the son of Hoosier Bandsmaster Ronald D. Gregory.

Music will include London's "Bonnie Woods and Braes," "Charlie Is My Darling" and "On Iowa." Drum Major Carolyn Rabe, A4, Manchester, will lead the 75 lassies through a series of "street beat" drills, including the progressive wave formation, a maneuver never before presented in the Iowa Stadium.

At half-time of Saturday's Iowa-Indiana game, the H a w k e y e Marching Band, under the direction of Frederick Ebbs and his assistant, Tom Davis, will present its entire show to the music of George Gershwin.

"Swanee" will herald the downfield march, followed with a twirling exhibition by Miss Foulkes, who has earned 120 trophies and 115 medals in twirling contests throughout the United States.

Drum Majors Gerald Kesler, A4, Griffith, Ind., and William Parisi, A2, Chicago Heights, Ill., will lead the band through the concert arrangement of "An American in Paris" and a special "fisherman" formation, accompanied by "Summertime."

The Iowa Marching Band will close with a drill routine to "I Got Rhythm."

Contrary to its name, the Hoosier "Hundred" numbers 160 playing bandsmen and a 20-member alternate unit. Featured with the band are Dennis Gregory, Bloomington, Ind., drum major; and twirlers Duke Rouse, S a n Bernardino, Calif.; Barbara Yamey, Cincinnati, Ohio, and Nancy Jo Burkle of Wintersville, Ohio, all juniors, and William Pearse, freshman, Auburn, Ind.

As depicted by the Marching Hundred, the activities of the "American Coed" will include her early morning appearance in hair curlers, which unroll as the band plays "Maria;" the inevitable telephone call from a campus admirer; the party dress that will be worn on the evening date, and the fancy hair-do to complete the image.

Accompanying music, in addition to "Maria," will include "Something's Coming" and "Tonight." Indiana University bandsmen forego a portion of their summer vacation each year to report for an extensive pre-school Band Camp, with morning, afternoon and night rehearsals held daily.

Bandmaster Gregory, who has had the responsibility at Indiana for seven different bands, began some internal changes in 1960 that were to lead to multiple accolades from band fans throughout the Midwest.

He started by switching 17 woodwind players to saxophone. The effect was electrifying, followers agreed, noting that the Marching Hundred produced a fuller sound, and exhibited considerably more flexibility of performance.

In the fall of 1961, 21 additional bandsmen registered as woodwind players, only to find that they, too, had been switched to the saxophone. Not stopping here, Gregory later acquired 20 flatjack drums — the small, spinning variety — which also added to the snappy showmanship of the marching band; and a complete piccolo trumpet section to augment the regular trumpet unit.

Too, the Marching Hundred boasts the only complete coronation trumpet section among American college bands.

Macmillan's Job Is Open

LONDON — The scramble was on Friday for Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's job.

Unofficially, odds were posted on Tories considered to figure in the race to succeed the ailing 69-year-old chief of government and Conservative party leader.

The first open contender, Viscount Hailsham, said he would quit the peerage and House of Lords to seek humbler but politically potent membership in Commons. This meant, of course, as he quickly confirmed, that he wants to be premier.

Lord Hailsham's commoner — or pre-peerage — name was Quintin Mc Garel Hogg, and he is expected to revert to it.

Hailsham got a standing ovation from 2,500 Conservatives at their annual conference at Blackpool when he announced his intention.

A Conservative Commons member, Sir Gerald Nabarro, posted odds for what he called the succession stakes, and listed Lord Hailsham in second place. He listed as favorite Richard A. Butler, deputy prime minister who is acting in the top job while Macmillan convalesces.

Butler was a contender once before but Macmillan proved to be the queen's choice.

ROTC Corps Will Assemble, Control Parade

The entire 120 member SUI Air Force ROTC advanced corps and 20 Army ROTC Pershing Riflemen will be at work to help SUIowans enjoy Homecoming festivities this weekend.

The Air Force group, directed by Cadet Major Darrell Gosse, B4, Fairbank, will help assemble the parade in its correct order and spacing. Other Air Force cadets will be assigned to crowd control, insuring street clearance to provide ample room for the bands to pass.

The Corps will be coordinated in these tasks by walkie-talkies at strategic points along the parade route.

Immediately after the parade the Corps will help the Iowa City and Campus Police form a cordon around the reviewing stand, and form an aisle through the crowd for the Miss SUI candidates to pass.

The 20 Pershing Riflemen will help Campus Police control traffic Friday night, and at the game Saturday.

Youths' Interracial Violence Leaves Police in Philadelphia at a Loss

PHILADELPHIA — An outbreak of interracial violence among teen-agers in South Philadelphia has cut school attendance in the area more than a third and caused a high school football game to be played in secret.

Police are at a loss as to what caused the outbreak — it started a week ago — and say many parents apparently now are afraid to send their children to school. Most of the skirmishes, police say, have resulted in minor injuries, some by slashings with sharp objects.

For example, one boy reported two others tried to jam a can opener in his face; a 16-year-old girl said three girls grabbed her as she was walking and jabbed her wrist with a piece of glass; another girl said 10 boys accosted her and one slashed her face with a razor blade.

In each case, police said, it was either a white victim claiming he or she was attacked by a Negro or Negroes; or a Negro victim contending the attacker or attackers were white.

Police Inspector Howard Gatter said Thursday he has assigned 100 extra policemen to the heavily populated residential area. The neighborhood is dotted by row upon row of two-three- and even four-story houses occupied generally by a low-income group. The houses have little or no yards that can be used for play areas. Streets are used frequently for playing.

The fighting so far has been entirely among juveniles, most of them pupils at the area's public high schools, South Philadelphia High and Bok Vocational.

Dr. Pauling, A-Bomb Foe, Wins Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Dr. Linus Carl Pauling, 62, long a foe of nuclear tests leading to fallout, was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize on Thursday.

The crusading Californian, a center of controversy in his own country, became a two-time winner of Nobel awards.

The research scientist for the California Institute of Technology was awarded the Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1954.

He is the second individual to win two Nobel prizes, sharing that honor with Marie Curie of radium research fame.

The Norwegian Nobel Committee announced Pauling will be given the prize for 1962. An award for that year never was announced. The 1963 peace prize will be divided between the International Red Cross Committee and the League of Red Cross Societies.

The reason for the award will be announced Dec. 10 when Pauling receives the $49,468 prize in a ceremony in Oslo.

But a friend, Dr. Otto Bastiansen, professor of chemistry at Oslo University, mentioned Pauling's campaign against testing.

"Pauling's greatest effort was that he calculated the harmful effects of radioactive fallout. He also got other scientists interested, and has created an opinion against nuclear tests among scientists all over the world," Bastiansen said.

"He also collected signatures on a petition from scientists on both sides of the Iron Curtain and asked the United Nations to make the big name scientists who helped him get the signatures. The subcommittee accused him of 'a consistent pro-Soviet bias.' The professor has denied under oath that he is a Communist.

MEN IN GOOD SUPPLY—

MOSCOW (AP) — Women outnumber the men in the Soviet Union by about 20,000,000, but a new Soviet book advises the young girls among them not to worry about landing a husband.

The reason, says the book "Women and Children in the USSR," is that the number of men under 35 years of age exceeds the number of women.

powers stop the tests."

The signature campaign got Pauling into hot water with the Senate Internal Security subcommittee in 1960. At the risk of contempt of Congress, he refused to

Mrs. Nhu Keeps Busy

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Ngo Dinh Nhu tripped daintily on high-heeled red shoes through another busy round of engagements Thursday as she sought American public support for the government of South Viet Nam.

The tiny, dark-eyed and beautiful sister-in-law of Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem had a ready smile as she tackled her second day of speech making, with her equally striking 18-year-old daughter, Le Thuy, by her side.

She said her activities Wednesday had tired her, but added:

"Today, I feel much better."

Climaxing her schedule for the day was a motor trip to Sarah Lawrence College, a private school for girls in Bronxville, north of the city. There some 500 teen-aged students awaited their first exposure to Viet Nam's first lady.

Earlier, Mrs. Nhu visited the Time-Life Building in Radio City where she was a guest of editors of the magazines at a luncheon. About 300 persons watched her arrive by limousine at the 51st Street entrance of the skyscraper.

Mrs. Nhu wore long, pale blue pants beneath a tight-fitting deep rose sheath that extended to her ankles. Her accessories, beside the red shoes, included a small white purse, pale blue gloves, and jade jewelry.

Tacoma Woman Dies In Coralville Accident

A woman who was struck and killed when she ran into the path of a semi-trailer truck in Coralville early Thursday morning has been identified as Mrs. Eva L. Forry, 28, Tacoma, Wash.

Police said Mrs. Forry carried no identification, and an attempt was being made Thursday morning to identify her through fingerprints when her 22-year-old husband, Jack, contacted police about 8 a. m.

The Forrys and their two-year-old son, Mike, were enroute from Bristol, Ind., to McChord Air Force Base, Wash., where Forry, an airman second class, had received a new assignment.

According to George Blair, 41, Granger, driver of the truck that struck Mrs. Forry, she ran across Highway 6 just west of the Congress Inn. Blair said he was unable to avoid hitting her.

Mrs. Forry apparently ran across three lanes of traffic and narrowly missed being hit by several other vehicles before getting in the path of Blair's truck, which was hauling steel implement parts west in the northernmost lane of traffic.

John A. McGaffey, Coralville police chief, said the Forrys were staying at a Coralville motel for the night.

Mrs. Forry's husband said she had told him she was going for a walk just before she ran into the path of Blair's truck.

Mrs. Forry was Johnson County's seventeenth traffic fatality this year, one more than on this date in 1962.

Informal Rushing

SUI's Waiters at Union Ready for Big Weekend

Schwengel Wins Civil Rights Victory

Especially for You

Ken Pratt, G. Waukon, serves an unidentified girl Heights, Ill., looks on. Both Pratt and Rauch are at a recent reception as Len Rauch, G. Chicago captains with the Union Catering Service. — Photo by Mike Toner

When the Homecoming weekend is well underway, 20 SUI men will begin their Homecoming activities and will finish before Saturday's football game — approximately 12 hours before Homecoming will come to a close.

These men are the 20 regular waiters for the Union Catering Service. They will begin work at 1 p.m. today and finish, with one exception, at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Within this 24-hour span, these men will work approximately 16 hours to provide expert service to both visitors and students.

The big event on the "menu" for the waiters is the annual luncheon Saturday at the Field House for the state legislators and their wives. Attending this luncheon also will be Iowa Gov. Harold Hughes, Senators Jack Miller and Bourke Hickenlooper and U. S. Representative Charles B. Hoeven and Ben F. Jensen.

Guests will be served a buffet dinner of roast round of beef and an assortment of trimmings.

John Morris, Catering Service manager, said that his crew will start getting the Field House ready for the luncheon Friday afternoon. This entails carrying paper plates, table clothes and silverware to the Field House in a University truck. The food will be taken to the Field House Saturday morning in the truck.

But complicating this is the annual Union Open House Friday night when between 2,000 and 3,000 people will be served coffee and doughnuts in the Main Lounge.

In addition, the Catering Service has an 11 a.m. luncheon to serve to the Indiana University Band and several small coffees.

All of this will require the waiters to begin work at 1 p.m. Friday and work to about midnight. They will go home for some welcome sleep and return to the Union at 8 a.m. Saturday morning, Morris said.

"These events plus a limited amount of time, present our biggest challenge," Morris said. "We also have limited facilities, which presents a problem of transferring all of the equipment to the Field House."

Morris indicated that this weekend has been in the planning stages for over a month.

However, it isn't anything new to the members of the crew. He said that many weeks involve just as much work.

Morris described his crew of waiters as a cohesive unit, much like a fraternity. "The men are very close and spend a lot of time together."

"They all like their work — they have to," he continued.

John Dasher, acting Union food service manager, said that the waiters receive many extra intangible benefits in addition to their monthly pay checks. He cited the knowledge of formal restaurant service such as learning what a finger bowl is for; learning to cope with emergency situations and learning to be courteous to their guests.

All waiters who work for the Union have undergone a training system which familiarizes them with the service. In addition, Dasher said the men have to show initiative and be willing to work hard under strenuous conditions.

Five of the 20 waiters are captains. These five have the responsibility of seeing that parties and banquets are set up in the right fashion and that everyone is kept working, Dasher said.

"This captain system is an integral part of our system," Dasher commented. He said the captains have to be able to accept responsibility and be able to give good service along with having leadership qualities.

The service given by the crew is unique in the Midwest in that it is a modified type of Russian service where all of the food is passed to each guest. Morris indicated that this type of service is found to any great extent only in the eastern portion of the nation.

Roger Munn, assistant director of the Union, praised the service given by the crew of waiters. He added that it is hard to rank them with other colleges because other colleges use women instead of men for this type of work.

"The use of men certainly adds polish to our service," Munn said. "They are also uniformed nicely and this adds to the type of service."

The waiters generally wear a basic white uniform with yellow piping. Captains have braided bars on their shoulders. For more formal events, waiters wear special gold and black tuxedos. A recent innovation has been the use of white gloves.

WHAT A GAS—

CARAWAY, Ark. (AP)—The Leroy Gauf family of Caraway has found something better than the old piggy bank for saving change and it paid for their vacation this summer.

Back in 1961 Gauf began dropping his extra pocket change each day into the gas tank of his farm truck. Came vacation time this year, he pulled off the tank and shook it until out came 194.59.

Schwengel's bill to retrocede legislative jurisdiction over the reservation from the Federal Government back to the State of Iowa passed the House of Representatives on the consent calendar Monday. The bill now goes to the Senate where Schwengel expects favorable action.

When the bill is enacted into law it will permit the some 328 voters residing on the reservation to vote in state and national elections. Because of a quirk in the law, persons residing on Federal installations do not have the right of franchise and the votes of Iowa Ordinance Plant residents have been challenged in previous elections.

Policewoman Is Crack Rifle Champ of NRA

By PHIL GUNBY

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—There's nothing unladylike about liking guns and knowing how to shoot.

That's what a pretty blue-eyed blonde says. She is Jeanne Schafer Bray — wife, mother and Columbus policewoman, badge number 654.

She is also a defending champion in National Rifle Association (NRA) competition.

"I'd never shot a gun until my police training required it," says the vivacious bank president's daughter from Chesaning, Mich.

"But the fellows encouraged me. The noise and smell aren't as much as you'd think — although I admit your hands get kind of dirty — and I found it's fun, like playing cards or anything else that's challenging."

As Jeanne's score improved with practice ("I didn't have any bad shooting habits to unlearn"), someone suggested she try out for the crack Columbus police pistol team.

She did, made the team, "and if anyone resented a woman competing, I never heard about it."

Jeanne became the first woman in the nation to earn the National Rifle Association's "distinguished police marksman" bar pin, for a near-perfect score on an FBI combat shooting course.

In June, 1962, she won the NRA's Women's National Police Combat Pistol Division at Bloomington, Ind., and defended that title successfully this year.

Her husband and son are strong rooters, she says, although neither is interested in police work as a profession.

Loss Through Fires Exceeds $1 Million Monthly in Iowa

DES MOINES — The fire loss rate in Iowa during the first eight months of this year exceeded $1 million a month, a report from the Iowa Farm Loss Prevention Institute showed Thursday.

The report, based on statistics from the State Fire Marshal, showed the January-August rate was $1,086,872, only slightly below the $1,116,531 monthly average for all of 1962.

During 1962, figures in the fire marshal's office showed there were 754 rural fires accounting for damage of $3,488,168 and 2,332 fires in towns and cities of the state in which damage amounted to $9,810,179. So far this year there have been 460 rural fires with damage of $2,084,076 and 1,509 fires in town and cities with damage of $6,610,905.

"Even though the fire loss rate this year is below that of last year, we can take no comfort in a rate which exceeds $1 million a month," an official of the Institute said. "With a record like this, there is plenty of room for preventive work and this week, National Fire Prevention Week, is a good time to start."

Institute officials recommended a preventive program which included keeping rubbish cleaned out, combustible materials kept away from stoves, fireplaces, heaters and furnaces, appliance motors cleaned regularly, gasoline stored in safety cans and out of reach of children, matches kept out of reach of children, not smoking in bed and never running extension cords under rugs or hooked over nails.

New IFC Adviser on Campus—

Lauds Fraternity System

Society Editor
By SHARON PROCTOR

Beginning his third month on the SUI campus as director of fraternity affairs is Eldridge Roark, whose job includes advising the Interfraternity Council and supervising the fraternity business service.

Roark received his A.B. degree from Howard College, Birmingham, Ala., and his M.B.A. from Syracuse University. While at Howard, he was president of the student body, assistant editor of the campus newspaper, a member of Omicron Delta Kappa national leadership fraternity, and president of his social fraternity, Pi Kappa Alpha. He is single.

"A GREEK SYSTEM should be a contributing agency on any campus," he said. "The idea that Greek men and women live in a world of their own is erroneous."

"I feel that Greeks can develop a deeper loyalty to the University because of their membership," he said.

ROARK SAID he was impressed with the willingness of fraternity men and administration officials to cooperate with him in his duties.

"SUI seems very friendly for a large campus," he declared.

Roark said also that "SUI coeds measure up to any I've seen."

Roark was a residence counselor at Howard College for two years, and was on the Dean of Men's staff at Syracuse University.

HE WORKS WITH Greek men here and their problems of discipline and chapter leadership. He meets with each housemother once a month, and handles the books for the fraternity business service.

The business service deals with over $1 million a year, and is in charge of finances of all 13 fraternities, six sororities and two medical fraternities.

Roark's interests include Broadway musical comedies, camping, and competitive sports.

Eldridge Roark

"SUI fraternity men have a good attitude toward me and my position," he said. "With attention and hard work we will be able to work out any problems which might arise."

"There is much good in the fraternity system," he went on. "And there is real feeling for Greek life among SUI members."

Children Enjoy Falcon Herky, SUI Mascot

By CARROLL PETERSON
Staff Writer

Herky the Hawk is the official Hawkeye mascot. He is not a biological specimen of the family Falconidae, but an actual, black and gold, SUIowan mascot known only as Herky the Hawk.

"I get untold joy from going up to a little kid. He looks at me and back at his dad with glowing eyes. Then I shake his hand and he is overcome with delight thinking, 'Herky shook hands with me.'"

Great pleasure abounds as he sees their eyes light up, and their teeth shining, Herky assures, simply because he is Herky the Hawk. "Even the alumni get a kick out of seeing their mascot jump about on the sidelines," he adds.

Some fans are interested in neither the mascot nor the game.

"There are a lot of people who would like to jump more at the game than they do because social pressure keeps them down," Herky commented. "They can, however, get a lot of fun out of an elfish mascot on the field. It is far these SUIowans that Herky is designed."

Herky has to make a definite effort to give SUIowans this enjoyment. Sweltering under a 20-25 pound headpiece, Herky sweated so much at the first game this year the sweat filled his ears, yet he couldn't tilt his head and he wouldn't take the headpiece off to reveal an identity other than Herky.

Herky applied for his position last May in the Office of Student Affairs. Since that time, when he is Herky, he is Herky the Hawk only and none other.

Herky now reminds SUIowans to watch for him in the parade Friday night. All married students with children especially should come — with the kids. The score of the Homecoming game, as predicted by the team's mascot, will be 27-7 in favor of the Hawkeyes.

SMALL 'BEARING' ON SPACE—ROLLA, N.D. — A plant here operated by Bullova Watch Co. has a small, but special "bearing" on the space age. Its only product is an instrument jewel bearing — and it's the only plant of the kind in the country.

This bearing, for a space-age gyroscope, is so small that 400,000 of them would make a level teaspoonful.

A 44-YEAR LAST LAUGH—MIDDLEBURY, Conn. — In 1919, while students John Coe and Bob Brandegee were living in the Phi Sig house at Williams College, Coe decided to play a practical joke on his friend.

Brandegee was going to New Jersey for the weekend. While he was at breakfast, Coe unpacked his suitcase and substituted Tausig's text on economics and a few rocks for his clothes.

On Brandegee's return, neither mentioned the suitcase, and Coe had to buy a new economics book.

About a month ago, the Express Office in Waterbury notified Coe he had received a package from the R. L. Brandegee Co. As it was express collect, Coe forked over $3.50 — for his old Tausig text and some rocks.

Carolyn Rabe Heads Pipers

Combining hard work and some delicate balancing of her headpiece — a busby — Carolyn Rabe, A4, Manchester, leads the SUI Scottish Highlanders.

Dressed in her authentic Scottish uniform, Carolyn Rabe, A4, Manchester, is a familiar figure at home football games as she leads one of the world's largest bagpipe bands, the SUI Scottish Highlanders.

About 70 Highlanders lend support and color to SUI football games, and have been viewed by thousands of spectators in both the United States and in Europe.

Carolyn, a member of Highlanders for four years, has been drum major for two years.

"During half-time at the Homecoming and Dad's Day games, we give our most elaborate shows," Carolyn said. The lassies not only march and dance to lively Scottish airs which they play on their bagpipes, but they also harmonize on Scottish folk songs.

Traditionally the Highlanders perform at one away football game. On Oct. 26 the group will fly to Lafayette, Ind., to present a half-time show at the Iowa-Purdue game.

Although Carolyn will graduate next spring, she will lead the Highlanders when they travel to Europe next summer.

"The European trip will be our biggest event this year," Carolyn said. "The Highlanders travel to Europe every fourth year, and have performed before enthusiastic crowds throughout England and Scotland."

Carolyn also is outstanding in campus and Greek activities.

She is president of Gamma Phi Beta social sorority, and during her sophomore year was a member of Panhellenic Council. Last spring Carolyn was initiated into Mortar Board, national honorary senior women's society, and was a finalist for IFC Queen.

In addition, she is senior class vice president of the College of Liberal Arts and is a member of Angel Flight, the auxiliary to Arnold Air Society, honorary cadet Air Force ROTC organization.

Mekong Delta Battle Rages

SAIGON (AP) — Three American civilians were wounded, two Vietnamese were killed and three other Vietnamese were injured Wednesday night by a grenade in Cantho, about 90 miles southeast of Saigon.

The grenade, apparently thrown by a Communist Viet Cong terrorist, exploded in the lobby of the Trung Chau hotel in the largest city in Viet Nam's Mekong delta area, authorities said.

It was believed to have been an M26 fragmentation grenade of American manufacture, they added.

FILL 'ER UP—

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Five women who spent a whole day shoveling four truckloads of earth into an eight-foot deep hole consider the effort was worth while.

They are relatives of 3-year-old Rickie Justice, who narrowly missed drowning in a cistern. After the near-tragedy the land-owner offered to buy dirt to fill in the hole but couldn't find laborers to do the job.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANIES SALUTE: WARREN ROSKE

Whether a simple voice circuit for a small trunk line, or a complex high-speed data circuit for the Strategic Air Command, Northwestern Bell Engineer Warren Roske gets the nod. Warren (B.S.I.E., 1959), and the three engineers who work under him, design telephone facilities for private line customers.

On earlier assignments, Warren engineered communication lines through the famed Dakota Black Hills, helped in the Mechanized Teletypewriter cutover in Sioux Falls, S.D., and contributed a unique application of statistics to a Plant Engineering study.

But Warren's greatest success has come in the Transmission field where, after only seven months, he was promoted to his supervisory engineering position.

Like many young engineers, Warren is impatient to make things happen for his company and himself. There are few places where such restlessness is more welcomed or rewarded than in the fast-growing telephone business.

Barbra Streisand Great Singer but No Kook

No Clowning Around

"Iowa Won't Clown Around" is the theme of the Phi Gamma Delta-Alpha Phi Homecoming float, and members of the two houses redoubled their efforts to complete the project in time for the SU Homecoming parade Friday night. Among those working last night were Bob White, A2, Rock Island, Ill.; Jan Williams, A2, Des Moines; Jean Landis, A2, Cedar Rapids; and Rick Neufeld, A3, Iowa City.

LAS VEGAS (AP) — They say Barbra Streisand is the greatest of the new young singers. They also say she's a kook.

Barbra says she's not a kook. But she agrees that she'll probably win: the Oscar for movies, the Emmy for television, the Grammy for records, the Tony for stage acting.

Who is Barbra Streisand? She's a 21-year-old New York girl who has been capturing fans by the thousands since she started singing three years ago.

BARBRA HAD A GOOD, if small, singing-comedy role in the Broadway musical "I Can Get It for You Wholesale" — some even say she carried the show for its nine-month run.

Then the show closed last December and Barbra plunged into television and nightclubs.

Some who listened called Barbra "the first real challenge to Ella Fitzgerald in 20 years."

Barbra sang in Las Vegas recently, and this is how she is: She comes onstage with her brown hair falling straight down. She wears a low-cut, ankle-length mother Hubbard dress of gingham, with filmy sleeves.

Barbra sat in the restaurant of a Las Vegas hotel the next day and maintained that isn't a kook.

"A kook is a person who puts on things that aren't real."

But nobody could say she's conventional.

"I knew I had to be a star — famous and wealthy. But I didn't go after it the way other actors do. I pounded the pavement for two days. Then I gave that up."

HOW ABOUT THAT Oscar and the other honors?

"I'll win all the prizes. I never think about it."

Barbra became famous as a singer, but she considers herself "an actress who sings."

"I couldn't get work as an actress, so I learned two songs." That was three years ago. She promptly won a talent contest and soon was singing in New York nightclubs.

It's at this point in the chronicle that some writers like to pin her overnight success. They tell how Broadway producer David Merrick of "Wholesale" came to hear her one night, and arranged for an audition.

That isn't the way Barbra remembers it.

U.S. COMMONWEALTH— FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Kentucky chose to keep the term Commonwealth in seeking independence from Virginia. A commonwealth in this country is a state having its immediate outgrowth from one of the original colonies.

"That's a real beef of mine, those overnight success stories. "I went down and auditioned like everybody else. I hadn't had much experience. I sang a few songs and they asked me to come back that afternoon. I said I couldn't. I had to go to the beauty parlor."

"THEY WEREN'T used to that. They liked it. When I did come back, I was wearing a coat. They asked me to take it off. I said I liked it, and kept it on.

"I learned the song that I had to sing. Then I did it sitting down. I think that's why I got the part. That's the way I sang the song in the show."

One of Barbra's fans is President Kennedy. He heard her on TV and invited her to sing at a White House correspondents' dinner.

Barbra says she met the President after the dinner and handed him a card to autograph for her mother. He did, and she said, "You're a doll."

More Streisand-style conventionality:

SHE MADE HER first record album this year, and it immediately became the most popular girl singer album in the country.

You might have expected it to be called "Kook Along With Barbra," or some such. But Miss Streisand insisted that it be titled "The Barbra Streisand Album."

"I can't stand those other made-up titles."

The second Barbra Streisand album is called "The Second Barbra Streisand Album."

Speaking of names, how come

"Barbra" has one letter too few? "I hated the name Barbara. But I could never bring myself to make up a stage name. By dropping the 'A' I became the only Barbra in the world."

SHE BEGINS REHEARSAL in November for the starring role in a Broadway musical about the life of Fanny Brice.

Barbra has a husband she has seen seldom since they married last March. She married actor Elliot Gould, the leading man in "Wholesale."

Barbra thinks of her stage clothing as "elegant," rather than weird.

About that mother Hubbard — "I designed it. The epitome of elegance is to wear a long gown, but have it made of kitchen curtain material. "I'd call it casual elegance."

Panhellenic Coordinate SUI Sorority Activities

Pan means all, and hellenic means Greek. Therefore Panhellenic stands for all Greeks — all female Greeks in the case of SUI's organization of that name.

Panhellenic is composed of two representatives from each of the 14 sororities on campus.

Representatives serve for two years, first as junior delegates and then as senior delegates.

Panhellenic Council co-ordinates the activities of the sororities, governs all rushing activity, furthers scholarship and promotes different activities throughout the year.

For example, it sponsors the annual fall scholarship banquet which all sorority members attend.

It also holds an officers workshop when new officers are elected in the various sororities at the first of the year. This is to acquaint the new officers with their duties and to discuss problems that might arise.

In cooperation with Interfraternity Council, Panhellenic also sponsors the annual Pledge Prom each fall and Greek Week each spring.

New members of Panhellenic take their places on the council around the first of April and then elect the executive officers.

Present Panhellenic officers are Carol Ingraham, A4, Clinton, president; Debbie Ziffren, A4, Rock Island, Ill., vice president; Sue Mockridge, A3, Dewitt, secretary; and Dorothy Darling, A3, Iowa City, treasurer.

Panhellenic adviser is Miss Helen Reich.

Presidents of each of the 14 pledge classes are members of Junior Panhellenic whose function is also to coordinate sorority activities and develop good relations between the groups.

SUI Has Great Imposter In Gate Crasher L. Bailey

By BEV BECKER
Staff Writer

Last year's Hawkeye may have been the proving ground for SUI's great imposter.

Lawrence Bailey, A2, Peoria, Ill., proudly refers to himself as Number One Gate Crasher at the Hawkeye Pictures.

Last spring Bailey made a bet with a friend, Dave Heinis, a former SUI student, that he could get in more Hawkeye pictures than Heinis.

Greek Banquet Wed. To Note Scholarship

President Hancher will be guest speaker at the Fraternity Scholarship Banquet next Wednesday at 6:15 p.m. in the main dining room of the Hotel Jefferson.

Phi Epsilon Pi will be presented the Sigma Chi Foundation Scholarship for the highest GPA (2.5) for last year. The Pledge Scholarship Trophy will also go to Phi Epsilon Pi.

Phi Epsilon Pi completes the cycle by winning the Improvement Trophy.

In addition, the dinner will honor new members of Phi Alpha Mu. The requirements for this honorary fraternity are a GPA of 3.3 for 60 semester hours, being active in a social fraternity and participation in campus activities.

Those being initiated include Stanley Verhoeven, A4, Phi Delta Theta, Woodland Hills, Cal.; Wilmer Nelson, A3, Sigma Pi, Des Moines; Larry Travis, A3, Sigma Nu, Clinton; Gary Johnson, A3, Pi Kappa Alpha, Dennison; Terry Noonan, E3, Phi Gamma Delta, Fort Madison; Martin Schaeferle, A3, Beta Theta Pi, Eagle Grove; Steven Wolken, A3, Beta Theta Pi, Monticello; Stephen Shank, A3, Sigma Alpha Epsilon; Iowa City; Stephen Deutsch, A3, Alpha Epsilon Pi, Rahway, N. J. and James Mathews, A3, Delta Tau Delta, Farmersburg.

Awards will also be presented to the member of each fraternity who has shown the greatest improvement in scholarship from the fall to the spring semester.

Diek Asinger, A3, Cedar Falls, chairman of the IFC Scholarship Committee, will be master of ceremonies. Deans of all the academic colleges will be present.

Madison County Liquor Election Questioned

WINTERSSET (AP) — A legal question is delaying the official canvass of Monday's liquor-by-the-drink referendum in Madison County.

County Auditor Wayne W. Griffith said the official result is not expected to be known until next Monday.

County Attorney Lewis Jordan said he believes the official result will have the county going dry by a slim margin, as the unofficial count showed Monday night.

But, he said that depends upon whether questioned returns from two precincts are counted.

Jordan said that officials in the two precincts failed to fill out the tally sheets as required by law. He said the officials did complete a certificate showing the result of the votes in their precincts.

The unofficial returns showed 1,424 to 1,385 in favor of banning the sale of liquor by the drink.

Close Call For Writer In Play

NEW YORK (AP) — The prize-winning Broadway play, "The Patriots," to be seen in November on TV, almost cost playwright Sidney Kingsley his life.

A GI stationed near New York in 1942 when the final script was written, Kingsley discovered what he thought was the perfect retreat — an abandoned shack in an open field.

Suddenly, while deep in his work the Saturday afternoon stillness was shattered by machine gun fire.

Kingsley hugged the floor in terror while the live ammunition splintered wood all around him. Later, unscathed but badly shaken, the author departed from his hideaway — a strategically placed target on a firing range.

IFC Work Affects Lives Of All Fraternity Men

The Interfraternity Council (IFC) is a much discussed but seldom defined group. Activities of its governing body affect the lives of all fraternity men.

IFC is designed as a governing body to solve fraternity problems and promote a better over-all fraternity system.

The council is composed of the fraternity president and an elected representative from each house on campus. It conducts its main business as a body but is divided into committees for its detailed work.

In conjunction with Panhellenic Council, IFC organizes Greek Week, including discussions, exchange dinners and a dance, and sponsors the IFC Dance for all Greeks.

It also sponsors a leadership re-

... treat in the fall to improve the over-all governing process.

IFC maintains a judicial system comprised of a chief justice and six jurors to handle any incidents that occur.

The officers of the council are Dave Axen, A4, Mason City, president; Dave Bowman, A4, Montreal, Can., vice-president; Jim Watson, A2, Fairfield, secretary; and Mike Schiavoni, A3, Burlington, treasurer.

A junior IFC has been created as an organization for all fraternity pledges. This body is comprised of the president of the pledge class and an elected representative from each pledge class. Members will serve a one year term.

The organization had its initial meeting Tuesday night.

Graduating? Need Job? Go to Placement Office

By NAN GAUTHIER
Staff Writer

Graduating this year and need a job? Try using the services of the SUI Business and Industrial Placement Office, available to any 1964 graduate looking for positions in business, industry, or Government.

The Placement Office was set up in 1949 to meet the need for centralized facilities in these three areas for students in liberal arts, business administration, and law who were seeking jobs. Today it performs a three-way service by aiding the faculty, students and employers.

Columbus Returns Home in Chains - Reason is Sought

By HAROLD K. MILKS

MADRID (AP) — A Dominican diplomat with an inquiring mind and a passion for research has answered a question historians have been asking for many years: "Why did the Spanish governor in the New World send Christopher Columbus home in chains if he was such a kind, friendly person?"

For centuries Francisco de Bobadilla, Ferdinand and Isabella's early governor in the lands Columbus discovered, had been portrayed by historians as a fine fellow with nothing but friendship for his fellow man.

BUT DR. JOAQUIN Marino Inchaustegui, a Dominican Republic career diplomat now stationed at his nation's embassy here, found it hard to reconcile Gov. Bobadilla's good reputation with his admitted action of arresting Christopher Columbus and the explorer's two brothers in the New World and sending them home in chains.

The idea came to Inchaustegui when he was Dominican consul in New Orleans. He worked for 10 years before he came up with the answer — there were not one but three prominent Francisco de Bobadillas in Spanish history of the discovery era.

Inchaustegui, a smiling diplomat with a keen sense of humor and a Louisiana wife who encouraged his search, pored year after year through records, histories and official documents.

He continued his hunt and came up with these documented facts: one Francisco de Bobadilla was a Catholic friar who served as the abbot of Jerez, another, the good and kindly man was the corregidor (mayor) of Cordoba who died there before Christopher Columbus even launched his first voyage of discovery. The third was the evil-behaving governor of the newly discovered lands.

"BUT DOWN THROUGH the centuries historians reported that the governor Bobadilla was a pleasant man with a great sense of justice," the diplomat said. "It was simply a case of some writers mixing up the three Bobadillas and coming out with one who had characteristics of all three."

"The good Bobadilla was also a friend of the Catholic kings, but he was never sent to the New World," the diplomat and historian said.

To correct mistaken impressions which were fostered by historians for more than two centuries, Dr. Inchaustegui is publishing with the collaboration of the Institute of Hispano-American Culture here a complete documentation of the period involved.

The Dominican diplomat also is working on a new book of Christopher Columbus, containing some new discoveries he and other researchers have made on history of the period. Among those working with Inchaustegui was Dr. Charles W. Goff, a Hartford, Conn., surgeon and historian. The two men studied the supposed resting places of the bones of Columbus in the Dominican Republic and in Sevilla, Spain.

HIS BOOK HAS taken Inchaustegui through stacks of ancient documents, including the complete documented histories of all 106 Spanish governors of the New World from Christopher Columbus in 1492 through Gen. Jose de la Gandara Navarro in 1865.

"I have classified and documented every move of those 106 Spanish governors," said Inchaustegui in his home here. "But up to now have been unable to find out a single fact about my Spanish-born grandfather. Someday, when I finish with Christopher Columbus, I'm going into the Basque country of northern Spain and see what I can learn about my own ancestors."

Seniors and graduate students may register at the Placement Office when searching for jobs. At the same time, the office is often working with as many as 700 of the country's leading business and industrial firms and Government agencies in need of employees.

Thus, students and openings are matched, helping graduates to find jobs and employers to find employees.

FACULTY MEMBERS also benefit from the services of the Placement Office. They are kept informed about graduates, and are given other information that may aid them in advising.

Around Nov. 1 the Placement Office begins lining up interviews between students and company representatives who may come to the campus to recruit. According to Miss Barnes, director of the office, approximately 250 companies may send representatives each year, scheduling some 4,000 interviews with 500 to 600 students.

MANY of these companies are the largest in the country and include General Mills, Ford, Inland Steel and General Motors. A report from Armstrong Cork Co. noted that 51.8 per cent of those employed in 1963 got their jobs through campus visits. Nearly all the remaining employed came through some other service of Placement Office, such as recommendations for referrals.

The SUI Placement Office works with the University Counseling Service in the area of vocational-educational interests. Any student who registers at the office can be interviewed by a counselor with reference to personal interests to benefit him in job decisions, Miss Barnes reported that a minimum of 500 students see the counselors each year.

The office also provides a permanent record for students who register. This includes grades, recommendations, job interviews and other information that may be used as a reference any time in the future. If one needs a job 10 years after graduation, the office will give him names of companies to contact and has his record for reference, thus providing the student assurance for the future.

IT IS NECESSARY that students register while on campus, as the office has no facilities to accommodate students who may want to register after graduation.

An additional service of the Placement Office is that it provides the College Placement Annual free of charge to students who register. This gives listings on existing employers, employer indexes, company listings by area, counseling to graduates and other information valuable to the graduate in search of a job.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Police could find no evidence a service station safe had been blown by burglars who entered the station, but $150 was missing.

Finally they theorized that the thieves used a wire to fish the bills out through a hole in the side of the safe, which employees used to stuff money in without bothering to make the combination.

Jan Burns Edits Hawkeye

Until the final copy is in the hands of the printer next spring, Jan Burns, 44, Aledo, Ill., editor of the 1964 Hawkeye, will have little leisure time.

Problems encountered in publishing the Hawkeye, SUI's yearbook, are similar to many of those involved in the publishing industry, Jan said.

"The 1964 edition will consist of 448 pages, and more than 6,000 copies of the book will be printed," she continued.

As editor-in-chief of Hawkeye, Jan is in complete charge of the book's production. It is her responsibility to design the book and determine its organization as well as to coordinate the activities of her 36 staff members.

Jan began her duties shortly after her appointment as editor last spring when she received an expense-paid trip to Tulsa, Okla., to set up plans with Southwestern Engraving Co. for production of the Hawkeye.

"Until next May I will be working at least 20 hours a week in the Hawkeye office," Jan said. "Besides layout, there are pictures and text copy to edit."

Jan has served on the Hawkeye staff for four years beginning as a page salesman her freshman year. During her sophomore year she was a section editor, and last year she was copy editor.

Jan realizes the responsibility of her position and admits, "It's a lot of work." She adds, though, "It is also fun and valuable experience for anyone desiring practical experience in working with cuts and type."

Besides editor of Hawkeye, Jan is rush chairman of Gamma Phi Beta social sorority and is secretary of Sigma Alpha Epsilon's Little Sisters of Minerva.

Jan said the Hawkeye is presently ahead of schedule. "We have an exceptional staff this year," she added, "and I am looking forward to the best Hawkeye ever."

PRISON CAMP PRAISED— TIERRA AMARILLA, N.M. (AP)—Warden Harold A. Cox calls New Mexico Penitentiary's first forestry prison camp "a taxpayer's bargain."

Cox said the cost of keeping a prisoner at the camp is between $2 and $2.50 a day, compared with $3.85 a day in the penitentiary.

Camp work includes fire fighting and conservation and building projects in state forests and parks.

Associate Warden C. E. Walker said the camp, which opened in July, is a vital part of the penitentiary rehabilitation program. He said many of the men are due for release in a relatively short time and the transition from prison regimentation to the camp is a valuable opportunity for them.

Fraternities Plan Welcome For Alumni

Every Greek house on campus will be abuzz with coffee hours, buffets and suppers Saturday.

They are working on "Welcome Back" decorations in preparation for the crowd of alumni to swarm into Iowa City for SUI's 52nd Annual Homecoming.

Alumni will be encouraged to attend post-game open house at all fraternities and sororities. Refreshments will be served until dinner hour. Several also plan coffee hours before the game.

After a pre-game lunch at the house, Pi Delta Theta alumni will ride to the Stadium in a chartered bus. After the game, they will return to the house for coffee.

Delta Tau Delta will entertain alumni at a buffet dinner beginning at 5:30 and at a post-dinner party at the house.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Pi Kappa Alpha, Lambda Chi Alpha and Phi Kappa Sigma will be among houses holding dinners and buffets.

Pi Kappa Alpha will have a dance for guests and alumni at 8 p.m. with Callay Carroll and the Four Chords entertaining.

Many houses will hold annual business and board meetings. Delta Upsilon will have its board meetings at 10 a.m. Saturday. Lambda Chi Alpha will have its fall alumni business meeting Saturday after an evening dinner.

All in all, it looks like a big, nostalgic weekend for the Greeks and their returning alumni.

WANT TO SEE 100? WORK—

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Advising his company's employees, Dr. Rex Wilson, director for B. F. Goodrich Co., said the way to live to be 100 "probably lies in hard work, and intense desire to live a sheltered existence, avoiding life's hard knocks."

A balanced diet, proper rest and a generous helping of enthusiasm round out the stuff of which longevity is made, the doctor said.

Human Grapes

They've done it again — this cluster of human grapes is none other than "probate" Dolphins, whose heads were shaved over the weekend as part of their initiation ceremony. Forty-one probates in all took part in the shearing ceremony. This group is seen in the pool preparing for a scene from NERO's NIGHTMARE.

Greeks Dress Up Houses For Homecoming Visitors

Alumni and parents of Greek students returning to the SUI campus for Homecoming will be greeted by welcome signs and house decorations of many types.

At the Delta Gamma sorority house they will be greeted by a large butterfly and the slogan "Butterfly Home."

The Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity in connection with the Delta Gamma sorority will have a large image of Hecky carrying a butterfly

net with the slogan "Hawkeyes Catch a Victory."

Zeta Tau Alpha sorority will feature a large palette and brush with the slogan "Paint Our Victory Big."

Alpha Tau Omega fraternity will be using Peanuts characters for their decorations. Snoopy will be portrayed as a Hoosier with a cloud of gloom over his head.

Beta Theta Pi fraternity will have a large black ball with the slogan "Black Ball the Hoosiers."

Ike Against Foreign Aid Reduction

WASHINGTON (AP)—An appeal by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower for GOP support of a $4-billion foreign aid program failed to alter prospects that Republicans will join in efforts to cut it far below that figure.

At Gettysburg, Pa., Eisenhower said in an interview with Associated Press reporters that he does not believe Republicans should be in the forefront of those seeking to reduce in the Senate a $3.5-billion authorization bill already passed by the House.

"I happen to be one of those people that believes we ought to spend for the mutual security program what we need to spend," the former president said.

He advocated a five-year authorization under which the annual outlay would be around $4 billion. He said with that amount "I believe we could do a job that would be very good for the world and, above all, for ourselves."

THE ALUMS ARE BACK

New Sorority in Informal Rushing

By CAROLE ANDERSON
Staff Writer

This October is an especially significant month for SUI's Panhellenic organization. Besides the usual period of informal rushing activities, a new sorority will be introduced.

Alpha Gamma Delta, one of the 31 sororities belonging to the National Panhellenic Conference, will constitute the 15th social sorority on campus.

The Alpha Gams will officially begin their rushing Oct. 29 with a tea at the Union. All girls who went through formal rushing, or who registered for informal rush but did not pledge, will be invited to attend the tea.

Alpha Gamma Delta is not participating with the other sororities on campus in informal rushing which began Oct. 1, and ends Nov. 1.

Informal rush is provided for girls who did not wish to pledge during formal rushing, and for interested girls who did not participate in formal Rush Week, according to Carol Ingraham, A4, Clinton, president of SUI's Panhellenic Council.

"Informal rush differs from Rush Week in that sororities are not restricted in number of rush parties or activities," Miss Ingraham said, "and it gives one the opportunity to view the houses in a non-superficial atmosphere." During this period an eligible girl may be asked to pledge at any time, she added.

To be eligible for rush and pledging, a freshman must rank in the upper 50 per cent of her high school graduating class and have a minimal 2.5 grade average. An upperclassman must have a 2.2 accumulative grade point average.

After Rush Week this fall, 225 women were pledged on campus, bringing the total sorority membership to 803, Miss Ingraham said.

Rush for the Alpha Gams will continue after October for the remainder of this semester, she continued. "But, during Spring Rush next semester, they will have the opportunity to rush with the other sororities."

All social sororities at SUI belong to the National Panhellenic Conference (NPC). "This organization is the cooperating group in which all women's social fraternities are governed in matters such as rushing standards," Miss Ingraham said.

"One purpose of NPC is to cooperate with college authorities in their effort to maintain high scholarship standards," she added. Sororities at SUI have existed for 81 years. The first woman's fraternity to be established here was Pi Beta Phi in 1882.

Alpha Gamma Delta, which will be SUI's newest sorority, was founded in 1904. There are 69 active chapters on campuses throughout the country with total membership of 32,000.

Five Hawk Starters Are Greeks

When the Hawkeyes take the field against Indiana Saturday for the Homecoming game, five of Iowa's starters will be members of campus fraternities.

Guard Wally Hilgenberg, one of the Hawkeye co-captains, and rated as a potential All-American, is a member of Delta Upsilon fraternity.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon claims two of the starting eleven, guard Mike Reilly and halfback Bob Sherman, while the other starting Greeks are center Dave Recher, a member of Delta Tau Delta, and Gus Kasapis, a member of Sigma Chi.

On the Hawkeye second unit, center Gary Fletcher and end Bill Niedbala are SAE's while fullback Lonnie Rogers is a member of Phi Gamma Delta.

Most of the athletes who are affiliated do not live in the fraternity houses, but do take an active part in their fraternity's activities.

From 1916 to 1962, more than 2,950,000 coyotes were slain in the Government's predator control program.

9 Pledge Classes Elect New Leaders

Pledge classes in SUI fraternities and sororities recently elected leaders for the 1963-64 year. Officers of nine Greek groups are listed below.
