Truman Slips And Quips

Jovial During Usual Walk

GRINNELL (AP) — Doughty, aging Harry S. Truman lost his balance but none of his spryness Thursday.

The 79-year-old former President tumbled into some evergreen shrubbery outside the Grinnell College guest house as he started his customary morning walk.

"That's a good start for the day," he quipped after being helped to his feet and dusted off by aides.

He said he was not hurt and started out at a brisk pace on a 13-block stroll in this small central Iowa college community.

Truman slipped off a curb around the steps outside the guest house where he had spent Wednesday night. It was the kind that could lead to a painful ankle sprain.

Later on in his walk he caught his toe on a step leading to Delmar Hansen's photo studio, where he sat for a photograph. He narrowly escaped another fall.

The wartime President was in good spirits for the final day of his two-day stay as politician-in-residence at the college, which is well known for its high academic standards.

This contrasted with Wednesday when he became irked at questions put to him by students at a news conference.

"Ask intelligent questions so that I can answer them," he demanded.

But Thursday he mixed with students, answered countless questions and signed autographs.

"You have made quite an impression on us," said Ken Adelman 17, freshman student from Chicago.

"Thank you," Truman replied. "I try to answer all the questions. They are very intelligent."

Dressed in a dark suit with a vest and a hat and carrying a cane for his walk, Truman was asked how he feels about a large following for his strolls.

"If they want to look at the animal, it's all right with me."

During his lecture Wednesday night on the subject "The American Presidency in an Era of Crisis," Truman said "the president is the only lobbyist in Washington who looks after the interests of all 180 million Americans."

Asked by a student Thursday how the president finds out what these millions of persons want, Truman replied: "If you never read the newspapers, you never will find out."

Truman attended a class on international relations and a student symposium Thursday morning and met with Young Democrats at Drake University in Des Moines in the afternoon before flying home to Independence, Mo.

Some other Truman comments:

Truman's removal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Far East commander: "Gen. MacArthur was insubordinate to the commander-in-chief. He got to thinking he was bigger than the President and he had to go."

Madame Ngo Dinh Nhu of South Viet Nam: "She is sticking her nose into business she knows nothing about. But she is our guest."

Red China admittance to the United Nations: "I don't like them and they are no good. That's why I don't think they should be admitted to the United Nations now or ever."

Barry Goldwater: "If he's nominated for president he won't carry Missouri."

Richard Nixon: "I've never had

Ginny's Gales Lash Florida; Carolinas Now Threatened

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Hurricane Ginny lashed north Florida and Georgia coasts with gales Thursday but took a northern track that threatened the Carolinas with the brunt of her rising fury.

Ginny's winds built up a little during the day as the hurricane drifted northward, and they were estimated Thursday night at 95 miles per hour around the rather large center. Gales extend out 200 miles to the north and 100 miles south of the center.

At 8 p.m. Ginny was centered 180 miles south of Charleston, S.C., and 115 miles east of Jacksonville, Fla.

"Indications are for a continued slow northward drift, with the center moving along about 100 miles off the Georgia coast during the night," the Miami Weather Bureau said. "Interests along the Georgia and South Carolina coasts should watch for future advice."

A hurricane watch was in effect from Jacksonville, Fla., north to Myrtle Beach, S.C., with gale warnings displayed from Daytona Beach to Myrtle Beach.

Forecaster Arnold Sugg at the U.S. Weather Bureau in Miami said Ginny was expected to move northward at 7 m.p.h. Thursday night with a slight northeast turn Friday.

"The hurricane poses little or no threat to extreme northeast Florida and a lesser threat to the Georgia coast but increases the danger to the Carolinas," Sugg said.

Tides five feet above normal were being pushed toward Georgia's beaches by the storm and seas were reported very rough.

Small craft from the Carolinas to central Florida were warned to remain in port and shipping was told to exercise caution.

Radar also showed the hurricane contained considerable more rain than Wednesday.

"The hurricane will dump a lot of rain when it goes ashore," the Weather Bureau said.

Ginny left behind along Florida's eastern coast considerable beach erosion as the only evidence of its visit.

U.S. Airlift Is Success

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A four-engine transport with 60 soldiers aboard landed in Germany at 10:05 Thursday night, completing a flawless airlift of the entire U.S. 2nd Armored Division from Texas to Europe.

The last flight was delayed slightly by headwinds. That was a minor irritation compared to the jubilation of the U.S. Army miracle of mobility.

It was the 235th mission of the exercise.

Using jets and propeller craft, the Military Air Transport Service delivered 15,278 troops and 493.3 tons of cargo well within the target deadline.

The giant maneuver touched off speculation in Europe on what it may mean in American policy on stationing troops in this continent.

West Germans asked whether it means the six U.S. divisions in their country are to be reduced and, if so, how soon.

Dean Rusk, U.S. secretary of state, will be closely questioned on this point when he visits Bonn Friday. He will see Ludwig Erhard, the new West German chancellor.

MATS had 72 hours to do the job but made it in 63 hours and 20 minutes.

The final flight came into Sembach Airbase.

Rhein-Main completed its share of the lift at 9:20 p.m.

Ramstein, the third reception field in Germany, picked up a few flights in between.

By this time, many of the officers and men in the armored division were long since joined with their tanks, guns and other equipment at disposal areas prepared in the past few weeks.

Hodges Asks More Trade With Soviets

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — There is a booming market open in the European Soviet bloc nations but the United States is not getting its share of the business, Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges said Thursday night.

He said this country should not relax its restrictions on the export of strategic items but should re-examine other bars to East-West trade.

The Soviet bloc last year brought nearly $4.5 billion worth of goods from non-Communist countries, Hodges said, but the U. S. share was only $125 million.

Hodges, in a speech prepared for the Houston Sales Association, said the figures included the Soviet Union, but not Yugoslavia or the Communist countries of Asia.

Of the $4.5-billion total, Hodges said, "about half was shipments from Japan and our NATO allies. West Germany's sales totaled $719 million, Britain's $369 million, France's $267 million, Italy's $240 million and Japan's 166 million."

Hodges did not mention the current negotiations for the sale of U. S. wheat and other grains to the Soviet Union and Eastern European nations.

But he did say most of the sales by other countries to the Soviet bloc in Europe have not been wheat and other agricultural commodities.

Hodges also urged that trade policies be considered "from the standpoint of our overall effort to promote a lasting peace."

Corn Cargoes For Hungary Are Cleared

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department issued two more export licenses Thursday for the shipment of an additional 1.4-million bushels of corn to Communist Hungary.

One license was for 800,000 bushels, valued at $1,408,176, and went to Continental Grain Co. The other was for 600,000 bushels, valued at $969,300. It was issued to an unidentified dealer.

Continental said its shipments will be made in foreign flag vessels in November, probably through the St. Lawrence River or from the ports of Three Rivers, Canada, or Norfolk, Va.

The big Minneapolis grain trading firm of Cargill, Inc., was authorized Wednesday to ship 1.2-million bushels of yellow corn to the Soviet satellite country. This deal involved $1,929,384.

No progress was reported, meanwhile, in U.S.-Soviet negotiations to clear the way for a $250-million sale of American wheat to Russia. This projected transaction has been complicated by President Kennedy's stipulation, in authorizing the sale of grain to the Soviet bloc, that it be shipped in American vessels when available.

British Parties Battle

LONDON (AP) — Sir Alec Douglas-Home's new Government — operating without its leader — fought off a Laborite assault Thursday at the end of the stormiest parliamentary session in years.

A 3½-hour House of Commons battle marked the formal opening of parliamentary war between Laborite leader Harold Wilson and his new political arch-rival, Douglas-Home.

Wheat Arrives

MOSCOW (AP) — The first shipment of Canadian wheat was unloaded in the Black Sea port of Odessa, the newspaper Izvestia reported Thursday.

Izvestia said two more Western ships, the Greek freighter Messina and the Italian Aurigo Prima, will arrive in Odessa in the next few days with another 50,000 tons of wheat from Canada.

JFK Unsuccessful In Attempt To Push Milder Rights Bill

Bipartisan Group Backing Measure with More Teeth

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy's efforts to keep from the House floor a civil rights bill he regards as excessive met with little success Thursday.

A bipartisan group that has revolted against the leadership of both the House and its Judiciary Committee showed no inclination to toe the line drawn by the President at White House meetings Wednesday night and Thursday morning.

Kennedy wants the committee to kill a sweeping, 10-part bill produced by one of its subcommittees and substitute a less drastic one that he believes could command broad, bipartisan support. BUT A MAJORITY of the committee, for different reasons, favors approving the subcommittee bill and letting any compromise move be made out in the open on the House floor. The uproar brought from Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois an observation that "we might be lucky" if a civil rights bill reaches the Senate floor by Dec. 1. Allowing for a Christmas recess, Dirksen told newsmen, there is reasonable doubt the Senate could complete action before the next session of Congress.

He pointed to the long list of witnesses waiting to testify on the House-passed $11-billion tax-cut bill. He said these hearings easily will run right up to Christmas and even beyond.

"I have real doubt either one of these bills can eventuate at the present session," Dirksen said.

KENNEDY CALLED House leaders of both parties to the White House Wednesday night and got a Judiciary Committee meeting, scheduled for Thursday. A vote to bring out the subcommittee bill faces the committee when it meets, and this is the third postponement of the event.

A participant in the meeting, referring to the absence of the committee rebels, said it was "like playing Hamlet without the Dane — the principal actors weren't there."

Kennedy took care of that by summoning the committee Democrats to the White House Thursday morning. One who attended described the President as mild and conciliatory and said he merely wanted to explain the Administration view.

The trouble with the Administration position is that it is based on getting a Republican leadership commitment to support a Kennedy Administration bill on a politically explosive issue, and this may not be possible.

"Republicans will never agree," said one of the Democratic leaders of the holdout group. "The subcommittee bill is going to be approved by the committee."

Churchill Death Ruled a Suicide

LONDON (AP) — Sir Winston Churchill's eldest daughter, who spent the last 18 months of her life working with an organization which sought to dissuade the despairing from committing suicide, was ruled by a coroner Thursday to have taken her own life.

A coroner's inquest held that Diana Churchill, 54, ended her life with a heavy dose of sleeping pills last Saturday. Her nude body was found on the bedroom floor of her fashionable flat, where police also found empty pill bottles and a partly empty bottle of whisky.

The tragedy laid new grief on the age-bowed shoulders of Sir Winston who will be 89 in November, and those of his recently ailing wife. Lady Churchill, 78, only Wednesday returned home from eight days in a hospital for rest and medical checkup.

They have seen much unhappiness come to several of their children, including broken marriages and other tribulations.

Poet Seferiades Wins Nobel Prize

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Giorgos Seferiades, 63, a Greek diplomat, won the 1963 Nobel Prize for literature Thursday for his lyrical, timeless poetry about his native Greece.

Seferiades, whose pen name is Seferis, was the first Greek ever to receive a Nobel Prize. The award this year is worth $51,158.

The 18-member Royal Swedish Literary Academy noted that his poetic production is not voluminous but selected him for his "eminent lyrical writing, inspired by a deep feeling for the Hellenic world of culture."

Notified of the academy's decision, Seferis said in Athens the prize is an honor for Greece.

His wife, Maria, embraced and kissed him as he met newsmen. Tears of joy streamed from her eyes.

The year 1931 marked Seferis' literary debut — a 42-page collection of poems — and his first diplomatic assignment, to London. There he became lastingly influenced by poet T. S. Eliot.

The Nobel citation said Seferis' poetry, "because of its unique thought and style and its beauty of language, has become a lasting symbol of all that is indestructible in the Hellenic acceptance of life."

Convict Strike Ends

FOLSOM, Calif. (AP) — Thirty-two ringleaders of a three-day convict strike were removed from Folsom State Prison Thursday to other California penitentiaries.

The ringleaders included all seven members of a convict committee that tried but failed to settle the dispute over wages and long sentences.

Sometimes it's hard to write an editorial

EVERYONE KNOWS student government doesn't accomplish anything. And everyone knows the SUI administration is reactionary — won't listen to new ideas. And everyone knows an editorial has to blast both of them.

But as hard as I tried, I couldn't think of any way to criticize either the student government or the administration over the passing of the new women's hours policy.

Various units of student government — darn it all — had worked for the new hours policy. Which is pretty irritating to the comfortable theory that student government is a farce. I mean, those kids are supposed to be haggling over parliamentary procedure and playing politics and like that. What's farcical about the hours they spent working out necessary details for the new regulations? It just doesn't fit.

And all the time, the darned administration was working with them to set the new program up. That's just dumb. Everyone knows the administration is against students. They have to be administration people are all bad.

So why did they spend all that time on a policy suggested by students — and end up approving it?

How can you tell where you stand when student government is actually working and the administration works alongside it for the student's benefit? It looks like they're almost human. And it undermines the sophisticated student who knows both the administration and student government are villains.

It makes it darned hard to be cynical about the whole process. What will it do to the non-involved critics of student governments and university administrations? It may ruin the whole game of ivory tower pot-shots.

And how do you write a scathing editorial about the success of student government — administration cooperation?

Keyholes would be best

EARLIER THIS MONTH the Quadrangle Association recommended that the dorms adopt an "open door policy" permitting them to entertain lady friends in their rooms with the door open. It is a good idea, but why put in the open door provision. Wouldn't it be better for some of SUI's overseers of purity to just spend their weekends in the men's dorms peeking in the key holes? Think of the fun they could have . . . it could pose a problem if you wanted to change clothes, though.

DeGaulle still uncooperative with the West

After the 'savior' of France retires: what happens then?

WASHINGTON NOTES: Winston Churchill summed up with admirable candor in "The Hinge of Fate" (the fourth volume of his history of the Second World War) an opinion of General Charles de Gaulle. Both he and President Roosevelt, as well as other allied principals, had many difficulties with the general.

Sir Winston wrote: "I had continuous difficulties with him. . . I knew he was no friend of England. But I always recognized in him the spirit and conception of which, across the pages of history, the word 'France' would ever proclaim. I understood and admired, while I resented, his arrogant demeanor. Here he was — a refugee, an exile from his country under sentence of death, in a position entirely dependent upon the good will of the British government, and also now of the United States. The Germans had conquered his country. He had no real foothold anywhere. Never mind; he defied us all. . ."

THIS COULD BE written today. It is General de Gaulle who recently barred Britain's entry to the Common Market. It is General de Gaulle who has made a treaty with Germany, and in other decisions as well, has weakened NATO and made its future uncertain. It is General de Gaulle who has remained quiet while some of his followers have said that France and Red China probably should consider moving toward friendlier and closer diplomatic relationships. Such a move is described as "logical."

That such a decision would arouse public opinion in the United States to a pitch of fury that would jeopardize all European relationships must be known to the French.

But General de Gaulle proceeds on the assumption that France can again become a great power and the dominant nation in Europe and that it is in her special interest so to do, no matter what the Allies in NATO think, or, for that matter, the Soviets. De Gaulle has said he believes that Khrushchev inevitably must turn to the West and that he can be patient and wait it.

Both the British and the United States have days when they feel — as did the governments during the war and after — that nothing can be done with De Gaulle. He is arrogant and he is a man who takes into account only what he regards to be the amplifying of his plans for restoring the glory of France.

IT IS BEING SAID in France that the United States and the Soviet Union agreed on a ban against testing nuclear devices in the atmosphere in an attempt to arrange world opinion against France and Red China, who are both determined to develop and test such weapons.

Therefore, the "logic" has it that France and the Chinese Communists should develop other mutual interests through closer diplomatic relationships.

All this concerns diplomatic and government circles in Washington. General de Gaulle does not have too many years left.

SOON, LIKE KONRAD Adenauer, time and events will make it necessary for him to retire. What then? There is no other De Gaulle.

There is no question but that the resolution of General de Gaulle in 1958 saved France from calamity, perhaps from Communism. When he managed that year to attain to political power, parliamentary government in France was a shambles.

There were so many parties and so much jealousy among the leaders of them that effective coalition was impossible.

He was, in the political sense, the savior of France. But that he should stubbornly proceed with plans that would fit only the Europe of another generation is neither logical nor possible.

That the De Gaulle pique should lead him to speculate that a close association with Red China is logical makes one understand why Sir Winston Churchill and allied leaders of the great war found him — though they admired him — impossible of cooperation and understanding.

The Cold War GI Bill—

Educational assistance for peace-time GI's?

(Third in a series)
By DENNIS BINNING
Staff Writer

The Cold War GI Bill (Senate Bill 5) is now marking time in the Senate, waiting to be placed on the calendar for floor debate and action. This bill is designed to provide two major types of readjustment assistance to Cold War veterans — education and vocational training assistance; and a guarantee and direct loan assistance for the purchase of homes and farms.

Approximately five million Cold War veterans would be eligible for assistance under this legislation. Eligibility criteria are that the serviceman must have seen active military duty for a period of more than 180 days between the dates of Jan. 31, 1955 and July 1, 1967 and have in his possession a "discharge other than dishonorable."

Under the two previous GI bills, eligibility for benefits was based upon a 90-day active duty requirement.

The Cold War GI Bill would allow one and one-half days of education assistance to veterans for each day of active military service with a maximum of 36 months of benefits allowable.

THIS EDUCATION assistance would take the form of an outright monthly payment to the serviceman. For a veteran undertaking full-time study, this payment would amount to $110 a month if he had no dependents, $135 a month if he had one dependent and $160 a month if he had more than one dependent. These figures are the same as those provided under the Korean GI Bill, although there has been a rise in the cost of living of over 25 per cent since 1952.

The student veteran would be required to use these funds to pay for all expenses of his education — subsistence, books and tuition — although he would be permitted to work if his grade point average remained above the minimum set by the institution at which he is studying.

A wide range of educational pursuits would be allowed under the bill's provisions: college level study, below college level study, full-time cooperative courses which alternate school and on-the-job training, correspondence courses, flight training, on-the-job training on a full-time basis and institutional on-farm training on a full-time basis.

ELIGIBLE VETERANS would have to start their education or training within three years after discharge and would have to complete that training within eight years after discharge.

Career personnel on active duty whose terms of service go beyond the termination date for training benefits — June 30, 1977 — are protected by being able to begin eligibility upon retirement.

Currently many thousands of career veterans are in danger of not qualifying for readjustment assistance although many have served in both World War II and the Korean conflict. Their retirement dates come after the termination date of the provisions of all previous GI bills.

ELIGIBILITY FOR LOANS would be the same as for educational assistance. The loan provisions of Senate Bill 5 are for the purpose of assisting eligible veterans to purchase homes and farms. Banks or other lending institutions would make the loans with the Government guaranteeing 60 per cent of a loan for residential real estate, or 50 per cent for other real estate loans.

The Government's guarantee could not exceed $7,500 for real estate home loans or the ceiling of $4,000 set on other real estate loans.

The interest rate on loans could not exceed the 5.5 per cent per annum limit set under previous GI bill loan programs. The loans would have final pay-off dates of not more than 30 years, with 40 years available in certain instances for farms.

NO DIRECT LOAN could be made after June 30, 1977.

One unique provision of this bill is that veterans obtaining loans would have to pay one-half of one per cent of the total loan amount as a guaranty fee. This money would then be used in the accumulation of a reserve fund sufficient to cover losses that might arise under the program.

Based on the experience of previous GI bills, however, veterans have proven themselves to be the safest loan risks in the nation. The Veterans Administration reports that of $54.6 billion loaned or guaranteed, only $11.2 million has been lost (this is two-hundredths of one per cent loss). The government in fact has made a profit on the loan program from interest — about $118 million to date.

THE AVERAGE ANNUAL cost for the education program through 1973 is expected to run about $289 million. In the long run it is felt that the cost of the program will be entirely self-liquidating. Again we can look for the success of the World War II bill as an indication that this is true.

The Census Bureau reports that World War II veterans who took advantage of the WWII GI Bill are currently paying over $1 billion a year more in taxes by reason of their increased earning power. The total $15 billion cost of the WWII bill is expected to be paid off within the next 5-6 years.

Senator Ralph Yarborough (D-Tex.), who introduced Senate Bill 5, said "the bill is not an expense to the taxpayer; it is an investment of the taxpayer's money on which we can guarantee them a profitable dividend, because education is the one certain method of strengthening the taxpayer's budget."

THE LOAN PROGRAM would, of course, be completely self-liquidating, perhaps even paying a profit in guaranty fees and interest.

What these two types of assistance could do for the education of a wide selection of American youth and for the economic development of this nation is staggering in scope.

Based upon the performance of previous GI bill legislation, we have a graphic image of what Senate Bill 5 is capable of doing for this nation.

Tomorrow, Part IV of this series will examine the opposition to S. 5, including the position of the Department of Defense, Bureau of the Budget and the Veterans Administration.

Objects to 'Series' Story

To the Editor:

I wish to object to the news item in today's paper (Oct. 18) reporting yesterday's Spotlight Series opening panel discussion of the topic "Should the U.S. Feed Russia?" From the account you would get the impression that a speech by Prof. Patrick Alston was being reported, rather than a panel discussion involving three persons — after some opening remarks by one of them: Prof. Alston, the guest participant.

I do not object to having my name listed as a panel member. But I do object to the impression created by your story: that the other two panel members either (1) had nothing to say of consequence; (2) did not say anything in fact; or (3) completely agreed with the position set forth by Prof. Alston so vigorously and so colorfully. In fact, both Prof. Forell and I disagreed basically and emphatically with Prof. Alston.

Speaking for myself I disagree seriously with the images of the U.S.S.R. and the U.S.A. which he set forth — especially with the portrait of our own country and its leadership as greedy and stupid (a dog completely at the mercy of Pavlovian Khrushchev and his entourage). Prof. Alston greatly oversimplified and distorted the objective state of affairs: (1) the actual consequences of the sale of U.S. wheat to Russia upon our relations with other nations, particularly our relative strength compared to that of the Soviet Union; and (2) the morality of having business dealings with an ideological "enemy" in a cold but undeclared war.

I hope and trust that future reports of the Spotlight Series will be more complete and more accurate. Your reporter was either one who completely shared Prof. Alston's biases, or he left at the close of Mr. Alston's opening remarks.

Attacks wheat letter

To the Editor:

The letter to the editor which appeared in last Thursday's (Oct. 17) Daily Iowan is the typical opinion of the uninformed exponent of East-West noncompatibility regarding mutual agreements.

Mr. Summers begins by criticizing the United States-Soviet wheat deal and uses this as a club to bludgeon any optimistic hopes of U.S. and Soviet peaceful co-existence.

He states that Chamberlain could not exist with Hitler, therefore we cannot exist with the Soviets. He further goes on to say that the Russians have broken every treaty between the two nations and that the test ban treaty should not be looked upon with any more optimism. Mr. Summers concludes his article by stating that "The only time we have a thaw in the Cold War is when it melts into a hot one." I think his view can safely be summarized by saying that the only proper policy for the U.S. to pursue regarding the Soviet Union is one of militant isolationism. I am afraid that policy does not win friends or influence people; Soviet or otherwise.

By taking Mr. Summers' letter point by point perhaps we can see the invalid reasoning used to form his conclusions.

1. The selling of wheat to the Soviet Union is a good deal for the United States. Payment is on a cash basis, adequate protections are being taken to insure that it goes where we are sending it and that the people receiving the wheat know where it is coming from. We have an opportunity to reduce our surplus, lessen the load on the taxpayer for storage facilities and to stimulate our own economy with Soviet funds; a rather ironic twist. Another factor which is worthwhile mentioning is that it may feed a few hungry people in the world if one adheres to the humanitarian viewpoint. I know of no extract obtainable from wheat which is used in rocket fuels or nuclear weapons.

2. We are not attempting to appease the Soviets as Chamberlain attempted to appease Hitler. Our relations with the Soviet Union are attempts to deal constructively with a foreign power.

3. If the only way to thaw the cold war is to turn it into a hot one, then I certainly hope we are prepared for the eternal fire which we will have to face if a nuclear holocaust erupts.

The problems which the West faces regarding the Soviet Union are not so cut and dried as Mr. Summers would have us believe. If they were, we would have long ago adopted his line of thinking in dealing with the Soviet Union.

One of the greatest battles we have to face is combating the brash and superficial reasoning people use regarding infinitely complicated issues of international importance. I am afraid a large percentage of the American population fits into this category. While we don't have to appease anyone, Mr. Summers, we must live with everyone.

Where are da bums in dis place?

To the Editor:

The trouble with Iowa City is that it's only half a city, a vital segment missing. One senses it only after the glitter of new construction and the dynamic impression of the university wears off.

Where are the bums?
This university town boils with goals, ambitions and intense drives — so much that one wishes the company of the hopeless as a respite.

I'm new to Iowa City, but in Galesburg, Ill., we used to spend Sunday mornings in our dirtiest clothes on the square with bums. It had the same kind of sanctity as church; the same kind of humility, only no building fund. The bums were usually more congenial than regular congregation members.

My favorite was a bearded old man who collected pop bottles to finance his evenings. Kids called him Santa Claus and when he got drunk he'd walk the streets shouting SANTA CLAUS GOT DRUNK!

The only tragedies in Iowa City result from clashing or diverted drives and ambitions — not the lack of them. The presence of hopeless ones might give hope to students feeling the weight of goals and ambitions.

Maybe I just haven't found the gathering place of bums in Iowa City. But if there is none, a portion of the city should be set aside for them and allowed to deteriorate. It would truly provide a more liberal education.

Space Flights Not As Risky As Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last December, a space satellite shot into orbit was expected to be stoned to death by the flying sand and pebbles of space.

Now — though it isn't certain — scientists suspect their "target" satellite may have taken most of its beating from dust balls — the fluffy leftovers of old comets.

At any rate, from the battering that Explorer 16 took, it now appears that the hazards to future space fliers from flying debris may be less than suspected.

Engineers also have a better measure of how much metallic shielding to add to spacecraft skin to counter most of the high speed impacts by meteoroids.

Dr. Fred Whipple of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory told a news conference Thursday he suspects most of the debris is from old comets that disintegrated in the heat of the sun.

Comets are not hard, solid space bodies like planets — but probably more like clouds of gas and dust that orbit around the sun and are alternately frozen by the cold of deep space and heated by the closeness of the sun.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration called the news conference to tell what Explorer 16 told engineers about its 7½ months in space.

The particles that hit and punctured the metal-protected sensors on Explorer 16 were less forceful than expected.

Whipple, who once thought spacecraft might have to carry a metal bumper to ward off such particles, says Explorer 16 indicates they are less of a problem. In fact the dust balls that hit the satellite appear to have about half the density of water.

But the particles in space seem to travel at high speeds — up to 45 miles a second — and even a dust ball can make an impression at those speeds.

The metals of varying thickness and strength on Explorer's vulnerable hide took more than 65 punctures. A microphone recorded what might have been more than 15,000 hits on just one-tenth of the 20-square-foot surface.

Explorer 16, now out of radio contact with earth, continues its patrol through a barrage of puff balls. Some two years from now, it too will become a meteor and die in a streak of fire in the earth's atmosphere.

Heights-Iowa City Merger Plan To Be Tested in Election

Local opinion on the proposed University Heights-Iowa City merger will be tested Nov. 5 in the University Heights municipal election.

A yes-no question concerning the merger will be included on the regular ballot for councilmen and mayor. The question is designed to establish local opinion. Results will not be binding.

Five vacancies on the city council will be filled in the election; eight candidates have filed for the positions.

Mayor Russell M. Ross and City Treasurer Maurice E. Taylor, incumbents, are unopposed. Chan F. Coulter is the only incumbent councilman on the ballot.

Other council candidates are: David L. Armstrong, a salesman with the Robinson Agency; James T. Bradbury, SUI professor of medicine; David Cannon, of Economy Advertising Co.; James C. Dickerson of Dickerson Motors; David Homewood, an electrician; Donald L. Noll, Hawkeye Bookstore manager, and Vernon Van Dyke, SUI professor of political science. Mayor Ross is an associate professor of political science, Coulter is a farmer and Taylor is an auditor for the Iowa State Bank & Trust Co.

At Christus House—

Norwegian Cleric To Visit

Rev. Leif Michelsen, a visitor from Norway, here to observe student Christian life and the SUI School of Religion, will address Christus House at 6 p.m. Sunday on "Christians at the University."

The talk will deal with campus life in Europe and in the United States. A 75 cent supper will precede the talk.

Rev. Mr. Michelsen came to the United States in August to study evangelism and student work at U.S. university campuses. He hopes to find inspiration, instruction, and experiences which he can apply to his young people in Norway.

Presently, Rev. Michelsen is general secretary for Norway's Student Union — a group designed to proclaim the gospel on the university campus.

He has served as a campus minister at the University of Oslo.

His travels in this country have been confined to the East and Midwest. He will come to Iowa City from Northfield, Minn., where he has been observing student life at St. Olaf College.

He will remain in Iowa City until Oct. 31 visiting with religion professors and Pastor Duane Addison of the Christus House community.

Pastor Addison said that the Rev. Mr. Michelsen will be especially interested in Christian student life at Christus House.

From Iowa City he will go to Ames to visit ISU. He will return home in December.

Viet Cong's Weaponry Includes Bows, Spears

WASHINGTON (AP) — A nine-foot bamboo spear with a wicked-looking iron blade, two primitive crossbows and a 1960 Soviet-made rifle rested on the green felt tabletop of the House of Foreign Affairs Committee.

They were captured from the Communist Viet Cong forces in the jungles of South Viet Nam.

The weapons gave stark emphasis to a briefing of the committee Thursday by subcommittee members who have just returned from a two-week Far East tour.

Rep. Clement J. Zablocki (D-Wis.) chairman of the eight-man group that went to South Viet Nam, said the rifle was one of 75 new type Soviet-made rifles captured recently by the forces of Vietnamese President Ngo Dinh Diem.

He said the congressmen saw many other weapons captured from the Viet Cong — homemade grenades, carbines and spears.

The rifle they brought back had something added — a plaque on its stock commemorating the subcommittee's Far East trip, sort of an odd-ball souvenir.

The rifle bore a date of 1960 stamped into the barrel, but it appeared to be a single-shot bolt action weapon of a rather outmoded type.

The crossbows — one of them spanned five feet and had a 90-pound pull — were all business. One had a bunch of arrows still secured to its handle.

The spear was tipped with a razor-sharp blade.

Zablocki was asked if he agrees with the timetable announced by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara who said he thought U. S. military units now training the Vietnamese army could be pulled out by the end of 1965.

Zablocki said "on the basis of present development and progress I believe the timetable can be reached. The training is ahead of schedule. But there is always the possibility of a reversal."

He said Gen. Paul Harkins, in charge of U. S. forces in Viet Nam, is "very optimistic as any good coach would be for his team."

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANIES SALUTE: BOB BUCK

When a new microwave transmission system was needed to connect Detroit, Flint, and Lansing, Bob Buck (B.S.E.E., 1960) designed it.

Bob has established quite an engineering reputation in Michigan Bell's Microwave Group during his two years there. And to see that his talent was further developed, the company selected Bob to attend the Bell System Regional Communications School in Chicago.

Bob joined Michigan Bell back in 1959. And after introductory training, he established a mobile radio maintenance system and helped improve Detroit's Maritime Radio system—contributions that led to his latest step up!

Bob Buck, like many young engineers, is impatient to make things happen for his company and himself. There are few places where such restlessness is more welcomed or rewarded than in the fast-growing telephone business.

Illini Picked over UCLA In Tonight's Top Battle

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Unbeaten, once-tied Illinois flew in Thursday, favored to defeat UCLA and preserve the Illini's No. 4 national ranking in tonight's intersectional grid battle.

A turnout of around 30,000 is expected for the kickoff in Memorial Coliseum at 5 p.m. (CST).

The only other game involving major college teams tonight sends Virginia Military Institute to Richmond for a Southern Conference clash.

Coches Pete Elliott prefers to remain quiet on any Rose Bowl aspirations but at the moment Illinois is a contender to represent the Big Ten at Pasadena New Year's Day.

Illinois is an excellent football team, possibly the Big Ten's Rose Bowl representative, said Bill Barnes, UCLA coach.

An assistant, Dan Peterson, scouted the Illini in their 16-6 victory over Minnesota last week, pictured the visitors as "a big, powerful team with good balance."

"UCLA is reminiscent of Illinois early last season," said an Elliott scouting aide, Gene Stauber. "They're young, they made mistakes and they seem to get their share of bad breaks, but the potential is there for a mighty good football team. Their starting line-up has only three seniors."

The big conference Bruins are 1-4, but their backers were encouraged by their improvement in a losing cause against Notre Dame last week, 27-12.

SHARES RECORD—

DETROIT — Dick (Night Train) Lane is a co-holder of the National Football League record for pass interceptions in consecutive games, six, set with the Chicago Cards in 1954-55, and he also occupies second place with five straight, dating back to Los Angeles in 1952.

BAD LUCK—

DETROIT — The Detroit Lions lost the services of three regular defensive players, halfback Gary Lowe (Achilles tendon), Carl Brettschneider (knee) and Joe Schmidt (shoulder) in a period of four weeks during the '63 season.

Hawkeye Guard Mike Reilly— He Came To Play Football

By TOM MATTAUSCH Staff Writer

"Comes to play football," reads a line under Hawkeye guard Mike Reilly's name in the official Iowa football program.

And, the 6-2, 198-pound senior does come to play football!

"My cousin Dick Hoerner got me interested in the game," said Mike. (Hoerner who was a professional with the Los Angeles Rams also played for the Hawks in 1945.) "I've always wanted to play as well as he."

Beginning his football career in the sixth grade, Mike was on the Iowa All-State team in his senior year at Dubuque High School. He also tossed a football 242 feet when he hurled a discus 160 feet that same year to win the championship in both events at state outdoor track competition.

Mike, who is a member of the "I" Club and the Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity, plays ball for one reason — he likes it. "There's a thrill to playing the game," he said, "and I like the association of the people I work with — the team and the coaches."

On the gridiron, Mike favors his position at guard over his former spot at end, while line backer is his choice on defense.

"I just like those positions better," he said, "because you get into more things."

Football is an important aspect of Reilly's life and will probably remain so for some time as he plans to enter professional competition or coach on the college level.

Turning his attention to Saturday's battle with Purdue, Mike feels the Hawks are going to face a tough ball club.

"Purdue is a funny team," he mused, "and they're always tough at home. We'll have to play the same caliber of ball that we played against Wisconsin."

And, Reilly is anxious to give Purdue a taste of what the Badgers felt last week. "You've got to be determined to play ball," he commented, "you've got to do it hard or not at all."

MIKE REILLY

Came to play football — and does a good job.

AP All-America Board Cites Reilly, Kasapis

CHICAGO (AP) — The associated Press Midwest All-America Board again focused attention this week on linebacking play-wreckers and sharp-passing quarterbacks.

But one member, Dick Cullum of the Minneapolis Tribune, took note of the decline of the halfback and pointed a finger at college football's "poor imitation of professional offense" as the cause. Cullum observed:

"We have such fine area halfbacks as Lou Holland of Wisconsin, Sherman Lewis of Michigan State, Paul Warfield of Ohio State and Marv Woodson of Indiana, all really great runners.

"But no halfbacks are doing much this year. Running attacks are so ineffective under the two-runners-three-ends formation college coaches have adopted that running yardage doesn't show up anywhere.

"The coaches may as well not have any ball-carriers. How else can we explain that Holland, Lewis, Warfield, Woodson and some other real good ones, are not an important factor in this year's games.

"If they can't score on a pass or kick a field goal, you may as well not come to the stadium."

The board's top praise Thursday went to linebacking stars Mike Reilly of Iowa; Dick Butkus of Illinois; and Bob Lehmann of Notre Dame. Reilly and Lehmann are guards, Butkus a center.

Also still rated high on the board's list were 250-pound tackle Carl Eller of Minnesota, and quarterbacks Tommy Myers of Northwestern and Ron DiGravio of Purdue.

Newcomers to the roster, besides Reilly, were 156-pound defensive halfback Billy Smith and 205-pound end Bobby Johnson of Wisconsin; Iowa tackle Gus Kasapis; and Illinois fullback Jim Grubowski.

Reilly's fine work in "padding" a near upset of Wisconsin drew such comments as:

Cullum — "The best individual performance I've seen this year."
Mike Walden, Milwaukee WTMJ — "Best man on the field, making at least 20 tackles."

MISSOURI READY—

Three Missouri football players who have been on the injury list are expected to be ready for action against Iowa State at Ames Saturday.

Mason Rudolph Takes Lead In Fresno Open Golf Meet

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — Hot-putting Mason Rudolph fired a six-under-par 66 and Tommy Aaron tagged along with a 68 Thursday while most of the field strung out at par or worse in the first round of the $25,000 Fresno Open Golf Tournament.

Rudolph and Aaron, a pair of nonwinners of the 1963 pro tour but high ranked in earnings, shot similar no-bogey rounds at the 7,181-yard, par 36-36-72 San Joaquin Country Club.

Rudolph, a former Memphis State College golfer playing out of Lehigh Acres, Fla., birdied four of the first six holes and shot 32-34-66. Aaron, ex-University of Florida star now living in Gainesville, Ga., had a 33-35-68 and dropped a 65-foot putt.

Seven pros deadlocked for third at 71, five strokes behind Rudolph. They were Al Johnston, George Knudson, Chick Evans, Buster Cupit, Roger Ginsberg, Bill Casper and Jack Rule Jr. Eleven others shot par 72, but the bulk of the field was in the 74-78 range.

Rudolph, the PGA's 10 ranked money winner this year and the leading dollar earner competing at Fresno, drove six birdie putts of 10 feet or longer. He needed only 28 putts as he missed but two greens and recouped both times with accurate short irons and easy putts.

Iowa City Plays At Dubuque

Iowa City's Little Hawks will travel to Dubuque tonight for a game of little championship importance. Game time is 7:45 p.m.

The Little Hawks are 2-3 in the Valley conference while Dubuque is 1-4. Dubuque's only win of the season and the last two years was a 25-12 victory over East Moline which Iowa City defeated, 19-7.

Iowa City coach Frank Bates has announced one change in his lineup. Bob Martin will be a starter at offensive end while George Wilkinson changes places with Martin and will be used primarily on defense.

Berra Signs Manager's Contract for $35,000

NEW YORK (AP) — Yogi Berra signed a contract to manage the New York Yankees Thursday — at a cut in salary.

The 38-year-old former star catcher agreed to a one-year contract calling for $35,000, a $5,000 cut from his 1963 salary as player-coach and some $20,000 below his highest single season income as a Yankee.

"The one-year contract was my wish," Berra announced at a huge press conference that was even larger than the one which assembled for Ralph Houk's elevation from field to general manager Tuesday.

"I wanted to get a taste of managing," Berra added. "I feel if I can't do the job, I'll just quit it. I'll just quit at the end of the year."

"As for the money, I feel the same way. If I'm not capable of managing, I don't deserve the big money. If I find that I could manage, I'll stick around a little bit, I hope.

"Aw, it wasn't such a big cut, anyway," Yogi concluded.

Dressed in a conservative suit of grey with black tie and shoes, Berra appeared ill at ease as he stepped to the microphone in the glare of the cameras to answer queries hurled at him by more than 100 newspaper, radio and television reporters. He was flanked by Houk and co-owner Dan Topping.

The nervousness wore off soon however, as he made a point of greeting each questioner by name. Some of his answers were downright clever.

For example, he was asked what he expected to be his biggest problem as manager.

"Finding out if I can manage," he replied.

What makes a good manager? "A good ball club," was the prompt reply.

Among other things, Berra said he would no longer be a player, he was not yet ready to announce his coaches including the one who would replace him, he did not believe his lack of managerial experience would be a handicap, he was not an advocate of the two-plateau system, and he did not believe that switch from "one of the boys" to "the boss" would bring on any difficulties in dealing with his players.

MORE ABOUT BIFF—

More information about the mysterious disappearance of Biff, the DI mascot, was learned Thursday. Biff reportedly attended a party Saturday night, and was heard to remark on the way home, "I was just driving along not thinking about anything, mind you... just driving along..."

STARR OUT FOR TWO WEEKS—

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Quarterback Bart Starr, a key figure in the Green Bay Packers drive for a third straight National Football League championship, will be sidelined "a couple of weeks," with a fractured hand, Coach Vince Lombardi said Tuesday.

Starr will not wear a cast, Lombardi said, but added, "He can't grip the ball, though."

Boilermakers Drill On Pass Defense

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Coach Jack Mollenkopf stressed kicking Thursday as the Purdue Boilermakers went through their final fullscale workout before Saturday's Homecoming football game with Iowa.

Pass defense was specially emphasized in a sharpening of all offenses and defenses to be used.

The only casualties were reserve quarterback Gary Hogan, with a thigh injury, and center Henry Dudgeon, with an ankle injury.

Cyclones Complete Preparations for Saturday's Game

AMES (AP) — The Iowa State Cyclones wound up preparations for Saturday's football game against Big Eight leader Missouri with a non-contact review of offense and defense Thursday.

Coach Clay Stapleton dismissed the first team after a 55-minute drill.

The Cyclones will hold a 30-minute workout Friday following the Iowa State-Missouri freshman game.

Athletic Business Manager C. Kim Tidd said Thursday that about 1,000 tickets for Saturday's clash remained unsold.

Iowa State will be seeking its third consecutive conference victory. The Cyclones have lost once in league play. Missouri is 2-0 in Big Eight competition.

U-High Meets Durant In Conference Battle

U-High, 5-1 for the season and 3-1 in conference play, meets Durant, 2-2 in the conference, as the Blues continue their battles for the Eastern Iowa Hawkeye crown tonight. Game time is 7:30 p.m. on the Durant field.

The Blues, whose only loss was a 7-6 decision against West Branch, are tied for conference honors with West Liberty, Mt. Vernon and West Branch.

U-High's quarterback Skip Johnson, who has not participated in contact drills this week because of a blood infection, is a doubtful starter for the Blues and Steve Koser may get the starting nod. Mark Gibson, U-High tackle who fractured hand, Coach Vince Lombardi said Tuesday.

Starr will not wear a cast, Lombardi said, but added, "He can't grip the ball, though."

Outer coats are a natural for BREMERS Racquet Club styling. The slim, trim lines are uncluttered by excess bulk. The fabrics — heather-light tweeds and chevrons — rest warmly but well-nigh weightlessly on the shoulders. Just as the styling complements the fabric, BREMERS' natural shoulder outercoats compliment the wearer by accentuating the vigorous lines of youthful figures and tactfully slenderizing more mature ones.

Hawkeyes Face Boilermakers' Passing, Running Attack

Ron DiGravio, Kuzniewski To Lead Purdue Challenge

Purdue, the traditional "Spoilermaker" of the Big 10 conference, is the next step for Iowa's Hawkeyes. The two teams, tied for sixth place in the conference with 1-1 records, meet Saturday in the Purdue Homecoming game at Lafayette, Ind. The Boilermakers spoiled Iowa's Homecoming in 1962 when they won, 26-3.

Iowa center coach and scout Archie Kodros was impressed by the comeback of Purdue, who defeated Michigan, 23-12, last week after losing to Wisconsin, 38-20, the week before. The loss to Wisconsin was the first time the Boilermakers had been beaten by more than five points since midway in the 1960 season when Iowa defeated them, 21-14.

"PURDUE'S A GOOD solid club, with a line comparable to Iowa's and fine passing and backfield speed," Kodros said. "Ron DiGravio, the quarterback, is very elusive and with good protection is able to wander around back there until he spots a receiver — or he may take off running."

The scout continued, "Gene Donaldson is a 215-pound fullback who is very effective and John Kuzniewski is a fast halfback who also has good moves as a pass-receiver. Jim Morel, flanker back, is tough for pass-defenders to cover."

KUZNIEWSKI LEADS the Purdue rushing attack with 179 yards on 45 carries for a 4.0 average, and Donaldson is second with 110 yards on 32 carries for a 3.43 average.

In passing, DiGravio has completed 40 of 74 attempts for 517 yards, three touchdowns and a 54 per cent average. Morel, DiGravio's favorite receiver, leads the Purdue scoring with two touchdown passes. He has caught 14 aeriels for 202 yards.

THE CHIEF WORRY in the Purdue camp this week has been the condition of center and co-captain Henry Dudgeon. Dudgeon, 217-pound senior letterman, suffered an ankle injury in the contest with Michigan and is not expected to be ready for action Saturday. Larry Kaminski, 195-pound sophomore, has replaced Dudgeon on the No. 1 unit.

The inexperienced Boilermakers have had to rely on the play of their sophomores in the last three games. Fourteen of the 33 Boilermakers who saw action in the 23-12 win over Michigan were sophomores; 16 of the 37 used in the Wisconsin game were sophomores and 12 of the 30 players in the Notre Dame game were sophomores.

REMEMBER?— Nile Kinnick, Iowa's great All-American halfback in 1939, holds the Big Ten record for the most yards gained on punt returns in a single game. In 1939, Kinnick picked up 201 yards against Indiana. In 1963, Iowa's team effort for the season produced only 207 yards on punt returns.

Middleweights Carter, Archer Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — Middleweight contenders Rubin (Hurricane) Carter and Joey Archer will meet tonight in a 10-round bout with the winner in line for a shot at Dick Tiger's world championship early in 1964. The bout is a nontelevision affair at Madison Square Garden.

Carter, of Patterson, N. J., has won three of his four fights this year while Archer will be seeking his seventh straight victory, four of them this year. Archer is from New York.

Teddy Brenner, the Garden matchmaker, said he will attempt to match the winner against Tiger, who already has indicated a willingness for the title bout.

Carter, 26, has a record of 17 victories and three defeats. He has knocked out 11 rivals and predicts a kayo over Archer "within five rounds."

Archer, a 25-year-old Bronx Irishman, has a record of 36 victories in 36 bouts, and is ranked sixth by the World Boxing Association, which ranks Carter the No. 1 challenger.

MANTLE TO LEAVE HOSPITAL

Mickey Mantle, the New York Yankees' $100,000-a-year center fielder, says he is "doing fine" and expects to leave the hospital this weekend.

Mantle underwent an operation last week on his left knee for removal of a loose cartilage.

Sandy Koufax Winner Of Cy Young Award

BOSTON (AP) — Strikeout sensation Sandy Koufax — the Los Angeles Dodger left-hander who almost lost a finger and his baseball career a year ago — is the first unanimous Cy Young Award winner as the major league's outstanding pitcher.

Koufax overwhelmed the selectors as he did opposing batters, sweeping all 20 votes cast by the designated committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

A circulatory ailment hit Koufax's pitching hand July, 1962, costing the Dodgers his services and ultimately the pennant. Doctors subsequently have revealed Koufax came perilously close to losing the finger by amputation before the condition suddenly improved.

The 27-year-old Brooklyn-born bachelor responded by leading the Dodgers to the world championship with a brilliant 25-5 record and a National League record 306 strikeouts in 311 innings. His 1.88 earned run average was the lowest in both leagues.

No. Illinois Tops Small College Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — Northern Illinois and Florida A&M remained in a close race for the top spot in the national small college ratings after lopsided victories last weekend although the Florida team didn't draw a first place vote from The Associated Press panel of sports writers.

Delaware popped up as their leading challenger after turning back a major college opponent, Ohio University, 29-12.

Northern Illinois was the first choice of four of the eight AP panel members. Delaware drew two first place votes and Texas A&I and Kearney, Neb., State one each. Florida A&M owed its position to six votes for second place.

Northern Illinois racked up its sixth straight victory Saturday, trouncing Illinois Normal, 43-0. Florida A&M was just as convincing in a 66-0 victory over Morris Brown.

U.S., Canada Tie in First Round of Golf Tournament

PARIS (AP) — Jack Nicklaus shook up the blasé French with a five-under-par 67 Thursday and Arnold Palmer, winning from a sharp pain in the back, threw in a 69, but the United States had to settle for a tie with a pair of fast-finishing Canadians for the first-round lead in the 11th annual Canada Cup golf competition. A rank outsider from Spain, Sebastian Miguel, chipping and putting with a magical touch, seized the individual lead from his more famous rivals by firing a 34-32-66 in the cold, raw smog that blanketed the Saint-nom-la-Breteche course.

Miguel, whose brother Angel won the title in 1958 in Mexico, had a one-shot edge over Nicklaus and tall Al Balding of Canada, who reeled off five birdies in a row in a blazing finish. Balding's veteran partner, Stan Leonard, had a 33 over the incoming nine for a 69.

The Americans and Canadians at 136 were two strokes ahead of South Africa and Spain, with Australia and Ireland next closest at 143. Two-man teams from 33 nations are competing.

Gary Player, the little South African stylist who keeps himself sharp and wealthy by playing the American tour, fired a 68, matching Christy O'Connor of Ireland. The bulk of the crowd of 5,000, the largest ever to watch a golf event in France, swarmed about the favored Americans while players such as Miguel, Balding, Leonard and Player had to perform in semiprivity.

Ralph Guglielmi Signs with Eagles

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Ralph Guglielmi signed Thursday with the National Football League's Philadelphia Eagles, bolstering a quarterback corps depleted by an injury to star Sonny Jurgensen.

Jurgensen suffered a chip fracture of the right shoulder and jammed shoulder muscles against Cleveland last Sunday. He will be replaced this weekend against the Chicago Bears by King Hill, and Guglielmi will back up Hill.

FIRST AND LAST—

Iowa is the current Big Ten record holder involving first downs. In 1958, the Hawkeyes set a conference mark by averaging 22 first downs for each Big Ten game. The Hawks also hold the record for the fewest. The 1944 team averaged 6.5 per game.

Goldwater Flays JFK for Ignoring Inflation Warnings

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater (R-Ariz.) accused President Kennedy Thursday night of ignoring a warning of inflation, and said mounting government debts could "set ticking the fuse of an economic time bomb that could blow the good times to bits."

JFK Signs Bill On Mental Health

WASHINGTON (AP) — "With great pleasure," President Kennedy signed Thursday legislation authorizing the federal government to spend $329 million helping states and communities tackle mental health and retardation problems.

Kennedy expressed hope that the measure would arouse communities to face up to the problems. The President signed the bill in the White House Cabinet Room before a large audience including several members of Congress.

The measure was one of the top items on Kennedy's legislative program. His family has long been interested in problems of mental retardation and has contributed generously to combat them.

One of the President's sisters has been for many years in an institution for the mentally retarded. The bill sets spending ceilings. Separate legislation by Congress will be needed to provide money for the new program.

The bill is a compromise between $650 million approved by the Senate and $238 million voted by the House.

A Senate-House conference committee brought agreement from Senate sponsors of the bill to eliminate their most expensive item — $427 million for staffing community health centers.

The bill authorizes funds to help build new community health centers, to conduct research into the causes of mental retardation and to care for the mentally retarded.

British Ship Seized

WASHINGTON (AP) — The yacht Nana arrived at Key West, Fla., Thursday with 23 Cubans on board and was taken in custody by federal authorities, State Department officials reported.

They said the ship appeared to be in violation of "certain laws," and will remain in custody pending the outcome of an investigation. The Nana is owned by Harold Derber, a British subject, who sold tickets to Cuban refugees in Miami last summer for transportation of friends and relatives out of Cuba.

He said he had arranged with Fidel Castro to release them for a 50-50 split of the $50 fares. The State Department did not care for the project.

Highlanders Will Take 'High Road' To Lafayette

The SU1 Scottish Highlanders have been humming "I'll take the high road" this week in preparation for their Saturday flight to Lafayette, Ind., to appear in the pre-game and half-time shows at the Purdue-Iowa football game.

Leaving the Cedar Rapids airport early Saturday morning, two Purdue University planes — a DC-3 and a DC-6 — will carry 80 SU1 coeds in full Scottish Highlander uniform, plus bagpipes and drums. The planes are scheduled to arrive at the Purdue University airport at 9:30 a. m. Also aboard one of the planes will be Director William Adamson and the assistant director, Roger Smallman, A2, Syracuse, N. Y.

The entourage will be transported by Purdue University buses to the practice field in Lafayette for a 10 a. m. rehearsal, after which the coeds and their directors will be entertained at luncheon at the Cary Club, West Hall, in the men's quadrangle of Purdue University.

Following their performances at the Purdue-Iowa football game in the afternoon, the Highlanders will return by plane to Cedar Rapids, arriving about 6 p. m.

By 7 p. m., the troupe should be back on the SU1 campus, with another 750 miles added to its travel record.

Solon Charges Navy Falsified Reports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Earl Wilson (R-Ind.) charged Thursday that Asst. Secretary of the Navy Kenneth M. BeLieu gave false information to a congressional committee and should be fired if he can't explain it satisfactorily.

Wilson said in a House speech that the information concerned a "sole source" contract awarded by the Navy to the Collins Radio Co. of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Dallas, Tex. Wilson has been conducting a campaign against this kind of procurement, favoring competitive bidding.

Wilson said BeLieu was asked to furnish a carefully prepared answer to specific questions of a House appropriations subcommittee on the Collins Radio contract.

"The answers furnished by BeLieu were falsified," Wilson said. He said the case is "just more proof that some members of the growing military-industry complex have a locked-up, inside track to navy money."

"I had a Navy rear admiral tell me less than two weeks ago that he is amazed at the way Collins anticipates and is able to get sole source contracts to fill Navy requirements. In the next breath, he admitted Collins seldom, if ever, wins a competitive procurement, and he admitted that a least 134 Collins top-level employees are former Navy people."

Wilson said he asked the General Accounting Officer to investigate late in August and received a reply last week. He said it showed:

That the Navy paid Collins more than $1.5 million to develop the radio and the Army contributed another $250,000.

That Collins never has manufactured the radio commercially and doesn't list it in its commercial catalog.

That the Navy contract "all but wiped out benefits of the almost $2 million of tax money spent for development."

That the radio uses to a "maximum degree" component parts from other government radios Collins was paid to develop in the past.

Goldwater Is Out of Step, Says Rockefeller

Los Angeles (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York hammered hard Thursday on his campaign-like theme that Sen. Barry Goldwater is out of step with the world — and the voters — on essential issues.

Rockefeller singled out differences over the United Nations, right-to-work laws, foreign aid and income taxes in another volley at his prospective rival for the Republican presidential nomination.

Rockefeller arrived in California Wednesday for a two-day tour of the state where Goldwater has shown early strength.

Rockefeller outlined his political views in a question and answer period following a speech before Town Hall, Los Angeles' leading civic forum. He was interrupted by applause a half-dozen times, mainly on criticism of the Kennedy administration.

The heaviest applause came when he posed himself as a fighting underdog in the Republican presidential race.

Earlier, he told newsmen he has made up his mind on his 1964 plans and they'll be announced in Albany, N. Y., early next month.

Anti-Tito Protests Directed By Pros, Charges Yugoslav

NEW YORK (AP) Yugoslav Foreign Minister Koca Popovic charged Thursday that demonstrations against President Tito during his visit here were directed by professional refugee terrorists.

He again criticized New York's police force for what he termed its inability to prevent harassment by anti-Tito demonstrators.

"The effect of the measures taken have not been as satisfactory as we expected," Popovic declared. Half a dozen demonstrators were arrested since Tito arrived in New York Sunday for a five-day visit. In addition, members of his party have been attacked on the streets by unidentified assailants.

"We do not mean to overemphasize or exaggerate the importance of the incidents," Popovic told a news conference.

Four Americans Die in Viet Crash

SAIGON, Viet Nam (AP) — A U. S. Air Force transport carrying four Americans and four Vietnamese crashed Thursday on a flare-drooping mission over the Mekong River delta and all aboard apparently perished. The wreckage burned.

Confirmation of the loss of the four Americans would increase to 134 the list of U. S. dead from combat and war-related causes in South Viet Nam the last 22 months. Those on the transport were two officers and two enlisted men. Their names were withheld.

Among other developments of the day: The French Embassy announced Communist guerrillas kidnapped three French planters and wounded two others in a series of attacks this week on a rubber plantation near Binh Ba, 40 miles east of Saigon.

Military sources said fighting generally has picked up sharply and more than 200 battle casualties have been taken to Saigon's Cong Hoa Hospital in the last three days.

A seven-man U. N. mission headed by Abdul Rahman Pazhwak of Afghanistan made a series of protocol calls on government ministries. The mission is to look into Buddhist charges, denied by President Ngo Dinh Diem, that Diem's regime is persecuting the Buddhists.

Nonsmokers Can Save On Insurance

NEW YORK — Several hundred Americans pay less today for their life insurance because they don't smoke cigarettes.

Some get a 15 per cent discount. Others, such as some nonsmokers with the Great American Reserve Insurance Co. of Dallas, Tex., are eligible for added death benefits and draw special dividends.

In the background is the touchy controversy over cigarettes and their possible tie to lung cancer and other diseases. Three companies began offering nonsmokers better rates within the past year.

Travis Wallace is president of Great American Reserve, largest of the three. He is also a national director of the American Cancer Society.

Life insurance companies traditionally charge higher rates for some people: health risks, heavy drinkers, or workers in dangerous jobs. But nonsmoker insurance means a reward in terms of lower rates.

The biggest problem is finding people who don't smoke.

How do the big life insurance companies feel about preferred treatment for the nonsmoker?

Those that would comment appeared skeptical.

The main reason is that 63 million Americans smoke cigarettes.

Fortune National Life Insurance Co. of Madison, Wis., says it has written more than 1 million dollars in nonsmoker insurance since January.

Moderate cigar and pipe smokers also qualify for this insurance.

Executive Life Insurance Co. of Beverly Hills, Calif., has been offering a five per cent premium discount to nonsmokers for little more than a year.

Page sales for the 1964 Hawkeye are now underway, according to Judy Stevens, A4, Iowa City, business manager.

Letters have been sent to 150 SUI student organizations explaining cost and contract procedures. Rates are $27.50 for a half page and $50. for a full page. All contracts must be signed by the president and the treasurer of the organization, and bills will be sent in January, Miss Stevens said.

One of the 14 student salesmen will contact each organization president during the next two weeks. If any organization has not received a letter or been contacted by Monday, an officer should notify Don Kellogg, page sales manager, at the Hawkeye Office, Ext. 2238.

Miss Stevens stressed that the yearbook hopes to add organizations to the new yearbook.

Photo Night for all organizations who have purchased or intend to purchase space in the 1964 Hawkeye is scheduled for Tuesday.

Brothers Four Perform

The Brothers Four sing "Island in the Sun," under mellow lights before an SUI student audience in the Main Lounge of the Union Thursday night. The Lounge was filled and the walls were lined with standing fans while the Brothers Four sang their own versions of old favorites like "If I Had A Hammer," and "Tie Me Kangaroo Down." The Daily Iowan interviewed them following the performance. The interview will appear in Saturday's Daily Iowan.

Seeding May Reduce Hurricanes' Winds

WASHINGTON — Weather Bureau scientists reported Thursday that new hope for robbing hurricanes of some of their punch has been raised by experiments in the chemical seeding of the deadly storms.

In a report to the scientific world — published by coincidence on a day when Hurricane Ginny headed toward the Georgia coast — they reported these preliminary findings on a seeding experiment conducted on Hurricane Beulah late in August.

A production of more than 30 per cent in wind velocity — from about 104 miles an hour to 63. And this wind-weakening was associated with:

A significant widening of the hurricane's eye, the area of calm in such doughnut-shaped storms which are characterized by terrific winds whirling all around the eye. The eye normally measures 10 to 20 miles in radius, but Beulah's eye widened by as much as 20 miles in some spots.

A much more uniform distribution of pressure around the storm's center than had been noted prior to the seeding.

The venture was the latest experiment in Project Stormfury, a joint research program of the Weather Bureau and the Navy.

At several points in their report in the journal Science, the researchers stressed that full analyses of the results will take months, and they conceded that the changes noted might have been due to tricks of Mother Nature, as often seen in previous hurricanes, and not to the seeding. The researchers called for a repetition of the experiment.

They also declared that, at least on a first look, the results of the Beulah seeding are consistent with the hypothesis upon which the whole experiment was based.

In layman's terms, the theory can be boiled down to this:

The seeding, by causing droplets of water in the clouds surrounding the eye to change to ice crystals, stimulates a great release of heat within the "walls" of the eye. This heat acts upon inflowing air sucked up along the walls. This reduces the density and pressure of the uprushing air, causes the "walls" to retreat, and presently reduces the velocity of the wind whizzing around the eye.

The report was made by Dr. Robert H. Simpson, the Weather Bureau's chief of Severe Storm Research, and meteorologist Joanne S. Malkus of the University of California at Los Angeles.

Dr. Callahan Appeals Fines

Dr. George D. Callahan, Johnson County Medical Examiner, entered an appeal in district court Thursday on his conviction and fine for 65 parking meter violations in Iowa City.

On Oct. 2 Police Judge Daniel W. Boyle ruled that Callahan had been proven guilty beyond a reasonable doubt after an earlier hearing in police court Sept. 26.

The medical examiner was fined $2 on each of the 65 violation and was assessed $4 costs. The appeal to district court asked "a de novo (new) trial on all matters involved."

In police court Callahan contended that as medical examiner he is on emergency call 24 hours a day and his car, an emergency vehicle, is exempt from the provisions of the city's parking meter ordinance. Judge Boyle also overruled a defense plea that no proof had been shown by the city that Callahan had actually parked the car when the violations occurred.

New Consent Law Decision Is Delayed

INDEPENDENCE — A District Court judge delayed a decision Thursday in a Buchanan County farmer's attempt to overthrow a driver's license suspension under Iowa's new implied consent law.

The case was brought by David Aldrich, 51, who was charged Sept. 2 with drunken driving. He is to be tried on that charge next Monday.

The law in question provides that a person holding a driver's license has given implied consent to chemical tests if a law officer arrests him on suspicion of drunken driving.

Aldrich exercised his right to refuse the test. On Sept. 23 his license was ordered suspended for 120 days. He then appealed to the State Department of Public Safety, and a state examiner conducted a hearing and upheld the suspension.

Aldrich then took the matter to District Court. After the hearing Thursday, Judge George Heath of Waterloo took the case under advisement. He did not indicate when he will rule.

In a similar case, farmer Vyril T. Bartlett, 45, of Wall Lake, appealed his license revocation to Sac County District Court, where a hearing is set for next Tuesday.

3 Area Persons To Attend Meeting

Two high school science students and a science instructor will represent the Iowa City area at the Youth Conference on the Atom in Chicago Nov. 7-9. E. Stewart, District Manager, Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Co., announced Thursday.

They are D. David Walker, Iowa City High School; Mark Gibson, University High School and George W. Cossman, physics instructor at University High.

They will attend the Conference under the sponsorship of the utility. Scholastic record, extra-curricular activities, especially in the field of science, and science courses taken, were considered in selecting the students.

Princess Grace's Niece Now On Budget

OMAHA — John Paul Jones Jr. has a new assignment and he and his bride have a new home. And they've acquired something else new: a budget.

Now, like any newweds, they'd like to settle down out of the spotlight.

Mrs. Jones was Mary Lee Davis of Philadelphia, niece of Princess Grace of Monaco. Her husband also came from a well-to-do Philadelphia family.

Their real-life love drama caught them in a glare of publicity after they left their homes and turned up in Des Moines. The story ended happily with marriage there, under parental approval, last month.

Jones, who will be 19 next Tuesday, sold encyclopedias in Des Moines. Last week he was transferred here.

The couple moved into a $130-a-month furnished apartment and decided to face the fundamentals of budgeting. Both are learning "not to go spend-crazy," Jones said Thursday.

Mary, said her husband, "takes care of the apartment, does the washing and the cooking. She bakes a wonderful meatloaf."

He likes his job selling. "This experience has done me a lot of good. I've met a lot of people, learned a lot more about how people think and what they think about." Both the newweds are adjusting to the Midwest.

"We'd like to stay," Jones said. "Our parents have told us that we're on our own, and we've accepted that. It's what we want."

Have they heard from Princess Grace?

"She sent us a nice letter," he confided. "She said 'hello' and wished us well."

$20,000 Grant To SUI Prof For Research

Joseph G. Cannon, professor of pharmacy, has received a $20,000 grant from the National Institute of Mental Health to be used in drug research to find the causes of mental illness. The grant is to be used over the next three years. The grant will be used by Cannon to continue research he has been doing the past five years in synthesizing chemical compounds that will produce hallucinations in human beings. The series of compounds is used to produce hallucinations in normal human beings as a tool in studying mental illnesses. Scientists are attempting to determine what arrangements of atoms in molecules of synthetic compounds are responsible for effects of the compounds on the central nervous system.

Woman, 36, Hurt By Runaway Car

Mrs. Donald A. Woodhouse, 36, of Western Road, was listed in fair condition at Mercy Hospital Thursday night after being run over and dragged by her own station wagon in a freak accident Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Woodhouse had parked her car in front of 112 Parsons Ave., while visiting her sister. Her four children were playing in the car and apparently shifted the gears so that the car began to roll, police said. The station wagon struck and caused minor damage to a car parked in front of 120 Parsons Ave. owned by Richard Ziegler, 2439 Crestview Ave. After Mrs. Woodhouse tried unsuccessfully to get into the moving car, it rolled over her and dragged her as far as an alley at the intersection of Parsons and Porter avenues, where it came to a halt. Mrs. Woodhouse suffered fractured ribs and possible internal injuries.

Algeria Said Winning War

ALGERS (AP) — President Ahmed Ben Bella said Thursday he has recruited the rebellious Kabylie Mountain Berbers for the desert war against Morocco, a war Algeria claims to be winning. "From now on," Ben Bella said in a radio address, "there is only one Algeria. As one man, we face the threat to our Socialist revolution from feudalism and reaction." The government declared Moroccan army units are in flight before a powerful Algerian offensive in the Hassi Beida area. Ben Bella said the Berbers, who rebelled against his regime last month, will start taking stations Friday in the Hassi Beida sector, about 900 miles southwest of Algiers. In the Moroccan command headquarters at Marrakech, a staff officer admitted heavy Algerian attacks, but claimed the Moroccans continue to hold their position. Earlier, the Algerians for the third time in a week claimed the recapture of Hassi Beida, an oasis outpost they had never admitted losing. Independent witnesses said the Algerians in fact reoccupied the palm-fringed watering place late Tuesday, driving out Moroccans who took it Oct. 14. In the trackless wasteland disputed between the two nations, claims of military advances cannot easily be confirmed. Diplomatic activity continued in many capitals to work out a formula for mediation.

Chrysler Asks 2-1 Stock Split

DETROIT, Mich. (AP) — Chrysler Corp., whose sales comeback has been one of the strongest points of the automotive industry, proposed Thursday its second 2-for-1 stock split in less than a year. Chrysler directors asked shareholders to vote at a special meeting Dec. 17 on the proposed split. If approved, it will become effective Dec. 20. The Chrysler board, which met in New York, heard reports of higher sales and profits for the third quarter of this year and the nine-month period ended Sept. 30. For the nine months Chrysler had sales of $2.2 billion and profits of $100 million, or $5.44 a share. That compared with sales of $1.5 billion and profits of $15 million, or 84 cents a share, in the first nine months of 1962. For the three months, sales were $661 million, and profits were $22.8 million or $1.22 a share. That compared with sales of $472 million and profits of $3.2 million, or 18 cents a share, in 1962. The figures were adjusted for a 2-for-1 split of Chrysler stock which took place last April 19. The directors declared a fourth-quarter dividend of 25 cents a share, on present shares, payable Dec. 2 to stockholders of record Nov. 7.

any use for him." International conferences with Great Britain and Russia: "With the British it is hard to get them to agree, but when they make an agreement they mean to keep it. It is easier to get the Russians to agree because they don't mean to keep their word anyway." Constitutional amendment limiting a president to two terms: "It automatically makes a lame duck out of the President." Truman was inducted into West Norris Hall, men's rooming house and received a ceremonial swat from President Ken Richards of Naperville, Ill. by way of initiation. In Des Moines, Truman spoke before a standing-room only crowd in the Drake University auditorium at a meeting sponsored by the campus Young Democrats club. He said the colleges and universities are and should be centers of "free thought and free inquiry to arrive at the truth." As long as this prevails, he said, Communism will not take over the government because "communism can't exist in an atmosphere of truth." He said he never has favored government censorship of thought or screening by any government agency of college instructors.

Clotheslines Used To Protect Taxes

RYE N.Y. (AP) — A former college professor who values principle above his freedom took down his clotheslines of tattered garments Thursday and said he is ready to go to jail again rather than pay a $100 fine. Dr. Webster Stover, 61, said his removal of the six clotheslines — strung up on his property over the past seven years — was in obedience to a U.S. Supreme Court refusal this week to act on his unique protest against city taxes. His wife, Marion, began hanging the clotheslines in 1956 — towels, aprons, underwear among their contents. After 1961, when the city passed an ordinance banning clotheslines, Stover was convicted and paid a $25 fine. Stover was convicted again and sentenced to 30 days in jail or a $100 fine. He has already served 11 days and faces a 19-day term within the next few days. "If Rye wants further persecution, I will go to jail," he said, adding that his sentence gave an alternative of jail or fine, and since he has been to jail he wants cash credit for it. Rye Corporation Counsel Anthony T. Antinazzi said Stover must either pay the fine or go to jail. He said this likely will happen next week when the city receives the Supreme Court mandate against Stover. Mrs. Stover said her husband — "lazy but a very bright man" — is "taking the rap for me." Mrs. Stover said she thought the city was "doing us dirty" by placing property taxes against the house and land which were what she considered discriminatory for political reasons. Nevertheless, she said, they have always paid their taxes. In protest, she hung the first line in 1956, and one each year through 1960, making five in all. They ran from an upstairs porch about 16 feet above the ground to trees around their three lots. "I just wanted to remind the City Council they had done me wrong, she said. "I just had enough."

Demonstrator's Sign Strikes Adlai Stevenson on Head

DALLAS (AP) — Adlai Stevenson was struck on the head by a sign carried by a woman demonstrator as a crowd of 75 to 100 anti-U.N. demonstrators swarmed around him Thursday night. The U.S. ambassador to the U.N. did not appear to be hurt and asked police not to arrest the woman, saying "it could have been an accident." Police arrested two men demonstrators as Stevenson was leaving the Municipal Auditorium theater after delivering a U.N. Day speech. The demonstrators, who had been picketing the front of the building, swarmed to the side door as Stevenson left the building after attending an informal reception backstage. They carried anti-U.N. signs and American flags. Just after Stevenson was struck, a man demonstrator standing close by started yelling at the ambassador. Police grabbed him and pulled him away. Another demonstrator was arrested as police pushed the crowd back and Stevenson was led to a waiting car. Just after his talk Stevenson was interrupted by a man sitting in the front row who identified himself as Frank McGehee, organizer of the Indignation Convention, an ultraconservative organization.

Pickets Appear At Burger Site

Burger Construction Co., the firm re-modeling the Iowa State Bank and Trust Co., was picketed Thursday morning by two members of Local 1260 of the Carpenters Union. The two men, Otto Sasina, 1324 Muscatine Ave., and Roy Linnell, 2401 Miami Dr., reportedly picketed the firm for hiring several non-union carpenters instead of union carpenters to help install fixtures at the bank. The pickets left after about an hour and a half. The re-modeling project at the bank has been in progress all summer and has not been picketed before.

Ship Strafing Not a Mistake Says Captain

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — The Cuban planes that attacked an ore freighter Tuesday could not have mistaken the ship for another, her captain said Thursday. Capt. Gerhard Krause, 54, whose J. Louis dived Thursday, said planes dropped flares before the attack. The ship underwent strafing runs for 61 minutes. "We counted 16 runs and then gave up counting," said the captain. No one aboard the Liberian-registered ship was hurt. "We laid on the floor but it wouldn't have helped, really," said the captain. The deck still carried fragments of what appeared to be shells. The deck also had holes apparently made by machine gun bullets. Havana Radio said Tuesday the Cuban planes attacked a ship in the area and claimed it carried saboteurs and arms. Krause said he did not believe the officers and crew saw any planes. But Chief Engineer W. Fred Thompson of Portland, Tex., the only U. S. citizen aboard, said he saw the dark shape of a plane coming toward the ship directly in the ship's wake and spitting fire. "There were about seven or eight men back there and all of us made a dash for the door to the inside," said Thompson. "I fell on the deck behind a platform of wire rope and stayed there until the plane had passed." Krause said his ship was about 16 miles off Cuba on its 182nd trip between Jamaica and Corpus Christi's Reynolds Metal Co. plant. There were some reports that the ship sailed into a fight between Cuban navy vessels and raiders. But Krause said his radar was operating and no other ships were in the vicinity.

Arsonist Still Loose

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP) — The search for the mad arsonist of Monmouth continues to center in the Monmouth area, the Illinois state police chief said Thursday night. William B. Morris said the search returned to the Monmouth area after being extended to eastern Iowa "two or three days ago." Earlier Thursday, a state crime investigator said police have descriptions of three young men wanted for questioning. Descriptions without names, were provided by persons who tipped authorities, he said. Two lumber yards and a block long factory were swept Oct. 14 by three fires causing damage estimated at $400,000. 5 minutes from downtown

Segregation Stand—

Prelate Challenges Council

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A U.S. bishop insisted Thursday that racial inequality be spelled out clearly in a Vatican Ecumenical Council document as contrary to man's God-given rights and dignity. Bishop Robert Emmett Tracy, 54, of Baton Rouge, La., won applause from 2,300 prelates from around the world with his remarks in St. Peter's Basilica on behalf of the American Roman Catholic hierarchy. He said later he hopes a specific council statement now may help refute a segregationist claim that there is no Biblical basis for mixing of the races. "We felt the need of an explicit statement," the New Orleans native said. "It would put the council squarely on record. We are continually trying to instruct our people on these issues, and a statement from the council would be a tremendous support for us in this." In the schema now before the council fathers — De Ecclesia, which examines the nature of the church — a chapter on the laity contains the line: "There is no inequality in Christ and in the church arising from nationality, social condition or sex." Bishop Tracy told newsmen later his views reflect the thinking of Roman Catholic pastoral letters issued in the United States in 1943,

1958 and last August. Those letters said discrimination on the basis of race alone, regardless of an individual's personal qualities, is a rejection of the truth that God creates all men with equal rights and dignity. Discussion of the laity chapter ended Thursday. Bishop Tracy was the third to the last speaker. He said he had obtained 147 signatures in a hurried move three days ago to get precedence on the speaker's list, with the end of debate approaching, by representing a group of bishops. Individual speakers have low priority. He said 147 bishops were all he could reach at the time from among 178 American Bishops now in Rome. "Some of the bishops thought color should be included, but I felt we should deliberately omit that because color is a purely accidental manifestation of race," Bishop Tracy said after the day's session. "We also did not specify that God creates all men equal — that is not so everywhere in the world, as we know — but rather that he creates all men with equal rights and dignity."

Students Create Own Jewelry In This SUI Class

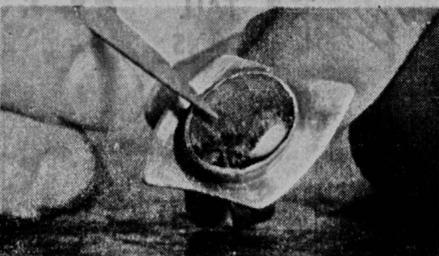

Burnishing Bracelets

Ann Opgenorth, G, Madison, Wis., burnishes a bracelet made from a strip of brass. Also on the table are two silver goblets fashioned from stamped disks. The course, a part of the Art Department, is little known to most students, but is a "highly creative" one, according to its instructor.

Precision Pounding

Prof. Delmare looks on as Dave Holcomb, A3, Iowa City, hammers the edges on a goblet held on a stretching stake. The stamped disks used to form dishes and goblets cost approximately $6. Sterling silver is used for most hammerwork.

Filing The Edges

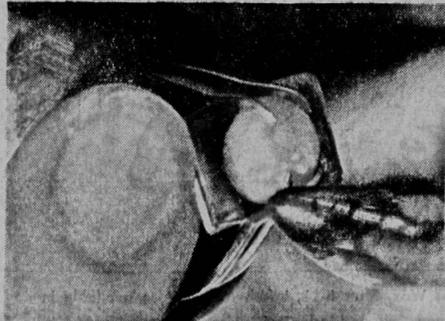

The rough edges of a sterling silver ring mounting holding a piece of polished turquoise are filed down evenly. The jewelry and silversmithing workshop has facilities for stone cutting and polishing in addition to the metalwork.

A Tableful of Projects

One of the four silversmithing classes, including Dorothy Harris, G, Fishersville, Va.; Jeri Olson, A4, Pochontas; Ann Opgenorth, G, Madison, Wis.; Barbara Jone, A2, Cedar Falls; and Bob Landgraf, A3, Chicago, works around a collection of finished projects. An exhibition of student's work is displayed each Homecoming Week in the Iowa Memorial Union.

Clamping Pearls

A student using a rounding tool, upper left, clamps a small pearl into a 14 carat gold ring mount held in a wooden ring vise. "We don't follow patterns or blueprints," asserts Delmare, "everything is left to the student's creativeness."

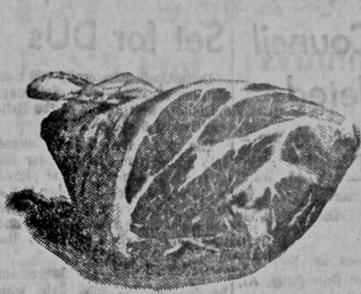

Photofeature

By Bob Nandell

Raoul Delmare, associate professor of art, has been teaching his "favorite field of work," at SUI since 1942. Since then, Union Temporary "J" has seen the production of thousands of original rings, bracelets, dishes, and other silversmith's projects by SUI students.

Delmare, who studied under silversmiths such as Baron Eric Fleming, silversmith to the King of Sweden, and Rudolf Bruam, a master jeweler in Utrecht, Holland, holds an M. A. in sculpture from SUI.

"The finished work, not the metal in it, is the valuable item," according to Delmare, who insists on using genuine materials in the course.

Babysitting Co-op Starts Tenth Year

Limited budgets and a lack of babysitters led to the founding of the Parents Cooperative Babysitting League 10 years ago. Now 17 members of the group take turns babysitting for children of the other members. There is no charge for the services. Instead, one member of the group keeps a book listing all the members and the number of hours they have worked. A member cannot be more than eight hours in debt. A family wanting a babysitter calls the bookkeeper of the group who contacts a sitter and records the person's hours. Bookkeeping duties are shared by members of the group. The group is composed of married students as well as University faculty members and Iowa City residents. The league meets twice a year to change policy and to discuss problems. A sitter usually provides her own transportation to the job, but if she does not have a car and her "employer" gives her a ride, ten minutes are deducted from her time credit for each way she is driven. Married couples interested in participating in the League may call Mrs. William Van Atta, 7-5346. There is no restriction on the size of the family.

Campus Beat

Most college men have probably managed a little profitable employment over the summer. Not enough to interfere with social life, but just enough to give a little cushion against the lean months ahead. Some of this money is being saved, but a lot is being spent right now for the clothes that will cover all the different situations likely to crop up during the school year.

OLDEST WALL—

The oldest wall known to man is near Ariha, the present-day Jericho. The British archeologist Kathleen Kenyon discovered remains of a wall and tower built some time in the eighth millennium before Christ.

TIGHT SQUEEZE—

The Spanish-speaking population of the Dominican Republic, some 3,014,000, lives in some 19,000 square miles, nearly the size of Vermont and New Hampshire combined.

How Oster Does It—

SUI Prof 'Saves' Folk Songs

By DOUG IDEN
Staff Writer

Cruising down Route 66 carrying a guitar and recording the voices of folksingers is the unique occupation of a visiting professor at SUI.

Dr. Harry Oster, one of the nation's most prominent folklorists and visiting professor of English, teaches the course "Undergraduate American Folk Literature" and lectures over WSUI during the week.

As a folklorist, Oster travels around the country, either at whim or on a specific mission, documenting and recording folk songs. In his attempt to preserve the folk tradition, Oster recorded a series of contemporary Louisiana Negro songs which led to the establishment of his own record company under the Folk-Lyric label.

IN HIS RECORDING, Oster strives for authenticity, by frequently employing the original artists to sing their songs. This leads him to fresh talent and information that might otherwise be inaccessible.

He does not believe in "updating" or "commercializing" the 100 copies at his own expense which were immediately sold out. From this same bulk of material, he recorded a second album, "Louisiana Folksong Jambalaya." This led to several others and the establishment of the Folk-Lyric label.

How does a folk historian walk into a community and get people to sing for him? "There is, of course, no one procedure for getting the most out of a performer," he said, "especially folk singers."

"I try to keep the sessions as informal as possible by swapping songs in some cases. I sing and play the guitar. Instead of concentrating on a few numbers, I prefer to let a session pick up momentum, to record a great many different songs and later select a few."

"Sometimes I sacrifice high fidelity for spontaneity. When I was recording Cajun fais-dodos (all night dances), I usually let the tape recorder run unwatched while I joined in the dancing myself."

"Further, if possible, I have many sessions with the performer, important both for his being relaxed with me and for my becoming familiar with his environment and the functional role of the music in it. A performer hearing his own voice and the admiring response of the crowd lessens the fear of a microphone."

"I TRY TO GAIN the friendship and trust of at least one member of a circle before approaching others in the group. In each circle I try to record all the performers of any interest and inquire of them who are the best 'songsters' they know."

"In the course of having a jam session at anyone's house in a Negro community, hordes of people pour in to join the fun, some of them gifted performers or at least friendly with some in neighboring towns."

Oster also asks questions about their work, loves, struggles and joys and often will receive spontaneous replies in song.

Oster relies on tips from people and has picked up much invaluable information in this way. He tells of a woman he heard of named Madame Sam who supposedly sang an unadulterated brand of old French song. She could not perform but she sent the song sleuth to an old Malatto, Alma Bartholomew, who sang 60 pre-17th Century French songs.

Many of his tips, however, lead to nothing more than a view of the countryside, he said.

Oster was born in Boston and received his Ph.D. in English at Harvard University. He taught folklore courses in several schools but gained nation-wide acclaim for his work at LSU.

He has performed on radio and television and has prepared numerous papers for the American Folklore Society.

In his quest for folk songs, he aids new performers when he can. Several of his proteges have appeared at the Newport Folk Festival and have signed contracts with larger recording companies.

In November, the Moose Lodge will host Emanuel Dunn, an Oster discovery, for a concert of Negro folk singing. It will be sponsored by The Paper Place.

In conjunction with his Louisiana albums, he spent two summers in French Canada tracing the folk-songs that were "brought to Louisiana by the Acadian exiles during the 18th Century."

One of Oster's most notable accomplishments was the wealth of contemporary Negro songs he found in the Angola Prison in Louisiana. From Lead Belly, a legendary folksinger of tremendous gusto and anguish during the 1930's, Oster discovered several performers, his favorite being Robert Pete Williams.

THESE NEGROS sang mostly group work songs, "virtually extinct because of the rise of factories which are not conducive to group singing."

They sing to make the work go easier and as a consolation and escape from the long years of hard labor to which they have been sentenced. The songs also satirize contemporary events and serve as a poignant protest against white supremacy.

The Negro has begun to think of himself as a man with a rich culture. Even through improvisation, symbolism and imagery blend into an acceptance of equality and an anguish at his present plight.

The Negro jazz is a product of primitive rhythms and ancient forms of communication between two men by use of drums. Consequently, the chants and counter-melodies in jazz and folksinging, the soloist often using the guitar as the other person, grew out of the Negro heritage, Oster explained.

Conversely, the spiritual was taken from the white man and integrated into the Negro idiom.

THE MAIN function of a folk song is entertainment, either joyfully or by dispelling frustrations through anguished appeals. They are, in a real sense, the literature of a culture, Oster feels. Heroes and villains are immortalized in song and pride is fostered through their expressions.

The folk cycle is continued because ethnic groups will take a familiar tune and add their own words and interpretations.

The folk tradition is a never ending cycle. "Take a contemporary song like 'Where Have all the Flowers Gone' by Pete Seeger," Oster said. "This is not a folk song even though it is in the folk idiom. However, if many people were to work over the song, adding verses and interpretations, over a period of years it could be classified as a folk song."

While he is at SUI, Oster plans to comb Iowa for songs. "This is a region that has barely been touched. On the one hand, the songs are characteristic of the middle west but there are strains from the middle south and the English traditions. And, of course, the myriad of songs from the ethnic groups in Iowa."

Third Miss Pep Clue Announced

The Hawk-I Pep Club has announced the third clue to SUT's Miss Pep.

The verse-form clue is:

The lowest of the shades,

The highest in the air,

Miss Pep on the scene

Leaves nothing to spare.

The prizes going to the first student to name Miss Pep were also announced by the Pep Club. The winner will receive two free seats in the cheering block and tickets and transportation to next year's Iowa-Wisconsin game.

Students can enter the Miss Pep contest by sending their guesses, along with their names and I.D. numbers to the Hawk-I Pep Club, Office of Student Affairs. The earliest postmark will win, in case of a tie.

County Receives $26 Thousand Rent For Dam District

Johnson County has received $26,549 from the U.S. Government for 1963 rents collected on the Coralville dam reservoir district.

Seventy per cent, $18,584, of the total will be turned over to five school districts which lost land purchased by the federal government for the reservoir project. Solon, Iowa City, Penn. College and Clear Creek school districts will split the amount.

Thirty per cent, $7,964, of the total goes to the county secondary road fund.

Assessed value of the land in 1953 was $900,087.

422 Iowa Children Need State Aid

During September, 422 cases of child non-support were referred to county attorneys, according to the Iowa Department of Social Welfare. The attorneys will attempt to gain support from the absent parents.

The children in these families were deprived because of divorce in 188 cases, legal separation in 29 cases, desertion or abandonment by a parent accounted for 141 referrals, and in 64 cases the parents of the children were not married. In 71 of these 422 cases, the whereabouts of the absent parent was not known.

Retail Sales Suffer in Heat

NEW YORK (AP)—Retail business has dried up in some sections of the country under a withering autumn heat wave.

A prolonged spell of Indian summer, accompanied by drought, sapped people's desire to buy heavy clothing for fall and winter.

"The weather is strapping sales right now," said J. Gordon Dakins, executive vice president of the National Retail Merchants Association, which has 11,000 members among department and specialty stores.

"It has been disrupting to business but hasn't hurt expectations of record Christmas sales."

In New York City, whose surrounding wooded watersheds are tinder dry and spotted with fires, a spokesman for Macy's, the big department store chain, said, "We are using caution but are committed to keeping stocks at a high level."

The effect of the hot weather was noted in lack of activity in current and spring business being written at the spring sportswear market in New York City.

Retailers shopping at the National Association of Men's Sportswear buyers market were reported to be buying in a limited way. Because their present stocks aren't moving at the usual pace of the peak autumn buying season, retailers aren't very interested in placing spring orders.

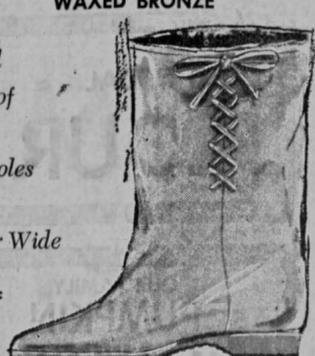

KANSAS CITY, Mo., department stores reported that with temperatures averaging 9 to 12 degrees above normal there has been an adverse effect on sales of heavy outerwear.

Warmer-than-usual weather in Denver, Colo., has hurt sales of overcoats, jackets, overshoes and men's hats.

Sears, Roebuck & Co. reported some lines have been effected locally by hot weather but that there has been no effect on the sales and profit picture companywide.
