Eisenhower: Wanted Only One Term

Problems of Two Terms Discussed in Ike's Memoirs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dwight D. Eisenhower says he wanted to declare in his 1953 inaugural address that he would serve only one term as President. He abandoned the idea after being told such a statement at that point would be a political

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER
Scoffed at Becoming President

The former president also reports, however, that this did not change his mind about retiring after four years, and that when he had been in the White House 11 months he wrote to his brother Milton:

"If ever for a second time I should show any signs of yielding to persuasion, please call in a psychiatrist — or even the sheriff . . . I feel there can be no showing made that my 'duty' extends beyond a one-time performance."

EISENHOWER RELATES these episodes in the first volume of his presidential memoirs, a 650-page book entitled "M a n a d a t e for Change," published by Doubleday.

The book deals with how he scoffed at first at the very idea of becoming president, recounts the story of his nomination and election, portrays the 1953-56 sweep of history during his first term, and concludes on this note: "My personal political Rubicon was crossed."

AFTER A HEART ATTACK and much soul-searching, he had decided to seek a second term. He is at work now on a second volume of memoirs, dealing with that term.

The first volume is an essentially proud recital of how the Eisenhower administration took the reins from the Truman regime, marking the end of 20 years of White House rule by Democrats, and of how the new administration struggled with the problems of war and peace.

These were problems, international and domestic, which Eisenhower analyzes in minute and sometimes tedious, sometimes dramatic detail; how in many ways the Republican-dominated Congress of his first two years in office was more difficult than the Democratic House and Senate of the next two years; how the threat of Communist expansion abroad occupied so much of his time; how he finally concluded that four years were not enough for completion of his job as he saw it.

During and after the 1952 campaign Eisenhower was criticized in some quarters for agreeing to delete from a Wisconsin speech a paragraph praising his old friend, Gen. George C. Marshall who had been assailed by Republican Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy of Wisconsin as a dupe of Communists.

PROVIDING A PUBLIC explanation of the deletion for the first time, Eisenhower writes that Walter Kohler, then governor of Wisconsin and other advisors persuaded him it wouldn't be wise to go out of his way to laud Marshall in McCarthy's home state.

It was no secret that Eisenhower privately abhorred McCarthy and his tactics. In his book, the former president finally does speak out:

"CONVINCED THAT THE ONLY person who could destroy McCarthy as a political figure was he himself and finding evidence piling up that he was gradually doing exactly that, I continued in my determination to ignore him. But at the same time I declared — almost every week it seemed — that I opposed to the limit of my official power and personal influence, all unfair, unjust, and un-American practices in trials, investigations, and inquiries."

97 Survive Plane Crash Off Runway

LONDON (AP) — A Canadian jet airliner carrying 90 passengers and 7 crewmen crashed across a main highway after taking off in fog at London Airport Wednesday night. Only one casualty was reported — a man taken to a hospital but described as not seriously injured.

The Montreal-bound Trans-Canada DC8F sped through swirling fog on its takeoff run and ended up over the end of the runway. One engine burst into flames as the plane came down on the Old Bath Road. The fire was quickly put out.

An airline spokesman said he did not know whether the craft was actually airborne before it crashed. Passengers and crew escaped through emergency chutes.

Police and firemen guided them through the fog to vehicles which returned them to the airport buildings.

The identity of the injured man was not immediately disclosed. Visibility was about 500 yards, airport officials said. The airport had been closed because of fog earlier in the day.

The plane careened 1,500 feet across a plowed field beyond the runway before coming to a halt.

It was Trans-Canada flight TC861 bound for Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. The pilot apparently abandoned his attempt to take off shortly before the end of the runway.

DI Press Breakdown Causes Delivery Delay

A press breakdown caused a delay in delivery of The Daily Iowan Wednesday morning. Primarily affected by the delay were DI subscribers residing on the west side of the Iowa River.

Registration Deadlines Set for Future Elections

Voters planning to cast ballots in the special Iowa City-Coralville school merger election Nov. 19 and in the Shaff Plan election Dec. 3, must register at least 10 days prior to the election.

City Clerk Walker D. Shellady announced that state law requires that registration books be closed 10 days prior to election day.

VOTERS MUST register at the city clerk's office in the Civic Center before noon Saturday, Nov. 9 to be eligible to vote on the school merger question Nov. 19.

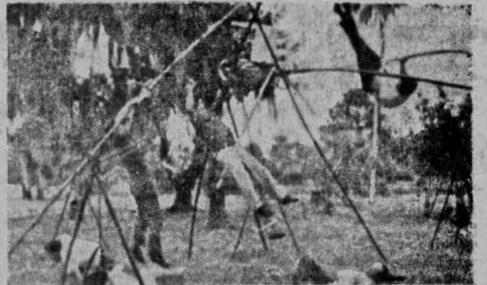

Registration must be completed by noon Saturday, Nov. 23 in order to participate in the Dec. 3 Shaff Plan election. The only dates now remaining to register for the Shaff Plan election are: Nov. 7 to noon Nov. 9; and Nov. 20 to noon Nov. 23.

Iowa City residents over 21 who have lived in Iowa 6 months, Johnson County for 60 days, and in their precinct for 10 days by the date of the election, may register to vote at the City Clerk's Office in the Civic Center.

The Iowa City League of Women Voters will conduct special registration sessions as follows:

Friday — 8 to 9 p.m. at the A & P Food Market.
Saturday — 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the A & P Food Market.
The above procedure will be repeated Nov. 22 and Nov. 23.
Nov. 20 and 21 — 5:30 to 8 p.m. at the Civic Center

Senate Compromise Needed

House OKs $1.2 Billion College Grant Measure

Expect Controversy On Religion Clause

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House gave overwhelming approval Wednesday to a bill authorizing $1,195,000,000 to help the nation's crowded colleges expand.

A 258-92 roll call vote sent the bill to the Senate, where a stiffer fight is expected over a provision making federal grants available to private and church-related colleges.

The bill would launch the federal government on a major new role in education. It calls for a three-year program of grants and loans for institutions from the junior college to the graduate school level.

SPEAKER John W. McCormack (D-Mass.), who hailed the solid bipartisan support the House gave the bill, said it would be of "estimable value" both to higher education and the nation.

The bill would authorize $690 million in building grants for junior colleges and colleges, $145 million for graduate schools, and $360 million in long-term, low-interest construction loans for all higher education institutions.

At the college and graduate school level, the grants could total only one-third of the construction cost of a project. For junior colleges, the federal share could be 40 per cent.

THE BILL would give a strong thrust to the development of public community junior colleges by requiring that each state set aside 22 per cent of its share of the $690 million for such construction. Each state's allotments would be based on its high school and college enrollment.

Failure of the House and Senate to agree on a compromise killed the bill last year.

Feared War—

Nikita Blames U.S. in Conflict

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev told visiting American businessmen Wednesday that if the U.S. convoy dispute on the Berlin autobahn had continued "it is possible that you and I would not be here today."

While this carried the implication of a nuclear war, Khrushchev did not mention such a dread prospect directly.

He insisted the question was simply one of meeting force with force should the Americans try to break through a Soviet blockade.

"WE COULD not have yielded," the premier said, "and they would have had to move over our dead bodies."

The United States, Britain and France protested to the Soviet government late Wednesday night over Russian interference with Allied troop movements on the Berlin autobahn. The notes reasserted the Western claim to unrestricted access to Berlin.

Despite the grave concern the latest autobahn incident has created in world capitals, Khrushchev warned that more Western convoys will be held up unless they bow to what he called established procedure.

The premier said the dispute was solved Wednesday morning when the U.S. convoy, held up since Monday at the western end of the autobahn, agreed to "observe the established procedure."

This view was promptly disputed both in Washington and by Maj. Gen. James H. Polk, U.S. commandant in Berlin. Polk said the Americans refused the Soviet demand that the 44 men in the convoy dismount for a count.

The Americans "did make an attempt to ignore the established procedure," Khrushchev said. "This our armored trucks came out of concealment to bar the way and then the American and British agreed to observe the established procedure."

A British convoy also was held up for a time on the highway between Berlin and West Germany. But a British spokesman in Berlin denied the convoy acceded to Soviet demands for a head count.

"THERE WAS no reason whatsoever for American soldiers to sit there for two days waiting to be allowed to go through," Khrushchev continued.

"In fact, I was surprised that they could stay in their trucks for such a long time. They must have reserve capacity."

"Your side caused the friction. We didn't want to have friction of that sort. Our desire is to have good and friendly relations and to develop economic relations," he said.

At one point, Richard Clurman, chief of correspondents, Time-Life news service, asked the premier: "Are you saying that you would give an order that would result in a shooting and possible war?"

"No," Khrushchev replied, "we gave no such order but there is an established procedure. If this procedure is not followed, then they are not allowed to pass through."

While calling for more trade with the United States, Khrushchev said he may cancel plans to buy American wheat. He complained about the high U.S. shipping rates, saying they are larger than charges of other nations.

Erhard Visits Mine Scene

Ludwig Erhard, West German chancellor, flew to Broistedt from Bonn Wednesday to take a first-hand look at rescue operations for 11 German miners who have been trapped in a flooded iron mine for 13 days. "All German hearts are with you," Erhard told the men over a telephone link. Rudolph Stein, director of the mine, said the 11 men were in high spirits and confident that they would be rescued, but he could not estimate when they will again see daylight. ## Vietnamese Minister Claims Intervention by Viet Cong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — The new revolutionary government's security minister said Wednesday the Viet Cong Communists are trying to stir religious strife in South Viet Nam in the wake of the coup that destroyed Ngo Dinh Diem's regime.

Maj. Gen. Ton That Dinh said success of the revolution has stricken the Viet Cong with fear of annihilation in a revitalized military campaign and that they are desperately trying through religious channels to divide the people and spread confusion.

"THEY URGE Catholics to go to their churches and pray for Ngo Dinh Diem and the Buddhists to go to pagodas and temples to pray for the soldiers killed in the revolution," Dinh said. "At the same time they order their agents to pass themselves off as Catholics in order to express their pretended discontent with the government or for provocative acts against Catholicism."

Dinh reiterated in a statement that the military revolutionary committee which won power Saturday "stands for freedom and equality of religion and national solidarity to combat the Communists and rebuild Viet Nam."

He appealed to the people of Saigon of all religions to unite to

Niemeyer Calls Ouster Move Illegal

John Niemeyer, L.S. Elkader, president of the SUI Young Democrats whose charter was revoked by the YD state executive committee Sunday, will discuss the legality of the revocation of the state charter at a general meeting of the YDs in the Senate Chamber of Old Capitol tonight.

The meeting will follow the conference on legislative apportionment which begins at 7:30 p.m.

Niemeyer said Wednesday, "Neither the constitution nor the by-laws of the state organization confer any power of revocation of state charters upon the state executive committee. The most that either the constitution or the by-laws do is to cite the grounds for revocation. It is going to be our argument that only the state organization in convention assembled has that power, since it is to be assumed that on such a serious question, that if it had been the intention of the organization to give the executive committee the power of revocation, it would have been explicitly stated in the constitution."

Niemeyer also said, "In addition we will propose at the state convention in the spring censor motions against each member of the executive committee who voted in the affirmative in this flagrant violation of constitutional principles."

Niemeyer said that the formal charges were not presented until Sunday's meeting and that, therefore, he gave only a "general reply" to those charges, and that neither he nor any of the people accompanying him had a chance to check on the legality of the process at that time.

Dr. Travell To Present Lectures Here

DR. JANET G. TRAVELL
Former Physician to JFK

Dr. Janet Travell, former personal physician to President Kennedy, will present four lectures at the College of Medicine during a visit today through Saturday.

A guest of the Department of Orthopedics, Dr. Travell also will participate in teaching sessions and consult with faculty members. Interested physicians in the Iowa City area are welcome to attend all of Dr. Travell's lectures.

She will speak at 7:30 tonight at Childrens Hospital on "Basic Concepts of Referred Muscle Pain."

Dr. Travell will give three lectures Friday and Saturday in the Medical Amphitheatre at University Hospitals.

At 8:30 a.m. Friday, she will lecture to students in physical therapy, occupational therapy and medicine on "The Importance of Sitting Comfortably." At 1 p.m. she will present a discussion and demonstration on "Management of Skeletal Muscle Pain Syndromes."

At 11 a.m. Saturday, she will speak on "Pain Syndromes of the Neck, Chest and Upper Extremity, Including the Somatic Component of Cardiac Pain."

Warmer

Partly cloudy to cloudy through tonight. Increasing southwesterly winds today, high temperatures near 65.

Today's News Briefly

MOSCOW — Premier Khrushchev denied Wednesday the impression of a U.S. businessman that the Soviet Union had given up plans to put a man on the moon. Asked if the Russians had given up the idea because of economic reasons, Khrushchev said the Russians have never announced that they were giving up their lunar project and that the economic situation is "excellent" at present and will be "still better" in the future.

ALBANY — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller will make a formal statement at 8:30 a.m. today declaring his candidacy for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination and is expected to offer himself as a middle-of-the-roader. After the statement, he will fly immediately to New Hampshire to resume his campaign to win that state's key presidential preference primary next March 10. Some observers consider that primary, the first of 1964, as a make-or-break test for Rockefeller, now far behind in public opinion polls on GOP voters' choice for a candidate.

WASHINGTON — The Senate adopted Wednesday night a bipartisan leadership compromise amendment slashing the foreign aid authorization bill by $460 million to $3.7 billion. The vote was 89-0 after the Senate had voted 86-3 to approve a surprise leadership-sanctioned change in the amendment lopping off $50 million. A $25-million cut in the compromise had been voted Tuesday, making the total $75 million below a $385-million cut proposed by Mike Mansfield, (D-Mont.), the majority leader, and GOP leader Everett M. Dirksen, (R-Ill.). Adoption of their amendment cleared the way for action on other proposals aimed at cuts in programs not embraced in the compromise and in placing tighter restrictions on administration of the program.

Narrowly avert nightmare in dream house

By ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — Not too long ago we wrote about the problems parents face when their daughter owns a Barbie Doll.

BUCHWALD

The Barbie Doll people sell everything from cars to dream houses for Barbie, each item backed by a gigantic advertising campaign.

They also sell a doll named Ken and he requires only $1,000 worth of clothes.

IN OUR ARTICLE we reported that our daughter decided that Barbie wanted to marry Ken and so we paid for Barbie's trousseau, Ken's wedding clothes, and a dream house. We thought this would be the end of it, but the other day a friend warned us that trouble was brewing at her house and we should be prepared for it.

This is what happened. When our friend's daughter's Barbie married Ken, there was a big wedding and everyone thought they would live happily ever after.

The mother was shocked. "Why?" "Ken has fallen in love with Midge."

The mother called up her husband and told him to come home right away. "What for?" he wanted to know. "Barbie and Ken are splitting up."

THE HUSBAND RUSHED HOME and sure enough his daughter confirmed the news. Ken had fallen in love with Midge.

her time cleaning the dream house and cooking meals for Ken. She was either dressed in a housecoat or an apron and she kind of let herself go.

Midge, on the other hand, always showed up at Barbie's, dressed to the teeth. Since Midge had no dream house to take care of, she could spend her spare hours looking beautiful.

THE FATHER THOUGHT FAST. If he allowed Barbie and Ken to divorce, he'd have to buy a whole new trousseau for Midge, plus new clothes for Barbie, and a new house for her since she certainly would refuse to live with her ex-husband.

"Before they can get a divorce," the father said, "Barbie and Ken have to see a marriage counselor."

"Where can we find one?" the daughter wanted to know. "I happen to be one," the father said. "I studied at M. I. T."

The father went to the dream house and talked to Barbie and Ken while his daughter listened.

FIRST HE ADDRESSED BARBIE. "The reason you are losing Ken," he said, "is that you're keeping yourself go. It's all right to be a good housekeeper and a good cook, but you must also remember to look pretty all the time."

Then he spoke to Ken. "You really love Barbie, but you are attracted to Midge because she looks beautiful. Once she marries you, she'll look just like Barbie. You have a good deal, so don't lose it up."

The father seems to have averted the break-up. Barbie now gets dressed up for dinner every night when Ken comes home from work, and Midge can visit the dream house only once a week. If she gives Barbie any trouble at all, the marriage counselor has warned his daughter he's going to throw Midge away.

On Senate politics

WHAT IS THE PURPOSE OF A STUDENT SENATE? We have always believed a student senate should be a forum for student views and an indicator of student opinion.

Tuesday night the SUI Senate showed great promise of fulfilling this purpose in the finest of form. They debated for some time regarding a proposed resolution to hold a campus-wide referendum on the cheering block.

Jim Spangler, who introduced the resolution, said he had done so because he had received several complaints about the cheering block and wished to give all SUIIowans a chance to express their feelings on the organization.

Merle Wood told the Senate that while he was in favor of putting the question before the student body, he did not feel it should be placed on the Nov. 20 Shaff Plan ballot. He said the two issues were too different.

After more discussion Chuck Pelton moved the resolution to be sent to a committee for study and be reported on at the next Senate meeting. It was pointed out the next meeting is Nov. 19. This would mean that if, after the report was presented, the Senate wished to pass the resolution, it would be too late to put the question on the Nov. 20 ballot on the Shaff Plan.

The Senate passed the motion anyway. This effectively killed the resolution without committing the Senate for or against the resolution. We feel this is a rather devious way of handling a simple solution.

If the Senate wanted to kill the resolution, why not just vote on it and defeat it. If it wished to delay action why not make a motion to that effect? Why is so much high level politics called for in such an uncomplicated matter?

While Frank Patton was arguing against the idea of allowing the students to vote on the cheering block, he made an interesting observation. Such a vote could set a strange precedent of putting any SUI organization, even the Senate, before the students.

Judging from the Senate meeting Tuesday, this might not be a bad precedent to start.

A word of welcome to an old friend

AN OLD FRIEND has returned to the Iowa City scene. The Iowa Defender — SUI's "other" student newspaper — began its fifth year of publication with the first edition of the year this week.

It is not customary, to say the least, for one newspaper to devote space on its pages to praising another. We feel it is justified in this case, however. The Defender is not only a noble effort itself, continuing in tenuous as it does in the face of certain physical and financial handicaps, but it also provides an outlet for a broader expression of ideas in the university community.

The Iowan, of course, attempts to provide a medium for the exchange of all ideas and will continue to do so. But the Defender provides additional discussion in a form less restricted by journalistic style and the demands of publishing daily news.

In its introductory editorial, the Defender mentions the "genuine dialogue" which evolved between the two newspapers, and adds that "there is a very adequate basis for furthering of this dialogue."

We think so too, but we'd welcome the Defender back to SUI, dialogue or no.

An old friend is always welcome.

Young Russians desire 'the better life'

By RALPH MCGILL

Notes Made in New York — This might be called a second chapter of conversation with an American business man who has been residing in Europe for more than 40 years.

"One of Mr. Khrushchev's problems," he said, "is something like that of the old Mother Goose rhyme about spanking naughty children and sending them to bed with out any supper.

They spend a lot of years going to bed without as much supper as they would like to have had. Now they want more. This is true of the satellite 'children.' It also describes the younger generations in Russia. Keep in mind that the Russian revolution is getting old.

"I talked with many Russians," he continued,

"especially younger ones. 35 years old and younger. They are not anti-Communist in the sense that we use the term. But they certainly want their system to give them more personal freedom.

"THEY ARE SO BORED with stories about the 'old days of the revolution' that they don't bother to hide the fact. There are frequent reminders in the newspapers and the speeches of their elders about the sacrifices of their fathers and grandfathers who made the revolution. They are not moved.

"It isn't that they don't have pride in their country. They do. It isn't that they don't feel the revolution was just and necessary to take their nation and its people from the control of the Romanoffs and the corrupt practices that had weakened the throne. They honor the revolution. But they say, 'Let's get on with it. . . let's give it more meaning in terms of a better life. . . let's quit talking about the old days and do something with the new days. . . the ones that are here right now.'"

"We would make a mistake," he said, "to think of them as disloyal. They are not. They would fight for their country. They simply are a bit cynical. They do not, for example, reproach Nikita Khrushchev for not having 'done something about it' when Stalin was imposing his purges and terror. They know this was not possible so long as Stalin had the secret police and the army. But they don't want any more excuses. Molotov and the old Stalinists are out of the way. The younger Russians want their country's form of government to make more progress in a better life — to use the cliché phrase.

"YOU WILL NOTE," the knowledgeable American stated, "that Khrushchev has delayed the moon race and ordered a cut-back in steel production so that efforts may be made in other areas of the economy. He will need to spend more and more money along the vast reaches of the border with China. He will, we may be sure, be seeking to make new agreements to lessen his problem of immediacy. He likely will try to create more diversions in the Middle East to remind Europe and this country that all is not serene and that he is not alone with his troubles.

"This is why, from my viewpoint, as one who for four decades has watched Europe, I believe he will seek to shore up his problems with China by working toward an agreement of some sort with West Germany or the United States. We have just seen, and heard, Secretary Rusk demand of Europe that it try to attain political unity and that it begin to pay its share of foreign aid and to meet its agreed-upon NATO obligations.

"Now we shall watch the slow evolution of a changing Europe. As long as De Gaulle lives, there will be no European political unity save on his terms. When Adenauer left office the treaty he made with De Gaulle began to wither away. The Germans will, within a year or less, have dangled before them the promise of demolition of the Berlin wall and a treaty of trade and travel with East Berlin and East Germany.

"We should have the political realism to see that we, the United States, do not now have too much to offer Europe — as we did in the years of the Marshall plan. Europe and Russia are changing. . . so are we. But we don't yet like to admit it or face up to the realism change demands of us in trade and policy."

Letters to the editor

Readers comment on D.I. critics

To the Editor:

It is very easy to employ inductive when one is in fundamental disagreement with a reviewer. But, rather than make acid comments about Mr. Preston's competence to review movies, I should like to make some remarks about his failure to fulfill the functions of a movie critic.

What are Preston's criteria for a great film? Does he believe that stream of consciousness technique is inappropriate to the movies? Does he feel that the problems of modern art (e. g. the lack of absolutes and the search for standards, the question of ideological commitment, the social-sexual insecurity of many individuals and the question of purpose in the modern world) are not suitable for the screen? Does he feel that a narrative as opposed to an impressionist format is necessary for artistic success? Does he believe that the synthesis of various techniques is not a legitimate means of aesthetic creativity? These are questions with which the reviewer is obligated to deal. But Preston leaves us in the dark about the nature of his general principles of reviewing as well as his specific reasons for dismissing such directors as Fellini, Antonini, and Truffaut.

I am sure that I speak for many when I say that 8 1/2 is a great film because it deals with the problems noted above, because it is an excellent piece of social comment, and because it employs a synthesis of elements and problems with which many film artists are concerned. To illustrate this I would point to the opening sequence in which a Bergmanian technique is employed; the scene on the beach where the two Priests are chasing the boy is a take-off on Truffaut; finally, I would point to the final sequence where the dance is a transmutation of the dance of death in the Seventh Seal, and the clowns suggest both ideas to be found both in Dolce Vita and in Truffaut's remorseless humor. These examples are not to suggest that Fellini is not creative; to the contrary they are examples of his ability to weave the ideas and techniques of other serious artists into the web of his own creation.

It is Preston's obligation to his readers to show what the director tried to accomplish and why he (Preston) believes him to have failed or succeeded, or to explain why that attempt ought not to have been made. It is about time that Preston faced-up to this task.

To the Editor:

Mr. Fling, the Daily Iowan music critic, seems to have fallen out of the role as critic and into a role which merely absorbs the audience reaction and makes a judgment from that.

An audience could easily have asked for more in the recital Jean Madeira gave last Monday evening. To begin with, the vocal limitations which handicap Miss Madeira are such that it would have been wise for her to veer from the five Italian songs with which she began the program. Only "In alto mare" suited her heavy, dark, but uneven voice. The difficulty which she has in producing notes above the staff and her inability to sing the delicate roulades and flourishes (the frills were absolutely nonexistent) in something "Rugliadese, adoro" made these selections a poor choice.

The next four songs, all by Strauss, should have been more in her line, but a combination of pitch trouble (evident the whole evening) and an overdone emotionalism (which ruined "Zuesing" totally) left one feeling Miss Madeira has a total lack of comprehension in the German idiom. The "Habenera," which ended the first half of the program, was the best selection. But for all of its thrust and vivacious presentation, it was still terribly overdone. The most bothersome part of the evening, indeed, was Miss Madeira's inept and exaggerated affectation.

The second half of the program began with boring and unnecessary piano selections. Miss Madeira then sang three Debussy songs. Again one wondered if Miss Madeira knew anything of the idiom of the language. Of the three, "Mandoline" was totally unsuited to her voice. It should be sung by a light lyric or coloratura soprano. A contralto's voice comes no where near imitating the instrument she is singing about.

The other two songs and the de Falla were passable, but with the same limitations which pervaded the entire evening. The Negro spiritual which followed was the best-sung selection of the program, and one would have wished for more. The Israeli songs, except for a misplaced improvisation in the first and a terrible pronunciation in both, were at least passable. The concluding songs of Rachmaninoff and the four encores were theatrical and, except for the Bernstein, musically uninteresting.

It is sad when a culture-starved community is forced to accept a performance below the standard of which one hopes a professional capable. The audience's enthusiasm came from either a lack of intelligence or lack of anything else to applaud in the way of vocal offerings. I rather suspect the latter is the better explanation.

J. Michael Pilz, G

To the Editor:

It had to happen. The Daily Iowan movie reviewer has finally made his commitment to the Passing Swipe school of criticism. In last Tuesday's issue, he begins his attack on Fellini's "8 1/2" by calling "La Dolce Vita" the "debacle of the decade." No further reference to the film is made in the review — nor is one needed, since the beauty of the Passing Swipe lies in its dark intimation of potent but unrevealed arguments. We members of the reading masses would not place unfounded opinions before the public; thus we assume the same to be true for persons in positions of authority. In short, we are intimidated.

An additional beauty of your reviewer's approach lies in the disadvantages placed on the reader who wishes to reply to him. Lacking both the reviewer's authority and his argument (if he has one), we who rebel are forced to try to outdo him at his own game. To get into the swing of things, then, I wish to announce a priori that "8 1/2" is a fine and serious film. Of course, this is a mere prelude. With my swinging muscles now toned up, I will say that "La Dolce Vita" is a great movie, probably one of the greatest ever made. After all, Fellini has dared to answer Ernst Cassirer's mighty question: "Was ist mit dem Ratselwort gemeint?"

Dr. H. F. Hsu and Dr. S. Y. Hsu will present four papers on their research on a parasitic disease which afflicts an estimated 100 to 200 million persons in parts of Asia, Africa, and South America.

Warns Stores On Beer Sales

City Attorney Jay Honohan warned grocery stores holding beer permits against selling beer to minors at a meeting of the City Council Tuesday night.

Honohan said he had received several calls of illegal beer sales. He said that if this continues, steps would be taken to revoke the permits.

Evy Heads Drive

Forest Evashevski, Athletic Director, has been named State Chairman for the 1964 Easter Seal Campaign. He will lead 5,000 volunteers in the annual drive to help crippled children and adults. Funds raised will be used for services offered by the State Society and the operation of Camp Sunnyside in Des Moines. The campaign will be conducted March 1 through March 31.

Schreffler New Mayor In Coralville

Robert G. Schreffler was elected mayor of Coralville Tuesday, but a council majority was chosen from an opposing slate.

Incumbent Dan R. Fesler, was beaten in his bid for re-election. Arnold A. Bartels and Clarence H. Wilson, running on Schreffler's People's Party, James M. Bigelow, John L. O'Neil and Robert Rogers from the Citizen's Rights party were elected councilmen.

Johnson County Court Adjourns

The Johnson County District Court jury has been excused for the rest of the term after the last case scheduled was settled out of court.

The case, Max Yocum vs. Firemen's Insurance Co. of Newark, N. J., was settled out of court. Yocum had asked $6,000 from the insurance firm for damages allegedly caused by a fire in a house of his which burned Dec. 17, 1958.

Merger Vote For Schools On Nov. 19

School district residents in Iowa City and Coralville will vote Nov. 19 on a possible merge of the two districts.

Iowa City voting will be from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m. and in Coralville from noon to 7 p. m., announced County Supt. Marshall R. Field.

The Johnson County Board of Education ordered the election after a public hearing Monday night to hear objections of the plan from residents of both districts.

Coralville does not have its own high school. Many students pay tuition to Iowa City, but the Iowa City Board said it will not accept these students after this year.

City Leaders Meet at SUI

Some 20 city managers and municipal research officials will attend a meeting of the Iowa City Managers Association here Friday.

Following opening remarks by Max Yocum, Iowa City councilman, Friday morning, will be talks on "Trends in Personnel Administration," by Fred Doderer, SUI personnel director and mayor of Iowa City, and "Communicating with the Public," by Robert E. Irwin and Robert H. Moore, both of WSUI.

Friday afternoon, Deil Wright, associate professor of political science will talk on "Local Government Financed in Iowa — Past, Present, and Future," followed by a commentary by Carsten Leikvold, city manager of Iowa City, on "The City Manager and the Negro Revolt: A Case Problem."

Paul Friesema, research specialist of the SUI Institute of Public Affairs will serve as discussion leader for the commentary.

Saturday morning, Frederick Kerr, executive director of the Woodbury County Tax Research Conference, Sioux City, and Roy Miller, executive secretary of the Des Moines Bureau of Municipal Research, will talk on "Retention of the Manager Plan."

Fahr Speaks to Rotary

Samuel Fahr, professor of law, will speak on "Land Reform in Peru" to the Rotary Club at a noon meeting today at the Jefferson Hotel. Fahr recently returned from Peru.

Daily Iowan Wins BunaBs Recognition

The Daily Iowan has been given the highest recognition of public service to the cause of BunaBs, it was announced early today.

The Orville K. Snav Foundation of Mason City conferred the Seal of Reasonable Quality upon The Iowan for "discreet and perceptive coverage of the preliminaries of the forthcoming gala BunaB Festival to be unleashed by the SUI Student Body Crusade for Nicer Living," as documented in the now-historic Oct. 30 and Nov. 1, 1963 editions.

In a letter making the announcement, Al Crowder, an assistant to the president of Orville K. Snav & Associates, revealed that copies of the memorable editions "have been enshrined in the archives of our Hall of Science at Snav Tower, encased in saran and guarded day and night."

According to information available from local assistants to the president, The Iowan is the second enterprise ever to receive the Seal, which is an "unconditional guarantee" which "includes assurance to the purchaser that he is receiving a pretty fair buy for the money."

According to Crowder, the founder of Orville K. Snav & Associates has never been "quite so moved."

This is especially significant, continued Crowder, "in view of the fact that but 11,005 days remain before the beginning of the twenty-first century." (The award letter was dated Nov. 4, which means those calculations are now three days out of date.)

Gophers Push Ball-Handling In Preparing for Hawkeyes

MINNEAPOLIS — Coach Murray Warmath prays that the charitable University of Minnesota football Gophers will discard the role of Santa Claus when they invade Iowa City Friday to engage the tough-luck Hawkeyes for the 58th time since this keen rivalry began back in 1891.

Not that Coach Warmath objects to generosity, but when it comes to giving the ball away to football opponents — this is where he figures charity should and MUST end. To the stinging chagrin of Warmath and the Gophers, "fumbles lost" is the only department in which they currently top all other Conference teams. They surrendered four of five fumbles in losing to Illinois, repeated the miscues but managed to overcome them in edging Michigan, 6-0, and then hobbled the ball away three in last Saturday's loss to Indiana. To make matters worse in the setback by the Hoosiers, they handed over the ball three times on pass interceptions.

INASMUCH AS WARMATH'S basic concept of winning football is based on "possession and position," it is easy to understand his utter frustration of the moment as Minnesota shares eighth place in the Big Ten standings with Saturday's foe, the Hawkeyes, on a 1-3 record.

As almost anyone with a live brain cell could imagine, the Gophers are concentrating their efforts in practice this week on ball-handling as they prepare to go after their fourth win in a row over the Hawkeyes. The Maroon and Gold prevailed by 27-10 in 1960, squeaked by 16-9 in 1961, and captured a 10-0 decision in 1962.

NOT ONLY IS THE FUMBILTIS epidemic, unapproached in Warmath's nine previous seasons at Minnesota, causing the head man and his staff grave concern.

They are equally as puzzled by the late-game sags that find six opponents holding a 40-8 scoring edge in the fourth quarter. Minnesota's powerhouse of 1960 — 61-62 were known as great second half teams. This year the Gophers have outscored the combined opposition, 10-7, in the first quarter; 20-16 in the second quarter, and 19-14 in the third period, only to yield a 32-point edge in the fourth frame.

JUST WHAT MEASURES WARMATH & CO. will institute this week to cure these game-losing ills must remain a practice field secret. Because of the dearth of experienced material and combat-ready sophomores, there isn't much he can do talent-wise. He has little choice but to go along with the players who have carried the load so far. A possible trend toward the younger players was hinted in the Indiana game in which sophomores put in more playing time than in any other contest to date.

The Gophers are in about average physical condition for the Iowa engagement. Captain Milt Sunde is nursing a hand injury. Bill Dallman, an alternate guard, was hospitalized after the Indiana game because of a possible concussion. Fred Nord, an alternate tackle, and Dan Drexler, a starting end earlier in the season, missed the Michigan and Indiana games because of injuries, but may be ready for the Hawkeyes.

AP Writer Picks Harvard Over Princeton

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK — Football players may not be as big or as many in the Ivy League, but the blood boils just as hot and passions run just as high.

So to Harvard goes the baton for the weekly sprint to Upset Gulch — over previously unbeaten and untied Princeton. The course should be smooth and untroubled for Texas, Auburn and other favorites.

Tom Nowatzke Leads Big Ten Rushing, Scoring

CHICAGO — Tom Nowatzke, battering ram fullback of Indiana's buffeted but unbowed Hoosiers, continues his bid for the Big Ten football rushing and scoring titles.

Official league statistics Wednesday credited Nowatzke with a five-game rushing record of 362 yards on 78 carries for a 4.6 average. Although Nowatzke failed to score a touchdown in Indiana's resounding 24-6 upset of Minnesota, the Hoosier bulldozer ripped through the Gophers for 138 yards on 24 carries and swelled his league scoring total to 27 points with a 42-yard field goal and three extra points.

The Big Ten's second best rusher is another fullback, Ohio State's Matt Snell, with 272 yards on 71 carries in four conference games. No. 3 rusher is Michigan State's 152-pound halfback, Sherman Lewis, with 250 yards on 45 hauls, also in four games.

Despite Purdue's 41-21 spanking at Illinois, Boilermaker quarterback Ron DiGravio maintained the Big Ten pass lead with a 51-for-95 record, good for 644 yards and a .537 completion percentage. No Iowa players were ranked among the leaders.

GEORGE CLARKE
Harrier with His Eyes on the Watch

Junior George Clarke Leads Hawk Harriers

By HARRIETT HINDMAN
Sports Editor

Hawkeye harrier George Clarke and his coach, Francis Cretzmeier form their own mutual admiration society. Cretz credits the junior runner as always "trying his hardest" and says that Clarke should secure at least a fourth place in the Big 10 meet Monday to advance to the National Collegiate championships at East Lansing on Nov. 25.

Clarke, in stating his reason for coming to Iowa, cites Iowa's good track program and Cretzmeier's great coaching. The junior from Elmwood Park, Ill., has led the Hawkeyes in their four dual meets this fall. He finished second in two contests, third, and fourth as he took over after captain Larry Kramer's performances were hampered by a leg injury.

Clarke pointed out that in Illinois, high school cross country is a much bigger sport than in Iowa. "It is much more extensive. We have twelve district meets and a state meet." Iowa has only a state final.

CLARKE'S BEST TIME in his cross country career was 20:26 in the Track and Field Federation meet over the Waveland Golf Course in Des Moines last year. He points out that times can be misleading as the courses, which are supposed to be four miles in length, often vary from the standard by several yards.

IN THE HAWKEYES' FIRST MEET of 1963, Clarke finished second in 20:35 to Illinois' Al Carius, the 1962 Big 10 individual champion. He described Carius as "quite a runner who might meet a challenger in Michigan State sophomore Dick Sharkey."

Clarke said the cross country team practices about three hours each day alternating between the hilly South Finkbine golf course and the flat North Finkbine course. "There's a big difference between college and high school cross country," Clarke said. "In college it's a lot more work. You have to be serious about competing, otherwise, the men that are serious will beat you."

Clarke also participates in the two-mile run in track and may also compete in the mile run next spring.

CONCERNING THE BIG 10 MEET on the Illinois course Monday, Clarke said, "Michigan State should definitely be the winner."

Clarke, who is in the Army ROTC program at SUJ, is majoring in political science and plans to attend law school or go into the army after graduation. Clarke was one of the winners of the Academic Achievement Wreath for being in the top ten per cent of his ROTC class during the 1962-63 academic year.

Chicago Bears — 'A Symbol of Defense'

NEW YORK — The Chicago Bears operate on the old theory that you don't have to roll up a score if you can stop the other fellow. They are the only winning team in the National Football League that has not scored 200 points. They also are the only team that hasn't given up at least 100 points.

More important, perhaps, is the record of the Bears' interior line in keeping the enemy away from quarterback Bill Wade. The Chicago passer has been thrown for a loss only 10 times in eight games for a total of 87 yards.

Barr Earns NFL's Top Player Award

NEW YORK — Terry Barr, a top candidate for comeback of the year after missing half of last season due to a knee injury, is The Associated Press Player of the Week in the National Football League on his outstanding game for Detroit against San Francisco.

Barr, who underwent surgery during the off-season and then was injured in a pre-season game, caught 10 of Earl Morrall's passes for 135 yards in the Lions' 45-7 romp over the 49ers Sunday. Three of the catches were for touchdowns on passes of 10, 21 and 5 yards.

The fleet flanker back was injured last year in the fourth game when he slipped and fell on the wet turf while going for a third-down pass from Milt Plum. Herb Adderley intercepted for Green Bay and the Packers followed up with a field goal with 33 seconds to go for a 9-7 victory.

Although Barr did get back in uniform and saw limited action in the Thanksgiving Day upset of the Packers, he never was right. At the time he was hurt, Barr had caught 25 passes.

The former Michigan player's performance against the 49ers Sunday gave him 31 receptions for 548 yards and 10th place in the league despite his delayed start. He has caught as many TD passes, seven, as anybody in the league.

Pitt's Mazurek Named AP Back of the Week

PITTSBURGH — When Fred Mazurek spurned a $25,000 professional baseball contract three years ago for a football-baseball scholarship to the University of Pittsburgh, Western Pennsylvania grid fans roared in ecstasy.

Two weeks ago, after Navy had knocked Pitt's football team from the unbeaten ranks, 24-14, some folks were suggesting junior quarterback Mazurek reconsider the Philadelphia Phillies' offer.

But the swarthy Mazurek is back on his pedestal after being tabbed as The Associated Press Back of the Week for his brilliant performance last Saturday in engineering a 35-27 come-from-behind victory over Syracuse.

"Gee, that's quite an honor, sir," Mazurek exclaimed when informed of the accolade. "That is really something."

"I know this might sound trite, but you gotta give the guys the credit. The blocking was tremendous, the holes were wide open. And I wouldn't have done anything if Paul Martha and Rick Leeson hadn't sacrificed their own running for me. That's the whole story in my mind."

But in the minds of the homecoming crowd at Pitt Stadium the whole story was Mazurek.

The Panthers were trailing 21-3 at the start of the third quarter when he went to work, running 41 yards for one touchdown, passing 13 yards for another and directing two more TD drives with his flashy running and crucial passing.

Even a leg injury in the fourth period didn't stop him. He hobbled off the field but returned a few minutes later and sparked Pitt to its clinching score.

In all, the 5-foot-10, 190-pound pre-med student scored two touchdowns, passed for another, completed 13 of 21 passes for 136 yards and ran for 119 yards on 22 carries.

Patterson Drops to 6th Among Title Contenders

NEW YORK — Floyd Patterson, the former heavyweight champion who has been idle since his second knockout by champion Sonny Liston, was dropped from fourth contender to sixth in the monthly Ring Magazine ratings released Wednesday.

While Patterson was dropped two notches, three other veterans moved up again. Cleveland Williams of Houston advanced from fifth to fourth, Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz., from sixth to fifth, and Eddie Machen of Los Angeles, on a comeback campaign, from eighth to seventh.

Bailey Explains Tree Removal Here

The removal of trees in Iowa City is due to Dutch Elm disease, according to Ed L. Bailey, head of the Iowa City Forestry Department.

Because of the nature of the disease, which plugs water conducting vessels, a diseased elm quickly dries out and becomes brittle and hazardous. There is the danger of large limbs snapping off causing property damage or personal injury.

Consequently the diseased trees should be removed as quickly as possible. A tree is not put on the condemned list the first time a tree exhibits the symptoms of Dutch Elm disease, Bailey said.

The tree is visited many times over a period of two or three weeks to determine whether or not it has the disease.

A continuous survey of all Elms in the City began last summer. As soon as it is determined that a tree is diseased it is put on a removal list.

The trees to be removed are put out for bids to private contractors in lists of 10, and the list is granted to the lowest bidder.

The City Forestry regrets the inconveniences caused to the people of Iowa City and thanks everyone for their co-operation, Bailey said.

Pi Lambda Theta Plans Initiation

Pi Lambda Theta, national education honorary for women, will hold initiation and dinner at 5:15 p.m. next Thursday in the Old Gold Room of the Union.

The guest speaker at the initiation banquet will be Dr. John Haefner, professor of social studies education and head of social studies at University High School. He will speak about his experiences last year with the educational television program.

Reservations may be made before Monday with Bea Furner (8-0686), Jeanette Laughlin (8-2580).

SUI 'Dad' To Be Named

SUI's "Dad of the Year" will be presented Friday night at the student pep rally near the north end of the Union.

His presentation will start this weekend's activities marking the 41st annual observance of Dad's Day.

Other highlights of the weekend will include the Iowa-Minnesota football game Saturday at 1:30 p.m. and the appearance of female vocalist Julie London at the Union Saturday at 8 p.m.

Following the presentation of the Dad of the Year Friday night there will be a reception and coffee hour for parents and guests at 8 p.m. in the foyer adjacent to the River Room in the Union. This reception is sponsored by the members of Omicron Delta Kappa, upper classmen's leadership honor society. A pre-game dance will be held in the River Room of the Union Friday night from 8:45 to 11:45 p.m. Leo C. Cortimiglia and his combo will provide the music for the dance, which is being sponsored by the Union Board.

Saturday's activities will begin at 11 a.m. when the SUI Dad's Association will hold its annual luncheon and business meeting in the north gymnasium of the Fieldhouse. SUI President Virgil M. Hancher will address the gathering. After the game all dormitories, sororities and fraternities will hold open house for parents and guests of students.

The appearance of Julie London will climax the Dad's Day activities. Tickets for the performance have been sold out.

Selection of the SUI Dad of the Year will be made from 15 applications received from SUI students. The selection will be made by the general members of Omicron Delta Kappa.

Dental Short Course Opens at SUI Today

Dentists are attending a two-day postgraduate course at SUI dealing with the detection of serious illnesses by watching for symptoms in the mouth.

Sponsored by the College of Dentistry, the course opens today in the Dental Building. Tests which will be studied during the course are designed to detect diseases which affect the whole body but which have symptoms which may be seen in the mouth as well as in other parts of the body.

Often the dentist trained in using the screening tests which will find such symptoms can discover evidences of such diseases as leukemia and diabetes in early stages and refer his patients to their physicians for speedy treatment, points out Dr. A. K. Fisher, head of the Stomatology Department in the College of Dentistry, who is directing the short course.

Dentists attending the SUI short course will also study the use of the eye ground examination, by which the dentist can check the retina of the eye and its blood vessels for symptoms of leukemia and hemorrhagic diseases. Since the blood vessels of the retina are not covered by living tissue as these vessels are elsewhere in the body, the eye ground examination is a valuable tool for detecting vascular disorders, Fisher noted.

Dean George S. Easton of the College of Dentistry will welcome registrants for the short course this morning. SUI faculty members who will present lectures of the course include Drs. Fisher, S. M. Mankodi, O. E. Langland and W. H. Tade.

SWEET LISTENING — KSUI-FM, SUI's frequency modulation radio station, was the nation's first educational FM radio station to broadcast in two-channel stereophonic sound.

Election of Councilmen Verified

Official returns from Tuesday's municipal election Wednesday verified the election of Richard W. Burger, William C. Hubbard and James H. Nesmith to the Iowa City City Council. Norman R. Holzaepfel won the position on the Park Board.

All four will assume their new positions Jan. 2, 1964. The new councilmen will serve four-year terms. Holzaepfel will fill the Park Board position for six years.

HUBBARD WAS also elected by write-in votes to fill the "short-term" seat on the council. The term runs from Nov. 6 to Jan. 2, 1964.

Official results were as follows: Council: Burger, 3,194; Hubbard, 3,167; Nesmith, 2,485; Eric E. Bergsten, 2,134; John B. Wilson, 1,873; Richard W. Eckhardt, 1,776.

Park Board: Holzaepfel, 2,659; Richard W. Buxton, 2,192.

Regarding his re-election, Hubbard said that it shows that the people want what they have been getting from the Council. Since the people have shown their desire to continue under the present system, Hubbard said, "I shall continue the policy of the present Council. There are a lot of things to do."

Nesmith commented, "Having been elected to the City Council, I would like to thank everyone who has supported me. I want to assure the people of Iowa City that I will work for the forward progress of the city."

BURGER SAID, "I take this opportunity to thank you, the voters of Iowa City, for your support in this election. By your votes you have shown that you believe in an orderly, regulated growth for our city."

"During my next four years," he continued, "as your representative on the Iowa City City Council, I shall work to the utmost to achieve the goal which you have set for me through your confidence."

Holzaepfel said that the first thing he is going to do on the Park Board is learn something about parks. Until now, he said, he has known only what the average citizen does from using them. HE PLANS TO meet with the Board, whom he has never met, he said, and bring what ideas he has to work with the plans already underway, particularly for providing parks for those parts of Iowa City which are far from the already existing parks.

"I feel like a fellow catching a big fish and not knowing what kind of fish he's caught," Holzaepfel said.

SAFETY TIPS FROM IOWA-ILLINOIS

Be A Good Sport ... Please Don't Shoot At Insulators!

Reddy Kilowatt warns: "Don't be a trigger-happy hunter!" It's never open season on insulators.

These insulators assure the safe delivery of electric service. Many hunters don't realize the danger and expense damage to them can cause.

Be informed... remember, a broken insulator on a utility pole may result in one of the following dangerous situations:

- Power interruption over a wide area, possibly including hospitals, water pumping plants and many vital civic functions!
- A broken line, which could cause fatal injury to you, members of your family, other persons, livestock!
- A fire!

Good sportsmen are always first in observing safety measures during the hunting season. Here is an important rule to add to the list: NEVER, no never, shoot at insulators on utility poles.
